

Mysterious Speculators Put Gold Market On Big Spree

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Who is bidding up the price of gold on the London market? This morning it shot up above $40 an ounce again—$5 more than the U.S. Treasury selling price.

After gold's wild rise Thursday to nearly $40, the U.S. Treasury finally said it wouldn't pause its buying or selling price and the London free market subsided Friday with gold closing around $37.

The central banks of other nations could sell gold on the London market, taking the $40 to buy gold from the United States at $35, and pocket the $5 profit.

Wall Street bankers say that last week at least there was no sign that any central banks were involved either in buying the gold or in supplying it to the market.

There is every sign that the United States is firmly discouraging any such run on its gold stocks. Wall Street bankers doubt if any friendly nation would go against Washington's wishes at this time, since such a devaluation of the dollar might upset all world foreign exchange markets, as well as playing into Soviet hands.

American speculators could be selling and buying gold on the London market. They can't do so here as the law permits sales only for art and industrial purposes or to other governments and their central banks or to some international monetary bodies.

But Americans can, and have, bought and sold gold through Swiss banks, where their transactions could be confidential. Americans also can buy gold bars in Canada, but can't bring them back home.

Some American buying could be pure gambling on the chances of a rise in the price of gold—by a quick killing.

But Britons say American buying could be tied to the uncertainties of the American election. Talk of devaluation if the Democrats win—talk which Sen. John F. Kennedy has denied—could lead American financiers to seek gold as a hedge.

Politicians Stepping Up Texas Pace

By IRVIN FRANK
Democratic women start a tour of Texas, Republican men continue their campaign, but the two news in Texas politics Monday will be the non-political appearance of President Eisenhower at Del Rio and Houston.

Eisenhower meets with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos at Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, and then flies to Houston where he speaks at Rice University.

His speech at Rice is billed as a non-political event but the President is expected to meet privately with leading Texas Republicans. A downtown parade is scheduled in his honor at Houston.

With just two weeks left in the presidential campaign a score of prominent Democratic women started a flying tour aimed at swinging Texas into the Democratic ranks. The state voted Republican in 1952 and 1956.

Taking part in the air tour on behalf of Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson are such women as Jean Kennedy Smith and Mrs. Robert Kennedy, sister and sister-in-law of the Democratic presidential candidate. The group will also include a number of congressmen's wives.

They plan tea and coffee meetings at Waco, Denton, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Laredo and McAllen.

Mrs. Johnson, who had planned to take part in the entire tour, join the group Tuesday. Her father, Thomas Jefferson Taylor, 86, died Saturday in Marshall. She and Johnson attended funeral services at Karnack, in East Texas, Sunday.

Johnson starts a week-long tour of the West Coast and Northwest states Monday. Before he left his ranch to attend the funeral he issued a statement saying he is convinced the American people have risen above the so-called religious issue of the campaign. His running mate is a Roman Catholic.

"Senator Kennedy completely dispelled any legitimate fears by his forthright appearance before the ministerial association in Houston. He answered all questions on aid to parochial schools and everything else—in a manner that made clear his devotion to our Constitution and the principle of separation of church and state," Johnson's statement said.

Thad Hutcheson, state Republican chairman, said in Houston that Vice President Richard M. Nixon will announce his schedule this week for his visit to Houston ministration would play into Democratic hands—and not even Europeans think that remotely likely.

But the biggest demand for gold on the London market is believed to come from European, Mideast and Far East speculators, who have been in and out of the world gold markets—buying and selling from peasants in many lands who turn to gold—miners—doubt are asked about the value of currencies.

Such doubts today are tied to the fear that no matter what the U.S. Treasury says it will be forced to devalue the dollar.

The reasoning—all of which is denied by the Treasury—is: A deepening recession could put the Treasury into deficit financing again, reviving inflation; that the one-year excess in the amount of money has been spending for imports, overseas investments and foreign aid over what it has taken in from its exports and returns on its investments could mean that its steady loss of gold will continue. The Treasury now has $18.5 billion in gold. In 1949 it had $24 billion.

The free market in gold in London set a big one. Through it, the British treasury sold newly mined gold from South Africa and Australia. And on its private gold holdings can be traded. The Soviet Union has apparently made use of it through Swiss bankers, when it wanted Soviet purposes.

But most of the gold outside Soviet hands is held by the United States and the governments and central banks of the non-Communist world.

Father Still Shaken Over Quadruplets

DETROIT (AP)—"I'm still a little nervous," Gerard Guinnane remarked. "You see, I'm not used to this."

Four people are his wife, Margaret Mary Guinnane, 30, gave birth to quadruplets Sunday. Hospital reports indicated all four boys were doing well.

Guinnane, 29, of suburban Highland Park, told reporters in his British accent: "I don't know quite what to say. I'm proud, happy and relieved."

He said he had to start thinking about things like cribs, diapers, bottles and other baby gear.

"We've only got one crib and there are still some diapers and bottles and other baby things around. Things for the one we thought we were going to have. But I'll need a lot more now, I guess," Guinnane said.

He makes $68 a week at a machinery manufacturing firm.

Doctors told the Guinnanes some time ago the wife was going to have quadruplets. She has been in Providence Hospital since Sept. 25. The quads were born about a month early.

They are Peter, 4 pounds, one ounce, Paul, 5 pounds 2 ounces, Vincent, 2 pounds 15 ounces and Gerard, 4 pounds, 11 ounces.

Dr. Joseph Watts said, "There were no complications. Things went just perfectly."

J. G. Moore Rites Tuesday

Former Snyder resident John Gordon Moore, 32, died Saturday night in Munday following a heart attack. He was a 1906 operator.

Born January 1, 1906, in Snyder, he was survived by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Moore; four sisters, Mrs. Jesse Rogers, Mrs. Oren Wilson, Mrs. Earl Brown, and Mrs. Porter King; all of Snyder, one half-brother, C. C. Creighton of Waco; and nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Bell Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Harry Vandenberg, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell Funeral Home.

Young Republicans Set Session Tuesday

An organizational meeting of Scurry County Young Republicans has been scheduled for Tuesday night at 7:15 at the Nixon-Lodge headquarters on East 25th Street.

Bob McAllister, Scurry County Republican chairman has announced that all persons between the ages of 16 and 35 are eligible for membership. He also said that a representative from the Texas Young Republican Federation executive committee will be present for the Tuesday meeting.

McAllister said that all people interested in the Nixon-Lodge campaign and in a two-party Texas are urged to attend the organizational meeting and find out what they can do in the closing days of the 1960 campaign.

The language of West Africa is Hausa, which is spoken by about 15 million people.

Sen. Johnson Heading West

JOHNSON CITY (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson starts a week-long vote seeking tour of the West Coast and the Northwest today, asserting the American people would judge a man "by his individual merits and not by the manner in which he worships God."

Johnson, Democratic vice presidential candidate, said his tour of Missouri and Kentucky last week convinced him that the "Democratic ticket is building up to one of the most sweeping victories in modern times."

The senator attended the funeral Sunday of his father-in-law, Thomas Jefferson Taylor, 86, who died Saturday at Marshall.

Johnson asserted the people have "risen above the so-called religious issue" of the campaign. The head of the ticket, Sen. John Kennedy, is a Roman Catholic.

"Sen. Kennedy completely dispelled any legitimate fears by his forthright appearance before the ministerial association in Houston," Johnson said.

"He answered all the questions on aid to parochial schools and everything else—in a manner that made clear his devotion to our Constitution and the principle of separation of church and state."

THE ELECTRIC CO-OP Owned by Those we Serve

Most of us borrow money at interest to buy homes and we pay off our mortgage over a period of years. So long as we keep up these payments we "own" our homes. If we fail to make our payments, the lending institution can foreclose.

The Electric Cooperatives of Texas were built in exactly the same fashion. Members borrowed money at interest to build their own electric systems and they are paying back principle and interest while enjoying the blessings of electricity. There isn't a single cooperative in the state in arrears on its payments. Many of them have made payments in advance.

The Electric Cooperatives are owned by the people who borrowed the money and who are paying back their loans with interest.

That is why these member-owners can proudly say the Electric Cooperatives are OWNED BY THOSE WE SERVE.

WOOL LACE—This lovely lace dress with "after 5" in mind, is also lovely for earlier occasions, also, such as the mother of the bride at the wedding, dressy luncheons and the like. Intricately fashioned of sheer wool lace over silk organza, the sleeves are raglan cut and perfectly matched; the neckline is formed of the edges of the leaf pattern. Light gathering eases the skirt at the waistline, sleeves are worn pushed up or just below the elbow. Comes in glorious colors of pink or ice blue.

Dilly Casserole Bread Wins $25,000 In Nat'l. Bake-off

WASHINGTON, D. C. —A hot, bread, flavored with dill seed and baked in a casserole, won the $25,000 top prize in Pillsbury's 12th Grand National Bake-Off for a Farmer's Wife from Crab Orchard, Neb., who has "been trying to get into the Bake-Off for years."

Mrs. Leona P. Schmeidler, a grandmother, out-baked 99 other rivals with an original recipe titled Dilly Casserole Bread. An ideal outdoor dish for barbecues or patio parties, the bread is "so simple that anyone can make it," according to Mrs. Schmeidler.

The new winner experimented to attain moistness by adding cottage cheese to an old dill bread recipe to produce her Bake-Off entry.

Bake-Off contestants from 34 states, among them two from Hawaii, received more than $100,000 in prizes, including their trips to Washington and the General Electric ranges and mixers which they used.

Mrs. Schmeidler collects "gobs of recipes" and has submitted entries to every Bake-Off for the past five years. She usually bakes once a week and "likes to make things people enjoy," but has no personal preference in recipes.

A previous contest try earned her third place against all male entrants in a cattle judging competition in Chicago.

Asked if she had a secret ambition, she replied, "Yes — I'd like to play in a band."

Presentation of the $25,000 award was made by Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States.

Second Grand Prize of $5,000 went to Mrs. Frances M. Bock, 2454 Mabray, East Detroit, Mich., for Chocolate Macaroni Cake which combines the favorite flavors of chocolate and coconut. The unique way in which the coconut macaroon mixture is layered into the batter produces a marble effect, the white coconut contrasting with the mahogany chocolate.

Mother of six children ranging in age from 17 to 28, Mrs. Bock bakes twice a week, won second grand prize on her first Bake-Off try.

First Prize in the Senior Division went to Mrs. Vera E. Mastie, 1900 Sunset Avenue, Springfield, Ohio. She received $3,000 for Angel Cheese Cake Pie, a no-bake cheesecake with a creamy texture which is light and fluffy.

Mrs. Mastie's ambition is to play the organ, but she will use her winnings for her 12-year-old son's education.

Top Junior Winner Karan L. Sprengle, 12, 1723 Fellows Place, Pomona, Calif., is the youngest contestant in this year's Bake-Off. She won $3,000 for Polynesian Tuna Bake, a sweet and sour casserole with oriental flavoring of brown sugar, onion, soy sauce and lemon. The casserole is served in the same skillet in which it is prepared.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit H. Sprengle, Karan is the eldest of five children. She is an eighth grade student at Emerson Junior High, Pomona, where her favorite subjects are home economics, history, and geography. She would like to take a trip around the world, but will put her award into a savings account.

BEST OF CLASS AWARDS

Submariner Ramon G. Cabalana, Chief Petty Officer, United States Navy, won $1,000 in the pies and desserts category with Sub Meringue Pie, an orange flavored cream pie made extra light by folding part of the meringue topping into the batter.

CUBA GOES RED

Even Producers Are Hoping 'Family' Theater To Return

BY INEZ ROBB

Thomas a Becket, 12th Century Archbishop of Canterbury, English martyr and saint, is probably whirling in his grave. This staunch individual, who has always had an unblemished place in history, is appearing on Broadway at the moment in the person of Sir Laurence Olivier in an intellectual offering by French playwright Jean Anouilh. The play is simply titled "Becket".

It is not his appearance on stage that is responsible for any disturbance in the saint's tomb. "T. S. Eliot has already started him in "Murder in the Cathedral." "Hath-er it is the tough economics of the modern theatre whereby Becket's current Broadway venture is made possible by the box-office earnings of a lady of the evening, one "Irina la Douce," the musical smash hit to which I recently voiced considerable objections in this space.

"You may not approve of Irina, the prostitute with the heart of gold," she pays for the production of "Becket," said David Merrick, the producer of both shows. He said it rather testily, too.

"You can't have one without the other," he declared. "Becket" is a distinguished play with a distinguished (i.e., expensive) cast, but it opened with only four weeks' advance at the box office. It's the "Irmans" who make possible the shows like "Becket".

"Just write me off as a latter-day Mrs. Grundy," I suggested to Merrick, the current nonpareil of Broadway and the street's most prolific producer.

"I would like to get back to a wholesome theatre myself," admitted the handsome man who, 10 years ago after he had made a killing in the law, instantly quit his practice to become a Broadway whirlwind.

"Of the six plays I have running on Broadway today, my favorite is "Take My Love." A musical starring Jackie Gleason and based on Eugene O'Neill's play, "Ah, Wilderness".

"You can take the whole family to see that show," Merrick continued. "I love it. You know, my favorite of all the plays I've produced."

"Well, it's Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," the producer said, answering his own question. "It's an innocent play about nice people. But, unfortunately, plays like that aren't finding their way into the market today.

"I am tired of depressing plays about neurotics dreamed up by Tennessee Williams and his imitators. There is even a feeling on Broadway today that the public is tired of neurotics, too, and that Tennessee Williams' name on his next play may be the kiss of death.

"I am tired of leaving the theatre filled with a sense of doom and destruction. I would like, once more, to walk out at the end of a show feeling inspired and full of hope."

"Hear! Hear!" I cried.

"All Broadway needs is good shows," Merrick went on. "I'd love to produce some good American plays, but there simply aren't any around. There just aren't enough good plays. At the moment American talent is concentrated in the musical field, and there's lots of it."

But even the fashion in musicals is changing, this producer believes. Merrick, as an individual producer, established some kind of a record recently when he opened in a seven-day period three shows on Broadway and started rehearsals on a fourth—a big, splashy musical called "Do Re Mi".

"But 'Do Re Mi' is the last big musical I ever intend to do," Merrick declared. "From now on, they're going to be small and simplified. In the future I foresee the musical play or the play with music, with a cast of 20 to 25 instead of 75. I intend to do one in the spring, called 'Carnival'."

"And for you," Merrick concluded, not unkindly as to the old lady from Dubuque, "I have brought the American rights to a new London musical, 'Oliver Twist,' and just right for every member of the family. Good, clean stuff. You'll love it."

North Korea In Pledge With China

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China and North Korea pledged to strengthen the "friendship and unity of the two peoples and their armies," Peiping Radio reported today.

The broadcast said the pledge was made Sunday by Marshal Ho Lung, vice chairman of the Chinese National Defense Council, and Gen. Kim Kwang-hup, North Korean minister of national defense, at a reception in Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The reception was given in honor of Ho Lung and his high-ranking military delegation who arrived to take part in Tuesday's 10th anniversary celebration of the entry of the Chinese Army in the Korean war.

Columnist's Mail Brings News Supply

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

What is home without a can opener? Americans now open 60 million tin cans of food every 24 hours.

Practically everyone has an odd fear of some kind. Famous folk are not immune. Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, for example, was deathly afraid of cats. He had palace guards inspect his bedroom daily to be sure no meowers lurked in the corners.

Many a man has succeeded without the help of a good woman, but no man ever got far in life without a fair amount of calcium. A 150-pound man contains about 7 pounds of calcium, 99 per cent of which is in his bones and teeth.

Opportunity usually knocks more than once. Proof: The average divorcee in the United States remarries within three years.

If you want to be healthy, do as your doctor does. The favorite sports of physicians are swimming and golf. Like most busy people, they avoid the simplest and perhaps best of all exercises—walking.

If you were born in October, your birthstone is the opal, which signifies hope. An old rhyme says: "October's child was born for woe and life's vicissitudes must know, but lay an opal on her breast and hope will lure the woes to rest."

The Soviet Union is no tax-free paradise. A recent survey estimated that government taxes take 33 per cent of the national income in Russia, compared to about 25 per cent in the United States.

New York has supplied the nation with more vice presidents than any other state. Its 10 vice presidents were Aaron Burr, George Clinton, Daniel D. Tompkins, Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore, William A. Wheeler, Chester A. Arthur, Levi P. Morton, Theodore Roosevelt and James S. Sherman.

How they got started: Polly Bergen became a singer after being fired as a salesgirl in a dress shop. Now, as a sideline Polly manufactures clothing and has a big dress shop of her own.

A footnote to fame: When Anton Chekhov, famous Russian author of more than 700 short stories, died of a lung hemorrhage he was a doctor himself but didn't like to undergo medical treatment by others, his body was shipped to Moscow in a refrigerator car labeled: "For the conveyance of oysters."

Fifth Debate Looms, But Agenda Disputed

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The major presidential candidates have agreed to try to arrange a fifth televised debate but disagree on whether it should be limited principally to the Cuban issue.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy, in a sharp exchange of messages on the Cuban situation, said they were assigning representatives to try to work out details for another encounter.

Nixon, the Republican candidate, proposed a "debate in depth" on the Cuban situation. He said the question could be stated, "What should the United States government do about Castro?"

The vice president did not say he would debate only on Cuba. But he told Kennedy that "unbiased observers agree" that the last two debates in some instances have become repetitious in covering subjects brought up previously.

Kennedy replied that he would "be pleased to discuss the whole record of Cuba with you," but said any further debate should cover many other subjects including, he said, correcting any distortions made in the closing days of the campaign.

He told Nixon that "to limit the subject of the fifth debate to one country would be to subvert the purpose of such a debate" and said he would ask the questions during the session.

Kennedy has been pressing Nixon to agree to a fifth joint debate which Nixon has said would be difficult because of other commitments. But he said Sunday night he would try to rearrange his schedule "if I believe it would serve a constructive public purpose."

Then, describing as "dangerously reckless" a recent Kennedy statement on Cuba, Nixon suggested a thorough discussion of the Fidel Castro regime and what the United States should do about it.

Since ousting former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, Castro has taken an increasingly hostile attitude toward this country. Kennedy has criticized Nixon and the Eisenhower administration for not forestalling the trouble.

Kennedy issued a statement in New York last Thursday which said, in part, "We must attempt to strengthen the non-Batista democratic anti-Castro forces in exile, and in Cuba itself, who offer the only hope of overthrowing Castro. Thus far these fighters for freedom have had virtually no support from our government."

Nixon said Kennedy's position would violate a non-intervention policy and five treaties to which the United States has pledged itself, would shock and alienate other American republics, would give Soviet Premier Khrushchev an excuse to intervene in Cuba on the side of the Castro government and if this happened, could lead to World War III.

Kennedy replied that Nixon had once again distorted his position. "I have never advocated or do not advocate intervention in Cuba in violation of our treaty obligations, and in fact, stated in Johnstown, Pa., that whatever we do with regard to Cuba should be within the confines of international law," Kennedy said.

"What I have advocated is that we use all available communications—radio, TV and the press—and the moral power of the American government to let the forces of freedom in Cuba know that we believe that freedom will again rise in that country."

Nixon himself has advocated an economic and political quarantine of Cuba.

The candidates' telegraphic exchange contained barbs on other subjects. Nixon told Kennedy, "I find it difficult to understand your continued public statements to the effect that 'I am afraid to meet you in debate.' Such a statement is sophomoric and not worthy of one who is running for the highest office in this land. Furthermore, you know it is untrue."

Kennedy told Nixon, "The distortions of the record concerning my position on Cuba exceed any others you have made during this campaign, you have developed the technique of having your writers rewrite my statements, using these rewritten statements and attacking me for things I've never said or advocated."

Sen. Kennedy Is Doused With Whiskey

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A woman threw a glass of whiskey into Sen. John F. Kennedy's face in Milwaukee Sunday night.

In Boston, eggs splattered former Democratic Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California at a Kennedy rally.

Neither was hurt. The Democratic presidential nominee was doused as he rode in an open convertible through jammed streets to Milwaukee Auditorium to deliver a speech.

The woman, not identified, pressed close to the candidate's slow moving car and threw the whiskey. Then she let go of the empty glass. It struck a member of Kennedy's staff.

Kennedy wiped his face, picked up the tumbler, said calmly "Here's your glass," and handed it to her male companion. There were no arrests.

In Boston, Mrs. Douglas, wife of actor Melvyn Douglas, escaped a direct hit when Judge Reuben L. Lurie, president of Ford Hall Forum, stepped between her and egg throwers in the balcony.

Another person on the stage, unidentified in the confusion, was hit full in the face.

Some of the splattered left the stage but Mrs. Douglas stayed and was applauded for five minutes.

In 1960, in a bitter contest, Mrs. Douglas was defeated for the U.S. Senate by Richard M. Nixon, now the GOP presidential candidate.

He Tells Berlin U. S. Stands Firm

BERLIN (AP)—President Eisenhower today told the people of West Berlin that Americans "are determined to stand with you in the great task of maintaining and extending human freedom."

The occasion of the President's message was the dedication of the Freedom Bell presented to West Berlin 10 years ago by the Crusade for Freedom, a private organization that supports Radio Free Europe's broadcasts to Communist countries.

Early Bermuda settlers called the island chain "Virginola" to show their close connection with the affairs of the Virginia colony.

Healthy Oil Industry Is Called Vital

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A strong, healthy oil industry is vital to the United States, a government economic expert said today.

A petroleum industry which is progressive, competitive and self-supporting enhances very materially the well-being of the country, even apart from considerations of national security," said C. W. Nichols, of Washington, a special assistant in the office of the secretary of state.

He spoke to about 1,000 oilmen attending the annual meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (I.P.A.A.)

Nichols said the conditions of the oil industry as closely tied in with the nation's security. He mentioned specifically the government's mandatory oil imports program, designed to curb the inflow of foreign oil, as one means of bolstering the nation's security. The association and other oil groups have been critical of the oil imports program for allowing too much foreign oil to be imported.

Nichols said the economic well-being of the world's oil exporting nations as being important to the defense of the United States.

"The petroleum policies and actions of one country, especially if it is a large factor in the world situation, can affect the interests and problems of other countries with a corresponding impact on international relations," Nichols said. "A situation of this kind can become a very conspicuous or even a predominant element in U.S. relations with the country or countries involved."

Terrorists Rounded Up

PARIS (AP)—Squads of French police combed Paris today for Algerian terrorists who sought a brief small-scale war in the heart of the capital against special Muslim police recruited to suppress them.

Two of the terrorists were killed and seven of the Algerian policemen wounded in the battles Sunday night, all in the old student and artists quarter on the Left Bank of the Seine.

Five police posts were attacked with grenades, machine guns and pistols. Terrorists in cars cruised the area, shooting at any policeman in sight.

When police reinforcements arrived, the Algerians fled. Some commandeered taxis to make their getaway.

Later police swooped down on 10 Left Bank hotels and rounded up 70 Algerians for questioning. The biggest engagement came on the busy Avenue de la Gare in Montparnasse, a section where many expatriate Americans live. Before the Algerian gunmen fled, two of their numbers were killed and five of the police auxiliaries were wounded.

The other casualties resulted from the attack on another police post not far off.

Soviets Warned By Norwegian Minister

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange today told the Russians to keep their hands off Norway and suggested that further Soviet threats may make Norway reconsider her present policy.

After giving Parliament a report on the U.N. General Assembly session in New York, Lange accused the Soviet Union of waging an offensive of threats and propaganda causing unrest in the country.

Ex-Convict's Body Found

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—Two hunters-Sunday found the body of ex-convict Doyle Jackson who had been shot in the back, stripped of identification and had a leather belt wrapped around his throat.

Officers said the slaying of Jackson, about 45, resembled a gang, land-style murder. Jackson, the father of five children, had been missing for two weeks. Sheriff W. J. Watlington of Bowie County and Justice of the Peace W. G. Sorsby said the man had been dead about two weeks.

In Swahili, an African language, a "mama" is a mama, but a "papa" is a shark.

Mrs. Mamie Clark of Texarkana viewed articles of clothing found on or near the victim and said the man may be her son-in-law, Jackson.

She said Jackson of Texarkana "just got in his car and drove off two weeks ago." She had not heard from him since. The car is missing.

Watlington said the body was identified from fingerprints. The sheriff said Jackson was convicted in 1939 of robbery and sentenced to 40 years in the Texas penitentiary. He was paroled in 1945 and since then has been arrested for investigation a number of times.

Letter To Church Stirs Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Roman Catholics were split today on a pastoral letter by their bishop directing them to vote against Gov. Luis Munoz Marin's Popular Democratic party (PDP).

A highly placed Protestant clergyman, Methodist Bishop Fred Pierce Cron, called the letter an "alarming illustration of the pressure the Roman Catholic hierarchy can exert upon parishioners and members of the PDP."

A mixture of jeers and cheers greeted Archbishop James Byrne of San Juan, one of the signers of the letter, as he arrived and left Mass at San Juan Cathedral Sunday.

Munoz Marin, a Catholic, assailed the letter as a political manifesto. The governor's wife walked out of San Felipe church while it was being read. Fifty parishioners walked out with her.

The three Roman Catholic bishops on the island issued the letter forbidding their parishioners to vote for the PDP because it had passed laws permitting the teaching of birth control and allowing sterilization to cope with the island's over-population problem.

Francis Cardinal Spellman said in New York that he believed Puerto Rican voters could ignore the letter without committing a sin. He said there would be no spiritual penalty for Catholics who voted for the Popular Democratic party in defiance of the letter.

Bishop Fred Pierce Cron of Philadelphia, presiding bishop of the Methodist Church whose jurisdiction includes Puerto Rico criticized the action of the Catholic prelates. In a statement issued at the consecration of a church at nearby Rio Piedras.

"It is significant that such pressure has been exerted in part of the United States, where it has been said it could not happen. An attempt to exercise control by forbidding members of the church to make a personal choice in voting is serious invasion of the principles of separation of church and state and a denial of the right guaranteed to every American to vote according to the dictates of his conscience by the Constitution," Bishop Cron said.

Turkey-Iran Rail Link Discussed

LONDON (AP)—Final plans for a railroad linking Turkey and Iran along a route followed by the armies of Alexander the Great were discussed by officials of the Central Treaty Organization meeting in London today.

The rail line will open up a large area of the Middle East rich in mineral resources and will make it possible to travel by train all the way from London to Tehran. The United States advanced Turkey $2 million last July for the project.

Bluebird Hard To Find In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The bluebird, commonly associated as the bearer of happiness, is becoming hard to find in Kentucky. State Ornithologist Bart L. Monroe estimates the bluebird population is off 85-90 per cent because of freezing weather which killed many birds last spring and careless use of poisonous insecticides and weed killers.

William G. Duncan of Louisville, a champion of the bluebird, said he checked 300-400 bluebird nesting boxes in the area and found only one nest.

Pilot Killed In Explosion Of Jet

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP)—An RF101 Voodoo jet plane exploded in the air on a flight test Sunday and plunged into a pasture near this northern Utah base, killing the pilot, Capt. Carl Edward Breeden, 30, of Knoxville, Tenn.

A civilian pilot, Jim Zogmaister of nearby Ogden, one of hundreds who saw the crash, said "The explosion was a big 'baa-boom,' like a sonic boom."

The Air Force started an investigation. Breeden had been stationed here three years.

QUESTION: Why is Venus de Milo without arms?

ANSWER: In Roman mythology, Venus was the goddess of love and beauty. To the Greeks, she was Aphrodite. According to the stories, she was born of the foam of the sea and floated gently to Cyprus. All the gods fell in love with her. She was known as a great friend of lovers. It is natural then that there were many statues of Venus. The most famous of these is the Venus de Milo, one of the great treasures of the Louvre Museum in Paris. It is called Venus de Milo because it was found in 1820 on the Greek island of Melos, in an underground cave near the ruins of an ancient theater. It was in two parts. Pieces of the arms were also found, but these disappeared during the years. And so, wherever we see the statue of Venus, we see her without arms. One big mystery is what position the arms originally held when the figure was sculpted hundreds of years ago by an unknown Greek artist.

FOR YOU TO DO: There are copies of this statue to be seen in museums and there are many pictures of it. What do you think Venus was doing with her arms?

Election Outcome Could Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—If next month's election is as close as some experts think it will be, the name of the next president may not be known until Dec. 19, or even later.

That's when the electoral college meets to make official the results of the Nov. 8 voting. Should the 537 electors representing the 50 states fail to produce a majority for anyone, the House of Representatives of the 48th Congress, which will convene in January, will elect the president.

The electors will be chosen by the voters in their respective states on Nov. 8. Each state is entitled to one elector for each member it has in the House and the Senate. While traditionally they cast their votes for the presidential nominee who received the largest vote in their state, they don't have to.

As recently as 1906 an Alabama elector voted to give the state's vote to Adlai Stevenson, although Stevenson carried the state by 85,000 votes over President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nine of the electors of a state have to vote as a unit. The records show that on 11 occasions a state gave part of its electoral vote to one candidate and part to another.

The electors, selected in most states by party conventions or committees, will meet in their respective state capitals on Dec. 19 to cast their votes.

That's when complicated political situations in several states may figure in determining who will be the next president if the November voting is close.

Georgia's 12 Democratic electors are not pledged to support Sen. John F. Kennedy in the presidency. If Kennedy carried Georgia on the basis of popular votes, the state's electors could vote for Richard M. Nixon or someone else if they wanted to.

A similar situation exists in Alabama, where only 5 of the 11 Democratic electors are pledged to back Kennedy, leaving the other 6—if Democrats carry the state—to vote for someone else.

In Mississippi there are two sets of Democratic electors, one pledged, while in Louisiana the state rights party has a set of unpledged electors.

If the electoral vote shapes up as a photo-finish on the basis of popular vote results, the unpledged electors could determine the outcome, and they would have until Dec. 19 to make up their minds. They could vote for a third person.

Conceivably, neither Kennedy nor Nixon might get a majority of the total electoral vote. To be declared elected, they must get a majority—286—on a plurality.

If the official electoral vote count conducted Jan. 6 by a joint session of Congress shows that no body received an electoral vote majority, they then would go to the House. There, each state would have one vote. The vote of

Money Lures Braceros To U. S. Fields

By JIM KOETHE
Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
MUNDAY, Tex. (AP)—They all come here for one reason: to make a lot of money. Says Earl Burton, manager of the Farmers' Co-op Gin:

"Most are dirty, some are very clean, many are illiterate, a few have college degrees."

Burton pays an average of $70,000 every two weeks to 1,175 workers (braceros) from Mexico who are on his payroll. He acts as agent, assigning the workers to farmers in the area.

The braceros, thousands of them in this West Texas cotton belt, are here to pick cotton. Many started the season in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, just across the river from their homeland of Mexico, and may range across the nation harvesting cotton, sugar beets, citrus and many kinds of vegetables.

In dozens of the West and North Texas towns like Munday, Groesbeck, Knox City and O'Brien—where cotton is still king—thousands of the braceros will be living for the next few weeks in some doubling and tripling local populations.

But times are changing and soon the Mexican worker will not be as necessary to the cotton farmer as he is now.

"In three months, we won't need them at all," estimates Burton. "By then, all of our cotton will be picked by machines."

This still makes things much easier for Burton, whose gin must contract and assume responsibility each year for the workers. Once individual farmers contracted for their services, but complaints of "meeting terms of the United States-Mexico Bracero Treaty made a central hiring agency the easier method."

The end of the annual trek of the Braceros will be fine with many residents of the town. "They don't care for braceros," says Burton, "but we all know that our economy here is based on cotton and without cotton we wouldn't even have a community."

Burton himself, with constant contact, says he has a greater respect and appreciation of the bracer than other residents.

He sees them going to the fields each day and among the illiterate common laborer, he sees teachers, attorneys and other Mexican nationals from many professional fields.

He also sees them checking out the cotton scale and spend many hours at the backbreaking labor.

For even a professional man such as an attorney can make more money picking cotton in Texas than he often can in his own country. "That's why they come. For money," says Burton.

He talked to one man of 70 who claimed to own two farms and a cattle herd in Mexico.

"So why do you come up here to pick cotton?" Burton asked. "Well, it's sort of like a vacation for me," the bracer replied.

"I'm getting a lot of money. I'm making a lot of money. At a recent payday, Burton's gin paid $70,000 to 'pushers' who in turn paid the braceros. The following day, Burton had to send money from the gin to help the bank and post office take care of hundreds of braceros who had lined up to buy money orders and cash their checks to send home to their families.

"Naturally all of them send everything they make home," he says, "and one even came in the other day and asked for money to buy food because he had sent all his earnings home to his family."

Burton and the gin are responsible for almost all the braceros' needs except food and clothing. "We issue each man a plate, fork and cup," he says, "and issue each five men a coffee pot, bean pot and skillet. Then they buy the food and cook it themselves. Sometimes we give them a turkey at the end of the year, sometimes not."

The gin also supplies braceros with living quarters and two blankets. Last year, hundreds of braceros turned in two blankets at the end of the season, but later inspection showed many had torn one blanket in half and folded the halves to give the appearance of two blankets.

The gin also supplies sacks for cotton picking—$5,000 worth this year. One man is employed full time repairing them.

Burton said his gin loses about $100,000 each year on the braceros, dealing with them as a service to farmers. But the gin made enough last year in ginning fees to pay a dividend back to farmers of $4 a bale.

The gin's regulations and labor department rules on treatment of braceros are rigid.

"We have to supply each man with 34 square feet of living space, plus everything else except food," Burton explains.

Eight hundred braceros live in the largest camp in Munday, which includes one shower room with 40 showers, heads and two huge outdoor toilets.

Here the men live and sleep when off duty, surrounded by great swarms of flies which the gin tries to kill by spraying. The braceros do not like to live in a house with screens.

Trouble sometimes breaks out. Burton's gin employs Bill Dryden to keep order.

Dryden carries only a night stick and works from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. He breaks up fights, settles arguments and even takes braceros to the doctor. Sometimes he calls the sheriff for help.

Sickness costs the gin, if one can't go to the fields, he is paid $1.15 a day from insurance bought by the gin. If he can't work because of a hangover, which is often, he is paid nothing because Burton takes the view that he has refused to work.

An average bracer makes $5 a day picking cotton. The gin pays him by the pound, or by the acre, or by the boll, cotton and all. Some are more skilled or work harder and can make $10 or $12 a day.

The gin manager estimates it costs a farmer about $45 to get a bale of cotton picked with bracer labor, and another $12 to have it ginned. Earlier he had to pay, buy the seed, plant, possibly fertilize, weed and kill insects.

"Profits from an average $150 bale of cotton are slim," says Burton.

But cotton picking machines are dropping the cotton picker's job. A machine now can pick about 20 bales of cotton per day, and cheaper than braceros. Delay in getting them into the fields is caused by the initial cost—about $18,000, an amount the average small farmer can't afford.

However, in many areas farmers have cooperated in purchasing a machine. It will not be long, believes Burton, before there will be enough to do away with bracer labor.

Still Room For Landslide

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pollster George Gallup says the presidential race is still very close but there is enough voter uncertainty to bring a landslide in either man.

Three shifts have occurred in the final few weeks before each of the last three presidential elections. Gallup said in a copyright interview published today by the magazine U.S. News & World Report.

Unlike many previous elections, he said, "there is a great lack of enthusiasm for either" Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Sen. John F. Kennedy, and many voters leaning toward either could be shifted to the other.

Putting the estimated total vote of 70 million, Gallup said he finds about 3.5 million potential voters undecided—about the same as in the last two elections.

But he described as a "terribly important" factor the possible shift of another 6.5 million who say they do not feel strongly about either choice.

The undecided vote often divides on the same ratio as the decided vote, he said, but in 1948 more than 70 per cent shifted in the final three weeks to Harry S. Truman, giving him a surprise election over Thomas E. Dewey.

Gas Line Breaks In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Firemen ordered to close off about 100 blocks around Karnes Park Sunday after a 30-inch natural gas line broke in the park.

Although gas sped into the air for four hours, most persons took it calmly and only a few left the area.

Pilot lights and other flames in the area were extinguished at the order of Fire Chief Herbert Hughes.

GIFTS APLENTY AT TOYLAND AND SNYDER ATHLETIC SUPPLY—Footballs and uniforms, baseballs and bats, basketballs and goals, volleyballs and nets, golf balls and clubs, tennis balls and rackets—all these are to be found at Snyder Athletic Supply with the other side of the shop. Toyland, supplying all the additional gifts for Christmas giving such as dolls, games, hobbies, riding toys, wagons, and the like. Stop in at the Highland Shopping Center and put your gifts in layaway at these combined stores.

Everything Santa Needs Is Found At Single Location

Attention all Santas! You can do all your North Pole shopping for Christmas at one time and do it early enough to sit back and really enjoy the Christmas fun from the sidelines.

Everything to please them all from tots to teenagers can be found at the combined Snyder Athletic Supply and Toyland in the Highland Shopping Center on the Big Spring highway and you can select your gifts now and lay them away to be picked up at your convenience.

And you know layaway leaves your budget in much better shape and yet allows you to have the pick of the crop.

Dolls for the babies, dolls for the "playhouses", dolls for collectors, dolls for decoration, and those wonderful "Impies" that go anywhere from the cradle to the teenage wall with their variety of dress and shy expressions—anything for that "doll" in your life that's looking forward to a special one for Christmas can be found at Toyland.

No child will be able to resist one of those cuddle bunnies on the front rack-plush, cuddly, lovable animals of all descriptions including the comic characters of TV fame. To cuddle or to add to your young lady's wall or bed, put one in her stockings—she'll adore it. She's six months or "sweet sixteen".

Naturally, you can find all the games, riding toys, guns and holsters with a side rifle, trains, and all sorts of stocking stuffers that will make for a merry Yuletide.

Hobby sets are plentiful, too, for the stamp and coin collectors, the mosaic painters, the model enthusiast, and sets for the beginner who is not just sure what hobby he prefers but is itching to try something.

For the athletically inclined, there are gifts to suit all ages, from the half-size footballs and suits to the weight-lifting sets and golf bags.

Whether your young man plays football in the backyard and base- ball, the ally or follows the lure of the next "green" at the country club, you will find just the right gift at Snyder Athletic Supply and you can do it at the same time and keep it in the same layaway till Christmas.

Make one stop do for all your shopping. Stop in now at Snyder Athletic Supply and Toyland and you will find just what you want to put under your youngster's tree come Christmas Eve.

Political Ad Causes Stir

ABILENE (AP)—A political advertisement on the back of the official publication of Texas Clubwomen has resulted in a storm. Miss Eudora Hawkins, chairman of the public affairs department of the Texas Federation of Clubwomen said today.

Miss Hawkins said headquarters is being flooded by protests, subscriptions are being cancelled and board members are resigning.

The back cover of the magazine carries a full page Kennedy-Johnson ad which, said Miss Hawkins, appears to tie in with the front cover to look like an official endorsement of the Democratic ticket.

Miss Hawkins said the back cover is a paid political advertisement and does not represent the official thinking or opinion of the federation.

This farflung organization of more than 1,000 clubs and 25,000 members is bi-partisan and while a get out the vote activity is in line with its policies, it does not endorse any candidate," said Miss Hawkins, an Abilene resident.

She said the ad carries a line "Paid Political Advertisement," but the lettering is so small many would overlook it.

Wayne, Avalon Get Ovation At Prison

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Actor John Wayne and singer Frankie Avalon visited the Texas Prison today to fundraise and get a loud ovation from 30,000 fans.

Wayne and Avalon came to Huntsville from San Antonio where they took part in the premiere of Wayne's picture, "The Alamo."

Former stripper Candy Barr of Dallas sang "Little Boy," a song she wrote before being sent to prison for 15 years for possession of marijuana.

Plants for an extension course from Texas Tech have been canceled here.

The course was to be offered at the high school here, provided there was sufficient interest.

C. D. Henry, director of curriculum for the school system, said only 16 persons expressed interest in the course, while a minimum of 24 was required.

Farmers may soon be using plastic-covered fertilizer capsules. They would spread fertilizer effects over a longer period, supplying nutrients as they are needed throughout the season.

Veterans of years of successful work in Wichita Falls and in Lawton, Okla., W. F. and Bill Lawton have opened a shop in Snyder to supply a fast, complete service on all glasswork and car accessories for the Snyder area. W. F. will remain with the Wichita Falls shop while Bill will manage the Snyder location.

Tailored seat covers in all fabrics are a specialty of Windshield Glass and Mirror with a large selection of plastics which include all the newest fabrics—crushed leather, art leather, loom puff plastics, engraved plastics, woven plastics and all fibres. All are original designs exclusive in this area with the shop. Nylon cover fabrics are available on order.

A complete line of all window and windshield glass, tinted or plain, is in stock at the shop for fast, convenient service.

The firm also has a pick up and delivery service on all their work. You may call and have your car redone from headliner to carpet and never leave the house.

Custom seat covers in your own choice of colors will extend the life of your car's upholstery. Besides it will make a wonderful family gift for Christmas to have the "old buggy" outfitted in new trappings of bright seat covers fitting just like the original factory upholstery with matching carpet and headliner. Just think what a lift it will give your morale. It will be just like driving a new car everytime you climb in to see a glowing color change from the ones you have been used to seeing.

Gravel pits and cracked windshields need not be a problem for owners of any make car with the complete line of windshields available in Snyder for immediate installation with fast, experienced craftsmen.

Give you and your car a new lift by stopping in and talking to Bill Lawton about your car's coverings.

Former Cuban Envoy Set To Aid Rebels

By DENNIS NEEDLE

LONDON (AP)—Former Cuban Ambassador Sergio Rojas Santamarina prepared today to fly to Miami to join 150,000 Cuban emigrants he claims are preparing a revolution against Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

"It will be a civil war—perhaps another Korea," he warned. "Castro is a mad dog."

Santamarina was Cuba's envoy to Britain until he was fired four months ago. Cuba announced he had been "dishonorably dismissed."

The handsome, 45-year-old diplomat returned to Havana but quickly moved into the Argentine Embassy claiming he had been persecuted and had resigned because of the Castro government's "shift toward communism."

After 65 days he escaped back to Britain.

"For the past three weeks I have been having important talks with people all over Europe," he told a reporter.

"Now it will not be long before I find myself in the thick of things. There are 150,000 Cuban émigrés in Miami and we are preparing a counter revolution."

"This is not just another Latin-American revolution. This is a battle against communism in the Caribbean. Just to give you an idea of what I mean, the man who now runs Cuba's secret police is a Russian called Col. Nickolaev."

Santamarina said he believed the Soviets probably have already arranged for Castro's escape in the event of a successful revolution.

"But if we get him he will certainly be shot," he said.

"Our aim is to bring back law and order to Cuba and to hold an election within 18 months of establishing a new regime."

Santamarina warned that British Guiana could be the next

Conservation Dam Broken By Floods

LA ROSITA, Tex. (AP)—A soil conservation dam on the arroyo Escopedo broke near this Starr County town washed out today causing a flash flood on U.S. 83.

The Starr County sheriff's office said water was five feet deep for a half mile on the highway near here. Traffic was blocked.

La Rosita is between Rio Grande City and Roma in the Falcon Dam area.

The Weather Bureau said rains up to three inches in the Rio Grande city area have caused several flash rises on streams in the area.

Light rains continued generally over the Lower Rio Grande Valley area.

Extension Course Plans Canceled

Plants for an extension course from Texas Tech have been canceled here.

The course was to be offered at the high school here, provided there was sufficient interest.

C. D. Henry, director of curriculum for the school system, said only 16 persons expressed interest in the course, while a minimum of 24 was required.
