In Brief

Boy's custody

DALLAS (AP) — The 12-year-old surviving son of child abusers Jay and Linda Hill may be placed in the custody of relatives in Idaho, according to court documents.

The documents, filed Monday, revealed that state child protective services officials have decided that James and Yvonne Langford, Hill's sister and brother-in-law, should take care of Douglas Hill. Officials said they hope that Douglas can be in Idaho by the time school starts Sept. 8.

According to court documents obtained by The Dallas Morning News, several relatives of the Hills' immediately sought permanent custody of Douglas. Four of those families were investigated by state officials to determine their worthiness.

Andrew threatens Louisiana coastline

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This vulnerable city got a break today as Hurricane Andrew changed aim slightly, but authorities still urged New Orleans residents to leave before heavy rain and lashing winds hit the area.

Elsewhere today, elections were called off, schools closed and inland traffic was bumper-to-bumper in Louisiana and Mississippi as Hurricane Andrew bore down.

More than 1.7 million people in those states had been asked or ordered to evacuate, including the more than 500,000 residents of New Orleans. However, forecasters said today that if Andrew continued its latest course, the city would likely miss the brunt of the storm that walloped the Bahamas and southern Florida before heading into the gulf on Monday.

The evacuation order stood despite the decreased risk.

"Those who can leave should still leave," New Orleans Mayor Sidney Barthelemy said today. "We still expect to get a lot of water and high winds." Meanwhile, authorities today ordered the evacuation of 60,000 people in St. Mary's parish, which is southwest of the city and like New Orleans lies below sea level and depends on a system of levees to keep water out.

Traffic was heavy this morning out of the metropolitan area and hotels in Baton Rouge and points north were filled with evacuees.

In Hattiesburg, Miss., Marti Long, of the New Orleans suburb of Kenner, said she took the evacuation warnings seriously after seeing the news from Florida, where Andrew left 12 people dead and caused at least $15 billion in damage.

"We saw the destruction in Miami, and while we love our home, safe is more important," she said today.

Tropical force winds reached extreme southeast Louisiana and the region would have hurricane force winds of 74 mph or more by late today, the National Weather Service said. Andrew's center likely would pass over the south-central Louisiana coast by early Wednesday afternoon, it said.

A hurricane warning was extended along about 470 miles of coast from Pascagoula, Miss., to near Galveston, Texas. The area west of Galveston through Freeport, Texas, and from east of Pascagoula to Mobile, Ala., was under a less serious hurricane watch.

A tornado watch was in effect

Schools close on Texas coast

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Schools were closed today and officials recommended residents evacuate Sabine Pass and low-lying parts of Jefferson County in Southeast Texas as the area prepared for the possible onslaught of Hurricane Andrew.

At 11 a.m. EDT, Andrew's center was about 175 south-southeast of New Orleans, moving west-northwest at 17 mph. Maximum sustained winds were near 140 mph and little change in strength is likely, forecasters said.

Forecasters urged that hurricane preparations be completed during daylight today and warned that tropical storm force winds could strike the Beaumont-Port Arthur area by daybreak Wednesday.

Trustees adopt $14.7 million budget

Snyder public schools trustees adopted a $14.7 million budget for 1992-93 Monday afternoon.

The unanimous vote followed a public hearing attended only by the news media.

The budget projects $14,727,615 in revenues, an excess of $23,256 over anticipated expenditures of $14,704,359.

Not reflected in the $14.7 million is $549,000 in federal revenue. Federal funds are strictly regulated and funds which are not utilized are returned to the government.

To meet the budget, trustees are expected to adopt a tax rate of 43.3 cents per $100 valuation at their Sept. 10 meeting. The rate is the same tax rate as was adopted last year, and well below this year's effective rate of 50.591 cents.

Local taxes will make up $2,698,615 of the budget.

Prior to approving the budget, Business Manager Lee McNair outlined over $17,000 in cuts made or directed by the board last week. In a Friday workshop, the board cut $2,000 and asked administrators to consider trimming some magazines, periodicals, projectors and filing cabinets.

On Monday, McNair said an additional $2,301 has been cut from magazines and periodicals and $12,922 from overhead projectors and filing cabinets.

Trustees also amended the 1991-92 budget Monday. The amendments totalled $185,000 in expenditures, some of which will be offset by revenues. McNair said 1991-92 total revenues will be "very near" budgeted estimates while expenditures will be lower than expected.

Following his presentation,

Atmosphere said improved as Arab-Israeli talks resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel and the Arabs are showing a new mood of good will in the latest and most hopeful round of efforts to bring peace to the Middle East.

The Arab side, highly critical in the first five rounds of what it said was Israeli recalcitrance, on Monday praised Israel for agreeing to a comprehensive settlement involving the exchange of land for peace.

Syrian spokeswoman Bushra Kanafani, while saying little of substance emerged in the opening session at the State Department Monday, saw "a different tone from the Israeli delegation, a different approach and style."

The talks, resuming today, are the first following June elections in Israel which saw Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, a hard liner who pushed new settlements in occupied territories and was adamantly opposed to returning captured land to the Arabs, with the less doctrinaire Labor Party chief Yitzhak Rabin.

Itamar Rabinovich, Israel's new chief negotiator with Syria, also voiced pleasure with the "new tone" of the talks.

City tax hearing gets little interest

The city's proposed property tax rate sparked little interest Monday, as only one resident attended a required public hearing held at city hall.

Local property owner Ray Hollister asked council members what effect the 38.29 cent tax rate would have on his overall taxes.

Mayor Troy Williamson pointed out that the city's portion of local property taxes will actually decrease from last year's rate of 39.32 cents due to the implementation of the ⅛-cent portion of the city's new ½-cent sales tax which will be used for ad valorem tax relief.

The 1993 tax rate, which is just below the rollback rate of 38.292, was approved by the council on a first reading at its Aug. 10 meeting.

The council previously considered a rate of 37.64 cents. The rate was changed during the Aug. 10 meeting due to a drop in valuation reported by the County Tax Collector's office.

According to the figures, valuation dropped over $2 million, causing the effective tax rate to increase from 34.85 cents to the current 35.126 cents per $100 valuation.

Council members set Sept. 1 as the date for adoption of the tax rate.

Water works grant discussed at Hermleigh public hearing

Approximately 25 Hermleigh residents attended a public hearing Monday concerning application for funds from the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs for Hermleigh Water Works.

Residents discussed housing and community development needs and the amount of funds available and eligible activities for use of the funds.

Scurry County will apply to the TDHCA for a Texas Community Development Program grant of $250,000 to be used for improving the Hermleigh water system. The grant would require matching funds of five percent, or $12,500, from the applicant. A similar grant was applied for in 1991, but was not granted.

Hermleigh resident Carol Haynes will present the grant request to a panel of judges at the West Texas Council of Governments in Abilene in late September or early October. If approved by that

IISD okays '92-93 budget

Ira public schools board of trustees approved a 1992-93 budget of almost $1.4 million Monday.

Trustees also hired a resource aide and approved a staff development plan.

Ira ISD's budget was approved at $1,395,857. The tax rate, expected to be set during the board's Sept. 15 meeting, will be the effective rate of 43.89 cents per $100 valuation.

Trustees approved a recommendation to hire Olivia Alvarado as a resource aide for the district. Also accepted was a staff development or incentive plan for continuing education. The district will reimburse tuition and fees for staff members who take job-related approved courses.

The board also approved an updated career ladder application and accepted the site-based decision making plan.

All board members were present, to include Sid Wall, Gwen Cumbie, Keith Clements, Kirby Sterling, Doug White, Ray Sorrells and Darryl Calley.

HISD board okays budget

Hermleigh ISD trustees adopted a 1992-93 budget of $1,150,000 during a special meeting Monday.

The board also held a public hearing on the site-based decision making plan, and adopted the plan.

Superintendent Jerry Church said the board will probably not meet again until Sept. 8, when it will consider the 1992-93 tax rate. Trustees are expected to set the tax rate at or near the effective rate of 44.09 cents per $100 valuation.

All trustees were present Monday, to include Jimmy Hudgins, Ronnie Price, Chip Roemisch, Julius Roemisch, Tony Lambaren, Neil Beeks and Brian Blair.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Anger is a condition that makes your mouth work faster than your brain."

Summer has come and gone, and the kids are back in school and some are off to college for the first time.

One college freshman has already sent a letter home which read:

Dear Dad,

The father got the message and quickly sent this reply:

One husband may have to move in with his son at college after giving the wrong answer to his wife about how old she really looked.

"Looking at your hair, 20" responded her husband. "Looking at your skin, 19. At your joviality, 18, and at your figure, only 17."

"Do you really mean that?" she asked.

"I most certainly do," he said. "Now let me add that up, 20 plus 19, plus..."

Sometimes, even with the best of intentions, it's easy for the married male gender to give the wrong response.

The wife asked one of these questions that seemingly had an obvious correct answer. "If you had it to do all over again, who would you marry?"

—"I'd marry you, of course."

After a little silence, ole what's-her-name responds: "That's what you think."

New poll shows some worry about abuse of lawsuits

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Residents in the litigation-prone Rio Grande Valley tend to worry more about lawsuit abuse than people elsewhere in the state, according to a new poll.

"What you get is contrary to what you think you would see in a part of the state thought to be a haven of trial attorneys," said Jan van Lohuizen, head of Voter-Consumer Research, which conducted the survey.

The poll released Monday showed a high percentage of Valley voters believe frivolous lawsuits increase medical costs, consumer costs and insurance premiums and are responsible for a decline in the number of doctors.

Of those responding, 78 percent favored limiting lawsuit settlements, 77 percent favored limiting damage awards and 53 percent favored no-fault insurance, according to the survey by the Bethesda, Md.-based polling company.

The company randomly sampled 400 registered voters in the 27th state Senate District. The area is perceived to be favorable for filing lawsuits and collecting large awards. The poll had a margin of error of 4.9 percent.

Van Lohuizen said the concern probably stems from the large number of attorneys who advertise in the area to solicit clients — something opposed by most of the polled — and media coverage of lawsuit abuses.

But he said the Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse, or CALA, campaign "essentially lit the match."

The campaign launched more than a year ago by the Valley Chamber of Commerce has used television commercials and billboards to target large jury awards and so-called frivolous litigation.

Attorneys concede that there is some abuse, but say the problem isn't nearly as bad as portrayed by CALA. They say much of the profession's negative image in the region stems from the campaign.

"I think the facts that they have been bombarding people with are incorrect and the perceptions that a lot of people have are incorrect as a result of that," said Harlingen attorney Randy Whittington.

"They focus on a handful of cases that occur over a period of time," he said.

"My heat pump's so efficient it saves money. And it's a clean system. I like what it means for the environment." —Elta Chandler, Park Board Member

Elta Chandler cools and heats her home with a heat pump because it saves money and energy. And since it's electric, it's "wonderfully clean."

A heat pump uses the energy in the air to keep her home comfortable all year. Even on cold winter days there's heat in the air. A heat pump captures that heat and uses it.

And it costs less to operate than a gas furnace. It's so efficient that for each unit of energy it uses, it creates two to three units of heat.

In the summer a heat pump becomes a high-efficiency air conditioner, capturing the heat inside the home and removing it.

For more information, call a heat pump dealer or TU Electric. It's your chance to save more than money.

Daughter's Friendship Is Too Close for Mother's Comfort

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dear Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters from 1972 and '73.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 22-year-old daughter. She has always had many boyfriends and girlfriends until about a year ago, when she met this one girl at school. Since then, nothing has been the same.

My daughter has dropped all her other friends, and she associates only with this one girl. They are together morning, noon and night. They have all their classes together, and after school this friend comes home with her, eats dinner here, and on weekends she spends the nights here.

They never have dates, but it doesn't seem to bother them — they are so wrapped up with each other. It just doesn't seem normal to me.

Abby, I am beginning to wonder about the relationship between these two girls. I love my daughter more than my own life. What should I do?

HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Let your daughter know you love her and accept her as she is. There is no more convincing proof of your love.

DEAR ABBY: I lost (or somebody stole) my wallet. Fortunately, there wasn't much money in it, but my driver's license and credit cards will have to be replaced. That will be a terrible inconvenience, but I can handle that.

What cannot be replaced is something I had cut out of your column and carried around for almost five years. It was a "confidential" to remind people who still had their mothers to thank her for all the things she taught them. Can you remember which one it was, and print it again?

FAN IN AMSTERDAM, N.Y.

DEAR FAN: It was this one: "CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE: The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one week to 50 years. Losing one's mother before having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies."

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a CPA, and every year around income tax time, he is deluged with telephone calls from friends who want to ask him questions about their income tax returns.

My husband is an auditor, and I doubt that he has filled out an income tax return since college.

Last night, a casual acquaintance called with a bookkeeping problem so simple that even I could solve it. I wonder if these same people call a brain surgeon every time they have a headache.

MRS. T.D.S.

DEAR MRS. S.: Probably not. But I'm sure if they thought a brain surgeon could relieve their headache, they wouldn't hesitate to call him.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of an 81-year-old man and a 79-year-old woman who met in an old folks home four months ago, and decided to get married to save expenses? It's true, one double is cheaper than two singles, but isn't that a silly reason to get married?

LIVES HERE

DEAR LIVES: It's as good a reason as any to get married. And better than some.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY MORTON: Happy Birthday, darling!

Nurses struggle to care for Somalians

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Dawn MacRae patiently explains to a reporter the horrors of war she's witnessed as a nurse at Digfer Hospital. The American nurse also politely requests, and receives, a small donation — a pint of blood.

To get things done in the anarchy of Somalia, Ms. MacRae has to get her supplies any way she can.

She is one of several hundred Westerners who have come to ease the suffering in a country devastated by war, famine and drought.

There are nurses from the United States, doctors and food aid workers from France, and many more. American soldiers now delivering food in Kenya, near the border with Somalia, are expected in Somalia soon.

Estimates of the number of Somalis starving to death every day range from 1,000 to several thousand. In Somalia, the drought devastating southern Africa is aggravated by civil war. Under these most trying circumstances, aid workers are saving lives one at a time.

When Ms. MacRae arrived three months ago at Digfer Hospital, one of Mogadishu's busiest, she found a surgical team performing an abdominal operation without anesthesia.

"The man's intestines were sitting on his chest. And he was wide awake," said Ms. MacRae, 28, of Lexington Park, Md. "I knew then this wasn't going to be easy."

Conditions at the hosptal are abominable. Piles of garbage and pools of stagnant water make an overwhelming stench in the darkened hallways. An occasional rat scurries past.

Everything is in short supply. There are seven Somali doctors and one American physician for 450 patients. Most Somali doctors have fled the country, including Digfer's chief of surgery, who left last week for Saudi Arabia.

Your Birthday

Aug. 25, 1992

You might get involved in a sideline endeavor with two friends in the year ahead. In time, the three of you may realize there is a market for your wares which could become a second source of earnings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you share your time with friends you have strong emotional bonds with, today will prove enjoyable for you. You need to be around people whose feelings and interests parallel yours. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In your dealings with others today, let them know your virtues cannot be assailed, especially by trying to cut corners in ways that are, as far as you're concerned, utterly inappropriate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your greatest asset today is your ability to keep things in proper perspective, where you don't take yourself or developments too seriously. Follow your instincts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might feel obligated to help someone you like resolve a problem today. If you do this and sincerely expect nothing in return, you could be in for a pleasant surprise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your reasoning powers are good today, yet your mate's could be superior. Before making an important decision, be sure to discuss things with your spouse.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's important you find some practical outlet for your time and talents today. If you fail to do so, you're likely to feel guilty later for wasting the day.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something you're presently involved in can be more successful if it's reorganized properly. This is a good day to give it your full attention.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to work on a situation you've been wanting to resolve but haven't been able to as of yet. The results you're hoping for can be achieved — if you try.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your mental faculties, including your imagination, could be a bit keener than usual today, so try to use these attributes constructively. Now is the time to make plans for the rest of the week.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're selling or promoting something for public consumption, today could be a profitable day. Think in terms of a broad market rather than a narrow one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Focus your energy today on your personal interests. It looks like you should be able to do what you want to do free from outside interference.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Aside from your ability to make logical assessments today, your intuition is quite strong. Use both qualities in unison when making critical decisions.

Fall fashion shifts to neutral

By FRANCINE PARNES
For AP Special Features

Fall fashion's color story should be called tales from the dark side.

Menswear looks are flooding the racks, painting a palette of haberdashery neutrals rivaling the main floor of Brooks Brothers. Designers are investing in banker's gray, brown, black and camel.

On the bright side, red heats up entrance-making ensembles, head-to-toe or as an accent.

"The best-selling color for us this year is no color," says Ron Leal, a Vancouver, Canada, designer for Jax. "We did a black and camel group that's been reordering for three weeks across North America like crazy. Anything that is neutral is the first to go. We've been overkilled with color. Last fall we ran 18 colors in one group — now we're running two to four."

At Calvin Klein, "The news is gray, for everything from day to evening," the designer said in an earlier interview. Klein rounds out the picture with signature hues of olive, bronze and brown. Donna Karan, too, proclaimed gray the staple of her collection, along with black and navy.

Bloomingdale's New York fall campaign to promote menswear looks, launched Aug. 9, is called "Gray Expectations." The accessories launch is "Going with Gray."

Black ruled runways around the world. In Paris, Rei Kawakubo set the tone with an almost all-black collection of semi-destroyed clothes for Comme des Garcons. Black leather made a strong showing — in vests at Donna Karan, evening gowns at Versace, biker jackets at Valentino and bombers at Dior.

About half of New York designer Karen Kane's fall collection is solid black.

"I see black as a seasonless foundation, a color that I do 12 months a year," Kane says. "It looks great on everyone's coloring, and there's a reason everyone calls it a basic."

Brown is making a bid as a rich alternative to black. It's a popular hue for leather coats, at Yves Saint Laurent, Donna Karan, Genny, Claude Montana, Gianfranco Ferre and Isaac Mizrahi.

"Brown is the new color," says Norma Kamali. "We noticed it last fall in France, and it works well with both menswear and animal prints. It's comfortable and has a classic quality. That's why there's so much of it this season."

With all the subdued tones, red brings some welcome fireworks. It blazed through Karl Lagerfeld's fall Chanel show in Paris in a monochromatic fiery finale. On the other side of the Atlantic, Louis dell'Olio did the same for Anne Klein.

Red made sparks in every shade and on everything from python jeans at Perry Ellis to the lining of black jackets at Isaac Mizrahi. Designer Rei Kawakubo went all out with frizzy red hairpieces for Comme des Garcons.

"Once you have a neutral base, throw on a red beret," Donna Karan said after her show. It's a formula for easy dressing and sure to catch attention.

The good news: shifting into neutral provides plenty of versatility.

"We're offering colors that provide opportunity for long-term wearability," says Kamali. "Color is probably the first thing that changes from season to season, so it's one of the main things that dates a purchase.

"It's very important to select clothing that doesn't scream out what season you bought it. For a jacket or suit you really want longevity, and that's where this season's colors come in."

For versatility, New York designer Steve Fabricant votes for gray.

"Take your cue from men who wear gray suits with a light pink or blue shirt for contrast," says Fabricant. "Mixing gray with pastels is the freshest look."

But proceed with caution when wearing gray near your face, says Sarah Davies, fashion director for Nordstrom in Seattle.

"The lighter shades of gray draw color from your complexion. But charcoal is very rich-looking and flattering to a wide variety of people," she says. "It's close to black yet softer."

Remember to roll in some red if you want.

"Neutrals are most effective when mixed with brights," says Corky Durschlag, New York vice president of Michii Moon for Sanyo, a women's sportswear company.

Negative doubles are useful tools

By Phillip Alder

In 1957 Al Roth and Tobias Stone introduced the Sputnik Double, named for the Russian satellite. It was renamed the Negative Double, and the original version has been modified so that now its primary aim is to locate a 4-4 major-suit fit. For example, you have the North hand in today's diagram. After your partner opens one club and West unkindly overcalls one spade, what do you do? If playing penalty doubles, you are in an untenable position. You have the points to bid, but you have no sensible bid available.

Enter the negative double. It shows enough points to contest at the level the auction has reached, and, in principle, four cards in an unbid major. (However, in this position North might have five hearts if he holds too few points to bid a forcing two hearts.) No length is promised in the second unbid suit, though the doubler will usually have length there, or length in partner's first suit, or the values for a no-trump rebid.

South made a value rebid, jumping to game because of the known combined strength.

Against four hearts, West cashed his two top spades before switching to the diamond jack.

Having lost two tricks, declarer had to play the trumps for only one loser. This required finding an opponent with ace doubleton. Judging that East would have one top honor for his two-spade raise, declarer decided to win trick three with dummy's diamond queen and lead a heart to the queen. When that won, he returned a low heart and ducked in the dummy. The appearance of East's ace was a pleasing sight.

After school healthy snack

By The Associated Press

When kids come home from a long day at school, they're sure to want a snack. But if you're not going to be home to supervise what they eat; you don't want them munching on sugary snacks or chips.

Cheddar Apple Muffins and Cheese Tortilla Roll-Ups can be prepared the night before and left in the refrigerator. They're tempting and tasty. An added bonus: they're full of calcium, which growing children need.

CHEESE TORTILLA ROLL-UPS

Two 7-inch flour tortillas
4 tablespoons peanut butter
4 teaspoons honey
4 slices American cheese
2 small lettuce leaves, flattened

Place tortillas on a flat surface. Spread each tortilla with 2 tablespoons peanut butter. Drizzle with 2 teaspoons honey. Arrange two slices of cheese over the honey. Top with a lettuce leaf. Roll up tightly, jellyroll-style. Secure with a toothpick. Cut rolls crosswise in halves, then into 1-inch thick slices. Or wrap uncut rolls in plastic wrap; refrigerate up to 24 hours before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 224 cal., 145 mg calcium.

CHEDDAR APPLE MUFFINS

2 eggs
One 8-ounce container Dutch apple low-fat yogurt
1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 cups buttermilk baking and pancake mix
4 ounces shredded Cheddar cheese (about 1 cup)
1/2 cup raisins

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Butter twelve 21/2-inch muffin cups, or line with paper baking cups. In a large bowl beat eggs until blended; stir in yogurt and sugar. Add baking mix; stir just until moistened. Stir in cheese and raisins. Fill prepared muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake in a 400-degree F oven until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean, about 15 minutes. Remove muffins from pan. Serve warm or place on wire racks to cool completely. Store in a covered container at room temperature. Makes 12 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 182 cal., 134 mg calcium.

Note: To reheat in a microwave oven, wrap one muffin in a paper towel or napkin. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 10 seconds.

Lady Tigers face BSHS, Lee today

The Snyder Lady Tigers' 1992 volleyball season continues today with a three-way match in Big Spring against the Lady Steers and Midland High.

Snyder is fresh from a weekend appearance at the 19th Annual Monahans Volleyball Tournament where they earned praise from head coach Patty Grimmett.

"I was really pleased with the kids' efforts," said Grimmett. "I see a lot of potential. They all played well together, in spite of limited workout time."

The Lady Tigers split with Midland Lee, beat Pecos and lost to Alpine in pool-play at the tourney. In Saturday tournament play, the Lady Tigers eliminated Sweetwater, 15-7, 15-12, before losing to Denver City in the Consolation Semifinals, 8-15, 15-8, 11-15.

The Lady Tigers top scorers included Melanie Duncan, who slammed 17 service points, including five aces in the Denver City match, and Lynette Sears, who put in 11 versus Sweetwater.

Junior varsity action begins today at 4:30 p.m. followed by varsity matches. The SHS freshmen begin at 4 p.m.

Sammy Baugh donates jersey

Former NFL QB's autographed jersey to be auctioned

The Washington Redskins and NFL Hall of Fame quarterback Sammy Baugh are donating an autographed jersey with Baugh's No. 33 for auction to benefit the Scurry County Junior Golf Association and the Snyder High School Golf Booster CLub.

"I know Sam," said SHS boys' golf coach Bob O'Day, "and the only reason he's doing this is for the kids it will help."

Baugh, who played for 16 seasons in the NFL, leading the Redskins to a pair of league titles, will sign a specially-made maroon and gold jersey with his number and name on the back.

Closed bids for the one-of-a-kind jersey, starting at $2,500, will be accepted until Friday, Sept. 4, by writing O'Day at 4502 El Paso.

"We talked to the Redskins," said O'Day, "and they were very helpful. "This will be a specially made jersey, because Sam's No. 33 was retired. They don't make them anymore."

Baugh's number is the only one retired by the team in the 60-year history of the Washington franchise.

"There's really no way to estimate how much something like that would be worth," said Robert Manley of Sports Galore in Abilene.

"I've seen a Chuck Knoblauch baseball go for $500, and there's no way it was worth that on the market.

"It's really like a painting," Manley said. "It's worth whatever anyone who wants it wants to pay for it."

In a similar benefit auction in California, San Francisco 49ers' backup QB Steve Young's jersey went for $4,500.

Baugh has also lent his name to the SHS booster club's golf tournament set for Sept. 5 at Western Texas College.

The winning bid for the jersey will be announced between rounds at the tournament.

A quarterback, safety and punter from 1937-52, Baugh still owns pro football passing and punting records. One season, 1941, Baugh led the NFL in passing yards, punting and interceptions.

He was a charter member of the National Football League Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, inducted in 1963.

Astros back in Dome Sweet Dome

HOUSTON (AP) — Now the Houston Astros have to get used to something new — playing at home.

After a 28-day, 26-game road trip in which they emerged with a respectable 12-14 record, the Astros return to the Astrodome against St. Louis tonight to play the host role for the first time since July 26.

The Astros left town among the worst road teams in the league but returned as road warriors instead of road kill.

"The longer it went, the goofier it got," left fielder Luis Gonzalez said. "I think we started playing better the goofier it got."

When the Astros weren't playing "goofy ball," they also got a taste of what it's like to attend a convention.

"We get kicked out of town because of the convention, but we kept running into conventions on the road, too," Astros traveling secretary Barry Waters said. "Everything went pretty well except we couldn't get away from conventions."

In San Francisco, the Astros shared hotel space with a bar association convention. In Chicago, a hardware group and the Pentecostal church were vying for rooms, and the Astros actually had to foot the bill for one family member who spent the weekend with a player.

"I went to the ball park and heard a different story every night," Waters said. "I'd hear about 30-minute waits for elevators and two hours for room service. One night a band was playing until 2 a.m. It was just something we had to get through."

In all, the Astros visited eight cities, played 26 games and traveled more than 9,000 miles.

When Houston takes the field for its first home game since July 26 on Tuesday night against St. Louis, it will do so sporting a .452 winning percentage, actually a three-point improvement over what they left with.

All of this has the ballclub thinking good things.

"One positive that will come out of this trip is that now when we go on a seven-day or a 10-day road trip, it'll be no big deal," Jeff Bagwell said.

"We know that nothing can be as bad as this. I really believe we will be a better road team the rest of this year and next after going through this."

Eric Anthony got the trip off to a flying start with the first grand slam of his career in a 5-1 victory at Atlanta.

Soon, though, there was a five-game losing streak, a 9-0 loss to Cincinnati that ranks as the Astros' worst of the season and a streak of seven losses in eight days.

When the team returned to Houston on Aug. 16, they had been away 20 days and still had two cities to visit. And the GOP convention hadn't even started.

"We've been gone all this time and we come back and they haven't even started the convention," said Casey Candaele, who kept a daily diary for The Houston Chronicle during the journey.

On Aug. 2, he reported that the cow-milking contest before a game with Cincinnati was more exciting than the 9-0 loss to the Reds, and another time he wrote that he awoke in the night to watch Dr. Doolittle on television.

"I talk to the animals too," he said, "but they don't talk back."

Orioles' Ripken signs $32.5 million contract

BALTIMORE (AP) — As the negotiating wore on, Cal Ripken began to envision himself in another baseball uniform. Now it appears highly likely he will spend his entire career with the Baltimore Orioles.

Ripken will also be a very rich man. As a present on his 32nd birthday, the Orioles gave him a $32.5 million, five-year contract believed to be the richest total deal in baseball history.

"I'm just a baseball player," Ripken said. "Those numbers, to the normal person, makes them shake their head. I shake my head all the time."

The Orioles announced the deal prior to their game against the California Angels. Moments after doffing his hat to the standing crowd, Ripken scooped up a grounder and started a 6-4-3 double play in the top of the first inning.

But he later made an error and went 0 for 4 in his 1,698th consecutive game, the second-longest string in major league history behind Lou Gehrig's 2,130.

Ripken enjoyed the best season of his career last year, but has struggled this season, leading to speculation the contract negotiations were playing a part.

SHS golf boosters slate meeting

The Snyder High School Golf Booster Club will meet today at 7 p.m. at Travis Gym.

1992 SHS golfers will be introduced and plans for the upcoming Slingin' Sammy Baugh Snyder High School Golf Tournament will be made.

Volleyball tournament planned

Snyder Boxing Club has scheduled a volleyball tournament Aug. 29-30 at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

The tournament, a fund-raiser for the club, has an entry fee of $40 per team and the first-place team will win individual trophies.

Second through fourth place squads get T-shirts.

Cambridge signs with Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks have signed Dexter Cambridge, a 6-7, 225-pound forward from the University of Texas, to a one-year NBA contract.

The signing was announced Monday. No financial terms of the contract were disclosed. The club said it holds an option for a second year.

Cambridge, a 22-year-old native of the Bahamas, was an all-Southwest Conference player last season, averaging 21.7 points and 8.7 rebounds while leading the Longhorns to the SWC co-championship.

A free agent, he played in seven games for the Mavericks' entry in the Rocky Mountain Revue in late July and averaged 10.3 points and 5 rebounds in 14.7 minutes. He also attended the Mavericks' four-day rookie and free agent camp in Dallas July 15-18.

NFL teams cut rosters to 60

by The Associated Press

The Turk paid another call on NFL training camps as teams pared their rosters to 60 players on the way to getting down to the regular-season limit of 47 by next week. Some of the players set free could probably find work with the woeful Cleveland Browns.

Cleveland was blasted 56-3 by the Minnesota Vikings Monday night, matching the most points ever allowed in an exhibition game by the Browns. Ironically, Cleveland gave up those 56 points in a 1954 game in a 25-point loss to the Detroit Lions, the same team the Browns beat for the NFL title a few months later.

If these Browns are to turn things around — they are 0-4 in exhibition games so far — they probably will have to grab some of the talent cut loose by the other 27 NFL clubs on Monday. And perhaps the first team they should check with is Minnesota, which outgained the Browns 477 yards to 118 and scored on eight of 10 possessions.

The Browns began making moves immediately, acquiring linebacker Frank Stams from the Los Angeles Rams and guard Ron Milstead from Dallas, both in exchange for draft picks.

In Monday night's other exhibition game, the Kansas City Chiefs thumped the Buffalo Bills 35-0 behind new quarterback Dave Krieg, late of the Seattle Seahawks. Krieg passed for 160 yards and two TDs as Kansas City scored on four of its first five possessions in handing Buffalo its worst-ever exhibition defeat.

Among players set free on Monday was 315-pound offensive tackle Bubba Paris, who enjoyed his best days anchoring the offensive line as the San Francisco 49ers won three Super Bowls.

Another player looking for employment is Niko Noga, one of the eight players involved in the federal court suit against the NFL over free agency. Noga was let go by the Los Angeles Raiders, who also said goodbye to veteran running backs Terrence Flagler and Vance Mueller.

Another player with Super Bowl credentials, guard Bruce Collie, was released by the New York Jets. Collie was a part-time starter at guard for San Francisco's 1988-89 Super Bowl champions.

The New York Giants cut 13 players and placed wide receiver Millard Hamilton and running back Charles Young, both free agents, on injured reserve, meaning they cannot play this season.

Among the 10 players released by Phoenix was third-year defensive lineman Craig Patterson, who started 13 games last season.

The Garrett family took a double setback when Judd, a running back, was released by Seattle and brother John was cut by Tampa Bay.

Dr. Gott
By Peter Gott M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I underwent a hysterectomy over 12 years ago and have been receiving estrogen replacement therapy by injection every two to three weeks. The shots give me terrible headaches and a feeling of disorientation for a week after. I've asked for a pill, but my doctor says they have too many side effects. The patches are not strong enough, and I'm desperate.

DEAR READER: It's hard to believe that any side effects of the estrogen pills could top the unpleasant complications of your injections. Frankly, I don't understand your doctor's position. Estrogen pills are safer, less expensive and just as effective as shots. Moreover, they're more convenient and less painful. Perhaps you misunderstood your physician.

In my opinion, there is no reason why you shouldn't be taking estrogen pills; in a woman who has had a hysterectomy, there are virtually no side effects. Return to your doctor and ask what gives. If he can't answer you satisfactorily, ask for a referral to another gynecologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on ulcerative colitis. Our 30-year-old son was put on medication, a low residue diet and was told to avoid dairy products. Can his condition be cured medically or is surgery always necessary?

DEAR READER: Ulcerative colitis, a chronic inflammatory disease of the large intestine, is marked by intermittent bouts of bloody diarrhea. The cause is unknown, but the condition usually responds to sulfa antibiotics, cortisone enemas or — in severe cases — intravenous steroids.

Some patients are helped by a low-residue diet; thus, raw fruits and vegetables are usually prohibited. About one-third of patients are aided by eliminating milk products from the diet. Surgery is necessary only in specific situations, such as hemorrhage or progressively severe disease that is unresponsive to medication.

It sounds to me as if your son is on the right track.

Although he will probably not need surgery, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Fund set for Wells

A fund has been established to help defray medical expenses for former Snyder resident Charles Wells, now of Breckenridge.

Wells is awaiting a heart transplant, and is in need of funds — specifically $3,000 for careflight to a Dallas hospital.

Donations may be made in the name of Wells to Citizens National Bank, P.O. Box 1577, Breckenridge, 76424-1577.

Officers work assault reports

Snyder police noted two assault reports and transported two individuals to county jail to lay out fines Monday.

At 3:37 p.m., a woman came to the police department to file charges of aggravated assault in reference to an altercation which took place Friday at the Minute Market. And at 3:53 p.m., another woman came to the department to file assault charges in reference to her son having been assaulted by her brother.

No arrests have been made in either case.

Police arrested two men, ages 18 and 36, from Municipal Court at 10:38 a.m. and took them to the county jail to lay out fines for public intoxication.

At 11:14 p.m., officers worked a minor traffic accident in the 4500 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1981 Cadillac driven by Beulah Starnes of 2511 Ave. U and a 1985 Mercury driven by Velma Lunsford of 2803 34th St.

Police worked a hit-and-run at 3:15 p.m. in the 700 block of East 37th Street. Involved were a parked, unoccupied 1989 Plymouth owned by Darwin Melton of 700 E. 37th St. and an unknown vehicle which left the scene.

In one other investigation, police filed an offense report for retaliation after a woman reported having some problems with some subjects at 1:17 a.m. today. The woman did not file charges.

On Sept. 10, 1813, an American naval force under Commodore Oliver H. Perry defeated the British in the Battle of Lake Erie during the War of 1812. Reporting on the victory, Perry messaged: "We have met the enemy, and they are ours."

Training plan called ineffective 'Band-Aid'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's proposed $10 billion job training program is a "Band-Aid" that lacks sufficient funds and doesn't guarantee new jobs to replace lost ones, say critics.

Bush proposed tripling the amount of federal money available each year to retrain unemployed workers, those with jobs being terminated and those threatened by company cutbacks or reorganization.

The plan, called New Century Workforce, would combine new and previously proposed programs with several existing ones. It requires congressional approval.

"We know the global economy is changing, and we must change with it," Bush told a re-election campaign audience Monday at a vocational school in Union, N.J.

His plan to finance the initiative through cuts in other, unspecified programs drew immediate criticism from Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton.

"He just got through telling us at the convention we were going to have huge tax cuts paid for by huge spending cuts in amounts to be unspecified, and now he's come out with a huge spending program," Clinton said at a news conference in Little Rock, Ark. "I think it's very difficult to take this seriously."

Clinton has proposed requiring employers to spend an amount equal to 1.5 percent of payroll for job-training and education programs for workers.

Assistant Labor Secretary Steven I. Hofman said Clinton's plan amounted to a tax increase and would be "a job destroyer."

The AFL-CIO, on the other hand, called Bush's proposal "inadequate."

"Between 20 and 30 million Americans will be unemployed some time this year and he proposes a program for 1 million," said a statement by the labor federation. "For them, he offers no direct training and no new income support, just a $3,000 voucher."

The program is intended to serve 1.2 million jobless or threatened workers as well as provide training for economically and socially disadvantaged youths.

All jobless or threatened workers would be given vouchers of up to $3,000 each to learn new skills for up to two years at institutions of their choice.

Father of young victim said arrested in arson-homicide

CALDWELL, Texas (AP) — A 26-year-old man, the father of one of four children found dead last week in a burning house, has been arrested with another man and charged with murder, officials say.

Robert Earl Carter of Brenham was the father of 4-year-old Jason Davis, who along with his sister, two cousins, his aunt and his grandmother were fatally beaten and stabbed before their house was set afire early the morning of Aug. 18, apparently in an attempt to conceal the slayings, officials said.

Hours later, Carter was treated for severe burns on his face, arms and hands at a medical clinic in College Station, about 25 miles northeast of Somerville, Burleson County Sheriff Ronald Urbanovsky said Monday.

Carter attended the joint funerals Saturday swathed in bandages.

Arrested with Carter on Sunday in Brenham was Anthony Charles Graves, 26, of Austin. Both were held without bond in the Burleson County Jail in Caldwell.

A check of TDC records revealed that Graves was convicted in Stephenville in 1987 of one count of delivery of a controlled substance and two counts of delivery of marijuana and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Graves received shock probation on March 1, 1988, after serving about four months in TDC facilities at Sugar Land.

Hurricane devastates Southern Florida for much of south-central and southwest Louisiana along the coast. Tornadoes sometimes develop during hurricanes.

Residents who had toughed out previous hurricanes, such as Betsy in 1965 and Camille in 1969, said they were treating this one with respect.

"I stayed home for almost all the others, but not this time," said Martin Vidrine, 78, of Lafitte. "I'm heading north. I think this one's going to be a lot worse."

In Mississippi, evacuations were ordered for low-lying areas of Harrison County, Miss., which contains Gulfport and Biloxi. Gambling ships were moved from the Gulf of Mexico to harbors and inland canals, and runoff elections for two state legislative seats were postponed.

Most businesses in coastal areas were closed today. Classes were called off all over the region, and schools served as emergency shelters.

"Down this way, after Hurricane Camille, you don't have to say hurricane twice to get our attention," said county Civil Defense Director Wade Guice. Camille killed 256 people, mostly in southern Mississippi.

Karen Newman of Gulfport said she took her children to Hattiesburg to wait out the storm, but was heading back herself because she had to work.

"I really don't think it's going to hit us too bad, but you really don't know," she said.

In Texas, coastal residents covered windows with plywood today and stocked up on groceries and emergency supplies. Schools were closed today in Port Arthur, Mid County and Beaumont.

Officials urged residents in the highest-risk zones to evacuate.

Authorities said flooding was a main concern. Rice farmers rushed to bring in their crops.

Meanwhile, wind-whipped surf pounded Alabama's empty pleasure beaches today. Non-residents were ordered to evacuate on Monday. Part of the region is under a hurricane watch.

panel, the request will be passed on to the state level and presented to TDHCA officials in Austin.

A second public hearing is slated at the Hermleigh Community Center on Sept. 1. Citizens are encouraged to attend and express their views concerning the grant application.

Budget

McNair was praised for his work on the budget by the board and Superintendent Dalton Moseley.

In other business, the board voted to go out for bids for two 71-passenger school buses in accordance with SISD policy to purchases two buses annually.

No action was taken following an executive session to discuss the assistant superintendent's salary.

Present were trustees Billy Bob McMullan, Geraldine Parker, Luann Burleson, Ann Walton and Glen Clarady. Terry Martin and Charles Anderson were absent.

Saddam defiant as West prepares to issue 'no-fly' announcement

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Saddam Hussein declared Iraq would be victorious against its enemies, but his envoy at the United Nations made a last-minute bid to keep the West from declaring a "no-fly zone" in southern Iraq.

President Bush was expected to announce today that the United States and its allies would shoot down any Iraqi war planes flying over southern Iraq, where Saddam reportedly is cracking down on rebellious Shiite Muslims.

Iraq has called the plan a plot to divide the nations into three zones. And some of its Arab neighbors fear that the "no fly zone" would be destabilizing, splitting Iraq into a Shiite south, a central region controlled by the Sunni Muslim-dominated government, and a Kurdish north.

Obituaries

Evelyn Boone

1894-1992

Services are set for 10 a.m. Thursday at the Odom Chapel of First United Methodist Church for Scurry County native Sally Evelyn Boone, 98. Burial will follow in the Camp Springs Cemetery. The Rev. Wylie "Buff" Hearn, will officiate.

Miss Boone died Monday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Born on April 30, 1894, in Scurry County, she graduated from West Texas State Teachers College in Canyon and received her masters degree from Texas State College for Women in Denton. She taught school in Graham for 22 years.

Having lived most of her life in Scurry County, she was a member of the First United Methodist Church and the Crusader Sunday School Class. She was a longtime member of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, Delta Kappa Gamma, and the Altrurian Study Club.

She was also a member of the Scurry County Historical Society for 33 years and a docent for Historic Scurry County. Her hobby was painting China.

Survivors include one niece, Evelyn Holt of Arlington; two nephews, Bentley Gwyn of Loop and Dan Boone of Prescott, Ariz.; one great-niece, Sherry Akin of Plainview.

Florence Martin

1903-1992

Services are set for 2 p.m. Wednesday in the chapel of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home for Florence Alma Martin, 89, of Snyder. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens. The Rev. Jesse Faulkenbery will officiate.

Mrs. Martin died at 11:15 p.m. Monday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Martin was born on April 3, 1903, in Jacksboro and had lived in Snyder since 1927. Mrs. Martin was married to Jack A. Martin on Feb. 28, 1925, in Post. He died on Jan. 16, 1983. She was a member of Bethel Baptist Church and a homemaker.

One sister preceded her in death.

Survivors include two daughters, Alena Collier and Iris Kneese, both of Belton; two sons, Jackie A. Martin of Irving and Robert T. Martin of Dallas; 13 grandchildren; and 27 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Heart Association.

Ira Beights

1914-1992

COLORADO CITY — Services are pending at Kiker-Seale Funeral Home for Ira Beights, 78, who died at 6:38 a.m. Tuesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

A resident of Loraine, he was the father of Frank Beights of Snyder.

ASCS Report

By Joe Hefner
County Executive Director

Members of the Agricultural Conservation Review Group will meet on Sept. 2 to review the Agricultural Conservation Program. The meeting will be held at 9 a.m. at the ASCS office at 5309 Big Spring Highway.

The purpose of the meeting is to assure that on-going conservation practices are providing effective solutions to soil and water problems in Scurry County.

Members of the Conservation Review Group include Morris Light, David Beaver, Lance Autry, Terry Hefner, Donald Craddock and Mike Morrow.

The group will identify specific conservation problems, overall program priorities and goals, policies, practices and other administrative arrangements that will help make programs more effective in preventing soil erosion and protecting the quality of surface and ground water.

The Conservation Review Group will consider the effect of sodbuster, swampbuster, and conservation compliance provisons, the Endangered Species Act and Historic Preservation Act on conservation programs.

They will also consider cost-effective means to reduce soil erosion on crop, range, pasture and forest lands; conserve water used in agriculture and to reduce flood damage in upstream areas; and reduce agricultural non-point source pollution.

KEEPING UP WITH TWC — T&K Dairy is undergoing some major land reconstruction with help from the Soil Conservation Service to keep up with new regulations by the Texas Water Commission. (SDN Staff Photo)

Dairy strives to meet regulations

New regulations by the Texas Water Commission have required local dairy farmers Tim and Keith Collier to undergo major reconstruction of their waste management facilities.

The Colliers are owners of the 600-head T&K Dairy east of the city on Highway 84.

The regulations require cattle producers who have more than 250 head of stock to provide zero runoff of waste into streams and water supplies.

The dairy's compliance with the regulations has been assisted through a cooperative contract between the dairy and the local Soil Conservation Service.

To comply with the regulations, the SCS mapped out a plan to route all wastes from the dairy to a waste storage pond. The size of the pond was determined by the amount of waste that the dairy would create and by the largest record of rainfall in this area at any one time in the past 25 years.

The plan called for a 17,000 cubic foot storage pond to be built and that the dairy redesign the waste disposal from its pens. The plan also requires that the collected wastes be used to fertilize appropriate farm land.

"The waste will be used on cropland that can utilize the amount of nutrients expected from the wastes," said Mike Squires, SCS range conservationist.

"Wastes from the dairy will be used on about 600 acres of neighboring farm land," said Keith Collier.

The project began less than a year ago and is expected to be completed in October. Costs for building the tank were shared through a long term agreement plan with the USDA. "I estimate it will cost the dairy about $50,000 to complete," Keith Collier said.

In correlation with the new regulations, the Texas Water Commission requires yearly inspections of the waste management facilities to ensure that no wastes are contaminating water supplies. Tests in the tank itself will also be conducted at 6, 12 and 18 inches to check for buildup in the soil below.

The Colliers have been operating the dairy since 1982. They are currently milking about 300 head of cattle. The milk is sold to Associated Milk Producers, the largest cooperative milk association in the southwest.

WASHINGTON D.C. — An additional 1,099,976 acres have been tentatively accepted into the Conservation Reserve Program, said Keith Bjerke, executive vice-president of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation.

The acreage was accepted from bids submitted during the 12th CRP signup conducted June 15-26. This acreage will be entered into the program at the beginning of the 1993 fiscal year.

For Texas, 2,137 bids, representing 331,789 were submitted. Tentatively approved were 802 bids, totaling 114,962 acres. The average annual rental payment per acre is projected to be $40.37 in the state.

Bjerke said, "The bids for these new CRP acres were selected from the pool of acceptable bids using criteria which helps provide the greatest amount of environmental benefit per federal dollar expanded."

An "acceptable bid" is one that is made at a rate less than or equal to the local prevailing rental rate for an acre of comparable land.

Beginning with the 10th signup, CCC has tentatively approved most CRP bids based on the relationship of seven natural resource factors to the cost of the bid. The seven factors are: (1) improvement in surface water quality; (2) improvement in ground water quality; (3) maintenance of soil productivity; (4) conservation compliance needs; (5) tree planting; (6) critical water quality area needs; and, (7) conservation priority area needs.

Generally, those "acceptable bids" with higher enrivonmental benefits per dollar are selected over those with lower environmental benefits per dollar.

On July 22, President Bush signed Public Law 102-324 which amended the Food Security Act of 1985 to eliminte the requirement that useful life easements be obtained in order for certain CRP bids to be accepted.

Because of the change in the law, Bjerke also indicated that those persons who submitted a bid during the 12th enrollment period and agreed to execute a CRP easement will not be required to sign such an easement. Persons whose bids were accepted during the 10th and 11th enrollment periods and who have not yet filed any required easements will not be required to take such action.

Of the 1,099,976 acres tentatively accepted, 92,227 acres are scheduled to be planted to trees and 186,453 acres are within designated conservation priority areas.

The average nationwide annual rental payment for the tentatively accepted 12th enrollment period bids is projected to be $63.09 per acre.

Stocker clinic slated Thursday

A Stocker Cattle Management Clinic has been scheduled for Thursday at the Fluvanna Community Center.

The program is being cosponsored by Scurry and Borden County Extension Services.

Registration will be held at 9 a.m.

At 9:30 a.m., Dr. Brent Bean, TAEX Amarillo, will discuss small grain variety selection and management. Charles Church, DVM of Snyder, will discuss health maintenance of stocker cattle at 10 a.m.

Following a short break, Delbert Hollis, AzTx Cattle Feeders producer relations representative, will discuss marketing strategies and alternatives at 10:45 a.m.

There's more to calcium than bone building and maintenance. Evidence suggests that this essential mineral also helps prevent high blood pressure and might even be able to reduce the incidence of colon cancer.

In one study, women who took 800 milligrams of calcium a day reduced their risk of hypertension by 23 percent compared with women who got half as much. Because calcium also affects the way blood vessels relax and constrict, many researchers believe calcium deficiency may be involved in the development of high blood pressure.

With a high-fat diet, the constant cycle of damage and repair in the colon increases the likelihood of genetic mutations, which can lead to cancer. Calcium attaches to bile acids and fatty acids and thus makes them less damaging. Scientists suspect that calcium protects against colon cancer by neutralizing the damaging substances formed as the body digests fat.

Calcium's link with potentially life-threatening diseases underscores the importance of getting adequate amounts throughout life. Yet most Americans don't get nearly enough. In fact, the average woman gets half the amount of calcium some experts recommend for good health. The top ten food sources of calcium according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture are plain yogurt, flavored yogurt, tofu, low-fat or skim milk, frozen yogurt, ricotta cheese, whole milk, buttermilk and Gruyere or Swiss cheese. Other good sources of calcium include broccoli, collard greens, kale, and canned salmon and sardines with bones.

Ranch to Rail Program

How do your cattle fit the needs of the feed lots and packers? The Ranch to Rail Program was developed in 1991 to help cow/calf producers and stocker operators get accurate, objective feedback on the feed yard performance traits and carcass characteristics of their cattle.

The program also allows producers to evaluate retained ownership as a marketing alternative.

In 1991, 74 ranchers entered 666 head of steers in the program. The steers were placed on feed at the Randall County Feed Yard south of Amarillo on Nov. 18. After an average of 191 days on feed they were slaughtered at Iowa Beef Processors where detailed carcass traits were measured.

Carcass information and feed yard performance showed that, on the average, the cattle did well with an average net profit of $92.42 per head. The top 10 percent of the entries making the highest net return were cattle that excelled in rate and cost of gain, sale value, health status and quality grade as compared to the bottom 10 percent. Both groups had almost identical beginning weights and values per pound.

Due to the success of the program, Ranch to Rail will be conducted again in 1992. Producers can enter a minimum of 5 steers that must be nominated by Oct. 1. A non-refundable $10 per-head entry fee must accompany each nomination.

For further information, contact the County Extension Office or John McNeill, 110 Kleberg Center, College Station, Texas, 77843-2471. Delivery dates are Oct. 20-21.

'92 Result Demonstrations

Result demonstrations established this summer include a cotton variety test with Bill Blankenship near Fluvanna, a cotton fertility/variety test with Tim Huddleston northwest of Snyder, a Pix test with David Kattes west of Snyder, and cotton variety, fertility and rotation tests with the Western Texas College Farm.

As cooperators make their final cultivation for the year, signs will be placed at the plots. Plot plans can be found on the back of signs. Producers are encouraged to drive by and take a look at these tests as the crop progresses.

Hay Testing

Good moisture across the county this spring and summer has led to a good hay crop being produced. As fall and winter roll around, ranchers will be figuring the best and most economical way to winter supplement their cows.

Testing hay is an economical way to assist you in selecting a winter supplement program to fit the nutritional needs of your herd. Testing usually runs from $5 for the most simple test (protein), to around $30 (protein, fiber, minerals, nitrates).

About 2 blocks or slices from a square bale or a plastic bag full from a round bale is enough to provide a good sample for testing. Several labs around the country have hay testing services. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service Lab at College Station is one such lab. Forms can be picked up at the County Extension Service.

All information given herein is for educational purposes only. Education programs conducted by the ASCS, SCS and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.
