Texas Approves 5 Amendments; G.O.P. in Gain

By United Press International

Voters in six Texas legislative districts showed a preference for Republican candidates in special elections Saturday and in a seventh district a Republican ran No. 2 and forced a Democrat into a runoff.

In light statewide voting, five amendments were added to the Texas constitution. The vote ran against a proposed amendment that would allow counties to put their taxes in a general fund.

Legislative returns, though confined to only part of the state, were the surprise in the voting. The legislative returns included these Republican gains:

—In Dallas County, Republican O. H. (Ike) Harris, running for the seat of the late Democratic Sen. George Parkhouse, rolled up 70.36 per cent of the vote. He got 15,105 votes to 3,718 for the No. 2 vote-getters, Democrat Bill Harris. There wasa total of 29 names on the ballot.

—In District 30 (Wharton and Matagorda counties), Dr. Wayne Sloan, a Republican, polled 2,252 votes, or 39 per cent of the vote cast, in a special election for the house vacany created by the resignation of Otha Birkner. Sloan will be in a runoff with Democrat Tom Uher, who got 1,296 votes. There was a total of 29 names dates.

—In District 75, Republican Edwin Paxton Jr. of Levelland polled 1,812 votes. He was in a runoff with Democrat John J. Kendrick, a Brownfield Democrat, who got 1,737 votes. The race was for the seat of resigned Rep. Jesse T. George. Democrat Ted Waver of Muleshoe polled 1,085 votes.

—Republican Manny Sanchez in the 46th District (Cameron County) forced Democrat Henry Sanchez Jr. (no relation) into a runoff. The Democrat had 3,980 votes to 2,608 for the Republican. John McAllen Scanlan, a Democrat, ran third with 2,347 votes. The race was for the seat of resigned Rep. Maurice Pipkin.

—In Harris County's District 22, Republican Edmon E. Jones led with 4,910 votes and was in a runoff with Mrs. Ira L. Kohler, a Democrat, who had 4,293 votes. The House vacancy in that district was caused by the death of Mrs. Kohler's husband. Republican Jim Earthman had 4,070 votes.

Nation Honors 21 Million On Veterans Day

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI)—Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Nitze laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns Saturday in behalf of President Johnson and declared that America's perseverance in Vietnam would not flag.

Nitze led Veterans Day memorial services at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia, across the Potomac River from Washington, before 5,000 persons in tribute to the 26 million Americans who once served in uniform in war and peace.

Among the dignitaries at the open-air amphitheater not far from President John F. Kennedy's grave were Chief Justice Earl Warren, Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, army chief of staff.

After laying a wreath of red and white carnations from Johnson at the tomb of unknown American dead from the two world wars and the Korean conflict, Nitzesaid the Communists should not mistake dissent for lack of purpose.

Totalitarian regimes, unable in their ideological rigidity to distinguish between "dissent and divisveness, between unity and uniformity," should look more closely at the United States, he said.

They would find "only vast reserves of readiness to respond to the republic's needs," Nitze said. "The demands of our persistence, on our perseverance and on our sense of purpose will not diminish in the months that lie ahead."

He conceded public disagreement over the Vietnam war but noted the nation was founded to protect that right. "There is no deficit in devotion to duty in this nation," he said.

Nitze represented Johnson on the second day of the Chief Executive's flying tour of military installations across the country, in which he paid tribute to U.S. troops in Vietnam and called for national unity in time of war.

Both County Issues Carry in Light Vote

In an unusually light turnout at the polls Saturday, Gray County voters appproved both the $850,000 Highland General Hospital and the $250,000 Perry Lefors Airfield bond issues.

The hospital bond issue was approved 1,392 to 928, a majority of 464 votes. The airport bond issue was approved 1,220 to 1,081, an edge of 139 votes.

The total turnout for both local bond issues and the six state amendment proposals was 2,384 voters out of approximately 10,000 eligible voters in the county.

Had it not been for the local bond issues, election officials indicated, the balloting would have been much lighter.

The bond issues were carried by a heavy vote of approval in Pampa's four largest precints, No. 8 at Stephen Austin School, No. 9 at Woodrow Wilson School, No. 10 at the Courthouse and No. 14 at Travis School. The total vote on the bond issues in these four precincts, No. 8 at Stephen Austin hospital bonds and 871 to 482 for the airport bonds, a 2 to 1 endorsement.

Precincts 2 at Baker School, 3 at Grandview, 4 at Alanreed, 5 at McLean and 6 at Laketon all voted against both bond issues. McLean, where a new hospital was voted only a couple of years ago, turned the hospital issue down, 115 to 37 and rejected the airport, 131 to 18.

In Pct. 13 the vote was 48 to 47 for the hospital improvement and 51 to 43 against the airport bonds. Pct. 12 at Lamar School voted 72 to 68 for the hospital bonds and 85 to 56 against the airport. Pct. 1 at Lefors voted 53 to 24 for the hospital improvements and 39 to 37 for the airport modernization.

The polls closed at 7 p.m. and the vote count was completed by 8:30 p.m. County Clerk Charlie Thut announced that the Saturday night figures were unofficially complete, but not many changes were expected when the vote is canvassed by county commissioners Monday.

Passage of the two bond issues means that both Highland General Hospital and Perry Lefors Airfield now will embark on further steps for the improvement and modernization of both the hospital and the airport.

Total cost of the proposed hospital modernization program is estimated at $1,253,790. The bond issue is for only $850,000, but it was pointed out now that the bond issue has been approved, the county will apply for approximately $400,000 in addi-

Amendments Are Split In Gray County

Gray County voters approved three amendments to the Texas Constitution and rejected three others yesterday in a light turnout at the polls.

Approved were amendments numbers two, three and four. Numbers one, five, and six were rejected.

Here's how Gray County voted on the state amendments:

No. 1, for consolidating county taxes: 980 for, 1,404 against.

No. 2, for municipal health service: 1,358 for, 924 against.

No. 3, Veterans' Land Fund: 1,179 for, 1,150 against.

No. 4, county medical aid: 1,425 for, 900 against.

No. 5, park development fund: 1,043 for, 1,283 against.

No. 6, dual employment for state employes: 907 for, 1,375 against.

A maximum of 2,384 votes was cast in the constitutional amendments election.

Forces Kill More Communists Than Can Be Replaced

SAIGON (UPI) — American and allied forces for the first time in months are killing Communists faster than they can be replaced, U.S. military officials said Saturday.

Nearly 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed or have deserted because of allied military might during the past six months, intelligence officials said. And the Communists have only replaced about 20,000 of them.

A few months ago, American intelligence reports indicated the Communist strength in South Vietnam was more than 285,000, but it has now been revised downward to 242,000.

The officers said that allied battlefield victories had not only knocked gaping holes in Communist ranks but have encouraged many thousands more to defect to the government side.

During the patt six months, the officers said, Communists have been killed at a rate of 7,315 per month and have deserted at a rate of 2,083 per month.

Military reverses have made it more difficult for the Viet Cong to get recruits, the officials said, and infiltration from North Vietnam is an expensive and hazardous process.

An estimated 12 to 13 out of every 100 soldiers who start down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and other infiltration routes never make it to the battlefield for a number of reasons including American bombing strikes and sickness such as malaria.

Former Cuban Treasury Official Now Living in Exile in Pampa

By JEFF HOLLADAY
Daily News Staff Writer

For 16 years Senor Mario Garriga was an official in the treasury department of the Cuban government, but today he is in Pampa building a new life far from his homeland.

For almost a year he and his wife Angelica have been living with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Culver of 1813 Grape, but a language barrier (he does not speak English) prevents him from holding a job commensurate with his training and background.

Only a few days ago was the 58-year-old former head of the Cuban income tax division able to obtain local employment in the maintenance department of the public schools.

Confiscated

Garriga's large coffee plantation in the Escambray mountains and his house in Havana have long since been confiscated by the Castro government, but Sr. Garriga isn't a bitter man. He's grateful that he left Cuba alive, happy that all of his family has survived the ordeal.

He speaks of his patria—Cuba—fondly, but with the resignation of a man who may never set foot on his native soil again.

Garriga left the island only two years ago, six years after the Castro regime came into power. Soon after Castro took over, he sent his children to the United States, but he and his wife remained in Cuba. That he was not shot by Castro and that he was offered a job by the Castro government is a tribute to his own integrity, for much of the success of the revolution stemmed from disgust over corruption in the Batista government. Indiscriminate shooting of ex-government officials was not uncommon.

Refused

Garriga refused to work for the Castro government, however, and he and his wife's existence was often hand-to-mouth. He wryly commented that there was not much work for an accountant in Castro's Cuba.

Even before Castro came to power, Garriga's coffee plantation in the Escambray mountains was harrassed by guerrillas. Operating out of these mountains as well as the Sierra Maestras in Oriente Province, Castro's forces wielded consid-

Viet Cong Release American Prisoners

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Viet Cong made good on a promise Saturday by releasing to a representative of an American peace organization two U.S. Army sergeants they held prisoner. The Communists said a third American sergeant would be freed when he recovers from an illness.

The National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—presented S-Sgt. James E. Jackson Jr., 27, of Hinton, W.Va., and M-Sgt. Daniel Lee Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., to a news conference from which most western newsmen in the Cambodian capital were barred. The NLF turned the prisoners over to Thomas Hayden, an American representing an anti-war group in the United States.

M-Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif., has dysentery, Hayden said, and will be released when he is well.

After the news conference the two released prisoners were taken by station wagon to an undisclosed destination. Hayden later declined to comment on their movement from Cambodia.

"I can assure you that they will be at home with their families in the shortest possible time," Hayden later told newsmen who had been kept out of the news conference.

Another American news agency was allowed to attend the news conference as the guest of Wilfred Burchett, a Communist newsman who had written articles distributed by the news agency.

In Saigon the U.S. Embassy welcomed the release of the sergeants.

"We are naturally pleased about the release of these prisoners and hope that it may be an indication of a humane approach to the question of prisoners of war," an embassy spokesman said.

There were reports—including a hint broadcast by the clandestine NLF liberation radio—that the sergeants had been brainwashed. Jackson and Pitzer made no anti-American or antiwar statements.

Nguyen Van Hieu, the NLF official in whose quarters the prisoners were released, denounced American involvement in Vietnam.

Jackson said he was let go "in response to the American Negroes' struggle for peace in the United States" and because "of the attitude I maintained" as a prisoner. Jackson is a Negro.

Hayden said Johnson, who was captured in July 1964, is suffering from "a very serious case of dysentery" and was not permitted to meet the few newsmen who saw the others.

According to Hayden, the prisoners took a couple of weeks to reach Phnom Penh in neutral Cambodia from POW camps "in the Mekong Delta." He said the trip was "an absolutely hair-raising journey" because U.S. planes continually bombed and strafed their route.

Pitzer wore his new trousers and shirt to the news conference but Jackson changed back into Viet Cong black pajamas.

Pitzer said: "I have been a prisoner four years. I would like to say—since I've promised the (National Liberation) Front before I was released—that in my four years imprisonment with these people I've not been physically tortured or beaten while I was a prisoner.

Jackson, captured July 5, 1966, appeared in good health but Pitzer, captured Oct. 29, 1963, had the gaunt look of a malaria victim. Hayden said Pitzer lost more than 40 pounds while a prisoner.

Fierce New Fight Erupts in Jungle

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops beat back four new attacks by 2,500 North Vietnamese in bloody fighting that raged in the jungle covered highland hills around Dak To near the Cambodian border until early Sunday morning.

At least 103 Communists were killed in the latest series of fights—part of a nine-day battle in which the Communists hoped to overrun and seize the area. It sent their dead soaring to 527 confirmed and an estimated death toll of more than 1,000.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam, visited the battlefield Saturday and told the troops that despite the still continuing fighting, they had smashed a Communist attempt to set up a series of enclaves along the Cambodian border.

Even as he spoke, fresh fighting broke out in the jungles soaked by dying Typhoon Freida. The determination of the North Vietnamese to keep coming back for more punishment amazed veteran field officers.

For the second day in a row, American troops pulled back to let tactical fighter bombers and the big B52 Strategic Air Command monsters hammer

ON VETERANS DAY TOUR

LBJ Proposes Neutral Peace Conference

ABOARD USS ENTERPRISE (UPI)—President Johnson, in a dramatic challenge to Hanoi called Saturday for a peace meeting "on a neutral ship on a neutral sea" to bury the Vietnam war beneath the waves.

Johnson voiced the challenge in a sunrise speech to men aboard the world's largest fighting ship at sea off the southern California coast as he began the final leg of a Veterans' Day tour of military installations across the country.

"This wardroom could easily be a conference room. A neutral ship on a neutral sea could be as good a place as any, so long as two would come to the meeting, so long as both met halfway, so long as one did not insist the other walk on water and work a miracle alone," the President said.

"Now hear this: You force us to fight. You have only to say the word for our quarrel to be buried beneath the waves.

"Standing here, space between the vastness of ocean and heaven, men might realize the ultimate smallness of their quarrels. They just might come to see the waste of the war amidst the wealth of God and nature."

Johnson pledged to match each military effort in Vietnam with a new effort for peace.

"The peacemakers in Washington will match each enterprise of the guardians of Yankee station. Our statesmen will press the search for peace to the corners of the earth," the President said.

But Johnson warned there would be no peace until two central principles were upheld:

"All nations must have the right to dwell in safety within their own boundaries, living their lives in freedom from fear and want."

"There shall be no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wills of the people concerned."

The President gave words of encouragement to the families of prisoners, then boarded Air Force One and flew to McConnel Air Force Base in Wichita, Kan., where he arrived at 2:09 p.m. EST for a one-hour tour.

At McConnell, the President was greeted by Gen. John P. McConnell Air Force Base staff. He inspected base personnel, talked with wives of airmen and officers now serving in Vietnam, presented 11 Silver Star decorations and witnessed an F105 flight demonstration by Maj. Robert V. Baird.

District Court Criminal Trials Slated Tomorrow

Criminal trials will be held tomorrow in 31st Judicial District Court for two men accused of the Aug. 24 robbery of a McLean service station.

The defendants are James Lee Herring, 19, and William Benjamin Davis, 24, alias Anthony Thomas Fiorello, both of New York City.

They are charged with holding up the service station early on the morning of Aug. 24 and taking $107.75 from the cash register after tieing up the attendant.

The two men were captured an hour later by the Amarillo Police. Both suspects were carrying .22 caliber pistols.

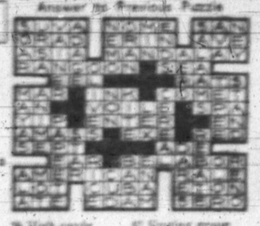

The two men have been held in Gray County jail in lieu of $20,000 bond. Counsel for the defendants are Harold Comer and David Holt.

A motion for separate trials was granted Nov. 3 by District Judge Grainger McElhany, but a motion for a change of venue was denied.

Basic boundaries of the Southeast Asian countries changed little with the 1954 and 1962 Geneva Conferences, although some borders creating smaller states were disregarded while other new borders were created. Although French influence extended over what are now Cambodia, North and South Vietnam and Laos, smaller divisions, such as Tonkin, Cochin-China, were also recognized. Border animosities have existed between the nations created in the conferences. The United States proposal to base new peace talks on the basis of the Geneva Conferences would include discussion of respect for these frontiers and discussion of reunification of Vietnam, divided in 1954 at the 17th parallel.

Medicine Men Brew Magic in Arizona

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz.—(NEA) — Tony Tsosie, age 62, is a totally blind, arthritic, illiterate, anemic, senile and unimposing Navajo Indian.

He is also a very important Navajo Indian.

He's a medicine man.

As such, old Tony Tsosie is a priest, a prefect, a witch doctor, a pain healer and a pain preventer to thousands of believing people on this reservation. They respect him. They venerate him. They fear him.

When someone is sick, they call Tony. When someone is drafted into the Army, they bleeding, ulcerated, aching, in need of money, love, food or job they call glazed-eyed Tony Tsosie.

And for a fee, Tony comes.

He comes with charcoal from the scar of a lightning-struck tree. He comes with tail feathers from an eagle. He comes with an assortment of herbs, berries, potions, fumigants and other implements of his craft.

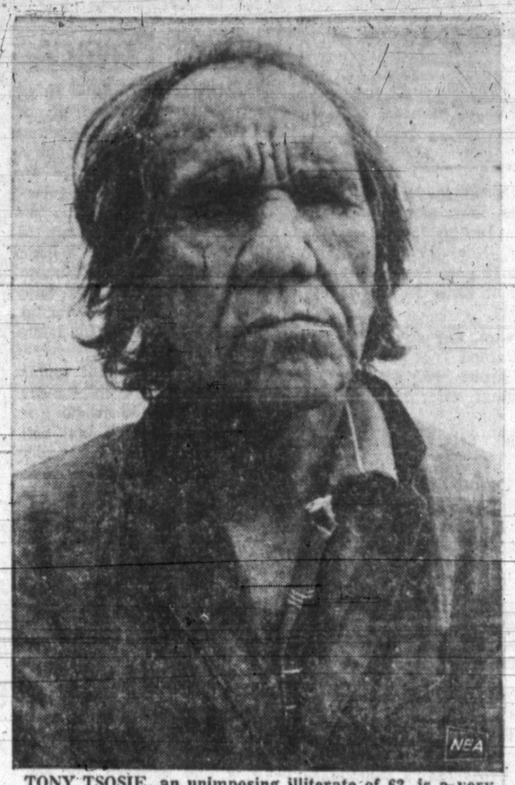

And he goes to work.

He mixes an emetic composed of buckthorn, limberpine, barberry, wild currant, juniper and blue spruce. He gives a portion of it to each patient. They drink it. Then they vomit in great, large torrents.

To a more important degree, however, the result of all the vomit and vehemence of Navajo religion is to perpetuate old, outdated customs in this Indian nation and thereby perpetuate old and outdated privation.

The point is a crucial one in Indian affairs today.

"We are caught between the old and new," says Navajo official Peter MacDonald. "We want to have the best of modern society—the television and the automobiles—but we also want to cling to our old philosophies."

TONY TSOSIE, an unimposing illiterate of 62, is a very important man in Navajo country. He's a medicine man and his medicine is far from cheap.

MacDonald is his own best example. Bred in the old thought, he once studied to become a medicine man. A college education eclipsed that dream and he has since become chief of tribal poverty programs.

I still go to the medicine man now and then," he admits, "but only because my mother wishes it. She believes in the Navajo tradition and would be disappointed if I just ignored it altogether."

MacDonald is not the only one caught in this Navajo split. Many of the young and educated simply can't accept the historic ways any longer.

"How," asks one, "can anybody expect me to believe in medicine men after I've spent four years at college and two more in the Marines?"

The young are impatient. They believe that "old thought" is strangling most of today's plans to improve Navajo existence. They believe old customs are principal reasons for continued reservation pestilence.

Some examples:

The tribe, historically, is clannish and families prefer to live off by themselves instead of grouped together in modern communities.

The tribe is religiously oriented to unsanitary mud hogans and, as a result, many are reluctant to move into any kind of conventional home.

The tribe is psychologically fatalistic. Many are against even slight improvement, and tend to accept their plight as God's will.

The consequence of each of these examples is obvious. Washington has been wailing for decades that little can be done for Indians until they decide to step into the present and accept technological assistance.

Says one official: "They've got to meet us half way."

But, in fairness, the old-line Navajos have their side, too. They feel that traditional philosophies are necessary for tribal members to retain a positive identity and a fixed position in the world.

They further feel that Navajo culture, however silly to white men, is the final thread of dignity Indians retain. To abandon it, they say, would be to offer up a final and total surrender to conquerors.

Therefore, they remain stubborn.

White authorities don't like it, but they accept it. In fact, now and then they even understand it. One physician here tells of a time he had a sickly Indian woman who, despite all rugs and care, refused to get well.

Finally, in desperation, Tony Tsosie was called in.

Yup. Four eagle feathers later, the woman recovered.

$56 Million Hotel Is Planned for Acapulco

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI) — A Mexico-United States consortium will invest 700 million pesos ($56 million U.S.) in a hotel and sports facilities in Acapulco, it was announced here Saturday.

Troy V. Post of Dallas, on behalf of the board of Greatamerica, the consortium, Braniff International Airways and various U. S. insurance and manufacturing companies, made the announcement at a press interview in which he was accompanied by officers of the National Tourism Council.

The Mexican investors group in the consortium is headed by hotel operator and industry leader Antonio Ruiz Galindo.

The investment was termed the highest in Latin American tourism history.

Post said the sum will be used for the construction of the Hotel Plaza Internacional which will have 760 rooms and suites and is now under construction at Icacos Beach, in Acapulco.

The hotel will have sports facilities including the country's biggest golf course—36 holes—and a 300-room club-hotel, plus installations and facilities for a number of sports.

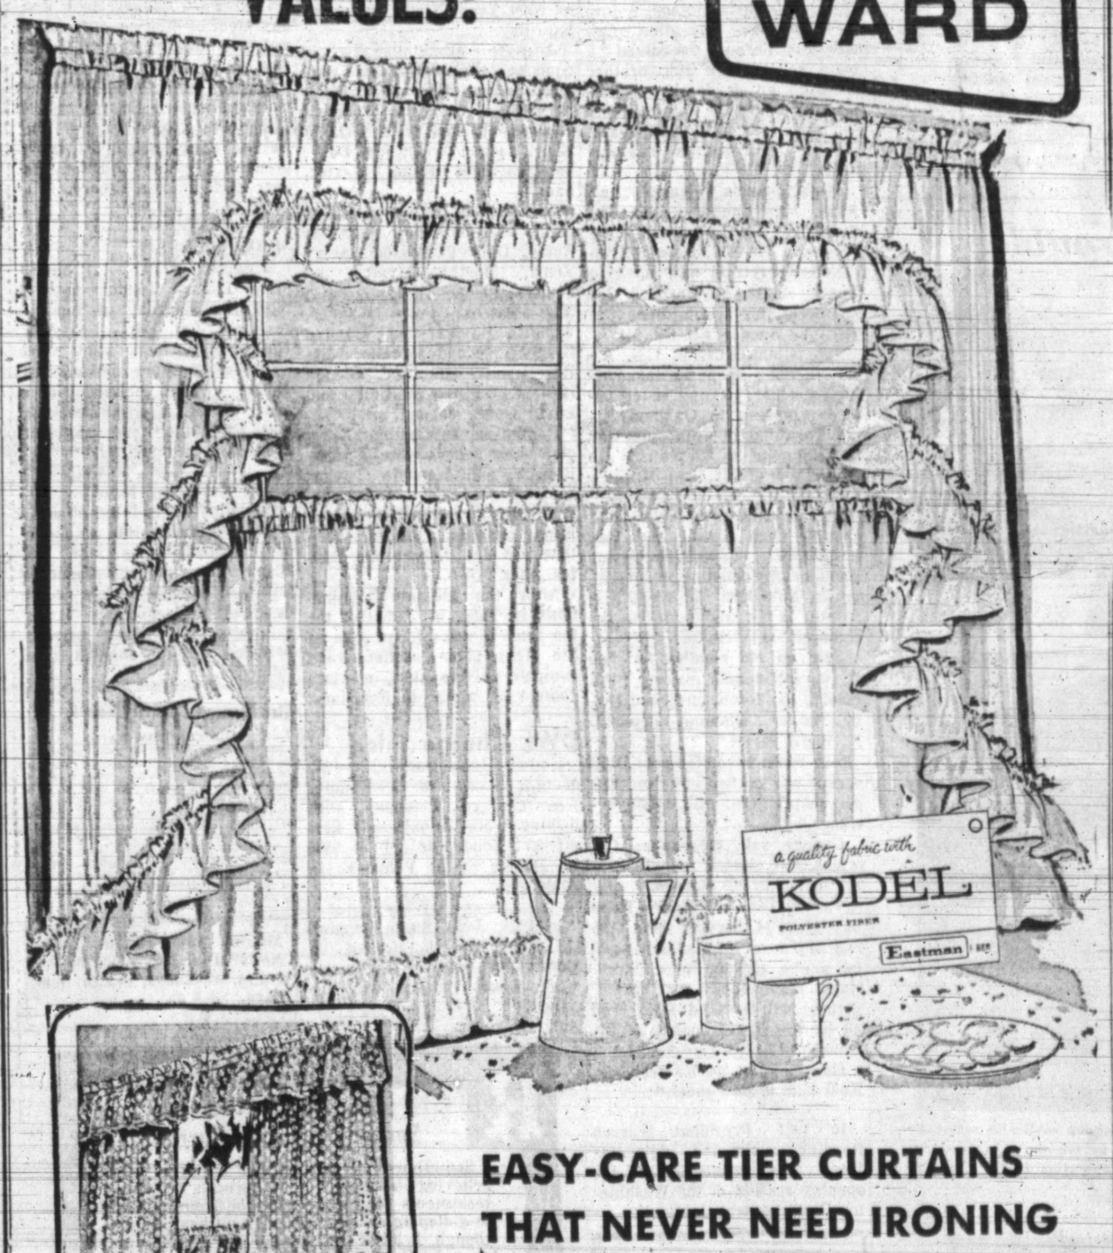

Work on the sports installations will begin Monday across from the Acapulco International Airport, Post told the press. These installations are scheduled for completion before October, 1968, when the Olympic Games will take place.

Jackie Flies Back to Rome

ROME (UPI) — Jacqueline Kennedy flew into Rome Saturday on her way home from a trip to Southeast Asia. Deplaning, she was a photographer's delight in a short white dress and sunglasses and flashing her famous grin.

The former First Lady was accompanied by Michael Forrestal, a bachelor and former aide to her husband. An official car from the U.S. Embassy met them on the runway and whisked them through midday traffic to Villa Parioli, the palatial walled 17th century villa of U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. G. Frederick Reinhardt.

Forrestal said he would return to New York Monday or Tuesday but was unsure whether Mrs. Kennedy would be accompanying them on the flight. U.S. Embassy officials said Mrs. Kennedy, 38, might stay in Rome until Tuesday or Wednesday. She stopped here after visiting Cambodia to fulfill a childhood dream of visiting the temple ruins at Angkor.

Mrs Kennedy was staying at the ambassador's villa and Forrestal had accommodations at the swank Grand Hotel. An embassy official said the former First Lady spent the afternoon sleeping.

erable strength before coming to power.

It was not unusual, Mrs. Culver explained, to find well-to-do people in the mountains mysteriously murdered, or to be forced to supply food for the guerrillas or to give them money.

Batista Flees

The Batista government fell on New Year's Day in 1959 when Batista fled the island and went into exile in the Dominican Republic.

Garriga's brother-in-law, Santiago Rey, was minister of government, the second-ranking position in the Cuban government, when Batista's government fell, but he managed to escape with his life thanks to the intervention of the Chilean ambassador. He is now an aide to President Balaguer of the Dominican Republic.

Did Garriga feel, despite any private losses and sorrows he suffered, that the Castro government had made any lasting contributions?

"Absolutely not," he said. "Instead, he did everything wrong. Cuba before Castro was one of the wealthiest nations in Latin America. Today it is one of the poorest."

Garriga's children, Maria (now Mrs. John Culver) and Mario left the island in 1961. At that time it was possible for children to leave the island, though the parents themselves were often forbidden this right. It was a difficult deicsion for him to make, he says, but he felt that he had to protect his children against communist propaganda, particularly Mario, only 10 years of age at the time. Mrs. Culver was 19.

Both were sent to Miami, where Mario lived at a pleasant camp for refugee boys. Mrs. Culver stayed with some of her mother's cousins. She lived in the United States for five months before going to Spain to live with relatives there. While there, she met her husband, then an Air Force officer stationed in Spain.

After staying in the camp in Florida for a while, Mario was then relocated to Michigan. He stayed in a Boys' Home in Saginaw for two years, after which he lived with a family in Alma, Mich., for a year. After that, his brother-in-law and sister invited him to live with them here in Pampa, and he has done so now for about three years.

Unexpected Boon

The presence of their children in the United States produced an unexpected boon for Mr. and Mrs. Garriga. When Castro offered to let all people leave who wanted to, in 1965, (excluding those professionals and technicians in short supply in Cuba), Mario immediately sent a telegram to immigration authorities. Since priority was given to those with children in the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Garriga were thus insured of being able to leave. It took three months for them to be processed, and they had to give up — and even have it repaired—their house and household goods before leaving. They arrived in the U.S. penniless and destitute.

And Now. . . .

Today, Mario is a tall, 16-year-old youth, a junior at Pampa High School, completely bilingual, healthy and well-adjusted.

Mr. and Mrs. John Culver are the parents of a tousle-headed two-year-old son, Lyle, Culver is employed in the engineering division of Cabot Corp.

And Senor and Senora Mario Garriga, uprooted from their homeland and all their worldly possessions, find solace in their children, son-in-law, and grandchild, and challenge bravely a new world.

Communist positions with massive strikes of bombs, rockets and napalm.

But as the Americans moved back into the bombarded hills and jungles, the North Vietnamese struck with a fury.

At least two regiments were involved in the day-long fights Saturday, and intelligence reports indicated another two regiments were lurking in the area, being held in reserve.

Shortly after dawn Saturday, North Vietnamese troops attacked the paratroopers fire base of the 173rd Airborne with its mortars and artillery about five miles west of Dak To. The paratroopers battled back for four hours, hanging on until help arrived, then drove the North Vietnamese back in another four hours of bitter fighting.

Just a mile or two away, two companies of the 4th Infantry Division locked in a fierce fight on the slopes of Hill 724 which overlooks Dak To. The two companies managed to link up and shortly after midnight had beaten the North Vietnamese into retreat.

To the southeast, North Vietnamese attacked a platoon of U.S. Army Engineers sweeping a road clear of mines for a convoy headed into the battle area from Dak To. Five Americans were killed and 10 wounded before a unit of air cavalrymen whirled in by helicopter to their rescue.

On other fronts, American forces killed 38 Communists in a series of scattered fights along South Vietnam's northern coast above Dan Nang. U.S. losses were light.

In the air war over North Vietnam, thick clouds limited American bombing to 89 missions chiefly in the Southern Panhandle. But one strike group managed to hammer the Kién An MIG base six miles southwest of Haiphong, and blast a railway bridge northeast of Hanoi that had been repaired since a previous attack.

Girl Scouts Calendar Sale Now Underway

Girl Scouts of the Quivira Council have begun their anual sale of Girl Scout calendars, according to Mrs. Wm. J. Fetter, district calendar chairman for Pampa and Miami. The calendar sale will continue through Dec. 1.

Cost of the calendars is 35 cents each. Profits from their sale goes toward individual troop activities and projects. None of the money goes to the Council, Mrs. Felter stated.

The 1968 Girl Scout calendars feature pictures of Girl Scout activities and allow ample space to record important memorandums, she said.

tional funds under the Hill-Burton Act. Approval of the bond issue Saturday means that an application will be filed immediately for the Hill-Burton grant. The grant can be expected by late 1968, according to County Judge Sherman Lenning.

The estimated $1,253,790 cost for the overall hospital project is broken down into $893,000 for construction, $280,000 for new and modern equipment, $62,290 for architec. fees, $1,500 for site and survey investigation and $17,000 for contingency.

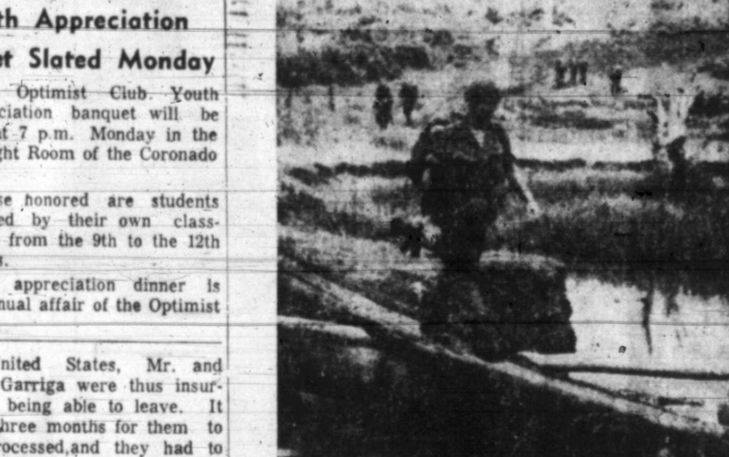

Highland General was built in 1948 and the only major improvement made in the past 20 years has been the addition of a wing for 90 beds in 1955.

The $250,000 airport bond issue will be used to lengthen runways and improve the present terminal building. To the quarter of a million dollar bond issue will be added a $92,000 federal grant making the total for airport improvements, $342,000.

Price Introduces Bill Designed To Protect Privacy

WASHINGTON (Spl) — In an effort to protect the privacy of the individual, Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has introduced a bill in the House designed to limit the categories of questions required to be answered in the 1970 census to seven. These would include name address, relationship to head of the household, sex, date of birth, race or color, marital status, and visitors in the home of each individual.

Price commented that under existing regulations, the Census Bureau can ask you anything it wishes about yourself and will require you to answer it under penalty of existing law. If a person refuses to submit to these interrogations, it may cost him as much as $100 in fines or possibly 60 days in jail.

"The Census questionnaire has grown from a simple five questions to fifty, far beyond the number necessary for the constitutional requirements of enumeration for Congressional redistricting," Price said. "The Congress has allowed this number to increase over the years and I think that it is time to draw a line between the permissible and the mandatory. Should the Bureau feel that it does need additional information, they may ask for it on a voluntary basis, but the individual should not be penalized by law for refusing to allow his privacy to be invaded."

CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Shirley Temple Faces New Kind Of Screen Test in Public Vote

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) A dimpled moppet named Shirley Temple danced so charmingly in a Hollywood screen test 36 years ago she quickly became the world's most famous child movie star.

On Tuesday, the curly-topped tot of such films as "Little Miss Marker," "The Little Colonel," "Heidi," and "Captin January" faces another kind of test, a Congressional election.

A victory could catapult her into new prominence, but it won't come any easier than when Shirley, at the age of three, was thrust under bright lights to enchant the tough movie moguls.

Shirley is competing with 10 men, some experienced politicians, for the 11th district Congressional seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger, a veteran Republican.

Under California law, the Republican and Democrat with the most votes will battle it out in a runoff Dec. 12—unless the unexpected happens and one candidate polls a majority Tuesday.

Shirley is married to wealthy businesshan Charles A. Black and is a mtther of three. At 39, her blonde curls of childhood have turned chestnut.

Staunch Republican

A staunch Republican, she will divide the GOP vote with three other conteners. Two offer the same views as Shirley —escalate the Vietnam war to victory, reduce taxes, be tough with racial disturbances and end crime in the streets.

They are Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore, 49, who has been elected to his office five times in 17 years, and William H. Draper III, 39, a businessman and graduate of Yale and the Harvard School of Business Administration.

The other, attorney Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey, Jr., 39, is campaigning as "the only moderate Republican." His supporters see the contest as a clash between the moderate and conservative wings of the party.

Mrs. Black's radio-television and newspaper advertising campaign was limited until a few days before the election.

That brought her weight down to 112 pounds on a five-foot, two-inch frame, giving her a young matronly appearance.

The famed dimples still brighten her smooth-complected face—except when she is talking about Democrats and the federal government.

"I think it's time for the Moms and Pops of America to take Big Brother to the woodshed and remind him who is running things," she said frequently in the campaign.

And, she compared riots to the tantrum of a child. "You give that child some candy to stop it and the tantrum will stop, but then, the child seeing he got by with it, determines to have another," she said.

Runoff Expected

Among Democrats running are Edward M. Keating, 42, attorney and former publisher of Ramparts Magazine; Daniel J. Monaco, 45, attorney and former chairman of the County Central Committee, and Roy Archibald, 47, an official of the National Education Association.

Monaco and Archibald hue to the Johnson administration line, but Keating wants a world peace conference on Vietnam and an unconditional U. S. promise of military withdrawal.

San Mateo County, a mixture of SanFrancisco suburbia, light industry and agriculture, has more Democrats than Republicans a mong its 221,961 registered votes, but tends to vote Republican.

Given the number of candidates with political muscle, plus some minor candidates, no one contender is expected to poll a majority.

TOMORROW

"Today's Americans, unlike any people who went before them, are living in a new environment dominated by technology, rather than by nature. This new environment and the conservation crisis it has precipitated is one of the most serious domestic problems we face. But there is more cause for hope than despair. Paradoxically, because the crisis is touching almost every American, the public response to this is more broadly based than ever before." — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Data Automation Adds Subsidiary

DALLAS (Spl) — Data Automation Co. Inc. has purchased the assets of American Systems Inc. for 117,500 shares of DAC common stock with a current market value of approximately $1,230,000. Both are Dallas firms.

The business of ASI, a computing services firm, is to be conducted through the new North American Computing Corp., a subsidiary of DAC, which is a computer leasing company.

Joe Harrison, formerly president of ASI, and Jerry Whatley were elected president and executive vice-president of the new corporation. They had been the principal ASI stockholders.

A joint announcement of the transaction by James K. Devlin, DAC president, and Harrison said all former employes of ASI have accepted positions with North American. a

By FOSTER WHALEY

A meeting was held at the Bushland Experiment Station Tuesday, Nov. 7 for the purpose of up-dating County Extension Agents on the latest research of importance to area farmers and ranchers. We thought our specialist in the Extension Service presented some very fine information.

Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus

Dr. Robert Berry, plant pathologist from Lubbock, gave some excellent information on Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus. We are sure we had several fields of milo that was affected by this disease. By studying several hybrid milos, researchers have found some varieties are a lot more tolerant to the disease than others. We were given a list of varieties that were found to be tolerant to this new sorghum disease. It was found that Johnson grass is the main host plant of the aphids that transmit this disease. The insect is the winged specie of the Corn Leaf Aphid. Dr. Berry warned that he expected the disease to be more widespread in 1968 than in 1967.

James Valentine, soil chemist in charge of the Lubbock Soil Testing Laboratory, mentioned the fact that "potassium, sulphur, and micronutrients, soil applied, have not given significant response in any work conducted in District One," Valentine also stated, "no yield difference has been shown due to source of nitrogen." In other words, buy that source of nitrogen you can buy the cheapest per pound of nitrogen.

Valentine pretty well repeated the comments we made previously in this column with reference to phosphate. There has been very little response to application of Phosphate on Pullman silty clay loam.

Livestock

Our new area livestock specialist, Dr. L. M. Schake, gave some very interesting figures on beef cattle.

Schake said, "Additional profit potential is available by not castrating male calves."

According to research, bull calves at the age of 176 days had a daily gain average of 2.62 pounds. Steer calves in the same test had a daily gain of only 2.25 pounds per day. The bull calves required only 775 pounds of feed per 100 lbs. of gain. The steer calves required 858 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain. Schake recognized the fact that bull calves were penalized at the markets.

Another very controversial subject was discussed with reference to cross breeding. Schake gave the result of research work on approximately 3,145 head of calves that had been weighed at the McGregor Research Center. Involved were both straight breeds and crosses.

Results

Results as charted by Schake showed the average weaning weight of straight Herefords to be 358 pounds; of straight Brahma calves, 364. Calves having a Hereford dam and a Brahma sire weighed 409 pounds or a 13 per cent advantage over either the straight Hereford or straight Brahma. Calves having a Brahma dam and a Hereford sire averaged 427 pounds an 18 per cent advantage over the straight Hereford or Brahmas. Calves having a Hereford-Brahma cross for a dam and a Hereford sire weighed 437 lbs., or a 20 per cent increase in weaning weights.

In other work at McGregor reported by T. C. Cartwright, professor in the Department of Animal Science, Texas A&M, straight-bred calves for 11 years averaged 392 pounds at weaning. Calves from first cross mothers averaged 420 pounds. The greatest hybrid vigor resulted in calves from first-cross mothers that were sired from bulls of a third breed. These calves average 460. This would be approximately 25 per cent increase in weaning weights.

Anxiety

In the past a great deal of anxiety has been expressed by registered breed associations that crossbreeding will tend to take us backwards. In times past a cross-bred calf has been associated with cattle of dairy breeding. This image is pretty well breaking down now that the dairy cattle are artificially inseminated and few stocker calves have dairy sires.

Many people in the breed associations realize that any systematic crossbreeding program will require foundation seed stock of straight registered and commercial breeding. Therefore, the need for the registered breeder is even greater than ever.

Cattle Feeders Assn. Will Hold Its First Membership Meeting

AMARILLO (Spl)—More than 400 cattle feeders and others interested in the cattle feeding industry are expected to attend the first annual meeting of the Texas Cattle Feeders Assn. to be held here Monday and Tuesday.

Advance registration has been heavy and includes representatives from California to Minnesota, according to Lloyd Bergsma, executive secretary of the association.

It will be the first membership meeting of the association, which was established only last spring.

The program will include discussion of nutrition, marketing, financing, purchasing and meat packing.

The program will get underway at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Holiday Inn West. In addition to the business program, other activities include a get-together Monday night, a luncheon and style show for women Tuesday noon, and a dinner-dance to close the meeting Tuesday night.

Wednesday Will Be Deadline For WATER, Inc. Tour

LUBBOCK (Spl) — A three-day tour of California's water development projects by Water, Inc. directors, members and other interested individuals has been confirmed by the water organization president, John J. Kendrick of Brownfield.

Kendrick stated Thursday that confirmed reservations had climbed to 15, with several others expressing intentions to join the tour.

Kendrick estimated that 38 would be making the trip.

The Water, Inc. group will depart for California on Sunday, Dec. 10, and return Wednesday night, Dec. 13. Cost of the tour is $250 for each person and includes transportation and accommodations. Kendrick said that reservations must be made by Wednesday with the Water, Inc. office in Lubbock. He added that all interested farmers and businessmen are invited and urged to participate.

Fifty years is estimated to be the average life of a coin struck of nickel.

Panhandle Water District News

By Felix W. Ryals

With a gradual but steady drop in the production of oil and gas the taxing agencies in the Texas Panhandle have had to do some re-evaluating of the properties in the area. This had to be done in order that the counties, cities, and school districts could continue to give the same services as in the past.

With the coming of irrigation, agricultural lands have been asked to share a greater portion of the tax burden. With the concentration of irrigation wells has also come a drop in underground water levels. This decline in water levels will increase at a faster rate than in the past. Taking this into consideration WATER Inc., was organized to promote efforts to bring water to West Texas area from the Mississippi River. This would be the largest project ever attempted by man to move water from one area to another. Currently the largest project is the one under construction in California.

The California project is being built at a cost of $1,750,000,000. That is a lot of money, putting it mildly. Where did the money to construct such a huge water project come from? The people of California, with a great faith in the future, voted the money through a bond issue.

More on California

This column for the past two months has been telling the story of the California Water Project. This week is the end of the series. The column has been pin-pointing the efforts of California Water Project on Kern County which is located in the San Joaquin Valley. The project was begun in 1964. Certain projected benefits have already materialized. The general benefits as projected by Leeds and Hill for Kern County are as follows:

General Benefits

The most important benefit of the project may be one which cannot be measured—the continuance of a strong, growing, healthy agricultural base for the area's economy. In 1963, agriculture furnished 18.3 per cent of the jobs in Kern County. More important, this represented 36.5 per cent of basic employment in the county, and thus it is presently reasonable to state that agriculture presently generates more than a third of the county's economic activity. Basic jobs are found primarily in agriculture, manufacturing, and government. If the population of Kern County is to keep pace with its neighbors, it must create many more basic job opportunities than exist at present. With the water project, agriculture can be expected to generate a portion of such jobs, and agriculturally oriented manufacturing another portion. Government will furnish another share, but a large increase will still be required in non-agriculturally oriented manufacturing.

Recent trends in manufacturing employment in Kern County have shown no increase. The number of jobs in this category was about the same in 1963 as in 1956. If this trend continues very far into the future, not enough jobs will be available to support the population levels forecast, and growth targets will not be met.

Growth

Growth is equated with progress in the United States, and it is generally held that the costs of growth are more than outweighed by the benefits. If Kern County seeks to grow, its administrators must take all possible steps to increase the number of basic job opportunities in the county. The water project will be one important step.

Healthy Agriculture Needed

Not having the project would be a severe blow to agriculture, with acreage in the KCWA service area reduced by about 30 per cent, as shown earlier. Such a blow cannot help but impair the area's ability to attract other sources of basic employment, particularly in competition with such counties as Fresno, Sacramento, Ventura, and San Diego, all of which have assured an ample water supply for all sectors of the economy. While it may be possible to create a climate of growth in Kern County without the water project, it will be infinitely easier to do so if the agricultural segment of the economy is healthy rather than sick.

Oregon State Dumps Southern Cal, 3-0

ORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—zing Oregon State pulled the shocker of the season rday by dumping top-ked Southern California 3-0 a second period field goal. ike Haggard's 30-yard kick 5:02 left in the first half dead center as a rugged gon State defense kept the previously undefeated Trojans in the hole except for the first quarter.

A record crowd of 41,494 that included Govs. Ronald Reagan of California and Tom McCall of Oregon watched the Beavers pull off a major upset for the third time this season.

Southern California halfback O. J. Simpson returned to action after a week's layoff for an injury, but even his herculean efforts were not enough. Simpson had 188 yards in 33 carries with 131 of them coming in the first half.

The Trojans never got inside the Oregon State 18 yard line as rugged Oregon State defenders Ron Boley, Mike Foote, J. K. Lewis and Skip Vanderbundt thwarted the USC attack.

Bout Scheduled

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dave Zyglewicz, Texas heavyweight boxing champion, will meet Bill McMurray, Sacramento, Calif., in a 10-round bout Nov. 21.

It was Vanderbund who gave the Beavers the break they needed late in the second quarter when he recoverd Southern Cal quarterback Steve Sogge's fumble at midfield.

Fullback Bill Enyart, whose bull-like rushes gave Oregon Sta the key first downs they needed in the second half, led an OSU drive to the Trojan 20. Then Haggard, who kicked three field goals when the Beavers upset Purdue and one when they tied UCLA last week, booted it home.

LIONS AHEAD

NEW YORK (UPI)—Penn State, off its 38-3 victory over Maryland Saturday, increased its lead in this week's balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern collegiate football supremacy.

The Nittany Lions received 79 points, compared to 71 for runner-up Army and 62 for third place Syracuse.

Longhorns Tumble Bears 24-0

USTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Quar-back Bill Bradley Saturday arheaded a 24-0 University of as victory over hapless ylor with an unerring air and two second quarter chdowns. The win gave as a share of the Southwest ference lead.

Bradley ran six yards and one yard, respectively for scores and connected on eight of 17 passes for 194 yards to pace Texas to a 17-0 halftime margin.

Rob Layne kicked a 32-yard field goal in the final two seconds of the half, and substitute quarterback James Street, who played most of the last two periods, passed to Ken Ehrig for a three-yard touchdown in the final three minutes for Texas' other scores.

Bradley hit 11 of 20 passes for 220 yards before leaving the game with 5:30 left in the third period, and Street finished up to give the Longhorns their best aerial display in Coach Darrell Royal's 11 years at the helm.

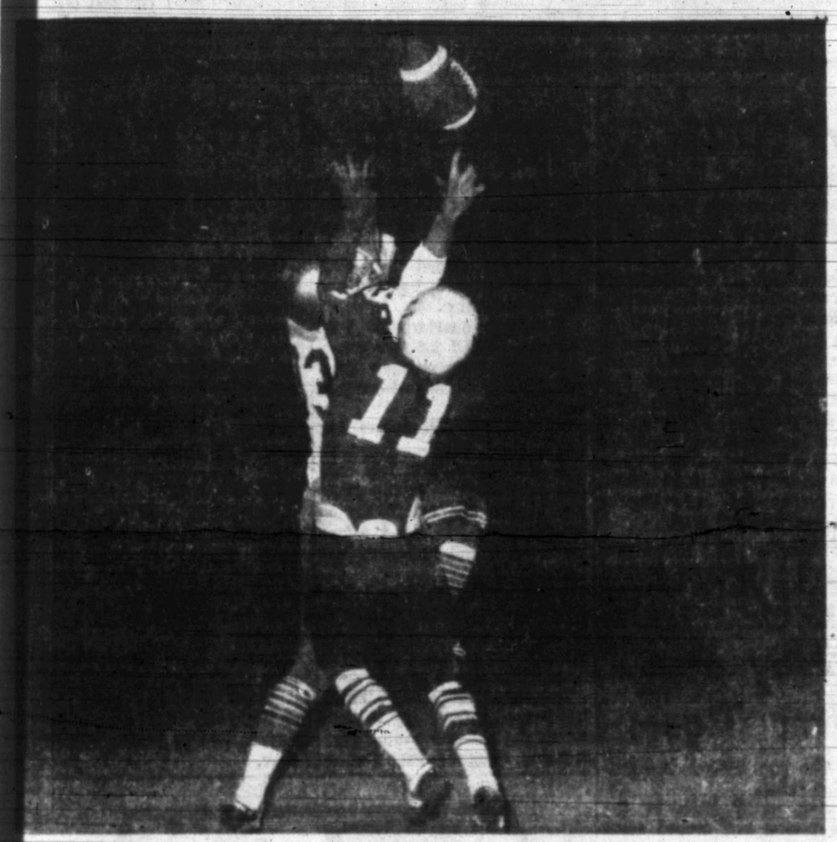

The victory moved Texas into a tie with idle Texas A&M for the conference lead.

The victory moved Texas into a tie with idle Texas A&M for the conference lead with a 4-1 mark. Texas Tech fell into second place in losing to Texas Christian.

Neither team could mount an offense in a slow first period, but Bradley brought Texas to life quickly in the second quarter after linebacker Joel Brame recovered a Baylor fumble at the Baylor nine.

Bradley carried it in from the six on the second play with Chris Gilbert, playing only briefly in the second period, throwing the key block.

The second Bradley score came with 2:24 to go in the half. He climaxed a 73-yard drive with a one yard sweep. The score was set up on a 60-yard pass to Ragan Gennusa.

TOUCHDOWN PAMPA—Tim Davis (83) watches the ball sail over the hands of Borger's Doug Darden (11) and into his awaiting hands as he scored Pampa's fourth touchdown of the season Friday night. Davis caught a Dwight Rogers pass and broke a Pampa scoreless string of 24 quarters. (See story, page 11).

Arkansas Upsets Rice

HOUSTON (UPI)—Arkansas' Gary Adams set up two touchdowns with punt returns and Tommy Trantham set up a third with a pass interception runback Saturday to lead the Razorbacks to a 23-9 upset over Rice University in a Southwest Conference game.

Wingback David Dickey, the leading scorer in the Southwest, scored two of the touchdowns on p nges of two and one yards, scored the other on a 35-yard pass from Ronnie South.

Rice's points came on a 41-yard, third quarter field goal by Frank Pusta and a two-yard plunge by Terry Shelton in the fourth quarter. Bob White kicked a 44-yard field goal for Arkansas' first points and converted twice.

It rained the last three quarters of a game that removed Rice's last chance of contending for the Southwest Conferecne championship.

Adams' first punt return was 35 yards to the Rice 45 in the second quarter. South Passed 10 yards to Dickey on the first play and then tossed 35 yards to Peacock, a non-scholarship athlete, for the touchdown.

Adams' other big return was 51 yards to the Rice 7 late in the third quarter. On the third play of the fourth quarter, Dickey dived over from the one for his 11th touchdown of the year.

Dickey's 66 points put him ahead of Houston's Kenny Hebert, whose 57 points had been tops in the Southwest.

Dickey's 10th touchdown of the season came in the second quarter after Trantham intercepted a Robert Hailey pass and returned it 53 yards to the Rice 11. On the next play, Dickey took an eight-yard pass from South. Then he pulled his way to the two and finally went for the touchdown.

Shelton, who led all runners with 92 yards in 23 carries, scored to climax a 86-yard drive. The big play was a 34-yard pass from Hailey to Shelton to the 2.

Hailey also threw to wingback Macon Hughes three times for 75 yards. Hughes tied a Rice school record with nine receptions.

South had another good day passing for Rice, completing nine of 13 for 141 yards, bringing his total for the last two games to 27 of 35 for 356 yards.

Houston in 35-18 Win Over Tigers

HOUSTON (UPI) —Paul Gipson scored three touchdowns and paced a second half splurge Saturday night that carried Houston's Cougars to a 35-18 victory over Memphis State.

Gipson, rushing for 154 yards in 22 carries, scored from the five in the second quarter and on runs of two and 12 yards in the third period.

Houston added two fourth-quarter touchdowns, one on a 52-yard pass from Dick Woodall to Calvin Achey and another on a one-yard sneak by reserve quarterback Ken Bailey.

Memphis State scored first in the game on a 43-yard pass from Ricky Thurow to Richard Coady. The Tigers scored twice in the fourth quarter on two-yard plunge by Russell Denof and 10-yard pass from Denof to Mickey Duncan.

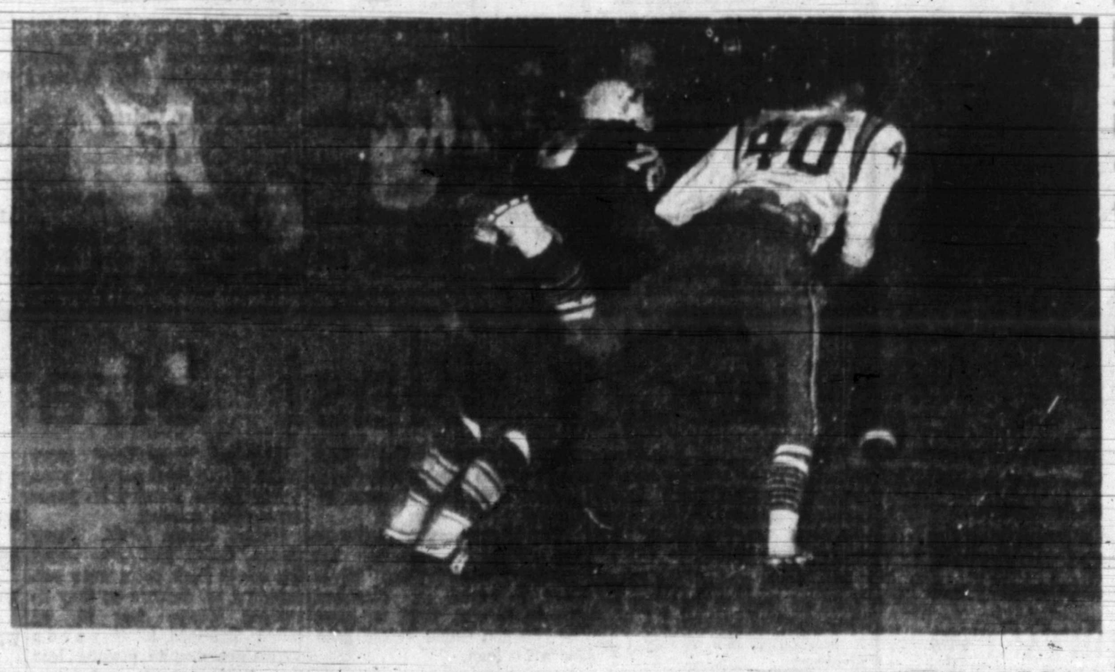

Nick Pappas set up Denof's touchdown with an 85-yard kickoff return to the 11 and Jerry Todd's 51-yard interception return to the Houston 23 set up the final score.

Split end Kenny Hebert kicked five extra points to bring his season's total to 62.

Gipson, who has gained 383 yards in his last two games, had plenty of help from halfback Warren McVea while the game was still in doubt.

McVea carried for 50 of Houston's 70 yards on the Cougars first touchdown drive and had 89 yards in 12 carries the first half. He played sparingly the second half and finished with 109 yards in 16 tries.

Houston's defense, best in the Southwest, held Memphis State to 84 yards in the second half when the Cougars dominated play.

LOOSE BALL — Pampa's Gary Parrish (40) and Borger's Lee Douglass (78) both eye this loose football and Parrish is going to recover it for the Harvesters, who lost to the Bulldogs, 34-7. (See story, page 11.)

Alabama Downs Louisiana State in 7-6 Squeaker

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Tenth - ranked Alabama relied on the running of tailback Ed Morgan and an alert defense to keep its Southeastern Conference title hopes alive Saturday night with a 7-6 win over Louisiana State University.

Morgan scored the only touchdown for the Crimson Tide and kicking specialist Steve Davis added the point after that turned out to be the margin of victory.

Tailback Tommy Allen scored LSU's single touchdown, but Roy Hurd missed the pass attempt.

Morgan, a 190 - pound junior from Hattiesburg, Miss., rolled up 81 yards in 25 plunges to wind up as the games leading ground gainer.

The victory lifted Alabama to 6-1-1 for the season and gave them a 4-1 conference mark. Tennessee, with a 3-0 record, leads the SEC.

LSU dropped to 4-3-1 overall and 2-2-1 in the conference.

Alabama's defense, led by right—linebacker Bob Childs, came up with two key interceptions and repeatedly threw Tiger quarterback Nelson Stokley for long losses.

Buffs Knock Kansas 12-8

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Tackle-busting Wilmer Cooks hammered for two touchdowns and a belting Colorado Buffalo defense held when it had to Saturday to bump Kansas out of the Big Eight Conference lead, 12-8.

Cooks pounded over from one-inch out and from the one-yard line, and the defenders held Big Eight total offense leader Bobby Douglass to one touchdown—a 50-yard throw to tight end John Mosier.

The loss gave Kansas a 4-1 Big Eight record and left Oklahoma alone atop the league standings with a 4-0 mark after whipping Iowa State 52-14 Saturday.

Colorado, trailing 8-6 at halftime, drove 46 yards in eight plays for its winning score after the defense, led by linebacker Kerry Mottl and back Ike Howard, stopped a Jayhawk march on the Colorado one.

The Colorado drive was highlighted by an 18-yard pass from quarterback Bob Anderson to split end Monte Huber and 11-yard cruise to the left by Anderson, setting up Cooks' second touchdown. The Jayhawks' march that stalled on the one was stopped after Douglass had moved them 79 yards on 10 plays, featuring a 44-yard pass up the middle to running back Junior Riggins.

Douglass's first quarter scoring pass was a strike down the middle to Mosier, who got behind the Buffalo secondary, grabbed the ball on the Buff 25 and raced in untouched.

Flanker Don Shanklin caught the Colorado defense napping on the extra point, catching the snap from center in position to hold for the kick, leaping up and taking a lonely run to the right into the end zone for two points.

NEW GOLF PRO

HOUSTON (UPI) — The El Dorado County Club has a new head pro. He is Jim Wright, an assistant pro at the River Oaks Country Club the last two years. Wright was a member of the Lamar Tech teams which won the NAIA national championships in 1960 and 1961.

Morris Carries West Texas To 37-18 Victory

GREENVILLE, N.C. (U I)—Running like his mythological namesake, West Texas State halfback Mercury Morris paced his team to a 37-13 victory over East Carolina University Saturday night.

Rebounding from a East Carolina touchdown, Morris came immediately back to score with a 44-yard sprint. The halfback also ran for touchdowns of 18 yards and one yard.

Another long run came in the fourth quarter from Buffalo quarterback Albie Owens. West Texas took an East Carolina punt on its 11 yard line. Morris ran the ball back to the 26 and Owens took the ball around left end for a 74-yard touchdown.

Other Buffalo scores came on a 28-yard pass from quarterback Roy Winters to fullback Charles Henderson. Donnie Pruitt kicked a field goal. Kicker Tommy Fanbrough made all the extra points.

Pirate fullback Butch Colson racking up 102 yards of ECU's 120-yard rushing total, plunged across from the one-foot line early in the game. The other East Carolina score came on a 28-yard pass from back Tom Grant to end Paul Schnurr.

East Carolina's rushing offense up to this game the second-ranked in the nation, could not get started against the Buffalo defense. The Pirates were only able to gain 120 yards on the ground and 125 in the air.

UCLA Blasts Huskies, 48-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Quarterback Gary Beban had his greatest day of the season Saturday when he passed for three touchdowns and ran over a fourth to lead undefeated but once-tied UCLA to a 48-0 victory over Washington in a Pacific Eight football game.

UCLA's win came as the nation's top-ranked Southern California Trojans were defeated 3-0 by Oregon State and left the Bruins leading the conference with the Trojans their next opponent.

The hardhitting UCLA team scored three times in the first period, three more in the second and then put in the reserves, who picked up the rest of the scoring in the fourth period. It was the Huskies' worst defeat in 11 years under Coach Jim Owens.

Beban gained 288 yards passing and 34 running. His 312-yard total was his greatest this year. Beban's previous best was 184 against California when he ran over one touchdown and passed for two more.

Texas Christian Crushes Texas Tech 16-0

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Texas Christian's P. D. Shabay knifed Texas Tech's Cotton Bowl hopes with a 46-yard scoring pass to soph Bill Ferguson on the fifth play of the game Saturday and TCU went on to a 16-0 upset.

The victory snapped a seven-game TCU touchdown drought at home, while the defeat dropped Texas Tech to a 3-2 Southwest Conference record and dashed any hope the Raiders had of staying tied with Texas A&M and Texas for the conference lead and a shot at past season play.

TCU went on from that opening minutes shocker to widen the margin on a 25-yard third quarter field goal by soph Wayne Merritt and a one-yard fourth quarter plunge by Ross Montgomery also set up by a Shabay-to-Ferguson pass, but it was that first scoring strike that settled the issue.

While TCU's offense came alive for the second game in a row after five straight defeats, its sophomore-studded defense kept Tech bottled up deep in its own end of the field much of the afternoon and forced fumbles and picked off interceptions to stifle the Tech offense which had been leading the nation in rushing with 269.5 yards per game.

That TCU defense, featuring first-year man Donnie Terveen, James Vanderslice and Terry Shackelford up front, and still bad stop.

TCU went on from that opening minutes shocker to widen the margin on a 25-yard third quarter field goal by soph fourth quarter plunge by Ross Montgomery, also set up by a Shabay-to-Ferguson pass, but it allowed Tech no deeper than the TCU 27-yard line, that in the final minute of the game.

Until then, Tech had not crossed mid-field on its own momentum, since the first quarter, but then got no deeper than the TCU 39. Tech's Kenny Vinyard attempted 57 and 50-yard field goals in the first half, but failed to come close.

Tech, which managed only 183 yards total offense, suffered its first shutout since Arkansas beat the Raiders 17-0 in 1964.

Sooners Blast I-State

AMES, Iowa (UPI)— Quick Oklahoma, hot in pursuit of its first Big Eight title since 1962, struck fast and often Saturday in a 52-14 whipping of Iowa State.

The Sooners, a step ahead of Iowa State on almost every play, opened up with three touchdowns in the first quarter and added two more in the second quarter before head coach Chuck Fairbanks began pouring in his reserves.

Oklahoma's point total was the largest ever rolled up against a Clay Stapleton-coached Cyclone team in a conference game. Texas Tech also scored 52 points against Iowa State in a non-conference game this year.

Iowa State became the first team to score two touchdowns against ninth-ranked Oklahoma this season.

Oklahoma's offense generated a total of 539 yards — 269 on the ground and 270 in the air— despite the fact that the second and third string players were in action through most of the second half.

Halfbacks Ron Shotts and Steve Owens scored two touchdowns each for the Sooners. Quarterback Bob Warmack ran 25 yards for a touchdown and connected on a 76-yard pass play to end Steve Zabel for another score.

Defensive halfback Bob Stephenson ran 21 yards with an intercepted pass for another Soon tercepted pass fo ranother Sooner touchdown. With less than two minutes to go, third string Quarterback Mickey Ripley threw a 14-yard pass to Bo Denton for the Sooners' eighth and final touchdown.

Defensive halfback Jerry Fiat scored the Cyclones' first touchdown when he blocked a punt and ran 50 yards with the ball. John Warder hit Tom Busch on an eight-yard scoring pass for Iowa State's other touchdown.

Warmack passed 13 times, completed seven for 171 yards. Halfback Eddie Hinton led the Sooner running game, ripping off 59 yards in six carries for a 9.8 average.

NICE GAINER — Borger's Dave White (15) picked up 11 yards on this carry Friday night before Pampa's Wayne Williams (21) and Frank McCampbell (82) ran out out of bounds. Borger won, 34-7. (See story page 11).

Huskers Blank Pokes

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) —Nebraska parlayed its usual visious defensive play with a five-yard touchdown pass and a 29-yard field goal Saturday to conquer Oklahoma State, 9-0, in a key Big Eight battle.

The touchdown strike was from big (6-7) quarterback Frank Patrick to flanker Dennis Richnafsky and came with 2:21 left in the second quarter.

It culminated a 67-yard march highlighted by the running thrusts of speedy sophomore halfback Joe Orduna.

The field goal was kicked by Bill Bomberger late in the fourth quarter after another Nebraska drive bogged down.

The game, played before a sellout homecoming throng of 65,461, was a struggle of belligerent defenses for the most part. It was Nebraska's third consecutive shutout and fourth of the season.

Led by 230-pound All-America middle guard Wayne Meylan and 245-pound tackle Jim McCordon the Cornhusker front wall allowed Oklahoma State a scant 37 years rushing.

However, the visitors had their opportunities and could not capitalize on them. Three times the Cowboys moved inside the Nebraska 25-yard line—once to the 9—only to be repulsed by Nebraska's stout defensive unit.

A 51-yard field goal effort by Cra Kessler of Oklahoma fell far short in the second quarter. In the third period, the Cowboys drove to the Nebraska 11, then set up for another field goal attempt but instead had a reserve quarterback Bruce Scott pass to Terry Brown. The pass was incomplete.

Early in the fourth period Oklahoma State blocked a Nebraska punt and recovered on the Husker 26. Quarterback Ronnie Johnson directed the Cowboys to the Nebraska 15 here he fumbled and the opportunistic Nebraska defense recovered.

The victory was Nebraska's sixth this season against two losses and kept alive the Husker's hopes of at least a share of the Big Eight crown. Oklahoma State now is 2-4-1 and was knocked out of any chance for the Big Eight title.

Penn St. Edges Unbeaten 'Pack

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Penn State's sophomore-dominated defense stopped North Carolina State on the one yard line in the final half minute and dumped the third ranked Wolfpack from the list of unbeaten 13-8 Saturday.

The North Carolina team, stopped cold throughout the first half, came to life in the final two periods but the stubborn Penn State defense refused to let the Wolfpack cross its goal line.

North Carolina State was held to a pair of field goals and a safety.

The Lions opened with a rush and had North Carolina down by two touchdowns after less than seven minutes of the first period. Penn State drove 60 yards with the opening kickoff and went ahead 7-0 on a Tom Sherman to Ted Kwalik 18-yard pass.

Less than three minutes later, Dennis Onkotz intercepted a Wolfpack pass and raced 67 yards behind good blocking for the second Penn State goal.

It was almost like two separate games. The Lions dominated the entire first half but in the final two quarters they never had the ball past their own 35 yard line. The Wolfpack was continually knocking on the Penn State door, but they had to settle for a pair of field goals by Gerry Warren, his 14th and 15th of the season.

Missouri Rolls 28-6

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI)—Missouri erupted for three touchdowns in the final period and limited Kansas State to 18 yards total offense to land the Wildcats their fifth consecutive loss 28-6.

Missouri intercepted two Bill Nossek passes to ignite scoring drives in the last quarter. Quarterback Gary Kombrink swept eight yards around left end in the opening seconds of the period to push Missouri to a 14-6 lead.

Six minutes later the Tigers capped a 61-yard scoring drive with another touchdown to move to a 21-6 advantage with Ron McBride scampering 26 yards.

Steve Kenemore added the final score with a one-yard plunge.

A dazzling 50-yard scoring jaunt by Jon Staggers pushed the Tigers to a 7-6 halftime lead. Staggers, returning after a month off with injuries, reversed his field on the 50-yard line and sped through the K-State secondary.

Missouri's smothering defense limited the Wildcats to minus 27 yards rushing and only 45 yards through the air.

The Wildcats, who scored in the first period without recording a first down, were limited to only five first downs in the game.

K-State moved to its 6-0 lead midway in the first quarter, recovering a Missouri fumble on the Tiger 10. Three plays later Nossek fired a 10-yard aerial to Larry Brown for the score.

A stubborn Missouri defense pinned K-State deep in their own territory for most of the game. Kansas State twice penetrated within the Missouri 15 in the final quarter, but each time the Tiger defense held.

It was Kansas State's seventh loss in eight games and left them in the Big Eight cellar with an 0-5 league mark.

Staggers led both teams in rushing with 68 yards, including his 50-yard scoring dash. Missouri recorded 277 yards rushing and 55 through the air, and 20 first downs as compared to the Wildcats five, but the game was not decided until the final period.

Canadian Ends Season at 6-4

CANADIAN—Sunray felt the fury of Wildcats Friday night as Canadian finished the season on a winning note, their first winning year in some time.

The Wildcats scored almost at will to rip Sunray, 39-8 in a District 1-A football game. The victory enabled Canadian to finish in third place with a 2-2 conference reading and the 'Cats ended the season with a glossy 6-4 mark.

Canadian ran up a 33-0 halftime score and then coach Dwayne Currie cleared his bench to let everybody get in this last game of the season.

Gary Faulkner got the ball rolling for the 'Cats as he plunged in from the three in the first period and Terry Robinett kicked the conversion.

Still in the first period Gary Purser scampered in from nine yards, the kick failed but the 'Cats held a 13-0 lead after one period.

In the second quarter Canadian really began to play. Faulkner sprinted in from 38-yards out. Again the kick failed.

Robinett then tossed a 30-yard aerial to Jerry Thomas and Bill Hobdey kicked the conversion.

Robinett cranked up his arm again and hit Purser with a 13-yard aerial and the 'Cats led 33-0 at the two quarter mark.

Canadian didn't score in the third period but in the final quarter halfback Kevin Koch rambled 50-yards to cross the goalline.

Indy Nips M-St, 14-13

EAST LANSING, MICH. (UPI —Sophomore halfback John Isenberger burst around right end with 2:50 remaining Saturday to carry miraculous Indiana to its eighth victory, 14-13, over Michigan State and a step closer to its first Rose Bowl trip in history.

Dave Kornowa calmly dissolved a 13-13 tie with his vital extra point after the touchdown.

Purdue Thumps Gophers, 41-12

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Incredible Leroy Keyes rewrote the Big Ten scoring record with three touchdowns as Purdue rode over Minnesota in the mud Saturday, 41-12, for its fifth consecutive conference triumph.

The victory kept the fifth-ranked Boilermakers tied for the Big Ten lead with undefeated Indiana and dropped the Gophers to third place.

Keyes, the country's top collegiate scorer, smashed over Purdue's first touchdown on a two yard plunge, then ran over from the three and eight to give him on 408 points for the season, and 84 in the conference, shattering the previous league season scoring mark of 78 by Purdue's Tony Butkovich, in 1943.

Fumble Paves Way For Gruver Win Over Tigers

GRUVER—A fumble proved costly for McLean Friday night as the Tigers ended the 1967 football season on a sad note, in two ways.

Gruver recovered a Tiger fumble with just under two minutes left in the game and the Greyhounds turned it into the winning touchdown and a 14-12 victory in a non-conference bout.

McLean finished the season with a 5-5 record and due to Wheeler's loss to Clarendon finished second in District 2-A with a 3-1 record. The Tigers had a chance to tie for the title had Wheeler won their game.

But even finishing at 5-5 the Tigers did better than the so-called 'experts' thought, pointing out another good coaching job by Fred Hedgecoke.

Gruver, the District 1-A co-champs and representatives of the district in the regional playoffs, had to come from behind twice to run their season record to 7-3.

McLean went in front 6-0 in the first period when Steve Hester went over from 10-yards out. The run try for the conversion failed.

Gruver came back in the same period and scored when Dan Ralston scampered over from the 12 and Mike McLain kicked the conversion for a 7-6 lead as the period ended.

The score stood the same way until the fourth period and Hester tallied again, this time on a 20-yard end run. But again the run for the conversion failed making it 12-7.

But the fatal fourth came when McLean was driving for another score but fumbled and the Greyhounds got the ball back. Dean Bayless tallied with 29 seconds left and McLain kicked good for the victory.

Wyoming Romps to 42-6 Win

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —Jerry Depoyster, the nation's leading kicker booted for 15 points and broke two NCAA records Saturday as Wyoming's seventh-ranked Cowboy's notched their 13th straight victory 42-6 in a Western Athletic Conference contest with New Mexico.

The 6-2 senior booted four field goals and kicked three extra points, bringing his career points to 175, five more than the record set by Princeton's Charlie Gogolak in 1963-65. He re-established his collegiate field goal record at 34.

Wyoming's Vic Washington smashed a 24-year-old national punt return mark as he logged his 50th and brought his total punt return yardage to 539. The previous season record of 49 returns was set by Thomas Flanagan in 1943.

Depoyster added two field goals in the second period and two in the third.

Wyoming quarterback Paul Toscano passed for two touchdowns and ran another from mid-field on his longest carry of the season.

Flanker Hub Lindsey grabbed an 11-yard pass — Toscano's first TD throw—with less than five minutes gone in the game and logged his eighth season scoring record to tie a school mark set in 1951 by Dewey McConnell.

Wyoming's fifth-ranked defense held the UNM Lobos to 29 minus yards rushing yards while an impressive Cowboy offense covered 454 yards.

The Lobos' only score came late in the game when Ace Hendricks, the nation's leading pass receiver, caught a Rick Beitler pass and ran 74 yards, becoming the first Lobo receiver to gain over 1,000 yards in a season.

Wyoming became the only team in WAC history to go two straight seasons without a conference loss. The win gave them their fifth conference victory this season and the ninth straight in this year's play.

With 13 straight victories, the Cowboys are the winningest team in the nation.

SWIM RECORD

LENINGRAD (UPI)—Vladimir Kosinsky, a double gold medal winner in the Pre-Olympics in Mexico City, set a record Wednesday in the 100-meter breast stroke in the time of 1:06.7.

Kosinsky, 22, a former Soviet junior champion, clipped two tenths of a second from the previous record held by another Russian, Georgy Prokopenko of Lovov.

Bucks Blast Stratford

WHITE DEER — A co-championship is better than none at all and the White Deer Bucks had this in mind Friday when Stratford, came to town but wished they hadn't.

The Bucks played like champions as they finished as co-champions of District 1-A with a resounding 46-0 victory over Stratford.

Thus the Bucks finish the season at 8-1-1 and windup conference action at 3-0-1, same as Gruver who will represent the district by virture of a 3-0 win over the Bucks in penetrations last week.

Coach Sherill Bottoms cleared his bench in every quarter and the stars were plentiful as the Bucks got the bad taste of last week's scoreless deadlock out of their mouths.

Although he scored only one touchdown Buck Quarterback Stan Bush wrapped up the Top O' Texas area scoring title.

The Bucks welcomed back John Paul Guinn, who hadn't seen action since the third game of the season and Guinn converted on four of seven attempts.

Mike Hawpe got the Bucks on the scoreboard following the opening kickoff when White Deer recovered a Stratford fumble. Hawpe went in from the two and Guinn kicked good for a 7-0 lead.

The next time they got the ball speedster Lonnie Lane tripped in from the 10 and again Guinn kicked good for a 14-0 first period lead.

White Deer scored three times in the second period.

Bush passed 23-yards to Greg Thomas for the first one, Guinn missed the kick, then Hawpe bulled his way in from the 16 and Guinn kicked good. The next one came on Bush's score, a six yard keeper and White Deer led at halftime 33-0.

Lane added a touchdown in the third period for the Bucks as he sprinted 75 yards and Guinn added the conversion.

The last White Deer score came in the final period when Bruce Locke plunged 10- yards across the goalline.

Hawpe, Monte Kreis, Jerry Grage, Guinn and just about the whole Buck team were outstanding on defense as they limited Stratford to 44 yards 23 tackles despite playing less than half a game and intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

So tough was the Buck defense they forced Stratford to fumble four times and intercepted three passes.

Coach Sherrill Bottoms summed up his season this way, "The leadership by our senior boys this year has been the best I've ever seen. I can never express to these seniors how much I appreciate what they have done for us."

Harvesters Score, But Lose 34-7

By RON CROSS

BORGER — Between penalties James Lee Robinson and Tony Evans wrecked Pampa's defense Friday night, although the Harvesters did something they hadn't been able to do in six games this year.

Robinson ran for 203 yards rushing on 13 carries and Evans picked up 179 more and three touchdowns as the Bulldogs routed Pampa, 34-7 in the season ending football game for each team.

You read it right — Pampa scored. They really scored twice but an 89-yard touchdown scamper by Steve Summers on a pass interception was called back by offsetting penalties.

Penalties were plentiful in this North zone District 3-4A clash. Officials dropped red flags 21 times, 17 of them resulting in penalties. Pampa picked up 50 yards on eight calls and Borger had 105 yards stepped off on nine calls.

The Bulldogs, however, could overcome theirs but Pampa couldn't and the Harvesters bowed out with an 0-10 season mark, 0-4 conference reading and suffered their 10th straight loss to Borger.

The Bulldogs finished 3-7 and 2-2 for the year.

Borger speed killed Pampa and Robinson and Evans, plus a mixture of quarterback Randy Hanna, who picked up 59 yards and reserve fullback-halfback Cole Fraley, who had 80 lengths on eight carries, was just too much.

The score could have been worse had it not been for Summers. The Hard luck Senior intercepted two passes and time after time caught the fleet Borger backs when it looked like they were headed for the Pampa goalline.

The Borger ground attack rocked the Harvesters for 582 yards and the Bulldogs added 51 more through the air, although they hit only two of seven aerials.

Pampa could muster just 35 yards on the ground and 54 more through the air on six of 17 aerial shots.

Quarterback Dwight Rogers hit five of 10 for 49 yards and a touchdown and while Summers had his worse night of the year hitting only one of seven and had an interception.

Flanker back Wayne Williams led Pampa ball carriers with 21 yards on five carries while Summers had six yards on the same number of totes although he had the longest gainer of the night, a 17-yard pickup.

The Pampa scoring drought ended with nine seconds to play when Rogers spotted Gary Parrish in the end zone but overshot him and end Tim Davis, seeing his first action of the year, cradled the ball in at the end zone.

Thus the Harvesters ended their scoreless string at 24 quarters and five games.

It actually had ended earlier in the final period when Summers intercepted the pass on his own 11 and raced untouched down the west sidelines to tally.

But officials slipped the red flags out and Summers run had been for naught.

Borger wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard with Evans sprinting 67 yards on the 'Dogs second play from scrimmage. Jerry Davis kicked good for a 7-0 lead with 8:10 left in the period.

The very next time the 'Dogs got the ball Robinson sprinted 14 yards to paydirt ending an 80-yard drive that took only seven plays. Again Davis kicked good for a 14-0 first period lead.

The Bulldogs added another marker in the second period when Hanna capped a 84 yard drive by dashing 30 yards with 3:15 left in the half. Davis kicked his third conversion for a 21-0 Borger lead at halftime.

The Bulldogs wasted no time adding to their point total in the second half as they took their opening kickoff and marched 68-yards in only seven plays with Evans dashing in from the two after he had made a 31-yard run and Robinson had scampered 24 yards to keep the drive alive. Davis kicked his fourth straight point and the quarter ended at 28-0.

Evans ran the final Borger marker, going in from the one but Davis missed the kick.

The Harvester offense could muster but five first downs and two of these came on penalties.

Groom 5-B Champs

By HOWARD MOORE
News City Editor

GROOM — The Groom Tigers rolled over the Lefors Pirates, 40-0, Friday night at Tigers Field to claim the District B-5 championship. The Tigers will represent the district in bi-district play against the winners of the 6-B conference.

In the won and loss totals for the season Groom is tied with Booker who defeated Follett, 23-11, Friday night, but it was agreed by the superintendents of the four schools that Groom be declared champion since the Tigers had beaten Booker earlier in the season.

Sparked by the spectacular passing and running of Mike Helton, the baseball figures of Ends Hal Howerton and Bobby Goodlett, and the running and driving of Denny Babcock, the Tigers were never in contention.

The first touchdown in the first period came by virtue of a 40-yard pass from Helton to Goodlett. Babcock added a two-point conversion by plunging through right tackle.

In the second quarter the Tigers crossed the goal line twice. Babcock went over from the 3 but the pass for extra points was incomplete. Helton went over the pay stripe from the 2 on a keeper for the third TD and Ronnie Fields kicked the extra point giving the Tigers a 21-0 lead at half time.

The defensive squads of both teams displayed excellent performance in the third stanza with neither club scoring. The Pirates got to the Tigers' 24-yard stripe but Fullback Gary Smith lacked six inches making a first down on the fourth down.

A 37-yard pass from Helton to Howerton was good for another six points in the final frame. Fields kick was no good.

Another spectacular pass from Helton to Goodlett in the end zone from his 24 accounted for the next touchdown. Helton kicked the extra point to make the score 34 to 0 with a minute and 47 seconds left to play.

Howerton intercepted his second pass of the evening and scored the final TD. The conversion failed.

District 2-A Title Goes to Clarendon

By JEFF HOLLADAY
Daily News Staff Writer

WHEELER—A bobbled punt attempt early in the fourth quarter here Friday night by Wheeler gave Clarendon the break it needed to edge past the Mustangs 7-0 and sew up the District 2-A title.

A high snap over the head of Wheeler's punter Dave Britt, standing deep in his own end, sent the ball sailing into the end zone where an alert Bronco pounced on it to give the Broncos the winning margin. Phillip Longan kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0.

Clarendon threatened to score twice earlier in the game, but both drives fizzled out. The Broncos drove 43 yards in the second quarter down to the Wheeler 20 but couldn't get the needed two yards to sustain the drive.

The Broncos drove 69 yards in the third period, with some flashy running by backs Steve Land and Charles Louis, but again came up short on needed yardage. The drive died at the Wheeler 14.

Wheeler could never muster a serious offensive threat and never penetrated beyond the Clarendon 34 yard line.

The victory wrapped up the District 2-A title for Clarendon and now gives them a 6-3-1 record thus far in the season. The Broncos will meet Gruver, champions of District 1-A, in a bi-district clash.

A win by Wheeler would have thrown the district crown into a re-hash of last year's three-way tie between Clarendon, Wheeler and McLean. Victory Friday night gave the Broncos the title outright.

Wheeler finished the season with a 5-5 record and 2-2 district mark. Clarendon finishs 4-0 and McLean 3-1.

Pampa Junior Service League Sponsors Annual Charity Ball at Country Club

A gala evening is promised for patrons of the annual Charity Ball sponsored by the Pampa Junior Service League at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Pampa Country Club.

The top project to benefit from the proceeds of the affair will be speech and hearing tests and vision screening for pre-school children in Pampa. Buddy Stephens, head of the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center will conduct the tests in First Presbyterian Church April 23, 24 and 25. Vision screening will be added to the testing program for the first time this year. Children entering school for the first time in 1968 will be tested with full cooperation of the Pampa School District.

The Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center trains children with speech and hearing problems from infancy through grade school. Out-of-town children attending the school live in foster homes during the week and go home with their parents on week ends.

Guests at the Charity Ball will dance to the music of Mal Fitch and his orchestra. The Fitch Orchestra is rapidly becoming known as a "society orchestra" in Texas having been engaged for the Governor's Ball, Idlewilde Ball in Dallas, and the Assembly Ball in Fort Worth. His music is reminiscent of the Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman era.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitch harmonize their artistic talents into more than performing for the society balls. They moved to Dallas 14 years ago and combine their activities in home, music, education and church work. They moved to the "Queen City on the Plains" from Dayton, Ohio, where they appeared on television as the "Mal and Betty Fitch Show."

Their home includes three daughters, Cathy and Debbie, both teenagers, and a son, Douglas, 10.

Their church activities are centered in East Dallas Christian, where in 1967 Mal Fitch was elected a deacon and member of the church board.

Away from work as the blonde vocalist with her husband's orchestra, Mrs. Fitch concentrates on cooking, water color painting and gardening.

The orchestra's 1967-68 engagements include the Governor's Inaugeral Ball, Texas Bar Association Ball, Fiesta Week, San Antonio; Bachelors' Ball, Austin; Galaxie Ball, Austin; Idlewild Debutante Ball, Dallas; Assembly Ball, Fort Worth; Tyler Rose Festival; Neiman Marcus Fortnight and Symphony Ball, Amarillo.

Mal Fitch was a state contest winner as a violinist at the age of 11, a band leader and arranger at the age of 14 and second Army Band leader and arranger at the age of 19. This begins a career in music for Mal Fitch.

With his Army band, he recorded for Armed Forces Radio Services and toured the east coast. After college, he turned to working as a single playing top clubs and hotels in baltimore, Dayton, Cleveland, Detroit and Dallas.

He has worked as conductor-accompaniest to the Crew-Cuts and appeared with such acts as Mel Torme, Four Lads, Patti Page, Marion McPartland and Lena Horne.

Following long runs at the Sherator Cadillac in Detroit and the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, he joined the Crew-Cuts as musical director, conductor, playing piano and arranging. He not only conducted on their recordings but travelled with them on all engagements including a two-month tour of England.

After sharing star billing with Lena Horne at the Palladium in London, he put his teacher training to work as an instructor in history of civilization at W. W. Samuel High School.

He said he liked his teaching experience, but had to give it up when his music engagement schedule became too heavy.

On several engagements, including the Statler in Cleveland, he received good reports from the critics. This eventually led to his return to performer status as a single act.

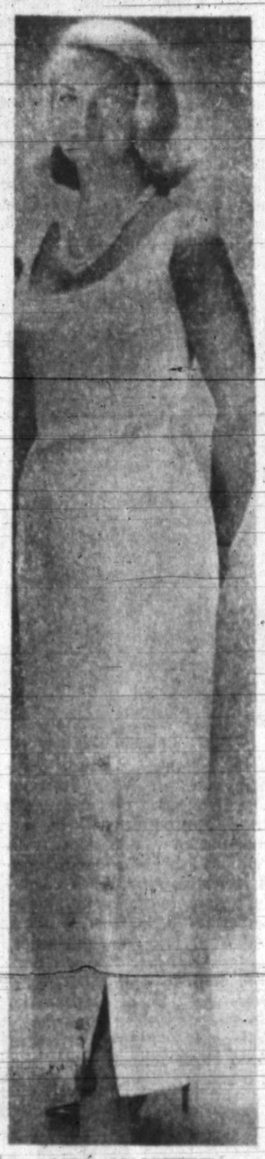

During the period with the Crew-Cuts, he recorded a 12 inch LP album which was released and marked his debut as a recording artist.

The reception of these records by the public, as well as experts such as Leonard Feather, also influenced Mal to return to working as a "single act." Personal appearances followed in leading clubs from Chicago to Dallas to Florida to Houston. A second album followed on 90th Floor Records and the Mal Fitch Trio and Quartette were in demand.

During two long engagements at the Cipango Club in Dallas, Mal saw the need for a larger orchestra that could be versatile enough to provide dance music for various age groups of Texas society. With some musicians in the Southwest, he was able to bridge the gap found in the tempos desired by the debutantes and the tempos their parents want. In two years The Mal Fitch Orchestra has become known and accepted as "the party music of Dallas".

In the last two years, they have played for every major social event in Dallas and have branched out to Fort Worth for the Assembly Ball. In 1965 they moved further into Texas society with their engagement for the National Headliners' Ball in Austin, The Petroleum Ball and Opera Balls in Dallas, and parties in Houston and Corpus Christi. They have been mentioned as the "society music of Dallas" in international Diplomat magazine.

Betty Fitch is also a musician and vocalist. She met Mal when they were booked together on the same engagement. After a year with their own television show and a period of semi-retirement during which their three children were born, she rejoined the orchestra and added the assets of poise, beauty and an excellent voice to the dance music of the orchestra.

MRS. MAL FITCH
. . . vocalist

The orchestra, also called 11 men and a girl. . . is the most often engaged orchestra in Dallas . .The full orchestral sound, full chord voicing, versatility in arrangements, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman styles plus Cavallero and others, makes the distinctive Fitch beat like an infectious lift of the combo beat which makes dancers out of toe-tappers.

The 16-piece orchestra is augmented with five violins for an exquisite sound only strings can add, the deb parties often use the string ensemble as well as the Crystal Charity Ball. (Since only symphony violinists are used, out-of-town dates are limited).

The leader has had 22 years experience in the music profession. . .conductor- arranger to several stars, band leader of the 2nd Army Band 1947-48 as well as a firm background in orchestra.

Few Women Know How to Fix Flats

DALLAS (Spl) — Know how to change a flat tire?

If you're a woman, the odds are better than 10 to 1 that you don't.

"Yet, more and more women are starting out on long motor trips ill-prepared for the mechanical troubles they might run into," advised James C. Craig, president of the 200,000-member National Motor Club.

"It is probably impossible for today's busy career women and housewives to tackle a course in auto mechanics, but with the help of their husbands, the neighborhood car dealer or the local service station mechanic, they can and should learn a few of the basics, including how to change a flat tire."

Craig said that possibly the most important thing a woman can learn about her car is how often certain parts of the car should be checked by a qualified mechanic to insure the car's proper operation.

"Men and women alike are better, safer drivers when their automobile is in the best working order," Craig noted.

'Space' Race Extends Into Handbag Fashion World

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The latest space race goes on in the fashion world. The mini-skirt, and the mini-everything-else in this mad age.

The space race simply is this: figuring how to fit the contents of a capacious "old fashioned" handbag, say 12 x 14 inches, into one of the stylish new purses which may measure no more than four by five inches, sort of like trying to fit the contents of four closets into a wardrobe, or 20 college kids into one telephone booth.

To those of us who've tried to solve the problem, there seem to be four solutions:

—One, settle for carrying less in a purse, and help stamp out all those jokes about contents of women's handbags while we're at it;

—Two, equip an office drawer with a supply of what normally is carried in a purse . . . makeup, hair spray, an extra pair of white gloves;

—Three, ignore fashion dictates and hang onto the outside bag;

—Four, modernize the nursery rhyme to "two bags full" and carry a mini bag plus a shopping bag, or brown envelope.

The two-handbag technique is suggested by Greta of Greta Originals, the New York designer who helped to start the whole mini-bag trend. (No, she does not advocate shopping bag or manila envelope.)

"I began doing small handbags six or seven years ago," said Greta, "long before mini-skirts and all that jazz. Women were asking for smaller, more elegant purses for day and evening . . . leaving the oversize ones for sports and casual wear."

Take a tote and a mini," she said. "Leave the tote at home when you go out in the evening . . . carry the mini. It'll hold all you need."

Greta and other pace-setting designers are making the minis in some instances as small as three one-half by four and one-half inches. They're graduated upward—a little—in size, done in pale and dark shades of calf, kid, suede, patent, pig and cabretta. Some of the five by six inchers are made with several compartments and are designed to expand, like an accordion.

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do I have the right to insist that my boy friend remove the tattoo from over his heart? It says Sharon. Before we started going together, he went with this girl named Sharon. I never knew her, but I am very jealous of her.

My boy friend says you can never remove a tattoo once it is on, but I have heard that you can. I suppose he could cover it with a piece of adhesive tape, or maybe go back for some more tattooing and change the Sharon to some kind of a scene or design.

Anyway, I can't see marrying a guy with Sharon on his chest. He says it doesn't bother him. Well, it bothers me. Am I wrong to feel this way, and isn't there some way to get it off?

MILLIE

DEAR MILLIE: Assuming your boy friend doesn't still have Sharon under his skin, he could easily get her off his chest. Tell him that a skin specialist can remove the tattoo. And he won't have to hold still for any further needling.

DEAR ABBY: The other evening while I was preparing supper, my husband's unmarried sister dropped in, as she often does. She asked me to call her mother and tell her a lie as to why she wasn't going to be home for supper that night. I told her if her mother found out that I lied to her she wouldn't think much of me as a person, and I just didn't want to do it.

She replied, "Well, she does not think much of you anyway. She is always talking about the way you dress, and the way you do your hair and your make-up — how overdone it is."

Abby, I was crushed. I always try to look my best and people are always complimenting me on how fashionable I dress, and how well-groomed I look. I never thought I overdid it. I have been just heartsick about it. Should I discuss it with my husband? Should I take it up with my mother-in-law, or what?

HURT

DEAR HURT: You don't say how old your sister-in-law is, but if she's more than 16 she's a nitwit. Don't discuss it with your husband. And don't take it up with your mother-in-law. Maybe she said it and maybe she didn't. Avoid your sister-in-law. Either she's too unreliable to be believed, or she is a first class troublemaker.

DEAR ABBY: We are another pair of "in-laws" who are called nothing by our daughter-in-law. After 2 years we are still greeted with "Hi." When we told our son we would like to be called something (after all, even a dog has a name) he said he'd mention it to his wife, but apparently he never has.

Perhaps some good came of this, because we finally woke up and for years we deprived ourselves of luxuries so our son could have a college education. We never took vacations because we were saving for him.

My husband isn't too well, and now I've persuaded him to retire early and enjoy himself instead of worrying about how much he will leave to our son and his family.

It seems that addressing us in some half-way respectful manner poses a tremendous "problem" to our son's wife. If she thinks this is a problem, wait until he reads our wills!

"HI'S" IN-LAWS

DEAR ABBY: As I sit here watching my beautiful baby boy while he so cheerfully laughs and plays with his little stuffed doggy, I want very much to know something.

Do fathers of illegitimate children ever think of their precious offspring? If you can't answer my question, maybe they can. Thank you.

Mrs. E.L. Henderson Reports Life Of President Hoover for DAR

Mrs. E. L. Henderson was guest speaker for the monthly meeting of Las Pampas Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution in Jackson's Cafeteria recently. Mrs. Henderson was introduced by Mrs. W. S. Dixon who mentioned the Henderson family was chosen "Family of the Year" by the True Teens Service Club this year.

In her address, "Hoover, the Man", Mrs. Henderson said Herbert Hoover was born Aug. 20, 1874, at West Branch, Iowa. His parents, Jesse and Hulda (Minthorn) Hoover, were Quakers.

He became an orphan at age 10 and moved to Newburg, Ore. to live with an uncle. He entered the Pacific Academy, a secondary school. Six years later, with $300 he had earned and saved, he entered the new Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif.

To stretch his meager savings, he started laundry and news paper routes and was student assistant to a professor. He spent his summers as a land surveyor. In 1895 he was graduated with a degree in mining engineering.

His first job was in a Sierra Nevada mine where he worked for $2.50 a day as a pick and shovel laborer. After several months, he was hired by a San Francisco mining engineering firm and at the age of 23 was sent to Australia to organize and manage a newly discovered gold mine. He was so successful he received an offer from the Chinese government to become chief engineer for the Chinese government's mining operations.

In 1899 he returned to the United States and married Miss Lou Henry at Monterey, Calif. He had met Miss Henry at Stanford. While in China they were caught in the Boxer Rebellion. The Hoovers had two sons, Herbert Jr., and Allan.

Over the next 15 years he acquired extensive mining interests throughout the world but his mining organization collapsed when the Naval blockades of World War I cut sea transportation lines between his mines and industrial markets.

Continuing, Mrs. Henderson said President Woodrow Wilson called Mr. Hoover to organize the huge civilian transportation effort to bring Americans home who were stranded in Europe during the World War.

This completed, he was appointed chairman of the United States Commission for Belgium Relief. He led the U. S. Relief Commission to feed starving children in defeated nations. He refused compensation for his relief work. He served as Secretary of Commerce in the Cabinet of President Warren G. Harding. In 1928 he was nominated and elected President and was inaugurated March 4, 1929.

Franklin Roosevelt defeated him for the second term as President. Herbert Hoover remained in the shadows of public life until President Harry Truman called him to co-ordinate post-war Europe and Asia relief in 1946 and to conduct an economic mission to South America a year later. President Dwight Eisenhower appointed him chairman of a government re-organizing committee.

After almost 50 years of continual public service, Mr. Hoover died in New York City Oct.

Dagwood's Blondie Lives 2 Lives

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone knows her as the scatter-brained heroine of the Blondie series in the movies and on television.

Few know of another role for her, a deadly serious one in real life, as vice president of a national labor union and a determined and informed voice in contract negotiations.

She is Penny Singleton, the blonde, blue-eyed actress who's been so busy on the East Coast with labor contract talks that she figures by the time she gets home to Hollywood "my grandchildren will be in their teens." Granddaughter Sydney Erook is eight, Granddaughter Deidre Marie is seven.

Miss Singleton is vice president of the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA). For the last eight months, she has been in New York helping to work out contracts for the cultural exchange program which sent an American circus to Russia and brought the Moscow circus to the United States, for artists in the Ice Follies, and most recently for the Rockettes at Radio City Music Hall.

Miss Singleton got into AGVA negotiation quite by chance. Around 1957, she recalled, the Los Angeles branch of the union, holding a convention at Disneyland, wanted to line up some of its famous names for personal appearances.

She accepted an invitation to appear at a lunch and "a week later, I was nominated for the national board." She's been an activist ever since.

Miss Singleton has been in show business since childhood. When the family moved to New York from Philadelphia, she went on the same bill at the old Winter Garden with a lot of the great names to be in show business.

When Hollywood beckoned, she colored her naturally auburn hair the white blonde it remains today. She played in movies alongside such as William Powell and Humphrey Bogart.

The Blondie series began in 1938 and ran through 1950—"God bless Chic Young," she says today of the artist who created the comic strip. "Blondie was the most wonderful thing in my life." The series is being revived on some television stations, she said, and she's happy a "third generation" can enjoy it.

Women May Enroll In Men's University

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The president of Notre Dame is beginning to oppose all-male societies.

So it figures. With a ratio of seven men to one woman, there will be more dames in the South Bend school's future. Father Theodore M. Hesburgh C.S.C. has this against all-male societies.

"They get a little shaggy."

Father Hesburgh was in New York to launch a $52 million five-year fund-raising program for his school. In an interview he said Notre Dame someday might merge with several girls' schools—and it isn't known whether they'll all be Roman Catholic.

Social Problem

Charles Murphy, president of the Notre Dame student body, meanwhile, said it's a big social problem—importing girls.

"When there's four feet of snow on the ground," he said, "it's really bad."

Father Hesburgh, on another subject, is loathe to predict that his school won't have a problem with LSD or hippies with long hair. "I suppose you could compare them to hippies," Murphy of Falls Church, Va., said. "They're mostly English and music majors.

"I think a lot of problems hippies and LSD users on other campuses have do not exist at Notre Dame. Our students don't have to opt out to find their identity. There are plenty of wholesome outlets to help them."

Students More Curious ...

The main changes in students during the last decade, according to Father Hesburgh, is today's students are more questioning and more idealistic.

What is a university for, anyway? Murphy asked.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 12

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can have a fresh new viewpoint this Sunday on how to gain the conditions that mean the most to you, but they require a considerably greater amount of study than you think possible. So be sure to get whole new and fresh approach by delving into the sources that are reliable and use your own best judgment, too.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Concentrate on what you truly want to accomplish in the days ahead and then make plans to achieve your aims. Be sure to attend services you appreciate. Then out to make the right contacts socially.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Do not confide in others what your plans are for the days ahead or they can spoil them for you in one way or another. Be meditative. Live on the highest level of consciousness you can conceive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Get out and be social with those you want to be your best friends in the days ahead. Add new personalities to your present roster. These can be most entertaining and interesting, fascinating, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Conversing with one who is influential in your community can be helpful in getting some project working you have in mind. Show that you are a philanthropist. Civic interests are especially fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — First get out to services of your choice, and then you can study better means for furthering present outlets to their limits. Be more broadminded. Then you get the approval of everyone you contact.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Listen to the voice of your conscience since you then can be of assistance dealing with others who come to you for help. Dig up any data you need. This could be most vital for your affairs right now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Keeping the part of the contacts you have with partners that are strictly yours is the only way to get ahead with them right now. You need the cooperation of others in almost everything that you do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You must be of servic to others if you want to prove that you truly observe the Golden Rule, as well as please them. Plan your duties for the week ahead cleverly. Divide your time between business and pleasure wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Provided you do not insist that others join you in whatever pleasures you most enjoy, since they are busy, you can have much fun just the same. Enjoy yourself while you have the opportunity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Anything of a fundamental nature that also includes family ties, should be first on the agenda. Put a new attitude, a system adopted. State your ideas. Ask them for their views, get their O.K.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Visiting, calling, writing are just fine today after you have attended services of your choice. Listening to good friends who have wonderful ideas to offer is wise. Then plan how to utilize them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Elevating your consciousness to the realm of God's abundance can see you becoming more successful in a relatively short time. Consult with persons who are in just such a category. Gain their wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be blessed with a most brilliant mind and can at an early age impress others with the depth of thought and practical materialization in this unusually fine nature. Send to the best college.

FOR MONDAY, NOV. 13

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — If you are too demanding, you can certainly run into a good deal of trouble now. Otherwise, fine benefits are yours. Make yourself more charming, then out to the social, the entertaining and be jovial.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Be careful not to act in such a sudden fashion in order to get out of some trouble that you get deeper into the frying pan. Rise above all limitations. Then you can also be of real assistance to others who come to you for help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Do not look to good pals for cooperation now, since they are most busy with their own affairs. Be of assistance to one who is indeed a fine friend and needs a helping hand. Stop being so demanding.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — If you follow every regulation that applies to you, you get along famously with everyone now. Try not to irk a higher-up or you get into deep trouble. Show that you have dignity and know your place.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Better study into that new outlet a little more before you go ahead with it and be careful, sure. Keep any promises you have made and others respect you more.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Any responsibilities in any sphere of your endeavor require meticulous care on your part now. Be sure insurance and taxes are taken care of. Delighting mate should be your particular interest in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Although you are tempted to have a big argument with an associate, you would be wiser to back such an individual right now. Use orthodox methods in public, or you could get into much trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You have much work to do so get busy at it instead of throwing it off on the shoulders of associates. Take some exercise early that will help you to feel chipper, full of vim.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It would be wise to plan some entertainment in the morning that you will enjoy, which is very likely on the cultural side. Then delve right into business at hand. A minor needs your advice; give it willingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — End old what kin desire of you and then be gracious about assisting them. Do not argue. Doing some extra arranging that will start an upturn in all of your affairs is a fine way to spend a good part of your time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — By religiously carrying through with duties at hand, you make this a most productive day and evening. Run errands and keep appointments later in the day. Confer with others with perfect confidence.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Put math aside for awhile and participate with the productive work you have begun recently. Command a larger income in the days to come. Stop wasting time; you need more money, so why kid yourself?

Rotary Foundation Week To Observed in Pampa

The Pampa Rotary Club will join with more than 12,900 other Rotary clubs in 134 countries in the world-wide observance of "Rotary Foundation Week," Nov. 12-18. This year's celebration marks the culmination of a year-long observance of the 50th anniversary of the Rotary Foundation by Rotary clubs everywhere, according to local club president David Tucker.

Tucker said that the objective of the Foundation is to further understanding and friendly relations between peoples of different nations. Supported by contributions from Rotary clubs and Rotarians around the world, the Foundation received more than one million dollars last year.

Since 1947, when a program for graduate study abroad was begun, the Rotary Foundation has awarded more than 2,400 Graduate Fellowships at a cost exceeding six million dollars.

To enlarge its work in the field of international relations, the Foundation recently added other activities to its program: Under-graduate Scholarships for study in another country; Technical Training awards to enable young men to improve their vocational skills by studying abroad; and Group Study Exchanges of teams of young business and professional men between different countries.

Tucker reported that more than 450 persons throughout the Rotary world receive awards each year.

Local observance of the "Week" will be at the club's regular meeting on Wednesday at the Coronado Inn, when Travis Lively Sr. will report on the activities of the Foundation.

ERUPTION SIGNS

JAKARTA (UPI)—Mt. Merapi, Indonesia's most active volcano, is showing signs of a new eruption, authorities said Saturday. They ordered 20,000 persons living near the volcano's slopes to prepare for evacuation. The volcano in central Java erupted several years ago and caused heavy loss of life.

In 1961, Premier Castro ruled that International bodies could not check to see if Soviet missiles had been removed from Cuba.

INVESTIGATION by San Francisco State College authorities is under way into the incasion of the student newspaper office by 12 negroes. Editor Jim Vaszko sprawls on the floor of the littered office after being beaten by the intruders, believed angered by the alleged slanted coverage of campus Negro activities.

Ringling Brothers Circus Is Sold

HOUSTON (UPI) —Roy Hofheinz, the Houston promoter who has been interested in circuses since childhood, announced Saturday he and two Washington businessmen had bought the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus for $10 million.

Hofheinz and Irvin and Israel Feld, two Washington brothers, said they closed the transaction in the Rome Colosseum — the setting for the world's first circus and inspiration for Hofheinz's "astrodome" in Houston.

Hofheinz said the main circus offices will be in Washington. John Ringling North, a major stockholder, will continue as producer and Henry Ringling North will remain as vice president.

Hofheinz said the name of the circus will not be changed. It will winter in Venice, Fla., after closing the current season Nov. 19 in Birmingham, Ala.

When North turned over the circus to Hofheinz at the main entrance to the Colosseum in Rome, he presented Hofheinz a baby lion, emblematic of the birth of new circus ownership.

The Feld brothers have been representing the circus on its tours since 1956. They also are booking agents for other attractions, including the Beatles, Frank Sinatra, Andy Williams, and Harry Belafonte.

This was the third multimillion dollar transaction for Hofheinz in less than three months. Earlier, he announced creation of a $25 million Disneyland-type attraction and construction of a $15 million "Astroworld" motor hotel complex, both in Houston, and across the street from the $31 million astrodome Hofheinz operates.

The two-volume memoirs of Ulysses S. Grant were published by Mark Twain, the noted author.

Rehabilitation for Treated Alcoholics To Be Discussed at State Conference

AUSTIN — "Cooperative Approach to Alcoholism," a conference to be presented by the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, Nov. 26-29, in the Gondolier Hotel in Austin, will be an orientation base for the newest Texas development in follow-up care of treated alcoholics.

Until now, the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation, and local councils on alcoholism have been able to provide or secure hospital and clinic care for victims of chronic or acute alcoholism.

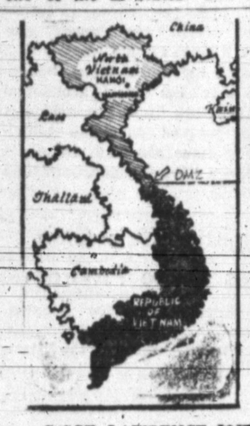

But their hands were tied when it came to follow-up assistance once the alcoholic was discharged. The hope that the discharged patient would answer letters inquiring about the success of his, or her, rehabilitation was usually the sole link of the "recovered" alcoholic.

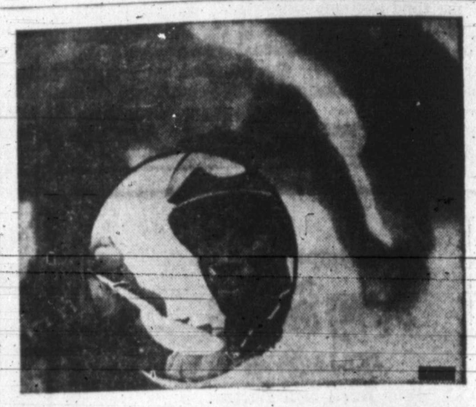

And in many cases, the "recovery" was only temporary. If readmitted, the patient's condition was found to have been aggravated by frustrations in employment seeking or similar attempts to readjust to his environment.

Late last summer, the Commission on Alcoholism and Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation entered a unique contract with the Texas Education Agency's Vocational Rehabilitation Department, which became effective Sept. 1. "Unique," that is, for the State of Texas, which became with the contract signing one of the 12 states that offers this type of "continuing care" for the alcoholic.

Commission on Alcoholism counselors working in alcoholic sections of state mental hospitals qualified as "vocational rehabilitation specialists," under the contract, which also provides for follow-up work by TEA vocational rehabilitation counselors stationed in 90 Texas cities.

The "Cooperative Approach to Alcoholism" will feature talks by TCA Executive Director Macon W. Freeman; State Director of Vocational Rehabilitation Doyle Wheeler; State MH-MR Director of Hospital Development Dr. Gary Miller, and Dr. Melvin Sikes, clinical psychologist for the Veterans Administration Hospital, Houston.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Thomas R. Rees, D-Calif., recently favored his constituents and other interested parties with a thesis on "pollsmanship."

He developed the theme that almost any point of view can be supported with some sort of survey and frequently is.

Then Rees proceeded to support his own point of view with some sort of survey.

He published a survey showing that for the second straight year all members of the U.S. House of Representatives are 100 per cent.

Acting on behalf of Americans for good habits (AGH—pronounced "aaagh!"), Rees analyzed 14 key rollcall votes taken in the house this year.

Unanimity

In each case, the vote was unanimous. Which, under the mathematical system commonly used in the Western Hemisphere, figures out to 100 per cent.

On the basis of this finding, AGH gave each lawmaker a 100 per cent rating.

"AGH stresses the peaceful unity of purpose which has enveloped this first session of the 90th Congress," Rees explained.

It may be argued that the AGH survey did not take into account all of the rollcalls taken in the house this year.

Well, heavens to Betsy! What survey does?

Polls and surveys are customarily based on samples. Any fool knows that.

System With A Heart

If Rees wants to use unanimous votes for the AGH survey, which is often spoken of as "the rating system with a heart," I say he's entitled.

The important thing to consider here is that the results are identical to last year's AGH survey.

In 1966, when the political complexion of the House was a good bit different from what it is now, the unanimous rollcall votes nevertheless averaged out to 100 per cent.

Thus the survey is both comforting and reassuring as we faced up to the prospect of another congressional election next year.

The law of probability leads us to expect that no matter who wins, in the AGH survey he will pan out 100 per cent.

Considering what the law of probability lead us to expect in the way of election winners, this is no small consolation.

In 1953, U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell charged that former President Harry Truman had named Dexter White head of the International Monetary Fund knowing he was "a Russian spy".

The foreign news outlook:

Soviet Crystal Ball:

Now that the Soviet Union's 50th anniversary celebrations are out of the way, rival schools of thought among Kremlinologists will be looking for the outcome of their own predictions about the Kremlin's future.

One has held that the Soviet leadership has been sweeping problems under the rug in order not to mar jubilee festivities. This school has held that committee rule has proved itself a failure and forecast a return of the decision-making role to one man.

The other says the evidence is to the contrary and predicts that the team of party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny will continue as is, following an undramatic middle-of-the-road line.

Helsinki reports say that when President Urho Kekkonen returned from the Moscow celebrations he positively was bubbling. This has led to speculation that when Finland observes its own 50th birthday Dec. 6, Kekkonen will be able to announce some symbolic Soviet concession to the Finns, possibly even the return of some Finnish territory seized after the wars of 1939-40 and 1941-44. Diplomatic circles consider this unlikely, however, since it would open the way to similar demands upon the Russians from the Romanians and Chinese.

De Gaulle Veto:

Western diplomats in London are predicting new major trouble for NATO from a familiar source — President Charles de Gaulle. France has pulled out of NATO's military commitments but has retained full membership in the political treaty of the alliance.

At the December meeting of the NATO ministerial council in Brussels, France is expected to attempt the same veto tactics against major political and strategic projects that she also has been applying in the European Common Market.

FROM GOOD TO BETTER

Cabot Keeps Abreast By Employe Training

Hiring trained and educated employes is only half the battle of keeping pace with today's rapidly advancing industrial techniques. "Once the employes are hired we must continually train and educate to keep pace with the industrial world," said Hank Donohue, general manager of Cabot's Pampa Machinery Division.

Donohue stated that when a man enters the industrial world today he must immediately begin to further his education and training or he will quickly slip behind and become outdated.

"This ist rue not only in the technical fields but in all levels of industry," he stated. "Industry today, to survive, must continually train and educate its employes to modern day advances and techniques."

Practicing what it preaches, the Machinery Division of the Cabot Corp., located four miles west of Pampa on U.S. Highway 60, has instituted a new series of employe training programs. The classes, conducted Monday through Thursday from 7 until 10 p.m., are held at the Cabot Training Center, 547 Huff Rd.

In the initial series, about 65 employes are involved in a training class covering blueprint reading, advanced layout and pattern development and two advanced welding courses leading to certification of top welding classification. Eventually about 200 employes of the Machinery Division are expected to participate in the training programs. Additional courses will include advanced blueprint reading, shop mathematics, shop sketching, hydraulics, and machine tool operations.

Instructors for the courses are Cabot employes, certified by the Texas Education Agency. The training program is conducted under the auspices of Amarillo College, sponsored and promoted by the Machinery Division. Upon completion of the classes, varying from 48 to 120 hours, certificates of completion will be issued by Amarillo College and Cabot.

Coupled with the necessity of keeping employes up to date, is a basic Cabot philosophy of hiring good employes and making them better through the additional education and training. This has contributed to the reputation and success the company has attained, according to Donohue.

Coordinator for the classes, Jack Mosley, whose background includes many years of experience in the training field, stated that interest for the new series of classes is evidenced in the enthusiam shown by the participants.

Today the Machinery Division employes approximately 600 persons, with a yearly payroll in excess of three and three-quarter million dollars.

Recently the Division was awarded a $1,251,192 contract for the manufacture of gun tube forgings for the U. S. Army.

Don Forsha, assistant general manager of the division, summed it up this way, "Cabot has the reputation of being ahigh quality producer plus a reputation for skilled workmen used on government contracts and prompt meeting of delivery dates."

He added that Cabot also is able to meet highly competitive price factors that govern the letting of these contracts. "This is true not only government contracts," he stated, "but we maintain this reputation on all products we manufacture or services we perform. "Again, we go back to the training series," Forsha said. "Only through this continous training and education can the company maintain this reputation in the highly competitive industrial climate of today."

Forsha stated it is the men themselves who constantly realize the importance of keeping up to date that contributes to the reputation Cabot has established and maintained.

The Ordnance Plant has just completed expansion of a quarter of a million square feet of manufacturing facilities.

The Machinery Division is also involved in the manufacture of well service and mobile workover and drilling rigs, and the construction of backhoes and large portable cranes fo the Harnischfeger Corp.

Ever-expanding, the Machinery Division is constantly seeking acquisition of new products and facilities.

NO DRINKING WATER

AREZZO, Italy (UPI)—More than a ton of fuel oil dumped into the River Arno from an industrial plant, left this city of 75,000 without drinking water Saturday. The city of Florence, 40 miles downstream, was warned to watch for the floating oil, but officials said they doubted it would cause trouble since water for the city is pumped from below the surface.

The Red Cross Board will meet at the Coronado Inn Nov. 14. Mr. Dan Johnson who is principal of Travis school, will give the program on the work of the Junior and High School Red Cross. Time, 7 a.m. and each person on the board is urged to be present. Reports of standing committees will be given.

We have some of the nicest people in Pampa. Mrs. Clyde Edmondson called our office this week and asked about sending small gifts to the servicemen in Vietnam. We think that this is one of the nicest things to do so let us never forget that the boys and girls in our United States are fighting for us. Also, two High School girls came to get names of servicemen to write to. They clipped the "Dear Abby" column and took some of the names to write to as well as some from our files. Let us urge all families who have sons or fathers or brothers or sisters to be sure that they get a letter this Thanksgiving and also for Christmas.

Several weeks ago Mr. Ray Fisher and Mr. Vernon Pirkle took the resusitator from the Pampa fire department and visited Robert E. Lee Junior High School. These two firemen visited the 9th grade classes all day and talked about the work of our firemen. They also gave some valuable instruction to these boys about resusitation in case of a fire in a home. We should be so proud of our fire department and the valuable work they are doing in our community. The fire department works with the Red Cross all year and we are grateful for the many acts of kindness es they do all year long.

The Progressive First Aid classes are completed and about 120 persons have completed the course and have their certificates. An advanced first aid class will begin Mon. 13, in the Red Cross office at 7 p.m. This course is open to anyone who has a current Standard Card and who are 15 years old or older. There is no charge for this course and no books to buy and there will be a First Aid instructor training class this spring.

Mr. J. W. Wilson, First Aid Instructor for Red Cross and a Highway Patrolman for Gray County, worked with two other FAI to train and prepare Highway Patrolmen in First Aid. Seventeen men attended this workshop in Amarillo.

Enrollment continues in our Pampa schools with Woodrow Wilson turning in $77.77 and ordering 13 magazines for the school; Horace Mann enrolled with $21.35 and ordered 10 magazines; Baker Elementary School with $24.76 with 18 magazines ordered for the school; Pampa Junior High School enrolled with $21.35 and ordered 21 Journals for their school; St. Matthews enrolled with $7 and ordered 4 JRC News for their school. More to be published next week.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

You hear and read a lot these day about horomnes . . . most of it, however, is the product of misconceptions and misinformation. The truth of the matter is that medical science would be the first to admit that very little is know about these mysterious substances which are linked inexplicably to secrets as deep and elusive as the secret of life itself.

Hormones are normally manufactured by the body's glands, for instance, the adrenals, the sex glands, the pituitary, the thyroid and the pancreas; and the blood carries them throughout the rest of the body.

They have control over growth, the development of masculine and feminine characteristics and seem to have some control of the aging processes. Doctors, by prescribing dosage of synthetic hormones, can do much to restore balance to systems which are victims of over or under development . . .

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Shopping Deluxe--But Hurry

Write for the catalog and quit your job. Tell the boss what you think of him. If he heard of the catalog first, he may have quit already. Don't let that worry you. The pleasures available since the government has made irresponsibility a way of life will more than offset the joy of telling him off.

Key to this Utopia is "Catalog of Federal Assistance Programs," issued by the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D.C. It compares favorably with the biggest mail-order catalog in size. It is rather weak on pictures, but they aren't really necessary to recount the virtues of the riches offered.

To make the most of your opportunities, it is necessary only to sell the worldly goods you have accumulated through perspiration that kept you ahead of the tax collector, and choose your favorite transportation to that foreign land you have always wanted to visit. Now, now, don't fret. There is nothing to worry about. Why shouldn't you exact the most that you can in fun, frivolity and cultural advantage from your hard-earned shekels. It would be unfair to yourself to do otherwise. And when it is all gone? Just turn to page 253 of the catalog.

There you will find that OEO's program will provide full reimbursement for assistance given US citizens who have to leave a foreign country because of destitution, illness, war, threat of war, invasion or other crises. Lee Harvey Oswald got home from the USSR, didn't he? Assistance, the catalog says, includes money, temporary housing, temporary care, transportation, and all goods and services necessary for the health and welfare of the citizen.

When you have returned safely to your native land, you can begin a careful perusal of the 143 pages of the master index. There you can find provision for anything that any reasonable person could possibly desire.

Only one thing is missing in this wonderful outlook. No place in the 459 programs and 701 pages is there any program to take care of the taxpayer faced with jail as the Internal Revenue Service bears down on him.

All the more reason for getting out of the country before it does.

But order the catalog first. And guard it with your life.

With the catalog and your passport you have a visa to Utopia.

The tourist traffic abroad is going to be terrific when word of this gets around, so book your transportation early, and order your catalog before the present supply is exhausted. Reprinting a 701-page catalog takes time.

Tax-Raising Spree

Methods can differ, and solutions which are suggested can be radically opposed, but a genuine interest in solving the nation's agricultural problems does exist in some quarters.

What seems to be missing is a single point regarding farm policies on which all the contending forces might agree. There is one, though, not narrowly related to agriculture, which if recognized and dealt with would result in progress for every segment of America's economy. It is public spending and its consequent effects on inflation, on prices and, eventually, on net returns to farmers and livestock men and all others who produce.

The problem that is immediate and can be clearly seen is the current tax-raising epidemic that is afflicting so many parts of the nation. It amounts to the greatest tax-raising spree that has yet been engaged in, and means that in 1967, federal, state and local taxes will amount to somewhere between 30 and 50 cents of every dollar of the nation's total output of goods and services. That total of $243.7 billion can be compared to $136.7 billion only eight years before in 1960.

These taxes are made up primarily of the federal levies on incomes and miscellaneous excises of 44 states with sale taxes, 38 state personal income taxes and 40 state corporate income taxes. More than 2,400 local governmental units levy a sales tax and more than 2,000 also collect local income taxes. Meanwhile, real property taxes which support schools and other local governing bodies continue climbing.

Dependent as it is upon actual demand as a price-setting factor, much of agriculture is victimized by these increased costs which taxation represents. Since he is also at the mercy of the inflationary forces which are exhibited in the continual spiraling of wages and prices, and by the nation's deficit spending habits, the farmer and livestock man is a double or triple loser.

If there exists a real desire to lend him help, it should be done by drastic cutting of government spending and rising taxes, not by suggesting that additional people be added to the public payrolls to hold his hand or anyone else's.

McNamara Buggies?

The Halloween just passed is one that is going to be remembered for a long, long time. As dusk began to fall on Oct. 31 the word went out on the press wires that the antitrust division of the Justice Department was working on a suit to break up General Motors into several companies. This exercise in witchcraft was explained by the Justice Department this way: "No recommendation concerning possible legal action has been made by the assistant attorney general in charge of the Anti-trust Division because the study has not reached such a stage."

Notwithstanding, almost a million-and-a-half Americans who have invested their savings in GM stocks saw the spectre of Donald F. Turner swooping into their homes and carrying off some of their treasure. The value of the stock dropped like a pumpkin splattering on the sidewalk.

Then before that fright could be fully recovered the press wires jangled again with the Halloween news that Ford Motor Co. had suffered a loss of $74 million dollars as a result of the UAW strike — the first third-quarter loss the company had experienced since the "recession year" of 1958.

And Ford stocks fell with a thud.

Folks who depend upon income from investments can get pretty jittery any day of the year if they get two bulletins of that kind. But when they come on Halloween, then all manner of black plots begin to take shape in their minds. We liked best the explanation given by a long-time student of witchcraft. This double-happening, he insisted, was a plot brewed by Walter Reuther, of the UAW, and Donald F. Turner, of the Justice Department, to make a new job for Secretary of Defense, Robert Strange McNamara.

With Ford and GM destroyed, the government would go into the business of manufacturing automobiles, and the creator of the Edsel would be moved in to head the operation. When we asked whether he'd manufacture buggies or brooms-for-riding, the authority hung up the phone.

But whatever the plot, or even if there really wasn't one, you can mark it down that last Oct. 31 was the darkest night of the year in millions of homes across this country. And the ghosts seen in those homes that night were Donald F. Turner and Walter Reuther.

Brainstorming Better City Rule

NEW YORK (NEA) —Before answering reader mail, we would like to take a moment to congratulate Mayor Lindsay of New York for having hired the Rand Corporation to plan a more effective and economic system of city government.

The Rand Corporation, of course, is the nation's leading think-tank — a nonprofit group of long-range scientists and planners who got their basic training by helping devise U.S. military strategy during World War II.

Their postwar work has included thinking out such long-range problems as the effect of population on food and water supply, as well as devising such nuclear age defense systems as "Operation Overkill."

Well, as regular readers know, we here at the Institute have long been in favor of applying professional thinking and modern technology to civics problems.

And now, to see that the largest city in the nation has retained just that sort of an organization to devise a more effective and economic system of municipal government —well, it gives renewed hope and encouragement to the work we are trying to do here at the Institute.

And now, a peak into the mailbag:

DEAR DR. CANNEL: I am the president of a railroad which is losing money even though it transports thousands of commuters and freight to and from the city every day. What can I do about this problem?

ANSWER: Yours is a common problem and very easily solved. Simply send to us here at the Institute for the popular and informative booklet: "Streamline Your Railroad." Specify the edition which explains how to get rid of passengers.

DEAR DR. CANNEL: Can you please let me know what to do by return mail? A new scientific study reveals that in my city there are more rats than people.

ANSWER: Nothing, if it is a simple majority. If it is an overwhelming number, you will have to put at least one rat on the city council.

DEAR DR. CANNEL: Your instruction booklet on getting rid of commuters has cut my railroad's costs in half. But it is still running in the red. What can be done?

ANSWER: Send to us here at the Institute for the popular and informative booklet: "Streamline Your Railroad." Specify Part II, which explains how to get rid of carrying freight.

DEAR DR. CANNEL: In a just-finished urban redevelopment program in a small city, my firm of planners somehow managed to do away with all apartment houses and other dwelling places. What should I do?

ANSWER: Nothing. Your job there is now finished, and you are ready to take on larger clients. Send to us here at the Institute for a complete list of cities in need of redevelopment.

DEAR DR. CANNEL: The high school in our city has a ration of one teacher for every 35 pupils. What can be done about this situation?

ANSWER: In cases like yours, the Institute usually recommends moving the school to Puerto Rico where help is cheaper, or if that is impossible you can try making one of the bigger kids principal.

Talks-While-Fighting to Be 1968 N. Vietnam Tactic, Humphrey Reports; Viet Cong Briefing Their Officers

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The feeling is growing at the highest levels of the Johnson Administration that North Vietnam will be ready to open "peace talks" sometime before the 1968 U. S. presidential elections.

But the talks Hanoi would seek probably would not be accompanied by a cease-fire.

Also, the negotiations would be a tactic in the Communist efforts to take over South Vietnam rather than a means toward an honorable settlement based on mutual concessions.

This impression of North Vietnam's intentions in Vietnam was relayed to President Johnson by Vice President Hubert Humphrey following his private talks with U. S. and South Vietnamese authorities in Saigon.

Humphrey reported that captured documents and statements from prisoners in recent weeks revealed that "an intensive indoctrination program is now being undertaken by Hanoi to prepare Viet Cong troops for a prolonged period of negotiating while fighting."

This new phase of the Vietnam war is expected early next year, according to information given the Vice President during his Saigon briefings.

The first hints of the forthcoming dramatic shift in Hanoi's strategy, the Vice President was told, showed up in a 26 page document written by Lee Duan, North Vietnam's Communist Party first secretary.

THE NEW FRONT—The document, captured by American troops in operation Cedar Falls, contained instructions to Viet Cong officers from Lee Duan, who, according to U. S. intelligence experts, is now running the war in South Vietnam from Hanoi.

It stressed that the protracted war strategy for Vietnam in 1968 would involve both negotiations and fighting, stating:

"Peace talks and military operations will be used to serve in a practical manner our political strategy during the crucial struggle period beginning in 1968 for control of South Vietnam.

"Governments of South Vietnam and the U. S. will be brought under strong domestic and international pressure to cease all military operations above the 17th Parallel in exchange for negotiations on our conditions.

"Our strategy will be to exact concessions for an agreement to open talks but without a cease-fire in South Vietnam. While negotiations drag on, every effort will be made to force the acceptance of our peace conditions in the South."

THREE-POINT STRATEGY —Supporting details of Hanoi's "talk while fighting" strategy, according to Humphrey's startling report, was contained in a notebook of a Viet Cong political cadre, captured by U. S. forces in September.

It described a military indoctrination course for 100 Viet Cong officers at a rest camp in Cambodia, which has become a major staging and resupply area for three Communist divisions operating in the central highlands of South Vietnam.

During the course, the Communist officers were called upon to explain to their troops the meaning of three resolutions adopted in secret by the North Vietnamese La Dong (Communist) party. These were:

1. The protracted war in South Vietnam would be supported with all available resources in North Vietnam.

2. There would be simultaneous conduct of war and negotiations similar to those with the French in 1954, and at Panmunjom in Korea in 1953.

3. At a predetermined date in 1968, a general offensive and uprising would be launched in South Vietnam in an all-out attempt to force the collapse of organized government throughout the country.

Humphrey reported that the diary of the captured Viet Cong officer clearly indicated Hanoi has been psychologically preparing its "hard core" military leaders in South Vietnam for the "talk while fighting" strategy for at least three months.

In September, North Vietnam's Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap sent a 35,000 word memorandum to all North Vietnamese troops outlining the ideological base for a return to guerrilla warfare.

General Giap, who accompanied Lee Duan to Moscow for this week's 50th Anniversary of the Communist Revolution in Russia, also described negotiations in his order of battle, as "the highest form of warfare when employed during war."

THE NEW THREAT—A Central Intelligence Agency estimate, which Humphrey forwarded with his report, also highlighted the new strategy of the North Vietnamese, stating:

"Hanoi is not out to win by occupying territory or setting up a rival government in South Vietnam. The new strategy, as being developed by Lee Duan, is for North Vietnam to win by undermining South Vietnamese and American morale and getting the Saigon government to sue for peace."

The intelligence estimate also indicates, alarmingly, that the political control network of the Viet Cong has slowly but relentlessly grown throughout South Vietnam since the 1963 overthrow of Ngo Dinh Diem, despite the unbroken chain of American military victories.

On Humphrey's recommendation, President Johnson has recalled Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker from Saigon to discuss the problems that the new strategy of Hanoi will create for his administration both at home and abroad.

PINE TREE FEATURES

LBJ—AFTER FOUR YEARS

Well, this month marks our fourth full year of the Presidential rule of Lyndon Baines Johnson, and it is high time to sum up his reign. These four years have been years of enormous frustration and resentment on the part of America's liberal intellectual community. Here was a man who looked and still looks upon FDR as his political mentor — a man who ran with the support of the ADA, of old and new New Dealers, of all authentic liberals—and here is a man who is now universally reviled by these former supporters.

The whole saga is very reminiscent of the way Trotsky and his followers felt betrayed by Stalin. The horror and brutality of the Stalin era were felt to be some sort of monstrous perversion, some inexplicable intrusion into the original Lenin-Trotsky ideal. And now the horrors and warmongering of Johnson are felt to be another inexplicable betrayal of Roosevelt-Truman-Kennedy liberalism.

But the situation is not that simple, as uncomfortable as this truth will be for our liberal friends. Stalin was the logical outgrowth of the "ideals" of Lenin and Trotsky. In the same way, Lyndon Baines Johnson was and still is a liberal through and through. By launching imperial war against foreign countries, by expanding the power of the state over the economy and the society, by building ever greater military control of society, Lyndon Baines Johnson is only following in the footsteps of his—and the intellectuals' — beloved mentors, Roosevelt and Truman. No wonder Lyndon feels puzzled and betrayed by the rancor of the liberal intellectuals! He is only doing what they and their mentors taught him: He is expanding unchecked Presidential power in foreign and domestic affairs and launching imperial global crusades in the name of "world freedom" and "collective security." So why the fuss and feathers?

The liberals have got to wake up to the great truth that Lyndon Baines Johnson is liberalism in action; liberalism personified. This instructive lesson will be lost upon them if they grow increasingly horrified at his despotic and dangerous rule; if they do not realize that what they are seeing is not a personal aberration of the Devil but the ultimate triumph of their own liberal principles. If they don't like what they see, they must abandon liberalism, and rapidly.

Meanwhile, the conservatives could use a lot of soul-searching, too. Whatever they had in anti-statist principles has long been swept away, sacrificed on the altar of the latter-day crusade against the Communist wing of statism. Conservative enthusiasm for Johnson and his cohorts can be gauged by the enormous conservative support for Senator Thomas Dodd (D., Conn.), a man with a virtually 100 per cent ADA-liberal record. The old categories are dissolving fast.

GLOBAL VIEW

Russians Are Going to Pot To Escape Life's Realities

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) — It is not only in affluent Western society that the widespread use of marijuana and other narcotic drugs by the young has become a serious social problem.

Youngsters in the Communist countries, especially in Russia, are increasingly resorting to drugs in an effort to escape from reality and find euphoria.

But unlike their counterparts in capitalist America, the potters of Communist Russia are in for a cool time of curtailment. In the Marxist-Leninist society there are as yet no medical scientists, psychiatrists and intellectuals to champion the right of the young to seek euphoria through marijuana.

The communist leaders are clearly alarmed by the emergence of this "capitalist phenomenon" 50 years after Lenin proclaimed the birth of a "new Soviet man."

Thus the Soviet Supreme Court in a recent decision, reaffirmed that the production and distribution of narcotic, spasm-producing and toxic substances was a criminal offense. It called upon lower courts to intensify the struggle against "crimes threatening the life and health of citizens."

Soviet medical scientists and psychiatrists, it seems, agree with Dr. Joel Fort, former drug consultant for the World Health Organization, that excessive use of marijuana could lead to violent behavior, sexual promiscuity and even criminal activity.

This, of course, is a grave danger for a regimented Marxist-Leninist society where every conscious act or thought of the citizen must always be under the rigid control of the state and the Communist party.

The main stress of the Supreme Court's decree is therefore directed at users and dealers of illegal narcotics and "the particular danger these persons present to society."

We know who the users of marijuana are. But who are the dealers? Ironically, it is the "socialist" collective farms in search of a fast ruble.

Marijuana comes from the hemp plant "Cannabis sativa" which, unlike Soviet corn, grows luxuriantly in Russia, particularly in the northwest. The source of Russia's hard narcotics — heroin and morphine—is Red China. Since the conflict between Moscow and Peking, hard narcotis have become scarce. But the very profusion of the hemp plant makes for an easy source of supply of marijuana.

However, hemp, like vodka, comes in different qualities. The best marijuana comes from the cultivated variety of hemp, not the wild steppe type.

Thus, the sources of the best pot—the plant of dissent and symbol of revolt that gives the Communist rulers sleepless nights — lies in the hands of the collective farms.

Whether the use of marijuana is as widespread in Russia as in some cities of the United States is not clearly established from Soviet sources.

But the timing of the Supreme Court decision, and the context of the document, obviously reflects the Kremlin's concern over the increase in the use of marijuana and the need for further legal restraints in the production and the distribution of the more readily available forms of narcotics.

If the current pot craze becomes the fashion in Russia and other Communist countries, it would not be the only phenomenon of culture shock imported from the West.

Stannous Flouride Fights Tooth Decay

Topical application of flourides has proven to be a remarkable phenomenon in prevention of tooth decay. For instance, painting teeth with stannous flouride (symbol SnF2), can give a degree of protection as high as 35 per cent. Properly applied immediately following dental prophylaxis, it is a simple, inexpensive, quick and direct means of fighting tooth decay.

The following combination of three topical uses offers even better protection:

Dental office use:

1. As part of dental prophylaxis, your dentist should brush and polish teeth with paste containing SnF2.

2. Immediately following prophylaxis, teeth should be isolated with cotton rolls and dried with compressed air; then painted with 10 per cent solution of SnF2, allowing it to remain in contact with the teeth for 30 seconds.

Home use:

1. Brush teeth after every meal with toothpaste containing SnF2.

Some mothers ask why all this is necessary for their children so long as they live in a fluoridated area. The answer is because this combination can boost protection against tooth decay to a level of 70 to 80 per cent.

For those few children who object to the taste of SnF2, other less disagreeable flourides are available; i.e. aciduated phosphate containing fluoride, which is equally effective in making enamel more resistant to decay. But it requires four-minute application.

There have been a few complaints of staining of necks of teeth after topical use of SnF2. This is uncommon and, when it occurs, seems to affect only decalcified and defective portions of enamel. Strangely enough, these complaints are more common in areas where water supply is NOT fluoridated. Actual staining is due to formation of tin sulfides.

Unfortunately, protection against tooth decay by painting with fluorides seems to decline with time. Even though some degree of protection continues for 12 to 24 months, treatment at six-month intervals is recommended for best results.

AMERICANS SUPPORT PATRIOTISM

During the weekend of October 21 and 22, Americans read countless newspaper stories about demonstrations against the war in Vietnam. They read of draft card burnings, mass meetings, sit-ins, and the march on the Pentagon. Almost lost in the flood of publicity given to the minority who do not support our country's efforts to preserve freedom in South Vietnam, was another series of events which took place during that weekend.

Throughout the country, patriotic Americans demonstrated their support of American servicemen in Vietnam. The program, organized by the National Committee for Responsible Patriotism, was called "Operation Gratitude." To dramatize their convictions, Americans displayed our flag, left a light burning at night, and turned on automobile headlights when driving.

In many cities, patriotic groups held parades. The largest was in Newark, New Jersey, where an estimated 55,000 citizens, led by four Medal of Honor winners, marched up the main street. In New York City more than 1,000 persons marched, and 30,000 more were spectators.

Support for American servicemen has not been limited to one weekend. In Cincinnati, Ohio, the Committee for Action by Teens sponsored a parade of young people in support of our troops. In their recent convention, the Young Americans for Freedom passed a resolution in support of the war in Vietnam.

The widespread publicity given to the anti-war demonstrators must have a demoralizing effect on American troops in Vietnam. Greater publicity should be given to the vast numbers of patriotic Americans who have shown that they believe in freedom, not only in this country, but throughout the world.

Cossack Chorus and Dancers To Give Concert Here Thursday

The Gen. Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers will appear in a concert here at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium. The group is on its 21st anniversary tour of singing concerts in the United States.

Their varied program includes liturgical music, folk songs, love songs, Cossack battle songs and dances and selection of English music.

They will also perform authentic dances of the Cossack regiments, national dances and the Cossack Sword dances, "Lezginka."

Organized in Prague, Czechoslovakia, the chorus has toured all six continents and visited 65 different countries. Of their 7,171 concerts, 617 were devoted to church music, including a performance in the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris before an audience of 10,000.

They are all American citizens and are White Russian emigres who fought Communism in Russia. Most have fought in the U.S. Army ranks during World War II. Their concerts have included programs for U.S.O. in the United States and Far East and concerts for War Bond Drives and in Veterans' Hospitals.

SHOWBEAT

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "I think it's a big, big, big mistake," says Dorothy Lamour.

The mistake she refers to is the casting of Barbra Streisand in the lead in "Hello, Dolly," and many people hereabouts agree with her.

"There's only one person who should play that part," Dorothy says. "And that's Carol Channing. The age thing is too much—the whole plot revolves around Dolly's late husband. Barbra is in her early 20s. To have had a late husband of the right age and timing, she would have had to get married at five."

Dorothy knows what's what with "Dolly." She's played the part before and is about to leave on a 7½-month tour with the show. By coincidence, the tour will start in Bloomington, Ind., where once upon a memory Dorothy started singing with Herbie Kaye's orchestra.

After the tour is over, Dorothy will be moving back to Los Angeles. She and her husband, Bill Howard, took off 10 years ago and have been living in Maryland ever since. But now their sons are Grown—Ridgely is 21 and in the Marines, and Tom is 18 and will soon be either in college or the Marines.

"We will celebrate our 25th anniversary in April," Dorothy says. "And people said it would not last."

With the boys grown, Dorothy wants to come back here, where she has so many friends, and plunge into her career again, with both feet.

"Probably TV more than movies," she says. "Movies are my first love, but, let's face it, there aren't too many good parts for women my age. Besides, I don't like the kind of movies they're making these days.

"I know I used to be considered sort of racy with my sarong but, compared to what's worn today, a sarong is long underwear."

Leslie Bricusse, who just may be the next great musical composer (maybe he already is), is now working on both the screenplay and songs for "Sherlock Holmes." He did the same double-threat job for "Doctor Dolittle," which will be released shortly.

Who would Bricusse like to see play Holmes? Obviously, he says, Rex Harrison, "but the casting is a long way off."

The Bricusse-Harrison relationship has come a long way in a short time. When Harrison signed to do "Doctor Dolittle," it was with the understanding that his old "My Fair Lady" chum, Allan Jay Lerner, would be writing the score. But Lerner couldn't do it, so Bricusse got the assignment.

"At first," Leslie said, "I had problems with Rex, and it was understandable. He was concerned when they hired somebody—me—that he had never heard of. And things between us were a bit rocky at first. But once Rex has confidence in you, there is nobody who will back you more strongly."

Bricusse is enthusiastic about film work. He believes "exciting things lie ahead" for musical films.

Ship Building Spurts Economical, Political

United Press International

Economic considerations and recent political developments have prompted a spurt of ship building orders from the oil industry that promises to make the 1970s the decade of the supertanker.

According to the U.S. Maritime Administration, orders for supertankers, vessels over 100,000 dwt, stood at 134 as of Sept. 1. This compares to a total of only about 44 of the massive ships currently in use with the largest at 205,000 dwt.

The rush to order the big ships began shortly after the brief Arab-Israeli war that resulted in a shutdown of the Suez Canal and a scramble to press every available tanker into service.

The orders flooding into Japanese and European ship builders are mostly for ships about 200,000 dwt, each capable of transporting nearly 1.5 million barrels of crude oil.

According to a recent report by the Oil and Gas Journal, Dutch ship builders are mapping plans for 60,000 tonners and a combine of Dutch firms is considering docks capable of servicing giant craft up to one million tons.

The biggest of the big ships are not in sight until the 1970s but the first impact of the tanker boom will come next year with the expected completion of 111 tankers of all classes.

The 1968 tonnage will total 11,201,500, compared to 122 ships of 8,495,428 tons set to come down the ways this year.

While a desire by the oil industry to assert its independence from the Suez Canal and Middle East pipelines was a factor in the move to supertankers, basic economic trends are also of prime consideration.

Gerlane Petroleum Company, Inc. has announced plans to build a new gas processing plant in the 5-zone Mobeetie Field, Wheeler County, in the Texas Panhandle.

U. E. Thorne, president of Gerlane, stated that the plant would be located near the townsite of Mobeetie, with construction to begin in the near future to meet scheduled completion in Apr., 1968. He added that the natural gas throughput would be 12,000,000 cu. ft. per day, yielding 18,000 gallons natural gas liquids, and that plant capacity would be 16,000,000 cu. ft. per day, and 24,000 gallons natural gas liquids. Connally's Decision Solves GOP Problem

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. John Connally's decision to retire from office is expected to solve the Republicans' biggest problem—finding a candidate for the state's number one post.

GOP leaders had had little success in enticing "name candidates" to make the race in 1968 simply because they did not want to pit themselves against Connally — something they considered equal to "throwing yourself to the wolves."

But, with Connally's announcement Friday that he would not seek reelection, the GOP telephones began to ring and the "names" began to make plans for possible entries into the political arena.

Prominent Republicans who earlier either refused to run or said they "would like to take a crack at it if Connally didn't run," suddenly made themselves available to the party heirarchy.

Included in the list is the most glamorous GOP officeholder, U. S. rep. George Bush of Houston, who has the name, image and credentials to make an impressive campaign.

Bush, who ran one statewide race in an unsuccessful bid to unseat U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough in 1964 wouldn't even discuss the possibility of a governor's race before Connally's announcement.

He told one reporter several months ago that attempts to get him to make a gubernatorial race were just "moves to get me to join the ranks of the unemployed."

John Connally would beat me like a drum," he said.

But, Bush no longer has that argument, and knows it. Several hours after Connally made his announcement Bush issued a statement saying his inclination was not to consider the race, but admitted "this is such an astonishing and unusual development, who can say what will happen?"

Party leaders have been saying they would like Bush to keep his seat in Congress and his spot on the Ways and Means Committee, but they learned in 1966 that they can not make big gains statewide without a strong guvernatorial candidate.

Their argument that they don't like to lose any gains they have made is not too serious in Bush's Houston district, where state Sen. Hank Grover could probably move right in.

Other names that have been mentioned—and now none can be discarded—include Sen. Grover, former Atty. Gen. Will Wilson of Austin, Jim Collins of Dallas state GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell of Dallas, and national GOP committeeman Albert Fay of Houston.

There are others—Peter Hurd of Laredo, Sprosser Wynn of Fort Worth and U. S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa.

Wilson has the best name identification, serving three terms as a Democrat as attorney general and another six years on the state Supreme Court. He switched to the GOP last year in the Tower race and has made moves to keep his name before the public.

Grover has been making speeches throughout the state and would have to be considered a strong candidate, as would Collins, although the Dallas man has been looking strongly towards a match with Congressman Joe Pool.

The Republican party may wind up with its most exciting primary in history, and as one party leader put it: "That's something that wouldn't hurt us one bit."

Jenifer Jones Is Improving

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Jennifer Jones, who was found near death in the ocean surf near Malibu, Calif., continued her recovery Saturday in Mt. Sinai Hospital where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

Sheriff's deputies said that when they found the film beauty Thursday night on surf washed rocks at the base of a400-foot cliff she "was not breathing at all...and there were no signs of life."

The deputies said they had begun searching for her after her physician told them that the 48-year-old actress apparently had taken an overdose of sleeping pills and had said she was going to take more. The doctor said she had telephoned him from a public phone booth in the Malibu area.

Her telephone call to the doctor came less than an hour after the death of Charles Bickford, the lead actor in her greatest film, "Song of Bernadette," for which she won an academy award in 1943.

The deputies found the unconscious actress clad in blouse and slacks after sighting her car, its lights still on, at the top of the cliff. One of them applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation which restored her breathing.

She was rushed to a hospital where her stomach was pumped. She remained in a coma for several hours, but was reported "significantly improved" Friday.

Sons Visit

Her two sons by her first marriage to the late actor Robert Walker, Michael and Robert Walker Jr., visited her at the hospital Friday afternoon.

Rogert said afterward, "She's feeling much better and out of coma, but no one has talked to her as yet to find out what happened...it looks like she should be home in a few days."

In addition to her two grown sons by Walker, Miss Jones has a 13-year-old daughter by movie tycoon David O. Selznick, her second husband, who died in 1965.

In 1920, Judge Keneshaw Mountain Landis was named the first commissioner of baseball.

Spiraling Crime Rate Is Labeled Disgrace by Price

"The nation's spiraling crime rate is a disgrace," Rep. Bob Price said in Washington Thursday in calling for speedy passage of a bill intended to unclog the backlog of criminal cases.

Price, a member of the House Republican Task Force on Crime, blamed part of the crime problem on the "failure to dispense swift, sure justice."

The Federal Magistrates Act endorsed by the Task Force and the Judicial Conference of the United States has already been passed by the Senate.

The proposal, according to Price, would replace U.S. Commissioners with a new position of U.S. Magistrates, and upgrade and expand the qualifications and duties of the office.

"The significant feature of the legislation," Price said, "is that Federal judges would be freed from less important procedural tasks and enabled to devote more time to matters of substance in the administration of justice."

"If enacted," the Panhandle congressman said, "the bill would promote swifter justice in Federal criminal cases especially in the Nation's Capital where all crimes are within the jurisdiction of the Federal courts."

Pliny, the Roman naturalist, believed that a piece scraped off an eel would grow into another eel.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

BASKETBALL LEAGUE FORMS—The Center will sponsor the men's basketball leagues again this winter with tentative starting date set on Nov. 29. Two divisions will be offered — a pro division and a novice division. There must be at least five teams in each division or all teams will be bunched into one league. Leagues are open to any team, whether church, company, independent or otherwise. Teams from out-of-town are invited to enter.

Entry fee will be $75 per team which includes all cost to the team. Game balls, referees, timers and scorers will be furnished as well as trophies for first and second place finishers. All entry fees must be paid into the Center office by 3 p.m. Nov. 19. At this time an organizational meeting will be held to draw up schedules and discuss rules.

SWIM LESSONS — The Center offers swim lessons the year around here in Pampa and is the only organization that does so. All classes are under the direction of the American Red Cross swim program and each class is taught by a qualified Water Safety Instructor.

Swim sessions run for 10 meeting dates on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays and all sessions are free to Center members and $3 to non-members. Memberships are available at all times. The schedule of lessons is:

Nov. 13-Dec. 1
4-5 p.m. Beginners
5-6 p.m. Swimmers
(Will not meet Nov. 23-24).
Jan. 8-24
4-5 p.m. Beginners
5-6 p.m. Adv. Beg.
Jan. 29-Feb. 14
4-5 p.m. Beginners
5-6 p.m. Inter.
Feb. 19-March 6
4-5 p.m. Beginners
5-6 p.m. Swimmers.

TEEN DANCES—Parents are reminded that they are welcome to come to the dances and help on any Friday night. The Center trys to maintain a wholesome atmosphere for the teens and your presence would certainly help. Several parents have called to express their opinions of the dances and I would encourage others to do so.

The rules of our dances are those of common sense. Young people are not allowed to come and go, but must stay or leave. An off-duty policeman is present at each dance. We do not allow any unruliness. Dances are kept down to a reasonable hour. As far as humanly detectable no alcoholic beverages or persons who have consumed alcoholic beverages are allowed into the dance.

WOMEN'S SWIM TIME—Just a reminder that there is a time set aside just for the women to swim. This is on Monday and Fridays from 10-11:30 a.m. You need only be a member to swim. Memberships are always available.

VOLLEYBALL RESULTS — The week of decision is at hand in both the men's and women's volleyball leagues. In the women's Yellow Cab and La Bonita meet Monday night at 9 p.m. with identical records of 7-1 with the winner taking all. In the men's division Skelly Oilers lead with a 7-4 mark compared with Bell Pontiac at 7-4 and strong competition the final week.

Results last week found Yellow Cab over Jonas Auto Sales 15-7, 13-15 and 15-2; La Bonita tripped Malcolm-Hinkle 7-0 and 15-3; Furr's bumped Bell Pontiac 15-11 and 15-6; Skelly tipped Jordan Conoco 15-5 and 15-6 while Furr's defeated Cabof 15-4 and 15-9.

The season will close with tournaments for men and women. The women's tournament will be held Nov. 20 with entry deadline Nov. 17. The men's will be held on Nov. 27 with Nov. 20 as entry deadline. Entry fee is $5 with trophies given for first and second place.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. says sudden technical rallies are sure to occur from time to time with the market oversold. The investment firm says the ability of these rallies to have a "respectable" follow-through probably will indicate the possibility of a near term bottom.

Goodbody & Co. says selling pressure in the stock market is believed to have worn itself out and the list could begin to form a bottom not too far from present levels. Still, the companys says it will take time to repair the technical damage to the market and rebuild investor confidence when the current delince ends.

Hayden, Stone Inc., says nothing has appeared to indicate an important reversal of the current downtrend is imminent. It says all rallies probably will be short-lived and confined to specific issues until some of the market's technical fences have been mended and a strong base of price consolidation established.

NEW MISSILES were unveiled at Moscow's annual military parade, this time commemorating the 50th anniversary of the October Revolution. The giant ICBM is about 120 feet long.

OUTSIDE HELP

LONDON (UPI)—Australian and Norwegian veterinarians were flying to Britain today to help fight the rapidly spreading epidemic of hoof and mouth disease which has caused the death of 37,500 head of cattle and sheep.

SUPPORT LIBERATION

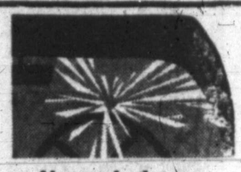

ALGIERS (UPI)—A joint Algerian-Cuban communique Thursday night pledged support to liberation movements throughout Africa. It did not, however, specify what type of aid it pledged.
