Members of the Salem, N.H., High School band were disappointed and angry that Ronald Reagan's inauguration parade committee had no room for them. Reagan promised some band members they would march if he were elected. Reagan later called and apologized for the misunderstanding and said the band would be in the parade. (AP Laserphoto)

Political clout, publicity get bands in big parade

By The Assocated Press

Old-fashioned political clout at Dixon, Ill., and unfavorable news reports out of New Hampshire have given two high school bands spots in President-elect Ronald Reagan's inaugural parade after they initially were rebuffed.

One school — Salem High School in Salem, N.H., — even got a personal call from Reagan on Friday apologizing for a decision by organizers to leave the band off the inauguration program. Reagan "absolutely" wants the Salem High band in the inaugural parade, said Band Director Albert LaFlamme.

Members of the Salem band had joined Reagan on a campaign trip.

"He (Reagan) was pleased and sent them all personal letters ... and said if elected, he would invite them to be in the inaugural parade," LaFlamme said.

The kids worked for months, held fund-raisers, and eventually gathered $20,000 for the trip to Washington. Early in the year, the band also won a competition to be the official state representative for the event.

But LaFlamme read a letter Thursday from T.M. Chambers, chairman of the inaugural parade committee, which told the school's 220 teen-age band members that "... we were unable to squeeze you into the limited openings in the inaugural parade line-up."

"Just about quarter after three we had a call from President-elect Reagan personally, telling us he is very sorry there is a misunderstanding and he is sorry that it happened and that 'absolutely' he wants the Salem High band in the parade inauguration day," LaFlamme said. "So that finished our day in good shape."

Earlier in the day, the students had not been pleased.

Drum Major Andy Stahly had said he was shocked at the apparent reneging of Reagan's offer. "All of that work has gone down the drain," he said.

At Dixon, intervention by two leading Republicans rescued the high school band from an earlier rejection by the inaugural commitee.

Last week, when the parade committee released the list of 25 high school bands performing at the inaugural and Dixon High School wasn't on it, phone calls, letters and political pressure followed, including suggestions from Gov. James Thompson and Sen. Charles Percy, both Republicans.

On Thursday, Dixon High Principal James German was notified by the parade committee that planners had found spots for two more bands, and Dixon's would be one of them.

Reagan, who was born in nearby Tampico, graduated from Dixon High School in 1928.

U.S. studies 'final' word on hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States on Friday received Iran's "final" word in negotiations aimed at freeing 52 American hostages, but the two sides still appeared to have significant differences over the language of a settlement.

Although U.S. officials declined to characterize the United States' reaction to the Iranian document, they were understood to believe it is not fully acceptable in its present form.

"I would not preclude a response by our side addressing some of the points that the Iranians have raised," said State Department spokesman John H. Trattner.

Iran's latest statement appears to present a new wrinkle: a demand that Iran's assets in the United States, frozen by President Carter in November 1979, be handed over to the Algerian Central Bank for safekeeping. Algeria is mediating the indirect negotiations.

The Iranian document "is a long one. It requires careful study," said Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie. "Until we have given it careful study, I think it would be premature to characterize it or any of its parts."

Trattner said the Iranian response "presents issues of substance as well as questions of procedure which will require consideration here."

The document was described by Behzad Nabavi, a cabinet-level Iranian adviser, as a "final response" to American proposals. But U.S. officials are known not to be overly concerned about his comment, having seen "final" offers from Iran before.

One indication of how long it might take for the United States to formulate a reply was the disclosure that officials are pressing ahead with efforts to arrange Christmas services for the captives.

Asked by reporters whether that means a breakthrough is unlikely before the holiday, Trattner said, "That is the implication you could draw from that."

Muskie was asked by reporters at a State Department Christmas tree-lighting ceremony whether the Iranians appeared to want the hostage crisis resolved before the Carter administration leaves office.

"They're not always clear on that point," he replied.

According to the Iran's official Pars news agency, the transfer of Iran's assets to the Algerian bank must take place before the hostages are freed. Pars also reported that Iran wants "acceptable guarantees" from the United States concerning "other properties and assets and also the riches plundered by the deposed shah and his relatives," which Iran wants returned.

Trattner said it was unclear whether the Iranian demands — sent by cable to the United States by the Algerian delegation — will necessitate a new trip by the Algerians to Washington for consultations.

Also unclear, according to Trattner, is whether Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, who heads the U.S. team working for the captives' release, will have to travel to Algiers to explain a U.S. counter-proposal, as he has done twice before.

The Algerian-mediated negotiations began shortly after the Iranian Majlis, or parliament, listed four conditions on Nov. 2 for the captives' release: a U.S. pledge of non-interference in Iranian affairs, unfreezing of Iranian assets in the United States, return of the shah's fortune and termination of legal claims against Iran.

U.S. officials have said they are willing to pledge non-interference. But the shah's fortune and the suits filed against Iran have proven sticking points because of the administration's inability to speak for U.S. courts.

Friday's disclosure that Iran was seeking transfer of the assets was the first official indication that the two sides differed on this condition.

Meanwhile, U.S. officials said they were continuing their efforts to arrange a Christmas observance for the captives. Spokesman Trattner said the services likely would be conducted by non-American ministers in Tehran.

But he cautioned that arrangements are far from complete and would not say whether Iranian authorities had indicated a willingness to allow an observance.

Three American clergymen traveled to Tehran last Christmas and conducted services at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Since then, the Iranian militants who seized the hostages have said the captives were moved to other locations.

Dollar drops, gold rises

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar dropped sharply and gold prices rose in late trading here Friday as short term interest rates in money markets reversed their recent upward climb.

Although the prime lending rate charged by U.S banks on business loans rose a half percentage point to a record 21.5 percent, dealers said market activity focused more on short-term rates. Those rates declined Friday.

Rates on three-month Treasury bills, for example, fell below 15 percent from 16.2 percent late the previous day.

A rumor that massive downward revisions would be reported in weekly money supply figures also drove down interest rates in money markets and prompted dollar selling, dealers said.

The Federal Reserve's latest round of credit-tightening has come in response to a rapid increase in the nation's money supply so a massive revision in previous numbers might indicate the push to higher rates had been overdone.

But when the report came out late Friday afternoon, M1A was revised downward by a slight $200 million for the previous week. In the latest week ended Dec. 10, M1A dropped a substantial $1.9 billion to $386.6 billion.

High interest rates have sent the dollar up against other key currencies recently because yields on dollar-denominated investments were attractive.

Gold, which also has dropped as interest rates rose, staged a comeback in New York trading. The price of the precious metal jumped $24.80, to $594.30 a troy ounce in current delivery contracts traded on the Commodity Exchange Inc. In later trading at Republic National Bank, gold was bid at $594.50, up $23.50 from Thursday.

In European trading, gold rose $8.25 an ounce in London to $584 and $1 in Zurich to $575.50.

Rates for the dollar, as of 4 p.m. in New York, included: 1.9650 West German marks, down from 1.9880; 4.5663 French francs, down from 4.6060; 1.7800 Swiss francs, down from 1.8050; 207.70 Japanese yen, down from 209.77; 1.1918 Canadian dollars, down from 1.1984. The British pound rose to $2.3508, more expensive than Thursday's rate of $2.3255.

The dollar lost ground against all key currencies in European trading except the Dutch guilder but its slide was not so dramatic. Dealers said trading was quiet.

In London, the British pound strengthened to $2.3380 Friday from $2.32695 Thursday.

Two firms boost gasoline two cents

NEW YORK (AP) — Texaco Inc. and Standard Oil Co. of California, two of the main buyers of Saudi Arabian crude oil, raised U.S. wholesale gasoline prices as much as 2 cents a gallon Friday following a 6.7 percent Saudi crude-oil price increase earlier in the week.

Four other major refiners — Gulf Oil Corp., Shell Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Tenneco Inc. — also raised prices 1 cent to 2 cents a gallon in the past several days, according to company and trade reports.

The hikes reportedly reflected general domestic and foreign oil-price increases and were not directly related to the Saudi action.

The fuel-price increases may be passed on to consumers by dealers. According to the trade publication Lundberg Letter, the average retail price of a gallon of gasoline rose slightly to $1.2139 in November after falling since July.

Texaco did not give a reason for the 2 cents-a-gallon increases it posted in the wholesale prices of gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oil and the 1.8 cents-a-gallon rise in its gasohol price.

But Socal's Chevron U.S.A. division said it was raising gasoline prices as much as 2 cents a gallon in an attempt to make a "partial recovery of the recently announced Saudi Arabian crude oil increase" from $30 to $32 per 42-gallon barrel.

Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp, the other American companies that buy most of Saudi Arabia's oil, said they had not increased prices following the Saudi move, which was retroactive to Nov. 1. Saudi Arabia provides about 8 percent of U.S. oil needs.

The Saudis raised their crude price during a meeting in Indonesia this week of Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries oil ministers. OPEC later decided to allow its prices to rise about 10 percent to as much as $41 per barrel, a move the Energy Department said could cost Americans as much as 7 cents a gallon in higher heating oil and gasoline prices.

Heating oil and diesel fuel prices rose 1 cent a gallon on the West Coast and 1.5 cents a gallon in other areas, the company said.

Santa's parade route

Santa Claus will be making his annual ride through Midland today during the Christmas Parade that starts rolling at 10 a.m.

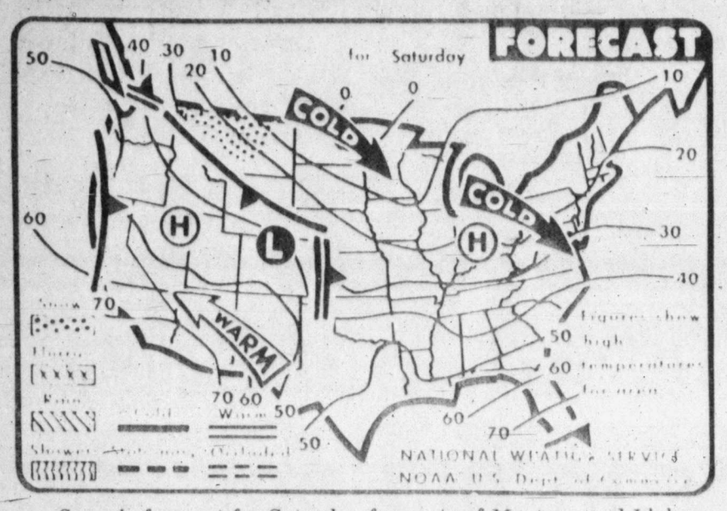

The parade will start at Dennis the Menace Park, wind down Wall Street, turn down Main Street and end on Ohio Avenue.

Santa will be riding on a white Rolls Royce and escorted by six black Rolls Royces. The parade will include about 67 entries — bands and floats — and Miss West Texas.

The parade originally had been slated for Nov. 20 by its usual sponsor — Midland Chamber of Commerce. But lack of response by organizations to participate and conflicting engagements on later Saturdays prompted the Chamber to cancel the parade this year.

Brenda Richter began organizing the parade last week and said enough people had responded to put the parade on the streets.

Reagan may miss goal on Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Ronald Reagan's choices for four of his five unfilled Cabinet posts seemingly in doubt, sources said Friday that the president-elect may now be hard-pressed to meet his goal of completing his selections by Christmas.

Reagan spokesman Jim Brady said additional Cabinet nominations would be announced Monday, but that he did not know how many of the five open positions would be filled.

"There may be the possibility of having one more session (to announce Cabinet selections) after this," Brady said.

REAGAN'S DRIVE TO FINISH work on his Cabinet ran into trouble this week when Philip V. Sanchez, a Mexican-American who was the leading choice to head the Department of Housing and Urban Development, bowed out.

New questions were also raised about the job of interior secretary, which seemed likely to go to Colorado lawyer James G. Watt. One knowledgeable source said Reagan was having second thoughts about Watt, who heads a law foundation that has spearheaded challenges to federal environmental rules.

Watt is fiercely opposed by some Indian groups and environmentalists, some of whom are promoting Rep. Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., a Hispanic, as a replacement.

DESPITE REAGAN'S second thoughts on the interior post, one source said Watt was expected to fly to Washington on Sunday night, presumably for the Cabinet announcements on Monday.

Sources said competition also continued for agriculture secretary with Richard Lyng, former president of the American Meat Institute, the favorite of Reagan's inner circle, but with Illinois Agriculture Director John Block strongly supported by Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan.

"Reagan's caught between a rock and a hard place" on the Agriculture Department job, said one source. Reagan met with both Block and Lyng in California on Thursday.

Sources said Marva Collins, a black educator from Chicago, had emerged as a prominent candidate to head the Education Department, an agency Reagan has vowed to dismantle.

MRS. COLLINS, whose private school in a Chicago poverty area won wide acclaim last year after it was featured on CBS' "60 Minutes," bases her teaching on an unyielding emphasis on reading and sets a firm structure for the education of her 30 pupils.

She said Thursday that she had been contacted by transition officials about the post and had agreed to consider it.

Of the five Cabinet posts Reagan has left to fill, only one appears to be firmly settled — energy secretary, which is expected to go to former South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards.

One source said the uncertainty over the remaining nominees and time-consuming nature of background checks would make it difficult for Reagan to complete the Cabinet by Christmas, the goal set by transition director Edwin Meese III.

ALTHOUGH THE CABINET is still not complete, battle lines are already being drawn over who will hold the important, second-level post of deputy defense secretary.

Some conservative Republicans have launched a behind-the-scenes campaign to block Reagan's possible appointment of Frank Carlucci, currently the No. 2 man at the Central Intelligence Agency.

GOP sources said conservatives are charging that Carlucci contributed to the weakening of U.S. intelligence and aided President Carter's campaign to win ratification of the SALT II treaty.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, also said Carlucci is coming under attack for his lack of defense experience, particularly in light of Defense Secretary-designate Caspar W. Weinberger's limited background in military matters.

CARLUCCI, WHO IS reportedly Weinberger's choice for the job, declined comment Friday on the criticism.

Sanchez, who withdrew his name from consideration for the HUD post Thursday night, said accepting the job would be "financially impossible" because the new ethics-in-government law would have forced him to sell his business holdings.

But a knowledgeable source in Reagan's transition office said Sanchez, a former ambassador and head of the now-defunct Office of Economic Opportunity, was quietly dropped because of information that had been learned about his personal background. The source declined to be identified or discuss the matter in detail.

In a statement issued Friday, Sanchez refused to comment on details of his personal life, saying "rumors" arise about any person in public service but they do not deserve the attention of "any responsible media element."

Burglars take jewelry, guns

A Midland woman reported the theft of more than $5,000 worth of jewelry, guns and stereo equipment from her apartment Friday to the Midland Police Department.

According to police reports, Michele Wilks of 4410 Lanham reported the burglary at 5:31 p.m. after returning home to find some 24 items missing from her home.

A neighbor had seen two black men in their late 20s hanging around the woman's apartment around 2 p.m., but did not see them enter the apartment or take anything from it.

Police reports indicate entry was gained through the sliding glass door of the apartment sometime between 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Items taken from the home included: a string of pearls valued at $350; an 18 kt. white gold three-diamond ring valued at $300; a peridot ring set in 22 kt. gold valued at $200; opal earrings set in 9 kt. gold valued at $75; a 24-inch 24 kt. gold rope chain valued at $700; a 24 kt. gold motorcycle charm valued at $600; a ladies gold watch valued at $100; a Pink Panther child's watch valued at $10; a silver latch bracelet valued at $50; several small charms including ivory and gold Chinese designs valued at $150; a 10 kt. yellow gold man's wedding band valued at $75; Chinese goodluck 9 kt. gold earrings valued at $25; 24 kt. gold earrings valued at $300; a Red Chinese jewelry pouch valued at $10; a Rosewood Chinese jewelry box with a jade top valued at $100; a Browning 12-gauge automatic shotgun and a Remington 1200 20-gauge automatic shotgun, together valued at $800; a Realistic AM-FM stereo with cassette player and turntable and two speakers valued at $400; a black and red Chinese box valued at $15; three Indonesian puppets valued at $40; a ladies silver Seiko watch with a blue face valued at $50; five $100 bills; and a pillowcase and sheet.

Police Roundup

Total value of the items stolen was $5,357, according to police.

Lionel Daury reported the theft of a Sony AM-FM cassette player from his restaurant at 20 Plaza Center at 6:15 p.m. Friday. The player, valued at $250, was removed from the restaurant after Daury left the site between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. Daury told police he had left the door open as electricians had been working in the restaurant.

School bus hit by car

ODESSA — Eight persons were treated and released from Odessa Medical Center here following a collision between an Ector County school bus and a 1970 Mercury station wagon, according to a spokesman with the Department of Public Safety.

At 3:20 p.m. Friday, the station wagon, driven by a 16-year-old male whose name was withheld, collided with the 72-inch National bus driven by Sarah Mae Edwards, 59, at the intersection of April and Cypress Streets.

The station wagon, according to the spokesman, was traveling east "at a high rate of speed" on April Street, when it collided with the left side of the bus as the bus was attempting to make a right-hand turn onto April Street from Cypress Street.

The station wagon caught fire and the bus rolled onto its left side. The bus, too, caught fire, the spokesman said, but Ms. Edwards put out the fire.

Both drivers and six students on the bus were taken by ambulance to Medical Center Hospital, where they were treated and released.

The spokesman said the incident is still under investigation and no charges had been filed.

Haig noncommittal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Gen. Alexander Haig met with Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker at the Capitol on Friday and emerged from the session noncommittal about his chances of confirmation as secretary of state.

Holiday mail pace picks up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Christmas rush at the nation's post offices started later than usual this year, but the pace is picking up and the total probably will match last year's 1.9 billion pieces, postal officials said Friday.

The peak so far this holiday season was Monday's 150 million cancellations of stamped mail, spokesman Lou Eberhardt said. That dropped to 140 million on Tuesday and 127 million on Wednesday, he said. More recent figures are unavailable because of the time needed to get daily totals.

"There probably will be another peak on Sunday or Monday because the last weekend before Christmas always is another heavy time," he said.

Sid Eickhoff, a distribution specialist for the Postal Service, said, "With the period we have left, indications are that it will be about the same level as last year."

U.S. concerned by Israeli raid into south Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States expressed its concern Friday about new violence in southern Lebanon and said the report that three Syrian soldiers had died in the latest fighting represented a particularly serious development.

State Department spokesman John H. Trattner said the United States has no independent confirmation of the Syrian deaths. But, he said, "it is clear that any action by the Israeli defense forces involving Syrian forces represents a dangerous new element."

Israeli paratroopers backed by helicopter gunships attacked Palestinian bases near the guerrilla stronghold of Nabatiyeh before dawn Friday.

Israeli Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan said in Tel Aviv that the raid was part of Israel's policy of hitting the guerrillas before they can hit Israel. He said such cross-border raids would continue.

In Washington, Trattner said the United States would continue to denounce them.

"We have made clear, and we make clear again, that we oppose pre-emptive strikes by Israel against targets in Lebanon and that we support Lebanon's territorial integrity," he said.

The Syrians reportedly killed were said to be members of the peacekeeping force that Syria has maintained in Lebanon since the 19-month Lebanese civil war ended in 1976.

Trattner said the United States was concerned about a pattern of "rising tension and violence in southern Lebanon." He cited not only the Israeli raid but military action by Palestinians and by Christian militias under the command of Maj. Saad Haddad.

A spokesman for the U.N. peacekeeping force in Lebanon — UNIFIL — said a Norwegian soldier was seriously wounded in an exchange of gunfire between Palestinians and Christians.

"The recent armed raids in the UNIFIL area by Major Haddad's forces, the raid today by Israeli defense forces and the continuing attempt by Palestinian armed elements to prevent UNIFIL from carrying out its responsibilities are incompatible with the UNIFIL mandate," Trattner said.

"We believe it is in the interest of all parties concerned to reduce the levels of tension and violence," he said.

The spokesman also warned Israel on Friday against any move to annex the Golan Heights, seized from Syria in the 1967 Six-Day War.

"Our view has been and remains that annexation of the Golan Heights, or any of the territories occupied by Israel in the 1967 war, would be contrary to U.N. Security Council resolutions 242 and 338 on which the Camp David accords and all Middle East peace negotiations since 1967 have been based," he said.

$700,000 in marijuana seized

CRANE — A Piper plane carrying some $700,000 worth of marijuana cargo was seized by lawmen late Thursday at Crane County Airport here after an unknown male abandoned the plane.

About 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Department of Public Safety narcotics officers, Crane County Sheriff's deputies, Crane County Airport officers and DPS aircraft officers seized the plane and confiscated 1,673 pounds of marijuana, which had an estimated street value of $700,000.

DPS spokesmen said no arrests had been made in the incident and that the pilot had fled the scene.

Midland man sentenced to five years

A 26-year-old Midland man who pleaded guilty in federal court to possession of cocaine with intent to distribute the narcotic has been sentenced to five years in prison, fined $3,000 and ordered on special parole for 10 years once he is out of the federal penitentiary.

U.S. Federal Judge Lucius D. Bunton ordered the man, Pete Munoz, to start serving his sentence Jan. 5.

In exchange for his guilty plea, the U.S. government dismissed six related counts on the indictment against the man, who is a convicted felon. Munoz had been indicted on three counts of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute, with conspiracy to possess cocaine and with possession of three firearms — .357-magnum revolver, a 12-gauge shotgun and an AR-15 automatic rifle by a convicted felon.

Moments before the judge sentenced the defendant, he asked Munoz to speak in his own behalf.

"What do you think I ought to do to you, Mr. Munoz," Bunton asked.

"Let me go!" he blurted out.

Instead of the five-year term, the judge could have given Munoz a 15-year-term and fined him $25,000 for the offense.

In a related case, 19-year-old David Copeland, who pleaded guilty to misprision of a felony by failing to report the crime, was placed on probation for five years, ordered to work for 120 days at the Salvation Army unit in Tyler and fined $500 under the federal Youth Corrections Act.

Copeland had been indicted along with Munoz in the cocaine offense, but those indictments were dismissed.

"Well, sir," Copeland told the judge just prior to the meting out of punishment, "I spent 75, 76 days in jail. I made a pretty large mistake and have more values than I had at the time."

"What do you think I ought to do?" Bunton asked.

"I think, sir, I should have a probated sentence...I haven't been arrested before."

The judge saw fit to oblige but admonished the youth:

"You've got to follow that straight line."

U.S. votes against Israel on expulsion of mayors

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Carter's outgoing administration switched its pre-election stand Friday and voted with the 14 other Security Council members in a unanimous appeal to Israel to let two Palestinian mayors return to their towns in the occupied West Bank.

The mayors, Mohammed Milhem of Halhoul and Fawd Qawasmeh of Hebron, immediately announced they would begin a hunger strike at U.N. headquarters to protest their expulsion.

It was the first time in nine months the United States joined the council majority on a resolution against Israeli activities in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza Strip — and after casting the earlier vote the administration called it a mistake.

Israeli Ambassador Yehuda Z. Blum accused the council of "hypocrisy" and said it was "regrettable" the United States supported the return of Milhem and Qawasmeh to their West Bank towns.

The United States abstained twice on similar resolutions last May.

Israeli authorities accused the mayors of fomenting unrest and deported them to neightoring Lebanon on May 8, hours after Arab terrorists ambushed a group of Jewish settlers in Hebron, killing six.

The mayors and their supporters claim Israel is attempting to separate the inhabitants of the occupied territories from local leaders advocating Palestinian statehood.

Casting the U.S. vote was Ambassador Donald F. McHenry, who was caught in the controversy March 1 when the United States supported a council resolution calling on Israel to dismantle its existing settlements in occupied Arab territories and also dealing with Jerusalem.

To McHenry's chagrin, President Carter later called the vote a mistake caused by a communications failure within his administration.

The U.S. reversal was widely regarded as part of election-year politics, with the Democrats hoping to placate angry Jewish voters. The Carter administration will be replaced by the victorious Republicans and President-elect Ronald Reagan Jan. 20.

Between the votes in March and Friday, the United State abstained five times on council votes dealing with Jerusalem or the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Last April, the American delegation vetoed a resolution supporting creation of an independent Palestinian state.

The State Department criticized Israel 10 days ago, after Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government rejected an appeal by the two mayors who again were expelled. They had been permitted to return for their appeal. State Department spokesman John H. Trattner said, "I believe this cannot help but complicate the search for peace in that area of the world."

McHenry, Security Council president for December, explained the affirmative U.S. vote by saying Israel had violated the 1949 Geneva Convention on treatment of civilians in war-occupied territories. Israel seized the West Bank, Gaza Strip and East Jerusalem in the 1967 war.

McHenry said the Geneva Convention "prohibits deportations, whatever the motive of the occupying powers."

He added, "We deeply regret that the government of Israel re-expelled Mayors Milhem and Qawasmeh after they had voluntarily submitted their appeal to Israeli judicial authorities."

He noted the expulsions followed the Hebron slayings and expressed hope that "any future incidents of violence against any party will be brought to the attention of the Security Council which, we believe, should be as prompt in condemning violence against Israel as it is to criticize Israeli actions."

After the vote, McHenry said there would be "cynics" claiming the U.S. vote would have been different before the Nov. 4 elections, "but one cannot be hostage to cynics."

He said the two mayors had exhausted all avenues of appeal only after the U.S. election. Begin's government rejected the mayors' appeal and drove them in military vehicles from a prison outside Tel Aviv, where they had been held during the legal proceedings, to the Lebanese border.

The mayors came to New York for the council debate. They said they would refuse food and drink only water during their hunger strike at the United Nations.

"This is not a protest against this organization," said Milhem, "We are in solidarity witg this organization."

He said he believed the U.S. vote would "be very helpful" to their cause.

Linowitz suggests Kissinger as Middle East replacement

LONDON (AP) — President Carter's special Middle East envoy said Friday he has suggested that Henry A. Kissinger replace him when President-elect Ronald Reagan assumes office.

The envoy, Sol Linowitz, told a news conference he had made the suggestion to officials close to Reagan and that "some interest" had been shown.

In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Akhbar el Youm said Richard Allen, a top Reagan foreign policy adviser, denied Kissinger would be named Linowitz' successor.

"If there is any thinking like that I would have been the first to know," the paper said Allen told its Washington correspondent in a telephone interview.

Kissinger conducted brisk rounds of negotiations in the Middle East when he was secretary of state under Presidents Gerald Ford and Richard M. Nixon.

Linowitz, who said he had also suggested other names as possible replacements for him, said he did not know Kissinger's reaction. "He'd probably shoot me," he said in a joking aside.

It is not yet clear what if any role Kissinger will have in the new administration, but there have been suggestions he might become a roving special ambassador.

Linowitz met reporters at the U.S. Embassy here after arriving from Jerusalem where he spent about a week discussing the 1978 Camp David peace process, which established the framework of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty and proposed a form of self-administration for Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza strip.

The Palestinians have so far not gone along with the process, which is also stalemated because of differences between Israel and Egypt on powers to be granted the "self-governing" authority and other problems.

Linowitz said that in meetings with Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt he confirmed his understanding that Reagan intends to support the Camp David process.

Israeli commando raid kills Syrians

JARMAK, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli paratroopers backed by helicopter gunships stormed Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon before dawn Friday and the casualties included three Syrian peace-keeping soldiers, the first reported killed in such raids.

Israel said it killed between 10 and 15 Palestinian guerrillas in the raid while losing one of its own men.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John H. Trattner said the United States had no confirmation of the Syrian deaths but that any Israeli action against Syrian forces "represents a dangerous new element in the violence" in southern Lebanon.

Trattner reiterated that the United States opposed Israeli strikes against targets in southern Lebanon and was also concerned over the actions of Palestinian guerrillas, sworn enemies of Israel, and Lebanese Christian militias, allies of the Jewish state.

Israeli Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Evtan said in Tel Aviv that the Jewish state would continue to hit the guerrillas to disrupt Palestinian actions against Israel and its Lebanese Christian allies.

"The goal was to kill terrorists and destroy their equipment. All went according to plan," one of the unit commanders said in an interview with Israeli army radio following the pre-dawn raid.

Lebanese authorities reported more than a dozen Palestinian and Lebanese killed in the attack on this village and others located a few miles north of the Israeli border. Also killed were three soldiers in Syria's peacekeeping force in Lebanon since the 19-month Lebanese civil war ended in 1976, authorities said in a report later confirmed by Syria.

A U.N. peacekeeping force soldier from Norway was severely wounded in an exchange of gunfire between Palestinians and Lebanese Christian troops, according to a Beirut spokesman for the U.N. forces in Lebanon. He declined to comment on the Israeli attack because it was outside of U.N. jurisdiction in Lebanon.

The Palestine Liberation Organization said four guerrillas were killed, an equal number wounded and that its forces killed or wounded 25 Israelis among a force of 600 Israeli commandos.

Israel said it killed 10 to 15 guerrillas and destroyed six guerrilla targets, and that one Israeli soldier died and three others were slightly injured.

It did not say how many troops were involved but said its forces spent a total of 10 hours in southern Lebanon, marching nearly eight miles across mountainous terrain to hit guerrilla targets near Mahmoudiya and Aichieh, near the Palestinian stronghold of Nabatiyeh.

The Israelis were evacuated by helicopter gunships after they destroyed bunkers, communications trenches, mortar emplacements, ammunition and tents in the guerrilla compound, the military command in Tel Aviv said.

Palestinian gunners fired Soviet-made Katyusha rockets at Israel's northern Galilee panhandle in response to the attack, but no casualties or damages were reported, the Israelis said. They said the Palestinians also shelled the Lebanese Christian town of Marjayoun.

The government of Lebanese President Elias Sarkis called the Israeli attack an "overt aggression" and said it was lodging a "strongly worded complaint" with the U.N. Security Council.

In a communique issued in Damascus, Syria accused Israel of opening artillery fire on a southern Lebanon unit of the Syrian peackeeping force and said "Our troops returned fire and reduced them (the Israelis) to silence."

The three Syrians were killed in the village of Rihan, where two other Syrians were wounded, authorities said.

The village is the forwardmost position in southern Lebanon for the Syrians, who currently maintain between 22,000 and 27,000 troops to police the 1976 civil war armistice between Lebanon's rightist Christian private armies and an alliance of the PLO and leftist Moslem Lebanese militias.

The U.N. Security Council also moved peacekeepers into southern Lebanon in April 1978 to replace an Israeli invasion force that occupied 500 square miles of Lebanon in a bid to roust PLO guerrillas.

According to the PLO's Beirut headquarters, "Our forces intercepted the enemy infiltrators and engaged the aggressors in close range combat, forcing them to retreat after one hour of fierce fighting."

The PLO said the Israeli raiders, in a "major escalation of enemy terror raids," concentrated on targets around four villages — Jarmak, Mahmoudiyeh, Achiyeh and Khardali.

The villages lie within 1½ miles of the "Free Lebanon" enclave in southern Lebanon along the Israeli border that was created by former Lebanese army general Saad Haddad in mid-April 1979. A week later, the Israeli government announced it was initiating a policy of preemptive strikes against terrorists in reponse to infiltration of Israel from Lebanon. Since then it has provided training and arms for Haddad's troops.

On Thursday, the Christian militiamen carried out their biggest anti-guerrilla operation ever, blowing up outposts allegedly used by the guerrillas in six Lebanese villages, according to Israel radio, which said eight guerrillas were killed.

Donald Regan sees quick action on economy

By KINGSBURY SMITH
National Editor, The Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary-designate Donald Regan believes Ronald Reagan's assumption of the presidency next month will be featured by assurances of quick tax cuts for individuals and business, sharp cuts in government spending and a freeze on many federal regulations that hamper economic recovery.

However, the head of the Merrill Lynch brokerage and investment firm sees little hope of any decline in interest rates in the near future. He believes interest rates may go higher than the existing 21 per cent before they hit the peak. He hopes, however, the Reagan administration will be able to bring them down to around 16 or 17 per cent in 18 months or so.

In his first public statements since he was chosen by President-elect Reagan to head the Treasury Department, the 61-year-old securities-industry leader said he was opposed to the declaration of a national economic emergency next month.

He told a dozen senior Washington correspondents with whom he chatted informally Thursday evening in the home of Carl Levin, Washington representative of the Burston-Marsteller public relations firm, that he did not think the country faced a serious enough crisis to warrant the proclamation of a national emergency.

"That could create fears of a crisis," he said. "My rhetoric would be a little less than a national emergency. We are faced with a very serious situation, but I don't think it is serious enough to declare a national emergency. That is a worse case scenario."

Regan said that if the initial efforts of the Reagan administration to control inflation and turn the economy around were not successful the time might come when it would be necessary to proclaim a national emergency but he pointed out that the economy is still "relatively strong."

He declined to say whether he thought the tax cuts would be made retroactive to Jan. 1st or made effective later in the year. Some Reagan advisers have urged a delay so that quick tax cuts would not fan inflationary flames.

He clearly indicated he felt interest rates would have to be kept high for some months to come in order to control inflation.

"When the rates come down, they will decline almost as quickly as they rose, but they won't go down very far," he added. "I can see them dropping into the 16 or 17 per cent area."

He said he wants to see the percentage of government spending to the Gross National Product brought down from the existing 24 per cent level to 20 per cent over a period of several years.

In his opinion, the Reagan administration will go for both tax cuts and budget slashing at the same time and not wait until measures are implemented to balance the budget before tax relief becomes effective.

"Tax cuts and budget cuts have got to be done together," he said. "It's got to be buttons and bows. We will go for both."

The affable, unpretentious, easy-speaking descendant of Scotch-Irish ancestry said that while the President will be the No. 1 economic spokesman for the new Republican administration, he expects to be the lead spokesman after the President.

In voicing disapproval of a national emergency, Regan appeared to be in disagreement with two top Reagan advisers, David Stockman, who will be director of the Office of Management and Budget, and James Baker, who will be White House Chief of Staff. Stockman has urged Reagan to proclaim a national emrgency as part of a bold program to avoid an "economic Dunkirk."

Agile fireman stops runaway car prowling parking lot

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A nimble fireman who made a well-timed leap into the driver's seat finally managed to stop a driverless car that had been going in circles backwards around a shopping mall parking lot for two hours.

The car's wheels were turned so that the vehicle never varied in its path or hit anything, but police and firefighters called to the scene said they had been afraid it would suddenly head for a store.

The driver of the car, Russell Peters, 43, said he left its engine idling at about 5 a.m. Thursday while he got out to mail a letter at Summit Mall. He said the car then went into reverse and began circling.

Peters said he tried to leap into the open front door of the car, but hurt his ankle. He limped to his home about a mile away and telephoned for help.

When sheriff's deputies James DeVantier and Carl Berak arrived at the mall, the car was still going around and around at 15 to 20 miles an hour.

The deputies called firefighters who hosed down the car, hoping water would get inside the engine compartment and short the electrical system. No luck.

People started gathering to watch the odd scene, and many of them came up with suggestions for halting the runaway car. Finally, firefighter Duane Stoelting leaped through an open door to reach the keys and shut off the ignition.

"We were afraid the car was going to change directions, crash into a store window or hit somebody," DeVantier said. "We were lucky that the car didn't do anything but travel in the same circle. Otherwise, it could have been a real disaster. It was a strange thing to watch."

AFL-CIO's Kirkland expresses maverick economic opinions

By PATRICIA KONSTAM
San Antonio Light

WASHINGTON — AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland does not think much of what is widely accepted as economic wisdom in the nation's capitol these days.

Expressing several maverick opinions during a press conference with business and editorial writers from newspapers around the country, Kirland sharply criticized the prevailing view among both Democratic and Republican economic experts that the Federal Reserve Board must tighten the money supply and increase interest rates to curb inflation.

"The economists are destroying the country with the cult of high interest rates and money supply restraint," he said. "I'm a little too primitive to understand how it kills inflation to drive up the cost of money.

"Why is the cost of labor going up inflationary and the cost of money going up not?" asked the 58-year-old former merchant marine who succeeded George Meany as head of the 13.7 million-member labor organization in November 1979.

Kirkland dismissed the view of many economists that wage increases — especially future raises guaranteed in union contracts — are a major factor in sustaining a high underlying inflation rate.

Rising wage demands are a response to inflation, not a source of it, the labor leader maintained. Inflation is started instead by rising cost of energy, food and housing, he said.

As for wage and price controls -- which the Reagan administration is not talking about but which some economists here predict will eventually come — Kirkland said the AFL-CIO will support such policies "if, when we get in that boat, everybody else is in with us" and if organized labor has a voice in negotiating and administering the program.

Noting that real wages — income adjusted for inflation — have gone down six percent in the past year, Kirkland said workers should not bear the brunt of inflation while corporate profits and professional earnings continue to rise.

"We're willing to be part of a regimen of austerity if the rich and affluent do their part," he said. "It ought not to be wage cuts for workers and tax cuts for the rich."

Kirkland opposes the across-the-board tax cut favored by President-elect Reagan and many of his advisers. However, the AFL-CIO has supported a proposal to give individuals a tax credit equal to the increase in 1981 Social Security payments.

He also opposes an almost universally supported tax proposal to give businesses across-the-board accelerated depreciation. Instead, he advocates a plan he "had worked out with Carter" to give tax breaks to selected basic industries which would qualify by obtaining a "certificate of necessity" from an "Industrial Revitalization Board."

"A differential tax break is a public subsidy," he explained, and should be given to industries which have priority under the nation's yet-to-be-defined industrial policy. Kirkland said he would give tax breaks to revitalize such basic industries as steel, railroads and coal-loading ports, but not, for example, to build fast food restaurants.

Kirkland said that after Reagan's election he sent the president-elect a message offering cooperation, but that labor's role in the new administration "is not up to us." He said he was not consulted about Reagan's nomination of a Secretary of Labor, but that meetings at the staff level have taken place between Reagan's transition team and the AFL-CIO.

Hispanics seen as new market

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trade group of Spanish-language broadcast stations is touting the nation's growing Hispanic population as a market that has been overlooked for too long.

Antonio Guernica, of the National Association of Spanish Broadcasters, said a recently published marketing profile of Hispanics was designed to attract more attention from advertisers and advertising agencies.

"It's finally dawned on them that there's a huge market out there with $52 billion gross (annual) income, and if you approach it in the right way it will respond very strongly to advertising," he said.

Guernica said the marketing profile, put together by the NASB with the help of a Commerce Department grant, also was intended to give Spanish-language stations another tool when making sales presentations to potential advertisers.

He said the group believes the comprehensive, national profile of the Hispanic market was the first ever published.

"There were no surprises," Guernica said. "It was more a case of documenting those things that people are always talking about ... to have all that in one source."

Eleven of the top 30 Hispanic broadcasting markets profiled in the report are in Texas, ranging from third-place San Antonio to Waco-Temple in the No. 30 slot.

The profile notes there are larger and younger families in the Hispanic market, spending a higher proportion of their income in grocery stores than the general population does.

A breakdown of consumer habits is included for the large San Antonio market, showing "stand-out" items more popular there than in similar markets including baby food, fruit-type drinks and malt liquor.

The study found Hispanic households in San Antonio slightly more likely than non-Hispanics to use white bread and packaged lunch meats, cold remedies and floor wax.

The other Texas areas among the top 30 Hispanic broadcasting markets are McAllen-Brownsville, seventh; El Paso, eighth; Houston, tenth; Corpus Christi, 13th; Dallas-Fort Worth, 16th; Austin, 20th; Lubbock, 22nd; Laredo, 24th; and Odessa-Midland, 25th.

The rankings change significantly when areas across the Mexican border are included. In that listing, El Paso-Juarez ranks third; McAllen-Brownsville-Matamoros, fourth; San Antonio, sixth; Houston, 12th; Laredo-Nuevo Laredo, 13th; Corpus Christi, 16th; Dallas-Fort Worth, 18th; Austin, 22nd; Lubbock, 24th; Odessa-Midland, 26th; and Waco-Temple, 30th.

New York and Los Angeles rank first and second on both lists.

Carmen Junco, the trade association's president, said interest in the Hispanic market has increased substantially in recent years.

"I think that everybody's 'discovering America' in the United States," she said. "There's a lot of money there. And besides that, Hispanics are consumers. They have to brush their teeth and wear shoes."

Log signed by Chapman now missing

HONOLULU (AP) — When Mark David Chapman left his job here, he signed the security log book "John Lennon." Now the book is missing.

Joe Bustamente, manager of the apartment building where Chapman worked as a security guard, said he discovered the log book missing the day after Chapman was charged with killing the former Beatle in New York City.

However, Bustamente did not report it to police.

"In all the commotion with the reporters coming around, I guess I didn't think it was important," Bustamente said Thursday.

On Wednesday, Honolulu Police Detective Louis Souza, who is investigating Chapman's background in Hawaii, went to the building and asked to see the log book and any of Chapman's possessions, Bustamente said.

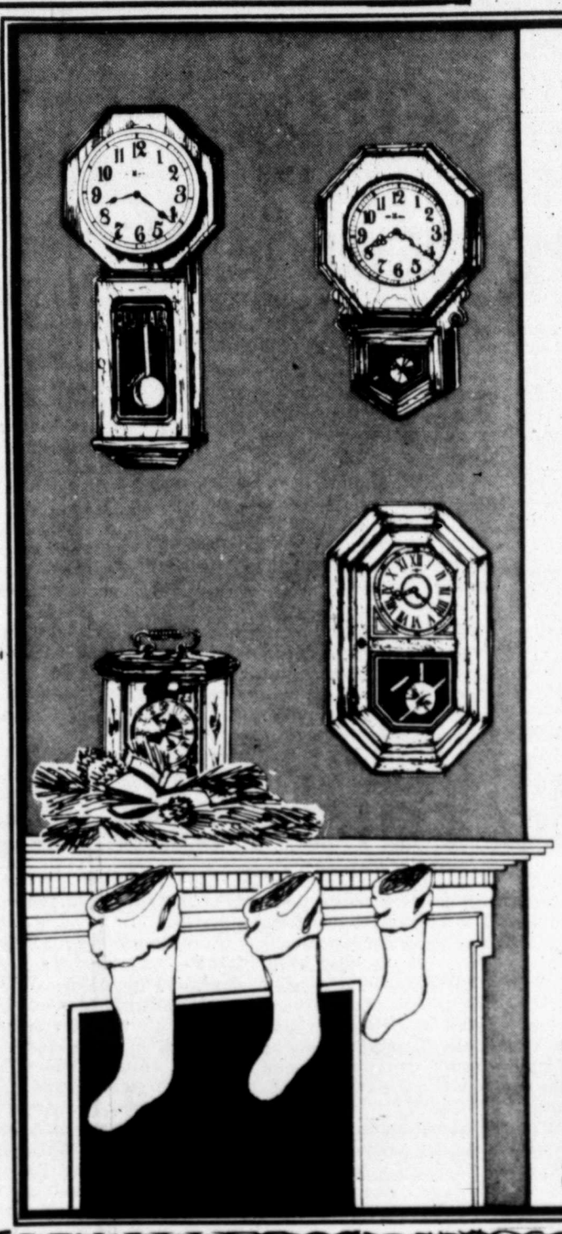

It was then Bustamente reported the log book was missing.

Chapman signed the book with Lennon's name on Oct. 23, the day he quit his job. On Dec. 8, Lennon was shot to death outside his Manhattan apartment.

"I suppose now they want to see that again," Bustamente said.

Bustamente said he thinks someone took the log as souvenir.

The Honolulu Police Criminal Investigation Division said it is aware the book is missing, but said it has received no official report on the matter yet.

CHICAGO (AP) — Thyrl Latting is a high-school teacher who moonlights in a big way.

He owns Latting Rodeo Productions, is vice president and stock contractor of Rodeo Productions Ltd., which recently put on a rodeo at Madison Square Garden in New York City, and owns a rodeo stock farm in St. Anne, Ill., 80 miles south of Chicago.

The 47-year-old moonlight cowboy has taught metal casting at Dunbar High School for 11 years and says he needs the school job.

"I don't intend to quit. Frankly, I need the money since my rodeo income is plied back into the business for expansion," Latting said.

"I became a teacher in the first place so I could have my summers free for the rodeo business. Now my winters are becoming a little crowded with indoor shows and I commute to them on weekends. Business started to boom ever since that John Travolta movie, 'Urban Cowboy.'"

Latting is a rodeo producer, putting all the acts together and seeing that the sponsors put up enough prize money to attract the better professional rodeo contestants. He supplies the livestock from his herds of 75 bucking horses, 25 cross-bred bulls, 20 roping calves and 20 throwing steers. His son, Mike, 25, runs the stock farm.

"Most people at school don't even know about my rodeo work. I certainly don't go around wearing a cowboy hat and boots," he said. "The stereotype of a cowboy is white and tall — and I'm neither."

Latting said his boyhood idol was Hoot Gibson, the old movie cowboy whose films kept turning up in theaters long after he was gone.

Latting said he had picked onions for 10 cents an hour and saved $60 to buy his first horse. He became a rodeo performer at age 17 and for 13 years rode bucking broncs and bulls.

"I was hooked by the rodeo," Latting said. "I competed in them and worked in a foundry to support my family. But my dream came true and it won't be too much longer before I can devote all of my time to the rodeo business."

Judge orders release of Rowe report

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge wants to look at a Justice Department report on former FBI informant Gary Thomas Rowe before deciding whether the document may be used by a family suing the FBI for $2 million.

U.S. District Judge Charles Joiner's ruling Thursday was in response to an American Civil Liberties Union request filed on behalf of the family of Viola Liuzzo, a Detroit housewife and civil rights worker gunned down on an Alabama highway in 1965.

The family contends the Justice Department report, which details Rowe's FBI activities, must be made public so they can determine Rowe's involvement in the slaying.

The lawsuit contends the FBI was responsible for Mrs. Liuzzo's slaying. The bureau has denied the charge.

On Monday, U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti released a 25-page summary of the 302-page document outlining Rowe's FBI activities. He cited executive privilege in keeping the full report under wraps.

Joiner gave Civiletti until Jan. 5 to turn over the report, and said he would decide after examining the document privately if it should be released.

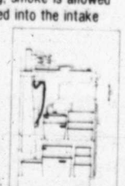

The summary said a Justice Department task force found no evidence of violence on Rowe's part during the civil rights movement, except for an incident unrelated to the Liuzzo slaying.

THERMADOR'S COOK'N'VENT IS WAY ABOVE THE COMPETITION.

Cook'n'Vent
THE NEW AND REVOLUTIONARY HOODLESS COOKTOP SYSTEM.

It's new! It's different! There's nothing like it. Thermador's Cook 'n' Vent a 36" Griddle 'n' Grill Cooktop with elevating intake and remote ventilator. At the push of a single control button, the intake elevates 7" above the surface of the cooktop. When cooking, smoke is allowed to rise off the surface of the food before being pulled into the intake system. This means the smoke is being pulled out of the air, and not across the surface of the food. The Thermador method doesn't affect the cooking process.

Cook 'n' Vent features include:
- A complete system—no modules to connect and disconnect.
- Fits standard cabinets.
- Compact mechanism saves cabinet storage space.
- Filters are easily accessible and dishwasher safe.
- Remote ventilator provides quiet and efficient pulling power.
- Cooktop lifts up for access to drip pans.
- Stainless Steel or Porcelain Enamel Colors.

IRA claims political victory

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army's political arm claimed Friday that convicted guerrillas in Northern Ireland won "clear political recognition" with their 53-day hunger strike, but the British government said it had made "no concessions."

The Rev. Ian Paisley, self-styled leader of Northern Ireland's Protestant majority of 1 million, charged the government was "making concessions ... The IRA got something out of the hunger strike." Government officials said none were made.

The claims of victory by both sides indicated that while the hunger strike crisis is over, the problems presented by imprisoned guerrillas' political demands may recur.

Gerry Adams of Sinn Fein, the IRA political front, declared that a 4-year-old "blanket protest" by some 500 guerrillas seeking political status in Northern Ireland's prisons will "probably be called off within the next few days."

But he warned that an "intractable stance" by the authorities would rekindle the protest in which the prisoners refuse to wear prison uniforms, wrap themselves in blankets and smear their cells with their own excrement.

The government denied striking any secret deal to get 40 men and women guerrillas to end the hunger-strike. One protester, 26-year-old Sean McKenna, was on the brink of death after 53 days without food when the original strikers ended their fast.

Seven guerrillas — including McKenna — launched their hunger strike in Belfast's Maze Prison on Oct. 27, refusing all food and taking only salt and water. Three women guerrillas in Armagh Prison joined the protest on Dec. 1, and 30 male guerrillas in the Maze stopped eating earlier this week.

All belong to the IRA's Provisional wing or the splinter Irish National Liberation Army. The outlawed groups, mostly of Roman Catholics, seek to end British rule in Protestant-dominated Northern Ireland and unite it with the Irish Republic, which is 97 percent Catholic.

British officials said six of the original seven strikers were fed vitamin-laced liquids Thursday night and were eating scrambled eggs by Friday morning. McKenna reportedly regained consciousness, but was still in "serious condition," hooked to a heart machine.

The guerrillas argue that they are prisoners of war because their crimes are politically motivated, but the British say giving them special status will result in their crimes being considered political rather than criminal acts.

Adams visited the Maze prisoners Friday and said they had won "every point in their demands," including permission to wear their own clothes and do no prison work.

The hunger strikers also demanded more mail and visits and free association among themselves.

A document drawn up by Northern Ireland Secretary Humphrey Atkins and shown to the hunger strikers Thursday offered privileges already enjoyed by all prisoners. They had been denied to protesters who broke vrison regulations.

The statement stressed that the "demand for political status is not going to be granted."

The differences appeared to center on the question of what clothes the guerrillas can wear and whether they will do prison work.

Atkins reaffirmed earlier policy that prisoners can wear their own clothes during evening and weekend recreation hours but must wear prison-issue "civilian-type" clothing the rest of the time.

He also noted that "prison work" includes "educational training," interpreted by some observers as a possible loophole that could exempt the protesters from regular work .

The protesters have said they will not wear prison-issue clothes of any kind unless — in the words of one Sinn Fein spokesman — they are physically forced to do so.

The guerrillas stressed in a statement they were "satisfied that ... republican prisoners will not be wearing any form of prison uniform and will not be participating in any form of penal work."

In New York, Irish Northern Aid, which supports the IRA, issued a statement claiming that "the British have been forced to concede political status just as they will be forced to cede all of Ireland back to the Irish people."

The 40 strikers representened the largest number in such a protest by convicted convicted guerrillas in Northern Ireland since sectarian and political fighting erupted in August 1969.

Some 30 IRA men demanding political status staged a 35-day hunger strike in Belfast's Crumlin Road prison in 1972. It ended when the British conceded and granted them "special category" status. But the "special category" status was abolished four years later.

There have been a score of individual hunger strikes by jailed IRA men and women since then, most ending in failure. Two women bombers, Marion and Dolours Price, who fasted for 206 days — the longest on record — and were force-fed before they gave up.

Miami blacks plan trial protest march

MIAMI (AP) — A civil rights group is planning a protest march here Sunday, but police said they expect no serious trouble over the weekend despite two nights of scattered rock-throwing incidents in black neighborhoods.

Reaction in Miami's black community, which erupted into violence twice earlier this year, has been mostly restrained in the wake of a Texas jury's acquittal Wednesday of former Dade county officer Charles Veverka on civil rights charges stemming from the December 1979 death of black businessman Arthur McDuffie.

But on Wednesday and Thursday nights, Miami city officers set up barricades and diverted white motorists from Miami's Overtown area.

Officers had riot gear with them, but there were no arrests.

"It wasn't bad at all," said one officer. "They set some dumpsters on fire and a threw a few rocks and bottles."

Sgt. Walt donovan said of the coming weekend, "We're going to monitor the situation very closely, but we're not anticipating any trouble."

Donovan said there were no plans to have extra officers on duty.

A group called the Citizens Coalition for Racial Justice said it will hold a march through downtown, followed by a rally, to memoralize McDuffie. He died Dec. 21, 1979, four days after he was beaten following a high-speed chase through Miami by Dade police.

"We're marching to show that conditions haven't changed since McDuffie's death," said march organizer Ed Williams. "I know there's tension in the community, but this is going to be a nonviolent protest."

However, members of such organizations as the National Association for Advancement of Colored People were steering clear of the demonstration.

Attorneys for the McDuffie family said they hadn't decided yet whether his survivors will participate.

Meadco buidling rises

Meadco, Inc. has announced plans for an office building in the Midland downtown area.

The building, located at 300 W. Lousianà just south of the Central YMCA, will provide 23,000 square feet of office space.

In addition, the complex will provide about 70 on-site parking spaces.

According to Vandergriff Group. a Midland-Odessa architectual firm, the structure and building site is designed for future expansion to six stories as well as a four- level parking structure.

This gives the development a potential 80,000 gross square feet of office space and parking for 260 cars.

The building should be completed by Septemeber 1981.

Hero overjoyed at getting medal

EL CAMPO, Texas (AP) — Students at Northside Elementary School pooled their money to buy a framed color photograph of Roy P. Benavidez, a former student and Green Beret who may receive the nation's highest award for bravery.

But a Pentagon spokesman says the children can keep the money because Army will provide the picture of Benavidez at no charge.

"When I think about these kids, when I realize how proud my fellow citizens are of me, its brings a lump to my throat. God, how I love this country," Benavidez said Thursday after learning President Carter had signed legislation that could lead to Benavidez receiving the Medal of Honor.

The legislation, approved earlier this year by Congress and recommended by the Army, Defense Department and congressional armed services comittees, waives the three-year time limit imposed on presentation.

A spokesman for the secretary of Army's office said Benavides should receive the award at a White House ceremony early next month when all the paperwork is finished.

Benavidez, 45, served as a staff sergeant in the Special Force unit in South Vietnam in 1968 when he helped rescue three Americans and nine Vienamese ambused in Cambodia.

He flew by helicopter into enemy territory, recovered secret government documents and directed the evacuation. During the operation, Benavidez suffered wounds that hospitalized him for almost a year.

The El Campo native, who retired in 1976 from the Army, received the Distinguished Service Cross for valor. But efforts to upgrade the award were renewed earlier this year after an eyewitness to Benavidez' heroics was located.

Among those pushing the government to upgrade the award were 40 Northside Elementary students who sent letters to Carter expressing hopes their friend would receive proper recognition.

"The outporing of sincere wishes has been overwhelming to me," Benavidez said after news of the president's action was heard in this Southeast Texas town of 13,500.

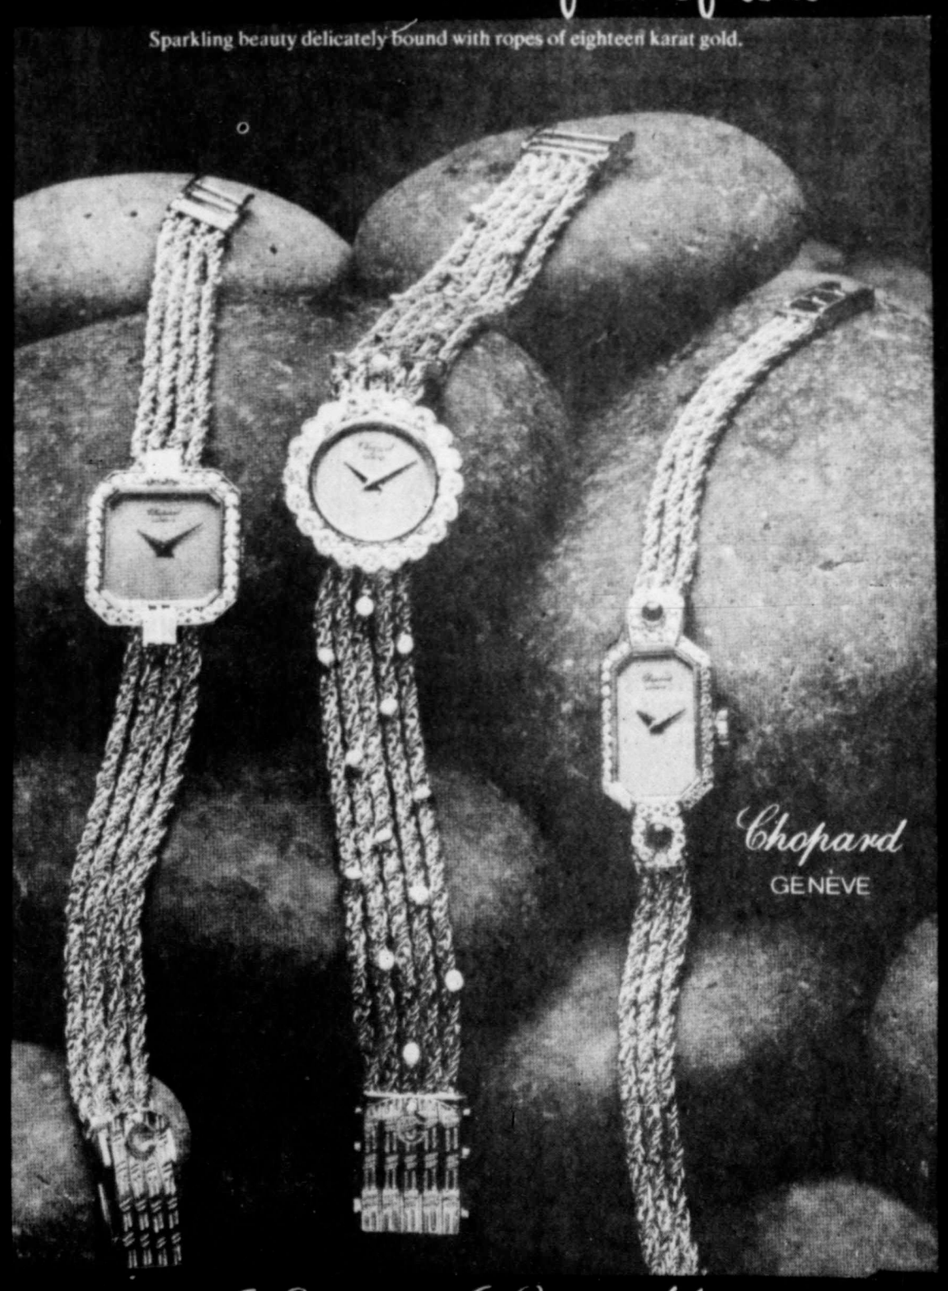

"This is the greatest Christmas present any man can get," he said.

Chrysler seeks more loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chrysler Corp., furiously fighting to stave off bankruptcy, will request about $400 million in federal loan guarantees as early as Tuesday "if all goes well," its chairman, Lee Iacocca, said Friday.

Iaccoca stressed that Chrysler's timetable depends on how the United Auto Workers union responds to a proposed wage freeze through September 1982. A meeting of the UAW's Chrysler Council is set for Monday.

He called the UAW's reaction "very critical" to Chrysler's complex and fast-developing survival plan that was formally approved Thursday by its board of directors in New York.

The plan proposes more than $1.5 billion in cost-cutting steps over the next 20 months — largely through massive wage concessions, supplier price freezes, employee layoffs and more help from banks.

Iacocca said the federal Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board must have "some indication" of the UAW's stance before it can even conditionally approve additional loan guarantees.

The Chrysler chairman met Friday with Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, who heads the board, to thrash out a timetable for the loan guarantee request.

Iacocca characterized Miller as "very optimistic" about the company's survival chances, adding that officials of Chrysler and the federal board were "coming into agreement" over cost-cutting details.

He said Chrysler's request will be in the "ballpark" of $400 million, leaving open the possibility it could slightly exceed that amount.

The federal board must certify that the No. 3 automaker has a reasonable chance of survival without additional propping up after 1983.

So far, Chrysler has drawn $800 million of the $1.5 billion in guarantees authorized by Congress. Two weeks ago, the board warned that further approval depends on successful cost-cutting.

"We had hoped to hold it at $800 million," Iacocca repeated on Friday, referring to the amount of the loan guarantees. But, he said, this proved impossible in the face of the "worst auto depression in history."

The No. 3 automaker is predicting a $1.7 billion loss in 1980, including about a $200 million deficit in the current quarter, due largely to ever-rising interest rates that have destroyed auto sales.

Iacocca again criticized the Federal Reserve's tight credit policies, calling them a "scandal." On Friday morning, the prime interest rate jumped to a record 21.5 percent.

Earlier this week, Iacocca said the company's proposed $600 million employee wage freeze through September 1982 cannot be the subject of real bargaining with the UAW because "all I've got to bargain with is their jobs."

On Friday, Iacocca said the entire U.S. auto industry cannot afford current auto wages. "Chrysler is just on the leading edge," he added.

The UAW's Chrysler Council — an elected body of about 300 rank-and-file representatives — will be asked on Monday to reopen its contract with the company.

Chrysler is facing a severe cash problem in January and wants approval from the federal loan board as quickly as possible.

The Los Angeles Times quoted Reagan's Treasury secretary-designate, Donald Regan, as telling reporters that the national economy can withstand a potential collapse of Chrysler because "everybody can't be a winner."

Asked if a Chrysler bankruptcy would set off a chain reaction throughout the economy, he replied: "In a free-enterprise system there have got to be casualties."

Conservative Republicans oppose Calucci's appointment at Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservative Republicans are objecting to the possible appointment of deputy CIA director Frank C. Carlucci to the No. 2 post at the Defense Department, claiming he is partly to blame for a weakened U.S. intelligence apparatus, GOP sources say.

Carlucci, 50, declined comment on the criticism Friday, but a CIA spokesman said the complaints were unfounded.

Carlucci, who has also held positions in the Nixon and Ford administrations, is reportedly the choice of Defense Secretary-designate Caspar W. Weinberger to fill the important job of deputy secretary at the Pentagon.

Word of Weinberger's interest in Carlucci prompted a behind-the-scenes campaign by conservative Republicans to convince President-elect Ronald Reagan and his top aides to block the nomination, GOP sources said.

The conservatives charged that Carlucci failed to stand up against the Carter administration's changes at the Central Intelligence Agency and aided President Carter's campaign for ratification of the SALT II treaty, sources said.

The Republican sources, who asked not to be identified, also said Carlucci is coming under attack for his lack of defense experience, particularly in light of Weinberger's limited background in military matters.

One source said right-wing Republicans felt Carlucci "didn't do enough to stop the prostitution of the intelligence data" that the Carter administration cited to back a relatively optimistic assessment of U.S.-Soviet military balance.

"Many people feel he participated in a grand deception, that he underestimated Soviet capabilities and intentionally allowed misassessments to mislead the Congress in the national intelligence estimate," said another source.

The conservative are also complaining that Carlucci presided over the "decimation of the (covert) operations section of the CIA" as deputy to CIA director Stansfield Turner, a source said.

"We did nothing but provide the proper intelligence background (on U.S. ability to monitor the treaty) so a decision on SALT could be made," Peterson said.

The U.S.-Soviet arms limitation agreement was withdrawn from the Senate by Carter after the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan last winter.

Peterson also argued that the process for intelligence estimates was "more accurate than it ever was before" and that the decision to reduce the number of agents was "made before the present director came on board."

Although Weinberger's close relationship with Reagan would normally seem to guarantee approval of his hand-picked deputy, opponents of Carlucci contend that the appointment would carry a high political cost.

Sources said that Carlucci's critics include conservative Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an important early backer of Reagan's 1976 presidential bid and a senator with strong ties to the GOP's influential right wing.

Also, under Reagan's personnel structure, top aides to the president-elect will prepare lists of acceptable choices for sub-Cabinet jobs, such as deputy and assistant secretaries.

TI cuts minor at Midland plant

Texas Instruments' announced reduction of hours for about 17 percent of its employees will have only a minor affect on the TI plant in Midland.

A spokesman for the Midland plant said the short work week "will be affecting it to some small degree but not to any large degree."

However, the number of people who will be affected in the Midland-Odessa area was not known, he said.

Texas Instruments' release Friday morning cited a "softening in demand for certain company products," and economic "uncertainties" in 1981 as reasons for the cutbacks.

Employees are not being laid off, but will be working fewer hours.

The primary areas to be affected are TI's semiconductor and consumer-related products divisions. Other TI divisions, such as digital systems, government electronics and geophysical exploration, will continue regular work schedules.

Clements sees tax break in '81

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says a new estimate of state revenues for the next two years reinforces his belief that the 1981 Legislature can give Texans $1 billion in tax relief.

Clements also told a news conference Friday:

— That Texas prisons are a lot better managed than a Tyler federal judge implies in a court order.

— That Texas will never be the site of a "roving" MX missile system.

"There are suffient funds in there for tax relief," Clements said of Comptroller Bob Bullock's estimate of $27.9 billion income from taxes and other sources of revenue for the 1982-83 state budget period. Bullock estimated the state would start the period with a $568 million cash surplus left from the 1980-81 fiscal period.

"I am satisfied there is $1 billion in there," Clements said, repeating a frequent vow for a billion-dollar tax relief effort in 1981.

Clements said he had revenue estimates from other sources that showed the state's income in 1982-83 would be even more than Bullock estimated.

"There will be $1 billion in tax relief in one form or another," Clements said.

Clements said a recent suggestion by Speaker Bill Clayton that the Legislature set up a trust fund to provide for Texas' future water needs could be considered a form of tax relief. "If you set up a trust fund for relief of taxpayers, that is tax relief," he said.

However, Clements said he had not decided if he would support Clayton's water fund program.

The governor commented at length on U.S. District Judge Wayne Justice's ruling last week that the Texas prison slystem was a place of "sheer misery and degradation and pain." The Tyler judge will issue a final ruling Feb. 15.

"I maintain we have a very fine program in the Texas prison system," he said. "Our system is a model and is considered one of the best, if not the best in the nation."

He said "before anayone jumps at conclusions, he should go visit one of our prisons ... I'm not sure the judge at Tyler has ever been in one of our prisons."

When asked if he thought Justice was "jumping at conclusions," Clements said he did not want "to get personal about the judge's judgment. We'll let the attorney general handle this."

Clements added that he agreed with "about half the things he talked about," including three prisoners jammed in one cell. "We are going to try to do something about that."

Clements said his budget recommendations to the 1981 Legislature would include money for two new prison sites and buildings.

Clements, who was in on the original planning for an MX missile system as deputy secretary of defense, predicted there would never be an MX missile site in Texas.

"This whole thing is an exercise in nothing," he said.

Pentagon representatives held a news conference in Austin Thursday where they said the Clovis, N.M.— Dalhart area was considered an alternative site for the "roving" MX missile system. Primary sites are in Nevada and Utah.

Clements said the original MX missile plans were to "stuff" MX missiles in present Minute Man silos in Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas. "This is a much more highly cost effective system ... I do not think the Air Force and the others ever had any intent whatever to put missile sites in New Mexico or Texas," he said.

Clements said he thought the first 200 MX missiles manufactured should be placed in the Minute Man silos for an immediately effective system.

Cash making Christmas comeback

By the Associated Press

Joe Rangel of Hazlet, N.J., leaves his credit cards at home when he goes shopping for Christmas presents. Shirley Everett of Jackson, Miss., says she believes in the "pay as you go" philosophy.

Rangel and Mrs. Everett are typical of many Americans who are helping cash make a comeback. Worried about the cost of credit and the economic future, they are reluctant to buy now and pay later.

An Associated Press survey of retailers and banks across the country showed people are purchasing less on credit. Buyers appear less cautious than they were in the spring, when credit controls were imposed by the government in an attempt to slow borrowing. But despite the fact that the controls were lifted in July, the shoppers are not saying "charge it" the way they usually do at Christmas.

Statistics from the Federal Reserve Board show that in December 1979, consumers borrowed $12.9 billion — more than in any other month — in revolving credit, the kind you get with the bank cards and many retail charge accounts.

This year, however, things may be different.

"People seem to be paying a lot more cash," said Margott Rogoff of Bloomingdale's in New York.

Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago reported that holders of Visa and MasterCards issued by the bank charged 19 percent less this November than in November 1979. The number of transactions dropped 25 percent, said a spokesman, who did not want to be named.

The spokesman noted that the bank announced in August that a $15 annual fee would be imposed on any card which was used, but he said that the fee alone was not enough to account for the size of the drop in credit use.

Many banks, like Continental, have imposed new fees or increased existing ones on credit cards. Where allowed by law, they have raised interest rates or announced plans for an increase. Citibank, the nation's second-biggest commercial bank, said Wednesday that beginning in mid-January, it will impose a $15 annual fee on Visa and MasterCard credit cards and will raise the interest rate to 19.8 percent a year. Citibank acted after New York legislators changed the usury laws covering interest rates. Under the old law, annual fees on the bank cards were prohibited and interest was limited to 18 percent a year on the first $500 of purchases and 12 percent on eveything over $500. The new law permits fees and allows annual interest rates of up to 25 percent.

Jeff Baer of Telecheck, a check verification service based in Denver, said check writing is up by 30 percent from last year. "Most definitely it's the interest rates that are moving consumers to checks from credit cards," said Baer.

Robert Bartollini, vice president of First Pennsylvania Bank, said use of credit cards during the past two weeks has been "substantially below" previous years. He said credit use normally rises 5 percent to 6 percent during the holiday season; this year, the increase is only 1 percent to 2 percent.

John Land, chief financial officer of M.M. Cohn, an Arkansas chain, said more than half the store's customers used credit for their purchases last year. This year, he said, the split between credit and cash is about even. Land said the trend toward less credit use started with the federal controls imposed in March "and has continued since," despite the fact that state law limits interest on credit cards to the low level of 10 percent a year.

In Nashville, Tenn., Michael Walsh, vice president of Caster-Knott, said use of credit cards issued by the store itself is up slightly from last year, but use of bank cards has decreased. "On balance," he said, overall credit use is down.

John Gerdel, vice president of Sanger-Harris in Dallas, said there was "a major drop-off in credit usage from the time the credit restraints were imposed.... The credit business came back and by October, it had reached the traditional or seasonal level of a year ago. But in November, we saw again a dropoff."

Jerry Schafer, vice president of another Texas chain, Joske's, said he has noticed "no switch from credit." But John Boardman, vice president of Republic National Bank in Dallas said, "Absolutely," when asked if people were using less credit.

"We have 25 percent to 30 percent fewer retail sales than last year on Visa and MasterCard," he said. "We find they're paying cash rather than getting into debt."

Shoplifting increases during holiday season

By DICK BRAUDE
Associated Press Writer

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Some shoppers whose holiday gift lists are bigger than their budgets are trying to make up the difference by stealing.

Jack Powers, security chief for Jordan Marsh stores, said shoplifting is 30 percent higher in November and December than during the rest of the year.

The story is the same in the rest of the country. The National Coalition to Prevent Shoplifting says more than 45 percent of shoplifting occurs during the Christmas shopping season.

"We get the housewives who are trying to buy $60 worth of gifts with $40," said Powers, adding that 5 cents to 6 cents of every consumer dollar goes to cover shoplifting losses. The national anti-shoplifting group, which is based in Atlanta, said that in 1979 alone, stores reported losses of $16 billion due to shoplifting.

Powers, 39, says his security force — which he calls a "small army" — can catch only one culprit in 10.

"The only deterrent is to prosecute," he says.

Powers, who got his start as a department store detective in 1968 after being laid off as an engineer, insists that shoplifters be booked, arraigned and tried in court. Punishment may be a suspended sentence and payment of court costs. Some newspapers now publish the names of those convicted.

"Our biggest problems are from women in the 18-25 age bracket," Powers says. "But men are starting to catch up.

"You can count on the the newest clothes being taken first; then the smaller stuff like jewelry or cosmetics. New dresses are the big item this year."

Powers says many shoplifters are well-to-do. "They have more than enough money in their pockets to pay. They just don't think they'll get caught," he says. "Maybe they think the price is too high....

"People who think shoplifting is done by kids from low-income areas are wrong. Some of the professionals are housewives. They get the kids off to school and then they go out on their job, with a shopping list."

Using store detectives who are sworn in as unarmed special local police, Jordan Marsh arrests about 4,000 shoplifters a year. "You find that California, Texas, New York have the same problems," he says. "We stay in touch. We're all working in about the same way."

Retailers like Jordan Marsh rely on a phalanx of spies — the number is secret — who watch customers through two-way mirrors, and on floorwalkers looking "just like Joe Customer" with shopping bags.

"We want to get all the employees involved, learning how to wait on customers, how to acknowledge them and prevent them from sneaking around," Powers says.

Ma, Pa Sledge?

By RON HARRIST
Associated Press Writer

SUNFLOWER, Miss. (AP) — Does the name Bobby Sledge ring a bell? If you live in Sunflower, it has to.

Sledge and his wife are the Sledge Telephone Co., a family business serving 450 persons in and around this delta town.

"I guess you could say we're the front office, the back office and the repair shop," Sledge said. "I maintain my own lines and if there's a pole to be put up, I set it. If there's a telephone to be installed, I install it."

In a time when family-owned businesses are giving way to large corporations, Sledge says he believes telephone users in his area like the personal touch his company affords.

"Many of our customers are friends and neighbors, so we try to keep them happy," he said. "They know they can reach me or my wife any time they need help."

"This business has been in our family for well over 50 years," Sledge said. "I bought it from my mother in 1968 and my father sold it to her."

Sledge, 51, said his company worked in cooperation with South Central Bell Telephone Co. to link the Sunflower telephones with the rest of the country.

The Sunflower system has no operators or information assistants, with these tasks handled by South Central Bell employees in larger cities.

Serving friends and neighbors can have its drawbacks, Sledge admitted, particularly when the time comes to raise the rates.

"We wait as long as we can before going to the state Public Service Commission and asking for a higher rate," he said. "It's more personal with us than with a big utility or business. Here it's not the telephone company, it's Bobby and June Sledge.

"You just don't go in for rate increases unless you have to because the people who will have to pay the increases are the ones who call on you at home or who come by for a visit and bring their payment.

Only One Leading Microwave Oven Is Built Better Than It Has To Be. The Amana Radarange

Four times in the last five years, Amana submitted its "RR" series Radarange ovens to a voluntary U.S. Government safety test program. Every time, Amana passed every one of its tests. Amana is still the only microwave oven manufacturer that has. And Amana is still the only one exempt from displaying the government's safety warning label.

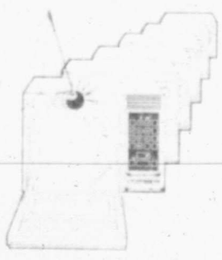

Not all manufacturers have volunteered to take these tests, so Amana asked an independent lab to test other microwave ovens to see how they compared. Five other leading brands were pitted against the Radarange oven in four of the government's most abusive impact tests.

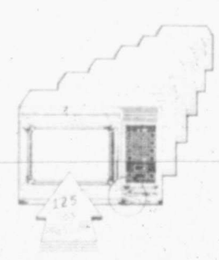

1. A 5-pound steel ball was slammed into the front of the doors.

3. The ball was slammed into the door seals.

2. The doors were opened and the ball was slammed into the inside seal of the ovens.

4. The doors were closed with up to 125 lbs. of force onto a steel rod.

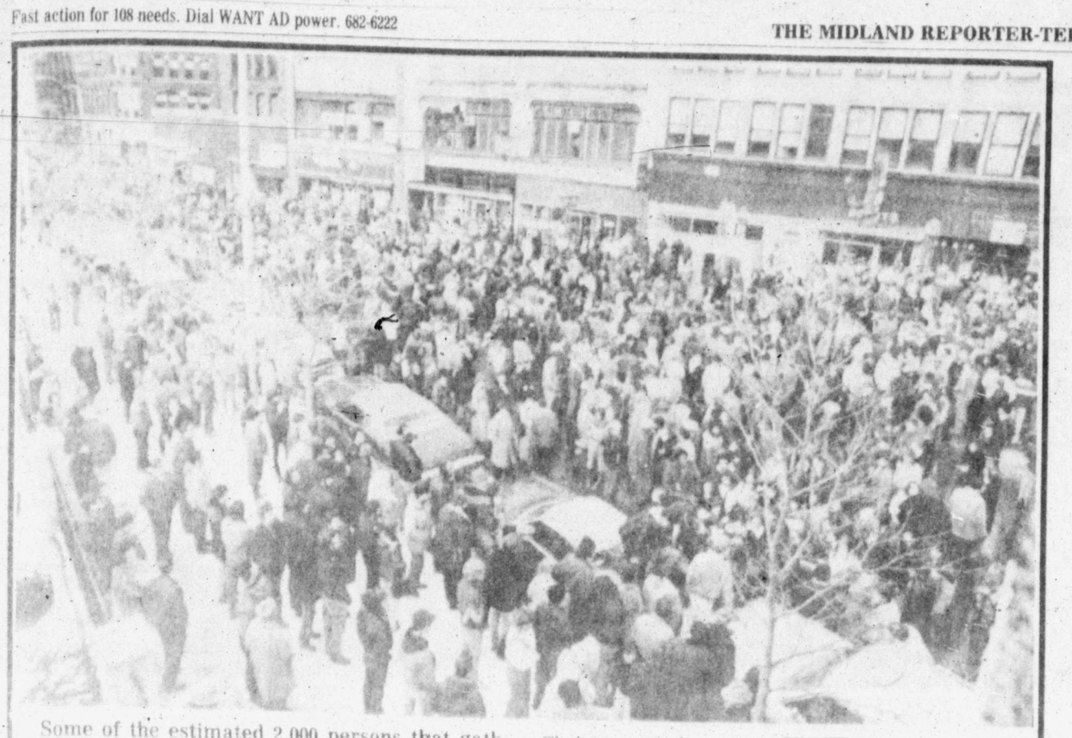

The results: Only Amana passed all four tests. In reality, no microwave oven would ever encounter such abuse, yet the Radarange oven with its patented choke seal door is built tough enough to take it.

Some of the estimated 2,000 persons that gathered in Central Square in Lynn, Mass., Friday, waiting for 1500 one-dollar bills to be dropped from a plane. Wind blows away gift cash

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — Walter Dyer's dream of dropping Christmas cash to the people of Lynn turned to humbug Friday when wind caught hundreds of dollar bills and scattered them over the icy Atlantic Ocean.

About 2,000 people gathered in Central Square at noon hoping to catch one of the 1,500 $1 bills Dyer said he would drop from an airplane. Some people stood on telephone booths, and others hung on bus stands. Traffic was jammed.

Right on schedule, a light airplane circled over this industrial city north of Boston and the currency was dumped out.

But no money fell to the people. Instead, a winter wind blew it toward Lynn Harbor.

"Instead of coming down, it went up and out," said police officer Tony Annese. "The clams out there are going to be worth a lot more money."

A few people found bills on the beach, but the rest of the crowd was unhappy. In fact, 30-40 screaming people even followed Dyer to his leather manufacturing firm.

"Liar," muttered a bystander. "Where's our money?" another demanded.

Dyer was forced to call police to disperse the crowd.

"The money just didn't land where it was supposed to," said Dyer. "I'm not God. I got no control of the wind.

"I just wanted to do something for the people of Lynn. How can I have regrets? I thought everything would turn out beautiful."

Harris' pistol remained operable after shooting

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A ballistics expert testified Friday that Jean Harris' .32-caliber revolver was the one that killed Scarsdale Diet doctor Herman Tarnower, and he said that although the gun had some broken parts it was still "operable" after the shooting.

The defense has claimed that Mrs. Harris was unable to work the gun and take her own life after shooting Tarnower accidentally.

Joseph Reich, a detective with the Westchester County Police, said that he examined the weapon on March 11, one day after Mrs. Harris allegedly shot the millionaire diet developer in an upstairs bedroom of the mansion on his Purchase estate in what the prosecution says was a jealous rage over another woman.

Reich said he found blood — which previous testimony has suggested was Tarnower's — on the cylinder and hammer, and that the cylinder was not fully attached to the gun because of a broken "swing arm."

The ejector rod, which pushes spent cartridges out of the cylinder, was bent, Reich said.

Mrs. Harris, according to the defense, damaged the weapon when she banged it on a bathtub in Tarnower's bedroom in a futile attempt to get the spent shells out and reload the weapon to kill herself.

According to the prosecution theory, the 57-year-old former headmistress of the Madeira School for Girls in McLean, Va., packed the Harrington and Richardson revolver in her car, put 10 rounds of ammunition in her pocket and drove from Virginia to Purchase after numerous telephone calls to Tarnower in which she was told he was not in.

Tarnower, Mrs. Harris' lover of 14 years, was actually entertaining another woman at the time, according to previous trial testimony.

The defense maintains that the gun went off during a struggle and that one of the reasons Mrs. Harris could not unload the weapon and kill herself was that the gun was made to hold .32-caliber Smith and Wesson "long" ammunition, and that she had loaded it with the wrong ammunition: .32-caliber Smith and Wesson "shorts."

Fugitive anti-war activist surrenders

CHICAGO (AP) — Former anti-war underground activist Cathlyn Platt Wilkerson, hunted for more than a decade, surrendered Friday and was arraigned on charges stemming from the violent "Days of Rage" antiwar demonstrations here in 1969.

Miss Wilkerson, 35, surrendered to Judge Richard Fitzgerald shortly before 10 a.m. and was arraigned on aggravated battery, mob action and resisting arrest charges.

She was freed on a $100,000 personal recognizance bond by Judge Frank G. Suria, to whom Fitzgerald assigned the case. A hearing was set for Jan. 6.

Miss Wilkerson was the second person this month to surrender to face charges brought after the 1969 disturbance created by the radical Weatherman group, which opposed the Vietnam War. Bernadine Dohrn surrendered Dec. 3, still proclaiming her support for the struggle against a system which she said breeds oppression and suffering.

Miss Wilkerson pleaded guilty in July in New York City to charges that she possessed the dynamite that killed three of her friends and which destroyed her father's Greenwich Village house a decade ago.

She fled Cook County while free on $75,000 bond on March 17, 1970, and subsequently was indicted by a Cook County grand jury for jumping bail, authorities said.

She said nothing but "thank you" to the judge after the proceedings and declined to speak with reporters afterwards.

After being released, she went to a snack shop on the fifth floor.

Injured man treks 10 miles for help

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — A seriously injured biologist who trudged miles through deep snow in the Wyoming wilderness to get help for an injured pilot was described Friday as "an exceptional person."

Garvice Roby, 42, suffered a broken sternum and ribs in the crash of a light plane in the Bridger-Teton National Forest but managed to pull the seriously injured pilot from the plane and then walk 10 miles in snow as much as 18 inches deep and cross two streams to get help.

Teton County Undersheriff Roger Millwood, whose deputies rescued pilot Michael Kobos, 24, from the wreckage, said Roby's ordeal Tuesday must have been "extremely painful and would have taken some extra effort."

Millwood described Roby, a biologist for the Wyoming Game and Fish Department, as "an experienced woodsman and very capable in the out of doors.

"He's an exceptional person."

After Roby's trek through the rugged, frozen terrain, he found no one home at the Red Rock Ranch but saw a truck with the keys inside. He began driving and after a few miles found members of the Forest Service staff, who called the sheriff's office at about 4:30 p.m., just four hours after the crash.

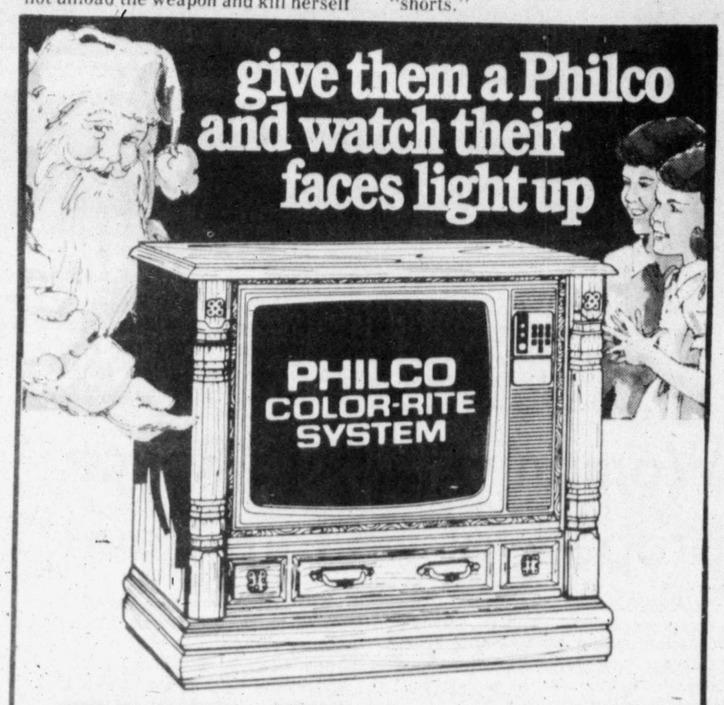

Deputies already had launched a search for the two men, who were overdue returning from a moose count in the forest, when they found Roby. He then helped pinpoint the location of the plane.

"If it had gotten dark and we hadn't found the plane, we would have had to rely on him totally," Millwood said.

Kobos, of Jackson, had a broken leg, head injuries and face cuts and had suffered from shock and hypothermia, the undersheriff said. He was flown out by helicopter to St. John's Hospital in Jackson by 7 p.m., where he was listed Friday in good condition.

Millwood said Roby was avoiding talking to reporters about the ordeal.

But after recounting the ordeal Tuesday night, he was quoted as saying, "It's a lot harder than I'm telling it."

County investigators armed with search warrants swooped down in the home of Dorothy Woods in Pasadena, Calif., shown above with a Mercedes, Rolls, and Cadillac parked out front this past week. Woods is under investigation for allegedly defrauding the welfare system of more than $400,000 over seven years, according to local authorities. (AP Laserphoto)

Bokassa's trial beginning

BANGUI, Central African Republic (AP) — The trial in absentia of deposed dictator Jean Bedel Bokassa opened Friday with the self-proclaimed emperor accused of cannibalism, the massacre of about 100 children and embezzlement of $60 million.

Bokassa, often referred to here as the "Butcher of Bangui," has lived in exile in the Ivory Coast since a French-backed coup toppled his bloody 14-year regime Sept. 20, 1979.

The trial is expected to last two days and receive testimony from 54 witnesses, including several past associates condemned to death for their involvement in his rule over this landlocked African nation.

There are eight charges against the 59-year-old former French army sergeant, including receiving and concealing corpses, illegal detentions and assault and battery.

Allegations of cannibalism were made when troops occupied his palace at Berengo, 43 miles from Bangui, after the coup and found bodies in freezers.

Heads, legs and arms were missing from some of the cadavers, and palace workers told investigators Bokassa, his intimate friends and some guests ate human flesh at ritualistic banquets.

Among the groups accusing the stocky dictator of personally supervising and participating in the slaying of about 100 schoolchildren was the London-based human rights organization Amnesty International. It said the children, some only eight years old, were slaughtered after they staged demonstrations in April 1979 to protest the expense of an imperial edict requiring school uniforms.

The uniforms could only be purchased from a shop partly owned by one of Bokassa's nine wives and cost $20 each - the equivalent of a teacher's monthly salary.

Coup leaders said the children, some of whom had thrown stones at Bokassa's limousine during a street demonstration, were rounded up and taken to a prison where they were beaten, tortured and suffocated or shot.

The new government quoted one witness as saying a 9-year-old child shouted, "Death to the Emperor!" and Bokassa then shot the youngster in the head; screaming, "It is you who is going to die!"

The witness then reportedly said Bokassa turned to another child, told him, "I'll show you what we do with children who misbehave," and poked out the boy's eyes with his walking stick.

A judicial inquiry later said Bokassa "almost certainly" took part in the murders.

Bokassa seized power on Dec. 31, 1965, ousting his cousin, David Dacko, who had been president since the country gained independence from France in 1960. Dacko was returned to the presidency after last year's coup.

The Central African Republic's struggling economy was further strained by Bokassa, who crowned himself emperor in 1976 in an elaborate ceremony patterned after the coronation of Napoleon I and renamed the country the Central African Empire..

It purportedly cost $22 million. Total revenues for the country the previous year were only $28 million.

Bokassa is charged with using state funds to purchase several homes, a restaurant and other properties in France.

In an interview shortly before his fall, he said, "My people don't mind. They want their emperor to look like an emperor."

Woman with Rolls Royce probed for welfare fraud

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Investigators are looking into what may be a record-breaking welfare swindle involving more than $404,000 in illegal payments, food stamps and medical benefits allegedly collected by a woman who drives a Rolls-Royce.

A court affidavit claims that Dororthy Woods, 38, allegedly collected $204,394 between 1973 and 1980 by claiming aid for 38 nonexistent children.

Investigators for the district attorney's office and the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services who searched her fashionable home Monday — and six other properties she and her husband John own in Los Angeles County — found records indicating at least another $100,000 has been paid to her on additional claims for more mythical children, says the affidavit, which was filed by the district attorney's office in connection with the search warrant.

In addition, Mrs. Woods has allegedly collected $100,000 or more in food stamps and medical benefits, bringing the total to more than $404,394.

A series of computer cross-checks eventually kicked out the nine alleged aliases used to collect the illegal welfare payments, investigators said.

Investigators said the claims paid to Mrs. Woods appear to exceed those that went to Barbara Williams, 33, who became known as the "queen of welfare" before being sentenced in 1978 to an eight-year prison term for bilking the county out of $239,587

What's more, the investigators said Thursday, the current case could become the biggest individual welfare fraud case in the nation's history. Because of the volume of new leads uncovered during the searches, investigators said no charges have been filed against Mrs. Woods, who was not arrested and who could not be reached for comment Friday.

Besides the payment records, investigators said they confiscated wigs, check books, drivers licenses and other documents allegedly used to establish nine differnt aliases for Mrs. Woods.

An unidentified telephone informant provided investigators with information indicating the alleged welfare scheme began shortly after Mrs. Woods arrived in California following her release from the Penitentiary for Women in Dwight, Ill., where she served a brief term for fraud.

The records found in Monday's searches indicated that Mrs. Woods was receiving welfare payments amounting to $5,162 per month, they said. The payments were allegedly sent to addresses here, in Long Beach, Pasadena and Compton — many of which were apartments in buildings owned by the Woods.

The Woods own between 100 and 120 rental units, property in Chicago and other real estate in addition to two homes on Prospect Boulevard in Pasadena, each valued at $250,000-$300,000, public records show.

Airline adopts military look

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines flight attendants say their new uniforms aren't sexist and give them a more professional look. But many passengers aren't too keen on the new, military-style look.

The switch from baby-blue suits to green-brown, grey-brown conservative-cut blazers, vests and slacks recently was approved by Eastern's board of directors. The colors resemble the U.S. Air Force uniforms once worn by Frank Borman, the Miami-based airline's president who was formerly a military colonel.

"We're all ready to fly B-52s now," joked flight attendant Terry Edwards. "They are going to issue the rifles next week."

"Some little old man got on the plane and said: 'Reagan was just elected and we're already at war!'" said attendant Marlene Shind.

But Ms. Edwards added, "The uniforms are going back to a more professional look. It's definitely not a sexy uniform. We're not having the harassment and stereotypes that go with the job now."

Robert Callahan, president of the flight attendants' union, said the uniforms give the women a more authoritative, no-nonsense look.

"A quasi-military appearance tends to reduce assaults and conflicts with passengers because of the authoritative appearance," he said.

"It looks horrible, absolutely horrible," said Miami businessman Bill Bordeax, adding wishfully: "They should wear mini-skirts."

"I don't think they are very attractive," said Boston businessman Dave Burgundy. "They're too military. I don't feel at ease with them anymore. I seem to remember that look from when I was in the Navy."

But fashion designer Bill Hare looked at it this way: "I think a well-fitting garment on a girl with a good figure will look even sexier than hot pants and boots."

Young boy hangs self

NILES, Ill. (AP) — A 5-year old kindergarten pupil was found hanged in a closet in his home Friday and authorities speculated that he died while fantasizing he was a cartoon character such The Incredible Hulk, Spiderman or Superman.

The body of Gregg Vogel, dressed in his school clothes, was found by his father at dawn. He was hanged with a bathroom sash which had been looped over a clothes rod in his bedroom closet, investigators said.

The boy's mother said she believed her son awoke early and got dressed and began to play. Police said the mother told them the boy "liked to fantasize, to play Superman, Spiderman and The Incredible Hulk."

"It certainly looks accidental," said Dr. Robert Stein, Cook County medical examiner.

Jeff's air game to test Permian's stingy defense

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

IRVING — The third trip to Texas Stadium this year for Odessa Permian is for all the marbles in Class AAAAA football circles.

Coach John Wilkins' Panthers tangle with the Port Arthur Jefferson Yellow Jackets for the state championship today with kickoff set for 2 p.m.

Permian has faced Fort Worth Richland and Highland Park of Dallas here on this turf and came away with 37-7 and 21-3 victories over the Rebels and Scots.

It will be Permian's rugged defense up against the passing attack of Port Arthur.

Mojo has shut out nine teams in 14 games in racking up a 12-0-2 record while the Jackets stand 14-0 and that has come on the passing arm of Todd Dodge. Dodge, who completed 18 of 27 passes last week in Jefferson's 34-7 victory over San Antonio Holmes, has already set new state passing records. His favorite receiver, Brent Duhon, was double-teamed last week and caught three passes and one touchdown toss. Duhon has 14 TD passes this year while Hodge has thrown 28 TD strikes and has passed for 2,935 yards in 14 games, breaking Tommy Kramer's old record of 2,787 yards in one season.

THE 165-POUND Dodge can surpass 5,000 yards career passing against Mojo today.

Dodge has completed 372 passes during his high school career while Duhon has caught 75 passes for 1,214 yards and is eight receptions shy of the state reord for a single season.

Jefferson racked up 31 first downs last week and a total offense of 523 yards against Holmes last weekend.

Permian's defense will have to shut down some of that offense in order to win today, according to Wilkins.

And defense is what Mojo plays best. The Panthers have yielded 10 points in four playoff games in beating Sherman, Richland, Amarillo and Highland Park.

JEFFERSON had a rough game in the second round of the playoffs, taking a 29-24 victory over LaMarque in the regional finals and the closest game was against Port Neches-Groves in district play when the Jackets came away with a 14-13 victory.

While Permian relies on its defense, the offense is also strong too. Tailback Kent Sager, a hard-running 164-pound senior, has rushed for 912 yards on 191 carries for an average of 4.7 yards per carry and he has scored 15 touchdowns on the year with five of those coming in the four pervious playoff games. Sager suffered a sprained ankle in the Highland Park game, but is expected to play today even though he may not be 100 per cent.

Joining Sager in the Mojo backfield is quarterback Jerry Hix, a gutty 140-pounder, who scored one touchdown and passed for another in last week's impressive win over the Scots.

Hix has gained 569 yards for a 4.9 average while fullback Phillip Crain, a 165-pounder, has 548 yards on the year. Hix has passed for 1,006 yards and thrown 13 touchdown passes.

Besides Sager's 90 points, teammate Roy Dunn, a 240-pound tackle, has scored 62 points with 38 extra points and eight field goals.

FLANKER MIKE George, who missed the Highland Park game with a hamstring injury, will be back in the starting lineup. He has caught 18 passes for 226 yards and three TDs. Eddie Pinnell has 25 receptions for 378 yards and tight end Jimmy Morris, who had a TD catch last week, has five TD catches on the year.

Middle linebacker Mike Williams, a 185-pound senior, has a 40.7 punting average to give Mojo a strong kicking game.

Permian is seeking its third state title in the past 15 years. The Panthers beat San Antonio Lee, 11-6 in 1965 for the Class AAAA crown and then beat Bayton Sterling, 37-7 in the title game in 1972. Permian lost to Austin Reagan, 17-11 in 1968 and again to Reagan 20-14 in 1970 in the state championship game and dropped a 20-10 decision to Port Neches-Groves here in Texas Stadium in the 1975 championship game.

Pittsburg stonewalls Van Vleck

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Tailback Gary Hashaway dashed for two touchdowns and Pittsburg's fiery defense stonewalled Van Vleck as the Pirates claimed a 13-2 win for the state 3A schoolboy football championship Friday night.

It was the first state crown ever for Pittsburg, 15-0, who saw a bid for last year's championship ruined by a heartbreaking 7-6 regional playoff loss to Van.

Despite the loss, Van Vleck, 12-2-1, shattered an amazing Pirate shutout streak on a safety with 7:57 left in the second quarter.

On fourth down from the Pittsburg 28, Byron Linwood covered a high snap from center over the head of Pirate punter Kinnard Nelms in the end zone.

The resulting two points were the first scored against Pittsburg by a 3A team this season and snapped a streak of 42 consecutive scoreless quarters for the Pirate defense — a state record.

Hashaway clenched the game for Pittsburg on a 4-yard touchdown jaunt with 11:57 remaining. The run came four plays after Nelms, who tallied two interceptions, picked off a pass by Leopard quarterback Calvin Ward at Van Vleck's 40.

Nelm's handed off to Linwood, who dashed 23 yards to the Leopard 17.

After the kickoff, Van Vleck drove from its 24 to the Pittsburg 34 but Nelms again swiped a Ward pass at the 15, sealing the Leopards' doom.

Rebs advance; Bulldogs bow

In the 1979 Tall City Girls Basketball Tournment Amarillo High defeated Midland High to claim the title. Friday night the two clubs met again in the Tall City Tournaent at Midland High gym. This time the Sandies bumped off the Bulldogs 56-39 to advance to a second round clash against Eastwood while sending MHS to the losers bracket to face Artesia in a 3:15 battle.

Tall, talented Amarillo took advantage of Midland's reluctance to shoot or rebound to grab a 20-8 lead after one period.

The second quarter was not any better for the Bulldogs. By controlling the backboards and giving MHS only one shot, Amarillo outscored the Bulldogs 13-4 to take a 32-12 halftime lead.

BULLDOG mentor Jane Young talked to her troops during the halftime break and it appeared to be the right tonic.

Midland came out and took the game right to the Sandies. Missy Larremore, a whirlwind on defense, and Shelia Christian, on the offensive end, helped the Bulldogs outscore Amarillo 12-9 in the third quarter. Heading into the final eight minutes of play the Bulldogs were down 41-24, but certainly not out of the game.

In the fourth quarter MHS played perhaps its best basketball of the season. Midland clamped a press on the Sandies, who promptly went into a butterfingers act. Amarillo turned the ball over four straight points and the Bulldogs were kind enough to convert them into nine points.

Just when it appeared MHS might be getting back into the game Rhonda Reed got a hot hand. Reed, finding a spot on the baseline about 15 feet from the basket,winged in three straight jumpers to slow down the MHS comeback.

Leslie Parke, Larremore, and Diane Hogan keyed a last minute surge by the Bulldogs to cut the final margin to 15 points. In a span of 45-seconds Midland ran off the final eight points of the game.

The Bulldogs were led by Hogan with 11 and Larremore with 10 points. Carman Wynn took game honors with 15 markers.

Midland's next game will be today at 10:45 when the Bulldogs tip off against Artesia.

THE EASTWOOD Troopers, with Laura Lynn netting 15, Jackie Stapher 12 and Kathy Castillo 10, cruised by Artesia 61-38. Artesisa was paced by Lisa Lee with 17 points.

Midland Lee, a first-round loser to Amarillo last year, got this year's tournament started off on the right foot by dumping Amarillo Palo Duro 63-54. The win did not come easy.

The Rebels started slowly and found themselves down 13-10 after one quarter on action. Lee, having trouble hitting early in the second period, fell behind by five with six minutes left in the half.

Suzanne McGaha and Dana Pinkerton engineered a rally as the Rebels swept to a 24-23 lead. The Dons nailed two buckets to a Rebel free throw to build the lead back to four. Just as time expired in the half, Ludes Duran hit a jumper from the top of the key and was fouled. Duran clamly sank the freebie to trim the Don lead to 28-27 at the half.

In the third quarter a sleeping Rebel awoke. Gale Wilson, who had only four first half tallies, went to work. Wilson climbed on the boards, looked for her shot and zipped in eight third quarter points. It wasn't enough as Lee still trailed, 42-40, heading into the last quarter.

THE FINAL period was a thing of beauty for Rebel fans. Lee got its running game moving to a tune of 23 points while holding Palo Duro to 12 as the close game became a runaway. Wilson continued her deadeye shooting, canning 10 of her game high 22 points, Wathena Henry hit 7 of 10 free throws—the free throw line was kind to the Rebels as they netted 25 of 34—and Yshung King tallied 6 points as the Rebels wheeled past the Dons into a 12:30 p.m. matchup Friday with Bel Aire. Pat Waemsley netted 22 and Tonya Folsom garnered 21 to head the Dons.

Bel Aire advanced to the winners brack by on the strength of a 65-34 win over the Big Spring Steers. Latanya Thompson—niece of Nolan Richardson, former South Plains head coach and now head man at Tulsa—lead the Highlanders with 18 points while Cynthia Fernandez added 12 and Carmen Acosts netted 10. Shell Rutledge paced the Steers with 14 markers.

BYU stuns SMU on last play

Mustangs squander 35-13 3rd peri od lead

By NORM CLARKE

SAN DIEGO (AP) — All-American quarterback Jim McMahon fired a desperation 41-yard touchdown bomb to tight end Clay Brown on the final play of the third Holiday Bowl football game and Kurt Gunther kicked the conversion Friday night, giving Brigham Young an incredible 46-45 comeback victory over Southern Methodist.

The 14th-ranked Cougars, trailing 45-25 with less than four minutes to play, scored three touchdowns in the final 2:33 to pull out the triumph.

The last-ditch touchdown was set up when Bill Schoepflin blocked a Southern Methodist punt with 15 seconds to go. McMahon threw two incompletions before connecting with Brown, who fought off several defenders to make a brilliant catch in the SMU end zone with time expired.

McMahon completed 32 of 49 passes for 446 yards and four touchdowns. He threw for 315 yards in the second half. Three of the scoring passes were caught by Brown.

Scoring two touchdowns in the first five minutes on lightning-quick drives, the Mustangs, 8-4, bolted to a 19-0 first quarter lead by scoring on their first three possessions and adding a safety.

The Mustangs led all the way after that until the game's final play. The were ahead by as many as 22 points before the Cougars exploded.

McMahon hit Matt Braga with a 15-yard scoring throw with 2:33 to go, making it 45-31. Just 35 seconds later, after recovering an onside kick, the Cougars scored again on a 1-yard run by Scott Phillips.

The BYU defense, which had been almost thoroughly decimated most of the way, then stopped SMU in the final seconds to give the Cougars their last shot.

Less than half of the near sellout crowd of 50,221 at San Diego Stadium was on hand for the last-second fireworks.

Sophomore tailback Craig James rushed for 225 yards — 101 in the first quarter — on 25 carries, and scored three touchdowns for SMU. Eric Dickerson, who gained 110 yards on 23 carries, scored twice for the Mustangs, who had 393 yards rushing to minus two for BYU.

Junior place-kicker Eddie Garcia booted field goals of 42, 44 and 42 yards for the Mustangs, who tied for second place in the Southwest Conference.

The victory snapped a four-game bowl losing streak for BYU, the Western Athletic Conference champion. The Cougars finished the season with a 12-1 record.

Bulldogs' 13-game win streak ended by Judson

SAN ANTONIO — Midland High's stint as an unbeaten basketball team came to an end here Friday night in the third round of the giant 32-team Optimist Classic tournament.

The Bulldogs, riding a 13-game winning streak, ran into a quick and good shooting San Antonio Judson outfit. Judson won the contest, 74-64, and advanced in the tournament while Midland High was eliminated from tournament activity with a 13-1 record for the season.

Lazano led the way for Judson with 20 points while Davis had 18 and Spitzmesser 15 in a three-pronged attack. Horace Brown, who had a big tournament for the Bulldogs, pumped in 20 points while Herbert Johnson had 16. Mike Velasco and Steve Miller both had 10 points in the loss.

Earlier Friday, MHS had beaten a powerful Houston Smiley team by a 51-46 margin as Brown hit for 19 points and Johnson 13. Velasco had 10 points in the win. Smiley's Butler led all scorers with 20 points.

Against Smiley, the Bulldogs trailed 26-19 at the half, but played well in the second half to pull out the win.

Against Judson, the Purple Pack led 15-14 at the end of the first period, but trailed 30-26 at the half. Judson then went on to outscore the Pack 44-38 in the second half with a 20-13 advantage in the third period.

"The season is still young and we are still 13-1 on the year, and that's pretty good," said MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "It was just a case where we couldn't hit any free throws. We got 17 tries at the free throw line in the second half and hit only three. Judson is a good basketball team, very quick and they shot the eyes out of the bucket against us. Those things happen sometimes."

Lee drops 65-62 tilt to Andress at Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Despite an eye-popping 28 points by Midland Lee's Alvin Dunson here Friday night, the Rebels dropped a 65-62 decision to El Paso Andress in the second round of the Reese Air Force Base Christmas Classic Basketball Tournament.

Dunson's 28 point flurry was by far the leading effort on either team, but it was a disastrous third period which caused the Rebel demise in this one.

Lee, leading by a slim 31-30 margin at the half, went into a third quarter slump as Andress outscored the Rebs by a 20-12 margin in eight minutes of play to capture a 50-43 lead. Lee tried to get back in the game with a 19-point fourth quarter, but Andress managed to score 15 points to take the narrow win by the final three-point margin.

Andre Van Buren helped the Lee cause with 14 points, but no other Rebels were in double figures. High for Andress was David Ortega with 11 points and Aubrey Kennedy chipped in with 10. David Cooper had nine more.

Lee got off to a fast start against Andress with a 17-14 lead at the end of the first period, but Andress cut the margin to one at the half with a 16-14 advantage in the second period of play.

The loss left Lee with a 7-6 season mark as the Rebels head into the third place matchup today at 5:30 p.m. Lee will meet the loser of the Lubbock Dunbar-Andrews contest, which was played late Friday. Lee will face powerful AAAA Andrews Monday in a non-conference game at 8 p.m. in the Lee gym before taking the Christmas break.

Rams didn't bargain for turnaround caused by rookie

(c) 1980, Los Angeles Times

Every football executive worth his expense account dreams of signing the player who can "turn the franchise around," as the saying goes, a Terry Bradshaw who can lead you to Instant Super Bowl, a game-breaker like Tony Dorsett, Earl Campbell, Lynn Swann.

But the Rams didn't bargain for the turnaround the signing of Johnny Johnson gave the Super Bowlers of 1980. Johnnie not only turned the franchise around, he almost turned it into the Cincinnati Bengals. The Rams got Johnnie at a cost far in excess of the $1.1 million announced to the press. The cost almost included one All-Pro defensive end, one outside linebacker, defensive back, offensive guard and defensive tackle. In other words, the deal nearly cost the Los Angeles Rams the Los Angeles Rams.

THE PROBELM is as old as pro sports. A grizzled veteran looks with shock at the figures paid to raw recruits, slams his fist on the desk and screams, "I played for you with broken legs, pinched nerves, nosebleeds and torn ligaments, and here you pay millions to this kid who never blocked a punt, fell on a fumble, intercepted a pass or even held a placekick! What am I, chopped liver? Yesterday's hash? I want a million, too! So tear up my contract and write a new one or get your (leave blank name of position) out of the Yellow Pages!"

A "million dollars" has a nice ring to it. Agents love the sound of it. You get better tables in restaurants when you're associated with that word, million. Actually, Johnnie Johnson's million comes over six years. But no agent wants to say he got his client $166,000 a year. You can make that opening car doors and whistling for cabs. Agents leave that in tips.

Still, the signing of Johnnie Johnson was the most cataclysmic since the signing of the Japanese surrender aboard the Missouri, though it did not have the same long-lasting effect that document had. The holdout players -- the Fearful Five, the two Youngbloods, Jack and Jim, Larry Brooks, Pat Thomas and Dennis Harrah -- eventually came to terms with management, after missing several weeks of practice and pre-season games.

Was Johnnie Johnson worth it? Well, Johnnie Johnson was a 9.6 sprinter in high school, an all-state high and low hurdler, a two-way football player, good enough to be offered a baseball contract by the Pittsburgh Pirates, great playmaker in basketball, and a nifty Swannlike pass catcher in football.

Usually, when you get an athlete like that, you have to threaten to lock him in a rubber room and systematically break him down by leaving the lights on all night to get him to play defense.

But Johnnie Johnson insisted on it! He didn't want what he called the "glamor positions." Given his qualifications, it was a little like Robert Redford insisting on playing Ernest Borgnine's sidekick, or Paul Newman playing Ronald Reagan's best friend.

YOU NORMALLY have to threaten the victim's family to get him to play safety. Safetymen are the commandos of football. They have to be able to tackle tight ends who outweigh them by 60 pounds or halfbacks who could have won the 100 at Moscow. Sometimes, they have to "blitz," i.e., make a 20-yard charge through 260-pound blockers in less than three seconds and drop a 6-2 quarterback hard and try to separate him from the ball. A guy who would volunteer for this would cut barbed wire in an artillery attack.

"I'd rather hit than get hit," Johnnie Johnson explains. Except that, sometimes, a safetyman is the hittee. Tight ends, you see, block too. With the force of runaway locomotives when they get downfield. But a safetyman's first duty is to get his territory marked out as so unfriendly that ends and runners come into it with all the enthusiasm of a zebra entering lion country. At the University of Texas Johnnie caught more passes he was not supposed to catch than the guys for whom they were intended -- 14 interceptions for 185 yards and a touchdown.

THE FIRST thing he did with his signing money was buy a house for his mother in LaGrange, Texas, to begin to make up to her for all the houses she cleaned, beds she made and water she hauled to raise her brood of 11. Johnnie loaded hay wagons himself to help the family, of which he says he was the "eighth youngest." The Rams are not apt to have to comb the discos or the fleshpots of the Sunset Strip for their safetyman. He says his mother "played the piano for three churches every Sunday," spending from early morning till 4 in the afternoon at the services. And Jessie Mae Johnson saw to it that her children went, too.

You could have bought Alaska for what a defensive secondary in the NFL costs you today. But the Rams may yet look back on Johnnie Johnson as their million-dollar bargain. Someone may whistle someday and say, "You mean that strong safety, Johnnie Johnson, only cost you a million?!" And the Rams will say wistfully, "Yeah, and back in those days a good house only cost you $200,000, too."

Pilot Point, Tidehaven play 0-0 tie

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — Top-ranked Pilot Point and Tidehaven battled to a 0-0 tie and a shared the title in the Class 2A schoolboy football championship game Friday night.

Jerome Johnson, leading rusher for the night, covered 59 yards on 22 carries for Pilot Point, but the favored Bearcats were unable to score.

The lone scoring threat of the game came in the second half, with Pilot Point moving to the Tidehaven four yard line. But after three unsuccessful attempts the Bearcats went for a field goal from the Tidehaven 2.

Pilot Point drew a 5-yard walkoff for delay of game and Stanley Hamilton's 25-yard boot failed to hit its mark.

Tidehaven mounted its best attempt as the third quarter got under way, driving to the Pilot Point 27 before turning the ball over on downs.

The underdog Tigers had one last shot at victory with less than two minutes left in the game.

Two plays brought Tidehaven four yards to the Bearcat 32, but quarterback Robert Dannels was sacked for a 6-yard loss and intercepted for the third time in the game on the next play.

Pilot Point ends the season at 14-0-1, while Tidehaven winds up at 13-0-2.

WAC presidents delay UNLV bid

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Presidents of Western Athletic Conference member schools voted Friday to delay a decision on application for admission by the University of Nevada-Las Vegas until January.

After receiving a progress report from Nevada-Las Vegas President Leonard Goodall, WAC presidents took the matter under advisement.

The Nevada school requested admission more than a year ago but was turned down at that time.

Rangers raise record to 10-2

GREENWOOD — The Greenwood Rangers ran their record to 10-2 here Friday night with a 72-21 non-conference basketball victory over Midland Christian.

Mickey Somers led the way with 20 points for the Rangers as Todd Brooks chipped in with 12 and Rex Evans with 11. Belcher was high for Midland Christian with eight points.

The Greenwood girls remained undefeated with a sound 53-18 victory over the Midland Christian girls as Lisa Mobley led the way with 14 points. Mobley was the only girl in double figures for Greenwood, but Nancy Ortiz had nine while Genny Duke and Rita Garcia each had six. Strickland had 10 points for Midland Christian.

Tors post 2-4A win

MONAHANS — The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes opened District 2-AAAA basketball play here Friday night with a sound 62-48 win over the Monahans Lobos.

Johnny Castro pumped in 20 points for the Tors as Lamesa climbed to 10-3 on the year and 1-0 in loop action. Victor Spencer hit for 16 points in the victory also.

Monahans was led by Chris Morales' 12 points while Rudy Boydsa and Rusty Roark each had 10 points.

Lamesa never trailed in the game while running to a 30-19 halftime lead.

Lee JV nips Snyder

BIG SPRING — Midland Lee's Blake Adams rebounded a missed free throw and put it back in the goal with five seconds left here Friday night to give the Lee junior varsity a 63-62 win over Snyder in the opening round of the Big Spring JV Basketball Tournament.

The victory propels Lee into an 11:30 a.m. shootout with Odessa High today in the championship bracket. The Bronchos of OHS defeated Midland High Friday in the late first round game, but no details were available. Midland High will be in the loser's bracket today and will try for the consolation trophy.

David Hicks led the Rebel attack with 19 points while Derrick Lane hit for 10. Tommy Pollard and Herbie Hinojosa had eight and seven points respectively. In all, nine Lee players got in on the scoring act.

Still, it came down to the dramatic bucket by Adams with five seconds left to lift the Rebs to the win.

Eagles can't lose, can they?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles could get whipped by the Cowboys in Dallas Sunday and still romp off the field exchanging high fives as the new division champs.

Of such strange stuff are National Football League tiebreaker rules made.

"It's a crazy situation," says Eagles quarterback Ron Jaworski. "We can almost lose the ballgame and be happy. But all of us feel we want to go down there and win."

To capture the division crown, the Eagles have two options Sunday: 1, Win. 2, Don't lose by more than 24 points.

A Dallas victory would give both clubs identical 12-4 marks, bringing the tiebreaker rules into play.

The first four are not applicable since the teams have split head-to-head, would have the same division records (6-2), the same conference records (9-3) and the same record against common opponents (3-1).

So the fifth rule, best net points in division games, comes into play, and it finds the Cowboys in a hole. If they don't run up a 25-point victory bulge Sunday, they finish second in the NFC-East, but still are assured of a playoff berth as a wild-card team.

"It's a great situation to go into," said Jaworski. "There's really not a whole lot of pressure on us, to get us uptight. I think it's a game in which we can play loose, let it all hang out, not be tentative at all. Our approach is going to have to be an aggressive approach."

The Eagles haven't lost a game by 24 points since 1976, the year the Redskins threw a 24-0 shutout at Vermeil's first team.

"I'd rather win the division outright rather than slide into it," said Jaworski, a Pro Bowl selection. "But if it means sliding in, I'll take that, too."

Obviously, the clock will be on the Eagles' side when Philadelphia takes the field. Will they come out throwing like they did in last year's 31-21 upset of the Cowboys? Or will they run Wilbert Montgomery 30 times into the teeth of the Cowboys' flex defense, thus chewing up the clock?

"That was a unique ratio," Jaworski said of last year's Dallas game, in which the Eagles called 23 pass plays and only 10 running plays in the first half. "We are usually the other way around, 23 runs and 10 passes.

"But the way to beat the Cowboys is to throw against them on first down. I still feel that way. The thing is, does the coach feel that way?"

Cougars, Vols, Clemson win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston guard Rob Williams scored 33 points and Houston's defense stalled out Army as the Cougars, 6-1, rolled to an 88-58 victory Friday night in a first-round game of the Cougar Kettle Classic basketball tournament.

Williams hit 20 of his points in the second half, including one stretch where he hit eight straight points. Freshman Clyde Drexler added 17 points for the Cougars and Brad Greene led the Cadets with 15 points. Bob Brown, Army's leading scorer with a 25.2 average, was held to 12 points.

The Cadets dropped to a 4-2 record on the season.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dale Ellis helped spark a 10-point surge in the second half that started the Tennessee Volunteers to an 80-54 rout of Iona Friday night in the first round of the Volunteer Basketball Classic.

The win moved Tennessee into Saturday$night's championship round game against 18th-rated Brigham Young, which earlier defeated Illinois 80-75 in an opening-round contest.

CHICAGO (AP) — Guard Michael Jenkins scored Northwestern's final four points in the last four minutes of the game, and the Wildcats held on for a 53-52 win over Northern Illinois in the Chicagoland Classic Friday night.

The victory put Northwestern at 5-0 and Northern Illinois at 2-4 on the season.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Unbeaten Clemson, 7-0, led by 18 points by 6-foot-10 Larry Nance, took control in the second half and defeated Illinois State 67-56 Friday night in the first round of the Milwaukee Classic college basketball tournament.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Gene Banks scored 14 points in the second half to lead Duke to a 91-60 victory over Brown in the first round of the Iron Duke Classic college basketball tournament Friday night.

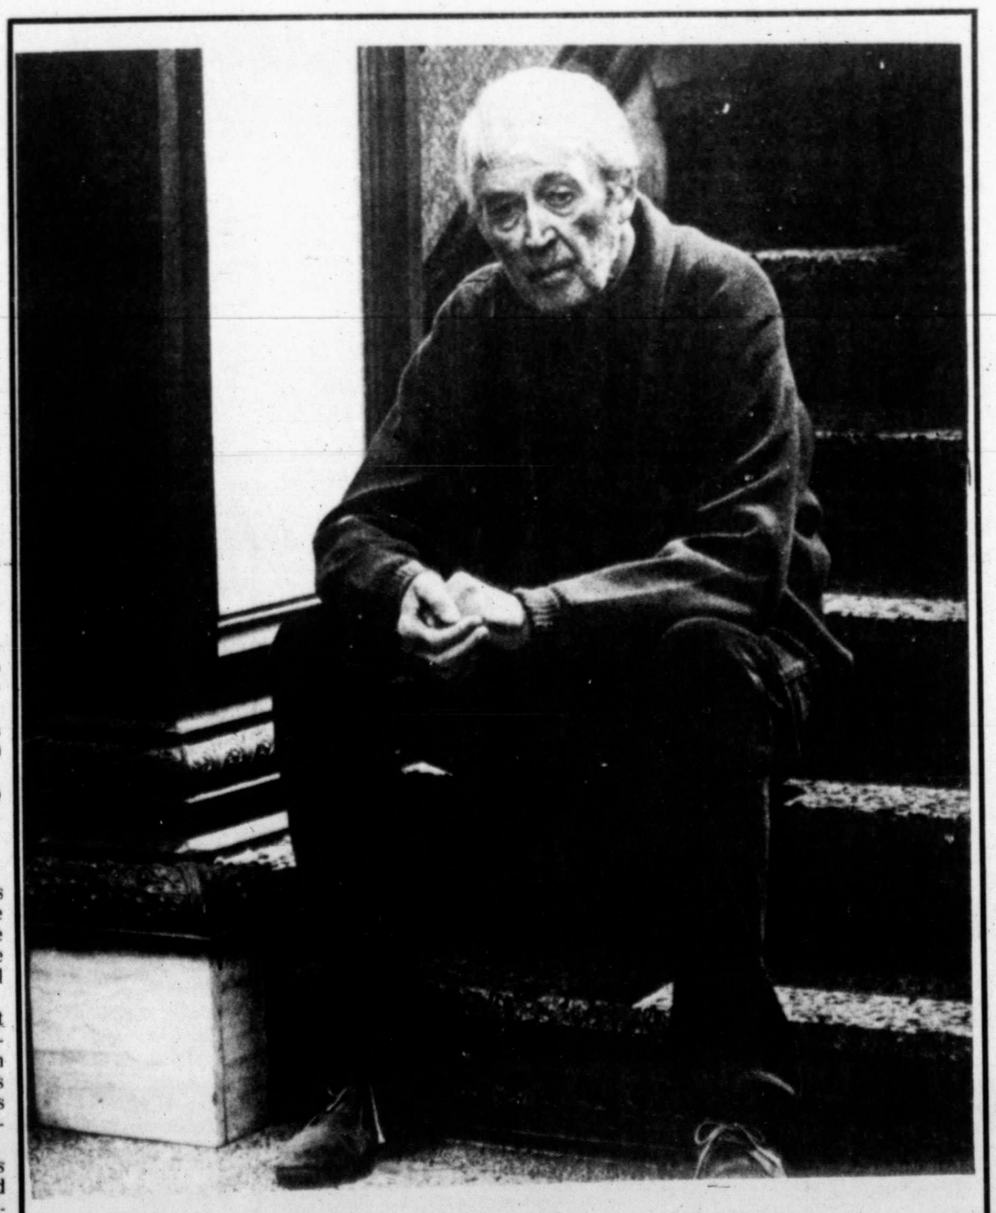

Banks led all scorers with 23 points. Guard Vince Taylor had 15, and Tom Emma and Chip Engelland scored 12 and 10 points, respectively.

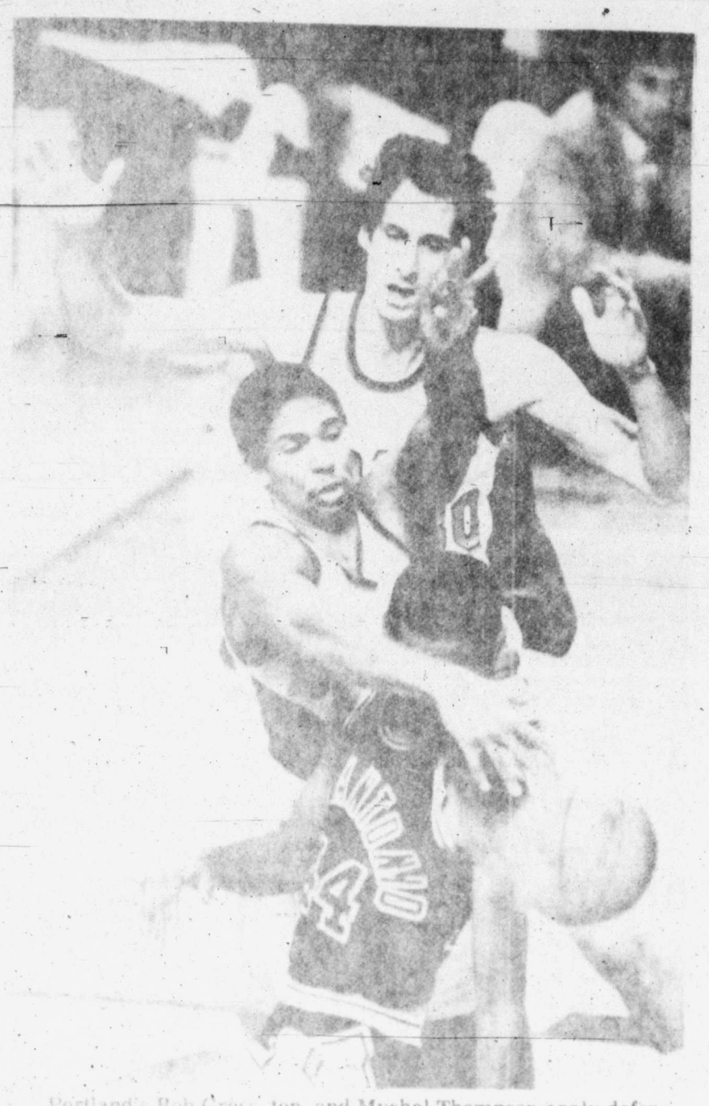

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Sam Bowie scored eight of his 10 points as second-ranked Kentucky rolled to a 35-12 halftime lead on the way to a 91-56 win over Alaska-Anchorage in a first-round game Friday night in the 28th Kentucky Invitational basketball tournament.

Kentucky, 5-0, moves into Saturday's title game against Alabama-Birmingham, which got 18 points from Oliver Robinson and 10 apiece from Chris Giles and Norman Anchrum in a 68-55 win over Idaho State. Alaska-Anchorage, 7-4, and Idaho State meet in the consolation game.

ATLANTA (AP) — Freshman Vern Fleming scored six points during a 10-0 spurt at the start of the second half that put Georgia in control, and the undefeated Bulldogs downed Tennessee-Chattanooga 77-68 Friday night in the inaugural Cotton States Basketball Classic.

The victory moved the Bulldogs into Saturday night's title game against Florida State, which upset Missouri 68-64 when Mickey Dillard broke a 62-62 deadlock with four straight free throws in the final 94 seconds to give the Seminoles the victory.

Sugar Ray looks to middleweights

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard, the conqueror of Roberto Duran last Nov. 25, might fight for the junior middleweight championship while waiting to see if a fight can be made between him and Thomas Hearns for the unuversal welterweight title, Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney said Friday.

Trainer told The Associated Press by telephone that he would like to see a Leonard-Hearns fight, but that he didn't think the unbeaten Hearns had the kind of national reputation needed to make such a fight economically feasible at this time.

However, Emanuel Steward, Hearns' manager, reached by telephone in Detroit, said, "His (Hearns) image is better known that Trainer wants to admit. I think it is the most talked about sports event of 1981."

While battle lines were being drawn, Leonard was in Los Angeles to be interviewed live following the rerun on ABC-TV of the fight last Nov. 25 at New Orleans in which he regained the World Boxing Council welterweight championship when Roberto Duran quit in the eighth round. Duran was to participate in the interview from Miami.

TRAINER indicated that Leonard's first fight of 1981 could be in March and that it could be against either of the two junior middleweight champs — Maurice Hope of Britain, recognized by the World Boxing Council, or Ayub Kalule, of Denmark, recognized by the World Boxing Association.

Trainer said that he has been in contact with representatives of both junior middleweight champions and added that should Leonard beat either Hope or Kalule, he could surrender the junior middleweight title (155-pound limit) in order to fight the power-punching Hearns in a bout to unite the welterweight division, which has a 147-pound limit.

Steward also said that by end of 1981, Hearns also would like to be junior middweight champion but that Hearns would remain a welterweight as long as he can fight Leonard for universal championship recognition. "That is the fight the pulic deserves," he said.

Almost four months before Leonard regained the WBC welterweight title and avenged the only defeat of his 29-bout career, Hearns scored his 27th knockout in 29 victories when he stopped Pipino Cuevas in the second round last Aug. 2 and won the WBA welterweight title.

ASKED ABOUT the prospects of a Leonard-Hearns fight, Trainer said, "I think the prospects are good. Much depends on the public response to the Hearns-Benitez fight."

Hearns will defend his title against Wilfred Benitez, who lost the WBC championship to Leonard Nov. 30, 1979.

"Benitez is a tough fight," said Steward, but our desire is to destroy Benitez the way we destroyed Cuevas.

"Hearns just is not well enough known in some sections of the country for a big network or closed-circuit fight at this point," said Trainer. "Economics would not permit such a fight presently for the kind of money both fighers will want."

"ONE THING I want to make clear is that it's a 50-50 fight (in purses)," said Steward. "Hearns is a champion, too."

Steward also said Leonard needs Hearns because "Leonard's victory over Duran was not substantial because of the way the fight ended. To get the credibility he desires, he has to fight Hearns. To get the kind of purse he is accustomed to, the only fight the public will buy is one with Thomas Hearns."

Leonard made $9.5 million when he lost the title on a decision to Duran in Montreal June 20 and $7 million against the Panamanian in New Orleans.

Former Oiler convicted of beating jail inmate

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — James "Bubba" McCollum, a former starting football player for the University of Kentucky and the Houston Oilers of the National Football League, has been convicted of official misconduct.

McCollum on Wednesday became the first Jefferson County jail guard to be successfully prosecuted for beating an inmate. A Circuit Court jury recommended the maximum sentence of 12 months in prison and a $500 fine.

McCollum was found guilty of pummeling a convicted felon, Charles Edward Cotton so hard that it ruptured the man's spleen.

In the early 1970s at the University of Kentucky, McCollum's achievements as a defensive lineman brought him the most valuable player citation and honorable mention on the college All-America team.

After limited success as a starting noseguard for the Houston Oilers, McCollumn returned to his hometown and accepted a job as a jailer in the intake area of the Jefferson Metropolitan Department of Corrections.

According to testimony in Circuit Judge Olga Peers' courtroom, Cotton — a convicted felon with a reputation as a "troublemaker" — was brought to the intake area the night of Aug. 24.

Because he takes water pills for a kidney malfunction, Cotton testified, he asked McCollum where he could use the bathroom.

Cotton said McCollum refused his request. The 36-year-old Cotton denied calling McCollum names.

Later Cotton was separated from the rest of the prisoners and told he was "going to have a little talk" with McCollum. Alone in the intake cell, he said he fell asleep and awakened to find McCollum standing nearby, pointing his finger at him.

Cotton stated that he the blacked out and woke up in a pool of blood on the floor of the cell.

A former sheriff's deputy testified at the trial that he saw McCollum kick Cotton eight to 12 times in the stomach, lifing the 190-pound victim off the floor with each blow.

According to University Hospital records presented at the trial, Cotton was treated for a cut over his eye. Blood was found in his urine.

When last the Eagles soared

Last time the Eagles came to Dallas we were billeted in a motel across the road from Texas Stadium and check out time was noon. That's good timing unless your stuck without a car and it's a night game, which we were and it was.

How do you kill eight hours in the middle of a mixmaster until kickoff?

For the resourceful, it isn't difficult. We simply checked our typewriter and bags at the Texas Stadium press entrance and walked across the mixmaster and toured the University of Dallas. In situations such as these you've got to use your head.

AFTER A trip around the campus, which included a cafeteria pit stop and another to update library periodicals, unless we slipped into a classroom for a lecture (and we'd never have passed muster as a student), UD as a time-pacifier had been exhausted. Only seven hours to kickoff.

In desperation we headed back to the stadium where we decided to catch a soap on one of the TV sets in the media dining room behind the radio and TV booths and maybe pound out a story on why the Eagles, despite their newfound success under Dick Vermeil were still the same old fold-in-the-clutch futile Phillies of yore against the Cowboys. Simply put, the Eagles, no matter how well they played, still couldn't make tae big play when it counted.

IT WAS 1:30 p.m. when the guard looked at us suspiciously and said it was okay to go up the elevator to the VIP level. Ever been in a deserted, creaking house in the country at midnight? Well, meet Texas Stadium in midafternoon. Walking down the long, lonely corridor with its silent, staring vacant luxury booths is a spooky experience.

Nary a soul stirred anywhere, but the media dining room was open. We set up shop and rattled the ricketv typewriter. Despite the crackling tattoo confirmation of lurking ghosts on the premises weren't long in coming. There was a distinct noise somewhere nearby.

Wandering out to the TV deck, preparatory to beating our haunting tormentor to the punch by leaping to the safety of the stands below, the ghost appeared to be remarkably mortal. In fact, he said "hello."

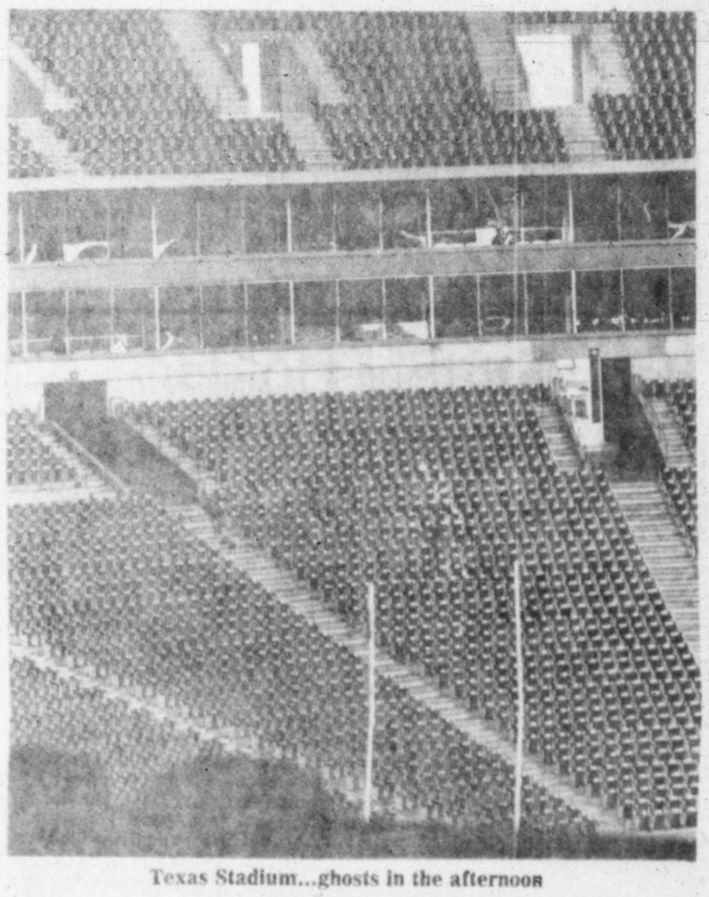

He turned out to be a member of the ABC technical crew. "We use more cameras than the crews that shoot the Sunday games," he explained, "so we come in Saturday before the game and begin setting up."

BY 3:30 the stragglers began arriving, the early birds and employees trickled in one by one. Around 4, Howard arrived, no mistaking the voice, and the ABC technician responded to the obvious question. "Giff and Dandy usually show up around 6:30."

By 5 p.m. the Texas Southern band was rehearsing its halftime show down on the field. Wandering out on the deck to watch, we could hear Howie taping his pregame readin. He was having trouble.

After about the fourth take, he suggested the script writer had tried to say too much in one sentence. The language was surprisingly basic, functional and the longest word lettered about four.

He was so loud, people in the stands began to assemble below, looking up to the booth to see what all the commotion was about.

Texas Stadium...ghosts in the afternoon

LATER, standing in the chow line, next to Jack Buck, we mentioned we usually listened to his broadcasts with Hank Stram on Monday night football as a change of pace and even picked up his home station, KMOX St. Louis, in West Texas.

Then, we made one of those gopher ball pitches, the kind you immediately wish you could call back by commenting on his handling of the World Series. We quickly recognized the faux pas but watched as the ball sailed over the fence. "Thanks," he said tolerantly, "But I did the playoffs, not the Series...that was Vin Scully."

After that Monday Night NFL progressed predictably, the usual stuff...standard barbecue and apple, marrow and sinew crushed and torn to the accompaniement of wiggling cheerleaders, post-game recriminations in the locker room and when it was finally over, we had not only killed eight hours, but it was 1:30 a.m. back at the airport motel. We knew how we'd kill that five hours before the 7 a.m. flight back to Midland.

Still, it was too bad about that penetrating analysis of the Eagles...Philadelphia 31-21...well, at least, we still had the soaps.

Displayed is the pheasant take of 14 Midlanders who went hunting recently on the Robert Strain Farm between Canyon and Hereford. Making the trip were Bobby Dunn, Thurman "Tugboat" Jones, Bill Jones, Paul Davis, Barney Cauble, John McKeel, Tex Paris, Glen Hixon, Dale Mansfield, Dee Windsor, Henry Kitzman, Buddy Wood, Stan Cobb, and Leonard Monore.

Ex-gridder files suit

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Bevan Maxey, a former wide receiver for Washington State University's football team, has filed a $290,000 break-of-contract and defamation suit in Spokane County Superior Court against the Seattle Seahawks.

The suit claims the National Football League team wrongfully terminated a contract with him in July after he injured an ankle while running as part of his training.

The suit filed this week says the dismissal exposed him to public contempt, ridicule, aversion and disgrace and injured him in his occupation.

Pitt dominates All-East squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Four members of Pitt's defensive front five, led by three-time All-American end Hugh Green, were named to The Associated Press 1980 All-East team Friday.

Green, winner of the Lombardi Trophy as the nation's best lineman, made the All-East team for the fourth year in a row. He was joined by Ricky Jackson, the Panthers' other defensive end, along with tackle Bill Neill and middle guard Jerry Boyarsky.

Pitt's Lambert Trophy Eastern champions led the nation in both total defense and rushing defense. They surrendered only 205.5 yards a game overall, just 65.3 yards on the ground.

The Panthers also put three players on the All-East offensive unit — tight end Benjie Pryor, tackle Mark May — the Outland Trophy winner as the nation's top interior lineman — and running back Randy McMillan. Pryor and May were repeaters from the 1979 team, as were Navy guard Frank McCallister and Syracuse linebacker Jim Collins.

The rest of the offensive unit consists of wide receivers Mike Fahnestock of Army and Tim Odell of Rutgers, tackle Bill Dugan and guard Sean Farrell of Penn State, center Tony Bubniak of Colgate, quarterback Oliver Luck of West Virginia and running back Rich Diana of Yale.

Aspen's gaspin', Vail has failed, but...

Yes, there's skiing in Colorado

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

WOLF CREEK PASS, Colo. — As far as snow is concerned: Aspen is Gaspin', Vail has failed, Taos is loused, Purgatory is something more Celestial and Sierra is a big Blanka.

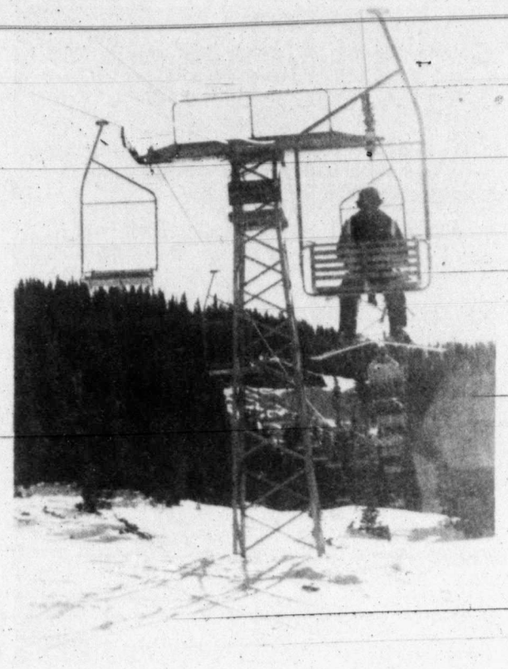

The week's vacation you've been hording all year, like that bottle in the chandelier, for pre-Christmas-rush skiing has skidded down the mountain with the December thaw.

Then, as dispair sets in, a weather report on a Sunday night reveals a 14-inch fall at Wolf Creek Pass. The ski report discloses Wolf Creek already had 35 inches on the ground. The only drawback is: Where the hell is Wolf Creek?

A hasty almost frantic check of the map pinpoints it just south of Wagon Wheel Gap, a dead giveaway, 56 miles east of some place called Durango, and just over the New Mexico border from Chama, and really, not that far from Taos, where you, and a lot of other people, had planned to go in the first place.

As a winter resort, it's primitive compared to the Steamboat Springs, Vails, Aspens, Crested Buttes, Tellurides.

It's perched astride the Continental Divide high in the breathtaking San Juans at the end of a serptine eight-mile climb. A climb the hazards of which you don't begin to appreciate until day's done and you are heading back to Pagosa Springs. One descent lane is designated for "Runaway trucks and vehicles" and off-the-road tracks that indicated it has been used, recently.

THE LODGE is strictly functional, rental equipment, a small cafeteria, but no overnight lodging, no heated gondola, no bar or after hours disco beat. In fact, after-hours, the only beat is maybe a wolf howling at the moon.

It's isolated, hard-to-reach and relatively unknown, but it does have one thing Winter Park, Breckenridge, Idlewild, Powderhorn and all the rest wish they had...SNOW.

But even while Wolf Creek was one of the rare places in the Rockies that could boast snow, they were apologetic about it. Waiting in the line to purchase lift tickets ($9 weekdays and $10 weekends) at the lodge, one had to climb 10 steps to reach the ticket window. One veteran snorted, "It's not like last year. They had to carve out three steps to get down to the ticket window."

That fluffy white stuff more rare this winter than that oily black stuff.

Wolf Creek has averaged 450 inches of snow a year and 700 inches in a season isn't unusual. In Colorado, it's the champ.

Although its facilities are limited, one chair lift and a couple of poma lifts to the unchartered powder trails above the timber line at the crest, where only experts roam, it offers compensation in the lack of midweek lift lines. After a run, if there were three people waiting on the chair, it was an interminable wait. Friday and Saturday it was different. In desperation, busses from Purgatory began importing skiers and the lines lengthened.

THERE'S 49 inches on the ground and over Thanksgiving while everyone else was looking prayerfully at the blue skies, 1,600 skiers were causing 45 minute lift-line waits.

"It will be rough this weekend," a blonde ski patroller atop the lift said. "Thanksgiving there were just too many people for our lift and trail capacity.

"We just can't handle big crowds. Over Christmas it will be worse, they expected 2,000 to 2,500 a day.

"They have a five-year expansion plan. Not only are more lift facilities planned here, but they are thinking in terms of developing the East Fork," she said with a wave at the peaks across the valley.

"The best time to come is after the holidays. There will be plenty of snow by then," she said, "And with other ski areas open, we'll be able to handle our crowds."

EVEN WITHOUT the bus imports from Durango, most of the skiers on hand had been cancelled out of such better-known areas as Taos, Vail, Aspen, Winter Park and Breckenridge, to name a few.

"I planned to ski Taos, but when that was wiped out, I went to Denver ready to go in any direction there was snow. That's how I wound up here," said Randy Womack, former Big Spring High basketballer and baseballer, vintage 1971.

Randy's case was rather unusual. Working for a French oil service company out of Singapore on jobs in India, Cambodia, Malaysia and you name it, he had 48 days vacation coming and after a couple of days in Big Spring, skiing was uppermost in his mind before heading to Arlington, Va., to visit his folks.

One reason for the lack of night life at Wolf Creek, just up the Divide from Wagon Wheel Gap, is that nearest lodging is at Pagosa Springs, 20 miles down the mountain. However, Pagosa Lodge, a year round recreation development three miles west of Pagosa Springs, offers a wide range of relaxation for the weary skier after hours...the heated indoor pool, sauna, jacuzzi, paddle tennis, ice skating, two restaurants serving Rocky Mountain Rainbow, a bar sans disco, and golf, tennis and fishing in the summer and with four-star AAA crendentials...at reasonable, for ski areas, prices.

Bucs, Bears seek to escape cellar

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers take on the Chicago Bears Saturday in a season-ending battle to escape the cellar of the National Football Conference Central Division.

The winner could wind up in third place and the loser in last, depending on the outcome of Sunday's National Football League match between division foes Green Bay and Detroit, both 8-7.

Heading into the finale, the Bucs were tied for last place with the Packers at 5-9-1 and Chicago was a slim half-game ahead at 6-9.

BUCS OWNER Hugh Culverhouse says the game is an important one. "It's a most important game because we don't want to be last. No way I want to be last."

Besides a chance at improving their record, the Buccaneers want a victory for pride and momentum for next year.

"I think our players would like to win it for our fans who have supported us all year and I don't think we'll just play out the string," says Coach John McKay.

Tampa packed the stadium all year, selling out all home games and drawing an average attendance of more than 65,000.

McKay says he expects a tough time with the Bears, whose front four uses a variety of looks on their defense. It is ranked fourth in the National Conference.

Chicago's 23-0 shutout of Tampa at Soldier Field on Oct. 6 cost Chicago free safety Doug Plank $750 in a roughness fine for allegedly spearing Bucs tight end Jimmie Giles.

NO FLAG was thrown. But after reviewing game films, NFL Commissoner Pete Rozelle levied the fine.

Giles, who led the Bucs in receiving with 40 catches and seven touchdowns in 1979, came into the Bears clash — the fifth game of the season — with 12 receptions for 222 yards and three touchdowns.

During the game, he caught one pass before the incident and none after it.

Since then he has grabbed just 19 passes and scored one TD, fueling speculation that he hasn't been the same on the field since.

Miami finishes season out of running in AFC

MIAMI (AP) — For the first time since 1976, the Miami Dolphins will finish their regular season Saturday with no prospect of post-season play.

The New York Jets, meanwhile, picked by some pundits to win their first American Football Conference East crown this year, are gratefully drawing the curtain on a humbling 3-12 year that includes last Sunday's loss to previously winless New Orleans.

But Saturday's 11:30 a.m. game seems unlikely to find two teams going through the motions. And the game, dubbed the "Silent Bowl" because NBC-TV will televise the game without commentators, should draw a sizeable national viewing audience.

Coach Don Shula, whose team has been eliminated from playoff contention for two weeks, has had the Dolphins will be playing for keeps. They are coming off two of their best performances, a 16-13 overtime victory over New England and a 24-14 win at Baltimore.

The veteran coach has executed a major rebuilding project while keeping his team, 8-7, competitive this year. The Dolphins own victories over playoff-bound Atlanta and Los Angeles, plus division rivals New England, Buffalo and Baltimore.

Since a 34-0 humiliation by New England in November, the Dolphins have improved steadily and served notice that they could be back in the playoff fight next year.

New York downed the Dolphins 17-14 on Oct. 27 in a Monday night game in which rookie quarterback David Woodley made his national television debut. The Jets have won the last five meetings between the division rivals.

Quarterback David Woodley will be making his 11th NFL start. He has completed 156 of 286 passes for 1,627 yards and 13 touchdowns. He's had 15 interceptions, but only four in his last six starts.

Peru State's Holder lands All-NAIA II berth

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Peru State rushing star Alvin Holder and two other individual statistical leaders were named to the 1980 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division II All-America football team Friday.

Holder, a junior running back at the Nebraska school, led all NAIA backs with 178.3 yards rushing a game to make the squad for the first time.

Joining him on the NAIA team were Wilmington (Ohio) tailback Gary Worthy, a sophomore who led the nation with 13.5 points a game, and Baker (Kan.) senior Tony Butts, the nation's top-scoring place-kicker at 9.2 points a game.

Others named to the first team offensive unit were Roosevelt Brown, senior wide receiver at Peru State; Scott Westering, senior tight end at Pacific Lutheran, Ron Hausauer, junior lineman at Jamestown (N.D.); Ed Kama, senior lineman at Linfield (Ore.); Lyle Lundgren, senior lineman at Northwestern (Iowa); Tom White, senior lineman at Northeastern Illinois; Luke Taylor, junior center at McMurry (Texas); and Alan Schmidlin, senior quarterback at Linfield.

Joining Kessler on the first team defensive team were Darryl Schliem, sophomore lineman at Mi[illegible]on (Wis.); senior linemen Don Brougher of Westminster (Pa.), Dave Dutton of South Dakota Tech, Dave Pomante of Whitworth (Wash.) and Brian Stoneking of Anderson (Ind.); senior linebackers Don Katzman of Hanover (Ind.), Rick Hanna of Illinois Wesleyan and Ralph Halvorson of Concordia (Minn.); senior defensive backs Dave Boschma of Linfield and Ron Entenman of Lewis and Clark (Ore.), and junior punter Gene Branum of Austin (Texas).

Linfield, a Division II playoff team, led all schools with three first-team selections, while Pacific Lutheran and highly ranked Peru State had two players each.

Surprise foes square off in I-AA Camellia Bowl

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Eastern Kentucky and upstart Boise State, two teams that didn't figure to be here, meet Saturday in the Camellia Bowl for the NCAA Division I-AA football title.

The nationally televised game (ABC) starts at 11:40 a.m. PST.

Eastern Kentucky, with a 10-2 record, almost wasn't chosen for the final berth in the four-team playoff because both of its losses were to Ohio Valley Conference foes, Akron and conference champion Western Kentucky.

But the Colonels made the selection look good last week by outplaying previously unbeaten Lehigh in a 23-20 victory. Last year, Eastern Kentucky trounced Lehigh in the title game, 30-7.

Boise State was a logical playoff choice with an 8-3 record and the championship of the Big Sky Conference, but was viewed as cannon fodder for powerful Grambling in the first-round game.

Instead, the Broncos' lightly regarded defense stopped Grambling twice inside the 10-yard line in the fourth quarter, and quarterback Joe Aliotti threw two touchdown passes — the second a 63-yard "flea-flicker" to Kipp Bedard — in a 14-9 upset.

Both teams favor the running game but can pass too.

Aliotti has completed 60 percent of his passes this year, 144 of 240, for 1,731 yards and 15 touchdowns.

Bedard is his leading receiver, but the Colonels' good young linebackers, Alex Dominguez and Dave Hill, must watch out for fullback David Hughes, a 220-pound pro prospect who is second on the team in receptions.

Wide open Gator attack worries Terps

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "They make you defend the whole field," says Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne about Florida's run-and-gun offense which will be on display Saturday night in the Tangerine Bowl football game.

But Gator Coach Charley Pell worries that his defense hasn't seen anyone as good as Sockin' Charlie Wysocki, Maryland's record-busting tailback.

"He's good — very good," says Pell about the 204-pound Terrapin back who set a school record with 1,359 rushing yards.

Both coaches in the 35th annual classic have been stressing defense in their daily team workouts, with Maryland fearing the pass and Florida apprehensive about the talented Wysocki.

"We know they've got an excellent passing attack," the veteran Claiborne said Friday. "But Kellom, Jones and Brown make up a good running game, too."

Fullback James Roosevelt Jones is Florida's leading rusher, with 150 carries for 657 yards and four touchdowns during the Gators' 7-4 season. He also caught 12 passes.

Tailback Doug Kellom is also a wide receiver and rushed for 339 yards. Fleet-footed Johnell Brown fills in for Kellom, who injured a shoulder in practice but is expected to play.

The Gator attack is led by freshman quarterback Wayne Peace, who took over in the fifth game of the season and completed 91 passes for 1,271 yards.

"Their passing game is similar to Pittsburgh's," Claiborne said about Florida. "And we didn't defend that too well. We're preparing for a little bit of everything."

Pittsburgh's Rick Trocano riddled Maryland's secondary for 282 yards to bury the Terps 38-9. Maryland's other losses in an 8-3 season were to North Carolina and Penn State.

The signal caller for the Terps' run-oriented offense is 6-foot-7 Mike Tice, who completed 71 passes for 928 yards and rushed for 69 yards.

Besides Wysocki, who set an Atlantic Coast Conference record by carrying the ball 50 times against Duke, Maryland got good performances this season from running backs Wayne Wingfield and Rick Fasano.

But it's Wysocki the Gators are worried about.

"He's an excellent back and the only way to really stop him is to have 11 guys surround him," said Florida nose guard Robin Fisher.

Apalachee Chief snares feature race at Sunland

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. (AP) — Apalachee Chief snared the lead during the backstretch run of Friday's 5½-furlong feature race at Sunland Park and never looked back.

Apalachee Chief opened up his lead easily, moving into a three-length gap at the head of the stretch. When he reached the wire, he was nearly 7¾ lengths in front. Bobbie Don Harmon was in the saddle.

Sunland patrons launched Apalachee Chief as a lukewarm 5-2 favorite and collected returns of $7.20, $3.20 and $3. The gelding is owned by Tom Roden of Odessa, Texas.

Primonette moved out of fifth place to take second, returning $4 and $3.40. John Arteaga was up.

Queen Erica, a 5-1 outsider, made up considerable ground to take third. The show price was $4.40.

REX MORGAN, M.D.

Her friends call her 'thoughest girl in Logan County'

Sheena and Clark Reed have been married a little more than a year, and they've had to face some hard times. In that time, Mrs. Reed has been involved in two auto accidents and has lost a baby. (AP Laserphoto)

ELKTON, Ky. (AP) — Sheena Reed was badly injured when a car ran her off the road. Eight months later, she was impaled on a plank that destroyed a lung. And after her baby died of pneumonia, she felt "destroyed ... that God had tried every way he could to get me."

But at 18 she's a survivor. Her friends call her the "toughest girl in Logan County." And she says, "When you find somebody who takes care of you and loves you, you hold on."

That somebody is her 18-year-old husband, Clark.

Since they married in August 1979, the Reeds have had "an awful lot of bad luck."

"I've even thought that maybe God was trying to tell us that me and Clark aren't right for each other," she said. "But when you've been through as much together as we have, you've got to figure you ought to stay together."

The Reeds, who wanted a family and "enough money to make ends meet," last year hired on to strip tobacco for area farmers.

In December, they were walking home after work when a friend drove toward them, intending to make them dive off the road. Reed made it. His pregnant wife didn't.

Her left leg was shattered, her hip was broken, three vertebrae in her spine were damaged and she had a deep gash in her forehead. Doctors feared she might never walk again and worried that her unborn child might be seriously hurt.

She was hospitalized for 2½ months and decided "to take the chance" and carry her baby to term. The child, Clark Vinson Reed II but nicknamed C.J., was born in April with a cyst on the brain, a "lazy eye" and a droopy eyelid.

"He was just a little bitty thing, a wonderful baby, so sweet, and pretty, too," Mrs. Reed said. "We kept on wanting to believe nothing was wrong with him."

When the baby was 4 months old, the Reeds went over to Clarksville, Tenn., to celebrate their first wedding anniversary with a pizza, a few games of Space Invaders and a few beers.

On the way home, their car careened into a concrete culvert, flipped twice and plowed through a plank fence. Reed was thrown clear and escaped with only bruises.

But a 1-by-6-inch plank plunged like a spear through Mrs. Reed, shattering her ribcage and destroying a lung.

A doctor called to the scene fainted and as Mrs. Reed lay conscious, rescue workers raced about to remove the plank.

Beside severe chest injuries, her right arm and leg were badly cut and her lower lip was severed. She needed more than 200 stitches and spent three weeks in a hospital intensive-care unit.

Then last month, after their lives had returned to normal, Reed awakened one morning to silence, not the baby's usual crying.

"I heard Clark shout, 'Oh, my God, please no!' and I asked what was the matter," Mrs. Reed said, "and he just said, 'He's dead, baby.'"

The infant died of "walking pneumonia," according of the coroner.

"And now, there's an emptiness," Mrs. Reed said. "We don't have all the money in the world, but we gave him all the love anybody could.

"People keep telling me he's in a better place now, but here's where we are. It just gets worse and tougher, and I get more terrified."

She said her husband want to move away and make a new start in a new town, where she hopes to live up to her reputation as a survivor.

Military offers bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed services will offer veterans a $600 bonus to re-enlist for three years in the reserve manpower pool after they have finished their military service obligations, the Pentagon announced Friday.

The new bonus program will go into effect Jan. 1 and is designed to help rebuild the ranks of the Reserve and the Inactive National Guard, which are the main source of trained manpower who could be called up on an individual basis in the event of mobilization to fill out understrength regular and reserve units and to replace battle casualties early in a war.

U.S. allies cautioned on spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unusually blunt speech, outgoing Defense Secretary Harold Brown has criticized West Germany for falling short of its goal for increased defense spending, while calling on Japan and South Korea to "shoulder their share of the responsibility for defending themselves."

Brown, in a speech to the Council on Foreign Relations Thursday, called West Germany's projections for future defense spending a "severe disappointment."

He spoke with somewhat unusual harshness, possibly because he is less than a month away from turning over his office to Caspar Weinberger, President-elect Ronald Reagan's prospective secretary of defense.

Brown made his remarks a day after the West German government announced defense spending plans for next year which Pentagon analysts said will yield only a 2.2 percent increase in "real defense outlays" after allowing for inflation.

West Germany, like the other members of the NATO alliance, pledged in 1978 to boost real growth in their military spending by 3 percent, and the United States under President Carter has been moving toward a rise of 4 percent to 5 percent annually.

"As I look to the future, I am apprehensive over national performances on the 3 percent aid, for the number of allies expected to meet that goal is declining, not increasing, as we pledged."

Guinness world records are not records for long

ENFIELD, England (AP) — The world's longest mustache grows an inch longer. The world's oldest man grows a year older. A team of cooks sets a new mark for peeling potatoes quickly.

In our fast-paced world, nearly one-fourth of the records listed in the Guinness Book of Records changes with each new year's edition.

If you want to be a Renaissance man, you have to hurry to keep up.

One man who hurries is Norris McWhirter, the book's editor, who says he has of necessity become "an expert on experts." He keeps a card file on them.

"So if we want to check up on the longest seaweed or the fastest bat or the quickest anyone's been made a saint, we have to get onto a mycologist, a chiropterologist or a hagiologist," he said in an interview at his office in this London suburb.

Although the GBR, as he calls it, receives some 20,000 letters and countless telephone calls a year with claims for records in baton twirling, yodeling, one-legged standing or bubblegum blowing, McWhirter said most of its information came from the "ologists."

"I think there are about 480 of them," he said. "I've compiled a list. There are helminthologists, for example, experts on the rather unlovely subject of tapeworms."

McWhirter's book marked its 25th anniversary in 1980, as a handy guide for people who want to keep up with the changing facts but don't have the telephone numbers of the "ologists."

From an initial print run of six copies in October 1955, the GBR has now sold 40 million copies.

"There's no subject really that we're not interested in. If it's measurable, we've got superlatives," McWhirter said.

But he said, "The book is limited to things that are measurable. What we avoid are value judgments — the most beautiful woman, for instance. What we record is the woman with the most children, the fattest woman and so forth."

One problem McWhirter says he faces is the endless subdivisions and permutations of records that are possible — the American baseball syndrome of records gone mad.

"I always think that permutations on records become boring," McWhirter said. "One wants to get absolute records and meaningful ones. Otherwise it all becomes rather pointless.

"Chronicling and handling of records has to be done in such a way as to keep the purity of records."

In his search for "purity," McWhirter has done a certain amount of original research, and has become, among other things, something of an "ologist" himself on the subject of claims for advanced old age.

He has been instrumental in discrediting some of the better-known claimants to records, and has paid a visit to GBR's own selection, 115-year-old Shigechiyo Izumi of Japan, to share a drink of black sugar "firewater" with him.

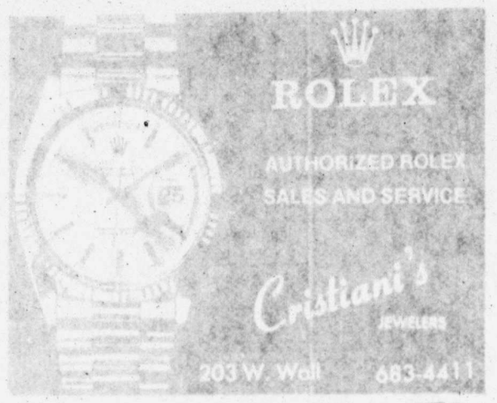

Izumi, who credits his longevity to "God, the Sun and Buddha" and likes to watch Japanese sumo wrestling on television out of his one good eye, already knew he was credited with being the world's oldest living person.

"But when I told him he was the oldest certified human being of all time," McWhirter said, "his face lit up."

Court says Klan can wear hoods

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Supreme Court, without ruling whether a Ku Klux Klansman's white hood is a form of "symbolic speech," has decided that B.W. Robinson had a right to wear the headgear while on public property.

With only one justice dissenting, the court Thursday struck down a law that outlawed the wearing of masks and hoods on public land.

Robinson, a 26-year-old Pensacola resident who listed his occupation as "Titan of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.," was arrested June 23, 1979, during a rally at the city's Seville Square park.

He was arrested under a 30-year-old statute that the state said was written to curb the activities of the KKK. The statute prohibited the wearing of "any mask, hood, or device whereby any portion of the face is so hidden, concealed or covered as to conceal the identity of the wearer" while on public property.

The law provided exemptions for "holiday" masks, theatrical productions, gas masks and other masks necessary for work reasons.

The court ruled the law was "overbroad" and that it denied Robinson his due process under the law.

Attorney General Jim Smith argued that the law "is an attempt by the Legislature, through its police powers, to limit violence and crime activity which frequently accompanies anonymity."

But the court said the law is faulty.

"Without speculating on whether the statute is intended to apply to any core activities which the Legislature has an interest in preventing, we find that this law is susceptible of application to entirely innocent activities," the court said. "It is susceptible of being applied so as to create prohibitions that completely lack any rational basis."

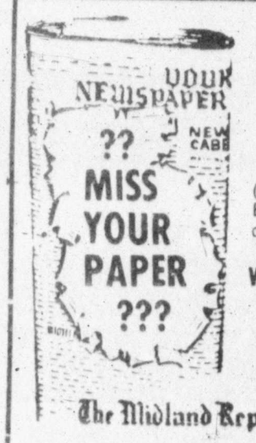

In his brief, Robinson's lawyer, Bruce Rogow of the American Civil Liberties Union, argued that the law could be applied to someone wearing bandages on his face, or to protesters who wore masks of Richard Nixon during demonstrations.

The court did not rule on whether the statute denied Robinson of his rights of freedom of expression and freedom of association.

Surgery seen as hope for stroke victims

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit neurosurgeon says there may be new hope for stroke victims — cerebral bypass surgery.

Dr. James I. Ausman, chairman of the neurosurgery and neurology department at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, is part of a delegation of neurosurgeons involved in a five-year study to determine whether bypass surgery can help stroke patients.

The operation could prevent further strokes in those who already have experienced a minor one and avert strokes in those who show warning signs that indicate a stroke may occur, Ausman says.

The disease is one of the nation's top killers, claiming the lives of more than 200,000 Americans and costing the country more than $12 billion each year, according to Ausman.

"The general opinion of the public is that once you have a stroke you're through," Ausman said. "That's not true and there's abundant evidence to prove it."

Ausman and 67 other surgeons met in Detroit recently to assess progress in the $5 million, five-year study of 1,000 stroke-prone patients.

In what is known as the International Cerebral Revascularization Project, the surgeons are treating half of their patients with the best medical treatment available and the other half with the same treatment supplemented by the cerebral operation.

The operation, first developed in 1967, involves the microsurgical connection of a scalp artery to a brain artery using suture materials thinner than a human hair.

The procedure, which can last as long as 12 hours, provides an alternative course for blood which could not otherwise travel to the brain because of cholesterol-blocked channels.

Ausman said more than 800 patients had been included in the study since it began two years ago. The surgeons hope to find additional patients within the next year and complete their work by 1986.

"Early observations by many doctors were that the patients would be better and the warning signs of stroke would go away with the operation," Ausman said. "This study is to see if those observations will stand up under detailed scientific analysis."

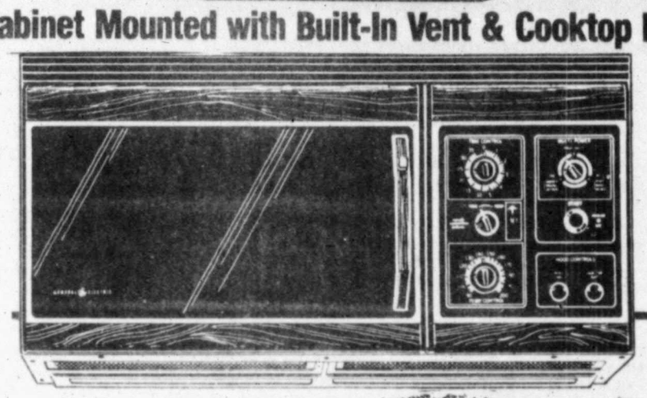

The surgeon said the operation had gone through "years of controversy and agony," because no study was conducted before it was introduced.

"If the operation shows itself to be of value, there are potentially another 50,000 patients who could receive the operation each year," he said.

New York may lose House members

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study indicates that the state of New York may lose as many as six House members in the coming reapportionment that will follow the census, but census figures also show that New York is still the biggest American city.

The Census Bureau issued its list of the 30 largest cities Thursday, ranking the New York tops even though the final 1980 count for that city hasn't been completed.

The biggest gainers in the top 30 list were three "Sunbelt" cities: El Paso, Texas; Phoenix, Ariz., and San Jose, Calif.

Meanwhile, a new computation by the editors of American Demographics magazine indicated that New York state could lose a half-dozen seats in the House of Representatives, two more than had been expected.

The report also said Missouri could drop one seat, an unexpected loss.

Deputy Census Director Dan Levine declined comment on the accuracy of the calculation, noting that the bureau hasn't finished its count for New York state and thus has not calculated the change in House seats that will result from the 1980 head count.

Census Director Vincent P. Barabba said last week that some 16 seats are likely to change from one state to another. The American Demographics figures indicate a change of 17 seats. The House is apportioned every 10 years on the basis of the census, with the aim to have all districts contain about the same number of people.

Editor Bryant Robey said that his figures are based on preliminary census state totals released this week for 49 states.

Because New York's count was delayed by a fire in a Brooklyn census office, Robey said the figure for that state was estimated. That gave New York an estimated total of 17,304,960 people, a decline of 5.1 percent from 1970.

With that figure, Robey said, magazine analysts used a complex method to calculate the House distribution. The figures indicate that New York's House delegation will drop from 39 to 33 seats.

Robey said his publication's figures also indicated a loss of one seat from Missouri, which had been expected to retain its 10 seats. Other losers, the same as previous estimates, are Illinois, 2; Ohio, 2; Pennsylvania, 2; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 1; New Jersey, 1, and South Dakota, 1.

He said the new figures indicate a gain of one seat in Nevada, which now has only a single House member, and extra seats in Texas and Florida. Florida, according to Robey, would pick up four seats instead of the three forecast, and Texas would have three new seats instead of two.

Other gains would be in Arizona, 1 seat; California, 2; Colorado, 1; New Mexico, 1; Oregon, 1; Tennessee, 1; Utah, 1. and Washington, 1.

In the rankings of cities, El Paso jumped from 45th to 28th place to make the list for the first time with a population of 424,522.

Phoenix, with 781,443 people, rose from 20th to 11th place, and San Jose, with 625,763 people, moved from the 31st spot to No. 17.

Census officials noted that Honolulu would be 13th on the list with a population of 681,004, but it was not included because Honolulu's governmental functions are handled by a county government structure and it will be listed among the nation's counties.

Here are the nation's 30 largest cities, their populations based on the 1980 census and their populations in the 1970 census, rounded off to the nearest 1,000:

1. New York, total not available yet, 7,895,000; 2. Chicago, 2,969,570, 3,369,000; 3. Los Angeles, 2,950,010, 2,812,000; 4. Philadelphia, 1,680,235, 1,949,000; 5. Houston, 1,554,992, 1,233,000;

Bill bans hazing in New Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A woman whose son was killed in a fraternity initiation rite six years ago and who has been fighting the practice ever since says she is pleased but not entirely satisfied with the state's new anti-hazing law.

"I think there has to be a national law," said Dorothy Flowers of Neptune.

On Thursday, Mrs. Flowers attended a ceremony in which Gov. Brendan T. Byrne signed a state law imposing penalities of up to 18 months in jail for people convicted of causing serious harm to a hazing victim in a college or high school fraternity or sorority.

The bill signing capped a six-year effort by Mrs. Flowers, who staged a protest against hazing outside Monmouth College after her son's death.

In November 1974, Mrs. Flowers 19-year-old son, William, suffocated when a mock grave he was forced to dig for himself on a Long Branch beach collapsed during a hazing ritual for the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity at the college.

"I just hope it will help young people channel their energies toward something positive," she said.

Republican Assemblyman Anthony Villane, the bill's sponsor, said New Jersey joins California, Texas and New York as states with anti-hazing laws.

"I knew we had to do something after learning there have been about 14 young people killed (nationally) during hazing at college campuses in the last eight years," Villane said.

Under the law, a person who "recklessly organizes" a dangerous hazing ritual faces a charge punishable by up to six months in jail and a fine of up to $1,000.

A person responsible for hazing resulting in "serious bodily injury" face up to 18 months in jail and a fine of up to $7,500.

Byrne vetoed the legislation earlier this year because he wanted it strengthened to eliminate consent by hazing victims as a defense.

The Legislature agreed quickly and Byrne said he endorsed Villane's bill wholeheartedly.

An official at Monmouth College in West Long Branch said there hasn't been a problem with hazing since Flowers' death.

"Fortunately, there hasn't been a thing since that dreadful incident," said spokeswoman Jane Schoener.

Results released on electricity rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Residential electricity rates last summer ranged from a low of 4.52 cents per kilowatt hour to a high of 11.77 cents in a survey covering 25 major cities, the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners reported Friday.

The association compared the average cost of purchasing some 500 kilowatt hours per month during last June, July and August from the major utility in each city, based on reports from state utility commissions.

It found the highest electricity cost in New York City, the lowest in Atlanta.

Here is the survey's ranking of residential electricity costs last summer, from highest to lowest:

New York, 11.77 cents per kilowatt hour; San Diego, 8.30 cents per kwh; Honolulu, 7.46; Boston and Philadelphia, 7.39; Phoenix, 7.12; Chicago, 7.03; El Paso, 6.97; Los Angeles, 6.89; Cleveland, 6.80; Baltimore, 6.75; Milwaukee, 6.26; Kansas City, 6.22.

Also, Dallas, 6.03; Columbus, Ohio, 5.98; Houston, 5.95; Detroit, 5.93; Pittsburgh, 5.92;

Washington, D.C., 5.78; San Jose, Calif., 5.71; Denver, 5.38; St. Louis, 5.24; Indianapolis, 4.96; New Orleans, 4.66; and Atlanta, 4.52.

Profession becoming dangerous

LONDON (AP) — Journalism is becoming an increasingly dangerous profession, and fewer than 20 countries now enjoying complete press freedom, the International Press Institute said Friday.

In its annual review of world press freedom, the IPI lists South Korea, Turkey, Spain and South Africa as four of the countries in which press freedom has been progressively restricted.

More international journalists than ever before are being "murdered, imprisoned, harassed, kidnapped and tortured," the IPI said in its country-by-country survey of press freedom.

Even in so-called democratic countries, "there are signs of increasing government control and interference," it added.

The IPI—an organization of nearly 2,000 senior journalists in more than 60 countries—said that in large areas of the world, such as the Soviet Union, the Middle East and a great number of African, Asian and Latin American countries, no press freedom exists at all.

The exception is Poland where, it said, "censorship has been relaxed" since the recent spate of strikes and formation of the independent labor union, Solidarity. East German and Czechoslovak customs men have even confiscated Polish newspapers as subversive, the IPI said.

South Korea, the IPI said, is the worst example of where "the situation has deteriorated."

More than 400 editors and journalists out of 1,200 have lost their jobs with the official explanation that they have "purged themselves," said the survey.

"Many prominent South Korean editors who could not possibly be regarded as corrupt have no chance of returning to work, be it in newspapers, radio or television," the IPI said.

Turkey has tightened press control since the military take-over earlier this year, while in Spain the status of reporters has got worse "despite its slow climb to democracy."

Many journalists have been tried in Spanish courts, the IPI said, and the government is now planning to introduce new press laws.

South Africa "has seen press restrictions worsen," the survey said, "and the outlook as far as press freedom is concerned is bleak."

The report talks of "continued encroachment" last year in Australia on the press"s freedom to report proceedings in the lower courts, while 1980 was described as "one of the darkest years for the press" in Iran.

Among the few countries where press freedom has improved, the IPI sais, is Nigeria where the government has instructed immigration authorities not to ban any foreign correspondents from entering the country.

On the United States, the review fails to give an overall picture of press freedom but refers to the Central Intelligence Agency's desire to see all data relevant to it "withheld from public and press."

Hayden in 'Venom'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sterling Hayden stars with an international cast in the suspense thriller "Venom," now in production in London.

Klaus Kinski, Nicol Williamson, Sarah Miles, Oliver Reed, Cornelia Sharpe and Susan George also star. The film also features a black mamba, regarded as the deadliest snake in the world.

United States Postal Scrooge?

CORAM, N.Y. (AP) — A Long Island Cub Scout pack won't be delivering any more Christmas cards by hand to their neighbors this year — but they won't be in trouble with the U.S. Postal Inspection Service any more, either.

The Postal Service, while granting that the idea of putting cards in neighbors' mailboxes was "a good deed for holiday spirit," insisted it was also illegal.

It demanded that Cub Scout Den No. 5 of Coram pay $38.25 in postage for fliers they slipped into their neighbors' mailboxes last week announcing carolling and Christmas card-delivery.

Then the service threatened the scouts and den mother Barbara Dolinger with a fine of up to $76,500 — or $300 for each of 255 fliers they delivered — if they failed to pay the postage due.

Brown eyes Senate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. said again Friday he's seriously considering running for the U.S. Senate in 1982 and hasn't ruled out another presidential bid in 1984.

"I'm not ready to return to the monastery yet," joked Brown, a former Jesuit seminarian, during a meeting with reporters.

"I might run for the Senate — it's a very real possibility — and I wouldn't rule out a presidential campaign. But I haven't decided yet."

The term of Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., expires in 1982. Brown is a Democrat and has said in the past he might seek Hayakawa's seat.

Brown denied allegations, however, that a state-funded computer in his office was used to store names for political purposes, possibly in anticipation of another presidential bid. But he said his campaign will reimburse the state for any disputed funds.

Brown aide Byron Georgiou said Thursday that amount is expected to be less than $2,000 of the $51,000 cost of leasing the computer.

Brown also said any names of supporters will be removed from the computer and kept separate.

The Sacramento Bee reported Friday that the state Fair Political Practices Commission has agreed to investigate Brown's use of the computer system, but neither the FPPC nor Brown commented on that report.

Brown said the computer lists were used to send a "nonpolitical" pamphlet on the California anti-growth movement to government officials and 650 business people. He said the mailing list also was used for a proposed newsletter to compile 58,000 names of people who had written in opposition to nuclear energy and in support of the governor's stands on various issues.

"We want to involve in outreach more people in the process of my government," he said. "I've received complaints that I never answer letters."

He noted that during his first four years in office he had a policy of saving state money by not sending unnecessary mail. But he said complaints convinced him it is necessary to keep up more communication with the public. He said the proposed newsletter was an attempt to meet this need.

"LOVE THAT MAN! HE BOUGHT ME A RAMCON HOME."

"Just imagine the pure pleasure of entertaining in our own home this holiday season."

In our family, it's a tradition to have our friends and relatives over during the holiday season. And I really enjoy it - the satisfaction of serving home-cooked meals, the quiet intimacy of hot drinks and conversation at night in front of the fireplace. Here in our Ramcon home, I have all the room I need to be a gracious hostess—spacious living and dining areas, and a beautiful kitchen with every convenience. Ramcon makes living easy. But what I like best is being in my Ramcon home for the holidays. You can be too! LOVE THAT MAN . . . .

Drastic welfare reforms due

By KINGSBURY SMITH
National Editor
Hearst Special News Service

WASHINGTON — Plans are now being completed for some drastic reforms of the welfare system under the Reagan administration.

If, as seems probable, the new Republican president approves the plans prepared by his senior welfare advisers, non-Social Security benefits are likely to be cut over the next few years by at least $20 billion.

Those now receiving Social Security retirement benefits are not targeted for cuts — not even in the cost of living increases they receive.

The proposed slashes are aimed at the food stamp and other supplemental food programs, Medicaid, some unemployment compensation in economically well-off states, like Texas, heating and housing assistance, and college loans to students of middle class and rich families.

DAVID STOCKMAN, who will be director of the Office of Management and Budget and who has already prepared a sweeping budget-cutting program for President-elect Reagan, estimates reductions in the aforementioned programs can save between $10 and $20 billion annually.

He and other welfare advisers have other trimmings in mind that would eventually bring the total savings well in excess of $20 billion.

Many of the proposed cuts will require Congressional approval and there is bound to be resistence to them, especially on the part of liberal democrats.

However, the Reagan camp is confident that with Republican control of the Senate and support from fiscal conservative democrats in the House, the necessary legislaion will be enacted in the coming year.

WELFARE CHEATERS who have been ripping off the American taxpayer for hundreds of millions, if not billions, of dollars in fraudulent food stamps are going to be among the first hit by the Reagan welfare reform program. Many people receive food samps who are not eligible for them, such as formerly unemployed men or women who found jobs but did no report that they were working and continue to receive food stamps. Food stamps are now costing approximately $10 billion annually. Food stamp benefits will be increased by 11.5 per cent Jan. 1st.

A substantial part of food stamp money goes to people who are receiving duplicate benefits and whose children get free lunches and breakfast. Stockman favors reducing these benfits. He also believes that people seasonably employed who are not broke when they become temporaily unemployed should not be eligible for food stamps. He would base eligibility on what the family income was over the past three, five or six months.

He would limit extended federal unemployment benfits to those states that are economically depressed. At present, every state is eligible when the national employment rate hits 4.5 per cent. It has been above that figure for years and is now 7.5 per cent and expected to hit 8 per cent next year.

"Texas, despite its booming economy, is eligible for 13 extra weeks of federal employment insurance just as is Michigan and Ohio," Stockman, who has been a three-term Michigan representative of the House, said in an interview. "If you change the trigger so it only applies to states with a distress level of unemployment, we could save up to a billion dollars a year in federal unemployment benefits."

MARTIN ANDERSON, who will be one of Reagan's top domestic affairs advisers, believes that "millions, probably billions, of dollars are taken from taxpayers every year and given to people who have no legal right to receive them."

He would deny unemployment compensation to workers who strike and then apply for welfare benefits claiming loss of income.

Since a very large percentage of families receiving welfare payments have an absent parent, especially father, who is working, he believes that a separated parent should be compelled to contribute to the support of the family he or she left.

Stockman also believes that a way must be found to remove from the welfare rolls able-bodied people capable of self-support. This is in line with President-elect Reagan's idea that when work can be found for able-bodied welfare recepients, they should be offered the jobs and if they refuse to take one,they should be denied welfare benefits.

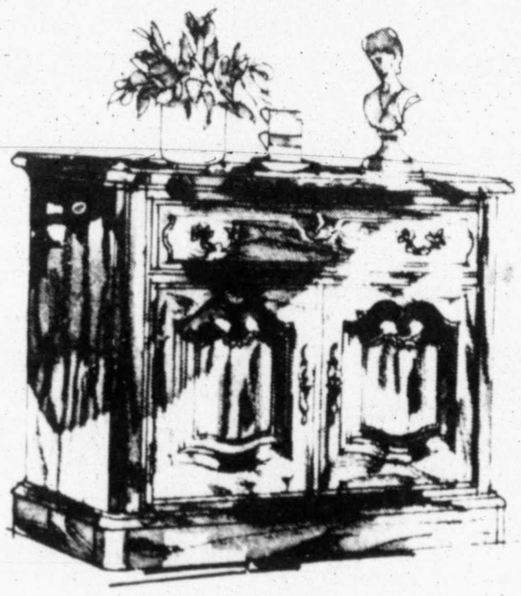

Brown will reimburse state for computer time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aide to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says the governor will reimburse the state for work done on political mailing lists using state computers.

The Los Angeles Times reported that Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff, said Thursday that Brown's campaign fund would pay the state.

The Times and the San Francisco Chronicle said Brown used state equipment and staff to collect names of political supporters. The computer system was installed in the Democratic governor's office at state expense after he withdrew from the presidential race last summer.

Kelly claims own probe underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., opened a line of defense Friday designed to convince a federal jury that he was investigating suspicions about a key staff member and other associates when he was inadvertantly caught up in the FBI's Abscam operation.

Testimony included a brief appearance by Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., as well as a lengthy exchange with J.P. Maher, the one-time head of Kelly's district office before he was fired by the congressman earlier this year. Maher will be on the stand again Monday when the trial resumes.

Kelly is charged with conspiracy and bribery. Authorities maintain he accepted a $25,000 bribe in the FBI undercover operation in which agents posed as representatives of wealthy Arabs seeking favors.

Defense lawyer Anthony Battaglia set out to demonstrate that Kelly had developed suspicions about Maher and other persons introduced to him by the aide.

After the Abscam case broke early this year, it was revealed that Maher had once been arrested in Bolivia on a drug charge and had ties to a New York City firm whose officers included two men convicted of conspiracy to import cocaine. The defense contends that Maher remained friendly with both after their prison release and attempted to build associations between them and Kelly.

Heckler was called merely to confirm that Maher had worked for her several months before she recommended him to Kelly in late 1978. She said that Maher's performance had been "definitely satisfactory" but she never would have hired him if she had known of his arrest record.

Maher was fidgety, evasive and occasionally surly on the stand as Battaglia sought to establish his relationship with men of criminal backgrounds.

The defense contends that Kelly's concern over whether his own office had been infiltrated by corrupt elements led him to play along in the Abscam probe.

For example, Battaglia sought to establish that it was through Maher that Kelly met Eugene "Gino" Ciuzio, a co-defendant portrayed by the government as a middleman in the bribery conspiracy. Kelly's story is that he took the money only so he would not lose the trust of the men he was investigating himself.

Wilson Franklin, manager of Leddy Bros. Western Shop in Fort Worth, watches Jerry Zeller try on his new cowboy hat, which he was lucky to find. The current popularity of western wear has caused demand for hats to go up six or seven times what it was just a year ago, causing considerables shortages. (AP Laserphoto)

Stampede on for cowboy hats

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — You can copy his style of dressing, disco to his two-step music, wear his boots with your three-piece suits...even drive in his pickup truck.

But when you city slickers start hoarding a cowboy's manly headgear, you've done quit preachin' and gone to meddlin'.

The market on those distinctive head coverings, it seems, has been cornered by urban cowboys — those citified folks who like to deck themselves in glittery versions of working cowboys duds.

"It's those kickers," grumbled Will Windham, manager of Fort Worth's Leddy Bros. Western Shop. "Kickers" is an abbreviated form of a more descriptive phrase that has something to do with cows, but in 1980 lingo means "those people who dress like cowboys but don't do nothing — you know, barroom cowboys," he said.

Manufacturers and retailers say the demand for hats has caused a serious nationwide shortage and has bucked prices higher than a mechanical bull rider.

Orders, which are running six to eight weeks behind schedule, often are short when they do arrive.

"They still owe me 25 percent of what I bought," said Windham. "I'd take another 50 percent of what I did buy if I could get them. I ran out of black hats a couple of weeks ago."

Louis Luskey, who runs Luskey's Western Store and claims to be the Fort Worth's biggest western-wear retailer, said his stocks are "exceptionally low."

"This is the first time since World War II that anything like this has happened," said Luskey, who fills mail orders to all 50 states and about 100 countries.

His normal warehouse inventory is about 12,000 hats. But this week, he has about 3,000 in stock.

"During normal years a real fine hat would go for between $25 and $50," he said. "Today, the average-selling hat runs between $100 and $150 and we stock them up to $350. Ten years ago nothing was made in that range."

Luskey built his trade on ranchers and farmers, but now his clientele comprises mainly high school and college students and professionals.

"Doctors and lawyers who wouldn't have worn a hat a couple years ago are now a common sight," he said. "Girls are wearing hats more now, too.

"They're also buying the accessories — like hatbands with feathers, horse hair and jewelry — that can add between $5 and $5,000 to the price."

"There's no problem there, though," added Windham. "If I had a hat to go with every band I'd be all right."

Dan Russakov, general manager of Ryon's, said demand is "six or seven times what it was just a year ago. We could probably sell 40 percent more if we could get them."

Manufacturers estimate industry production will be short of demand by about 12 million hats this year, said Johnny Ward, general manager of felt hat production for Bailey Hat Co.

Ward said his company planned to make about 1.2 million hats but could sell more than twice that number if it had the machinery, raw materials and trained workers. Bailey is putting its customers on allocation and already is sold out through next April, Ward said.

"If we wanted to, we could be sold out through 1984," he said. "There's just no way to prepare for a bubble like this. I never would have dreamed that it would happen."

Unemployment should peak in 1981, forecasters say

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unemployment will peak at 8.1 percent in the first half of 1981 as the nation's economy hits the skids, but a recovery later in the year should reduce joblessness, according to the Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates.

"Economic growth in the United States will virtually come to a halt in the first two quarters of 1981," the group predicted Thursday, citing rising interest rates, a tight-money policy and economic slowdowns in other major countries.

The forecast assumed that interest rates will start to decline early in 1981 and that Congress will enact President-elect Ronald Reagan's tax-cut proposals by May 15.

Then, "later in 1981, the combination of lower interest rates and fiscal stimulus should produce a moderate upturn lasting through 1982," the forecasters said.

The forecasting concern is owned by Ziff Corp. and the University of Pennsylvania. It was founded more than 15 years ago by Lawrence Klein, this year's Nobel Prize winner in economics, who chairs the organization's board of directors.

"We are more pessimistic in our current forecast than we have been in our previous predictions. Our gloom comes mainly from the very steep rise in interest rates in the past month," commented economic forecasters Jeffrey Green, Allen Guthelm and Edward Friedman.

Other Wharton forecasts:

—Slower growth overseas will produce a slower growth in U.S. exports.

—Large food and energy price increases are expected for some time ahead.

—Wage increases should continue at high rates despite the weak economy.

The Reagan tax-cut proposal assumed in the forecast would make a 10 percent across-the-board cut in personal taxes, giving taxpayers $31 billion.

Dade County ordered to reduce overcrowding of inmates in its jail

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge has ordered Dade County to reduce the number of inmates in its county jail to alleviate severe overcrowding, caused in a large part by an influx of Cuban refugees who subsequently were charged with crimes.

U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings said Thursday the county should remove two inmates for every one it jails after Dec. 31 until the population is reduced to its official capacity of 848 inmates. On Thursday, 1,103 inmates were in the jail.

"It's not that I want them to live in the Taj Mahal," Hastings said. "It is that I'm concerned that they should live in a habitable place."

English shoplifters confess

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Englishmen who authorities say have "the fastest hands going" have admitted shoplifting $170,000 worth of diamonds from two stores here.

Desmond Robertson, 49, of Middlesex, and Brian Kutner, 50, of London, pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges on Thursday before Justice George Roberts in State Supreme Court in Manhattan.

The men agreed to make partial restitution, and each was promised a minimum of two years in prison and a maximum of four.

None of the stolen diamonds has been recovered, but Robertson agreed to turn over a $90,000 Piaget diamond watch he was wearing at the time of his arrest as partial restitution.

Officials said the pair stole $130,000 in diamonds from Carat Diamond Corp. on July 29, and $40,000 in diamonds from Antwerp Diamonds on April 3.

Their arrests came after Bernard Hammerman, the owner of Antwerp, alerted fellow diamond merchants about the pair.

After Hammerman's store was robbed, he flew to England to make inquiries about the thieves, who had shown him credentials identifying them as Europeans.

London diamond merchants recognized the men and their technique, Hammerman said.

Based on the information he got in London, Hammerman drew up a flyer describing the pair and distributed it through an association of international diamond merchants.

The two men were arrested in a store on Rodeo Drive in Beverly Hills, Calif., in September after a jeweler matched them to the description on the flyer.

Assistant District Attorney David Cunningham said each man has served prior prison terms for jewelry theft.

He said the pair usually presented credentials identifying themselves as buyers for jewelry firms and got store owners to display their wares.

One of the thieves would cause a distraction, such as dropping a lighted cigarette on a rug, while the other scooped up gems and pocketed them, the prosecutor said.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, December 21, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Both Jane Fonda and TV host Phil Donahue share this birthday with you. The pace at work will be a bit slower in the months just ahead, but money should flow in faster than it goes out. A former associate tries to interest you in an unusual investment opportunity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Telephone call will bring good news from a friend or relative living at a distance. Money can be made from real estate deals. Get details in writing to avoid future arguments, litigation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Domestic matters claim the lion's share of your attention today. You need to get together with someone willing to share his or her expertise, experiences. A new start is both possible and highly recommended.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Taking care of personal matters is your top priority as Christmas nears. A favor is returned, bringing new peace of mind. Do what you can to mend a quarrel between relatives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get in touch with friend who may be feeling neglected. Conversations with family members can lead to the purchase of some highly original Christmas gifts. Do your best to keep any health, diet resolutions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Circumstances conspire to bring greater balance, contentment to your life. Loved ones are ready to give you their whole-hearted support. Be alert to changes in a relationship that has always been platonic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Someone new and very special enters your life. Be careful not to confide too much too soon. A change in lifestyle could bring relief from feelings of tension, past restrictions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A fraternal relationship benefits from closer cooperation. Problems involving parents, older relatives are easily resolved. New ties are being formed by both the young and the young-at-heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A show of excessive independence can be mistaken for arrogance. Look for constructive outlets for your sometimes turbulent feelings. Domestic difficulties require a logical rather than emotional approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The day begins on a productive note, thanks to someone who has your best interests at heart. Spare some time to chat with partner about the future. Parties, celebrations are conducive to romance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): News from abroad can bring you great pleasure. Feel free to discus business at a social gathering. Influential acquaintance is eager to learn more about a special project or event.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Teamwork hastens the completion of chores, errands. Enlist the assistance of small fry when practical. Young person is happiest when helping out. Special creative projects promote the holiday spirit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day for taking a chance on love. Someone who has disappointed you in the past may now make amends. Share entertainment costs with relatives, friends. A short trip will be very rewarding.

NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Don't you trust me?

As evening fell, Jesus said to His disciples, "Let's cross to the other side of the lake."

So they took Him just as He was and started out, leaving the crowds behind (though other boats followed).

But soon a terrible storm arose. High waves began to break into the boat until it was nearly full of water and about to sink.

Jesus was asleep at the back of the boat with His head on a cushion. Frantically they wakened Him, shouting, "Teacher, don't You even care that we are all about to drown?"

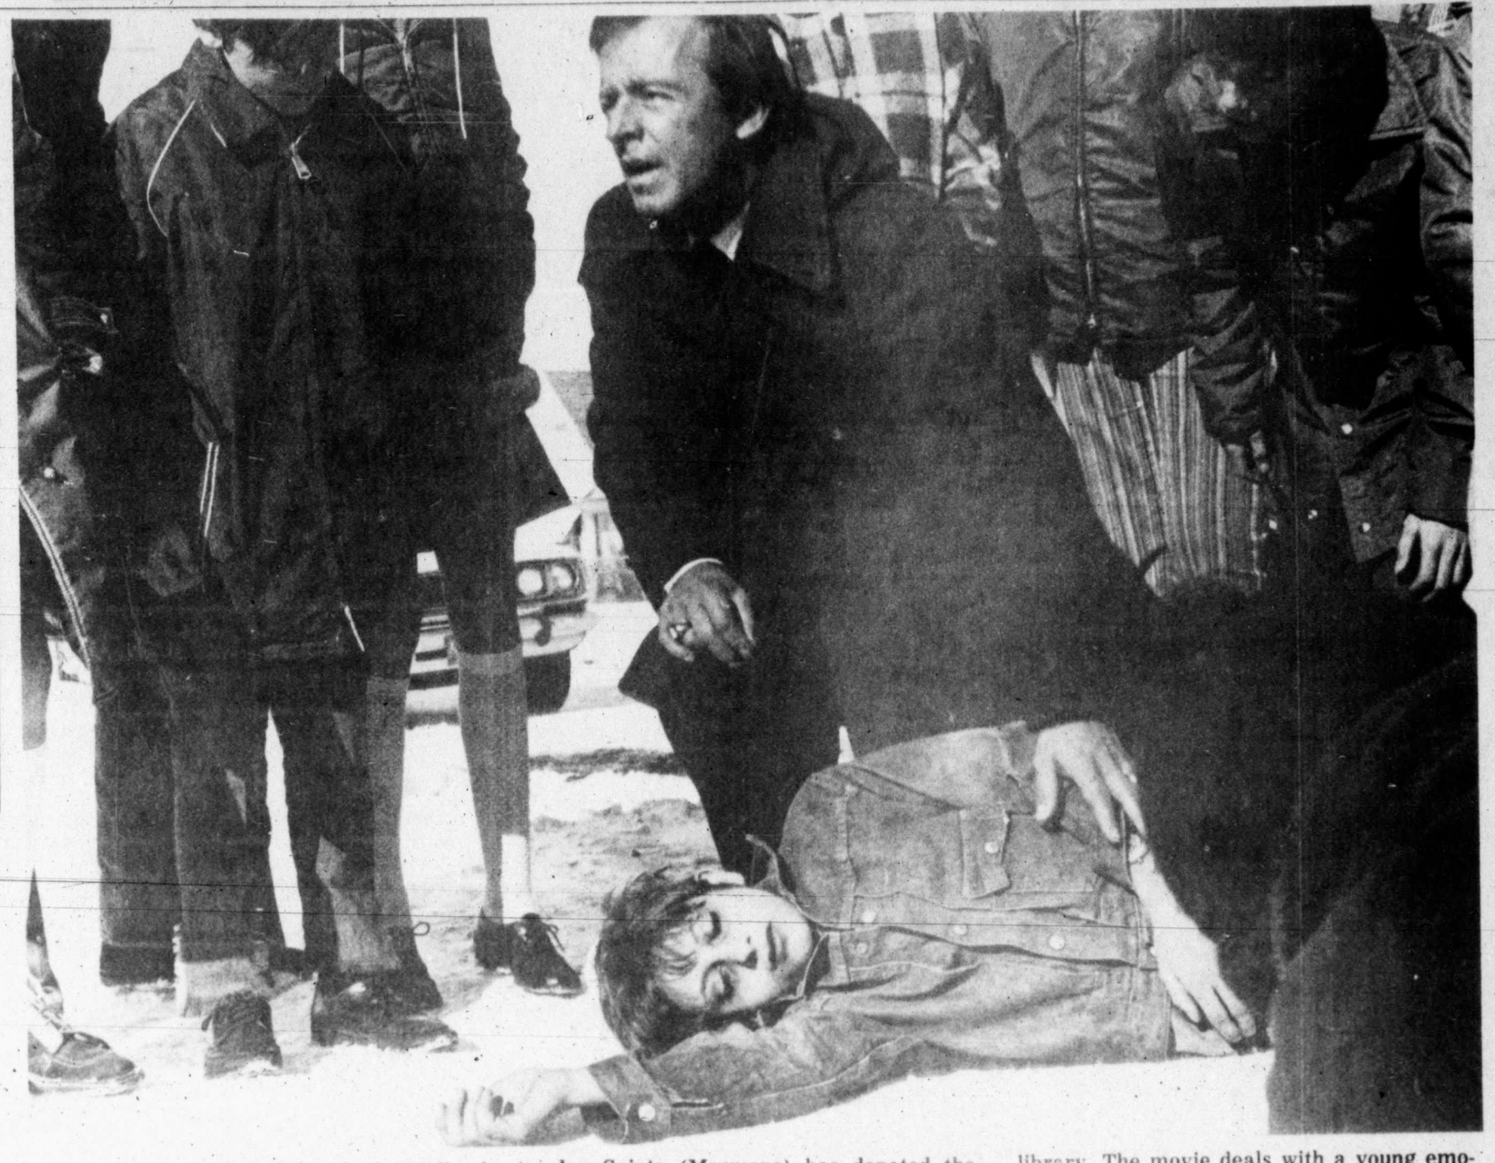

Then He rebuked the wind and said to the sea, "Quiet down!" And the wind fell, and there was a great calm!

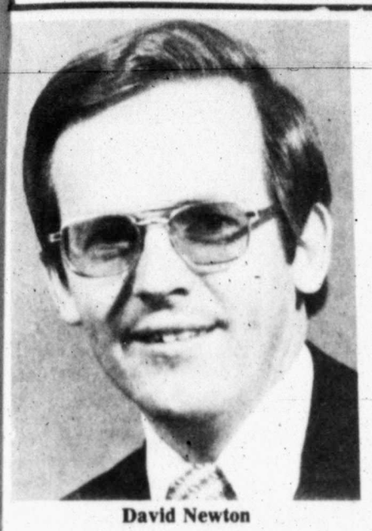

And He asked them, "Why were you so fearful? Don't you even yet have confidence in Me?"

And they were filled with awe and said among themselves, "Who is this man, that even the winds and seas obey Him?"

Kelview choir will give Christmas concert Sunday

Kelview Heights Baptist Church Choir will present "An Old Fashioned Christmas" Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at the church, North Big Spring Street at Scharbauer Drive.

The musical presentation turns the clock back 100 years to a time when Christmas was just Christmas. The 80-voice choir, directed by David Newton, will be accompanied by a pre-recorded sound track.

The public is invited to attend.

In an ongoing effort to provide the Midland County Library with a variety of good viewing material, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) has donated the movie "Cipher in the Snow," which has won nine national and international awards, to the library. The movie deals with a young emotionally withdrawn and forgotten child that society has overlooked.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Orthodox service set in Trinity School

An orthodox service will be held Sunday at 10 a.m. in the fine arts classroom at Trinity School.

All orthodox Christians are invited to attend the Sunday service as well as the vesper service tonight at 7 at Number 5 Linda Court. For more information call Helen Norton at 683-0435 or 682-1007.

New film to be shown Sunday

He went from the typical "All-American" boy — dean's list in college, president of his fraternity — to the inner workings of the Unification Church.

Evangelical Films' newest release, "Heavenly Deception," is the true story of Chris Elkins' journey from college student to Moonie.

The film will be shown Sunday at 6 p.m. at the First Church of the Nazarene, F and Wall streets. A free-will offering will be taken.

The public is invited to attend.

Special services planned

Two special Christmas services are planned at Trinity Presbyterian Church, Louisiana Street and Andrews Highway, this week.

Sunday at 5 p.m. Jane Huddleston, director of music at Trinity, and Madison Pruet will present a Christmas voice and organ recital. Mrs. Huddleston will be accompanied by Tommie McSorley. Flutist Ellen Christensen will also be featured in the program. A reception will follow.

Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Trinity will host a special Christmas service, "Communion with Candlelight."

The public is invited to attend both events.

Church plans children's service

Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold a special Christmas Eve Children's Service at 7:30 p.m. at the Trinity School Chapel, 3500 W. Wadley Ave.

Then on Christmas Day, Evangelical Lutheran Church will host a special Christmas service in song beginning at 10:45 a.m. The Rev. Robert Neumann, pastor of Evangelical Lutheran, will speak on "Why the Angels Sang" based on Isaiah 9:6.

The public is invited to attend both services which will be held at Trinity School Chapel.

Candlelight service scheduled

A Christmas Eve Candlelight Service will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St.

The public is invited to attend.

Silent prayer vigil to be held

A silent prayer vigil for Midland and its families will be held continuously for 24 hours starting at 9 p.m. Christmas Eve and ending at 9 p.m. Christmas.

The vigil will be held at St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas St. Sponsored by single residents of Midland, the nondenominational vigil will also offer coffee and fellowship to those who must spend Christmas alone.

All are invited.

Church to hold annual program

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will hold its annual Sunday School Christmas program Sunday at 5 p.m.

The children of the congregation will present "He is Coming." The program explores the waiting of Mary and Joseph, of Israel, of the prophets, of God and our waiting today for Christ.

The public is invited to attend.

The Singing Binion Family will perform at the Church of God, 5300 Thomason Drive, Sunday at 11 a.m. The public is invited to attend this free performance.

Now is time of despair for refugees

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For refugees in the "horn" of mid-east Africa — the Sudan, Ethiopia, northern Kenya and Somalia — it is a "time of despair," reports Quaker relief staffer Stephen Morrissey who recently visited the area.

The American Friends Service Committee says it has launched a two-phase program, starting with emergency aid to Somalia, and later long-term rehabilitation in the region.

At the same time in Monrovia, Calif., World Vision International announced launching of a $6 million relief and development program for the region.

The organization's president, Stan Mooneyham, said after a month-long tour of the region that drought and war have combined to push 8 million people there "to the brink of disaster."

RELIGION

Introducing
UNITARIAN UNIVERSALISM

THE RELIGION OF JOHN ADAMS, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AND THOMAS JEFFERSON.....

...is alive and well today in Unitarian Universalist churches across the nation.

Open-mindedness, love of liberty and freedom caused many Unitarians and Universalists of the American Revolutionary period to place themselves in the forefront of the struggle.

The same ideals for which the revolution was fought, and won, are found in today's Unitarian Universalist churches. If you believe in the principle of individual responsibility and intellectual freddom.....

Tough economic stance foreseen

By VIC OSTROWIDZKI
Hearst Special News Service

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration intends to bring down inflation and rebuild the nation's stagnating economy by adopting a series of tough measures advanced by a non-partisan group of business and educational leaders.

Reagan's economic advisers told The Hearst Newspapers that the president-elect will incorporate a series of proposals by the Committee for Economic Development (CED) in formulating its emergency economic package.

THE COMMITTEE, comprised of 200 corporation heads and university presidents, has urged, in a report prepared by a subcommittee headed by Donald T. Regan, the Treasury secretary-designate, that the president-elect:

— Adopt long-term restraints in government spending and a monetary policy to keep demand for goods from increasing too rapidly;

— Propose tax incentives to encourage innovation, stimulate high-risk entrepreneurial activity and steps to increase savings and investment;

— Suggest educational programs to increase skill training for the unemployed and underemployed;

— Urge tax reductions that will provide for accelerated depreciation for business, and — Invoke an embargo on new government regulations.

IN ADDITION, the committee has called for more business competition, liberal international trade policies without discrimination, energy independence and adequate national defense.

A copy of the report was obtained by The Hearst Newspapers.

The reason the study is being given such widespread distribution and given serious consideration is because it was prepared by Regan, chairman of Merrill Lynch & Co. before he was asked to join the administration.

Reagan transition officials disclosed that the president-elect first heard of Regan when he read the study. Impressed by its recommendations, Reagan decided to ask its co-author to help get some of them implemented.

THE STUDY was submitted to Reagan before the much-heralded Stockman-Kemp economic memorandum and the two reports are pretty much in tandem with each other.

Rep. David Stockman, a 34-year-old Michigan Republican, was nominated by Reagan to head the Office of Management and Budget.

The report said that a central aim of economic strategy should be a progressive, year-by-year reduction in the so-called "underlying" inflation rate leading to essential price stability.

Most public attention has focused on overall inflation as measured by the Consumer Price Index, which is greatly influenced by temporary "shocks" in energy, food, and home mortgage costs.

The overall CPI hit an annual rate of 18 percent earlier this year.

"The underlying" rate excludes energy, food and home mortgage costs and shows the amount of inflation deeply imbedded in wages and hundreds of other prices in the economy.

ACCORDING to CED's figures, it has been rising almost continuously for the past 15 years, increasing from 2 percent in the mid-1960s to 9 percent or 10 percent now.

While the recession has brought some relief from overall inflation, the report said, there is danger that recovery from the recession will bring new increases in the underlying rate.

Reagan's economic advisers said that reducing this basic inflation will be the top long-range priority of the president-elect's economic policy.

The advisers refused to be too specific about Reagan's economic package, saying it is still on the drawing board.

But they admitted that the tax cut package the president-elect will propose will be designed to reduce inflation and provide incentives for increased investment to achieve higher productivity.

THE STUDY urged Reagan not to go for "quick-fix" anti-recessionary actions, that would pour billions of federal dollars into the economy, saying they would result in a renewed upsurge in inflation once the economy recovered.

The report recommended that Reagan and Congress use the current recession as an opportunity to modernize industrial capacity, develop new high technology industries and improve U.S. competitiveness in world markets.

And it called for efforts to stimulate greater price competitiveness and to allow market forces to reshape chronically noncompetitive industries.
