Capone Guard Is Sentenced To Jail Term

Income Tax Trial Has Rousing Aftermath As Gang Chief Is Denounced For His Actions Toward Witnesses

To Visit Mother

D'Andrea Gets Six Months In Jail But Is Allowed To Go On Visit For Two Weeks To His Sick Mother

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Al Capone's income tax trial had a rousing aftermath in federal court today as the gang chief and his followers were denounced for "intimidating" witnesses, and the bodyguard who brought a loaded pistol into court was sentenced to six months in jail.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Capone to 11 years imprisonment, adjudged bodyguard Philip D'Andrea in contempt of court and ordered him locked up for six months.

Menace To Court

His presence during the income tax trial with a weapon on his person was a "menace to the court itself," Judge Wilkerson said, but still it was not as bad as the acts of the gang in general, intimidating some witnesses, causing others to perjure themselves.

Before sentencing D'Andrea and then allowing him two weeks' freedom so he could visit his sick mother, Judge Wilkerson read a prepared statement dealing mainly with the conduct of the Capone trial. It follows in part:

"It clearly appears from the facts and circumstances before the court in this proceeding and at the trial of United States versus Capone, that this respondent's activities were linked with those of an organized body of men whose outlaw camp is at the Lexington hotel. Of this body, defendant Capone was chief.

"To this camp at the Lexington were summoned witnesses who testified to the defendant Capone's losses on horse races. To that camp were summoned counsel for conferences. And from that camp, under what coercive influences we can only conjecture from what transpired in court, came that array of shocking perjury with which the court was confronted during the closing days of the trial.

"We had here the spectacle of witness after witness testifying in a way which was psychologically impossible, pretending to remember things which in the very nature of the human mind the witnesses could not have remembered if he had forgotten the things which he pretended to have forgotten. It was perjury on the face of it.

"It is perfectly clear from a long array of conclusive circumstances

Invitation to members of the Panhandle District Medical society to again hold their semi-annual meeting here was extended by Lubbock physicians Wednesday afternoon at the close of the organization's two-day session.

A resolution expressing appreciation for treatment accorded the delegates in Lubbock was passed at the final business session.

Election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place will be made at the spring meeting of the board of directors, it was pointed out. In addition to the short business session, papers were read in the surgery division. Dr. E. O. Nichols of Plainview was chairman of the meeting and Dr. Jason H. Robberson of Amarillo was secretary.

Betty And Babe Start Marathon

(By Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, Oct. 28.—Betty Fox and Babe Fox were off tonight, dancing atop a 50-foot pole on a hotel roof here on a 100-hour marathon, after the court had ruled Texas had no law to prevent the exhibition.

Judge George W. Johnson in district court at Boston dissolved the temporary injunction today in a test of the Texas anti-marathon law, sought by District Attorney Elmer Lincoln.

Lincoln also sought to prevent the dancing exhibition by means of the Texas female employment law but the women proved to the court they were operating through a partnership arrangement with their brother, Bennie Fox, manager of the act.

Free Cooking School Holds Big Interest

Hundreds Of Lubbock Women In Classes Daily; Affair Will Continue Through Friday At Uptown Dance Palace

Continuing with her program of practical and economical dishes, Miss Christeen Chitwood gave the second demonstration and lecture Wednesday afternoon in the eighth annual free cooking school fostered by the Avalanche-Journal publishing company.

There is to be another free class this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Uptown Dance palace with Miss Chitwood in charge. The school continues through Friday afternoon and in conjunction with the final program there will be a cake and pie baking contest for local women, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher council of the city.

Attendance Increases

Approximately one hundred more women were in attendance at the school Wednesday afternoon than attended on the opening day, Tuesday. More chairs will be placed in the auditorium today to assure seats for all who attend.

Among the hundreds of women who are attending the school are many with children, representing the young matrons of the city. Older women and school girls, swell the crowd each afternoon.

A devil's food cake, banana macaroon mousse, coffee souffle pie, boiled tongue, thousand island dressing, syrup nut pie and pastry recipes were given yesterday. The boiled tongue was labeled an economy dish by Miss Chitwood, who recommended it as a cold or a hot

Bankers And Agents Gather For Meeting At Amarillo

AMARILLO, Oct. 28. (AP) — Fifty county and home demonstration agents and about two dozen bankers from 21 Panhandle counties were here today for the opening of a three-day discussion of extension service work.

W. C. Dickey of Memphis, chairman of the key bankers of the district, summed up the work of the past year by saying that ten families had canned vegetables and meat this year to one family last year, that there are from six to ten times as many cans of food on the shelves of Panhandle farm homes as there were a year ago, and that three times as many farm women and girls are making their own clothing.

Seventeen farm women gave reports of their efforts to "live at home" under the direction of the home demonstrators.

Evangelist Is Facing Arrest After Wedding

Warrant Charging Performance Of An Illegal Marriage Is Issued For Fiery Preacher In Arkansas City

Still At Liberty

Rev. Joe Jeffers Breaks Into Limelight Again; Remembered As Center Of Battle When Troops Were Called

(By The Associated Press)

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 28. — A warrant charging performance of an illegal marriage ceremony was issued today for Rev. Joe Jeffers, Baptist evangelist and a principal in a church controversy here recently that grew in violence until troops were sent to preserve order.

The warrant was based on accusations he married Jesse Nance, Flint, Mich., and Miss Celestine Byrd, Grubbs, Ark., October 15, without being qualified under Arkansas laws to perform nuptial ceremonies.

Out of City

He was out of the city today, but authorities said the warrant would be served when he returned.

Mr. Jeffers started a series of evangelistic meetings in a tent here two months ago and began a campaign to oust Dr. D. H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist church of Jonesboro, on charges of conduct unbecoming a minister.

Brought Division

That brought about a division in the congregation and finally the factionalism resulted in a fist fight at the church. Another outbreak occurred on the city hall square the next day and Governor Parnell sent national guardsmen who patrolled the town until quiet was restored.

Last Sunday night Jeffers' tent was burned under circumstances that led authorities to suspect incendiarism.

Moves To Protect Interest In Northern Manchuria Made By Japan; List Of Treaties To Be Given League

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Oct. 28.—Japan moved today to protect her interests in northern Manchuria, requesting Russia to stop troop concentrations on the Manchurian border, and sending engineers north along the Ssupingkai-Taonan-Anganchi railway to cross the Chinese eastern line and reopen the direct route from Taoan to Tsitsihar.

Troops accompanied the engineers. This is farther north in Manchuria than any Japanese troops have gone since Russo-Japanese relations were resumed in 1925.

To Submit Treaties

The foreign office announced also it would submit to the League of Nations council a list of Sino-Japanese treaties it feels China has failed to respect. China is on record at Geneva as acknowledging her obligation under the league covenant to respect treaty stipulations.

Thus the sixth week of the difficulty brought no sign of direct Sino-Japanese negotiations for which the leauge council hoped, and no indication of withdrawal of Japanese forces in Manchuria to the areas to which their activities are limited by treaty.

DALLAS, Oct. 28. (AP)—Testimony of Etta Bentley, given today in the murder trial of W. A. Shafer, 22, will be repeated tomorrow following her release from a 30 day federal sentence. Miss Bentley was a roommate of Dorothy Jones who was killed May 1, 1930.

State attorneys were fearful the testimony given by Miss Bently might be jeopardized because it was given while she was a prisoner. She will be released tonight.

Twelve-Year-Old Youth Receives Life Sentence

Jury Convicts Boy On Charge Of Murder In Connection With Slaying Of An Officer

(By The Associated Press)

ASOTIN, Wash., Oct. 28. — Hubert Niccols, 12, was convicted today of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Sheriff John Wormell and the jury recommended life imprisonment.

The boy sat stolidly as he heard the verdict, showing no emotion. A murmur, interpreted as indicating surprise and sympathy rippled over the crowded courtroom, but Hubert still did not even blink.

Prosecutor Halsey said "I feel for the boy as if he were my own son."

The verdict meant that the jury discarded the insanity, abnormality and mental irresponsibilities pleas of defense counsel, and that Hubert will spend the rest of his life in Washington state penitentiary, unless released earlier for good behavior or pardoned.

The defense had admitted the main facts of the case, that Hubert had stolen a revolver, entered Peter Klaus' store to steal tobacco and gum, and shot the 72-year-old sheriff who searched the place after receiving a burglary "tip."

MacDonald's National Group Will Rule Parliament As No Other Power In All History

Total Of 555 Supporters Of Government, Only 50 Named For Opposition And Three Are Independents

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 28. — Swept into power with a mammoth majority of more than 500 of the 615 seats in the house of commons, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's national government will be able to dominate parliament as no other administration in the history of democratic Britain.

Tonight, with 608 returns available from yesterday's voting there were 555 government supporters, only 50 in the opposition and three independents.

The loss of 235 seats nearly wiped out the labor representation in the house of commons. Nothing like it ever occurred before in Great Britain.

Hold 472 Seats

The conservative party held 472 seats with prospects of gaining a few more in the late returns. This great conservative strength led to expectation that a demand for a full-blooded protection tariff policy would be the first trouble encountered by Mr. MacDonald.

But, although an emergency tariff within a couple of weeks of the reconvening of parliament is a probability, the prime minister is pledged not to impose a general protective tariff until it has been fully investigated.

Great significance was seen in a statement by Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader, who declared yesterday's results showed a national and not a party victory.

Second Person In Slaying Of Five Again Is Figure

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28. (AP) — The "Charles Rogers" whom Harry F. Powers claims was the actual slayer of five persons whose bodies were found buried in a shallow trench near Powers' garage at Quiet Dell, near here, again became a prominent figure in the case today.

It was reported reliably that a letter signed "Charles Rogers" and addressed to Powers, was received here.

Mme. Clairbert Only Wanted A "Leetle Sprig"

MADAME CLARE CLAIRBERT, Belgian opera singer who landed at New York two weeks ago, is learning American customs from the justices of the peace.

Late Wednesday afternoon the singer, who is here for a concert tonight, decided a four leaf clover might add to her luck on the concert stage in the United States. The urge to garner the token came to her as she was walking near the courthouse lawn, which contains a small bed of sweet clover.

In bold defiance to a glaring sign, which warns all trespassers they are subject to a $5 fine, Madame Clairbret stepped into the patch of clover and started a search for the emblem of good luck. Deputy Contable Cap Moore, who believed the law was being violated regardless of the powers of four leaf clovers, was standing nearby.

"Here, you can't do that," he said. "Can't you read?"

"Oui, oui, monsieur," the alleged law violator replied, "Of course zee $5 is very fine," she said, continuing with her botanical search.

The deputy constable and grand opera singer, side by side, then marched to the office of Justice of the Peace W. S. Clark.

Extradition Efforts Are To Await Records Of Two Men

Effort to extradite two men arrested Tuesday night at Clovis, N. M., for allegedly passing five forged checks here, will not be made until the records of the men have been ascertained, members of the county attorney's office and sheriff's department said Wednesday night.

Will Ernest, chief deputy sheriff, said he had received information to the effect that one of the men was at liberty under $5,000 bond for an alleged offense in another Texas county and also that the men were suspected of holding up the operator of a filling station at Silverton last week. The deputy sheriff said he had been informed that some kind of charges had been preferred against the pair at Clovis, at a result of an attempt to pass forged checks there.

League Issues Direct Attack In Statements

Pamphlet Says Executive Has "Abysmal Ignorance Of Why Navies Are Maintained And Of Their Use"

Regret Expressed

Hoover Suggestion Is Rapped With Statement That Such A Proposal Would Have Made For Bloodier Wars

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 — President Hoover was charged by the Navy League today with exhibiting an "abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained and of how they are used to accomplish their major mission."

A printed pamphlet, issued in behalf of the league over the signature of William Howard Gardiner, president of the civilian organization which represents much of the navy sentiment for more powerful armament, carried this statement with an expression of regret. Then, it concluded:

Has Been Necessary

"It has been necessary, however, to say what has been said above, if we are to have a real appreciation of the impelling motives back of President Hoover's efforts, at every turn, to restrict, to reduce and to starve the United States navy—under the present plea of budget limitation on which we may have further cause of comment."

The "abysmal ignorance" attributed to Mr. Hoover was said to have been shown in his proposal to immunize sea borne food supplies during time of war.

"Acceptance of his suggestion would have worked not only diametrically counter to the interests and weight of the United States in world affairs but, in effect, would have made for bigger and bloodier wars," Gardiner added, "and yet

Potash Supply Is Discovered

Eddy County, New Mexico, Is Likely To Become Center Of Mining Activities Of U. S. Government

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. — The end of American dependence on foreign sources of potash was seen by government officials today with the announcement specimens of the first potash minerals ever mined in the United States have been placed on exhibition in Philadelphia.

The minerals are from Eddy county, New Mexico. The geological survey said "there appears to be sufficient potash available here to supply the American demands, even with a greatly increased consumption, for many decades."

Potash is essential for manufacturing fertilizer and for use in the chemical and munitions industries. The geological survey and agriculture department have been seeking domestic sources of potash for 20 years in an effort to make the nation independent on foreign supplies in both peace and war. Later, the bureau of mines joined the search. The first definitely-recognized potash bearing minerals were discovered in West Texas in 1920 as a result of oil well drilling.

EL PASO, Oct. 28.—First he ordered soup. And then he ordered steak. And then a platter of sausages, and pie and ice cream and more soup.

He was a hungry man, and he ate with relish in a restaurant here last night. Finally he drew a long breath, summoned the proprietor, and said:

"Call the cops. I've been hungry a week, and I made up my mind to eat tonight if I went to jail for it. I'm willing to work, but I couldn't get the work." But he didn't go to jail. The proprietor just turned him over to his boss dishwasher, and after an hour he was allowed to leave.

Belgian Opera Star Features Local Program

Appearance of Madame Clare Clairbert, Belgian soprano of the Chicago Opera company, at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight, will mark the formal opening of the Texas Technological college's artist course for the fall and winter seasons.

Mme. Clairbert and her company arrived late Wednesday from Amarillo where they appeared in a concert Monday night. Other members of the group are Francis de Bourguiuon, pianist and Carl Achatz, Swedish flutist and Mme. Clarbert's secretary.

Artistic Program

The program to be presented tonight by the singer is an exceptionally artistic one, consisting of classics, operatic arias and songs in the English language, her manager said. The program is strengthened through the work of one of Europe's greatest flutists and one of the continent's most talented pianists, it was said.

The singer is making her second tour of the United States. Last year, she was a member of the San Francisco Opera company and sang with Gigli, the Metropolitan tenor, in Mignon and Traviata. She also appeared with the Philadelphia Opera company on Lucia di Lammermoor. On November 10, she will make her debut with the Chicago Opera.

Is To Make Talk

A great ovation was accorded the singer and other members of her company Monday night at Amarillo, it was reported. From here the artist goes to Abilene and Wichita Falls, the only other Texas cities included in her tour.

Members of the company have been invited to attend the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club to-

"What we want in Texas is not a few big highways crossing the state," he said, "but a good system touching every county seat."

Church Leader Issues A List Of 16 Charges

Says That If Two Newspapers Will Print Them Suit For Libel Will Be Started By Him Immediately

Glass Is Charged

Says Two Virginia Papers Are Controlled By Legislator; Tells Glass How To Put His Hints Into Form

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Bishop James Cannon, jr., tonight issued a list of 16 charges involving himself, the publication of which by the Lynchburg, Va., News or the Lynchburg Advance would cause him to sue for libel.

"Enlightening the ignorance of Senator Glass," was the heading of the Southern Methodist cleric's statement. At the start he quoted this recent assertion by the Virginia legislator:

Quotation Given

"If it were conceivably possible, in the face of recent disclosures, for anybody to libel Bishop Cannon, I would not know how to go about it."

LEFT TO COURTS

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 28. (AP)—United States Senator Carter Glass stated tonight that "for the present" he preferred to leave Bishop James Cannon, jr., "to the courts and the congressional committee authorized to inquire into the grave criminal charges against him."

With that, the churchman proceeded:

"It is really so amazing for Senator Glass to confess his inability to do anything whatever, that I have decided to tell him how he can put his innuendoes into plainly libelous form.

Controlled By Glass

"The Lynchburg News and the Lynchburg Advance are both newspapers which are known to be controlled by Senator Glass, and they are properties of considerable value, as witness the goodly sum paid by the government for condemnation of the News-Advance building in Lynchburg, and damages in a successful suit for libel against these papers could probably be collected.

"The simplest way to insure a suit for libel by Bishop Cannon is for the Lynchburg News and the Lynchburg Advance to print in their editorial columns the following charges, thus assuming full responsibility for publication of the same:

Desired Nomination

"First: In 1909, when Mr. Glass desired the nomination for governor of Virginia, Dr. James Cannon, jr., representing the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, made an 'unholy alliance' with the brewers, distillers, and the so-called Martin-Flood-Swanson faction of the Democratic party to secure the nomination of Senator William Hodges Mann as governor.

"Second: Dr. James Cannon, jr., was guilty of violating the law against hoarding flour during the World war.

"Third: In the Richmond auditorium in the campaign of 1928, Senator Glass told the truth when he declared that, while he was giving his humble services to the cause of prohibition without compensation, Dr. James Cannon, jr., was the paid agent of the Anti-Saloon

Lips To Match Gowns Of A Dozen Shades Now Latest Decree Of Fashion; Eyes Are Cared For

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 — Lips to match or harmonize with the gowns of a dozen new shades and artificial glue tipped along sweeping eye lashes are the latest make up notes.

Watchful cosmeticians saw early in the season that the lipsticks many women had been wearing as "their shades" quarreled with the new fall reds and wines. The outcome was the recommendation that the lip rouge be determined by the color of the dress or accessories, and a half a dozen lipsticks were required on a job formerly done by one.

For the new wine tones a deep raspberry lip coloring is advised. Flame red in the dress or accessories is matched exactly by flame red lipstick. This shade also goes with green and woodsy browns, white and black. For pastel evening shades an almost pastel red lipstick is the recommendation.

Medium red is worn with black costumes by either blonde or brunette. Lipstick with a hint of purple compliments dark blue.

For the new rust shades there are the light, medium and dark rust colored lipsticks to match the dress exactly.

Eye make up also calls for a range of eye shadows and mascaras. Red heads and blondes, from the platinum to the reddish gold, draw green eye shadow and brunettes, the purple. Blue eyes can wear the blue. For the conservative there are the new tints in browns and grays.

The perfect flavor of coffee is indeed a delight to the taste. But you don't get the perfect flavor, unless your coffee has been roasted evenly. Hills Bros. Coffee always is. It's roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. Each berry receives an even roast. None is underdone, none overdone.

Such uniformity is not the case with coffee roasted by ordinary bulk methods. For big batches can't be exactly controlled. The coffee may be roasted a bit too much, or not enough. If either happens, you don't get the perfect flavor that Controlled Roasting never fails to achieve.

Hills Bros. Coffee is strictly fresh, because it's packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

Makers Of Vicks VapoRub Score Another Advance In Home-Control Of Colds

Vick Chemists Develop The Perfect Ally To Vicks VapoRub — Introduces New Idea In Preventing Colds And Makes Possible The Vick Plan To Reduce The Family "Colds-Tax."

FREE TRIAL PACKAGES

Local Druggists Have Free Samples For Users Of Vicks Vapo-Rub

Mothers of two generations have depended on Vicks VapoRub for treating the family's colds. Now, in 26 million homes, they welcome the newly discovered perfect ally to VapoRub—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these two ideal, direct applications provide the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax." Here is the Vick "Colds-Control" plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes.

During the day—anytime, any place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, try the new Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Packages Free

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may test the new Vick Plan of better "Control of Cold" in the home, every druggist in the United States has been sent a limited supply of samples. Get yours today. If your druggist's supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail you a trial package of Vicks Nose Drops (also a sample of Vicks Medicated Cough Drops) together with a folder on the Vick Plan for "Control of Colds" in the home. The department does work of this nature at different times through the year, having tested concrete for the Lubbock jail, the high school, Slaton highway, and various other jobs.

Arkansas Bank Is Robbed Of $5,000

TEXARKANA, Oct. 28. (AP)—Two unmasked robbers entered the First National bank of Lewisville, Ark., at noon today, locked Mrs. Dave Patton, assistant cashier, in the vault, and escaped with about $5,000 in cash.

Officers believed the robbers were the same men who yesterday looted the bank at Omaha, Texas, of $2,500.

The robbers were followed by a posse of officers along the highway in the direction of Shreveport, La. They were traveling in a small coupe.

Mrs. Patton was alone in the bank when the robbers entered.

She was almost prostrated with fright when one of the men pointed a pistol at her and commanded her to walk into the vault.

The robbery was effected in about five minutes. Another employe returned from lunch a few minutes after the robbers escaped and released Mrs. Patton.

Mrs. Patton told officers that both men were young.

Army Bugler Sounds Taps As Cadet Sheridan Is Laid To Rest In Hero's Grave; Great Soldiers Lie Beside

American's Best

LEFTY GROVE

Bob Grove, southpaw ace of the Philadelphia Athletics' pitching staff, who was announced yesterday as the "most valuable American League player for 1931."

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 28. — A bugler, standing amid gay-tinted falling leaves, gently blew "taps" in the dusk of this evening and the corps of cadets of the United States military academy laid Richard Brinsley Sheridan, Jr., to rest in a hero's grave on a hillside.

With all the impressive pageantry at his command, the nation's soldier youth turned out through a long day to do final honor to a comrade killed in combat. Tonight he sleeps under the shadows of Crow's Nest mountain — this favorite of the corps mortally wounded on a football field of battle—with the Hudson glinting grayly in the starlight through the shedding leaves below.

He sleeps in the company of the most illustrious of the army dead —General A. Custer, killed in the Sioux massacre; "Fighting Bob" Anderson, who fired the gun at Fort Sumter that started the Civil War; the brave "Molly" Pitcher, General Winfield Scott, General George A. Goethals, and other heroes of both peace and war.

And to the corps of cadets that sent him off so gaily last week to do battle for Army against Yale, saw him smashed down in a knifing tackle in the final quarter, learned that his neck had been broken, and then suffered with him until he died Monday night, this was little honor enough.

From 10:30 a. m. this morning, when his simple flag-draped casket, sealed that the corps, as well as his parents, might remember him as he was in life, was carried into the tiny Catholic chapel for requiem mass, until the last notes of "taps" rang out in the darkening air, they did him honor.

They tried to do it as soldiers do.

But there were times during the long day they were not quite able to play the part of the hardened warrior, when the boy still in them showed completely through.

In the tiny Catholic chapel, where Father J. A. Langton, conducted burial services at 4 p. m., his classmates, men who had elected him their president, jammed the church, kneeling stiffly, backs erect, as the priest intoned his prayers.

Three brawny cadets, one holding a lighted candle on either side of a golden cross, stood at the foot of Sheridan's casket while the priest prayed in Latin at his head. Candles, lighted at his side since the requiem mass in the morning, burned low. Softly a cadet in the choir loft above, sang a littany and stiff backs weakened, the white gloves of the full dress costume, covered eyes and heads bowed low.

CONTRACT AWARDED

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (AP)—The state fish, game and oyster commission today awarded a contract for construction of a fish hatchery at Tyler to G. W. Cullum and company of Dallas. It will cost $11,000.

Mrs. Aileen Allen, twice national diving champion as a member of the Los Angeles athletic club several years ago, has been named women's athletic director and swimming coach of the L. A. A. C.

The pair will be included in the retinue which starts the long trek today, both as members of the playing team.

Waco fans probably will recognize as one of Tech's starting backfield men a player who has appeared before them many times before, one "Professor" Lucifer Butts, a member of the strong Waco High team of 1927, 1928 and 1929 under Paul Tyson. Butts is listed as starting halfback against Baylor Saturday.

These Lads Make Trip

Players included in the squad which leaves today are as follows: Whacker Barton and Lester Tribble, centers; Captain Jack Durham, Ross Ayres, Toby Greer, Eli Harris, and Lacy Turner, guards; Elva Baker, George Langford, Bennie McWilliams, Truett Owens, and Clarence Young, tackles; George Cowan, Matt Hitchcock, Harlan Howell, Yancy Price and Moody Faulks, ends; Jim O'Leary and Speed Moffett, quarterbacks; Lawrence France, Lefty Sollis, Slick Close, Lucifer Butts, Mark Welch and Basil Hill, halfbacks, and Harold Crites and Murray Nichols, fullbacks.

Early Defeats May Prove Incentive For Good Game

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. Will history repeat itself next Saturday and a dispirited and beleagured University of Texas football team again rise in its wrath to upset the old dope bucket and defeat the powerful Southern Methodist University Mustangs?

This question was uppermost in the minds of supporters of the Longhorns as the Steers went through their training for what admittedly was one of the most difficult hurdles they will be called upon to take this season.

A part of the 1930 Southwest conference history repeated itself several weeks ago when Rice Institute duplicated its deefat of Texas, 7 to 0.

Texas had entered both the 1930 and 1931 games a top-heavy favorite only to be met by an alert Owl offensive and a defense that could not be penetrated.

Ponies Favored Last year

Last year Texas was the underdog in the S. M. U. engagement but turned the tables and in a surprising upset threw the Mustangs out of the race for the conference championship with a 25 to 7 defeat. This year Texas again will be rated as the weaker team but doubtless will, nevertheless, be greatly feared by its more favored opponents.

In 1930 the Rice deefat proved an incentive to Texas in the S. M. U. game. This year's defeats by both Rice and Harvard will spur Texas on.

The Texas team was expected to shoot the works in the Mustang tilt in an effort to regain some of its lost football prestige and will spare nothing to knock S. M. U. out of the title chase.

So far this season Texas has shown little championship form. The Steers have won three and lost two, turning in unimpressive victories over the University of Missouri, the University of Oklahoma and Simmons University. Texas' playing has been far below par in all departments although they started the year with a wealth of material and with brilliant prospects for a second consecutive championship.

Considerable criticism has been directed at Texas playing methods and the lack of deception in the Longhorn attack. In most games this year Texas has shown worlds of power but little cohesive action. Lack of unitized effort has been particularly noticeable on offense. The blocking and interference has been classed by many sports writers as "terrible."

Critics, however, were ready to recognize the fact that Texas ran up against the best aggregation Harvard has placed in the field in years—one that is apparently destined to leave a dazzling trail in eastern gridiron history. They also recognize that Texas was crippled in vital positions. Baumgarten, guard, and captain, entered the game with a bad leg while Blanton, ranked as one of the best tackles in the Southwest, was reported nursing injuries.

The warmest of steer supporters predict Texas will give the Ponies a hot session Saturday pointing out that the Steers received a lot of first hand instruction in football at the hands of the Crimsons.

Favorites Advance Through First Rounds Of Play For Southwestern Women's Title

EL PASO, Oct. 28. (AP)—Favorites for championship honors came through first round matches of the Southwestern women's golf tournament with flying colors here today.

Mrs. J. M. Williams, Phoenix, Ariz., defending champion, had little trouble defeating Mrs. Frank Hadlock, El Paso, 4 and 3. Mrs. O. R. Armstrong, El Paso, won handily over Mrs. O. C. Coles, El Paso, 7 and 6.

One of the hardest matches was between Mrs. W. T. Chapman, El Paso, and Mrs. Peyton Edwards, El Paso. It went 20 holes before Mrs. Chapman won, one up.

Mrs. J. M. Ridley, El Paso, and Mrs. James Vance, El Paso, battled on even terms with Mrs. Ridley slipping ahead to win, one up. Mrs. Barry Goldwater, Phoenix, took the measure of Mrs. R. L. Ramey, El Paso, by the same score.

Junior Loop's Most Valuable Title Awarded

Athletics' Star Southpaw Is Cinch For High Honors With Lou Gehrig Finishing Second In Voting

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — For the second time in four years, a member of the former world champion Philadelphia Athletics has been adjudged the American League's most valuable player.

Robert Moses Grove, sometimes called the greatest southpaw pitcher in history, received the distinction for 1931, just as his battery mate, Mickey Cochrane, was chosen in 1928.

The slender left hander with the blazing fast ball is the second pitcher to be called "most valuable" in the 14 years the awards, official and unofficial, have been made. Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" of the Washington Senators, received the distinction twice, in 1913 and 1924.

Just a Breeze For Bob

It was just a breeze for Grove when a committee of eight members of the baseball writers' association cast their ballots. The Athletic ace, who set an all-time record by winning 31 games and losing only 4 during the past season, received 78 points of a possible 80. His closest rival was Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman of the New York Yankees, who received 59 points. Gehrig won the award in 1927.

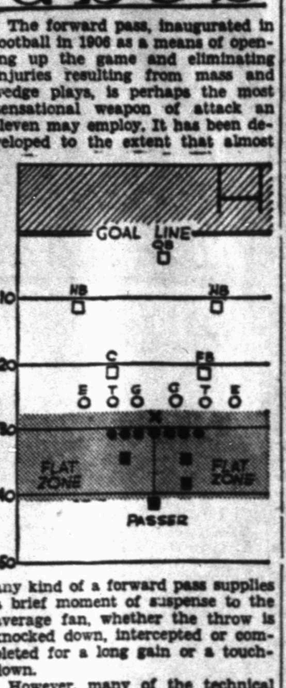

Simmons Is Third

Al Simmons of the Athletics, batting leader of the American League, finished third, Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, was fourth, and Babe Ruth, who received the award in 1923, placed fifth.

The method employed in choosing the American League's most valuable man was the same as that which resulted in the selection of Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman of the champion St. Louis Cardinals, as the outstanding player in the National League. Ten players were ranked by each of the writers, with 10 points for a first place selection. Grove was ranked first on six lists and second on the other two.

Football ABC's

The forward pass, inaugurated in football in 1906 as a means of opening up the game and eliminating injuries resulting from mass and wedge plays, is perhaps the most sensational weapon of attack an eleven may employ. It has been developed to the extent that almost any kind of a forward pass supplies a brief moment of suspense to the average fan, whether the throw is knocked down, intercepted or completed for a long gain or a touchdown.

However, many of the technical and intimate descriptive terms bearing on the forward pass are lost on the layman. One of these is the flat pass, which is merely a forward pass into that region known as the flat zone.

There is no definite sector of the gridiron set aside as the flat zone. It changes relative to the movement of the two teams. For example, the flat zone in the accompanying diagram is that region on either side of the passer that extends up to the line of scrimmage.

Passes into the flat zone may be thrown to any of the backs or to the two ends who work out wide on the line of scrimmage. The common flat pass, however, is thrown to one of the backs as the ends run down the field to suck the secondary defense out of position, enabling the receiver to make a sizeable gain, providing he can get by the line of scrimmage.

Enthusiam High As Westerners Prepare For Important Contest Saturday; Take Road Tomorrow

Lubbock Line To Be Lighter By Comparison With Pampa's Forward Wall; Team Prepares For Great Battle

Today sees the Lubbock High school Westerners in their last home practice session before meeting the Pampa High school Harvesters Saturday at Pampa in a district championship game. The club leaves tomorrow for Canyon where it will workout on the West Texas State Teachers college gridiron before continuing the trip. The Westerners will spend tomorrow night in Amarillo, going on to Pampa Saturday morning.

Yesterday's drill was somewhat like that of the day before when Coaches Chapman and Huffman sent their charges through a hard workout on defense against Pampa plays as run by an opposing team, only the work yesterday was lighter in comparison. Fundamentals were stressed as the coaches observed closely the individual performances of each man.

Due to the indisposition of O. H. Britton, regular quarterback, Charley Crenshaw has been running at quarter with the regulars this week. Britton sustained a broken tooth last Saturday and when the member was pulled it left Britton in an uneasy state of mind and body. Melvin Griggs, regular guard, has not gone in for hard playing this week, nor has Elmer Calhoun, the latter having suffered a leg injury Saturday which may keep him out of Saturday's lineup. Britton and Griggs possibly will be able to do their turn against the Harvesters.

Lubbock's chances to go places in the district and state race this season hinge solely on the outcome of Saturday's conflict at Pampa. If they defeat the Harvesters they will be rated as district favorites—until they meet Amarillo's Sandies on Thanksgiving Day. If Pampa wins, it is curtains for Lubbock, Amarillo and the rest, only a victory over Lubbock being necessary to cinch the flag for the Pampans.

Harvesters Are Favored

The Westerners are entering the game as underdogs, due to Pampa's great showing over Amarillo a couple of weeks ago and to the fact that Lubbock has not met a true test of its strength this season. Established, therefore, as pre-game favorites, the Harvesters will be that much harder to knock off. Only by playing an hour of football, on their toes all the time, can the Westerners hope to dislodge the Pampans from the peak of favoritism.

By way of comparison, the opposing lines are taken into consideration at present. Coach Odus Mitchell's starting forward wall weighs 1,199 pounds; Lubbock's line weighs 1,171 pounds, a difference of 28 pounds. Lubbock may find some consolation in the fact that its line is more evenly balanced from end to end than Pampa's. At center for Pampa is Poe, 145 pounds, to oppose Captain Bob Crawford of Lubbock. Crawford weighs 181. Green, weighing 178 pounds, will be ready to relieve Poe for Pampa.

The guards are unequally matched. Pafford of Pampa weighs 212, and Schmidt, 166 pounds. Welch of Lubbock weighs 155 and Griggs, 156 pounds. All are playing second years as regulars.

At tackles, Mitchell has Burch, 174 pounds, and Freeman, 175 pounds, against Bert Williams and Rosser Abbott, 185 and 170 pounds, respectively.

Moore and Pool, Pampa's ends, are reported to weigh 148 and 175 pounds, respectively, with Kelly, a substitute, weighing 156. Will Ed Watson tops the scales at 181 and Walton Blagg, Lubbock's right end, weighs 143.

Definite Plan Outlined Here

Joint Meeting Of Agents Ends Here Wednesday; Summary Of Plans For 1932 Presented By Woman Leader

Definite plans on how to expand the service rendered by the extension service in the South Plains area, were outlined yesterday afternoon at a joint meeting of men and women agents. It was the final meeting of the three day conference held here and was declared by state leaders of the extension service to be the most successful in the state. Miss Ruby Mashburn was chairman of the session.

Miss Myrtle Murray, district leader for the women agents, gave a brief summary of the plans. The work among 4-H girls will be put on the same basis as that of the women, with girl demonstrators of projects and girl cooperators in each club. "There will be one demonstrator for each particular phase of work for each club," she said. "For example should a club have a program of yard improvement, food preservation and gardens, one girl will conduct a yard program, another food preservation and another a garden demonstration. There will be cooperators for each line.

Goals Are Set

"Definite goals are being set for each group. The girls will as nearly as possible do the same work as the women. The agents will devote less time to the adult clubs and seek to reach more women in new clubs and along other lines. We hope to reach 75 per cent of the farm homes in each county."

Besides these lines of work, there will be cultural programs for the club women and the use of the radio in club work more than ever before. Regular broadcasts by the state will be used. "Making a living and making a life as well" will be the slogan this year.

Greater effort, with farm women cooperating with the agents to a greater degree, to reach unorganized communities, will be stressed.

Sees Trying Year

"I think 1932 will be a very trying year for agriculture and for all," S. C. Evans said. Mr. Evans is the district leader of the men's group. "It will mean some adjustments out here in West Texas. There are few crops in West Texas that can be used to take the place of cotton aside from row crops and grain sorghums.

"This district, I am proud to say, furnished 25 per cent of the poultry demonstration summaries for the entire state, I am told at the college. Fifty per cent of the dairy demonstration summaries came from this district. These are two of the possible things that may be substituted for cotton. The use of self feeders for swine feeding is another way out for those who have to substitute for cotton."

Two recreational schools for counties in this area, one a joint school with district No. 1, are planned for the winter. A specialist in recreation work will be assigned three months in the state to conduct these training schools in which community leaders will receive instruction. A man and a woman and a boy and a girl from those counties desiring such work, will attend a four day school. Fourteen counties of the district have asked for the schools and it is expected that one will be held in Lubbock.

Compliments Agents

Paul A. Cunyas, extension poultryman, took occasion to compliment the agents on the splendid records made by poultry demonstrators in the district. He said the "use of home grown feeds" is reducing greatly the cost of egg production.

H. L. Shrader, Washington, a federal poultryman, discussed the chicken and turkey situation this fall. He said he was "surprised" at the large amount of poultry business in Lubbock, although he had previously known of the importance of the work here.

Most of the agents, following the close of the meeting, left for their homes. The meeting was the best attended in the history of the district.

Wednesday morning the agents attended two demonstrations, beef cutting for the men and cheese making for the women.

Levelland Banker Says Business In Hockley Is Good

"If we can gather all of the crop that we have I believe Hockley county this year will pick and gin 45,000 bales of cotton," Judge H. Doyle, president of the First National bank of Levelland, said last night while here en route home from Dallas.

"The gins at Levelland and all over the county are busy," he continued. "In fact, they are crowded and have more than they can do.

"Many farmers had to stop gathering their feed to get the cotton crop gathered. There are many fields that are yielding a bale of cotton to the acre.

"Our feed crop is excellent. I never saw any better. I know of fields of maize that have been having between a ton and a half and two tons of heads to the acre."

Mr. Doyle said general business conditions in Hockley county and Levelland were good. There seems to be a stronge trend of merchandise and agricultural business and prospects are brighter.

FOR LUNCHEON

The luncheon salad is often the main course. So it should be rather substantial . . . like this Tuna Fish Salad: After removing the tuna fish from the can marinate it.* Pack the fish into small cups to mold it, and place in the ice-box for several hours. Unmold the tuna fish on beds of crisp lettuce and serve with Devilled Dressing which is made like this:

Mash three hard-boiled egg yolks smooth and blend with four tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil. Stir into this three tablespoonfuls of cream, one tablespoonful of vinegar and seasoning of one-half teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, and a dash of paprika, and one-quarter teaspoon of onion juice. Add two tablespoonfuls each of chopped green pepper and minced pimiento.

*To marinate: Mix twelve tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Add a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Mix thoroughly with the salad material and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours.

FOR BRIDGE

Your bridge guests will prefer a salad that is a happy medium between sweet and sour . . . a pleasant appetizer for their evening meal . . . such as grapefruit and orange salad. Alternate skinless sections of grapefruit and orange arranged with a garnish of pimiento-strips, make a salad that is mellowed by Cream Cheese Dressing.

To make Cream Cheese Dressing: soften two packages of cream cheese with eight tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil. Add one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of sugar, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika, and thin with one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Beat into cheese and dust with paprika.

FOR DINNER

Gowns are more sophisticated for dinner. Salads too! Served as a separate course, the simple salad is best. Perfect, tender asparagus tips, slipped through a ring of green pepper or lemon-rind, placed on a single thick slice of red-ripe tomato. Serve with Chiffonade Dressing, which is made like this:

Beat together twelve tablespoonfuls Wesson Oil, three tablespoonfuls vinegar, one teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper and a dash of paprika; two tablespoonfuls of chopped pimientos, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, and a minced hard-boiled egg.

Each Occasion Suggests a Different Salad

JUST as no one dress is correct for all occasions, no one salad dressing is suitable for all salad flavors. There are dressings for all tastes, dressings as different as lemon is from honey and honey from cheese. So . . .

mix a dressing appropriate to the salad

Here are three suggestions. Three dressings that go with their salads just as cranberry goes with turkey, mint goes with lamb and cream goes with peaches. Try them.

AN INTERESTING LITTLE BOOK. Mary B. Murray has written a new little book filled with helpful salad suggestions. It suggests the right kind of salads for each occasion and the dressings that go best with each kind of salad. It also contains many new and interesting ideas that will help you make all your dinners and parties the successful affairs you want them to be. We will be very happy to send you your copy if you will write us. Address: The Wesson Oil and Snowdrift People, 210 Baronne Street, New Orleans, La.

Smoldering Issue Is Up

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Tolerant folk may deplore it as they will; there seems small chance that a fresh blaze of religious prejudice can be avoided with every development in the government's case against Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist church, South, recently indicted on charges of violating federal campaign regulations during the presidential fight of 1928.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

The indictment itself first will be attacked and possibly it will be knocked out, ending the controversy under the statute of limitations.

Otherwise the defense's next step will be to dispute the constitutionality of the federal corrupt practices law, which Bishop Cannon is accused of having disregarded. This step, of course, would mean a series of appeals, finally to the United States supreme court, insuring a prolongation of proceedings through at least a two or three-year period.

NOMINALLY religion is no issue whatever.

The case had its origin, as is well known, in Bishop Cannon's opposition, despite his Virginia Democratic affiliations, to Al Smith's candidacy on the Democratic national ticket.

As his reason for this attitude the bishop gave the New Yorker's wetness.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, an ardent supporter of the Houston nominee, though himself a dry, notably among members of his party, insisted, however, that the churchman, to whom he referred as the "Methodist pope," was influenced mainly by religious considerations.

IT MAY thus be seen that religion was mentioned very early in connection with what since has grown into one of the bitterest political quarrels in a generation.

The Jeffersonians' loss in the 1928 election, not only of Virginia, but of several additional southern states, did not improve the tempers of pro-Smith Democrats like Senator Glass, and it was largely through the latter's efforts that the Nye senatorial committee presently was launched to investigate the expenses of candidates amenable to the federal act under which Bishop Cannon now has been indicted.

This act's purpose is to guarantee full publicity of all political campaign contributions, and to that end complete reports, listing them in detail, are required to be filed by the persons handling them, with the clerk of the house of representatives.

THE COMMITTEE under the chairmanship of Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, checking over a batch of these reports, submitted to the committee by Clerk William Tyler Page of the representatives' chamber, noted a gift of $17,300 by E. C. Jameson of New York to Bishop Cannon's 1928 anti-Smith fund, and deeming the amount large enough to justify special inquiry, summoned Mr. Jameson, a New York financier, to Washington to furnish further particulars, though with no idea that they would prove sensational.

To the investigators' surprise, Mr. Jameson immediately pointed out that the $17,300 item must be an error, the actual total of a succession of campaign gifts made by him to the bishop having been $65,300.

Bishop Cannon, being interrogated in turn, further amazed the committee by refusing to furnish any solution of the mystery whatever.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs of Richmond, Va., treasurer of the anti-Smith organization (who was indicted along with the bishop), and J. Sidney Peters of Newport News, its secretary, proved equally uncommunicative.

OFFICIALLY speaking, the Nye committee is in the dark yet as to the discrepancy between Mr. Jameson's testimony and Clerk Page's records. Informally the committee does know now what became of the money; the grand jury accounted for it, somehow.

It is sufficiently plain when one understands it:

Mr. Jameson himself does not appear to have appreciated the distinction, but it seems that $17,300 of what he donated was given to "headquarters committee anti-Smith Democrats"; the other $48,000 to "Virginia committee anti-Smith Democrats."

The "headquarters committee" considered itself a national body and reported accordingly to Clerk Page.

The "Virginia committee," regarding itself as a merely state-wide organization, did not feel itself bound by the federal campaign law and treated its $48,000 as none of Clerk Page's business.

THE REALLY vital question seems to be:

Is a presidential elector a state or a federal official?

If he is a state official, then the "Virginia committee" was right in assuming that it was no more answerable to the government under the federal corrupt practices act than it would have been in an election involving only the choice of a governor.

The grand jury, however, took the view that a presidential elector is national.

Hence its indictment in 10 counts, under which, should Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs be found guilty upon all of them, sentences up to 10 years' imprisonment and fines of $50,000 each might be imposed.

THE RELIGIOUS issue has sizzled intermittently throughout the whole controversy.

It began with Senator Glass.

Representative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts, who has pressed charges of violating the corrupt practices act pretty persistently against the bishop, has been repeatedly raked over the coals by the aged churchman, on account of what the latter declares to be the prevailing faith in the New Englander's congressional district.

Prosecutor Leo A. Rover's church membership has been repeatedly referred to by the bishop as responsible for the official's presentation of the election campaign case to the grand jury—though the fact is that Rover on that very ground turned the entire matter over to Assistant Prosecutor John J. Wilson, and has not touched it from start to finish.

It is an issue, nevertheless, which never for an instant can be suppressed while the Cannon-Burroughs indictment remains undisposed of on the District of Columbia criminal calendar.

It can be proved without insurance statistics that careful drivers live longer.

Art has always been a little naughty, but only of late has naughtiness got by as art.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, millionaire's son, in spite of the opposition of Mark's father, F. M. TRAVERS.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. After an extravagant honeymoon at fashionable Blue Springs the couple return to Marlboro. It is weeks before the young man can find work and he loses his first job. Then he becomes a floorwalker in a department store. In spite of poverty he and Norma are happy until his father sends for him. The elder Travers offers to take Mark into his business organization if the son will prove he can make good. Mark's first task involves a business trip to France. Norma must remain at home. She tries to persuade Mark not to go but is unable to do so.

Norma, rudely treated at her father-in-law's home, slips away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. CHRIS SAUNDERS, her former roommate, helps her find a job.

Mark's father employes detectives to trail the girl. They produce records to show Norma three years earlier had been convicted on a vice charge. In spite of evidence that this charge was framed and the girl innocent, Travers sends his lawyer to Paris. Weeks later Norma receives a letter telling her Mark has secured a divorce. Next day in the office she faints. She learns she is to have a child. Chris befriends her and loans her money.

The summer months pass drearily and in August Norma's son is born. Chris arrives one day at the apartment to find Norma staring at a newspaper.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

Chris Saunders tried to make her voice sound casual. "Well," she said, "anything startling in the news today? Any murders, any banks robbed—"

The words broke off as Norma raised her head. Almost black those blue eyes looked. There were angry, flashing lights in them.

"I hate them!" Norma said tensely. "Oh, how I hate them! Look!" She held up the newspaper, pointing to the paragraphs she had been reading.

The heading was not in large type. "VASE BRINGS $15,000 AT SAMUELS AUCTION." Frowning, Chris read what followed:

"A Ming vase purchased by F. M. Travers for $15,000 brought the highest single price at the auction of the George K. Samuels collection of porcelains and glass ware yesterday. Receipts from the entire collection totaled $87,436.50.

"Bidding on the vase brought on a spirited contest between Travers and Miss Eloise Walters. The vase is said to be a remarkable example—"

There was more but Chris did not bother to read it. She said, "That's a lot of money for a vase, it seems to me. Now that they've got it what do you suppose they'll do with it?"

"It isn't the money," Norma interrupted hotly. "It's just reading the name all the time. F. M. Travers—why, you'd think he was some sort of god! You'd think everything Mr. and Mrs. Travers do is just perfect. Newspapers are always telling how much they give to charity. Telling about the parties they go to. 'Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Travers were among those in box seats.' 'Patronesses include Mr. and Mrs. Travers.' Why don't they print the truth? Why don't they print that this wonderful F. M. Travers is deceitful and unfair and cruel? And his wife just as bad! I'd like the chance to let them know a few things!"

"Oh, but honey—!"

"I don't care, Chris! They are cruel. And unfair, too! They—they've broken up my life, taken everything from me. I wasn't hurting them any. Mark and I didn't ask them to help us. We were getting along all right until they interfered! I tell you I hate them!"

A fretful cry came from the baby's bed. There was a second cry. Little Mark was waking from his nap.

Immediately Norma was at his side, bending down over the tiny, wriggling body. She was crooning some peculiar sing-song nonsense that the infant seemed to understand. Norma picked him up and the fretful crying ceased.

She turned with the child in her arms. An amazing transformation had taken place. Norma's blue eyes were tender now. She laid her cheek gently to the infant's, smiled at him.

"Darling!" she cooed. "Mother's precious darling!"

"Remember what the doctor said about taking him up when he cries," Chris reminded.

"I know. But just this once can't hurt!" Norma resumed the singsong crooning softly.

Chris carried her purchases behind the screen that separated the kitchen from the living room. When she reappeared little Mark was lying in his crib and Norma stood with the newspaper in her hand.

"Fifteen thousand dollars for a vase!" Norma repeated slowly, "and their grandson's sleeping in a second-hand bed. He's lucky even to have that."

Chris said determinedly, "There's something I've been wanting to talk to you about, Norma. I might as well say it now." She hesitated, then continued. "Do you think you're doing the fair thing not letting Mark know about the baby?"

Norma Travers' chin lifted. "He's not to know!" she said fiercely. "I won't have it. Chris, if I thought you'd try to reach Mark—or his parents either and tell them—I'd never speak to you again. Never!"

"Don't worry about me saying or doing anything you don't want," Chris retorted. "I guess you know me well enough to know I take care of my affair and let other people manage theirs! I'm only thinking it doesn't seem to be the right thing—"

"He's not to know!" Norma re-

Convict Jumps On His Guards

Two Men Are Attacked By Prisoner At Opening Of Sanity Hearing; Given Reprieve To Allow Tests

CHICAGO, Oct. (AP)—Frank Bell, only one of five convicted murderers reprieved an hour before they were sentenced to die recently, fought loose from four bailiffs at a sanity hearing in criminal court today and attacked his prosecutors, knocking one unconscious.

Bell went on the rampage as the morning session of his trial was adjourned.

He rushed at Ross Lee Laird, assistant state's attorney, and felled him with a blow on the back of the neck. Then he let his fist fly at Prosecutor Walker Butler's jaw.

Guards quickly pounded on the killer and dragged him to his cell in the county jail.

Bell, known as the "squealer," since he confessed the murder of a restaurant proprietor and implicated Richard Sullivan, escaped execution with Sullivan and three others October 16, when a writ arrived at the death cell granting a sanity test a half hour before the scheduled electrocution. Alienists have examined him. The state physician who pronounced him legally sane, was to give expert testimony at the trial just begun.

Three thousand London policemen participated in their recent annual church parade.

peated. "You talk about what's right. Do you think Mark or anybody else has any right to my baby? Did any of them do anything to help me when I needed help? Did they? Why, the baby might have died for all of them!"

"I still think he should know," Chris insisted.

"He? Who do you mean when you say that—Mark Travers or the baby? It's the baby I'm thinking about. Little Mark! He's never going to know anything about his father or those others Travers. I don't want him ever even to hear of them if I can help it. As far as Mark is concerned—I'm not thinking of Mark at all. I can't think of him."

There was a pause. When Norma went on her voice had changed subtly. She looked at Chris but the words came as though she were speaking to herself.

"Those hot days here alone last summer—I had so much time to think it all out. It's—not easy to talk about. That's when I knew I had to quit thinking about Mark. Somehow I was sure even then the baby would be a boy. I decided that if I lived and the baby lived I'd never let him know about his father.

"You see at first I blamed Mark's parents for everything that's happened. Afterward I knew that was a mistake. Because if Mark had really loved me—if he'd cared the way I did—nothing would have kept him away. He'd have come back to me and no matter what anyone said to him he wouldn't have believed it. He'd have come to me for the truth! Mark didn't do that. When I made myself really face these facts I knew I had to stop thinking about him. Well that's—all there is to it! I told myself to stop thinking about him and I have. Little Mark's been a big help in making me forget."

Chris crossed the room and put a hand on the other girl's shoulder. "I didn't know how it was," she said quietly, "but anything you say goes with me. Get out a fresh table cloth, will you? I'll have dinner ready in five minutes if you'll set the table."

Busying themselves over the meal provided a welcome outlet for emotion neither of the girls wished to acknowledge. A little later they sat down to an expertly browned roast, cauliflower in cream, hot rolls and a fresh green salad. Chris gave an animated account of some office happenings and the earlier subject of conversation was not resumed.

If Chris was not convinced that Norma was right in failing to communicate with Mark she nevertheless kept her own counsel. Keeping out of other's personal affairs was a cardinal principle she observed rigidly.

Caring for the baby, following the daily schedule provided by the hospital, gave Norma little time for introspective worries. The days passed swiftly. Young Mark was strong and healthy. It was hard for Norma to believe that babies cried when nothing in particular was wrong. That wailing might be good exercise. She schooled herself to a routine of naps and feedings and nobly refrained from taking up the infant to comfort imaginary woes.

At two months small Mark visited the hospital clinic and was reported of stanadrd weight. At three months this rating was repeated and at four he showed a slight gain over the average child.

"Keep on as you have been," the doctor advised. "You've got a fine boy there!"

It was a week after that hospital visit that Chris returned home one night with news. "Mr. Stuart stopped in to see me this afternoon," she announced before even pulling off her hat. "Wanted to know how you and the baby are getting along."

"That was nice of him," Norma, in an apron, was busy at the table.

"But that wasn't all!" Chris continued. "He asked me if I thought you'd be interested in some work you could do at home. Copying manuscripts. It seems a novel's been submitted to him in longhand. He thinks it's going to be a tremendous success but before it can go to publishers it must be typed."

"I could do it," Norma said eagerly. "Of course I could! I'll rent a typewriter—"

"That won't be necessary. Mr. Stuart said he'd send one out. He seems to have a lot of confidence in your work, Norma. Went on to tell me this new secretary doesn't do half as much as you did. He wants the finished copy on this novel in two weeks and he's willing to pay $50 for the job."

"I'll telephone him tonight," Norma announced. "Oh, Chris, I've been so anxious to begin earning something. It's terrible to be in debt! I never have been before—not really big amounts I mean. I'll telephone Mr. Stuart and if he can send the typewriter and manuscript I'll start tomorrow!"

"You're sure you feel well enough? Typing's hard work you know."

"The very sound of the typewriter will be music to my ears. That $50 looks bigger to me than any amount of money I've ever seen. I'm going to telephone Mr. Stuart right now!"

Next day the typewriter and sheaf of manuscript arrived at the apartment. When Chris saw how her friend's spirits improved all doubts about the wisdom of the venture fled. Work certainly agreed with Norma.

Before the two weeks ended in which "Waning Moon" was transformed from bulky, illegible pages to a stack of neatly typed manuscript Stuart sent word that he would have more copying for Norma. He sent out a play and later two short stories with a note saying it was pleasant to find a typist who could be counted on to read intelligently and accurately.

Norma earned $70 within a month and the sum went to Chris as part payment on her loan. It was December. A dozen times Chris uttered silent prayers of gratitude to Frederick Stuart. Without knowing it, he was helping Norma over a bad place—perhaps the hardest time since Mark Travers' departure. Just a year before Norma had said goodby to her husband. Treacherous memories must surely be stabbing at Norma's heart.

Dec. 24, brought a tiny Christmas tree to the apartment for baby Mark. It was a bit of evergreen bought on the street but Mark crowed with delight when he saw it, dressed in bright spangles. A rattle and gaily-colored string of wooden beads were his first gifts. Chris received a $50 bonus in her pay envelope Christmas week and spent almost all of it on small remembrances for others. Christmas morning a gorgeous pot of poinsettias arrived for Norma with "Merry Christmas" written on Bob Farrell's card.

Bob had resumed the old habit of dropping in at the apartment. Always a week or more elapsed between these visits. Bob thought the baby amusing, brought him ridiculous presents. One Sunday afternoon it was a miniature football. Another time a toy airship. Twice Mrs. Carey from across the hall stayed with the baby while Chris and Norma went driving with Bob.

The two girls were home together one evening late in January. Chris, propped on the davenport with a stack of cushions, suddenly dropped her magazine.

"I thought Bob might come around tonight," she said.

"He telephoned. He's coming tomorrow, I forgot to mention it."

"Beginning to see a good deal of Bob, aren't we?" Chris' words were carefully impersonal.

Norma smiled. "I've noticed that," she agreed. "I—I like to have him come, don't you?"

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28. (AP)—Cotton prices fluctuated freely today, but wound up slightly lower. After declining a dollar a bale in the morning on weakness in stocks and fears of an increased government crop estimate, the market rallied sharply in the afternoon, gaining nearly $1.50 a bale from the lows. All the advance was lost at the end, however, the close showing net declines for the day of about 50 cents a bale.

Short covering and a bullish feeling over the British elections outcome were factors in the rallies. Hedgeselling helped the declines.

Liverpool is due tomorrow unchanged to one penny point down on New Orleans.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (AP) — Declines from a slight opening advance in cotton today were followed by rallies but the market broke sharply during the last hour under increased southern selling and liquidation.

January contracts after selling off from 6.90 at the opening broke to 6.70 advanced to 6.91 during the middle of the day and broke to 6.66 at the close compared with 6.82 at the close of the previous day. The final tone of the market was easy at net declines of 11-16 points.

Boy Convicted

three minutes the jury was deliberating, young Nicocolis had frolicked about the courtroom, laughing and joking and playing with spectators and court officials, as if he had not a care in the world.

During arguments this morning he slept soundly in court for awhile, then appeared very bored. When the case went to the jury he cried, for the first time since the trial began Monday. The call to luncheon cheered him up, however, and the prospect of two kinds of pie made him beam broadly.

Judge E. V. Huykendall will pass sentence later.

Mme. Clairbert

Clairbert, in French and English, explained to Justice Clark that she "was ver', ver' sorree" and would not repeat the offense. She said "fine" meant "fin" (in French meaning, good, or the end) and that she only wanted one "leetle sprig de trefle" to go with the white rabbit's foot she always carried in her purse.

Desiring to avoid international complications and a hot letter from the Belgian ambassador, Justice Clark dismissed the case. And after an old fashion American handshaking contest between the prima donna, the deputy constable and the justice of the peace, she departed.

Stock Market Sentiment Suffers In Relapse; Elections Are Bolstering

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (AP) — Stock market sentiment suffered another relapse today as Wall street digested the U. S. Steel report, the Pennsylvania dividend cut and poor September earnings of the class one carriers.

The overwhelming victory of the British conservatives was favorably received in banking circles, although speculative quarters seemed to feel the tariff implications were something for the United States to reckon with. For Britain herself the return to conservatism was believed to promise important results; and bankers were quick to point out that a strengthening of confidence there should have notable repercussions elsewhere.

Bishop Cannon

League of Virginia.

Funds Are Cited

"Fourth: Kable and Company of New York operated a bucket-shop, and Bishop Cannon bought and sold stock through Kable and Company, knowing it to be a bucket-shop.

"Fifth: Bishop Cannon violated the federal corrupt practices act by making a false statement of campaign expenditures.

"Sixth: Bishop Cannon was guilty of fraudulent conversion to his private use of campaign funds contributed for use in the 1928 election.

"Seventh: Bishop Cannon ran away to Europe to escape being present at the hearing of the Nye committee on August 26-29, 1931.

"Eighth: Bishop Cannon has sought to hide his culpability behind the skirts of a woman secretary.

Influence Brought Out

"Ninth: The attorneys for Mr. Goldhurst employed as attorney of record Bishop Cannon's Washington lawyer, a former professional associate and then office mate of an influential Virginia politician.

"Tenth: Bishop Cannon was sufficiently influential to have the indictments against Mr. Goldhurst confided for the conduct of the case to a former female student of Bishop Cannon.

"Eleventh: Bishop Cannon was a party to an attempt at bribery of the above mentioned assistant district attorney by the giving of costly gifts as an inducement to pigeonhole the indictments.

"Twelfth: Bishop Cannon visited New York with one of his attorneys, after which visit all the papers raided and seized in Mr. Goldhurst's illicit bucket-shop were tightly sealed and access to them denied by the United States district attorney, even to the referee in bankruptcy.

"Thirteenth: Bishop Cannon and the Virginia politician referred to in paragraph nine had an interview with Mr. Goldhurst at a hotel in New York City, and immediately after this interview Bishop Cannon unexpectedly sailed for Brazil.

"Fourteenth: There was a compact made in New York, to which Bishop Cannon was a party, which promised clemency to Mr. Goldhurst if he would plead guilty in order to avert the necessity of summoning Bishop Cannon as a witness in his case.

Challenge Is Issued

"Fifteenth: Bishop Cannon was a party to the removal of Mr. Goldhurst from the federal prison at Atlanta to Fort Meade near Washington, and was a party to the action taken by the parole board in ordering Mr. Goldhurst's release in April, 1932.

"Sixteenth: If it were conceivably possible, in the fact of recent disclosures, for anybody to libel Bishop Cannon, the News would not know how to go about it.

"If the Lynchburg News and the these statements editorially, thus assuming full responsibility, in the form indicated with adopting Senator Glass' favorite method of innuendo and insinuation, suits for libel will be instituted against both papers and the facts will be brought out as over against the innuendoes and insinuations made by Senator Glass in the frequent attacks made by him upon Bishop Cannon during the past three years."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. (AP)—In a zigzag high speed advance, wheat today excelled the season's top quotations, and then whipsawed back in a storm of profit taking. The advance accompanied announcement that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought for shipment to France, and that the Buenos Aires market had jumped more than four cents a bushel because of rust menace to crops. There was also an official report that the winter wheat outlook in the western third of Kansas had fallen much below normal as a result of drouth.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-8 cents off to 3-8 up, corn 1-8 to 5-8 advanced, oats unchanged to 1-8 off, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to a rise of 12 cents.

Hoover Attack

such is the psychology that is not only controlling our internal naval policy but dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers."

Gardiner's pamphlet reviewed the entire naval policy of Mr. Hoover from the time he held up cruiser construction in preparation for the London naval conference down to the present. The league charged the president's conversations with Premier Ramsey MacDonald of Great Britain at the Rapidan in 1929 "reached agreements that have never officially been divulged in their entirety."

Never Saw Record

"This suggests why the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the senate committee on foreign relations to see the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London naval conference of 1930," it continued.

In the publication the Navy League described itself as "an organization of civilians that for over a quarter of a century has specialized on accurate information as to naval matters."

Attacks Policy

The league attacked the policy that has followed adoption of the London treaty. Professing to see after that agreement an understanding that the United States would be allowed to catch up to Great Britain in her construction of auxiliary ships by approximately the time that the next naval conference would be held, the league said the president's actions were leading in a different direction.

The proposal of foreign Minister Grandi of Italy for a naval building holiday preparatory to the League of Nation's disarmament conference of 1932 actually was inspired by the Washington administration, the league hinted.

that this band exercises coercive interest over those with whom it comes in contact, which is nothing less than insurrection against the laws of the United States."

Admits Carrying Gun

D'Andrea threw himself on the mercy of the court yesterday, admitting he had carried the weapon every day until he was caught with it October 10, but saying he meant no affront to the court.

As his bodyguard appeared in court and later was released for two weeks, Capone whiled away the hours in the county jail by playing solitaire and reading. He must remain there, under the recent ruling of the United States circuit court of appeals, until the appeal on his income tax case has been decided by the higher court.

Attorney Ahern indicated that since Capone gets no credit on his prison term while staying at the county jail, the court might be asked to vacate its order and have the gangster sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary.

Dallas Damage Suit Underway

Group Of Dallas Club Women Are Defendants In Suit Of John W. Woods And Wife For Slanderous Statements

DALLAS, Oct. 28. (AP)—Hearing of the $50,000 damage suit brought by John W. Woods, former speaker of the house of representatives, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Woods, against a group of Dallas club women began here today.

The plaintiffs claimed they had been damaged by the circulation of "false and slanderous statements."

Defendants named in the slander suit were Mrs. Delia Beard and husband, J. L. Beard; Mrs. Atticus Webb and husband, Atticus Webb; Mrs. Mittie B. Haefer and husband, H. W. Haefer; Mrs. Annie M. Jameson and husband, J. E. Jameson; Lillian Hannah and Mrs. Lula Tubb.

Spreading of the alleged slanderous matter was alleged to have been the outgrowth of internal strife in the Dallas County Women's Democratic league. All of the defendants are active members of the league.

Mrs. Webb is the wife of the superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League. Mrs. Haefer is a sister of State Senator George Purl. Mrs. Jameson is the wife of the chief deputy under Sheriff Hal Hood.

In explaining the case to the venire, Judge Taylor said the husbands names as defendants were only formal parties. He said none of the husbands were alleged to have circulated any of the allegedly slanderous statements, but under the law a wife could not be sued in Texas unless her husband was sued with her.

seats. Chief among them was Arthur Henderson, labor leader, who may get back by means of a by-election, but there was little hope for most of the others.

No member of the national cabinet was beaten. The only really important labor leader returned to the house was George Lansbury, cockney patriarch.

Mr. MacDonald achieved a sensational personal triumph among the coal miners of the county of Durham comparable to the national government's triumph throughout the country.

Wins Over Coxon

Beating William Coxon, local schoolmaster, by more than 5,000 votes, Mr. MacDonald received his mandate from working class people of the coal mining area. No critic can deny his labor support.

In a spectacular campaign the prime minister, waving millions in worthless German marks before the miners' wives, reduced the problems of national government to those of cottage housekeeping. He said Britain must make both ends meet and he warned the workers their shillings would go the way the mark went during the German inflation period unless Britain made its money secure.

Farmer Dies Of Wounds And Wife In Serious Condition

GREENVILLE, Oct. 28. (AP)—Mitchell Hudnall, 37, farmer, died at a hospital today of gunshot wounds inflicted at his home 11 miles south of Greenville.

His wife, Grace, 37, was in a serious condition. She was shot through the arm and was weakened by two razor cuts on her threoat.

Officers were in possession of a letter purportedly written by Mrs. Hudnall to her sister. It said her reason for the shooting was a disagreement with her husband.

The Hudnalls, officers said, had been separated but effected a reconciliation two weeks ago.

Authorities Again Declare War On Gambling Circles

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28. (AP) — The authorities have declared war on the bookmakers here again.

Yesterday, superintendent of Police Myer's was summoned before the grand jury. When he emerged from the session a series of raids which netted 109 arrests began. A number were charged with bookmaking but the majority merely were booked for loitering.

George Bernard Shaw Says Country Has Been Scared Out Of Its Wits

LONDON, Oct. 28. (AP)—"The country has been frightened out of its wits and has run away," George Bernard Shaw observed from behind his newspaper this morning, "straight into the very danger it was trying to avoid."

"It wasn't an election—it was a stampede," the noted playwright said. "The returns show it. I have no hope for the rest of the country. There isn't going to be any opposition. Of course it won't make much difference because the real government is underground."

The government, he said, is going to be one of financial interests and press. "The danger," he said, "lies in the political ignorance of these financial interests. They are clever in high finance, but hopeless duffers when it comes to genuine public finance. These financial interests are very much at the mercy of circumstance and one does not know exactly how the circumstance will go."

NEWS BRIEFS

Reckless driving on the highway between Lubbock, Amarillo and Pampa, will not be permitted Saturday, highway officials announced Wednesday. The highways will be carefully patrolled to prevent motorists having to face undue traffic hazards, it was said. Heavy traffic is expected on the highways at that time due to the large number of persons expected to go from here to Pampa for the Westerner-Harvester game.

Dean J. M. Gordon of Technological college was in charge of the program.

Increase in the number of "sleepers" registering at the Lubbock police station has been noted during the last ten days, Night Sergeant M. N. Davidson said Wednesday. Fifty-five thinly clad men and boys were allowed to sleep in the corporation courtroom Tuesday night. Colder weather was given as the reason for the increase.

Making its first run in three weeks, the Lubbock fire department Wednesday night extinguished an automobile fire at the O. B. Conley service station on Avenue H. The machine was only slightly damaged, members of the fire department said.

inally scheduled for Tuesday night, the affair planned in tribute to Dalrymple was postponed until tonight. Dr. Millard F. Swart, president of the Scottish Rite club, said. Conflicting events resulted in the change.

The supreme council of Scottish Rite Free Masonry of southern jurisdiction at Washington, D. Masons explained that the thirty-third degree and that immediately preceding it, K. C. C. H., are "purely honorary."

Senior Class At WTSTC Is Planning To Leave A Gift

CANYON, Oct. 28. — The senior class of the West Texas State Teachers college wishes to make a unique gift to its Alma Mater. Ever since the members of this class first entered college they have been interested in the building of a museum in which to house the materials of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. They have decided therefore, that if the museum is built in time, their gift will be the sidewalks and other concrete work around the new building.

The walks, as planned, will be laid in squares, somewhat like tiling and the initials of each member of the class will appear on a block. Professor L. F. Sheffy is the class sponsor, and the members of the class feel that no gift they could devise would better show their appreciation of him and of the college than this one which will add to the attractiveness of the Museum to which Mr. Sheffy has given so much of his time during the past few years.

Tug Of War Is Going Forward

Fight Between White House And Senate Is Waging; Chairmanship Of Power Commission Is The Marker

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP) — Before a small audience in District of Columbia supreme court, a legal tug of war between the White House and the senate went forward today with the chairmanship of the power commission as a marker.

Representing the senate in its contention that it had the right to re-consider the nomination of George Otis Smith after he had been confirmed and sworn in, John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for president in 1924, demanded that Smith be ousted.

George Wharton Pepper, former senator from Pennsylvania, defended Smith's right to the post.

In a calm even tone, Davis outlined his argument. He said the facts were admitted by both sides and that the decision involved merely a question of law.

Davis said the senate rules empowered it to reconsider a nomination before two executive sessions had expired, even though the president had been notified formally of confirmation.

"The signing and delivery of a commission and the taking of an oath by the respondent," he said, "cannot fortify the position of the respondent or shield him from ouster by this court."

At the outset of the argument, a brief was filed by Erwin N. Griswold, a justice department attorney, in behalf of himself, Attorney General Mitchell and Solicitor General Thacher. It said the crucial fact in the case "is that the senate intended that notification of its consent should be forthwith sent to the president before the time for reconsideration expired.

"Once that fact is established (and it cannot be disputed) the consequences flowing from it are inevitable.

"The senate did consent to the appointment. It intended to and did advise the president that it had consented. It consented to an immediate appointment and it intended that, if that consent were acted on and an appointment made, the possibility of reconsideration would be gone.

"It, therefore, gave full, unconditional, constitutional consent to the appointment which was made and that is the end of the matter."

Hunters Are Preparing For Rush Toward Mason County

MASON, Oct. 28. (AP) —There are more deer in Mason county this year than ever before in recent times, ranchers say, despite the fact that records of the state game department show the county led in the number of deer killed in Texas in the last three years. Some credit is claimed by the Mason County Wolf club because of its war on predatory animals.

Hundreds of hunters visit this county each season and ranchmen are preparing for a rush on November 16, when the season opens. Buck are reported numerous and antler spreads greater, in part because of the favorable winter and summer.
