TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Legislators have cleared major emergency finance hurdles and are moving to other fronts to hold down the size of the tax bill.

A $34.9 million appropriation bill to avert reduction in aid to needy families with dependent children passed both houses and went to Comptoller Robert S. Calvert for certification.

Before he would accept the bill, Calvert advised passage of another which would realign priorities in the state's massive omnibus tax clearance fund. In effect, this would permit turning over to welfare some $35 million that normally would go to the teacher retirement fund between April and August.

Teachers association and retirement fund leaders had no formal objection to the latter, although it would cost the retirement fund an estimated $100,000 to $600,000 in short-term interest. However, the fund will be repaid in full when the ultimate new tax bill goes into effect on September 1.

While these measures were moving methodically through the House and Senate, the House passed a bill to establish a $185 million bond plan to finance construction on eight new college campuses. Bonds would be repaid from tuitions, and would cost taxpayers little. Final approval of the plan in the Senate would relieve the tax bill of a heavy load in order to build new institutions already authorized by the 1969 Legislature.

Still another potentially-important money bill won quick Senate approval. It would require all cities and counties, population 10,000 and above, to report to the state all welfare spending for the medically needy. If federal officials will agree, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes proposes subsequent legislation to require all these local funds be routed through the state treasury, where hopefully they would attract an extra $100 million in two-to-one matching federal aid.

APPOINTMENTS--Gov. Preston Smith nominated Lester Clark of Breckenridge to succeed David E. Clemens of Mineral Wells on the Texas Water Quality Board.

Dr. Charles Max Cole of Dallas was named to succeed the late Dr. Noble Price of Lamesa on the State Board of Health.

Smith also sent these additional appointments to the Senate for confirmation;

+ Stephen Willis Simmons of El Paso to succeed Jamie C. Boyd as 34th district attorney.

+ Elo J. Urbanovsky of Lubbock and Gene Ray Hendryx of Alpine to the Texas Conservation Foundation.

+ Dr. Denver Fred Wendorf of Dallas, Dr. William Curry Holden of Lubbock and Dr. William W. Newcomb Jr. of Austin to Texas Antiquities Committee.

+ J. Wonne Hand of Dallas, James M. Ray of Austin and Dr. Bobby Gene Smith of Arlington to the Crime and Narcotics Advisory Commission.

+ Edwin A. Flieller of Floresville to the San Antonio River Authority board of directors.

+ Warren Woodward of Dallas and Truitt Smith of Wylie were selected Texas Industrial Commission vice chairman and secretary-treasurer.

"PEOPLE'S LOBBY" FORMS

A new liberal group -- including representatives of labor, ethnic and environmental interests -- has organized an "issues-oriented" people's lobby.

About 300 attended the organizational meeting. Former U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough and former U. S. Atty Gen. Ramsey Clark were the main speakers.

Congressman Bob Eckhardt of Houston was named temporary chairman and State Sens. Barbara Jordan of Houston and Joe Bernal of San Antonio, temporary vice chairmen. Twelve steering committee members were chosen to work with them.

By a divided vote, the group decided to steer clear of candidate endoresments (although there was plenty of speculation at the meeting that Yarborough may run for governor in 1972) and concentrate on specific legislative goals.

COURTS SPEAK -- Houston's Kirkwood Civic Club, which insures enforcement of deed restrictions and sponsors not exempt from the state franchise tax, says the State Supreme Court.

A letter terming a woman an "undesirable" renter (filed with an apartment association) was a privileged communication and not libelous, High Court ruled in another Harris County case.

Supreme Court dismissed for want of jurisdiction a San Antonio-Bexar County dispute over a cancelled incorporation election for "Hills and Dales Community" along Interstate 10.

Brownsville lawyer ordered disbarred by a district judge lost his appeal to the Supreme Court.

In a Cherokee County deed-interpretation case, High Court concluded that iron ore which can be produced only by surface-destroying strip-mining is not a mineral.

Third Court of Civil Appeals held that Humble Oil and Refining Company is entitled to get back $92,000 in taxes paid the state, plus interest, on oil and gas leases at Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Third Court agreed that Mertzon Independent School District had the right to annex Barnhart IDS.

AG OPINIONS -- State Comptroller is required to pay counties 25 cents for registration of voters under 21, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

+ Comptroller does not have the affirmative duty to withhold issuing state warrants to agencies of the state where an employment-discrimination complaint has been lodged.

+ Exchange of real estate between Dalhart and the Dalhart school district requires publication of a notice and a public hearing.

+ Omnibus crime control grants can go to non-profit groups, individuals and non-state supported schools if qualifications are met.

+ An ex-convict, although pardoned by governor last May 26, must wait three years to get wine and beer retailer's permit.

+ Money held by the Texas State Board of Examiners in Optometry cannot be spent without legislative authority.

+ Fees collected from adult probationers may be used for paying probation officers' salaries, his office help, travel expense and training.

+ State Board of Examiners of Psychologists cannot certify pshchologists who don't have a master's degree.

+ State Health Department can require the seal of a licensed, professional engineer on plans for hospitals and other institutions.

OPEN MEETINGS AMENDMENT PROPOSED-- A bill to require notice before and posting of minutes afterward concerning closed-door meetings of public agencies was heard by the House State Affairs Com. mittee.

Closed meetings now can be held legally to discuss personal, real estate or security matters.

Bill by Rep. Dave Allred of Wichita Falls would not ban these meetings, but would require notice in advance that they are to be held. Within three days, under the bill, ninutes sketching the action which took place in the closed meeting would have to be made public. Bill went to subcommittee for study.

Meanwhild, Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas introduced a bill (SB414) to require publishers, broadcasters and billboard concerns to charge their "lowest" rate for political advertising. Bill proposes $100 fine and recovery action for "excess charge."

FIRST BILL SIGNED-- First bill of the legislative session--reopening voter registration through February--was signed into law by Governor Smith.

Voters who register this month cannot take part in elections before April 1. Those who registered before the close of the old deadline, in January, can vote by March 1.

SHORT SNORTS

Legislature has resolutions calling on U. S. Secretary of Agriculture to allow Texas more time to comply with federal meat inspection standards before taking over the inspection program.

Governor Smith offered the services of the Texas medical disaster team to earthquake-hit California.

Senate approved constitutional amendments to require annual sessions of the legislature, repeal of the annual voter registration requirement and to allow 18-year-olds to vote in all elections.

A fish kill (with rotenone) is scheduled at Lyndon B. Johnston Reservoir near Marble Falls, March 27-28, to rid the lake of rough fish. Hundreds of fishermen are expected to be there with nets.

Public hearings on master plans for the initial development of five new state parks will be held here February 24 and 26.

Crop Residue Management Stressed

For the protection of cultivated land against wind erosion, nothing can take the place of a cover of crop residues such as wheat stubble, sorghum stubble or other crop residues, the local Soil Conservation Service notes. The need for plant cover is very important in the Plains country this time of the year since moisture conditions are low. Most of the severe dust storms occur during February, March and April when we are most likely to have the least amount of residues on the land.

These residues should be managed in a way that will protect the soil until a new crop covers it. One way of leaving such cover and disturbing the soil as little as possible is by using equipment having sweeps. Most irrigated land is presently being prepared for preplant irrigation with sorghum stubble being incorporated into the soil. This residue decreased somewhat the wind erosion damage of the recent dust storms since moisture conditions were low. This preparation of a seedbed and the addition of moisture from irrigation will decrease some of the danger of blowing. Dryland crops, however, should be left on the soil surface in sufficient amounts for protection until about April 1.

Benefits other than reducing wind erosion can be derived from proper crop residue management. Water erosion is reduced since stubble holds moisture on the land and allows it to be absorbed into the soil. Residuces absorb much of the impact of raindrops which break up the soil into fine particles that can be transported by excess runoff water. Residues catch and hold snow evenly on the field reducing drifting and adding additional moisture. A good cover also reduces loss of ground moisture through evaporation.

Proper management of crop residues will not only reduce loss of valuable topsoil, reduce damage to crops, but will decrease the amount of dust that gets into our businesses and homes. For any information concerning soil or water conservation, contact the local Soil Conservation Service Office.

Soil prevention for carpeting is a recent development in the home furnishing textiles industry. The pre-treatment for carpeting answers a long standing demand from consumers and retailers.

Manufactures are first introducing the soil resistant finish on kitchen carpets. It will offer the same protection that has been available for upholster and apparel.

Extensive tests show the soil pervention treatment remains effective after heavy traffic, frequent vaccumings and three to five shampooings.

The treatment process is an application of specially developed chemicals, formulated for the particular carpeting fiber involved.

The additional cost has yet to be determined, but it is estimated that it will add only 50 cents per square yard to the retail cost.

Back-to-nature, earthy--that describes the trend to denim fabrics this spring. This trend is making denim perhaps the hottest fabric on the market.

Denim has many substitutes and imitations, along with tremendous varieties of the real thing. You can choose from textured dobby stripes, argyles, heathers, plaids, and solids in stretch and non-stretch fabrics. The rugged yet beautiful denim is available in both all cotton and cotton-polyester blends, and even polyester knit.

Everybody is wearing denim practically everywhere, making it the chief raw material for the "fancy pants revolution."

SPAG Reviews Regional Plans

The South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) closed out the year 1970 with a record $32,3 million dollars worth of projects having been reviewed and commented on by the agency. The $32,3 million represents some 51 programs by which local governments began development during the year.

In 1966, Congress passed the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act which required that applications for Federal assistance under 51 programs be accompanied by the comments of a Regional Planning Agency as to the relationship of the proposed project to the planned development of the area.

This Act was followed in 1968 by Congressional passage of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Act, which strengthened the Regional Review and Comment process. It requires that notification of an intent to request assistance must be filed with the Regional Planning Agency whether or not the applicant agency is a member. In order to implement this process, the Governor has designated the Regional Councils as clearing house and coordinating agencies.

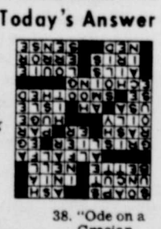

Thus, the South Plains Association of Governments has been designated as the agency to review and comment on projects proposed for assistance. This means that SPAG must be notified of any request from governments or agencies within the area encompassed by Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry, and Yoakum Counties.

An analysis of these projects reviewed reveals that 45% of the projects were of a highway nature, 14% concerned comprehensive plans, 10% dealt with parks, 5% were devoted to sewage, 4% each on hospitals, lakes, and water, 2% each library, airport, community renewal, transportation, operation - new directions, improvement of District Attorney's Office, and Bailey County Attorney's Visitation Program.

Since the inception of the organization in June of 1967, SPAG has reviewed and commented on some 70 projects valuing $39,514,827. By acting as the coordinating group for the South Plains Region, SPAG has assisted in insuring the orderly growth and development of the area.

The germplasm of today's major crops may prove to be the greatest source of potential food for a hungry world, according to the geneticist who developed Coastal Bermuda Grass.

Dr. Glenn Burton, speaking at Texas A&M University, said the genetic potential of major crops could provide more food than exotic crops yet undiscovered.

He emphasized that the search for useful, food-producing crops should be continued. At the same time he noted that there is probably little chance of finding exotic crops superior to those now being grown.

The use of algae, mold, or yeasts for food production is an alternative that is too expensive to be practical today, according to Dr. Burton.

Studies indicate that man has probably used 3,000 species of plants for food, but only about 15 species feed the world now. Cereal grasses provide food for most of the world's people, with rice furnishing over 30 percent of human energy on earth, he said.

The USDA geneticist said he couldn't predict the crops or food of the future, but the crop of tomorrow will be an F(1) hybrid.

Research has reached the stage where the important breakthroughs will be made by teams of scientists composed of individuals from many disciplines who will direct their efforts toward a goal, he commented.

Dr. Burton noted the tremendous advances made in corn and grain sorghum production by the introduction and widespread use of hybrids. In India, he added, discovery of cytoplasmic male sterility in pearl millet has led to hybrids which h increased yields 88 percent.

He added that some of the difference in tomorrow's crops will be shorter, stiffer stalks, higher grain-plant ratios, and a better adaptivity to soil and moisture conditions.

A new law establishes educational and home loan benefits for wives and children of prisioners of war, and servicemen missing in action for more than 90 days. It also provides for educational benefits for men still in service who have served 181 days of active duty rather than the previously required two years.

1970 Texas Crop Production Told

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says production of the crops of barley, broomcorn, upland cotton, corn, all hays, peanuts, potatoes, sorghum grain, sweet potatoes, alfalfa seed, sweetclover vetch seed and pecans were higher than in 1969.

Less production in 1970 was registered for American-Pima cotton, flaxseed, rice, rye, soybeans, sugarbeets and wheat.

Corn and sorghum grain crops set record yields and corn yields per acre for the first time were above those for sorghum grain.

GOLDEN TOUCH OF HOSPITALITY

Flan is Spanish Custard

In France, a "flan" is a custard filled pastry. The Spanish omit the pastry, so Spanish "flan" is custard — pure, simple and delicious.

Flan

4 teaspoons dark corn syrup
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Pour 1 teaspoon corn syrup into each of four custard cups. Swirl cups to coat sides. Mix sugar, corn starch and salt in double boiler top. Gradually add milk, stirring until smooth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens enough to mound slightly.

Cover; cook 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Remove from boiling water; stir a little mixture into egg. Then stir all into hot mixture. Cook over boiling water 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Pour into custard cups. Chill and unmold. Makes 4 servings.

The United States Department of Agriculture announced recently that it would take over all meat inspection in the state.

The action came after Texas failed to comply with the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967 that said inspection procedures must be "at least equal to" federal regulations. The deadline for compliance was in December. When the USDA began inspecting packing plant in Texas, it was found that several had not met federal sanitation standards.

What does all this mean to the homemaker? She can be doubly sure of getting meat products that are sanitary and disease-free.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Pisces is the sexiest of all the birth signs. Nothing daunts a panting pisces. Pisces men have been known to walk 27 miles just to whisper a sweet nothing in a librarians ear. Pisces men excel at bilking old maids and widows out of money. Women born under this sign are also romantically inclined and have trim, lithe, well formed gums. Never sad, they have a fine sense of humor - laughing at everything from traffic accidents to rock slides and 4 years of bad crops. Society does not get its fullest advantage from Pisces people because so many of them slip into obsurity before they finish elementary school. While in school, though, they shine at cheating and passing notes to other students.

Dudgeon Receives Betty Crocker Award

Donnie L. Dudgeon has been named 1971 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Tahoka high school. She was chosen on the basis of her score in a Dec. 1 written knowlegde and attitude examination for which 650,000 senior girls throughout the country were enrolled. From General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program, she will receive a specially designed award. Additionally, her selection makes her eligible for state and national honors, including one of 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000.

The 1971 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow -- the national winner -- will be awarded a $5,000 educational grant. She will be selected this spring from 51 senior girls representing each state and the District of Columbia during an expense-paid educational tour by these State Homemakers of tomorrow -- each accompanied by a school adviser -- of Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Second-, third- and fourth place winners nationally will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships. The other state winners will be awarded $1,500 grants.

State judging centers on the performance of school winners in the Dec. 1 test, with personal observation and interviews during the tour added factors in national selections. In addition to the awards for school, state, and national Homemakers of Tomorrow, second-ranking girls in each state receive $500 scholarships, and schools of State Homemakers of Tomorrow are awarded complete sets of Encyclopaedia Britannica by Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc

All judging and selection of winners is done by Science Research Associates, Chicago which also constructed and grades the written examination.

The only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls, the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow was instituted by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. Since its inception, almost seven and three-quarters million girls have been enrolled, and, with this year's grants, scholarship awards will total in excess of $1¾ million.

Sorghum Hybrid Data Available

The reaction of maize dwarf mosaic virus on a large number of commercial grain sorshum hybrids has been compiled over the past four years on the Texas High Plains. The information is now available to area producers, announces Dr. Robert W. Berry, area plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The information was compiled by Berry and research scientists Dr. Jerry Johnson and Darrell T. Rosenow at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. Copies of the report have been distributed to county agricultural agents and sorghum seed companies whose hybrids are included in the evaluation.

The hybrids were rated on a scale from 1 to 5 based on the amount of apparent injury to the plant by the virus. Hybrids which showed only mottling with no other symptoms were rated 1 and are considered as having good tolerance, points out Berry. Those with extensive leaf damage (red leaf symptom) or stunting were rated 5 and are considered highly susceptible. Hybrids with intermediate reactions were rated 2, 3 or 4.

Grain yield of highly susceptible hybrids can be significantly reduced under high levels of infection, explains the plant pathologist. Those hybrids with an intermediate reaction may have reduced yields under certain environmental conditions while hybrids with good tolerance have shown no yield reductions from the virus.

Time For New License Plates

It doesn't take "Pull" to obtain 1971 license plates.

In fact, if you pull apart the three-part motor vehicle registration form mailed to you early this year by the Texas Highway Department it will make the process slower and unnecessarily complicated.

Even though the handy three-part form carries the warning "Do Not Separate or Detach Any Parts of This Notice" in large letters on the reverse side, many motorists are doing just that.

Highway Department officials and county tax officers report that many motorists in applying for license plates by mail detached only one part of the form and sent it in.

Department officials stress that the entire form must be mailed in or brought to the county tax office or substation. A stick down strip showing the new license number will be attached to all sections of the form and the tax office will separate the form, returning the license receipt to the owner.

Motor vehicle owners still can obtain their 1971 license plates by mail if they send in the entire three - part form, their registration fee and $1 for handling to their county tax officer during February. That allows the month of March for the application to be processed and the license plates returned before the April 1 deadline for displaying the new plates.

During the month of March, it will be necessary for owners to apply in person at the county tax office or substation for 1971 license plates.

In either case, owners will save themselves time and trouble by using the new computerized application. You won't need your title certificate or last year's registration receipt.

But, remember, leave the three parts of the registration application intact.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Tne recently announced sales policy of Commodity Credit Corporation will make it possible for government stocks of cotton during the 1971-72 marketing year to be sold at prices from 1.7 cents to 2.6 cents below the minimum prices in effect for 1970-71, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

On learning of the announcement Johnson promptly requested Congressman Bob Price of Pampa to initiate through the Cotton Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture an investigation of both the loan level for cotton this year and the newly revealed sales policy.

Johnson's letter to Congressman Price said "In any but rare and highly undesirable circumstances this action, coupled with the two-cent drop in the loan level, will depress market prices and jeopardize the ability of producers to continue supplying their markets, while serving no useful purpose on behalf of government, the cotton industry or the consuming, taxpaying public."

The USDA announcement, released February 3, placed the "markup" on CCC stocks for August, September, October and November of 1971 at 245 points per pound (2.45 cents). The "markup" would be increased 15 points per month for the next five months, as follows: December, 260 points, January - 275, February-290, March-305 and April, 320 points. For May, June and July the markup would remain constant at 335 points. For each month the markup would be added to the 19.50 cent base loan price for Middling 1 inch cotton. Minimum resale prices for other qualities would be figured from market differences, with no quality sold for less than 120 points above its loan value.

The letter included a chart showing minimum resale prices for the various months of 1970-71, the minimum resale prices that will apply for 1971-72, and the differences. The chart, with all prices figured for Middling 1 inch cotton, 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire, net weight, follows.

MONTH	1970-71 MIN.	1971-72 MIN.	DIFF.
AUGUST	24.55	21.95	260 pts.below '71
SEPTEMBER	24.10	21.95	215 "
OCTOBER	23.65	21.95	170 "
NOVEMBER	23.80	21.95	170 "
DECEMBER	23.95	22.10	185 "
JANUARY	24.10	22.25	185 "
FEBRUARY	24.25	22.40	185 "
MARCH	24.40	22.55	185 "
APRIL	24.55	22.70	185 "
MAY	24.70	22.85	185 "
JUNE	24.85	22.85	200 "
JULY	25.00	22.85	215 "

The letter continued "Cotton economists have determined that competing fibers have had no significant price advantage over cotton with a 20.25 cent loan, basis gross weight and average micronaire. Put another way, cotton could in 1971 have a 21.50 cent, net weight, premium micronaire loan and still be competitive. By the same token there is no necessity for CCC, as USDA proposes, to sell cotton in 1971 from 170 points to 260 points cheaper than the prices at which CCC cotton was sold in 1970."

On the level of the loan, which USDA previously set at 19.50 cents per pound, basis net weight and 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire, Johnson pointed out that the law requires a loan for Middling 1 inch cotton at 90 percent of the previous two year world market average price for such cotton.

He went on to note that 90 percent of the "estimated" world market price for 1968, 1969 and 1970 was determined by USDA to be 20.25 cents per pound, basis average micronaire and gross weight. When converted to a net weight, premium micronaire basis, which requires adding 80 points and 45 points respectively, the figures for all three years would have been 21.50 cents as compared to the 19.50 cent loan established for 1971 on the same basis.

And Johnson's letter stated "It is impossible for producers to understand how USDA could estimate the world market price for Middling 1 inch cotton at 21.50 cents in both 1968 and 1969, then average the actual world market price for the same cotton over the same two years and come up with 19.50 cents."

Johnson summed up the case by saying "Reduction of the cotton loan below the level at which cotton had already achieved competitive prices, together with lower CCC minimum resale prices, will cut producer income, endanger adequate and continuous supplies to meet market demands, and will cause CCC to lose money on the cotton it has on hand August 1 of this year."

Heart Attack? Facts Presented Here May Save Your Life

(This is the first of a series of three articles presented by your Heart Association to inform readers of this newspaper about the urgent need for prompt medical help in the event of heart attack.)

It may occur while you're driving an automobile, eating a meal, mowing the lawn, watching television, sleeping or in countless other situations:

- You feel a prolonged oppressive pain or discomfort in the center of your chest, just behind the breastbone.
- The pain may radiate to a shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.
- The pain or discomfort is often accompanied by sweating.
- Nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.
- The symptoms may subside, then return.

Symptoms vary but there are the usual warning signs of heart attack.

If these things happen to you, you may be suffering a heart attack. And, if this is the case, the next 72 hours may be the most critical in your whole life.

The first four hours are especially perilous. Although your heart may be literally "too good to die," having suffered relatively minor heart muscle damage, the chances of your incurring a severe and ordinarily fatal change in heart rhythm (ventricular fibrillation) are about 25 times as great during the first four hours than during the next 24.

Instant recognition of heart attack symptoms, and immediate medical assistance, may well represent the difference between life and death insofar as you are concerned.

Minutes and seconds count. The first thing for you to remember is minimize physical exertion. Then, immediately, you should call a doctor—or, preferably, have someone do it for you. If for any reason you can't reach him, do not delay but get by the speediest means to the emergency room of the nearest hospital with the hope of getting "wired for sound" at the earliest possible moment. Get there in an ambulance, automobile or taxi. But get there—and fast!

Ideally, within minutes you will be in a coronary care unit with electrodes touching your skin as a part of a complex system which continuously monitors the heart's electrical activity.

If there is any change in heart rhythm or rate above or below a preset range, an alarm will sound and within seconds skilled personnel will act to forestall or correct whatever is wrong—most often an irregularly or rapidly beating heart, shock or total cessation of circulatory functions.

Despite the fact that the first hours are the most critical, one group of researchers found that the average "decision time"—that is, the time intervening between the onset of symptoms and lifting the phone off the cradle—is three or more hours.

On the average, it is believed, about eight hours elapse between the start of warning signs and one's admission to a hospital emergency room.

The decision to seek medical assistance is far too serious to be entrusted to the patient himself. It is a responsibility that must be accepted by the wife, husband, relative, or friend.

In the next installment, we shall examine the coronary care unit and its enormous life-saving potential—a potential which depends very largely on recognition of symptoms, and moving immediately to seek medical assistance.

Prying loose and bending the iron bars that guarded a rear window, burglars broke into the Hogan dry goods store here Tuesday night and stole clothing to the value of $935.00, according to a recent invoice. Fifteen suits of men's clothing and seventeen ladies' coats were taken.

Officers got busy on the case early Wednesday morning as soon as the burglary was discovered by night watchman, W.M. Lee, but no clue as to the identity of the theives has been found; or if so, it has not been revealed by officers.

Early Wednesday morning, however, a boy on his way to school discovered a suit of clothes that had been dropped by the thieves, evidently by accidnet, in the alley back of the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber yard. This was returned to the Hogan Store by Sheriff B.L. Parker and Mr. Hogan stated that the suit was worth $25.00, thus reducing the loss to $910.00 Officers are of the opinion that the thieves had stopped their car in the vicinity of the Connolly warehouse and transported the loot on foot from the store to the car. Shoe prints of the culprits were found and traced, but the high winds had blown the sand so much as to almost obliterate the tracks.

The Hogan store has been broken into several times before since he has been in business here and quite a quantity of goods taken each time.

A barrel of oil was also stolen Tuesday night from the Bert Dollins Filling Station, possibly by a different bunch of thieves.

A family row in which a few shots are said to have been fired and some violently abusive language was staged on a farm out eight or ten miles southeast of town Tuesday.

The trouble arose when a man whose wife had secured a divorce went to the residence of his former father-in-law to induce or compel his erstwhile spouse to resume her conjugal relations with him. The fellow is alleged to have emitted some rather lurid expletives when his intentions were foiled and the father-in-law is said to have brought the artillery into use.

The younger man was lodged in jail with an abusive language charge filed against him in the justice court.

The residence of C.R. Carpenter, who resides in O'Donnell but practices law in Tahoka, was almost totally destroyed by fire one night during the holidays. Mr. Carpenter had arisen and started a fire in the heater early in the morning and had gone back to bed waiting for the room to warm up before dressing. He dropped off to sleep, and when he awoke, the house was afire and the flames had made great headway. He and his wife and little five-year old daughter had barely gotten out of the burning building when the roof fell in.

The loss was partially covered by insurance.

A Tudor Ford sedan coming north at a high rate of speed crashed into a pontiac going south and being driven by Claude Ragan on highway No. 9 three miles south of Tahoka at an early hour Monday night, the Ford being almost utterly demolished and the Pontiac being considerably damaged.

Mr. Ragan's car was occupied by himslef and wife and a large family of children. None of them were seriously injured. The Ford car was occupied by three men. Two of them picked up by another car at the scene of the accident and brought on into town. The third man disappeared. Upon reaching Tahoka, one of the men brought in also disappeared. The third man, who was Ramsey Westmoreland of Lamesa and who was the owner of the Ford car, was in a semi-consciou condition. He was given medical attention and was detained by the sheriff until Tuesday morning, when he was convinced he was convinced that he was not re-not responsible for the collison.

Westmoreland, the condition of whose head and face seemed to confirm the truth of his story, claimed that he had been the victim of hijackers, who had robbed and beaten him, taken possession of his car, and were fleeing at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred. He had started out to his farm a few miles north of Lamesa when two young fellows on the highway asked for a ride. He picked them up and before he had gotten far from town they assaulted him, beat him on the head and face, robbed him of his money to the amount of ten or twelve dollars, dragged him away from the steering wheel, and one of them took the wheel. He and one of the two hi-jackers were considerabley hurt in the crash with the Pontiac car.

Officers are searching for the two men who were in the car with Westmoreland and who disappeared without letting their identity be known.

Plight Of POWs Concerns Area Easter Seal Director

Concern for other people is Gilbert Muddell, Jr.'s job.

He's West Texas area Director for the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Muddell works closely with the Easter Seal Representative of Crippled Children and Adults of Lynn County, Mr. Maurice Small.

Recently, however, Muddell has become concerned about another group--the American prisoners of war in Vietnam. Muddell said at the present time there are over one hundred thousand men missing in action who may be dead or prisoners of war, and neither U. S. Government or families of these men are aware of their death, or if they are prisoners of war, where they are being held.

It's a deep concern because Muddell has been there. He was a prisoner of the German Luftwaffe, and later of the dreaded SS, after his B-24 bomber was shot down over Yugoslavia in World War II.

He has launched a campaign to locate other ex-prisoners of war and involve them in the campaign to get action from the U.S. Government toward obtaining the release of prisoners in Vietnam. Specifically, he thinks a threat of renewed and stepped-up U. S. force might cause a change in the North Vietnamese attitude toward the POW issue.

"It's funny," Muddell muses. "We're all nice people ... we speak nicely to each other, offer each other cigarettes ... but let us be cold or hungry, and we become animals. It doesn't take long."

Referring to the December 27 television appearances by POW's from Vietnam, he said, "I doubt that one per cent of the prisoners of war are as sleek as those fellows. ninety-nine per cent of the POW's are starving to death, filthy, near nude, in need of medical care and are under constant mental 'torture'."

Muddell recalled that during his own imprisonment by the Germans, he lost weight at a tremendous rate, dropping from over 200 pounds to 106.

Part of the strain is the food, but a lot of it is trying to keep one's sanity.

"You hear about people counting the barbs on barbed wire," he said. "I've actually seen people do that. Anything to pass the time."

It was the Air Force which brought Muddell to Amarillo originally in 1942. He returned to the city to marry a girl he had met while he was stationed there and has made Amarillo his home.

He has been working with charitable orgaizations for the past 15 years -- first with a service group associated with the Salvation Army, dealing with fund-raising and public relations, and for the past two and a half years with the State Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Before entering professional charities work, he was an insurance salesman in Amarillo.

"I never give advice," said Muddell. "You never know how the other fellow's shoes feel until you wear them. That's why I think former POW's should write to their Senators and Congressmen to take strong action toward freeing the prisoners in Vietnam."

"It burns me up that we havn't gone in and gotten them already," he said.

Muddell wants positive action taken toward the release of the Vietnamese war prisoners. He thinks that petitions are all right, but, he says, "Whoever reads those petitions is going to be more impressed by one signature on a letter than by 400,000 on a petition."

In his work with the Easter Seal Society, he travels 87 Texas Counties.

He's found it hard, so far, to locate the former prisoners who he is sure are in the Amarillo area. "I wouldn't be surprised," he says, "if there are 500 in Potter and Raindall Counties alone. It's just getting in contact with them that is hard."

He has worked through Veteran's agencies, but so far as had little luck in locating POW's by that method. "I talk to jillions of clubs," Muddell says, "But I seldom bring the prisoner of war issue up."

Most of his contacts with ex-prisoners have come from people in the towns he visits. So far, he has located four in Ochiltree in Dallam County, none in Moore, Hansford, or Sherman Counties, and two or three in Potter and Randall Counties.

"I know there are more," he says," if I could find a way to reach them."

It's going to mean more for a letter or petition about the prisioners to come from someone who has been a prisoner himself," Muddell said, "and that's the purpose of my campaign".

Any former prisoner-of-war wishing to contact Gilbert Muddell may write to him at 1811 Lawson Lane in Amarillo.

Any physically handicapped person in Lynn County, needing help, contact Mr. Maurice Small and he and the Easter Seal Society will do their best to be of assistance.

Lynn County Cotton Club Met Feb. 15

Lynn County Cotton Club met Feb. 15 at Lyntegar Conference room with 20 members present.

The Cotton Crafts book recently published by the District Women's Cotton Promotion Association was presented to the club by Mrs. Leland White. The book sales for $2.00.

Mrs. Margarette Harkin, instructor and research associate of the Dept. of Food and Nutrition at Texas Tech University gave a very interesting program on the use of cottonseed flour. Colored slides were shown of cotton from planting to the finished product in baked cookies and bread. The kernels were also used to make a tasty candy taking the place of nut meats. These products have more protein than the regular wheat flour and a little less calories.

There is a great appeal to the people in this cotton growing area in discovering that cottonseed can be made into edible products.

Mrs. Harkin provided cookies and candy made from cottonseed flour and kernels for the members present.

Mrs. Harkin also believes that cottonseed flour will be used in carbonated and acid beverages to furnish another source of protein.

Who knows , we may not only be wearing cotton, but eating and drinking it too!

Door prizes presented by Woolam Gin and O'Donnell Co-op Gin were won by Mrs. Eldon Carroll and Mrs. Chas. Townes. Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fighting Back

Pacifists speak of turning the other cheek. Does the law call for that kind of forbearance? Or may you, when struck, lawfully strike back?

Generally speaking, you may indeed strike back. Your act of violence is forgiven if it is inflected in your own protection. Courts often refer to the right of self defense as "a primary law of nature."

But it is a right with very distinct limits. Defending yourself is one thing; escalating the conflict is quite another. Take this case:

Janet and Marge were in love with the same man. During an argument, Janet began pulling Marge's hair. Marge retaliated by grabbing a pistol and shooting Janet in the leg. Could Marge justify her action as self defense?

No, ruled a court, because Marge had used considerably more force than the situation called for. When that happens, as one judge put it:

"The character of the combat is changed. The assaulted becomes the assailant."

Futhermore, the right of self defense lasts only as long as the danger lasts.

Suppose a schoolboy hits a passing pedestrian with a snowball. Could the man chase the boy and give him a thrashing in the name of self defense? No, because the danger is ended. The man's motive would be not to defend himself but to punish the boy.

Of course it may be difficult for the person attacked, in the heat of an encounter, to measure his danger. Therefore, the law usually gives him the benefit of the doubt.

In one case a grocer and his wife, taking home their cash receipts late at night, were accosted by a group of rowdies. When one youth laid hold of his wife, the frightened grocer shot and wounded him.

As it turned out, the victim had just wanted to ask for directions. Nevertheless, the grocer was held not liable in court. The judge said self defense may be exercised not only when there is danger but also when there reasonably appears to be danger. And in this case, the danger did seem real.

Sew Up, Paste Up
Your Own Private Corner

Give your own special corner a very personal all-over look with So-E-Z® wallcovering from Imperial and coordinated 'wash 'n' wear sheets from Springs Mills. Achieve beauty on a budget.

The wallcovering is prepasted and strippable so it's easy to put on, easy to take off. It's also scrubbable vinyl so it finds uses not only on the sliding doors and the wall, but also on the floors where it takes a beating from shoes and boxes. More coordinated ideas—cover a box with wallcovering and use it for storage. Cover a wastebasket or a window cornice for more go-togethers.

To add to the picture, leave the deep hem in the sheet as the bottom of the drape and use pinch pleating at the top for the easiest-to-care-for drapes ever! For a final fillip, to match inside and out of the closet, cover an old garment bag for out-of-season storage.
