Japan is the last of the 15 original signatory powers to ratify the pact, and the document will come into full force as soon as the Japanese instrument of ratification is deposited in the archives of the state department here.

The pact embraces action, or intended action, by virtually every nation of the world to renounce war as a national policy. Only Argentina and Brazil have not signified their intention to adhere to the pact out of all of the nations which were invited to do so.

The former ranchman and farmer, who is now devoting most of his time in detective work, will likely portray his experiences in trailing the "confidence men" through various cities and out-of-way corners of the globe on the screen, in response to negotiations from a moving picture company, he indicated this morning.

EDUCATIONAL FUNDS CAUSE DEADLOCK BETWEEN HOUSES

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 26—After "hitting it off" together in good style through more than three weeks of the second called session, the two houses of the 41st legislature were divided on appropriations and a gasoline tax to the extent of forcing a third extraordinary session to follow immediately after this one which expires Tuesday if something is not done to ease the situation.

Only heroic work will patch up the differences and put the legislative program in order to prevent the governor from bringing the legislature back, it was indicated today.

Deadlocked on Funds

The Senate committee had passed out a three cent gasoline tax, and while agreement had been reached on all money measures except the educational appropriation bill, there was strong fear the differences on this measure would remain unsettled. The Senate bill calls for $20,800,000 and the House for a little o ver $16,000,000. The lesser sum will bring the total appropriations for the biennium up to if not slightly in excess of, the available revenues.

However, the shadow of a third called session may scare the two houses into agreement, because there is no demand on the part of the legislators for another session at this time.

Consider Auto Fees

The Senate has yet to consider and act on the House bill fixing automobile registration fees. It provides for a reduction of 30 per cent in passenger car fees.

Governor Moody is particularly anxious to provide adequately for the highway department's building program, and should the legislature pass a three cent gas tax and a 30 per cent reduction in registration fees he would likely consider this as not producing ample revenue.

DRINK-MADDENED MAN CAUSES NEAR PANIC IN CHURCH; FIRES ON PRIEST

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 26—Fifty early morning worshippers were thrown into panic as a drink-maddened man tottered down the aisle of Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic church today and fired three pistol shots toward the priest as he administered communion.

The third shot struck a kneeling parishioner, Richard Murphy, in the hip. The man then turned the weapon on himself, the fourth bullet grazing his scalp. The priest saved himself by dropping to the floor as the shooting began.

The assailant, Charles O. Foster, 45, was arrested. Befuddled by liquor, he thought himself mortally wounded.

"I wanted to finish him and finish myself," he muttered. "I'm not a Catholic, but you can give me the sacraments if you want to."

Foster's wife said he had been drinking heavily. Neither she nor her husband are Catholics and she could offer no explanation for the act.

The communicants saw the drunken man stagger toward the

HOPE WANING FOR MISSING SPANISH MEN

FOUR NATIONS KEEP UP SEARCH FOR LOST PLANE

(By Associated Press)

MADRID, June 26.—Hope was fast waning today that Major Ramon Franco and his three companions would ever be found alive. Belief grew that their plane, a Dornier Wahl 16, crashed or made a forced landing between Spain and the Azores and had been unable to survive the tempestuousness of the Atlantic.

Spain, Italy, England, and Portugal mobilized sea and air forces nevertheless to scan the seas for traces of the missing aviators, who left Alcazares Friday afternoon for New York intending to stop en route at the Azores for refueling.

Statement Remembered

There was some feeling in Spain that Major Franco may have overstepped the Azores, either intentionally or unwittingly and have come down much further along his route to New York. His statement to friends prior to departure that he would "surprise" them tended to support this theory.

Those most hopeful the four men would be found alive believed they had alighted at some remote Island of the Azores archipelago and would be picked up shortly. Varied clues, purporting to locate the seaplane or its wreckage thus far all appeared to have been false.

AIR RECORD IS CLAIMED

MARK FOR CONTINUOUS MILES OF FLIGHT IS CLAIMED BY MEN

(By Associated Press)

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26 — A world's record for continuous miles of flight by an airplane over a set course was claimed today by sponsors of the "Miss Minneapolis" endurance plane which has been flown 5,000 miles.

The Miss Minneapolis, which started from here at 5 a. m., Sunday on an endurance refueling flight, is in charge of Thorwald Johnson and Owen Haughland of Minneapolis.

Flying 8-Mile Course

They are flying over an eight-mile course between Minneapolis, Northfield and Hastings, Minn., and are being checked here by Captain P. L. Crichton for the National Aeronautic association.

Stanley Partridge of Minneapolis, president of the local chapter of the National Aeronautic association said he received a telegram last night from national headquarters of the association at Washington, saying the present officially posted record is 3,200 miles.

Early today Johnson and Haugnland had been in the air nearly 70 hours. The endurance flight record is 172 hours, 32 minutes, one second, held by Reg Robbins and James Kelly, Fort Worth.

S. A., at Austin, according to an announcement by J. E. Jarratt of San Antonio, member of the location committee. The location committee will meet in Austin, he said, and make recommendations to the general commission. The committee has visited Brownwood, San Antonio, Sherman and Houston, cities seeking the new institution.

TEXAS AIRMEN SOAR UPWARD

WICHITA FALLS, June 26.(AP) Whipped tail first from an altitude of 2,200 feet to a height of 8,400 feet by a tornado in little more than a minute was the experience related by two Wichita Falls aviators today upon their return from a trip to Wagon N. M.

L. Ping Hammond, manager of the Lone Star Aviation company, and Fred Ridenour, one of his pilots, came out of the dizzy ascent without a scratch, although their plane was jerked about like a kite in the wind. At 8,400 feet the ship evidently reached the top of the gale, for the motor was then able to straighten out the plane.

Hammond said he received reports from the point where the blow occurred the next day and found that wheat fields and trees had been levelled.

DENIAL MADE ON PLAN FOR PROHIBITION

TREASURY DEPARTMENT SAYS SCHOOLS WILL NOT BE USED

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Suggestions that the public school system was to be used by the prohibition bureau for dissemination of enforcement propaganda have brought a emphatic denial of any such intent from the treasury department.

The denial of the "wrong impression," as Prohibition Commissioner Doran described it, followed swiftly on the publication of a pamphlet containing suggestions for the incorporation of prohibition information in eight school study subjects, tgether with slogans supporting prohibition and admonitions to teachers to help toward enforcement.

Pamphlet Made Public

The pamphlet was made public by Anna B. Sutter, director of the statistical and educational division of the bureau, with the explanation that she would display the proposed course of study, entitled "How Shall We Teach the Eighteenth Amendment?" in a booth at the meeting of the National Educational Association in Atlanta, June 28 to July 3.

Robison threatened to start a legislative investigation and withdraw official cooperation from the office if the veteran official did not take from the market university oil lands advertised for sale January 2, was the assertion made by Robison before the House today.

"I told him that I didn't know how to run the land office that way," Robison stated.

In previous interviews with Governor Moody and Attorney General Pollard, Robison said he had been advised to take the 53,000 acres advertised for sale from the market, "law or no law."

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 26 (AP).—J. W. Meyers, convicted in Dallas county for robbery of N. H. Howard, manager of a chain store, and assessed 99 years in the penitentiary, was granted a new trial by the court of criminal appeals today.

It was alleged Meyers obtained $2,470 from Howard, holding him up with a pistol.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED SOON IN LIMITATION OF NAVIES OF NATIONS

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 20.—Definite limitation of navies is expected announcment of negotiations for limitation of navies is expected to be made soon, either at Washington or from No. 10 Downing street.

In a speech last night which revealed he had had another meeting with Ambassador Dawes, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, said he hoped soon to reveal how the negotiations were to be conducted. Hugh S. Gibson also was at the meeting to which Mr. MacDonald referred.

The speech was before a labor reception at the Friends' meeting house on Euston road, and in it Mr. McDonald declared he would put it no higher than to say he was hopeful. Announcements of such things as the meeting place of a disarmament conference and its objects might be expected within a few days, he intimated.

ACT ALLOWS $5,500,000 FOR SCHOOLS

SOLONS ALSO APPROVE COMPROMISE PEN SURVEY BILL

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 26.—The rural aid bill carrying an appropriation of $5,500,000 for financially weak schools during 1930-31 was ready to be laid on the governors desk today.

The last hurdle toward passing the measure finally was cleared today when the House approved the Free conference report raising the sum from $5,000,000 as called for in the original House bill.

The vote was 104 to 8.

The senate previously approved a cut of $5,000,000 in its bill.

Approval of the penitentiary compromise bill, allowing an 18-member board to make a survey for relocating the system, was voiced by a unanimous vote in the house.

BURGLARY IS UNSUCCESSFUL

HOLES BORED THROUGH WALL OF BUILDING IN ATTEMPT

A daring burglary attempt which required several minutes of maneuvering, was made last night in the downtown district when a prowler crawled through a rear window into the R. W. Heim's Tin Shop, 1009 Thirteenth street, bored a series of holes through a partition, entered the Lubbock Bicycle Shop, which adjoins the tin shop, and made his exit without any loot, investigation discloses.

According to Roy Lynch, manager of the bicycle shop, the elusive offender tore a cash drawer, containing but a few pennies, from a shelf, and then tried to open a safe. That an effort to open the safe was made was ascertained by the fact that the combination dial had been turned from its customary position.

No merchandiss at either the tin shop or the bike shop was missing this morning.

A series of about 30 holes were bored through the wall in creating an 18-inch square opening.

STOWAWAY BACK FROM OCEAN HOP

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP).—The stowaway of the Yellow Bird, Arthur Schreiber of Portland Me., returned to America aboard the Leviathan today—first class—attired in extreme cut French clothes but with little to say about himself or his uninvited trip.

He was met at quarantine by his father, Morris Schreiber, a Portland fur worker, with whom he exchanged affectionate greetings, and then he posed, with his father and by himself, for several photographs.

The youth had nothing to say about future plans. All he wished now, he said, was to get back home and see his mother.

He became angry when questioned regarding reports that he had compared himself to Lindbergh and his landing in France.

LIQUOR BAN LIKELIHOOD FOR DAWES

U. S. AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND INTIMATES DRYING UP HOME

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 26.—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes' intimation that he would not serve liquor at the ambassadorial residence was today the subject of lively discussion in diplomatic circles and the American colony of London.

The official residence of the American ambassador is the only dry embassy home in London, and Ambassador Dawes' action in eschewing alcoholic beverages is a departure from the rule of American ambassadors before him.

Among members of the embassy staff the dry move is regarded as simply an expression of the ambassador's personal attitude.

British prohibition advocates found much to elate them in his attitude which swings the American embassy in London into the dry column along with the British embassy in Washington.

MATTER IS ENTIRELY WITHIN OWN ORDERS

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP).—Officials of the state department said today any action Ambassador Dawes or any other American diplomat abroad might take to dry up his embassy was entirely within his own discretion.

The question of serving intoxicating beverages in American missions in foreign countries has long been a debated one, and many letters of inquiry have been received at the state department from dry law advocates on the subject.

Charles Evans Hughes, when secretary of state, stated in a letter to a United States senator that he considered the privilege of liquors being served in American missions abroad to be one within the rights of the diplomats.

Solons Engross Two Memorial Measures

AUSTIN, June 26 (AP) — Unimpressed by administration admonitions that the appropriation bills already total much more than the prospective state revenue for the next biennium the House of Representatives yesterday engrossed bills providing $250,000 for the purchase of land adjoining the Alamo in San Antonio and $500,000 with which to build memorial armories.

The armory bill calss for the expenditure of $250,000 in each year of the biennium, the buildings to be used by the Texas National Guard and dedicated in memory of the Texans who died in the World War.

DIED 1905—RECREATED 1929

SANCTITY OF "SELF CONQUEST" TO MAKE A POOR CLARE NUN ELIGIBLE FOR SAINT

(By Associated Press)

OMAHA, June 26—Scrupulous care will be taken to maintain the utmost secrecy in the canonization trial of Mother Mary Magdalene Bentivoglio, Poor Clare nun, when the proceedings begin here tomorrow. Mother Bentivoglio, an Italian noble woman, founded the Poor Clare order in the United States. She died in 1905 and this trial is held looking toward her recreation as a saint.

The Very Rev. Albert Kleber of St. Meinrad's Abbey, Evansville, Illinois, explained that the canonization trial, is conducted along lines similar to a civil trial.

"In no civil trial, however, are the proceedings carried on with such care and exactness and strict attention to the smallest details," he said. "All the truth is presented, uncolored or unchanged by legal tricks. This aim is to recreate or rebuild the life of the individual just as it really existed and so there is no refutation of the evidence presented. Its truth is determined before it is even presented to the hearing.

He said the first tribunal to determine the sainthood of Mother Magdalene was held in the diocese of Indianapolis where she died in 1905. Headed by the Right Rev. Joseph Chartrand, bishop of Indianapolis, the court of inquisitors met at Evansville last summer. Another tribunal in New Orleans just has adjourned. The basis for sainthood, the priest said, lies in sanctity of "self conquest," described by him as "bringing one's self in line with the will of God."

States Must Uphold Dry Law To Get Aid

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP) — The assertion that federal government funds for prohibition enforcement should not be alloted to states which do not co-operate in upholding the dry law was made by Wade H. Ellis, assistant to the attorney general, here tonight in a radio address.

His plan would be for the federal government to enforce prohibition as far as interstate liquor commerce was concerned in non-co-operating states, he said. But he added the experiment would be for these states if they desired to permit illicit manufacture and sale of liquor.

LUBBOCK HOUSEWIVES

This Message Is For You

Its either down hill or up hill! Its either success or failure! The better part of a life-time spent for you has either been wasted or it has been profitably spent. Twenty years of hard labor, twenty years of honest effort, twenty years of serious thought, twenty years of idealism has been baked into a loaf of bread upon whcih our whole life-time's work dependts.

MARTIN'S BREAD

Is Made With Milk and Honey

And when we place our name on the wrapper, when we tell you its made with PURE HONEY and PURE MILK we mean to specify the acme creation of our career!

IT'S UP TO YOU; MADAM LUBBOCK

The standard of bread set for Lubbock twenty years ago was far ahead of that offered other cities. The standard maintained throughout all these years has been just that far ahead of bread offered in other sections. The standard Martin has set has brought to Lubbock the finest loaf in the whole South and voluminous testimony is available for proof.

It's An Expensive Loaf of Bread

It, no doubt, costs more to manufacture, even in the very modern and efficient plant we operate, than any other loaf of bread you can buy. Martin takes less PROFIT out of each loaf than any bakery we know of. Our idea of success has been to deserve it—to build better—to make better—to serve better—and to merit confidence and good-will through sheer excellence.

It's Either Success or Failure

Its up to you, Housewives of Lubbock, to help maintain this modern, pure, wholesome, rich standard of bread in this city. Only by your patronage, creating a great volume cannot it be maintained. Had you not rather have such a loaf than to have in your city a chain-owned, virtual monopolized bakery producing an inferior loaf, when by its very magnitude of financial strength, quality becomes secondary.

Martin's Bread Has Never Been Made To Meet A Price

—and regardless of what comes and goes, our whole future will be staked on QUALITY—purity, cleanliness and richness. The name Martin means highest quality bread and for your children's sake, for your own sake and for the good name of Martin and of Lubbock we now call upon you to ask for MARTIN'S bread when you buy bread.

REGAINS HEALTH AFTER 2 YEARS OF SUFFERING

Lubbock Farmer's Daughter Declares Orgatone Only Medicine That Ever Brought Her Relief

Any person suffering from stomach trouble learns to expect keen distress after a meal. Headaches and dizziness are common symptoms and as restless night follows restless night, the body becomes so run-down that the sufferer is exhausted by slight effort. This can be corrected by proper treatment as was learned by Miss Margaret Jones, living on rural route 2, Lubbock, Texas.

"About two years ago I began to have spells of stomach trouble," she continued. "I was operated on for appendicitis and ever since I have been so generally run-down that what food I ate bothered me, and I suffered from sour stomach and gas, and became so nervous that I couldn't sleep at night. I also had liver trouble and had frequent headaches. I had the 'flu' about six months ago and all this helped to get me in a more serious condition.

"A friend recommended Orgatone to me and I began the treatment. In a short time I could see some improvements in my condition and I continued taking the medicine until my tired exhausted feeling has disappeared and I have new ambition. I'm no longer troubled with indigestion, gas or sourness, but enjoy eating my meals. I sleep soundly and rise refreshed and rested in the morning. I have told some of my friends about Orgatone and they are taking it on my recommendation. Orgatone is certainly a good medicine and will do what they say that it will."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents. Adv.

A. G. Adams, government fish culturist, brought them here from Key West. These warm water lobsters differ from the northern variety in that they have two long feelers, called whips, instead of the biting claws.

STYLE DETAILS CATER TO LONGER SILHOUETTE

BY LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Expert for Central Press

The longer silhouette is here. This does not apply to skirt lengths alone, but to the various style ruses employed to give the effect of a longer silhouette. It includes the princess lines, higher waistlines, low placed fullness, longer jacket length, and a number of other details. The higher waistline and more fitted lines, such as the princess silhouette always do mean longer and fuller skirts. One follows the other, and therefore the added few inches to the skirt, though it be but two or three, or only in spots, as is frequently witnessed in the uneven hemline, is important. Taken in this light, the added skirt length does make almost as much difference as the proverbial inch on a man's nose.

Of course, the added inches to the skirt have brought about added inches to the jacket. Instead of being hip length, nearly all jackets are now finger length. The reason is obvious when we take into consideration the general lengthening effect of the silhouette.

Even footwear and hosiery styles are affected by the longer skirt, as will be evidenced as the longer silhouette becomes more established by fall. As the length of leg is shortened by the added skirt length, there is a tendency to give the effect of length in the shoes, which is one reason why the pump and step-in models are becoming more popular. Hosiery, too, will change its complexion for the same reason. We fill find the darker, but not too dark, tones in vogue, because these darker tones merge better with the frock, and give more the effect of a continued, unbroken line.

Longer Jacket Illustrated

The three sketches show specialized sports costumes worn by smart French women, illustrating the longer jacket. The first is a cardigan jacket suit. It is of heavy striped jersey, in several color combinations, worn with a white blouse. An inverted box pleat down the front gives width and flare to the skirt. The model in the center is of black crepe de chine with appliqued motifs in while and light blue. The blouse is sleeveless. One-strap black kid pumps complement the costume, while a two-strap blue kid, lizard trimmed shoe complements the cardigan model.

FARMER GETS LIFE TERM IN SON'S DEATH

MAN SHOOTS SON AND REFUSES TO CALL FOR DOCTOR

(By Associated Press)

DECATUR, Ala., June 26.—William Ledlow, Morgan county farmer, was sentenced to life imprisonment late today for the murder two months ago of his 14 year old son, Thomas.

The state asked for death.

Mrs. Ledlow testified her husband fired a charge of buckshot into her son's knee cap and then for several hours refused to summon medical aid.

The state charged that Ledlow allowed his son to bleed to death before an effort was made to get a doctor. Jury recommended a life sentence.

Mrs. Ledlow testified her husband upbraided his son for failure to bring kindling wood into the house. Several hours after the boy was wounded, she continued, Ledlow insisted on refusing to have a physician called, and the doctor who responded ordered the youth to a hospital. He died before his removal from the home.

In rebuttal testimony Mrs. Ledlow denied her husband's claim from the witness stand that Thomas was accidentally shot while his parents struggled for possession of the shotgun after a quarrel.

of the four missing Spanish trans-Atlantic aviators.

Army mechanics yesterday completed two days' work in changing one of its engines which gave the missing aviators trouble while they still considered using the plane on their trans-Atlantic venture.

Officials maintained absolute secrecy as to their plans. It was known nevertheless that the flight was considered as possibly the most hopeful of the tremendous efforts being made to locate the missing aviators.

altar, but no one moved toward him. Then he took a seat in a pew, sat there a moment, and as the priest, the Rev. Father A. E. Keenan, began to attend the communicants he drew a pistol and fired.

As Foster pointed his weapon at his own head, an occupant of the same pew disarmed him.

Father Keenan said he had never seen Foster before.

ROBISON CASE

n said.

Speaking in a loud voice that could be heard throughout the huge chamber, the land office chief declared that $3,546,409 had been offered as a bonus for 169 tracts which could have been sold January 2. This sum would have been placed to the credit of the University of Texas permanent fund regardless of whether any oil was found on the property or not, the house was told. If petroleum deposits were discovered, an additional one-eighth royalty would have accrued to the benefit of the university, he said.

Denied Dumping Land.

Robison denied that the attempted sale, which brought about repeal of the 1925 land leasing laws on the third day of the regular session, was "a dumping of university lands on the market." Tracts originally advertised for sale represented only one-twentieth of all school lands, he testified.

"Has any gift you have ever received affected a decision on your part as land commissioner?" Lloyd Price, counsel for Robison, asked.

"It has not, and I have declined many offers when I felt that there was a question of motive behind them," Robison replied.

Attorneys Block

Attempting to bring out from the witness that other state officials, "from governors on down," had been recipients of gratuities without question, Robison's attorneys were blocked in the move by a ruling from Rep. Ed. R. Inks, sitting as judge of the testimony.

The personal funds of the commissioner went into the J. T. Robison special account which the Woodruff bill of particulars declared was state money was revealed for the first time today in a quiz of the commissioner by Price.

Robisonsaid he had sold lambs on the Fort Worth market in 1927, receiving $3.128, which he deposited in a special fund at an Austin bank. He exhibited a check from a Fort Worth buyer representing the account.

Much of the testimony heard on the stand today hinged around events of the Dilley conference and differences between the governor and the attorney general which already had been aired by other witnesses.

An N. Y. P. S. program, led by Rev. R. M. Hocker, district president, will open the evening session at 7:30 o'clock, then at 8:15 an evangelistic program will conclude the conference.

THOMASON IS ACQUITTED IN ASSAULT CASE

JURY FAILS TO FIND LOCAL MAN GUILTY OF OFFENSE

B. L. Thomason, of this city, was freed of a statutory offense in connection with an alleged assault upon his 13-year-old step-daughter, Lorena Hamrick, by a jury's verdict of not guilty late Tuesday in 99th district court.

An impassioned plea by J. C. Levens, who characterized the situation as "a concocted scheme, adroitly planned to ruin this man," was the highlight in the arguments yesterday afternoon. Owen McWhorter, other member of the defense counsel, sought to show that testimony of prominent citizens of Lubbock revealed that character of Thomason is above that with which he is charged.

Burton S. Burks assisted District Attorney Durwood Bradley in the prosecution.

Complaint was filed against Thomason by his estranged wife, from whom he has been separated two months.

SCHMELLING-UZCUDUM BOUT HOLDS SPORT SPOTLIGHT

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Journal Sports Editor

A split season in the Texas League is just about as advisable as wearing a coonskin coat on the equator. With the four northern clubs bunched in the first division and all with averages in the .500's, none of the southern teams can hope to get so much as a hearing for their wishes if such is entertained. If any one of the trailing clubs want a split season, no one has heard about it. Houston, in eighth place, is only 11 games behind Dallas, in first place. The current race is the closest seen in the Texas League in years and as the half-way mark is neared, it yet remains anybody's race.

The recent hullaballoo concerning the calibre of baseballs being used in the Texas League this season seems to have little foundation. A brief perusal of a few scores recorded in recent games makes it rather hard to believe Texas League batters have been hitting "culls." Take the game Monday between Fort Worth and Waco, which the Cats won, 20 to 16. Forty-eight base hits were slammed out during the single contes. There have been so many 20-run games that we have lost count, but here are a few: Wichita Falls 18, Waco 5; San Antonio 23, Wichita Falls 3; Dallas 16, Beaumont 7; Fort Worth 15, San Antonio 3; San Antonio 14, Fort Worth 9; Fort Worth 17, San Antonio 9; Fort Worth 16, Waco 9. If the balls used in the Texas are dead, it looks like the major league customers who sit in the bleachers will be forced to start wearing protectors.

In spite of the lively clip at which Texas League sluggers have been pounding the pellet, it is reported that a representative of the manufacturer will come to Texas shortly for a meeting with the club owners to see just what all this complaint is about.

Tomorrow in Philadelphia the Yanks and Athletics begin another "croocial" series that will last through Saturday. At the present writing the Mackmen are out in front with a nine game lead over the world champions. In winning three out of five games from the Yankees in their recent five-game meeting at the Yankee Stadium, the A's stamped themselves the coming champions gaining at the same time a moral victory over their rivals who in past years have jinxed Connie Mack's ambitions. It is generally accepted by the experts in close touch with the major leagues that the Mackmen will be hard to stop, but the Yanks are not yet to be counted out. The majority of staunch baseball fans are in sympathy with the Athletics and especially the aged pilot. It looks like Mack's pennant dreams are just about to be realized.

Resumption of football relations between Army and Navy will be welcomed by grid fans the nation over. The suspension of relations between the arch rivals of the gridiron two years ago when the two institutions failed to agree on the three-year eligibility rule brought to an end the classic of the football season. Schedules for both teams are full for the coming season but either might well cancel one to get in this outstanding battle.

Mistakes are common in all walks of life but seldom do members of the umpiring fraternity err as did the arbiters in the second game of the double header played in Shreveport last Sunday and won by the Sports from Houston, 5 to 3. Official investigation of the decision rendered by the umps has caused the game to be thrown out.

Here's what happened—Ernie Holman was permitted to run to second base after he had struck out with first base occupied. According to the rules, as a Shreveport runner occupied first base at the time. The play was clear to even the casual spectator, but Holman was allowed to hold second base and scored a few minutes later.

LEAD OF TEN GAMES HARDLY EVER BEATEN

A'S LEADING FOR 1ST TIME SINCE 1914; YANKS IDLE

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Through a lull in the battle general McGillicuddy refused to quit fighting. With the Yankees idling in a Washington ran yesterday, the Athletcs fell upon the helpless Red Sox for two victories, 7 to 1 and 8 to 2, increasing their lead over the champions to ten full games.

It often has been pointed out that an advantage for one contender over another in the games won column is of dubious value unless matched b va substantial margin in the lost column, but the fact remains that the Mackmen have reached the magic lead of ten games for the first time since 1914.

Instances Rare

Teams have been known to fall short of a pennant after topping the field by ten contests, but such instances are rare. There are perhaps no more than two such cases n the history of organized baseball.

The Detroit Tigers conducted themselves peacebly enough for six innings at Navin field, only to fall upon Ed Walsh and the unsuspecting White Sox for eleven runs in the seventh. The Tigers won 14 to 2.

Cards Split Twin Bill

Cleveland and St. Louis divided a double-header at Sportsman's park to complete the American league program. The Indians came from behnd to take the opener by 10 to 7, and this so infuriated the Browns that they won the second by the shut-out route, 8 to 0. The even division dropped the Browns out of a tie with the Yankees for second-place.

The big western teams in the Natinal league spiked their guns yesterday, leaving the Brooklyn Robins free to occupy the center of the stage for their daily torture of the Giants. The clan McGraw went into the ninth inning wth a lead of 10 to 5, and Larry Benton in the box, but the Robins soon shelled him for enough runs to tie the score.

The Robins carried their assault over into the tenth with Dutch Henry in the box, scoring two runs which netted a 12 to 10 victory for Flatbush.

The Braves and the Phillies divided a double-header in Boston. The home boys took the opener, 5 to 4, but the Phils rallied in the ninth round of the night cap for the six runs to win by 8 to 6. This victory broke a string on nine Philadelphia defeats.

LITTLEFIELD HERE SUNDAY

HUBBERS CARD GAMES WITH LEADING SEMI-PROS

Back in their own back yard following a triumph over the Tactless Texans of Amarillo, the Lubbock Hubbers are facing another tough encounter at Merrill Park Sunday when the Littlefield aggregation comes here for a second game with the locals.

Lady fans will be honored guests at the Sunday affair, the Hubber management having announced last night that it would be "Ladies' Day" and all members of the fair sex would be admitted free.

Victors in Previous Game

In the first meeting between the two teams this season the Littlefield aggregation handed the locals a 11 to 8 defeat and the Hubbers are rearin' to get another crack at the Lamb county club. With the exception of Dick Ratliff, who is catching for Ballinger, the Littlefield lineup will be the same that downed the Lubbock nine here on May 19.

The Hubbers' win over the Amarillo club Sunday was their third successive victory. Addition of Lefty Hannah to the Hubber pitching staff has put new hopes into the ranks of the local team.

Following the tilt with Littlefield Sunday, the locals will have three days' rest before they tackle Lamesa here on July 4th (Thursday) in a holiday double header. A game with the Amarillo Texans on the following Sunday is also carded.

Negotiations are under way to bring the strong Quanah semi-pro aggregation to Lubbock for a series in the near future.

The fliers won the event this year by landing their craft on Prince Edward Island, Sanada, 952 miles from the starting place at Pittsburgh, which established the new world mark.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 26 (AP)—Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, carried his title quest forward another step last night with a victory over Fidel Labarba, former flyweight champion, in a ten round bout.

PAR IS HARD TO BEAT ON WINGED FOOT; BOBBY SURE

BY WM. M. BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Writer

You may say all you please about their being no ghosts. The fact is there are. Robert Tyre Jones, shot a sizzling 69 down at Mamaroneck, N. Y., the other day and that means just one thing to us, one and all—Harry Houdini must be down there on his vacation.

Jones was practicing when he set that new mark for the Winged Foot course, scent of the national open, and people who don't think that kind of golf won't be the life of this putting party, simply have been out in the sun too much lately.

Ever since it was announced that the open would be staged at Mamaroneck, golf experts have been thumbing the old Thesaurus around the words "terrible," "awful," "hazardous" and "nerve-wracking" in their efforts to describe the place.

The only deduction we can get out of this performance by Jones is that the national open is all washed up before anyone tees off at No. 1.

When the experts first visited Mamaroneck to look the place over, there was some little confusion and doubt among them. One of them asked if it wasn't all a mistake and if it wasn't billiards that was to be played there. Willie Hoppe was called in, and finally managed to sink the eight ball with a block and tackle.

Someone else was of the opinion that the golfers were going to throw around the course. That theory was exploded, however, when Bob Meusel was asked to try out his arm and he made the 18 holes in 86. Meusel can throw strikes from the outfield, but he admitted that the throwing at Mamaroneck was not so good.

Walter Hagen was asked what it was all about and he said he sincerely hoped he would be able to shoot a pretty little 298, with a little help from heaven or someplace. Haig said—well, yes, he believed 298 would win the bout.

Leo Diegel pooh-poohed a couple of strokes that Haig had laid much stress upon, and said he figured he would be the 1929 open champion if he could gallop around the 72 holes somewhere not too far above 300.

What would you infer then, if Jones, wasting a couple of strokes just to be entertaining, scored 280 over that Winged Foot course to win the 1929 open. The conclusion is the same that we reached in a paragraph above—Houdini has come back.

Par is hard to beat at Winged Foot.

A man who can go around 18 holes in this sort of hobgoblinery, and score a 69, is doing a little Sir Oliver Lodging.

Princeton Wins In Team Golf Playing

DEAL, N. J., June 26 (AP)—The Intercollegiate team golf championship has fallen into Princeton's hands again but only after a great battle with Yale.

Two days of golf—36 holes—found Yale and Princeton tied with 643 strokes, but the Tigers clinched the title in the playoff of nine holes 164 to 173.

Each college nominated a team of six men, the 36 hole totals of the four lo wscorers being counted.

"BABBERING" EPIDEMIC HITS MAMARONECK BEFORE PLAY

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 26.—The lull before the storm of the open golf championship competition has brought amounts to an epidemic of "barbering" to Winged Foot, where the title will be decided the last three days of this week.

Baseball players who extend their remarks are known as "barbers" by their fellows, and golf has more conversation than baseball.

As the stars rested on their clubs before firing the first shots tomorrow, they talked of their hopes and fears, mostly fears, the score necessary to win and the condition of the course.

It was not easy to get an agreement on a likely winning combination, a good average, perhaps being four 73's, rain or shine, and a few more if a heavy and steady downpour should soak the fairways and reduce the roll of the ball, now long on account of the long dry spell. If Winged Foot is permitted to bark and bite as it can when thoroughly approach 300 for the 72 holes.

An agreement was easier on the question as to whether Winged Foot is a real champion layout. The ayes had it by a big majority.

The field will be full of up and coming young golfers. In practice many of them have been in the low 70's, but the men who lay the odds fore the financially venturesom think they will find themselves unable to duplicate these scores under the relentless pressure of the championship test.

Horton Smith, the 21-year-old star of the winter golf caravan, Billy Burke, not long ago a caddy, Master, Roland Hancock, who had the 1928 title in his bag and let it slip away, are mentioned among the possibilities but for every one of the new golf generation, there are half a dozen preferences for the tried war horses of the game, the Jones, Hagens, Diegels, Sarazens, Farrels, Von Elms and half a dozen others.

Thirty-Two Golfers In Omaha Tourney

OMAHA, Neb., June 26 (AP)—Thirty-two shot makers from nine states, survivors of a 36-hole qualifying test that required 155 or better, today directed their firing to match play in the battle for the twenty-ninth trans-Mississippi golf championship.

While virtually every favorite, including the defending champion, Arthur Bartlett of Ottumwa, Iowa, qualified, it was youth that led the field in the severe test over the rugged Omaha Field Club links.

Nathan Grimes, 21-year-old life insurance salesman from Denver, snatched the medalist honors with a 145 strokes total, while Marshall Becker, 20-year-old iron expert from Topeka was one stroke away for runner-up honors.

First Night Race Is Well Attended

TOLEDO, O., June 26 (AP)—The first grand circuit meeting in history at night opened here last night with a crowd estimated at 10,000 viewing a five race program.

A long shot, and the major upset, was ordered in the featured 12-class pace won by Pean Wilson with Wirt Mallow in the sulky.

SEKYRA BESTS MITCHELL

DAYTON, Ohio, June 26 (AP).—Joe Sekyra, Dayton heavyweight won the decision over Andy Mitchell of California in a ten round bout here last night.

SPUDS FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO GAIN TOP

PRIZE SLIPS THROUGH FINGERS IN TWIN BILL TUESDAY

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

For something like an hour yesterday afternoon the pile driving Wichita Falls nine shared the Texas League lead with the Steers, but clear possession of the prize slipped through the Spudders' gloves when they took one on the chin from San Antonio in the second tilt of their double bill.

As they prepared to tackle the Indians in a final tussle today the Oilers were only a half game behind the Mavericks, who have looked like anything but champions in their first two games with the bolstered Buffs. Unless the Steers take a brace today the Spuds are likely to be ruling the roost when the sun sets. They have won 18 of their last 22 contests.

Steers Collapse

The partial collaps of the Steers the last two days has supplied the biggest surprise of the current week. Figured to fatten their lead, if anything, Milt Stock's hirelings rolled over and played dead before big home crowds. Two of the leaders' best bets have taken the count so far, Charlie Barnabe departing under a shower of Buff bats on the first day and Whitey Glazner getting his in yesterday's 7 to 6 Houston triumph.

With Payne turning in his sixth straight victory, the Spudders had little difficulty squelching the Indians, 13 to 3, in their first game, but they simply ran out of pitchers in the second. Goff started, but was succeeded by three others before it was over and the Tribe had salted away a 10 to 8 verdict.

Exporters Celebrate

The Exporters celebrated their sixth straight defeat when the Sports trounced them twice, 7 to 5 and 4 to 2. Foreign fields simply do not agree with the Shippers. Tuero mastered Boss Robertson's men in the first and Williamson let them down with five blows in the seven inning affair.

Waco supplanted San Antonio in fifth place by nosing out the Panthers, 10 to 9, and squaring their series. Both sides used three pitchers before the Cubs punched across the deciding run off Meadows in the ninth.

RAILROADERS DEFEAT C.-P.

LEAD IN CITY LEAGUE WIDENED SLIGHTLY TUESDAY

A four-run rally in the sixth inning pulled a ball game out of the fire for the Santa Fe Tuesday evening and gave the City League leaders a 5 to 4 decision over the Carpenter-Painters in a hard fought pitchers' battle.

The victory gave the hustling Railroaders a firmer grip on first place with a two-game lead over the Auto-Barbers in second place. It was a tough dose for the Carpenter-Painters and especially for Paul Keith, youthful righthander, who limited the leaders to three hits. Two of these bingles, coming together in the sixth together with two errors and a hit batsmen, enabled the Santa Fe to come from behind and take the lead.

Pressley Weakens in 4th

Pressley started on the mound for the Railroaders and was almost invincible until the fourth when he weakened and walked in the Tradesmen's first tally. White was rushed to the rescue and the first ball pitched threw one in the dirt to allow another runner to cross the platter. Ray Taylor's single to right sent two more runs across before the side was retired.

After this round, White held the opposition hitless and scoreless.

MATCH GIVES PROMISE OF BEING SCRAP; SEAT SALES EXPECTED TO BE $500,000

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP).—A heavyweight struggle of entertaining possibilities reared up today through the excitement of the east's biggest sport week of the year to demand its proper share of attention.

Madison Square Garden offers Herr Max Schmeling, Teuton Schlager, taking his best shots at Paulino Uzcudun, hitherto punch-proof wodchopper from the Pyrenees of Spain, in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

The match, a charity affair for the benefit of Mrs. William R. Hearst's milk fund, is the first in several yeass to bring together over the long route two first ranking heavyweights of definitely roughhouse tendencies. The winner will stand in the direct path of any aspirant to the heavyweight crown discarded last year by Gene Tunney. Only Jack Sharkey and Jack Dempsey will share his position.

Like Dempsey.

The young German, so like Dempsey in his ferocity, blasted Johnny Risko out of the picture in the seventh round of his third major American engagement last winter. Paulino has dropped occasional decisions in three years of steady battling here but never without a stirring struggle.

Although most of the critics believe Schmeling will win. The general belief is he must first prove ability to stand up under Paulino's lathering fire to the body. The betting is 6 to 5 with both favorites, depending whether odds are sought in the Spanish or the German sections of the city.

Both have finished outdoor training in apparently perfect trim, Schmeling's work in Lakeside, N. J., and Paulino's at Hoosic Falls, N. Y., is over but neither will appear here until Thursday with all top priced tickets of $50 sold, a gate of approximately $500,000 is expected.

PANHANDLE TO RECEIVE MILK PLANT

BOOM GIVEN DAIRYING INDUSTRY IN CARSON COUNTY

(Special To The Journal)

PANHANDLE, June 26.—Quite a boom of interest and activity is awaiting the arrival of a churn—an instrument that makes butter, and buttermilk—in Carson county.

When the churn arrives the Carson County Creamery will be officially opened and prizes will be given to the first people becoming patrons; a very valuable dairy animal will be given to the person bringing the most cream for a specified time, and other activities will be inaugurated. But most important, will be the fact that another source of income will be added to those now in existance in Carson county.

Experts in Charge

The creamery, owned and managed by F. J. Hollcroft, will be under the direction of T. M. Holsenback of Hickory, North Carolina. Holsenback is an expert butter maker, and creamery man, and has been associated with the Cataba creamery at Hickory.

According to Geo. P. Grout, county agent who has been assisting in putting over the creamery project, a pure bred Guernsey heifer or bull will be given the dairy farmer of Carson county who brings the most and best quality of cream during the first six weeks after the creamery opens. However the contest rules are tentative and may be revised. Other prizes will include milk scales, milk cans and covered pails.

"SHOW DOWN" IS ASKED FOR WORK

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP).—Calling for a "fair and square show down" with a view to more effective prohibition enforcement, Wade H. Ellis, assistant to the attorney general during the Taft administration, has advanced the proposal that federal government funds for this purpose be withheld from states which are not cooperating in upholding the dry laws.

His plan, he believes, would inspire "a greater sense of personal and local responsibility" under the concurrent power for enforcement granted in the Eighteenth Amendment and would "have an immediate and electrical effect all over the country."

"It means, he explained in a radio address broadcast under the auspices of the District of Columbia Sons of the American Revolution, "merely that where the people of any one of the states show, by their legislation and administration, that they want the bootlegger or the saloon, the United States government will let them enjoy the company of their choice.

Organized in the thirteenth century, the semi-annual fair will be held at Vienna, Austria, next September.

The Tinymites were scared indeed. Their wagon now picked up much speed and bumped across the countryside. They knew not what to do. With both horses broken loose, the Tinies found it was no use to try to stop their pell-mell pace, So, on and on they flew.

"I wish," cried Coppy, "We would find somebody who would be real kind and stop this reeling wagon. We're bound to travel till we stop. Then we, no doubt, will take a flop. I'd try to lasso some near tree, if I just had a rope."

"Oh, don't talk silly," Scouty said. "Why don't you ever use your head? 'Twould be absurd to try to rope a tree, or anything. I'm sure that that would stope us quick and throw us all out very slick. The plan is not a good one 'cause real trouble it would bring."

The scarecrow then spoke up. Said he: "I think we're safe as we can be as long as week riding. Why, I call this heaps of fun. I don't know how long this will last, but we are going some place fast. I'd rather travel this way than to have to walk or run."

"Of course you would," someone replied. "It's natural that you'd like to ride. You're only stuffed with straw, and it won't hurt you if you fall. With us it's different. Oh my, yes. Whene'er we fall we're in a mess. We don't like taking chances like we are now. Not at all!"

Just then a big tree loomed nearby, and everyone heard Scouty cry, "Look out! Look out! We're going to crash. We'll shortly end this race!" And he was right. Oh, mercy me! The speeding wagon hit the tree. The scarecrow and the Tinies promptly sailed right out through space.

(The Tinymites meet a monstrous grasshopper in the next story.)

POULTRY WORK IN LUBBOCK COUNTY IS PROFITABLE, DEMONSTRATIONS REVEAL

Six poultry demonstrators of Lubbock county working under the supervision of E. R. Holmgreen, poultry specialist of Texas A. & M. college, have handed in reports on their projects. The report follows:

In the six flocks there are 890 birds and from these a total of 14,859 eggs were produced.

Sales of fowls and eggs amounted to $338.76.

Average for each demonstrator $57.75.

Profits less feed costs $280.93.

Average profits less feed costs, $46.82.

Breeds represented in these reports are Rhode Island Whites, White Leghorns, Rhode Island Reds, with White Leghorns in the majority.

Mrs. Shipp Highest.

Mrs. E. R. Shipp of Shallowater, made the best showing for the month of May, with her flock of 212 White Leghorn hens averaging an income per hen was 38 cents while her production met the standard for the month of May of an average of 19 eggs per hen.

Mrs. J. C. Stanford, of Southwest Ward, was a close second with an average profit of 37 cents per hen from her flock of 270 White Leghorns.

Others demonstrating are: Mrs. R. A. Powell, Becton; Mrs. Ed. Schroeder, Wolffarth; Mrs. J. T. Pinkston, Slaton; Miss Faustina Woodruff, Hardy. Mrs. Earl Lovelace, also is keeping records but has not reported for the month of May.

Show Value of Poultry.

The object of these demonstrations is to show that there is money in poultry on the South Plains if they are handled properly. These reports show that production and profits increase or decrease with the amount of care that is given the birds.

According to experts, hens must be housed properly, fed properly, must have shade, cool water, etc., during warm weather and must be in a healthy condition before they can be expected to be high producers. Too many poultry men allow their hens to rustle for themselves and provide little or no shelter for them. Then they complain when they fail to produce. Profits increase with production and production increases with management.

The earth is two hundred times as thick as its crust.

AVIATION'S GIFT TO MOTORISTS

ON the ground or in the air, -TP- Oils keep the engine running smoothly. This new type of oil was originally developed for aviation. Endurance tests soon demonstrated its superiority for airplane engines, and there was an instant demand for an oil that would offer the motorist the same advantages.

Now you can purchase -TP-Aero Oils in grades adapted to automobile engines. These oils are produced from pure, paraffine-base crude by a process for which patents are pending.

This process has marked advantages over other methods. It preserves all the lubricating bodies of the crude oil just as they occur in nature. It eliminates the necessity for blending light and heavy oils to produce various grades, and it positively removes all the paraffine wax.

In terms of performance this means perfect lubrication at all times, smoother, more efficient operation for your engine, longer life, reduced repair bills, and more mileage at less cost per mile. It is wise economy to pay 45c a quart for -TP- Oil.

Thought For Today

Go to the ant, thou sluggard: consider her ways, and be wise.—Proverbs 6:6.

A poor idle man can not be an honest man.—Achilles Poincelot.

Brings Riches

The lowly rabbit, which used to be the chief pest of farmers in New Zealand and Australia, is now providing those people with a good deal of prosperity.

When rabbits were first introduced into the lands down under, they nearly ate the farmers out of house and home. So rapidly did they multiply that crops were devastated. Farmers used to organize great drives to round them up and exterminate them.

Then someone discovered that America was a marvelous market for felt hats. And rabbit skins are used in the making of felt. So, now according to Major W. H. Cochrane, assistant secretary of the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, many shiploads of rabbit skins reach New York annually from New Zealand and Australia, to make hats for the American head.

The result, of course, is that the same farmers who used to curse the rabbit are now making money off of him, and the ships that bring the pelts to this country are taking back autos, radios, plumbing equipment and other adjuncts of prosperity.

Germany Again?

Frank H. Simonds, who writes on European affairs with a good deal of authority, takes an exceedingly gloomy view of what Europe's future will be if the nations of Europe do not follow the suggestions of the recent Geneva conference and reduce their armies.

Writing in the June Review of Reviews, Mr. Simonds predicts that maintenance by such major powers as France and Italy of their present armies will eventually cause Germany, potentially the greatest military power of all, to rebuilt a huge standing army.

"For the moment, the question, so far as Germany is concerned, is in abeyance," he writes. "While allied troops are on German soil and reparations are still be be adjusted the Germans are unlikely to break the contract which binds them to helplessness in the face of armed neighbors.

"But no one believes that in the future Germany will stay disarmed. Thus the failure today at Geneva, if it stands, must foreshadow the return of Germany to the ranks of conscript nations and the restoration of an armed continent."

Traffic Deaths

Automobiles continue to kill an ever-increasing number of people.

Figures compiled by the National Safety Council show that accidents for the first four months of 1929 are a good 5 per cent higher than for the same period of 1928, and no check to this ominous increase is in sight.

It is notable that much of this increase comes from rural regions. The cities report, for the most part, about the same totals as they had a year ago; but in the country districts the toll is going up.

This may be a cogent argument for strong, well-equipped state traffic police patrols. It undoubtedly is an argument for greater care and watchfulnes son the part of each individual motorist. Our motor traffic fatality list is rapidly getting too frightful to be borne.

A Benefit

Say what you will about prohibition—at least it gets some odd and peculiar news items into the daily papers.

In Salt Lake City a maker of moonshine dumped his mash on the ground near the chicken house. His roosters ate of it, got woefully intoxicated, and proceeded to indulge in the strangest antics any Salt Lake City poultry ever attempted.

A prohibition agent, noticing their odd behavior, investigated. Result: the moonshiner is under arrest and two hens with have been seized.

Yes, prohibition does give us some stories that are out of the ordinary.

THE PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says the radiator is the most striking thing about an automobile—it usually hits you first!

* * *

For some time now a flock of the customers have been worrying The Plainsman half to death to divulge the identity of "That Girl on Broadway." Something has to be done about it so we'll just have to compromise. The conductor of this institution firmly refuses to give out the name, address or telephone number of the young lady in question but he is willing to let the followers of her daily pointers have a look at her. That ought to be fair enough so here goes—with a bang.

* * *

Ladeez and gen-tulmen! (Blare of trumpets, ringing of bells, rolling of drums). It is with great pleasure that we introduce to our readers the leading lady—that pulchritudinous, pungent little lady whose followers legion—

THAT GIRL ON BROADWAY!

Take a good look at her, folks! She walks, she talks, she eats, she breathes—she's alive! Come ovah! Come ovah! Your one and only opportunity to ever look upon her in her native haunts!

Now, if everybody who has been worrying about the identity of That Girl on Broadway is satisfied, we can turn to other things. Tomorrow we'll introduce, for the benefit of his public, That Man on Avenue Q. Watch tomorrow's column for his picture—but don't expect anything else!

* * *

If there is no such thing as a moron, how do you account for people who park their cars in such a way to take up three ordinary spaces?

* * *

Anyone who says that the young man of today doesn't have a chance because all the paths of glory are blocked by persons who started a generation or so ago, is not keeping abreast of the time, as it were. Here's a tip worth much to some young fellow:

* * *

Invent a mucilage for postage stamps that will make them stick. The nonsticking qualities of the government product, discussed every so often, again have taken the spotlight. Several remedies have been suggested for these stamps which bounce off. One is that postmasters issue thumbtacks with the stamps to hold them on better and a committee had this under consideration. One of the complaints made is that rubber is being used instead of mucilage on the backs of the stamps to make them curl up after being moistened and smacked on a letter. This has been denied by postal authorities.

Work on a solution to this problem is an opportunity for some clever inventor who has nothing else to do in the way of inventing.

* * *

The announcement of Saint Louis zoo-keepers that monkeys of that institution are approaching nervous breakdowns from watching the antics of human beings who come to visit them recalls a little verse, gleaned from some where or another, to the effect that:

Two monkeys came from native wood.
To view the ways and haunts of men:
Two mortal hours they silent stood
And then, content, went back again.

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says if the state legislature and Congress keep on passing additional laws we can forget about the Fourth of July. There won't be any independence left to celebrate.

* * *

It won't be long now until we'll have something else to argue about. The City commission and the Board of City Development are going to do something about zoning and in the offing is a proposed campaign to turn chaos in building into something more orderly—not to mention paying some attention to the directions and intersections of streets and avenues.

* * *

No one gets much pleasure out of living in a home which is frowzy, dowdy and unkempt. Similarly, few people enjoy residence in a city which has all the appearance of having been laid out by a drunken Mexican on a burro and which has banana stores, filling stations and glue factories backed up against churches and fine residences.

* * *

We hear a lot about 'orderly marketing' of South Plains cotton crops. What we need in Lubbock is orderly building and orderly planning for the unprecedented growth which beckons in the future.

* * *

Diversification in crops is all right but when it is applied to architecture, length and width of streets and incoherant jumbles of homes, groceries and what-not, diversification is 'not so hot.'

* * *

Mayor Woods, President Hubert Allen and their respective organizations may be assured of support of more intelligent people in their approaching campaign to better Lubbock by zoning. Any opposition which may arise will come from those who do not understand what zoning is all about.

Foreign Embassies In Washington Are Not Going To Go Dry Despite Recent Hubbub, Rodney Dutcher Discovers

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 26—Perhaps some of the dry brethren in the more remote sections will sleep smilingly tonight under the quaint illusion that some of the embassies here have gone dry and that there is more or less hope of drying them all up in the near future.

In the interest of truth and light, it must be said that such an idea is considerably exaggerated and that it is considered very doubtfu whether tere will be any change whatever in the diplomatic liquor situation, despite all the recent commotion.

It may be that the pique of British Ambassador Sir Esme Howard will lead him to stop serving alcoholic beverages at his official functions; he may even carry out his threat to stop importing any more bottles into the embassy, though he will do neither of those things if he listens to the Americans here who are accustomed to attend his parties.

Sir Esme Is'nt Pleased

There is no question that Sir Esme has been very sore at all the criticism and publicity which his embassy has received merely because it took advantage of the diplomatic liquor immunity enjoyed by all foreign diplomats. It is also true that his prestige as dean of the diplomatic corps is sufficient to withstand any resulting social obloquy.

But the embassy isn't dry now and a large consignment of wet goods is already enroute to it over the high seas and only when all that is consumed will one be able to tell just what's going to be done.

Other diplomats have made it perfectly plain that they aren't going to give up the wines and liquors to which they are accustomed. If the British curtail on their American guests they will be virtually alone in that respect, and common belief is that not even the British are going to stop serving what they please among themselves and at private functions.

Foreign diplomats here, always jealous of their privileges, generally are only too happy to treat thirsty American friends—and few, if any, are the American friends who are not even more delightful about it than their hosts.

Wines and liquors have become an arm of diplomacy under the Volstead Act. Sinister and insidious as the thought may be, diplomats have found themselves immensely more popular and the Americans a whole lot more interested in their affairs. Obviously, the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals mean nothing to an ambassador. But there are cabinet officials, senators and other officials and public men who can help him directly or indirectly in promoting the interests of his country. And good diplomats are not supposed to overlook any good bet to improve personal relations with them.

Serving liquor to Americans has actually become a serious drain on some of the diplomatic missions whose budgets are restricted. In fact, an attache of one legation recently wrote complainingly to a Washington newspaper of "the extraordinary thirst of American legislators and public officials."

"It is embarrassing," he wrote, "to turn a deaf ear always to influential American officials when they make the fact exceedingly obvious that they are not annoyed when packages of choice liquors are thoughtfully sent to their homes."

May Dry U. S. Embassies

Of course the question of drying up the foreign embassies here is more or less linked with the proposition of drying up our own diplomatic establishments abroad. Some drys think our own diplomats ought to set the example.

A bill extending the prohibition law to America's diplomats in foreign capitals doubtless will appear in Congress sooner or later, though it won't have the approval of the State Department or the White House.

After that it doubtless would be considered necessary to install a prohibition agent in each American embassy or legation to make sure of the law's enforcement and to keep out the bootleggers.

Overdevelopment Is Danger, Says Wilbur

COALINGA, Calif., June 26 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Wilbur declared here today that "disorderly overdevelopment of the Kettleman Hills Oil field by interested parties would be like so many hogs fighting to get to the trough."

The secretary was speaking before the Chamber of Commerce of Coalinga, the nearest city to the Kettleman Hills field.

He declared that Kettleman Hills probably was the greatest oil discovery in history and that it "improper and hasty development at a time when the country already is flooded with oil will go down in history as the action of a foolish people."

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, June 26—The Manhattan variation on the county fair may be found almost any week in the year either at Grand Central Palace or, less often, at Madison Square Garden.

Everything from pure food to airplanes have their day at the endless round of exhibitions which, but for their "bigger and better" atmosphere, might be a part of the annual affairs staged in the more rural communities.

The whole world is drawn to the New York shows, I am told—chemists, florists, manufacturers, furniture fanciers and home decorators. Exhibits come from every point of the globe and some twenty-five million people have looked upon them.

Here it was that many years ago a young man went about with a basket of hot dogs. Today this individual is many times a millionaire—Harry Stevens, the "hot dog king" of America, who made his pile from the appetites of the city dwellers. Other fortunes have been made here in cornucopias and odd caterings such as one might find on any fair grounds.

In a Madison Avenue shop there appears a window display of neckties which are advertised as "the ties preferred by Lindbergh."

They are not exactly the ties one might expect the "lone eagle" to affect. That is, unless you believe that the lone eagle screams. For they are a bit loud.

The story behind the window display is to the affect that Anne Morrow, just before her marriage, was trailed by a flock of reporters who followed her to this shop.

There she bought an assortment of the ties, presumably for Lindy. When the papers revealed the wanderings of Miss Morrow, who had not been recognized by the clerk, the shop immediately decorated its window.

And while talking about shops, there's a place just opened where the millions of bachelors in New York can go to have their sox darned. A 24-hour service is maintained.

The problem of getting sox mended is one of the major difficulties facing the unmarried horde, I am told. A number of women have taken sox darning up as a business, but to my knowledge this is the first mid-town shop devoted to such an industry. Most of the business is received during the evening hours when the gents come home from work and find the sad state of their laundries.

And a new shirt I saw in some snappy shoppes are called "the Traffic" because they're bright red and green.

When the other night, the Players Club gave "Becky Sharp" as their annual revival, the original "Becky" was sitting in a box looking on. She was Minnie Maddern Fiske, who, through some magic, seems to have come upon the recipe for eternal youth. It was something like 30 years ago that Mrs. Fiske created the character in Langdon Mitchell's dramatization of the Thackeray novel.

Only a few persons in the audience were aware of her presence since she slipped in after the rise of the curtain to prevent any special fuss being made.

Scientists say changeable weather is best for us. It's true most of us wouldn't have anything to talk about if we didn't have a rain to cool things off once in a while.

John Haynes Holmes says that any man who gets married has to sacrifice 50 per cent of his individual liberty. It's interesting to know that any man has that much liberty left to give.

Florenz Zeigfeld says the public isn't interested in his revues and he's going to quit. The trouble is, you can see his revues free on the beaches these days.

SOAP AND HOT WATER TREATMENT PROTECTS SUSCEPTIBLE PERSONS

Dermatitis Venenata (Part 3)
Poison Ivy, Oak and Sumac

Yesterday I described the poison ivy, oak and sumac plants.

Mr. J., who is extremely susceptible to the poisons of these plants, claims that he can be poisoned by being anywhere near them so the poison must be wafted through the air.

We don't think this is true, Mr. J., for it seems to be established that the poisonous property is contained in an oily principle called toxicodendrol. (It can probably be extracted from all parts the plant.) As this oil is not volatile, it would not get into the air. The probability is that you have touched something that has come in contact with the plants. For instance, some friends, or some horses, dogs or other animals! However, the popular belief that smoke from burning plants may cause poisoning, is true, for it contains finely-divided particles of the oil. Some very bad cases of poisoning have originated in this manner.

Susceptibility. There is probably no one who is absolutely immune to the action of the poison from these plants. Some who are not ordinarily susceptible to poison ivy and oak are susceptible to poison sumac. Whether those who are apparently immune have thicker skins or perspire less so that the pores are not so open, or whether there is a more general body resistance, is not known.

Symptoms. The symptoms arise in a few hours to five days, or even longer, depending upon the degree of exposure and the susceptibility.

One part of the body can be affected by the irritant transferred by the hands, clothing or through bathing. The first sign is usually a slight burning and itching which increase as the inflammation develops. (If it becomes infected, there may be pus.) Redness, swelling, and often small blisters, develop in patches. After the inflammation, peeling takes place. The swelling usually goes down as rapidly as it develops, and under ordinary conditions shouldn't cause undue alarm.

Preventive Treatment

As the poisonous principle of the plants is an oil, the use of soap and hot water will dissolve it, and this is one of the best methods of preventing its development. Don't use a flesh brush. Use a heavy lather and several pledgets of gauze and continue washing for four or five minutes, using the different pieces of gauze and discarding each in turn, and change the water frequently or else use running water. Repeat the process in four or five hours. The hair should be washed also.

It would be wise for the susceptibles to apply a strong solution of soap suds on the exposed parts before, and several times during, a hike or picnic. One of our readers reported that this procedure protected him and some 25 of his friends (all susceptible—I mean to poison ivy) from being attacked.

There is an immunizing treatment recommended by Scramberg in the Journal of the A. M. A., October, 1918. The prescription he gives follows:

Tincture of poison ivy plant, 1 part.
Rectified spirits, 5 parts.
Syrup of orange, 94 parts.

This is taken diluted in one-half glass of water in increasing doses, beginning with one drop after breakfast, and increasing one drop at each meal until 21 drops are taken at a dose. Then a teaspoon daily is taken all through the ivy season.

Don't eat the poison ivy leaves in the spring with an idea that that will give immunity! It may stop your chewing permanently!

Tomorrow I'll give you the treatment in the event that the poisoning does develop.

LIBRARY EXTENSION TO FARM APPROVED
BY ARTHUR M. HYDE, Secretary of Agriculture

(Arthur M. Hyde was born at Princeton, Mo., July 12, 1877. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the State University of Iowa. From 1900 to 1915 he practiced law at Princeton, Mo. He was mayor of Princeton from 1908 to 1910. In 1915 he moved to Trenton. From 1921 to 1925 he was governor of Missouri. He was appointed secretary of agriculture by President Hoover.)

The drive for improvement in rural schools, which is taking place in many of our states, must mean improvement in all that makes a good rural school and a well selected collection of books is an essential in the equipment of the consolidated school.

ARTHUR M. HYDE

I have noted with approval the work of many women's organizations interested in school improvement, and the impetus to improvement efforts resulting from the enactment of the Capper-Ketcham act which supplements the earlier Smith-Lever Extension act.

These acts constitute the basis of what has been called the largest popular university for the education of rural men and women, boys and girls, in the world. The extension staff of more than 5,400 college-trained federal-state extension workers, the 240,000 voluntary assistants drawn chiefly from among college and high-school graduates and outstanding farm men and women, and the 1,500,000 demonstrators of better farm and home practices might well be called the faculty of a great national and state extension university.

Another potent force in the campaign to reach the remotest farm homes with good books, is the enthusiasm and spirit of the type of young library workers who are developing or who are entering this field of rural service. Then in each state we have the specialized agricultural librarians at the land-grant college, the experiment station, the university.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Because she is in love with her employer, JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, successful lawyer, NAN CARROLL, secretary, decides to resign. She lingers, however, when she hears Morgan is to defend, as supposed friend, BERT CRAWFORD. Nan suspects that Crawford and IRIS MORGAN, wife of John Curtis Morgan, are lovers.

After Crawford's acquittal, he leaves at once, followed closely by Iris. She writes Morgan she will never return to him, cleverly omitting reference to Crawford. Nan saves Morgan from despair by directing him more deeply into his work. For six months she acts as long distance housekeeper for him, winning the love of little Curtis, his son, and bringing comfort to a man who ironically thinks only of another.

Nan returns from her bar examinations and Morgan tells her he has decided to divorce Iris. He proposes, and Nan marries him.

They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the arrival of DAVIS BLACKHULL, accused of the murder of his father, who begs Morgan to defend him. Nan adds her entreaty and Morgan agrees.

For three months the farcical marriage continues, Nan believing Morgan cannot banish thoughts of Iris, and Morgan believing Nan married him out of pity and love for little Curtis. Nan tells herself she can go on no longer in this manner. Hysterically she goes to her room to pack. She is cramming clothes into a suitcase when a low knock interrupts her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

For the first time since she had come to occupy it three months before, John Curtis Morgan stepped into his wife's bed room. Nan, clinging to the knob, retreated slowly to make way for him. His face was flushed but grim with determination. He did not see the disorder of the room, the half-packed suitcase; his black eyes bored into hers.

"Nan! Nan!" How thick and queer his voice was! "What did you mean, when you said I was 'stupid, blind?' Nan! Tell me!" he urged with curious violence.

"I won't tell you—anything!" she gasped, retreating from him until the door banged against the wall.

"I've got to know!" He was almost shouting at her, and the flush on his grim, lean face grew darker. "Did you mean—could you possibly mean—that you—love me?"

Nan's hands released the door knob, flew to her cheeks, pressed hard into them, but she did not try to hide her eyes from him. She had never looked so proud as she did in her moment of supreme humiliation. "Of course I love you!" Her nostrils and lips quivered. "Why did you think I married you?" Why was he starring at her so blankly, so incredulously? "And now that you've made me say it—go away, oh, go away! You might have left me my pride—"

She whirled sharply away from him, but the next instant her small body was spun about again, but this time not in obedience to her will, but by the strength of his arms, a strength that for a moment threatened to crush in her ribs. Not that she felt the pain.

"I—don't want—your pity!" she gasped against his coat. "Let me go—"

"Pity?" he laugher, in a voice rough with emotion. "Oh, Nan!"

Somehow he shifted her so that her head lay in the crook of his right arm. Above her, coming closer and closer, were his black eyes, liquidly brilliant, wider than she had ever seen them. It was like trying to face twin suns. Blinded, she closed her own eyes. . . .

A thousand times Nan had dreamed of his first kiss, and now she learned what pallid things dreams can be beside the ecstacy of reality. If he had released her when he lifted his head at last she would have fallen to the floor. But he did not release her. Oh, no, no! she exulted, as he held her head against his breast, so that she heard the deep, quick throbbing of his heart.

"Was that pity, Nan? . . . At last he laughed, his voice vibrating joyously, "we talk the same language. For three months I've been telling myself that I didn't want your pity—that until you learned to love me I'd not touch you—Oh, Nan, my darling, what stupid, blind fools we've been! Two supposedly intelligent adults, sick with love for each other, keeping each other at a distance."

But a little later she had to defend herself against his charge, of course. "I don't see how you can say I kept you at a distance," she gasped jerkily, for her whole body was trembling.

"You locked me out on our wedding night," he reminded her gently. "I didn't reproach you. How could I? I thought you had married me out of pity—and because you wanted to be a mother to the boy. All that day I had felt like an exiled king about to be led into a new kingdom—and then—I was banished again. I blamed only myself, not you. I tried to resign myself to the truth—that no woman could love me. I blamed you no more than I blamed—Iris—"

It was the first time that name had passed his lips since their wedding day. Nan turned in his arms and stared at him, searching his eyes with the last flare-up of the old, sickening fear. No, thank God, the name had not brought back the shadow of pain to his beloved eyes.

Nan summoned all her courage. "They must speak of Iris now, or the name would forever stand a barrier between them. "I thought you still loved Iris," she said steadily.

He answered, "I thought I did, too, until—I wanted to take my real wife in my arms and found the door locked against me."

"Oh!" The word was a little wail of pain. She forced herself to confess: "I—that night—when you'd gone to see Nina Blackhull—"

"You made me go," he reminded her. "I didn't care a damn about a murder case that night, but you'd held yourself aloof all day, and at dinner poor, funny little Curtis had said terrible things unconsciously—but go on, darling—"

"You hadn't kissed me," Nan accused him. "You hadn't even said you loved me, and— No, let me finish, John! When you had gone, I went into the library and there, among your law books, I found a book of poems. I read the one you'd been reading a few days before, for you'd left a marker in it—"

"A poem?" he frowned, in apparently genuine bewilderment.

Nan quoted that last dreadful stanza:

"'And I shall find some girl, perhaps,
And a better one than you,
With eyes as wise, but kindlier,
And lips as soft, but true,
And I daresay she will do'."

Her husband's puzzled frown did not clear. "I never read any such poem, darling Nan—"

"No? You don't remember these lines, either?" she challenged, and gave him the first stanza:

"'Your hands, my dear, adorable,
Your lips of tenderness
—Oh, I've loved you faithfully and well,
Three years, or a bit less—'"

But Morgan interrupted, giving the last line himself: "'It wasn't a success,' Poor Nan! I read no further than that first verse and the beginning of the next: "Thank God, that's done!' I echoed those words, Nan, with all my heart—'Thank God, that's done!'"

"You mean—?" Nan quivered. "Oh, John, don't lie to me now! I can bear the truth, if you love me as well as Iris—"

"I'm trying to tell you the truth, Nan," he interrupted gravely. He held her away from him for a moment, then stooped and lifted her into his arms, carried her to the one big armchair that the room offered. But one was enough. She lay, child-small, in his lap, her head against his breast, so that she could listen to the beating of his heart as well as to his words. "You must know," he began haltingly, "how it was with me. You saw—us together for three years. Would you have said that I was a—happy man, Nan?"

"No," she whispered. Her fingers took fierce hold on the lapel of his coat. It was still necessary to convince herself every now and then that it wasn't all a dream.

"I was a slave in bondage, Nan. Lord! I don't mean to sound pathetic, but it's so necessary that I try to make you understand now, so that we can forget the past and be happy. You know, Nan, I used to get a dim sort of feeling that it made you angry to see us together—"

"It did!" she agreed, vehemently nodding her shining brown head against his breast. "She didn't love you, and saw you small, made you small when she was with you. I loved you, and saw you big—"

"And made me big," Morgan interrupted, laughing exultantly. "Don't you think I realize that Nan has 'made me what I am today'—whether she's satisfied or not? But—did you really love me then?"

"Won't you leave me a shred of my pride?" Nan protested, blood rushing into her cheeks. "But—oh, what does pride matter now? I loved you from the first day I worked for you. I tried to be decent enough to resign, when I found out what was the matter with me—"

"When was that?" he demanded eagerly as a boy with his first sweetheart.

"Oh!—when Willis Todd wanted to marry me and was jealous of you, and tried to make me say I loved him and didn't love you," she answered.

"And for three months I've been tormented by the suspicion that you loved Willis Todd and married me only because I needed you more than he did." Morgan confessed. "But—about Iris. It had better be said—all of it, and then we can talk about us. I did love her, Nan, with the most painful, shameful, degrading, enslaving love that a man ever felt for a woman who could not love him. She didn't try to pretend that she loved me. As I said a while ago, I don't blame her. But I used to pray to God, in my agony, to wake up the next morning and find myself free of my love.

"I knew Iris would be relieved, even if her vanity would have suffered. I must have bored her and annoyed her unbearably with my passion. It made her despise me and hurt me in thousands of little ways. But—I couldn't cure myself. My malady was so malignant that it required a surgeon's knife—and Iris elected to be the surgeon."

He paused and Nan's heart lunged sickeningly. Was he living again the agony worse than death which that major operation had caused him? She held her breath.

His arms tightened about her. One hand cupped her little face with such infinite tenderness that tears sprang into the girl's eyes. "I had a marvelous nurse after the operation," he pursued the metaphor whimsically. "It was her devoted care which made the operation a success, more than the surgeon's knife. And as most patients do, I—fell in love with my nurse. . . . And, oh Nan! The wonder of it—to be free of the malady!" Nan whispered. "Sometimes such maladies break out—again—"

"Are you—sure—you're cured?"

THE BEST PURCHASE

For some time now we have been telling the discriminating real estate buyer about that property up on Q, at 804 and reminding you that for a medium sized purchase there is nothing in Lubbock as good as this.

At $3150 it most certainly does afford the buyer a chance to make some real money. The lot is 55 by 148 and will carry three small stores of economical construction that will pay a better rental rate than high priced realty closer in.

SHARES AGAIN UP IN GOTHAM

STOCK PRICES RESUME RECOVERIES TODAY IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jun 26 (AP).—Stock prices resumed their recovery at the opening of today's market. Missouri, Kansas and Texas opened with a block of 15,000 shares at 53, up 1 5-8, and U. S. Steel common opened with a block of 5,700 shares a t185 7-8, up 1. Allied Chemical advanced 2 1-2 points to a new high at 319. Early gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points also were recorded by Anaconda, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Columbia Graphophone and Childs Co. Commercial Solvents dropped 2 points.

Establishment of new high levels for the year yesterday by the public utility and railroad averages in the face of 10 per cent call money rates had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment.

Steel shares were again in the forefront on predictions of unusually large first half year earnings. U. S. Steel common crossed 187, highest price since the enlargement in capitalization. Crucible attained a new high at 103 and Vandium and Republic showed early gains of 4 and 3 points, respectively.

Rails also were in brisk demand, with buying influenced by the excellent car loadings and current earnings reports. Atchison, New York Central and Union Pacific all moved into new high grounds.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with cables unchanged at 4.84 25-32.

WHEAT SAGS ON RAIN REPORTS

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP).—Reports of beneficial rains in Canadian drouth section led to early downturns in wheat values today. Opening at 1 cent to 1 3-4 cents set back, wheat afterwards recovered much of the loss. Corn paralleled the action of wheat, starting 3-8 cents to 3-4 cents off, and subsequently turning upgrade. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended to sag.

HAIL DOES MUCH DAMAGE

DURBAN, Natal, June 26 (AP)—The most destructive hailstorm in the city's history occurred here during the night, causing damage which some estimated at 500,000 pounds sterling, (about $2,500,000). A few minutes after the hail started it lay eight inches deep on the streets, some of the stones being four inches in diameter.

"You can't frighten me," Morgan laughed, bending his head to kiss her again. "Of course, if you want to torture yourself— You see, darling, the whole thing was so purely physical. I never loved Iris' mind or her soul. . . . I don't even know whether she had either. I loved her beauty. With you, it was so different. No, wait, you little devil!" he commanded sternly as she was about to take him up on that. "I was going to say that I loved your mind and your brave, fine soul long before I loved your body. I loved you in those ways from the very first, but physically I was enslaved to another woman. When she was —gone, I was free to discover and fall in love with your beauty—"

"I'm not beautiful," Nan protested, a little forlorn note creeping into her voice. "Not—like Iris—"

"No, thank God!" he agreed fervently. "Not like Iris. Her beauty is devilish, yours is—divine. Now—is it all said? Can we be—happy?"

But, womanlike, Nan could not forbear to ask the forbidden question, the one question which she should have avoided above all others. "But John—what if you saw Iris again?"

He did not try to lie to her. Perhaps it would have been better if he had lied. Certainly a great deal that happened later might have been very different if he had. His answer came slowly, conscientiously: "I—don't know. I can only say, 'Nan, I love you with all my heart and soul and mind. I hope I shall never see Iris again'."

"I—see," she said very quietly. Then, raising her head, she looked at him with wide, solemn eyes. "John Curtis Morgan, I love you with all my heart and soul and mind. And thank you for loving me," she odded childishly, as she flung her arms about his neck.

INITIAL TRADES IN COTTON GAIN

NEW ORLEANS, June 26 (AP).—The cotton market opened higher in response to relatively steadier cables. Initial trades showed gains of 1 to 2 points and the market advanced further with reports of rains.

Under pressure of a good trade demand, July advanced to 18.54, October 18.64, and December 18.83, or 7 to 8 points above yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was steady and near the highs.

A Mississippi report showing less weevil infestation and a favorable weekly weather and crop summary induced a wave of selling. July traded down to 18.42, October 18.43 and December 18.64, or 19 to 21 points under the early highs.

At one time July and October were practically parallel but October rallied 6 points towards midsession. At mid-session the market was unsteady and fluctuated within the early range.

GOTHAM PRICES GO UP 1 TO 5 POINTS

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP).—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 4 to 5 points in response to fairly steady cables and reports of rains. Offerings were light, particularly of July, while there seemed to be some covering by July shorts which sent the price up to 18.31 during early trading, or 21 points net higher and within 45 points of October.

Later deliveries sold about 10 to 12 points above yesterday's closing quotations with December advancing to 18.99. There was enough realizing to check the upturn at these prices, but the market was steady and within 4 or 5 points of the best at the end of the first half hour.

Narrowing of the July discount, seemed to bring in a little more selling of that position, while there was also some selling of the later months on a favorable view of the weekly weather report. This eased the market off from the high levels of the morning ubt trading was comparatively quiet around midday with prices ruling about 13 points net higher on July and 4 to 6 points net lower on the more active new crop positions.

WAR IS CLOSED

Ring of Fake "Wounded" Is Uncovered

PARIS, June 26 (AP).—Marking the close of a war by Paris police on doctors who "wounded" their own patients to enable the patients to collect damages, one Paris doctor has been sentenced to two years in prison, a fine, and ordered not to practice medicine for ten years.

Five assistants of this doctor, whose name is Gaston Prieur, have begun sentences of from four to ten months in prison in addition to fines, these include a pharmacist and a nurse.

A number of other doctors are facing trial.

These doctors for a time did a flourishing business, when a man was injured in an accident, or a working man hurt in a factory one of these doctors could keep his injury in such shape that he could collect his pay for months in addition to compensation. Insurance companies also were victims.

The business was interrupted when a detective one day invaded a doctor's office, arrested him, and installed himself as doctor. Then he "consulted" and arrested 27 patients in one day. The war on unscrupulous doctors followed.

Laredo Stockman's Death Unexplained

DELIVERIES OF MILK AND ICE START IN JULY

Representatives from practically every church in the city composed a committee meeting of the Avalanche-Journal and Federated Aid Societies Milk and Ice Fund campaign held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Foster, 1706 Tenth Street, where plans for starting distribution of milk and ice July 1 were outlined.

The distribution will continue until the latter part of September.

Due to the fact that the women do not have regular headquarters at present, the committee decided to make deliveries in automobiles. Two women will have charge of distribution each day. In this way they feel that a closer contact can be opened and a study of the conditions made which wil lenable them to report effectively on the progress of their work. At this time there are approximately nine families who will receive aid.

Wensley Quits Scotland Yard After 31 Years

LONDON, June 26 (AP).—Credited with solution of more murder mysteries than any living man, Frederick Wensley at the age of 64 today announced he would give over his duties as chief of the criminal intelligence division to Scotland Yard to devote his time to his garden.

The control of the division was expected to revert back to the five area superintendents, known as "the big five," since the post of chief constable now held by Wensley was created more as a compliment to his remarkable record of crime detection rather than as a permanent police office.

His career began in the Limehouse district as a plain policeman in 1888. Thirty years of his life were spent in ferreting about the underworld.

.....and exciting too, When Gas-Heated Water is a partner
Rub that towseled top-knot with soap and gas-heated water until it wears a glorious crown of glistening suds!
Then more hot water—straight from RUUD-AUTOHOT—to wash away the dirt—a warm, dry towel and a tiny voice gasps breathlessly, "It's fun, isn't it?" Cleanliness is a fascinating game when you play the modern RUUD-AUTOHOT rules. Instantly and automatically, this new and beautiful hot water machine is always ready, whether the call is for play or work.
