Soviets Plug For Parley On China Problem

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union disclosed today it is plugging for a Geneva-type conference on Formosa with the Chinese Reds at the table and the Chinese Nationalists left out.

Moscow radio announced that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had proposed that Britain and India join in trying to persuade the United States to agree to a 10-nation meeting either in Shanghai or New Delhi later this month.

In Washington, informed officials said Britain and the United States have decided such a conference without Nationalist China would be unproductive and have rejected the proposal. The officials added they understood this was the view taken by most, if not all, of the British Commonwealth prime ministers at their London meeting, where the Soviet move was thoroughly discussed.

The Moscow broadcast said Molotov made the proposal in a communication to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on Feb. 4 and that negotiations "are continuing."

Molotov also communicated his idea to Prime Minister Nehru of India. An Indian spokesman here said today:

"It has been reported for the last few days that such a proposal had been made by Russia, for a conference outside the United Nations, and presumably it has been discussed by Mr. Nehru during his visit. That is as far as we can go at the moment."

A British Foreign Office spokesman said Britain has informed the Kremlin that a conference without Nationalist China "would not be representative" and "could not have a useful result." He added that the British government also has observed to Moscow "that the position of the United Nations should not be overlooked."

"In the opinion of her majesty's government, it is desirable that any meeting for the discussion of the situation in the area of the coastal islands and Formosa should be organized in a form acceptable to the United Nations," the spokesman said.

Molotov reviewed the breakdown of efforts in the U.N. to get cease-fire talks started and said that for this reason "countries specially interested" should "consider this question at an appropriate conference."

He suggested these countries could be the United States, Red China, Britain, Russia, France, India, Burma, Indonesia, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Molotov sought to blame the dangerous Formosa situation on the unwillingness of the United States and Britain "to take into consideration" the demands of the Chinese Communists.

The Chinese Reds refused to enter U.N. cease-fire talks unless they were given the Chinese Nationalist seats in the U.N. and unless the United States was placed in the role of a defendant.

The U.N. Security Council will meet Monday to take up again the cease-fire question. A. U.S. delegation spokesman said, after hearing Molotov's proposal, "We still consider the hostilities question a U.N. matter to be handled by the U.N. Security Council."

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR . . .

The City of Snyder has a meager amount of money available to apply on street paving this year. The cost of materials and labor being what they are today, you can't go very far on a paving program with $7,000.

The city council has, and wisely so, we think, brought up the subject well in advance of the paving season so that arrangements can be made to put the slim pickings in the paving till to the best possible use.

If an "assessment" program is launched, the $7,000 won't go as far in Snyder as it might in many other cities and towns for the simple reason that Snyder participates to a greater extent in such programs than do most other cities.

The State of Texas requires that a city must bear 10 per cent of the cost of paving where the work is accomplished by an assessment program. In this type of program the city enters into a contract with a paving firm and property owners are assessed their proportionate share. Usually provisions are made for payments to be made in installments.

* * *

Snyder's charter, however, requires the city to carry one-third of the burden if an assessment program is developed. Some other cities do furnish the engineering for their paving projects, which adds between five and ten per cent, making the total participation 15 to 20 per cent. Others simply limit their participation to the minimum 10 per cent.

* * *

A "volunteer" program, where property owners themselves demand the paving and pay cash for it, can be handled by the City of Snyder on the 10 per cent minimum. The drawback, of course, is that many property owners usually are reluctant, or unable, to pay their respective shares in a lump sum.

* * *

The need for additional paving doubtless is apparent to most local residents, and usually is recognized quickly by visitors. On paper it stands out sharply. Only a little over one-third of the city stree mileage is paved. Anybody who has a quick solution, please step forward.

* * *

If that apparently easy Cashword puzzle of last Monday confused you, rest assured you have plenty of company. Some of the "experts" around the Daily News tried their hand, just for fun, and the best one had something like 10 misses. No., we don't get the answers to the puzzle before the deadline. They're figured out up in Canada somewhere. Anyway, you'll get another change tomorrow.

If there is anything to the belief that cold winter weather reduces the insect population, Scurry area farmers should have the jump on crop-destroying insects this year. So far, the thermometer has dropped as low as 11 degrees here this season, and it has been under 20 degrees several times.

Special Counsel Hired To Represent Jencks

DENVER, Feb. 12 (AP)—Two New Mexico attorneys have been hired as special counsel to represent Clinton E. Jencks, a union organizer, in his petition for a new trial.

Jencks' union, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind) announced the hiring of A.T. Hannett of Albuquerque and Harry L. Bigsbee of Santa Fe.

Jencks was convicted in federal court in El Paso, Tex., of swearing falsely in a non-communist affidavit. Later Harvey Matusow, a witness, said he testified falsely against Jencks.

The mine-mill union was expelled by the CIO several years ago on the grounds its leadership was communist-dominated.

Third Burglary Under Probe At Fluvanna

Officers of the sheriff's department yesterday were investigating the Friday night burglary of the Fluvanna Mercantile Co.

This was the third time the store was burglarized in a two-week period. It was believed that about 1,000 .22 caliber shells and three flashlights were stolen.

E. E. (Buddy) Norris and Lowell Holt, sheriff's deputies, said that the burglar or burglars gained entrance by prying moulding from around the glass in the front door and lifting the glass out. They had tried to open the door with the same tool used in previous burglaries during the last few days. Several days ago, five stores in Fluvanna were burglarized.

RE-ENACTMENT OF RESCUE

Louis LaSalle, 22, Boston and Marine Railroad fireman, shows how he leaped from the railing on front of a locomotive to snatch 18-month-old Arthur Copp from death at West Ridge, N.H. At the time of the actual rescue the freight train was grinding to a halt but the engineer was unable to stop in time. LaSalle, seeing the child as the train rounded a curve, ran forward along the locomotive's catwalk, leaped the railing and tumbled to safety with the infant. The engineer, unable to see directly in front of the locomotive, thought he had killed the infant.

Expansion Planned At Central Primary

Plans for expansion of the Central Primary School here, which is located at Avenue K and Twenty-seventh Street, were being made by the board of trustees of the Snyder Independent School District.

The Central Primary since 1949 has been used for grades one through three of the Central Elementary School. The fourth, fifth, and sixth grades of that school were located in the old central campus building, used both by that school and the junior high school now.

The addition to the building is planned as a part of the school expansion program approved by patrons of the school district in a bond election last December. Tentative plans call for addition of 14 classrooms to the Central Primary building, which now has 15 classrooms, and the addition of a recreation-assembly room. This would make the school large enought to house the six grades of Central Elementary.

According to the plans, all elementary children now living in the Central Elementary section of the district and south of the Santa Fe Railway tracks would attend the central campus. The board arrived at this plan after careful study of the distribution of scholastics here.

Still in the planning stage is a new elementary school to be located in the northeast part of Snyder, another phase of the new building program. Site of this school has not yet been determined.

In connection with the expansion plans at the Central Primary, the school district has obtained options on property north of the present primary building and east of the Central Elementary - Junior High building. This property is equal in size to about one city block. The Central Primary and its playground now covers one city block, while the property which is planned for addition to the campus is across the street north of the present campus, or on the north side of Twenty-seventh Street and reaching from Avenue M east almost to Avenue K.

The board is requesting from the city council permission to close Twenty-seventh Street from Avenue K to Avenue L and to close Avenue L from Twenty-seventh Street north for one-half block. These streets now bear little traffic. The Central Elementary-Junior High campus now interrupts Twenty-seventh Street at Avenue M, and the closing of the area requested would amount only to the interruption being at Avenue K instead of Avenue M. Since traffic must turn from Twenty-seventh Street and go one block either way now when traveling through that area, the change would cause little effect on the flow of traffic.

Poage Predicts Quick Okay On Quota Hikes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Rep. Poage (D-Tex) said today that a bill to hike 1955 cotton acreage allotments to ease severe individual cuts should win speedy House approval.

An agriculture subcommittee yesterday approved the measure, which had been drafted only this week.

The bill would provide a three per cent increase in cotton acreage allotments by adding 543,000 acres to the national limit of the 18,163,000 set by the department of agriculture.

The 1955 national allotment was recently accepted by cotton growers. It represents a slash of 3,187,000 acres from the 1954 allotment total.

WHAT IS A METHODIST?

Emphasis On Life Rather Than Creed

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of informative articles on the role of religion in today's world, written for the Daily News by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations. Later articles will discuss other faiths.

By RALPH W. SOCKMAN
Pastor of Christ Church in NEW YORK CITY

Do Methodists accept Roman Catholic baptism as valid?

Yes. Methodists believe that the sacrament of baptism is a sign of God's grace and man's regeneration. Methodists and Roman Catholics believe in the same God.

Do Methodists believe in the "real presence" of Christ in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper? Yes, but not in the sense that Roman Catholics regard the "real presence." In the Mass, Roman Catholics are taught that the bread becomes the body of Christ and the wine becomes the Blood of Christ, so that Christ is present in body and soul.

Methodists accept Christ's own words "god is a spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." Hence, they believe that the body of Christ sacrament only in "a heavenly and spiritual manner." And faith is the means whereby the body of Christ is received and eaten in the Lord's Supper.

Do Methodist ministers hear confessions?

Methodist churches have no "confessionals" as do Roman Catholic churches. Methodist ministers perform a great deal of counseling. Persons often come to confess their sins as well as their troubles. But the pastor does not presume to give "penance" or to pronounce words of absolution. Methodists believe that each individual can go directly to God, trusting the New Testament promise: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just, to forgive us our sins. . ."

What do Methodists mean by salvation?

Salvation means not only security in heaven after death but a present experience of God's grace and power. When men trust and earnestly repent of their sins, God forgives the guilt of past transgressions. Also, he imparts the power which fortifies men against future sins.

God calls men to that holiness of life which, as Wesley insisted, is "social holiness," the love and service of their fellow men. Man cannot attain this holiness merely by obeying laws and doing good works. Man's salvation comes by faith and through the grace of God. God sent Christ to reveal his love to men. When men behold how Christ died for them, their hearts are moved and their lives are transformed. They confess Christ as their Saviour. He is the power of God unto salvation.

Do Methodists have to accept a creed?

They are not required to sign any formal creed. Those joining the church are asked to answer affirmatively two questions:

"Do you confess Jesus Christ as

WASHBURN, NELSON DRAW INDICTMENTS

Two Rescued After Crash Of Stratojet

THE PAS, Manitoba, Feb. 12 (AP)—A U.S. Air Force Stratojet bomber blew up and crashed in the snowy wilderness of northern Saskatchewan today. A Saskatchewan Airways skiplane later picked up one of two survivors who had been spotted at the scene. There were four crewmen aboard.

Ian McLeod, Saskatchewan Airways manager, said in Prince Albert that the skiplane also had picked up a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue man who had been parachuted at the scene near Big Sandy Lake, 120 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

He said a brief radio message also indicated the plane had gone back to pick up the other known survivor and another rescue man.

The survivors and rescue men will be kept in Cumberland House Hospital in Prince Albert until transferred to The Pas. Extent of injuries, if any, were not known.

An RCAF spokesman said the men were located in the vicinity of the plane's wreckage, 435 miles northwest of Winnipeg, and more than 15 planes are pressing the search for the two other crewmen aboard the huge craft. The sighting of the two survivors earlier was reported by the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

In Winnipeg the RCAF Search and Rescue Center moved into high gear to plan evacuation of the survivors from the rugged, lake-dotted swamp area. There was no immediate indication of the men's physical condition.

A rescue party left March Air Force Base, at Riverside, Calif., the bomber's home field, for The Pas. The party, headed by Col. Ernest Eddy, commander of the 320th Bomb Wing, planned to set up a base camp and send a ground party to the crash area.

The U.S. Air Force identified the downed crewmen as: Lt. Col. Kenneth G. McGrew, 33, plane commander; Maj. Robert D. Dowdy, 31; Capt. Lester E. Epton, 33, and Capt. Thomas L. Pittman, 34. All are married and lived with their families in Riverside.

Dallas Hotel Fire Probed

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Investigators continued their probe today into the cause of a four-alarm $75,000 fire that damaged the 26-story Adolphus Hotel late yesterday.

Fire Marshal W.G. Burns said he had sworn statements from an eye-witness that the blaze began in the liquor storeroom of the Insurance Club on the sixth floor of the hotel. He said they were still trying to determine whether the fire was started by a carelessly dropped cigarette or faulty refrigeration equipment.

Six firemen and four hotel employes were treated for smoke inhalation and small bruises and cuts. However, approximately 500 guests and visitors in the hotel at the time were safely evacuated without injury.

Approximately 100 firemen manning 16 trucks fought the stubborn blaze for more than two hours in downtown Dallas. The fire broke out at the peak of the late afternoon traffic rush.

Although the fire was confined to a small part of the large hotel, smoke picked up by the hotel's air-conditioning system was wafted into virtually every room and billowed from the top of the hotel in such thick smoke that it appeared the entire building had been engulfed by the fire.

Among the guests registered at the hotel were approximately 800 boys and girls in Dallas for a statewide music convention.

Jets To Stay On Formosa

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—United States jet fighter planes are remaining on the strategic, Nationalist islands of Formosa, guarding the aerial approaches from Red China's mainland.

The Air Force announced today that it will keep a 25-plane squadron of F86 sabre jets on Formosa for "familiarization and training." One squadron will be kept there for a short period, and then be replaced with another.

The announcement was made for Air Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining by Maj. Gen. Richard C. Lindsay, director of planes for the Air Force, at a news conference.

The full 75-plane complement of the 18th Fighter-Bomber Wing, normally based on Okinawa and the Philippines, had been flying "high cover" for the evacuation of Nationalist troops and civilians from the Tachen Islands. Today's announcement of the plan to keep a squadron of planes on Formosa said "this rotational training program has been planned from some time."

AGA KAHN UNDER TREATMENT FOR HEART ATTACK

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Aga Khan is suffering from a heart attack, but a physician said today his condition is "so far satisfactory."

Dr. Walter Hamilton of Cairo said the 77-year-old spiritual leader of the Moslem Ismaili sect needs complete rest for a few days.

The multimillionaire religious leader flew to Cairo early this week from winter resort of Aswan for his symbolic weighing against platinum which was scheduled for Feb. 20. He has been confined to bed in his hotel quarters since Thursday night.

Indictments Loom In Vet Land Deals

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Wayne Hartman of Cuero said today he anticipates several indictments against promoters involved in veterans land deals will be returned within a week by the De-Witt County grand jury.

Hartman made the statement to The Associated Press while in Austin conferring with Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd.

With him was De Witt County Attorney Wiley Cheatham, one of the first prosecutors to begin investigation of alleged irregularities in the veterans land program.

They said they came here to discuss with Shepperd the "drafting of anticipated indictments."

A representative of the state auditor's office joined in the meeting.

Shepperd, who earlier today made two new moves intensifying efforts to ferret out questionable or fraudulent deals, said he expects to assist grand juries in Travis, De Witt and Bexar counties in pushing their investigations of the land program next week.

The attorney general's latest moves were the filing of a $143,501 recovery suit involving four promoters and 22 World War II veterans, all of San Antonio. The land involved is in Maverick County.

Shepperd simultaneously named Cecil E. Burney of Corpus Christi, former president of the State Bar, special assistant attorney general to head a veterans land division in his office.

T. Kellis Dibrell of San Antonio also was appointed as a special assistant and will be chief of the civil section under Burney.

In San Angelo, Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, said he didn't know what Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton meant by saying that "my hands have been tied by the committee chairman."

Phillips made the charge yesterday before leaving on a trip he said was "to run down" leads on more irregularities in the 100 million dollar veterans land program.

"I don't know in what way his hands are tied," Hardeman said. I have subpoenaed every witness he has asked for. Committee meetings have been scheduled and held at his request, and I personally asked for and received an extension so the committee's work may be completed."

"Incidentally," Hardeman added, "Sen. Phillips objected when an extension of the committee's life was suggested, although he did not vote against it."

Phillips could not be reached immediately for comment on this point.

It was Phillips' demand for the subpoena of the attorney general for questioning last week that apparently forestalled a wind-up of the Senate committee's investigation. Hardeman previously had indicated the committee was about ready to begin preparing its final report.

Hales Planning To Make Race

Walter Hales, councilman for place No. 5 on the city council, whose term of office expires April 5, said yesterday that he will seek re-election.

The incumbent has not officially filed an application with the city secretary, but said he would do so as soon as possible.

Hales is the third candidate to announce for the three council positions to be filled in the April 5 city general election.

Other candidates are Hollis Fields, owner of Snyder Steam Laundry & Dry Cleaners, who is seeking place No. 1, now held by Eugene Harper; and G. W. Parks, Jr., co-owner of Snyder Meat Co., who is a candidate for place No. 3, now held by C. N. von Roeder. Neither Harper nor von Roeder plans to seek re-election, they said last week.

Deadline for filing as candidates in the election is March 5. A 17-day absentee balloting period begins March 15, and ends April 2, three days prior to the election.

Both Harper and Von Roeder have served on the council since the adoption of the city charter here in 1952.

'Waterfront' Cops Honors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—"On the Waterfront" smashed through with top honors in the Academy nominations tonight, winning 12 mentions for the 1954 Oscars.

The tough picture about waterfront corruption scored nominations for its star, Marlon Brando, three supporting actors, a supporting actress, director, writer and four other categories, as well as the best picture.

Brando looked the top favorite among the actors, followed closely by Bing Crosby who was named for his role as the alcoholic actor in "The Country Girl." Also in the running were Humphrey Bogart for "The Caine Mutiny," James Mason for "A Star is Born," and Dan O'Herliihy for "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe."

The comeback kid, Judy Garland, appeared in the lead for the top actress honor. She was selected for her role as the movie star in "A Star is Born." Competing with her for the Oscar will be Dorothy Dandridge for "Carmen Jones," Audrey Hepburn for "Sabrina," Grace Kelly for "The Country Girl" and Jane Wyman for "Magnificent Obsession." Insiders rate Miss Kelly the hottest competitor for Judy.

Stokes Urges No Bonds Be Allowed

By GARTH JONES

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Tom Green County grand jury today accused Harry L. Washburn and Andrew H. Nelson of killing Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver with a dynamite bomb that was intended for her husband.

Both were indicted for murder with malice, although two additional counts of Nelson's indictment named him as an accomplice and said he was not present "at the commission of said offense" by Washburn.

Both are in jail here.

"I'm recommending no bond," Dist. Atty. Aubrey Stokes said.

Washburn, former son-in-law of the prominent West Texas family, was arrested Jan. 29, just 10 days after the wealthy ranchwoman was blasted to bits when she tried to start a family car.

Nelson, under indictment as an habitual criminal in Houston, was quizzed several times but it was not until Feb. 2 that he made a statement that officers said broke Washburn's alibi of being in Houston the night of Jan. 18.

Tom Green County Sheriff Cecil Turner refused to let anyone talk to either Washburn or Nelson—"unless their attorneys want to see them." He said Washburn, 38, Houston contractor, was confined alone in a cell, while Nelson is in a community cell tank with 10 or 12 other prisoners.

"We're really watching that Nelson," Turner said. "I understand he had escaped from prison five times and broke jail twice."

Stokes said he "was pretty close" to being ready to set the case for trial.

The indictments came at noon today after the grand jury had questioned 35 witnesses Thursday and Friday. The victim's husband, Harry E. Weaver, and Washburn were surprise witnesses.

Nelson was with the jury almost two hours.

Nelson has served two prison terms, both from West Texas. In 1930 he was sentenced to seven years from Tom Green County for forgery. In 1934 he was sentenced to 11 years on burglary and theft charges from Dickens, Lubbock, Terry, Floyd and Stephens counties. He escaped from the Ramsay State Prison farm July 31, 1939, and was returned to custody on Nov. 19, 1941, at the Eastham State Farm.

Carl Runge, attorney for the Weaver family, said the indictments were "just about what we expected." He said one of Weaver's first comments to officers after his wife was killed was: "Find out where Washburn has been the last 24 hours."

The jury took no action against other witnesses who testified they had been asked by Washburn to join in death plots against Weaver prior to the Jan. 19 explosion.

Shortly before the indictments were returned, one of Washburn's attorneys, Cliff Tupper, said Stokes was being "ridiculous" in keeping secret the names of two San Angelo witnesses "on the grounds that their lives are in danger when . . . the two accused, Washburn and Nelson, are securely confined to jail.

"In other words, is the dangerous man still at large?" Tupper said.

Stokes said he did not know where Tupper got his information the witnesses' lives were in danger.

"Mr. Tupper will see all our witnesses at the proper time," he said.

Until the indictment against Nelson was returned, his part in the case had been the role of an "informer."

Police had quoted from a statement he made that he had purchased dynamite with Washburn and watched him make a test explosion.

But the indictments against him said that the two-time loser to the law showed Washburn how to make a dynamite bomb and attach it to a car so that it would explode when the car was started.

The indictments named Washburn as the man who fitted the bomb to the Weaver automobile's motor.

At Least 25 Die In Chicago Hotel Fire

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fire, believed started by a panic-stricken human torch, sped through a crowded Skid Row hotel during subzero cold early today killing at least 25 men. Fifteen others, including two firemen, were injured.

Most of the victims were derelicts or transients. Starting at 2 a.m. the blaze caught most of the hotel's 245 roomers asleep in their tiny cubicle rooms separated by corrugated iron walls and covered with mesh chicken wire.

Some survivors jumped three stories onto concrete and were injured. One man, caught in the nude in -1 degree cold, slid two stories down a rope used to lower garbage to the alley. Others ran into the street without shoes or socks or were carried down ladders by firemen.

Tony Dykes, maintenance man and waker-upper in the dilapidated hotel at 644-47 W. Madison St., a few blocks west of the Loop, said the fire evidently started from a human torch.

He said he was making his rounds on the first floor and saw Joe Armatzo, 67, a pensioner, lunge screaming from his second floor cubicle, his body clothes in blue flames.

Hotel officials said Armatzo, one of the fire dead, habitually used rubbing alcohol.

Night clerk C. W. Harvey heard Dykes' shouts and rushed to help. Occupants in nearby rooms came out and tried to beat out the flames.

But the blaze spread out of control and the hotel lights went out. Harvey said he groped his way to an alarm box but got no response, then dialed the fire department by telephone.

Several men on the third floor groped their way to a window. Arthur Anderson, 60, leaped first and injured his back in landing.

"My back hurt so I crawled out the way so the others wouldn't fall on top of me," he said.

On the second floor, Robert Staff, 54, was sleeping on a cot in his 4x6x7 foot room. The smoke and fire awakened him. Staff, who was sleeping nude, groped blindly for his clothing but couldn't find any. He ran to the rear of the hallway, knocked out a window pane and slid down a garbage disposal rope. Firemen covered him with blankets.

Charles Taylor, 62, who has only one leg, was lying awake on his cot on the first floor, when he heard the crackle of flames.

"I yelled 'fire,' grabbed my crutches, my pants and shirt," he said. "I got out into the hall and put on my pants and shirt there. Other men began running past me, but nobody knocked me down. Then I went down a hallway and down the steps."

Another survivor, Arthur M. Malcolm, 60, said his hair caught fire when he ran through the third-floor hallway. He finally leaped from a window.

SCHOOL DRAWINGS PRESENTED

Prisoner Issue Is Still Alive

That was the response by the U.N. press bureau today to a request for comment by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on the status of Americans and other U.N. personnel held prisoner by the Chinese Reds.

A month ago tomorrow night Hammarskjold returned from his around-the-world flight to Peiping and said he had opened the door in the first stage of a campaign to get U.S. fliers and other U.N. prisoners released.

The prisoners are still there—11 U.S. fliers jailed on charges of spying, 4 U.S. jet fliers held as war prisoners, 2 U.S. civilians charged with spying, and more than 2,800 other U.N. personnel of the countries that had troops in the line opposing North Korean and Chinese Communist aggression against South Korea.

Maid Admits Killing Woman

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP)—After a lie detector noted her alarm, a maid today confessed killing her wealthy mistress with a small ax following an argument over how to trim a roast, police said.

Booked on suspicion of murdering Mrs. Katie Hayden, 71, last Wednesday, is Mrs. Peggy King, 25, employed just three days before the killing.

The maid first told officers she was vacuuming in another room when Mrs. Hayden was fatally hacked in the kitchen of her $200,000 home. Yesterday Mrs. King submitted to a lie detector test. She showed reaction, police said, when asked:

"Can you identify the killer?"

There was another reaction when she was asked if she was afraid because "you know who did it."

Following the test she underwent further questioning, officers continued, and at first tried to place the blame on a yard worker. Finally, Capt. Robert Huff and sheriff's Sgt. Ray Hopkinson reported she told them:

"I'm glad to get it off my chest. I'd gotten the ax to cut the bone in the roast. We argued over how to do it. While we were arguing, Mrs. Hayden took the ax from me and tried to show me how to do it.

"The argument got more heated. I took the ax from her and struck her on the head. She didn't fall after I struck her once. I struck her again and again. I don't know how many times I struck her."

Governor Of Utah Lashes Administration

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower was extolled in many Republican Lincoln Day speeches yesterday (Saturday) but one GOP gathering at Chicago heard an attack on his administration and a call for "conservatives" to recapture control of the party.

Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah told this meeting: "I honestly believe we've gone further to the left in the last two-year period than any two-year period in the history of the country. I think it is immoral and I think it is dishonest."

Lee, among other things, assailed the United Nations and the foreign aid program, calling the latter unconstitutional.

Other GOP meetings throughout the country produced predictions that Eisenhower would run again if called upon in 1956.

The President himself, while vacationing near Thomasville, Ga., declared in a Lincoln Birthday anniversary message that "the greatness of the Republican party is, and will be, measured by the intensity of its devotion" to Lincoln's faith in America.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Atty. Gen. Brownell led the administration speaking brigade.

Mitchell said in Chicago that the Republican party will reject "the spokesmen of reaction and special groups interests" and continue to follow President Eisenhower's leadership.

Mitchell said that under the administration "the American people have enjoyed a standard of living without parallel in the history of the world," and he added:

"We stand for an ever higher standard of living."

His remarks were prepared for an Illinois State Central Committee banquet in the Morrison Hotel.

A separate rally was held in the same hotel in Chicago and its sponsors said it was attended mostly by followers of the Late Sen. Robert A. Taft. It was at this gathering that Gov. Lee spoke.

Leaders Say Legislature On Schedule

AUSTIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 54th Legislature has used up one-fourth its alloted time and its leadership believes it is running right on schedule.

The session started Jan. 11. Under constitutional suggestion it ought to finish May 10. That's the day lawmakers' pay drops to zero.

House Speaker Jim Lindsey looked back over the session's first five weeks and said today it has "taken a firm grip on its major business." Lindsey believes the lawmakers are on schedule and maybe just a little ahead of some recently past session.

"I'm especially pleased with the way committees have stayed on the job, often until midnight, to process bills," Lindsey said.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey said committees have been doing "exceptionally good work." He agreed that the session is moving along well.

Ramsey noted that six major bills plugging loopholes in the insurance laws and five of the eight bills recommended by the Water Resources Committee are ready for floor work in the Senate.

The House has 18 bills and constitutional amendment to set up a state water development board.

Other major constitutional amendments on the House calendar after committee approval in clude one to require congressional redistricting and one to abolish the ad valorem tax on automobiles and increase the registration fees.

Two insurance regulatory bills are also ready for House action.

Insurance regulation and water conservation are high on the list of major problems.

Nothing has been done yet about raising new revenue beyond introduction of tax bills. Apparently the leadership plans to wait until appropriations measures are reported from committee to give a more definite idea of how much will be required.

Money bills are still being studied item by item in the Senate Finance and House Appropriations committees.

Legislators are becoming increasingly sensitive about newspaper stories and editorial references to the long weekend recesses that have been the custom so far. Early in the session, the House declared a 5-day work week policy but it hasn't worked more than four days in any week yet.

WHAT IS A METHODIST?

your Saviour and Lord and pledge your allegiance to His Kingdom?"

"Do you receive and profess the Christian faith as contained in the New Testament of Our Lord, Jesus Christ?"

Wesley, the founder, once declared: "I believe the merciful God regards the lives and tempers of men more than their ideas." One of his basic principles was, "Think and let think." With its emphasis on life rather than creed, Methodism has been relatively free from heresy trails.

Are Methodists stricter than others in matters of personal conduct, especially as to amusements?

Methodists today are about as broad and liberal in their codes of behavior as are other leading Protestants. Methodists traditionally have fought against intemperance, gambling and licentious indulgence. John Wesley formulated a list of general rules for the members of his societies because he believed they needed concrete standards as well as ideals.

For many years, the church had a provision forbidding diversions such as card playing and dancing. This provision was changed nearly 30 years ago to read, "not taking such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

What is the Methodist position on birth control?

The General Conference of the Methodist Church has never made an official pronouncement on birth control. The statements of individual leaders suggest that prevailing Methodist opinion approves the use of contraceptives by lawfully married couples when in the interest of the mothers' health and the children's welfare. The justifying motive must be unselfish. The children we bring into the world have a right to a wholesome home life.

Toward that end, the spacing of children, the health of parents and adequate economic support are factors to be considered. The discipline recommends courses of instruction for young married couples on "life adjustments and personality problems."

What is the Methodist position on divorce?

Methodists deplore the prevalence of divorce and seek to preserve the marriage bond by every means humanly possible. However, they recognize that situations do arise where the sanctity of individual personality requires the severance of the marital relationship. They hold that those who have been wronged have the right to a second chance.

No Methodist minister should solemnize the marriage of a divorced person whose wife or husband is living and unmarried; but this rule shall not apply (1) to the innocent person, when it is clearly established by competent testimony that the true cause for divorce was adultery or other vicious conditions which, through cruelty or physical peril, invalidated the marriage vow; nor (2) to the divorced persons seeking to be reunited in marriage.

What distinguishes Methodists from other Protestant denominations?

It is difficult to say, because modern practices and the growing spirit of church unit tend to draw the leading Protestant denominations ever closer together. The Methodist Church retains, in general, the theology of the Anglican Church from which it sprang. Some Methodist parishes preserve much of the Protestant Episcopal liturgy. On the other hand, in some Methodist churches, the services of worship are very informal. Within the 40,000 American Methodist churches, there is probably as wide variation in types of thought and worship as there is between Methodists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists and others.

Of course, Methodists do have some differences from the other branches of the Protestant Church. For instance, the Protestant Episcopal Church believes that divine grace is imparted through apostolic succession. Methodists do not hold to this doctrine. Hence, a Methodist minister cannot administer the sacraments in Episcopal church. And the confirmation of members in the Methodist Church is an office not limited to bishops as in the Protestant Episcopal Church, but can be given by all ordained ministers.

Also, the Methodist Church differs from the Baptist and some others in the matter of baptism. Not only do Methodists believe in infant baptism, which the Baptists do not, but also they baptize usually by sprinkling rather than by immersion. Other differences might be cited, if space permitted consideration of the various denominations.

The two most marked Methodist emphases are the inner experience of religion and the social applications of conscience. John Wesley stressed "the witness of the spirit," "an inward impression on the soul whereby the spirit of God immediately and directly witnesses to my spirit that I am a child of God. . . that all my sins are blotted out and I am reconciled to God." Holding this emphasis, Methodism has made much of conversion, revivals and testimonies of religious experience.

The Methodist social conscience has kept the church in the forefront of reform movements, such as the improvement of labor conditions, the inculcation of temperance and the abolition of war. In the number of missions, hospitals and colleges, Methodism leads in Protestantism.

The Methodist Church also emphasizes the democratic principle in its organization and government. Laymen are increasingly given leadership in the church councils.

How is the Methodist Church governed?

Since British Methodism differs in its organization from that of the American church, we shall speak only of the United States and the main body of Methodists here.

Having been organized at about the time the United States Constitution was adopted, the Methodist Church parallels rather uniquely the pattern of American government. The executive branch consists of a Council of Bishops, whose members are elected by jurisdictional conferences composed of ministers and laymen. Each bishop presides over an area, of which there are now 37 in the United States (and 18 in mission fields abroad.) The bishops appoint the ministers of individual parishes.

The legislative power of the Methodist Church is vested in a General Conference, which meets every four years and is composed of both clergy and laymen — in equal numbers. The delegates to the General Conference are democratically elected by annual conferences and on a proportional basis.

The supreme judicial power of the church rests in a Judicial Council, whose members and qualifications are determined by the General Conference of the church.

How many Methodists are there?

The latest figures give 9,180,428 members of the Methodist Church in the United States. In addition, there are 845,793 preparatory members.

There are also three main Negro Methodist bodies: the African Methodist Episcopal Church (1,166,300 members); the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church (728,150); and the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church (392,000).

Methodists throughout the world number approximately 14,500,000 in actual membership and claim a total constituency of 25,000,000 as adherents.

Memories Of Iwo Jima Still Clear To Those Who Fought

Editor's note: This week it will be a decade since three U.S. Marine divisions landed on the sterile five-mile strip in the Pacific Ocean called Iwo Jima. In that bloody battle was a young Marine lieutenant, now an AP staffer in Dallas. He now is a major in the reserves. Here are some of his recollections of the battle and of the men who fought and died beside him.

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Ten years? Was it 10 years ago that the Japanese, snug in their caves, safe behind their gunports, looked down on the Americans from the high ground on that evil island of Iwo Jima?

Ten years next Saturday, the calendar says.

Iwo Jima is a tame, peaceful, almost deserted island now.

But the raw feeling of that patch of ground still lies in the hearts of the men who fought there, and sometimes a chance word freshens the wound.

Now and then on a bus, or in an office, or among fellows having a beer, someone will speak the name of Iwo.

And who can say how many men, now in or nearing middle age, awaken and toss the night away as the horrors of that black and treacherous island stalk through their minds again?

This is the battle always spoken of in superlatives:

The bloodiest D-Day . . .

The costliest piece of real estate in the world . . .

The Marines' bitterest fight in history . . .

And Adm. Chester Nimitz's statement:

"Uncommon valor was a common virtue."

It cost the lives of 5,563 Americans, mostly Marines, to take that five-mile-long strip of foul and sterile soil. The list of wounded totaled 17,343. The Japanese lost 23,000, and only a handful were taken prisoner.

From the perspective of 10 years, it now is clear that the battle tide was not turned by ships, guns, planes or masses of troops, essential as these were to victory.

A massive battle turned on one thing: men's courage.

Why did we need Iwo Jima?

First, because its radar was picking up our B29s as they headed for Japan, alerting homeland defenses. Also, because crippled bombers had no place to land except the open sea for 1,500 miles between Japan and their bases on other islands.

There is no way of knowing how many American lives were saved by silencing the radar. But in 4½ months after the island was captured, 2,000 Superforts made emergency landings on Iwo, some under fire of enemy fighters. B29 crews averaged 11. That would mean 22,000 found safety on Iwo. For them, 5,563 Americans died.

Preparation for the attack was sound.

For 72 consecutive days, the island underwent sea and airbombardment with everything in the U. S. arsenal, stopping short only at the A-bomb.

Then for three more days and nights, guns and planes chopped away at specific defense positions.

During the night of Feb. 18-19, 800 ships assembled off the pork-chop-shaped island.

The Amtracks, those vehicles which like turtles can travel on land or sea, began loading at 7 a.m. on Feb. 19.

They lined up, and at 8:30 the little control boats gave the signal:

Start the run for the beach.

The first line surged forward, gained speed, and adjusted ranks like a squad on a drill field. Two minutes later, a second line formed, followed the first. And many more.

Twenty thousand men of the 3rd, 4th and 5th Marine divisions swept on toward the surf line.

For 15 minutes it looked like a walkaway. Then the Japanese roused themselves. Here and there at first, then in mounting fury, their shells crashed down.

In the next four hours, Iwo Jima almost turned into a disaster.

To move at all from a sheltering shell crater meant the odds were you'd die. Cries for medical corpsmen came from everywhere.

The fire came from the escarpments, the high ground, the airfield perimeter, caves and hidden gun positions.

They couldn't miss.

Still, the Marines moved forward. They went from shell crater to shell crater in great leaps, shooting as they went, taking terrible losses.

Tanks were knocked out. But the tankers stuck with their vehicles, firing as long as their turrets would turn. Then they leaped from their vehicles, took a rifle from a fallen Marine and became riflemen.

The shoreline was so jammed with wrecked and broached craft that there was little room to land. The surf began rising discouragingly high. Shells tore into landing craft while they still were at sea.

A few did get through, notably ducks, a wheeled amphibious vehicle, driven mainly by courageous Negro army ordnance men.

The defenders were the best Japan had. They were courageous to death, smart fighters, experts on defense, well armed and exceedingly well led.

There were 23,000 of them, dug in through caves, tunnels, sunken blockhouses, sunken pillboxes, covered machine-gun nests, fire trenches, foxholes, spider traps.

The Marines' situation by nightfall verged on desperation. For instance, the 3rd Battalion of the 25th Regiment, which had landed about 1,000 strong, was down to 150 men. The entire 25th had lost 35 per cent of its manpower.

The Marines hung on through that terrible night. No one can say why the Japanese didn't counterattack. It was a major error. A vigorous counterattack with the 20,000 or so men left could have wiped out almost half of all U. S. combat Marines.

The second morning, the stubborn attackers pulled their thin, weary lines together and mounted a new assault, driving forward a few yards here, nowhere there, 50 or so yards another place.

That set the pattern for the whole battle.

The Marines had to reduce the strongpoints one by one. They drove into any crack that appeared.

Often a 50-yard gain was a successful attack. To advance 100 yards was a miracle.

The amount of defenses the Japanese could place on a single strong point was incredible.

Take, for instance, Hill 382. It wasn't much larger at its base than, say, a six-room bungalow.

Hill 382 was defended by four tanks buried to their turrets, three 77-mm. antitank guns depressed to fire on the infantry, twelve double machine guns, four heavy machine guns and countless light machine guns. It had about 20 sunken pillboxes and so many caves they never were numbered, some several levels deep. Defenders were on top of the cliffs, in the cliffs, on the ground and under the ground.

What sort of men were these—the men who finally won this bloody island?

There was grizzled, mustached Gunnery Sgt. Willie Koontz, who prowled the front with his rolling walk, looking for locations for his assault guns and who won the Navy Cross when he plunged into an enemy-filled cave to rescue his wounded major and captain.

And there was Ira Davidson, one of those Marines affectionately called retreads. Retired to a life of peaceful farming, he was called back into service when World War II erupted. For Gunner Davidson to lead a platoon half his age or less was rugged duty. But he never faltered. He was everywhere with his 37-mm. gun crews, often wrestling the heavy weapons into the front line by hand to destroy pillboxes and other strong points.

Davidson once was chided by an inspecting officer at base camp for not wearing all his ribbons on his uniform. Some dated back to the banana wars.

"It embarrasses me to wear so many," he answered.

Most of the men volunteered for just this sort of thing. Somewhat typical was Ted Powers, a Wirephoto man with The Associated Press in Dallas.

Powers tried three times to enlist in the Corps before making it. He was turned down for medical reasons. At his own expense, he underwent operations, finally made the grade.

He was one of the valiant men who spearheaded the attacks of the proud 3rd Marine Division as it slammed into the center of the line to help the 4th and 5th divisions when the going was roughest.

There was Brig. Gen. Frank Hart, recently promoted from commander of the 24th Regiment to assistant 4th Division commander.

Almost every day you could see him quick-stepping along the front, kneeling to check a machine gun's field of fire, squatting to inspect a man's wounds, encouraging weary riflemen.

It gave the troops a terrific boost just to see him, to know that a general, from a mile back at division headquarters, was interested in them.

There was the battalion supply officer, Capt. Oscar Harte Jr. No matter how hard his men worked, they couldn't keep a stockpile of food for the men or ammunition for the weapons. So the captain took a direct hand. Almost any hour of the day you could see him in the battalion's supply jeep with its dinky little trailer loaded to the gunnels as he raced and bounced over the trails into the front lines, a big, fat cigar clamped fiercely in his teeth.

The driver of the jeep ambulance was standing by his vehicle waiting for another load. His filthy helmet was tilted at a jaunty angle. His .45 dragged at his short, thin frame.

"Had me some fun this morning, Lieutenant."

"Yeah?"

"Every time I drove past that hill last night," the driver said, "The Goddam Japs shot at me." He pointed back down the trail to one of those peculiar Iwo columns—an upthrust of rock 20 to 30 feet high, sides straight as a cliff, a flat top that could hide half a dozen enemy.

"I kept saying, 'I'm going up there when it comes daylight and have myself some fun.'

"I climbed up the far side." That meant he had climbed straight up, using tiny steps the Japs had cut in the stone. "There was three of 'em and I got 'em all."

"Who went with you?"

"Hell, Lieutenant, I didn't let nobody know I was going. It was my jeep they was shooting at."

You could see the wounded almost everywhere. There was the captain whose driving charges on the football field were a legend in his outfit. A shell blew off a leg, and it lay among the men on the firing line for a time until someone took it to a shell hole, dropped it in and kicked dirt over it—a quick and efficient burial.

And the Marine, just a kid, lying on the ground, looking at those around him with gentle, pleading eyes while he drowned in his own blood from a lung wound....thousands like these.

It affected even the doctors, trained to steel themselves to human suffering. Some couldn't go on after days of seeing friend after friend brought to the aid stations with horrible wounds.

Those wounded in their minds were painful to view. Not all, by any means, became violent. Most simply sagged from fatigue and tension.

What of the dead?

The heavy toll on Iwo Jima called for mass removal of the bodies. At times, great trucks were sent into the front lines and the bodies laid row on row and layer on layer were taken to the waist of the island. There trained details buried the men while shells still fell among the crosses.

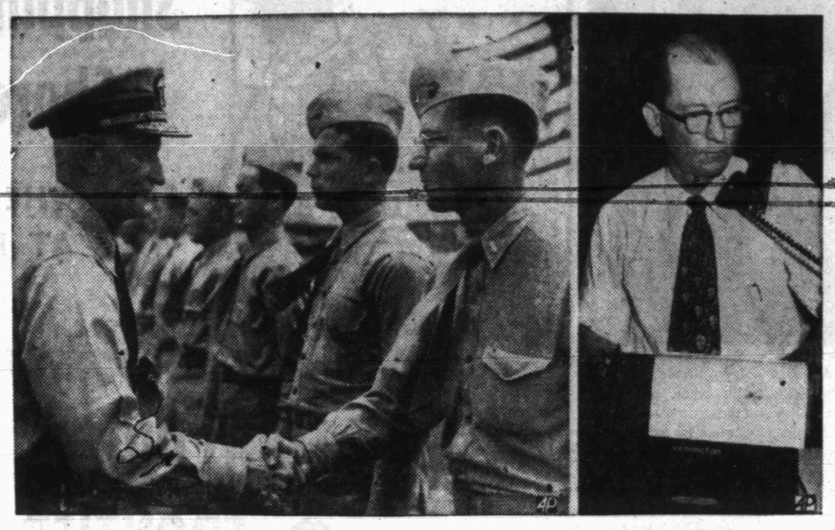

When a unit could be given an afternoon of rest, men flocked to the cemeteries.

Slowly, up and down the rows they walked, their helmets nestled in their left arms, their rifles slung at their right shoulders as they searched for the resting places of their beloved comrades.

Day by day the rows of crosses and Stars of David lengthened.

And in front of one cemetery, near the flagpole, were tiny mounds of earth set apart by a little wall of white pebbles. There rested the war dogs who would fight no more.

Iwo Jima was secured officially at 6 p.m. March 16 after 26 days and 9 hours of fighting.

THE MEN WHO WERE THERE REMEMBER

Robert E. Ford of the Dallas Associated Press was a lieutenant on Iwo Jima, that "raw patch of ground the men who were there still remember." On the 10th anniversary of the famed battle, Ford wrote a moving account of events as they were then. Above (left) he is shown being congratulated by Admiral Chester A. Nimitz after receiving a commendation for a battle that came before Iwo Jima, and right, as he is today.

Farmer Kills Self After Wife's Death

CORSICANA, Feb. 12 (AP)—J. E. Farmer, 81, retired farmer, was found dead at his home today a short time after his wife died of a heart ailment in a local hospital.

Justice of the Peace Walter Hayes returned a verdict of suicide in Farmer's death. He said Farmer took strychnine after learning of his wife's death.

Mrs. Farmer, 76, died at 6:25 a.m. Farmer died at 7:45 a.m.

Mrs. Ferguson To Be Honored

AUSTIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, only woman ever to be governor of Texas, will be 80 years old this year and preparations for a "Texas sized" birthday party already are being made here.

The celebration is being sponsored jointly by Gov. Allan Shivers and the Austin Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Ferguson's birthday is June 13.

Twice elected governor, Mrs. Ferguson is the widow of former Gov. James E. Ferguson. A native of Texas, she is a descendant of American and Texas pioneers.

The guest list for the party will include many famous Texas names. Letters endorsing the celebration plan have been received from Sens. Daniel and Johnson, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Rep. Homer Thornberry, some of whom will come from Washington for the event.

District Attorney In Group Touring State Prison System

Renal Rosson, district attorney, visited the state prison system recently when he and others of a group of about 50 state prosecutors made a tour of the Huntsville area in conjunction with the annual convention of the Texas County & District Attorneys Association.

Although the association convened at Austin, about 50 of the 500-plus who attended went by chartered transportation to Huntsville last Sunday for the prison tour.

The tour included the main prison in the city of Huntsville and also 11 other phases of the prison system, most of which are farms in the Huntsville area, Rosson said.

The prison system covers 73,000 acres, according to O. B. Ellis, manager of the system, Rosson said, quoting Ellis as revealing also that Texas prisoners raised more than a bale of cotton to the acre on their cotton crops last year.

"Nearly everything the prisoners use and eat is raised or made in the prison system by the prisoners," Rosson said. "In addition to making their shoes, other clothing, and many of their food products, they also manufacture the state's vehicle license plates."

There are several factories at the prison. Cloth is made from prison grown cotton, then garments are made there from the cloth. Other materials are likewise made, including shoes, belts, and even articles for sale such as billfods and some sorts of costume jewelry.

"We ate lunch in the main prison with management personnel," the district attorney related. "The meal served there are usually cafeteria style for the personnel as well as the prisoners, but our meal the day of the tour was served to us. Our attention was called to the fact that practically all the food served us was raised by the prisoners on the state's farms."

The prisoners raise their corn, wheat, and other grass products from which further products are made in their mills. Then, going even farther with prison economy and a system of work for the inmates, the prisoners operate a bakery, making all their pies, cakes, and bread.

Rosson said it was explained that there were between 8,500 and 8,600 prisoners in the system at that time, most of these being employed on the farms. They operate more than 200 tractors and many other farm machines and implements.

When a prisoner is received into the system, he is classified immediately, Rosson learned. This classification concerns his previous record as well as the length of his new sentence and the type of offense he committed. "This has a great deal to do with determining what group he will be placed in, what work he will do, what farm he will be sent to, etc.," he said. The classification also considers the type work he is accustomed to, if any, and whether or not he is considered dangerous.

Rosson said it was explained that most groups were composed of persons of similar dispositions and somewhat similar sentences. The most dangerous are held separate from the less dangerous, etc.

Of the total number of prisoners, about 220 were women, the attorney said. The women prisoners are kept on a farm about 10 miles south of Huntsville.

An official of the prison system stated that there were only two state systems in the nation that operated more economically than the Texas system and that in each of these two, some trusties were employed as guards. These systems are in Arkansas and Mississippi.

The economy rating given the Texas system was based on the cost per prisoner per taxpayer. Due to the increase in the number of prisoners being received into the system, however, the cost is steadily but slightly increasing, it was announced.

Rosson said there was some discussion at the tour of the pending proposal that the state legislature provide funds for paid parole officers. Texas has never used paid parole officers and only has volunteer officers at present.

After the tour, the attorneys rejoined the others for the two-day session Monday and Tuesday of the association.

Tricky Cashword Stumps The Field

Well, how did you do on that first tricky cashword puzzle?

There were a lot of answers, but none exactly right. Perhaps a study of this first one will help you wrestle with No. 2, which comes up right away.

CLUES ACROSS:

1. Lot is best. To be an "item of information" it would have to be "To Let" not simply the single word "Let". The single word Lot is, however, acceptable telling you it is a Lot.

7. Dome is the better word. "Particularly an artchitect" is the key to the answer. Anybody might appreciate the beauty of Rome but it is more likely to require the special qualifications of an architect to intelligently appreciate such a thing as a Dome on a building.

9. Firearm is best. There seems no real point in specifying the Forearm, which is merely one factor in the question of holding and using the weapon correctly. Firearm is more to the point; whatever else you do, this must be in the correct position even if the Forearm is not!

11. A player, even if he has been doing well, needs a Rest occasionally. Lack of Zest matches better with the player who has not been doing too well.

14. If you are Captured it is a rare or probably unique experience, and one you aren't likely to forget. Many people are so frequently in a state of Rapture that they form no lasting memory of the various occasions.

17. Warm is better. The clue says "possibly"; that means he may or may not think so. He would definitely think they did him more good than Harm or why would he continue taking them. This is definite; there is no "possibly" about it. He might or might not (that is, possibly) think they were better than Warm baths, however.

24. Beach is stronger although Peach comes a close second. A youngster's eyes will be more likely to light up if what he see is available to him. Since the average youngster only sees a Beach when he goes there for pleasure this applies, while the Peach may easily be in a store window, or otherwise inaccessible to the boy.

25. Meal is better since the clue implies a makeshift sort of arrangement. Fish "might do" for a Meal. It would definitely do for a Seal since that is its proper food. There is no "might" about it.

CLUES DOWN:

3. Word fits the clue better than Work. "An advantage" is an understatement for Work. It is more a necessity than "an advantage" to be able to rely on his Work, otherwise there isn't much point in employing him. If you can rely on his Word, so much the better; that is an advantage.

4. The Nose has a close association with scent (in general). The Rose is only associated with one particular scent.

5. Rent is the fairer selection, since this is more like what the average person would understand the clue to mean. Your Rent is usually a fixed or certain amount each month. To speak of "a certain amount of money" when you ment one Cent, would, though technically justifiable, be somewhat misleading and certainly much less apt.

6. Wear is the better word. The implication is that the white man, being so much less primitive, would not be inclined to Fear or Wear these things himself. This definitely favors Wear, since many of the things they Fear are also taken quite seriously by the white man.

8. Misers, yes; their make-up may well be beyond his comprehension, being so much different from his own. Even the most cheerful sort of fellow has certainly known Misery himself at some time, and he should thus be able to understand it.

12. Swagger is preferred. The clue says "inclined". An inclination, as distinct from a liability or tendency, suggests a conscious desire. After a few drinks, a person may be inclined to Swagger—because he feels good—and may Stagger simply because he can't help it.

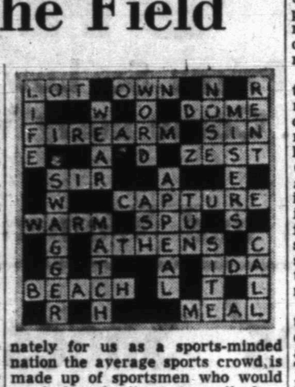

13. Appeal is preferred. Fortunately for us as a sports-minded nation the average sports crowd is made up of sportsmen who would rarely boo the "appearance" of an opposing team. It's quite common to show disapproval, however, by booing when the other fellow's appeal to the referee on a decision favoring your own team, for example.

16. Tun is the better word. A Tun is a cask which can hold quite a weight. A Ton is a weight or measure. It does not "hold" a weight.

18. Match is necessarily competitive and each Match is different and calls for concentration. Bandsmen may know a March so well that they often do not need to concentrate.

21. Site is more apt. There may well be a number of prospective Sites to consider, none of which is quite perfect; thus the question of Site may give them a lot to think about. They will know how much plant, etc., they intend to use, so the question of Size is more the sort of thing that may decide itself.

22. A Call on the telephone, or by a traveller, could do so. But it would be the consequences of the Fall — not the Fall itself. So Fall is less fitting.

Man Believes Life Span To Be 200 Years

SCHULENBURG, Feb. 12 (AP)—People could live 200 years if they'd eat right, says Gus Baumgarten.

To prove he knows something about food and age he's preparing to bake a cake for his 89th anniversary Monday.

Baumgarten is a widely honored cottonseed oil mill official. He has a long string of inventions to his credit.

As a boy, he learned cooking from his mother while he learned the oil mill business from his father. He also developed temperature controlled cooking.

Baumgarten says he doesn't really expect to live to be 200, but he believes that some day the life span of man will be that long "if man ever learns to take care of himself."

In 1900, borrowing a thermometer from his oil mill, he set out to determine the best temperatures for cooking foods.

"Temperature control is an important factor in refining oil, and the thought occurred to me—why not bake by temperature?" he said this week.

"It didn't take me long to realize that controlling the heat eliminated most of the waste in cooking—no more half raw or burned foods.

"Then the war (World War I) came, and everybody had to conserve food. I thought I had one of the answers, so in 1917, I outlined my experiments to Herbert Hoover, who was federal food administrator. He became interested at once and we exchanged a series of letters on the subject."

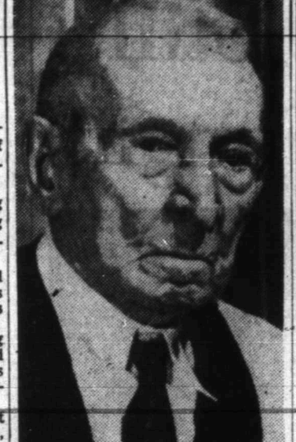

At Hoover's request, the Schulenburg man reports, Baumgarten assured home economists throughout the nation in learning to use temperature-control cooking.

Baumgarten credits his excellent physical condition to careful dieting.

"People eat too much starchy food, which puts on weight, and not enough fruits and vegetables. And beef is better than veal. A steer doesn't have any strength in his meat until he's four or five years old," says Baumgarten.

The American Music Conference estimates that three million Americans play the violin or viola.

In the United States May is the peak month for hailstorms and July for thunderstroms.

Albert Woolson, above, of Duluth, Minn., this week observed his 108th birthday anniversary. Woolson, the sole survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic, is in good health, although slowed by lameness.

The average seven-inch lead pencil will draw a line more than 35 miles long.

Merchants Get Instructions On Making Hot Check Complaints

Because of a change in the manner of handling county court charges of swindling by worthless check, letters of instruction are being sent by the county attorney to all Scurry County merchants.

Asked whether there was any change in the policy of the county attorney's office, the attorney, Wayland Holt, said there was no change in his policy of prosecuting offenders of the check swindling laws.

The county attorney said his office would continue as it had always done, to see that an attempt has been made to notify by registered letter or in person all individuals who had given worthless check, filing complaints against them only after their disregard of the notification or after attempt to notify them had been futile.

"This is not a requirement of law but is only a courtesy shown the offender," Holt said. "Notification eliminates doubt as to whether there has been an honest mistake made by the check writer and helps to strengthen the state's evidence in cases of swindling."

He added, however, that any person who passed a check and did not have sufficient funds in the bank at the time he passed it was a violater of the law, regardless of whether or not he is later notified of the offense and given grace to redeem it.

"The Court has no authority to require any person to pay the check," Holt said, "but usually the person who wrote the check indicates his desire to take it up. If he does not do so, the judge can only assess his punishment in the criminal case and cannot require him to take up the check."

To facilitate the new manner of handling the cases, he is asking that merchants follow instructions in the following letter:

"I have been instructed that, except in unusual cases (as where the maker of the check has passed several similar checks, etc.), all cases for violation of the hot check law in the county court of Scurry County will be dismissed where it appears that the merchant or other person who took the check has not made an effort to notify the maker that the check was returned unpaid and has not personally attempted to make collection thereof.

"To facilitate matters both for yourself and for my office, I will appreciate your taking the following steps and precautions when taking checks from others, and before bringing them to my office:

"1. Require identification of the person giving the check.

"2. In all cases require the person giving the check to put his address and telephone number on the check in his own handwriting.

"3. Do not take personal checks signed by some person, made payable to a second person, and endorsed by the second person to you (that is, unless you are acquainted with such second person and are willing to look to him for payment).

"4. Never take a check and agree to hold it for any length of time.

"5. Never take a post-dated check.

"6. Never take a check if you have knowledge that the maker does not have sufficient funds in the bank to pay the same.

"7. Never accept part payment of a check that has been returned by the bank unpaid.

"8. When a check is returned by the bank unpaid for any reason, send a letter to such person (preferably by registered mail with return receipt requested) addressed to such person at the address he wrote on the check, notifying him that the check was returned by the bank unpaid and requesting that he make payment immediately. Be sure to keep a copy of the letter.

"9. If the maker does not pay the check within 10 days after he receives notice that the check was not paid upon presentment to the bank, and you wish to make a criminal complaint against him for violation of the Texas hot check law, bring the check to the county attorney's office in the courthouse in Snyder, together with a copy of the letter you have written and the return receipt, and sign a complaint.

"Your cooperation in the above matter will be greatly appreciated."

THE POWER OF POSITIVE THINKING

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

"The Power of Positive Thinking" was written to suggest techniques and to give examples which demonstrate that you do not need to be defeated by anything, that you can have peace of mind, improved health, and a never-ceasing flow of energy. In short, that your life can be full of joy and satisfaction. Of this I have no doubt at all, for I have watched countless persons learn and apply a system of simple procedures that has brought about the foregoing benefits in their lives. These assertions, which may appear extravagant, are based on bona-fide demonstrations in actual human experiences.

Altogether too many people are defeated by the everyday problems of life. They go struggling, perhaps even whining, through their days with a sense of dull resentment at what they consider the "bad breaks" life has given them. There may be such a thing as "The breaks" in this life, but there is also a spirit and method by which we can control and even determine those breaks. It is a pity that people should let themselves be defeated by the problems, cares, and difficulties of human existence. It is also quite unnecessary.

In saying this I certainly do not ignore or minimize the hardships and tragedies of the world, but neither do I allow them to dominate. You can permit obstacles to control your mind to the point where they are uppermost and thus become the dominating factors in your thought pattern. By learning how to cast them from the mind, by refusing to become mentally subservient to them, and by channeling spiritual power through your thoughts, you can rise above obstacles which ordinarily might defeat you. By methods I shall outline in these articles, obstacles are simply not permitted to destroy your happiness and well-being. You need be defeated only if you are willing to be. This series teaches you how to "will" not to be.

The purpose of my book is a very direct and simple one. It makes no pretense to literary excellence nor does it seek to demonstrate any unusual scholarship on my part. It is simply a practical, direct - action, personal-improvemnt manual, written with the sole objective of helping the reader achieve a happy, satisfying, and worthwhile life. I thoroughly and enthusiastically believe in certain demonstrated and effective principles which, when practiced, produce a victorious life. My aim is to set them forth in a logical, simple, and understandable manner so that the reader, feeling a sense of need, may learn a practical method by which he can build for himself, with God's help, the kind of life he deeply desires.

If you read these chapters thoughtfully and carefully, absorbing their teachings, and if you will sincerely and persistently practice the principles and formulas set forth, you can experience an amazing improvement within yourself. By using the techniques I show you, you can modify or change the circumstances in which you now live, assuming control over them rather than continuing to be directed by them. Your relations with other people will improve. You will become a more popular, esteemed, and well-liked individual. By mastering these principles, you will enjoy a delightful new sense of well-being. You may attain a degree of health not hitherto known by you and experience a new and keen pleasure in living. You will become a person of greater usefulness and will wield an expanded influence.

How can I be so certain that the practice of these principles will produce such results? The answer is simply that for many years, in New York City, we have taught a system of creative living based on spiritual techniques, carefully noting its operation in the lives of hundreds of people. It is no speculative series of extravagant assertions that I make, for these principles have worked so efficiently over so long a period of time that they are now firmly established as documented and demonstrable truth. The system outlined is a perfected and amazing method of successful living.

In my writings, including several books, in my regular weekly newspaper column in nearly one hundred dailies, in my national radio program over seventeen years in our magazine, "Guideposts," and in lectures in scores of cities, I have taught these same scientific yet simple principles of achievement, health, and happiness. Hundreds have read, listened, and practiced, and the results are invariably the same: new life, new power, increased efficiency, greater happiness.

Because so many have requested that these principles be put into book form, the better to be studied and practiced, I wrote this new volume under the title, "The Power of Positive Thinking." I need not point out that the powerful principles contained herein are not my invention but are given to us by the greatest Teacher who ever lived and who still lives. They teach applied Christianity; a simple yet scientific system of practical techniques of successful living that works.

GOP Leaders In Dallas For Special Event

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
The Associated Press

Texas' band of militant Republicans—still burning with an ambition to establish a true two-party system in the state—converged on Dallas this weekend.

Their trip to big D's crowded hotel district was occasioned by more than one event. But the biggest perhaps was a $100-a-plate Lincoln Day dinner Monday.

Former House Speaker Joe Martin, the Massachusetts Republican replaced for the second time last month by Texas' Democratic Sam Rayburn, will be a main speaker. Other Republicans to be heard include National Committeeman Jack Porter of Houston and Dallas' young political phenomenon, Republican Congressman Brude Alger.

The other Republican event in Dallas will be a speech at noon Monday by Sen. William E. Jenner, the GOP member from Indiana who gained fame and became a controversial figure as head of the Senate's Internal Security subcommittee.

Jenner is to talk under sponsorship of the Public Affairs Luncheon Club of Dallas and Committee of 100, a businessmen's organization headed by veteran politico Alvin M. Owsley.

Dallas County Republican Chairman Paul O'Rourke, assuring newsmen Martin's talk would not be "wholly political," said the former House speaker would "touch on the Eisenhower policy as related to the latest Communist maneuvers."

O'Rourke said more than 600 Republicans would slap down the $100 each necessary to hear Martin and break bread with the stocky, black-haired Massachusetts newspaper publisher. Most will be from Dallas, he said, but about 100 are expected from Houston and large delegations are expected from Fort Worth and San Antonio. Lesser numbers will be in Dallas from all over the state, he said.

"The fact that more than 600 are coming to this campaign fund-raising dinner at $100 a plate proves that the county and state want a two-party system in Texas," O'Rourke opined.

More Americans attended concerts than baseball games in 1952.

STRANGE BALLOON FOUND NEAR HERE

Cullen Toombs, county commissioner who lives near Fluvanna, is shown above examining a strange plastic balloon which fell in his field sometime last week. The huge pile of thin plastic was guessed to be a weather balloon, but it contained no clues to its actual identity or use. Only markings on the balloon were the words "balloon 34, patent 2,526,719." Oil Companies Plan Canadian Operations

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Oil companies plan to spend 400 million dollars in Canada this year, the Petroleum Engineer Magazine said today.

The magazine said Canada has now become the third largest oil producer in the Western Hemisphere, with 3 billion barrels of proven oil reserve. Natural gas reserves were set at 14 trillion feet.

Imports Suspended

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Falling coffee prices and the consequent drop in foreign exchange prompted the government today to temporarily suspend import permits.

22 FFA Boys At Ira Prepare Entries For Livestock Show

Twenty-two boys in the Ira chapter of the Future Farmers of America are now making final preparations with project animals for entry in the Scurry County Junior Livestock Show, which will be held in Snyder March 3-5.

Each of the boys has some type of animal project, and all have more than one project, either more than one animal or animal and crop. Crops, however, cannot be entered in any local competition, since there is no county fair or other similar-type show.

L. M. Dawson, advisor for the chapter, reports that the group will enter 27 barrows, six calves, and five sheep in the junior livestock show here. Last year, several Ira boys took prizes in the local show, and they gained enough places to carry with them a rotating chapter trophy from the barrow division.

The Ira chapter has one activity which might be called a chapter project. It takes care of 10 pieces of agricultural equipment owned by the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District. The district has this equipment for rental to cooperators, and the Ira chapter handles details of that for a 30 per cent share of the fees. This raises about $150 annually, Dawson said, adding that the group also sells subscriptions to farm magazines to raise money. A large portion of the funds are used each May when the chapter fetes the home economics girls of the school on a picnic. The chapter also annually sends two delegates to the state FFA convention. The convention will be held in Houston in July this year.

The Ira high school has a four-year agriculture program, but none of the 22 chapter members are fourth year students this year. Sixteen of the boys have qualified as chapter farmers. None of them have been awarded Lone Star Farmer degrees yet, since the long drought has kept them from earning the more than $500 profit in one year as required for the degree.

Perhaps the largest agricultural operation carried on by any one boy in the group is that by Earl Clinkenbeard, who has a flock of about 25 Rambouillet ewes, for breeding stock, eight Duroc gilts for breeding, and farms 200 acres alone. He plans to raise cotton and grain on the land this year. He will be entering five mutton lambs in the junior show.

Farrell Bryant and Don Gray each have quarter-section places rented for farming and have their own equipment. Gray also has five ewes for a breeding project, as well as three Duroc barrows and one Hereford calf to show.

In addition to entering the local show, the boys will enter all their stock projects except lightweight calves in the Sweetwater show Feb. 28 - March 2. Several will enter capons in the Abilene show March 7-8. Those with capons are Billy Don Farmer, Don Plumlee, William Autry, Jerry Ford, and Clinkenbeard.

Farmer is president of the Ira chapter, while Gray is vice-president. Other officers are Leon Huddleston, secretary; Wayne Gullett, reporter; Bryant, treasurer; Lawton Taylor, sentinel; and Maben Richardson, song leader.

L. M. Dawson, Ira vocational agriculture teacher, and Billy Don Farmer, Ira chapter president of the Future Farmers of America, polish a rotating trophy which they will try to win again this year in the annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show. One county chapter wins a trophy in the swine, calf, or sheep division each year. Farmer is one of the Ira students who will show pigs this year. (Lee Watson photograph)

Old Grasses Come Through Drought Best

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor
(Written for The Associated Press

AMARILLO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Buffalo and blue grama grasses have come through the thick and thin of varied weather conditions in this vast area of the Texas Panhandle as the "old reliable" sources of grazing on permanent pastures.

Gene Southall, Potter County agent, said "these grasses have been here forever. They are 'native' in every sense of the word."

Buffalo grass is tough and highly nutritious and spreads rapidly under anything like favorable conditions. Blue grama is also highly nutritious and afford more forage than buffalo. "I believe our cattlemen consider blue grama their best all-around permanent pasture grass. "This is a short-grass country, and the blue grama and buffalo rate highest in the kingdom of these grasses.

Southall emphasized that cattlemen in this area are showing a greatly increased interest in deferred grazing—where the land is rested from grazing during certain seasons. The cattlemen are practicing three kinds of deferment—year-round deferment, summer deferment and winter deferment.

Southall said summer deferment results in seed production of the plants and helps establish new plants. Winter deferment helps root systems become more firmly established. However, very dry weather has forced some to use all grazing resources available.

Carrying capacity of the grazing land varies. If the range is stocked with steers, the carrying capacity is 50 to 75 animals for each section—640 acres. On cow and calf operations, where the animals are on the pasture the year round, the carrying capacity is about 40 head per section.

Best sources of temporary grazing in the region are afforded by wheat and sudan grass. Many cattlemen are grazing sorghum stubble as a source of feed.

Southall said some 15,000 acres of land are under irrigation in Potter County and that interest in irrigation is expanding. He believes the irrigated acreage will show an increase. The cost of putting down an 8-inch well to a depth of 200 to 250 feet ranges from $7,500 to $10,000.

There are more than 25,000 species of lice that eat feathers.

Tuesday Deadline For Drought Feed

Applications for assistance under the drought emergency hay and feed grain programs will not be accepted from farmers and ranchers after midnight, Feb. 15, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

Kenneth L. Scott, director of the USDA's Agricultural Credit Services, said announcement of a deadline for acceptance of new applications is in accord with the USDA's policy of bringing drought emergency feed programs to an end as soon as Spring pasture and forage becomes available. He said, however, that if acute drought conditions continue in any area it is contemplated that State Drought Committees will request continued assistance.

Scott also reminded that while the railroad industry's contribution to the drought disaster program — a 50 per cent reduction in the rate for hauling hay into designated areas — will expire Feb. 15, the government's part in the program (half the actual cost of transporting hay up to $10 per ton) will continue on all deliveries to eligible farmers and ranchers until midnight March 31. USDA hay program contracts with states expire on March 31.

Under the emergency grain program, farmers or ranchers in designated drought counties make application through local Farmers Home Administration county committees for this special assistance. If they are eligible under provisions of the program, they are given farmer's purchase orders covering the approved amount of grain. The purchase orders are good for $1 per hundredweight on the amount of grain involved, and may be issued for needed supplemental supplies for a period of up to 60 days. Applications approved before the Feb. 15 cut-off date could therefore cover supplies needed up to the middle of April.

Feed grain purchase orders issued to farmers, ranchers or dairy men must be used by them to purchase approved quantities of feed grains soon enough so that dealers will have ample time to present the purchase orders to Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county offices, in counties where issued, before the expiration of 120 days after the date the orders were issued. Dealers, or other holders of dealers' certificates, will continue to have 120 days from the date of issuance of the dealer's certificates to purchase replacement supplies from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The feed grain program was set up to supplement the already existing hay program, FHA emergency loans, and certain cost-share assistance provided by the Agricultural Conservation Program Service — all of which were designed to help eligible farmers and ranchers maintain basic livestock herds.

The most recent report on the hay program which was issued Jan. 7, indicated that in the participating states, 19,278 certificates had been handled, accounting for delivery of 244, 193 tons of hay. Total transportation costs were $2,200,001.02 and of this Federal funds had been used to pay $1,011,933.86.

The most recent report on the feed grain program which was issued Jan. 26 indicated that in 18 participating states the number of purchase orders issued totaled 739,553, covering upwards of 75 million bushels of grain. The government's investment in this program as of that date was about $30 million, which is represented by disposal of CCC-owned surplus feed grains.

GOP To Plan Convention

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Republicans today announced plans for two days of conferences next week—Wednesday and Thursday—to decide the time and place for their 1956 national convention. Fund-raising also will come up.

Preliminary talk among the Republicans about a site is understood to have veered toward Chicago, the city recently picked by a Democratic subcommittee subject to a mail poll by the full national committee. The Democratic subcommittee also selected Aug. 13 as a starting date after finding Aug. 27 ran beyond certain state deadlines for qualifying nominees for the ballot.

This same date trouble, brought on by a desire to hold later-than-usual conventions, has got the Republicans scanning state laws.

Abundance Of Rice

SINGAPORE, Feb. 12 (AP) There's an abundance of rice—staple for hundreds of millions in Southeast Asia—and consumers are looking for further deep dips in price this year. A report by the Food and Agriculture Organization said the sharp rise in global rice production which featured 1952-53 continued at an "unslackened pace" in 1953-54. Bumper rice crops, too, are expected this coming spring.

FARM AND RANCH

Farm credit is being discussed in many places now, and as a result, the Fisher County Farmers Union has arranged for an informational farm credit meeting in the Midwest Electric Building at Roby for Feb. 21.

Joe Dismore, president of the union, said special representatives of the Farmers Home Administration and Production Credit Association will be on hand to explain loans they have available for farmers. Some misunderstanding prevails, Dismore said, in who is eligible for FHA disaster loans, and this will be cleared up in the meeting.

Two Fisher farmers, said Dismore, will be chosen to represent the union in an appearance before some congressional committee in Washington, D. C., during the first week of March.

The meeting is open to all farmers, Dismore said.

Preliminary results with ground or rolled guar beans indicate the beans from the annual legume compare very favorably with cottonseed and soybean pellets as a protein supplement for weaner calves on winter pastures.

This report comes from the U. S. Southern Great Plains Field Station at Woodward, Okla. A daily ration of 3.5 pounds of rolled guar beans per weaner steer produced slightly greater winter gains per head and more "bloom" than a standard daily steer ration of two pounds of 41 per cent cottonseed or soybean pellets. Summer and yearlong gains were slightly higher for guar-fed steers than for those fed either cottonseed or soybean.

Guar is a summer - growing drought-resistant annual legume. It was introduced into this country from India in 1903 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture but did not arouse public interest until 1940. It is now being grown as a cash and soil improvement crop on a limited commercial scale in Texas and Oklahoma. It is generally adapted to sandy soils in the cotton and sorghum areas west of the 35-inch rainfall line and south of the 39th parallel. It should be grown as a row crop, with inoculation, phosphate fertilization, and clean cultivation. It matures in about 125 days, as do many sorghums.

Guar now has two uses and promises to have a third. It can be raised in rotation with crops as a soil-building legume, or the beans can be easily harvested as a cash crop for use by industry for the production of a vegetable gum. It is not an oil crop. A third use may be that of a home-grown protein supplement for cattle.

It is possible that farmers of this area will someday be planting a mixture of guar and redtop cane or other grain sorghums for a roughage high in protein. Those co-operating with the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District have shown interest in guar during the last few years.

In Fair Condition

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP)—Capt. Horace Brown, husband of former actress Marion Davies, was reported in fair condition today at St. John's Hospital where he is being treated for a broken back suffered when he was thrown from a horse Thursday.

SOCIAL SECURITY TO BE DISCUSSED

Social security provisions for agriculturists will be discussed Tuesday night here in a meeting called by the Scurry County Farm Bureau.

The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the district courtroom of the courthouse. Mal Andress, secretary of the bureau, said all farmers and ranchers are invited, whether they are members of the Farm Bureau or not.

Under new social security provisions, farmers, farm workers, and ranchers are covered. A representative of the Abilene social security office will be on hand at the meeting to explain the new law and to answer questions.

Slow Drivers Draw Tickets On Freeway

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12 (AP)—Seven motorists were given tickets today for driving too slow.

Traffic police used radar equipment on the east-west freeway to check motorists. The seven were driving 25 to 30 miles an hour. Minimum on the route is 40 miles an hour. Maximum is 55.

ABOVE THE BLEACHERS

By DALE WALTON

It's hard enough to get along when you break a bone, but what about when you were born with one missing.

One person in this condition, surprisingly, is Hollis Gainey, Colorado City's speedy football and track star. This was not discovered until a few days ago when he was in Dallas getting x-rays for a sore foot or something, and physicians noticed that one leg bone was completely missing. The missing bone, which Gainey never had, had nothing to do with this current trouble and apparently didn't bother him at all.

If it bothered him in any way, it certainly did not cut down on his speed.

Rumors are always going around, and here's the latest piece of gossip we picked up: it seems that DeWitt Weaver might be more interested in the recently-vacated coach's job at Louisiana State University than he was in the Arkansas position he recently turned down. This might be especially so if LSU combines the jobs of head coach and athletic director and puts a fatter salary on the post.

But then, there's even this older rumor about Weaver. It involves his waiting to see what happens to Ed Price at Texas during the next year or so. It's not unlikely that Weaver would be considered at Texas if Price should for some reason get out of the job.

Snyder's two junior high teams, which finished their basketball seasons last week, have made letter awards to several boys.

The eighth grade, which had a 9-1 record for the season, had as lettermen Jimmy Allen, Danny Tankersley, Terry Lee, Chuck Warren, Mickey McGrew, Gale Courtney, Dale Cates, Richard Mashian, and manager Charles Bridges. Allen led season scoring for the team with 117 points, while Courtney was next with 100, McGrew with 26, Lee with 24, and Mahan with 17.

Squad letters for that team were given to Roger Hensley, George Williams, Tony Anger, Billy Dubose, Jerry Proctor, Jerry Flemming, Kenneth Yates, Donald Brewer, Bob Carpenter, Leasel Richardson, Roy Beene, Bob Fields, Bo Brown, Larry Dodson, and Tim Roberts.

Lettering for the seventh grade, which had an 8-2 season record, were Barry Walker, Dick Hayes, Mike LaFountain, Alex Cross, Norman Gladson, Coleman John, David Myers, DeVane Jones, Don Martin, and managers William Rains and Gay Hickman.

High scorers for that team were Cross with 40, and Gladson with 30.

Glovers Open State Tourney On Wednesday

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12 (AP)—The best amateur boxers in Texas will start assembling here Tuesday, ready for the Wednesday night start of the 19th annual Texas Golden Gloves tournament.

The tournament will last five nights, with the finals scheduled on Monday, Feb. 21.

Boxers from 17 regional tournaments will be here.

Directors of the regional events will meet here Tuesday to make final plans for the state tournament.

Officials estimate that approximately 120 boxers will make weight and pass the physical examinations. From that field will emerge the eight men who will represent the state in the Tournament of Champions at Chicago Feb. 28, March 1 and 2.

Four 1954 titlists and another who won in 1947 are in the field. They are Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, light-heavyweight who was unbeaten through 1954 competition; heavyweight Wesley McDonald of Fort Worth; lightweight J. C. Crowley of Fort Worth; and featherweight Duggie Jameson of Amarillo. Jameson was a bantam last year, but the others are back at their old weights.

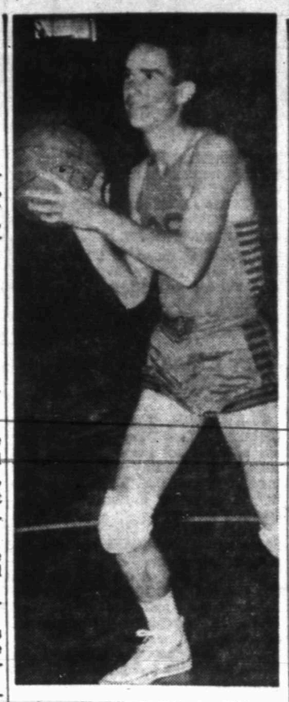

Harris is the Houston champion. He went to the semifinals at Chicago last year, but was forced out at that point by an attack of influenza.

El Paso, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston, Beaumont and Amarillo appear strongest team contenders this year. San Antonio won the title last year, and will have three members of the team back again, including two semifinalists.

Patricia Keller McCormick is the only woman ever to hold all five A. A. U. diving titles in any one year.

Allie Brandt of Lockport, N.Y., had 33 strikes out of a possible 36 the night in 1939 when he bowled the all-time record league series of 886.

Leon Huddleston is one of those who have been pacing the Ira Bulldogs, who are now winding up their cage season. Huddleston, 5-foot-9, is a junior. Ira will go to Coahoma for a game tomorrow night.

Hobbs Girls Near Title

HIGHLAND, Feb. 12 — The Hobbs girls basketball team needed only one more victory Saturday to clinch their district championship.

The Hobbs aggregation Friday night nudged Highland, 45-43, in the first game of the playoff series. A victory next Friday night at Hobbs would give the Hobbs team the district crown.

Friday night's game was a nip and tuck affair, with the score tied at 43-43 with only four seconds left to play. Barbara Sellers connected with a field goal just before the end of the game to give Hobbs its margin.

Miss Sellers was high scorer for the winners with 18 points, while Delphine South had 15 points. Price scored 20 points to lead Highland, and Spence came in with 19 points for the losers.

Hobbs was undefeated in the regular season round robin play, but district rules provide a playoff series between the first and second place clubs. Highland's only losses in 10 games during regular district play were to Hobbs.

Session In Dallas Will Honor Wyatt

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Bowden Wyatt will be proclaimed Southwesterner of the year, Dick Moegle will be cited as the outstanding athlete of 1954 and coaches of the year in Texas will be honored here Feb. 28 at the annual sports achievement dinner of the Saturday Morning Quarterback Club of Dallas.

All of the men picked for awards by the Texas Sports Writers Association accepted invitations to attend the dinner, with Wyatt, who won his honor by coaching Arkansas to the Southwest Conference football championship, coming from Knoxville, Tenn., where he now is coach of the University of Tennessee.

W. A. McElreath, who coached Trinity University to an undefeated, untied football season; C. R. Gilstrap, football coach of Arlington State, and A. E. Kotrola, football coach of Stephen F. Austin High School of Houston, will receive plaques as senior college, junior college and high school coach of the year respectively.

Some 600 persons will attend the dinner at the Dallas YMCA with DeWitt Weaver, football coach of Texas Tech who was the Southwesterner of 1953, as the principal speaker.

Athletic achievements of Dallas County for 1954 also will be recognized.

Blackie Sherrod, sports editor of the Fort Worth Press and vice-president of the Texas Sports Writers Association, will award plaques to Wyatt, Moegle, McElreath, Gilstrap and Kotrola. Flem Hall, sports editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is president of the Sports Writers Association but could not be here to make the presentations. He will be in Chicago with the Texas Golden Gloves team.

Doak Walker, the football immortal of Southern Methodist University and star of professional football, will make the awards to the Dallas County achievement winners.

Raleigh Blakeley, former Southern Methodist football star, will be master of ceremonies.

Wyatt, in accepting the invitation, wrote that "it is a great honor to be named 'Southwesterner of the year' and I am looking forward to the visit with all of you."

Gilstrap injected a little humor in his acceptance. "I shall be there as I am sure all of the other coaches will," he wrote. "You see, something like this is a thing we don't overlook when the chance comes our way."

"Thank you for the invitation—I will be there with bells on!" said McElreath.

"Appreciate the recognition and will be present at the sports achievemnt dinner," wired Kotrola.

Moegle expressed his delight in receiving the honor and said he would be most happy to attend the dinner.

Traylor Looks Good In Drills

WACO, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—Baylor appears all set with a top quarterback for 1955.

Danny Doyle Traylor, the Temple High School great who was supposed to step in at the position last season but missed the entire campaign with a collorbone separation, has been working in spring training and showing no ill effects.

The versatile quarterback, a great passer, has lived up to all advance notices in the workouts and squad games.

Baylor lost its regular quarterback of 1954, Billy Hooper, through graduation.

Traylor is one of several highly promising first-year varsity men in spring camp. Center Larry Covart of San Antonio, guard Gilbert Pelton of Anson, tackles Bob Prigmore of Pampa and Fred Britton of Highland, N. J., and ends Bill Anderson of Refugio, Wayne Miller of Belton, Jerry Marcontel of Cedar Bayou and Merton Fuquay of San Antonio are linemen standing out in the spring workouts.

Ken Helms of Anson at quarterback; Joey Allen of Corpus Christi, Robert Crow of Fort Worth and Bobby Peters of Van at halfbacks and Jim Blackmon of El Paso at fullback are showing up well in the backfield.

Bill Glass is making the change from center to tackle nicely and end Henry Gremminger and halfback Del Shofner are others of the returning lettermen looking top class.

Baylor will close spring training next Saturday with an intra-squad game.

Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, played in two All-Star games, 1934 and 1941, but failed to get a hit.

Psychology Holds Interest Of Bulla

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Great players such as Bob Jones, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson were born great golfers. They were not made. And Jones would have been even greater had he been a natural righthander.

Such are the convictions of Johnny Bulla, who has won his share of laurels as a tournament golfer over a 17-year span but whose main interest dwells in the field of human behavior.

The 40-year-old Bulla, who lives in Phoenix, Ariz., and plays out of Pittsburgh, has been a student of psychology for many years. One of his regrets is that he undertook a golfing career instead of psychology.

Bulla, discussing his avocation during the recent tournament swing through California, pin-pointed some of the oustanding characteristics of the established stars and the prospects of a potential great, Gene Littler.

The famed Bobby Jones, he said, was born a lefthander. The fact that he played right handed, and became a champion despite the physical conflict he fought with himself, reflects even greater powers, Bulla noted.

"I am a strong believer," Bulla continued, "that the fate of a golfer is decided in the gene contribution of the parents at conception."

He outlined what he calls a "trait pattern" of what a golfer should have if he is to stand out above the rest. None has them all, but the Sneads, Hogans and Jones have enough of each to shine.

Here's his trait pattern:

1. Be born with extremely high analytical ability.
2. Highly developed capacity to concentrate.
3. A large ego.
4. Great self-confidence (and here he again mentioned Jones, Hogan, Snead and Nelson).
5. A definite trait of stubbornness.
6. Great physical drive.
7. High rating of ambidexterity.
8. High degree of ambition.

("This normally is an hereditary factor. But I believe a person can change or modify a trait by free will. This is the exception rather than the rule, however.")

Of Littler, the San Diego 22-year-old and newest attraction on the tournament swing, Bulla said he had had an opportunity to study him for almost six years. He believes Littler has a chance to become one of the all-time fine players.

Report LSU Wants Bryant

AUSTIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—Influential Louisiana State University backers are working to get the Texas A&M coach, Bear Bryant, for LSU athletic director and head coach, the Austin American said today it has been told by an authoritative source.

The American said Bryant, contacted at his office at College Station, said no one had talked to him on an official basis. He did not deny he had been contacted by someone from LSU.

"But I don't think anyone would be interested in a coach who didn't win any games last season," he told the newspaper. The Aggies lost all their conference games, and had only a lone 6-0 victory over Georgia.

Bryant came to A&M as head coach last year after Ray George was fired. The American said he was "all but officially hired by Louisiana State University just before he left Kentucky for Aggieland."

Publicly he has denied any dissatisfaction at A&M, but there have been reports he feels that without co-eds at A&M he will have a hard time getting boys who are suitable football material to enroll there.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—Beary Bryant said today he isn't happy at Texas A&M, won't be happy until the Aggies start winning football games, but that no other school has asked for his services.

He doesn't expect any job offers as long as he's a losing coach, the Aggie athletic director and head coach said. His statement was in response to a report in the Austin (Tex.) American-Statesman that he might be offered the same jobs at Louisiana State.

Bryant issued this statement:

"I have not been contacted by LSU or any other institution and don't think anyone would be interested in a coach who didn't win any games last season.

"Neither do I think a coach should be interested in leaving until he does win some games.

"I like A&M and I like Texas, but as far as being happy, I'm not and I don't want anyone around me being happy as long as we are losing. In time, we expect to enjoy happiness, also."

Bryant's last reference was to promise shown by the Aggie freshmen in taking the conference freshman football championship last season.

Tigerettes Lose Twice

Snyder High School's Tigerettes fell to two of the area's toughest volleyball teams during the weekend in the Midland tournament.

The locals are improving, says their coach, Mrs. Bertie Machel. Odessa and Midland were the teams which beat the Snyder squad, and those two plus Seminole and Big Spring have the strongest volley squads in this area.

In the first round of the tourney, Snyder lost to Odessa 38-23. Odessa had a sizeable lead at halftime in that game, 23-10. Carol McKinney was high scorer for the Snyder team with eight points, followed by Sandra Scott with seven.

Midland, which lost to Seminole 53-8 in the first round, yesterday took Snyder 29-22 in the consolation semi-finals.

Snyder led at one time during the second half 15-14. The Tigerettes had picked up in scoring right after the half, when Midland was leading 14-7, and scored eight points before Midland scored again. High scorers in that game were Carla Swan with seven points and Mickey Gillean and Lynda Smith with four each.

The Snyder team's next action will be next Thursday night against Fort Stockton in the Odessa tournament.

Berg Leads By Two Strokes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP) — Patty Berg took a two-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $5,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open today, shooting par 74 for a 36-hole total of 145.

Biting winds and a temperature hovering around the 50-degree mark handicapped most of the field, including Miss Berg's two chief first-round competitors.

Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., the first-round leader with a 69, skied to 81 today. She never got into any bad trouble but, overcautious, was short all the way.

Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, who had a 70 her first round, shot 83 today.

In second place after 36 holes was Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., who put together rounds of 72 and 75 today for 147. She played a steady unspectacular game.

Next came three players tied at 150—Miss Faulk, Jackie Pung of Cincinnati and Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mrs. Pung had the day's best round—a 72—over the 6,116-yard, par 74 Sunset Country Club course. She was chipping and putting exceptionally well. Miss Crocker's score today was 76.

Low amateur was Mrs. Mark McGarry of St. Petersburg with 161.

The tournament, which had to skip a day because of hard rains, will be completed Monday. Another 18-hole round is to be played tomorrow.

Shaw To Help AF Team Get Started

DENVER, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gray-haired Lawrence (Buck) Shaw, veteran of college and professional football coaching, will come here this summer as a specialist to try to give the Air Academy team a strong start on the gridiron.

The new service school's first football team next fall will play eight university freshman elevens. The Air Force fondly hopes that some day its teams will be battling Army, Navy, Notre Dame and other titans on even terms.

Shaw will be here in July, August and September as a part-time football consultant, said Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, academy superintendent. He will retain his public relations post with a San Francisco import-export firm.

What the future will hold for Shaw at the Air Academy no one would say. The veteran coach said at his Atherton, Calif., home he had not discussed long-range plans with Air officials.

"If they like me and I like it there, we'll talk about the head coaching job in 1956," Shaw said. He added there will be time to talk about 1956 "when we know a few more answers to this year."

Harmon's announcement said Shaw will be assisted by Lt. Col. Robert V. Whitlow and other Air Force officers on the athletic staff. Whitlow, who heads the Department of Athletics as president of the Air Force Athletic Assn., is a former UCLA and Army grid star.

Shaw coached at Santa Clara, Nevada and North Carolina State before taking over as pilot of the San Francisco 49ers of the pro league in 1946. He was fired last fall by the 49ers, who were regarded as contenders for the Western Division title in the National Professional League but wound up with a 7-4-1 record.

Temple Franchise Up For Discussion

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12 (AP)—A special meeting of the Big State Baseball League has been called for 2 p.m. Tuesday at Austin to discuss the Temple franchise and the 1955 schedule.

President Howard Green said today that Texas City would probably replace Temple. Green also said that Port Arthur was definitely in the league, replacing Del Rio.

Port Arthur was in the Evangeline League last year and had been seeking release from that circuit.

McKnight Says Cotton Bowl Should Not Be Passed Around

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Felix McKnight of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Assn., commenting tonight on a proposal the annual football game be shared with other Southwest Conference cities, said "there is only one Cotton Bowl stadium"—and it's in Dallas.

McKnight pointed out "the Cotton Bowl idea was pioneered in Dallas." He said "our investment, our efforts, our experience and our interest in all schools of the conference" should be given full consideration.

McKnight's formal statement came after the chairman of the Houston Chamber of Commerce's athletic committee, J. P. Hamblen, announced his committee had endorsed the plan. Hamblen said his committee had passed the proposal on to the Houston chamber's board of directors for final action.

In his statement, McKnight said cities other than Dallas are represented on the Cotton Bowl Association's board of directors. "In the final analysis," he said, "the Southwest Conference is the agency controlling the game."

The conference does not have a contract with the State Fair of Tex., Inc., to produce the Cotton Bowl game but the Cotton Bowl Association has. The association is made up mostly of representatives of Southwest Conference schools. The association's contract with the state fair, which owns the stadium, has about 10 years to run.

Howard Grubbs, secretary of the Cotton Bowl and of the Southwest Conference, declined to comment on the Houston proposal.

"In my opinion the Cotton Bowl doesn't belong to Dallas in any sense of the word," Hamblen told the committee. "It belongs to the Southwest Conference. I believe the choice of a site should be left to the school which represents the Southwest Conference."

The conference champion is host team in the Cotton Bowl.

Grubbs said "the Southwest Conference will receive any suggestion anybody has to offer regarding the Cotton Bowl game but I have no idea what the conference would do in this case. I have no comment on the merits of the plan."

Grubbs had just returned from New York where he attended a meeting of the television committee of the NCAA of which he is a member .The committee discussed the plan of procedure next football season—whether television of football would again be confined to one game in the nation per week, thrown open or put on a regional basis. The committee took no action and will meet in Chicago next Friday and Saturday to resume its deliberations.

Hamblen, in advocating that the Cotton Bowl be shifted around with the host team making the selection of the site, said that at the present time such a plan would involve only three places — Dallas, Houston and Austin—which have stadia of sufficient size.

He said personally he believed Houston, with its better parking facilities and better hotel capacity, would be the best site.

Rice is located at Houston, Texas at Austin and Southern Methodist at Dallas. Other members of the conference are Texas A&M at College Station, Texas Christian at Fort Worth, Arkansas at Fayetteville and Baylor at Waco. Baylor and Texas A&M have stadia seating 40,000. TCU can handle only 34,000 and Arkansas 28,000.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas seats 75,504 and plans have been announced for enlarging it. The Rice Stadium seats 70,000 and the University of Texas Stadium 65,498.

Cotton Bowl To Add 5,000 More Seats

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—A 5,000-seat addition to the Cotton Bowl Stadium at the State Fair of Texas is being planned, fair president R. L. Thornton said yesterday.

The addition, planned for the upper deck on the east side of the mammoth concrete bowl, would bring its capacity to more than 80,000 persons. It now seats 75,504.

Cotton Bowl president Felix McKnight said the construction would be financed by the sale of options allowing purchase of choice seats to Cotton Bowl events.

Thornton said architects are working on plans for the expansion, but the start of construction will depend on the amount of interest in Southwest football next season.

Usry Plans To Turn Down West Point Bid

CLEBURNE, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—Cleburne's Don Usry, an All-America high school player at end last season, said today he planned to turn down the U.S. Military Academy in favor of a Southwest Conference school.

Ursy declined to say which Southwest Conference school he planned to enter.

He had been contacted by Tex Coulter and Doc Blanchard, former All-America gridders for West Point, in regard to attending the academy.

Ursy said he was grateful for the opportunity but planned to turn it down.

SMU Enlarges Slate

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—Southern Methodist added a game to its basketball schedule today. SMU will play the Armed Forces All-Stars in Dallas Feb. 18.

Minor League Skid Appears To Be Ended

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 12 (AP)—Minor league baseball, which went on the toboggan after hitting its heyday in 1949, seems to have leveled off at the end of the five-year slide.

After soaring to an all-time high of 59 leagues in 1949, the minors skidded in successive seasons to 50, 42, 39, 37 and 33 circuits. That's still a big gain over the 11 leagues of 1942, but is 26 loops under the high spot.

But the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues said today the slump has halted and that the 1955 season will open with the same number which started a year ago. And there's a chance, said Promotion Director Bob Finch, that the total might jump to 34.

Only one league, the Western Assn., has dropped out. Its decision to quit may have been influenced by the appearance of Kansas City as a major league club in its territory.

To make up the loss, the Class AA Mexican League was taken into the association, the first all-foreign circuit to gain full-fledged membership. Another change is that the Western International League has changed its name to the Northwest League and reduced its rating from Class A to Class B.

Finch said attempts are being made to organize what might be called the Florida East Coast League which would include Miami, Key West, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and two other cities to be chosen from Fort Myers, Hollywood, Fort Pierce and Vero Beach. The circuit may be ready to go this spring, Finch said.

Of the financial and attendance outlook, Finch observed:

"There is widespread optimism with respect to the financial outcome for the minor league clubs in 1955. This, no doubt, is due to the adoption by a large number of clubs of the pre-season ticket sales idea. Scores of clubs have already practically secured their financial success through campaigns held this winter. Many others are planning such drives to culminate during National Baseball Week, March 19-26."

Transfer of the Columbus franchise in the American Assn. to Omaha, Neb., and of the International League's Ottawa franchise to Columbus, undoubtedly will aid both recipient cities at the gate.

Finch said the National Baseball Week observance, an idea born in the office of Minor League Chief George M. Trautman, would aid every club in the country at the turnstiles. Professional baseball, and 17 nationwide amateur diamond groups, will participate in the observance aimed at renewing popular interest in baseball.

Rice Has 25-Game Baseball Schedule

HOUSTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Games with Minnesota, Oklahoma A&M and Nebraska are on a 25-game baseball schedule announced today by the Rice Institute.

About 20 players, including eight lettermen, are expected Tuesday when coach Dell Morgan opens baseball training. The first game will be against Texas Lutheran College here March 18.

Ronnie Beagle, Navy's All America end, caught 19 passes for 243 yards and three touchdowns in 1954.

Vernon Edges Tigers, 55-54

VERNON, Feb. 12—The Snyder Tigers suffered a one-point loss to the Vernon Lions in a cage game played here Saturday night.

The Tigers trailed the game all the way, except for twice in the fourth period when they tied the game. Vernon won 55-54.

After Vernon had led off 15-12 at the end of the first period and held a 31-22 lead at halftime, Snyder began to catch up in the third quarter and had the game tied with only a few minutes to go.

Vernon moved out, however and was still one point ahead as the final horn sounded.

Jerry Taylor, shortest player on the Tiger squad, paced the locals with 15 points, followed by Milton Ham with 12 and Alan Snead with 10.

The Snyder B team also lost its game, 46-42. It was a close game all the way, with Snyder leading at times.

Snyder got within one point of Vernon in the last few seconds of the game.

Dwayne Prince and Tommy Prichard had 10 points each to lead the team.

Friday night, the Tigers played 14 boys against Breckenridge and came out 53-41 winners.

Breckenridge had turned out its B team for the season, so there was only one game. Six regular B team players played with the Snyder varsity in the game.

Alan Snead and Jack Spikes tied for the night's scoring lead for Snyder with 15 points each. Jerry Taylor and Don McNew ran second with seven each.

The Tigers led 17-10 at the end of the first period, 25-14 at halftime, and 37-21 at the end of the third. Sonny Everett paced Breckenridge with 22.

Even with 14 boys playing in the game for the Tigers, Snyder still hit 39.5 per cent of its field goal shots. The Tigers were hitting 41 per cent by the end of the first half.

Among regulars for the Gail Coyotes, one of the area's winningest cage teams this season, is Lonnie Doyle. Doyle, who is six feet tall, is a junior.

Gail Coyotes Win To Take District Title

Coach Eddie James' Gail Coyotes last night scooped up their district championship in a 63-52 win over Klondike.

The win came in the finals of a district tournament held at Dawson. Gail is now awaiting word from the University Interscholastic League as to whether bi-district games will be staged in Class B in this area or whether Gail will go on to the regional playoffs in Canyon two weeks from now. James said he expects word within the next day or so.

Gail took an early lead in last night's game and held it all the way. After Gail's good start, Klondike got no nearer than six points to the Coyotes' score.

The win was a team victory, James said, with Glen Kingston leading point-making with 19, Larry Smith following with 15, and other cagers scoring heavily. Shorty Farmer with nine, E. L. Franklin with eight, Lonnie Doyle with six, and Donald Reddell with six.

Smith was chosen to the all-district team picked at the tourney, while Reddell got honorable mention. Others on the all-district team were Gilmore of Courtney, Weaver of Ackerly, Airhart of Klondike, and Kelly of Dawson.

Last year, Gail tied for second in its district, while the year before it ran last.

The coach said his team may have some warm-up games if it has no playoffs until the regional tourney.

Friday night, the Coyotes got by Dawson in a close game 47-38. Klondike took Courtney 53-38.

Except for two times in the game, Gail led all the way. The first time was in the third quarter, when Dawson grabbed a one-point lead. Gail moved on ahead, however, and had a close lead until about two and one-half minutes remaining in the game.

At that time, Dawson managed to tie the score. The game stayed in deadlock until the final 45 seconds, when a Gail surge put the Coyotes out front to win by nine points.

Larry Smith led the Coyotes in that game with 12 points, followed by Donald Reddell with 10 and Lonnie Doyle with eight.

Second Place Tie Broken In City League

Hermleigh broke a tie for second place in the city basketball league last night by downing National Guard 67-29.

The two teams were tied for second. Hermleigh is now one game behind the league leader, Brooks Oil Well Service.

The Hermleigh squad took an early lead and had no trouble with the guardsmen in last night's game. High scorers for Hermleigh were Bill Houston with 19 points and Jack Medford with 17. George Richardson led National Guard with 11.

In Friday night's league play, Hermleigh ran over D&H Super Market 60-23.

At halftime, Hermleigh was leading 29-13, and it continued to increase its lead to make it a 37-point margin by the end of the game.

Leading the Hermleigh team was Bill Houston with 16, while Joe Galyean and Grady Gafford had 10 each. For D&H, point leader was Royce Burrows with nine, while Tom Fulton had eight.

Also on Friday night, National Guard downed Sunray 52-26.

Leading the guardsmen was Wendell Autry with 26 points. George Richardson had 13. For Sunray, high pointer was Whitey Braley led with 13 points.

Snyder Frosh Lose Finals Of Tourney

BIG SPRING, Feb. 12—Snyder High School's freshman basketballers tonight fell to the Big Spring frosh 51-45 in the championship finals of the Big Spring Junior Tournament.

The Snyder locals, who sailed through two games before meeting the powerful Big Spring squad, trailed all the way but got at times as close as one point. The Big Spring squad is noted for winning tournaments this season.

Israel Hinojos and Bud Morgan were both chosen to the all-tournament team.

John Ward led scoring for the Snyder frosh with 15 points in last night's game, followed by Morgan with 11.

By quarters, Big Spring led 18-15, 27-23, and 42-39.

Abilene Christian In Gulf Coast Loop

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—Abilene Christian College, regarded as one of the most progressive schools in Texas, Saturday was added to the Gulf Coast Conference at a meeting of the league.

At the same time a further expansion of the circuit, and a change in the name of the organization, was suggested.

D. L. Ligon, president of the Gulf Coast loop, said "it is the further intention of the four member schools to work toward the continued expansion and development of the conference. And we are planning a change in the name, seeking a more suitable title for our league."

The adding of Abilene Christian makes four teams in the Conference. The others are Trinity, Midwestern, and North Texas State. It was hoped Abilene Christian might be eligible for the league football championship in 1955, but since some schedules already have been drawn up, it may not be eligible until next basketball season.

Coach W. A. KcElreath of Trinity said: "Abilene Christian is one of the coming teams in the Southwest. It will, I feel, in time surpass a lot of schools you've heard more about. They draw very well at Abilene and I know they are a bunch of gentlemen.

"Last season ACC played Florida State, Chattanooga, and Mississippi Southern, among others, and that's a tough enough schedule for anyone. We'd like to play Abilene this fall and I think we can arrange it."

The conference also adopted an important ruling regarding junior college transfers. At a meeting of the faculty representatives it was ruled transfers beginning Sept. 1 will be eligible in any one sport four seasons counting all participation at all institutions attended. Thus if a player competed in junior college one season and then shifted to the Gulf Coast he would be eligible three seasons in the GCC. It replaced the old rule of three years eligibility in the Gulf Coast regardless of junior college activity.

Date for the spring meeting was not set, but it is expected another session will be held soon to discuss expansion. Several schools, it was reported, are being considered.

Texas Tankmen Set New Records At Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—The University of Texas won all 10 events and splashed to six new pool records today in swamping the Texas Tech swimming team 64-18.

The Longhorn tankers opened the meet with a victory in the 300-yard medley relay, as B.L. Baker, Bob Bell and Pat Patterson paddled to a 3:10 timing, the first record.

Other new marks came as Carlton Hadden swam the 220-yard free style in 57.2 seconds; Reece Anderson turned in 2:45.3 in the 200-yard breast stroke, Edward Johnson 5:29.2 in the 440-yard free style and Duane Fennekohl :25.9 in the 50-yard free style.

Other first places went to Gilbert Mendenilla, 1:46.7 in the 150-yard individual medley; Walter Nolan, 2:43.3 in the 200-yard breast stroke; Bob Patton in fancy diving, and the 400-yard relay team—Kennekohl, Anderson, Medenilla and Patterson.

Long Shot Is 'Cap Winner

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP)—Leaving the heavily-backed Determine and Poona II to trail in dismal defeat, Joe W. Brown's Gigantic, a long shot, came up in the stretch to win the $60,000 San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Park today.

Jockey Roy Lumm, scoring his second stakes victory on long priced horses for the afternoon, led the rusing parade to the wire with the 4-year-old Challedon colt, Gigantic, for one of the biggest surprises in the 17 editions of the San Antonio.

Imbros, stable mate of Determine, managed to grab second, while Rex Ellsworth's Correspondent finished third in the field of 14 horses.

Gigantic returned $85.50 for a $2 win ticket, $22.90 to place and $11.30 to show. Imbros paid $2.80 and $2.40, and Correspondent, another surprise, $14.60 for the show.

The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1.48 2-5.

Dwyer Clips Nielsen And Wes Santee

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fred Dwyer, the little Armed Forces slicker from Villanova, watched Wes Santee and Gunnar Nielsen race themselves right into the ground then went on to win the Baxter Mile in the New York Athletic Club games tonight in 4:06.2.

While Santee and Nielsen, who have alternated winning the four previous mile races this indoor season, watched each other, Dwyer hung back. His strategy was smart, indeed. Both Nielsen and Santee were plumb tuckered out before the three-quarter mark, and lost ground with every stride in the final lap.

Nielsen got home second about 65 yards back, while Santee came on with a late burst to cross the line a couple of feet behind the Copenhagen pressman.

Sowell won as he pleased. The only other runner in the four-man field who looked to have a chance as they whirled around the saucer was Tom Courtney of Fordham. The latter made his bid with a lap to go, but Sowell fought him off.

After that, the winner pulled away inch by inch and at the finish was about four yards ahead of Courtney. Harry Bright of the New York Pioneer Club was another three yards back in third place and Lucien Demuynck of Belgium was a distant last.

Sowell's clocking at the 800 meters was 1:51.5. Neither the 800 meters nor the half-mile time was spectacular.

Rod Richard of the Armed Forces team won the 60-yard dash in 6.2 seconds, beating out Villanova freshman George Sydnor by an eyelash. Art Bragg, the national 100-yard outdoor champion, was shut out in the semifinal.

Parry O'Brien, another Armed Forces member, took the shot put, heaving the leather covered iron ball 57 feet 9⅛ inches, and Bob Richards went over the 15-foot mark for the 64th time in winning the pole vault with an effort of 15-3.

Jack Davis of the Armed Forces, the former Southern California ace, captured the 60-yard hurdles in 7.2 in a photo finish with Charlie Pratt of Manhattan College. This was one of Davis' best races. He got off to a wretched start, which in a short test like this usually spells finis. But he came on like a shot at the finish.

Holscher Leading On 57-Foot Putt

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 12 (AP)—A 57-foot putt gave Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif., the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open golf tournament at the end of the third round today.

The long putt netted him an eagle 3 on the 550-yard 9th hole and permitted him to finish the 6,409-yard, par 70 El Rio Golf and Country Club course with a 66. He now stands 10 under par with 200 for 54 holes.

Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., is a scant stroke behind with 201. Warm weather has loosened the Texan's sore shoulder and he is now rated one of the most dangerous men in the field.

Bolt won the event when it was last played two years ago in much the same manner as he is now playing. Today he had a 65. Yet, according to him, "I didn't play too good."

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco blamed his slipping to third place with a 202 on "just about the worst round I've played in 10 years." Even so, he was one under par with 69.

Fred Wampler of Indianapolis, Ind., is playing steady, unspectacular golf and holds fourth place with a 69 today and a 203 total.

The tournament was played under ideal weather conditions with the temperature in the 76s.

Holscher, 24, wore a broad grin when a 6-foot putt fell on the 17th to clinch the lead.

"I didn't think I'd hit it hard enough," he said. "It barely fell.

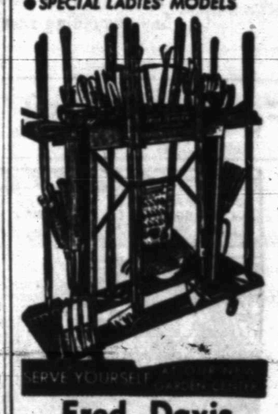

"I played real good. The only shot you could call lucky was the long putt on the ninth."

Curfman Is Named To Succeed Dixie White

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Feb. 12 (AP)—Raymond A. Curfman of Idaho today was named line coach at Stephen F. Austin College to succeed Dixie White, who quit to join Jack Mitchell's new football staff at the University of Arkansas.

Curfman, 39, was head coach at the University of Idaho for five years but resigned about a year ago. White was an assistant to Curfman at the Idaho school and the two also were teammates at Texas Tech in the 1930s.

Even the bumps are smoother

in the '55 Buick ride

To be completely honest—there are some bumps which nothing will level out completely.

Yet even the real rough ones turn out a lot smoother when you take them in a 1955 Buick.

And that's not just our say-so. New owners of these bright new beauties keep telling us that.

So you may wonder—how come? What's different about the Buick ride that makes it such a marvel?

The answer is—plenty.

Most cars have coil springs on front wheels only. Buick has them all around—and this year they're newly calibrated for even deeper smothering of jounce and jar. So here your ride is balanced, buoyant, level, serenely smooth.

Most cars drive through the rear springs. Buick drives through a torque-tube that takes up all driving thrust, wipes out rear-wheel wiggle and wag, steadies your going to a sure and solid track.

And no other car in all America has these great comfort extras plus the backbone of a massive X-braced frame plus both direct and lever-type shock absorbers to snub after-bounce plus a special front-end geometry to stabilize "cornering" plus tubeless tires on extra-wide rims for softer riding and greater stability.

Surely, you owe it to yourself to try this great Buick travel, just to judge things for yourself.

You'll find it the nearest thing to velvet on wheels—and made even more so by the silkiness of record-high V8 power and the absolute smoothness of new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.* Come visit us this week—for sure.

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Floor Fight Is Due Soon On Imports

HOUSTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower's special cabinet level committee on fuels took on added significance this week.

Independent oil operators lost their fight to have the House Ways and Means Committee approve a quota limitation on oil imports.

Final committee action came only 24 hours after the President said such a limitation would be a backward step. He said quotas would be contrary to the administration's attempts to liberalize trade.

The cabinet group is studying all types of fuel. Its report is expected to include a detailed analysis of oil imports. Arthur Flemming, defense mobilizer, is chairman of the group.

The House committee approved 20-5 a bill extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act three years and empowering the President to negotiate lower tariffs on imports.

A proposal to limit oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand was among amendments rejected. The proposal had the backing of 21 oil associations.

A House floor fight may develop late next week. The rejected amendments included nearly a dozen oil imports bills.

Spokesmen for the independent oil operators have admitted the recommendations of the Ways and Means Committee would be of "vital importance." The House, the Senate Finance Committee or the Senate could add the amendment but this week's defeat was a heavy loss to the independents.

The independents contend oil imports have increased 26 per cent since 1951, as compared with only a 10 per cent gain in domestic demand.

A report from Flemming's committee has been expected some while but President Eisenhower did not speculate on a completion date. The broad area of fuels, he said, requires considerable study.

The delay caused early introduction of a House bill which would exempt natural gas producers and gatherers from the Natural Gas Act of 1938.

Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex) planned to wait and see what Flemming's group has to say about a dispute started in June when the Supreme Court held that producers and gatherers fall under the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

Rogers introduced his bill after expressing fear further delay might not leave sufficient time for Congress to act on the matter this year.

Immediately after the decision, the Power Commission froze field prices of natural gas. Rogers' bill would exempt from FPC control producers and gatherers not engaged in interstate commerce. Such producers, however, would be permitted, without FPC regulation, to sell gas to interstate transmission lines.

Tom Green Well To Attempt Completion

American Trading & Production Corp. was running five and a half-inch casing Friday at the No. 2 Tom Green County, west offset to a recent Strawn sand discovery in south Tom Green County.

A drillstem test in Strawn lime from 5,676-709 feet, open 90 minutes, recovered 25 feet of mud, 90 feet of salt water-cut mud and 27 feet of salt water. Operator will perforate the casing and attempt completion in a section of the Strawn sand which showed oil on drillstem test.

Location is 387 feet from north and 3,300 feet from east lines of section 1,827, Johann Zerbach survey, one mile east of Christoval.

Borden Prospector Is Plugged Second Time

DeKalb Agricultural Association, Inc., of Lubbock has plugged the No. 1 M. E. Bacon, southeast Borden County prospector, for the second time.

The No. 1 Bacon was originally drilled by Stephens Petroleum Co., and plugged in January, 1954, at total depth of 7,206 feet. DeKalb re-entered the project and tested the zone above 7,171 feet. No production was developed in the testing.

The location was 660 feet from south and east lines of 49-25-H&TC. That was about 20 miles southwest of Snyder.

Southwest Scurry Venture Completed

Blue Danube Oil Co. No. 1 Marchbanks, drilled in the Diamond M-Clear Fork field of southwest Scurry County, has been completed for a potential of 68 barrels of 30-gravity oil with no water.

The oil was made on a 24-hour pumping gauge. Top of the pay was at 3,100 feet, where five and a half-inch casing was cemented. Total depth is 3,202 feet. The pay was fractured with 20,000 gallons.

Drillsite is 330 feet from north and east lines of 164-97-HITC.

Location Spotted In Canyon Field Of Kent

Newman Brothers Drilling Co. and Monterey Exploration Co. of San Antonio No. 2 Mary Lulu Reed has been staked for drilling in the SMS-Canyon sand field of northwest Kent County.

Drillsite is 330 feet from south and 1,263 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of 2-2-H&GN, 17 miles southwest of Spur. Rotary contract calls for a depth of 6,800 feet.

Fisher County Test Recovers Oil Shows

A four-hour drillstem test from 5,522-560 feet in Rheay & Reynolds Drilling Co. and others No. 1 Charles Brashear, three-quarters of a mile east of the Claytonville field of southwest Fisher County, recovered 1,786 feet of gas and 20 feet of oil and gas-cut mud.

Hole was being made below 6,050 feet in shale.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of 187-3-H&TC, four and a half miles northwest of Claytonville.

Sharon Ridge Location Set

A completion and a new location have been reported for the Sharon Ridge 1700 field.

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder has filed application to drill the No. 15 Wellborn in the Scurry County portion of the field. The location is 990 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of the northeast quarter of 102-97-H&TC, two miles south of Ira and on a 160-acre lease. Cable tools are to drill to 1,850 feet, with operations to start by Tuesday.

John M. Giles No. 3-A L. M. Coleman, drilled in Mitchell County, was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 40.92 barrels of 28-gravity oil with no water. Production is through perforations at 1,697-711 feet, where 10,000 gallons of fracture fluid were used. Top of the pay was at 1,696 feet.

Drillsite for the No. 3-A Coleman is 330 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of 97-97-H&TC.

Reed Employe Here Gets Safety Award

Gene C. Green, salesman for Reed Roller Bit Co. here, has received his company's Safe Driving Award for the third consecutive year.

The awards are given each year to Reed employes who complete a year of driving without a chargeable accident. Recognition is given each quarter to those drivers who demonstrate safe driving habits. Green has driven more than 150,000 miles in the last three years calling on drilling operators in the Snyder area, company records show. As a momento of his third-year's record, he received a swing knife with an engraved emblem.

Two New Locations Set In Borden Field

Two new locations have been set for drilling in the Jo Mill-Spraberry field of Borden County.

Texaco will drill the No. 1-A-NCT-5 W. L. Miller 550 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of 13-33-t4n-T&P, 15 miles southwest of Gail.

Texaco No. 1-A-NCT3 W. L. Miller will be 655 feet from north and 597 feet from west lines of the least in 12-33-T&P, also 15 miles southwest of Gail. Both projects will drill to 7,375 feet.

Coke Wildcat Is Abandoned

Fortune Drilling Corp. of San Angelo and Cosden Petroleum Corp. of Big Spring have abandoned and plugged their No. 1 T. W. Wiginton, central Coke County wildcat, on total depth of 6,507 feet in Ellenburger.

That formation was barren. The project was plugged back to 6,095 feet in the Pennsylvanian and casing was cemented there. The section at 6,005-020 feet was tested through perforations after a 450-gallon mud acid wash and a 5,000 gallon sand oil fracture. The well then yielded six to eight barrels of fluid per day on the swab. It was two-thirds oil and one-third water. That testing extended over about ten days.

During the last 24 hours of swabbing the wildcat produced five barrels of oil and 15 barrels of water.

It was drilled three miles northwest of Robert Lee and 660 feet from north and east lines of 412-1A-H&TC.

Completion Rate Gains

AUSTIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—More Texas oil wells are being completed at this early stage of 1955 than for the corresponding period of 1954, but the number of wildcat completions is lagging.

This was reflected today in the Railroad Commission's weekly report, indicating a greater percentage of drilling is being done in proven production areas.

Only 12 wildcat oil wells were brought in this week, plus one wildcat gas well and 59 dry holes in unproven territory. The year's totals for wildcatters stand at 62 oil wells compared with 103 a year ago, 5 gas wells compared with 13, and 377 dry holes compared with 468.

Completions, in both proven and wildcat areas, this week totaled 251 oil wells, 39 gas, and 110 dry holes.

For the year, operators have added 1,777 oil wells, 135 gas, and 725 dry holes. The year ago comparable figures: 1,417 oil, 174 gas, and 784 dry.

Total average calendar day crude allowable as of today was 3,241,581 barrels, up 12,881 from last week.

North Howard Field Has New Producer

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 4-A Reef is a new producer in the Oceanic - Pennsylvanian field of north Howard County.

The well flowed 314 barrels of 42.7-gravity oil plus .5 of one per cent water on a 24-hour potential test. The flow was through a half-inch choke from open hole at 8,170 feet, top of the pay, to 8,181 feet, total depth. Casing is cemented at 8,161 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 927-1, with tubing pressure 180 pounds. The pay was treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.

Stonewall Venture To Try Tannehill Sand

Anderson & Word and others No. 1 Frank Poore, wildcat two miles southeast of the Berta-Bend conglomerate field of north Stonewall County, is to be plugged back to 3,500 feet for a completion attempt in the Tannehill sand at 3,183-243 feet.

A final drillstem test from 6,300-405 feet recovered only drilling mud and salt water.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of 176-D-H&TC, eight and a half miles northwest of Aspermont.

Two-Gun Gal Will Fight Reds Again

By FRED HAMPSON

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 12 (AP)—Two-Gun Huang Pa-mai rattled off reasons why she hates Communists as though firing her shooting irons. Then she told a news conference she intends to go back to the islands and fight the Reds again.

The famous lower Yangtze River pirate who became the guerrilla scourge of the Japanese and later the Reds, came to Formosa this week with some 100 orphans from the Tachens. She had said on arrival that she had hung up her guns and would devote herself to the orphans.

But this morning she went to the Taili orphanage where the orphans greeted her with a bedlam of their own. The round-faced, strong-jawed, clear-eyed Huang hollered back at them and laughed and went around hugging them and letting them climb all over her.

The orphans, she said, are now getting better care. They didn't need her much. So, with a sort of hitch of an imaginary gunbelt, she said she was going over to Nanchishan Island and rejoin what is left of her guerrillas.

An officer there has still got her two Mauser pistols. At 46 she still is pretty fast on the draw and a good shot. She looks it.

"Why did you carry two guns? somebody asked.

"Because two are better than one," she replied.

Had she actually used her guns personally in combat? This puzzled Two-Gun who apparently had never heard of Hollywood.

She cocked her head, frowned and asked "If I never used them how do you think I got this reputation?"

Later it came out that in the last stand of her 7,000 guerrillas between Chiahsing and Winghu in Chekiang province in 1949 she personally was credited with dispatching 19 Reds, including a battalion commander.

Two-Gun Huang was born in a village on Chekiang's coast and grew up in the lower Yangtze region when piracy was a common trade. She was half way through high school when she got bored and joined a pirate gang.

In no time at all she was the boss. She turned out to be such a good boss the gang grew in size, audacity and profit. The Japanese invasion made piracy patriotic. The Nationalists extended her a pardon and put her in charge of the Shanghai-Hankow underground battalion.

In the war against Japan her partisans got weapons from the U.S. Army. She says they received 1,000 machine guns and 2,000 carbines. These they kept and when they went afield again against the Reds they were a powerful devoted force of 7,000. They fought the advancing Reds from the Yangtze down into Chekiang and made a last stand near Ininghu.

The Reds were too much for them and most of the force was killed or captured.

Two-Gun and a couple of thousand others got into Chusan Island and later to the Tachens. At this point Madame Chiang Kai-shek appealed to her to come to head the Women's Anti-Aggression League on the Tachens.

Now she wants to go back to fighting the Reds.

County Residents Warned Of Rural Area Peddling Rackets

Homer Whisnand, sheriff, says residents here should avoid being "taken in" by any of a current wave of peddlers working throughout the county.

"Most of them restrict their peddling to rural areas," he said, "because they know the city has an anti-peddling ordinance, but the amount of petty swindling by peddlers in the rural areas is surprising."

Whisnand said that nearly every day his office received at least one complaint of this nature. He cited a recent incident in which a pair of men and a woman representing a termite and roach extermination firm overcharged a woman $141.

The trio had estimated their charge for extermination work on the woman's home would be about $15, Whisnand said. She was then asked to pay $156 and wrote a check for that amount.

The woman then notified her son who called the bank and stopped payment on the check, then located the trio who gladly returned the check in exchange for $20 cash as settlement.

"They had tried and failed to cash the check only a few minutes after it was written," Whisnand said.

The sheriff said that most of the complaints received by his office concerned magazine and book peddlers, some of which are dishonest while others are legitimate although considered by many residents as nuisances.

"Any person wanting to subscribe to a magazine can do so by sending a check or money order to the publication's headquarters," Whisnand said. "However, if the customer would rather do business with the salesman, he should bear in mind that an honest salesman would rather receive the payment by check which is made payable only to the publishing company he represents."

If the peddler insists on a personal check made payable to himself or cash, the customer should refuse, Whisnand warned.

The best way to avoid being swindled is to do business only with persons the customer knows or with firms of reputation in his own community, Whisnand said.

It was also pointed out that many of the "fast deals" that make suckers of the residents who aren't quite on their toes when their door bells ring are actually legal. Being legal doesn't always mean being honest, however.

For instance, a peddler who is a smooth and fast talker may make certain legal and truthful offers in such a way as to imply just the opposite of what he actually says. Such transactions are often termed "legal swindles."

Also it should be remembered that a deceitful person's word is worthless, regardless of whether he actually speaks the technical truth in a deceitful way or whether he lies outrightly.

An old racket of some roaming photographers is to enlarge the mother's favorite photograph of her small child. The swindler offers to "enlarge the tiny photograph to a new lifelike picture, tinted in natural hues and made to fit in our special oval-shaped gold picture frames, which alone are worth $10, and we'll do all this for the introductory price of only $5.95."

And to be regretted is the fact that the unsuspecting customer may understand the sales to say the picture frame is included in the offer. But after taking the $5.75 in advance, he later delivers the unframed photograph, which is especially made an odd size so that his frame will become almost a necessity, and then makes another "special offer on the $10 frame which can be had for only $8.95."

Written contracts are often a safeguard — if the customers read them. Too often, the contract is not read because of its length, because of the haste of the customer, and because he or she doesn't want to appear to be doubtful of the salesman's veracity.

"If the salesman seems to be annoyed by the customer's desire to read the contract, you may be sure there's something wrong with it or him or both," Whisnand said. "If he's honset, he won't be in too big a hurry to wait for you to read the contract."

The sheriff still contended, however, that the best way to avoid being "hooked" is to trade with reliable firms which are stable in a community. Practically anything a person may want bo buy can be purchased in a store as economically or even cheaper than from others. If a good product can't be bought in a store it can at least be bought from reliable agents who have routes established by their firms. These agents can easily identify themselves with their companies.

Phenix City Awaits Racketeers' Trials

By REX THOMAS

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Feb. 12 (AP) With the rackets gone and civil government restored, Phenix City waits anxiously for the final chapter in its dramatic transformation from dishonor to decency.

The climax to more than six months of an unprecedented vice cleanup campaign starts Monday at Birmingham when two reputed bosses of the fallen racketeering empire face trial for the murder of crusading A. L. Patterson, whose death brought the housecleaning about.

Former Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell, the prosecuting attorney in Russell County six years, and ex-chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller, the No. 2 law enforcement officer in the county, are charged with first degree murder.

The same grand jury that spearheaded the vice purge, indicting more than 150 racketeers and their underlings, returned indictments against Ferrell and Fuller last Dec. 9, nearly six months after Patterson was shot down.

A third defendant, former Atty. Gen. Si Garrett, also was charged with murder, but no date has been set for his trial. He is in a mental hospital at Galveston, Tex.

Patterson, a 69-year-old crippled former state senator who had vowed to rid Phenix City of its vice, was assassinated last June 18 after winning the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

Meanwhile, the once-gaudy riverfront town where an almost incredible racketeering empire fed and fattened on frolicking, free-spending soldiers from nearby Ft. Benning, Ga., began a determined struggle for a normal existence.

Instead of a honky-tonk economy based on easy money from gambling joints and police court fines, the city commission has turned to a more legitimate source of revenue.

And law enforcement has been turned back to civil authorities after six months of National Guard occupation under limited martial law perhaps unprecedented in the nation's history.

The mayor, sheriff and police chief who held office during the latter years of the reign of lawlessness are gone.

Dr. Clyde M. Knowles Jr., a young physician, was elected to the City Commission last September after veteran Commissioner A. L. Gullatt declined to seek reelection. Dr. Knowles, incidentally, was the first doctor to examine Patterson after he was slain.

Ultimately the physician became mayor in place of former Mayor Elmer Reese, who was indicted for wilful neglect of duty. Reese remained on the City Commission several weeks but resigned and paid a fine on the neglect of duty charge.

Leonard Coulter, identified with the crusading Russell Betterment Assn. (RBA) of which the late Patterson was a leader, was elected to the to the commission in Reese's place.

Police Chief Pal Daniel, who once charged that Reese ordered officers to refrain from raiding gambling dens, was retired and a tough young state highway patrolman, Pat Mihelic, was appointed chief.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Ralph Mathews, who a year before had survived an impeachment trial, resigned under pressure and a filling station operator with RBA connections, Lamar Murphy, was appointed to take the job.

The new city officials have vowed to "run a clean town" and to enforce the law without favoritism, and they say they can do it.

Indictments Dismissed By Government

HOUSTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — Federal conspiracy indictments against former Galveston Wharves Manager E. H. Thornton Sr. and four officials of the Bunge Corp. were dismissed today at the request of the government.

Federal Judge Ben C. Connally dismissed the indictments and accepted a plea of guilty on an indictment charging the Bunge Corp. with conspiracy and fined the grain firm $5,000.

All indictments were returned following a Senate Agriculture Committee probe of alleged illegal operations at the Galveston Wharves. It was alleged that the indicted persons had conspired to violate the International Wheat Agreement.

The Bunge officials who were cleared today are Robert F. Straug, Andrew Hirschler, Simon Kern, all of New York City, and Walton F. Mulloy of Kansas City.

Asst. U.S. Dist. Atty. C. K. Richards, who was hired 15 months ago at a salary of $9,000 a year to work especially on the grain case, told the court that "when the matter was before the grand jury, the government believed it had enough evidence to convict the defendants."

However, he said, new evidence had been discovered "which negated any criminal intent on the part of the defendants. It shows that not one of them profited by the transactions."

Richards refused to discuss the new evidence with newsmen following the court proceedings.

The indictment cited 33 overt acts in which they allegedly conspired to export frost-damaged Canadian wheat in mixture with American wheat and collect federal export subsidies on the shipments in violation of the International Wheat Agreement.

Gooney Birds Are Stubborn, But Not Dumb

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The gooney birds of Midway Atoll are stubborn but far from looney, a team of baffled biologists reported today after waging a largely losing battle to shoo them away.

The scientists had responded to a call for help from the Military Air Transport Service, which said the big albatrosses, with a wing spread of seven feet, were bumping into planes over the Pacific island.

There was even one report—later proved apocryphal—that the birds were hitchhiking rides on planes.

Philip A. Dumont and Johnson A. Neff of the Fish and Wildlife Service tried to scare the birds away from the runways, near which they were nesting.

They set off flares, fired rifles, mortars and bazookas, assailed the birds' eardrums with high frequency waves, and wafted smoke from a burning truck tire in their direction.

But the birds seemed to sense the scientists were not really trying to hurt them.

"Intent on brooding their eggs," the report said, "the gooney birds continued to sit. Some even slept."

Then the biologists tried destroying the eggs in the nests—and they hopefully reported that "after more detailed study, this could be a practical measure of control." Birds quickly deserted their empty nests—but many of them did not go far. One was seen to move about a mile to a bazooka range, where it started "dancing."

Anyway, the "gooneys have been much maligned," the report said.

Look What Is Happening To Us In Lubbock!

...On the threshold of tomorrow!

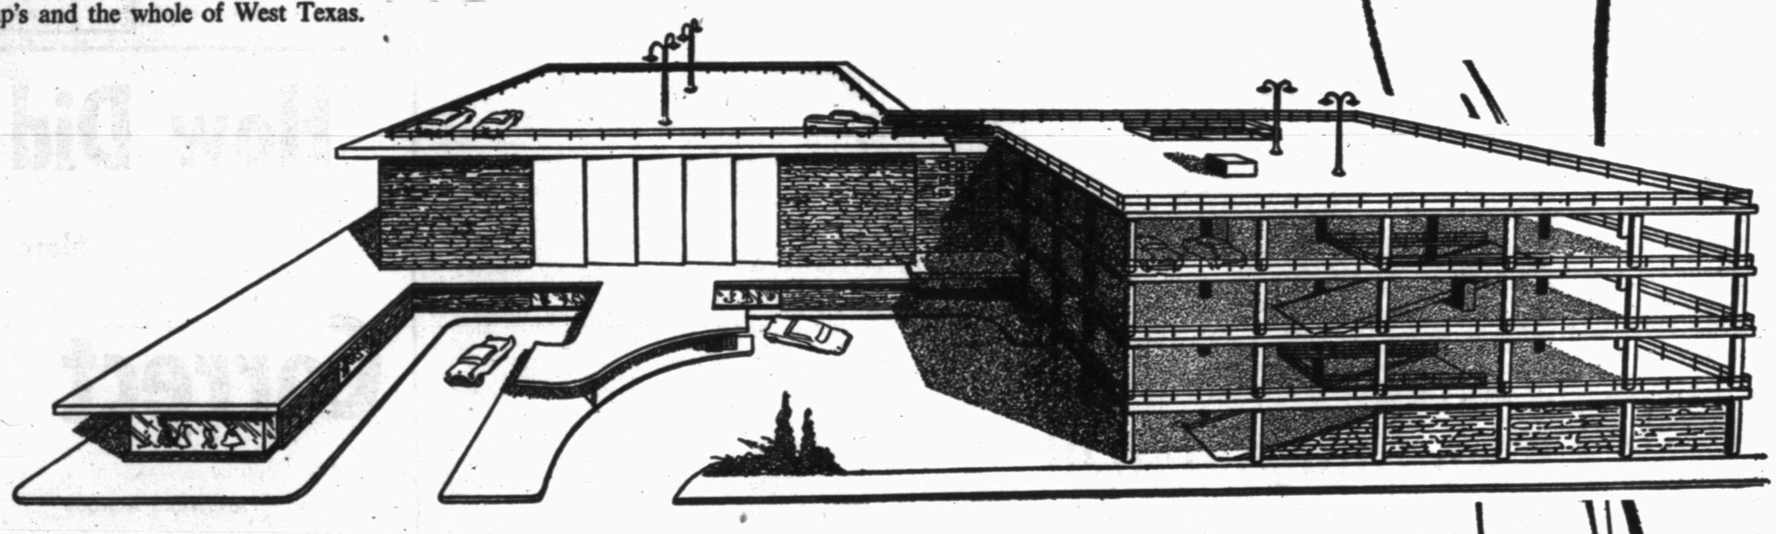

LUBBOCK, TEXAS

TOMORROW will be more than a time for counting the past; it will also be a moment for measuring the future. Dunlap's have spent thirty-two years looking forward... And when our doors close on the opening of our great new store in Lubbock, we shall continue looking forward.

Business organizations, like the cities in which they have their place, are but extended reflections of the men who have created them. It is natural, then, to find Dunlap's, in its thirty-second year, sharing many of the same aspirations of the city in which the firm has grown to its present magnitude. Thirty-two years of progress reflects the emphasis on looking forward that is recognizably a Lubbock quality. And the officials of Dunlap's, like the earlier builders of Lubbock, are planning both for the continuing expansion of a tremendous business firm and for the enhancement of their city.

"Make no small plans," the president of Dunlap's, Retha R. Martin, told his fellow workers. These are words that are well understood by the men and women of Dunlap's. They are busy making greater plans for Dunlap's and the whole of West Texas.

VOL. 5, No. 247 | SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1955 | SECTION B

Hearts Reign Supreme

Valentines take many forms, but all express the same sentiments. Barry Rhoderick, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Rhoderick, is shown above making a Valentine for Dianna Ray Purvis, daughter of Mrs. R. W. Purvis, on the sidewalk in front of their school. Hearts and initials, drawn or carved, have long been a standby for expressing Valentine wishes.

Counting and comparing their Valentines delayed the boys above on their way home from a Valentine party at school. They are Tommy McDonald, lying down, and Jerry McDonald.

Games and parties were the vogue in Snyder schools Friday afternoon, but some of the schools are delaying their Valentine class parties until tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. H. G. Burchett, left, watches as some of her pupils attempt to write their names in a heart on the blackboard while blindfolded. David McKinney writes above as four others wait their turn. They are from left: Rita Rodman, Kay Callaway, Phyllis Burns, and Jimmie Tullos.

american designer pattern

What every wardrobe needs is a coat dress, versatile, easy to wear and, in this instance of Martini's "Dandy" interpretation, easy to make. Long narrow sleeves with link buttons are a continuation of the naturally rounded shoulder line and are very much a part of the latest in sleeve news. Note the balance in collar shapes between that of the detachable dickey and the wide, open notched revers of the body neckline. Choose linen, shantung, wool crepe or any of the lightweight woolens for the dress and use pique, linen or nubby-weave cotton for the dickey. You may buy your taffeta bow tie or refer to pattern instructions if you prefer your own handiwork. Don't worry about the buttonholes. The instruction sheet also tells you how to make them with a minimum of effort and maximum of professional-looking results. This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements. To obtain correct size, state waist, bust and hip measurements when you order this pattern. Size 12 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material for dress, 1 yard of 39-inch material for contrast and 1⅛ yard of 39-inch material for interfacing. To order pattern No. 1206, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. S-13, New York 1, N.Y. State size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25c extra. American Designer Pattern Booklet No. 11 available for 25c. Make check or money order payable to Spadea Syndicate, Inc., and add four cents for bank clearance.

BRIDGE NOTES

Mrs. Garrett Harrell and Mrs. G. B. Clark, Jr., were high winners at duplicate bridge Friday morning at the Country Club. Mrs. W. D. Beggs and Mrs. R. D. White won second, and third place was won by Mrs. Ray Keenan and Mrs. V. V. McGrew. Mrs. Clark was hostess at the morning meet.

High score winners at the Couples' Duplicate Club meeting Tuesday night at the Country Club were Mrs. B. L. McKinley, Jr., and Mrs. Joe Wyatt of Colorado City. Fritz Smith and Mrs. H. E. Goodwin of Colorado City won second high.

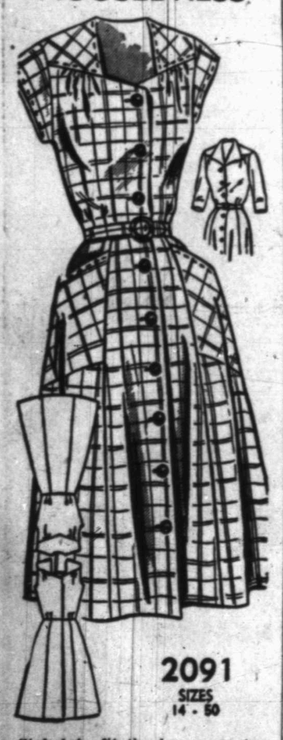

Mrs. B. L. McKinley, Jr., was hostess at a luncheon meeting of Chez les Amies Bridge Club Thursday at the Country Club. High score was won by Mrs. Ray Keenan; second high went to Mrs. Charles Snyder.

* * *

Mrs. Reva Hicks was introduced as a new member of the Thursday Bridge Club at a meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Cauble, 1211 Twenty-eighth Street. Mrs. J. L. Crow, who is to move soon to Brownfield, submitted her resignation. Mrs. Hicks was named to replace her as secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. H. J. Brice won high score prize, with low going to Mrs. John A. Irwin and traveling to Mrs. Tom A. Boren. The club is to meet next on February 24.

TO BE MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Thornhill of Ira are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Pearl Thornhill, to Harold Lee Roddy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Layne Roddy, route 3. The wedding is planned for March 6 in the Thornhill home. Miss Thornhill was graduated from Ira High School last spring, and both she and Mr. Roddy are now attending Draughon's Business College in Lubbock.

Gianna Maria Hunting For Ideal Husband

By RICHARD EHRMAN

ROME (AP) — Green-eyed Gianna Maria Canale says she would like to give up film stardom for marriage. Only there's a hitch.

"I don't want to marry an American, nor—for that matter—an Italian, Frenchman, German or Scandinavian," the 26-year-old veteran of two dozen films explained in an interview.

What's wrong with Americans?

"They have too many muscles, always thinking of sports and not enough about their women. Besides, they drink too much."

Gianna Maria has been in the United States several times—including a stint in Hollywood—and had dates with American men.

Well, how about her Italian countrymen?

"Italian men are exactly the opposite of Americans. They think only of women, but not in a nice way. They have a one-track mind."

As for South Americans, they are out of the running because "they resemble Italians."

Englishmen? "Really too cold to be good."

A German husband, she said, "would want to order me around as though he were a commanding officer." And a French husband would "lose himself in too many compliments. Frenchmen talk too much. They're boring."

Gianna Maria considered a moment to decide what she did not like about Scandinavians — "too blond."

Any prospective husband—to get to the more positive aspects—must be dark-haired, 35 to 45, widely traveled, a cosmopolitan with "just a pinch of the defects and merits of all nationalities."

"Above all, he must be very, very rich."

While waiting for this paragon to come up over her horizon Miss Canale intends to continue working on pictures and buying valuable paintings, rugs and antique furniture for her 14-room villa overlooking Rome.

Stage Director Logan Is Avid Motion Picture Fan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Broadway may be shocked to learn that Josh Logan is an avid movie fan.

This may be a blow to devotees of the legit. After all, Logan is the most successful of stage directors, his list of hits including "Annie Get Your Gun." "Wish You Were Here," etc. And now he's here to direct his first movie, "Picnic."

"I've always loved the movies," he admitted when I caught him lunching with scripter Dan Taradash ("From Here to Eternity") near Columbia Studios. "Why, I even read the fan magazines."

How is it that such film fan as he has not succumbed to movie offers until now?

"I've had chances to come to Hollywood ever since my first Broadway hit ('On Borrowed Time')," he explained. "They came in every year. But they were either for a term contract, which I didn't want, or they came at a time when I was all wrapped up in a play.

"I almost did a movie during the run of 'Mister Roberts.' I bought a story called 'Rear Window.' We were going to shoot it in one of the apartment districts in New York, with Henry Fonda making it in the daytime while he appeared in 'Roberts' at night. But then I got involved in other matters, including a road company of 'Roberts' and a thing called 'South Pacific.'"

"Rear Window" was later filmed by Alfred Hitchcock with other players.

Logan, who coauthored 'Roberta,' was set on directing it for the screen. He had planned to star Marlon Brando as the hero with Fonda playing Doc. But Brando got into his hassle with 20th-Fox over refusing "The Egyptian." In order to get out of hock, Brando had to do "Desiree." Meanwhile, Logan was up to his ears in "Fanny," the new Ezio Pinza hit.

He relinquished his plans for the film "Roberts" and it was made by Warner Brothers with Fonda playing his original role. But Logan kept his financial share in the film, which he hopes will be his annuity.

Why did he finally succumb to the Hollywood lure?

"Because the studio offered me a finished script that I liked, a story I was familiar with (he directed 'Picnic' on the stage) and a star—William Holden. Also it came at a time when there was a slight lull in my theater commitments."

Lest Broadway become concerned, let me add that he intends to return to the stage, although his movie jobs may become frequent.

Man's Hobby Is Rejuvenating Ancient Organs

PALESTINE (AP)—About 10 years ago Walter Brown took on the job of rejuvenating his grandfather's old-fashioned, pedal-type organ.

Brown, landman for Carter-Gree Oil Co., soon saw there were two main things wrong: 1. The aged instrument was covered by a thick layer of dust; 2. moths had eaten away the bellows and felt lining.

He blew off and wiped away the dust, replaced the felt and ran an exploring finger along the keys while working the pedals.

It sounded good to him.

Since then, Brown has rebuilt about 60 ancient organs. The hobby pays little in cash but the oil man gets pleasure out of seeing the instruments returned to polished usefulness.

The most difficult part of his hobby is finding the abandoned relics. Brown has worked out a system: He travels off the main highways and looks for houses built in the 1900 era. When he finds one, he approaches the householder and pops the question.

Surprisingly often, he is led into the attic or out to the barn.

One that turned out to be the prettiest he has refinished he found covered with shucks and peas in an Anderson County barn.

He is waiting now for a farmer near Yard in Anderson County to feed out enough corn and hay to clear an old organ stored in his barn. The sale has never been negotiated. Once rebuilt, the organ probably will go into the home of an antique lover, or someone who simply likes the sound of an old-fashioned organ.

Brown's organ playing is limited to the one-finger method, and by ear.

Helps For Homemakers

Send your questions to "Helps for Homemakers," Snyder Daily News, or call 3-5456.

A very special man in your life? Then you may want to bake him a very special cake on February 14. How about a three-layer surprise that is like an old-fashioned Valentine — sweet, gentle, delicate? This recipe calls for the conventional buttercake method favored by our grandmothers and produces delicious flavor, light-as-air texture. Fill, cover and decorate the cake with a pink frosting that boasts your beau's favorite flavor.

SWEETHEART CAKE

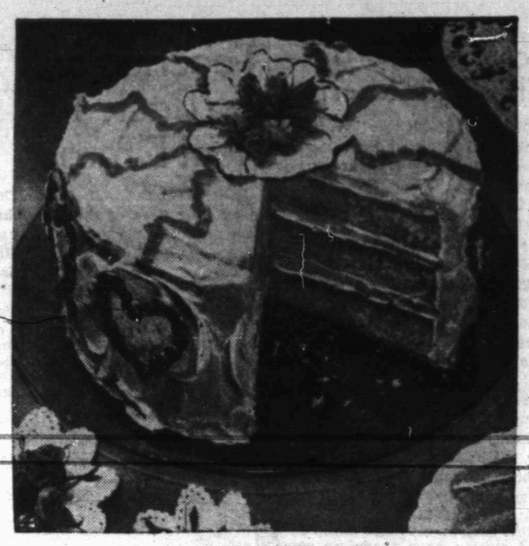

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
2-3 cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together three times. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs, one at a time beating thoroughly after each. Mix in sifted dry ingredients with spoon, in 4 or 5 additions, alternately with milk; begin and end with flour. Beat after each addition just until smooth. Turn into three round layer-cake pans (each 8 inches in diameter) that have been lined on the bottoms with waxed paper. (Greasing pans or paper is unnecessary.) Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted in centers comes out clean. Turn cakes out on cooling racks, immediately; allow to stand until cold before frosting.

PEPPERMINT FROSTING

¾ cup butter or margarine
5 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ to 2-3 cup hot milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon peppermint extract
Red food coloring

Cream butter; blend in part of sugar gradually; add salt. Add remaining sugar alternately with hot milk, beating until smooth after each addition; add only enough milk to make frosting good spreading consistency. Mix in vanilla and peppermint extract. Just before spreading, tint frosting light pink with red food coloring. Reserve ½ cup of the frosting and tint a deeper pink. Fill and cover cake with light pink frosting. Put the reserved dark pink frosting in a pastry tube; pipe eight "ribbons" from center of cake to part way down sides. At the end of each ribbon, outline a heart with the pastry tube. Decorate heart outlines with red cinnamon candies. A paper doily and sweetheart roses will make a center nosegay for the cake.

. . . for your best beau's valentine

A No. 303 can of fruit or vegetables is one whose net weight is 16 or 17 ounces. There will be about two cups of the fruit or vegetable in the can. Some meat products and ready-to-serve soups also come packed in these No. 303 cans.

Want to top that casserole dish with buttered bread crumbs. One way to prepare the crumbs is to melt about a third of a cup of butter or margarine in a skillet and then mix well with a cup of the fine dry bread crumbs.

TEEN TALK

By MARGIE SMITH

Twirp Week began Friday and will last through next Saturday. This is that long-awaited and yet dreaded week of the year when the girls ask boys for dates, furnish transportation, pay the bills, and do almost all the little courtesies that boys usually do such as open doors, carry books, and others.

To twirp, the girl is required to buy a twirp license from the Tiger's Tale staff and to be twirped a boy must buy a twirp tag. A few of the other rules and regulations were published in the last issue of the school paper.

* * *

Last Wednesday did you notice any strange looking teenagers with their clothes on wrong side out: The Quill and Scroll Club had their annual silly initiation, and the pledges were required to wear their clothes wrong-side-out, bring shoe shine equipment and shine shoes, wear cheap perfume, wear a different shoe and sock on each foot, and bow down and do the bidding of the old members. The girls had to wear their hair tied in little pig-tails and wear no make-up. The boys wore lipstick and rouge and scarves around their necks.

Those who pledged were Delores Ellis, Sandra DeFore, Jan Stacey, Ann Fish, Judy Miller, Emma Lee Duncan, Gerry Lyn Hughes, Judy Rohr, Eleanor Browning, Jimmie Bennett, Elwyn Weathers, Harriet Redwine, Ramona Thompson, Lenda Norcross, Carol McKinney, Marsha Fisher, Mickey Gillean, Lynda Smith, Gay Birdsall, Sheila Phillips, and Joyce Blakely. The old members are Carla Swan, Carolyn Sturdivant, Clare Smith and Connie Longbotham.

* * *

Last Saturday night several teenagers met in the home of Myrtle Scott to celebrate her birthday. The group went to the show and then returned to Myrtle's home for birthday cake and punch.

* * *

Next week a delegation of Future Teachers accompanied by Ollie Peek will attend a state convention in Denton. They will leave Friday and return Sunday. Those who are going are Judy Cauble, Patsy Huffman, Gerry Lyn Hughes, and Linda Stephenson.

* * *

Several third year homemaking girls gave a style show for the Jaycee-ettes last Tuesday at the Trinity Methodist Church. The girls modeled the garments they made last semester. Third year girls are Twila Sturdivant, Nancy Jordan, Janet Weber, Sandra Scott, Marsha Fisher, Ramona Thompson, Janell Randolph, Wanda Wood, Betty Scott, Anita Buchanan, Eleanor Browning, and Janice Springer.

* * *

Faye Beidleman and Mary Lou Carey gave a slumber party in Faye's home Friday night. The party was in honor of both girls' birthdays. The group met and went to the show and then returned to Faye's for a late snack and birthday cake before retiring.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Heinzelmann, 1108 Twenty-sixth Street, have just recently returned from Houston where Mr. Heinzelmann has been hospitalized since he underwent major surgery on December 16.

Mrs. E. L. Kubala, 3008 Avenue Z, left yesterday for St. Louis where she will attend a National Piano Teachers' Association Convention. The convention will last through Wednesday.

Mrs. B. H. Moffett, 168 Twenty-seventh Street, and daughter, Mrs. Allen King, and son, Dale, of Penwell have recently returned from San Antonio where they spent several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Pevey of Longview are spending the weekend with Mr. Pevey's brother, Wayne Pevey, 211 Twenty-sixth Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eades, 133 Milburn, formerly of Snyder, have returned here after living in Sweetwater for some time.

Club Donates Benefit Funds

Proceeds from a recent bridge and canasta benefit sponsored by the Halliburton Ladies' Club were announced at a luncheon meeting of the club Thursday.

The sum of $52 was raised to be donated by the club to the March of Dimes drive. Prize winners at the benefit play were Mrs. R. E. Joyce, high bridge score, and Mrs. L. M. Milner, high canasta score. Bingo went to Mrs. Willis LeVier.

Mrs. W. F. Nidiffer was elected treasurer to replace Mrs. H. L. Cavender who is moving to Colorado City soon.

Club members voted to hold their monthly summer meetings in Towle Memorial Park beginning in May. Following the luncheon, games of canasta and bridge were played.

Rancher's Daughter Longs For Saddle

HOUSTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—One of these days Gwen Robbins hopes to be back in the saddle.

"Even if it takes a block and tackle to hoist me up," she says.

A rancher's daughter at home astride a horse all her life, she was stricken with polio two years ago.

She's regaining her strength and is back working with other "hands" on the ranch. Her job now is working the gage which divides the leading pen from the chute through which they herd cattle.

Last year she attended the Houston Fat Stock Show in a wheel chair. This year she wore leg braces.

Mrs. Robbins lives at Freeport, where her husband works for Dow Chemical Co. Robbins is a "prospective" rancher, running a few head of cattle on the side.

Scrapbook To Cheer Children

Members and others prepare 8-page scrapbooks and fill them with colored pictures cut from magazines, Christmas cards, and other greeting cards. Just so the picture is appealing to a child.

Chairman for the 14-county North Texas project is Mrs. Vance Laughlin.

The books must be completed for mailing by the district's convention March 22-23 in McKinney. They may be addressed to Mrs. Laughlin at 7403 Morton, Dallas.

Girl Scout troops and Camp Fire Girl groups have made up some books. Most will go to Korea, Asia and Europe.

Mrs. Laughlin, aware the scrapbooks will find their way to some hungry children, makes one request:

Turkey Has Own Custom For Tea

BIG SPRING (AP)—Ozcan Tamriover is the wife of a Turkish Air Force officer learning to fly jet planes at Webb Air Force Base.

At a tea at the officers club of the base, she told of some differences between United States and Turkish customs.

In Turkey they never serve tea to large groups, for instance. There, a person will inform her neighbors that she will be at home on specific days and they may call any time for tea.

The visitor is greeted and served chocolate or candy, followed by Turkish coffee. Then in one or one and a half hours, tea and cakes, or fruit juice, will be served, depending on the weather.

Ozcan is the wife of Memduh Tamriover. They were married four years ago, in a wedding arranged by their families. They had never met before.

Both are Moslems.

Before her marriage, she did dressmaking.

When Lt. Tamriover graduates in about five months, he and his wife will return to Turkey.

Teacher Can Go Back To Real Drama

KINGSVILLE (AP)—If Arlene Dumond ever tires of the make-believe drama of the theater she can always go back to the real life drama of a hospital operating room.

Sometimes the new faculty member in the speech department of Texas A&I College does but not because she's tired of play acting and all things pertaining to it. She has spent some summer vacations working again as a nurse.

A graduate of a Chicago Hospital Nursing School, she became interested in the theater as a career after being an Army nurse in Europe. Assigned to the Army University established in France after the war, she came into contact with many producers on the school's staff.

Miss Dumond has done some acting, but is more interested in theatrical design, costume, direction and production.

After leaving the army as a captain, she enrolled in the Carnegie Institute of Technology drama class. She took Bachelor's and Master's degrees in this course, then worked in television in New York.

She came to A&I last fall after being technical director and designer for the Sacramento Civic Theater in California.

She taught speech last fall, and will teach acting techniques this spring.

Junior League Radio Series

AUSTIN (AP)—The Junior League is financing and coordinating a radio program which is bringing a radio series on Texas heroes into 4th, 5th and 6th grade classrooms.

The series is called "Trailblazers for Texas" and is written and produced by Radio House of the University of Texas. It will be presented from 10:45 a.m. to 11 a.m. each Tuesday for 13 weeks.

University radio and TV students take part in the dramatization. Mrs. Marye Benjamin is script editor and Gale Adkins is general coordinator of production activities.

The Junior League organized the radio-in-school listening program at the request of the Austin public schools. The program supplements materials in the schools' audio-visual programs.

Sgt. Harrell D. Henderson, son of Mrs. Ben Henderson of Hermleigh, has been released from active duty after serving 14 months in Korea. He had his basic training at Ft. Bliss and went directly to Korea to serve with a Field Artillery Division. He returned to Ft. Lewis, Wash., and then came to Ft. Bliss for his release. Henderson and his wife, the former Virginia Taylor of Sweetwater, are now living in Sweetwater where he is employed by the Texas Highway Department.

SURVIVES THREE-FLOOR FALL

Nancy Highfield, 5, above, of Dayton, Ohio, is shown with her doll and a smile in the hospital after she fell three floors from an open window in her home while playing with some buttons. Nancy grabbed a tree limb to break her fall to the sidewalk. The hospital listed her condition as "good" despite multiple fractures.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for Feb. 10, 1930.)

Thirty West Texas towns were invited this week by Snyder school officials to bring their boys to Snyder March 8 to compete in the Snyder Track and Field Meet which is the first great meet of its kind to be held in all West Texas. The Tigers began initial training at the stadium Tuesday of this week. In a mass meeting of all the boys at the high school Friday, 50 boys threw their hats in the ring and told Coach Red Moore that they would take part in the meet.

Again Snyder steps to the front and "breaks ground" for West Texas in the interest of youth, health and good will among its people. All of the towns and organizations will stand by ready to give a hand.

The Farmers State Bank of Merkel failed to open for business Monday, and an announcement said its assets had been turned over to the state banking department.

R. O. Anderson, active vice president, said:

"Conditions over which the local management had no control have prompted us to turn over the assets to the state banking department for portection of depositors." An attorney for the bank said the closing had been forced by the recent closing of a Fort Worth bank, which held cash assets of the Merkel bank. . .

The first open air concert of the Snyder High School band was held Saturday afternoon from the stand in the public square. Visitors were loud in their appreciation and enjoyment of this organization, which is succeeding so fast under the able leadership of Bandmaster Crowley.

Two questions that daily burn the air in Snyder are:

No. 1 When will the paving of the west side be taken up?

No. 2. When will the numbering of houses and the naming of streets be consumated?

No written date has been handed out by the city council on this matter, but everyone hopes they will have something good to announce very soon.

P. L. Fuller, Snyder race horse owner, is among those who have been invited to participate in the inaugural Spring Race Festival in the San Angelo fair grounds March 19-22.

Jess Elrod, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the race program which is sponsored by the San Angelo Board of City Development, has sent to Mr. Fuller the complete race schedule, assuring him that ample accommodations will be provided for as many entries as he wants to use.

Someone has asked the question as to who was the first man or company to lease oil land in Scurry County. The answer is Max Elser, who was the first individual in Scurry County to lease oil land, taking part of the Reynolds ranch in 1918, and the location was in the southwest corner of the county.

Charro Days Set To Open

BROWNSVILLE, Feb. 12 (AP) — Brownsville opens its annual Charro Days celebration next Wednesday and for four days a festival air will blanket this Texas border town and its neighbor across the Rio Grande, Matamoros, Mexico.

Five parades will highlight the celebration.

Charro Days is the annual pre-Lenten festival with which Brownsville makes a bow to its Mexican neighbor. During the affair, everybody wears Mexican or Latin American costumes.

In addition to the parades, there are three grand balls, a pageant of 2,500 costumed students and a "charreada", or rodeo, and street dances.

Two operas, "Manon" and "Die Fledermaus" will be presented.

Good News For Snyder Housewives

Snyder now has a cleaner that will take care of sewing on buttons, mending all holes—will keep pockets in pants, and do your alterations.

DeLuxe Cleaners will do you an A-1 job on your cleaning and pressing without shine. In other words, your clothes are ready to wear when the DeLuxe Cleaners does the job.

If you want the best in dry cleaning, bring them to 2610 Avenue R, the DeLuxe Cleaners, or call 3-3231 for pick-up and delivery. Adv.

Sir:

Noticed a "25 years ago" column (2-5-55) listing school cafeteria menu of that day, and wondered if it was a typical menu or special for "company." If it was a fair sample, the children certainly ate more wholesome food at school in those days than now. Of course the young are supposed to be able to eat anything — hot dogs, chili, tamales and other south-of-the-border delicacies that would upset a large percentage of their parents. If the parents ate them, that is.

Some children, however, cannot eat such highly seasoned foods and would fare much better if there were other foods available that won't burn so. This variety does not seem to be possible under the present system, and I wonder how many people would be interested in just eliminating hot-stuffs altogether from school cafeteria menus.

West Texas Funeral Directors Hold Annual Meeting In Abilene

About 135 funeral directors from this area attended a district meeting of the West Texas Funeral Directors' Association in Abilene Wednesday, Edward Bolger, president, said.

Fred Warren, president of the Professional Acceptance Corp. of Amarillo, was the principal speaker during the afternoon. This firm, one of three in the United States, finances only funerals. Other similar companies are now in operation in Dallas and Kansas City.

Guests included A. G. Sibun of Auckland, New Zealand, a funeral director there, and Floyd Herring and R. H. Murrah, members of the Texas Insurance Commission in Austin.

Spencer Campbell of Spur was elected to replace Bolger as president of the association. Bolger will now automatically become vice president when new officers are installed in October.

Mrs. Bolger also attended the meeting.

Jaycees Make Nominations

Nominated for president, the office now held by Eddie Miller, were Steve Birdwell and Dan Warren. Birdwell is now first vice-president. Nominations for that office were Zane Gilbert, Doug McGlaun, and Ernest Sears. Charles Hooser, Bob McAlister, and James McClure were nominated for the office of second vice-president, the office now held by Johnny Greenfield. For secretary were W. S. Dow and Charles Blakey. Bill Ballard is now secretary. Going on the ballot for treasurer, the office held by Bob Wilson, were Bob Dawson and Joe Farrar.

The organization will hold its election Feb. 25, and officers will be installed at a banquet March 25.

At the suggestion of John Boren, the Jaycees voted to sponsor a county teen-age road-e-o, a driving school and safety contest for any teen-age licensed drivers, boys or girls, in the county. The event will be held in the spring, and the winner will be sent to the regional contest at Colorado City. Ralph Hughes was appointed committee chairman for the road-e-o.

Dan Warren, member of the Jaycees and chairman of the organization and extension committee for the local Boy Scout district, recruited Birdwell, Dr. Clyde Dawson, Charles Duran, Jack Farrin, Hooser, Ralph Hughes, Bob Littlefield, and Lee Pittman as members of that committee.

Visitors Friday included three new members, Gene Allmand, Don Bruner, and Vernon Young. Also visiting was Marvin Hindal of Sweetwater, Navy recruiter.

Negro Pupils Here Showing Increased Interest In Studies

Now, although none has finished school, there are six Negro students who are attending out-of-town high schools under sponsorship of the local school district.

That number of high school students from the comparatively small Negro population in Snyder points to progress in the educational processes here. Even now, there are three local students who will finish at Lincoln Elementary School this year and plan to attend high school next year.

The progress in further education of the local Negro children stems from several factors. Among them is the school administration's encouragement to the children here in furthering their education, the constant counselling done by Lincoln principal Daniel Johnson, and the encouragement the present high school students give local Negro children unconsciously when telling them of their studies and experiences in high school.

Five of the six children are attending boarding school at St. Peter Claver Academy, San Antonio. The other one is attending the Negro high school at Temple and living with relatives there. The Snyder school district pays the tuition of these children. Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, superintendent of schools here, said that the San Antonio school is the only one the local district can find in the state which makes special provisions to accept scholastics from other districts, with the exception of students who have relatives in towns with Negro high schools and can live with them while attending school.

Interest in achievement is gradually picking up among Lincoln school students, Johnson reports. Those in the higher grades of the Lincoln school here number three in the ninth grade and five in the eighth. Ordinarily, if a student in that school plans to attend high school, he is finished here when he completes the eight grade. The ninth grade is provided here, however, for those students who will not attend high school and want to continue in school here, or for those who move into Snyder after the school year has already begun and cannot enter an out-of-town high school until the next semester.

Students in the high schools are following a regular academic course, Johnson said, adding that all are taking typing courses and some are taking other business subjects, such as shorthand. One boy, now a freshman, is playing football. The students at the San Antonio school live in dormitories and have a good environment, Johnson said. During the summer, they usually come back home and work until the next school term begins.

Those now attending high school: Esther Gift, 16, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Sanders, who completed the ninth grade here two years ago and is now in the 11th grade. She is an honor roll student and secretary of her class.

Hubert Gift, 13, brother of Esther, who completed the eighth grade here last year and is now a ninth grade student with a B average.

Rosey Davis, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Davis, Jr., who finished her ninth grade work here last year and is now doing exceptionally well in the 10th grade. During the last six weeks, she had a B average.

Alma Armstrong, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Armstrong, now in the 10th grade and holding a B average. Her family moved here from Michigan after she had already entered high school.

Mary Lee Stilwell, 16, granddaughter of Mrs. Betty Henderson, who completed schooling here in 1952 and is now in the 11th grade. At last report, she had an A average.

Ruby Spells, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Nelson, attending school at Temple and living with relatives. She completed the eighth grade here last year and now has a B average in the ninth grade.

NOTICE TO BANKS

WHEREAS, the Commissioners' Court of Scurry County, Texas, in regular session on January 10, 1955, passed an order which is of record in the Commissioners' Court Minutes, duly authorizing the County Judge of Scurry County to give notice to banks that Scurry County will select a depository for County funds including School Funds at the regular session of the February term of the Commissioners' Court and will enter into contracts with any banking corporation for such purpose.

THEREFORE, in pursuance to such order, and the provisions of Chapter II, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, and particularly Article 2544, I, Edgar Taylor, County Judge of Scurry County, Texas, do hereby give notice to any banking corporation or association that Scurry County will enter into a contract with such bank or banks of Scurry County for the depositing of the public funds of such County including School Funds in such bank or banks, and that such selection of such depository will be made at the regular February term of the Commissioners' Court to be held at the Courthouse in Snyder, Texas, on February 14, 1955.

EXECUTED this 10th day of January, A.D., 1955.

Edgar Taylor, County Judge,
Scurry County, Texas.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF SCURRY

ON THIS, the 10th day of January, 1955, the Commissioners' Court of Scurry County, Texas, convened in regular session, at the regular meeting place thereof in the Courthouse at Snyder, Texas, there being present and in attendance the following members, to-wit:

EDGAR TAYLOR, COUNTY JUDGE, Presiding; and

T. B. KNIGHT, COMMISSIONER, precinct No. 1;

CULLEN H. TOOMBS, COMMISSIONER, Precinct No. 2;

L. L. "PAT" MOORE, COMMISSIONER, Precinct No. 3;

and the following absent: none, constituting a quorum, and among other proceedings had were the following, to-wit:

Whereas, there came on to be considered the matter of a depository for Scurry County for the years beginning 1955 and ending 1957 and;

Whereas, it is the duty of the Commissioners' Court each two years to enter into a contract with a banking corporation or association for the depositing of public funds of such County including schools in such bank or banks under provisions of Chapter 2, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, and particularly Article 2544.

Now, therefore, motion was made by Commissioner Parmer and seconded by Commissioner Toombs that the County Judge of Scurry County, Texas, give notice of the County's intention to enter into a contract with a bank or banks for depositing of the public funds of Scurry County, in such bank or banks, and publication of said notice be given by the County Judge in a newspaper for at least 20 days, once each week. The Commissioners' Court will enter into a contract with a bank or banks on February 14, 1955, at the regular meeting. Thereupon the motion was put to note: Commissioners Knight, Toombs, and Parmer voted "AYE" and none voted "NO."

Edgar Taylor, County Judge, Scurry County, Texas.

T. B. Knight, Commissioner, Precinct No. 1.

Cullen H. Toombs, Commissioner, Precinct No. 2.

L. L. "Pat" Moore, Commissioner, Precinct No. 3.

Doyle Parmer, Commissioner, Precinct No. 4.

NOTICE is hereby given that on the 11th day of February A.D. 1955, B. W. Cagle, formerly a partner, of the firm known as IRA SAND AND GRAVEL COMPANY, LIMITED, did withdraw from said partnership and by instrument dated the 11th day of February 1955, did assign in equal shares all of his right, property and interest in and to said partnership unto Ross Blanchard and Arthur Blanchard.
