Work Begun on Exposition.

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 24.—Amid the firing of guns, the blare of brass bands and the cheers of the spectators the first work on the 1915 Panama Exposition was begun here this morning. President Taft turned the first spadeful of earth on the Fair site.

Moneymaking may be a disease but it is not an epidemic.

Not even the simple minded have mistaken Mr. Taft for a comet.

San Benito, Tex., Oct. 19.—It is announced that work will begin immediately on the cotton mill that is to be established in this city by Lowell, Massachusetts, milling men. Work along textile lines will be taught Mexican girls residing near here, and they will be employed at the mill. The working force will consist of about three hundred Mexican girls and about one hundred expert mill workers from the east. Experience has proven that for the simpler process of textile manufacture there is no better worker than the Mexican. The production of the factory will be confined at first to unbleached domestic and cotton duck, but the long fibre and strength of Texas cotton will eventually justify the manufacture of finer and more expensive cloth.

A proposition to build an interurban line from Temple to Marlin is being submitted to the citizens of those cities.

Why should the weather experts be so surprised at our having autumn in autumn time?

BLOOMINC FLOWERS IN AMARILLO UNDER SNOW

Amarillo, Texas, Oct. 21.—The first snow of the season last night measured one inch and varied to a greater depth in different sections of the panhandle.

This is the earliest snow in the past several years. It remained on the ground during the greater part of the day. Trees are still in full leaf and flowers are still open in the yards. They were loaded with the snow this morning, presenting a beautiful and peculiar sight.

TWO INCHES AT TECUMCARI.

Tecumcari, N. M., Oct. 21.—Two inches of snow fell here Friday night, the first of the season. Much damage has been done to young shade trees.

SNOW AT BIG SPRING.

Big Spring, Texas, Oct. 21.—The Big Spring country is in the grasp of winter. Snow is falling at La Mesa, 40 miles north of here and a slight fall here.

Weakened During His Confinement in Penitentiary, Excitement of His Release Was Too Much and Death Resulted.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23.—John R. Walsh, 74 years old, banker and railroad owner, who was released from Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary a week ago on parole, died of heart disease today.

Walsh had been out of the penitentiary just nine days.

The Balmorhea Commercial Association is at the head of a movement for the issuance of bonds for building good roads. A petition asking for an election wil be presented the next session of the commissioners court.

Italy won't find it very Thanksgiving Turkey.

The Marlin commercial club and business men make a trade excursion every Friday night to some school house in the county and give a free moving picture show. They show pictures and make speeches regarding Marlin's good points as a trading center.

It is estimated that 125,000 bales of cotton will be exported from Texas to Japan this year.

A good road bond issue of $150,000 in precinct No. one was carried recently in an election held at Wichita Falls. Three special commissioners were elected to act with the county judge and the commissioners. The result of this election is attributed largely to the work of the chamber of commerce, which organization has been enthusiastic for the issuance of the bonds.

J. W. SHEPPARD

FARMERS' EDUCATIONAL AND CO-OPERATIVE UNION OF AMERICA.

To the Members of the Union and Every Cotton Producer in the South:

Rogers, Ark., October, 1911.

The greatest convention ever held in the interest of securing fair and equitable prices for cotton has just come to a close in the historic city of Montgomery, Ala. This convention, following as it did the annual meeting of the National Farmers' Union, adds strength that cannot be computed to our holding movement for better prices.

The commissioners of agriculture of the cotton-producing states, under whose auspices the meeting was held, and the bankers, merchants, lawyers, doctors, senators, congressmen, Farmers' Union Delegates and unorganized farmers assembled in vast numbers, heartily eddorsed the holding movement inaugurated by the farmers for 15 cents, and unaminously pledged their support to the plan we have on foot for securing finances to insure the success of the undertaking. They went a step further and passed a resoultion recommending that a campaign be begun in each state to show the people the necessity for a concert of actions and calling upon busines, interests everywhere to subscribe funds for carrying on this great work, such funds to be in charge of the commissioner of agriculture and the secretary-treasurer of the Farmers' Union of the respective states, who will disburse it to the best advantage and give an accountage to the public and the contributors.

Bear in mind, this convention was not a crowd of fanatics. It was composed of the leading business men of the south, and its acts were the result of deliberate, calm judgment. All possible light was thrown upon the situation and the facts there brought out sustain them in the position they have taken. The committee on statistics, after securing relisble reports from the several states, gave as its opinion that not more than 12,500,000 bales may be expected this year. No sane southerner will question the statement that to put this crop on the market at less than the price set will be a sinful waste. In our opinion the expected yield is not the only thing to be considered in setting a price. Under the present high cost of everything used by the cotton producer in making his crop, should the yield be much greater than the estimate, which is not likely, it would be suicidal to sell for less than the minimum price.

It is a source of great satisfaction to the officials of the Farmers' Union to know that at last the business interests of the entire south have been aroused to protect its great crop, a fight which the farmers union has been waging single-handed for years. We have born the brunt of these efforts heretofore, but in this good year of 1911 we have every reason to believe that all Southern interests will rally to our support.

Already our national secretary has received contributions for campaigning in the interest of this movement, and is now arranging with the state officials of each cotton growing state to send lecturers into the field to impress the importance of standing firm in this movement. Watch for the dates and rally every farmer, business man, banker, in fact everybody. Get busy among your farmer friends and have them join the Union, the only force recognized by the business world as being able to cope with the situation. Surely no Southern farmer worthy of the dignity of being called a producer can willfully withhold his membership from the organization which means the betterment of his present finances and the future protection of his home.

Arrangements have been practically made for the assembling of millions of dollars to finance those who are compelled to have assistance in this movement, and needs only the support of the producers themselves to insure success. But bear this in mind, determination is a bigger asset in this struggle than finances. Great numbers of you will not need assistance, and those who do should be urged to borrow as little as possible. See to it that no merchant or banker to whom you may be obligated is made to suffer by the stand you take. This organization does not propose to teach its members to enter this campaign at the sacrifice of honesty, and we believe its membership is composed of men who would not do such a thing, even if urged.

The money secured will be used to assist your local banker and will be circulated through your local banks. With the support of the entire South it will not be difficult for you to satisfy your creditors.

The business world is amazed at the rapidity with which we get results from the members of the Union. But six days prior to the Shawnee meeting your national secretary issued a circular asking that messages be sent setting forth the desires of the organization. The telegraph office at Shawnee were literally swamped for two days with telegrams from all parts of the South, signed not only by Farmers' Union men, but business men as well, pledging support to the holding movement.

We thank you heartily for your loyal support and complyance with our request, and are setting about our work in this campaign, firm in the belief that you will work industriously in your neighborhood to secure a price for your cotton that will remove more mortgages from your farms, will properly feed and clothe your children, and give some rest to the toil-worn hands of your wife, and will insure the prosperity of your beloved Southland.

Fraternally,
C. S. BARRETT, President.

GRAPE NUTS KING BRIEF VISITOR HERE.

C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Michigan, Passes Through Abilene En Route to Post City.

C. W. Post, the Grape Nuts King, of Battle Creek, Michigan, accompanied by H. B. Ford, a Fort Worth attorney, passed through Abilene yesterday en route to Post City, on a week's inspection trip. Mr. Post traveled i na special Pullman "Grassmere," attached to Texas & Pacific westbound passenger No. 5, which was seven hours late on account of eastern misconnection.

"I am taking merely a running trip to Post," the Battle Creek millionaire said. "Wife is at Mineral Wells for her health and I will join her shortly. By the way," he suddenly chuckled, "has my friend, alias Sir Thomas Lipton, paid you newspaper people any more visits?"

"Sir Thomas Lipton," is Major Burroughs of Fort Worth, who appeared in Abilene several years ago and hoodwinked a newspaper man into spreading himself over three columns. Mr. Post said the New York world called him at Battle Creek asking about the Lipton rumor.

Mr. Post said that upon his return to Post City his now famous "rain making" experiments will be resumed, 15,000 pounds of dynamite being stored there against his arrival. Mr. Post says the modus operandi is to fire the dynamite in a manner which will closely imitate a battle, choosing a cloudy day for the operation. The various press reports anent the recent rainmaking at Post City were incorrect, it having been stated that two shots were fired bringing rain. "The truth is," said Mr. Post, "we fired two pounds of dynamite to a shot and there were 1,500 shots, making a total of 3,000 pounds of dynamite fired altogether."

"A firing line two miles was used, the dynamite being placed one-eighth of a mile apart. When we started firing the last time we had gone a month and thirteen days without rain and our crops were drying up. We started on a day when the clouds were very light and fleecy. Within an hour they gathered over us, dark and thick. Within two hours the rain fell and the last half hour we shot in the rain. It rained more or less all night and part of the next day, soaking fifteen square miles of territory."—Abilene Reporter.

Scalloped Oysters

(Recipe by "Marion Harland")

Crush and roll several handfuls of friable crackers. Put a layer in the bottom of a buttered pudding dish. Wet this with a mixture of oyster liquor and milk, slightly warmed. Next, have a layer of oysters. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and lay small bits of Cottolene upon them. Then another layer of moistened crumbs, and so on until the dish is full. Let the top layer be of crumbs, thicker than the rest, and beat an egg into the milk you pour over them. Stick bits of Cottolene thickly over it, cover the dish, set it in the oven, bake half an hour; if the dish be large remove the cover, and brown by setting it on the upper grating of oven, or by holding a hot shovel over it.

Texas Needs Great Men.

VI. BUILDING.

CAESAR built the Appian way and advanced Roman civilization to the zenith of its glory; Pericles found Athens a city of mud and left it a city of marble. Trace all the world movements for progress to their source and we will find a great man. The inspired thought of our builders has moved the wheels of civilization since the beginning of creation and the dawn of a glorious development that will illuminate the universe awaits the appearance in our state government of men who are builders.

THE APPIAN WAY.

We need empire builders who can civilize our virgin soil, organize the untamed forces of progress and give to raw material the touch of genius, as well as traverse the State with macadam highways, gird it with bonds of steel, improve our waterways, make the State throb with industrial life and build a thousand cities. Texas needs great men.

IN THE GREAT MICHIGAN LUMBER FORESTS.

Some Experiences and Observations by One Who Was There.

BY W. E. BERRY.

I have worked in the Michigan woods off and on for fifteen years, and I have never passed a winter there without seeing men killed or dangerously injured. I remember the first man that was killed. He was a German, married man with a family; his family living at the camp. He was cutting logs alone one day in the month of February. We were in the cook shanty eating supper about nine o'clock when his wife came in and said: "My man no come home; I fraid he not come." Every knife and fork was dropped at once, for we knew that there was something wrong for a log-cutter to be out this late. Hats and lanterns were found in a hurry and a search began. He had been working about two miles from camp and we soon found the place where he had been working by the tracks in the snow. Some snow had fallen in the morning, but it had been light, and we soon found the place where he had cut trees in the morning. We kept on his trail in the snow and at last came to a tree that had been cut but a short time, and on the stump was his dinner pail. The tree was not laying flat on the ground; one end was resting on something. We got on top of the tree and walked to the end. Here we found the missing man lying in the snow with his brains scattered over the snow. We supposed that he had chopped the tree down and that it had lodged in falling against a small sapling, and that he had gone under the large tree to cut the small one when the larger one had fallen on him. One limb had struck him a glancing blow on top of his head which had crushed it. It was a ghastly sight to behold by the lights of the lanterns. We cut two poles, tied our coats over them, laid the dead body on it and carried it to the shanty. His wife fainted when she heard the news. We put him in the store house that night and next morning we made a coffin out of lumber and laid him in it. The next morning one of the bosses was going to town and they decided to take him to the first graveyard they could find. He took two men with him to dig the grave—a young German and myself. We found a graveyard at a place called Riverton, seven miles east of Pere Marquette. It was a new place laid out for a graveyard, but no one had been buried there. It was a bitter cold day and the ground was frozen hard. We soon had a shallow grave dug, the boss swearing at us all the time for not working faster, as he was cold. Had he helped us some and done less swearing it would have looked better on his side. We finally finished and laid the corpse in the grave and then went on to town. It may be that the people of Riverton never will know who was buried in their grave yard first. If any of these people read this they will find out. The country was new then and but few people lived there. Only two families lived there at the time. Their names were Parker and Butler. We returned to the lumber camp the next day.

We had a mild spell of weather about the 25th of March. Snow melted a great deal and the ice in the river melted in places. One Sunday some more newcomers and myself thought we would go down to the river and go log driving, for we were anxious to learn. We found the river open and clear of ice. All we wanted then was to find some logs. We knew there was a log jam of logs down below us so we went to them. We found a log jam in about a mile. Our cup of happiness was full then; just what the doctor ordered. We secured some long poles, walked out on the jam, broke out a log apiece and started down stream at lightening speed, but at the same time shaking and trembling for fear of the log rolling us off, for it was quite a trick for a newcomer to stand on a log without falling off. But we all had good luck. We rode our logs down to the lower jam then walked ashore and went up again for more logs. We worked at this till dinner time, then all proposed to quit until after dinner—that is all but myself. I liked log driving so well that I said I would ride logs all day. The other boys went to dinner, and I went after more logs. I walked out on the jam and pried off another log and started. I did not get far. I had a large log this time, for I thought I would be safer, but I was wrong, for the larger the log the more difficult it is to ride. All at once the large log commenced to roll and the first thing I knew I was in the water and going to the bottom. I could not swim, and cannot to this day. I soon found the bottom of thirty feet of water, and the next thing I knew I was at the top; but not for long. My thoughts flew thick and fast; first on one thing and then on another. I thought of home and mother, but had no thoughts of dying Down I went again for the second time, and by the time I rose again it had begun to look serious. By this time I had floundered around some and the swift current had carried me closer to the bank. Just as I was going down again for the third and last time I felt a small brush that was hanging out over the water. They say drowning men will grasp at straws, and I believe it, for this little limb was no bigger than a straw, but it held me up for a moment until I could make another grab and get hold of more bushes. With this hold I drew myself to the shore and climbed out on the bank. I was more like a drowned rat—so full of water that I could touch it in my throat with my finger. I had seen many drowned bodies handled off the coast of Labrador, and the first think they did was to roll the body on a barrel. I had no barrel, but I rolled over and over and many a gallon of water came out of my stomach. But oh the feeling! It was miserable. What could I do now? I knew if I went to camp with my wet clothes on I would never hear the last of it for the boys would have guyed the life out of me. I thought of an old pine stump that I had set fire to the day before, and I knew that if there was still fire there I would be all right. It was a walk of two miles to get there and I was afraid I would freeze to death before I got there, but I took the chance and away I went. My old pine stump was still burning. I put more fuel on and soon had a roaring fire. Then I pulled off my wet clothes and dried them. By this time it was getting late and I made tracks for camp. As I came in sight of the camp some one gave a shout and the cook and all came out and took a look at me. They were surprised to see me alive. Two crews of men were down on the river searching and dragging the river for my body. I commenced to laugh and make fun of them; asking them if they were silly enough to think that I would drown; asked them to come out and feel of my clothes. Then they asked me where I had been all day. I told them that I had been out to the "works" looking up a new road I was going to cut Monday, and they believed it. I did not tell them any better until the coming winter. You may think that after this day's experience I would never ride a log again. I did so think when I was rolling the water out of me, but there is something fascinating about log driving, and when the drive started that Spring I was there again. I have had many a soaking since that time but not so close a call. Don't think I was born to be drowned anyway.

In the fall of 1867 a new logging outfit put in a camp about three miles above our camp. The owner's name was Hank Flinn. He moved his family up to the camp. He was a great hunter. A great many black bear were in the woods at this time and he was killing them, both old and young, for their hides. One old hunter at our camp made the remark that this man would be sorry for killing the young cubs some day, and it was not long before his prophesy came true. This man sent part of his crew out to a large lake and hay marsh to cut hay for the coming winter. He decided to go out and see how they were getting along. As eh was saddling his horse, his little two-year-old daughter, Katie, came out and wanted to go with him. Of course he refused, but consented to let her ride to the top of a hill near by, a distance of 500 yards from the camp. The mother put her on the horse in front of her father, kissed her and told her to come straight back home. They started, and arriving at the top of the hill he put her down and told her to run home as fast as she could. He went on his way to the hay marsh and attended to his business there, then returned home. He arrived home about 8:30 and the first words from his wife were "Where is Katie." He told his wife what he had done in the morning and had not though any more about it until now. His wife by this time was screaming and soon in a faint. The whole camp was aroused and with lanterns and pine torches were soon on a search. Our camp was notified and we all turned out and joined in the search. We searched all that night and all the next day until about five o'clock in the evening, when a part of our crew, who were about two miles above camp and close to the river, and were thinking of crossing over to the other side, and had started up the river to a log jam to cross on. When they came to the jam they saw a big black bear crossing on three feet. They thought at first that the bear was wounded, but just at the moment when one of the men had his gun to his shoulder to shoot one of the men cried: "for God's sake don't shoot." In watching the bear he had seen a part of a dress hanging down and dragging on the logs. The bear still kept hopping along hugging something close to his breast. After crossing the jam he went about five yards then dropped the child and made off through the woods. The men did not shoot they were so filled with joy to find the child alive and well, with but a few scratches on her caused by the bear going through the bushes. The child was carried home and handed over to its mother, who shed tears of joy to find her lost daughter. Bells were rung and horns blown to notify the other searchers that the child had been found. In answer to questions the child said that after her father had left her she had played a little while in the sand, when a big black thing came along and played with her. Then it held out its paw and she had caught hold of it and it had walked away with it. Just before dark it had left her for awhile and when it came back its paw was full of wintergreen berries. The bear eat some of the berries and she eat some, then it scraped a big pile of leaves close to her and lay down close to her, and during the night had tried to cover her with its body. The old hunter at our camp said that the hunter had killed two cubs about a week before that and that the bear had thought the child was one of the cubs. The father never shot any more bears after that.

THE ALARMING INCREASE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

"He died of Bright's Disease."

Hardly a week passes that this statement is not made in reference to some prominent citizen.

The increasing prevalence of this disease makes the present time seem most opportune for discussion in the hope that some who are unconsciously afflicted with this dreaded disease may receive timely warning.

A prominent citizen residing in a nearby town informs us that he suffered for nearly a year from Bright's Disease, but that he recently affected a complete cure.

"What seemed to be the first indications of the trouble," was asked.

"They seemed hardly worth noticing. My digestion bothered me at times, my stomach seemed out of order, and I had occasional backaches, but I thought it was due to too much work."

"Did you take anything?"

"I did not. Later, my strength failed me, I had severe pains in the back and noticed some irregularities of the urine, I couldn't sleep well at night. I then used some simple remedies, but without benefit."

"Did you realize that your trouble was Bright's Disease?"

"I never thought of such a thing. Finally, my condition became serious. My back ached all the time, I had shooting pains in my joints and a weak tired feeling at the knees, a little work played me out completely. I then began doctoring for kidney trouble but did not improve very much."

"Did you have any trouble with your heart?"

"Yes. I had spells of heart throbbing and a nervous faint feeling. I thought I had heart disease and treated awhile for that. Nothing seemed to help me. I had to give up trying to work."

"How did you affect a cure?"

"A friend of mine persuaded me to try Prickly Ash Bitters. I bought a bottle of my druggist. After taking it a week I began to feel some better, my urine became more natural and there was a gradual lessening of my misery. I kept on taking Prickly Ash Bitters for several weeks and I could feel my strength returning—slowly at first—but increasing daily. I am now entirely cured of my trouble and able to do a full day's work without the least fatigue. I consider Prickly Asa Bitters the grandest kidney medicine in the world."

Thousands of people attest in like manner to the wonderful benefit derived from Prickly Ash Bitters. It is a time tried and successful remedy for Bright's Disease or any disorder of the kidneys.

Prickly Ash Bitters is in every sense a system tonic and regulator. It possesses important properties for curing ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels in addition to its great power in the kidneys. It is a valuable article to keep at home, where a dose or two can be taken whenever needed. When used for any disorder in the kidneys, stomach, liver or bowels it is the right medicine in the right place.

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Colorado People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers from backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, kidney weakness may be the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well. Can Colorado readers demand further proof than the following statement:

George Win, of Midland, Texas, says. "Doan's Kidney Pills are the only medicine I ever used that did me any good. For several years my kidneys caused me a great deal of suffering. I had severe pains in my back and if I sat for awhile, it was hard for me to arise. The secretions from my kidneys were too frequent in passage and accompanied by a scalding sensation when being voided. Since taking Doan's Kidny Pills these difficulties have entirely disappeared and I have felt as well and strong as ever before in my life. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement."

Sunday School Report.

On the third Sunday in this month the Baptist Sunday school made a report which has been handed in as follows:

The Baptist Sunday School made its annual report last Sunday and it showed an average attendance for the year of 204. Last year it was 202, making only an increase of two.

The financial report was $300.58 and nearly every object fostered by this denomination has been contributed to, but the Sanitarium has received the most help, it having received $100.

The school starts off nicely for the winter's work, and should be complimented on their great work, for nowhere can we find a more progressive superintendent and a more loyal band of teacher and pupils.

Off for the Fair.

Among those who left Saturday for the Dallas Fair we secured the names of the following:

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Whipkey, A. L. Scott, A. J. Smith and family, Dr. A. H. Weston, J. M. Helton, W. H. Pond, J. L. Ross and two boys, Lon McGuire, W. B. Crockett, Jr., Vance Phenix, Young Cooper, Jesse Bullock, Capt. R. A. Jeffries, Mrs. A. A. Bailey, Mrs. Geo. W. Smith, H. Williams and wife, J. H. Green and wife, Will Wright and wife, Rufus Womack, J R. Watkins, Bulah Padgett, Mrs. D. F. Glisson, I. Mincer, Forest Payne, R. P. Price, Dr. W. R. Palmer of Dunn, and about forty others whose names we failed to get.

The cheap rate fair tickets put on here by the T. & P. Ry., which went into effect last Saturday morning, drew quite a crowd of Coloradoans to Dallas. Saturday there were sold 61 tickets.

HISTORY OF STUDEBAKER CARS

500 E-M-F "30" have each run 100,000 miles and still in running order. Since the factory started, in 1908, there has not been an E-M-F worn out.

The strenuous test of the Flanders "20" from Quebec, Canada, to Mexico City; the climb of Dead Horse hill, Worcester, Mass. one mile in one minute, 18.85, a rize of 455 feet in the mile.

Last of all, Flanders "20" having the high honor of being chosen Pathfinder for the New York, Jacksonville, Fla., Glidden tour, finished on schedule time with perfect score.

This shows the strength, quality and durability of the E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars and why we can guarantee them for one full year.

GOV. COLQUITT CALLS A COTTON CONFERENCE

Composed of Governors and Agricultural Commissioners—Hopes to Do Something to Check Slump In Price—Meeting to Be at New Orleans October 30.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 12—The conference of governors to discuss ways and means to prevent further reduction in the price of cotton has been called by Governor Colquitt for October 30 at New Orleans. In his call, he requests the presence of the governors and commissioners of agriculture of cotton producing states and also representatives from the different farmers' organizations and the principal banking institutions and editors of the leading newspapers. His letter follows:

"Believing that the continued decline in the price of cotton was not justified by the supply and demand, I proposed by telegraph to the governors of the principal cotton producing states that a conference of the executives of said states, and the agricultural commissioners of the same, ought to be held for the purpose of devising a way to check the decline in price of this staple.

"Having received favorable replies from ten of the eleven governors communicated with, endorsing the suggestion, I hereby call a meeting of the governors of the cotton producing states for conference over this subject to be held in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, October 30, 1911, beginning at 11 o'clock a. m.

"The commissioners of agriculture of each of the cotton producing states are also urged to be present, with such data relating to the condition and yield of the crops in their respective states as they may have which will aid the conference in forming a better idea as to the amount of cotton produced.

"The attendance of the heads of farmers' organizations interested in the growing and marketing of cotton in each of the cotton producing states is also desired and respectfully urged.

"I also take the liberty of suggesting that representatives of the leading or principle banks and financial institutions in all the cotton producing states and the editors of the principal newspapers be present, and I urge their attendance.

"The meeting would have been called earlier, except for the fact that it was deemed advisable to give at least this much time in order that substantial facts and data might be collected for consideration of the members."

The governor has also sent a telegram to each of the governors of the cotton producing states advising them of the call.

Death of Geo. Waddell.

George Cleveland Waddell, son of George Waddell, an old timer here, died Friday in Mineral Wells of acute rheumatism. The young man was 18 years old and had lived in and near Colorado all his life, until the last few years, when his father moved to Mineral Wells, when he went to work on a ranch near Midland. He was on the ranch when he was taken sick, and his father went to him and carried him home, thinking the baths and waters of the wells would effect a cure. Though all was done that was possible his life could not be saved. The body was brought in Friady night to the home of his cousin, Mrs. Ingram, and the funeral occurred Sunday at three o'clock at the Christian church where George had attended Sunday school when he lived here. The interrment was in the Odd Fellows cemetery where his mother and many other relatives are sleeping the last long sleep. Accompanying the body were the father, the aged grandmother, Mrs. Cox; his sisters, Misses Mollie and Nettie; and his brothers, Lewis, Frank, and Martin; also a cousin, Mrs. Fred Harris, of Midland.

To all of these we extend our sympathy in their grief, and commend them to our Heavenly Father, who alone can comfort in hours of deep sorrow.

It is hard to see a young life go out but when we think of the many trials and woes escaped by them, we really should be thankful for their release, thankful that they have gone into that school where Christ himself doth rule.

PHILADELPHIA WINS FOURTH GAME

Atheletes Took Fourth Game From Giants by a Score of Four to Two.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—Not withstanding the day opened up clear and cold with a stiff wind blowing and the field still heavy from the recent rains, the Atheletes and Giants competed for the fourth game in the world's series of base ball games.

The game was spirited from start to finish. The men competing in each nine appeared to be in the best of trim from their rest of several days. Philadelphia took the game by a score of four to two.

NEW YORK WINS IN A TEN-INNING CONTEST.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 25.—The New York Giants defeated the Philadelphia Atheletes in a thrilling game by a score of four to three in ten innings of play this afternoon.

The Atheletes, commanding a lead of three runs, were finally overcome in the desperate ninth inning by the Giants who put two runs across the plate on two doubles and a single. The home team won in the tenth when Doyle doubled, was advanced to third on an attempted sacrifice, and then scored on a long fly by Merkel, which Murphy captured on the line.

By letting the ball drop to the ground it would have counted as a strike on the batter and the runner could not have advanced.

Oldering was the home run hitter. With two men on ahead of him he hit a home run into the left field stands. He unsteadied Marquard who was in the box for the Giants, and he was taken out at the close of the third inning. Ames, who relieved him, pitched wonderful ball, and kept the Atheletes from scoring until the end of the seventh, when he was relieved to let Crandall bat for him.

Our Attorney.

Mr. Albert Taylor and his own company will be at the Opera House two nights commencing Monday, Oct. 30, in the original comedy, "Our Attorney." An advance notice says: Mr. Taylor has undoubtedly selected a play that contains the greatest entertaining power. The story is well written, it is true to life characters, so natural, and its comedy is so deftly woven, that the critics who know the bill pronounce it a decisive success with unaimity. The characters depicted are so usual and commonplace and yet so delicately and appealingly portrayed as to delightfully satisfy all lovers of a wholesome and pleasing life from a truly refined comedy play. The subtle comedy will be the peer of any of the bills yet depicted by Mr. Taylor, as it is a sure laugh-getter from the time the curtain rises on the first act until the final climax at the fall of the curtain on the last act. Merriment will reign supreme, and the principal comedy lines will be handled by Mr. Taylor in the leading part as "Our Attorney." Mr. Taylor's manner of speech and pleasing delivery aptly fits the role to be taken by him in this offer. The play, although a comedy, suggests a little lesson, and that is that we are oftimes mistaken as to who is the ignorant one, and the wise ones and the sharpest are often fooled when they go up against one whom they think is unwise to the ways of the world, but when they find he is endowed with such great mental faculties as "Our Attorney" the surprise is a wholesome one that will delight the playgoers.

THE PACIFIC MONTHLY.

The Pacific Monthly of Portland, Oregon, is publishing a series of splendid articles about the various industries of the West. The September number contained an article on Success with Cherries. The October number had a beautifully illustrated article on Success in Growing Apples. Other articles shortly to be published are Success with Live Stock, Success in Growing Walnuts, Success with Fodder Crops. These articles are written by experts, and are not only authoritative but very interesting.

In addition to the above, The Pacific Monthly each month publishes a large number of clean, wholesome, readable stories and strong independent articles on the questions of the day.

The price of The Pacific Monthly is $1.50 a year. To introduce it to new readers, it will be sent for six months for 50 cents if this paper is mentioned. Address: Pacific Monthly, Portland, Oregon.

The Colorado Masonic Lodge.

The Masonic Lodge met last Saturday night in a special called meeting and conferred the 3rd degree upon Colonel C. B. Hooper at Westbrook. The lodge at this place is well up on the esotoric and oxotic work and is adding members at each meeting.

The superstition and distrust with which all societies were at one time viewed by a large number of people was, happily, long ago dispelled and today the lodge stands as one of the champions of the home and family. Wherever society has reached a high state of development, secret and fraternal orders have their stronghold. Men must have some place to meet with their fellows occasionally, where toil and business affairs may be cast aside for an evening of pleasure and social intercourse. The lodge offers one of the best solutions of this question as is evidenced by the many orders that have sprung up in this country in the last decade. Besides these are the older and grander orders, all of which have, in their rituals, been important factors in the educational and moral development of the people.. That Colorado should be so well represented by a number of orders of this kind is not at all surprising, when the character of our citizenship is considered.

The Masonic order is the oldest of any in existence, its founding dates back to a period early in the world's history. It is a strong local order and growing stronger every week by the addition of the very best material, in the persons of ambitious young men of high ideals of life. The lodge is united, harmonious, and its members believe and teach that right hurts no man and that brotherly love and chairity often makes the weak man strong and courageous. As its auxiliary, is that queen of secret orders, known as the Eastern Star—a band of women with lofty ambitions, high ideals and unselfish motives.

We are satisfied with walking, thank you, when it comes to aeroplanes.

This is smiling weather, hard on the ice man, but the coal and stove men are in their glory.

Colquitt's cotton conference in New Orleans will be held Oct. 30. Wall stret is holding its breath.

COLORADO, TEXAS, OCTOBER 27, 1911.

CAN YOU PAY NOW?

The low price of cotton and the fact that the farmers are holding it for a better price, is working a hardship on the newspaper man, as well as others. We have on our list more than 1000 names who owe from one to three years, and if all of these would, or could, pay now, it would put us out of debt. Can you pay now?

For the past three years, when the times were hard, we have said but little about what you owed us, but carried it on, borrowing money to keep our business running. We rarely ever ask any man to pay his subscription, but now something will have to be done. The bank says it must have its money; they have accommodated us all the year, and now we must pay up. We can easily do so if all will come in and pay their subscriptions. Can you do it now?

Will you be one of the faithful, one on whom we can count on in time of need?

We have worked hard to give Colorado and Mitchell county a good paper and so far as we know all are well pleased with our efforts; and you can now show your appreciation very decidedly by coming in and paying for what you have already received. We feel sure that we have given you the full value for every dollar you owe us or have paid us, and if you do not think so, pay what you owe, if any, and discontinue the paper, we do not want a single subscriber who thinks the paper is not worth the price.

WILL YOU DO IT NOW?

He Might Make the Race.

The Record has no horse, dark, bay, gray or black, a-grooming for the next go-as-you-please race, but naturally takes an interest in those things, and likes to feel, like every other unterrified, straight-voting Democrat, that it had a finger in the pie, when the smoke of battle clears away. There is scarcely an office in the gift of the people of Mitchell that we have not heard of having been filled by a number of "mighty good men;" and there is no doubt that the proverbial bee is keeping up a powerful pestering noise about the ears of many.

Having heard the name of a citizen of Colorado suggested as a probable candidate for a district office, we approached him in a non-official way to see if he'd stand quizzing. In reply to the point blank question if he was going to run for the office of district attorney, he said that the idea had occurred to him, but never in a really serious aspect. However, if after considering the matter, he should find sufficient encouragement to justify the race, he would likely make it; but he would have to do a deal of thinking first.

There is no more important office in the gift of the people than that of district attorney, and the very best men are none too good for it. It needs a man of conviction and courage, with an innate sense of human justness, and the Record believes that Mr. W. P. Leslie possesses these attributes to a marked degree.

A Warning Voice.

With Morris and Tom splitting the pro vote (as Cone and Williams did); Choice rattling around like poor Bob Vance Davidson did in 1910, and Jake lining up the boys in the footsteps of Oscar, can't a man, though a political fool, see the finish for United States senator? The Commercial warned them in 1910, and it was charged with treason. It warns them now, and still they are as blind as a shedding snake in August. On with the war dance!—Georgetown Commercial.

The New York woman who left all to her lawyer in order to spite the relatives who tried to influence her will, went to needless precaution. He would doubtless have got it all anyway.

At the next meeting of the city council of Pecos an election will be called to vote on issuance of $30,000 worth of sewer bonds.

An interurban line is being surveyed from Greenville to Sherman and work will begin in the near future.

BALL, RAMSEY AND THE CAUSE.

Those of you, brethren, who have been saying that the prohibitionists are extremists must feel your insignificence since Ball and Ramsey have spoken. Why, bless you, those two are so very cautious that we would eagerly put our money on their walking on eggs and breaking never a one.—Waco Times Herald.

But do you actually believe that either of the gentlemen would have announced had it not been for the prohibition question?—Denison Herald.

Certainly not; they are running as prohibitionists. Which is perfectly legitimate of course, only we detect an effort to conceal that fact. And therein they err. Prohibition is a cause or it is nothing. The cause through Messrs. Ball and Ramsey to the front—made it possible for them to aspire to the high places. They owe it to the cause to make all other issues subordinate to that of prohibition; not to do so should forfeit for them the support of prohibitionists. It is prohibition that has made them conspicuous. Mr. Bailey says the prohibition question took him out of the race, and pledges of support from prohibitionists brough Mr. Ball into the race; therefore, Ball is morally bound to put prohibition first in his list of proposals. The activity of Governor Colquitt in opposition to prohibition called for an opposing candidate, and Ramsey was selected as the man; therefore, Ramsey is morally bound to make prohibition the paramount issue of his campaign. For either Ball or Ramsey to put any other question before that of prohibition would be tantamount to saying that they carried prohibition as a side line for baiting suckers. They must stand forth as the accredited champions of what many regard as a sacred cause, and they must set the woods on fire in that behalf; otherwise, they advertise themselves as office-seekers, with no other purpose than their personal aggrandizement. It was this very thing that gave Mr. Colquitt his great lead in the primaries; the cause of prohibition was sacrificed on the altar of personal ambition. What will it profit the prohibitionists to gain Ball and Ramsey and to lose their cause? And how can a cause hope ever to triumph when it is made the plaything of professional politicians?

Since the above was put in type, Col. Ball has withdrawn from the race and Judge Ramsey had just as well do so unless he comes squarely out on the prohibition question and makes it the sole issue.

BALL AND RAMSEY.

Mr. Ball has taken himself out of the Senatorial race, and very properly so, we think. And why do we say that? Because Mr. Ball's candidacy represented nothing in particular Had he based his candidacy on the sole desire to further the cause of prohibition, he could have gone forth in the spirit of the early crusaders. Or had he consentrated his fire on the protective tariff system, he might have gathered to himself a considerable following. But he was hesitant here; he was even willing to compromise on the right of recall. Having put the wrong foot forward, Mr. Ball shows his wisdom in withdrawing from the contest. And there's another man who should go and do likewise. We refer to Judge Ramesy. And why do we say that? Because the occasion for the Ramsey candidacy is the prohibition question and yet Judge Ramsey says that one's views on prohibition question should not be a test of one's standing as a Democrat. If that be true, he is without excuse for his opposition to Mr. Colquitt. How can he in good conscience ask the people to violate the two-term practice when he acknowledges Colquitt to be a Democrat in good standing? He makes himself ridiculous, and he should fulfill to the letter the nursery rhyme:

Jack and Jill went up the hill
To fetch a pail of water;
Jack fell down and broke his crown,
And Jill came tumbling after.

—Waco Times Herald.

CAMPBELL MAY RUN FOR SENATOR

FORMER GOVERNOR IN CONFERENCE WITH TOM BALL WHO HAS WITHDRAWN.

BOTH PRO LEADERS MEET IN NORTH TEXAS CITY

Campbell Evades Questions As to His Candidacy—Ousley May Shie His Castor.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 21.—Col. Thomas H. Ball is in Dallas tonight but refuses to give out anything regarding his decision to withdraw from the senatorial race, further than what he said in his formal statement given out in Houston today.

The fact that former Governor Campbell was here today added interest to Mr. Ball's announcement. It is believed that Col. Ball and the former governor were in conference today. Campbell gave evasive answers to the question as to whether he would be a candidate.

It is reported here in political circles that Hon. Clarence Ousley of the Fort Worth Record will likely become a candidate in the near future.

Some say that Mr. Campbell will be a candidate and others hint that Morris Sheppard will receive the Ball support.

Bailey May be on Bench.

Austin, Oct. 19.—Joe Bailey as successor to the deceased Associate Justice Harlan would prove most satifactory to thousands of his Texas and Southern friends, but they have no direct information that Senator Bailey is either an applicant or a possibility for the position in question. For several days rumors have been rampant that Bailey would resign his senatorial position very shortly and that Governor Colquitt would in consequence be called upon appoint his successor, who would likely be R. M. Johnson, manager of the Houston Post.

The Waco Tribune says: "We have read the surmise about Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey being called to the supreme bench of the United States by President Taft, as the successor of Justice Harlan."

Princeton Beer.

Mr. R. T. Crane, the highminded millionaire manufacturer, who has been investigating conditions of college life, says that "Princeton beer, beer, beer. We deeply regret, says the Wisconsin State Journal, that we are compelled to agree with Mr. Crane. This charge is true. There are some of us that believe it to be a shame and an outrage that there is not a five mile saloon limit, with the campus of the University of Wisconsin as a center. But think of shameless Princeton. Not only is beer sold on the campus of that famous old college, but the college itself sells the beer. The "Princeton Inn" is nothing in the world but a saloon. "The Princeton Inn" is owned by the Princeton corporation, it is administered by the trustees of Princeton college. And the trustees of Princeton college thru the management of the "Princeton Inn" buys beer and sells it to the students.—Peoria Evening Star.

The Youth's Companion is For Everybody.

Of course if you are too young to read, or so old you have forgotten how you may not enjoy The Youth's Companion. That is rather a sweeping statement, however, for hosts of children love to have the stories and jingles of the Children's Page read to them. There is many a grandfather and grandmother whose eyes are dim who like nothing better than to sit and listen to the Companion stories and articles. Many a blind person, and even those who in addition can neither speak nor hear have been cheered by The Companion, its contents having been communicated to them through finger tips of friends. The reading of The Companion is a pretty sure cure for all kinds of loneliness. Robinson Crusoe would have been a happier man if he could have had his Companion Thursday as well as his man Friday. Just send for the Prospectus for 1912 and sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that no other paper gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion, and it costs only $1.75 now for the 52 weekly issues. On January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Calendar for 1912 in ten colors and gold, and all the remaining issues of 1911 free from the time the subscription is received.

Efficiency in Legislation.

The standard of proficiency in every profession has increased almost a hundred fold during the last decade. The doctor and the lawyer have been compelled to double their research work and course of study before they are admitted to practice and the business men must bcome more thoroughly conversant with the problems of industry before occupying positions of trust and responsibility, but with the legislators we have no standards. Our lawmakers reel off laws like a jovial farmer spinning yarns at a crossroads store and we plod along behind them as patiently as a plow boy who hopes some day to become president. But the signs of the times indicate that there is a better day coming in Texas.

Candidates who hope to mount the stage of ignorance and prejudice and win their election by an ambitious flow of words, will find themselves behind the times when they face the public in 1912. The man who cannot produce specifications for the development of the resources of the state and his district will find himself without an audience during the campaign and without votes on election day.

Candidates: It will soon be in order for "pro bono publico," Caesar and Brutus and friends of the tax payers to write letters to The Record as follows: "Owing to many friends and tax payers asking me to announce for commissioner, or mayor, or keeper of the dog pound, after many sleepless nights and prayers to the god of fortune, I have finally condescended to announce for office. I want it distinctly understood that the money there is in it has nothing whatever to do with my desire to beat that awful Czar so and so or that egotistical so and so. I feel it my duty to protect the taxpayers from this awful calamity which the present board of commissioners has brought upon the county. It is a shame that we have been disappointed in not getting a shot at the commissioners for their success in getting a system of good roads in Mitchell county; better than we ever dreamed was possible. Now I have been asked by many tax payers and woman suffragists to announce for commissioner. Of course I am so popular that there is no possibility of my defeat, for I can stand at the Colorado National Bank corner and raise my hand when everyone on Second street will fall on their knees and yell; "Behold the Man!" But let me announce now, once and for all, that I will not stand for the criticism that is handed our county officials. I am a cripple now, and if the medicine handed to our present comissioners were handed to me, I would say something else than the Lord's prayer. It is too true that we tax payers are too prone to rush into a condemnation of our county officials. I do not wish to flatter and I have no favors to ask, but it does seem to me that Mitchell county has gone forward with such rapid strides that it is noticeable all over the country. We ought to encourage all public officials. There is more than just a salary due them. I am fair in acknowledging that I have criticised our city and county officials occasionally, but I believe in giving a square deal and believe in giving credit to honest, hard-working officials, who have a far greater responsibility than the average taxpayer gives them credit for.

TOM BALL WITHDRAWS FROM RACE FOR THE SENATORSHIP

Unwilling to Continue In the Race Because His Motives Have Been Misconstrued—Will Aid Ramsey To Win the Governorship.

The following letter from Hon. Thomas H. Ball withdrawing as a candidate for United States senator was received last night.
Times-Herald.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 20.—When urged by numbers of friends throughout the state to become a candidate for governor against Governor Colquitt, I declined because I had stated at the Waco mass convention that it was not my purpose to use the prohibition cause or the organizatlon, of which I was chairman, to further my political interests or for office.

I made the declaration at a time when it was being charged that the leaders of the prohibition cause were after office and that I expected to be a candidate against Governor Colquitt and the statement was made to relieve myself of any embarrassment in the matter.

Judge Ramsey decided to announce for governor and I pledged him my support, believing his election would redound to the honor and interest of Texas and give opportunity to curb the activity of the liquor interests in politics and put the saloons out of business.

Senator Bailey having announced his purpose to retire at the end of his term, I had many requests from partial friends through the state to become a candidate to succeed him, and believing that there was a substantial demand in Texas for my return to public life, from which I had voluntarily retired, I announced my candidacy for senator.

As the organization of which I had been chairman was then dissolved and he prohibition issue not a controlling one in the selection of a senator, with knowledge that no prohibitionist in Texas could or would be expected to vote for me unless from choice, I had no thought, in thus becoming a candidate, that my Waco declaration would be construed as applicable to the senatorship.

I feel deeply interested in seeing our state and nation committed to progressive democratic policies, and with no personal desire or need of office, esteeming them valuable only as an opportunity for public service, I was willing to give up my profession, business and oppportunities and devote my entire time and attention to public affairs.

I had measureably succeeded during the prohibition campaign in having the so-called Bailey issue eliminated and I had hoped that the senator's voluntary retirement would satisfy his opponents and that we might turn to the great public questions difficult of solution which now confront the people.

Since my announcement, from the tone of a number of newspapers and information reaching me from various quarters, it seems that there is a marked desire to charge me either with insincerity or inconsistency in becoming a candidate for senator, and an unwillingness to let the controversies cease which have prevailed in Texas around the personality of Senator Bailey.

I would be willing to join the friends or opponents of Senator Bailey in the advocacy of some measures for which I stand and to which the senator is opposed, but I would not be willing to conduct a campaign in Texas if it is to be marked with the bitter personal politics which have prevailed in the past to the obscuration of public questions and their rightful solution.

I am not afraid of the result so far as my success is concerned, as from my knowledge of Texas affairs I could reasonably hope for success, and in any event would be content without being "soured" to accept the result if the popular decision went against me.

Sustained by my own consciousness of right motives and acts and motives I would be willing to meet the inevitable criticism that comes to anyone offering for political preferment.

I am not willing, however, to pay as the price for the Senatorship the loss of confidence in my given word by any considerable part of the citizenship of Texas who might be misled by ungeneraous critics into the belief that my candidacy was repugnant to any statements by me made.

The controlling thought with me, however, is that any impairment of confidence in me would necessarily to some extent discredit the cause which honored me in the late prohibition campaign, that I would not risk for any consideration, however great.

I believe therefore that it is my duty to withdraw from the contest for senator, in the hopes that I will be better able to advance the principles and public policies for which I stand and to contribute to the success of Judge Ramsey's candidacy more effectively as a private citizen than I could as a candidate.

I am deeply grateful to a large number of friends and supporters who have so unqualifiedly commended my candidacy and to that part of the press which has so voluntarily espoused it, and will continue to try and deserve their confidence.

It will be an appreciated courtesy to have this communication appear as nearly in full as possible in the weekly press, that my reasons, as well as the fact of my retirement from the race for senator may be known.

An improvement which the Record has all along contended for, and one to which it thinks the town of Colorado justly entitled, is the making of a neat little park between the passenger depot and the express office. It would certainly add to the beauty of the surroundings and delight the traveling public, besides helping the looks of the entire grounds. Think of this gentlemen, in the general offices. LORAINE LOCALS

Brief Mention of the Week's Happenings at Busy Town of Loraine.

Joe. J. Chandler and Frank Dalton, of Cincinnatti, were here Sunday and Monday. They were the advance representatives of the Ten Nights in a Barroom show, which shows here under canvas tonight.

H. O. Rowland, of Carlton, Texas, was in Loraine Monday.

F. S. Walker was here from Hamlin this week on a prospecting trip.

C. C. Menshaw, of Sweetwater, was in Loraine the first of the week.

C. C. De Bellview, of New Orleans, was among the visitors to Loraine this week.

H. A. Newby, of Brownwood, spent this week in Loraine.

Geo. D. Davis was here from Brownwood Tuesday, the guest of Dr. W. H. Henthorn.

C. H. Cole was here Monday from San Angelo on a business trip.

J. D. Wilson grabbed an armful of passenger coaches last Saturday night and headed for Dallas, Burleson and other points. He has returned and wears that same old smile.

J. H. Hatton made a flying trip to the Fair last week. We don't mean to infer that he rode on an aeroplane, but merely that his stay was short he was hardly missed from his accustomed post of duty.

I. W. Farris was in Dallas this week taking in the Fair and buying holiday goods.

Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Martin and D. C. McRae and wife drove over to Roscoe last Monday in Martin's auto and attended the Methodist conference in that city.

T. J. Davis and wife left Saturday night for Dallas. They will visit relatives in Austin, Mineral Wells, and other points before returning home.

H. M. Perfry and wife were among the visitors to the Dallas Fair from Loraine the first of the week.

Wallace Pendergrass went to Dallas with the crowd from Loraine last Saturday night.

J. W. Frost and wife have returned from Ranger, Texas, where they were called to the bedside of Mr. Frost's sister. She died last Monday and was buried Tuesday.

L. W. Rhodes has efficiently handled the business at the depot this week, during the absence of the agent, J. W. Frost.

Miss Myrtle Grice left Monday morning for Rising Star, Texas, where she will spend the winter with relatives.

A letter from Rev. J. A. May, formerly pastor of the Baptist church here, contains the sad news that his only brother, John May, was run down by a hand car and killed at Phenix, Arizona, recently. His remains were shippeed to Attalla, Ala., for interrment.

Mrs. E. V. Johnson returned to her home in Colorado Monday morning after several days visit with her nephew, W. T. Mullin and family.

Rev. G. C. Farris preached at Mesquite community last Sunday forenoon, but did not fill his evening appointment, returning home on account of his wife's illness.

Jake Gregg and sister, Miss Annie, left Saturday night for Dallas to attend the big fair.

W. L. Petty left for Dallas Saturday night for a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mrs. D. T. Wheeler returned Monday night from Abilene where she visited her daughter, Miss Susie Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Gramley, from Hugo, Oklahoma, who have been visiting E. W. Watlington and family on the farm northwest of here, returned to their home last Monday morning.

Mr. Manly and family and Mr. Dresher and wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilson last Sunday.

Miss Ethel Thomas has returned from New Mexico where she spent the summer visiting friends and relatives in Roswell and other points.

Mining Company Meets.

L. W. Sandusky, G. B. Coughran and Jim Coughran, of Colorado, R. C. Crane and S. A. Cole of Sweetwater, were here Tuesday to meet with the local holders in the Virginia Mining and Milling Company.

They had a proposition to sell their property for $30,000 and this meeting was to determine whether the sale should be made, or the necessary funds for further development raised.

The company claims some very valuable holdings in the mining district of Virginia and the stock holders are nearly all Loraine citizens.

Match Game of "42."

Dr. W. H. Henthorn and Hubert Toler were in Colorado, and while there they encountered that notorious "42" bunch and had a challenge handed them, which they accepted.

Next Monday night is the date set, and Loraine will be there a dozen strong to capture any prize, honor or otherwise that Colorado happens to have in store for them.

A Sunday Wedding.

Last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the office of the Justice of the Peace R. H. Watlington, that officer officiating, the rites of matrimony were solemnized between Mr. O. C. Lucas and Miss Ettie Carey.

Mr. Lucas is one of our prosperous young farmers, living about three and one-half miles southwest of here. The bride is the daughter of Ab Carey, one of our well known farmers, living seven miles southwest of here.

The usual congratulations are extended the happy young couple.

We heard a very intelligent farmer and a cotton buyer discussing the situation this week, and the farmer's determination to hold his cotton, even if he had to carry it over until next year, was expressed. He said: "I know that the slump in the price of cotton is due to no economic conditions which depend on the principles of supply and demand, but upon a prearranged concert of action by the big cotton brokers. They try to beat down the price until all the cotton is out of the farmers' hands and control; then it's dog eat dog between 'em, and the price always goes up right along. Just watch what it will do between now and Christmas."

12-Cent Cotton in Six Months.

Progressive Farmer:

Once again let us say to our cotton growers: Don't get stampeded. Don't sell your cotton. Borrow money, if you must, but hold to it. We are about willing to risk the prediction that cotton will be twelve cents in three months.

"I have traveled pretty well all over the cotton belt," said George Duncan of Alabama, in the Progressive Farmer office the other day, "and I am convinced that a great misapprehension exists in regard to the size of the crop. The crop matured early, anyhow, and in many sections the cotton worm stripped the leaves and has caused the entire crop to open earlier than it would have otherwise done. It is this remarkable early opening and the consequent equally early ginning—the enormous ginnig receipts—that are giving the impression of a bumper crop. A little later the real facts will become known and the prices will go bounding back. The trouble is the farmers are stampeded."

Mr. Duncan believes cotton will go to fourteen cents, but all the Progressive Farmer predicts is twelve cents. We don't guarantee it, but we believe it. At any rate hold on to your cotton; nine cent prices are absurd.

We have everything in the vegetable line. Give us a trial.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.

Gov. O. B. Colquitt and some of the Leading Politicians Here—Mr. Campbell Still Non-Committal.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 24.—Governor Oscar Branch Colquitt came to town last night and is a guest at the Orient. Associate Justice W. F. Ramsey of the Supreme Court, will be here Friday morning. Ex-Governor Thomas Mitchell Campbell is a guest at the Southland.

Gov. Colquitt said that his coming had no political significance whatever, beyond shaking hands with the boys, for he is following his long-established custom of spending a week at the best state fair on earth.

It so happens that there is also in the city Railroad Commissioner John L. Wortham, Prison Commisioner Ben Cabell and R. W. Brahan. Colonel R. M. Johnson, of Houston; C. N. Ousley, of Fort Worth; ex-Lieutenant-Governor George D. Neal, of Navasota; Senator J. R. (Bob) Austin, of Bryan; Col. J. F. Wolters, of Houston, and S. W. Inglish, member of the state insurance board.

Judge Ramsey will spend Friday and Saturday in Dallas, and possibly Sunday.

Former Governor Campbell continues to hold levee in the lobby of the Southland. He still refuses to say whether or not he will be a candidate for the United States senate, but does say that he will sacrifice any personal or political interest in the furtherance in this state for the election of a governor next year.

Texas Educational Notes.

Beeville has recently dedicated a modern $30,000 High School building. It is named the Allen Carter Jones High School, for the donor of the grounds.

Itis reported that the Nazerene Church has elected Peniel near Greenville, Texas, as teh location of the location for the large Southern University of that church.

One of the interesting features of the Child's Welfare Exhibit at the Texas State Fair is samples of sewing from the different grades in the domestic science departments of the public schools.

Texas has among its children of scholastic age 27,788 German children, 2,659 Italian children, 65,863 Mexican children, 9,212 Bohemian children, 1,897 Sweedish children, 199,915 negro children.

The advent of the county school board and the general readjustment of rural schools, brings to the front again the necessity of a long term of of office for school officials in order to work out any definite policy in school affairs.

At the October meeting of the State Board of Education practically the entire meeting was given to the consideration o fthe several offers of independent and common school district bonds, and $44,300, the total amount available, was expended for scholastic school house bonds.

There are rural communities in the United States where the average attendance fs irom 97 to 99 per cent. In Texas it is 52 per cent. If the trained mind is to dominate in the future what wil our position be if we do not improve?. From a financial standpoint are we investing our money wisely?

Texas built on an average of two school houses per day last year, at a cost of $3,000,000. In this we lead the Union. It is criminal to spend such a sum unwisely. It is not only a waste of money, but effects the general efficiency of the schols, and the physical, mental and moral welfare of the children.

The Southern Educational Association will meet in Houston, Texas, Nov. 30 to Dec. 1 and 2. Prominent speakers for the session are: Gov. Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri; William H. Hayes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Washington; and Dr. W. R. Dodson, of the Louisiana State University.

San Angelo, Tex., Oct. 24.—The Wool Growers' Central Storage Company today set Nov. 10 as the date for the sale of 600,000 pounds of wool and 150,000 pounds of mohair held by that concern. In addition to these holdings of 400,000 pounds held by the commissions merchants will be sold early in November. Buyers are here inspecting the clip.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Nine Bills Reported by Grand Jury—Three Felonies and Six Misdemeanors—Still in Session.

Sweetwater, Tex., Oct. 24.—The attention of the court has been taken up with the Lovelady case, which was mentioned in yesterday's Report .The defendant railway company is giving in their evidence this afternoon, and it is very probable that the case will be concluded early tomorrow. It is very probable that the A. J. Hall personal injury will next be taken up.

This case was tried in the court here before and the plaintiff given a verdict. The case is one in which Mr. Hall is claiming damages for injuries received while in the employ of the Orient Ry. Co.

The Grand Jury room is also a busy place. Nine bills of indictment have been returned, It is probable that the jury will be in session the greater part of the week.

GINNING RECORD BROKEN THIS YEAR.

Cotton Crop MacuresEarlier and Ginning is Unusually Active.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—Cotton ginning throughout the South since the picking of the crop of 1911 began, has been carried on with greater activity this season than in any year in the history of the industry, and has resulted in the unprecidented quantity of 7,740,634 running bales of cotton ginned to October 18.

The census bureau report, issued at 10 o'clock today showed that greater quantities were ginned during the season in every cotton state except Oklahoma.

There were 2,316,000 bales more than were ginned last year to the same date; 1,322,740 more than during the record crop year of 1904, when 47.7 per cent of the year's total crop of 13,697,310 running bales were ginned to October 18, and 1,444,468 bales more than the big crop of 1908, when 48.1 per cent of the year's crop of 13,432,131 bales were ginned to that date.

Throughout the growing season various conditions caused the crop to mature much earlier than in most previous years, and the harvesting conditions proved excellent in most districts of the cotton belt.

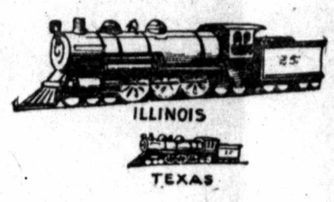

In Texas the ginning surpassed previous records by more than 600,000 bales; in Georgia by 428,000 bales; in Alabama by 138,000 bales; in North Carolina by 129,000 bales, and in South Carolina by 132,000 bales.

Waco's City Tax Rate has been fixed at $1.50, while in Colorado we pay 65 cents.

The Steam Engine

The record of civilization is accurately written in the progress of the steam engine. The use of steam has enlarged the purposes of the human race, built up civilization and developed mankind. Of all the potential energies, it is the most useful and it renders a service to every living creature.

The steam engine has been in more political brawls than any other force in nature and the politicians have been trying title with the owners ever since it became a factor in transportation. This mighty force of nature has often been handicapped by having boards and commissions placed over it who have neither knowledge or experience in the business and free railroads have become as popular a campaign issue as free trade.

Railroad mileage is the yard stick of progress. We have in Texas 14,000 miles of railroad and rank first of all states in the Union in mileage. In miles per area, we rank fortieth, having 5.15 miles of railroad per 100 square miles of territory. In mileage per population, we rank nineteenth, having 38.43 miles of railroad per 10,000 people.

The comparative test of railroad facilities is in miles per area. If we had the mileage per area that the state of Illinois has we would have 55,500 miles; that Indiana has 54,000 miles and that Iowa has 46,000 miles. We have only 14,000 miles.

According to the last interstate commerce commission report, compiled June 30, 1909, we constructed 273 miles during the previous year and ranked fourth in the list of states in the Union in construction during the year. We are more in need of railroad construction than any other state in the Union. The railroad development of Texas has not kept pace with the development of other lines of industry. Our railroad mileage during the past ten years has increased 35 per cent; the value of manufactured products has increased 92 per cent; the value of farm lands 157 per cent and the development of all lines of industry has been retarded for want of railroad facilities.

Texas is the most important field in railroad construction of any state in the Union. According to the 1910 comptroller's report, we have forty-seven counties in Texas without railroad facilities and we have approximately 40,000,000 acres of territory that is a distance of ten miles and over from a railroad.

Our Cotton Money.

Our cotton crop last year sold for approximately $220,000,000 and many of our citizens are under the impression that this money is available for building railroads, factories, opening mines, etc. It is true we exchange our cotton for gold but while producing the cotton, we consume all our cereals and ship in $75,000,000 worth of feed stuff from other States. The Texas Grain Dealer's Association conducted especially for this article, an exhaustive investigation into our cereal consumption. The production column is taken from the Federal Agricultural Department reports and the figures in the consumed column were furnished by the Grain Dealer's Association:

Grain.	Pro. Bu.	Cons. Bu.
Corn	181,280,000	250,000,000
Wheat ..	18,780,000	25,000,000
Oats	24,325,000	25,000,000
Hay—Tons	711,000	3,000,000

The average price of corn is sixty-five cents; wheat one dollar; oats forty-six cents and hay twelve dollars. When these extensions are made to the figures in the consumption column, we find our cotton crop has entirely disappeared.

Of course all these products are not consumed on the farms as our cities are composed of exclusive consumers but, as a whole, we are an agricultural State and in its last analysis, the banker and the merchant is as much a farm laborer as the hired hand that follows the plow and to get our net gain, we must deduct total consumption from total production. The money to develop Texas cannot be found by searching our cotton fields. We must get it from other sources and our principal supply must come from outside the State.

Experimental Farms.

One of the wisest laws enacted by the 32nd, or any other legislature, was the one which authorized the Commissioner's Court of any county to make an appropriation of not to exceed a thousand dollars per annum to be used in farm experiment and demonstration work.

The Commissioner's Court can make no better investment than to appropriate the entire sum and place it in the hands of a competent demonstrator. A number of our commissioners have joined hands with the Federal Government, thereby securing expert superivsion without cost.

ONGRESSMAN SMITH ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

FORE THE PEOPLE FOR RE-ELECTION NEXT YEAR

NOW MAKING TRIP OVER THE DISTRICT

ill Be In El Paso the Latter Part of This Week Accordin to the Announced Plans.

an Angelo, Tex., Oct. 18.—"No pro- n for the revisions of the tariffs been mapped out the coming ses- of congress, and I can't speak authority as to what will be done, I assume that the subject will be in taken up and revisions made g Democratic lines," said Con- sman W. R. Smith, of this dis- t, in speaking of the recent veto he tariff bill by President Taft. ongressman Smith is now in San gelo. He returned to his home in lorado City Wednesday from Wash- gton, and is now on a trip over the xteenth district meeting his sup- rters and friends. He made formal nouncement of his candidacy for election to Congress to-day in San gelo.

"The President vetoed the tariff bill nding the report of the tariff board, hich was provided for in the Payne- drich bill to aid the president in se- ring data on which he could act in forcing the minimum and maximum riff rates," continued Mr. Smith. e President is trying to convert the mmittee into a tariff commission. is required by law to make a re- rt on the wool schedule at the next ssion of Congress. This report will made to the president, and he is re- ired to furnish only so much of it Congress as he may deem proper. "As to whether this report will have y influence on Congress I cannot y. That will depend upon its accu- cy. Our tariff is the highest in the orld, and a revision will be benefi- al to the great body of people in Texas in general, as well as the rest of the country.

Mr. Smith leaves for Ballinger and will leave for other points in the district before going to El Paso the latter part of the week. He will inspect the work on the big $10,000,000 irrigation project on the Rio Grande just above El Paso. He is the chairman of the committee on irrigation and was the sponsor of the bill which authorized this monster project on the Rio Grande which will reclaim thousands of acres of valuable land. He will spend several days in the El Paso district. He returns to Congress early in Novembr to line up things for the opening of congress in December.

Regarding the next Democratic nominee for president, he said: "It seems to be the prevailing opinion that Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, will make the most available candidate for the Democrats to nominate for the presidency." However he did not make any expression as to his personal choice.

He said that the death of Associate Justice John M. Harlan was a severe loss to the country; that "Judge Harlan as a member of the Supreme Court was a man who always fearlessly upheld the law in the interests of the people and was never swayed in the least by the influences of the special interests."

Congressman Smith has a large number of warm friends in San Angelo who were glad to shake hands with him, congratulate him upon his work in Congress and wish him continued success in the political arena.

The El Paso Morning Times editorially says:

Congressman Smith Again Candidate.

The information contained in the news columns yesterday morning to the effect that Congressman W. R. Smith, of this dostrict, would be a candidate for re-election to congress affords much genuine satisfaction to that gentleman's many friends in El Paso and throughout West Texas generally.

As a member of congress the present incumbent has rendered the people of his district the most distinguished service, and no portion of the district has reaped more abundantly from his successful efforts than the city of El Paso. As a matter of fact, Congressman Smith could not have been more devoted to the interests of our people locally if his home had been in this city, and the proper appreciation of that fact is amply reflected in the loyalty that is evident here to his political interests.

Congressman Smith has now been in service long enough for his splendid abilities to become fully apparant and he is universally recognized as one of the stronges members of the very strong Texas delegation. As the ranking member of the committee on irrigation, he is certain to be made the chairman of that very important committee at the next congress, and as the matter of irrigation is a most important one at this time to our people, in the next congress he will be in position to render the most effective and valuable service of his entire career.

The Congressman has many warm personal friends and many admirers in El Paso, and the promise that he is to be a visitor to this city this week has provoked many expresions of profound satisfaction. He will receive a welcome that will in some degree reflect the love and loyalty of the El Paso people.

The Sweetwater Reporter says:

Congressman Smith arrived on the delayed east bound T. & P. today from his home in Colorado, and is spending the day here the guest of Judge Ed. W. Smith and numerous friends.

Congressman Smith is a great favorite with Sweetwater people, and, in fact, the entire "Jumbo" district, as has been fully attested in campaigns during the past. The people recognize in him a conscienceous and able representative who has always been true to every trust reposed in him. He spent the afternoon shaking hands with numerous friends and exchanging greetings. The Reporter sanctum sanctorium was honored by a visit from him. He expressed himself as being delighted with Sweetwater and the many improvements and changes that had been made since his last visit to the city.

He will leave over the Orient for San Angelo where he will spend a short time and then go to Ballinger and other points.

Abilene Reporter:

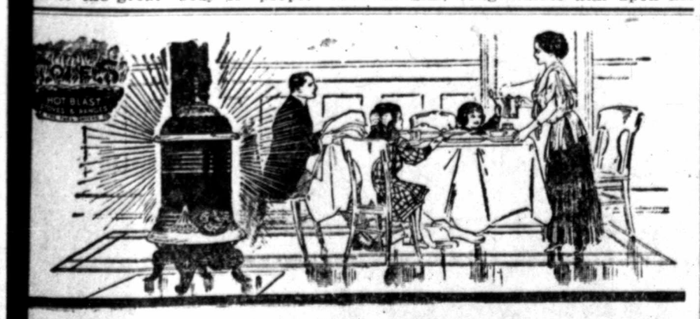

The indications are at this time that Congressman W. R. Smith, of Colorado City, will have no opponent in the field for re-election next year. A. B. Robertson, of Lubbock, who has frequently been mentioned as a probable candidate, has stated emphatically that he will not be in the running.

Big Springs Enterprise:

Judge W. R. Smith came in on the delayed westbound train from Colorado yesterday, spent the afternoon here visiting friends and went on west last night. The judge is enjoying fine health and seems to have recovered from his labors during the last session of Congress.

Christoval Observer:

Congressman Smith has made this district a splendid representative and his record is as clean and straight as we could wish for, and we hope to see him return to Washington.

The Even Heat Makes All Rooms Comfortable

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater is so perfect in construction that fire and heat keeps all night, even with cheapest soft coal. When the draft is opened in the morning the fuel put in the night before will burn for two or three hours.

No other stove will give these results—fire never goes out and the rooms are kept at even temperature day and night.

COLE'S HOT BLAST—for Hard Coal—SAVES HALF

The perfect control of the drafts, the slow economical combustion and the large, sensitive, radiating surface makes it the most economical and best Hard Coal stove made.

Cole's Hot Blast is the modern heater and will save its cost in fuel every winter. Burns Soft Coal, Slack, Lignite, Hard Coal, Wood and lighter fuel.

Do You Need One;

I have one Moosler and one Cary safe. Both good as new. One cost $225 and the other $150. I traded for these, and as I have all my money in circulation and no earthly use for them, I will sell or trade them for a great deal less than they are worth.

Would trade for residence lots in Colorado, or for Jersey cattle.

REV. J. T. L. ANNIS IS CALLED TO HIS REWARD.

Pioneer Methodist Minister of Merkel and Was Widely Known Throughout the Entire West Country.

The Rev. J. T. L. Annis, one of the most widely known and highly respected citizens of Taylor county, died at his home in Merkel on Saturday morning at 5 o'clock, Oct. 21, 1911. This announcement brought a sigh of regret to many citizens in the entire state of Texas. He was a pioneer of Methodism of the west, and there are few parts of this western portion of the state where his name is not a household word.

He was truly a great and good man. Methodism in the west owes to him, perhaps, more than to any one man, its lasting gratitude, for few men have consecrated their lives to the ministry who spoke with greater power or more earnest eloquence than he. In the early days when he was in the full vigor of his manhood as a presiding elder he used to inspire and astonish the early settlers with his marvelous capacity and endurance, and it was not infrequent for him to preach two masterly sermons on the same day at points from thirty-five to fifty miles apart—one in the morning and the otherin the evening. The Record extends sympathy to the bereaved family. All well know that this was the end of a righteous man, and now he sleeps well.

Rev. S. A. Barnes, of Abilene, presiding elder of this district, conducted the funeral services at the Methodist church in Merkel Sunday at 11 o'clock, after which burial immediately followed in the Merkel Rose Hill cemetery.

Rev. Annis is the father of our Jerome who had been at the bedside more than a week before the end came.

Rev. Annis was well known to Colorado Methodists. He had been an invalid for several years and had given up the ministry on account of age and ill health. He was ready and anxious to go, as his suffering had become intense, and his family felt that that it was a blessed relief to pass out from suffering.

Mrs. Annis and Carlock went down Saturday night to be with the other members of the family that gathered for the funeral.

The procession which followed the body to the grave was large, and the floral offering was beautiful despite the lateness of the season, those marking the great esteem in which the Rev. Mr. Annis was held in his community. Pall bearers were ex-Confederate soldiers. A party from Abilene headed by H. A. Tillett, a lifelong friend of Mr. Annis, attended the funeral.

The Rev. Mr. Annis was a superannuated minister of the Methodist church.

Baptist Ladies Aid.

The Baptist Aid ladies held an excellent meeting Thursday afternoon in the church. Mrs. Green led the devotional exercises, giving out verses relating to the work which was state missions. Splendid papers were given by the women on the program. Mrs. A. L. Whipkey's Texas Baptist Catechism, was both instructive and pointed, giving many items that every member should know. Mrs. Gustine had a very fine paper indeed upon state missions. Mrs. Webb gave a splendid talk upon the meaning and importance of Association missions. Mrs. Smith talked most interestingly of the old minister's relief fund. Miss Cromwell told of the evangelistic work of the missionaries and the need of more of this.

Mrs. Hooper told how the money is handled, and surely no one could accuse those in authority of extravagance.

Mrs. Whipkey then made a special plea for the offering and led in prayer for a willingness to sacrifice and to do great things for this great cause.

She told of Miss Breedlove having asked for flour sacks for the co-operative home at Abilene. She wanted these for the girls to hem and make into dish towels. A number were brought and more promised.

The meeting was closed by a prayer by Mrs. Wheeler, and all felt that it was indeed good to be there.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 21.—The meeting of the International Cattlemen's Association which is to be held in this city at the Chamber of Commerce on November 10th, has caused widespread interest on account of the vital importance of the subjects to be discussed. That population is encreasing faster than the supply of cattle is the report of cattlemen and this meeting is to discuss methods of obtaining renumerative prices for cattle and at the asme time securing wholesale beef for the consumers at the least possible cost. It is the intention of the Association to hold similar meeting for the Association in Laredo next February, in Fort Worth during the Feeders' and Breeders' Show next March and still later in St. Louis.

Couldn't Walk!

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenny, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. I ride horseback as good as ever. I am in fine health at 52 years."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

We have thousands of such letters, and more are arriving daily. Such earnest testimony from those who have tried it, surely proves the great value of this vegetable, tonic medicine, for women.

Cardui relieves women's sufferings, and builds weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a trial. It should help you, for it has helped a million others. It is made from pure, harmless, herb ingredients, which act promptly and surely on the womanly organs. It is a good tonic. Try it! Your druggist sells it.

TEXAS GAME LAW.

Information That Might be Well to Stow Away in Your Hat—Game That is Protected.

As the game season opens next Wednesday, Nov. 1, we publish the game law together with some free advice: It is well to borrow your gun early, and be sure to see that the lender furnishes the ammunition to go with it. Don't clean it or send it home, for the owner delights in going after it and cleaning it. After you have fired the gun all day and come home tired, lay it on a sack of salt and let it lay there for a few days so that it will take on a brown, spotted appearance. In this way the owner's pleasure will be increased. When the owner comes after his gun, don't forget to say that you intended to bring it home a month ago, but forgot it.

As the open season for hunting in Texas approaches the Game, Fish and Oyster department at Austin is receiving a lot of inquiries about the hunting laws and regulations and questions about procuring hunting license, etc. In answer to these inquiries and for the information of sportsmen generally the following statement has been given to the press by the department:

To hunt in any county of this state other than the county of one's residence or adjoining counties to that of one's residence, it is necessary to procure a non-resident county hunting license. This license costs $1.75 and can be procured from the county clerk of the county in which the person lives.

A non-resident of the state must procure a non-resident state hunting license. This license costs $15 and can be procured from the State Game, Fish and Oyster commission at Austin or from any deputy game warden of the state.

The open season for hunting deer begins November and ends December 31. Only buck deer, or deer with horns may be taken, provided that any person shall not take more than three buck deer during the open season. It is unlawful to kill or take a doe or spotted fawn. Hunting with lamp or lantern is prohibited.

The open season for wild turkey begins December 1 and ends March 31. The limit is three turkeys for one person during the open season.

The open season for shooting quail and doves begins November 1 and ends January 31. It is lawful for any one person to kill as many as twenty-five of these birds in any one day during the open season, but no more.

There is no closed season for wild geese, ducks, plover, snipe, jacksnipe, curlews, robins, or chacalaca; however it is unlawful for any person to kill more than 25 of any of the above mentioned wild fowls or birds in any one day of twenty-four hours.

It is unlawful to take any wild Mongolian or English pheasant, wild prairie chicken (prinnated grouse) wild antelope or wild Rocky mountain sheep at any time for five years (June 11, 1911 to June 11, 1916.)

It is unlawful to take any wild bird or wild fowl by netting or trapping at any time.

It is unlawful to kill any wild geese or wild ducks by any means other than an ordinary gun capable of being held to and shot from the shoulder.

It is unlawful to sell or offer for sale, or have in possession for purpose of sale, or have in possession after purchase, any game or game birds mentioned in this article at any time.

It is unlawful to kill or in any manner injure any mocking bird, whippoorwill (bull-bat) night hawk, blue bird, red bird, finch, thrush, linnet, wren, martin, swallow, bobolink, cat bird, nonparell, scissor-tail, seagull, tern, shearwater, egret, heron or pelican.

Any person may ship to his home as many as one day's bag limit, or 75 ducks, provided he accompanies the shipment on the same train or common carrier. To make such shipment the shipper shall make the prescribed affidavit setting out that he killed the game within the law, the place of his residence, etc.

It is not unlawful to kill English or European house sparrows, hawks (except night hawks) crows, buzzards, black-birds, rice birds, and owls.

It is unlawful for any one person to kill more than ten squirrels in any one day or sell more than five squirrels in any one week, provided that the squirrel law does not apply to any county in the second, fifth, ninth, tenth, twelfth, fourteenth, fifteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, twenty-first, twenty-fourth and thirty-first senatorial districts, under the appointment of 1901. It is lawful to sell or ship squirrels in Montgomery county, and it is unlawful to ship squirrels in Liberty county.

There is a heavy penalty for anyone hunting without a license as prescribed. A land owner, peace officer or game warden has a right to demand to be shown one's license when found hunting.

ROBERTSON SELLS LAND.

Nine Thousand Acres Sold to Colonization Company Who Will Subdivide Same.

A land deal of unusual importance was made this week when Harry McGee, a land agent at this place, sold to Curr & Moore, of San Antonio, the Robertson Ranch, consisting of 9,000 acres of tillable land, lying from 3 to 7 miles east of Slaton. This is the largest deal that has been made here for some time, and it is of special importance to Slaton, as Messrs Curr & Moore are making arrangements to cut it up in small tracts and sell it out to actual farmers in any size tracts they want and on any kind of terms. This is a valuable piece of land; 98 per cent of the entire 9,000 acres is subject to cultivation. An exceptional strong flow of water is to be had at a depth of only 60 feet over all this body of land.

The above is taken from the little paper published at Slaton, and we presume it is the A. B. (Sug) Robertson Ranch.

Don't trifle with a cold is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in case of a child. There is nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds in children. It is safe and sure. For sale by all dealers.

Old Fashioned Democracy.

We see and hear noadays about "Old Fashioned Democracy. These would-be statesmen and oracular orators fail to tell us what this so-called Old Fashioned Democracy is. It is true that principles are eternal. They are neither new or old fashioned. They are simply here, have been here since the earth has had inhabitants, and will remain as long as the earth lasts. The different opinions that men and voters hold in regard to public questions have to be submitted to a public referendum and a majority vote decides all public or political questions. It will be remembered that our constitution makes our government a representative government.

The party or political organization having a majority of the votes cast, make our laws and executive officers enforce them. Now just what questions are political and what questions are not: It is evident that most thinkers agree that all public questions are political questions, and many are moral as well. We might instance slavery, poligamy and prohibition. These questions have been and will be decided by the American public. There are other questions looming up in the political sky and will speedily require settlement. We might refer to woman suffrage, to a great central bank, to better highways an dto various other things that require constructive statesmanship. To all of these questions all of the old fashioned Democracy that ever existed is worthless. There is an element in society like Mark Hanna when he was the great Republican leader, whose shibbileth was "Let well enough alone." This, however, is not an age of standpatism. The standpatter is certain to be run over and left in the road to scratch the dust out of his eyes and wonder which one of the Joe Patterson's struck him.

Statesmanship is required to meet all issues as they arise and adjust them to the greatest good to the greatest number. This is Democracy undaunted; the kind that will live and bless mankind. Every man must be equal before the law. No more subterfuges and rascality in high or low places. Then a manhood and citizenship will arise such as the world has never seen. Its influence will be world-wide and as patent as the sun in the Heavens to vivify and enlighten the world. Old Fashioned Democracy is as capabel of good as last year's storm water is for raising next year's crop.

J. T. HARNESS.

Amarillo, Tex., Oct. 19.—The chamber of commerce, working in conjunction with the leading business men and representatives of the more important industries of the city, is planning a permanent Pan-Panhandle Fair Association for this city. The purpose of the proposed organization is the exploitation of the entire Panhandle and its resources, each town in this section to have an exhibition indicative of its development. Not only is the progress of the section to be shown, but a distinctive feature will be to point out what is needed for its further development and an invitation will be extended for the entrance of foreign capital to meet these demands.

One of the plans for making the Association self-supporting is to purchase a large tract of land near the city; divide that part not required for the fair grounds into five and ten-acre tracts, sub-irrigate it and sell it to truck farmers.

The farmers of Hodalgo county have organized a Truck Growers Association with a large membership.

Friday afternoon the larger girls of the League entertained the smaller ones with a party at the parsonage. The litle tots were gathered in the yard and they had school, the larger ones being teachers. Everybody had lots of fun, and at the close of the afternoon refreshments were served which had been prepared by the girls. These open meetings keep up the interest in the league,and are a great pleasure to the childrea.

Mr. John W. Mooar, wife and daughter, returned from a season's visit to New York state and New England, this week. They report a most delightful time and the enjoyment of perfect health. Mr. Mooar and his brother, J. Wright Mooar, still own the old homestead near North Adams, Mass., which they keep swept and garnished for their homecomings at any time, and say they will keep it in their possession as long as they live. Mr. Mooar says he spent most of his time in roaving over the very mountains which in his boyhood days he thought were the tallest and grandest on earth. That was, however, before he came to Texas, where he found things laid out on a grander scale in the "pent-up Utica" of little old New England. He didn't waste much time in talking, he said—just put in an occasional word now and then about Texas. His looks concurr in the statement that he had one of the times of his life. He reports also that his son, John, is doing well; with whom they spent some time. Few men can get as much out of a visit as Mr. Mooar; a close observer of men and things, blest with a retentive memory and ease of expression, he always brings back a budget of information with which to entertain his friends.

Watson- Creath.

At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Creath, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., Miss Millie Creath and Mr. James Watson were happily married by Rev. W. M. Elliott. The bride was dainty and sweet in the bridal white and the groom was never more handsome and manly. About forty guests were present and their congratulations and good wishes were hearty and sincere. A refreshment course was served in the dining room after which the bride and groom left on the east bound train for Dallas where they will spend a few days. Mrs. Watson's traveling gown was a most becoming blue. The young couple will reside in Pecos where Mr. Watson is in business. Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

The Hesperians met Friday with Mrs. Broaddus, and had the pelasure of welcoming the three new members. Several on the program ware absent, and only the debate between Mrs. Merritt and Mrs. Collier was brought up, but this proved to be quite enough, as each tried to win her point by much speaking. The debate was, "Resolved: That the present day Kindergarten is Essential to Child Culture." Both had some good points, and both left claiming to have won. The hostess' refreshment course was chilly like the weather, but was enjoyed just the same. Mrs. Collier will entertain with a Halloween meeting this week.

However strange it may sound, a Record representative, while in Dallas last Sunday morning instead of going out to the grounds and riding down the chutes, went to the First Baptist church and heard Rev. George Truet preach a wonderful sermon to the traveling men. This subject was very appropriate as Saturday before was traveling men. The subject was very large number of them were in the city. This magnificent and beautiful church building was crowded to standing room, and the large audience listened enraptured to the great preacher. We were specially impressed with the great numbers of splendid young men who attended this service. The music was as fine as we ever heard, the big pipe organ and splendid voices in the choir filling every nook of the large auditorium. We came away feeling that it was indeed good to have been there.

A. B. Storey reports that he has a flock of turkeys now laying eggs every day. This is unusual, and can only be accounted for in this way: Turkeys will be too high for common people on Thanksgiving day, so these are laying eggs now, so that there will at least be turkey eggs for Thanksthis occasion. Or again, it could be accounted for on the grounds of the wonderful productiveness of West Texas.

While in Dallas, the Record man and his wife stopped at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McDaniel. Mr. McDaniel is chief reporter on the Dallas Dispatch, and early Sunday morning he got a tip about a sensational story in police circles, and we accompanied him on the still hunt for several hours, until he got the material for a sensational story for his paper Monday afternoon. Which gave us some idea of the great amount of work there is in getting up even a small story for a daily paper. The Dispatch is a fearless and outspoken paper, on any subject, and especially in exposing the rotteness in politics, more especially in local and city politics and city government; and Mr. McDaniel has been instrumental in unearthing quit a good deal of this kind of matter for his paper.

"WE ARE KING."

Mr. Albert Taylor and his own company will be at the opera house, two nights, commencing Monday, October 30th, presenting "We Are King," on the second night. "We Are King" is a splendid comedy of modern life. The action of the play takes place in Kahnberg, a small principality of Germany, and deals with the complications that arise, in trying to dethrone King Hector, a despotic ruler, who has run his kingdom into debt, and ground down his subjects to the starvation point.

Gustavus Venner, correspondent of the London Record, a light-hearted, devil-may-care fellow, wanders into Kahnberg in search of news. He is arrested as a spy, and confined in the Royal Hunting Lodge. The Prime Minister of Kahnberg, and his followers who are plotting to rid the kingdom of Hector, are so impressed with Venner's marvelous resemblance to the king, that they induce Venner to impersonate the king who is away on a secret mission. Venner, under the impression that he is rendering the king and court a favor, and seeing good copy in sight, consents willingly. Hector returns unexpectedly, and is immediately dragged away to prison, as the spy Venner, while Venner costumes as the king, and accepted by the court, proceeds to make things interesting by running the kingdom to suit himself. He lowers the taxes of the people, throws the palace open to the public, and gets himself into all sorts of complications through his ignorance of court affairs.

Princess Olivia, of Baronia, a neighboring principality, who is about to wed Hector, appears as the Fraulein Theresa, writing history. She has never seen the king. Venner meets her at the Royal Gardens and both ignorant of the others identity, immediately fall in love. Here follows one of the most beautiful love scenes.

Through the ravings of a necromancer, known as the Raven, Venner learns that he is really the king, having been stolen from the palace when a child. This gives him further opportunities to complicate affairs. Hector escapes from the mad house, and plots to dethrone his supposed usurper and is accidentally shot from the balcony. Venner quiets the riot started by Hector and the Raven learns that the Fraulein Theresa is really the Princess of Baronia, and the curtain falls with Venner and the Princess united and the two principalities under one rule.

Stop Kicking.

The fire boys went out on their monthly practice meeting on Monday night and made a thorough test of the new fire plug that had been installed by the Water Co. at Second and Cypress streets near the cotton yard. The plug was tested under ordinary pressure first and a sufficient volume of water was had to take care of any ordinary fire, and then the pressure from the stand pipe was put on and any fire within a radius of two blocks of this plug can be handled with 2 lines of hose.

The above was done on account of a petition sent to the council by some alleged water experts who claimed this plug to be inefficient and asked the plug to be condemned. The water Co. did the work in good shape and can supply plenty of water.
