Wets Marching Steadily Forward; West Virginia And California Join Up

West Virginia Lead More Than 70,000 And California Advantage Is Over 100,000

(By The Associated Press)

WEST VIRGINIA has joined fourteen other states which have favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment, while returns from California, although incomplete, gave anti-prohibitionists a wide lead.

Dry for 20 years, West Virginia last night rolled up a repeal lead of more than 70,000 with two-thirds of its precincts reported.

On the opposite side of the continent, meanwhile, as tabulators raced to tally California's vote, opponents of the prohibition amendment enjoyed an advantage of more than 100,000 votes on the early returns.

First returns from Southern California centers gave those opposed to the prohibition amendment a three to one lead, and although this percentage was not maintained, repealists lead by 192,170 to 83,570 after 1,575 of the state's 9,347 precincts had reported.

The vote was comparatively light in West Virginia, but long before any final tally had been reached a repealist lead of 161,431 to 91,475 had been recorded.

Processing Tax Starts July 8

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Upshooting grain prices notwithstanding, a processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat, effective at midnight, July 8, was formally proclaimed today by Dr. R. G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, after approval by President Roosevelt.

The tax, to be collected from millers and other manufacturers converting wheat into food products for human use, will be in effect for the ensuing marketing year. The rate, however, is subject to changes, which, Secretary Wallace has said, "will be as infrequently as possible." In terms of an average one-pound loaf of bread, the tax will amount to .483 of a cent. For all flour except whole wheat and graham, the tax would come to .704 of a cent a pound.

Farmers Flocking To Meetings To Learn Of Big Proposal

(By The Associated Press)

TEXAS farmers flocked to community meetings throughout the state Tuesday, to hear explanation of the government's new proposal to lease cotton producing lands in a huge acreage-reduction scheme to boost the price of the South's principal money crop.

While these meetings were in progress, C. A. Cobb, in charge of the government's plan, telegraphed the Texas agricultural extension service that the campaign for acreage reduction would not stop when the minimum quota of 4,493,000 acres was reached.

J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, addressed several hundred enthusiastic Wilson county farmers attending a meeting at the courthouse in Floresville. Many farmers there signed contracts to plow up required acreage, before McDonald left for Kenedy, to address a meeting there at night.

Delegations from 10 lower South Plains counties of West Texas, a rich cotton growing region, met at Lamesa in the interest of cotton farmers of that section, to permit farmers to avail themselves of its terms who had not planted cotton because of a delayed season and where it was not too late to plant and produce good yields.

In response to queries, H. H. Williamson, vice director of the extension service in the cotton campaign, pointed out in a statement at College Station that only cotton growing above the ground was eligible for inclusion in the program; that is, cotton which had been planted but was not "above the ground" would not be acceptable under the government's offer.

At Ocee, near Waco, in the rich Central Texas cotton region, 2,000 McLennan county farmers voted unanimously in favor of the government's acreage production plan and indicated that a majority favored the one of two plans offered which would give acreage lessors options on government-owned hold-

Man Who Reported Finding Of Wreckage Of Plane With Two Bodies Jailed; Mystery Is Now Deepened

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO, D. F., June 27. — The city was thrown into confusion tonight with a report that an official government announcement last night confirming the finding of the bodies of Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish trans-atlantic fliers, in the wreckage of their plane in the state of Tabasco, was incorrect.

The report came from Minatitlan, Vera Cruz, where Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish ambassador, after interviewing Manuel Balcazar, who reputedly found the bodies in the wrecked plane, notified his embassy that Balcazar could not substantiate his story.

Denies Report

According to this report, Balcazar denied saying that he had located the plane, or indeed had even heard an airplane near the Machona lagoon in Tabasco. He declared he was merely repeating reports he had

Wichita Officers Fatally Wounded

WICHITA FALLS, June 27. (AP)—E. M. McCord and C. S. Carlisle, Wichita Falls motorcycle policemen, were shot and probably fatally wounded tonight in a pistol fight with a man they caught in the act of attempting to rob a bakery. McCord, taxi driver who summoned the officers to the scene, was wounded slightly by a bullet which grazed the abdomen.

The robber escaped after shooting the two officers.

Physicians at a hospital here where they were taken made preparations for giving them blood transfusions immediately. All available police and county officers were called out in a search for the gunman, but no trace had been found of him shortly after midnight.

Four Gold Countries Exerting Pressure On English Bank To Join Them In Plans For Forcing Stabilization

Optimism Sounded

Four-Power Wheat Studies Are In Recess Until Sometime In July When Size Of 1933 Crop Is Known

LONDON, June 27. — The world economic conference faced showdown tonight upon the decision whether the principal European powers will follow the American monetary program for breaking the back of the depression or will leave the United States to pursue her own policy alone.

Abandoning all hope of persuading or forcing the United States to stabilize the dollar, representatives of central banks of four continental gold countries, headed by France, exerted pressure on the Bank of England to join the stabilization group.

British Refuse Action

The British government and Bank of England officials, however, according to authoritative information, refused to be drawn into common action with the gold group, at least for the time being.

While the monetary drama was being played behind the scenes of the conference, the four-power wheat deliberations for restriction of production and export encountered stubborn difficulties and called a recess for its meeting until sometime in July when the size of the 1933 crop may be more exactly known.

A note of determined optimism was sounded today by Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, as he approached London to join the American delegation at the conference and bring the latest reports upon internal developments in America and the views of President Roosevelt.

Progress Being Made

"Definite progress is being made in accordance to the original program," Mr. Moley said at Cobb, Ire-

Dickens Quota Is Reached Tuesday

SPUR, June 27. (Special)—Dickens county's quota in the cotton acreage reduction plan was oversubscribed more than two and a half times tonight, and about 500 farmers remain to be contacted.

The county's quota was listed as about 9,000 acres. Seven hundred seventy-seven farmers had agreed to take 24,273 acres of cotton out of production. No contracts had been signed. Good rains Monday and today greatly encouraged farmers in nearly all sections of the county.

Members of the committee directing reduction program are County Agent Grady Lane, W. B. Lee of Spur, Zeke Fowler of Dickens and Joe Rose, a farmer of near Dodd City.

Death Of Young Woman From Corsicana Declared Suicide

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 27. (AP) — Convinced the death of Frances Drane, 24, of Corsicana, Tex., was suicide, Justice of the Peace W. P. Mills of Tempe, said today an inquest, scheduled for this afternoon, would not be held.

Miss Drane's body was found Sunday in an automobile southeast of Phoenix. Investigators said she had swallowed poison.

M. A. Drane, the girl's father, arrived here today and he and Mrs. Drane plan to leave with their daughter's body for Corsicana tonight.

Search For Two Bandits In New Mexico Being Pressed

SOCORRO, N. M., June 27. (AP)—The search for the two bandits who robbed the First State bank of Mountainair in mid-afternoon Monday of $3,000 tonight centered about the Manzano mountains in the vicinity of Tokay and Carthage, N. M.

Sheriff Rex Meador of Torrance county early today found the small sedan used by the bandits to make their escape after the robbery. It had been driven into an abandoned mine shaft two miles from Tokay and left. The bandits, officers said, continued their flight in a coupe of another make.

Mattern Backers Ask Frank Hawks To Start Search

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP) — Jimmie Mattern's Chicago backers asked Frank Hawks today to fly to Alaska in search for the round-the-world aviator, but the noted speed pilot reached no immediate decision.

Hawks and officials of the Texas company, for which he is technical adviser, took under advisement the request made by S. J. Sackett, Harry Jamieson, Hayden Mills and Jack Clark, all of Chicago.

"We are confident Mattern has not perished," Sackett told Chicago newspaper men. "He was capable and had a good plane. Most important of all, he was not foolhardy. There might have been a mishap, but we all believe Jimmie would have been able to make a landing under any conditions.

Delegations From 11 Counties Meet At Lamesa; Three Men Will Go To Washington And Present Claims

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, June 27. — Delegations from 11 lower South Plains counties, meeting here today, made plans to ask Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to permit farmers to sign the cotton acreage reduction contract in areas where seasonal conditions have delayed planting.

C. T. Watson of Big Spring, A. B. Davis of Lubbock, and Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield were named at the meting to go to Washington in the interest of farmers of this section.

Can Furnish Data

It was pointed out at the meeting that data could be furnished both from experiment stations of this section and from affidavits of cotton farmers showing that good yields of cotton had been produced in these counties planting as late as July 15.

If sufficient moisture fell before July 15, every available acre in the area would be planted to cotton, it was said. The committee will appeal to the department of agriculture to permit farmers in this area to cooperate in the government's plan to reduce acreage.

Grains Gallop Away Tuesday With Advance

Wheat Rises Substantially At Chicago To Top $1 Mark As Other Commodities Follow To Leave Stocks

Cotton Blossoms Hopefully In Early Trading But Closes Lower; Wheat Trading Is At Furious Pace

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 27. — Grains galloped away from the other financial markets today.

Wheat—it rose substantially above $1 a bushel at Chicago—corn, oats, rye and barley left Wall street's entries well in the rear, closing with advances that ranged from around 3 to 7 cents a bushel.

Composite At New High

Stocks were strong in spots and hesitant in others, the average net change being a gain of 90 cents. This rise, however, was sufficient to put the Associated Press-Standard Statistics closing composite at a new high since November, 1931, or $87.20. A number of shares closed $1 to $5 higher; a few leaders were off slightly.

Cotton blossomed hopefully during the first quarter hour, adding nearly $1 a bale to Monday's big advance. Heavy profit-taking nipped the rally and the market thereafter was irregular, closing with net losses of 5 to 35 cents a bale.

Wheat Trade Furious

Wheat trading was at a furious pace. Traders bought and sold excitedly, but the day's best prices were touched in the late dealings. Reports of showers in parts of the drouth-smitten belt brought out large offerings by profit-taking traders, though these contracts were

Drug Institute Endorsed Here

Druggists Of South Plains In Meeting Here Tuesday Night To Hear Purposes Of Institute Explained

The Drug Trade Institute of America was unanimously endorsed by about 150 South Plains druggists at a meeting at Hotel Hilton here last night. J. M. Penland, president of the Southwestern Drug corporation of Waco, explained the purposes of the institute.

Mr. Penland said that the institute organization began before the industrial stabilization act was passed. Patterned somewhat along the lines of the American Iron and Steel institute, the American Petroleum institute, and other organizations formed in the recovery program, the drug institute will seek to attain the objectives outlined by President Roosevelt.

Retailers, Clerks Invited

All retailers and clerks are being invited to membership. Manufacturers have endorsed the move. The membership fee of $2 each will meet expenses of the organization, Mr. Penland pointed out.

"We would stabilize prices in conformity with the industrial stabilization act," Mr. Penland said. "In other words, we would eliminate predatory druggists, or the 10 per cent whose price cutting has dictated to the entire industry. He will

McDonald And Keeling Chosen Leaders; Fight Is Staged As Ferguson And Bailey Get Hot

Drys Are Harmonious But Wets Are Divided By Factionalism Over Candidacy Of Jim Ferguson; List Of Candidates Is Announced; Vote Is To Be Held In August 26 Election

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 27.—Texas' campaign on repeal of the national prohibition amendment and legalization of 3.2 per cent beer was started here today when proponents and opponents held rival conventions simultaneously.

The prohibitionists went through their program of nominating a ticket of candidates for delegates to the state repeal convention, but the anti-prohibitionists were divided by factionalism over the candidacy of former Governor James E. Ferguson for permanent chairman of the nominating conclave.

Pick Separate Tickets

Both sides picked separate tickets of candidates for delegates to the November 24 repeal convention when Texas will decide if it wants national prohibition repealed. The electorate will choose between the repeal and anti-repeal tickets at a special election on August 26. On the same day the voters will determine if the state constitution shall be modified to permit the sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

Joseph Weldon Bailey of Dallas, congressman-at-large from Texas, stirred up the anti-prohibitionists into a major controversy when he raised his voice against the acceptance of the Ferguson leadership.

McDonald Is Chosen

Bailey, son of the late former United States senator, who bore the same name, revealed a tongue as eloquent as that of his late father, when he took the rostrum, "reluctantly," he said, to protest Ferguson's elevation to the chairmanship.

C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, probably Ferguson's closest political friend, finally was chosen by acclamation to preside over the nominating convention, and all factions joined hands behind him in the chairmanship came suddenly in the midst of a period of confusion after Ferguson had appeared before the convention and offered to withdraw if "the Bailey crowd" would join with him in nominating and electing McDonald to the place.

He had paid his respects to Kirby, the opposition candidate, as "one who had not voted for an anti-prohibition candidate for governor in 30 years."

Ferguson said he always had had respect for "young Joe Bailey" but that now he had concluded "he did not know anything."

Challenge Is Hurled

Bailey had challenged Ferguson's eligibility to hold the chairmanship, recalling his impeachment and removal from the office of governor in 1917. He pointed to the senate's impeachment judgment which directed that Ferguson never again hold office of "honor, trust, or profit."

Bailey said that were Ferguson to be made chairman the certification of the list of nominees for delegates to the repeal convention most likely would be challenged by the prohibitionists and a court contest ensue.

He said the prohibitionists were praying "that we make Jim Ferguson chairman and fall into their trap."

Explains Opposition

Explaining his opposition to Ferguson, Bailey said he had decided "to do what I feel called on to do because it is apparent no one else will do it."

"We are fighting a group that will give no quarter," he said. "It is a cause that is close to my heart. I always have been for the Fergusons and still would stand with them, but I caution you not to do anything that would weaken our cause."

Referring to Ferguson's impeachment, Bailey said "it tears me apart to recall an unfortunate page in history—a disgraceful page," and gave it as his opinion "the ink would not be dry on the certificate" signed by

Dan Moody Takes To Field In Cause Of Drys; Path To Cross Old Enemy

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 27.—Dan Moody, former Texas governor and dry leader, tonight took to the field in the cause of prohibition in a campaign that will bring him again across the path of his old political enemy, James E. Ferguson, former governor and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Moody addressed a mass meeting of prohibition workers in a statewide rally here at Wooldridge Park and for this, the opening speech of the anti-repeal and anti-beer campaign of the drys, he withheld his fire so often used against Ferguson, now the dominant figure in the competing wet campaign preceding the August 26 referendum election.

"They tell us prohibition laws are ruining the young," Moody asserted. "Don't believe it. The University of Texas is the biggest thing in Austin, 5,000 young men and women attend it, and if any community in Texas should register a unanimous vote against beer joints and saloons, it should be the citizens of Austin and Travis county.

"I hope," he added, "it will not be left to the ministers alone to wage this fight to preserve prohibition. I want to contribute my part toward keeping intact that which prevents the sale and barter of liquor under governmental sanction in Texas."

Other speakers at the rally were Dr. W. R. White of Fort Worth and Dr. L. N. D. Wells of Dallas. Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, presided, and Dr. L. H. Latimer of Austin offered a prayer for victory of the dry cause.

Name Of Norman Davis Again Brought Into Bank Probe When Kahn Testifies

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27. — Senate banking investigators decided late today to question Otto H. Kahn, senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb and company of New York, regarding his income tax returns, but deferred this line of inquiry until tomorrow after hearing from Kahn that Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, had received $35,000 in 1925 for promoting Chilean loans.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, announced he would take up the income tax phase, speaking after an all-day examination of Kahn, 66-year old financier of German nativity, on hitherto undisclosed facts and figures, and operating practices of the private banking house.

Kahn disclosed the Chilean loan angle after a defense of the buying and selling of securities without competitive bidding, during which he identified a large batch of documentary evidence, including the firm's partnership agreement and balance sheets for the five year period, 1927-31.

He discussed the Chilean loans, underwritten by his firm and the Guaranty company, reluctantly, because, he said, it was a "sore point" and the only foreign issue his firm floated that was in default.

He said Davis, whose name recently figured among clients of J. P. Morgan and company who were allowed to purchase

PRAYER MEETING TONIGHT

Miss Hazel Mansker Of Slaton And Ray Darwin Of Lubbock To Marry

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THERE is local interest in an announcement from Waxahachie that Miss Beuna Sowell, sister of Mrs. E. L. Robertson, won a poetry contest conducted by the Century club at Waxahachie.

Miss Sowell spends so much of her time here that there are many who almost consider her a resident. Those who know her are familiar with some of her poetry. The poem that won in the Waxahachie contest is entitled "West Texas Sunset" and she was inspired to write it by the sunsets here, which gives us another claim to interest.

Two Dallas poets, Clara Hood Rugel and Jan Isabel Fortune, judged the contest entrants.

AN EXPLANATION

"THE worms were for our wives," Charles Whitacre and J. A. Raley, jr., explained to me, since this column recently carried a paragraph about their deluxe fishing arrangements. "But those were angle worms and they got in The Woman's Angle so that must make things right," the men added—and you can interpret that.

The Messrs. Whitacre and Raley had ordered worms of Ira Jenkins' messenger service and this writer believed that the men were to use them. The wives have not confirmed their explanation.

Fishing worms were ordered by the men again last Saturday but, because of the dry weather, messenger boys could find none. However, since worms and fish are only one part of a fishing trip the men went anyway. This time their order was for themselves and not for the wives.

MODERN ART

THERE'S one thing this writer isn't going to regret missing at the world's fair, if pictures in a recent editon of Parnassus, an art magazine, are any indication of what will be shown there. Several of the pictures have notes saying that they are on exhibit at the Chicago exposition.

If they are art this writer has no appreciation of art.

People whose bodies are out of proportion, whose faces are crooked and whose noses are exaggerated must make up art because they are shown in all of the exhibits, but this writer has no appreciation of them. Perhaps the paintings have beautiful combinations of color but their lines don't appear to be even good design—judging by the superficial study of hues, lines and shades that were included in a few college courses in designing.

One doesn't have to look at them, to be sure, but it is hard for an ordinary layman, such as this writer is, to see any beauty in distorted pictures of people, fruits, flowers or other familiar objects. The artists must have a morbid conception of the world.

THEY STILL GO

If you think people aren't going places this summer, try to get a free map of New Mexico. "Everyone is going there," one man stated at a filling station, voicing the same opinion as others. "We're just out of maps."

As long as people can continue to take vacations and buy new cars things aren't so bad. Lubbock proudly boasted a few years ago that there was no boom, just a steady growth. Now we may continue to boast for these things are prosperous signs.

FUTURE NEWS NOTE

If all the people who now dream of retiring some day on a chicken farm carry out their plans, the government may have to take steps to curb chicken production in another twenty-five or thirty years.

PRIVATE THINGS

Every child should have some place in which he may keep things and into which no one is allowed to look without an invitation from him. This secret place may be a cupboard or merely a drawer in a desk or a bureau to which, if he likes, he may carry the key.

When using the oven, fill it to its capacity. Cornbread, gingerbread, cookie or cakes can be baked at the same time that the baked dinner is being cooked. Of course, it requires a little moving about of the various foods in the oven, but with care much fuel can be saved.

SUMMER HAT CARE

Summer hats get far harder wear than winter ones. If you are careful always to stuff your turbans and berets with tissue paper when you take them off and keep your brimmed hats either on hat stands or put away with care in boxes, they will all retain their shape and good looks far longer.

An Old Custom Of The '90s' Is Being Revived In Modern Dress; Everybody's Crazy About Bicycles

By PHIL SINNOTT
NEA Service Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Bicycling, which is rolling across the country in the greatest comeback since Rip Van Winkle came down from the mountain, has California running around in circles.

From Hollywood to the Golden Gate the state has gone bicycle-balmy, and there's no use trying to soft-pedal the fact.

Most every town has rubbed its eyes to behold a brand-new bicycle-rental "garage" with shiny new wheels parked in front waiting for someone to try them out at so much an hour.

But in Hollywood, in Los Angeles, and in this city, there is one on practically every corner where one of the late lamented miniature golf courses lay down a couple of years ago and died.

On several of the Golden Gate parkways, bicycle traffic got so tangled up with auto traffic recently that police had to paint an outside strip on the roadway and mark it "Reserved for Cycling." On some park boulevards both gas and oat-burners have been barred, turning the boulevards into cycle-paths.

Yes, We Are Collegiate!

The campuses of every college are cluttered with shiny new nickel-plated wheels and dusty bikes dragged from barn lofts. Students and teachers roll merrily to and from class, carefully ringing their bells to avoid running down the roller-skaters.

School children, stenographers and clerks pedal their way to work or take a Saturday half-holiday on two wheels instead of four.

In the swanky San Mateo district the younger social set has by some miracle produced a lot of tandems. Morning and evening find groups of young couples swinging along on the tandems, usually in revealing, appealing costumes.

At a recent charity circus of the San Mateo Gymkhana Club, cycling was featured. Herb Fleishhacker, Jr., famous Stanford football star, and Miss Patricia Tobin won honors in tandem races. The bicycle party is now The Thing, and society is turning from cocktail-shakers to coaster brakes.

Garbo Does It, Too

The other day all traffic stopped in downtown Los Angeles when 300 young women went grimly pumping through town in the first all-girl handle-bar handicap to be run off since grandma brought blushes to the neighborhood with a set of the daring garments contrived by that Mrs. Amelia Bloomer.

Blame Hollywood. The movie players started it. Richard Arlen was one of the hardy pioneers. The Arlens started giving Sunday bicycle parties. Ramon Novarro, George Bancroft and Neil Hamilton went for it, and Hamilton ventured afield on a two-day ride to Palm Springs in the Mojave Desert.

Greta Garbo likes to punish the pedals, but keeps to her own estate, and Mary Pickford is equally addicted to secret cycling.

Anything that attracts the ladies calls for an attractive costume, and bicycling has come through nobly on that score. Many girls go in for shorts and sweater. Flannel slacks suit others. Knickers, Bloomers, even riding breeches and boots appear. There is quite a vogue for a bifurcated skirt — it looks like a dress, but is divided so the wearer can straddle a man's bike.

The old-fashioned "girl's bike," shaped like an rish harp and just as hard to manipulate, has failed to come back in 1933. Tiny hats and caps go well, and dealers are cleaning up with bicycle gloves and other accessories.

We Are Reduced

Aside from the novelty, many of the new devotees of the wheel are attracted by the "Get Healthy" aspect of the new craze. Dr. J. C. Geiger, chief of San Francisco's health department, says biking has health galore in it.

"It will develop the hips, and calves, and ankles," he avers.

But a good share of the girls who are not spinning the sprocket do so because they see it as a pleasurable means of reducing or keeping from the reducing stage.

Five years ago the country was on four wheels, with two cars in every garage. Then suddenly it found itself on its uppers. Now, at least, it's getting back on two wheels again

Stenographers, society girls, business men and boys—all are pedaling as California's bicycle craze sweeps eastward. At the top is a typical San Francisco street scene. At the left is a cycle path in Golden Gate park, barred to other vehicles. At the right are Herbert Fleishacker, Jr., and Miss Patricia Tobin, as they won a San Mateo society circus cycle race.

Fire Loss In City Reported

Settlement By Insurance Companies Made; Smoke Damage Given As The Heaviest In Recent Fires

Smoke damage to stock of the Austin Food store, adjoining the Hannsz Electric hatchery, 615 Broadway, which was destroyed by fire June 15, totaled $421 and smoke damage to the building $70, according to insurance settlements, D. A. Forbess, city fire marshal, said today. J. E. Murfee owns the store building.

Loss on the hatchery, operated by V. W. Hannsz and G. F. Booker, had not been determined upon records of the state fire insurance commission, the marshal said.

Damage of an incendiary fire June 15 on the property of Will Earnest at 1706 Avenue R was settled at $172, the fire marshal said. Revenge was given tentatively as a motive for setting fire to Earnest's property. He is a policeman

A settlement of $190 was made to a note-holder to cover damage by fire of a negro apartment house owned by Hugh Jordan, a negro, at 1714 Avenue A. The blaze, also of incendiary origin, occurred June 16. Shamburger Lumber company, as contractor, this morning was authorized at the city building inspector's office to repair the building at an estimated cost of $75.

Damage by fire which destroyed The Pig's Well, a lunch stand at Avenue H and Thirty-third street, was fixed by insurance settlement at $535, Fire Marshal Forbess said. C. E. Wells owned it. The fire occurred May 17.

Great Britain Retains Ryder Cup Trophy By Nosing Out U. S. Stars

Hagen's Squad Loses 6 Games And Wins Five

Brazen And Hagen Defeat Top Professionals Of England; Denny Shute's Putter Goes Haywire In Losing Match

BY FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 27—America's blue ribbon golf professionals, fighting from behind to the very last putt on the home green, today bowed in defeat to Great Britain and lost the Ryder Cup, emblematic of international supremacy, six matches to five, with one foursome halved.

Two days of the fiercest competition in the annals of the team play ended on the rolling sand dune green in front of the Southport club with nearly 20,000 spectators, among them the Prince of Wales, trying to see the exciting finish in which Syd Easterbrook defeated Densmore Shute, enabling Great Britain to keep the trophy in the land of its origin.

Misses Short Putts

Shute, coming from behind on the last nine to first square the match and then take the lead, missed a six yard putt, then one from eight feet away to surrender the hole, the match and the series.

The burden of defeat however, did not rest alone on the slender youngster who fought gallantly all day in one of the tightest matches of the series where he came from behind five times and staved off British victory to the very last putt. With him in losing matches were Olin Dutra, who went completely off his game for a time to lose to Abe Mitchell, 9 to 8, Paul Runyan, who bowed to Percy Alliss 2 and 1, and Leo Diegel, defeated by Arthur Havers 4 and 3.

Old Master Wins

Captain Walter Hagen, all square with A. J. Lacey at the end of 27 holes, made a garrison finish to nose out to victory 2 and 1. Gene Sarazen, who will defend his British open crown next week, defeated Alf Padgham 6 and 4. Craig Wood, big blonde from New Jersey, won from W. H. Davies 4 and 3, and Horton Smith took a big lead, then held grimly to enough of it to defeat Charles Whitcombe, Ryder Cup captain in 1931, 2 and 1.

The United States thus gained an even break in singles but it was not enough as they had lost two of the foursomes yesterday while winning one and halving the other and went into the second and final day of play trailing by a full point, 1 1-2 to 2 1-2.

The America goliaths, only a few days off the boat and playing on hard greens which were a big contrast to the more lush putting surfaces with which they are familiar, need make no apologies for their loss of the cup for they made a brave fight against adversaries who were right at home on the course and who proved just a bit steadier in the pinches.

The Easterbrook-Shute match was the only one which carried to the final green for decision for every one of the singles was closely fought. Shute's encounter just happened to be the next to the last one out and when Horton Smith ended his contest with Whitecombe on the 35th green the burden of victory or defeat was squarely on Shute.

BASEBALL'S BIG 6

(By The Associated Press)

Al Simmons found his batting eye again yesterday and paced the Big Six hitters with three blows in five times at bat. He gained the three points he lost the day before and one more to bring his average up to .367. Joe Cronin held his mark even enough to give Fred Schulte three points. The National League section became a Philadelphia monopoly even though the Phillies were idle, as Jim Collins of St. Louis failed to hit in four times up, lost seven points and dropped behind Chick Fullis. Moody And Vines In Second Round Tennis Victories

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27. (AP) The American champions of Wimbledon, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Ellsworth Vines, jr., today proved their right to the title as they led the way through the second round of the famous championships, Mrs. Moody with a love set victory.

Keeping pace with their more famous compatriots were Lester Stoefen, Cliff Sutter, Keith Gledhill, Helen Jacobs, the American champion, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, but it was Vines and Mrs. Moody on whom attention centered.

Queen Helen was making her first appearance in defense of her title, having drawn a first round bye, and she gave the galleries something to talk about as she stroked her way to a 6-0, 6-0 victory over the experienced British player, Mrs. J. R. MacReady.

Vines, lazing along, was impressive nevertheless in walloping A. T. England, British player, 61, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Moreland Wins No. 2 Position

Zell Eaton Of Oklahoma City Is Trans-Miss Medalist With 137; Moreland Shoots 69 On Last 18 Holes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 27 (AP)—Conclusion of the record setting rounds of qualifying play in the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament found Champion Gus Moreland of Dallas, and most of his leading rivals eligible for the titular match conflict starting tomorrow.

Harry K. Strassburger of Coffeyville, Kas., the Colorado titleholder, and Robert McCrary of Des Moines, twice Trans-Mississippi king, were the only pre-meet favorites who failed to qualify.

Zell Eaton, par-breaking Oklahoma City star, set the medal pace with a stellar 137 for the 36 holes, the lowest medal score in Trans-Mississippi history. Eaton brought in a dazzling 68 today to put alongside his sub-par 69 carded yesterday.

Moreland played second among the medalists with a 141, one over perfect figures. The champion scored a 69 today, one under par, after taking 72 for the initial 18.

Stewart Is Fourth

Verne "Spec" Stewart, of Albuquerque, N. M., Southwestern and New Mexico champion, was next in line with 143. Nate Grimes of Denver duplicated Eaton's 68 today to accomplish a comeback after yesterday's 76 and rank next to Stewart in a tie with Ben Cowery of Omaha with 144.

The other leaders were Spec Goldman of Dallas and Denmar Miller, Iowa champion with 145's; Jess Oldham of Denver with 146; Walter Oberg of Denver 147; Henry Robertson, Oklahoma champion; Edwin Kingley, Utah titleholder, and John Dawson, Chicago ace, all with 148's.

Fighters End Training For Title Battle

Sharkey To Slip Into New York Today; Carnera Looks Better In Final Workout; Odds Are Eyed With Care

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 27. — Two months of monotonous training ended today for Champion Jack Sharkey and his heavyweight title challenger, Primo Carnera, leaving only the longest stretch of all—the nerve-tearing wait for the starting bell in the big Madison Square bowl on Long Island Thursday night.

Sharkey, getting along in years fistically, feeling more and more the rigors of conditioning that grow increasingly exacting for him with each campaign, closed out the last drill in his camp at Orangeburg with the same gusto that sweeps a football team the day it burns the tackling dummy before the final game.

He sharpened his eyes for the last time with four rounds at the small bag, shadow boxed three more, then grabbed his robe and towel and raced gleefully for the dressing room.

"In Great Shape"

"I'm in the great shape," he called to the handful of spectators at his final workout. "Be sure and tell Carnera that he'd better be the same."

Sharkey plans to come leisurely to New York, either tonight or tomorrow, and hide away in an uptown hotel, slipping out occasionally to a movie or for a walk to loosen his muscles. He weighed 203 pounds after his rubdown today and expects to weigh in at the boxing commission offices at 204 to 205 at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Carnera, who will outweigh the champion by about 60 pounds, in addition to enormous advantages in height and reach, was in the midst of a slugging match with Arthur Huttick at his camp on Pompton Lake, N. J., when his manager, Bill Duffy, jumped between them and hollered "time."

Carnera On Edge

The huge Italian, who had already fought two rounds with Harold Mays and another with Huttick, wanted to keep going.

"Nothing doing," said Duffy. "You're on edge. Hold it.'

Carnera took a few dozen belts at a fifty pound bag to show his displeasure and then trundled off to his quarters, through with his training except for limbering up exercises tomorrow. He will stay at Pompton Lakes until time to drive into New York for the weighing in.

Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, watched the Italian monster in his last drill.

"If he doesn't win the title Thursday night, he's certain to do so his next time out," said Burns. "He's the most amazing looking fighter I've ever seen."

Drive Didn't Help

While that may have been Burns' way of picking Sharkey to retain his title — and Tommy has been amazingly accurate predicting the outcome of major duels — the experts were less careful. Feeling reasonably certain that Sharkey's 400-mile drive to Boston and back Saturday had helped his training by ridding him of a lot of pent up nervous energy, instead of injuring him, there was a slight preponderance of feeling in favor of the champion. The betting odds about reflected the consensus, 6 to 5 in favor of Sharkey.

Misty humid weather, with a threat of rain, did little to aid the ticket sale for the match and a conservative guess seemed to be that barring an overwhelming rush to the windows the last day receipts would not exceed $250,000. The advance sale is about $65,000 now.

Lew Fonseca, White Sox manager and first aseman, still uses a mitt he bought from George Grantham for $5 in 1924.

Sammy Foxx, 16-year-old brother of the famous Jimmie of the Athletics, is looking forward to making the training trip with the A's next spring.

Apprentice Jockey Howard Grayson booted home 24 winners in the first nine days of the Tanforan, Cal., summer racing meet.

Plan For Raising Wages And Lowering Work Hours Talked

Cotton Textile Industry Now Considered; Immediate And Open Expression Of Dislike Given By Labor

By JAMES P. SELVAGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A plan for raising wages and lowering working hours in the cotton textile industry was put before the industrial administration today and drew an immediate and open expression of dislike from labor.

The day long hearing brought opposition, too, from elements of the industry that did not wish to come under the code.

All factions, however, while unable to agree on details and on where to draw the wage and hour lines, expressed willingness to cooperate in the major objective of raising wage levels to stir purchasing power.

Objections Lodged

Hardly had representatives of the textile industry who prepared the code completed their presentation, with assertions that 100,000 additional men would be employed as a result of it, when President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor objected to the 40-hour week, and $10 and $11 minimum wage. Quickly, too, several manufacturers came forward with requests that their plants be exempted.

Robert W. Johnson, president of Johnson and Johnson, large surgical dressings manufacturers who operate their own mills, issued a statement offering to join with Green in demanding the higher wage scale.

Proposal Attacked

He also attacked again the proposal to limit the use of productive machinery.

At the end of the day's session, Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, who presided over the hearing, gave a vigorous denial to reports of a disagreement between himself and Secretary Roper, chairman of the cabinet advisory committee named by President Roosevelt.

In a formal statement, Johnson said "there is no dissension or disagreement or sniping or ill-feeling" in the national recovery administration.

A few minutes later Green told newspapermen he was opposed to the prime provisions of the code—the wages and maximum hours provided in it.

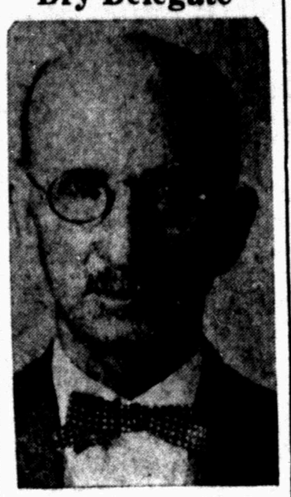

The code proposed a 40-hour week generally for the industry, with a $11 a week minimum scale in the North for unskilled inside workers and $10 in the South.

Green suggested instead a maximum of 32 hours a week, said 30 was even more to be preferred, and asserted a $14.40 weekly minimum wage would be too low.

Loyal Daughters Of Movieland Don't Forget Parents When Riches Arrive

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD.—"The Royal Order of Loyal Daughters."

That, or some similar title should be attached to Hollywood's feminine contingent. Despite the stories one hears about filmland's tempestuous young actresses a more loyal group of daughters scarcely could be found in any other place in the world.

Certainly, there has been no dearth of stories regarding daughters who revolted against parental discipline in order to get into the movies. However, it usually turns out that the families experience a change of view. As soon as the "wayward" daughter has made good signed a contract and is drawing a regular pay check, all is forgiven and the family promptly moves in to share in the proceeds.

Rarely do you find a successful actress in Hollywood who isn't supporting her family—including a couple of brothers and sisters, with perhaps a brother-in-law thrown in for good measure.

Lupe Supports Whole Family

Even Lupe Velez, with the reputation of being the madcap of Hollywood, really is a devoted daughter who lives with her mother and sisters; or perhaps we should say that the family lives with Lupe, since it is Lupe's home and she furnishes the chief support for all.

Before she married Hoot Gibson, Sally Eilers lived with her mother, father and brother in a small home, maintained partially by Sally, whose earnings were anything but large at that time. It was shortly after her marriage that she got her break in "Bad Girl" and jumped into big money. Then her first act was to buy and completely furnish a new home for her family. And when she separated from Hoot recently she moved right back to the family fireside.

Janet Gaynor did the same thing when she separated from Lydell Peck. As soon as she could pack her clothes, she went right back to mother, whom she had been supporting and with whom she still is living.

Jean Returns To Mother

Jean Harlow did likewise after her first marriage went on the rocks and again after Paul Bern's death.

True, Alice White moved out on her grandmother, with whom she had lived throughout her early years in the film colony. However, before moving she made sure that grandma was comfortably situated. And she still drops around every few days to make sure the old lady has everything she wants.

Wynn Gibson's family revolted when Wynn, at the age of 16, decided on an acting career. However, after the girl found success on the Broadway stage and later in the movies, peace was declared and the parents pointed with pride to the daughter of whom they had so heartily disapproved a few short years before.

Clara Finances Papa Bow

For a long time after she came to Hollywood, Clara Bow had her father living with her. But there always was trouble and finally she decided that the only out was for Papa Bow to have his own home. She financed that home, though, and has been continuing to do so even since her marriage to Rex Bell.

Long before her marriage to George Barnes, Joan Blondell made her father stop trying to get jobs in vaudeville and had the whole family living with her in the house which she still maintains for them.

All of which would make it seem that Hollywood girls aren't so wild after all.

All Cigarettes are not Alike

Different Kinds of Tobaccos Make a Difference in Taste and Aroma

. . . Take Chesterfields, for Instance

SOME cigarettes are made out of only one kind of tobacco . . . while others are made from several different kinds.

And everyone can understand that different tobaccos make a difference in taste and aroma. Chesterfields are a good example of this difference.

You see it's not easy to make Chesterfield's milder taste. It takes three distinct kinds of Domestic tobaccos. Then these must be seasoned with the right amount of Turkish. And they must be blended and cross-blended until their flavors are welded together . . . to make a cigarette that has character and yet is not too strong . . . to make a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

Constructive Inflation

IT IS EVIDENT that international currencies will have to be stabilized sooner or later, to provide a solid basis for world business, and to steady our own money system. But the other powers have been in a little too much of a hurry since the London conference began. France in particular wanted to do the stabilizing immediately, to safeguard her own gold standard. That would have given her undue advantage and lessened the benefits our own country expects to gain from going temporarily off gold.

Our government suspended gold payments primarily to raise prices, as a means of stimulating business, getting people back to work and helping our debtors. Business is rapidly improving. Jobs are steadily growing. Wages are already rising, and the government is doing its best to shove them up faster than prices. But the process is yet far from the stage where our vast debtor class—which includes most of us—can pay its obligations in money as easy to get as the money it borrowed, and worth no more.

To make the odds even, a considerable amount of inflation, or reflation, was necessary. This presupposes the fall of the dollar somewhat farther in international exchange, and then presumably pegging it at the chosen level by a moderate devaluation of the gold dollar in agreement with other countries. It presupposes time for more extensive use of constructive processes of many kinds now beginning to operate in this country. From present indications, it may not take long.

A HOPEFUL SIGN

With employment and wages increasing, the country begins to look hopefully for signs of a decline in relief needs. So far, no pronounced change in the general situation relating to relief has taken place.

A development not without encouragement, however, and one which may prove significant has occurred in Illinois, a state in which relief needs have been pressing. When it became necessary for the state to assume a large part of the burden that had rested on local communities because of the exhaustion of the latters' resources, a sales tax law estimated to yield $60,000,000 a year was enacted. This recently was declared unconstitutional and it became necessary for the governor to submit a new proposal. This now has been done. It calls for only $35,000,000 and carries a provision that its relief features are to remain in effect only until January 1, next.

Business improvement is proceeding at a rate, officials believe, which will permit local communities to take over the whole relief problem after that date. This is distinctly encouraging, and it raises the probability that other states before long may find their relief problems easing.

WAR ON INSECT PESTS

To fool the hen and to persuade the flower to bloom have been some of the wonders wrought by electricty. An artificial dawn wakes the hen, sets her to pecking earlier than the sunrise, and more food in her gizzard means more eggs for the poultryman. Electrically lighted greenhouses are used to force plants to a quicker, richer blooming than natural light would give.

Now the insect world is to be lighted up, to the destruction of some of the pests that infest orchards, fields and gardens. Many a clumsy moth has gone to its death in the flame of a lamp or candle, but never before has wholesale killing been planned through such means. Such creatures are most readily attacked, not in the winged stage, but in the cocoon or as larvae. To catch them on the wing will be a triumph for science. A method has been evolved.

Electric light traps will be placed in the orchards to lure the female moth before she lays her eggs in the heart of the apple blossoms. Success will depend to some extent on the time of day when she emerges from her cocoon and the length of time that elapses between her birth and her egg-laying. If she does not come out in the full light of day and is attracted by the incandescent traps, her fate and that of her innumerable progency is sealed.

Electrocution may halt the destructive march westward of the Japanese beetle which has already crossed New Jersy and is now concentrating its front ranks in western Pennsylvania. A plan is under consideration to place a chemical, known to attract this voracious insect, in large electrified cages wherever it concentrates.

Eventually moths, mosquitoes and other harmful insects will be exterminated by devices of man's invention and the farmer's lot will be easier and life will lose some of its little annoyances.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

THE whole inside story of this administration can be told in one paragraph:

Mr. Roosevelt keeps the liberal, nationalist and theorist Prof. Moley on one knee. He keeps the conservative, financial-minded Lew Douglas on the other. He lets them argue every issue while he listens, and pats them on the back. When they are exhausted he decides what should be done.

That is why one step is conservative and the next liberal. He sides with Douglas one time and Moley another.

The system has worked very well politically and economically. No one knows what is coming. No one is ever completely satisfied with what is done. As a result such strange bedfellows as Carter Glass and George Norris sleep more or less serenely under the same tent.

The economic result is: We wink at the anti-trust laws and propose better working conditions; we put the radical bank guarantee into a most conservative banking measure; we have an inflation and a quasi-balanced budget at the same time.

PRESS: The administration has the highest powered publicity setup any government ever had.

Top-notch men who know their business have recently been installed at the Industrial Control headquarters and the Interior Department. They match the calibre of their publicity experts in other governmental departments.

The result is a minimum of friction and a maximum of favorable administration news.

PORK: A nice little surprise awaits municipalities planning to send delegations down here to grab off Public Works money. It will be a waste of train fare if they come.

The men in charge of that section here are hard-boiled. They are the same ones who administered the self-liquidating loans of the R.F.C. Nobody gets any money away from them without good sales talk.

Towns will not be permitted to build beyond their means. Reasonable amortization of waterworks and sewerage projects will be required.

BOSS: You might say Bernard Baruch was ex-officio President of the United States the last few days.

With Mr. Roosevelt out of town Baruch sat at Moley's desk. He had his man Johnson supposedly running the Industrial Control setup (Johnson always calls Baruch "Boss"). Another Baruch man, Peek, was running what Wallace left him of the Agricultural setup.

It was a complete Baruch picture on its face—but not exactly that underneath.

DEBTS: The administration really has no idea what it is going to do on war debts.

Those who handle the policy whisper they will just let the debtors come in and make offers. If they are much like the offers received on the June 15th payments the discussions will last a long time.

Any agreement must be submitted to congress. It is doubtful whether the administration will throw energetic support to any settlement. It will probably act only as an agent of congress.

That means the debt problem will be with us for many months and probably years.

NOTES: One town of 2,000 population wanted to build a $400,000 waterworks and asked the R.F.C. for self-liquidating funds to do it. . . . The R.F.C. turned it down. . . . The new Public Works administrators mean it when they say they are going to be hard-boiled. . . . They probably will adopt a rule requiring amortization of projects within 25 years. . . . Mr. Roosevelt's opponents are helping to circulate stories by a well-known iconoclast picturing the president as "King Roosevelt I". . . . Louis Howe is called Field Marshal Howe. . . . He is supposed to be in charge of kits. . . . The stories are really very funny and may offer the opposition a new mode of attack. . . . For the present there is little opposition and no attacking.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THERE will be public evidence soon that the Morgans intend to stick to deposit banking. Four or five partners are slated to retire—all chiefly identified with the security end of the business. One of the vacancies may be filled by a prominent New York commercial banker.

Wall Street comment runs that the country would have had much more reason to get sore at the Morgans if they had paid an income tax the last two years. Payment would have meant money made during the depression—which they could have done only by selling short in the grand manner.

INVESTIGATION: The Kuhn Loeb inquiry compared with the Morgan hearing will be near-beer against champagne.

They can't hang much on Kuhn Loeb. They didn't pay income taxes—but that's not news any more. Their preferred lists are smaller and much less spectacular than Morgan's, although they do contain some interesting foreign names.

BANKS: Morgan partners who are directors of commercial banks have decided not to contest the provisions of the Glass bill. They will resign their directorships shortly. The banks will lose some stable deposits and trust accounts in consequence.

The New York banks still have a card up their sleeve to try to head off deposit insurance. They seek to induce an insurance company to bring suit to enjoin the banks in which it is a stockholder from subscribing to the guarantee fund. So far the insurance company isn't keen to play disturber of the peace.

The banks won't argue much about temporary insurance up to $2,500. Their contribution for that purpose will be chicken feed. But permanent insurance is something else again. The Chase, Guaranty Trust and National City would have to subscribe about 10 per cent of the fund for the entire nation.

The best inside estimate says that the New York Clearing House banks would lose from one and a half to two billion dollars in deposits out of 11 billions because of the Glass bill. The biggest banks will lose the most proportionately. That's one reason they're so hot and bothered.

The unofficial campaign to get state banks into the Federal Reserve system has been a complete flop to date. The number of state member banks remains static around 800. The few additions have been offset by withdrawals of closed banks in the hope of getting permission from more tolerant state authorities to reopen.

BARGAIN BRIDE

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, 35, returns to New York after four years' absence. He is rich and has made a name for himself as an archeologist. The first to greet him is his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, younger, selfish and spoiled. MARCIA is happily married now. Years before Barrett shields her when a youthful flirtation ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. She is worried because the boy's tutor has threatened her with blackmail and declares her husband will never forgive her if he learns the truth. Barrett agrees to deal with the tutor, HAROLD DEXTER.

As Marcia is leaving she sees ELINOR STAFFORD across the street and offers to drive her home. Elinor, 20 and very pretty, has been calling on her wealthy aunt, MISS ELLA EXTON. Barrett had known the girl as a child and is amazed to see how beautiful she has become.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

Barrett Colvin turned impatiently to his desk. It was ridiculous of him to keep thinking of the girl. In an effort to put her out of his mind he opened and scanned a letter or two.

A few years ago he had thought that if the small group who understood his work felt it was good his ambition would be reached. Now here he was — reading all these words of praise and instead of feeling pleased he was wondering what it would be like to take a girl of Elinor Stafford's sort to dinner or the theater.

He poked bills into pigeon holes, decided to get rid of Dexter promptly and as soon as he could to make a trip to the Connecticut farm house where his ward lived.

Probably, Barrett reflected, he would bore such a girl as Elinor Stafford. He had always despised middle-aged men who devoted themselves to young girls. Why the devil was he giving the matter so much thought, anyhow? There wasn't a chance in a hundred of his taking this particular girl anywhere. Of course he might happen to meet her at Miss Ella's—

He pushed aside the letter he was reading, disgusted with himself. He wrote his age, 35 on the desk blotter. Elinor Stafford was 19 or 20 he judged. Of course she would marry some youngster, some youth in her own set. She would have a home, children, all that she should have. Lord but the house seemed quiet!

She had such gentle eyes. She would be very sweet with children.

Barrett rose suddenly, wishing he were back in the desert, wrangling with some native who would not have sacred ground disturbed—for the price offered. Dreaming of a bathtub and brushing the sands of time from the shin bone of a dinosaur. But he wasn't in the desert and, until things cleared up—the question of Gerald's future settled and Marcia's baby born—he would not go on any expedition, no matter how tempting.

Again Barret Colvin settled at his desk. Then he drew back sharply. Beneath the figure "35" he had written "19 or 20."

Marcia, meantime, turned to look at Elinor Stafford. "She has young beauty," Marcia thought. "Real beauty muted by the wrong sort of clothes." A girl with Elinor's coloring and her chestnut brown hair should not, of course, wear gray tweeds. With her youthful slimness and slight angular lines she needed softness. Perhaps, Marcia reflected with that keenness women have in measuring one another, it was Elinor's mother who was responsible for tde girl's illchosen costume. That would be exactly like Lida Stafford. Yes, indeed!

"You were calling on your aunt?" Marcia questioned. She was only making conversation. Mentally Marcia was telling herself that she must bring Barry to her point of view about the boy.

"Yes," Elinor answered in her usually shy way.

"I hope she is as well as usual?" Marcia went on. Of course she knew Miss Sexton's relatives could not really be wishing any such thing. How they had hovered, like human vultures, around the autocratic and acid old lady who made the changing of her will a favorite indoor sport!

"She's quite well, thank you, Mrs. Radnor. She saw you drive up and spoke of how well you were looking."

Marcia's expression became slightly strained. She had always suspected that Miss Ella Saxton knew more than anyone else about the secrets of Marcia's past. Miss Ella had piercing eyes and a suspicious, inquisitive turn of mind.

How Marcia had flushed 10 years before when Miss Ella had beckoned her across the way from the old house to say, "I saw you riding in the park—"

Those bridle paths and Lon Moore riding behind her — when people were near. She had been a little fool but so hungry for romance. There had been little of it in the great house ruled by her stern father.

And now, why had young Dexter, the boy's companion-tutor, come to her? But Barry would fix that. Barry always did fix things. Half of his acquaintances must owe him money! Oh, of course Barry must come around to her point of view. Getting the child away, far away, was the only wise thing to do. Somewhere in South America, perhaps. Completely away from everyone they knew.

"Has there been much going on for you young people?" Marcia asked, suddenly remembering the girl beside her.

"I don't know, Mrs. Radnor. I haven't—many friends."

"Why, that's not right! You're really, Elinor, quite sweet."

The gratitude that flashed in Elinor Stafford's eyes took Marcia for a second beyond her troubled self. She laid a hand upon the girl's.

"Child," she said quickly. "I'm going to be house-bound soon and perhaps you'll be good enough to come to see me once in a while." Again Elinor's eyes raised. The girl was obviously pitiably lonely. Marcia continued, "We'll find something amusing to do—"

"I'd love it, Mrs. Radnor!" Elinor answered with young intensity.

"Well then, that's that. You live on Park Avenue, don't you?"

"Yes, but—" Elinor faltered, "I was on my way down town. Would you mind dropping me somewhere near Washington Square if it's not out of your way?"

"Not at all!" Marcia answered. "Are you going in for artists, my dear? Personally I think they're rather over-done."

The girl did not answer for a moment and when Marcia turned she saw that Elinor was flushed. Marcia laughed delightfully. "You sly child!" she broke out. "I think you're having an affair!"

"Oh, no, really!"

Marcia thought, amused, "Heavens, how embarrassed she is!"

"Mrs. Radnor," Elinor added quickly, "I would rather not have anyone know that you dropped me down town."

"No one shall know. I'm absurdly kind about keeping secrets," Marcia assured her.

"I knew you would be!" the girl said with a grateful look.

Marcia flushed a trifle but only a trifle. The flush showed with but a hint of warmth beneath her gardenia skin. Secrets and keeping them — how she loathed the thought! How Dick loathed them. He would never forgive her, never! But she mustn't let herself brood over such things. The doctor had said, "Keep cheerful." An easy order! As if one could do it—at will! Marcia was impatient with the whole world, doctors included.

"Did you know I'm going to have a baby?" she asked.

"No, I didn't", Elinor answered. "You must be very, very happy!"

"You are a dear!" said Marcia warmly. "Yes, I am. But most of my friends don't feel that way. They say, 'Poor darling!' as though it were something calling for sympathy. That's the usual reaction."

"I think it's a most unpleasant reaction."

"Yes, isn't it?" Marcia drawled easily, carelessly. There was a silence.

"I think I'll leave at the next corner, please, and I thank you so much, Mrs. Radnor—and for asking me to come to see you, too—"

"Darling, I'll love to have you," Marcia responded. Speaking into the tube she told Jensen to stop the c

After Elinor had disappeared the crowd and the car was movi on again Marcia wondered about t girl and why she wanted her t down town kept a secret. Mar rather hoped the youngster was concerned in anything disagreea Elinor was so young. So much co come to one who was so young much one was not ready for yet which one was eager! Marcia clos her eyes for a little time. She dre a deep breath. If Dick ever knew, h would never forgive her—Dick wh was a fanatic about the truth.

Elinor turned into a side stre that had once been an alley. Th moist, chill of the day had touche it. Grays were deeper, cobbles slim puddles were raw stretches on whic were printed the untidy habits those who passed—a bit of orang peeling floating here, there an en velope or scraps of a torn letter.

The building into which she turn ed was old and marked by the har years it had known. Stairs tilted ward, their edges splintered. A wom an pushed aside a bucket witho raising her head as Elinor went her. Elinor's "Thank you" made h look up with dull and wonderi surprise.

At the head of the third flo stair Elinor tapped upon a worn door. "It's I, Phillip," she said.

From 'Way Down Austin Way

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 27 (AP)—Partisans can give several reasons why the question of legalized wagering on horse races appears likely to be revived at the next regular session of the Texas legislature.

Wagering was made legal through a rider to the biennial appropriation bill. A nominal amount was appropriated to bring the racing commission under the constitutional provision requiring that money bills deal solely with appropriations.

Become Ineffective

Opponents are claiming that the rider will become ineffective at the end of the next biennium, Aug. 31, 1935, since the appropriations are made for two-year periods only.

Rep. T. H. McGregor of Austin, one of the managers for sponsors of the proposal, is of opinion it will continue and that it will only be necessary to make another approriation in 1935 to keep the racing commission feature in effect.

With a possible two-year limitation on wagering, it was thought probable that racing promoters would hesitate to invest any substantial amounts in racing plants. There also was a possibility that the betting rider would not stand up against a court attack reportedly being planned.

Plan Not Satisfactory

The two-year limit was about the only part of the measure not satisfactory to advocates of racing. They had hoped to be able to pass the proposal as a separate measure so it would stay on the statute books until repealed. They resorted to its inclusion in an appropriation bill after a bill to legalize betting had been defeated early in the session.

Some of the proponents believe the bill would have passed if it had been delayed until late in the session, pointing to the passage of the bill to legalize prize fighting to fortify their argument. The horse race betting bill lost by eight votes when first presented and carried by a substantial majority as part of the appropriation bill.

Early in the session, the boxing bill was conceded little chance of enactment but finally passed by a generous margin in the closing days after its managers had pursued a plan of waiting and picked the right time to strike.

Atticus Webb Likely Will Debate In City With Crusader Representative

SAN ANTONIO, June 27 (Special)—One of several debates in which Atticus Webb, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas, will meet a representative of The Crusaders, repeal organization, probably will be held in Lubbock.

The series of debates is being arranged as the result of a challenge to Mr. Webb from Wilbur D. Bacon, director of the southwestern division of The Crusaders, for a debate in Dallas. In accepting, Mr. Webb pointed out that the Anti-Saloon League and The Crusaders operate in all parts of the state and, therefore, that the debate should be extended into a series to reach all cities and important trading centers. "I am sure the intelligent and unprejudiced voters of our state will heartily appreciate such an effort to bring them the facts," he said.

Definite plans for the series have not been completed, but it is expected that a schedule will be agreed upon in a forthcoming meeting between Mr. Webb and Mr. Bacon.

New Committee Is Chosen Here

A new committee has been named for Lubbock county to replace the old R. F. C. Work Relief committee which has functioned here for the past 10 months. The change was made under the reorganization plan of the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief commission.

The committee, composed of five members, was formally approved by the county commissioner's court Monday.

Members of the new committee are: J. O. Jones, J. J. Clements, Miss Delia Wilkinson, J. T. Pinkston of Slaton and Bailey Guess of Idalou.

A meeting of the committee is expected to be held this week, it was said today.

Retiring members of the committee are: Chas. A. Guy, A. B. Davis, S. A. Wells and E. L. Pitts.

Texas Repeal Battle Is Launched As Two Factions Meet At State Capital

Ferguson as chairman and bearing the names of the anti-prohibition nominees to the state repeal convention "before they will drag out that old impeachment story and try to beat us with it."

Questions Correctness

C. W. Howthe of Beaumont, questioned Bailey from the floor as to his study of the question of Ferguson's eligibility and challenged the correctness of it.

Bailey had said that so anxious was he to have everything regular and legally done that in event Ferguson were named the chairman, he (Bailey), would call another convention and certify the Ferguson convention's list of delegates from to preclude any court contest that might void results of the election.

Argument Answered

T. H. McGregor, of Austin, answered Bailey's argument. He termed his attitude as embracing political and legal error." He demanded Ferguson's eligibility to be chairman and recalled Ferguson's attitude in hte past toward the Ku Klux Klan and his activities in prohibition campaigns.

He charged that the interest of the congressman had been influenced by Washington considerations and termed it "an alliance" to lay a predicate for Bailey's candidacy for governor. He said it was designed to curry favor from the prohibitionists.

Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales called for a ruling from the chair on Bailey's point of order as to Ferguson's eligibility. Cummings overruled the point of order and the convention whooped. Hopkins appealed from the chair's ruling but the question never was put in the confusion that ensued.

Pleads For Harmony

J. R. Fuchs of New Braunfels pleaded for harmony and said McGregor's utterances had convinced him the anti-prohibitionists should go into the campaign with a leader around whom there were no controversies. He said that while the national Democratic party was in convention in Chicago fashioning its platform, Mrs. Ferguson was running for governor on a dry plank.

John N. Snell of Houston was recognized and nominated Kirby for chairman. He said he always had voted for and supported the Fergusons in all their undertakings but that this was one time he felt Ferguson should be denied leadership.

John M. Mathis of Houston, who had been groomed for the chairmanship until it was decided to offer Kirby by the anti-Ferguson group, seconded his fellow-Houstonian's nomination.

Ferguson Comes Forward

As Mathis concluded, Ferguson, who had been a spectator in the audience, setting on a front chair with his daughter, Mrs. George Nalle, and a group of friends, quietly made his way to the rostrum.

As he stepped into full view, the audience rose and cheered. The demonstration continued for several minutes.

He paid his respects to his opponents, and pointed out that he felt certain of election, but that he was willing to meet the "Bailey crowd" in the matter of harmony.

"We want you; we want you," many delegates called to him.

Forgives And Forgets

"It seems I have to do more forgiving and forgetting than any man who ever has been in public life," he said.

He expressed regret that his impeachment had been brought up and said there was "serious doubt" that he ever was impeached. "If it will bring this campaign harmony I shall go so far as to withdraw as a candidate and offer Charlie McDonald to the other crowd as one on whom we can settle our difficulties," he shouted.

The audience went into a demonstration, with many delegates trying to make themselves heard with: "We want Jim Ferguson; no one else."

McDonald rushed dramatically to the microphone and shouted: "I want Jim Ferguson to have this honor." McDonald renominated Ferguson. It was he who originally placed Ferguson's name before the convention as "a grand old commoner of Texas."

Hopkins Backs Kirby

Senator Hopkins went to the stage and pleaded for the election of Kirby. He referred to Ferguson's offer to withdraw, however, as a magnanimous concession and reminded the former governor that he should be "proud of the confidence shown in you by that wonderful demonstration just given you by this convention."

Mayor C. K. Quin, of San Antonio seconded Ferguson's nomination.

While Quin was speaking, friends were grouped around Ferguson, who had resumed his chair in the audience by his daughter's side. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson did not attend the convention.

Kirby was given recognition, but before he started his speech, Congressman Bailey asked him to yield.

Bailey Pledges Vote

"I want to say that I should like to second McDonald's nomination by Governor Ferguson and now pledge him my vote," Bailey shouted.

Kirby asked that his name be withdrawn. He seconded Ferguson's nomination of McDonald and suggested that he be chosen by acclamation.

A large group was arguing with Ferguson. Cummings left his gavel and the stage to join the group at Ferguson's side. P. L. Anderson, of San Antonio moved that nominations be closed.

"All in favor of Charlie McDonald for permanent chairman please stand," Cummings said, in putting the question. Nearly everyone stood.

"I declare McDonald elected by unanimous vote," Cummings announced with a bang of his gavel.

Ferguson introduced McDonald to the convention, opening his remarks with this observation: "What's all this trouble about anyhow?"

Senatorial caucuses were called for to nominate candidates for delegates and alternates and a committee on resolutions appointed. The big hall cleared out almost immediately, while the caucuses progressed for hours.

The resolutions committee had some contention over the wording of a proposition that McDonald and the 62 nominees for delegates and alternates comprise a group that would direct the campaign for repeal and legalization of beer. Ferguson took the principal part in the discussion. Some members of the committee wanted it understood that organizations already working for repeal and modification would not be hampered or cramped in their activities by the convention-created organization. It finally was decided that independent organizations now functioning would have the assistance of the new committee.

To Name Committee

McDonald was empowered to name a committee of five from the delegates and alternates "as an advisory committee with full power to act upon any matter impending or upon any matter pertaining to the campaign where a quorum of said organization is not readily available."

The convention, describing itself as "representing all degrees of political and religious faith" sent felicitations to President Franklin D. Roosevelt "in the marvelous fight he is urging against poverty and want and for a return to prosperity."

"We pledge to him our sacred honor that we shall fight to align Texas with all our sister states for the repeal of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States of America and to legalize the manufacture, transportation and sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Texas and that in keeping with such promise we pledge to him that Texas will go wet on August 26."

Reaffirm Allegiance

Reaffirming "our allegiance in the state and the national Democratic platforms upon this great issue," the convention resolutions stated that "we regret exceedingly that thousands of the best men and women in Texas who would enjoy voting with us in the August election have been deprived of a ballot because through forces over which they had no control they were unable to pay their poll taxes but in the awful panic needed every dime to buy bread for their children."

Governor Ferguson was congratulated "in her efforts to have the time for paying poll taxes extended until a short time before the August election, and sincerely regret that the legislature did not see fit to enact such measure into law."

The wet resolutions called attention "of the people of Texas to the fact that prohibition was foisted upon us while millions of our soldiers were in France and foreign lands."

Drys Adopt Resolutions

Resolutions adopted by the prohibitionists declared the 18th amendment "was adopted after nearly 100 years of struggle and adopted by the largest legislative and congressional majority ever given a constitutional amendment and this amendment marks the most advanced step in the field of moral, economic and constructive legislation that modern statesmanship has evolved."

The convention declared the 18th amendment was made necessary "by failure of every effort to regulate and control the liquor traffic and that all efforts at such control have uniformly resulted in the liquor traffic controlling the government instead of the government controlling the liquor traffic."

Destroy Liquor Traffic

"We declare that the reinstatement to control the liquor traffic is to destroy it," the resolution stated. "We declare that the reinstatement of the prohibition issue in American politics is the result of amazing propaganda voted by an aggregation of wealth which seeks to escape its just burden in the support of the government.

"We declare that repeal of the 18th amendment would bring disaster to the economic, social and moral recovery of the nation.

"We declare that we cannot consent to the reintroduction of breweries in Texas politics, with their debauching of the electorat and their election."

A special committee composed of Keeling, R. L. Ferguson, permanent convntion secretary and Dr. L. D. N. Wells of Dallas was appointed to fill any vacancy that might occur in the list of delegates or alternates.

Mass Meetings Held

Following the convention a mass meeting was held at which campaign plans were discussed.

Another mass meeting of prohibitionists was scheduled for tonight at a local park. Dr. W. R. White of Fort Worth, executive secretary of the United Forces for Prohibition, Dr. Wells, co-chairman of the organization and former Governor Dan Moody were on the program.

Both conventions adjourned immediately after naming delegates and adopting resolutions.

Fire Razes Five Homes And Presents Refinery Hazard

KILGORE, June 27. (AP) — Fire which razed five negro homes in the "tin cup" sector of Kilgore today presented a hazard for a time to a refinery, several oil wells and oil storage tanks in the vicinity but was extinguished before it did further damage. Origin of the blaze was not determined.

were: Midland, Lamb, Dawson, Howard, Hockley, Gaines, Martin, Lubbock, Terry, Lynn and Ector.

These counties normally produce about 500,000 bales of cotton.

Between 65 and 75 persons attended. Delegates pointed out that if the act providing for the acreage reduction had been passed 60 or 90 days ago, the cotton farmer would have been permitted to lease a portion of his land without it having been planted.

State Senator Duggan and Mr. Davis, upon returning to Lubbock last night, sought to make an appointment with Secretary Wallace and C. A. Cobb of the department of agriculture through Congressman Marvin Jones. They learned that Secretary Wallace was not in Washington, but, because of the lateness of the hour, they did not learn his whereabouts.

Plans for the trip to Washington, as a result, were indefinite.

land, today before the steamship Manhattan brought him on to Plymouth where he took train for London.

Determination that the conference must succeed also was voiced by Cordell Hull, secretary of state, and chairman of the American representation here, who spoke today at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims' society in honor of the delegates from Washington.

"The world conference will not fail because it dare not fail," Secretary Hull told a distinguished gathering which included Prime Minister MacDonald and Lord Reading formerly ambassador to Washington and British foreign minister.

Opponents Assailed

In an address before a sub-committee of the conference Sam D. McReynolds of Tennessee assailed those who have accused the United States delegation of being animated by a spirit of economic nationalism and defended the policy of his government in the parleys here.

"It has been charged through the press that our country is nationalistic," the Tennesseean said. "We are trying to place our own house in order to increase the purchasing power of the dollar to give unemployment and to once more bring our country back to prosperity. If that is what is meant, then we plead guilty to the charge."

The United States consumes about 60 per cent of the world's crude rubber output.

MARKET REPORTS

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 27. (AP)— Cotton was active but nervous and erratic today, and after making new high levels for the movement and season, 23 to 24 points above the previous close, fluctuated uncertainly on profit-taking. The close was 2 points down to 3 up for the day.

The opening was somewhat easier as cables were hardly as good as due and New York reported July notices of 28,000 bales. The market soon rallied and active general buying carried October up to 10.76 and December to 10.92, new high levels for the movement and the season 27 to 32 points above the early lows and 23 to 24 points above yesterday's close. The rise was associated with reports of widespread signing of the acreage reduction contract.

Later profit-taking set in and by early afternoon October traded at 10.50 or 26 points down from the high of the morning and 3 points under the previous close.

The market rallied 23 points during the middle of the afternoon on buying due to a big jump in wheat and an advance in sterling but there was a renewal of profit-taking in the late trading and October closed at 10.55 or 2 points net up for the day, December at 10.71 or 3 points net up while March, the only other month active at the end closed 10.93 down 2 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 5 penny points down.

Port receipts 16,975, for week 36,671, for season 8,576,810, last season 9,954,557. Exports 10,425, for week 55,139, for season 7,627,900, last season 8,162,536. Port stock 3,502,131, last year 3,628,405. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans Galveston and Houston 130,561, last year 73,327. Spot sales at southern markets 27,124, last year 3,737.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP) — Although cotton rallied from opening declines, advances into new high ground encountered increased profit taking or liquidation as well as heavy southern hedge selling and the market again turned reactionary in the late trading.

October contracts which had sold up from 10.48@10.75, closed at 10.56 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

Opening losses of 5 to 10 points under relatively lower Liverpool cables and realizing encountered active outside buying through Wall Street, wire and commission houses with the result that before the end of the first half hour the market had rallied 23 to 27 points from the lowest and to net gains of 10 to 18 points.

July sold up to 10.40 and December to 10.90 carrying the general list 94 to 101 points above the closing levels of Saturday.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, June 27. (AP)—Cash grain at Fort Worth followed in full the sharp advances on the contract markets today and demand was excellent at the peak prices for three years established by nearly all commodities traded here. Wheat closed with dealers bidding 1.06 1-2 and offering the grain at 1.07 1-2 with actual sales at 1.07 in the closing minutes of the market. Estimated receipts included wheat 65 cars; corn 6; oats 6; barley 1, and sorghums 1 car.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination.

Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat No. 1 hard 1.06 1-2@1.07 1-2; barley 2 nominally 60@63c; No. 3 nominally 59@62c. Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.58@1.62; No. 3 milo 1.55@1.59. No. 2 kaffir per 100 lbs. 1.45@1.53; No. 3 kaffir 1.46@1.50.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Feverish, big speculative buying that clutched grain markets anew today forced 8 cents maximum fresh rise in values and outdid yesterday's sensational advance of 7 3-8 cents.

Wheat today went far above $1.00 the traditional goal of thousands of farmers, and reached $1.06 3-8 for May contracts. For the second day in succession the wheat market ran up a maximum new gain of 7 3-8 cents, but barley today surpassed wheat with a jump of 8 cents flat. At the extreme top today, wheat showed a rise of 21 5-8 cents over last week's low and more than 53 cents gain since the beginning of the season.

Highest prices today, unequaled since 1930 and reached in the final quarter hour of business, were in the face of immense profit-taking sales and despite indications of showers promising at least some relief from prolonged drought and heat that have been wrecking crops.

Wheat closed wild at somewhat below the new top figures, but 5 3-4 to 6 3-8 cents above yesterday's finish, corn 3 to 3 7-8 up, oats 2 to 3 cents advanced, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 30 cents.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 90, 102; Sept. 91 3-4@92 1-8; 1.05 7-8@1.06; Dec. 94 1-2@3-4, 1.08; May 98 1-4, 1.17. Corn, July 58 1-2, offers; Sept. 56@56 1-4, 64 3-4@65 1-4; Dec. 60 1-2@61, 68 1-2.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP)—Grains ran away from other markets today, leaving stocks, cotton and the group of minor commodities far behind.

An enormous demand for wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley kept eyes glued closely to those markets. They bent now and then under waves of realizing, but at the close wheat had added around 6 cents a bushel to Monday's huge appreciation, although somewhat under the highs. Shares, on the other hand, were fairly restrained and a few leaders finished lower, net changes for the "pivotals" being moderate. Nevertheless, the closing composite made a new high. Cotton, after reaching new highs in the morning, finished down 5 to 35 cents a bale.

Fluctuations in foreign exchange were at the expense of the dollar which went to new lows against the British pound, Swiss francs and French francs. Wall street was interested in London reports that the continental gold bloc had revived the stabilization issue and hoped to effect action without American participation.

Stocks were reasonably strong at times, but unable to match the pace of "dollar wheat." Alcohol issues did very well, while rails and motors managed to hold their ends up.

National Distillers products stole the show on the big board with a rise of 16 1-2 points to 102, the closing price. Many of the active rails were up 1 to 2. Sales totaled 5,667,225 shares.

Thus the market appeared selective. Strength in carrier issues provided a good talking point for bulls who were still trying to capitalize the sustained rise in loadings and the big improvement in May earnings.

Grains Advance

eagerly snapped up and the market finished with net advances of 5 3-4 to 6 3-8 cents a bushel.

Dollar exchange relapsed abruptly. Sterling soared 6 cents to $4.30 1-4, a new high since England left the gold standard. European gold currencies also swept upward, Dutch guilders rising nearly 1 1-2 cents to 50.40 cents and French francs almost 1-10th of a cent to 4.97, a record break for the present unit. Dealers attributed this buoyancy to statements of the gold standard nations represented at London that they would exert every effort to maintain a yellow metal basis for their monies, and also to reports that the continental "gold bloc" wanted to force stabilization, whether or not Uncle Sam agreed to join such a move.

Advances Selective

On the New York stock exchange, price advances tended to be selective—that is, traders singled out individual groups for special attention. "Wet" shares soared, particularly National Distillers' products which skyrocketed $16.50 net to $102 against its 1933 low of $16.87, rails were strong; so were motors, textiles and a miscellaneous assortment of "specialties." Utilities and many standard industrials, which normally represent the backbone of the market, acted rather indifferently most of the day. Trading was lively, the turnover reaching 5,667,225 shares.

over cotton. R. S. Miller, county agent, said many cotton growers indicated they would plow up from 30 to 50 per cent of their growing cotton. Many signed the contracts proffered. Meetings will continue in that county through Friday.

County Agent W. H. Young and Fritz Englehart, member of the legislature, held four meetings of farmers in Colorado county Monday and Tuesday and reported that 256 farmers, representing 12,562 acres of growing cotton, signed pledge cards agreeing to plow up about 4,087 acres of this year's crop.

Contracts Signed

Wichita Falls reported that 45 Wichita county farmers had signed cotton acreage reduction contracts for plowing up 1,000 acres of growing cotton. Returns were being released there only after inspection of the crops involved.

Tarrant county farmers in the vicinity of Fort Worth signed contracts to plow up 2,628 acres of cotton. Most of them preferred the option plan of leasing to the government, taking options on government-owned cotton.

Eight Meetings Will Be Held In Local Area Today

Eight community meetings will be conducted today by County Agent O. G. Tumlinson and assistant, R. N. McClain, as they continue to outline the government's cotton acreage reduction plan.

Preliminary meetings were conducted at Caldwell, Barton, Monroe, Woodrow, Center, Union, Becton and New Hope yesterday, while County Line, Hardy, Shallowater, and Grovesville had follow-up sessions to begin signing of contracts.

Meetings today are as follows: 10 a. m., Acuff and northeast Lubbock ward school; 1 p. m., Estacado and southeast Lubbock ward school; 4 p. m., Idalou and northwest Lubbock ward school; 8:30 p. m., Liberty and southwest Lubbock ward school.

Additional copies of the contract were received. Each is to be signed in triplicate. New instructions for committees regarding the actual inspection of cotton fields were also received.

Cleveland's per capita debt of $93.51 is the highest of any city in Ohio.

Cuts To Veterans Will Be Reviewed

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—As a stride toward easing economy law cuts into benefits to former soldiers, the veterans administration today announced it was reviewing upward of 300,000 individual cases under revised rating schedules.

The administration made its plans known in a six-page bulletin crammed with information on altered compensations, pensions and other payments to ex-service men under the compromise law enacted by congress in the closing minute of the special session.

Officials estimated $96,000,000 had been cut off economy law savings by the combined effect of President Roosevelt's regulations issued June 6, and the compromise law, crediting the former with $50,000,000. These reductions would leave the total economies in payments to former soldiers around $275,000,000. The new schedule for rating disablities has been changed from a five to a ten-step system and the basic rate instead of ranging from $8 to $80 now ranges from $9 to $90 monthly.

securities at below-market prices, was paid the $35,000 in connection with a $20,000,000 loan to the mortgage bank of Chile and another loan of unnamed amount. This was before Davis assumed an official capacity with the government.

Reading from a prepared statement, Kahn said the Guaranty company discussed South American loans with Davis from time to time while he was a private citizen.

The statement, signed by J. R. Swan, president of the guaranty company, said there was no agreement with Davis as to the amount he was to receive, but upon conclusion of the deal the bankers fixed his fee at $15,000 to be paid by the banking group and $10,000 by the Guaranty company. Subsequently, a further fee of $10,000 was paid on a second loan.

Last night, while en route to confer with President Roosevelt, Davis told newspapermen in answer to questions that "several years ago" he had assisted Kuhn, Loeb and company in floating a loan he believed was about $25,000,000. He said his fee might have been around $25,000 but that he did not recall. He made clear he had no connection with the government at the time.

"They are trying to smoke me out," Davis asserted, "and I don't care if I am smoked out."

Mistake Is Possible

"Two hundred years ago, and until about five years ago, we thought that the best government was that which governed least. Perhaps we were wrong. Those who might doubt the working of this plan can recall that 312 years ago King James the first granted to the apothecaries of England a guild, giving them the right to stabilize their prices. All other professions organized guilds for protection and security."

Mr. Penland's next speaking engagement will be in San Angelo. He is explaining the institute to Texas druggists. He said that about 2,000 persons already had become members in this state. The code will be ready for presentation to President Roosevelt soon after July 1.

Officials did not wait for Balcazar to return by the boat, but took him from the craft at Santa Anna, placed him in an airplane and took him to Minatitlan, where he was lodged in jail.

Roosevelt Policies Toward Disabled Men Are Criticised

CINCINNATI, O., June 27. (AP) — The assurance of President Roosevelt that "no man who has been handicapped in after life by his service to his country shall be forgotten or unrewarded to the fullest extent that our financial condition permits" was before the convention of the disabled American veterans today.

"You may have no fear," said the president in a telegram, "that anything has been done which will bar any war sufferer from the grateful recognition of this country."

National Commander William Conley, of Los Angeles, and Legislative Chairman Thomas Kirby, of Washington, criticized the Roosevelt policies affecting disabled service men.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 21

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The morning after the Dum-Dum, the tribe started slowly back through the forest toward the coast. The body of Tublat lay where it had fallen, for the people of Kerchak do not eat their own dead. The march was but a leisurely search for food. Once old Sabor crossed their path.

This sent them scurrying to the safety of the highest branches. Tarzan sat directly above the lioness—and hurled a pineapple at their ancient enemy. Into his mind a great plan sprung. He had killed the fierce Tublat; now would he track down the crafty Sabor and slay her likewise!

At the bottom of his little English heart beat the great desire to cover his nakedness with clothes. He had learned from his picture books that all MEN were so covered, while APES and every other living thing went naked. So he desired the skin of Sabor, the lioness.

On this day he had other things to attract his attention. Suddenly it became as midnight. Faintly came a low, sad moaning. The great trees bent. Vivid and blinding lightning flashed from the whirling, inky clouds above. Roaring thunder belched forth its fearsome challenge. The deluge came—pandemonium broke loose!

The tribe huddled in shivering fear from the cold rain at the bases of great trees. For hours it raged—ending suddenly. To Tarzan came a dawning light to explain the mystery of clothes. How snug he'd have been beneath Sabor's heavy coat! So was added a further incentive.

Gilliam Gets Pen Sentence

Former Lubbock Business Man Given One Year And A Day In Federal Court On Plea Of Guilty

Tom Gilliam, alias Alfred Gilliam, former Lubbock business man, was sentenced to a year and a day in the new federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., by Judge James C. Wilson in United States district court yesterday.

Gilliam, through his attorney, entered a plea of guilty to one count of a six count charge of violation of the national motor theft law. The other five counts were dismissed on recommendation of Thomas E. Ball, assistant district attorney.

Make Statements

Both Gilliam and his attorney made statements to the court. Gilliam said in the count in which he was pleading guilty, he had introduced a man under an alias or assumed name, in a car deal at Sudan. He said he had lived in Lubbock for about five years and was for three years a used car salesman in a local firm before being taken into the firm.

Judge Wilson first sentenced Gilliam to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., but on the prisoner's plea, permitted change. Gilliam was to have been tried during the December term of court but disappeared during the night prior to his scheduled hearing. He said he had gone to Oklahoma to raise money and had returned to Fort Worth several weeks later to give himself up when he was arrested. Bond in the first case was forfeited and Gilliam had served five days less than nine months in jail, he said.

Vester Richie and Reagan Morrison, who on Monday entered pleas of guilty of counterfeit passing, were given a two-year sentence in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio. Sentence was suspended pending good behavior and for three years the petr were paroled to the U. S. probation officer for this district.

Lea County Commissioner Is Held Responsible For Death Of Youth During Fist Fight On Tatum Street

LOVINGTON, N. M., June 27. (AP)—A coroner's jury at Tatum, N. M., today held J. H. Simpson, Lea county commissioner, responsible for the fatal shooting of Oscar Adams, 53-year-old southeastern New Mexico cattleman yesterday.

The jury's verdict held that Adams had met his death from gunshot wounds inflicted by Simpson.

Evidence introduced at the inquest revealed that Adams and Doris Hart, 20, a young man employed by Simpson, were having a fist fight on the streets of Tatum when Simpson interfered and shot Adams.

No charges have been filed against Simpson who is being held in jail here with Hart.

LAS CRUCES, N. M., June 27. (AP) Pedro Holguin, charged with the murder of seven members of the Melquiades Espinosa family at Berino, N. M., a year ago, was bound over to district court without bond following a preliminary hearing here today. He previously pleaded not guilty.

Melquiades Espinosa, sole survivor of the massacre and husband and father of the family, was the principal witness for the state at the hearing and testified that Holguin was one of three men who came to his home and participated in the slaying.

People More Likely To Kill Their Neighbors And Acquaintances Than Anybody Else, Crime Study Reveals

By F. B. COLTON
Associated Press Science Writer

CHICAGO, June 27 (AP) — People are more likely to kill their neighbors and acquaintances than anybody else, but usually steal from total strangers, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told.

That was one general conclusion drawn from a study of crime conditions in a large city by Prof. R. Clyde White at the University of Indiana. The reason for it is that people are most likely to have quarrels leading to assault or murder with others close at hand. Such crimes are not reasoned out in advance. Robberies, however, are planned beforehand and there is less risk in robbing a stranger.

Decrease Outward

The number of both crimes and criminals in a city decreased steadily outward from the business center, Prof. White found. He made his study in Indianapolis but said the findings probably were applicable to any large American city.

Police departments, he urged, should make such "crime censuses" in every city as a guide to proper distribution of policemen, patrol cars, and other law enforcing agencies.

In Indianapolis, Professor White's study showed, there were 76 felonies committed and 50 felons convicted of crimes for each square mile of a zone one mile in radius around the business center of the city in a year. In the same year, however, in one one-mile wide but five miles from the city's business center, there were only 3.7 felonies per square mile and two felons convicted.

Summarizes Figures

Summarizing, he said the figures showed a criminal would travel only about .84 (eighty-four hundredths) of mile to commit a crime against the person, such as murder or assault, but would go twice as far, about 1.72 miles, for a crime against property such as burglary or robbery.

CRIME CHECKED

SAIGON, Cochin-China —(AP)—A crime wave which borrowed the banner of communism subsided when 101 natives were convicted of murder, looting and extortion. French colonial officials produced evidence at the trials indicating that red propaganda had been seized by the underworld as an excuse for armed robberies under the guise of revolution.

More than 16,000,000 pounds of cottage cheese is manufactured yearly in California.

The average crime, he said, cost every citizen about $3.50, including the expense of maintaining police protection, courts and prisons. Criminals tend to live near districts where business is concentrated, not only in the main business center of a city but in local business centers in outlying sections.
