Minister Is Seeking Post As Senator

Winrod Is Denounced As Nazi And Fascist; White, Other Leaders Fighting Him

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., July 27—A strange, hotly disputed issue of naziism and intolerance has bobbed up on the plains of Kansas in an otherwise quiet political primary campaign to be decided at the polls Aug. 2.

The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, seeking the Republican nomination for senator, has been called a "peddler of religious and racial hatred" by William Allen White. Winrod, pamphleteer and radio speaker, in turn categorically denied fascist or nazi inclinations, maintaining that "fantastic rumors and half truths" had been circulated about him.

Hamilton Opposes Winrod

National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton asserted Winrod's nomination would put Kansas Republicans on the "wrong side of a vital issue," intolerance. Winrod attributed Hamilton's intervention to "great pressure" from "certain powerful financial interests."

Winrod is opposed by former Gov. Clyde M. Reed, Dallas W. Knapp and the Rev. Jesse Clyde Fisher. The winner will run in November for the seat of Senator George McGill, Democrat. McGill has no organized opposition for renomination.

Winrod, 39-year-old native of Kansas yet a political newcomer, campaigned by letter in 1937 against the Roosevelt court plan and published a series of books and magazines. Stumping the state he has employed a sound apparatus over which his meetings are opened to the music of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Engineer Here To See Sites

Capt. C. H. Stratton, engineer with the Veterans administration in Washington, D. C., arrived by airplane here shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and soon after, in company with a Lubbock committee, began inspections of sites available as a location for the $1,435,000 Veterans hospital soon to be built somewhere in Texas.

Stratton's itinerary for the day was not announced immediately. He spent Tuesday night in Abilene and Amarillo is the next stop on a fast itinerary which already has carried him to more than a dozen Texas towns and cities which are avowed contenders for the hospital.

Arrives From Abilene

Stratton arrived at Municipal airport aboard a four-place cabin Waco plane of which L. E. Derryberry, manager of the Abilene airport, was the pilot.

Accompanying the engineer were Congressman Clyde Garrett of Eastland, representing the 17th Texas congressional district, and the wife and baby of Derryberry. Mr. and Mrs. Derryberry and their baby, Coleen, were the guests of Client Breedlove, manager of Municipal airport, and Mrs. Breedlove while here.

Luncheon Is Held

Plans for Stratton's stay while here were inspections of some of the points of interest in Lubbock which might add to the city's desirability as a location for the hospital, a lunch at the Hilton hotel at noon and then inspection of various of the 15 sites upon which options have been obtained.

The sites all meet with the gener-

Franco, As Military School Head, Trained Officers Who Later Joined Him In Revolt

General Francisco Franco (extreme right) in one of the few pictures ever taken of him with his wife and daughter.

Nearly unknown to the outside world only a few years ago, Francisco Franco stands today as the military dictator of the two-thirds of Spain which his rebel legions have conquered during two years of sanguinary civil warfare. Milton Bronner has written for The Evening Journal the life story of Franco, in a series of three articles. This is the second.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

If it had not been for his marriage to the beautiful Dona Carmen, Francisco Franco might have remained in Spanish Morocco—where he won his spurs, his medals and his generalship — and might never have become involved in the political intrigues and strife of his native Spain.

But married life made him eager, in 1926 to return to Spain and make a home there for his wife and his little daughter Carmencita. Once more fortune favored him. The government had established a new model military academy at Saragossa. Here cadets could study two years before going on to special academies which fitted them variously for the infantry, cavalry, engineering or artillery. Franco was made the head of it and here for some years he worked hard training young officers. Later many of these were to follow his flag.

Fanco had met French officers and admired their training. So, for a time, he left his Saragossa post and took a course in higher military matters in the French school at Versailles.

Statement Recalled

In the spring of 1931 came the municipal elections when the parties of the Left swept the nation. King Alfonso XIII abdicated and fled the country and the republic was set up. At that time Franco said:

"We must put the country first. Soldiers should stand aside from politics and think first of the nation. The good of the country and the greatness of the army must be the goal of all we do."

That might mean much or little. The republican government began remaking the army by retiring the old monarchist generals and putting in younger men. Franco then appealed to soldiers, disposed to revolt, by calling their attention to discipline. This, he said took on its true meaning "when our own habit of

Cost Of Slump Is 22 Billions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Federal and state expenditures to combat depression and unemployment have totaled nearly 22 billion dollars since 1932.

Treasury figures announced today showed $16,647,365,754 in emergency federal appropriations available before July 1. State expenditures for relief were placed last spring at $5,100,000,000 by a senate committee investigating unemployment.

Of the federal expenditures, the treasury listed about $8,000,000,000 before April 8, 1935, and $8,656,321,646 since that date. That was the time at which the treasury assumed administrative accounting responsibility for emergency funds.

The largest slice of the money since April 8, 1935, went to highway, street and road construction, which got $1,988,741,710. Conservation work came next with an expenditure of $984,061,553. States received $922,343,199 for continuing relief.

Political Observers Speculate On Crowley's Reappointment

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Political observers here speculated today on whether Karl A. Crowley, unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate in the Texas Democratic primary, would be reappointed solicitor of the postoffice department.

Crowley resigned the $9,000-a-year position several months ago to enter the Texas race. The vacancy has not been filled.

As both the president and Postmaster General Farley are away from Washington, no immediate action is expected.

Steps Taken To Bring Peace In Country

New Minorities Statute Is Published; Viscount Named To Advise In Dispute

(By The Associated Press)

Two steps were taken today toward settlement of Czechoslovakia's troublesome minority problem—publication of a new minorities statute in Praha and appointment of a British adviser—mediator.

The minorities statute would grant the republic's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans new concessions in school administration, government jobs and the use of languages, but did not deal with the question of autonomous government.

Hailed As Triumph

The appointment of the English Viscount Runciman as adviser in the dispute was hailed in Berlin official circles as a clear triumph for Germany. Germans felt that Czechoslovakia yielded a degree of her sovereignty by accepting an outside adviser.

Meanwhile, in Spain's civil war, government troops were reported to have driven within three miles of insurgent headquarters at Gandesa in their sudden offensive on the Catalonian front.

Advance Indicated

Insurgent advices insisted only a few government troops managed to cross the Ebro river and that those were annihilated, but government dispatches indicated a 15-mile advance in three days.

Whatever gains the government made on this front, however, seemed more than offset by an 18-mile insurgent advance in Estremadura province southwest of Madrid. The insurgents said they had captured 14,000 prisoners on the Estremadura front.

Texas Industry And Trade Is Reviving

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—Texas industry and trade receded somewhat in June but there were growing indications the business curve soon would reverse itself, Dr. F. A. Buechel of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today.

The composite business index for June was 92.3, compared with 93 for May and 98.9 for June of last year.

Employment and department store sales were the only factors above those of May.

"It is expected the upward movement will be gradual, not sharp, but some factors, such as retail sales, runs of crude oil to stills and electric power consumption, may register rapid improvement," he said.

U. S. Tourists Not Permitted To Land By Soviet Officials

MOSCOW, July 27. (AP)—Sixty-six American tourists, passengers on the SS Reliance, telegraphed an appeal to the American embassy today to extricate them from a predicament in Leningrad, where they were not permitted to land.

One hundred sixty others, including Houston Harte, San Angelo, Texas, publisher, and his family, arrived in Moscow this morning for a two-day program of sightseeing.

The embassy started investigating the plight of the 66 who were unable to leave the ship. In previous years there have been several cases of finding Soviet gates closed against tourists arriving at Leningrad, expecting to be given landing cards for a brief visit to Leningrad and Moscow.

O'Daniel On His Vacation, Sells Carload Of Flour In Huntsville

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, July 27 — W. Lee O'Daniel, on a "southbound" vacation trip, mixed pleasure, business and politics during a brief stop here last night.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate was accompanied by his wife, daughter and one son.

The Fort Worth flour merchant discussed politics briefly with E. R. Wright, newly elected state representative from this district.

Wright said he advised O'Daniel that Walker county was behind him.

"That's fine," Wright said the nominee replied. "I hope all the citizenship will give me co-operation to the end that the people may have a worthwhile program."

Wright said O'Daniel expressed hope his program would be worth enough for other states to take notice. "It's a new thing in government and I believe we can do the job," O'Daniel was quoted as saying.

O'Daniel, Wright said, complained that the movie people

House Members In Midst Of Battles

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27—Electioneering house members, whose campaigns generally have been overshadowed by senatorial races, are in the midst of some hot primary battles of their own.

A number of anti-administration Democrats, including a few members of the house rules committee, are encountering stiff opposition from pro-Roosevelt candidates. Some of the president's ardent supporters also are having their troubles.

Labor's Nonpartisan League, political arm of the C. I. O., is leading the assault. The league included five rules committee Democrats in a bloc of house members whose records, it said, called for opposition from labor. Two of these, Clark of North Carolina and Dies of Texas, already have obtained renomination.

Smith of Virginia and Cox of Georgia, are under fire from candidates who are making an issue of administration support.

In New York City, Chairman O'Connor of the rules committee also has incurred the enmity of such Roosevelt men as Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. Tammany Hall has picked O'Connor for renomination, and some Republicans have talked of putting him on their ticket, too.

O'Connor Incurs Opposition

O'Connor incurred the opposition of New Dealers by leading the successful fight against the government reorganization bill.

With the backing of LaGuardia and Alex Rose, executive head of the American Labor party, Byrnes MacDonald has announced his candidacy against O'Connor.

A consistent Democratic opponent of Roosevelt legislation, Representative Lamneck of Ohio, has four competitors in next month's primary. In support of his votes in the house, he has told audiences, "I stand for constitutional government."

Maverick Is Beaten

Among the New Deal supporters who ran into opposition were Representative Maverick, whom Texas voters defeated for renomination Saturday, and Representative McFarlane of Texas, who was forced into a run-off primary. Maverick for four years has been one of the most vociferous Roosevelt backers

POLICE RESCUE GIRL

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP) — In the wake of last night's spectacular 17-story death plunge of John Ward, police today rescued a girl who gave her name as Betty Vorunion, 24, of Irvington, N. J., from the roof of a building at 320 Fifth avenue.

Police coaxed the girl to safety after she had been seen pacing back and forth on the narrow parapet of the 16-story building.

stinacy and indecision kept him waiting, perilously poised, for nearly 11 hours on a narrow ledge 17 stories above the street before he plunged.

In all that time he kept thousands waiting in morbid suspense, thousands who watched him from the street, from bus tops, from windows and the roofs of nearby buildings — a tiny bit of a man in a white shirt, who drank incredible quantities of water through the long summer afternoon while police cajoled him in vain attempts to dissuade him from thoughts of suicide.

Companion Is Drowned In Rio Grande

Adventurers Are On Ledge Above River After Trying Trip On Innertubes

(By The Associated Press)

MARFA, July 27—Two adventurous soldiers trapped on a high ledge overlooking the flooding Rio Grande, sent a note by rope to rescuers atop the 1,500-foot wall today that they were in good health but that a companion had drowned.

Rations were hurried here from Fort D. A. Russell to be lowered on the rope.

Col. R. H. Lewis, commander of Fort Russell, said the two men, Sgt. Clyde Ryberg and Pvt. Clarency Hansen, who started down the treacherous nine-mile stretch of Santa Helena canyon on innertubes in company with Pvt. Harry Buckman, would be rescued by boat.

The original plan to raise the men by rope up the 1,500 canyon was discarded as too dangerous.

To Search For Body

Fears that Pvt. Buckman had drowned were confirmed in a note the survivors sent to rescuers. An army plane from San Antonio will be used tomorrow to search the canyon and river for Buckman's body.

Col. Lewis said the rescue party planned to lower a boat at the head of the canyon and pick up the stranded pair.

A search which began Monday when an innertube floated down the stream bearing the news of the men's plight, was rewarded early last night when the party discovered the two and dropped food and blankets 1,500 feet down the side of the canyon.

Failing a rescue, the party feared the two would have to remain until the river fell. The ledge on which they rested was caused by a slide in the canyon wall several years ago, and they could climb as much as a thousand feet above the flood if necessary.

The party reported that given sufficient food and water the men should be safe. They were about 500 yards from the canyon mouth.

Holbrook Attributes Defeat To Opposition To New Deal, Labor

GALVESTON, July 27 (AP) — Friends of T. J. Holbrook, dean of the Texas senate attributes his defeat in the Democratic primary Saturday by W. E. Stone, Galveston attorney, to Holbrook's vigorous opposition to the New Deal, and his opposition to organized labor.

The veteran Holbrook, who had represented this district for the last 16 years, had been an outspoken critic of the Roosevelt administration.

Holbrook, himself, in commenting on the result, said:

"I am not surprised. My constant defense of constitutional government, economically administered, has not appealed to the politicians who have taken charge of the country."

Latest returns from the six counties of the district showed Stone leading by approximately 3,676 votes.

SOUR TEMPERS MADE SWEET

When you are cross, irritable, and grouchy; when you find fault with the coffee, the eggs, the bacon, and the cook, you may well suspect that you have a touch of Biliousness or so-called "Torpid Liver," so prevalent in hot weather. All you may need is a little calomel, or better still, "Calotabs," the nauseless calomel compound tablets that make calomel-taking a pleasure.

Calotabs give you the combined effects of calomel and salts, helping Nature to expel the sour, stagnant bile and washing it out of the system. One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of water,—that's all. Next morning your system feels clean and refreshed, your head is clear, your spirit bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in checker-board (black and white) packages bearing the trade mark "Calotabs." Nurse imitations. Trial package ten cents; family package only twenty-five cents, at your dealer's. (Adv.)

The refreshment table was centered with a large bowl of roses, fern and sweet peas in the middle of which stood a mirrored treble clef and four mirrored notes. Punch and cake were served by the hostesses.

BRIM AROUND THE NECK

PARIS (AP)—If you want the brim of your sports hat down around your neck, slit it across the back at the base of the crown and pull it down. This is the way Agnes does it, in a model of brown felt with a green grosgrain band. The pulled-down brim shows a crescent of hair between brim and band.

The brightest star is Sirius, or the Dog Star.

I'M CONSTIPATED

Mother, watch your baby carefully for signs of unusual fretfulness, belching and the spitting up of food. Often they come about as a result of temporary constipation or meager bowel movements. Here Teethina can be relied upon as a mild and efficient laxative, as so many mothers will tell you. It is also important for you to keep Teethina in mind when your baby suffers with colic, indigestion or colds. When baby is annoyed with one of these ailments, it is most essential that he have good bowel movements because constipation greatly aggravates and increases the discomforts of such ills. Teethina may be purchased at any drug store for 30c the box of one dozen pleasant-tasting powders. TEETHINA.

Nelson Issues Vote Thanks

In a formal statement to the voters of the 30th senatorial district, state Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, expressed his thanks and appreciation for the support given him in the recent Democratic primary in which he was a candidate for lieutenant governor.

He said:

"To the people of West Texas as a whole, and more particularly to those of the 30th senatorial district, I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the confidence they expressed in me when they went to the polls Saturday.

"I had rather to have been defeated for lieutenant-governor, and to have received the overwhelming support of those about home who knew me best, than to have won the race and had those about me say by their vote I was unfit for the job I sought.

Not Discouraged

"I am not discouraged nor downhearted. I feel that for one from the western Plains with a new name in state politics to have polled near 300,000 votes from all sections of Texas is a credible showing. It is an indication that this section of the state will be recognized by other sections of Texas through the election to high places in our state government before many more years shall have elapsed.

"To those in my district who are interested in the education of the youth, both in our towns and in the rural areas; to those who are interested in Texas Technological college, one of the greatest institutions in Texas today; to the aged, the blind and the dependent of this area; to those who are interested in the development of our natural resources and the general expansion and betterment of this area, including farming and ranching, I want all of you to know that I am continuing my study of these problems to the end that I may be of greater service as your State Senator.

It shall be my purpose to work in harmony with the governor, the next lieutenant-governor, the Railroad commission, the department of agriculture, and other agencies of our state government to the end that West Texas may receive her fair share of the fruits of government."

Man Takes Leap

Southampton, Long Island, became perhaps the biggest human focal point in the city for a day.

Holiday Spirit Prevailed

And so a kind of perverted holiday spirit grew upon the crowd that watched him teetering on his dizzy perch. There were overtones, cynicism. He wouldn't jump. Not by a long shot. Amateur psychologists debated the point. All agreed he wouldn't jump.

The police tried new means of saving him — hoisting up a cargo net they had borrowed from a ship —and then John Ward made his decision.

The pale blur detached itself from the gloom high above. A horrified gasp, then a scream from the crowd, and Ward plunged to his death.

All the devices the police and fire departments, could think of had failed. The appeals of his mother and his sister, the persuasive words of a priest and several psychiatrists had gone for nothing.

Tried To Dissuade Him

The police and firemen and everybody else who tried to dissuade Ward from jumping didn't spare themselves. Police stood for hours on duty. Firemen waited with a safety net, which nobody expected to save Ward.

Ward, the Southampton police records show, tried to end his life on July 11, 1937, by cutting his throat with a knife. He recovered and was sent to the state hospital at Central Islip, Long Island. Released in November, he was given employment by Patrick A. Valentine, travel agency head.

Jumped From Bridge

A week ago last Monday Ward jumped from a bridge at Hampton Bays, Long Island, and was rescued from the water by police. Valentine and his wife thought they could rouse Ward from his obvious despondency by taking him and his sister, Mrs. Katherine Bull, to Chicago for a visit.

The outing apparently was not successful, for Ward was depressed when they returned to New York on Monday.

They went to the Hotel Gotham. It was about noon yesterday when Ward scrambled through the window of his room, edged along the 18-inch shelf of stone and took a stand midway between two windows at a point where he could lean against a rough curved projection.

Then began one of the most nervous and protracted watches New York ever has known.

The word that Ward, apparently bent on suicide, was getting ready to plunge was flashed to police headquarters. Four radio squad cars sped to 55th street. A fire truck followed. Behind it came a rescue squad wagon.

Crowds Stood Motionless

A crowd quickly gathered. Sidewalks were jammed on both sides of the street. Crowds ceased swarming in Fifth avenue and stood motionless, waiting in dreadful anticipation.

People appeared on roofs of nearby buildings. Men and women stood against the brown Gothic walls of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, waiting.

High above the street Ward, toes on the edge of the ledge, looked down. Women glanced up and away. Many hurried on, fearful of the end they thought would come in a few minutes.

Breathless Quality Marks Crowd

A kind of breathless quality marked the crowds. Passengers on the top decks of busses stretched their necks. Office workers, business men, stenographers, women shoppers, men and women going to lunch, forgot their goals and waited to watch.

Ward lighted a cigarette—the first of dozens he was to smoke before death—blew the smoke in a big cloud, watched it for an instant and then looked down.

Tried To Coax Him

Word trickled downstairs that Ward's sister and the Valentines were trying to get him to come into the hotel room. He shook his head.

Patrolman Charles Glascow, a soft-spoken man, tried to coax Ward inside. Through all the afternoon and evening Glascow was to try, tasting the innumerable glasses of water Ward drank to convince the man on the ledge the contents were harmless.

Psychiatrists tried; the sister renewed her pleadings. A young woman from a sales-talk agency tried to convince Ward he ought to come in. To all the pleadings he shook his head or answered he had nothing to live for.

Wasn't Worth Living

His last words were spoken to Dr. G. C. Presner, a city health department physician who had talked with him frequently during the day.

"He said he would come in if we could promise him that life was worth living," said Dr. Presner.

"He said he had tried many ventures and failed and that many persons close to him were against him."

The youth's final words, the physician said, were:

"There's no way out of it. I have been up here many hours trying to convince myself of a reason for living. I've made up my mind."

Ward then glanced up a moment and at 10:36 p. m. (E. S. T.) He calmly stepped off into space.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP) — Influenced by Liverpool quotations much lower than due, the Chicago wheat market underwent moderate declines early today.

Opening ⅝ off to ⅛ up, September 67⅛-⅝, December 69¾-70, Chicago wheat futures then receded all around. Corn started ⅝-¾ down, September 56½-⅝, December 54¾-55.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅛-¼ higher compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. 67⅛-68⅛; Dec. 70¼-⅜, corn ½ off to ⅛ up, Sept. 57½-⅝, Dec. 55-55⅛, and oats ¼-½ advanced.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 27 (AP) — Cotton futures opened unchanged to two points net lower on the exchange here today under lower foreign markets.

The October contract traded at 8.77, Dec. at 8.86, Jan. at 8.87, March at 8.93, May at 8.96, and July at 9.00. Prices eased a few points additional towards the end of the first half hour of trading.

Oct. traded at 8.66, Dec. at, 8.75, Jan. at 8.87, March at 8.79, May at 8.88, and July at 8.90.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP) — Cotton futures opened unchanged to 3 down. Lower cables were partly offset by expectations of an unfavorable weekly weather report. Oct. 8.66; Dec. 8.75; Jan. 8.76; March 8.82; May 8.85; July 8.87B. B-bid.

Dec. eased from 8.75 to 8.71 shortly after the first half hour, when the list showed net losses of 4 to 8 points.

Renewed Wall Street liquidation developed later in the morning in sympathy with weakness of the stock market. This counterbalanced some unfavorable features in the weekly weather report, although the latter reflected less damage to the crop than some private advices had indicated.

Dec. sold off from 8.65 and at midday was quoted at 8.67, when the list was 8 to 11 points net lower.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP) — An abrupt turn to the selling side today tumbled the stock market from the high perch it had attained on its rapid climb starting June 20.

Many shares dropped 2 to about 4 points before they caught a firm hold. The heaviest wave of offerings came in the forenoon following a false start on the upside at the opening. Another outburst of selling in the afternoon was short-lived but rallying power was limited.

Generally analysts were inclined to take the setback as a "corrective" reaction, natural in light of the fast climb from the mid-June low points.

Transactions approximated 2,000,000 shares.

"Now that the campaign is over, we are going to have to get down to business for the people," he said. Wright said O'Daniel said he would not take any part in the undecided legislature races.

Incidentally, O'Daniel sold a carload of flour during his brief visit.

Telegrams, Gifts, Phone Calls Continue To Flood O'Daniels

FORT WORTH, July 27 (AP)—Although the W. Lee O'Daniels had left their Fort Worth home for a vacation "some where in Texas," telegrams, gifts, telephone calls and letters continued to arrive at their residence today.

C. A. Butcher, a brother of Mrs. O'Daniel, of Plainview was handling the calls and the mail. He said he came here "just to help out while they are gone."

O'Daniel, flour merchant and Democratic nominee for governor, Mrs. O'Daniel and their three children, Pat, Mike and Molly, left late Tuesday. Butcher said they gave no "forwarding address."

Among the telegrams received today was one from Pierce Brooks, a candidate for lieutenant governor in the runoff campaign. O'Daniel's majority was termed "an indication on the part of the people that they wanted a change."

One or more of desirability is available, officials further announced, in any direction from Lubbock and at distances ranging from the edge of the city limits up to 10 or 12 miles.

Slaton Is Making Bid

In addition, according to word from A. J. Payne, secretary of Slaton Chamber of Commerce, a committee there is prepared to urge the desirability of that city as a location for the hospital. Members of the conimittee were invited to be guests at the chamber of commerce luncheon here.

Greeting Stratton at the airport was a committee headed by R. C. Hopping, president of the chamber of commerce, and George P. Kuykendall, chairman of the chamber's hospital committee. Others there were W. H. Rodgers, city manager; A. C. Jackson, commander of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion; T. H. St. Clair, commander of Lubbock post of Veterans of Foreign Wars; and R. F. Hincye, H. L. Allen, and Glen Hess.

Officials Invited

Invited to the luncheon were all members of the hospital committee, and directors of the board of city development.

Officials of the chamber emphasized that it would be "rank guesswork" to attempt to predict when the location for the hospital may be decided and when it will be built. Officials said they were informed there even may be doubt as to whether it will be built.

Stratton's reports and recommendations concerning various of the dozens of sites he has been inspecting will go in the course of routine to the Veterans administration where the final selection will be made.

Forecast Of Steel Wage Cuts Made

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—A forecast of wage cuts in the steel industry was made Tuesday by Ernest S. Ballard, spokesman for the Inland Steel company of Chicago.

Ballard was a witness at a government hearing called by the public contracts board to determine minimum wages which steel employers must pay while executing government contracts.

Counseling against establishment of a high base rate, Ballard said:

"It is obvious in the face of recently reduced prices and certain other costs of distribution which have been assumed by members of the steel industry, that present wage rates must be subject to adjustment to meet existing conditions, otherwise prices must be increased in the near future if the industry is to avoid serious losses which will impair its economic position."

Check For $300 Sent Red Cross Flood Relief Fund

Telegram from national headquarters of the Red Cross which termed floods in the San Saba region of Texas a "major disaster" set the Lubbock chapter's quota at $300 toward a national relief fund totaling $100,000, according to information given this morning by Dr. S. C. Arnett, jr., chapter president.

Dr. Arnett, who received the telegram this morning, said that a check for the $300 was mailed immediately.

The money was taken from the chapter's reserve fund and there will be no public solicitation, he said. He invited anyone wishing to contribute to do so, however, with the assurance the amount will be forwarded to the relief agency.

The telegram said reports gathered by the Red Cross "confirm a major disaster in San Saba, McCulloch, Menard and other counties along the Colorado river. Incomplete reports show 970 families affected, 127 homes destroyed and 650 homes damaged."

Dispatches from Hankow said the Chinese foreign ministry had closed its offices there and moved 500 miles further inland to Chungking.

In Tokyo, the Japanese foreign office disclosed the third clash this month between Soviet and Manchoukuo patrols on the Siberian frontier, but said the clash was "not to be taken seriously."

The official version of the clash was that about 60 Russians landed from a gunboat on the delta of the Ussuri river July 21 and "apparently reinforced by 100 men the following day" invaded Manchoukuo south of Khabarovsk and set fire to two small villages. Five hundred Manchoukuo troops attacked them and they retired, the report said. No casualties were mentioned.

Validity Of City's New Code On Building Tested Today

First court test of the validity of Lubbock's lengthy building code adopted in revised form several weeks ago loomed as a probability with the setting for trial in corporation court this afternoon of three charges against Tom W. French, furniture dealer.

Each of the complaints contains three counts alleging violations of portions of the ordinance which require permits for moving a structure within the city. French, police were informed, is specifically accused of moving trailer-type houses into the city from outside.

French gave bond of $100 each to answer the charges and announced he would contest the cases. Trials were scheduled before City Recorder B. T. Millsap.

of the Pitchfork ranch about 30 miles northeast of Spur, came here Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Gilmore's survivors, additional to her husband, include a son, Claude, about 18, who was graduated from Spur High school in June, and a daughter, Mrs. Joe Latham of east of Spur.

The victims were not positively identified Tuesday until communications had been established with relatives. Papers in Neatherland's pocket indicated his identity and Mrs. Gilmore at first was assumed to be Mrs. Neatherland. The child revived from a coma just before death to tell her identity.

Those in the automobile were en route from the Gilmore home in Spur to New Mexico, where Neatherland had planned to place his sister in a hospital for treatment of a chronic ailment. Investigators said statements of witnesses indicated the man apparently lost control of the machine, possibly when brakes locked. Bodies of all three victims were mangled.

Less serious injuries resulted from other Tuesday accidents in Lubbock.

Suffers Broken Ribs

Mrs. Esther Averett of 316 Waco street was dismissed from West Texas hospital this morning after treatment for injuries suffered in an automobile collision about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at Fourth street and Avenue S. X-ray examinations revealed she suffered three broken ribs and a fractured collarbone, in addition to a scalp laceration.

L. B. Wallace, about 30, received treatment Tuesday at the hospital for a fractured left arm, severe arm laceration that required approximately 15 sutures, and body bruises and lacerations. He suffered the injuries when a truck was in collision with the car in which Wallace was riding and which was being towed, six miles southeast of Lubbock. The collision happened in front of the service station Wallace operates.

Mrs. Barkham In Sanitarium

Remaining in Lubbock sanitarium, Mrs. L. H. Barkham is being treated for injuries suffered in an automobile accident in which her son, William H. Barkham, was fatally injured near Tulia Sunday. She spent a "fairly good night", it was said this morning at the sanitarium.

Mrs. V. L. Fornay, 59, of Plainview, spent a "good night" at the sanitarium, which she entered Tuesday night for treatment of a severe back injury suffered in an automobile accident. She suffered fracture of three vertebra.

SAN ANTONIO, July 27 (AP) — Although Rep. Maury Maverick whittled down the majority of his opponent, Paul J. Kilday, in the congressional race, he still trailed Kilday by 493 votes in the official tabulation which was completed by the county Democratic committee today.

The official count stood at 24,822 votes for Kilday and 24,329 for Maverick.

The defeated congressman has said he conceded Kilday's election and would not ask for a recount. He reiterated this today.

Insurgent Leader

thought is opposed to our order, when the new regime, but he was not yet ready to rebel. He received a stunning blow when the government closed his beloved academy. For two years he was a General without a job. Then in 1933 a government of the Right was elected and Franco was given command in the Balearic Islands. Here, as in Morocco, he won friends who were to follow his flag when he raised it later in rebellion.

In 1934 rebellion broke out among the miners in the Asturias. Franco took part in its savage repression—a repression which made the surviving miners his bitterest enemies.

The rebellion over, Franco went to Morocco as commander-in-chief. A year later, when the real power behind the Right, Gil Robles, became Minister of War, Franco became his Chief of the General Staff.

In 1936 the parties of the Left once more came into power. Franco was sent to the Canary Islands as Commander. This was not only a demotion, but exile in a way. The Left wanted Franco out of the country. On April 14, 1936, the anniversary of the founding of the new Spanish Republic, there were many demonstrations against the army. Franco in the Canaries wrote to the Premier:

"I find a good deal of bitterness here at the way in which the army is being treated and I have to warn you of the dangers of such a state of affairs."

What went on behind the scenes is still largely guess work. Juan March, tobacco millionaire of the Balearic Islands, is said to have promised to finance a rebellion against the Leftist government. Many rich landowners and nobles did the same thing. It has been stated that emissaries of the planned rebellion went to Germany and Italy and got pledges of material and in men and munitions from the Fascists and Nazis — aid which was later the decisive influence in Franco's victories.

The storm broke in July, 1936, when Franco bobbed up in Spanish Morocco where the native troops and the Spanish Foreign Legion at once joined his colors. Throughout Spain a greater part of the regular army and air force did so. Most of the navy at the time stuck to the government. Soon Franco and his troops began to land in Spain where they were joined by the regulars. Badajos, Merida, Saragossa were soon his. Burgos became his capital and on October 1, 1936, all the rebel generals recognized him as supreme chief.

Then began the real and terrible civil war with the bitter fighting for Toledo, Oviedo and later for Bilbao, with the constant bombardment from the air of Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia.

Brother Of Lubbock Man Dies Of Injuries In Washington

Death of Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, brother of John Dalrymple of 1909 Thirteenth street in Lubbock, in Washington, D. C., has been learned here. He was 62.

Maj. Dalrymple, last head of the government's prohibition bureau, was injured Monday night when struck by an automobile. He had resided at Stop Nona, on the Fort Worth pike, from 1920 to 1925 and had lived a varied career, including service in the army and navy, teaching school, practicing law and being governor of an island province in the Philippines.

He was appointed to head the prohibition forces of the country in 1933, by President Roosevelt.

A genial person, Maj. Dalrymple nevertheless came into national prominence in 1922 when he edited a book, "Unveiling of the Klan." He moved to Berkley, Calif., in 1933 and established a law office.

Other than the Lubbock brother, Maj. Dalrymple is survived by two brothers and a sister in Fort Worth, his widow and four children.

Announcement of funeral rites had not been made at last report.

Plans For Picnic Are Made Today

Plans for an all-day picnic featuring a basket dinner and "lots of music" in Mackenzie park on Thursday, Aug. 18, were made this morning at a meeting of a number of former residents of Bosque and Hamilton counties in the Church of the Nazarene, Fourteenth street and Avenue Q, according to Rev. Hocker, who was pastor of the Nazarene church in Meridian four years, was named general chairman of arrangements. Letters will be mailed to a number of former residents of the two counties who live on the South Plains and they will be asked to contact others, Hocker said.

Meanwhile, he invited all former residents of the two counties now on the South Plains to advise him by card, addressed to 1319 Avenue Q, of their interest.

Latest Russo-Japanese Nose-Pulling More Trial-Balloon Flying

War Believed Inevitable

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Writer

NEW YORK, July 27—The vigorous nose-pulling indulged in by Russia and Japan the last few days, over a Soviet-Manchoukuoan border "incident," was largely in the nature of trial-balloon flying—each trying to find out whether the other was in a mood for a real scrap.

These two old enemies do this sort of thing about once in so often—looking for possible weakness—on the theory strongly held in both capitals that a Russo-Japanese war is inevitable sooner or later.

Claimed By Both

The latest bit of sparring revolved about the occupation by Russian troops of a piece of ground claimed by both the Soviet and Manchoukuo. It was asserted that the Muscovites were fortifying this hill.

Japan, as overlord of Manchoukuo, promptly told Moscow in doggy language to get off that lot—or else. Soviet Foreign Minister Litvinoff responded in almost so many words that Japan might scare others but couldn't get away with big-stick stuff in dealing with Russia.

Where The Matter Stands

That's where the matter stands now — with Japan denying any intention of pressing the dispute. Each country is busy assaying the results of this clash to see if there's any information worth while in it.

So far as the disputed zone is concerned, neither country would fight over its actual value. It may be worth a bit more than a township site in the Sahara desert. However, it would furnish ample cause for war if the two countries decided that the time had arrived for a trial at arms.

Have No Delusions

Certainly Tokyo and Moscow have no delusions about the danger of the situation. We hear so much about the war in China that we are inclined to forget Japan is maintaining perhaps a half million of her very best fighting men in Manchoukuo, ready for any eventuality. Many times these troops have been badly needed in China, but the Japanese high command has declined to transfer them.

Russia claims to be all set for defensive action against anybody, come one come all. So far as the East is concerned, the Soviet stated a year ago that she had 400,000 well equipped troops in that area. And other forces have been moved there since then.

Apart from tanks, this big army is supported by an air fleet estimated at 1,000 to 1,500 planes, and a submarine base at Vladivostok where at least sixty submersibles are quartered—maybe more. The total Russian air fleet has been estimated at 10,000 ships—but that is largely guess-work.

EARNINGS ARE GREATER

ST. LOUIS, July 27 (AP) — After taxes and all other deductions, the Dr. Pepper company of Dallas, Tex., reported today net earnings of 86 cents per share for the first six months of 1938, compared with 76 cents a share for the same period last year.

The company, manufacturer of a soft drink, said its sales for the first half of the year were approximately 19 per cent higher than in the same period in 1937.

Dawson M. Engle found the bond when he went to his box for his mail. There was no trace of $80 in cash which the burglar took at the same time, however.

Wheat Market Has The Trade Baffled

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP) — The wheat market, sinking despite strong medicine in the new government farm program, had the grain trade baffled today.

Wheat prices have declined to the lowest point since April, 1933, in the face of federal proposals intended to give farmers a "fair" price. The inopportune setback has caught wheat farmers in the midst of harvesting.

New wheat for delivery here by the end of summer is quoted around 68 cents a bushel compared with $1.16 a year ago. Except for 1931 and 1932, when the price fell as far as 46 cents, September wheat has not been this low in July since early in the century. In 1917 it sold as high as $2.34 and in 1929 it was up to $1.51.

Grain traders now are estimating the market value of the huge 1938 crop, the second largest in history, at around $650,000,000 compared with almost a billion dollars in 1937.

Who Said A Woman Can't Keep A Secret; One Has Five Years

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP)—Who said a woman can't keep a secret?

Mrs Daisy Tegtmeyer today was rounding out five years in the Cook county jail, all because "she won't tell."

And what this 53-year-old widow won't tell to the satisfaction of the courts is what disposition was made of part of a $30,000 estate.

In 1924 she became trustee of the estate of her father-in-law. Minor heirs of the Elder Tegtmeyer filed a bill alleging they had $30,000 due. Mrs. Tegtmeyer refused to give an accounting. After much litigation she was told on July 27, 1933, to give an accounting or go to jail.

New Film Cinderella Dances On Ice Skates Instead Of In Legendary Glass Slippers

BY DAN DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 27—Her glass slippers are a pair of ice skates . . . Her prince charming is a tough-skinned movie producer . . . And Irene Dare is another Cinderella. . . . At the age of 6.

She didn't know her luck today as she light-heartedly practiced ballet on a frozen rink. But in a hot studio projection room a jury of "no men" returned a verdict momentous for her career.

The "no men" are a unique institution at principal productions, inc., where shrewd Sol Lesser is the big boss. They are his way of learning in advance what the public likes.

He had a new picture to edit, so he called them in haphazardly — two stenographers, an office boy, a janitor, a telephone girl, a gardener. "You are fans," he explained. "What you say goes."

As they bustled into their seats, the lights went off and a movie unreeled. It was called "Breaking The Ice" and presumably it starred Bobby Breen, the boy soprano. But there was Irene on her silver skates.

Her brown curls were tucked under a bellhop's cap and she wore a blue-skirted uniform with big brass buttons. She skipped once around the rink on tip-toe. Then she danced.

For nearly 10 minutes — aeons as reckoned by movie time—she danced.

When the scene ended, Lesser asked two questions. "Isn't it too long? Doesn't it hold up the story?"

The jurors, to a man, said: "No."

Irene had her sixth birthday on last St. Valentine's day and is now earning about $200 a week.

SRO Sign Hung Up After Lewis Makes Initial Stage Apeparance

COHASSET, Mass., July 27 (AP)—Sinclair Lewis' debut as an actor in one of his own plays has put the S.R.O. sign on the door of Cohasset's summer theater.

It was a new triumph for the Nobel prize winning novelist who chose the role of the small town Vermont editor in "It Can't Happen Here" for his initial appearance Monday as a professional actor. The town hall was packed, applause was generous and critics were kind.

Odds Are With Locals
By Tom Miller

With the Hubbers practically having clinched a berth in the post-season Shaughnessy play-off, it is time to turn a little thought to that while we watch 'em win a few more ball games. Only an absolute about-face by the Lubbock crew would deprive it a place in the saw-off, and right now, with Clovis the only consistent winner against the Millermen and that only on its home lot, a sustained losing streak is not our prediction. For the past month since June 27 the boys have broken exactly even in games won, and during that time they have played some of the most ragged ball of the campaign.

● ● ●

Figuring mathematically, the locals can play that brand of baseball and Big Spring must win 32 games while losing only four to nose Lubbock out. In that case Midland, Clovis, and Wink must all win better than half their games, with the Spudders needing 27 or more wins to get under the wire. Approximately 36 games remain on the Hubber schedule.

● ● ●

The odds are against Lubbock being dropped from the top four, although either Big Spring or Hobbs or both may nose their way into the select circle. Knocking off the leaders like the Barons did Tuesday will just about turn the trick for the Barnabe nine. Since the departure of Gordon Donaldson from the Hobbs lineup, Manager Neal Rabe has had trouble getting his charges in a winning mood. It's not the same hard-hitting club that visited here during early season. Despite their position ten games behind Wink in fourth place, the Boosters should not be counted out of the race. However, those familiar with the West Texas-New Mexico league situation last year say that Rabe's teams are never fast finishers.

● ● ●

Speaking of Big Spring's double win over Midland Tuesday afternoon bings up the Baron's protracted respite during the past week. Five days of rest may have allowed Pilot Charlie Barnabe's hurlers to overtake the hitters in a big way, as evidenced by six-hit and one-hit performances, turned in by Johnny Soden and Willard Ramsdell, respectively. The Howard county boys are admittedly the weakest hitting aggregation in the circuit, but with pitching like that for a few days, they may throw out their chests and bowl over everything in sight. That would just about completely smooth over the turbulent financial enigma which evidently has been ironed out to satisfaction of the management.

● ● ●

Bob Tarleton, foster-father of the Hubbers, will be in the stands Thursday night to witness the Lubbock-Clovis game. That night would be a good time for local fans to join in an "appreciation" night for those who have made baseball a sure thing here. It's been a tough fight, this business of placing baseball here without the aid of local help, and it's only right that everyone turn out to show his appreciation to Tarleton, Harry Faulkner, and Sammy Rosenthal, Lubbock club president.

● ● ●

Andy Tremaine and Jack Hagen, a pair of youngsters in years but veterans in service, do chores in the main event in the Auditorium rassling exhibition tonight. Both boys are clean-cut, strong ex-football players who take the cauliflower game seriously. While not as adept at the finer points as many tinears who have shown here in the past five years, they go at it with a zeal and know the game pretty well for the ages. The preliminary card stacks up better than in weeks, with George Hartay and Carl von Bromberg opening the show, and Gorilla Pogi and Gus Johnson taking bows in the semi-windup.

● ● ●

Texas Tech's color will be spread far and wide this year, and posies should go to the coaching staff for a fine job of compiling interesting information on the Red Raiders individually and collectively. Through the mail yesterday came a huge booklet, giving a mass of information that will be helpful to sports editors all over the country. Thing about it is, a lot of it is useable, which is vastly more than can be said of most similar advertising folios sent out by college publicity offices.

Hostak Victor Over Steele

(By The Associated Press)

SEATTLE, July 27.—Al Hostak, 158 1-4, Tacoma, won the world middleweight fight title from Freddie Steele, Seattle, with a knockout in the first round of their scheduled 15-round fight here last night.

Steele weighed 159 pounds.

The knockout came after Hostak had blasted Steele to the canvas three times. Steele stayed down on his fourth trip, and rose groggily after Referee Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, had counted him out.

Pitcher And Slugger Add To Records In East Texas Loop

(By The Associated Press)

A pitcher and a slugger added to their records and batsmen went on a rampage in three of four East East Texas league games last night.

Roy Weisenborn, righthander for the Henderson Oilers pitched five-hit ball to hang up his 14th victory of the season as his mates downed the Texarkana Liners 5-1 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Then the Liners came back with a powerful attack which brought a 13-7 victory in the nightcap. They garnered 14 hits while the Oilers poled out ten.

Hal Simpson cracked out three singles and a double and drove in five runs as he led the league leading Marshall Tigers to an 8-4 victory over acksonville which squared their series.

Tommy Robello, manager of the Jax, built his home run record of the season to 31 by hitting for the circuit with one aboard in the ninth.

The Palestine-Tyler game was postponed because of wet grounds. Longview beat Kilgore 5-4.

Successful Ascent Of Alaskan Peak Reported By Explorer

CHISTOCHINA, Alaska, July 27 (AP)—Returning to civilization, Bradford Washburn, noted Cambridge, Mass., explorer reported the successful ascent of Mt. Sanford, which he described as the highest peak hitherto unclimbed on the North American continent.

Washburn reported that, accompanied by Terrace Moore of Los Angeles, he reached the 16,206-foot summit at 9 o'clock the night of July 21, after many days of hardship.

Nanda Davi, 25,660-foot peak of the Himalayas, is the highest peak in the world to be climbed by man.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 27—Petey Sarron, one of the grandest little fighters you ever saw, is out of the hospital and playing golf—he'll be back in the ring soon. . . . Tony Galento still doing all right, thank goodness (and it's too bad we can't say the same for the Giants) . . . Coach Chuck Finley who will bring his Hobbs (N. M.) High Eagle basketball team to New York next season, already has 'em working out one a week. . . . You ought to read that story by Dizzy Dean in this week's Lib. . . . Diz says he never wanted to be a pop-off guy but the Card bosses made him and he couldn't say no because he was afeared they'd chase him back to the Arkansas cotton fields.

"Red" Murphy, line captain at Texas Tech, was born on a Louisiana house boat—something we've always wanted to live on. . . . You now can get three to one here that Armstrong treats Ambers just like he has been treating everybody else. . . . What's become of Hymie Caplin and Solly Krieger? . . . La Moody plans plenty of practice sessions before tackling Helen Jacobs again at Forest Hills and La Jacobs might take the same hint. . . In an exhibition game the other night between Brooklyn and Albany, a fan said: "Mr. Ruth, I have never seen you sock one." . . . "We'll attend to that right now," responded the Babe and durned if he didn't park one on his next time up. . . . Incidentally, the three exhibitions the Dodgers have played since Ruth joined up have drawn 38,724 fans.

Galento is out of the ring for the rest of the year, anyway. . . . Bill Terry ought to shoot some trusty south, check up on Burgess Whitehead and get the fellow back up here. . . . New York baseball writers have made the Giants a 6 to 5 choice to win. . . . Also the big town sports writers can't get over the astounding change in Helen Wills Moody who came back from Wimbledon Monday. . . . She not only answered questions like a trouper, but actually smiled for the photogs. . . . Us guys can't get over that one—and neither can the photogs.

Locals Finally Win One In Clovis Park

The Hubbers return to the local lot tonight to continue their feud with the third-place Clovis Pioneers in a two-night stand. Both games start at 8:45 o'clock.

Marshall, the Hubbers' new hurling recruit who has already won two victories, one a no-hit, no-run, will rurl in tonight's game.

It is first appearance of the club here since Wednesday night when they polished off Hobbs. Only three more home stays are scheduled for Lubbock after Wednesday night.

Mystery Finally Solved

The Bell park mystery in Clovis finally was solved satisfactorily Tuesday night by the Hubbers, who braved some wild baseball to come out atop at 15-to-12 contest. Tommy Fleming passed 13 men during the, fracas, five of them in the first inning, but lasted until one was down in the seventh. Charlie Bryan went to his rescue.

Al Carr returned to his home run ways to blast a home run in the first inning with the bases loaded. It is second homer in succession that the big Oklahoman has found the hassocks crammed for a circuit drive. Mal Stevens kicked in a homer and Dick Ratliff hit one for the Pioneers.

Big Spring Whips Midland

Big Spring found the Midland Cardinals easy pickings with good pitching to work with. Johnny Soden and Clarence Trantham limited the Redbirds to six hits to win the first game of a doubleheader, 2 to 1.

Willard Ramsdell came back with a one-hitter in the nightcap, which the Barons also cornered, 4 to 1.

Home runs by Frank Hargrove, Jim White, and Cecil Smyly were not enough for Hobbs in an afternoon game, Wink put over two runs in the ninth to win, 11 to 10.

MT. PLEASANT WINS

WACO, July 27 (AP) — The strong Mount Pleasant nine eliminated the Hart Furniture company team from Dallas in the state semi-pro baseball tournament last night, 20 to 1.

In giving the Dallas team its second straight set-back, the Cubs scored 13 runs in the first inning.

Temple's Surgeons moved into the third round, drubbing Wills Point, 5 to 1 behind the two-hit hurling of Ben Zoch.

The Waco Dons and Conroe meet in the feature contest tonight. The Elgin Bakers and Paris' Coca Cola nine also will play today.

Derringer And Greenberg Two Good Assets For Any Winning Club; Hank Hits Nos. 30, 31

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

While their feats have been more or less obscured this season because their clubs haven't been out in front in the penant races, Pitcher Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds and Hitter Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers are a couple of ball players who would come in very handy to any pennant-seeking club.

Derringer has been the "old reliable" and a steadying influence of those younger stars whose feats are largely responsible for Cincinnati's showing in the National league race. He pitched the Reds to a 6-2 triumph over the Boston Bees yesterday, recorded his 13th victory against seven defeats and put his club only two games behind the second-place New York Giants.

Two Behind Ruth's Pace

The Tigers recently slipped to sixth in the American league race, but Greenberg is hitting homers with even greater frequency than when Detroit was winning pennants. He socked numbers 30 and 31 yesterday to beat the Washington Senators 6-5 and he's only two swats behind Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when the Babe hit 60.

No one else in either league matched those two feats yesterday. The New York Yankees walloped the St. Louis Browns twice, 10-5 and 12-5, to increase their lead over Cleveland to a game and a half, but their hitting was spread over the whole lineup.

Feller Is Effective

The Indians took a single game from Philadelphia, 4-2, behind Bobby Feller's efective flinging and Chicago's White Sox trimmed Boston's Red Hose 9-1 in other American league games.

The National's leaders had a hard time of it. Pittsburgh's Pirates went down, 6-5, before a ninth inning rally by the Phillies. The St. Louis Cardinals beat out the second-place New York Giants by the same score while Gabby Hartnett's Chicago Cubs had hard work to beat out the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10-8.

Derringer's performance not only was his finest of the season, but he added a home run—his first since he broke in with the Cards in 1931—to start the scoring. Wally Berger followed with his 11th circuit drive of the season. Paul yielded five hits, didn't give a walk, whiffed five and did not let a runner reach first until Debs Garms doubled in the sixth and was retired when he failed to touchr the initial bag.

Der Mag Hits Also

Greenberg's second homer provided Detroit's winning run but his all-round swatting wasn't as effective as that of Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks. Der Mag socked a homer, three doubles and a single to drive home six runs.

Feller's performance was good news to the Indians, for Bobby pulled out of his recent slump to hurl seven-hit ball and fan ten.

The Cubs got a taste of almost everything at Brooklyn, including the ejection of Manager Burleigh Grimes and Leo Durocher of the Dodgers and a bottle-throwing fan, but they couldn't bring in the bacon until the ninth, when Hartnett himself drew a pass to start the winning rally.

Nearly all of Canada's commercial crop of grapes is grown in the Niagara Peninsula, Ontario.

Tremaine And Hagen On Card

It's Andy Tremaine and Jack Hagen for the main event at the Auditorium wrestling show tonight. Prelims start at 8:30 o'clock.

The two former footballers grapple on different types, but each has mastered many of the finer points that make the game interesting. Hagen is ready for the rough stuff and especially if he can dish it out.

The Shreveporter came here as a tame youngster but left last winter a grizzled toughie. He's been back carving his niche in the top spots.

As for Tremaine, he is the local favorite and knows how to care for the rough guys, although he prefers the cleaner style.

They may get rough, too, in that semi-final, with Gorilla Pogi and Gus Johnson as the principals. The South American is a dyed-in-the-wool roughster and always plays that way. Riled, the Swede is likely to give Pogi a good scrap.

Junior Golfers To Compete In Ball Driving Contest Tonight

Junior golfers, 16 years of age and under, will compete at 9:30 tonight in a driving contest at Joe Bihl's Tee Box range.

A Lubbock High school swinger, Melvin Best, topped a list of veterans in an open match by compiling a 232-yard average. Billy Martin was second and L. E. Works was third.

Bihl and Charles Akey, Lubbock Country club professional, will match trick shots Thursday night, as an added attraction for "ladies" night. All entries in the women's city tournament are invited to compete in the contest following the trick exhibition.

McIlhaney fell before the CCC onslaught, 11 to 1, in an American league contest. Robinson and Martin homered for the winners. Roberts held the creamery ten in check from the CCC mound. L. Deering hurled for the losers.

Lubbock Teams And Postex Mills Will Battle Tonight

BROWNFIELD, July 27. (Special) Two Lubbock teams and Postex Mills of Post fight it out tonight for top places in the Brownfield Lions club softball tournament, with possibility that the Garza county boys will take the title in the second game tonight.

Wilson Cleaners and Lubbock Poultry and Egg meet in the first game. Each has lost one contest and a loss by either to Post would halt activities. Should winner of the first game defeat Postex Mills, finals will be unreeled Thursday night.

Wilson shunted Taylor's Men's store of Brownfield out of the running Tuesday night with a 14-to-2 victory. Lubbock Poultry and Egg bowed to the Post entry, 5 to 1. Charlie Duval, erstwhile Texas Tech gridiron star, whiffed 11 batters to run his total for the tourney to 26.

U. S. Making Aggressive Campaign To Stamp Out Venereal Plague

Six Steps Are Taken In Drive

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 27 — The year 1938 may weh go down in history as that in which the United States began the conquest of syphilis.

In the first concerted attack on this and allied social diseases, these steps have been taken:

1. Allotment by the federal government to states of the first $3,000,000 of an eventual $15,000,000 federal appropriation to coordinate and stimulate campaigns against veneral disease.

2. Laws passed by 28 states impose various restrictions on the marriage of persons with syphilis or other veneral disease. Further legislation awaits the convening this winter of 44 state legislatures.

3. Aggressive campaign by private agencies, notably the American Social Hygiene Association, to mobilize public opinion.

4. Co-operation pledged by 30 state governors and hundreds of mayors. More than 3000 observances of National Social Hygiene Day.

5. A drive by North Carolina, aided by income from a $7,000,000 endowment of the Reynolds Foundation, which is expected within 15 years to leave that state "comparatively free" from syphilis.

6. At recent maneuvers of the Wisconsin National Guard, 1500 men voluntarily took Wassermann tests, thus setting the pace for other units. Thousands of persons throughout the United States have voluntarily undergone such tests.

Campaign Objectives

The federal funds just allotted under the LaFollette-Bulwinkle bill, according to state populations and prevalence of the diseases, go toward the following objectives: to provide trained public health staffs, further state legislation to control the diseases, make laboratory facilities and free anti-syphilis drugs available, and to develop public education which will result in co-operation with the authorities. Surgeon-General Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health Service has been a leader in getting federal action on the problem.

Definite results are already being registered, although in most localities the drive is just gaining momentum.

What States Are Doing

Massachusetts, which granted its public health department extraordinary powers to fight syphilis almost two years ago, has already reported measurable results.

In Iowa a test case has been made, and a Davenport patient who refused to undergo treatment has been compelled to attend a free clinic under pain of a theratened $500 fine or six months in jail.

New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Kentucky have this year joined the ranks of states imposing restrictions on the marriage of persons who have syphilis or other venereal diseases.

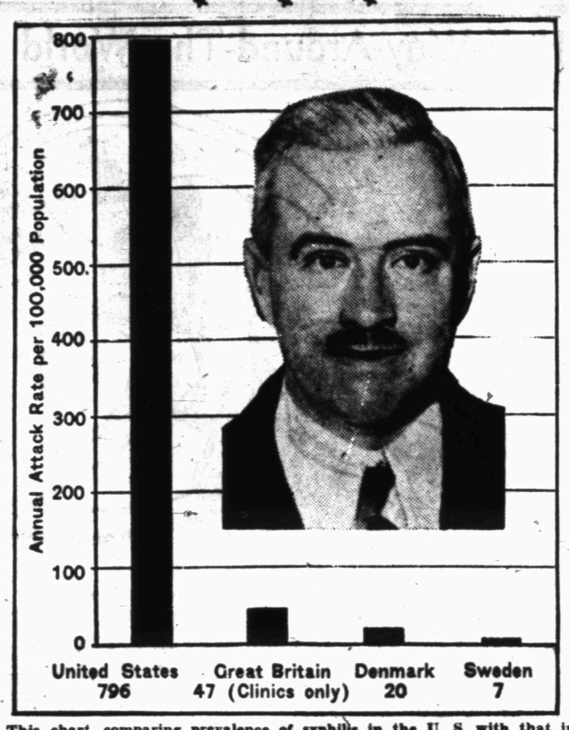

In New York, whose law went in effect July 1, the usual experience of such states was repeated. Marriage licenses dropped off almost to zero immediately after the law went into effect but have been climbing steadily since.

Laws Different But Effective

Nine states now have laws of varying rigidity requiring bloodtest certificates before a marriage license may be issued. They are Connecticut (1935), Illinois (1937), New Hampshire (effective Oct. 1), Kentucky (effective 1940), New Jersey (1938).

Six states, Alabama (1919), Louisiana (1934), North Dakota (1913), Oregon (1913), Texas (1929) and Wyoming (1921), require only the male applicant for a license to present a medical certificate attesting a medical certificate attesting his freedo 1 from veneral disease, and in North Dakota, Oregon and Wyoming it must be a communicable stage to be a bar.

Eleven other states, while not requiring physicians' certificates, require applicants to sign affidavits that they are disease-free, or in other ways discourage the marriage of venerally infected persons. They are California, Delaware, Indiana, Mainee, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, and Virginia.

This chart, comparing prevalence of syphilis in the U. S. with that in three European countries, graphically illustrates the immensity of the problem facing U. S. Surgeon-General Thomas Parran (inset) and other leaders of the nation-wide fight against venereal disease in America.

New Project Is Launched

Operation of a new National Youth administration project for girls has been started with the removal of 20 young women into residence at 1509 Seventh street for part-time housekeeper training, according to A. V. Bullock, district supervisor.

After the girls have remained there two weeks, 20 other girls will live on a cooperative basis two weeks. The two groups will alternate and the project is outlined to continue six months.

Names Are Given

The 20 girls who will live at the residence the first two weeks are: Ida May Bell of Floydada, Ruth Culbert of Spur, Jessye Faye Dunlap of Slaton, Berniece E. Exum of Floydada, Doris E. Gatlin of Paducah, Ravenell O. Gregory of Swearingen in Cottle county, Elsie Lee Hines of Ralls, Marlee G. Hodges of Slaton, Nila F. McDonald of Paducah, Essie Lou Malone of Littlefield, Mary Nell Mangum of Lockney, Carey Janice Matney of Paducah, Edna E. Moore of Plainview, Lillian Morrison of Floydada, Mildred E. O'Conner of Floydada, Macel M. Pemberton of Lockney, Jewell A. Powers of Paducah, Madeline O. Russell of Tahoka, Lois L. Thomas of Levelland, and Alpha Omega Wrinkle of Littlefield.

The girls were selected from this area and all were eligible for NYA work. The girls will be assigned to different types of work and will be paid by the NYA for working about half-time, providing assistance to public or non-profit hospitals, nursery schools, orphan homes, governmental offices, quasi-public agencies. From their earnings each month, girls will be in a position to pay for their room and board during their two weeks residence in the project, and have about $8 for their own use. The remainder of the time the girls will receive training in homemaking under supervision of the house mother or project superintendent.

Girls will keep house for themselves, doing the cooking, serving, shopping, budgeting, and managing.

"The experience should be beneficial to every girl who may be expected to keep her own home," NYA officials said.

The residence is being furnished by the Lubbock organization of the Junior Welfare League. Mrs. Mary S. Lovell, who formerly managed Lovell hall at Texas Technological college is project superintendent and will teach home-making.

Unique Discovery Made By Johns Hopkins Professor; Small Animal Is Prodigious

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

WOOD HOLE, Mass., July 27 — The discovery that one small, barely-visible water animal can make, in 25 days, more starch and fat than the whole United States could eat, was described today at the marine biological laboratory, summer workshop of American scientists.

The animal is chilmonas, a flagellate, so termed from the fact that he swims by lashing with fine, hair-like arms called flagella. Scientists got interested in him because, unlike virtually all other living things, he is able to make starch and fat without light. Starch and fat are two of the three essential foods. Protein is the other.

Theoretically Prodigious

The amount chilmonas can make, said Dr. S. O. Mast, of Johns Hopkins university, is theoretically prodigious.

"For example," Dr. Mast wrote in the Collecting Net, a scientific journal, "in one of our experiments, which was started with a single individual, and continued 25 days, if all the individuals had been kept cultured, there would have been at the end of the experiment enough to reach a total volume of 612 billion cubic meters.

"This is enough to cover the whole state of Massachusetts with a layer approximately 90 feet thick."

Of more immediate practical importance than the dazzling food figures, the Johns Hopkins experiments have uncovered evidence that chilmonas makes a queer substance which causes him to reproduce so enormously, but which also has the power to stop his wild growth.

This mysterious substance, Dr. Mast wrote "is obviously of the greatest importance in all problems concerning growth (including cancer), reproduction and senescence, and doubtless has important bearing on others."

Chauffeur Violates Rules And Wins Praise Of Policemen

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP) — Chauffeur Bert Saggerman intentionally violated two traffic rules and won the praise of policemen.

Saggerman drove through a red light and then made a left turn directly in front of Policeman Michael Mulvihill.

As the chauffeur hoped, Mulvihill whistled sharply. Saggerman stopped his car and jumped out, calling "There's a robber in the car."

The policeman found Eugene Nolan, 41, in the machine. Saggerman told Mulvihill that Nolan stepped into the car, took 80 cents from him and ordered him to drive north.

WPA Labor To Be Used On Three Road Jobs In Area This Week

W. P. A. labor will be put to work on three new road jobs this week, said J. O. Jones, director of the district WPA, and other projects recently interrupted by rain will be resumed.

Construction work on highway 51 in Lamb county from six miles north of Littlefield to Spring Lake, is to begin today. Six miles of this road has been completed as far as grading and drainage work is concerned. Employed for about six months will be 150 workers.

Caliche will be spread on highway 214 south of Needmore, in Bailey county, to the Cochran county line, starting Thursday. Eighty men are to be employed. Distance is 15 miles.

A 10 mile stretch of highway 194 across Swisher and Castro counties, northwest of Plainview, is to start Saturday. There will be 8 miles on Castro and 2.1 miles in Swisher counties.

Work was resumed Tuesday on 207 in Crosby county and in Dickens county.

Bureau of Chemistry and Soils estimates that $3,000,000 worth of tanning extracts could be made each year from the hemlock bark which goes to waste in Washington and Oregon alone.

Joe Stalin, Russia's No. 1 guy, ruins people for the sake of the state—but that's not a "red" idea. Look at the birds who set our tax rates!

* * *

TO the victor belong the spoils—and there never was a bandwagon big enough to hold all the people who would like to scramble up along side of Wilbert Lee O'Daniel now!

The Plainsman got quite a kick out of the way some of the boys Sunday, Monday and Tuesday decided that Wilbert Lee, after all, is a great statesman and that "they were for him all along!"

* * *

A couple of weeks ago, some O'Daniel supporters came over here to The Avalanche-Journal and asked us to run a story about a local O'Daniel rally they were planning.

We told them we'd be glad to run their story, but that we'd have to quote somebody on it, that we'd have to give authority for the statement. That threw consternation in their ranks, because they didn't want to "stick their necks out." They wouldn't be quoted at all!

But yesterday, it was a different proposition. The boys were glad to have their names linked up with the amazing flour packer.

* * *

THE Plainsman, who has never been noted as a diplomat, confessed after the election that he hadn't voted for O'Daniel. Pointing out that as a Texan he hoped the winner made a great governor, the writer never-the-less publicly admitted that he hadn't voted for him.

A lady reader of this column called up and "kidded the sox" off The Plainsman for being in the minority. She wasn't alone. A dozen others did the same thing.

But give us credit for one thing, anyhow. We didn't vote against Wilbert Lee and then claim we were for him!

* * *

In his nation-wide radio program Tuesday, Mr. O'Daniel gave Lubbock quite a break. In fact, he gave our little, old town about as much—if not more—publicity than it ever got before in one sweep.

All of us appreciate that. It was mighty nice of the next governor.

To show this column's appreciation of Mr. O'Daniel's boost for Lubbock, we herewith reproduce a poem, written by Dr. T. A. McIlroy, who voted for Tom Hunter but who, like The Plainsman, doesn't worry about losing a vote. (The Plainsman voted for Ernest Thompson.) Here's the poem, entitled "Where He Cometh, Or Where He Goeth."

One time a man blew in from Kansas,
Tennessee or Idaho;
Peddled flour and made fine music,
"Now sit back and watch him go!"

Here in Texas, he's our governor.
Count him back, near to the hour
When he busted into Texas,
Selling us a brand of flour.

Once a friend said, "Listen, Lee O'.
Why not enter the governor's race?"
O'Daniel studied just a minute,
He said, "'Boy, that's just the place!"

Then he called the kids together;
Put them in their proper place.
Then he said, "Now listen children,
We must win the governor's race."

We'll have to move, and keep on going,
Can't afford to be right still.
Play your Pappy good, sweet music;
Watch him beat "E. O. and Bill".

Douglas Corrigan flew the ocean,
Compass wrong, and just one man.
While O'Daniel was elected governor
With aid of his Hillbilly band.

The boys that worried about O'Daniel
Looking up his tax receipts
Talked about his "mountain music",
Brought about their own defeat.

Methinks I heard O'Daniel tell 'em
About the old cat and the prunes,
But he sent his dogs to Austin
To chase a few political coons.

"E. O.," one time a little boy
Walking the footsteps of his pa
Never did get the spankings
O'Daniel gave him and McCraw.

They called on different professions,
"Come quick and give me a hand,
To save yourself and save me, too,
Of defeat by the Hillbilly band.

O'Daniel, a man with ups and downs
Perhaps many to his sorrow,
But he's now the governor of our state,
Though else may be tomorrow.

We all feel sorry for poor old Tom,
And we'll help him to forget, because,
He's run, and run, and run,
And never got there yet!

All the other nine were good boys,
We hated to let them down,
But soon we seen when the race was on,
They'd never get to town.

When Lee O'Daniel made his platform,
They all 'fit' without the saw,
Then he played his band, and his slight
Of hand, for Thompson and McCraw.

But now the fun's all over,
Nobody wants to fight,
So let's all be just one big family
And all will be all right!

SOME fellow called up on the telephone and wanted The Plainsman to decide a bet.

Here's the situation:

"A" bet "B" $5 about three weeks ago that W. Lee O'Daniel would be in the run-off.

"A" says he won the bet but "B" declines to pay off, because there is no run-off.

How would you decide it?

(The Plainsman declined to officiate.)

* * *

Of course, "A" was betting that O'Daniel would be at least one-two in the first primary and he was—a sweeping No. 1.

But the bet was worded that "O'Daniel will be in the run-off" and of course the voters decided Saturday that one race for governor this summer was enough.

"A" won the bet one way; in another, he did not.

RUSHTON C. Hankins, the city editor, just came in with this article which he copied down from somewhere.

The Plainsman told him it was as old as the hills; that he had seen it years ago. But Rushton says it's new to him and will be to a lot of people.

Therefore, here goes. If you've read it before, skip it!

Interne Trouble

CAST OF CHARACTERS

TRAN DEARBORN — heroine, student nurse. She ran into love and trouble when she met.

DR. BOB BENCHLEY — hero handsome young interne. He had trouble, too, keeping up with brilliant

DR. STEPHEN SARGENT—head surgeon. Dr. Sargent's problem was something else again.

* * *

Yesterday: Dr. Sargent visits Miss Armstrong, inquires about Tran and then tells the head nurse that he has learned something which might interest her.

CHAPTER VIII

Tran never knew in how large a measure she was indebted to the terrible Top Sarge for the pert, frilled cap that stamped her as a full-fledged student nurse. She never knew that after telling the story of that evening in Emergency, he had said, "Armstrong, that girl has something that five out of every six nurses lack. Interne trouble or not, she has the nursing touch."

Tran only knew that that cap was the one thing she most wanted in the world, and that she had it.

Yet even during the ceremony that conferred it upon her she barely missed disgracing herself.

It was unfortunate in the first place that Miss Armstrong had chosen Miss Miller to perform the capping ceremony on this occasion. There was something about "the icicle's" poised, finished perfection that invariably made Tran feel hopelessly raw and crude, and consequently tightened her defense mechanism to the danger point.

It was doubly unfortunate that young Dr. Benchley should have been among those of the medical staff who attended the exercises; because, again, there was something about the impudently dancing eyes in his lean, smiling face that invariably put Tran off her stride. The fact that, just as Miss Miller turned toward her, cap in hand, his eyes were upon her, impishly amused in a deceptively decorous face, made her suddenly catch her cheeks between her teeth to keep her own eyes from flooding — not with untimely laughter, but with angry tears.

She saw Miss Miller's faultlessly modeled shoulders move in the faintest of shrugs as if to say, "The girl is hopelessly emotional, of course. . . . Oh, well, I warned them."

Strangely enough, the circumstance that steadied her and brought her up defiantly cool and dry-eyed was the presence of Dr. Stephen Sargent — there to speak a few inspiring words, and obviously bored and straining at the leash. From time to time he had glared impatiently at the clock as the exercises progressed. Now Tran saw his cobalt blue eyes settle upon her with a kind of detached fury that seemed to say, "Good Lord! As if this weren't awful enough already, here's this emotional little feather-brain about to make a scene!"

As if by magic Tran's tears dried, and her spine stiffened.

"Not this time!" she shot at him mentally. "I wouldn't give you that satisfaction."

She lifted her head, swept him with a blandly impersonal glance that would have done credit to Miss Miller, herself, and the cherished cap perched jauntily on her dark curls, moved back to her place.

* * *

After the capping exercises, Tran and Beula Tagg — who couldn't believe yet that her cap was actually hers, but kept patting it with cautious fingers — held a "good resolutions" rally. . . . For not even accepted student nurses always survived the grilling three years of training that entitled them to wear the coveted white linen uniforms. There were still "misfits" to be weeded out.

Beula vowed passionately that she would not eat between meals, and that she would exercise every night. Tran swore that she would never giggle again, that she would not thrust herself unnecessarily upon the attention of her superiors or dash around asking untimely questions; and privately, that she would shun the pernicious influence of Dr. Bob Benchley as if he were the plague. . . . She would not even stop for a few stolen words with him in the corridor, or to snatch a puff from his cigaret behind a convenient screen; she would never, never again dance with him to the music of a hurdy-gurdy in the street outside, as she had recklessly done when they had met by accident in the deserted service room of G-6 one fragrant May morning.

The occasion of that particular crime had been one that seemed to call for a celebration, because Bob had just been permitted to perform his first operation, under the sponsorship of Dr. Sargent. It might easily have been his last at Saint Vincent, for a bevy of trustees, convoyed by Miss Armstrong and the chief off staff, had all but walked in upon them in the midst of a particularly exuberant routine of improvised steps.

The girls solmnly registered their oaths over an open volume of the Materia Medica, and felt so uplifted thereafter that as a reward of virtue, Beula ate two helpings of everything for dinner . . . After all, a girl must keep up her strength.

Tran slipped badly almost at once. When Miss Philbin came in a few minutes late for demonstration class the day after the capping, it was to find the class in paroxysms of mirth while Tran — as nurse — carried on, in Miss Philbin's own best manner, a Rabelaisian ventriloquial conversation with the demonstration dummy as patient, concerning the stolid, pink-cheeked Griselda's most intimate symptoms.

But although Miss Philbin was faintly pink when she finally entered the room, she plunged briskly, without comment, into the lesson. . . . Tran sometimes thought that Miss Philbin's discreet failure to hear or see a great deal that happened made the world a much pleasanter place than it might have been.

* * *

But so far as young Dr. Benchley went, Tran sheathed herself in ice. When she met him in the corridors, she managed to convey by the briefest of nods that she was bent on a mission of life and death importance, and had no time for idle dalliance.

Once he did run her down in Central Supplies when the graduate nurse under whom she worked there was out of the room.

He closed the door and advanced sternly upon her.

"Now, I've had enough of this nonsense," he began. "When you first come here, I thought you were the sweetest, tenderest thing I had ever seen. Agility. What, in God's name, are you trying to do to yourself? If you keep on this way, what you're going to turn into is something about as appealing as—well, as the perfect icicle, Miss Miller, for instance. . . . Darling, you weren't meant for this kind of thing. You—"

Tran pulled the lever of the autoclave and faced him belligerently.

"Now you look here, Bob Benchley," she cut in. "I've got my living to make in this world, and—"

"But that's just it—you haven't. Honey, I've never told you yet what a darned lucky girl you are. I've got enough money for both of us."

* * *

Then suddenly he was not laughing any more. His lean, young face was pale, and the light in his dark eyes was not impudent but pleading.

"Anyhow," he rushed on, "I have plenty to last a few years—till I get my big chance. . . . Oh, Tran, I could go places if I had you to stick around and root for me."

"And I suppose you think," Tran broke in—stonily, to give the lie to the melting at her heart — "that you're the only one around who wants to go places? Well, I'm ambitious, too. Some day I'm going to—"

"Sure! You don't have to tell me. Some day you're going to be top nurse for Old Sarge—like the perfect Miller. That's what every apron in this hospital prays for every night on bended knees. As if he'd ever give any of you a second look so long as Miller's around with that angel face of hers. He'd sell his soul for her if he didn't know she's a human glacier."

"You aren't fair to her," Tran flashed; and surprisingly found herself believing it. "A nurse can't afford to be emotional. Too many people depend on her keeping her head."

"All right," he flung out at her. "Go ahead and turn yourself into another starched apron with antiseptic fluid in your veins, and see where it gets you with Top Sarge."

When she knew that Bob had really gone, Tran sat down stiffly, her fingers holding to the edge of the chair seat. . . . Good thing he had gone, though. If he had stayed a minute longer, she might have told him the one thing she never meant anyone to find out. It was that she knew now that she had dedicated herself, like a priestess, to a higher, sterner destiny than sticking around and rooting for any young interne in the world.

The reason for this lay in something that had happened only that morning.

GUARDING AGAINST PERVERTS

Society has moved up many strides since the days of curfew and the ducking stool, but under the skin has changed only slightly.

Charging of a school teacher here with assault on a young girl is a case in point.

Police divulged on the heel of the 26-year-old man's arrest they had sought more than six weeks for a man who had staged an orgy of window-peeping and had chased several girls who work at night.

There is no sympathy for a man who indulges his appetite for molesting the very young, or forces his attentions on anyone, no matter what punishment society chooses to impose on him.

Of more immediate importance, however, is general necessity for parents to tell their children how to avoid persons of unnatural inclinations. Lubbock has been comparatively free of sordid crime in recent years, whether because of police protection, few inhabitants who allow themselves to abandon themselves to crimes against nature, or the efforts of family heads to shelter their offspring.

The point is, there is no reason why there should be any such wave. If parents guard their children and the general public considers itself vigillantes obligated to the peace and dignity of the social whole short shrift will be made of the occasional pervert who slinks under cover of darkness or infrequented places and seeks to sacrifice the innocent to his warped desire.

And—whether it sounds law-aiding or not—whatever means the pulic employs to protect itself against such unclassified monsters is not likely to perturb most of us.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 27. — Redheaded and streamlined Ann Sheridan who takes the best bathing suit picture in town, is beginning to suspect that she's too good-natured.

It has taken her a long time to reach this decision, and it is doubtful, now, that she will change her ways. But she feels that if she had tossed a tantrum occasionally, she might be a star today. A star instead of a leading woman on her way to stardom. She has spent five amiable years convincing producers that she is more than a cutie-stooge in mysteries and westerns, and that she has, in ample quantity, the quality known as "umph."

This "umph" business is attested by the attitude of both press agents and press, who long have wondered what was retarding Miss Sheridan's progress. Fact is, though, that the publicity men themselves have been a drag on her career because, whenever somebody wanted a gag picture, the press agents usually trotted out Ann Sheridan.

She has posed on skyrockets, prop dinosaurs, screwy aquatic vehicles, high diving boards, and with incredible fauna from the sea. All this, of course, in a bathing suit. Almost anything, from a visit to the studio of the Alabama football team to an unnamed French scientist's alleged declaration that American girls were too athletic, was sufficient excuse to get Ann Sheridan into a bathing suit.

* * *

She Always Obliged
The So-And-Sos

This extra-contractural activity was due to her good nature. Many a less capable actress, asked to pose for a little "leg art" with a giant baby panda, or with a senile prospector who never had seen a motion picture, went into an indignant and pouty refusal. Miss Sheridan, in her husky voice and with a feigned air of condeseension, always said, "Well, all right, if you so-and-sos really need it."

Now it is an accepted principle in Hollywood that no actress worthy of the name will pose for stunt pictures. There is a line, drawn approximately at the salary level of $500 a week, at which stunt pictures cease to be welcome publicity and become outrageous indignities.

So it is not surprising that the studio misinterpreted the actress' graciousness as lack of confidence. She wasn't taken seriously. There also was the matter of tests. Miss Sheridan detests tests, and a string of bad ones has left her in terror of them.

She said, "I've been tested for everything but the Red Shadow in 'The Desert Song.' I've been tested for nearly every big picture on the lot—and I generally wind up in a whodunnit.

"It's funny, but something always seems to go wrong, and I get to shaking like mad and behaving like an ingenue from the corn belt who has won a Most Healthy Feet contest and a Trip to Hollywood. In five years—two at Paramount and three at Warners—I've been in dozens of pictures, scores of pictures, and have taken hundreds of tests. But only four of the tests won roles. One of the stock sayings around the lot, when somebody is fired or walks out, is 'Okay—we can get Ann Sheridan to do it'."

Letter Of Introduction
To Dirty Faces

Credit for the recognition of Miss Sheridan as an umph-girl should go to Universal, because it chose her, from tests, for the second lead in "Letter of Introduction" — the Charlie McCarthy, Adolphe Menjou and Andrea Leeds flicker.

Right after that, her home studio gave her the leading woman's role in the Cagney film, "Angels With Dirty Faces."

So Miss Sheridan will be noticed now, in top-notch films, and the chances are that she'll go right along without fighting.

"I like people and I hate to argue," she said. "I'm well paid, and have a nice husband named Ed Norris, and a nice home, and I like to work in pictures even if they're westerns.

"Still, I wonder if I'd have got along faster if I had gone temperamental and yelled for better parts."

FDR To Ask Congress To Finance Vast Public Health Program; Controversy Starts Raging

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 27 — Far-reaching proposals for a national health program will be proposed to Congress by President Roosevelt next winter and a bill embodying the proposals will be introduced, probably by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York.

Dutcher

That, at least, is the tentative plan of administration officials on the Interdepartmental Committee to Coordinate Health and Welfare Activities which sponsored the recent National Health conference.

This committee and its committee of technical experts presented recommendations for general health services, medical service to the needy and hospital construction which might reach an annual cost of $850,000,000 to federal, state and local governments. It was suggested the federal government might pay half that sum in order to equalize financial burdens, stimulate local action and develop health and medical care opportunities for everybody.

* * *

Arouses Controversy

Few expect Congress will be asked to appropriate as much as $425,000,000 for the first year of such a program. Recommendations as to health insurance also will be opposed by some medical organizations. As to that, the technical experts reported that an adequate general program of medical care for all Americans "may cost up to a maximum of $20 per person a year," and suggested a comprehensive medical care program for the entire population through funds raised by taxation, contributions by beneficiaries to health insurance systems or a combination of both—the choice to be made by the states receiving federal aid.

Extent of initial legislative proposals will be conducted by public reaction to proposals at the conference The committee thinks it has revealed a huge public demand as well as an appalling need.

Representatives of the A. F. of L., C. I .O., national women's and farmers' organizations, public health services, certain medical schools and groups, certain industries and other delegates left in a high pitch of enthusiasm—which was not entirely shared by a conservative minority.

Chairman Josephine Roche of the interdepartmental committee and Surgeon General Tom Parran of the U. S. Public Health service said the conference "may be the greatest event in medical science which has happened in our time." Miss Roche, to meet fears of American Medical association officials, welcomed assurances of co-operation from the A. M. A. and promised that no federally-operated program was contemplated.

Beautiful Mrs. O'Connell

Washingtonians who observed the victory of Congressman Jerry O'Connell of Montana, renominated on an anti-Senator Wheeler and pro-Roosevelt platform, are relieved to know that the capital will not be bereft of the presence of Mrs. Mazie O'Connell, once a Hollywood model and a winner of beauty prizes.

Beautiful Mrs. O'Connell was right alongside red-headed Jerry when he invaded the Jersey City czardom of Mayor Frank Hague and was pushed around and out. Mrs. O'Connell herself was thrown down and her knees were bruised—a catastrophe which greatly intensified Washington bitterness toward Hague and his cops and could have been exceeded in its enormity only if one of her eyes had been accidentally blackened.

O'Connell, a first-term congressman who keeps sticking his neck out for Loyalist Spain and Tom Mooney's freedom, is 29 years old if you believe his story in the Congressional Directory. But it is alleged in Montana that he was only 18 when he first served in the state legislature in 1931—the same year he was graduated from college.

When he ran for mayor of Butte in 1932 his opponent brandished a birth certificate to show that Jerry was under 21, a charge which was a factor in his defeat at that time.

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

In a YWCA study of the wages of 680 working girls, only 15 were free to spend their money as they chose. The rest contributed to the support of their families. The average weekly wage was $18.46.

"I pulled the cork from my throat and poured the sink down the bottle, except for one cork, which I drank.

"Then I corked the sink with the glass, bottled the drink and drank the pour.

"Well, I had them all emptied, and I steadied the house with one hand, and counted the bottles, which were twenty-four, and as the house came around again I counted them except for one house and one bottle, which I drank.

"I proceeded to wash the bottles, but couldn't get the brush in the bottles, so I turned them inside out and washed and wished and wiped them all and went upstairs and told my wife, and I got the wifest little nice in the world!"

Lubbock Auction And Commission Co.
AUCTION SALE EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

Market looks like 25c to 50c lower for first of this week, but during the latter part of the week, we gained back about 25c. We sold about 2000 cattle last week, and had lots of buyers and orders for this week. We can use more stocker steers and fat cattle.

Remember we have plenty of good buyers on hand at each sale so bring in your cattle and don't be afraid you will overstock us.

If you have no way to get your cattle in for the sale, phone or wire us for trucking service.

We are bonded for your protection!

More Data On Erosion Told

Amazing extent of wind erosion was cited by Fred Sykes, regional agronomist of the Soil Conservation service, as speaker Tuesday afternoon before the soil conservation short course at Texas Technological college.

Sykes answered many accusations.

"Failure of growing wheat on an area is the cause of erosion and not the growing of wheat itself," Sykes said. "Summer fallow is not cause of erosion but the improper selection of time of using summer fallow. Use of fallow after failure of crop when organic matter is burned out leads to wind erosion.

"Improper use of the 'one-way' plows is responsible for erosion rather than the use of the 'one-way' itself. Proper use of that plow and fallow has given good yield of wheat in Southwestern Kansas.

"The blame for erosion can not be laid on growth of wheat and cotton and the use of the 'one-way' and fallow, but rather to poor judgment and improper use of crops and methods of culture.

Best Crop Is Told

"Native vegetation usually is the best crop for erosion resistance, but some introduced grasses are successful. A reduction from the average rainfall has been most detrimental to reseeding practices on much of the area. Re-vegetation has been successful where good moisture conditions have prevailed.

"Farmers of the Panhandle region agreed at meetings last winter that 15 per cent of the land now in cultivation should be put back into grass to balance the farming units."

Dr. A. W. Young of Tech and director of the short course, announced Ray Watson, associate range examiner of region 6, will discuss conservation practices on range and pasture lands this afternoon. This morning Dr. Ralph Caird, assistant range examiner for the region, will talk to the group briefly on range and pasture measurements and evaluation and then take the class into the field to demonstrate the technique of determining carrying capacity and securing other data on range land.

Uncle Samuel's Counting Gold--And Not On His Fingers, Either

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

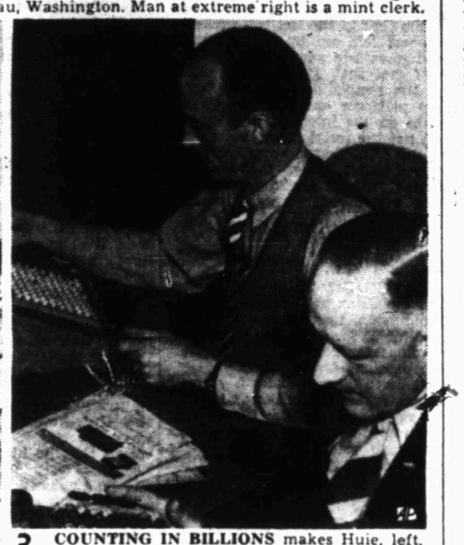

DENVER—Every year the United States counts its gold—all 13 billion dollars' worth. The counters are mint employes chosen by Washington mint officials. To be sure they work impartially, the officials choose counting committee members from mints other than the one where the metal is being counted. These pictures give you an idea of what's been going on at the Denver mint:

1. GOLD ON THE SCALES here is worth about $150,000. More will be piled on until it balances the pile of weights in the right hand pan. The counters, left to right, are L. C. Tidball of the New Orleans mint, B. V. Matson of the New York assay office, Committee Chairman R. J. Van Horn of the Fort Knox gold depository, and Byron S. Huie, Jr., of the mint bureau, Washington. Man at extreme right is a mint clerk.

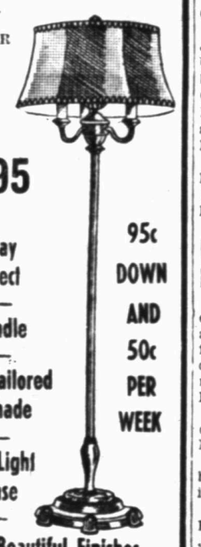

2. FLOOR SWEEPINGS count, too. Here Superintendent Mark Skinner of the Denver mint examines some of the bags of dirt-plus-gold swept up during the year. It's up to the committee to calculate how much gold these sweepings contain.

3. COUNTING IN BILLIONS makes Huie, left, and Van Horn thankful for such things as adding machines. It's a secret how much gold must be counted in Denver, but a good guess is four billion dollars' worth. The whole job takes days.

Maude Adam, American actress, adopted the maiden name of her mother for the stage. Her family name was Kiskadden.

Travis County Cow Could Lay Claim To Swimming Record; Goes 40 Miles In River

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP) — A Travis county cow could claim some kind of a swimming record today.

She was led out of the Colorado's torrent — 40 miles downstream from her home pasture.

Cecil Long of Bastrop threw a rope over the bovine's horns and induced her to swim ashore, after which her only concern seemed to be munching bear grass.

The cow was identified as that of a Travis county farmer by A. Young of Smithville.

School Bonds Vote Proposed

Groundwork for a call for an election on a proposed school bond issue of approximately $150,000 was laid at the monthly meeting of the board of trustees of Lubbock independent school district at Lubbock sanitarium Tuesday night.

The board directed its building committee to investigate and report on the possibilities of approval by the electorate of such a bond issue.

The inquiry will follow a formal application presented several weeks ago and now pending in the Public Works administration for a grant to aid in the proposed building program. No indication has been received, school officials said, as to when action may be taken on the application for a grant, but should it be approved, a bond issue will be necessary to supply money to match the grant.

Board members attending the Tuesday night session were Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president, R. F. Bayless, W. B. Atkins, Dr. Allen T. Stewart, and E. J. Parsons.

The action of the board was the result of numerous requests by patrons of the schools for additional housing space for the increased scholastic enrollment in the district, it was explained. "The board has realized for some time the need for increased building facilities and in view of that need filed with the Public Works administration an application now pending in Washington for a building grant of approximately $123,000," a school official said.

"If that grant is received, the district will need funds of approximately the amount of the bond issue to meet the federal funds. If the federal funds are not allocated, the board will have to build additional buildings and they estimated approximately $150,000 would be the minimum needed to provide for the immediate future."

After further details are completed, petitions probably will be circulated at a later date, it was pointed out.

A leave of absence of a year was granted Miss Ilse Wolf, home economics teacher in the Junior High school. Miss Wolf plans to pursue her studies in home economics.

The resignation of Mrs. Kenneth Leftwich was accepted. Miss Roxanna Ford was appointed to Miss Wolf's place in her absence. Other teachers elected were Byron B. Chappell to the Guadalupe school; John T. Howell to the Sanders school facutly; and Miss Marie Cook to the Senior High school speech department.

Decreased Cotton Consumption Seen

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics estimated today world consumption of American cotton during the marketing year ending July 31 would be 11,100,000 bales.

The total, it added, would be 2,000,000 bales less than in the previous session, and 15 per cent less than the average for the last five years.

The bureau estimated the surplus of American cotton on August 1 would be 13,500,000 bales compared with 6,200,000 a year ago and the previous high record of nearly 13,300,000 bales at the beginning of the 1932 season.

World consumption of cotton from other producing countries for the current marketing year was estimated at 15,250,000 bales compared with 17,900,000 bales in the previous season. The surplus of foreign cotton was estimated at 10,000,000 bales compared with 7,100,000 bales a year ago.

Crowley Sends His Congrats

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, July 27 — Karl A. Crowley, one of the defeated gubernatorial candidates, wrote "congratulations" to nominee W. Lee O'Daniel and expressed hope that under O'Daniel's administration the people of Texas "may be happier and more contented than they have been."

"I entered this campaign knowing full well that organized politicians opposed me and that great amounts of money would be spent as they were to defeat me, and I said repeatedly on the stump that I could understand how individuals would be willing to support you," Crowley wrote.

People Believed It

"You likewise waged a fight against professional politicians. My enemies carried on an organized propaganda to the effect I would not be able to win. The people believed it, and it was not surprising to me that in the last two weeks my support left me by the thousands and went into your camp.

"I feel that I pulled the pillars of the temple down by publishing the platform and my various attacks on the interests, and while I am not the recipient of the benefits of the revolution it nevertheless occurred and I believe that the politicians' ring at Austin has at least been weakened. I wish you success."

Terrell Says He'll Aid O'Daniel With Pensions

AUSTIN, July 27 (AP) — C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, today pledged his support for W. Lee O'Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, in obtaining $30 pensions for the aged.

"I have always been a staunch supporter of $30 pensions," he said. "I made speeches for the pension amendment and voted for it. I am happy to pledge my aid to Mr. O'Daniel in the payment of these pensions by bringing in as much revenue from oil through firm prices as I can."

Steel Company Given Month To Find Counsel; Attorney Barred

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — The Labor Relations Board has given The Weirton Steel company a month to find a new counsel to replace Clyde A. Armstrong, barred by the board from defending Weirton against charges of unfair labor practices.

Armstrong had been ousted from the case for "contemptuous conduct" before Trial Examiner Edward G. Smith at Steubenville, Ohio, July 11.

Here's The Chap Who Started This 'Round-The-World Craze

(By The Associated Press)

In the year 1872, readers of Le Temps, Paris newspaper, were astonished to read that Mr. Phileas Fogg of London had started on a trip around the world in 80 days.

Today's intrepid airmen are but his followers.

Mr. Fogg, methodical English clubman, had wagered 20,000 pounds he could do it. His venture was ridiculed, bets were laid against him, and thus was launched one of the most fascinating novels of the 19th century—"Around The World In 80 Days." Its author was Jules Verne.

Phileas Fogg's Itinerary

London to Suez, by rail and steamboat	7 days
Suez to Bombay, by steamer	13 days
Bombay to Calcutta, by rail	3 days
Calcutta to Hong Kong, by steamer	13 days
Hong Kong to Yokohama, by steamer	6 days
Yokohama to San Francisco, by steamer	22 days
San Francisco to New York, by rail	7 days
New York to London, steamer and rail	9 days
	80 days

To win his stupendous wager, Mr. Fogg had to catch every train, every steamer, on the dot. But those who bet against him did not count on his iron will. He encountered the most desperate adventures without batting an eye, including the rescue of a beautiful young woman who became his wife. He was harassed all the way by a detective who mistook him for a thief who had robbed the Bank of England a few days before Mr. Fogg left London.

Mr. Fogg made it — on the dot. He used every means of conveyance then known — steamers, railways, carriages, yachts, trading vessels that he hired or purchased, sledges — over America's plains — and an elephant.

"The novels of Jules Verne," writes an authority, "are dreams come true, dreams of submarines, airplanes, television; they look forward, not backward. Therefore they are still the books of youth."

Rich Pine Stands And Wheat Lands Menaced By Flames

SEATTLE, July 27 (AP) — Rich pine stands and wheat lands were menaced today by the Pacific Northwest's most serious forest fire of the year, which already has spread over 100,000 acres of grass, brush and virgin timber on the Warm Springs Indian reservation in Jefferson county, Ore.

Deschutes National forest officials opposed the recommendation of Indian agency officials that backfiring be attempted along the Metolius river in an effort to save the forest's timber, the forestry officials were fearful a shift in wind would whip the blaze into the valuable green pine.

The 100,000-acre British Columbia Vancouver island fire was being conquered by large crews of forest firemen while the situation in Oregon, Washington and other Pacific Northwest states was believed to be improved.

During 1937 the French colonies produced 7 tons of gold having a value of 280,000,000 francs.

Mexican Oil Is Going To Japs

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, July 27 — Reports that a Japanese-chartered oil tanker was en route to Tampico and another was being loaded at the southern port of Minatitlan today revived speculation that Japan is seeking a foothold in the Mexican oil industry.

Informed circles said normally it was commercially impracticable for Japan to send tankers through the Panama canal and up the east coast to ports such as Minatitlan because of canal tolls and the time involved. Oil can be bought more cheaply on the Californian coast.

Any one of these possibilities, however, were cited as likely to alter the situation to make it worthwhile for Japan to deal with Mexico:

1. Sale of oil by Mexico at a bargain rate.
2. Payment of a higher price by Japan to obtain other advantageous commercial arrangements with Mexico.
3. Conclusion of a barter agreement between Mexico and Japan so Japan might conserve cash for prosecution of her war with China.

Vote Affects Texas Group

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 27—The defeat of two Texas congressmen who sought renomination in Saturday's Democratic primary election will have an important effect on the committee assignments of the delegation from the Lone Star state, and consequently some probable bearing on national legislation as it affects Texas.

Failure of the veteran East Texas legislator, Representative Morgan Sanders of Canton, to returr to the capitol removes one of the most bitter foes of tax law reformers who seek invalidation of community property laws, reduction of oil depletion allowances for income tax purposes, and imposition of a tax of 1-2 cent per gallon tax on fuel oil. Texas is one of eight states which have community property tax laws, enabling husband and wife to divide incomes for tax purposes.

Maverick On Committee

Representative Maury Maverick, whose home district of San Antonio is one of the largest army centers in the United States, was a member of the house military affairs committee. Another Texan, however, serves on that committee and is second only to the chairman. He is Ewing Thomason of El Paso.

The next session of congress will see no Texan on the important appropriations committee unless another is named to succeed the only present member, Representative W. D. McFarlane of Graham, if he is defeated by a Wichita Falls attorney, Ed Gossett, in the run-off. McFarlane was assigned to the committee in 1937 after the death of its chairman, the late James P. Buchanan of Brenham, Tex.

Sought To Aid Others

As the sole Texan on the ways and means committee, Sanders sought wherever possible to aid the junior members of the state's delegation get assignment to "exclusive committees," as those bodies are called which rank most important.

Generally, membership to the exclusive and other important committees depends to a large extent on seniority. In view of that fact several Texans who have just completed their first and second terms are scheduled for promotion. Among these is Representative Charles L. South of Coleman. Last session Sanders, House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn from Bonham, Tex., and others discussed with him possible assignment to the interstate and foreign commerce committee. Since Rayburn left chairmanship of that body to become majority leader, neither Texas nor the Southwest has had a representative on that committee.

Treating the soil with lead arsenate is the most effective control over the Japanese beetle, but is too expensive for use in large areas.

PRIMERS BECOME SIMPLER

SACRAMENTO, Calif., (AP)—Children who tackle reading in their first primer have an easier time today than 10 years ago. Studies at the University of California disclose that a decade ago children had to learn 398 different words to get through a primer. Today primers average 207.

Demo Sessions On Saturday

Delegates to the state democratic convention will be chosen at the county convention to be held in the courthouse here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, according to announcement Tuesday by L. C. Ellis, county chairman.

The state convention will meet Sept. 6 to announce nominations for governor and state offices.

Tantamount To Election

Nomination by the Texas electorate is tantamount to election.

Relative to county conventions, article 3134 of Texas election laws reads: "On the first Saturday after primary election day . . . there shall be held in each county a county convention of each party, to be composed of one delegate from each precinct in such county for each 25 votes, or a major fraction thereof, cast for the party's candidate for governor at the last preceding election, which delegates shall be elected by the voters of each precinct . . . in such manner as may be prescribed by the county executive committee. . . .

One For Each 300 Votes

"The convention shall elect one delegate to the state . . convention for each 300 votes or a major fraction thereof cast for the party's candidate for governor in such county at the last preceding general election. . . ."

Ellis asked that precinct chairmen insure representative attendance at Saturday's convention and assured the public that the convention is open to all.

Ellis also pointed out that Thursday, by law, is last day for filing of first statement of campaign expenses of the second primary.

To Canvass Returns

He said that, after the county convention, the executive committee will hold a session to canvass votes in last Saturday's primary.

Based on registration at the polls, he said, a total of 8,383 persons cast ballots.

FOR HOT WEATHER

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Judge Harry H. Hilgemann told John Headrick, 57, who was before him on an assault and battery charge, that 60 days in jail would be about the right sentence. Then he added: "The weather is so hot that I'm going to cut it down to 30 days."
