Bandit Nearly Lynched After Cashier's Death In Oklahoma Hold-Up

Three Men Flee After Killing Officer Of First State Bank At Ketchum, Oklahoma

By The Associated Press.

VINITA, Oklahoma, August 9.—After narrowly escaping lynching at the hands of infuriated citizens of Ketchum, Raymond Thomas of Tulsa, was lodged in the Craig county jail here late today in connection with the attempted robbery of the First State bank of Ketchum and the slaying of Frank Bitts, cashier of the bank.

When Thomas confessed he was one of the three men that tried to rob the bank this morning, and informed the citizens who the other two were, and named their place of hiding, his life was spared. Before the citizens changed their minds an officer rushed Thomas to the county jail here.

Bandit Picked Up on Road.

The robbers entered the Ketchum bank this morning, asked for the Ketchum brothers, and then ordered Bitts to "stick 'em up." When he failed to comply he was shot through the heart and instantly killed. Two shots were fired at Herbert Ray, bookkeeper, but both went wild. The robbers then fled without obtaining any money.

Thomas was picked up while the search for the bandits was in full chase. Leaders of the posse stopped Thomas on the road and asked him if he had sen anything of three men in a car. He told them he had not and they left him. Later he got in a car with some officers and they began questioning him again with the result that he was taken to Ketchum and identified as one of the bandits.

Then the struggle began to keep the angry citizens from lynching him.

Taxi Driver Thrown Out.

Thomas named Allison Ivey of Tulsa, and a man named Burks, as the other bandits. Burks did the shooting, he charged.

He said that Ivey and Burks were hiding in a cluster of weeds near Brown's ferry, three miles east of Ketchum, when he left them.

Two men came into Vinita early this morning and hired Russell Mayberry, taxicab driver, to take them to Ketchum. Another had accompanied Mayberry on the trip. When the car was about four miles west of Ketchum the men held Mayberry and his companion, forcing them to leave the car. Then they bound and tied Mayberry and his companion to trees and took the taxicab.

Later, before entering Ketchum, the third member of the party was picked up and the attempted holdup made with the slaying of Bitts. Bitts was married and had two children.

Lynching Feared.

Mayberry and his companion finally freed themselves and rushed to Vinita to spread the news, but by that time wires had carried the news of the bank robbery.

Following Thomas' confession, the posse searching for Ivey and Burks was doubled. Officers said that if Burks was found and identified, it would be hard to prevent summary punishment being dealt to him by the citizens of Ketchum.

RIO GRANDE RAILWAY CHARTER GRANTED

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 9.—Charter was granted today by the secretary of state to the Rio Grande City and Northern railway company. The new company proposes to construct a railroad from Sam Fordyce, Hidalgo county, to Rio Grande City and then connect with the Texas-Mexican railway in Webb county, a distance of 85 miles. The company is capitalized at $440,000. Rio Grande City will be headquarters for the line.

State Seeks Agreement On Houston Oil Mill Notes

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 9.—Efforts to obtain an agreement with officials of the Houston National Exchange bank by which all litigation over state oil mill notes will be dismissed thereby permitting the state prison commission to employ its funds will be made by S. J. Dean, prison commissioner, Dean stated today on leaving Austin. Dean was advised by the legal department that commission is without authority to use its funds until pending suits are disposed of.

Henrietta Gets First 1923 Bale

HENRIETTA, Texas, Aug. 9—W. O. Patterson brought in the first bale of cotton today. It was premature cotton and brought 20½ cents, weighing 494 pounds, and brought a premium of $40. The chamber of commerce here has offered a premium of $25 for the second bale and $15 for the third bale. Cotton in this territory has been suffering on account of the dry hot winds the last two weeks, and needs rain badly.

FRANCE TO GET NEW REMINDER

Britain Not to Advise German Withdrawal Of Resistance

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The net results of today's cabinet council, which discussed the terms of Great Britain's reply to France and Belgium with regard to German reparations, appears to be that the negotiations between allies are proceeding and that no approach has yet been made to anything like separate action by the allies.

Great Britain will send a long reply to the French government dealing with all the points raised by M. Poincare, the French premier, in his recent note. The reply also strongly re-states Great Britain's position.

Prompt Action Wanted

It is understood, that the note will intimate that Great Britain cannot advise Germany to withdarw her passive resistance decree absolutely and unconditionally and that it also will remind France that British interests do not permit of waiting interminably.

In effect, the situation seems to be that Premier Baldwin still is seeking to surmount the difficulties of the situation without endangering an open break with France and it is supposed Belgium is engaged in trying to find means for accommodation between the divergent views of her allies.

SETTLEMENT SOUGHT IN ILLINOIS STRIKE

By The Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9.—As a result of a conference between county officials and representatives of the adjutant general's office, there will be no immediate need of troops to preserve order at Hillsboro, where a strike of 300 employes of the American Zinc company is in progress, Colonel Taylor, representing General Black, said.

Since tomorrow is a holiday because of the burial of President Harding a suspension of strike activities is anticipated. Hope for the settlement of the controversy was held pending a meeting of the miners, which was being held during the evening. The purpose of the meeting, the adjutant general's office understands, was to decide whether or not to continue the strike.

AVIATOR TRIES TO BREAK OWN RECORD

By The Associated Press.

PHALIDELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Not satisfied with world's record he established earlier in the day, Lieut. E. W. Gorton of Providence, R. I., Sunday today again took the air in the seaplane NW-2 and set up another new mark by attaining an average speed of 185.8 miles an hour. This was 8.3 miles an hour faster than he flew this morning when he lowered the previous record of 175 miles an hour, made a few days ago at Port Washington, L. I., by Lieut. R. Irvine of Brooklyn.

At no time during the flight did he get higher than 900 or 700 feet above the water. On the straightaway the plane averaged about 150 feet altitude.

A youngster who said he was 11 years old and that he was beating his way back from Oklahoma to Munday was brought to the police station Thursday night by a service car driver who had picked him up in Burkburnett. The boy appeared to be three or four years younger than he stated, was exceedingly small and had managed to get about as dirty as he could possibly do so.

He told officers that he had gone to Lawton, Okla., with an uncle last week, but soon decided to start for home. He rode freight trains as far as Burkburnett, he said, and then stumbled onto the service car driver. Arrangements were being made at an early hour this morning to send him back to his home at Munday.

Count Plunkett Released

DUBLIN, Aug. 9.—Count Plunkett, the noted republican leader, who was elected a republican deputy from Roscommon, today, was released from the military internment camp at County Kildare. He was arrested last April when he was enroute with Miss Mary McSwiney to the funeral of Liam Lynch at Clonmel. No other releases were reported.

STEEL COACHES PREVENT HEAVY TOLL IN WRECK

INJURIES ARE FEW

Fireman Jumps But Father At Throttle Stays On Engine

By The Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 9.—Almost complete steel construction saved the Continental Limited, fastest train of the Wabash railroad, from a terrible wreck at 1:30 p. m. today seven miles east of here, when the engine of the eastbound train left the rails in front of the station at State Line, Ind., at a curve where the track it was traveling upon merged with the other track to form a single line.

Engineer Stays at Throttle.

Engine, mail and express cars turned over and the combination baggage and smoker and a chair came to rest half overturned after plowing up the track for a considerable distance. Coaches did not crush or telescope and the injuries sustained by crew and passengers were remarkably few.

E. C. Higgins, the engineer, remained at his post, while Fireman Ed Higgins, his son, jumped. The engineer was dug out of the wreckage of his engine by citizens and passengers, badly bruised and possibly suffering few internal injuries. The son suffered a gashed head.

Crew Of 30 On American Tanker All Feared Lost

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Fears that the Mallory line tanker Swift Star had gone down with all hands were expressed in shipping circles here tonight following receipt at the government station of a radio message from Tabpico, Mexico, stating that an ice box with the words "Swift Star" stenciled on it and containing the body of a man, believed to be that of a member of the crew, had been washed ashore on St. Ondrew's island, 300 miles north of Colon, in the Carribean sea.

The Swift Star, commanded by Capt. Richard Hull, left Los Angeles, her home port, July 2, carrying 100,000 barrels of crude oil for Fall River, Mass. She had a crew of 32 officers and men, the majority of whom had been signed here. She passed through the Panama canal July 13 and nothing has been heard of her since.

REED AND JOHNSON PICKED BY HEARST

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 9.—The choice of William Randolph Hearst for the presidential nomination in 1924 is Senator James A. By The Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 9.—Governor J. M. Davis, who is critically ill at the governor's mansion, with typhoid fever, passed a restless night and ran a higher temperature than he did yesterday, according to a statement issued by Dr. L. M. Powell, his physician, today.

Barton to San Antonio For New Investigation

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 9.—Adjutant General Barton will return to San Antonio tomorrow to make further investigations into alleged gambling and liquor violations, he announced late today. Barton will spend probably a week at San Antonio on the inquiry, he said, and will inspect national guard troops encamped at Camp Stanley near San Antonio.

Theosophist Must Dig Up $100,000 For Affections

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—The state supreme court today denied the petition of Mme. Katherine Tingley, theosophist of Point Loma, near San Diego, for a rehearing of the case in which a superior court jury in San Diego rendered a verdict ordering her to pay $100,000 to Mrs. Irene M. Mohn for alienation of the affections of the latter's husband.

Modified Penalty Opposed

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 9 A motion opposing application of the St. Louis Lumber exchange and its 19 member companies for modification of the recent supreme court decision ousting them and imposing fines of $90,000 for operating in violation of the state anti-trust laws was filed in the supreme court late today by Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett.

A FINAL TRIBUTE

THIS COMMUNITY today joins the nation in its final tribute to the man who for a short, but trying period, had been its executive head. Proclamations by President Coolidge, the governors of the states of the union, and mayors of the cities and towns of the country, ask a solemn observance today of the final passing into the history of our land of this man who was chosen as its leader.

Governor Neff has asked that all communities of the state of Texas stop their tasks from 3 until 4 o'clock this afternoon to give due recognition of the dead president. Mayor Collier has issued a proclamation of similar purpose to the people of Wichita Falls.

And as we gather today at various places throughout the country, we are paying tribute, not so much to a president who has left his earthly task behind, as to a man who tried in his own way to serve us as he saw best; a simple, kindly man who fought the good fight, and even when he realized the end was near for him, carried on to the finish.

It has come to light since his death that Warren Harding knew that his vitality was failing him; that when he left Washington he confided to his closest friends that he did not expect to ever return. But he went forward as a man goes to his daily task, putting thoughts of his own personal self behind him.

So let us today pay tribute to the memory of this man, who, no matter how we may have differed from him at times, followed the even course of the way he had chosen, believing in what he stood for, and who as an individual stood for a high type of manhood among his fellow men.

He disliked ostentation and pomp, and sought, in his private life, the simpler things which are the foundation of man's faith in his country and his God. Nothing could be more fitting on this day than to quote from his last message to the public, sent the Nights Templar at Los Angeles the day before he was summoned by the messenger of death. Here are his words:

"We should glorify the Holy name, not by words, but by praise, not by displays at arms, but by deeds and service in behalf of human brotherhood. Someone has said in speaking of our present day civilization that we need less of religion and more of Christianity. This may be crudely expressed, but it contains a great truth. Perhaps I will best express my thought if I say we need less of sectarianism, less of denominationalism, less of fanatical zeal and its exactions and more of the Christ practice and a new and abiding consecration of reverence for God."

In those few words Warren Harding, the man, left us a rich heritage. It was his last expression of faith.

Let us today pay our tributes to his beloved memory as a man among men.

First Cotton In Newcastle Area

Special to The Record News.

NEWCASTLE, Texas, Aug. 9. The first bale of cotton for the Newcastle territory the present season was brought to town by M. L. Lee and ginned by the Keith Ginning company, weighing 510 pounds and classed as "middling."

The bale brought 23 cents a pound and was bought by the John E. Morrison company. A premium of $34.50 was raised by Newcastle merchants, making the bale bring the owner $151.55. The cotton was grown in the Proffit community on the Dick Wells farm, 10 miles southwest of here.

Woman Scalded To Death When Bus Hits Boiler

By The Associated Press.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 9. — One woman died of burns from steam, two may die, and 10 others are in a critical condition at a hospital as a result of a collision tonight, when a motor bus in which 60 women were passengers, careened into the boiler of a concrete mixer. The victims were employes of the Christian Herald of New York and were returning to that city after attending the celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the Christian Herald home here.

The bus skidded while passing over a rough stretch of road under repairs, witnesses said, and knocked a steam valve from the boiler. Instantly the bus was enveloped in scalding steam.

President's Wife Orders All Be Allowed Last Glimpse

By The Associated Press.

MARION, O., Aug. 9.—Warren G. Harding's friends and neighbors tonight were passing by his bier in the home of his father, Dr. George T. the Jewish Tribune, which that pe his memory as president and citizen.

Thousands Waiting.

They began the slow and solemn march past his coffin at two o'clock this afternoon and on Mrs. Harding's orders, they were to be permitted to pass by until the last in line had an opportunity to say a silent farewell if it took until the sun begin to brighten the eastern skies tomorrow.

The stream of humanity, cosmopolitan as that of the mighty nation, seemed without end as the hours of the night dragged along. By 9 o'clock it was estimated that more than 15,000 already had filed past the flag-draped coffin and probably that many more still were in line movingly slowly to-

French-Belgian Exchange Crashes

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—French and Belgian francs were quoted at their lowest rates for all time, today on the foreign exchange market, in direct reflection of Germany's announced intention to continue passive resistance in the Ruhr. French francs sold as low as 5.65 cents each, or four points below last night's final rate, while Belgian francs dropped 20 points to 4.23 cents and rallied later to 4.27 cents. Sterling exchange held firm.

German marks closed last night at 35 cents a million, opened this morning at 21 cents and then jumped to 65 cents late this afternoon in response to foreign buying orders.

FUTURE PLANS NOT DEFINITE

Stricken Woman Prefers To Speak of Achievements Of "Warren"

By The Associated Press.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 9.—Florence Kling Harding was alone tonight with her dead. She awaited bravely and calmly the coming of tomorrow, when he would be taken from her and placed in the nation's newest shrine, behind locked iron gat s of an unpretentious receiving vault in the Marion cemetery.

Determination Still Firm

The return from Washington to her girlhood companions, her friends and most intimate associates, failed to weaken her resolute determination to keep strength to the end. To the many who came to cheer and ease her burden of sorrow, Mr. Harding spoke her thanks, but firmly declined to pass on to them even the smallest of the troubles that were hers to bear.

To the Marion friends who visited her during the day, Mrs. Harding conversed but little on subjects con-

The peal of the bells will be a signal for the opening of the services and it has been requested that those unable to be present at the church, take note of the hour, make such observance as is possible.

Observance to Be General.

Reports from towns in the surrounding territory indicate that memorial services will be held generally throughout this section.

Judge B. Y. Cummins has been chosen to speak at the Harding memorial services to be held in the Peterson oil field this afternoon in Archer county. The services will be held on the Verschoyle lease and several hundred workers are expected to attend. All rigs will be shut down during the services.

The Christian Science society of Wichita Falls, is to hold its memorial this morning at 11 o'clock, at the church at Tenth and Van Buren streets.

The local Knights of Pythias members plan to meet at their castle hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon and march in a body to the First Baptist church.

PRESIDENT WITH HOME NEIGHBORS FOR LAST TIME

Not President in Marion But Simply "W. G." And "Boss"

BURIAL UNDECIDED

Body Lies in State At Home of Father In Marion

By The Associated Press.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 9.—A one-time country editor came back today to sleep for a night again under his father's roof in Marion. And with him came the grief of the nation, of the world, that he was dead.

Warren Harding was back again among the neighborly folk of his home town. The brief day of his greatness was but memory treasured by the nation. His life work was done; the aloofness of his place ended. The home folk who had held back when last he came among them, awed by the majesty "that doth hedge a king" now come eagerly to look their last on his dead face, peaceful with the calm of eternity.

Resting Place Undecided.

It was easy to believe that the genial soul that has fled might even burst the bonds of death and move the still lips to happy greetings of these thronging old friends in the modest parlor of his father's house. To him they were always "Jack," and "Tom," and "Billy"; while he had been "W. G." and "The Boss" in the glad, wholesome, simple days before a people claimed him for highest service to the flag. It was thus he would have hailed them today had the big kindly heart stirred with life. Time was when he told them face to face of the "heavy heart" with which he realized that they held back from Harding, the president, as they had never kept aloof from Harding, the man.

But it was Harding the man, not the president, who came home today. And it is Harding the man who will be laid to sleep tomorrow within a stone's throw from the place where his mother lies. Where his final resting place will be is still undecided, for he is, too, Marion's greatest son. But no plan has been proposed that will take him from the close vicinity of his own dead in that pleasant, quiet burial ground with neighbors all about taking their long ease from life.

Guardsmen Line Way.

A thronged home town waited in silence today for this second coming of a neighbor called by destiny since he went out, two years ago amid shouting and joyous acclaim, to take his place in Washington and guide a mighty nation through troubled waters. Only one brief visit to help the home folks celebrate Marion's centennial had been possible for him before.

But this coming was greater than that, for he came in the added dignity of death and weighted with sorrowful honors from all the world. As the funeral car which had carried him home over all the long journey from San Francisco rolled in, a few national guardsmen lined the way ahead to keep the crowding neighbor folk of Marion and of Ohio back a little way.

The guard of honor sent by the nation to share in Marion's day of grief lifted the heavy burden down again and placed the casket in a gray hearse for the short trip to the boyhood home of the dead president. The cabinet members stepped down to the platform and then Mrs. Harding, coming thus again to Marion in deep sorrow for the second time since she left so blithely at her husband's side to share with him the highest honor the nation can bestow upon a citizen.

Mrs. Harding Bears Strain.

The resolute courage that has kept the stricken widow firm and calm through the long ordeal of the homeward journey and the trying days in Washington while the nation, with fullest circumstance said its mournful yet proud farewell to the dead, sustained her in the closing moments of her trials. She walked with head erect and on Secretary Christian's arm to the waiting motor car.

Dr. Harding's home is only a few short blocks away from the station. There the father waited to receive his great son at the modest threshold, bowed but still unbroken by the weight of years and sorrows. There is a strong, quiet strain of courage and endurance in adversity in the Harding blood.

Ahead of the hearse, as it drew away from the station at last up the silent aisle the men and the women and the children of Marion had made for this sad homecoming, walked the dead president's aides, Major Baldinger and Captain Andrews. Then came the cars with the cabinet and the others who had been with the funeral train all the way from San Francisco and who came to Marion at Mrs. Harding's personal request.

Crowds Only Feature.

Flanking the hearse on either side, the soldiers and sailors and marines of the guard of honor named for this office in San Francisco, walked in column. Their uniforms and those of the two officers leading the way gave the only touch of military pageantry to the scene. Otherwise, it might have been the homecoming of any dead and respected citizen, save for the crowds along the sidewalks and the guardsmen standing at salute.

The route led around through East Center street and beneath the windows of the Marion Star building. Up there a big, vacant desk stood in

BURK OBSERVES HARDING DEATH

Mayor Issues Proclamation For Closing Two Hours Friday

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 9.—At a meeting of the city council today, a program was given by the mayor of the city, Glenn Rinehart, with his proclamation for the observance of Friday as a day of mourning for the late President Harding in Burkburnett.

The city hall, banks and other places of business will suspend activities from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. Memorial services will be held at the First Methodist church at 3 p. m. when the following program will be rendered:

"Opening song: "America."

Invocation: Rev. Joseph White.

Scripture reading: Rev. B. H. Robinson.

Quartet: "Lead Kindly Light."

Memorial address: Rev. C. D. Montgomery.

Song: "Nearer My God to Thee."

Closing prayer: Rev. Thomas A. Beckett.

TWO MONTHS GIRL DIES.

Little Thelma Walden, aged 2 months, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Walden, southwest of the city on the Daniel farm. The baby was only sick about two days and the end death came as a shock to the family and friends. The funeral was held at the residence Wednesday afternoon, Rev. B. H. Robinson of the First Baptist church conducting services.

TOPSY TURVY MEETING.

The young ladies and girls of the Senior Epworth league of the Methodist church announce an unusual program for their meeting next Sunday evening at 7:15 o'clock. The session is known as "topsy-turvy meeting. All the young people of the congregation are urged to be present. Eugene (Red) Spears is president of this organization.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Ethel White and E. S. "Tip" Sheets, both formerly of this city, came as a surprise to their friends here today. The marriage is reported to have taken place in Corsicana, where they will make their home. The bride was one of Burkburnett's business girls during and after the oil boom days, while Sheets served as a member of the police force.

Revival Attracts Many.

The Presbyterian revival services are continuing through this week and the attendance increasing daily. Good gospel sermons are being preached by Rev. Tom Rockett and the song service by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker are inspiring to all.

Richerson-Herrick.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Ivan C. Richerson and Mrs. Gertrude Herrick at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. Stovall in Wichita Falls, Monday afternoon.

The bride formerly lived at Tulsa, and is the mother of Mrs. Walter Burgess of the Humble lease, where she has often been a visitor. Richerson is a business man formerly associated with the Kansas and Gulf company but is now superintendent of the Humble company gasoline plant at Corsicana where the couple will make their home, on return of a honeymoon trip to Colorado Springs and other points in the west, the latter part of the month.

A New Language.

"I understand," said Mrs. Kawler, "that one can learn different languages from the gramophone."

"Well, I don't know," responded Mrs. Ware, "but I do know that since our girl has got theirs, Mr. Ware has used language I never heard him use before.—New York Mail.

FUTURE PLANS

cerning herself and her future plans.

She preferred to talk about "Warren" and how he had devoted himself to public duty in the past 30 years, mentioning at frequent intervals some of his achievements during that time and something of his ambitions for the future.

European Travel Wanted

Beyond her decision to make Marion her residence after her visit to Washington and to spend most of her time during the next year or two at the home of her brother, Clifford B. Kling, Mrs. Harding gave her visitors no definite ideas of her future plans. She was said to have expressed a desire to travel, to go to Europe on a tour, but realizes that such a proposal would meet with opposition on the part of her medical advisers and for that reason must be abandoned.

Beginning at the Top

"Please try to get my son a position as boss of some kind. He always has liked to be over others. He is a born leader."

So wrote a father in sending his son, just out of school to an acquaintance employed in a large business establishment. The son himself had only vague ideas about what he wanted to do; it so happened that he was required to qualify perhaps as second office boy in the establishment. But he had the feeling, encouraged by the father, that he ought to begin somewhere "higher up."

He didn't think of what he knew or did not know about the business. His idea was that details did not matter; that he could "boss" all right, and leave details, the actual work, to others. He shared the beautifully logical theory that it would be a whole lot simpler if people who build pyramids houses, rock chimneys, or succeed in life, would just begin at the top instead of way down at the bottom where nobody could see what they are doing.—Kansas City Star.

PRESIDENT

a booklined room with a simple hand of black and white stretched across its workmanlike surface. Beside it stood the draped office chair of the dead editor who was passing slowly below through the silent street. Here Warren Harding toiled long, hard, but happy hours in fitting himself for the great task the years were to bring him.

Here he endured the common joys, the common sorrows that all his countrymen know. Here he achieved what was once, when he was a printer at the case, his highest ambition, the chieftainship of such a paper as the Star. Here, perhaps the first thought of senatorial honors set his pulses pounding, here, perhaps as he leaned back to rest for a moment from his work in that crepe-wound, vacant chair, the first dream of the presidency was born.

Back to Father's Home.

Certainly it was here that the qualities of human sympathy and patient tolerance of kindness for all men were refined from the experience of the years to set Warren Harding high in the love of his friends and the respect and honor of all his countrymen.

And now he was carried slowly by over the road home his feet had known so well, carried to the old father, waiting at the door.

At the house the hearse was relieved of its precious burden by the honor guard, and the coffin carried in through the doorway that was almost too modest and small to admit the great casket that held the great man in homecoming. With difficulty the bearers lifted it through while Mrs. Harding waited bravely to follow and the cabinet members stood facing inward on either side of the walk to add to the dignity of the homecoming of their dead chief.

Warren Harding was home again in his father's house.

"That youngest boy of yours doesn't seem to do you credit, Uncle Moses, remarked the negro pastor to one of his parishioners.

"No, sah, no sah," replied the old man sorrowfully. "He is de wursted chile I ever had; in fact, he's de white sheep oh de family."—Los Angeles Times.

INDIANS COMING TO FREDERICK?

Cache Comanches Anxious To Visit Tillman County Fair

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—Having been regaled with beef to the point of satisfaction two years ago at the Tillman county fair, a band of Comanche Indians at Cache, have written imply...g that they could be persuaded by a similar offer to visit the fair this coming September and would enjoy doing so. The Indians on their first visit to Frederick proved a drawing card, and it is thought probable that they will be extended the invitation sought.

Pah-ke-kumah, favorite son of the famous Quanah Parker, was spokesman for his delegation in a letter to Mayor E. U. Gamblin, in charge of the entertainment features of the county fair.

County Farm Agent Quits

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—S. D. Johnson, for the last three years county farm demonstration agent, has resigned and C. H. Guernsey, Clinton, has been appointed to take over the Tillman county work by Dan Diehl, district agent.

Johnson presented his resignation July 15 to became effective August 15. It is thought that he will be employed by the Frederick seed farms here. His resignation was not known until today. Shortly before his resignation a petition signed by about 800 residents of the county had been presented the county commissioners asking that they fail to appropriate funds for the farm agents in the interest of economy. This the commissioners refused.

Duncan Well In Saturday.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—The bringing in the Duncan test oil well six and one-half miles northwest of Frederick is expected Saturday. Bailing out of the hole has been delayed by a broken pump. Predictions are still rife that the well will be developed into a producer of 50 barrels or better.

Bible Reading Made Compulsory In Public Schools of Young County

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 9.—With the beginning of the next school year the Bible will be read in general assembly with or without comment, as the teacher sees fit, in every public school in the county. This was decided at a recent meeting of the county board of trustees on recommendation of Superintendent H. H. Avants.

So far as is known, this is the first county in the state to adopt the reading of the Bible. It affects every school in the county, except the independent ones of Graham, Olney and New Castle. Graham already has a paid teacher who devotes all her time to instruction in the Bible.

ELINOR GLYN DEFENDS HER BOOK

"Three Weeks" Written to Point Moral

In reply to an attack made on her by a Los Angeles correspondent, Elinor Glyn made public recently a vigorous defense of her novel, "Three Weeks." She declares that the book was written to show that human beings pay the price of any law they break, be it of God or man.

The letter which provoked the controversy was written by H. G. Meshennick, and is as follows:

"Ever since reading of your return to Los Angeles and the announcement that you are to assist in the filming of "Three Weeks" I have been wondering if it would be possible to dissuade you from further aiding and abetting the demoralization of humanity.

"As one who has read "Three Weeks" I ask you, don't you think that you have already done a-plenty to emphasize the fact that we are a race of accidents? I think you have.

"So why be a party to an enterprise that can be 1,000 per cent more damning than your books? Even in the name of education?

"I believe that one with the extraordinary talent you have can make virtue even more attractive than you make evil, and with less effort.

"Of course there won't be so much money in it, nor will you be so popular, generally speaking, but you will have the satisfaction of doing something constructive, instead of destructive, to mankind.

"Think it over."

Miss Glyn's reply reads:

"Your letter is sincere and so I take pleasure in answering it, because it will give me an opportunity to suggest a new point of view to you and to those who think as you do. If you will try to control all these prejudices in your mind and reread "Three Weeks" with no settled opinion beforehand, you will find that there is not a single sentence or imputation in the book, taken with its text, which could degrade anyone, unless there should be a prurient twist in his own subconscious mind.

"It is a deep study of a great love, the influence of which illuminated the spirits of a man and inspired him to be a worthy citizen and of use to his country.

The book was written to show that human beings pay the price of any law they break, be it of God or man. The lady, although she was not living with her worthless husband as his wife, and therefore was not committing the ugly sin of sharing herself between two men, still broke the law of man by taking Paul for her lover, and she paid for it with her life, which was surely a heavy enough price.

People living narrow, gray lives of their own, without knowledge of the world or the characteristics of other nations or an understanding of any vast aim, are so apt to paint tigers as spaniels because they themselves prefer spaniels. An author's business is to portray accurately the psychological meaning of each character, while proving that no matter what the character may be the laws of the Almighty scheme of things cannot be broken with impunity.

"I am thankful to say I have never written any word in any book or article which was not to prove the value of truth and self-respect and teach a constructive principle to humanity."

Alleged Hearst Mexican Ranch Raider Captured

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Aug. 9.—Miguel Lopez, alleged companion of Jose Quezada, charged with being leaders of the bandits who raided the Chihuahua ranch of William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, several weeks ago, has been captured in Pearson, 100 miles southeast of Juarez.

The bandits looted a storehouse in their raid. Home guards took up their train and engaged them in battle in a canyon, in which one of the bandits was killed and two were captured.

Cotton Rate Hearing Set.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 9.—Hearing on the injunction application of San Antonio Compress companies seeking to enjoin the railroad commission from enforcing a recent order readjusting cotton compress rates has been set for August 16 before Judge George C. Rip Wheeler's Pitching Defeats Steers, 6 to 2

SPUD VICTORY GETS ADDED COLORS WHEN SKIPPERS SALM AND MORRIS STAGE SCRAP

Buddy Tanner Slugs Out 16th Homer of Season; Davenport Succeeds Love and Stops Wichita After Love Loses Game; Wheeler Is Master of Situation All the Way.

DALLAS, Aug. 9.—Rip Wheeler, given excellent support by his mates both offensively and defensively by the Spudders took the third game of the series from Walter Morris' wild Steers here today by the score of 6 to 2.

At the beginning of the second inning Managers Salm of the Spudders and Morris of the Steers staked a pitched battle around the third base coaching line. Skipper Salm took a straight right to the jaw before he managed to get into a clinch with his hefty opponent. Players of both teams separated the battlers. Both were put out of the game.

The wrangle started when Manager Salm got into a heated argument with Third Baseman Cal Segrist of the Steers. Morris figured Segrist was a better ball player than orator so took it on his part to settle the dispute by old time methods.

With no one on base in the third inning Buddy Tanner hit his sixteenth home run of the season. One runner had already scored before Tanner came to bat.

The Spudders batted Love hard in the first three innings, chasing him out of the game. Davenport his successor was also hit hard in his first inning out, but settled down and pitched high grade ball for the remainder of the game.

Love Departs

After the first inning Love was hit hard enough to give the visitors four runs. Two were made in the second, two in the third and two more were added in the way of an initiation for Davenport. Love's curves and fast balls were rather easy for the Spudders to solve, for during his stay on the mound he was touched for hits when they meant runs.

Rip Wheeler played an important part in the Spudder win. He not only kept the Steer's hits well scattered, but contributed two timely singles. His first hit came in the second inning, while his last one in the fourth put one runner across and landed another in a position to score.

Neither side did any damage in the opening round, but the Spudders got busy and put two across in the second. After Salm and Morris had settled all difficulties and the game was started over again without their presence, Tanner opened up with a triple to left, and scored a moment later on Cotter's single to the same field. As Barrett struckout Cotter stole second and a few seconds later scored on Jonnard's single to right.

Steers Get Rough

The Steers also went on a miniature rampage in their half of the second. Connolly doubled down the third base line and scored on Griffin's single to center. Connolly went out trying to stretch his hit for two bases. His over eagerness cost his club a run for Segrist promptly delivered a double to left.

The visitors didn't let up in the third. Bescher got two bases on Hamilton's muff of his fly back of short, Coombs sacrificed Bescher to third, and the latter scored on Locker's fly to left.

At this stage of the game Buddy Tanner let go his sixteenth four-ply blow of the season over the left field fence.

Davenport took up the pitching burden in the fourth and started off by walking Barrett. Berger sacrificed Barrett, and Jonnard walked. Wheeler score Barrett with a long single to left, sending Jonnard to third. Bescher doubled to left scoring Barrett. Wheeler also came in on the play, but was called out for not touching third when the ball was brought back in from the outfield.

The Steers scored their final run in the fifth after two men had been retired. Davenport and Hamilton worked Wheeler for passes, and on Wano's single to center Davenport scored.

Wheeler the Big Boy

This ended the scoring as both pitchers settled down and engaged in a battle between themselves. The Spudders threatened to score again in the sixth when Barrett and Berger, first two batters up singled, the last blow landing Barrett on third. Barrett tried to score on Jonnard's fly to right but was out at the plate.

As a result of the presidential funeral, postponing all games the Spudders were deprived of a chance to tie the count with the Steers. Dallas had won the two previous games.

SAND CRABS BEAT EXPORTERS TWICE

GALVESTON, Aug. 9.—Galveston took both games of today's double header from Beaumont, winning the first 6-4 and the second 3-0. The Sand Crabs hit with runners on in the opener. Don Brown's homer and three singles in four trips figured heavily in the scoring. Connally held the Exporters to one hit, a scratch between third and short by Kirkham in the second tilt, while Eberhard was nicked for hits in the pinches. Scores:

Golf Tournament With Municipal And Country Clubs

The Wichita Falls Country club will stage an invitation tournament with players of the Municipal club Saturday afternoon. The object of the match between the two golf clubs is to get the players of the Municipal club acquainted with the Country club course, so that real tournaments between these two clubs can be held in the future.

The Country club officials are planning to pair a Municipal player and run the tournament off in that manner. All the Municipal players are invited to be present at the Country club course any time after 1 o'clock Saturday.

DALLAS TOURNEY NARROWS DOWN

Two Dallasites Left For Deciding Match in Net Singles Play

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 9.—The singles championship of the southwestern tennis field will be fought out this year by Leven Jester of Dallas, the playing through champion, and F. Mizukami, also of Dallas, although a native son of Japan.

The two won their singles matches today with comparative ease, Jester defeating John Barr, his doubles partner, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, while to the astonishment of the gallery, Mizukami, the sensation of this tournament, eliminated Bill Luther of Tulsa, in straight sets 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

The championship will not be played until Sunday or Monday, depending upon the outcome in the doubles.

The doubles division, brought up to the semi-finals today's play, finds the southwestern title an inter-city affair between Oklahoma City and Dallas, each with two teams left to contest the next round, one in each half of the bracket.

Louis Thalheimer of Dallas, doubles champion last year with Lewis White of Austin, and his present team-mate, Leslie Coleman of Houston, were eliminated today by Ben and Kirby Parks of Oklahoma City. The Parks brothers won in five sets, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, and in the semi-finals will meet J. B. Adoue, Jr., and Bradley Hogue of Dallas, present state and former southwestern champions.

In the lower half of the bracket, Levin Jester and John Barr of Dallas, southwestern runners-up last year, will meet Paul Darrough and Claude Monnette of Oklahoma. Jester and Barr won from F. Fitch and John Briggs of Dallas today, 6-4, 7-5, 8-6. The Oklahomans defeated the veteran Dallas pair, Rix and Blacklock, 6-4, 6-3, 0-6, 6-1.

All play in the tournament will be suspended tomorrow out of respect to the funeral of President Harding. Play will be resumed Saturday afternoon when the doubles semi-finals will be played.

FUNERAL WILL DELAY GUN CLUB SHOOT

On account of President Harding's funeral the Wichita Falls Gun club will start their weekly shoot today at 4:30, which is two hours later than usual. The target match will be staged at the regular place, back of the Spudder baseball park. On the following week a registered shoot will be held.

MUCH INTEREST IN LAKE FIGHTS

Beside Main Bouts Are Promised Rare Treat in Battle Royal

Local boxing circles are taking much interest in Saturday night's fight at Lake Wichita between Battling Simmons of Henrietta and Sailor Grisham of Wichita Falls. Some fans come out with the statement that Grisham will not be able to stay with Simmons the full 10 rounds, while others state freely that Grisham will not only be in the ring when the gong announces the end of the last round, but will get the decision on points.

Grisham is an aggressive type of fighter, always anxious to take the offense. In the bout Saturday night it will not be surprising to see Grisham meeting Simmons in his own corner at the beginning of each round. Simmons likes to mix it freely with his opponent, but usually waits for an opening before unlimbering his hard hooks and jabs.

Other fights that listed as heavy attractions are an eight-round battle between Kid Snyder of Burkburnett and Otis Bell of Electra, and a six-round bout between Farmer Seibold of Henrietta and Anderson Martin of Wichita Falls. Knockout Williams of Wichita Falls will also mix in a founr-round tilt with Sailor Davis of Durant.

On top of this the legion plans to stage another battle royal with a pick of Wichita Falls' black pugs. Six big, burly negroes have already been selected to enter the ring. Some of them are well known for their ability to deliver knockout blows. The six that will be seen in the ring Saturday night are: "Battling" Nelson, "No Sleep" Fred, "Rattlesnake Kid," "Battling" Willie, 'Knockout' Fritz and "Wichita Slim." Kid Tudelum, a giant Wichita battler, was barred by all the other contestants on the ground that his weight was an advantage that gave him too much edge. However, the Rattlesnake Kid, who came to Wichita from the Rio Grande valley, says that he bars none and is willing to meet Tudelum in a three-round curtain-raiser.

Shriners To Meet Knights of Pythias In Big Ball Game

The feature baseball game of the season will take place at Spudder park Sunday afternoon when the Maskat Temple Shriner club will meet fast going Knights of Pythias nine. According to all reports the Shriners are giving odds that they will make as many as two dozen scores, while they expect to have little trouble holding down the opposition.

The odd thing about it is that the Knights of Pythias are declaring the same thing. They don't believe that there is a Shriner team in Texas that can stand up against the curves of such mound artists as Smith, Griggs and Sanderford.

Both organizations are planning to have special rooters' section at the game. The Shriners say that they have songs and yells that will get every Pythian player's "goat." They also expect to aid their team materially in winning by the use of their extra loud toned voices. Much fun and merriment is guaranteed to all that attend.

The proceeds of the game will be given to charity organizations in Wichita Falls. Many out-of-town visitors are expected.

The line-ups are as follows: Knights of Pythias: Catcher, Major McClure; pitchers, Harris, Griffin, Ellis; 1b, Falchney; 2b, Johnson; 3b, Boone; ss, Kizzar; lf, Haney; cf, Heck; rf, Ross; utilities, Baldwin, Taylor.

WEIRD CONTEST GOES TO CARDS

37 Players Take Part in Long Game Which Is Won By Cards, 18-12

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9—Pitcher Lou North's single in the fifteenth inning won one of the weirdest major league ball games played here, in which the Cardinals defeated the league-leading Giants today, 13 to 12. McGraw sent in six pitchers and the same number worked on the mound for the locals. The most effective being North, who held the visitors hitless during the last four innings. The Giants played a listless game. In all, eight errors were charged to the league leaders, while the Cardinals had four. Twenty players of the Giants got into the game, three more than Rickey trotted out. Score:

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLIE SMITH

The whole baseball world will rest today in respect to the former president's funeral.

* * *

After the one day of much needed rest the Spudders go to Panther City for a couple of games with Jakie Atz's league leaders. Hal Carlson with a long rest will probably be in shape to start the first game against the Panthers, while Heinie Meine will very likely start the last one.

* * *

Old Scrap Iron Archibald Buddy Tanner registered his sixteenth homer of the season against Mr. Slim Love yesterday. The Dallas strikout king had much trouble with the Spudder swatsmiths. Tanner's blow puts him two ahead of the nearest rival for honors in home run hitting. Of course Big Boy Kraft is not counted in.

* * *

Wichita Fans surely would have enjoyed seeing the rotund Walter Morris mixing blows with our own Skipper Walter Salm. 'Tis a pity the umps and other bystanders wouldn't let them continue the battle. We'll wager that Morris had wished he had let Segrist finish the argument which he started.

* * *

Buddy Tanner also added a triple to his collection for the day off Slim Love. Rip Wheeler did some effective work with the stick, too. Rip secured two singles, the last scoring a run, and putting another in a position to score. However Rip let a chance to score another run slip when he failed to let his big hoof touch third base in going home.

* * *

President Harvey of the Spudders announces that he is now dickering with a major and a minor league club for two pitchers. But, before they can be secured waivers will have to be asked on both. The names have not been given out as yet, but it is expected they will be with the Spudders within a week's time at least.

* * *

The Spudders have sent young Osborne, the pitcher secured from Paris of the East Texas league on trial, back to his original club. Osborne had two trials with the Spudders but in each he failed to last through one inning. The Gassers knocked him out of the box in the second game of last Sunday's double bill, while he was sent in as a relief hurler against the Steers on Tuesday and lasted but two-thirds of one inning.

* * *

Denver Grigsby was unable to get into the line-up in yesterday's game. His injury was probably more serious than was first thought.

* * *

'Twas some game at Houston yesterday. The Buffs hit old Bob Couchman for a total of 16 blows yet were unable to score but two runs. They hit him at all times except when runs were needed. That is almost a season record.

* * *

Walter Johnson refuses to give in. Yesterday he beat Tris Speakers' tribe and allowed them only one run and seven hits. Against a club that is leading the league in batting his performance speaks well. The once great speed ball king still has a few tricks that get him by.

* * *

Babe Adams also pitched the Pirates to a victory yesterday. He allowed Wilbur Robinson's Dodger outfit eight hits, and held them to a couple of scores, all of which came in one inning.

Nighty, Ninety, Naughty!

Police of a Detroit station are doing much explaining to persons who wander into the back room there, and find it looking like Monday morning in the back yard of a young women's seminary. Draped from chairs, tables, door knobs and ropes are 60 dainty, filmy silk nighties of all hues and sizes and conditions of servitude.

They are, so the explanation goes, the results of the labors of Joseph Labedz, who is a fancier of these garments. Labedz has been in Detroit four months, having come from Chicago. In that time he has collected 90 silk nighties from various back yards in the North End, he admits.

He was arrested when Mrs. Sydney O. Mills missed three of the dainty garments from her washline. Police were notified. They arrested Labdez. He was wearing all three of the nighties as underwear.

Labdez pleaded guilty before Judge Charles L. Bartlett in recorder's court. He was sentenced to 90 days in the house of correction, one for each nightie.—Detroit News.

It's all a matter of taste

A MAN can kiss a cow if he wants to—after all it's nobody's business but his own.

A man can use valve cups, that fail to deliver the goods, year after year—his own pocketbook is the one that suffers.

For 15 years oil men everywhere have known the name Darcova as a mark of the valve cup that wears longer and pumps more oil.

Those who buy valve cups with the ultimate cost in view are boosters of Darcova. Those who prefer to save a few cents at the time of buying and waste labor, oil and money at the time of using, are satisfied with substitutes.

It's all a matter of taste.

HARRY COOPER WINS TEXAS GOLF TITLE

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Aug. 9.—Harry Cooper of Dallas won the professional golf championship of Texas today in the first annual tournament of Texas professional golfers. He will be one of the two Texas professionals to participate in the national professional golf tourney at New York in September. Cooper's score for the 72 holes of medal play was 312.

Graham Presbyterians Forfeit to Baptists

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 9.—The Presbyterians were unable to place enough men in the field this afternoon and forfeited to the Baptists by the score of 9 to 0. The teams were recruited from other players and a mixed game was played in which the Presbyterians won by the score of 5 to 3. This mixed game has no standing in the league. Batteries were Lynn and Alberts for the Baptists and Weatherly and Price for the Presbyterians.

DRIVE WITH YOUR EYES OPEN.

Watch your step when you step on the gas!

Wichita Falls' new traffic ordinance goes into effect today. The ordinance has been passed with a view to making the streets of Wichita Falls safer, both for the pedestrians and the motorist. It applies to automobiles, street cars and all vehicles It places a two-hour parking limit for cars on Indiana and Scott avenue between Tenth and Seventh streets, and on Eighth and Ninth streets between Lamar and Ohio avenues between the hours at 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. The ordinance also prohibits double parking, which probably is the cause of more congestion in the downtown district than any other one thing.

The man who calls himself a good citizen should do his best to aid in the enforcement of this traffic ordinance. It is not a trifling thing. Wichita Falls is getting a reputation for reckless and careless driving, and Wichita Falls should hasten to correct that impression.

Reckless driving is not a mark of a city such as is Wichita Falls. It is the mark of the small town where every motorist is his own traffic officer.

Chief of Police Hodgins says the new ordinance will be enforced to the letter. This will take time and hard work. And the police department should have the unqualified backing of every man who has a pride in Wichita Falls.

BAILEY ON HIGHER EDUCATION.

Joe Bailey in an Austin speech the other day declared that he favored the stopping of free education with the high school. He declared that he was perfectly consistent in his position because he had paid his own way through college.

"If they want to be lawyers or doctors or learn any other trade, let them pay for it," said Bailey, "and not expect some other man who is not their father to be taxed for their higher education."

The above was very much the attitude of ex-Governor Ferguson. But the writer does not remember that Ferguson went so far as to advocate the closing up of the state University, A. & M. college, C. I. A., and the various normal schools.

Democracy, a word generally used as a key note of the most of Senator Bailey's speeches, has gone through many struggles. First came the fundamental struggle for the separation of church and state. Second came the struggle for universal suffrage. Third came the struggle for equal educational rights for the rich and poor alike.

It is significant that Senator Bailey's advocacy of the abolition of free higher education is a move to retard democracy at all three of these points. Religion in its various sects pioneered education. Practically every university in the United States, with the exception of the state universities, is a sectarian school.

The state universities were founded as non-sectarian free schools so that education might be free both financially and in the sense of freedom. There has been many instances of sectarian schools being used for the advancement of sectarian theology and a narrow philosophy. Wherever a church owns a school, there is always this danger. And whenever these United States cease to provide higher free education to all citizens, regardless of religious belief, the danger will be increased.

Such a procedure would increase the control of church over state by practically giving church owned schools the monopoly of higher education.

The second and third democratic victories—the right of universal male suffrage and of equal opportunity—would be minimized by the abolition of free higher education. Equal opportunity and equal suffrage are aided by equal opportunity for education. Senator Bailey was one of the last men in public life to drop this opposition to women suffrage. The extension of universal male suffrage to universal women suffrage is simply a forward movement of democracy in breaking down the sex barrier as regard the civil life of human beings.

Those of us who believe in free higher education, equal suffrage, and the separation of church and state, should not however hold that Senator Bailey is in opposition to these principles as principles. Rather it is kinder to suppose that the world has moved thirty years beyond where Bailey is now.

CIVILIZATION COSTS MONEY

More than twelve billion dollars has been invested in tax exempt bonds and securities in the United States. This is a huge body of wealth that escapes taxation every year. It is said that the combined debt of American states and municipalities has gone beyond the ten billion mark.

Civilization comes high but who would want to live in a land without conveniences of the modern accessories of life? There must be public highways. There must be parks and gardens. There must be public hospitals and asylums. There must be homes for the indigent poor and penal institutions for those who violate the law.

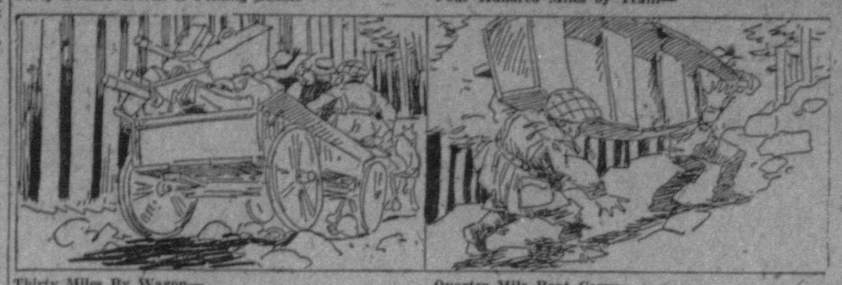

A WORLD OF CHANGE

Professor Johnnie Dundee, newly crowned featherweight champion of the world is an Italian-American born in the city of New York. His last victim was a French boxing professor who was a hero of the world war and the winner of many medals and decorations. There was a time when the Irish were the heroes of the ring. Now Italians, Frenchmen, Cherokee Indians of the Jack Dempsy type and south American mongrels of all types are getting the money. There are eight hundred thousand italians in the city of New York and in the not far distant future many of the police jobs will be taken over by American sons of the Romans. This is a world of change.

But There Isn't Anything Can Be Done About It.

INSTALLMENT NO VI.

"Say no more, my dear. You little realize the importance of every minute. The unnumbered room will soon be vacant. I heard Miss Pringle say to Tillie: 'Yes; it's terrible, but we've got to. By night the police will have searched the house. If Jones is willing to do it—' I didn't catch the rest."

"If Jones is willing to do WHAT?"

"Make away with the creature they've been hiding—choke it—chloroform it—how should I know the exact method? This poor unfortunate is a crazy relative of Miss Pringle's, probably—someone she's always had on her hands. Way out here, and with a man like this clerk to help her, she can get rid of him now and no one'll be the wiser."

Natalie's hand plead for silence.

"The man who came with the princess-woman has run away," she said.

"Oh, has he?" Her aunt looked crest-fallen, and then, brightening: "How do you know he's run away? Perhaps HE'S been murdered, too, and his body hidden somewhere? They came in a maroon sedan. Is their car in the barn? Has anyone looked?"

"Aunt Merilda, what idiots we've all been!" The girl was on her feet in an instant.

There were a number of cars, but only one sedan. As Natalie opened the door, she noticed an old, cryptic hieroglyphic that looked like an irregular triangle in a circle. The interior, luxuriously upholstered, fairly shrieked of its late owner. Lifting a cushion, she saw an odd, nobby bundle of something wrapped in a blood-stained handkerchief.

With a sense of calamity, she lifted it and let the contents pour out on the floor of the car. Diamonds! Diamonds set in rings, in pins, in bracelets, in platinum squares on a strip of black velvet! A tempting fortune—enough to buy immunity in any one of a dozen cities!

An embroidered, overelaborate "J" jeered at her from one of the hemstitched corners. She stuffed the bundle into her blouse, and sidled along the narrow space next to the wall. As she came to the back of the car, she paused.

The license number had been torn from its place: a bit of wire ring still clung in the hole. The murderer had not been pressed for time. His tracks had been covered. He meant to return for the jewels.

It was the chauffeur's face that stared at her.

"Who took the license number off that car?" she asked.

"You got me," said Bill. "First time I seen it was gone."

"Did you happen to notice what state it was from?"

"Cars come so fast I just wedged 'em in. Never thought to look 'em over."

She retraced her steps to the house. What to do with her find she had no idea. Would it be right for her to say nothing until the authorities arrived? The jewels would be as safe in her keeping as in the car. Convinced by her own arguments, she looked about for a hiding place. No better spot suggested itself, she slipped the bundle under her mattress toward the foot of the bed.

Miss Merilda's remarks about the police still troubled her. This was probably the last opportunity she would have to discover the identity of either of the mysterious guests—to find out Jones' connection with the woman whose death had put a fortune in his hands.

For, with the finding of the jewels, the girl's last hope had died. She was convinced as to the identity of the murderer.

Crossing the hall, she entered the room that had been occupied by the princess-woman. The dogs had gone, otherwise, their barking would have betrayed her presence. Here again was the expression of luxury—gold-mounted brushes, expensive perfume, a lip-stick in a jeweled case, a satin negligee lying over the back of a chair.

She turned to the suitcase, half open, on a chair. It was in wild confusion. Every article had been gone over, marks removed carelessly—as with a knife.

On her knees before it, she tried to think. No woman—however anxious to hide her identity—would have treated the dainty contents with such barbarism.

An interlude of twenty minutes, and Natalie faced a new problem. Her own room was in the same confusion as the one she had just left and—the jewels were gone!

The room, all at once, grew stifling. As she groped toward the window, she heard Miss Pringle's voice

"Just as you say—just as you say, Jones. I'm sorry to have kept you waiting. Tell Mr. Burby I'll be right down."

So—so he had returned—returned in time to regain his loot! Well, let him have it—let him go on destroying everything, everybody. It could make no difference to her. Thank God for that!

She dug her knuckles into her eyes and hated herself with all her young might when she found that the eyes were wet——

Mr. Burby, coroner of Owega county, walked soberly across the lawn to the bird-bath. Jones followed at his heels. Then, with a reverent hand, he drew aside the sheet and looked into the depths of the horse-trough.

As he put question after question to the impassive clerk, the latter, with arms folded, head bent, stared down at the thing that had once been so full of life, so conscious of power.

Natalie sought her aunt. That lady, however, had already discovered what was going on, and was watching from her window. Now and then she reported progress.

"They're lifting her out of the tub—the man and Bill. If you please, Jones wouldn't touch her—looked as though he'd faint when they asked him."

CHAPTER XV.—BILL AND TILLIE.

At two o'clock came the coroner's order—every one in the house was to go to the living room.

The living room was crowded. Even Sammy Todd was there. Jones, Bill and Miss Pringle told their stories, but not until Tillie was called to testify, did anything new develop.

"Ah bane Tillie," she announced, "and I got something I shold tell. Villum here, he he say youst now—ven he get oop this morning. How can he get oop ven he no lie down all night?"

"What do you mean?" Mr. Burby said.

"I'll tell you what she means, Judge," Bill, too, had risen. "I didn't sleep in my room last night. I stayed out in the old bowlin'-alley with m'kid brother. He's took bad." And then, swinging in lightning retaliation on his accuser: "You better shut your trap; I can tell a few things, too. That husband of yours was down at the landin' all day yesterday, bustin' things wide open. If he finds out where you are, he'll see to it that——"

"Excuse, mister"—snapping her fingers at the coroner—"excuse. It all bane one big lie. My Ole he stay by theeater. He got goot yob fightin' Jack Dempsey."

But, except for venting her personal spite, Tillie appeared to have nothing else to say, and was dismissed.

Bill, however, was not so lucky. A few questions brought out the fact that he had done his bit of time. And even Miss Pringle's assurances that the thefts had been committed because of pressing necessity did little to remove the bad impression which had been made in everyone's mind.

CHAPTER XVI—AUNT MERILDA ON THE JOB.

Coroner Burby consulted the list on the table.

"Miss Natalie Mallinson?"

It had come! Mr. Burby smiled encouragingly. A pretty face was a welcome novelty.

"I hear, Miss Mallinson, that you talked to this woman. Would you mind telling the nature of that conversation?"

Natalie dried the palms of her hands, rolled her handkerchief into a limp ball.

"We spoke to each other as we passed in the hall. It was only——"

She tried to give the conversation word for word, just as it had taken place.

"Think again. Don't you remember ANYTHING that might throw light on what happened afterward?"

"I——" Natalie began. Her lips were dry, her voice, to her own ears, a weak tremolo. "I don't know a thing. Not a thing."

The investigation concluded, every one was free to go—though Mr. Burby added, not far. The guests scattered, only to drift again into groups.

Natalie flushed as she saw Jones; and yet intuition had told her he would be waiting when she left the room. His first words startled her.

"You didn't tell. Why? Do you believe I did this thing?" he asked. "You were sure of my guilt only a minute ago—there in that room. Why didn't you say so?" With a protesting cry she turned. But he caught her to him. "Answer me!" he commanded.

So Goes It

A man't/attitude when he is driving a motor car and when he is doing them in vastly different. The other fellow is always a dad-rattled fool who doesn't know what he is doing.

We are reminded of this by the new traffic ordinance, effective today. So it is well to remember, when you are about run down your fellow citizen, that if the situation were reversed you might be dodging him. And he might overtake you.

A young lover writes the Kansas City Star about his troubles. It seems that he once had a sweetheart, and he loved her so much that he had her name tatooed on his arm. Then she married someone else. Now he hasn't any other sweethearts named Mary and he wants to get that name off his arm. If the Kay See Star can't do anything for him we would suggest he soak it for ten minutes in Mizzouri "corn." That should remove it.

Of course, there is the possibility that he may lose his arm.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

IT'S A GIFT

I fancied that thrift one's success would insure,
When to carve a career I began,
And therefore a fortune I sought to secure
By being a provident man.
I skimped on my clothes and I scrimped on my food,
But the stocks and the bonds that I craved,
(I was pained at discovering) never accrued—
For my friends borrowed all that I saved!

Then a friend of my youth, with a Newport estate
And a couple of banks of his own,
Informed me he'd wrested his money from Fate
By borrowing—loan after loan!
"Who runs into debt will get wealthy," said he;
"All a hustler requires is a stake!
The prosperous all found their fortunes—like me—
On the money that other folks make!"

So, abandoning saving, I ran into debt—
I borrowed from friend after friend;
I got all the cash I could possibly get,
From all who were willing to lend.
The scheme seemed to work—a big fund I amassed,
But it had one unfortunate lack,
For I wakened one morning, distressed and aghast,
To find I must pay it all back!

I watch from a bench while the motors roll by,
With people of millions inside,
And observe with a sorrowful, fluttering sigh
That none of them ask me to ride!
And sternly I say to my envious heart,
What lately I've come to discern,
That gathering bunches of cash is an art
Which I was not destined to learn.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

August 10

LEO

No benign aspects operate today, and those which do manifest, tend to excessive activity, haste and force giving liability to contention and accidents. Today requires persistent affirmation to remain poised and constructive in thought. There is danger of traffic accidents caused by speed and carelessness.

A child born today will be solitary and meditative, and in need of constant encouragement.

People born during the period of July 21 and August 21 are born under the sign of Leo, and are noted for their breadth of sympathy and their keeness of feeling. They have on the whole extremely variable personalities, and are throughout their lives enigmas to themselves as well as to others. At times they are determined and energetic, and at others indifferent and easily discouraged.

Perhaps the best way to their nature is that their heads are governed by their hearts and the emotional appeal of anything they undertake is stronger than is logical. They are pre-eminently successful in matrimony and parenthood.

You should be above all else an excellent judge of character if today is your birthday. You feel people's worth intuitively and you in turn know just how to handle the destinies of others, not because you are physically more powerful, but because you know them better than they think you do.

You have both an eye for color and line, and an ear for music, and although you will probably be neither an artist or a musician, unless you concentrate on your technical training, you will always enjoy both as a pleasant diversion.

You are unusually emotional. You experience sudden and profound feelings, and you enjoy them, probably for just a little more than they are worth, particularly when they are focused on one of the opposite sex. This does not, however, mean that your display of affection will never be reciprocated to the degree that you desire, for your personal charm is too strong to be long resisted.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

Hartley Manners, dramatist.

Joseph McKenna, United States supreme court judge.

Horace White, journalist and author.

Magic Power of Amber

Lithuania produces more than three-fourths of the amber used in the world. Amber in Lithuania is presumed to hold magic powers to ward off disease and danger, and it is the good luck stone in all of Northern Europe. Every bride has her bit of amber, every new-born child receives its piece and its presence in many forms in every household, even the most humble, shows the universal potency attached to it. The carving of amber is among the folk trades of the Baltic countries and in Lithuania has become a fine art.

Clear amber is more popular than the colored, which is so often seen here, and which was known for centuries in pipe stems and umbrella holders before the present vogue of stringing it into necklaces and girdles. A wealth of prety legends clusters about amber, and its carvers and the good fairies enter the story always bearing the yellow stone.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

INTO WHAT SIZE FARMS SHOULD THE SURPLUS LANDS ON THE IRRIGATION PROJECT BE DIVIDED?

Peach Production in the United States.

Peaches are an important fruit crop in the United States. In 1921 the apple crop amounted to 98,097,000 bushels, which was worth $164,803,000.00. Peaches yielded 32,733,000 bushels, which were worth $84,805,000.00, while the orange crop was 30,700,000 boxes worth $63,850,000.

The price on peaches on account of their perishable nature, varies from year to year and during the season and also the locality where they are produced. In 1921 Connecticut and Illinois received an average price of $3.71 per bushel for their crop, while California only averaged $1.00 per bushel.

The five leading states for peach production in 1921, with the bushels produced and the average price received are given below:

State—	Bushels—	Price
California	12,848,000	$1.00
Georgia	9,550,000	1.60
Texas	2,200,000	1.05
New York	1,700,000	2.55
Alabama	1,230,000	1.05

It will be seen from the above that Texas stood third in peach production in 1921.

Wichita county in 1919 had 1,807 peach trees not of bearing age. The total harvest amounted to 3,314 bushels, or about 3-5 of a bushel per tree. Ordinarily there are 40 to 50 peach trees per acre. Therefore the production in bushels per acre was from 25 to 30 bushels. This is rather a light yield.

Under irrigation and the skillful attention of practical horticulturists this average will be multiplied many times.

Tomorrow we will discuss peach production under irrigation.

Forbidden Absinthe Sold By Bootleggers in Paris

America may claim a superiority in numbers of that gentle soul known as the bootlegger and that secluded nook commonly called a "blind tiger," but it certainly cannot claim exclusive possession of either.

France, although its cafe terrasses are still crowded with bearded men and vivacious women drinking unconcernedly of vermouth and cognac and kindred stimulants, has a few of both.

Several years ago the sister republic put the ban on that concoction of rare and amiable dreams, absinthe. That the ban has resulted in an enormous reduction in the amount of that liquor which finds its way into French stomachs is not to be denied, even by the stanchest supporter of "personal liberty." But it is still to be obtained.

Walking down one of the narrow, winding side streets of the Left Bank, or even the Right, in Paris, an American will frequently be stopped by his French companion for whispered conversation.

"Sh-h-h!" the Frenchman will say, "that little low building across the way is an absinthe house. It is forbidden, but——"

And a wobbly Frenchman, strolling from a low, arched doorway will offer living proof of the moment, that it isn't altogether forbidden—New York Mail.

Among the lower middle classes in Serbia women are always helped last, and may not sit down unbidden in the presence of the men.

Here And There In The World Of Daily Interest To Women

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompsun:

I am a boy 17. About three months ago I met a girl with whom I fell deeply in love. Soon after, she moved away from town and I did not see her for a few weeks. A few nights ago I went to a little country church and saw her there with another boy. I was mad and she told me she was sorry and to come back the next night. I went back and found two boys waiting for her. I started to whip the boys but she told me she didn't know they were out here and she was sorry. I walked home with her and she said she wouldn't do the same thing again. Her sister says she will see other boys all she wants to. I love her dearly. Do you think she will do the same thing again? LONELY.

You don't seem to understand that she can care a great deal for you and still see other boys. She has done nothing to cause you great worry. If you love her as much as you say you do, can't you trust her?

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompsun:

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a man 32 years old and have been going with a widow for months whom I love dearly. She has one child whom I think the world of. We had a little misunderstanding and we fell out. Now she tells me she no longer loves me. What can I do to regain her love? EMORY.

Her love must have been quite small if a "little misunderstanding" could kill it. Perhaps she really loves you and is just peeved. At any rate, act just as usual, as though nothing had happened and give her a chance to be nice to you but don't rush her.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 17 and run around with the school bunch here. I have been going with a boy for some time, a football man on the team, well-liked by everyone. The last few months he's been staying the "jelly"-slicking his good-looking head of hair down and parting it in the middle. He dances all the jelly steps and goes to gay parties with silly headed little girls and then comes to see me and tells me all about it. I'm not in love with him, but I like him. Is there any way to get him out of this? He's so silly, nothing like the quiet, interesting kid he used to be. GRAY EYES.

It's dubious, Gray Eyes, he's been bitten by that fatal little bug of conceit, and as long as he has admiring little girls to tell him how cute he is, he's going to believe it. You haven't told me how old he is, but if he's 18 or 19, he may come out of it much sooner than if he were younger. How any red-blooded football man can run around under such a name and seem to enjoy it is more than most of us can understand. Make fun of him; let him know what you think of him.

TODAY'S RECIPES

For the stuffed celery use some kind of snappy cheese that spreads easily, mix it with a little butter, salt and pepper and fill the hollow celery.

Baked Meat Loaf—One and one-half pounds fresh round steak, ground, two eggs, 12 soda biscuits or saltines, one teaspoon butter, salt and pepper to season, one-half can tomato soup. The other half is used as a dressing for the mashed potatoes.

Roll the saltines to fine crumbs, mix with other ingredients, form a loaf, place in baking pan. Over the loaf pour two tablespoons of the tomato sauce and place two strips of bacon. Bake uncovered for 45 minutes in moderate oven.

Cream Prune Pudding—One cup chopped stewed prunes, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one egg, one-half cup prune juice, one cup milk.

Mix sugar and cornstarch, add slowly to heated milk and prune juice. When it boils and thickens add the yolk of egg and set aside to cool. Then add chopped prunes and nuts, cover with meringue from white of eggs and brown in oven.

Fruit Cocktail—One cup crushed pineapple, one orange cut in small pieces, two tablespoons grapefruit, (white grapes in season), one-half cup sugar. This serves three.

Mix the fruit in large dish, cover with sugar and place on ice. This can be prepared first thing in the morning, allowing it to chill all day. Then serve in tall sherbets and top with a maraschino cherry.

Egg Vermicelli—Prepare as many pieces of toast as persons you will serve. Hard boil as many eggs. Next prepare white sauce, pour over toast, slice eggs over this and garnish with parsley.

Stuffed Tomato—Select nice solid tomatoes, scoop out the centers, fill them with finely chopped celery and pour over all boiled salad dressing.

Boiled Salad Dressing—One egg (beaten), one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon flour, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, one tablespoon salad oil, one and one-half cups vinegar, one-half cup water.

SUGGESTIONS

To Label Milk—When you have milk left over from the day before, which is still sweet, you wash the cap well and put it on the bottle upside down. In that way you can tell at a glance which is the oldest milk.

TEMPLE ISRAEL HOLDS SPECIAL SERVICES

Special services will be held at Temple Israel this evening at 8 o'clock. Full attendance is urged, as Dr. David Goldberk who has been in Mineral Wells will arrive today to officiate.

Society Personals

Mrs. E. H. Harrington, of 1707 Bluff street, has returned from a two weeks' visit with friends and relatives at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Rebecca Winters, Misses Eunice and Mary Will Winters of Pine Bluff, Ark., accompanied by Andrew Quattlebaum of Sherell, Ark., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Winters, at 1510 Fifteenth street. Mr. Quattlebaum is an accomplished tenor soloist, a graduate of Busch Conservatory and will be heard at the First Methodist church, South, Sunday morning.

Orris Williamson was in the city from Burkburnett Thursday on business.

Miss Helen Cannon, of Kansas City, is the guest of her uncle, Dr. W. L. Rhodes, and will remain in the city the remainder of the summer.

Miss Thelma Ruth Jones, of Henrietta, is a guest in the home of Dr. S. M. Black, at 1915 Tenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Ellis, both of 1105 Austin street, have gone to Colorado Springs and Fort Collins on a vacation trip. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Ellis will return Sept. 1, and the ladies will visit in Salt Lake City, Utah, returning sometime in October.

Misses Nellie Mae and Georgia Trevathin, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bland, have returned to their home in Batesville, Ark. Miss Georgia has stopped off in Oklahoma for a few weeks en route.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bland and son, Lloyd, are spending the week in Mineral Wells with relatives.

Miss Anne Hamner, of Iowa Park, is spending the week with friends in Wichita Falls.

Dr. David Goldberg is in the city today from Mineral Wells, and will conduct special services at Temple Israel.

THREE ESSENTIALS

We have all heard the childhood question, "What are little girls made of?" And we remember the answer in a twinkling: "Sugar and spice and everything nice"—

Now, I wonder if you ever paused to think what little girls are made for. Surely they must have some definite purpose in this life.

"To be adored by men," men say, "and for the express purpose of giving us something to love?"

That being the case, the woman who finds herself unloved by men must look within for the reason, for the fault must be her own.

Men everywhere, willing to love, wanting to love, and looking for an object for their affections—surely cannot pass you by if you consider three things: How you look to the eye, how you sound to and how you impress people.

Compare yourself with the most attractive, popular woman you know and rate yourself, honestly, in comparison with her.

Study her as hard as you would a difficult example in arithmetic—and stick to it—till you get the right answer.

Today's Poem

PRETENDING

I know a magic woodland with grassy rides that ring
To strange fantastic music and whir of elfin wing
Where all the oaks and beeches, moss-mantled to the knees
Are really fairy princes pretending to be trees.

I know a magic moorland with wild winds drifting by,
And pools among the peat-bogs that mirror back the sky
And there in golden bracken and the fronds that toss and turn
Are really little people pretending to be fern.

I wander in the woodland, I walk the magic moor;
Sometimes I meet with fairies, sometimes I'm not so sure;
And oft I pause and wonder among the green and gold
If I am not a child again— pretending to be old.

Raw Sugar Steady.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 9.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged at 4 3-8 for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.15 for centrifugal. There were sales of 6,000 bags of Porto Ricos and 8,400 bags of Philippine Islands.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer. Closing prices were 6 to 10 pounds net higher. Closing: September 4.45; December 4.05; March 3.45; May 3.52. Refined sugar prices were unchanged at 7.90 to 8 cents for fine granulated. Refined futures nominal.

His Diabolical Scheme.

Smith—You say you write dunning letters to yourself and sign them with fictitious names. Why in the world do you do that?

Smart—You see, my wife is always after me for money and when she reads those letters she becomes discouraged.—Boston Transcript

ZONAGALE

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

SLAVES—ANCIENT AND MODERN.

A similarity between the ancient and modern worlds lies in the attitude toward labor.

The Egyptians, the Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Persians, the Greeks and the Romans despised manual toil. To labor with the hands was the lot of slaves; free men worked only with their heads.

Labor was despised because it was cheap. It was cheap because of slavery. The proportions of slaves to free men in cultivated Athens was large; in Rome during the days of the empire, it was so large that, to protect the comparative handful of masters the most stringent laws were enacted.

If a master was killed in his house every slave on the premises, regardless of his part in the assassination, was put to death. Naturally when one infuriated slave turned on an owner every other slave not in a like desperate state of mind, insured the safety of his skin by defending the master's precious life.

So cheaply were slaves' lives held that even the amiable first emperor, the golden Augustus, slew one with his own hand for killing a nightingale.

But the ancient state slavery was flexible. Slaves could earn money and buy their freedom. Many of them became shopkeepers and small business men, paying part of the profits to the masters and laying by another part for ultimate emancipation.

Epictetus, whose lofty stoicism approached in some particulars the ideal of Christian love, was a slave.

In fact, a newly rich Roman added luster to his household quite often by immediately bustling out into the market place and picking up at current rates a few used but almost-as-good-as-new Greek philosophers, poets, rhetoricians and other cultured bargains. Cicero's copyists were slaves.

Even Plato, with his vision of tomorrow, could not conceive of a state where the many were not kept in ignorance and drudgery that the few might become the intellectual ornaments of the age.

Slavery fooled the ancients just as it will fool anybody who trifles with it under any of its aliases, even to the alias of privately agreeing with Plato that the many must work so that the few may become rich and wise and powerful.

And the rich and wise and powerful despise labor. Because these Greeks despise labor they never touched tools.

But it was the touch of an idle apprentice upon various glasses that paved the way for the telescope.

Lacking the telescope, the Greeks went wrong on their astronomy and, as a by-product of that mistake, they went wrong on most of the guesses as to what the world was like. Lacking the microscope they also went wrong on what was before their very noses.

In fact, because they left manual labor to slaves and hence never released the natural human impulse to find quicker and easier methods, they missed the scientific knowledge which, linked with their bold philosophy, would have made them speed up civilization by many centuries.

Even Archimedes, whose suggestion of what he might do with a lever if he had a place to stand is known to every schoolboy, was so indifferent to acknowledge unseemly for a philosopher that he refused to write down any of his remarkable discoveries in mechanics, hydrostatics and optics!

The steam engine was anticipated by steam driven machinery, invented and operated in the century before Christ.

But the Roman world was obsessed with the idea of military conquest and passed it up. Why fuss with labor-saving devices when slaves taken in war could be bought in chariot-load lots?

The modern drudge is the lineal descendant of the ancient slave. And he is as great a menace to mechanical, social, industrial, political and spiritual progress now as he was then.

The harder society makes the exploitation of human beings the more it greases the wheels of progress.

STOCKS AWAIT HOLIDAY TODAY

Irregularity Shown With Slight Fluctuations Up and Down

Features.

By The Associated Press.

Total sales 382,600 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 88.67, net gain .04. High 1923, 105.38; low 86.91. Twenty railroads averaged 77.90; net gain .04; high 1923, 90.63; low 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. — Price changes in today's stock market were irregular and inconclusive with trading unusually dull because of the holiday tomorrow.

Germany's determination to continue passive resistance in the Ruhr as set forth in Chancellor Cuno's speech to the reichstag, which resulted in further weakness of the continental exchange rates, cast a shadow over the market at the opening. The decrease of 475,498 tons in the unfilled order of the United States Steel corporation which was about 75,500 tons more than was expected and the final meeting of the general chairman of two railroad brotherhoods to consider wage increases also had a somewhat depressing influence on speculative sentiment.

New Low Records Made.

Selling pressure was not effective against the leather, chemical, low priced oil and motion picture company shares. New low records for the year were established by Central Leather, American Hyde and Leather preferred, Allied Chemical, Famous Players preferred, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Burns Brothers A. and B. Transcontinental Oil, General Asphalt, Maracaibo, Invincible, St. Paul preferred and "Nickel Plate."

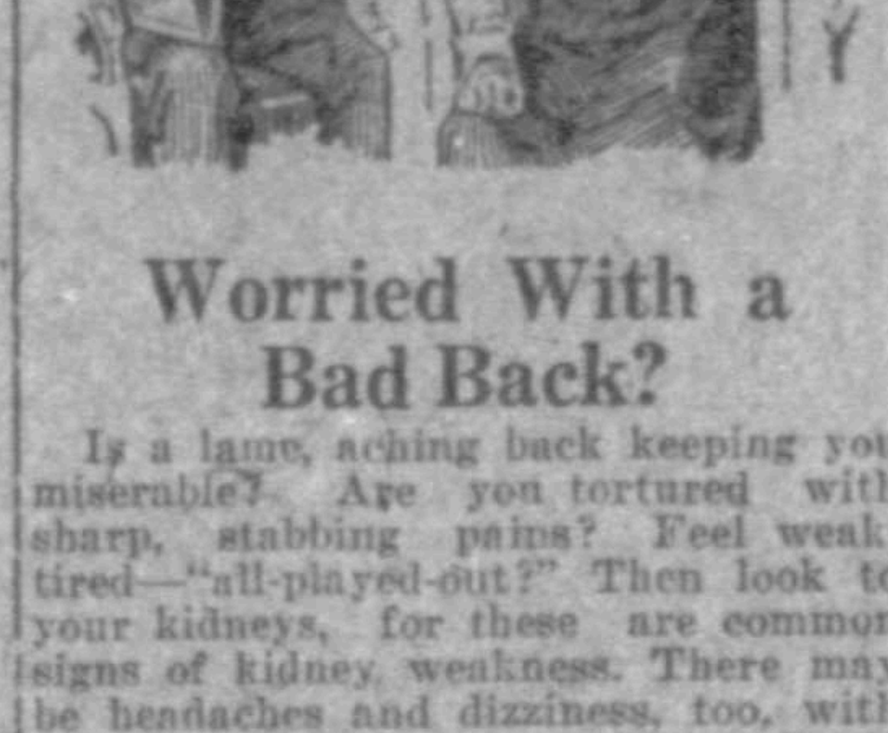

Two of the most constructive domestic developments of the day were the placing of American Locomotive on par common on a $6 annual basis and the establishment of a new high record of car loadings in American railroad history in the week ending July 28, when 1,041,044 cars were loaded with revenue freight. American Locomotive touched 73½ after the dividend announcement, but dropped back a point later for a net gain of 3-4 on the day. Baldwin also closed 3-4 higher at 112½ after having crossed 113. U. S. Steel dropped to 86 3-4 on a flurry of selling after publication of the tonnage statement but snapped back later to 87 5-8, up 1-8.

French and Belgian francs established new lows for all time, the former at 5.65 cents and the latter at 4.23. Demand sterling improved slightly, being quoted just under 4.53 3-4. German marks also showed slight improvement despite an increase of nearly twelve trillion marks in note circulation and a decrease of 20,000,000 marks in gold holdings.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 but softened to 4½ before the close. The time money and commercial paper markets were again quiet with no change in rates.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Cottonseed oil sold off 1 to 12 points early on improved weather advices from the southwest, but commission house demand for new crop months had a steadying effect toward the close. Closing bids were 4 to 10 points lower for near unchanged to three net higher for late months. Sales 14,000 barrels; prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 9.50; September 9.55; December 8.50; March 8.75, all bid.

Worried With a Bad Back?

Is a lame, aching back keeping you miserable? Are you tortured with sharp, stabbing pains? Feel weak, tired—"all-played-out?" Then look to your kidneys, for these are common signs of kidney weakness. There may be headaches and dizziness, too, with annoying bladder irregularities. Don't risk serious kidney sickness. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Here's a Convincing Case:

Mrs. James Magee, Electra, Texas, says: "My back was so lame and sore I could hardly do my housework. Across the small of my back and hips there was a steady bearing down pain and mostly every morning my back was stiff. I was dizzy and my head ached. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief."

COTTON SHOWS NERVOUSNESS

Price Breaks Down on Report of Scattered Texas Showers

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The cotton market was rather nervous and unsettled today. Bullish private crop advices caused partial recoveries from sharp opening declines, but the detailed weather report showed showers in Texas and after selling up from 22.80 to 23.14 for December, the price broke back to the early low level under renewed liquidation. December closed at 22.95 on covering, but the tone was barely steady at a net decline of five points on August and of 35 to 45 points on October and later deliveries.

The market opened weak at a decline of 43 to 45 points under overnight selling orders and scattering pressure encouraged by relatively easy cables and prospects for lower temperatures in the southwest. The decline brought in a good deal of covering which steadied the market shortly after the opening and rallies followed private report placing the mid-month condition of the crop at 66.1, compared with 70.3 toward the end of July. This report indicated that the condition in Texas and deteriorated nine points for the last half of the month, and the late forenoon rally was accompanied by talk of a better demand for cotton goods in the local market and bullish comment on the showing of the weather map.

October advanced from 22.89 to 23.17 and January from 22.63 to 22.98, but fresh buying was held in check by the uncertainty of weather conditions over tomorrow's adjournment, and another wave of liquidation followed the publication of the detailed reports, showing showers at 16 stations in Texas, and three Oklahoma. Prices of some months made a new low ground for the day before this selling subsided, with October selling to 22.85 and January at 22.61 or 50 to 56 points net lower, but the rainfall reported in the southwest was considered too light to do much good with one or two exceptions and the losses were partly recovered in the late trading.

Exports today were 4,915 bales, making 44,729 so far this season. Port receipts 5,056. U. S. port stocks 171,843.

WHEAT GIVEN STRONG BOOST

Kansas and Nebraska Not to Produce Surplus Crop

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Estimates that have no surplus wheat and have only raised enough for their own mill and seel requirements did a good deal today to lift wheat values here. The close was firm 5-8 to 3-4 to 1 1-8 cents net higher, with September 99⅛@¼c and December $1.02½@⅝. Corn finished at 8-8 to 5-8 gain; oats at 5-8 to 7-8 cents up, and provisions unchanged to 7 down.

Corn and oats rose with wheat. Shipping demand both for corn and oats was well maintained. Likelihood of liberal receipts of hogs here tomorrow eased the provision market.

Fort Worth Livestock

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9.—Fairly brisk trading featured the day in the cattle division Thursday. Buyers were out early and it was not long after their first bids were placed until consignments were going scaleward. Receipts were estimated at 3,300 head of cattle and 2,000 calves the cattle count including 300 head that were en through billing. Demand for calves was slightly better than on the mid-week rounds, but there was really no actual improvement in the market.

Steers were bing cashed in at a seasonable hour at rates that were well in line with the week's advance of 10 to 15 cents. Some fairly good fed beeves went at $7.85 early and other sales were being made at a spread of $5.50@$6.75. Good calves of light weight were selling around $8.25@$6.75 early, the market on the tail end of the run being active. Medium and heavy calves which have suffered a decline of 75 cents this week, were only steady, but the demand seemed to be slightly better.

As far as stockers were concerned the trade was quotably unchanged.

It was not until late in the day that the hog market was established. Receipts were close to 1,300 head. Sales were quoted around steady to 10 cents lower, with a top of around $8.20. Bulk sales ranged from $7.75 to $8.10; pigs cleared at steady prices. Best stockers went at $5.25@$5.50.

In Africa, Sweet Dreams "Worked Like a Charm"

Mosquito Remedy Given Severe Test... Sold by Local Druggists.

"On a recent trip to Africa, I knew that I was going to a country terribly infested with mosquitoes; so into one of my grips I slipped four bottles of Sweet Dreams.

"It gives me pleasure to say that in Africa, Sweet Dreams worked like a charm."

This information came in the form of a letter written by an instructor in one of the leading colleges of New Orleans.

Here, there and everywhere—Sweet Dreams will keep mosquitoes off all night long.

This remedy is absolutely dependable and its use is highly recommended.

Liberal sprinkle-top bottles, 35c or 3 bottles for $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere.

FARMER SELLS VENUS STATUE FOR $50

The history of some pieces of marble which were found buried in a field at Sinnessa, near Naples, in ancient days the site of a Greek colony, has formed the subject of a long drawn out law case in which the government has at length secured an important verdict.

The fragments were apparently of no particular value and the farmer sold them for $5. They were on their way to the new purchaser when the government director of antiquities, Professor Spinazzoli, ordered him to return them to Naples for examination. The professor, having looked at them, exercised his powers of compulsory purchase and bought the fragments for $50.

Under his direction they were cleaned and put together, when they appeared at the torso of a beautiful Venus, undoubtedly by the hand of Praxiteles (the greatest of the attic sculptors of the fourth century B. C.) and worth about $100,000.

The farmer sued the government for half the value of the find, and after gaining a verdict in two courts lost his case when the government took it to the court of appeals. The statue is now one of the most precious possessions of the Naples National Museum.—London Mail.

MAN ATTACKS GIRL'S PARENTS

Prowler Not Allowed to Go With 16-Year-Old Girl

Because the father and mother of a 16-year-old girl refused to allow her to go out with a man who had a wife and three children the latter called at the home of the parents Wednesday night and hit the father and mother with his fists and otherwise assaulted them, according to a complaint made to County Attorney Wayne Somerville Thursday morning.

The father and mother of the girl came to the county attorney's office Thursday and both exhibited bruises and blue marks said to have been inflicted by the man who was trying to go with their young daughter. The parents said the married man had been prowling around their home much here of late and had come to their daughter's window at night.

Business Houses Close in Honor Of Dead Leader

GRAHAM, Tex., Aug. 9.—W. P. Stinson, mayor of Graham, has issued a proclamation asking that all business houses be closed at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and that all activities cease, in order that the people of Graham and the surrounding territory may fittingly hold memorial services in honor of the nation's illustrious dead, at that hour.

A short program in keeping with the occasion is being arranged.

Services at City Hall

MUNDAY, Tex., Aug. 9.—Memorial services to the memory of President Warren G. Harding will be held at the city hall today. A program appropriate for the occasion has been arranged. Mayor Judd E. Hammond has issued a proclamation requesting all places of business to close for one hour, at 3 o'clock, so that all citizens may participate in the services. All flags in the city have been flying at half mast since the presidents death.

JURY BRIBE CHARGED IN BLIZZARD CASE

By The Associated Press.

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Aug. 9.—Bribery of the foreman of the jury which failed to agre on a verdict in the first trial of William Blizzard here on a murder charge, and attempted bribery of two of the men summoned for jury duty at the second trial was charged in indictments returned by the grand jury in the circuit court today.

Judge S. H. Sharp dismissed all of the veniremen and postponed the trial of Blizzard and C. Frank Keeney and Fred Mooney, two other mine union officials until the next term of court, while the grand jury continued its investigation.

BAILEY IN AUSTIN POLITICAL MEETING

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—Former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey will confer with his friends here next Saturday, at which time a candidate for governor may be selected by the Bailey forces, it was rumored here. Bailey was in Austin early this week, going to Houston to confer with his friends there. He will return here probably Friday afternoon or Saturday, it was learned, when he will talk with a number of political leaders who have been affiliated with him in the past.

Jap Defeats Australian In Chicago Net Play

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Zenso Shimidzu, captain of the Japanese team, defated John B. Hawkes of Australia, 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4, in the final round of the American zone Davis cup match today. Shimidzu's greater steadiness and experience gave him a victory over the more spectacular play of his younger opponent.

In the second single match, John O. Anderson of Australia, won the first set from Masanosuke Fukuda of Japan, 6-1. The Japanese was wild at the start, while Anderson's driving and service was speedy.

"My wife always buys three spring hats before Easter," said a benedict recently to Town Stuff. The dears maintain they are consistent yet if mere males came out with overcoats the first of August and in their shirt sleeves in February the femmes would think us crazy. So think we of this August wearing of furs.

Standard excuses: Women, "I have nothing to wear"; men, "Haven't got time"; girls, "I have nothing to wear"; and boys, "Didn't get up in time."

Our sporting sports editor says there are only three things in life for a femme which make her supremely happy. He says the first thing is clothes and the next thing they most desire is clothes and the thing above all that will keep them free from worry is clothes. Another thing he mentions that will sometimes add happiness is clothes.

EXTRA! CITY'S PET CAR STOLEN!

Read How Bunnenburg Found Lizzie

The prestige of the city police department came near taking a rude tumble Thursday afternoon.

A car belonging to the city at that, was stolen from in front of the police station, in broad daylight with detectives all around. That is, to all intents and purposes it was stolen for about 30 minutes.

Charlie Bunnenberg, city park inspector, walked to the front of the city hall, peered, rubbed his eyes, looked again, gasped swallowed hard, and then limped back into the station and weakly said: "B'gosh it's gone."

"What's gone" asked Desk Sergeant McConnell.

"The city park car. Left it right out in front a few minutes ago and now its' gone," Charlie said tragically.

Dave May, chief of detectives came down at once and began a search for the missing city car. Knowing that if anybody stole a city car from in front of the city hall and got by with it, the detective department would be handed a nice cluster of ripe raspberries, the detective chief was intent on recovering the stolen property.

The desk sergeant put in calls to peace officers at Burkburnet, Electra, Archer City, Henrietta and other towns, with a description of the car and ordering every suspicious looking tourist stopped.

For 30 minutes the police station was a bedlam of hectic "laws" bemoaning their luck and heaping maledictions on the thief.

Mournfully the park inspector walked up the street and was wondering what he would do for a car to make his inspection tours in. As he rounded the corner of Ninth and Indiana, Bunnenberg came to attention and his eyes stood out on stems. There was his car. "Eureka," he cried as he rushed forward and embraced the jitney with the same enthusiasm Barney Google would have shown on finding Spark Plug safe after the barn had burned down.

"Forgot that I parked the thing here an HOUR AGO," he said.

Daily Crude Oil Production Shows Decrease Of 33,500 Barrels In Week

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The daily average gross crude oil production of the United States decreased 33,500 barrels for the week ended August 4, totalling 2,240,900 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute. Daily average production east of the Rocky Mountains was 1,389,900 barrels, a decrease of 34,500 barrels. California production was 851,00 barrels, an increase of 1,000.

Oklahoma shows a daily average gross production of 474,450 barrels, a decrease of 12,900; Kansas 32,350, decreas 850; North Texas 74,000, decrease 1,000; Central Texas 195,300, decrease 4,440; Arkansas 126,200, decrease 9,800; North Louisiana 63,-750, increase 600; Gulf coast 108,-750, increase 800; Eastern 113,500, unchanged; Wyoming and Montana 153,000, decrease 6,950.

Daily average imports of petroleum at principal ports for the month of July were 259,935 barrels, compared with 240,366 for June, and the week ended August 4th, 231,000 barrels, compared with 264,429 for the previous week.

There were no changes reported in crude oil prices for the major districts, midcontinent being quoted at $1.10 to $2.20 a barrel according to the gravity of the oil; Pennsylvania crude, Bradford district, Pennsylvania is $3 and all other Pennsylvania grades $2.75 a barrel, and gulf coast $1.50.

Salvation Army Committee to Make Survey for Better Methods

Active investigation to secure better methods of distributing Salvation Army aid will be made by a committee appointed yesterday by Judge A. H. Britain, chairman of the Salvation Army board. Members of the committee are N. O. Monroe, B. F. Johnson and R. E. Shepherd.

The committee of three will accompany Ensign Corliss of the Salvation Army in making a survey of the section across the Wichita river, in trying to discover better methods of helping needy Wichitans than by the mere distribution of groceries in the most urgent cases.

The report of this committee will be taken up and acted upon.

RACE SUICIDE CURE NOW FOUND

Justice Gibbs has temporarily annexed the title held by Justice R. V. Gwynn as "the marrying justice," since the latter is on a two weeks vacation in Oklahoma.

Judge Gibbs performed two marriage ceremonies Thursday, and as many Wednesday. When asked how he liked the marrying business the judge replied, "Well I'll say this for it. It's a sure cure for race suicide."

LIFE SAVED BY WICHITA BOY

While on a camping trip to Medicine Springs last week, Gerald Downing of Wichita Falls saved the life of a 5-year-old boy who had fallen into the pool and was just about to go under for the last time.

With Downing in the party were his father, W. H. Downing, an uncle, J. L. Downing, and two cousins, Wymoor Downing and Leighton Downing. The party returned from Oklahoma yesterday.

W. A. HAYES DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

W. A. Hayes, proprietor of an Indiana avenue wagon yard, died suddenly at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon as he was resting at his home on Jefferson street. It was reported that he had not been in ill health and his death was unexpected. Heart trouble was assigned as the cause.

Mr. Hayes has been a resident of the city for some time and has been actively engaged in business here. He leaves as surviving relatives one son, W. A. Hayes Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. E. Mathewes.

The body is being held by O. W. Hines pending funeral arrangements.

Another Contribution.

Another contribution came in yesterday to the free milk and ice fund. A party not desiring his name mentioned contributed $1.

$100 Raised For Survivors Here Of Wreck Victim

That Melville Campbell, found dead in the wrecked automobile in which he had been driving early Thursday morning, met his death by accident was the coroner's verdict of O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, who went to the scene of the accident before the body was removed to the city.

The Texhoma officials and employees raised approximately $100 Thursday to be given to the relatives of the man killed. Campbell worked for the Municipal Gas company here and John H. Baker, who was in the accident with him, but not fatally injured, was an employee of the Texhoma branch at Burkburnett.

Funeral arrangements were not completed Thursday but will be announced Friday morning, it was learned at the office of Merkle-Lamp, undertakers, in charge of the body.

Lake Kemp Water To Reach Here Late in August

There is no danger of a water famine in Wichita Falls, according to city officials who say the city water department will, by next Aug. 25, have everything in readiness for pumping water from the diversion dam to Lake Kemp to help out the shortage.

About 10 days will be necessary to intall the electric high line necessary for the project and the 10,000,000 gallon pump has been ordered and expected here by the time all other preliminary completions are made.

ROTARY HONORS DEAD PRESIDENT

Memorial Services Are Held Thursday at Luncheon Meeting

In accordance with custom followed by many civic organizations throughout the country, the local Rotary club at its weekly luncheon Thursday held memorial services for the late president Harding and by oratory and song paid tribute to the memory of the dead leader. C. C. McDonald and Orville Bullington gave addresses for the occasion, the former speaking on the subject, "Warren Harding, the Man," and the latter remarking on Harding's political career. Mr. McDonald paid a glowing tribute to the kindliness and lovable disposition of Harding.

"Abide With Me" and Lead Kindly Light," two vocal selections that were favorites of the dead president, were sung by R. E. Shepherd and Ivan Murchison, respectively. Mr. Shepherd and J. W. Bradley also rendered a duet, "Whispering Hope."

PANTS AND TOBACCO DISGUISE NEGRESS

Pants, chewing tobacco and a 38 automatic were the masculine accessories that a negress used to conceal her sex and go forth for adventure, accumulation or attack—the officers don't know which—but found her behind a telephone post in the negro section late Wednesday night.

Four deputy sheriffs were riding on an investigation tour and saw the figure trying to hide behind the post. Thinking it was a man, the officers got out and arrested the prowler. The voice betrayed the woman's identity and she was brought to the county jail.

She had not made bond at a late hour Thursday.

Reserve Army Officers Asked to Get Recruits

An attempt to stimulate recruiting for the army service is being made by the war department by asking that every reserve officer of the army secure at least one recruit before Jan. 1, according to Sergeant J. T. Hammond, in charge of the local army office.

The report from the war department says the present enlisted personnel of the army was 112,000 and that by Jan. 1, next, 13,000 of the enlisted men would be released because of expirations of enlistments. For this reason the reserve officers are being asked to secure one or more recruits each to help supply the deficit.

Beg Your Pardon.

Ninth St. Paving Urged By Patton As New Outlet

That the unpaved two blocks and a half on Ninth between Broad and Brook streets should be paved at once so as to make a needed outlet for traffic now being borne by Eighth, Tenth and Eleventh streets is the opinion of J. H. Patton, city park commissioner, who says he will introduce the matter to the city council soon.

The park commissioner believes that city funds alloted for parks should be utilized for paving Ninth street on the south side of Bellevue Park. He says after investigations made of late that members of the Sacred Heart church and officials of the Academy of Mary Immaculate would be in accord with the paving plan.

PACKING PLANT MAY COME HERE

Establishment of a meat packing plant to cost between $75,000 and $100,000 in Wichita Falls in the near future is considered likely, according to announcements made Thursday by chamber of commerce officials. It was not reavealed who the new industrialists were nor just when they might start operations in Wichita Falls. Belief was expressed here, however, that if the plant was brought to this city a start would be made on it before winter.

At a conference Thursday of the backers of the new concern and the new industries committee of the chamber of commerce detailed plans of the establishments were discussed. It is understood that the committee offered the full support of the local chamber in the launching of the enterprise in this city.
