Area RC&D aids non-profit groups

Twenty-four nonprofit organizations — including three in Scurry County — will receive computers and monitors donated by the state office of the attorney general.

The computers were requested through the Big Country RC&D, with guidance and assistance from State Rep. David Counts.

Rep. Counts will be present when the computers are delivered today at the National Guard Armory in Sweetwater.

Snyder Day Care Center is to receive three of the computers. 37th Street Church of Christ and the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District will receive one each.

"This is just one of the ways that Big Country RC&D is helping non-profit organizations within Scurry County," said Terry Hefner, soil conservationist with the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Hefner praised Sen. Counts for his help in obtaining the computers.

A primary function of the Big Country RC&D is to help entities locate funding sources, said Hefner, area contact person.

Jimmy Carr, in the Vernon Daily Record, got this from a book, "Anguished English," a collection of student bloopers.

"The Bible is full of interesting caricatures. In the first book of Guinessis, Adam and Eve were created from an apple tree. Joseph gave refuse to the Israelites. Moses led them to the Red Sea, where they made unleavened bread, which is bread without any ingredients.

"Then he went up to Mount Cyanide to get the Ten Commandments. David was a Hebrew king skilled at playing the liar. He fought the Finkelsteins, a race of people who lived in Biblical times.

"Solomon, one of David's sons, had 300 wives and 700 porcupines. Later came Job, who had one trouble after another. Eventually he lost all his cattle and all his children and had to go live alone with his wife in the desert."

SISD board approves technology plan

A five-year technology plan that will take the Snyder Independent School District into the 21st centry was approved by the district's trustees Thursday evening.

The plan is a giant step toward the district meeting the state's goal of having a computer on every student's desk by 2010, said Supt. Gayle Lomax.

Presented by Asst. Supt. Dr. Missy Jones, the plan is a result of meetings by the district's technology task force. The task force is made up of school personnel, local citizens and Western Texas College personnel.

Dr. Jones told the board that students entering schools today will be graduating in the 21st century and that their needs will be dictated by a rapidly changing society.

"The responsibiltiy of our school district is to prepare students to participate in a technological world," said Jones.

Jones said the district's technology plan required infrastructure, education preparation, administrative/support services as well as well-defined teaching and learning goals.

The plan is broken down into short term goals which include the present school year, mid-term goals for the school year 1998-99 and long-term goals for 1999-2002.

Much of the technology improvements could be made with the aid of grants, said Jones.

Jones told the board of a Technology in Education grant that the local district and surrounding districts were notified of receiving last month.

Among other things, the grant will allow 14-unit computer labs at the high school and junior high, plus pay for the Internet provider and training for instructors.

Jones said the instructors will require two days of training, and that the grant will pay for substitute teachers for the two days.

The time period for the grant runs from Sept. 1 of this year, to Sept. 30, 1998.

Board president Charles Anderson questioned Jones on the cost of the program to the district once the grant expires.

Jones, and the district's technology director Dale Byrd, said the district would still have to pay for the Internet provider, but at a lower cost than the district is presently paying.

Jones said the grant will not require hiring additional personnel.

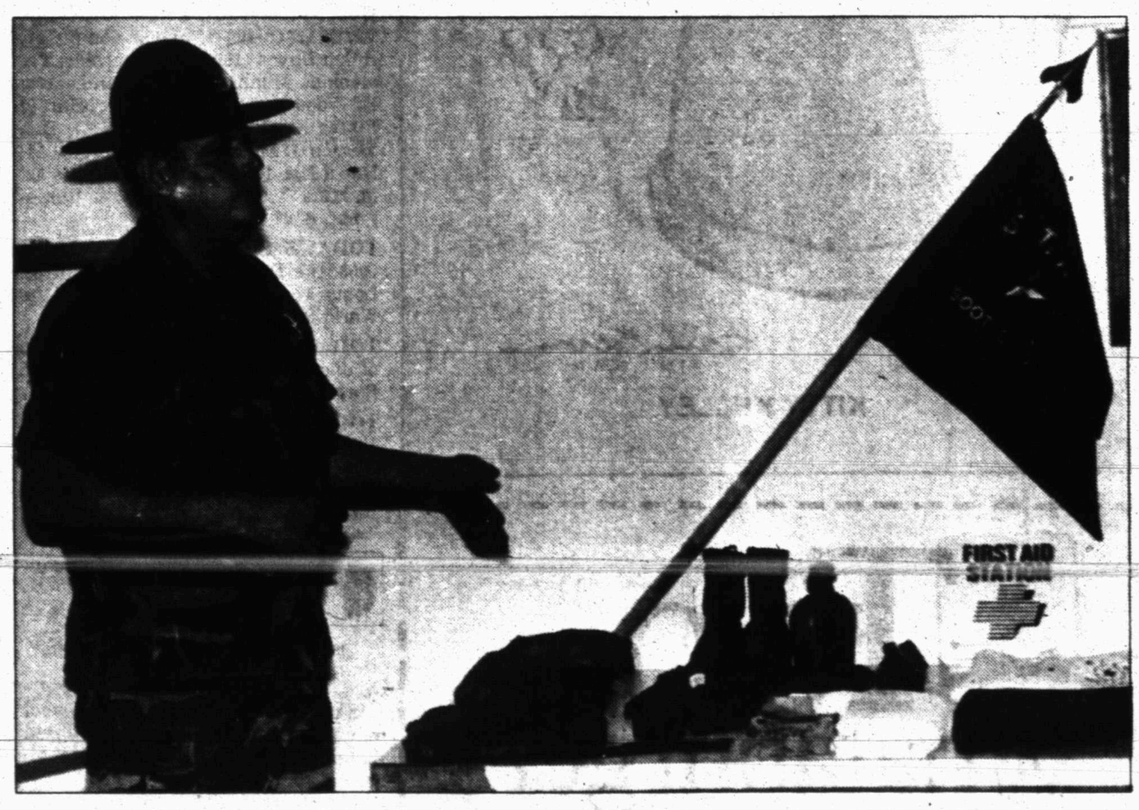

In other action, the trustees nominated Billy Calley, Ross Carroll, Jr., Harold Lacik, Walter Stirl and David Beaver to the board of the Scurry County Appraisal District, heard an update on several Texas Association of School Board policy updates and were briefed on coming events that affect board members.

The district will host school board member training sessions for local and area trustees on Nov. 11 and 18.

Prior to the regular board meeting, the trustees met at Snyder High School and heard a presentention from Captain Pete Barrera on the early days of the S.T.A.R. Program. Barrera told the board that students have been placed in the program through 132nd District Court, the justice of the peace office as well as the juvenile probation office and the school district.

"Everything we teach these kids has a positive message," said Barrera. "And I think the participants have responded well."

Anderson presided at the monthly meeting and all members of the board were in attendance, to include Mike Levens, Glenn Clardy, Richard Chambers, Luann Burleson, Janet Stribling and Mark McCormick.

S.T.A.R. UPDATE — Snyder ISD trustees were given an update on the local S.T.A.R. Program prior to Thursday night's board meeting by Captain Pete Barrera. Barrera said the alternative punishment program for juvenile offenders is off to a good start and has already shown positive results. (SDN Staff Photo)

Campaign to ban mines wins Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — American Jody Williams and her International Campaign to Ban Landmines won the Nobel Peace Prize today for their battle to eliminate the explosives that kill and maim 26,000 people a year.

A cause championed by Princess Diana, the campaign was honored by the Norwegian Nobel Committee for changing "a ban on anti-personnel mines from a vision to a feasible reality."

The choice is certain to increase pressure on the United States to sign a mine-banning treaty that Williams' organization was instrumental in pushing through. Hours after the prize was announced, President Boris Yeltsin said Russia would add its signature to the treaty.

"It is clear that the committee with this award wishes, as it says in the citation, to have this convention gain even broader support," said Francis Sejerstedt, chairman of the panel that chooses the winner of the prestigious prize.

The award "will make all the people who have worked on this treaty work with renewed effort," Williams pledged today at her home in Putney, Vt.

"The treaty is just beautiful words on paper until it becomes international law."

The prize, worth $1 million, is to be divided equally between Williams and the organization.

After six years of quietly working toward a ban on anti-personnel mines, the campaign burst into the public's consciousness with the Aug. 31 death of Diana, the cause's most visible supporter.

"We have noted that Princess Diana was one of those who were engaged in the cause. But there were very many people involved," Sejerstedt said.

The visibility of the campaign grew even more in September, when more than 90 countries drafted a treaty that would totally ban anti-personnel mines. However, the United States has said it would not sign the treaty, and Russia and China did not take part in the treaty talks.

Play tryouts set next week

Auditions have been set next week for Western Texas College's "Sylvia," slated for a Nov. 20-23 run.

Auditions will be held from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday n the Fine Arts Theatre. Six characters are to be cast, played by four to six actors.

Sylvia will be played by a young woman, 18-25. Greg is male, 35 to 50. Kate is female, 35-50. Tom, Phyllis and Leslie are small fun parts, all played by men of any age, said Helen Cogan, who teaches drama at the college.

Actors from the community are "welcome and enthusiastically invited to attend," she added.

Rehearshals will begin Oct. 20 and run until the November play dates.

For the main characters, Sylvia, Greg and Kate, the rehearsal schedule is five days a week. The rehearshal schedule for the minor characters, if cast individually is less demanding.

"Sylvia," a romantic comedy written by A.R. Gurney, is set in Manhattan, present day.

Galileo finding sharpens chance of life on Jupiter moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that a moon of Jupiter may have the chemical basis for life has increased sharply with the discovery of organic compounds on two other moons of the giant planet, researchers report today.

The finding, from instruments on the Galileo spacecraft orbiting Jupiter, suggests that the moon Europa may have all three of the materials scientists consider essential for life: an energy source, liquid water and organic molecules, said planetary scientist Thomas B. McCord of the University of Hawaii.

"This doesn't mean there is life on Europa," said McCord, lead author of a study published today in the journal Science. "The exciting thing now is the evidence that Europa may have all three of the ingredients."

Europa is already known to have water and an internal heat source.

Dale Cruikshank, a research scientist at NASA's Ames Research Center, said the work of McCord and his team should help intensify research of Europa, which already "is the subject of very special interest."

"This finding increases the plausibility for life on Europa," Cruikshank said. "It also supports the idea that there were organic molecules streaming throughout the solar system."

The study of Jupiter's moons is part of a growing effort by astronomers and planetary experts to find evidence of life within the solar system, particularly on Mars.

A major goal of NASA's Mars exploration, for example, is to search for the fingerprints of life on the Red Planet. Researchers have determined that Mars once had vast pools of water and there is speculation this could have led to the evolution of life. Some believe there may be evidence of life in frozen underground water.

NASA researchers also have found what some believe may be the fossilized remains of microbes in an asteroid that fell to Earth from Mars. The interpretation of that finding, however, is controversial.

In the case of Jupiter's moons, instruments on Galileo detected the complex organic molecules on the surfaces of the moons Callisto and Ganymede, suggesting that such organics are also present on Jupiter's other two large moons, Europa and Io.

"What we have on Callisto and Ganymede are some of the kinds of organic molecules that could be the basis for life," McCord said. "These are the basic ingredients."

New way to control chronic pain found by researchers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patients with chronic, untreatable pain may be treated in the future with the injection of toxins that kill key nerve cells while leaving the rest of the body untouched, a researcher says.

Patrick W. Mantyh of the University of Minnesota said that his team has found a type of nerve cell responsible for chronic pain and have developed a way to give relief without dimming the sensation of other nerve cells.

He is the lead author of a study published today in the journal Science.

Mantyh said that in experiments in rats, the scientists were able to permanently stop hypersensitivity to pain by injecting toxins that kill the specific nerve cells carrying the pain signal to the brain.

He said the experiment shows that "you can disassociate the normal pain that you want from the hypersensitive pain responses" that can be crippling.

He said the work could lead to a new way to control pain in patients who have cancer or other disorders that produce chronic, intractable pain.

Stephen Hunt, a pain researcher at the Medical Research Council in Cambridge, England, said the finding is extremely important and may lead to a novel way to bring relief to patients who have not responded to other treatment.

Hunt said the research gives "a new way to manipulate nerve cells" so that undesirable pain is blocked without the drowsy effects of opiates.

In the study, Mantyh and his group found they could selectively shut down nerve pain channels by killing specific cells in the spinal cord. While the technique blocked extreme pain, normal sensations of touch were not affected, he said.

Mantyh said the nerve cells that relay chronic pain signals work by processing a neurotransmitter protein called substance P.

This protein is absorbed only by the target nerve cells, he said, and apparently plays a key role in hypersensitivity to pain.

In an experiment, the researchers combined substance P with a toxin and injected it into the spines of rats. Both the toxin and substance P were taken into the target cells. The action killed the target cells but no other cells, said Mantyh.

To test the effects, the researchers used rats whose paws had been treated to be supersensitive to heat. These rats detected as pain a mild heat that did not discomfort other rats.

The researchers injected the substance P-toxin combination into the spines of these rats at points where there were nerves connected to their paws.

When the rats were again exposed to mild heat, they responded just as did normal rats, proving that the spinal injections blocked the pain channel.

Mantyh said the injections had no effect on normal, beneficial sensations of pain or touch.

"The only thing lost was the hypersensitive pain response," he said. "In all other ways these animals were normal."

Mantyh said only about 1 percent of the nerve cells in the spine process substance P. By knocking out only these cells, he said, pain can be relieved without the whole-body numbing caused by opiate drugs.

The researcher said controlling pain with the spinal injections will be tested in more animal studies.

Dad stews on the sidelines when family takes the field

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 40 years and have three grown daughters who live a few miles from us. Last year, my wife had a stroke that left her physically incapacitated and requiring daily care. She is unable to stand, walk or even get out of bed without help. Our daughters come to visit as often as they can and help with her care.

Their visits usually go something like this: Daughter arrives, knocks at the door and comes in. She nods at me, asks how I'm doing, then heads for the bedroom. From then on, however long the visit lasts, it's "yakety-yak, blah-blah-blah" with Mom, the hired caregiver or each other if more than one daughter is here.

My daughters talk to me only if there's a problem involving finances or bills. Otherwise, it's, "Gotta run. Bye, Dad. See you later!"

I realize I'm not the best of company. I've never been good at idle chitchat or mingling with people, and the present circumstances don't help any. But it would be nice to be included in the loop occasionally, even though I'm not exactly bubbling over with joy these days.

In the past, I've tried explaining my feelings to my wife, but all I got was a sarcastic "Oh, you poor dear!" From my daughters I get, "Think positive, Dad, be upbeat." Then off they go to talk to Mom while I sit in the living room alone. I feel left out of my own family. Your opinion, please.

GOOD OLD DAD

DEAR GOOD OLD DAD: Your daughters' habit of speaking to you only about certain issues and talking to their mother about everything is not uncommon. It probably was established years ago, when the girls were young.

However, it's not too late to make a change. Be honest with your daughters. Let them know you'd like more than the limited converations you have had with them until now. Begin by asking them personal questions. If you "hear" only "yakety-yak, blah-blah-blah," the situation won't improve. If you listen when they answer, you and your children may discover you're finally getting to know each other.

P.S. Instead of isolating yourself when your daughters come to visit their mother, why not join the party?

DEAR ABBY: Not too long ago, a friend of mine lost his eyesight due to complications from diabetes. He is only 29.

Fortunately, I was given the gift of sharing his first outing since he became blind. He was so excited! After almost sitting on a stranger's lap on the bus, he told me how helpful it would be if the public would just do a few things to enable the blind to function without additional problems when they go out.

These are only a few tips on ways we can help people who are sightless:

1. When you see someone who is blind, start talking. This will let him know where you are. (That way, the person won't sit on your lap or trip over your feet.)

2. Ask if there is anything you can do. You might be able to direct them.

3. Let them take your elbow so that you can lead them to a specific area, especially when crossing the street.

4. Converse with them — you'll find they have much to say.

Many of us are fearful that we will do the wrong thing, so we don't do anything. I know there must be other helpful tips. If your readers can add to this list, it will be very much appreciated.

ANDREA RYNER,
SAN MATEO, CALIF.

DEAR ANDREA: You've written a helpful letter. I hope readers who have contact with a person who is sightless will take your suggestions to heart.

Lottery sales dip worries officials

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials are trying to determine whether weak games have caused a recent decline in Texas lottery ticket sales or if the figures are a statistical glitch.

In the five-week period ending Saturday, ticket sales declined 3.6 percent, from $321 million to $309 million, compared to last year. For the first time, the state started the budget year in September with slower ticket sales than the previous year.

Officials say that while the five-week period is not long enough to draw any conclusions, it is being watched.

"We've been watching it since the turn of the fiscal year. We don't have the answers at this point, but we are looking for them," said lottery spokeswoman Marcy Goodfleisch.

The decline comes after a sluggish summer. Ticket sales in July and August sales slowed to $583 million compared to $585 during the same period last year.

"I want to know why sales are down," said Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, chairman of a legislative committee looking into lottery operations. "And I want to know if this is a definitive drop in sales or a glitch on the radar scope."

Texas lottery sales have increased every year since it was established in 1992 — totaling $15.4 billion since its start. In the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, $3.7 billion in ticket sales meant a 9 percent increase from last year.

A possible decline particularly concerns state lawmakers, who depend on the income from the lottery to balance the state budget.

New pastor wants to make a difference

By Shirley A. Gorman
News Editor

Mike and Diane Howard are excited about their new life in Snyder.

Here since the latter part of September, Mike is the pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, located at 2462 South Highway 208. Diane provides the music.

Mike graduated from the Nazarene Bible College in Colorado Springs, Colo. in May with an associate degree in Biblical studies.

Mike has some familiarity with this area since he preached at a revival in Rotan. A district superintendent of the Nazarene denomination told him of Snyder's opening. After praying, Mike said he and Diane visited the church before accepting the position.

Their first official Sunday was Sept. 21. Since their arrival, the Howards said they have already experienced the city's "loving community and friendly hospitality."

Mike noted that Snyder has a "strong church emphasis" and that "pastors are respected."

Mike would like to capitalize on that because he hopes the rest of the community will get to know his church and its members.

"I don't think people know about the Nazarene name or church," he said. "We are a Christian organization. I want people to know who we are and where we are located. We want to work beside the different denominations in town."

He said he wants to see the church "grow and impact the community." Long-range goals he would like the church to sponsor include programs such as literacy, parenting skills and self-esteem classes.

He is especially partial to establishing a literacy program someday because until nine years ago he could not read or write. Dyslexia caused him to fall way behind in school, he said, and even though he graduated, he could not read or write.

Mike found ways around his disabilities and worked in sales for a few years before he enrolled in a literacy program. His reading level tested at slightly below the second grade but within two years he was enrolled in college, later graduating with a 3.1 GPA.

Mike knows that there are others like him who think of creative ways to get around their reading and writing disabilities. He just wants them to know that it is possible to overcome those deficiencies.

He said he had always felt "called to become a pastor" but had not been able to do so because of the dyslexia.

Mike, who grew up in Nashville, was reared a Southern Baptist and still has many Baptist friends.

However, he changed churches after being invited to a Nazarene church service. He enjoyed the music and atmosphere so much he joined. Mike met his wife at the Nazarene church in Colorado Springs where she was the organist.

Diane, who has both a hymn playing and hymn teaching degrees from the Nazarene Bible College in Colorado Springs, said she has "never felt such peace" about their decision to make their home in Snyder.

The couple have been married for one year and four months. Diane had been single for a number of years and owned her own dress shop in Colorado Springs when she met Mike.

Selling her dress shop was hard because after five years it had become very important to her. Selling her home was much easier.

"The Lord put Mike and I together. We certainly did not do it," said Diane.

They both feel that Snyder is where the Lord wants them to be.

While being a pastor is now the focus of his life, he said he grew up surrounded by the country and western music business.

His father, Chuck Howard, was a noted song writer, and his brother, also named Chuck, is the owner of a song publishing business.

When his dad had his first hit song recorded, the family moved to Nashville when Mike was in the third grade.

At the time Willie Nelson and Harlin Howard were song writers for the same company that published his dad's songs.

Several singers recorded Mike's dad's songs, including Ringo Starr, who sang four on a country and western album just after the Beatles broke up.

Others included "Happy Birthday Darling" sung by Conway Twitty and Merle Haggard's "Always on a Mountain When I Fall," which was nominated for song of the year in 1982 by the Academy of Country Music.

Another song, "A Thing Called Sadness," has been recorded by 42 different artists.

Mike's brother owns Diamond Struck Publishing Company and has produced songs for several artists, including John Berry, LeAnn Rhimes, Hank Williams Jr. and Billy Dean.

He also produced "Blue" by Rhimes which was nominated for album of the year.

Mike had originally wanted a church in Nashville, but is happy about the way things have turned out. He respects his family's musical accomplishments and they in turn respect his career choices.

Prior to moving here, a friend flew Mike and Diane to Nashville for a bittersweet reunion with his family.

Now in Snyder, the couple are excited about all the opportunities and whatever the Lord has in store for them.

In NFL action...

'Boys battle the 'Skins; Dolphins visit the Jets

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

Even before they bombed last week in the Meadowlands, the Dallas Cowboys were struggling.

Now they go to Washington for a Monday night game they REALLY need — a loss and they're at .500, a game behind the Redskins in the NFC East with no guarantee they can get out of the hole.

Someone still believes in the Cowboys: they're 2½-point favorites on the road.

But home field often means little in this heated series, nor does the relative abilities of the teams. In 1989, when the Cowboys won one game all season, that win was in Washington.

A statistic of interest: The Redskins lead the league against the pass, but are next to last against the run and allowed Philadelphia 203 yards on the ground last week. Dallas, meanwhile, is the only team in the NFL without a touchdown rushing — Emmitt Smith, who was averaging a TD a game in his first eight seasons, hasn't scored yet.

Maybe what the Cowboys need is Norv Turner, who used to be their offensive coordinator.

Unfortunately for Dallas, he coaches the Redskins.

REDSKINS, 20-14

Miami (plus 3½) at New York Jets

NFL international is ballyhooing this game overseas as the battle of the superstar coaches. Tuna and Jimmy would love that. But Tuna would love even more winning the division from the Pats, something that's looking possible.

JETS, 20-16

Philadelphia (plus 3½) at Jacksonville

Ray Rhodes has never lost a game in October. The streak stops here, mainly because Rhodes' front office couldn't land Mark Brunell when he was available and settled for Ty Detmer.

JAGUARS, 28-22

Green Bay (minus 11½) at Chicago

The Bears stayed with the Packers on opening night. They're dispirited now, but the Packers aren't playing very well.

PACKERS, 20-10

Buffalo (plus 8½) at New England

Whoa! The Bills lie down for no one.

PATRIOTS, 20-17

Detroit (plus 6) at Tampa Bay

The Lions are as schizoid as they were in the Fontes era. They lost by seven to the Bucs in Pontiac. Here?

BUCS, 24-10

Carolina (plus 3½) at Minnesota

The problems in Charlotte are deeper than the Kerry Collins-Steve Beuerlein switch.

VIKINGS, 27-10

St. Louis (plus 14) at San Francisco

Oh, to play in the NFC West.

49ERS, 31-13

Atlanta (plus 2) at New Orleans

Peyton Manning might play in the NFC West, too.

SAINTS, 16-12

Indianapolis (plus 11) at Pittsburgh

Only one thing to say about the Colts: they're the best winless team in the NFL.

STEELERS, 27-10

New York Giants (plus 4½) at Arizona

This game goes to the defense that forces the most mistakes. The Giants offense makes more.

CARDINALS, 16-10 (overtime)

Cincinnati (plus 2) at Tennessee

As of midweek, 13,000 souls had purchased tickets.

BENGALS, 27-24

LAST WEEK: 9-3-1 (spread), 9-4 (straight up).

SEASON: 42-36-4 (spread), 57-25 (straight up).

District 6 Six-Man Outlook

Westbrook at Ira

The Ira Bulldogs must be hoping for the same performance they had last week, but with a different outcome.

Ira answered the bell everytime Grady tried to deliver the knock-out punch last Friday night, trading touchdowns with the Wildcats until time ran out with Grady on top 30-25.

The 1-4 Bulldogs open district play tonight at 7:30 when they visit 4-1 Westbrook.

Ira QB Jerek Brown is coming off a 186 yard passing performance, with Logan Daves snagging four tosses for 103 yards.

"They (Westbrook) have some speed and they run a lot of kids in and out to keep them fresh," Ira assistant coach Joee Gainer said. "They have a little more depth than we do."

After Westbrook, Ira travels to Highland, which hosts Hermleigh tonight.

Hermleigh at Highland

The 4-1 Hermleigh Cardinals travel to Highland to face the 2-3 Hornets.

The Cardinals are coming off a 32-14 trouncing of Wilson last week, in which Billy Joe Digby registered 10 tackles.

"I believe that defense wins ballgames," Hermleigh coach Juan Rios said. "And our defense is playing pretty good right now. If they can continue their play, then with our offense I think we can win some games."

The Cardinal offense is centered around its tight-formation rushing attack.

Last week, Hermleigh had Jason Hernandez, Andy Luna, Ricky Luna and Digby all score via the running game.

After Highland, the Cardinals return home to host Borden County, which is at Loraine tonight.

Borden County at Loraine

The 5-0 Borden County Coyotes are fresh off their biggest victory of the year, a 46-30 decision over Whitharral last week.

Tonight the Coyotes open district play at the 0-5 Loraine Bulldogs.

Borden County tore through its non-district schedule with ease, downing Klondike, Grady, Southland, Samnorwood and Whitharral.

The Coyotes have shown the ability to run as well as pass the ball effectively.

BCHS QB Colt McCook tossed three TD passes last week, while Fernando Baeza has been the workhorse on the ground.

After Loraine, the Coyotes travel to Hermleigh next week.

KU to start back-up QB against 2-2 Red Raiders

LUBBOCK (AP) — Kansas was one pinky finger away from a quarterback controversy.

The Jayhawks would have gone with backup Zac Wegner anyway against Texas Tech on Saturday, coach Terry Allen said. A broken pinky finger on lefty starter Matt Johner's throwing hand made it a moot point.

"I think that with the things we are going to have to do to move the football, Zac's stronger and more powerful arm will give us a better opportunity to do so," Allen said.

The Jayhawks (4-1, 2-0 Big 12) have been hot with Johner starting, though their offense ranks among the nation's worst. Wegner replaced a scuffling Johner during Kansas' 20-17 victory over Oklahoma last week, though he was only slightly better.

There are no quarterback questions at Tech (2-2, 1-0), where four-year starter Zebbie Lethridge has accounted for a league-leading 248 yards per game. Donnie Hart, his favorite receiver, ranks sixth nationally with a 131-yard average.

"I'm just impressed with all the different receivers they have," Allen said. "It's going to be very interesting from our standpoint because we've yet to face an offense ... that has a quarterback that throws it the way they do."

With six interceptions and just one touchdown allowed, Kansas' pass defense has been stifling so far.

"Their defense changed schemes but didn't change their mannerisms," Dykes said. "They play hard, they play well and they do a heck of a job. (Tony) Blevins is probably as good a defensive back as there is in the country, and their team is laden with really good players."

Tech gained momentum after beating Kansas 30-17 last year in Lawrence, and the up-and-down Raiders seek the same kind of lift again after an easy win at Baylor. Kansas, meanwhile, is undefeated at home but lost to Cincinnati in its only road game so far.

"It's a big game because their record is so good," Dykes said. "Last year, they were ranked for a long time, but of course (all games are) big."

The Red Raiders admit that Saturday is the perfect time to establish some consistency during a season that's included a blowout loss to No. 9 Tennessee and a monumental upset by North Texas.

"I see us being a whole lot more successful," defensive end Taurus Rucker said. "We had a lot of things to adjust. Right now in the Big 12, we're 1-0, so I think we can go in and be successful."

7th grade gridders sweep Tors

One of Snyder's 7th grade football teams extended a streak, while the other started one.

Snyder Gold registered its fourth win a row Thursday with a 28-0 shoutout of Lamesa, while Snyder Black captured its first victory of the year with a 12-0 blanking of the Golden Tornadoes.

Gold's Caleb Durham, who finished with 159 yards rushing, got Snyder started with a 25-yard run in the first quarter. Johnny Pena's kick was good, making the score 7-0.

In the second quarter Durham extended the lead with a 58-yard scamper. The Pena kick was true for a 14-0 margin.

Snyder's final scores came in the second half on a 4-yard dive from Durham and 3-yard run from Colby Driggers. Pena's extra points were successful on both for the 28-0 victory.

The Gold defense held Lamesa to only three first downs.

For the Black, it was Johnny Whitt getting it started with a 6-yard scoring jaunt in the first quarter.

Jonathan Tate followed that with a 12-yard scamper in the second and the Snyder defense made the two scores stand up.

Whitt and Randall Richey each had fumble recoveries and Rowdy Cumbie tallied two QB sacks.

Both Snyder teams will be in action again Thursday against Sweetwater.

Snyder 8th splits games in Lamesa

LAMESA — Snyder Black garnered its first victory of the season as SJHS split games with Lamesa 8th grade on Thursday.

Black shutout Lamesa 30-0, behind the rushing of Zach Billingsley.

Billingsley toted the ball 12 times for 109 yards and 3 TDs for Snyder.

T.J. Cagel ran for 68 yards and six points, while Black's other score came on a 30-yard toss from Tate Thomspon to J.J. Vasquez.

The Gold game turned out to be more of a defensive battle, with Lamesa coming out on top 14-6.

Trailing 6-0, Snyder's Chris McLeod picked off a Lamesa pass at the Golden Tornado 30 with six seconds left in the half.

Gold QB Brandon McGuire then hit James Villarreal in the endzone to knot the score at 6-6 after two quarters.

The Lamesa defense stiffened in the second half, bogging down the Snyder offense for the remainder of the game.

Wade Pinson led the Gold rushing attack with 25 yards on 15 carries, while McGuire passed for 75 yards.

Both Snyder teams will be in action again on Thursday against Sweetwater.

WTC strong early in Vernon rodeo

VERNON — Western Texas College has six competitors sitting in the top five of their events after one night of action at the Vernon rodeo.

Unlike other competitions, where there is a first round and a short-go, this rodeo is decided by a single round. Each contestant gets only one chance to perform.

In the bareback event, Kyle Bowers and Chad Maynard are currently splitting first and second place with scores of 65.

Lance Galliard is sitting second in saddlebronc with 71 for the Westerners.

Talind Bird is fourth in breakaway roping with a time of 3.9 seconds, while Tona Wright occupies the second slot in goat tying after posting an 8.6

WTC's Sequin Downey registered a time of 17.57 in the barrel racing, good enough for the fifth spot currently.

More contestants are scheduled to compete in each event tonight and Saturday.

Symbolic fine assessed

PARIS (AP) — Brigitte Bardot was ordered to pay a symbolic franc — 16 cents — to the human rights group that sued her for comments she made about the ritual slaughter of sheep by Muslims.

A French appeals court on Thursday also fined Bardot $1,600 for inciting racial hatred, overturning an earlier ruling that favored the 63-year-old actress and animal rights campaigner.

The Movement Against Racism and for Friendship of People said the court ruling "honors justice and dishonors the woman who was the symbol of a certain image of France."

Gene McKinney stripped of title as top enlisted soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has removed Sgt. Maj. of the Army Gene McKinney from his post as the top enlisted soldier. He will stay in uniform and continue working on his legal defense at an office near the Pentagon.

The move Thursday came one day after the Army announced McKinney will face a court martial on sexual misconduct charges. He was suspended from his post when the charges were made public last February, but he continued to hold the title.

As of Thursday, "He no longer is sergeant major of the Army," Army spokesman Lt. Col. Bill Harkey said.

The position is the highest rank for an enlisted soldier. The holder of the job is responsible for advising the Army chief of staff on matters relating to the approximately 400,000 enlisted personnel who make up the bulk of the Army.

On Wednesday the Army announced that McKinney will face a military trial on 20 counts relating to accusations by six women of sexual harassment and assault. The decision followed a lengthy hearing to determine if the case should go to trial.

McKinney, who is 46 and married, has denied the charges against him. He is a 29-year Army veteran.

The trial is to be held at Fort Belvoir, Va. No date has been set. The Army on Thursday appointed Col. Ferdinand D. Clervi as the trial judge. He is based at Fort Hood, Texas.

In a brief written statement announcing his decision Thursday, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Dennis Reimer said the Army has begun the process of selecting a replacement.

"I owe the soldiers of the United States Army a full-time sergeant major of the Army who can forcefully advocate their interests and advise senior Army leadership on matters pertaining to enlisted soldiers," Reimer said.

Reimer said he had "formed no opinion" on McKinney's guilt or innocence. The decision to make him face a court-martial, however, means he will not be available to perform his duties "for an uncertain period of time," he said.

McKinney was suspended from duty last February when a former public affairs adviser went public with accusations that he made improper sexual advances to her at a hotel. Since then he has been working on his legal defense at Fort Myer, Va.

In June, Reimer decided to appoint two men to share the handling of McKinney's duties.

One of them, Sgt. Maj. James McKinney, is McKinney's identical twin. He is based at the Army's Training and Doctrine Command at Fort Monroe, Va. The other is Sgt. Maj. Jerry Alley Jr., who is assigned to the Forces Command in Atlanta, which is in charge of all fighting forces based in the United States.

Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your primary endeavor today should focus on your loved ones. You will find that selflessness is enough compensation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a good day to launch a new project, especially if a close friend is involved. You should be the one who kicks it off initially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Lady Luck will favor you today in arrangements that bear upon your finances or career. Seek out the abundant opportunities that surround you.

Students enjoy day of fishing

Twice each school year, a few junior high and high school students are treated to a day of fishing.

For the 1997-1998 school year, the first fishing field trip was held this week at the Western Texas College pond.

Each student was paired with an adult. Ten students and their fishing buddies spent the cloud-covered day absorbed in the fun and how-tos of fishing.

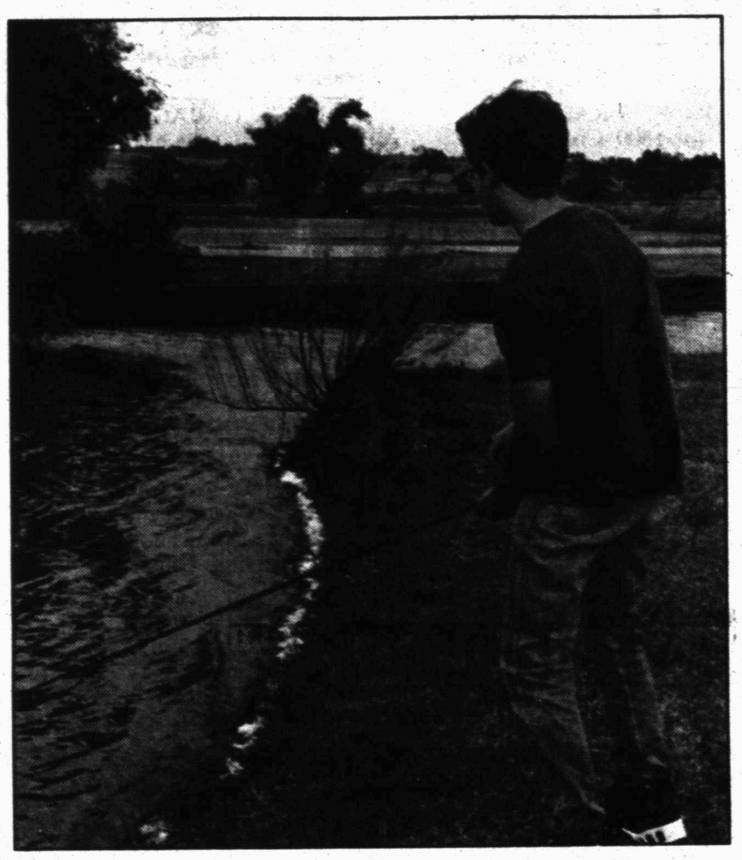

Students included Troy Grametbaur, Quintin Hegedus, Casey Roy, Oscar Oliva, Cameron Brown, Rocky Vanous, Jonathan Barrow, Patricia May, Lela Stevens and Bryan Daniels.

Game wardens who shared their fishing expertise included Mel Reed, Scurry County; Benji Smith, Garza; Wayne Armstrong, Howard; Randy Bullard, Mitchell; Jay Oyler, Hockley; Lacey Loudermilk, Dickens; and Bobby Ferguson, Dawson.

CRMWD representatives who also participated were Neil Humphrey, Buster McGinty and Doug Frey.

Others were Mike Hartman, county attorney; and Larry Thompson, juvenile probation officer.

Snyder ISD representatives included David Adkins, Jo Henry, Debra Smith, Cylathia Daniels, Debra Hester, Rex Ann Clark, Johnny Penn, Kellye Starnes, Sylvia Sapsky, Barbara Granato and Larry Scott.

Cousteau's life to become movie

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jacques Cousteau shared his undersea adventures with millions of TV viewers. A film company now wants to share Cousteau's life with movie viewers.

National Geographic Feature Films bought the rights to the ocean explorer's story and plans a movie.

"Capt. Cousteau's life was a great adventure. He changed the way most people view this ocean planet," Hank Palmieri, head of the National Geographic film company, said Wednesday.

Needle-exchange program for drug addicts endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In endorsing AIDS prevention tools such as condom distribution in schools and providing clean needles to drug addicts, Kate Shindle waded into a controversy no other Miss America has broached.

She follows in the footsteps of other recent Miss Americas who have used their positions to focus on substantive issues. For example, Miss America 1996 Shawntel Smith spoke out in favor of early career training for schoolchildren, and Heather Whitestone, the deaf ballerina from Alabama, became in 1995 the first Miss America with a disability.

But Shindle's choice of issues to promote during a yearlong whirl of speeches and appearances goes beyond her predecessors.

At a news conference Thursday outside the Capitol, the 20-year-old Northwestern University senior and former Miss Illinois pleaded with politicians and others to "please accept the facts of this epidemic."

"We need to take a probing, honest and maybe painful look at the real behavior and risk factors of our nation's youth," she said. "The reality is that my generation is more sexually active than any before us."

She said she developed a heightened awareness of the disease when she joined the theater community in college.

"I suddenly saw it all around me, shattering dreams and stealing lives," she said. "And when a family friend was diagnosed, the epidemic sort of took on a human face for me and the war on AIDS became somewhat of a personal crusade."

After she was crowned last month, Shindle said she favored giving condoms to high school students as a way to slow the spread of the disease, but opposed needle exchange programs.

On Thursday, however, Shindle said she had a change of heart after learning more about the issue. Though that puts her in the middle of one of the thornier issues now facing Congress, Shindle said she will not be deterred by the criticism she already has begun to receive.

"I'm not afraid to take a risk and take a stand on these issues," Shindle said, flanked by White House AIDS policy adviser Sandra Thurman and Illinois' two senators, Carol Moseley-Braun and Dick Durbin.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

THE OLDEST COUSIN TO THE KING!

ABISHAI WAS THE ELDEST OF THREE SONS OF ZERUIAH, DAVID'S SISTER. IT MAY BE OWING TO THIS SENIORITY OF BIRTH THAT ABISHAI APPEARS AS THE FIRST DEVOTED FOLLOWER OF DAVID—OF COURSE, THE OTHER TWO, JOAB AND ASAHEL, FOLLOWED RIGHT ON THE HEELS OF THEIR BROTHER AS DAVID'S FOLLOWERS! NEVERTHELESS, ABISHAI WAS DAVID'S COMPANION ON THE DESPERATE NIGHT EXPEDITION TO THE CAMP OF SAUL, AND WOULD HAVE AVENGED HIS UNCLE BY STABBING THE SLEEPING KING SAUL, THEN AND THERE, WITH HIS OWN SPEAR, IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR DAVID'S INDIGNANT RESTRAINT! ALL THROUGH DAVID'S REIGN THERE IS NOTICE OF ABISHAI AND HIS FEATS UPON THE FIELD OF BATTLE.

PERHAPS HIS GREATEST EXPLOIT WAS WHEN HE FOUGHT SINGLEHANDED AGAINST THREE HUNDRED MEN AND SLEW THEM ALL (2 SAM. 26:18) THE LAST ACT OF SERVICE TO DAVID, WHICH IS RECORDED, IS HIS TIMELY RESCUE OF DAVID FROM THE HANDS OF A GIGANTIC PHILISTINE, ISHBI-BENUB, AS HE WAS ABOUT TO SLAY HIM IN BATTLE (II SAM. 21:15-17)

Symptoms alone cannot confirm stroke

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My brother suffers from poor balance and slurred speech. His doctors have failed to find a reason for these symptoms. I'm afraid he may have had a stroke. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER: You may be correct. However, from the limited information you supply, I cannot diagnose a stroke. At the very least, your brother needs a CT or MRI scan of the head. These tests will show if he has had a stroke. If his doctors have ordered them and they are normal, consideration must be given to inner ear problems or possibly a neurological disorder such as multiple sclerosis. In this instance, your brother should be examined by a neurologist to determine the cause of the symptoms.

To give you more information on one possible cause of his symptoms, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Multiple Sclerosis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two years ago, because of arthritis and a facial nerve palsy, I was diagnosed with Rocky Mountain spotted fever. I received antibiotics and improved. However, about two months ago, I developed similar symptoms of joint stiffness and pain. I think that I have Lyme disease, yet my blood test again shows RMSF. Should I be treated for Lyme disease?

DEAR READER: Not necessarily. Tick bites can result in Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and other infections. Fortunately, the treatment for one condition usually eradicates the others. You may have contracted RMSF again — or, as you suggest, another tick-borne infection may be to blame. In any case, a month-long course of doxycycline should take care of both. Share your concerns with your doctor and follow his advice as to which antibiotic therapy would be right for you.

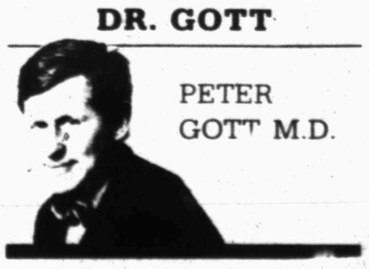

DEAR DR. GOTT: I believe that homosexuality starts when a baby gets home from the hospital and the mother begins massaging his anus. Because the baby will strike out at the person doing this, the infant will get beaten up by that person. Then the baby will make friends with a blanket, toy and doll, and try to hide under a table or in a closet to avoid the abuse. The baby is scared and helpless and becomes homosexual.

DEAR READER: Sorry, but I don't buy this scenario. The cause of homosexuality is not known, but clearly it is not consistently due to abuse. True, some babies may be mistreated and this is reprehensible. However, many homosexuals come from loving and supportive families; these children are not abused.

Therefore, until the cause of same-sex orientation is discovered, I will keep an open mind about the subject and continue to treat homosexuals — as we all should — as normal people who simply have a sexual orientation that is different from my own.
