Plans were being worked out by Calvin Dunn, member of the committee, to take a small group of local musicians with the autocade to entertain each community visited. Harold Ulrich is furnishing a mobile public address system that will accompany the tour.

In order to determine the number of persons likely to make the two-day booster trek, members of the committee were canvassing the business district yesterday and today to get names and numbers. The committeemen also were securing lists of merchandise which the local merchants wish to donate as prizes to be given free to the people of the various communities at drawings, which will be held.

Areas being surveyed and men making the check for the good-will tour were: South side of Main Street, W. W. Batie and G. V. Price; north side Main Street, Calvin Dunn and Harold Ulrich; North and South First Street, Charlie Bullock and J. T. Caudle; east of Santa Fe tracks, Hollis Watson.

Oil Men Eye Deep Test West of Hope

The focus of interest in oil circles in Southeast New Mexico shifted this week to an anticline about 10 miles west of Hope in the foothills of the Sacramento Mountains, where the Magnolia Petroleum Corporation and others have staked a location for a test hole, to be drilled as deep as 7000 feet if necessary.

Local oil men said the test, located in NE NW 31-17-20, on the Black Hills anticline, should make this locality of great importance in petroleum developments, should it cut deeper formations not heretofore explored in this area and find them structurally right.

Observers are enthusiastic over the possibilities, as the Black Hills anticline, mapped years ago by principal geologists, is one of the most prominent surface structures found in this area. The anticline has been publicized in a number of leading oil and gas bulletins.

The well, which will be known as the Magnolia Petroleum Corp., Black Hills 1, is in a large block of acreage, said to be 18,000 acres.

Magnolia's own tools for the drilling operation were moved in Monday night, and it was understood that setting up would be pushed and that drilling will have been started by July 1. The crew had arrived in Artesia Tuesday.

Oil men feel that if the location as made is structurally right the well will produce.

It was pointed out that it is possible the general structure extending from the former operation two miles north of Artesia on the Sanders Brothers, Hultman No. 1, may tie up with the Magnolia test. The Hultman No. 1 was drilled to a total of 6761 feet and encountered what oil men declare was the Pennsylvania. However the formation at that particular location was quite tight and acidizing did not bring forth commercial production.

Should the Magnolia operation find pay horizons below the Pennsylvania, it would indicate that in the locality of the Hultman test might pay off on such other structures as the Mississippian, Silurian, Devonian, and Ordivician.

At the same time, it was pointed out, if the Magnolia test should find some of the horizons below the Pennsylvania missing, it would not necessarily mean that they are not present farther east into the Delaware Basin.

It was also indicated that the Potash Company of America, Riggs 1, SE NE 22-21-23, which is contracted for to be drilled to 4000 feet, is another key well in the general explorations of this locality for the greater and deeper pools of oil most operators and geologists are agreed are yet to be found. The Riggs well is in the foothills of the Guadalupe Mountains.

Meanwhile Eddy County operators this week reported one new producing oil well, an abandonment, and three new locations.

The producer was the Leonard Oil Co., State 14, SE SE 28-17-29, which was drilled to a total depth of 2872 feet and flowed 120 barrels of oil per day, after acid.

Plugged at a total depth of 2757 feet and abandoned was the D. C. De Vito, State 1, NE NE 19-23-26.

New locations: Nash, Windfohr & Brown, Gissler 8-B, NW NW 11-17-30; C. L. East et al, State 1, NE SE 33-17-29; Repollo Oil & Gas Co., West 4-B, NW NW 4-17-31.

Chamber Needs Fast Camera for Good-Will Trip

Artesia's Chamber of Commerce needs a good, fast camera to be used on the good-will tour.

Manager Tom Watson is anxious to take some pictures on this trip and would like to borrow a Graflex or some other type of good camera.

Anyone who has a Graflex or a good camera that would be suitable for taking pictures on the goodwill tour is requested to call Manager Watson at his office in the city hall.

Conoco Gets to REA, Marring Perfect Record

The perfect season record of the REA softball team in city league play was broken last Thursday evening, when Conoco defeated the electric boys 6-5. However, REA still holds first place in the league.

In the first game last Thursday evening, Grayburg defeated the high school team 1-0.

Conoco took the first game Tuesday evening, winning over Asphalt 11-1, while the second game went to RA over high school 13-4.

League standings to date:

	Won	Lost
REA	7	1
Grayburg	5	2
Conoco	5	3
High school	1	7
Asphalt	0	5

In the games this evening, REA will meet Grayburg, and high school will play Asphalt.

High school and Conoco will play the opener next Tuesday evening, with Asphalt and Grayburg meeting in the second game.

In an intercity game Wednesday evening of last week, REA defeated the Magnolia Oil Company team of Lovington 9-1.

Wednesday, June 12, Is Hottest Day so Far, Registering 105

Although many persons in Artesia have remarked about the "hottest summer in many years," the temperature has been 100 or more only six days, and on but one day, Wednesday of last week, was the mercury extremely high for this community.

On that day the recording thermometer of the Southern Union Gas Company registered 105 degrees.

Twice previously had the 100-mark been broken this year, on June 7, when it was 101, and on June 8, when it was 100 degrees.

The other three times 100 or more decrees has been recorded this year, all during the last week, were on Saturday, 102; Sunday, 101, and Tuesday, 101.

Batie Buys Texas Creamery to Get Butter for State

Artesia and this trade territory is enjoying creamery butter today while many other sections have been and still are without butter because a local grocer purchased a creamery in Texas.

W. W. Batie, owner of Batie's Food Store, bought a small creamery in Brownfield, Tex., recently in order to obtain butter for the Artesia store and for the Carlsbad store, which he plans to open.

He explains he had no particular intention of buying the creamery but was merely endeavoring to make a contact to obtain butter. The owner refused to sell him butter but expressed a willingness to sell the creamery part of the plant including churn and storage, and to continue to operate the creamery for him.

Mr. Batie bought the plant and is now continuing to serve Brownfield and at the same time is securing ample butter to take care of his customers in Artesia and others here.

Appeals for Housing Action Heard at Chamber Luncheon

Visitors, guests and members at the monthly Chamber of Commerce luncheon last Thursday noon heard discussions on the annual good-will trip to the Sacramento Mountains, appeals for action for construction of additional housing, and reports on possible action to secure some of the needed housing.

Hollis Watson, chairman of the good-will tour committee, said that definite arrangements will be announced this week on the tour and urged all merchants and businessmen to make their plans now to participate in the annual trek.

A meeting of the following good - will committee members who were present was held following the luncheon, W. W. Batie G. V. Price, and Mayor A. P. Mahone, together with Chairman Watson.

Chuck Aston, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, explained progress to date on efforts to secure prefabricated housing units for Artesia. More complete information on possible delivery dates, costs, and styles of units available was expected to be received within four days Aston said.

Should prefabricated units be available, it is planned to interest local capital in financing the erection of such housing.

W. E. Ragsdale, a long-time resident of Artesia, presented a plan for the immediate erection of 10 units of family housing, which would also be financed by local civic-minded men.

Members of the Chamber expressed interest in both proposals submitted to relieve the critical housing condition here, and several men voluntarily offered their financial assistance in getting action on housing.

Distribution of 1946 Chamber of Commerce membership signs for display in stores and offices was made to those present at the luncheon. Artie McAnally, president, explained that complete distribution of the membership signs to members not present at the luncheon would be made by the manager of the organization within the next few days.

Introduced as new residents of Artesia were Dr. W. A. Bumstead, veterinarian; James and Frank Walker, new grocery merchants; Charles Finke, sign painter, and Raymond Rodgers, employee of Parrish Oil Company.

Al Myers of Albuquerque, representative of the Civil Aaernautics Authority was present as a guest.

The luncheon was attended by 46 persons, one of the largest number to attend the monthly Chamber of Commerce meetings.

Artesia News in El Paso Papers Brings Publicity

Artesia has received approximately seven full columns of publicity in New Mexico and the El Paso papers during the past 60 days, a check of releases from the local Chamber of Commerce discloses.

Manager Tom Watson of the Chamber of Commerce has prepared and mailed out most of these news stories and although an accurate check of all the papers cannot be made, the present records do show that some 52 column inches of news concerning activities in Artesia were published during the month of April in one El Paso paper. A total of 88 column inches of stories with Artesia datelines were carried during May.

This, of course, does not include stories which have been carried in New Mexico papers concerning Artesia.

During the month of April some 25 individual news stories were mailed out by the Chamber of Commerce while during the month of May this number of stories was increased 45.

Many here have expressed the belief that such publicity not only is of real value to the city and to this area but it helps to acquaint those in other sections with Artesia.

For many years the Chamber of Commerce here, with the aid of local business firms, has been sponsoring a page in The New Mexico Magazine, which has brought many inquiries seeking information on the city.

MASONIC MEETING IS SCHEDULED TONIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Artesia Masonic Lodge will be at the hall this evening.

Williams Sawmill Fire Is Fanned By Gale in Night

Firemen were called at 3:10 o'clock Wednesday morning to the Williams sawmill west of the city, where a high north wind had whipped smouldering sawdust into a fire, and ignited piles of sawed lumber, and threatened several buildings.

An estimated 3000 board feet of lumber, mostly 2x4's, was destroyed, along with some machinery belting, but the machine sheds and other buildings were saved by means of the auxiliary tank on one of the city fire trucks and water from a pressure pump at the mill.

The wind, estimated as high as 50 to 60 miles an hour, whipped the sawdust into a display not unlike fireworks, as sparks were fanned several hundred feet. Fortunately the direction of the wind directed them between buildings and the fire was confined to the lumber piles which were destroyed, although other piles were threatened.

During the height of the fire, another sawdust fire was noticed about 300 yards to the north, which was extinguished by means of dirt and shovels. It is believed the larger fire was started from that one and that it had temporarily died down until it was later discovered. The direction of the wind precluded the possibility it had just been ignited.

The firemen were called out again at 5:45 o'clock Wdnesday morning, when a refrigeration motor in the concession store of the Ocotillo Theater shorted and burned. The smoke was discovered by G. C. Kinder. There was no other damage.

It is believed the short was caused when the electric power here, knocked out during the height of the wind, about the time

Garbage Cans Must Be Kept Sanitary, Covered

Abe Conner, Artesia sanitary officer, announced this week he will file charges when unsanitary conditions of garbage cans are found after complaints have been made.

He said it is impossible to patrol the alleys and inspect all garbage cans, but that citizens are privileged and urged to report cans in their neighborhoods which they believe are unsanitary or are menaces to health.

When such reports are made, Conner, said, he will investigate and, should his findings warrant it, will file charges in the city court.

He pointed out that a city ordinance provides penalties for unsanitary garbage pails, as well as for maintaining pails without lids.

A. M. Archer, Oil Contractor Dies on Friday

A. M. Archer, 44, prominent oil well drilling and trucking contractor, died at his home in Artesia about 9:09 o'clock Friday evening after an illness of four months.

Funeral services were from Paulin Chapel at 10 o'clock Monday morning by Rev. Paul L. Brown pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery, with rites at the grave by members of the Masonic Lodge, of which Mr. Archer was a member.

Honorary pallbearers were W. R. Petty, R. A. Thomas, Glenn Collard, G. Taylor Cole, R. S. Carter, Fred Cole, T. E. Brown, Merrell Sharp, H. R. Paton, E. A. Paton, Frank Marshall, Frank Awalt, John Awalt, Dr. Pete J. Starr, W. W. Byers, P. V. Morris, Frank Smith, Mac Lapsley, and "Curley" Ackerman.

The active pallbearers were Earl Zeigler, Shirley Hager, Andy Compary, H. T. Gissler, Stanley Sutton, and Tom Sivley.

Mr. Archer is survived by his mother, Mrs. Walter Archer, Oklahoma City, Okla.; his widow, Pauline McDorman Archer, Artesia; two brothers, D. D. Archer and T. L. Archer, Artesia; a sister, Mrs. Grant Howard, Tucson, Ariz.; and four nieces and two nephews, Mrs. Charles Denton, Misses Louise and Teddy Archer, and David Dee Archer, Artesia, and Annetta and James Grant Howard, Tucson.

Alvis Marvel Archer, a son of Mrs. Walter Archer and the late Walter Archer, was born Aug. 15, 1901, at Ardmore, Okla., where he was reared. He moved in 1929 to Artesia, and on Feb. 2 of that year he married Pauline McDorman in Roswell. Artesia has been their home since.

Prior to coming to Artesia to make his home and carry on his oil well drilling and trucking business, he was well known in the same business in Oklahoma.

Mr. Archer was a member of the Baptist Church, was a 32nd degree Mason, a member of the Shrine, the White Shrine, the Artesia Shrine Club, and the Artesia Lions Club.

Drive For Emergency Food Is Opened Here

The opening gun in North Eddy County's part in the Emergency Food Collection was fired here this week by Don Bush, who declared that the success of the United Nations Organization depends on the saving from starvation of a half billion persons in Europe and that upon the success of the UNO depends the peace of the world.

Representing Chuck Aston, chairman of the campaign in North Eddy County, Bush made a strong appeal Tuesday noon at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon.

He pointed out that the average American has always taken an abundance of food for granted, that few know what hunger is. But he painted a vivid word picture of what he saw in Europe, when he was serving with the Army.

Bush said that people who say, "Europe got herself into the mess; let her get herself out again," do not stop to realize the causes of famine in Europe: The casualties to manpower, not only of the enemy countries, but of thousands of men, women, and children of the Allies, while for three years Western Europe was being bombed by air forces of the Allies; the destruction of farm equipment and animals, both by the Nazis, as they plundered and retreated, and by the Allies as their fire sought out the Germans; the large areas devastated by barrages and the many mine fields, which will take years to clear; the ruination of the highways, railways, and other means of transportation.

"Europe is starting from scratch again," Bush said, "but it was necessary for us to cause all this destruction in order to win the war."

The speaker said also that the Germans fed the people of the occupied countries "scientifically," in order that they would have sufficient strength to work for them, but insufficient to resist.

But they did resist, Bush said, and through their efforts—many of them who are starving today—the war was more easily won. During the period, they built up a "four year hunger," he said. And these same people "fought our war for two years, while we were getting ready," he added.

"How then," he asked, "can we say, 'Europe got herself into the mess; let her get herself out'?"

Although the shooting has stopped, the political causes are just as critical, Bush declared, and the nations of Europe will turn to the East or to the West within the next two years for guidance; which way they turn will depend on the food. "It is necessary that we win this political war," he said, "or we will have another shooting war!"

"Full bellies are least likely to revolution, so we must feed them; empty bellies are most likely to turn where there is food, so we must feed them," Bush said, stressing that whatever the UNO does will depend upon what the American people do.

Chairman Aston said that his committee is working out plans for a concerted campaign in North Eddy County and that it is hoped to be able to make a definite announcement next week in regard to the Emergency Food Collection, in which the people of the United States are asked to give either canned food or money, with which to buy food, to feed the half billion people of Europe, without which a large percentage will die.

Josey Binds Over Three, Sends One To County Jail

The court of Justice of the Peace J. D. Josey has been busy the last week with criminal cases, in which three defendants were bound over to the action of the District Court and another was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

On Friday Louis Ogg and Walter V. Litrel entered pleas of guilty to theft of an automobile and were bound over, with bond set at $1000 each.

The case involved the theft of an automobile belonging to A. A. Branch, which was stolen June 10 and was picked up at Plains, Tex., the next day. The two men, who were taken by Texas officers at Plains, waived extradition and were brought back to Eddy County, where they were lodged in the jail at Carlsbad awaiting arraignment Friday.

Bond for Mrs. Onita Potter also was set at $1000 Friday by Judge Josey, when she entered a plea of guilty to forging a check for about $80 on K. J. Williams.

The judge on Monday sentenced Chester Ed Cellestin, Jr., Negro, to 30 days in the Eddy County jail on a charge of petty larceny, involving the theft of a watch and ring from his step-mother, Mrs. Janie Cellestine, who made the complaint. Cellestine pled guilty to the charge.

Work on 15 Miles Of Highway No. 83 Is in Progress

Work is now in progress on the paving of the 15 miles of blacktop on State Highway No. 83 west of the present 34 miles of blacktop.

Grading work has been in progress for some time and crews are busy preparing the road for the blacktopping, which is expected to be completed within the next few months.

The contract for the blacktopping of 15 additional miles on State Highway No. 83 was let a few weeks ago by the Highway Department.

This will provide approximately 50 miles of blacktopping on the Cloudcroft highway when this is completed and it extends to the point where the highway turns back south at the junction of the Dunken, Pinon, and Avis highways.

There will remain approximately 46 miles from the end of the blacktop to Cloudcroft with a small part of this to be paved in a government project, which it is hoped is to be constructed. Bids were sought on this but proved too high. It is expected that sooner or later the federal government will build this strip of proposed route for the Forest Service.

WHEN ELECTIONS ROLL AROUND and are held most of the public and especially the voters begin to realize and appreciate what a beautiful theory the Democratic elections system really is.

In those areas where plenty of vegetables, fruits, and other items of food are produced, these communities have these items, while Artesia may not have too many of these or may be paying high prices for these food items.

This is to be expected. And perhaps in these sections, meat is even more scarce than it is in Artesia. But the point we are making is that these communities have plenty of those foods, which they produce. Artesia is denied the right to have plenty of the things, which it produces—beef cattle and lamb and sheep.

In the meanwhile, pleas and cries continue to be sounded for food for the starving people of the world. And these pleas are not falling on very sympathetic ears.

We recall that during the clothing collection campaign, a very prominent citizen of Artesia voiced his opposition to this campaign. He pointed out that he could not become very sympathetic with a movement, which had as its purpose, the providing of clothing for those people over the world when the American boys, who had offered their all in the war, could not buy clothing when they were discharged from service.

There, of course, was no direct connection, and yet we can all understand what he meant; how he felt; and why he felt the way he did about the situation.

The same is true about the food situation.

People, who are denied foods which are plentiful in this area, and which are available, aren't very sympathetic about helping to share, when they feel they are not being given or granted their own rights.

The fact is that it always takes co-operation to obtain co-operation from others.

And the public is rather thoroughly convinced that there is plenty screwy about the old conversion program. They not only think this, but they are beginning to ask, in rather loud voices, as to just what is going to be done about it.—O.E.P.

Goodwill Tour

PLANS ARE BEING COMPLETED here by the Chamber of Commerce for a little goodwill tour up in the mountains among Artesia's friends and neighbors.

The program as outlined calls for a party to leave Artesia on Wednesday, June 26 and visit Hope, Dunken, Pinon, Weed, and Cloudcroft on that day. The following day the party will visit in Elk and Mayhill.

It is all planned strictly for goodwill, good fellowship and to express to those in these communities Artesia's appreciation for the business, which we have enjoyed in the past.

A trip over these roads by a group of Artesia merchants and business people would probably impress on us just a little more the importance of continuing efforts to secure that highway.

The folks from up in the mountains come down to Artesia to trade and shop. They are friendly with the citizens here. Such a trip is not only an appreciation to them but it would be time out for a friendly and neighborly visit with them.

It would be a fine thing for Artesia; for the folks who make the trip, and certainly our neighbors up in the mountains would enjoy the visit.

It is our understanding that these goodwill tours were made ofen in the past and they paid dividends.

The day is coming once again, and we all hope it is not too far off, when we will be seeking business. The day is coming when we will have the merchandise to offer and, from all indications now, Artesia will have its greatest shopping and trade center, once the after effects of the war make it possible for the new merchandise to be stocked and for the new firms, who have expressed a desire to open here, to do so.—O.E.P.

Natural Change

EVERY SMALL VILLAGE OR TOWN, which grows into a city, goes through certain changes.

These are natural changes with progress and advancement being the dominating factor.

Many small cities in West Texas went through these changes. One of those West Texas cities was only a small village 10 years ago. It grew into a town with a population of some 3000, more or less, and it has now grown into a modern city.

But the changes came slow. Progress was dictating, but old ideas, old customs and old practices had to be eliminated, one by one. It wasn't always easy. It took time, patience, effort, work, and often resulted in misunderstandings.

But out of all this came the progressive, modern city of today.

All of the citizens, the new, the old and the former, are proud of that city. They have cause to be proud of it.

But that doesn't mean it sprung up over night. It doesn't mean that all worked hand in hand to bring about progress and advancement.

Some of the changes, which came about and which resulted in the modern, progressive city of today, were brought about only after long, bitter struggles.

But those misunderstandings have now disappeared.

Progress and advancement usually win if they have a few champions.

Artesia has grown and is growing. Within a few years it has moved out of the small town class into the little city class. It will continue to grow and to expand and to improve as the citizens work and strive for progress.

It won't be done in a day, or a week, or even a year. It will take time to replace the old with the new; to bring about the modern things, which help to make any city a better city.

There will be misunderstandings. There will be complaints registered. There will be contentions made and contentions denied.

There will be those willing to work and strive to build a greater Artesia. There will be others holding back, complaining because of the changes being advocated.

Out of it all, however, with the proper vision, proper attitude, and the willingness to give the time, work and effort necessary, will come the new, progressive and modern Artesia that most of us desire to see even if we do pretend to be opposed to the progress and advancement being advocated.—O.E.P.

Up and Down Main Street

FOR MERE MONEY
UP AND DOWN MAIN
BUYS MANY THINGS

Thirty pieces of silver, so we are told, bought the body and soul of one member of 12 men — 12 men selected and chosen by the Greatest Leader ever known. Even among these 12 men there was one for sale. Can we conclude from that there is always one man for sale among every 12 individuals in this world? We rather doubt it. There may be groups of 12 men when all of them can be bought. Then there are other groups of 12 men where not a single one of them is for sale. There are larger groups and smaller groups where all men can be bought and when none are for sale. But it is natural to assume today when action is taken; when steps are taken; when certain things are done there is only one reason for them being done. And that reason is cited or called money. But that isn't always true. We have seen individuals, who took definite steps and definite action because they knew and believed it to be the right thing, the fair thing and the honest thing to do, yet it cost them money. We have seen business and professional men take stands that would prove extremely costly to them yet they took the step because they believed it was the right thing to do. We have seen newspaper men lose business because they run a certain article. We have seen them lose business because they printed an editorial and after all an editorial is nothing more than a personal opinion. But the right to express that opinion because, in their own minds and hearts, it meant more to them and to their readers, they made that sacrifice, maintained their personal right and paid for exercising it by losing business. Yes, it does happen, even in these days and times. After all, the newspaper has a duty to its readers and subscribers and most newspapers seek to perform that duty.

The Artesia Advocate admires the newspaper, which places ideals and principles and duty ahead of profit and gain. It may fall far short, but nevertheless it seeks to follow the example of the newspaper which does accomplish that goal set. But it will continue to seek to follow that example and strive in its own humble way. The Artesia Advocate believes that all laws should be enforced or repealed. It believes that those who exercise certain laws and require citizens, taxpayers and the public to observe them should be just as diligent to follow all statutes, which regulate their conduct, their action and their acts in public office. The Advocate believes that the voters, citizens and taxpayers have a perfect right to expect an accounting of stewardship of all public officials; it believes all public records should be open to inspection; it believes all publications required by law should be observed willingly, gladly and completely by public officials. We have stated this position before. We will repeat it from time to time. And we shall urge these things be done because we believe they are right, just and fair. And there will be times and occasions when we express these beliefs, these opinions and these thoughts again. And when we do, we realize there will be criticism of our comments. When we do, those who do not like our comments, will take exception. They are among those who want to express their opinions. And, for the benefit of those who might feel the only interest we have in seeking to have published those proceedings of governing bodies, which the law says shall be published, we will only say this will be considerably less revenue, since it will only amount to $200 to $250 per year for each body, than we could receive in selling these bodies job work and office supplies than we can if they are inclined to become angry and take such work away from us. We are unable to see or accept that point of view. If the law says publish, then publish they should, even without being reminded of the law. And we shall remain firmly convinced that to remind them for the taxpayers is our task, our duty and one we should and will perform without either the thought of loss of business or the gain of business entering our decision.

POTATOES ARE BACK UNDER PRICE CONTROL

Potatoes, probably the most important single food item released from price control, have been placed back under ceilings at levels which applied during the corresponding time of last year. The ceiling will remain in effect until the emergency caused by railroad work stoppage passes. Since potatoes rank with wheat, flour, and bread in importance as a staple food commodity, OPA said, it is important not to allow prices to shoot up if scarcities begin to develop in areas awaiting shipment. Potatoes were removed from price controls early last fall, and prices generally have remained below ceilings since that time.

First Quarter State Tax Revenues Revise Estimate of Highway Funds

The unexpected increase in New Mexico automotive revenues during the first quarter of 1946 will force sharp upward estimates of funds available for highway improvements in New Mexico and also furnishes highway users the prospect of less burdensome taxation, according to Fred Linn, executive secretary of the New Mexico Petroleum Industries Committee.

Linn said that first quarter receipts from motor vehicle registration and gasoline taxes amounted to $2,211,240.57, an increase of 20.9 per cent over the same period in 1945, and more than comparable receipts in 1941, the last year of normal highway traffic.

"This is good news to highway officials who calculated that recovery to 1941 levels of revenue could not be expected before 1948," said Linn. "Because their forecasts of postwar highway construction are based on 1941 figures, higher revenues currently being collected will afford even better facilities, if wisely spent, for New Mexico motorists with no increase necessary in the rates of taxation."

Linn predicted, "This fortunate turn of events should focus legislative attention on reducing the motorists' tax burden, which amounted in 1941 to a state average of $77.82 in all state and federal taxes, as contrasted to $16.99 for the non-motorist."

The recent report by the American Automobile Association that Americans are taking to the highways this season in numbers that will surpass the most extravagant predictions of postwar travel volume is an augury of the tremendous sums to be produced this year by gasoline taxation, Linn said. These funds, he pointed out, will swell the total available for highway improvement, especially in states like New Mexico, which offer varied and splendid scenic attractions to the tourist.

New Mexico's higher collections are a reflection of the nationwide trend which is strengthening the motorist's conviction that prevailing tax rates will generate more than enough funds in most states to match federal highway aid and to discharge other obligations, Linn concluded.

News Shorts

Joseph Zamoiski of Baltimore says he was driving his car—and fast—when a Virginia state trooper waved him down, and said sarcastically: "Let me see your pilot's license." Zamoiski, a pilot pulled out his airplane papers. The officer laughed, and let him go with a warning to slow down on the ground.

In South Bend, Ind., one anonymous finder of a lost purse has set a charge of slightly less than one per cent on honesty. William S. Stevens reported to police that he had lost his wallet containing $230 while watching a ball game. A little later he reported that his wallet, containing $228, was stuffed in the letter slot of his door when he arrived home.

Near Salamanca, N. Y., some passing motorists stopped to help a farmer put out a fire in his barn. They did their work so well the barn was saved as well as an adjoining house. Their efficiency was explained when the farmer found out who his helpers were: Assistant Fire Chief Bernard Swanson and former Fire Chief C. J. Beatty of Jamestown, Fire Chief Donald Sales of Lakewood, and George Blackstone of Lakewood, chief of the fire department at Bard College, who were returning from a fire chief's convention.

If the owner of a single lot in Skokie, a Chicago suburb, wants to build a house, the dimensions, under law, must be something like a bowling alley. Many lots in Skokie are 30 feet wide. However, the village's building ordinance specifies that no house may be built which does not have at least 1000 square feet of floor space, and also requires that a house be four feet distant on either side, from property lines. Thus, on a 30-foot lot, a house can't be more than 22 feet wide, and must be slightly more than 45 feet deep.

Rare Plant Found in Hills of Eddy County Has Been Classified

One of New Mexico's rarest plants, found in the Guadalupe Mountains of Eddy County, has been named for Dr. A. L. Hershey, associate professor in New Mexico A. & M.'s biology department.

The "Chaetoppa hersheyi," a low, tufted, mosslike perennial, grows on rocky ledges of the Guadalupe range. Although the plant had previously been collected, it was not until Dr. Hershey found the flowers that the plant could be classified.

Recently the genus to which this plant belongs was revised and the plant was selected as representative of the series. As a result the series has been named "hersheyanae" for Dr. Hershey.

Carol Drake's favorite ways to cook chicken

Did you ever think of the many mouth-watering dishes that you can make with stewing hens? Below are some of our tested favorites for your taste approval.

FRICASSEED CHICKEN
Cut chicken in pieces, roll in flour and brown well in hot shortening. Cover with boiling water, add salt, pepper, chopped onion, parsley and celery leaves; cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. Add more hot water if necessary. Thicken liquid and serve over chicken.

SMOTHERED CHICKEN
Brown chicken as directed above, then place in casserole or baking pan. Add enough milk to half cover chicken, cover pan or dish and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until chicken is tender, about 2 hours.

CHICKEN CURRY

CHICKEN PIE
Cut chicken, place in large kettle and cover with boiling water, add 1 tbsp. salt and cook covered until tender, about 2 to 2½ hours. Cool, remove meat from bones. Measure 1½ cups of broth and combine with 1 cup milk and ½ cup thinly sliced celery. Make a paste of ½ cup milk, 5 tbsp. flour, and seasonings to taste. Add flour mixture to broth and cook until thickened, about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add chicken, 1 cup cooked peas and 1 cup cooked carrots; and simmer until thoroughly heated. Pour into heated casserole, top with biscuit rounds and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes or until biscuits are lightly browned.

Feed Each Cow According to Her Production

"If you can get the feed, the only efficient and economical method of feeding the dairy herd is to feed each cow according to her production," is the advice of E. E. Anderson, dairy specialist of the New Mexico Extension Service.

The practice of giving each cow the same amount of feed is wasteful, Anderson said. The low producers usually get more than they need, and the high producers may not get enough feed to maintain a high flow of milk. The low producers become too fat, and the high producers are too thin to do well.

According to the dairy specialist, experiments have shown that feeding according to production results in saving from 10 to 20 per cent of the grain rations and is increasing milk production.

A golden rule in feeding, Anderson said, is to give the cows all the roughage they will eat and enough grain to keep them in good thrifty producing condition. The amount of grain fed will vary according to the fleshy condition of the cow, the progress in the lactation period, and the richness of the milk.

Holstein cows in fair production will need about one pound of grain to every four to six pounds of milk produced. For Jerseys and Guernseys, the ration is about one pound of grain to every three to five pounds of milk. This, however, is not a hard and fast rule—merely a guide. The condition of the cow and the relation of feed costs to the value of the dairy products sold should always be taken into consideration, Anderson said.

Cotton Crop of 1944 Is to Be Pooled July 1

The cotton crop of 1944, which was placed under government loan, will be pooled July 1, according to Clyborn Wayne, extension agronomist of New Mexico A. & M. College.

With the present market, Wayne said, New Mexico farmers should be able to dispose of a large amount of their cotton at prices that will net them substantial profits above the loan and charges against the cotton.

The extension agronomist declared that producers may either sell their equities or redeem the cotton and sell it in the open market. Producers are urged to give serious consideration to marketing the loan cotton before it is placed in pools.

In February of this year loans were outstanding on about 10,283 bales of New Mexico's 1944 cotton crop from the 48,793 bales placed under loan.

Cotton from the crops which are to be pooled and is not redeemed by July 1, will be placed in pools, as provided in the loan agreements, and sold in an orderly manner by the Commodity Credit Corporation, Wayne explained. On final liquidation of all cotton in the pools, the net proceeds—if any, after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, including storage, insurance, and handling charges — will be distributed among producers whose cotton has been placed in the pools, in proportion to their interest. No payment will be made to the producers at the time the cotton is placed in the pools, and after July 1 individual producers will not be entitled to order the sale of the particular cotton which was placed in the pools.

The average 1944 loan rate for 15/16-inch middling cotton, net weight, was 21.93 cents a pound, or 21.08 cents per pound, gross weight.

Range Practices Shorten Cattle's Trek to Water

From Eddy County comes a story of good range management on the Pardue-Guitar ranch near Carlsbad. In cooperation with AAA range program 12 miles of fence have been constructed, three storage tanks and seven earthen reservoirs built, three wells developed, and 10 miles of contour constructed.

Before these AAA range practices were completed cattle on some parts of the range were required to travel five miles and better for water. Now two miles is the fartherest from grass to water on any portion of the ranch.

Most of the old trails leading to water have disappeared and grass and other vegetation now retard the run-off from rainfall thereby preventing excessive erosion.

Fences were constructed to divide the range into smaller pastures permitting better livestock distribution and seasonal forage utilization. AAA practices have been a major contributing factor in raising the carrying capacity at least 40 per cent on the entire ranch.

PRACTICAL FARM BUILDINGS

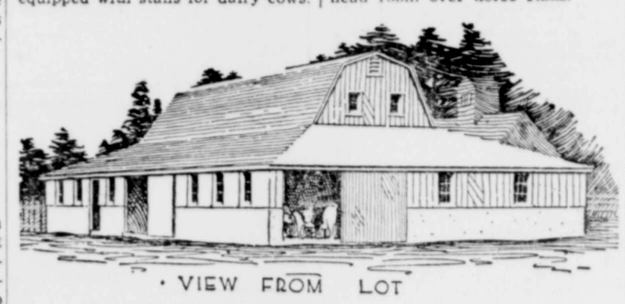

Feeder Barn

By W. J. DRYDEN, WNU Farm Editor.

This combined storage and livestock or feeder barn was developed by the University of Illinois. It will prove satisfactory for general purpose use on farms where stock cattle or feeder cattle are kept.

This type of barn includes room for work animals and milk cows, but the space is adaptable in that the entire shedded portion can be used for cattle, or one side may be equipped with stalls for dairy cows. The roofs will last longer if the ridge runs north and south than those which have one side exposed to the north slope. The hay door, if possible, should be in the north end.

If horses are to be kept in the barn, the ceiling height should be at least nine feet, otherwise eight feet will be sufficient. Care should be exercised in planning barns so that girders will not decrease the head room over horse stalls.

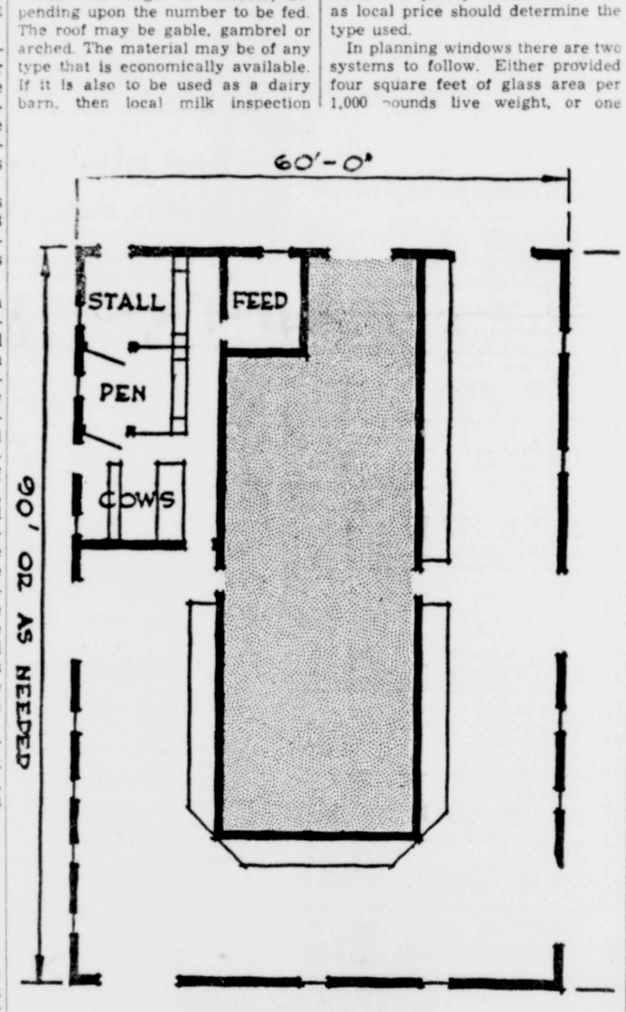

Feeder Barn Suitable for General Conditions.

The central storage part is suitable for long hay, chopped or baled hay or bedding. The usual plan has a 24-foot hay space and 18-foot sheds. The length is variable, depending upon the number to be fed. The roof may be gable, gambrel or arched. The material may be of any type that is economically available. If it is also to be used as a dairy barn, then local milk inspection regulations must be complied with. In such case it is likely advisable to have concrete floor, at least on the dairy side.

Barns so placed that alleyways run north and south will be cooler in summer than those running east and west. This permits summer breezes to pass through the barn.

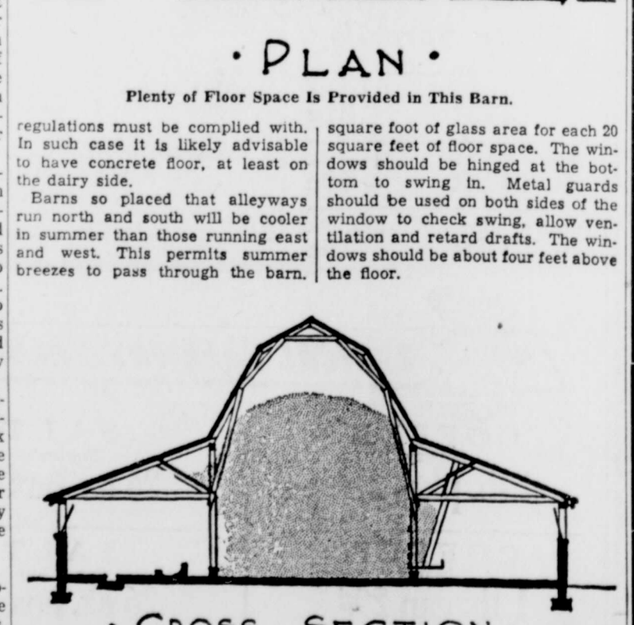

The roof may be of any quality material available locally. It may be of galvanized, wood shingles, composition shingles, roofing paper or slate. The quality obtainable as well as local price should determine the type used.

In planning windows there are two systems to follow. Either provided four square feet of glass area per 1,000 pounds live weight, or one square foot of glass area for each 20 square feet of floor space. The windows should be hinged at the bottom to swing in. Metal guards should be used on both sides of the window to check swing, allow ventilation and retard drafts. The windows should be about four feet above the floor.

Beef Set-Aside Is Tightened Under Directions

Set-aside regulations on beef have been changed to speed procurement for foreign relief shipments and to make more specific the set-aside and delivery requirements which slaughterers must meet. Under the amendment to WFO-75.2, effective June 2, the order provides that:

Federally-inspected and certified slaughterers must set aside each week and hold in reserve for government procurement a fixed percentage of their weekly beef production of specified grades. They must also certify the physical set-aside of each week's requirement.

Affected slaughterers will be required to deliver to government agencies a quantity of beef equal to that required to be set aside in the third previous week.

Federally inspected and certified slaughterers were required to have made up all deficits in deliveries of set-aside amounts of beef by June 22, instead of June 15 as originally announced.

U.S. utility grade and cutter grades of beef have been combined, and the set-aside combined established at 55 per cent. Commercial grade beef remains at 40 per cent of production.

The administrator of PMA may direct delivery to a governmental agency of the set-aside beef in the event of failure on the part of slaughterers affected by the order to deliver the required set-aside quantity.

Department officials said that set-aside orders on pork and lard, and veal would be revised in line with the amended beef regulations. Mutton set-aside has been suspended indefinitely.

BREAD SHORTAGE TO BE RELIEVED

Wheat is to be "loaned" to keep flour supplies flowing to areas where consumer bread supplies are short. Mills having wheat and flour totaling less than half the authorized grind for domestic distribution may receive consideration for loans from government stocks awaiting shipment to famine areas. The wheat will be supplied the mills through merchandisers upon authorization from the PMA Grain Branch. The wheat will be made available from stocks purchased by the government under the recently concluded bonus plan, which brought in 81,280,016 bushels for shipment to famine areas.

USDA has extended its dried whole egg purchase program to obtain an extra 12,000,000 pounds for household-sized packages equal to one dozen eggs for use under England's food rationing program.

U.S. meat production in 1946 will be close to last year's total of 22.9 billion pounds—two billion below the 1944 record—USDA forecasts. Production in 1947 may be a billion less than this year.

...Shortage ...fronting ...nta Fe

...Fe Railway and oth...riers are confronted ...st acute shortage of ... have ever experi... H. Deitiker, general freight agent, asserted during a visit here Tuesday.

"Primary reason for this shortage of cars is due to inability of carriers to acquire new equipment during the war years and since cessation of hostilities" Deitiker said. "This prohibited the seasonal accumulation of cars to handle the grain crop, which is now in full harvest in most of our country. Also the wheat yield is turning out from 10 to 30 per cent better than was estimated 30 days ago.

"The Santa Fe is doing everything possible to have Eastern lines deliver boxcars to us so that we may be able to handle grain and agricultural products, potash, carbon black, and other commodities requiring closed cars.

"Every possible expedient is being utilized to provide more cars. The Santa Fe has converted 750 stock cars for grain usage and is also using gondolas, as far as circumstances permit, to move grain short distances."

Public Confused Over the Real Power of DDT

The public is getting considerably confused over the real "power" of DDT—the "magic" insecticide discovery of recent years—according to L. C. Gibbs, horticulturist of the New Mexico Extension Service. Research work by the U.S. Department of Agriculture bears this out, Gibbs says.

Experiments with DDT as a spray for fruits and vegetables are still in preliminary stages, the extension horticulturist pointed out. Already they show that DDT in soil at the rate of 25 pounds per acre retards the growth of most kinds of beans, onions, spinach, tomatoes, strawberry plants, and rye. In a few years of spraying, the land could accumulate injurious amounts of the chemical and make it unfit for use. Some injury to squash and other cucurbits has resulted from light applications of the material.

Gibbs said that little is known about the toxic effect of DDT on humans. So far, he added, there has only been one reported death, and that was in England. Persons who have worked with it have had most opportunity to assimilate it in small quantities and report mild cases of the jitters and nervousness.

Most users will have to learn what form or with what solution they want to buy it, Gibbs advises. There is a very specialized form of DDT for each use, he said. Some dealers are reported selling very weak solutions and making exaggerated claims for it. "To protect yourselves, I would advise reading the labels carefully and acquainting yourselves with the job to be done," Gibbs said.

Girl Cooks Cut Use of Food to Aid Starving

Club girls participating in the National 4-H Food Preparation Activity are on the job to help relieve famine abroad. Specifically, they are conserving wheat, fats, and oils in preparing and serving family meals.

Among their conservation measures are: Substituting oatmeal, potato, or soy flour for wheat in bread; replacing bread with potatoes in stuffings and in making fluffy topping for meat pies; using stale bread in escalloped dishes and for French toast; serving raw vegetables from their victory gardens in salads with homemade boiled dressings instead of oils; baking or broiling, instead of frying, fish ,to conserve fats; using meat drippings for cooking and seasoning foods, to save cooking oils; serving fruits instead of cakes and pastries for desserts.

The youthful cooks are also showing community groups through demonstrations and talks how to stop waste and conserve food.

Merit awards will be given for outstanding records. County winners will receive medals. The state winner will be a guest delegate at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. National winners will receive $200 college scholarships.

Last year's state winner in New Mexico was Emma Lee Ellis of Amistad. County winners were named in Bernalillo, Dona Ana, Guadalupe, and Roosevelt Counties.

This activity is a part of the National 4-H Food for Famine Program, and is conducted under the direction of the Extension service.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

When a lover holds two torches he is more apt to blind himself and step off a precipice. With more than two he may deliberately jump off.

Conversations are like boiling soap kettles in which statements quickly dissolve when they strike the caustic lye of truth.

Low clouds like flamingoes flying into the sunset and the grotesque music of frogs, frame a trivial memory of childhood. I walked a cowpath that paralleled the winding wagon road between trees and scrub oak bushes. Warm mud pushing up between my toes produced an acstacy that belongs to the world of little boys. On hearing the plodding hoofbeats of the horse, I stopped in a sheltered place and watched. Riding sedately in a sidesaddle, the woman held the reins with an ease of one used to riding. She was sobbing softly and removed a white handkerchief from her waist pocket at intervals. I had ever seen her before, nor did I ever see her afterwards. The instance was my introduction to the ageless and answerless question of a woman's tears.

Night wore her sables of sorrow like a forsaken woman meditating at the river's shore. Tear-washed stars looked down from their mezzanine of eternity with the wind playing gently on flutes of space. There was no light in the great house; the horse corral was empty. A pair of boots still bearing their spurs lay in a corner of the high-ceiling room. Damp with dew, a mattress and bedding were spread on the spacious lawn; a few sprigs of fern lay near the gate.

Fame without friends must be as a great banquet table set for only one.

Modern refrigeration is a splendid contribution to more satisfactory living, but it fails in some qualities to compare with the cool spring house where my mother used to keep thick, white crocks of sweet cream.

Except for my own pusillanimity, the empty house would have provided shelter until the storm passed. It stood out in bold silhouette during flashes of incredible lightning which speared light through paneless windows in the upper story. Instantly the house would drop back into the sea of night and there was less trepidation in the open hills than in the thoughts of its eerie protection. Large drops of rain quickly drove the warmth out of my shirt, then fine hail whipped by blasts of wind and beat my face and arms. Water pressed over the tops of my shoes and my trousers stuck to my legs; each step required more effort, like trying to swim while hampered by clothing. The earth rembled after each wide blade of lightning. I was looking toward the house when the bolt struck and I felt the panic of ominous terror when flames quickly stuck their tongues through the windows. The rain was a red curain laced by white flashes for a few moments, then the fire retreated into the darkness from which it had sprung. The rain was like a million buckets being emptied on the earth but its panic was passing. After a time I found the road bracketed along the sides of familiar hills and ragged pieces of stars and sky moved like floating islands in a sea of tossing clouds.

Failure often owes its success to a dominating desire for comfort.

At the vendue of love it is possible to become so engrossed with bidding that the item's value may have little relation to the price for which it sells.

My generation served as a metamorphic period between two colorful eras, pioneer and modern. It was a depot between trains. During the period of my boyhood the prairie still held white, splintering buffalo horns, yet I saw my first live buffalo in a city zoo. A few weeks ago I learned that the vanished beasts of the prairie were the only animals that turned their heads into a blizzard or storm.

It is logical that the best place to correct a mistake is before it is made, but the experience which would be lost should not be ignored.

FAT CONSERVATION CAMPAIGN SLUMPS

Civilian collections from salvages of fat for April totaled 13,956,000 pounds. This was a decline from the March figure of 16,077,000 pounds, but a widespread meat shortage and the fact that April was a 30-day month were both contributing factors.

It is interesting to note that average monthly collections for the first four months of 1946 were 40 per cent ahead of average monthly collections for the last six months during which points were paid for used fats.

No New State Taxes Needed, Booklet Says

State income under present tax laws should be sufficient for some time to maintain all essential services, without imposition of new taxes, says a report, "New Mexico's Tax Structure," issued by the Division of Government Research of the University of New Mexico.

Authors of the study are Rupert F. Asplund, director of the State Taxpayers' Association, and Albert K. Nohl, research assistant.

The report, illustrated with tables and graphs, traces tax trends in the state and gives concise information on the rate and base of each of the 21 specific taxes levied by the state and the use to which tax receipts are devoted.

Between 1915 and 1944, total cost of government in New Mexico rose from $6,348,382 to $36,325,074, an increase of almost 500 per cent, the report points out. Improved educational facilities, good roads, and the increase in welfare activities accounted for most of the increase.

The most significant change in taxation since statehood, the report says, has been the shift in dependence from property taxes to sales and income taxes. In 1944, the sales tax alone yielded one-third of the state tax income, property tax less than one-eighth.

The greatest need of the present tax system, the authors believe, is more efficient administration. The first step in the achievement of such administration, they state, must be the establishment of a merit system for the selection and retention of trained personnel in all state agencies concerned with the assessment and collection of taxes.

Copies of the report are available free to interested persons who write the university's Division of Government Research.

. . . there's a big telephone job to be done—and it's being done.

During the first four months of 1946, 9,000 farm families in the seven Mountain States who had been waiting for telephones were provided with service.

Continuing shortages of telephone equipment—wires, cable, central office equipment—combined with an unprecedented new demand for service, mean that there are still about 10,000 unfilled orders for rural telephone service in this territory. Taking care of these held orders frequently means, for the time being, adding more telephones to existing lines. At the same time, however, we are continually planning and carrying out projects dseigned to reduce the load on rural telephone lines and to extend service to areas not now served. This is being done as fast as humanly possible, as new materials and equipment arrive.

All the new telephone construction work being done in rural areas is based on future requirements for better service for everybody.

Culbertson-Cunningham Vows Are Exchanged in Double-Ring Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Culbertson have announced the marriage of their daughter, Lucille Elnora, to W. D. Cunningham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cunningham, Sr.

A double-ring ceremony, held in the home of Mrs. Don Norton, sister of the bride, on Wednesday evening of last week, was read by Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist Church, before a small group of relatives and friends.

An improvised altar of greenery, banked on either side by large bouquets of pale pink roses and blue delphinium placed beneath pink satin bows which decorated the walls was the setting for the candlelight service.

Preceding the impressive ceremony, Miss Helen Batie sang "I Love You Truly" and "Till the End of Time." She was accompanied by Russell Floore at the organ and Edgar Mitchell playing a violin. The wedding march was a duet of organ and violin.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles Lewis Culbertson, was attractive in a white suit of rayon gabardine with white accessories. A shoulder corsage of red rosebuds accented the charming costume. Following tradition, the bride carried a white Bible borrowed from Mrs. Ernest Scoggins, with a blue lace handkerchief; for something old she wore her grandmother's wedding band, and for something new, a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Culbertson was attended by Mrs. Don Norton, matron of honor, who chose to wear a dress of lime green crepe with accents of white and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Zane Ray Willburn, also a sister of the bride was a bridesmaid and looked lovely in a pale rose crepe gown with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. Cunningham and his brother, Wilburn Cunningham of Carlsbad, who served him as best man, both wore customary business suits with boutonnieres of red carnations.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Culbertson chose a charming creation of black basket weave crepe and wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Cunningham mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in a smart two-piece costume suit of black crepe with a white braid trim. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Mrs. Cunningham is a graduate of Hope High School and attended business school at Albuquerque. She is employed at the Central Valley Electric Coop, Inc., office and will resume her duties there after a wedding trip.

Mr. Cunningham, who attended school in Bridgeport, Tex., served for several years in the armed forces. At present he is employed by the Brewer Drilling Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham plan to visit the Grand Canyon and other points of interest in Arizona and will reside in Artesia upon their return.

Edgar Bishop, Former Artesia Boy, Marries Recently on Coast

Of interest to Artesians is the marriage of Miss Jane Lilly of Oakland, Calif., to Edgar S. Bishop of Berkeley, Calif., formerly of Artesia, at a formal ceremony in late May.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Castleberry have announced the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Lee, to Bob Ray, son of Robert Ray of Ogden, Iowa. The ceremony was held at the Castleberry home before an altar banked with lovely flowers and soft greenery, on Sunday evening. Baskets of red roses on either side of the altar made a lovely setting for the double-ring service read by candlelight. Rev. C. N. Calmes, a retired pastor of the Church of Christ, read the vows.

Miss Castleberry was particularly lovely in a street length frock of white handkerchief linen eyelet embroidery. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and white mesh gloves. Other accessories were in black. Her hat was of a large sailor fashion. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids and carried a white prayer book belonging to the Theta-Rho Girls Club, which she served as a member and an officer. An 1886 coin, loaned by her brother, Roy, was worn in her left shoe for something old and for luck. Her necklace was her something new, and a blue garter completed the traditions.

Mrs. John Conner attended Miss Castleberry and was stunning in a blue summer crepe ensemble with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

Roy Castleberry, brother of the bride, served as best man. All the men wore customary dark suits.

The bride's mother was attired in striking navy blue sheer, with white accents and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Castleberry.

The lovely table was covered with beige lace and appointed in crystal. Tall green and yellow candles lighted the scene and two cakes were placed on opposite ends of the table. The cakes were set on mirrors and were surrounded by multicolored roses. Mrs. J. T. Castleberry served the cake, while Mrs. Roy Castleberry presided at the punchbowl. About 50 people signed the guestbook, which was kept by Miss Betty Montgomery.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were: Miss Minnie Stevens, Colorado City, Tex.; Charlie Thompson, Hobbs; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunn, McLean, Tex.; Mrs. Onabelle Roberts, Elida; Miss Carole McCrary, Santa Fe, and Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Post, Fort Sumner.

Mrs. Ray was born and reared in Artesia, attended the Artesia schools and was a popular member of the Pep Club, Theta-Rho, FWC Club, and 4-H Girls Club.

Mr. Ray recently received his discharge from the Navy after serving 18 months overseas. He attended school in Artesia before he enlisted in the Navy.

After a wedding trip the Rays will be at home in Artesia.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to our many friends for their deeds and words of kindness during the illness and at the death of our loved one, Robert Kennedy. We especially want to thank those who made donations for treatment last year. — Mrs. Robert Kennedy and children; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kennedy, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Kennedy. 25-1tp

Girl Scout Day Camp Comes to Successful End

The Intermediate Girl Scout and Brownie day camp closed on Saturday with a parents night at Morris Field stadium, which featured a picnic lunch and display of some of the handicraft developed in camp. The Brownie doll display was an outstanding feature.

The Intermediates did bookbinding, made sun hats, and knapsacks, and closed the week-long camping program with an overnight camp out on Saturday.

Approximately 55 Scouts and Brownies attended the camps with a good turnout in adult help for both programs.

A swimming program was enjoyed by both groups under the direction of Mrs. Flora Thompson.

The girls and their sponsors have expressed thanks to the ladies who gave freely of their time and energies to help make the camps successful and to Mayor A. P. Mahone and City Manager P. V. Morris for the use of the facilities at Morris Field, and to the Methodist Church for facilities used in the Brownie camp.

She doesn't like to keep you waiting

If there is an occasional delay before you hear the operator say "Number Please" we hope you will understand. It's because our equipment in Artesia is carrying a capacity load of calls. Local calls per day are up about 50% over comparable months of last year.

One reason is that people are using their telephones more. Another is that we recently have been able to provide service for many of your friends and neighbors who waited many months during the period of shortages.

Until we can restore service to pre-war standards we'll appreciate your cooperation and understanding.

P. S. It will help a lot if you'll make your calls, unless urgent, before or after the busy hours —10 A.M. to 12 Noon and 4 to 6 P.M.

New Mexican Is Director of Navy's Ram-Jet

Dr. Wilbur H. Goss, physics instructor at New Mexico A. & M., is director of the propulsion developments for the ram-jet, the Navy Department's recently announced secret flying missle.

The ram-jet, called "the flying stovepipe" because of its form, is driven by an engine without moving parts at speeds in excess of 1400 miles per hour. Its development was one of the war's most closely guarded secrets although it was used during the latter stages of the war.

The ram-jet is the next step beyond the turbo-jet now used to propel high speed aircraft. It consists essentially of an open pipe. In fact, the first test jet was made from the exhaust pipe of a Thunderbolt plane. Oxygen is scooped into the front opening from the air during flight and compressed by the speed of the jet; fuel is injected and burned and the exhaust streams out of the rear opening.

Dr. Goss had been one of the scientists who developed the proximity fuse, and when the Navy needed a supersonic guided missle to combat the Kamikaze planes and Baka bombs he was one of the civilian scientists assigned the problem, under the technical direction of the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University.

across the Pecos Valley and west over the Sacramento Mountains is one of the major projects of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with other groups. Hopes are still entertained that the blacktop road can be obtained and that sooner or later a superhighway for this route can be obtained.

A good blacktop road at this time, however, will provide a highway over which the farmers and others can get their farm products the lumber, sheep, cattle, and other products to markets.

person, all merchants and residents of Artesia who plan to go but are not contacted are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 192, and give the information. This is necessary in order that the communities serving the two noonday meals will have an approximate figure and also to help in getting rooms in Cloudcroft.

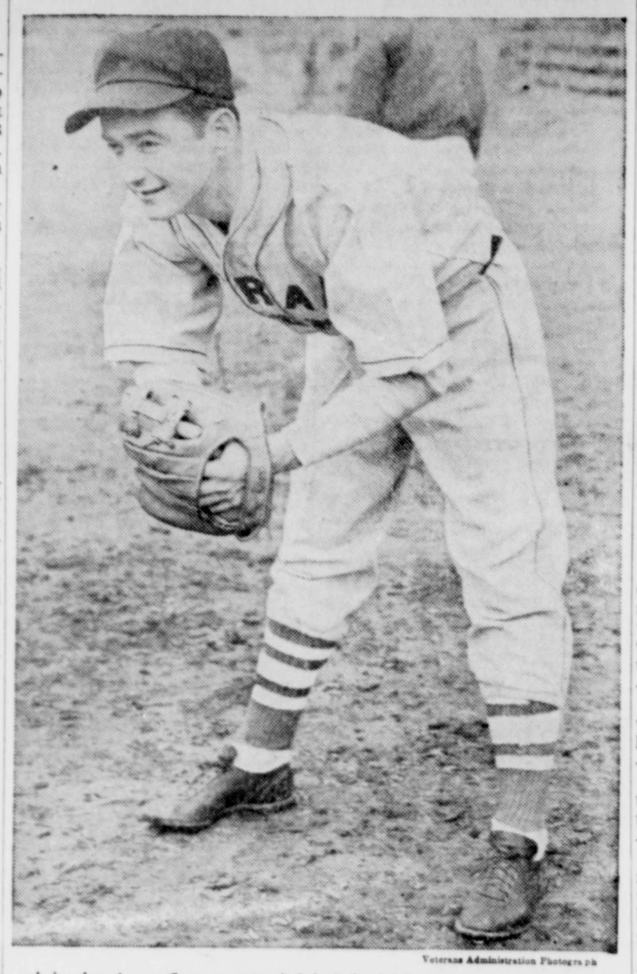

Managers of tourist courts, lodges, and hotels in Cloudcroft have promised cooperation in housing the Artesia delegation next Wednesday night. Rates will be from $1.25 up per person.

The courts and hotels, together with the approximate number of persons each can handle, follow: Wayside Inn 30; Canary Cabins 12, The Lodge 16, El Monte Lodge 15-20, Cloudcroft Hotel 20-25. Additional units can be made available if necessary, said R. E. Mayfield, president of the Cloudcroft Chamber.

Complete schedule of the tour appears in another column of this paper.

Santander, Colombia's Hero

Remembered in history as a daring general, an outstanding organizer, and a wise ruler, Francisco de Paula Santander has indeed a right to glory. Closely associated with the liberation of his country, he, however, more than Colombia's national hero—one of Bolivar's lieutenants, one of the men to whose courage and fortitude the Americas owe their freedom.

Francisco de Paula Santander was born on April 12, 1792, at Couta, Colombia, to one of whose aristocratic families he belonged. After receiving an excellent education in his home town and at Bogata, he was about to finish his legal studies in 1810 when the first movement for independence took place. The whole of South America had been boiling over for some time, and many uprisings had taken place toward the end of the 18th century.

No sooner had the first important local revolt taken place in Bogata than young Santander joined the rebel forces. For nine years he was to fight in the patriot army, taking part in innumerable encounters, always with distinction and on several occasions with heroic bravery. He steadily rose in rank until, in 1817, he was made a general by Bolivar—the liberator of South America—who, defeated in 1814, had watched Santander keep up an intense guerilla warfare in his territory and appreciated his ability.

Appointing him his chief of staff, he sent him to recruit an army with which to carry out the liberation of Colombia, then called New Granada. Fortune favored Bolivar when there entered his army such an energetic and talented native Spanish American leader as Santander. He carried out his most difficult assignment with such skill that two years later the army was ready and in June, 1819, in the midst of the rainy season, the Liberator made what seemed an almost impossible march into the upper Orinoco Valley, crossing the Andes from Venezuela, to join the patriots under Santander.

On Aug. 7, 1819, the rebels, ably led by both Generals Bolivar and Santander, utterly defeated the royalist forces at Boyaca. This daring and resourceful maneuver permitted the surprise defeat of the monarchists by the ill-clad and poorly-equipped patriots, and was one of the most important victories of the Spanish-American saga for independence.

Shortly after Boyaca, a union was effected between Venezuela and Colombia, of which Bolivar was elected president and Santander vice president. The latter's military service was ended — he was beginning his civil career and starting out to fulfill his saying that "if arms give independence, laws give freedom."

While Bolivar proceeded with the liberation of South America, Santander was left in charge of the newly-freed territory. For the next nine years he administered the government at Bogata in an exemplary fashion. He gave the new republic an orderly administration with confresses functioning regularly and in relative independence in marked contrast to the purely military dictatorship in some of the neighboring countries.

He organized the fiscal system, established schools and courts of justice, promoted sciences and art, formulated foreign policies, trained and supplied armies, stimulated the development of national industries and succeeded in showpresident. Once more, the repubing his compatriots the importance of maintaining a government of laws and not of men. So sincere was his democratic zeal that he came to be known as "The Champion of Legality."

Santander's administration as acting chief of state ended in 1827 when Bolivar returned to Bogata and took over the executive power, but he remained in the government as vice president. Dissensions with Bolivar, however, brought about a break between them and Santander was deprived of the functions he exercised.

At the congress assembled at Ocana to revise the constitution which had been adopted in 1821 at Cucuta, no adjustment could be brought about by the partisans of Bolivar and those of Santander. Finally, when an attempted assassination of Bolivar took place, Santander was suspected of being implicated in the conspiracy and exiled. He spent three years in Europe and in the United States before returning to Colombia after the death of Bolivar in 1830.

Two years later he was elected lic enjoyed the benefits of his wise rule and after 1837, when his period came to an end, he continued to serve his country in the National Congress until his demise in 1840.

It has been said of Santander that he was a statesman rather than a soldier by temperament. Whatever he did, however, he did well, and in spite of having been accused of coldness and even cruelty sometimes, he has passed into history as a man who served his country faithfully and justly to the end.
