Bob Bullock...

State budget said balanced

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis says he hopes the end of the Legislature's budget-balancing special session also means the end of the state's long-running budget crisis.

"I'm very hopeful that what we've done here solves our financial problems for quite some time," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said after the final gavel fell Tuesday night.

"Unless something very drastic happens, the state of Texas should be in pretty good shape financially for the next biennium and hopefully for the following biennium," Lewis said.

Gov. Bill Clements quickly signed the $5.7 billion in new taxes, aides said today.

Tony Proffitt, spokesman for Comptroller Bob Bullock, said Bullock was completing his final review of the $38.3 billion 1988-89 state budget today, and likely would certify that it balances.

The tax increase was the largest in state history, topping the $4.8 billion increase enacted in 1984 to fund school reforms and highway improvements.

The Senate passed the budget on a 26-5 vote, while the House voted 80-69 for the spending bill. House members voted 78-70 for the tax bill passed earlier by the Senate, and 123-23 to allow the sales tax hike to take effect Oct. 1.

Of the new taxes, more than $4.8 billion would come from raising the sales tax rate from 5¼ percent to 6 percent on Oct. 1, expanding

Storm losses

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A fierce storm battered South Korea today and unleashed floods and mudslides that killed at least 61 people.

The storm, the second killer tempest to hit the country in less than a week, left 31 people missing and 20 injured, according to the national Disaster Center here. The center provided the figure of 61 dead.

State-run television station KBS reported at least 63 people dead and 33 others missing.

No hospital

COMANCHE, Texas (AP) — One of three full-time doctors in Comanche says he's leaving because the community won't replace its hospital, which was converted from a dilapidated motel.

"I can't practice the kind of medicine I was trained to and desire to practice," said Dr. Ed Garner, 35, who has spent nine years in this town 90 miles southwest of Fort Worth waiting for a promised new hospital.

He predicts the old 25-bed Comanche Community Hospital, plagued by a leaky roof, may be forced to close this fall because of financial problems.

Sheriff line

DALLAS (AP) — For 62 of the past 74 years, there has been a Jim Scarborough as Kleberg County sheriff, a tradition that spans three generations in the rural county that is home to the sprawling King Ranch.

Jim Scarborough III is sheriff now. His grandfather, Jim Scarborough Sr., who became the county's first elected sheriff in 1913, was famous for his fierceness.

Scarborough III's father, Jim Scarborough Jr. was the antithesis of his father, becoming famous for never wearing his badge or his gun in 50 years of law enforcement, his son said.

Sheriff awarded statewide recognition

KEITH COLLIER
...statewide honor...

Keith Collier, county sheriff here since 1965, was awarded the highest honor given annually by the Sheriff's Association of Texas at the group's annual banquet held in Fort Worth Tuesday.

Collier was on hand to receive the Tom Tellepsen Award, presented by the Tellepsen Foundation of Houston in honor of the longtime supporter of law enforcement.

Qualities attributed to the Tellepsen winner include both professional accomplishments and, in the words of award sponsors, "the human element that engraves his name in the hearts of his fellow officers. That element is a love for his profession."

Locally, Collier, a 26-year veteran of law enforcement, was supported for the award by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, which passed a resolution listing both his personal and professional achievements in Scurry County.

Most recently, Collier has worked as one of the group of local leaders attempting to secure a state prison facility for the county.

He serves also as a director for Noah Project, the haven for battered wives and their children.

He is also a past president of the Sheriff's Association of Texas and of the West Central Texas Law Enforcement Association and a past chairman of the Law Enforcement Coordinating Board of the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

Locally, he is a chamber Gold Coat member and a Lions Club member.

Within his department, he supervises a staff of 10 to include six deputies and four jailers.

He and his wife Janice have five children and eight grandchildren.

The Tellepsen Award was established in 1975 by the Sheriff's Association board of directors. Past winners have included: Hugh Anderson, Hutchinson County; L.L. (Bill) Eddins,

Civil service stands told to chamber

For the first time since it was proposed here, two opposing groups were offered the opportunity Tuesday to explain their side of the question of civil service for Snyder's police and paid-fire departments.

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce board heard presentations from Rod Waller, representing a group opposed to the plan calling itself the Informed Tax Payers; and from Steve Warren and Sy Tabor, members of the Snyder Police Association, who support the concept.

The presentations were made separately and neither group heard the talk made by the other. They differed in at least one aspect--the question of how much civil service might cost the city and ultimately its taxpayers.

Waller outlined a list of "potential" costs, expenses linked to the "startup" of civil service and the benefits tied to it.

Warren, whose presentation followed Waller's, said civil service would entail "no increase in taxes and no pay raises."

Waller, however, said the city estimates the implementation of civil service might equal an annual continuing cost of $130,000, an expense he said would add "six cents on the tax rate."

He noted that these expenses would be related to added sick and vacation days under civil service plus administrative costs.

As part of the sick and vacation days and the stipulation that any days not taken have to be bought back by the city, Waller cited a potential cost to the city of $22,500 annually when applied to the fire and police departments alone.

If these same benefits were applied to all city departments, this potential cost rises to some $52,000, he told the chamber.

Warren's presentation indicated that the additions of sick and vacation days under civil service would not greatly differ from those now offered city employees.

Civil service offers 15 sick days per year and he noted that city employees with more than 10 years service with the city are now offered 15 sick days.

The city also currently "buys back" untaken sick days, but eliminating this benefit is now proposed by Snyder city council members studying the 1987-88 budget.

Regarding the civil service requirement of buying back a "bank" of untaken sick days which may accrue as high as 90 days, Waller, in opposition to the plan, estimated a "worst case scenario" expense of some $600,000.

This would be the total at the point that all city employees accrued 90 days in untaken sick leave.

In speaking for civil service, Warren noted that the indepen-

Drug delivery nets 45-year jail term for woman suspect

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer

A 132nd District Court jury Tuesday afternoon deliberated 1 ½ hours before sentencing drug defendant Mozelle King to 45 years in prison.

The eight-woman, four-man jury had taken only a brief few minutes to find King, 46, guilty of four counts of delivery of a controlled substance around midday after defense attorney Bill Wischkaemper of Lubbock conceded that guilt or innocence was not at issue.

In the punishment phase of the trial, District Attorney Ernie Armstrong asked for a life sentence, arguing, "Do this one thing while you have the chance — take one brick out of the wall of evil that they're building in this county. Tell them to go far away."

Rejecting Wischkaemper's contention that Mrs. King was only a small-time dealer who sold drugs to known addicts, not schoolchildren, Armstrong asked, "How many people have been sentenced to a life in hell by people like Mozelle King? How many people have had that sentence terminated by death?

Striking the air with his arm, he said, "I do not want it in this county!"

The case against King was aided by testimony from a confidential informant who cooperated with the county sheriff's office for several drug buys. He had testified that he bought Dilaudid from the woman on several successive occasions in early February.

King's defense attorney argued, "She was not the type of dealer who deals in volume or hangs around the schoolyard selling to 12-year-old kids."

Wischkaemper asked that Mrs. King be put on probation because she had never before been convicted of a felony, although Armstrong had introduced 18 prior convictions for bootlegging into evidence during the punishment phase.

The jury went out on punish-

Chamber endorses drug-alcohol plan

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce board Tuesday voted to support a drug and alcobol counseling program being inititated by a local group.

At the regular July meeting, the board also joined with a crowd of local civic and business leaders in welcoming new Chamber Executive Director Bill Moss.

With Moss was his wife Judy. The couple has recently relocated to Snyder from Monahans, where Moss most recently served as chamber director in that city.

During the regular session, chamber directors met with Cliff Smith and Dennis Tomlin--whose group endorses a "zero tolerance level" for the use of drugs and alcohol among Snyder adolescents.

The chamber was told that the program aims to be one of "care and concern, not catch and punish."

The proposal is to coordinate through the public school system a program which refers such youth for counseling. Local participants are to be trained here Oct. 9 to serve as volunteers for the program.

Part of this training will profile how to identify youngsters with chemical abuse problems and how to direct them toward help.

Also Tuesday, the board heard an AJRA Finals report from Mrs.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Somebody ought to invent a juke box that stops playing when you insert a quarter."

Baseball season is winding down, and each year thoughts are expressed about how kid baseball could be improved if only the grownups would stay on the sidelines.

Elnora Ward brought us an article. Her 7-year-old grandson is playing T-ball in Midland this summer. His mother, Becky Lofton, wrote him the following, entitled Winning, for his scrapbook:

It was a blustery day on the T-ball field, and none of our team seemed too thrilled to be facing the "Steelers," an awesome team, with a perfect record that made us green!
The very first inning set the stage for what would became a game full of rage.
(Not from the players, who took all in stride, but rage from some parents with too much pride).
The boys did their best and played a good game in spite of the confrontations that came.
And though it seemed hopeless for us to win,
our team played hard to the very end.
The final inning at last came along.
With two men out and two men on,
we had to admit that things looked bad
when up the plate walked our son, Brad.
Brad looked a little weak in the knees.
I silently prayed, "Oh, Dear Lord, please!
Give him the courage to hit if he can,
but Lord give him grace if he's called out again."
He stepped to the plate and took his stance, as the infield taunted him with childish chants.
"Strike one, Strike two!" I heard the ump say.
My heart began to ache with dismay.
Brad took aim and I saw his jaw clench!
The next thing I saw was the ball at the fence.
And after it went a thundering herd,
as Brad rounded 2nd and streaked to 3rd.
We didn't win the game that day.
At least that's what most would probably say.
But Bradley won a priceless treasure,
By learning he can come through under pressure.

His denial may be deadly

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My father, 69, has just been diagnosed as having cancerous lymphoma. He says he feels fine and thinks it's a hoax. (He also has diabetes and is a chronic alcohol abuser.) May I have your thoughts on his "hoax" idea? I am having trouble dealing with his attitude and my fears for his health.

DEAR READER — Lymphoma, a tumor of the lymph glands, is usually malignant. It originates in lymph nodes — causing painless swelling — and then spreads to other organs, notably the liver and spleen. Of all cancers, lymphoma is probably the most successfully treated; chemotherapy and radiation produce remission, even cure, in a high percentage of patients.

This malignancy produces few, if any, early symptoms. Of course, this is precisely the time in which treatment will be most effective. Therefore, your father has a greater chance of cure if he begins therapy as soon as possible, before the tumor has had a chance to spread.

Unfortunately, active alcoholics rely on the emotional defense mechanism called denial. They deny that they have a drinking problem, they deny their own responsibility and — often — they deny their vulnerability. Denial is part of the disease of alcoholism.

If your father is denying his lymphoma, I suggest that you recommend a second or third opinion. Although the pressure of proof may not change your father's mind, you will know that you are doing everything you can to help him. I doubt that his diagnosis is a "hoax." However, if the doctor is mistaken, another opinion would be valuable.

You have no control over your father's attitudes or behavior. If he remains obstinate, I think that you can feel free to make a statement such as: "Dad, I love you a lot and I am really worried about your health. The doctors agree you have a condition that can be treated successfully. You have a right to refuse treatment, but I want you to know that the family wants you to get well and we believe that this treatment is necessary. We will help you any way we can, but the decision is yours." At that point, you've done what you can.

Be informed about prescription drugs: Send for Dr. Gott's new Health Report, CONSUMER TIPS ON MEDICINES. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Alleged spreader of AIDS is killed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Assailants shot a man to death and left a note on his body saying he had raped women and spread AIDS, police said.

The slaying Tuesday recalled the style employed by Brazil's once-notorious vigilante "death squads."

Nemesio Vidal Garcia, chief of Rio's 39th precinct, said the man, aged about 30 but not identified, was killed by fire from a shotgun and .45 caliber pistol in a slum district. The note said: "I won't be spreading AIDS any more. I was one of three perverts raping women in this area."

"We are investigating," Garcia said. "AIDS could be the motive, but it also could be a maneuver to throw us off the track."

End of session is welcomed

AUSTIN (AP) — The gavel raps that ended the rough-and-tumble special session were music to the ears of weary Texas legislators.

Lawmakers seemed eager to leave Austin as soon as the second called session ended.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby had to send a delegation to find Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, in order to make a special presentation to the senator who led the chamber's tax negotiators.

"I was halfway to my car to go to Stephenville," Glasgow said.

Fellow senators presented him the blackboard he used in directing the conference committee that wrote the $5.7 billion tax bill.

"I've got to go home and earn a living," said the Stephenville lawyer.

"This was the toughest session I've ever experienced," said Hobby. "Very definitely the toughest, period."

"I'm glad it's over," said Speaker Gib Lewis. "It's been a long six months or eight months or however long we've been here."

"It's kind of like most court cases," said Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington. "You never get everything you want but at least we brought it to fruition."

"I think the governor probably can take credit for substantial reduction in the budget that would not have otherwise occurred had he not been dissatisfied with the figures," said McFarland, a Senate negotiator on the tax bill.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, thought the governor should be blamed for some of the controversy in the special session.

"This has been a session that could have been concluded earlier if the governor had not been so adament in wanting to reduce the state budget beyond a reasonable amount," said Truan, charman of the Senate subcommittee on health services.

"The fact that the Republican party is acting in an extremely partisan manner in politicizing the passage of the tax bill is jeopardizing state agencies across the state as well as thousands of clients and citizens wo depend on health services such as the mentally retarded, the elderly and those in nursing homes," Truan said.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said the special session had been the most difficult one in recent memory primarly because of the revenue problems and the state's economic picture.

"It's probably been a bell-ringer from the standpoint of economic developments," said Brooks, a Senate negotiator on the state spending bill. "I think it's going to be remembered as a pretty productive session overall.

"We extended higher education and we kept public schools open," Brooks said.

Troopers help raise money to get Bankstons to Texas

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A state police corporal who helped the parents of a flood victim reach Texas after he stopped them for speeding, said that in 12 years with the state police he's never been so touched.

Cpl. Mike Brown was one of two troopers who helped John Bankston Sr. and his wife Rosie reach Texas, after they heard their son, John Bankston Jr., 17 was one of 43 people on church vehicles swept into the rain-swollen Guadalupe River near Comfort, Texas.

Bankston's son was the only person still missing Tuesday. Nine other youths died when the vehicles from the Seagoville Road Baptist Church were swept away in the river's worst flooding in 55 years.

State Trooper Cleve Barfield saw the Bankstons' truck speeding along Interstate 30 near Prescott and state police Sgt. David Daniel clocked the vehicle at 82 miles an hour. "Before I could even pull out on the highway, he pulled over and stopped in front of me," Daniel said, "asking for information about the river accident."

Lawyers negotiating in Tower's divorce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. John Tower's wife is worth more financially than he is and therefore isn't entitled to alimony, his lawyer says.

However, Lilla Burt Cummings Tower, 58, claims in her divorce suit that she needs the payments because she is unemployed, a contention Tower ridiculed in court papers.

Tower, 66, the Texas Republican who chaired the presidential review panel on the Iran-Contra affair, is accused of "marital misconduct" and is being pressed by his wife of 10 years to provide alimony payments.

A change of plan

By James Jacoby

How do you like your chances if you get to six hearts? All you need is both black-suit finesses to work. And even when the club finesse works, East might hold four clubs to the Q-10-7-3, as today's East does. So it's not a very good slam. But the opening lead of the diamond king was fortunate, since it meant that West also held the diamond queen. If the declarer got lucky in the club suit, he could make the contract by means of an elimination play even if West held the spade king. Here was his plan.

He would play his club ace and draw trumps ending in the dummy. Then he would take the club finesse. If that won the trick with West following, he would continue clubs until both defenders were exhausted of that suit. Then he would exit with a diamond. West would win the queen and be forced to lead a spade for declarer. That was a good plan, but it was thwarted when it turned out that East had an eventual club trick even though the queen was onside. But there was still a way.

After West had shown out of clubs on the finesse to the jack, declarer returned to dummy with a trump and played a spade. East played low and so did declarer. Declarer played a spade back to his ace and now played his diamond jack. West had to win the queen, and anything he now returned allowed declarer to discard a losing club in one hand while ruffing in the other. The deal was overbid, but well played.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Sgt. Douglas W. Thamez, son of Joseph M. and Theresa Thamez of Snyder, has graduated from the wheeled vehicle repairer course at the U. S. Army Ordance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The course provides instruction for soldiers to maintain wheeled vehicles with emphasis on maintenance publications and tools, diagnostic equipment and shop safety.

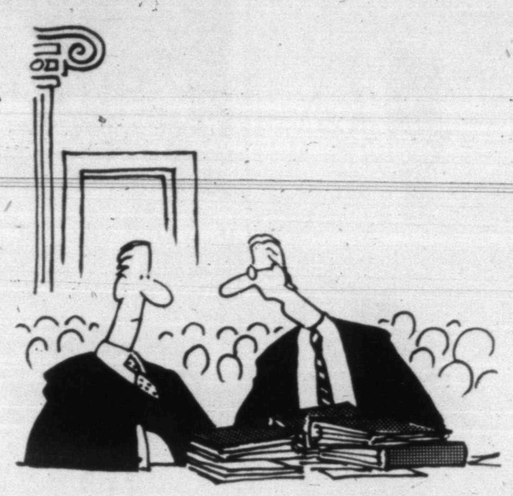

During the 10-week course, students also received technical training in troubleshooting, replacement, and adjustment of components and assemblies of wheeled vehicles.

His wife, Theresa, is the daughter of Bobby and Peggy Highfield of Snyder.

He is a 1986 graduate of Snyder High School.

Many movie lovers hate it when television squeezes film images by about 50 percent to accomodate its small, rectangular viewing area. So, a New York City theater sponsored a festival of CinemaScope and other movies shot for widescreen reproduction.

Reagan unshaken by trade vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, unshaken by Senate approval of a sweeping trade bill over his objections, is vowing to veto the measure if it reaches him in current form — and that goes for the House version, too.

"The Senate trade bill, similar to the House version, contains numerous provisions that are unacceptable," Reagan said Tuesday after the 71-27 Senate vote.

"If either bill came to me in present form, I would have no choice except to veto it," Reagan added.

Reagan usually lets Cabinet officers do his warning for him, leaving himself a freer hand to dicker with lawmakers.

Tuesday's vote marks the first time an omnibus trade bill has won Senate approval in three years, while the nation's deficit in global commerce has climbed to a record $166.3 billion.

Reagan had tried to sway Republican senators with a last-minute appeal against the 1,000-page trade package on grounds it would disrupt global markets and rebound against American industry.

Twenty-seven Republicans voted in favor of the bill and 19 against it. Among Democrats, the measure scored a clean sweep.

In fighting the bill, Reagan called Senate leaders to the White House on Tuesday morning and sent Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and U.S. Trade Representative Clayton K. Yeutter on a mission to Capitol Hill.

The strategy was aimed at building support for major changes in the bill when it goes to a House-Senate conference committee. The House approved its version April 30.

Conferees could meet before the August recess. But most of the work of resolving differences between the two versions is expected after Labor Day.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., told reporters he had expected the administration's appeal to produce 32 to 35 votes against the bill.

Miss Teen USA is crowned

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Kristi Addis' victory in the Miss Teen USA pageant is the high point in a lifetime of competition, her parents say.

The 16-year-old blonde from Holcombe, Miss., who won the beauty pageant Tuesday night during a live television broadcast, is an all-state basketball player and has won the national championship in baton twirling five years in a row, said Miss Addis' mother, Geraldine Deloach.

"All this competition has made her able to withstand the pressure," Mrs. Deloach said. "Plus, she's a dedicated Christian and a hard worker."

Her father, Carl F. Deloach, said Miss Addis has engaged in competition of all types all her life.

"I'm very excited. I'm very proud for her," he said.

Miss Addis said during an interview with the show's host that her school's basketball team came in third in the state last season.

Immediately after winning, Miss Addis said, "I feel great. I think the interview had a lot to do with it because all the girls were equally pretty. There were beautiful girls."

She said she hopes to be a broadcast journalist and would like to write a novel.

The 1st runnerup was Miss North Carolina, 17-year-old Peggy Blackwell of Fayetteville. Miss Louisiana, Bobbie Brown, 17, of Baton Rouge, was 2nd runnerup; Jannetta Coffman, the 17-year-old Miss Oklahoma from Oklahoma City was 3rd runnerup; and Miss North Dakota, DayNa Decker, a 17-year-old from Fargo was was 4th runnerup.

Families cope with loss of teenagers who drowned

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — The hurt of losing nine teen-agers who drowned in flash floods on their way home from church camp will take time to heal, a minister said as three of the victims were buried.

"We've lost the backbone of our youth group," said the Rev. Preston Henderson of the Seagoville Road Baptist Church, where many of the teens attended. "They done right. They knew the Lord."

Meanwhile, the search continued for a 10th teen-ager lost in the flooding Guadalupe River. John Bankston Jr., 17, who disappeared after helping others to safety is believed to have perished in the river, authorities said.

Searchers today will move a command post 15 miles downriver of the accident to expand the search for Bankston Jr., said Department of Public Safety spokesman Raymond Kraus.

In the quiet suburb of Mesquite, funeral services for Cindy Sewell, 16, and her brother William, 12, were scheduled today. They were among the 43 people on a church van and bus that was engulfed by flash floods Friday near Comfort. Thirty-three people survived, some after clinging to trees for hours.

Jackson gets 'grid practice'; helps KC Royals snuff streak

by The Associated Press

Bo Jackson didn't waste the opportunity to get in some football practice while helping the Kansas City Royals break a six-game losing streak.

Jackson, who last week signed a contract to play for the NFL's Los Angeles Raiders after the baseball season is over, knocked in the winning run Tuesday night with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning of the Royals' 3-2 victory over Cleveland.

In the second inning, Jackson bowled over Indians catcher Rick Dempsey at home plate, knocking him out of the game and breaking his left thumb. Dempsey went sprawling about 10 feet but held the ball for the putout.

"I'm sorry that he got hurt, but that's baseball," said the 235-pound Jackson, who won the 1985 Heisman Trophy at Auburn. "If the catcher is between you and the plate, you get to the plate the best way you can. I wasn't trying to hurt him. I was just trying to reach the plate."

Charlie Leibrandt, 9-8, pitched a five-hitter for his first victory since June 20. Loser was Scott Bailes, 3-3.

In other American League games, it was Boston 3, California 0; Detroit 6, Oakland 5 in 10 innings; Baltimore 11, Chicago 6; Minnesota 2, New York 1; Milwaukee 6, Seattle 4, and Texas 6, Toronto 4.

Rangers 6, Blue Jays 4

Texas got two home runs from Ruben Sierra, including a two-run shot with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning against Toronto.

Sierra's 16th home run of the season came off Blue Jays reliever Jeff Musselman, 7-3, after Pete O'Brien had tied the game in the eighth with his 20th homer. Rangers reliever Dale Mohorcic, 6-2, earned the victory with 1 1-3 innings of shutout relief.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Roger Clemens failed to strike out a batter for the second time in July, but the Boston right-hander allowed only five hits and no walks as he beat California for his fourth shutout, tops in the majors.

Clemens, 9-7, allowed only two runners to reach third base as he pitched his 10th complete game of the season. Kirk McCaskill, 2-2, was loser.

Twins 2, Yankees 1

Minnesota won the battle of division leaders when Kent Hrbek knocked in the game-winning run with a single in the bottom of the ninth, breaking a streak of 11 games without an RBI.

Bert Blyleven, 9-7, pitched his fifth complete game, allowing seven hits and striking out eight, giving him 3,195 strikeouts for his career.

Tigers 6, Athletics 5

Detroit rallied in both the ninth and 10th innings to defeat Oakland despite another homer by rookie Mark McGwire.

Jay Howell, 3-4, took the loss and reliever Eric King, 5-7, the win.

Orioles 11, White Sox 6

Baltimore, 16½ games out of first place in the East, won its seventh straight game as Larry Sheets' two-run homer broke a tie in the seventh inning and reliever Mark Williamson pitched four hitless innings for the victory.

Brewers 6, Mariners 4

Robin Yount hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and left-hander Teddy Higuera won for the fourth time in five outings in Milwaukee's defeat of Seattle.

SPORTS

LL Stars club Clyde; play again Thursday

HAMLIN -- Snyder's All-Stars made their first move in a bid to continue post-season Little League play as they rapped Clyde 17-1 in the opening game of a best-of-three series here Tuesday night.

Game 2 of the series is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday. A third game, if necessary, is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The winner of the series will advance in the playoffs to face Albany next week in Abilene. Albany earned a berth Tuesday night by edging Winters 3-2. Abilene Dixie will also be involved in next week's play. Dixie, which will host the series, topped Abilene Southern on Monday to advance.

Both of those series were single game series because Winters and Abilene Southern came into them with one loss. Snyder's series is a best two-of-three because until Tuesday, neither Snyder or Clyde had a loss in post-season play.

Raymond Ware pitched three-hit ball over six innings to pick up the win Tuesday. He walked three and struck out eight.

Clyde used three pitchers. They combined to allow 15 hits and nine walks.

Steven Bollinger led the attack with a triple, a double and a single. Matthew Byrom drilled a double and two singles and Anthony Alvarez slapped a double and one single.

Five other players got into the mele, led by House's trio of singles. Eric Braziel, Stephen Campbell, Andy Garza and Grant Jordan offered one single apiece.

Snyder managed a 2-0 lead in the first inning, then added five runs in the second and eight in the third for a 15-0 advantage. Clyde finally scored in the fourth before the All-Stars nailed down the victory with two more runs in the sixth.

National League roundup...

Astros' Darwin hurls 5-hitter

by The Associated Press

Houston's Danny Darwin pitched a five-hitter over eight plus innings, as the Astros stopped Montreal's eight-game winning streak with a 4-2 victory.

The winning string was the Expos' longest since they set a club record with 10 straight in 1980.

Alan Ashby hit an RBI double and Jose Cruz added a run-scoring single to highlight a three-run third inning off Floyd Youmans, 7-4.

Darwin, 7-6, who struck out three and walked one, gave up a leadoff homer to Tim Raines in the ninth before Dave Smith got the final three outs for his 16th save.

In other National League games, it was St. Louis 6, Los Angeles 1; Cincinnati 4, Philadelphia 3; Atlanta 8, New York 3; San Francisco 7, Pittsburgh 0, and San Diego 4, Chicago 3.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 1

Bob Forsch pitched a four-hitter for his first complete game since Aug. 31.

He gave up two-out singles to Mike Marshall and Franklin Stubbs in the first inning, then allowed just two more hits the rest of the way. He retired 17 of the last 18 he faced for his fourth straight victory.

Reds 4, Phillies 3

Paul O'Neill hit a solo homer that capped a three-run third inning after Kevin Gross balked in a run, leading Cincinnati to its fourth victory in its last five games.

Bill Gullickson, 10-6, allowed six hits over 6 2-3 innings. Rob Murphy pitched one-hit relief over the final two innings for his second save.

Gross, 6-9, also allowed six hits over 7 1-3 innings, but hurt himself with an error and the balk in the fourth.

Braves 8, Mets 3

Doyle Alexander pitched a four-hitter to end a personal five-game losing streak and Andres Thomas hit a two-run double in the sixth inning, ending Atlanta's five-game losing streak.

Dion James opened the game with a home run off Dwight Gooden, 7-3, who gave up five runs on six hits in seven innings. Dale Murphy hit a two-run homer, his 26th, in the eighth off Randy Myers and Gerald Perry had a two-run single and two doubles.

Alexander, 5-6, won his first game since June 20, striking out three and walking one.

Padres 4, Cubs 3

Garry Templeton's run-scoring triple and Tim Flannery's RBI double in the seventh inning rallied San Diego from a 3-2 deficit over Chicago and sent the Cubs to their fourth consecutive loss.

Shortstop Luis Quinones threw away Shane Mack's grounder before Templeton tripled. One out later, Flannery doubled off Jamie Moyer, 9-7, to score Templeton.

Mark Davis, 5-5, pitched the final 2 1-3 innings to win his first game since coming over from the Giants in a seven-player trade July 4.

Giants 7, Pirates 0

Dave Dravecky pitched a six-hitter for his first shutout in over a year and Chili Davis and Bob Brenly drove in two runs each, leading San Francisco over Pittsburgh.

Dravecky, 5-8, allowed six singles, struck out four and walked one in his first shutout since the opening week of the 1986 season.

WTC coach schedules tryouts

New Western Texas College men's basketball coach Tony Mauldin will be conducting at least two tryouts in his search for prospective Westerner players during the coming weeks.

The first is scheduled for Thursday, July 30, at Richardson High School in Dallas.

Coach Mauldin will also hold a tryout at Western Texas College in early August. The exact date has yet to be determined.

Western Texas College has three players returning from last season's squad, and expects six others signed by former Coach Phil Spradling to enroll for next season.

"I've talked with these nine young men and they have all indicated they plan to be at Western Texas College this coming year," said Coach Mauldin. "We have some other prospects in mind, too, and we'll be holding these tryouts in an effort to find others."

'Fridge warned; McMahon okayed

CHICAGO (AP) - Chicago's irrepressible Jim McMahon got the go-ahead to train with the Bears next month, but irreducible William "The Refrigerator" Perry won't even get into training camp if he doesn't lose weight.

McMahon got clearance Tuesday from his Los Angeles surgeon, Dr. Frank Jobe, to begin training camp Aug. 1 with the rest of the National Football League team at Platteville, Wis., according to Bears spokesman Bryan Harlan.

McMahon has been recuperating since undergoing rotator cuff surgery on Dec. 12, 1986.

Bears Coach Mike Ditka said defensive tackle Perry won't have the privilege of even picking up a football at training camp if he doesn't drop some pounds.

Holdouts hurting themselves says Cowboys Coach Landry

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys' top two draft picks have missed two days of workouts for rookies and free agents, and coach Tom Landry says they aren't helping their chances with the team.

Danny Noonan and Ron Francis were no-shows Monday and Tuesday.

"Every day they're out, they're hurting the heck out of themselves," Landry said.

"This is a valuable time for the rookies this week because if they miss this they're going to have to take a back seat to the veterans," said Landry, who has said both have a chance to start for the Cowboys this season.

Cowboys president Tex Schramm said the Cowboys don't plan to offer Noonan or Francis another penny for rejecting their contract offers.

"We don't pay dividends for rookie draft choices to stay out of camp," Schramm said. "Neither player will get more or less than what we've already offered them."

The holdout is hurting Noonan's chances more than Francis because Noonan plays on the defensive line, Landry said. "Noonan is not going to be a nose tackle (as he was in college), so he has a lot to learn," he said.

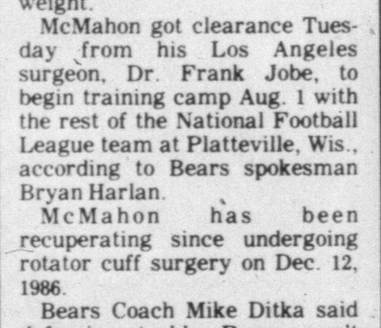

Their absence is the result of "slotting,' a system by which agents try to ensure their player doesn't make less than players drafted behind them, Schramm said.

"What is happening is agents are posturing so it will help them next year in recruiting the college seniors," he said.

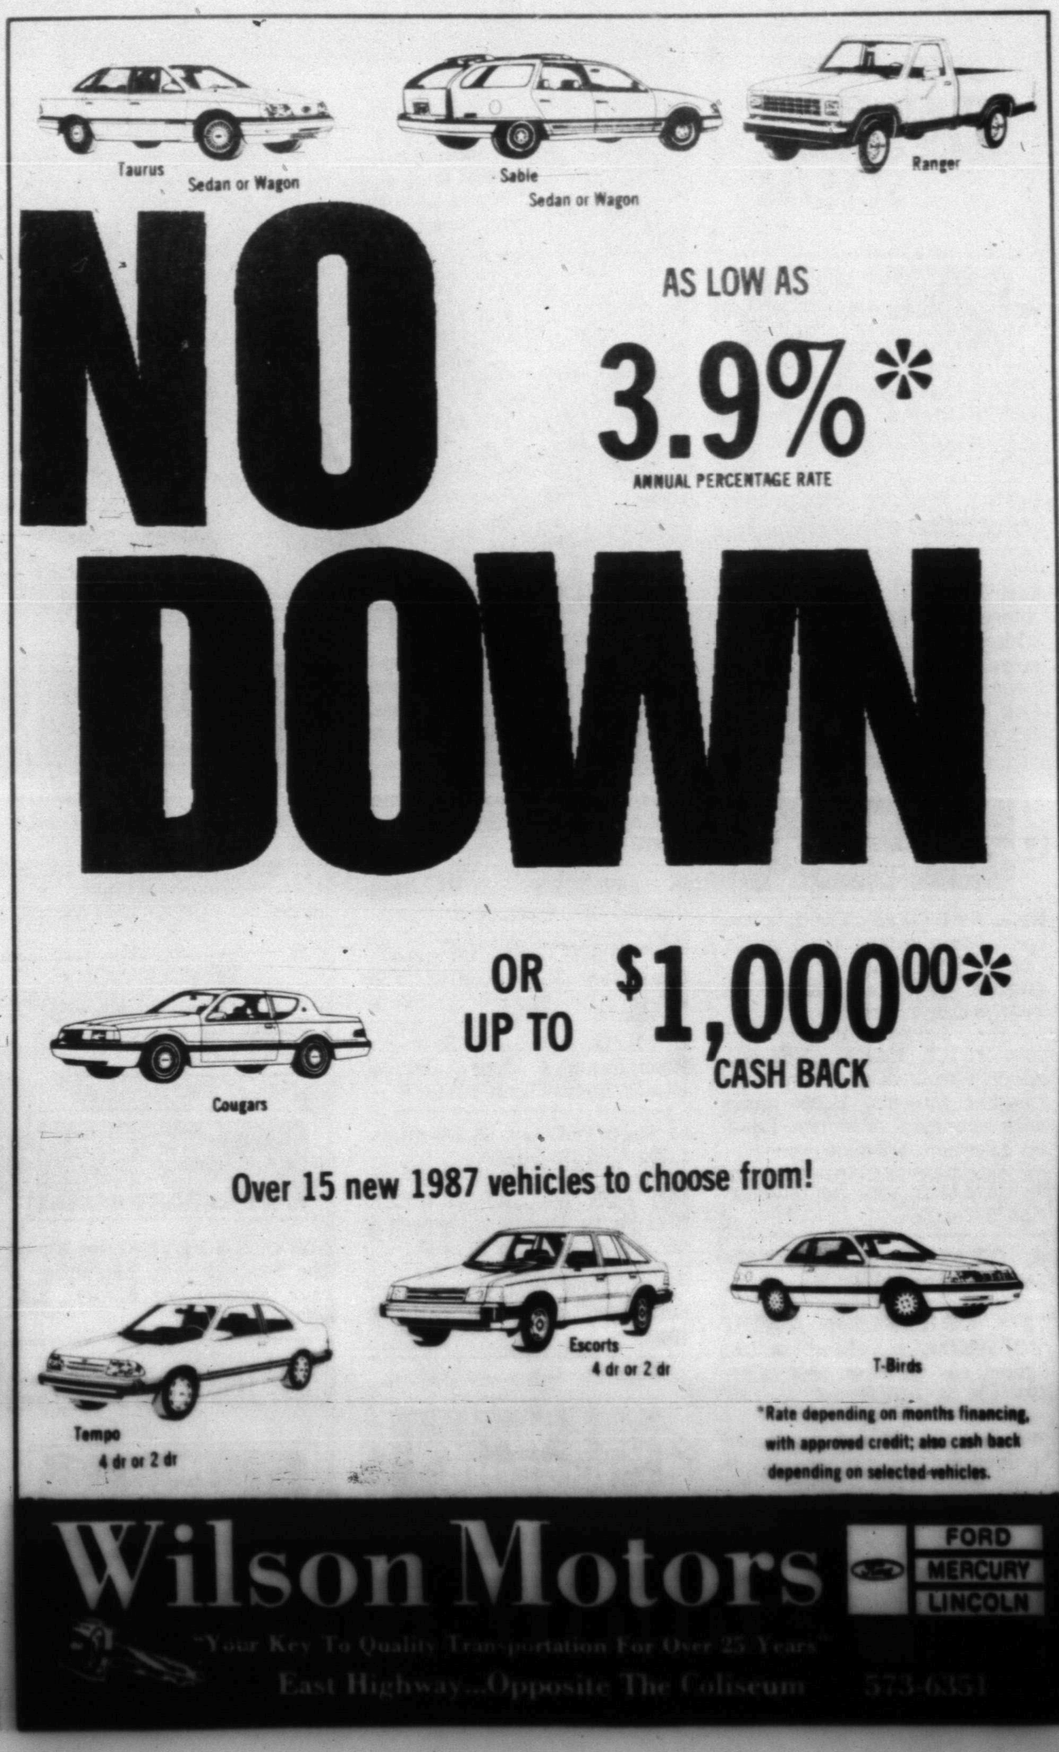

The Dallas Times Herald quoted an unidentified source saying Noonan agent Tom Condon is asking for a $2.3 million contract. Condon said he doesn't believe Noonan's absences will hurt him.

"As much as he would like to be there with the rest of the rookies, and as much as I'm sure the Cowboys would like for him to be there, I don't think this is hurting him yet," he said.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers had the most selections in the 1987 National Football League draft. They had 20 choices.

Horror events related

DALLAS (AP) - Two men were in custody today in connection with a violent crime spree at White Rock Lake in which two teenage girls were raped, a man were beaten and three other people were attacked or robbed by hatchet wielding assailants.

"It was like something out of a horror movie," said Edward G. Mulder, 36, who was fishing Monday night when he was confronted by the men.

Dallas Police arrested the two men Tuesday while they were driving a pickup truck stolen from one of the victims.

The two brothers were being held on investigative charges of sexual assault and aggravated robbery. Bond was set on brother, 27, at $400,000 and at $400,230 on the other, 21, police said. The second man was being held in connection with traffic violations in addition to charges similar to the ones being considered against his brother.

Mulder told police he and Jack Griffin, 52, were fishing when the men approached him, said they were police officers and demanded to see his fishing license.

Mulder said the men pulled out their wallets and were beaten and robbed. Mulder said he was beaten with a hatchet that had a blade on one side and a hammer on the other and was kicked in the head.

He said he and Griffin lay still when the attackers threatened to shoot them as they walked off.

Authorities said the assailants were then joined by two companions and approached a van where two 24-year-old men, a 16-year-old girl and a 17-year-old girl were talking.

The victims said the men first identified themselves as police officers, but immediately pounced upon them, beating and robbing them. The girls were then dragged to a secluded area, where they were raped.

"Before I realized what was going on, I had a hammer upside my head, and I was on the ground," one of the men told police. "When I came to, I found (my roommate) in a ditch."

"(One of the girls) was walking around in a daze," he continued. "She was crimson, solid red from the blood."

"I remember them (the girls) hollering, 'Please don't hit me any more,'" he said. "They were just begging not to be hit, just begging to stop."

One of the girls told officers her assailant threatened to kill her with the hatchet while the other girl said her attacker told her he would kill her.

Mulder, who had remained on the ground where he was attacked, said he could hear the girls screaming.

"They (the girls) could have been killed," Mulder said. "I can remember thinking, 'How long can this go on? You're in view of Garland Road. You see the traffic going by.'"

"You're right in the middle of the city, there are people screaming for their lives and there's nobody to help," Mulder said. "It's like you're on and island. It was a helpless feeling."

State plan said 'best we could do' it to some services, and boosting a variety of other business and personal taxes.

An additional $889 million would come from keeping the motor fuel tax at 15 cents per gallon rather than allowing it to roll back to 10 cents on Sept. 1.

The special session was the latest chapter in a budget crisis that began in early 1986, when oil prices plunged from near $30 per barrel to less than $10 and the Texas economy soured.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who presides over the Senate, described the special session as the most difficult time he had spent in the Capitol since he became lieutenant governor in 1973.

"This was the toughest session I've ever experienced, very definitely, the toughest period," Hobby said.

While not happy with the outcome — because higher education and human services received less financial support than favored — Hobby said, "It was the best that could be done under adverse circumstances."

Besides raising the sales tax rate, the tax bill also calls for expanding the 6 percent levy to a variety of new items and services, including garbage collection, data processing and private club membership fees. Some of those new levies wouldn't begin until Jan. 1.

The measure also would raise the corporate franchise tax, boost cigarette taxes, hike the hotel-motel tax and impose a $110 annual occupation tax or fee hike on doctors, lawyers, dentists, accountants and other professionals.

The final House tax vote that broke a deadlock and cleared the way for adjournment was anything but easy as partisan squabbling deadlocked the House.

During repeated unsuccessful votes, staunch opposition from Republicans and some conservative Democrats blocked approval of the tax bill. Those lawmakers complained that a "doomsday" plan to cut spending for state colleges in their home districts was unfair.

The opponents had enough strength to keep the 150-member House from finding the 100 votes needed to pass the sales tax hike and give it immediate effect, which means the bill can take effect sooner than 90 days after its passage.

That forced House leaders to finally offer a complicated nine-part compromise plan allowing opponents to vote against the tax bill but in favor of it taking quicker effect. The compromise also negated the "doomsday" spending cut proposal.

"There are far more important things than politics," pleaded tax sponsor Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, as he urged the Democratic majority to allow the compromise to work.

dent three-member commission which would be created under it would have the ability to "secure an efficient police and fire department free from political influence."

Waller, in his presentation, called civil service, "the closest thing to a municipal union allowed in Texas law."

Such a commission--appointed by the city manager--is empowered to hear citizen complaints related to either police or fire.

In addition, it would hear protests and have the right to either endorse or reverse department head decisions related to hirings, promotions or firings within each department.

ment at 4:30 p.m. and returned at 6 p.m. with its recommendation to District Judge Gene Dulaney.

King, of 3802 Ave. L, told the Snyder Daily News while the jury was deliberating that she would appeal the sentence if it involved penitentiary time. Convicted felons are allowed to stay free pending an appeal if a sentence is 15 years or less.

They must begin serving time while awaiting the appeal if the sentence is more than 15 years.

The jury could have recommended up to 10 years probation or a sentence of five to 99 years or life on the first-degree felony charge.

District's budget gains adjustments

Scurry County Appraisal District board members conducted 1988 budget discussions Tuesday for both collection and appraisal work done by the district.

As part of the expenses related to appraisal, the board also accepted a contract with Thomas Y. Pickett and Associates of Dallas amounting to $49,500. This represents an $8,000 savings from the firm's charge last year.

The two-year contract as signed by the board provides the same services that are presently being rendered for $57,500 yearly.

During discussions Tuesday, board members proposed several adjustments to the 1988 budget. Agreement was reached to lower the estimated costs of electricity and janitorial services.

Actual expenditures for electricity in 1986 totaled $4,030.21 with costs to date this year amounting to $1,863.80. Board members approved $5,000 for 1988, allowing a margin for increases in use or cost.

Janitorial services in 1986 amounted to $3245.65 with 1987 costs to date being $1,352.83. The board agreed on an estimate of $3,000 for 1988.

John Reed noted that it would be expedient to get new estimates on the hospitalization coverage which is now carried with the Texas Association of School Boards. Ray Peveler, chief appraiser, agreed to investigate other options.

Another budget item which drew discussion was an unemployment insurance cost of $6,500. Due to staff reductions, this amount must be set aside to guarantee unemployment benefits if used. Ross Blanchard requested that Peveler look further into the matter to make certain that full amount must be set aside.

The 1988 adjusted budget of $353,680 received a unanimous vote of approval with possible later amendments concerning the hospitalization and unemployment fees.

The 1988 proposed collection budget of $10,984 was passed with no adjustments.

Peveler informed the board of a law recently passed which requires that the taxing entities give approval again for the purchase of the building already purchased and now occupied by the appraisal district. A copy of the law and a letter of information will go out this week to those entities.

Peveler also noted that the office will soon need more disc space on the city computer system, but said remaining funds from the 1987 budget should be sufficient for that purchase.

Board members attending the session included Pete Hester, Reed, Blanchard and Dwaine Williams. Mairl McFaul was not present.

One wreck noted

Neither driver was injured when a 1982 Pontiac two-door driven by Pedro Pleitez of Rt. 3, Box 905, was in collision wth a 1987 Chevrolet two-door driven by Charlie Evan Reynolds of Rt. 3, Box 259, at 8 a.m. Monday in the 1700 block of 24th St.

Also Monday, police took three juveniles into custody and then released them to their parents after receiving a 12:44 p.m. report that three Spanish males were tearing the roof off a government-owned house in the 1800 Block of Scott.

Parked auto hit

Police Tuesday investigated an accident in which a pickup and a parked car collided in the 300 block of the East Highway.

Officers said a 1977 Chevrolet Silverado driven by Abner Murray Boyd of 1306 24th St. was in collision with a 1986 Isuzu Impulse two-door owned by Mark Musselman of 2203 44th St. at 5:07 p.m. Tuesday.

Police stop fight

Police officers were called to Central Elementary School at 8:28 p.m. Tuesday to quell a reported fight among several juveniles.

Two youngsters, ages 12 and 14, were taken into custody and later released to their parents.

Consumer prices up at an annual rate of 5.4 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices, paced by a rebound in energy costs, rose at an annual rate of 5.4 percent for the first half of 1987, the government said today.

That gain — the steepest since the first half of 1982 — compares to the minuscule 1.1 percent inflation rate at the retail level for all of 1986 and suggested that inflation this year will likely be a full percentage point or so above the roughly 4 percent rate that prevailed from 1982 through 1985.

For June, prices rose a moderate 0.4 percent as costs for gasoline and food rose significantly.

That gain, equivalent to an annual inflation rate of 4.3 percent, followed a 0.3 percent rise in May and 0.4 percent increases in each of the preceeding three months. Prices had risen 0.7 percent in January.

Gasoline prices rose 1.4 percent in June, more than triple the 0.4 percent rise in May. Electricity costs were up 2.5 percent.

For the first six months of 1987, energy costs rose 16.7 percent.

DPS investigates two recent wrecks

Two rural county wrecks were investigated recently by Department of Public Safety officers.

Two cars collided 2.2 miles west of Snyder on U.S. Highway 180 Monday.

A trooper said a 1978 Lincoln two-door driven by Linda Bailes Byrum of Box 1301, Snyder, and a 1983 Buick four-door driven by Robert C. Lawlis, 71, of Lovington, N.M., were both going west on 180 when the Lawlis car, passing, and the Byrum car, turning left to a private driveway, collided at 11:55 a.m. There were no injuries.

A 1978 AMC Concord two-door driven by Eric Bouvier Jones, 18, of Stamford and a 1980 Chevrolet Chevette four-door driven by James Thomas Moss, 40, of Ira were in collision at the intersection of State Highway 350 and FM 1606 at 3 p.m. Sunday in Ira, the DPS reported.

Dear Abby

When Writing to Abby, Include Your Address!

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: We discuss your column during lunchtime with the people I work with. In November of 1985 I wrote to you and enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. I waited for months to hear from you, but no letter came, so I finally gave up.

What do you do with all those self-addressed, stamped envelopes? After collecting 1,000 of them, they amount to $220 in unused postage stamps. I hope you don't throw that kind of money into the wastebasket.

Enclosed you will find another self-addressed, stamped envelope, and I am betting at work that this letter will also be ignored.

EDELGARD BAHR,
BEAVERTON, ORE.

DEAR EDELGARD BAHR: You are right; I have at least $220 in self-addressed, stamped envelopes. And do you know why? Because most of the envelopes are addressed to ABIGAIL VAN BUREN — not to the sender! And the rest are addressed to the sender, but instead of the name of the city, the sender has written "city" — with no clue to the city and state.

Then there are a number of people who state that they have enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but none is enclosed.

I repeat, every letter accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope is answered. And promptly.

And by the way, you neglected to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with this letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am illegitimate. I have known this all my life, but it has taken me 40 years to say it out loud. I grew up in a small town where everyone had two parents but me. I always felt inferior and wondered why I was so different and "incomplete." I used to ask my mother why I had no father, but she never answered me. She would become hysterical, so I never found out.

I am now in the process of getting my head together and need some answers. Do I have the right to ask my mother once and for all to tell me who my father was and something about him, even if it upsets her? I need to know in order to become completely healed.

IN THERAPY IN IOWA

DEAR IN THERAPY: Now that you are in therapy, you surely are aware that your mother has not been "healed" — and may never be, unless she chooses to get professional help as you did. Her hysterical reaction to your demanding to know who your father was is evidence that the mere mention of his name is painful to her. Discuss this with your therapist. Even though you have the "right" to know, please be patient with your mother, who unfortunately is still unable to deal with a very tragic part of her life.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband is remarrying a woman whose first name is Dorothy — same as mine. I have children, so I am keeping my married name (Johnson). After he marries, his wife's name will also be Dorothy Johnson. What a confusing mess this is going to be with charge accounts and mentions in the society column, etc. Are there any serious legal complications that I should be aware of?

I am the owner of an insurance policy on my ex-husband's life. This policy was purchased prior to our divorce, and I am the beneficiary. I am designated as "wife of the insured." Should this be changed to avoid a mix-up?

THE FIRST
DOROTHY JOHNSON

DEAR FIRST: Yes. After your ex-husband marries Dorothy II, you will be known as the "former wife of the insured." Also, his new wife will be known as Mrs. Howard (or whatever his given name is) Johnson, and you will be known as Mrs. Dorothy Johnson.

Nominee explains his views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork, under attack by liberals as a rigid conservative, says he is a man of intellectual flexibility.

Bork said he is "kind of in favor of traditional values" but is "not hung up on them. I'm not an absolutist in these matters."

The 60-year-old federal appeals court judge, picked by President Reagan to replace retired Justice Lewis F. Powell, displayed an engaging, self-deprecating sense of humor in an interview Tuesday with The Associated Press.

Asked how he regards social change, the former Yale University law school professor said, "It's inevitable. Sometimes I view it with enthusiasm, sometimes with alarm. (It) depends on what's going on."

He added with a smile, "When they were trying to burn the law school at Yale, I viewed it with alarm."

Bork said he accepts the term conservative to describe his political outlook, suggesting he is an intellectual heir to the 18th century British political writer and statesman, Edmund Burke.

"I suppose I would describe myself to be what I understand Edmund Burke to be," Bork said. "But I may be wrong about that. Somebody undoubtedly will write an article that says he doesn't understand Edmund Burke, which is probably true, too."

Burke attached great importance to political, religious and social institutions, believing they embodied the wisdom of the ages. But he also supported many liberal reforms.

CRMWD said in sound shape

Operational savings have left the Colorado River Municipal Water District in sound financial condition through the first half of the year.

Revenues of $6,178,138 were under budget, or less than one percent off. On the other hand, operational expenses of $2,561,851 were $814,712 under projections for the first six months. However, $101,538 of the advantage is in fuel rebates on electric enegry, but even so the net result is a 10.79 percent budgetary plus for the first half.

As usual, energy savings accounted for the bulge. First six months energy costs totalled $1,366,631, or $721,532 under budget. Wet weather cut pumping demands sharply, also permitted much more economical production patterns as to source.

Operation and maintenance accounted for $2,059,514 of first half expense. To this was added $82,230 (6.35 percent under budget) for recreation and $420,090 for administration and general expense (3.17 percent under).

Most income, $5,952,544, came from from the sale of 7,188,509,730 gallons of water. Of this, 569,073,280 came from wells or 55 percent of what was required from this source the initial half of 1986. Lakes supplied 5,876,209,450 gallons, making a total of 6.445 billion gallons of potable water. Ten percent of deliveries were in non-potable water diverted for quality purposes and sold for secondary oil recovery.

Label controversy erupts

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Truth in packaging and protecting the state's wholesome image have become hot topics following the disclosure that a dairy's "Vermont butter" actually comes from as far away as Wisconsin and Ohio.

"Buttergate," as a Burlington newspaper called the controversy, has dairymen around the state all churned up, but the company says it didn't mean any harm.

Cabot Cooperative Creamery acknowledges that for the past five years most of its lightly salted and unsalted butter has come from out-of-state brokers, even though the package says in bold letters: "Vermont BUTTER."

Cabot says it will remove any state of origin from its label by fall.

In the meantime, state agriculture officials are considering ways to ensure that anything labeled a Vermont product really is one.

"Vermont has a romance, a mystique about it, that people associate with wholesomeness," said Dick Rogers, a state agriculture marketing representative. "If we don't be careful about it, we could lose it."

Cabot's case isn't an isolated example.

Several years ago, a Mississippi company was accused of putting the Vermont maple label on its Southern corn syrup. Vermont takes its syrup seriously: five years ago the Legislature made it illegal to put the label on any other syrup.

And an apple drink labeled in White River Junction carries a Vermont tag even though it's made in Virginia.

Cabot spokesman Alan Parker said the labeling of its butter was not a "mean and nasty marketing ploy." Rather, he said, market factors have forced Cabot to buy out-of-state butter.

Federal programs that set a low price for butter and pay farmers to slaughter herds for meat have caused a shortage of cream in Vermont, and the growth of Vermont-based Ben & Jerry's ice cream has consumed much more, Parker said.

Deputy Agriculture Commissioner William Paine agrees. "We're satisfied that Cabot has the utmost integrity. It's not disturbing to me.

"Our concern is about the quality going into the package, less so than where it's from."

Others say Cabot had no business selling Midwest butter as Vermont's.

Lisa Barrett, an assistant attorney general with the state Consumer Protection Division, called the practice deceptive but said the state won't take legal action because Cabot is changing the packaging.

"I do think to represent something as a Vermont product when it is not, is a violation of the Vermont consumer fraud law," she said. "We are keeping an eye on this. This really has raised an issue."

Anthony Pollina, director of Rural Vermont, a farm lobby group with about 800 members, said many farmers have called his office since the weekly Vanguard Press disclosed Cabot's misrepresentation earlier this month.

Bowden receives degree in denistry

Wendy Ellen Bowden graduated with a DDS degree from Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas on June 6. One-hundred-and-seven candidates received diplomas in commencement exercises held at Park Cities Baptist Church.

Mrs. Bowden, who received a degree in dental hygiene from Columbia University in 1980, will be practicing in the metroplex.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Monroney of Snyder.

Locals attend Austin workshop

AUSTIN--Educators from the state gathered here recently for the annual summer workshop sponsored by the Texas Association of Community Schools, the Texas Education Agency, The University of Texas, and Concordia Lutheran College.

Attending from Snyder ISD were Linda K. Gutierrez, special education resource at the junior high, and Rudy Gutierrez, fourth-sixth grade bilingual at Central Elementary.

Commissioner of Education Dr. William Kirby delivered an address updating conference attendants on actions of the 70th Legislature which affect education.

Interest groups and buzz sessions allowed teachers, administrators and aides to learn more about a variety of subjects ranging from "Funding Drug-Free Schools" to individual learning styles.

Garza awarded navigator rating

Second Lt. Amadeo B. Garza, son of Eleodor V. Garza and Zulema Berlanga of Snyder, has been awarded the aeronautical rating of navigator following graduation from U. S. Air Force Navigator Training at Mather Air Force Base, Calif.

Students received academic, simulator and flight training in airmanship and basic, celestial and low-level navigation.

He is a 1986 graduate of Angelo State University, San Angelo.

Locals' grandson garners medals

SAN ANGELO--Randy Dorman of San Angelo, a wheelchair athlete, won several medals at the 30th Annual National Wheelchair Games held in Houston recently.

He is the grandson of Oma Dorman and Iva Mae Franks, both of Snyder.

Dorman won four first places and two thirds and was named to the U. S. team that will compete in international games in Stoke Mandvill, England on July 27-Aug. 8.

But since he needs to raise about $1,300 to finance the trip, Dorman is undecided about attending.

He won individual gold medals in the pentathlon and the 100-meter sprint and was a member of the first-place 400-meter and 800-meter relay teams. Dorman also finished third in the 200-and 400-meter sprints, and was fourth in the 800.

Dorman was competing in his first-ever national meet, although he qualified in two events last year but was unable to attend.
