Woman Killed In Spur Area; Nine Injured

Red Cross Sending Supplies To Help Storm's Victims

BY BILL CLARK
Journal Staff Writer

Savage destruction today marked the wake of a tornado which Tuesday night claimed one life and injured nine others in a section of farm homes and in the Soldier Mound community four miles north of Spur.

A daylight count this morning showed that nine homes and the Soldier Mound Baptist church were demolished by the twister and five other homes were badly damaged, most of them deroofed by the sudden storm.

The Red Cross today was sending emergency supplies to Spur to aid the stricken families. The Salvation Army also had offered its help.

Smaller Storms Seen

The Dickens county tornado was the worst of several twisters that struck the South Plains Tuesday.

Two or more small storms were observed near Wilson in Lynn county about 20 miles south of Lubbock and another was seen at Dougherty community, 19 miles east of Floydada on the Floydada-Matador highway.

Two small twisters were reported in the Silverton area Tuesday night. At Benjamin, observers reported seeing two separate twisters.

Meanwhile, hope for an end to the turbulent atmospheric conditions that have brought tragedy to the South Plains in several different storms was seen by the Weather bureau station in Lubbock.

Dead, Injured Named

Harold Frost, chief meteorologist, reported a polar front moving down from Kansas. If it arrives on the South Plains late tonight as indicated, it should disperse the huge bank of tropical Gulf air which has caused the freakish atmospheric conditions.

Cloudiness and showers may continue, however.

Mrs. Charity Smith, 52, of Gainesville, was claimed by the tornado. She was living with her son, James D. Kittrell, 37, of near Soldier Mound community, and his family.

The injured, who were being treated at Nichols General hospital in Spur, were:

McCloy is resigning as president of the World Bank to take on the assignment

Directors of the World Bank elected Eugene Black, now a director, as president to succeed McCloy.

The White House said McCloy will take under "early advisement" development of plans for the transfer of responsibility for non-military aspects of United States occupation of Germany from the Army to the State department and the Economic Cooperation administration.

Control To Change

"This transfer will take place on or about the time of the establishment of the German provisional government," the announcement said

High commissioner to Germany will be a new post.

The United States, Britain and France have made plans to give the Germans in their occupation zones a large degree of responsibility for governing themselves.

With the shift, strictly military control will end Commissioners from the three governments will deal with the German government. However occupation troops will remain in Germany.

The announcement said McCloy will be "the supreme United

Warm Welcome Scheduled For Brazil President On Arrival

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 18 — President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil arrives here today for a ten-day official visit.

And because this is his birthday, the welcoming ceremonies were to feature a cake four-feet high — to be presented by Prsident Truman — and a rendition of "Happy Birthday" by the United States Marine band.

Parade To Be Held

This unusual ceremony — probably the first of its kind in the history of Washington welcoming celebrations — was scheduled to take place on the steps of the District of Columbia building at the climax of a motorcade parade.

Dutra is 64 today. His birthday party was hastily arranged yesterday when the coincidence in dates was discovered.

The whole idea was to give the Brazilian chief of state a rousing welcome, to match the one President Truman received two years ago when he visited Brazil's capital city, Rio De Janeiro.

Dutra was due at Washington National airport in a Brazilian army plane under American fighter escort at 3 p. m., EST.

Full military honors awaited him as he stepped from the plane, after which he and President Truman — along with members of Mr. Truman's cabinet and other high officials — were to travel through the city in a 30-car motorcade.

Planes In Evidence

About 60 Air Force planes were to fly over the four-mile-long, flag-decked route.

After a round of official receptions and an address before a joint session of Congress on Thursday, Dutra will visit New York and the Tennessee Valley authority. He leaves for Brazil on May 27 from Nashville.

Dutra, who visited the United States as minister of war in 1943 to inspect American defense plants, arrived at Miami yesterday aboard a Brazilian air force plane and spent the night at the Little White House on the Key West naval base.

He was given a 21-gun salute when he inspected the Little White House guard.

The Brazilian president's schedule today called for a take off from Miami at 8 a. m. (EST) on the flight to Washington.

Tideland Compromise Endorsed By Shivers

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—A compromise between Texas and the federal government in their fight over tidelands has been endorsed by Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas.

Shivers yesterday was discussing the supreme court ruling permitting the government to sue Texas and Louisiana for their oil-rich coast lands.

"We might as well be practical and see if we can't work out some kind of compromise," he said.

"We have lost all our legal skirmishes, and it looks like we may lose those yet to come."

Rep. Lyle (D-Tex), among those with whom he talked, has proposed compromise legislation in view of the stalemate reached on pending measures.

Plainview Bus Co. Owner Asphyxiated

PLAINVIEW, May 18 (AP)—H. L. McCandless, 43, owner of the Plainview Bus company, was found dead in his car here last night. Death was caused by asphyxiation.

Funeral services will be in Amarillo Thursday. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Heart Attack Fatal To Miles G. Bivins

AMARILLO, May 18 (UP)—Miles G. Bivins, 60, Amarillo philanthropist who yesterday contributed $1,000 to Amarillo's tornado victims, died last night of a heart attack.

A leading Panhandle cattleman, Bivins had been in ill health for two years. His death missed by only a few days the anniversary of the deaths of his brother, Julian Bivins, and Bivins' son, Billy, in a plane crash May 23, 1940.

Solons Seek Proof Of Air Force Claims

House Group Orders Test Of B-36 Against Navy Fighters

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The House armed services committee today ordered the defense department to conduct "impartial tests" of the Air Force's B-36 against the Navy's best jet-fighters.

The showdown test was ordered after the Navy claimed officially that it has a jet fighter which can intercept and shoot down a B-36. It had challenged the Air Force to put the B-36 to a test, but the Air Force had remained silent.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D., Ga., told his armed services committee it was time the American people got a satisfactory answer to the controversial question whether the six-motored bomber is, as the Air Force claims, almost impossible to intercept.

Vinson said the committee's action was in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously.

"We're inclined to think it will be persuasive," he said.

In fact, he said he already had mentioned the proposal to Defense Secretary Louis

JURY SERVICE BILL APPROVED

Jester May Recall State Legislature

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 18.—Texas voters today were virtually assured the opportunity of deciding whether women should serve on juries. The House approved the proposed constitutional amendment, 101-25.

The measure was returned to the Senate, where it already has been adopted, for action on a minor change setting the date of the people's vote on the proposition for Sept. 24 this year.

Debate began in the Senate on a House-passed constitutional amendment to remove the 35-million-dollar constitutional ceiling on old age pensions and other public welfare grants. No action was taken, but discussion was scheduled to continue in an afternoon session.

Statement Is Discussed

While acting on proposed changes in the constitution many legislators were privately discussing the governor's statement yesterday that a $21,000,000 eleemosynary building program must be set in motion immediately.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester said he wouldn't let the legislature quit for keeps if it doesn't cough up the money for the whopping big construction plan to take care of such state wards as the insane. He said he would call a special session if necessary to take care of the situation.

Jester also said he liked the idea of starting a long-range, 35-million-dollar building program to house state departments and agencies. But he didn't say that was an absolute necessity.

Service of women on juries was vigorously advocated by Reps. Preston Mangum of Dallas, House

Battle Fierce For Shanghai

SHANGHAI, May 18 (AP) — The Communists drove a spearhead through Shanghai's "back door" almost to the Whangpoo river today. In south China the Reds lunged to within 31 miles of the port of Foochow.

A Shanghai garrison communique acknowledged the Shanghai thrust but said it had been wiped out in fierce fighting.

The advance on Foochow, Fukien provincial capital almost midway between Shanghai and the provisional capital of Canton, was reported by the Nationalists' official Central News agency.

Victory Claimed

The garrison communique said "two regiments of Reds penetrated Tungkow" which is virtually on the east bank of the Whangpoo eight miles down river from Shanghai. They were surrounded and eliminated, it added.

Reds encircling Shanghai from the southwest drove to Chwansha, 12 miles east of the city, then struck back westward against Pootung. This guerrilla-infested dock and warehouse area is just across the river from Shanghai's famed bund.

The communique said the Pootung fighting flared at 5 p. m. yesterday and still was in violent progress. At one point, it said, the Reds stormed Nationalist positions eight times before falling back before an artillery-supported counterattack.

New Help Claimed

Cetral News said the Nationalists have landed reinforcements on the China sea coast east of Shanghai, and these troops were trying to hit attacking Reds from the rear.

Another Red force was reported moving toward Sanlintang, about five miles from the big Lunghwa international airport, but also across the Whangpoo. There was no report of renewed frontal assault on Lunghwa. The Nationalists said they blunted such assaults yesterday.

HOLE-IN-ONE INSURED

LONDON, May 18 (AP)—Lloyd's of London is now prepared to insure a golfer against a hole in one. He pays 12 shillings sixpence ($2.50) a year against the chance of an ace. If he does it he gets £10 ($40) which will cover his traditional round of celebration drinks at the clubhouse.

Bitter Words Are Hurled In Board Session

More Rebukes For Communists Are Expected Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 18—The CIO executive board, presided over by an angry man, Philip Murray, prepared to deliver more spankings to the CIO's Communist-line minority today.

But it was probable that any major break-up of the organization would wait at least until the CIO convention next fall.

Last night President Murray announced that the board by a 38-11 vote "condemned" Mine, Mill & Smelter workers union for its attacks—and the use of "Communist weapons"—against Murray, the CIO, and Murray's own steelworkers union.

Uses Cutting Language

Reporters learned that during the all-day wrangle which preceded the vote, Murray denounced the Communists and pro-Communists to their faces in language as cutting and contemptuous as that which he used at the Portland, Ore., convention last November.

The main speech for the left wing was made by Ben Gold, the Communist president of the Fur & Leather workers union.

Gold said all of the CIO's present troubles—alleged "raiding" and fights between CIO unions—have taken place under Murray's leadership, and therefore he is to blame.

Must Share Blame

Murray was reported to have replied that the whole executive board must share the blame. He told the left-wingers their attitudes always follow the shifts in Russia's foreign policy, and he taunted them by saying their present tactics may suddenly end after the forthcoming big four meeting of foreign ministers.

Murray told reporters the board today would act on a "general resolution" concerning the "conduct of some of these unions."

He would not disclose the wording of the resolution until it had been acted upon. Many CIO leaders believed it would be—in effect—some sort of ultimatum to the whole left wing to get in line with major CIO policies or be suspended by the convention next fall in Cleveland.

Order Is Defied

In addition, the board was expected to take separate action against the left-wing farm equipment workers union, which has defied a board order to turn its members over to the United Auto Workers. Some CIO people thought there was a good chance

Longview Man Faces Charge In Robbery

TYLER, May 18 (UP)—Bud Mace, 48, of Longview faced charges today of being an accomplice in the $5,000 robbery May 13 from a safety deposit box owned by oilman P. G. Lake of Tyler.

Mace was arrested yesterday in Longview by Texas Ranger Dick Oldham and Smith county Deputy Sheriff Walter Jernigan.

A third man was sought in Dallas. He was named in a statement made by Chris S. Amos, 48, Tyler oil broker, who was charged last week with entering Lake's safety deposit box.

Last Hope For Floydada Grocer Fades

Rehearing Of W. Fred Jones Case Is Declined By Court

The last hope barring intervention by the governor or the State Board of Pardons and Paroles went glimmering this morning for W. Fred Jones, convicted murderer.

The court of criminal appeals has declined a motion for rehearing in his case, it was announced.

Jones, 38, of Floydada, is under sentence to die in the Huntsville prison electric chair for the Sept. 27, 1948, shooting of H. C. Love, jr., an employe of Jones' grocery store.

A former death sentence, from Hale county, was reversed and remanded for a new trial, Nov 12, 1947.

The case was moved on the court's own motion to Crosby county, where it was tried before 72nd District Judge Dan Blair.

A death sentence assessed there was affirmed by the court of criminal appeals. Today's announcement by the Associated Press from Austin showed that the court is disposed to do nothing to change its opinion.

In another announcement, the court of criminal appeals

Wheat Harvesting Is Facing Delay

Starting dates for the Texas wheat harvest have been further delayed by the recent rains and continued cold weather, officials of the Texas Employment Commission reported today.

Present indications are that cutting will begin in Wilbarger, Wichita, Clay, Foard, Knox, Baylor, Archer, Cooke and Denton counties about May 25. Surrounding counties will begin sometime between June 1 to 5.

The TEC officials state that because a number of communication lines have been cut it is impossible to get complete and accurate reports of the damage to the wheat crop. A special bulletin will be issued as soon as complete and up-to-the-minute data is available.

REDS DEMAND SPECIAL PERMITS

Truck Traffic To Berlin Is Halted

(By The United Press)

HELMSTEDT, Germany, May 18—The Russians closed the Berlin autobahn to eastbound trucks today, and western officials said the Big Four foreign ministers might have to settle what they called a violation of the blockade lifting agreement.

More than 200 trucks headed for Berlin were backed up at this zonal border station for lack of special permits suddenly demanded by Russian authorities.

Western officials met in Berlin with Maj. P. A. Kvashin. He refused even to discuss the truck tieup on grounds that it was a German matter.

Outlook Not Bright

"It may be necessary for the foreign ministers to settle this difficulty," a high allied official said after the meeting. "The outlook is not bright for settling it on a local level."

Kvashnin, Soviet transport chief, also refused to give an answer today on an allied request for permission to run 32 trains a day to Berlin, instead of the present 17.

Soviet authorities demanded that the trucks bound for Berlin on the autobahn show special papers from the Soviet-controlled German economic commission.

While officials bickered, hundreds of trucks dammed up at this zonal border check point. Among them were 90 huge trailers loaded with fish, fresh vegetables and other supplies.

Food Is Spoiled

A blistering summer sun had its effect on the fresh produce. The smell of ripening fish spread over the region as the day wore on. Some trucks turned back to unload their perishable cargoes in western Germany.

Stopped here less than a week after the lifting of the Berlin blockade and western countermeasures, truck drivers said the

Bride, 15, Sticks A $50,000 Tag On Love

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 18. (AP)—A bride 15 years old has placed a $50,000 price tag on the affections of her teen age husband she met while baby-sitting—and she wants her in-laws to foot the bill.

Mrs. Eugenia Holland Brendle filed a suit yesterday charging Dr. and Mrs. Luther A. Brendle with alienating her 16-year-old husband's love and affection.

She said her marriage in January to Luther, jr., resulted from his courtship while she was baby-sitting with his nine-year-old sister and five-year-old brother.

After the marriage, the young bride said in her suit for $50,000 damages, she and her young husband set up housekeeping and lived happily until Luther's parents stepped in and lured him back home.

Abilene Man Fined $1,000

The state cut another notch in the pistol it has leveled recently at the bootlegging racket here, when a county court jury that reported at noon found Clarence Ellison, 48, of Abilene, guilty of liquor law violation and assessed him a thumping fine of $1,000 and court costs and recommended that he be sent to county jail for six months.

The verdict was signed by A. Dennis as foreman.

Defense counsel Burton S. Burks and Clifford Brown of the law firm of Burks and McNeil, made no immediate announcement as to whether they would ask a new trial, appeal directly to the court of criminal appeals or accept the jury's vedrict.

Based On Beer Seizure

Evidence in the case was completed at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday. Most of this morning was taken up by exceptions taken to the court's charge. Assistant County Attorney Dudley Brummett opened the state's argument. District Attorney Waggoner Carr closing. Brown

Explosion Is Feared At Plant In Dallas

DALLAS, May 18 (UP)—A potential explosion "tinder-box" condition existed around the Linde Air Products company plant in South Dallas today as Trinity river flood waters rose into several box cars loaded with carbide.

The mixture of the two elements gave off acety'ene gas vapors which are highly inflammable.

Firemen have inspected the scene in boats, but were unable to move the cars out of the flood zone.

Workers around the plant were warned not to smoke.

Tornado Hits Navy Depot In Nebraska

HASTINGS, Neb., May 18 (AP) Farmers and naval personnel today were clearing debris in the wake of a tornado which struck just east of this south central Nebraska city late yesterday.

Damage to the Hastings naval ammunition depot was estimated at $50,000 by Captain Chauncey Crutcher, the commanding officer. He said three railroad cars were overturned and the roofs of permanent buildings extensively damaged though no one was hurt.

Farmer Ed Paulus and his wife were treated at a hospital for injuries received in the storm. He was carried 100 feet by the twister.

An unoccupied farmhouse was leveled, the side was torn from another farm house and a number of farm buildings were wrecked by the storm. Several power lines were broken.

Asia Danger Spot In Peace, Says Acheson

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today "there are serious dangers to world peace existing in the situation in Asia."

But he ruled out, for the time being, any United States participation in a Pacific defense pact.

The Secretary of State declared he thinks it is plain that Asiatic dangers are those which revolve around the present disturbed conditions in China.

Acheson took up the question of a Pacific pact modeled on the North Atlantic treaty because he said there have been a number of "public suggestions" for such an undertaking.

Thousands In Stricken Zone Are Homeless

Fort Worth Takes Health Measures; Water Hauled In

(By The Associated Press)

Dallas braced itself for a new-record Trinity flood today, as peril to health mounted in flood stricken Fort Worth where authorities clamped on emergency sanitation regulations.

The Trinity river climbed to 47 feet at Dallas, 19 feet above flood stage, and a 50-foot crest was expected.

In the Fort Worth area the toll of the swirling waters stood at seven drowned, 30 injured, and an estimated 13,000 homeless.

The swollen Trinity river had already poured into sections of Dallas, marooning 100 negro families in Roosevelt addition. Officers were rescuing them by boat and they were believed in no immediate danger.

Eating Places Closed

Meanwhile, a new series of tornadoes struck overnight in West Texas to bring the toll to 13 dead and about 130 injured from floods and twisters since Sunday night.

At Fort Worth, the health department closed drug stores and food establishments in the flooded areas. Its water supply knocked out by the flood, Fort Worth is a city living on borrowed water and the health department urged wholesale typhoid immunization. Typhoid vaccine stations vaccinated more than 1,500 persons before noon today.

City health Director W. V. Bradshaw ordered that no food be sold in the stricken areas until all facilities have been checked and approved by health and sanitary inspectors.

Water Hauled In

Big tank trucks of water rumbled into Fort Worth from Dallas, Wichita Falls and other cities and drinking water was doled out to thousands at emergency stations.

Chief of Police Carl Hansson at Dallas said scores of rescue boats are in use and that many more are ready in case of need. The levees in that area are built to hold a 60-foot crest.

Two civil air patrol pilots dropped food and supplies to five families marooned on a flood-isolated "island" about five miles northeast of Grand Prairie. Grand Prairie is in the Dallas area.

Oklahoma Hit By Tornadoes

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 18 (AP)—A violent electrical storm moving north from Texas crashed over central Oklahoma last night with cloudbursts and four small tornadoes.

There were no deaths from the twisters, but two were hospitalized and more than three dozen treated for lesser injuries when one tornado dipped into a high school crowd at Meeker, 36 miles west of here.

The other twisters did scattered damage in the Anadarko-Binger area about 60 miles southwest of Oklahoma City in Caddo county.

Flood At Norman

Torrential rains that concentrated over local areas turned flatlands into lakes and creeks into overnight rivers.

The worst flood was at the university town of Norman, 20 miles south of here, which was hit by a tornado itself only two weeks ago. Five inches of rain fell in less than three hours, turning the town and the University of Oklahoma campus into a river. On the main campus, the water was knee deep. Norman was cut off from Oklahoma City by creeks that flooded the main highways.

The two hospitalized after the Meeker tornado were taken to nearby Shawnee.

Plan To Split Colonies Among Four Nations Rejected In UN

NEW YORK, May 18. (AP)—The Bevin-Sforza plan to split up Italy's pre-war colonies among four nations failed early today in the U. N. general assembly.

A last-minute Latin American revolt brought a thumping rejection of the American-supported measure which had been denounced by Slavs and Arabs as a "deal" to strengthen Anglo-American control of the Mediterranean.

Weary delegates adjourned at 1:32 a. m. (EST) to gather again for a final meeting at 2 p. m. to arrange routine details for continuing study of the colonial problem at the next assembly session in September.

Defeat of the bitterly debated compromise plan leaves the strategic area in the hands of British military forces who have been occupying the colonies since they chased the Germans and Italians out during the war.

A sharp split among the 59 nations on the controversial question of restoring Italy to control of part of Mussolini's one-time African empire brought defeat of the compromise plan.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Italian Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza patched together the compromise 11 days ago in London after the assembly was deadlocked on the issue. The key was agreement that Italy should become U. N. trusteeship administrator of Tripolitania, in western Libia, in 1951.

But the assembly, in a heated voting session, refused by a single vote to approve Italy as administrator of Tripolitania. The vote on Tripolitania was 33 to 17 in favor. Nine nations abstained or were absent. Had one of them swung over to make 34 affirmative votes, the proposal would have obtained the two thirds majority necessary for assembly approval.

Then the Latin American countries—which supported Italy's claims—revolted. Argentina's Jose Arce snorted that "a spirit of evil" had broken loose. He said Argentina would vote against the entire porposal—putting the problem right back where it was when the assembly opened debate six weeks ago.

Others Follow Lead

Other Latin American delegates followed his lead. El Salvador's Hector David Castro said that if Italy was denied control of Tripolitania he was opposed to any partial settlement.

The final vote on the Bevin-Sforza plan was 14 for and 37 against.

The defeated compromise provided:

1. Independence for all of Libia after 10 years under the U. N. trusteeship system. During that period Britain would administer the eastern province of Cirenaica, France would administer the Fezzan and Italy would get control of Tripolitania in 1951, after two years of interim British rule.

2. Italian administration of Italian Somaliland.

3. Annexation of Eeastern Eritrea to Ethiopia.

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani, who had pleaded Italy's case before an assembly committee, commented: "It is unfortunate that we must start again from the beginning to solve this problem."

"For the lack of one vote," he told a reporter, "the work of two months has been lost. We had thought that this effort at conciliation, which had been accepted by the governments of Britain and Italy, would be acceptable. It was a constructive attempt to solve a difficult problem."

Religious Sect Is Upheld In School

SOMERSET, Pa., May 18. (AP)—Four Amish farmers—members of a religious sect that frowns on the buttons and bows of modern life—today had court approval to keep their children busy "tilling the soil" instead of attending school.

The four Amishmen—Jonas Petersheim, Menno Brennaman, Amos Yoder and Enos Mast—were jailed and fined last fall for keeping five of their children out of a public school.

Farmers Are Upheld

In a ruling handed down yesterday, President Judge Norman T. Boose of Somerset county court, ruled the enforcement of Pennsylvania's compulsory school attendance law was "an abridgement of their constitutional rights of religious liberty and conscience."

Judge Boose, who ordered the $60 costs of the case paid by the Elk Lick-Salisbury township schoolboard, said that one of the four had left Pennsylvania "presumably to escape persecution and oppression."

The jurist said the four tried to obtain work permits for their children but were denied them on the grounds there was no evidence of "dire necessity."

Ruling Is Given

The state law provides children may leave school to work after reaching the age of 15 provided they are granted work permits. The Amish children involved, four girls and a boy, are 15 and 16.

"After their children have completed the elementary grades and attained age 15 or over," Judge Boose said in his ruling, "(the Amish) believe their children should be at home and usefully employed in tilling the soil. They lead plain and simple lives and avoid conformity of the conventional ways of the world. No one can doubt the honesty and sincerity of the religions which are founded on the Bible."

Tourist Poser Explains How To See Things In Hollywood

(EDITOR'S NOTE: (Going to Hollywood on your vacation? Gene Handsaker, posing part of the time as a tourist, has been gathering information that will prove helpful. In a series of three columns, starting today, he tells how to get inside a movie studio (at least a peek); how to find your way to various glamour points, including the movie stars' homes; what it will cost for lodging and food, and what radio broadcasts you can expect to see).

HOLLYWOOD, May 18 — So you're coming to Hollywood on your vacation. Naturally, what you want most is to see 'em make pictures. Well, you can't. Not unless you know somebody with drag inside a studio. Or you happen onto a location troupe shooting in a bowling alley, say, or outside some house—very unlikely. But you can go on one movie lot—on a bus.

Donning my widest-eyed tourist pose, I took that three- hour tour, which goes by a lot of movie-star homes and includes about 20 minutes on the Warner Brothers lot. The trip costs $3.74, with tax, and is worth it. The bus holds 41 passengers. The driver—ours was freckle-faced and Butch-haired—keeps up an almost continual, interesting spiel over a loudspeaker system.

Seeing Stars Is Gamble

"Sorry," he said as we drove between the pink-tan sound stages. "Warner Brothers rules. No smoking. No picture-taking. And no one leaves the bus."

Practically the only people we saw were a few workmen leaving with their lunch pails. No stars. "A star or two would've made my trip complete," wailed the young lady on my left, a tourist from New Mexico. But next day's busload may have seen Shirley Temple or Barry Fitzgerald heading across the lot. It's always a gamble. And here's what else we did see—

The studio hospital, power house, dressing rooms, shine parlor, wardrobe and tailor shop. The "New York street" of false-front tenements, theater, and police-station. The courthouse seen in "Silver River" and cardboard palm trees used in "Key Largo." The studio will be glad to know that the driver throws in lots of picture credits.

Props Are Real

There was a small reproduction of New York's Central Park. "The shrubs, trees, and grass are all real," the spiel went. "Before filming starts, they are sprayed with a green chemical or they would look black." There was a railroad car that appeared to be speeding along in "Treasure of the Sierra Madre" though it was merely rocked from side to side, on springs. There were an artificial ship, wind machines, a fishing village with plaster of Paris barnacles on the wharf, a plaster dinosaur skeleton and miniature ships, houses, and even a Liberty bell. The commissary, where "they can feed 2,000 people in two hours."

The stars' homes in nearby Toluca Lake got more gasps. Dwellings of Dana Andrews, Jean Arthur, Lana Turner, Janet Gaynor, Frank Sinatra M) New Mexico neighbor was ago. "He's not married, either," she murmured outside Jimmy Stewart's. In front of Bing Crosby's dad's house: "If we see Bing I'm gonna say, 'Hello, Bing, old boy!'" At Bonita Granville's: She married that rich Texan, and her house ought to be gold-topped." Many other interesting sights including midtown oil wells and the Mack Sennet and Clara Kimball Young studios, were eye-opening to even a longstime resident playing tourist.

(Tomorrow: Seeing the sights by auto and street car.)

MAN SWEARS
By Better Razor Blade

LUBBOCK May 18.—

Plenty of men swear at their razor blades, but here's a man who swears by his!

When reporters called on Joe Muldoon, they found him whistling in the bathroom. "Boys," he said, "just tell my public I'm razor blade happy. After years of trial and error, mostly error, I finally found my blade — just a 'feather-touch' and no long whiskers! Why, shaving with Pal Hollow Ground is as easy as flicking the top off lemon meringue pie."

Mr. M forgot to say that Pal Hollow Ground still gives you 4 for 10¢ (or 10 for 25¢, 21 for 49¢, 44 for 98¢). He uses Double Edge. Single Edge cost the same.

CARRIES POTENT POLITICAL NAME

FDR, Jr., Wins In New York Election

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 18—Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., first of the late President's five children to seek elective office, has launched his political career by giving Tammany Hall a sound licking.

The 34-year-old lawyer, bearing one of the most potent political names in the nation's history, captured more votes than all three of his opponents in winning yesterday's 20th congressional district special election.

Votes Are Announced

Roosevelt collected 41,146 votes, 31,037 on the Liberal party ticket and 10,109 under the Four Freedoms party banner.

His three opponents got 39,726 distributed this way: Municipal Court Justice Benjamin Shalleck, Democrat, 24,352; William H. McIntyre, Republican, 10,026; Dr. Annette T. Rubinstein, ALP, 5,348.

His jubilant supporters, toasting him at rallies throughout the district last night, chanted "next stop, Albany—the governor's mansion" and "the next governor of New York." His father was governor two terms, vaulting from there to the White House.

Only One Ambition

One enthusiast demanded "when are you going to run for governor?" The new congressman, third of the Roosevelt sons, responded:

"I can answer that very simply. I have only one ambition and that is to serve the people of my district and my country to the utmost of my ability."

The Tammany Hall candidate, Shalleck, given the Democratic nomination denied young Roosevelt, was his chief rival in the election.

FDR, jr. centered his campaign fire on the ancient Manhattan Democratic organization, just as his father had battled Tammany in his first political job as a state senator more than 35 years ago.

In turn, the Democratic organization denounced young Roosevelt as an interloper in the district and as a playboy trying to trade on his father's name. The Republicans also attacked him, and the American Labor party lashed him bitterly.

Fills Bloom's Seat

The special election in the Manhattan west side district filled a vacancy caused by the death of Democrat Sol Bloom, who had won 13 straight terms there.

Many political observers thought the tremendous outpouring of voters, far exceeding pre-election estimates, definitely marked the Roosevelt scion as a man with a political future.

The New York governorship has been held by Republican Thomas E. Dewey since 1943. It will be contested again next year. However, some of young Roosevelt's supporters have picked 1954 as the year for him to make an Albany bid.

The handsome affable Roosevelt, a six-footer, put on a terrific campaign in the New York melting pot district, which has large groups of Jews, Irish, Puerto Ricans and others.

Made Personal Drive

He rang doorbells, shook hands with thousands of voters, answered questions at countless meetings, took his turn at the microphone at street rallies, and spoke over the radio with stars of the entertainment world who backed him.

Tammany charged his campaign cost $250,000.

U S. Sen. J. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, and Paul E. Fitzpatrick, the party's state chairman, supported Shalleck.

However, many Democratic leaders in and out of the state endorsed FDR jr. He also won the help of many big unions which contributed to his father's victories.

City Has Two Police Chiefs; One Has Keys, Other Has Car

LITCHFIELD, Ill., May 18 (AP)—Litchfield's two police chiefs walked on opposite sides of the street today—one with the keys to the squad car but without gasoline for it, the other carless but with a gas supply.

The two, Leroy Franklin and R. G. Stiefel, weren't even speaking to each other. Franklin was appointed chief of the five-man force by Mayor C. Willard Peterson. But the city council refused confirmation. So Stiefel says he remains chief until the council confirms a successor.

Stiefel has the keys to the jail and squad car. But the filling stations won't let him charge gasoline to the city account. Franklin can buy gas on credit—but has no car keys.

The dispute is expected to go to court for decision. Meantime the two chiefs prowl opposite sides of the streets in this city of 7,000.

Italian Farm Hands Strike

ROME, May 18. (AP) — Forty thousand farm workers were called off their jobs today in Italy's most serious strike in months.

The walkout affects grain areas of Rome province and the rich Po valley, just at the start of the rice planting season.

It is the first to unite in Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor (CGIL) and the rival Christian Democratic Free Confederation of Labor (LCGIL).

The two groups finally called the walkout after two postponements in the past four days, following frantic midnight efforts of the Italian labor ministry to produce an agreement between workers and employers.

Proposals Vetoed

The employers' federation turned down two proposals: by the CGIL for a national contract incorporating better working conditions and by the LCGIL for a national contract with regional variations.

In Bologna, meanwhile, the Communist-dominated Chamber of Labor called a 24-hour general strike for all Bologna province, to protest police firing on demonstrators yesterday in the town of Molinella.

A 34-year-old widow was killed and two other demonstrators gravely wounded in a melee between the police and Communists and pro-Communist Socialists who tried to stop farm hands working.

Machines Would Zip Out Letters Faster

Mail Too Heavy; Congressmen Ask For Electric Typewriters

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Congressmen's mail is so heavy they may get electric typewriters to help them zip out the answers.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) has introduced a bill calling for electric typewriters for congressmen.

"I think that an electric typewriter may keep us from having to put on another government secretary," Rankin told me today. "In the long run, it would save the government money."

Rep. Bentsen (D-Tex) has an electric job, and it's considered a marvel, particularly on quasi-form letters.

Let us assume that the vital issue facing this country is a proposal to appropriate money for eel feed in the Sargasso sea.

Friends of the eel are not for the proposal. "Can we afford to let the eel down?" they ask.

Enemies of the eel scoff. "What has become of free enterprise?" they ask.

Well, congressmen must make up their minds — and their letters—on the subject.

If they have an electric typewriter, here's what can be done:

The letter is gotten up, and is punched out on a tape. Then when a constituent wrathfully writes in on the eel question, a stenographer can type out, "Dear Jim," put in the tape, and away the answer whizzes.

Most people have no idea of how much mail a congressman has to answer.

Rep. Norblad (R-Ore) for instance, gets from 50 to 100 letters a day. Each, of course, is answered. Rep. O'Toole (D-NY) gets around 100. Many of these can't be answered by a form letter, of course.

Special Calls

"It isn't the answering that takes time," O'Toole said. "Many letters require special calls or letters to government departments around town before we can write a reply."

At that, things aren't as bad for O'Toole as they once were. Before New York was re-districted, O'Toole had 911,000 constituents, as compared with the 250,000 he has now.

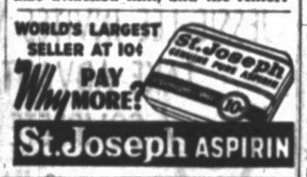

"They used to bring the stuff in mail bags," O'Toole groaned. "Why, on one question, the old government reorganization bill, I got 35,000 letters and 6,000 telegrams. The draft bill brought in 27,000 letters."

Even an electric typewriter, he figures, won't solve a situation like that.

Career Girl's Prolonged Weekend Dates Cause Great Conflict With Her Mother

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: This is my first appeal to any "outsider," but I have been wanting to write you for a long while. The problem is my daughter Betty, 25, a fine girl in many ways, but I don't approve of her late hours.

Betty is a career girl, living away from home, and she visits us during vacations, and for holidays and week-ends through the year. Betty's friends are out-of-town visitors, and two in particular stay at our house, although both have sisters in this vicinity.

If Betty gets here Friday night, the first man—who also sees her once a week in the city where she works—will be here Saturday noon and Betty gives him all her time from then until 4 or 5 a. m. Sunday. They may go out to dinner, a nightclub or a movie, or they may just stay home, talking and necking; but it's always dawn before they part.

GIRL INDIGNANTLY DEFENDS "FRIENDS"

THEN Sunday the second man arrives and it's the same story—home or out, their date ends at home and lasts until dawn. This has been going on for a year; and I get angry and tell her it is cheapening, but she says I am Victorian and ignores my comments.

When we first complained, Betty called it an insult to all of them, said her friends were decent people and if we objected she would never come home. But I have reached a point where I think I am doing wrong to put up with it; and I'd like to have your idea of the correct hours to say "goodnight," either as a caller or overnight guest.

Incidentally, the second man has asked Betty to marry him, but she likes her work and makes more money than either man can hope to make years from now.

(Signed) K. C.

SITUATION SUGGESTS GIRL LACKS FRIENDS

DEAR K. C.: You say "Betty's friends are out-of-town visitors," and then describe two rather furtive-acting fellows who make your home a rendezvous for lengthy stints of necking with her.

This vignette, combined with Betty's touchy defensiveness about their behavior and her indulgence of it, suggests that the poor girl actually has no friends at all, and is trying to put a brave face on the matter and make-believe she is loved and popular.

If she were normally social, with an average showing of friends, she would have some friends of both sexes in her home town or wherever she lived; also a healthful interest in mingling with friends on a group basis during a large part of her leisure. And as an outgrowth of normally friendly association, she would have developed a repertory of favored recreations—say bowling, picnicking and skating; or riding, golf and sailing, for instance.

MORBID ELEMENT IN GIRL'S DATES

THE fact that Betty's dates are a fixed routine of going to dinner or nightclub or movie, or just staying home, and always an exclusive twosome, with talking and necking the chief "pastime," seems pitiful evidence that she grew up a stranger to normal extrovert good times, and that she is a victim of loneliness, inferiority feelings and the predatory male who preys on her sort.

Certainly there is a morbid character to dates which continue under your roof until dawn, habitually; and I endorse your feeling that it's "wrong" of you to tolerate the practice, even grudgingly. You would be wholly within your rights, and acting wholesomely besides, if you were to barge in, wrapper-clad, around 1 a. m., instruct the nighowls to "break it up," and stick around until they've separated for the night.

In my opinion, a caller or an overnight guest should have the civility not to loiter in anybody's parlor after 1 a. m. at the very latest, if a twosome is the most company present.—M. H.

Rodeo At Post Opens Tonight

POST, May 18 (Special) — This year's annual Post Stampede rodeo will get underway tonight with a preliminary parade, planned for 7 p. m., to be followed by the first performance at 8 p. m.

Performances also are planned for 8 p. m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. A parade will precede the events each night.

At tonight's opening parade, representatives of a number of organizations and rodeo groups are expected to participate, including members of the "Sheriff's Posse" of Lubbock.

Dances Also Planned

Rodeo officials Tuesday were busy registering performers for the events, and by late afternoon approximately 40 rodeo contestants had been entered for the forthcoming events. A total of some 100 to 125 contestants are expected to participate in the four-day show.

A dance at the rodeo grounds, located on the Lubbock highway northwest of the center of town, was held Tuesday night. Dances will follow each of the rodeo performances. Music will be furnished by Ted Blinka and his seven-piece orchestra, featuring D. J. Adkinson and his "left-handed" fiddle.

Traditional rodeo events will highlight the performances, among them calf roping, bull riding, bare back bronc riding, saddle back bronc riding, "double mugging" contest, and cutting horse contest. A cowgirl sponsor contest also is planned.

Stock for the rodeo performances will be furnished by Bill Lyons, well-known rancher-stockman of Petroleum, who has furnished stock for the annual show since it was first staged in 1942.

Prizes totaling $3,500 or more will be awarded to winning contestants. Winners will be announced at the final performance Saturday night.

Admission to each performance will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

The show is presented by the Post Stampede, Inc., an organization composed of merchants and businessmen in Post and Garza county. The first Stampede was presented in 1942. During several of the war years, performances were cancelled. This year's annual show is the third to be presented since the end of the war.

Phil Bouchier is manager of the 1949 show. G. W. Connell is current president of the Post Stampede, Inc., and Homer McCrary is secretary.

Union Rejects Ford Proposal

DETROIT, May 18 (AP) — One more compromise proposal lay in the wastebasket today as Ford and the CIO United Auto workers sought a settlement of a two-week-old strike.

Active government intervention in the vexing production speed-up dispute still was only a possibility. More than 100,000 men are off the job.

Plan Is Rejected

Arthur C. Viat, regional director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, said he had not decided whether or when to step into the peace talks.

The latest of a series of these was made yesterday by the company and turned down quickly by the UAW as "fantastic."

Ford suggested that the union call off its strike everywhere except in the "B" building of the big Rouge plant in neighboring Dearborn and the Lincoln-Mercury plant in Detroit.

Shortage Of Parts

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and top company negotiator, said this would send 97,000 of the 102,000 idle Ford workers back to their jobs within a few days.

The other 5,000 are employed in the "B" building and the Lincoln-Mercury plant. These are the only places where the union has complained that Ford employes have been worked too hard.

But to strengthen its hand the union called out all 62,000 Rouge plant workers May 5 along with 3,000 from Lincoln-Mercury. Since then another 37,000 Ford employes throughout the country have been laid off because of a shortage of parts normally manufactured at the two struck plants.

Air Force Men Seek Homes In Lubbock

Some of the personnel of Brksdale Air Force base at Barksdale field, La., who expect to be transferred to Lubbock Army Air force base upon its reactivation this fall are losing no time looking for homes to rent or buy in Lubbock.

Capt. Joseph E. Trojan returned to Barksdale field Tuesday after purchasing a home at 3413 Twenty-seventh. His wife is the former Miss Blandina Neathery and is the daughter of Mrs. Justin Neathery of 2409 Thirteenth. Captain Trojan was in training at Lubbock Army Air field during the war and received his commission there. He later served overseas and returned to the states in 1945. He was stationed at Enid before going to Barksdale field about three years ago.

Several other officers from Barksdale have visited in Lubbock to seek to rent homes.

Ex-Lubbock Woman's Services Are Today

Mrs. Key, who had lived in Lubbock for approximately 20 years prior to moving to California about a year ago, died last Thursday in a Los Angeles hospital following a heart attack.

Survivors include the husband; seven sons, Clyde Morris of Kingsbury, Calif., J. R. Morris of Los Angeles, Rev. Elois Morris, Little Rock, Ark., James and Earl Ray Key, both of Lubbock, Travis Key of Stockton, Calif. and Elder Key, Indio, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Jewel Dowdy of Lamesa and Mrs. Christine Wells, Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. John Taylor, Frederick, Okla.; and nine grandchildren.

Borger Drubs Lubbock, 9-3; Dukes Trounce Lamesa, 10-2

Clovis Meets Hubs Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

It was a great night Tuesday for home clubs in the West Texas-New Mexico League. They all won.

League-leading Albuquerque, back in the win column after a one-game losing streak, ended a home stand by whipping Lamesa 10 to 2. Clovis measured Abilene 10 to 6. In other results, Borger took Lubbock 9 to 3 and Amarillo won over Pampa 12 to 6.

The scene shifts tonight. The lineup—Albuquerque at Lamesa, Clovis at Lubbock, Amarillo at Abilene and Borger at Pampa.

In Albuquerque, Duke Tosser Walt Raimondi and Tommy Breisinger held Lamesa to three hits. Four Lobo errors—three in one inning—and heavy Albuquerque bat work accounted for the rest.

Albuquerque scored early in the first, on a single, a walk and a hit batsman. Leftfielder Dick Dawson homered in the second with two on. Two walks and a double in the fourth were followed by three Lamesa errors and accounted for three runs.

Borger, after dropping the first of the series, beat Lubbock to split the two-game run. Gasser Catcher Ken Sears pounded out his sixth home run in four games. "Sugar" Cain went all the way on the mound. Errors by his teammates accounted for two of the three Lubbock runs. The Gassers pounded a pair of Lubbock hurlers for 14 hits, six of them for extra bases.

Clovis pushed across five runs in the eighth for the win over Abilene. George Matthews won his second victory for the Pioneers. Abilene used three pitchers—Geraldo Rodriguez, Dan Parra and Rudy Lorona.

Three home runs figured heavily in the Amarillo win over Pampa. The roundtrips were recorded by Crawford Howard, Dick Gentzkow and Ted Clawitter. Outfielder Homer Matney was assigned to the Pampa mound to relieve starter Paul Cooke in the sixth in an effort to shut down the Amarillo scoring spree.

CHRIS HASKINS SLATED TO HURL FOR HUBBERS

The Hubbers, their one-game winning spell stopped before a good string could be started, return to Rosenthal Field to open a nine-game home stand.

Clovis, led by Manager Paul "Daffy" Dean, comes to the city for three games, the first of which is scheduled for tonight, weather permitting. All games from now on will start at 8:15 p. m. instead of the 8 p. m. starting time.

Crucial Series Opens

Manager Jackie Sullivan is expected to throw Chris Haskins, who hasn't started a game yet, at the visitors. Haskins has yet to win or lose a game this season.

Strange as it may seem, this is a crucial series for the Hubbers. They are locked in a tight race with Pampa and Clovis for sixth, seventh and eighth places in the league. The Hubbers currently are clinging to sixth place, one game ahead of Pampa and two games ahead of Clovis.

Red Sox Beat Chicago, 4-3

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lou Boudreau is a worried young man today.

The pilot of the world champion Cleveland Indians is burdened by a problem—the Tribe's vaunted pitching staff.

"I know we're not hitting a lick," Boudreau said before last night's 4-3 loss to the New York Yankees. "But that doesn't worry me half as much as my pitching.

Top Pitchers Hurt

"Every one of my big four-Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Gene Bearden and Steve Gromex—has been laid up by injuries. I haven't gotten a complete game from any of them for nearly two weeks. What's worse, I don't know when any of them will be his old self again. Not one is in good shape right now."

Bearden, who has been suffering from a pulled leg muscle, showed last night that he was not yet himself. Plainly favoring his injured leg, the tall lefthander lasted seven innings and was clipped for 16 hits as the Yankees defeated the Indians 4-3.

Detroit's runner-up Tigers remained two games behind the league leading Yankees by coming from behind to defeat the Washington Senators, 4-2.

Philadelphia's Athletics moved into third place by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 9-2.

Red Sox Win

Vern Stephens' ninth home run in the eighth with a mate aboard, enabled the Boston Red Sox to nose out the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Boston Braves, 5-4, to move within two games of the National league lead, shared jointly by the Braves and New York Giants.

Bob Chesnes pitched and batted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-2 victory over the Giants. Chesnes limited the Giant sluggers to six hits and started the winning rally with a ninth inning three-bagger.

Singles by Eddie Waitkus, Del Ennis and Andy Seminick gave the Philadelphia Phillies a run in the 12th inning to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

Ralph Branca became the first major league pitcher to win six games when he received credit for Brooklyn's 8-5, 11-inning triumph over the Cubs in Chicago.

Eagle Nine Edges Latin Aces, 12-11

The Seventh Street Eagles defeated the Latin Aces Nine, 12-11, in a close baseball game Tuesday. Ray Weed knocked in Billy Smith with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth and final frame.

Both clubs played good ball, and the Latins went ahead in the fifth, 11-10, after trailing most of the game. Billy Smith had three for four, and James Solley had three for three for the winners. Leading the losers was Raymond Armenta with three for four.

Fenton Will Test Dusette

Rod Fenton meets George Dusette in the final event at Sled Allen's wrestling arena tonight, and the match should be packed with action and excitement. A preliminary and a semi-final match will set the stage for the main event.

In the main event will be Rod Fenton of Edmonton, Canada, against the Boston Strongman, George Dusette, for two out of three falls or an hour time limit.

Fenton is a rough man, and in the bout tonight he will meet another rough grappler. Fenton has been winning consistently due to his smartness and aggressiveness as well as a desire to win regardless of the method used.

Curtis, Goetz Meet

Whether Fenton can match holds with Dusette without receiving too much punishment remains to be seen, but Dusette has a book of punishing holds that can make any man pat the mat.

Scientific wrestling is billed for the semi-final event between George Curtis and Billy Goelz for two out of three falls or 45 minutes. Both wrestle scientifically and according to the rules, but both are known to show sudden bursts of temper and to forget about their scientific methods of warfare.

Goelz made a fine showing here several weeks ago when he subdued Pat O'Dowdy with the aid of a ringside chair

In the preliminary event Jack Pappenheim meets Danno McDonald, and this should be another wrestling match as both men prefer scientific stuff and are fast and aggressive.

Matches start at 8:30 p.m., and tickets are on sale at Wylie's until 5 p.m. today.

Wally Hood, jr., is a New York Yankee pitching rookie. His father hurled for Brooklyn in the twenties.

FINAL PLAYOFF GAMES TODAY

Amarillo Sandies Beat Westerners

Lubbock's Westerner baseball team is in Amarillo this afternoon for the final games of the District 1-AA baseball playoff with Amarillo after dropping the first game, 7-3, here yesterday. A double-header is scheduled, but should Amarillo win the first game it will give them the district title and the right to meet Wichita Falls for the bi-district title and a trip to the state schoolboy tournament.

The game Tuesday was played in a mild sandstorm, but the ground was wet and soft around first base line and in outfield. Fielders and baserunners were noticeably hindered by the playing surface.

Winning pitcher was Walton Roberson, and he gave up 10 hits, struck out four batters, and issued 10 walks—eight intentionally. Roberson showed good control and slow curves, but his pitches were not fast.

Jimmy Hamilton, Westerner righthander, gave up 12 hits, struck out six, and issued three walksJ—one intentional—in getting charged with the loss. He led Lubbock hitting with four singles in five times at bat.

A total of 18 Lubbock baserunners were left stranded as the batters refused to hit with men on base. Roberson's offerings could not be contacted solidly.

A neat double play in the sixth was the best fielding effort of the day for the Westerners, although Reeves made a fine running catch of a high-hit fly in the second and Galey went deep to take a couple of ground balls. After Knight had singled to open the sixth frame Hansard hit to Galey and flipped the ball to Brown for one, and Brown threw to Fullerton at first to just nip the batter.

Most of the time the Lubbock players would be in scoring position with two outs, but the punch necessary to bring the runner across the plate never came. Intentional walks by Amarillo staved off any hits that might have come from the bat of Charles Galey, second baseman, as he drew five free passes to first base in five sorties to the batters box. Jessie Fullerton, first base, drew three intentional walks. In this case the strategy paid off.

Most of the damage by Amarillo was done with two men out, a reversal of form from that of the Westerners, and the Sandies bunched their hits when it counted to push runs across. Six runs were scored with two men down—two in the first, three in the seventh, and one in the eighth.

Bob Brown and Hamilton led the hitting. Brown got a double and a single in five trips. Pacing Amarillo were James Le Neveu with two hits in four trips; Darrell La Rue, first base, with three hits in five appearances, including a double; and Max Winberg, catcher, with two hits in five times at bat.

Amarillo opened the scoring in the initial frame. After E. G. San-

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

If you didn't go to Rosenthal Field Monday night for the game between the Kansas City Monarchs and the Amarillo Colts and judging from the empty seats a lot of white baseball fans didn't—you missed a wonderful show. Both teams played good ball and it was a good game to watch, strictly from the standpoint of baseball. And from the point of humor and entertainment, the game had little more to offer. That's one big difference between negro and white ball players. The colored folk take their game seriously, but they also take time out, when the plays aren't close, to get in some humor. It makes the game more enjoyable.

The hitting Monday night was as solid as any we've seen this year and a couple of the players might be heard from later on. Alfred Cartmill, a Monarch outfielder, is a youngster on the slight side of 19. He took a clean, full cut at the ball and his fielding left little to be desired. Either Curtis Hollingsworth, Colt hurler, or James Birdsong, Monarch southpaw, could go in the West Texas-New Mexico League, providing, of course, there wasn't a color line.

In regards to the humor, probably the best example was Foots Parker, the Colt first baseman. Foots put on a fine show for the crowd, not only when he was playing first, but also when he became a base runner. He delighted the crowd with his antics. But the crowning touch was given by Sam Goshay, Monarch hitter, who slammed a timely home run in the eighth. Just before Goshay touched the plate, he stopped, bowed to the Colt owner sitting in a box behind home plate, said something indistinguishable in the press box, smiled a sweeping, toothy smile, carefully stepped over the plate with his left foot and, in a derisive manner, dragged his right toe daintily across the rubber.

We hope that you are enjoying the daily batting averages of the Hubbers, along with the pitching records. They are being carried behind each batter's name and position in the box score and are complete. On other words, we stop and figure up the player's average through that game. That way you know what each player is hitting and you also know what the team is batting. We think that it is of enough interest to everyone.

By mail comes word from Leo C. Pruvis, superintendent at Roaring Springs, that his high school baseball team is the new District 10-B diamond champion. Roaring Spring beat Girard 10-5 in the deciding game, after Girard had won the first game in the series 11-1 and Roaring Springs had evened the count with a 17-10 victory. Purvis says that the Yellow Jacket record is more outstanding since this is the first year they have had baseball and only one boy had played prior to this year. They played nine games and won seven.

Lake Texoma is getting ready to hold a big jamboree May 25 through May 30. There will be daily prizes for the largest bass, crappie and catfish, while the anglers will be competing for a shot at the final list of prizes. The final prizes include a new Chevrolet for the largest bass, a Larson boat and Scott-Atwater motor for the largest crappie, a Larson boat and Mercury motor for the largest catfish. Memorial Day's activities will be topped off by a boat race in the afternoon and a giant square dance that night.

Brady's Jaycees are getting ready to hold their Second Annual Invitational Golf tournament June 2, 3, 4, and 5. The entry fee will be $7.50, but a glance at the prize list makes it worth every cent. A total of $1,000 has been spent on prizes that range from suits to golf balls. The Brady course has a par 72 tag on it and officials of the country club there are making every effort to have the course in topnotch shape. In addition to the golf, there will be a driving contest, barbecue, calcutta and a dance. Local golfers probably will take advantage of the tourney's attractive offerings.

ders walked the next two men went down in order, but La Rue, Le Neveu, and Winberg hit successive singles to drive in two runs. La Rue doubled in the third, and Le Neveu singled him home. An uprising in the seventh counted for three runs.

Lubbock scored its first run in the fifth when Galey walked, Reeves got on base on an error on a try for a double play, both players advancing. Fullerton walked to load the bases, and Richards scored on an error by Shortstop Sanders. With no outs Jimmy Sexton hit a low blooper to Third Baseman Warren Spalding who stepped on third for an easy double play, catching Reeves off the base. Burgess grounded out to retire the side. Another run was scored in the sixth on a triple, three walks, and a fielder's choice. Three men were left stranded.

In the seventh frame Amarillo scored three runs to ice the game. The first man up, Sanders, struck out; Bob Braden was hit by a pitched ball and then Spalding singled to left field. Le Rue went out, Galey to Fullerton, and Braden rounded third on the way to home base. A momentary delay by Fullerton in pegging the ball to Turner allowed Braden to slide in safely with a run that should have been an out. Le Neveu got on by an error, Spaulding scoring, and went to second where Winberg singled him home. Another run was added in the eighth to end the Sandie scoring.

The final Westerner tally came in the seventh inning. White beat out a hit to shortstop, Hamilton singled, and Brown walked to load the bases. White scored on a triple steal after Hinson and Turner struck out. Galey was passed intentionally, and Reeves skied out to center to end the inning and the Lubbock scoring.

In the ninth Hamilton singled, was out trying to steal second, and Brown got on on an error, advancing as far as third.

Tech Cage Seniors Top Varsity Quint

Don Grove was back in action at the same old stand looking like the same fine center he was four years as the Texas Tech senior basketball team romped to a 55-45 victory over the potential 1949-1950 varsity cagers last night in Tech gym.

Grove hooked 21 points for the seniors to take scoring honors for the night and his work sparked a veteran combination to victory. But it wasn't an easy win for the graduating Red Raiders, who were pressed until the final ten minutes of the game.

A see-saw battle had existed for the better part of 30 minutes before the former All-Conference center began to go to work. And with Grove hitting from all angles, the seniors split a thin lead of 36-35 wide open. Grove chalked up a pair of charity tosses, hooked a short side shot and followed with one of his favorite pivot shots.

Before the varsity had time to get settled, Grove went in for a crip shot that countered a follow shot by Iri Brown and the score was 44-37. Garland Head, former Tech star, dumped in a follow shot, before Grove hit the hoop twice more.

The potential varsity team that Coach Polk Robison unveiled last night is one that will bear watching. They showed lack of polish, which was to be expected at this stage of the game, but they also showed an eagerness to play and a scrapping spirit that was good.

Jack Alderson, former Lubbock High school star, took top scoring honors for the varsity with 17 points, but he shared the spotlight with Verdell Turner and Virgil Johnson, also former Westerner aces.

Such holdover varsity men as Jiggs Jackson, Gene Gibson and Bill Eddins also looked good on occasion, while Ted O'Neil also showed up well.

Pee Wee Yanks And Pygmy Dodgers Win

Scheduled games were played in the Pee Wee and Pygmy league at Boys club yesterday, and the Pygmy Dodgers and Pee Wee Yankees won their tilts.

In the first tilt at 4 p.m. in the Pygmy circuit, the Dodgers defeated the Yankees, 15-14, in a close contest. A home run in the last frame by Jerry Blair was the difference in the score, and he scored as well as drove in the winning run.

Leading the hitting for the losing Yankees were Billy Bowen with a double and a single in three times at bat. Dickie Burnell also homered for the Yanks.

In the Pee Wee league the Yanks downed the Dodgers, 11-10, in an extra-inning game. The winning run was scored when Alton Ryan singled to drive Trop Fields across the plate in the last of that inning.

Highlighting the Dodger attack was Nelson Starr with a solid triple and two singles in three trips. Truman Gaylon had two singles for the Yankees.

In games scheduled today the Indians play the Pirates in both leagues. The Pygmy players are nine years old, and those in the senior Pee Wee loop are 10-11 years old.

Formation of the twelve teams in the two leagues came about following a baseball coaching school last week in which 380 boys participated. The league will last throughout the summer and provide supervised recreation for the youngsters.

SEEK NATIVE STARS

MEXICO CITY, May 18 (AP) — Mexican baseball still is trying to get back some native stars who strayed north of the border. The cactus circuit and U. S. organized ball have a non-aggression pact in full force U. S. clubs have returned a number of players in line with it.

The St. Louis Cardinals will conduct a mass training camp at Albany, Ga., next spring, with 400 players from 13 farm teams in action.

4 Transferred To Prison Bus

Four persons were taken from Lubbock county jail this morning for transfer to the state prison in Huntsville.

A prison transfer bus left with the Lubbock prisoners and eight others who had been accepted from other West Texas counties.

Those taken from Lubbock were:

Billy Minchev, 20, of Vernon, whose five-year suspended sentence here had been revoked recently in 99th district court. That five years will run cumulatively with a Wilbarger sentence, Judge G. V. Pardue had ordered.

Others Listed

Floyd Brown, 22, a negro of 2312 East Ave B, three years for burglary and five years imposed after a suspended sentence had been set aside, making a total of eight years to serve.

Samuel Lee Rutherford, 45, of Waco, two years in each of two swindling cases, to be served concurrently

William Ralph Reel, 39, of Littlefield, two years for forgery.

Non-Resident Trucks Must Be Registered

All non-resident trucks, trailers and other vehicles used for the harvesting or marketing of wheat and other grains will not be allowed to operate in Texas unless they have a temporary registration.

This warning was issued by Kent Odom, chief of the license and weights division of the Department of Public Safety.

The owners or operators of such equipment must secure a registration certificate and tag which is issued for a period of 60 days. The charge will be for one-sixth the annual fee for that vehicle. No application for a Texas title is necessary, Odom said.

These temporary certificates are issued only to non-residents of Texas. The vehicle must be legally and properly registered in the owner's home state for the current year. Such a temporary license will remain valid only so long as the home state license is effective; but in no event will the temporary license be good for more than 60 days from the date of issue.

The temporary licenses are not renewable. In the event the owner wishes to operate the vehicle in Texas for a period beyond the original 60 days he must secure regular Texas license plates for the remainder of the registration year and make application for a Texas title.

Traffic Halted

Soviet requirements would give the German economic commission of eastern Germany virtual control over all supplies to Berlin.

C. A. Dix, American transport chief in Germany, hurried to Helmstedt when the news of the little blockade reached Berlin. He said it appeared to be a "clear violation" of the agreement Dr. Philip Jessup, American ambassador at large, and Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, which resulted in the blockade removal at 12:01 a. m. last Thursday.

Order Explained

The first Soviet move against the freedom of traffic to Berlin, resumed in a carnival air of celebration only last Thursday, was ordered just before last midnight.

The order called for the police at the Helmstedt checkpoint to stop all drivers whose freight papers were not signed by an official of the Soviet zone German economic commission.

Heretofore a simple stamp of approval by the commission had been sufficient for entry. One provision of the liquidation of the Berlin blockade and related measures was that the regulations would go back to where they were when the blockade was imposed.

Relief Shipments Barred

British border officials said the Russians had refused to permit even relief food and medicine shipments through the checkpoint without the new papers. They said the argument was presented that such materials could go to Berlin by train.

Railway traffic and passenger cars carrying no freight were not affected by the new Soviet order.

Represents U. S.

He will have the authority to exercise all the governmental functions of the United States in Germany, other than the command of the United States occupation forces.

McCloy also will be the representative of the ECA in Germany, under the supervision of ECA administrator Paul G. Hoffman and roving ECA ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

COLLECTOR DISCOURAGED

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — A city waste disposal employe gave up his hobby on advice of police. Nine license plates on the rear of his truck were considered too many. All the tags, from different states, were of 1948 date, except that from Texas. The collector said he had hoped to gather old discarded tags from all 48 states.

Area Storms

35, shock and bruises and possible fractured rib.

The Kittrell children, Bonnie Ann, 12, shock and bruises; Goldie, 8, shock and bruises; Ruth Evelyn, 6, shock and bruises; Sue LeJune, 4, fractured right thigh, fractured right elbow, shock and facial bruises, in serious condition; Clarence, 2½, shock and bruises; Larry Don, 8 months, shock and slight bruises. James Kittrell, 10, was released after treatment for slight injuries.

Returning From Lubbock

C. R. Adams, 51, remained in the hospital for treatment of shock. James D. Kittrell, 37, son of the woman killed, was hospitalized for treatment of shock. He was returning from Lubbock when the tornado struck and drove to within a few hundred yards of the home before he knew what had happened.

Larry Don, the eight months old son, was brought out of a field more than 30 yards from the Kittrell residence about two hours after the storm. He had seen blown in the opposite direction from which the storm was travelling.

The storm was believed to have struck at 5:48 p. m. The struck area was estimated to be a quarter of a mile in diameter and 1,000 feet high. It traveled northeastward along a highway and then crossed it, missing Spur by a mile and a half. It appeared to stay on the ground, and a treveler near Benjamin reported seeing a funnel. This morning Santa Fe railroad observers reported two twisters were seen near Benjamin.

Thrown 100 Yards

Mrs. Smith had been at her son's home a week. Her body was taken to Campbell Funeral home in an ambulance, and no funeral arrangements had been made late this morning.

Terrific winds carried Mrs. Smith's body more than 100 yards southwestward, the direction from which the storm approached. She was dead when early arrivals found her body half buried in the mud of a plowed field. There was a severe cut across her forehead, one witness declared.

The storm was unusual in that heavy rain and hail did not accompany it. At Spur during the storm the atmosphere was still and sultry.

B. G. Mayo of Spur, who went immediately to the scene, told this story of Kittrell's return.

"I was standing on the road north of his place when he drove up about 9 o'clock. He saw the crowd and the cars down the highway, and asked me, 'What happened here—a wreck?'

"I said, 'No, it was a storm.'

"Then Kittrell got excited and said, 'Man, I lived in that next house.' His brother, who was driving the car, drove it down the highway toward where his house had been. We followed them, but as soon as they saw the place had been blown away, they circled and headed back toward us. By the time they reached us, a few hundred feet north of the house, Kittrell had fainted dead away. We took him on in to the hospital at Spur."

Destroyed were the homes of the Kittrell family, Ernest Dunaway, C. R. Adams (the W. A. Harris place) and a Mr. Bronson, whose first name was not available. Also flattened was one vacant dwelling. The roofs were torn from the residences of Dan Pritchett, sr., and Tim Morgan.

The C. R. Adams family escaped by taking cover under a bridge in a small canyon near their home. Mr. and Mrs. Adams, with six children and five grandchildren, huddled beneath the bridge while hail hammered down around them. The tornado passed near them, flattening the house they had just abandoned.

Floyd Wheat Damaged

At other points on the South Plains, rains continued. Lorenzo reported one-fourth inch, Ralls a three-inch rain Tuesday afternoon, Crosbyton one-half, Brownfield one-half, Plainview one-fourth, Sudan one-sixteenth. Lamesa received no rain during the night.

Homer Steen, publisher of the Floyd County Hesperian at Floydad, said damage to rich wheatlands in Floyd county would run from five to 90 per cent. Hail which fell straight down without accompanying wind, cut a patch about 20 miles long in an arc around Floydada to the southwest, south and southeast part of the county. The damaged area was one to two miles wide.

The twister which hit Dougherty community struck about 4:30 p. m., Steen reported. The winds ripped up trees, broke limbs, blew down a house, damaged numerous outbuildings and damaged the roof of the postoffice and general store run by Harve Powell. Mrs. Powell is the postmistress at Dougherty. An estimated 200 persons live in or near there.

A railroad car was blown some distance down the track and derailed.

A house on the Carl Minor farm southwest of Dougherty was blown down. However, no one was injured.

Floydada itself had a 1.47 inch rain during the day.

The twister near Wilson struck about 12:30 p. m., it was reported. The wind tore the roof off a barn and part of the roof from a farm house. Mrs. C. E. Carter of the Crossroads store near Tahoka said.

Mrs. Vernon Teinert, who works in Wilson but who was at her home four miles north of there at the time, said she watched the twister funnel dip to the ground two or three times. There were no reports of injuries in the area.

Water was up over the Lubbock-Tahoka highway at Wayside, 19 miles south of Lubbock, where a heavy downpour was reported shortly after noon Tuesday.

A terrific rain, estimated at from three to five inches, battered the Whiteflat community, 11 miles north of Matador, early Tuesday night, Douglas Meador, publisher of the Matador Tribune, reported.

Revision Of Texas' Criminal Laws Needed, Rotarians Told

"We need to revise our Texas criminal laws," Will R. Wilson, district attorney of Dallas county told the Rotary club today.

"We are now learning, as the British did several generations ago, that you can't prevent crime by fear of the law," Wilson continued. "We need a firmer basis than fear to get the respect of people for our laws.

"We must remember that liberty is a reciprocal proposition. The exercise of liberty by avaricious persons serves to hinder the liberties of others. This we have to prevent by laws—enforcible laws.

"For example, we are now operating under arrest laws created in Texas back in 1856. Such laws were adequate then. It is not the fault of those who wrote those laws that we experience so much difficulty in arrest procedure today. It is our fault for not revising and keeping them up-to-date," Wilson asserted.

"Back about the time the British defeated Spain, Great Britain used the death penalty as a punishment for crimes of any magnitude, no matter how small.

Method Was Distinction

The method of death was the only distinction. They soon learned that this drastic method did nt halt crime. They decided they couldn't put to death everyone who committed a crime. Therefore, they revised their laws and made them more enforcible.

"It is up to us to back the attempts of committees in the legislature that are trying to modernize our laws. We must provide training schools and try to rehabilitate some of our criminal cases. We can't dispose of all of them," Wilson concluded.

The speaker was introduced by City Attorney Vaughan Wilson.

Visiting Rotarians included Lloyd Wicks, sr.; Ed Garland, Sam Hord, Dan Butler, C. E. Scott, Jim Elliot, Sam Hastings, Frank Wendt, Marvin Sims, Herman Ford, Houston Smith, Bill Dell, Clark W. Smith, H. R. Brayton, U. S. Marshal J. R. Wright, Tom Garrard, Tom Cartwright, Wilson Garrett, Jess Breedlove and J. W. Porter. Smith, who came from Hollywood, Calif., was presented a gift for coming the greatest distance.

State's witnesses testified that inspectors of the Liquor Control board, assisted by Lubbock police, seized 21 cases and 22 cans of beer from a car owned by Ellison in a March 31 raid at a tourist court where the defendant was registered.

A Dec. 9 final conviction in a similar case was testified to by the state as a prerequisite to asking the jury for an enhanced penalty in the present case.

ALBIDREZ MURDER CASE IS PASSED

By agreement, a murder with malice charge naming Alfredo Albidrez, 30, was passed this morning, court officials said.

It will be reset for later in the 99th district court term.

Albidrez is charged in the Feb. 27 fatal shooting in the Mexican quarter here of Adolfo Trujillo, his foreman on a construction project, after a beer-drinking session.

A jury in that court Tuesday afternoon adjudged Arthur Lee Ivey, 50, guilty of murder without malice in the Feb. 27 stabbing of Leonard Bailey, and recommended punishment of five years in the state penientiary.

The verdict, returned at 4:45 p.m. to Judge G. V. Pardue, was signed by Aubrey Pounds as foreman.

It turned a deaf ear to an application of the defendant for a suspended sentence in case of conviction.

The defense, represented by Howard Davison and Briggs Irvin, made no resultant announcement of whether it will accept sentence. It has another day in which to inform the court.

Legislature

sponsor of the bill, and S. J. Isaacks of El Paso.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to remit state property taxes to the San Antonio river canal and conservation district for the next two years.

Jester said he believed most legislators agree with him that a 21-million dollar appropriation for state hospital buildings is a "must" in this session.

"But if it is not taken care of it will be necessary to ask the legislature to come back into special session," he told reporters.

His 21-million-dollar figure prompted questions about the possible need for new taxes, but Jester did not commit himself to a definite "yes" or "no" answer.

Jester said the state fire insurance commission's Monday report on numerous fire hazards in state hospitals were evidence of the urgent need for better housing for wards of the state such as the insane.

The governor's capitol development program envisions ultimate purchase of property north from the capitol building along Congress avenue.

Cost Is Estimated

He estimated total cost at 35 million dollars, but said only 12 million would be needed for a starter.

Jester indicated his doubts that a majority of the Senate would favor additional taxes for either of the building programs, but he outlined three suggested financing plans—none of which he is committed to, he said.

Texas Floods

section of Dallas.

Tornadoes Take Toll

The flood at Fort Worth covered residential, business and industrial areas.

The count was seven drowned and 30 treated at Fort Worth, mostly for shock and exposure, five dead and 83 injured from a tornado at Amarillo Sunday night and one dead and at least 12 injured in West Texas tornadoes.

In addition, one person was killed and about 40 injured in Oklahoma twisters.

The latest tornado damage was at the little community of Soldier Mound, four miles north of Spur, in the South Plains cotton and wheat country—and in six other small West Texas areas.

Worst Since 1922

Fort Worth, victim of Monday night's 12-inch cloud burst, struggled to restore normal activity after a muddy flood which was its worst since 1922.

Levees were not so high or strong in farm counties below Dallas. There growers said the 50-foot crest, expected today, would ruin hundreds of acres of farm crops.

Here is the toll from three days of tornadoes and rain in parts of west and North Texas:

Seven known drowned at Fort Worth. More than a dozen still in hospitals suffering from shock and exposure. An estimated 13,200 homeless.

One killed, nine injured, in the tornado which struck near Spur.

Three injured in a tornado which hit Stratford Monday night before skipping into Oklahoma to kill a farmer. Five dead and 83 injured in Amarillo's Sunday night tornado which caused an estimated $3,000,000 damage.

An indirect victim of the weather was E. C. Allison, jr., Hico truck driver and president of the Hico school board. He drowned when his truck plunged through a rain-weakened bridge into the swollen waters of the Bosque river.

Hits Near Lubbock

Skipping twisters which caused relatively minor damage struck yesterday at Southland, near Lubbock; at Rochester, in the Wichita Falls area; at Memphis, near Silverton, Daughtery, and near Floydada.

A small twister which hit the edge of Vernon last night wrecked the El Rancho drive-in theater and a barn. There were no injuries nor damage to Vernon itself.

As Fort Worth struggled back to normal it faced this situation:

Areas west, north and east of the business district under water.

All schools closed and the north, east and west sections of town cut off from downtown for automobile travel and isolated from city bus transportation.

Snarled traffic, blocked highways, power line breaks, a flooded water plant, a water supply that officials say will take three days to make normal.

Water Acute Problem

Water in this big cattle shipping center was an acute problem. Residents were warned not to drink it unless it had been boiled. Free typhoid shots were available to those who had drunk "questionable water."

They lined up with buckets, bottles and other containers for drinking water at commercial firms with private artesian wells. And sellers of bottled drinks reported a run on their beverages.

Two 500 gallon water purification units were sent here from the Army's Camp Hood. Dallas, 30 miles to the east, sent eight 1,500 gallon water tank trucks to shuttle drinking water.

Police patrolled the flood areas to prevent looting.

All sections of Fort Worth were accessible today, some through roundabout route.

Dead Are Named

The dead from the waters which spilled out of the Clear fork and West fork of the Trinity river here yesterday to a depth of 18 feet in some spots were:

Dee Pennington, 66, city water works employe; Lucille Scott, negro; Mrs. Josa Kent, 80; Rene St. John, 2; Donald Leroy Deweese, 16, and an unidentified white woman about 60, and John B. Fawks.

The central Texas city of Waco, watching a rising Brazos river, breathed easier at predictions that the flood level—34 feet there—would not be reached.

Flood waters from the Cleburne area—a section hit by terrific rains Monday night—were expected to reach Waco some time today. Farmers in the Brazos river valley moved dairy and beef herds.

Cleburne Hard Hit

Property owners at Cleburne, where creeks went on a flash flood, counted damage unofficially estimated at more than $100,000. Water from Buffalo creek had entered at least 100 Cleburne homes.

At Fort Worth, four major levees broke, and as the muddy, debris-filled waters receded new breaks in levees spread water into lowlands east of the city.

The torrential rains causing the floods began late Monday night and continued until about dawn.

The Red Cross disaster survey committee estimated the number of homeless by sections as:

Parkside addition 600.
Wisenberg addition 3,000.
White settlement 2,000.
Crestwood 2,500.
Lancaster and University drive area 1,500.
East of North Main street 3,000.
Express highway east 800.

One of the dead, Mrs. Kent, was swept away while her daughter, Mrs. Ira D. Adams, watched helplessly.

Mrs. Adams' husband also disappeared in the flood, but was later rescued and was hospitalized.

T. C. Forrest, jr., manager of the Dallas county flood control district, said Dallas and the Trinity river industrial district was safe—that the river would have to go to 61 feet before it reached tops of the levees, and that at a 55-foot river stage the levees still would be safe.

Egypt now is developing the water buffalo, traditionally a beast of burden, as a milk producer, and some buffalo cows now yield 40 pounds of milk a day

Bomber Test

Johnson and Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington and had found them both "enthusiastic."

The Navy had challenged the Air Force to a test of the B-36 against the Navy's new twin-jet carrier-based F2H fighter plane.

The Navy claims the big bomber cannot perform at its best except under specialized conditions that preclude the inter-continental bombing for which the B-36 was designed.

The Air Force claims the bomber can haul 10 tons of bombs on a round-trip of 10,000 miles, flying high enough —40,000 feet—to stymie attacking fighters.

Vinson's committee, in its resolution, took note of both Air Force and Navy claims about the possibility of knocking down the B-36. It called attention to "extende public discussion and controversy" over the combat efficiency of the B-36.

"It is the sense of the committee that a series of impartial tests should be conducted by appropriate authorities in the armed forces to determine the vulnerability of the B-36 bomber while under simulated attack by selected United States Navy and Air Force fighter aircraft," the resolution said.

The tests would be held at 40,000 feet altitude and above. Vinson said that when the tests are completed the American people will be given whatever facts can be made public without endangering the national security.

en bones and undertermined injuries.

Mrs. R. H. Dunham, 45, Tryon, Shawnee City hospital, shock and bruises.

The tornado dipped into the eastern part of the small town of 700 just as a girls tournament championship softball game was called for rain at the high school. About 300 were at the playing field when the twister struck.

It ripped the roof off the gymnasium — auditorium building scattered the bleacher timbers, wrecked several houses, demolished the Church of God, and tore up the school bus garage.

Team members from Meeker and Agra huddled in the main high school building.

The Dunham family was sitting in a school bus. The furious wind rolled the machine over and over.

Almost as soon as it struck the tornado lifted back into its black cloud and vanished.

U. S. Building Program Seen

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — Every member of the House may be able to tell his people next year: "I'm getting a new federal building for our district."

A bill to permit that situation to exist in the congressional election year 1950 came before the House rules committee today and was slated for clearance in time for House consideration next week.

This doesn't mean that each of the 435 congressional districts May expect a new postoffice or other federal building right away.

In fact, the bill doesn't authorize or appropriate the expenditure of a single dollar for building.

It provides for a $40,000,000 program for land acquisition and preparation of plans and a $30,000,000 program to modernize existing federal buildings.

Money Comes Later

Neither of the programs would be effective unless Congress later provides the actual money.

Likewise, the actual money for construction of the new buildings would be supplied later.

But if the bill passes, each House member would be able to say that Congress has authorized the construction of a new federal building for the home district.

In drafting the bill, the House public works committee stipulated that when the federal works administrator or the postmaster general gets around to the job of actually putting up the new buildings, they must be apportioned "at the rate of one or more selected federal building projects for each congressional district."

To Furnish Backlog

Sponsors of the bill say it is intended to furnish a backlog of "on the self shelf" projects for which plans and land will be ready in the event of an economic recession and the necessity for providing jobs.

The land would be acquired and the plans drawn within the next two years, with members of Congress to be consulted on the selection of projects and sites.

While some members of the House believe the bill will be a big help in persuading the voters to return them to Congress next year, others aren't so certain.

As Rep. Dondero (R-Mich), a member of the public works committee, pointed out:

"It could make many people mad. If you get just one building for your district and you have many towns wanting it, all but one will be disappointed."

Exchange Club Hears Dallas Park Speaker

Basil O'Dell, a representative of the North Dallas Park Cities Exchange club, today was guest speaker at the weekly Exchange luncheon in Hotel Lubbock.

O'Dell, speaking on behalf of four Dallas Exchange organizations, hosts at this year's state convention, June 10-11, urged all Lubbock members to attend the state meeting. He said arrangements to insure a successful meeting have been completed.

O'Dell also played a brief recording of messages from presidents of the four Dallas clubs.

Plans for completing the sponsor drive for the Soap Box Derby were discussed. President Charles Cathey said approximately 130 sponsors still are needed for the junior racers.

Cathey presided at the luncheon, with invocation by Dr. David Haymes. Two out-of-town guests, T. P. Flahive of Dallas, and H. L. Adkison of Fort Worth, were introduced.

Replying to a reporter's question, Murray said he doesn't think the board itself has the power to suspend a CIO union, though it is a "moot question." When asked, "is this the break-up of the CIO?" Murray replied, "that isn't true."

He said the 11 unions which voted against yesterday's resolution concerning the mine-mill union have only 12 per cent of the dues-paying membership of the CIO.

Congress To Cut Off Funds For Student

WASHINGTON, May 18. (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today Congress will cut off the money for the $1,600 Atomic Energy commission fellowship awarded to Communist student Hans Freistadt.

As chairman of a Senate appropriations group handling money bills for independent government offices, O'Mahoney has a firm grip on the Atomic commission's purse strings.

Freistadt an Austrian born student at the University of North Carolina, had a date to appear before the Senate-House committee on atomic energy today.

He is an admitted communist. It was the disclosure that he had received a fellowship — effective July 1—which kicked up the current congressional furore over the commission's multi-million dollar educational program.

Rumors Say Truman To Soften Demands On Taft-Hartley Law

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — President Truman's surrender on the Wallgren appointment started speculation today that he may soften his demand for outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Three things Mr. Truman has been standing for—steadfastly or stubbornly, according to the varying political descriptions:

1. He reiterated again and again that he wanted Mon C. Wallgren, former Washington governor, to head the national security resources board.

2. He said over and over he wants all-the-way repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

3. He reiterated—but one or twice hedged slightly—that Congress ought to vote $4,000,000,000 in new taxes.

Taxes Must Wait

Wallgren went overboard with the president's withdrawal yesterday of his bottled-up nomination. Taxes seemingly are going to have to wait until next year.

But the President has made it clear he wants a substitute for the Taft-Hartley act in this session of Congress.

Democratic leaders have told him he probably will have to compromise to get it—in other words, he can get part, but not all, of Taft-Hartley repealed.

The fact that the President could give up on Wallgren, one of his closest personal friends, convinced some lawmakers that Mr. Truman may not find it too difficult to compromise on the labor act.

It took Mr. Truman 90 days after he first submitted the Wallgren nomination to the Senate to decide that there was no profit in keeping it locked up in the cold storage vault of the armed services committee.

The appointment was put there by a vote of six Republicans and Senator Byrd (D-Va) to table. As long as that vote stood, there was no chance to get the issue before the Senate.

Mr. Truman's lieutenants are reported to have tried hard to sway Byrd or any one of the Republicans. They failed and the President's reported recent remark that there were too many Byrds in Congress may have showed his reaction to this failure.

It was the second time that about the same thing happened to the President. His nomination of another friend, Edwin W. Pauley, to be under secretary of the Navy, ran into such senate opposition in 1946 that Pauley finally asked that it be withdrawn.

Wallgren went through the same procedure to break the stalemate. He said in a letter to Mr. Truman that "even were we to go on and win this battle, the evident political opposition to my appointment would work to the detriment of national security."

He said he felt his appointment would have been confirmed, if the Senate ever had had a chance to vote on it.

Mr. Truman concurred. But the President's leaders in the Senate privately expressed grave doubt of any such result.

Byrd made his fight against Wallgren on the ground that the former senator and former House member, who served with the President on the Senate war investigating committee, wasn't competent to hold down the big job. The national security resources board has the task of planning for mobilization of civilian and industrial facilities in event of war.

Experience Is Urged

Senate Gurney (R-SD), who helped bottle up the Wallgren nomination, said he hopes the head of the board will be a man who has had "practical experience" in industry.

Wallgren said last night he might accept one of two offers of work in private industry. He was a jeweler in private life. He said he is not considering anything else in Washington.

He wrote Mr. Truman, however, that he will "maintain my active interest in the welfare of our nation and stand ready at all times to assist in every way possible."

Mr. Truman expressed "undiminished" faith in his friend, adding that he had "qualities of integrity, industry and high intelligence."

Search Pressed For Two Corsicana Men

CORSICANA, May 18 (AP) — Fear mounted here today that something had happened to two Corsicana men who have been missing since 4 a. m. Sunday.

J. A. Glass, 33, and I. J. Munn, 22, went squirrel hunting then and have not been heard from since.

Police Chief Bruce Nutt said he was "very uneasy" about their disappearance and their employer, Earl L. Griffin, said they had been steady employes and he knew they would have notified him of their absence.

They went to hunt on his farm near Blooming Grove, but neither they nor their black Ford car have been found, despite an air and ground search. Each carried a .22 calibre rifle.

Busy Woman Marshal Helps Youngsters

Prisons Termed Poor Answer To Problems Of Delinquency

"Prison bars are not always appropriate for juvenile cases," Mrs. Verna Ditto, U. S. deputy marshal for the northern district of Texas, said here yesterday.

"Prisons leave a brand on teenage youngsters. It may be invisible but it is just as indelible as a cattle brand," she said. "We need a more sympathetic approach to the delinquency problem. An approach that takes into consideration the underlying causes which lead the child into crime."

Children Need Help

"All cases are not alike. They did not arise from the same cause and they cannot be treated in the same way. Prisons do not allow for any individual treatment," Mrs. Ditto said.

The lady marshal agreed that much of the blame for youthful crime stems from the home, especially the broken home. But she also added that crime is often bred in homes where there is "no open break or difficulty." Failure on the part of parents to take an active and participating interest in the daily lives of their children is one of the many causes for juvenile crime, she believes.

"Children need all the help we can give them," Mrs. Ditto asserted.

Son Lost During War

The chic, attractive marshal, said that her chief interest in life is to help unfortunate children become rehabilitated. Mrs. Ditto says that the loss of her son, an only child, has augmented this ambition.

Lt. Harry B. Ditto, 21, a Navy dive bomber pilot and a member of Admiral Marc Mitscher's Task Force 58, was lost in aerial combat in the South Pacific during March, 1945. Before his death he had achieved an enviable record and many decorations and citations. Flying from the admiral's flagship, the Bunker Hill, young Ditto was among the first to fly a carrier based plane over Japan.

Mrs. Ditto said that as a boy her son was always trying to help others who were less fortunate than himself and she believes that her work along those lines now is somewhat like a "living memorial to him."

Mrs. Ditto is the only woman marshal for this U. S. district. There are very few in the entire United States. She has been on the job for eight years having been appointed through Chief Marshal J. P. (Ted) Wright at Fort Worth on Feb. 21, 1941. Her principal duties include keeping the records of all the criminal cases that arise in this district. One of her added duties is checking records of each of the seven divisions in the district and making payments for witness fees.

With her added duties Mrs. Ditto now travels extensively throughout the district. There are seven divisions with headquarters at Lubbock, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Abilene. There are 101 counties covering nearly 100,000 square miles in the district.

Mrs. Ditto says she enjoys traveling over the territory and especially enjoys her visits to Lubbock. "With such a vast area it sometimes becomes tiring but it is a pleasure to meet the people in different sections," she said.

Mrs. Ditto makes her home with her husband in Fort Worth where he is connected with the Consolidated Aircraft company.

When asked about a hobby, Mrs. Ditto said, "If I have a hobby it is my work (which is the only job I have ever had) and especially that part of my work that puts me in contact with juvenile cases. Where I can help them I feel like I am doing my job and a little more too. I know I get a great deal of pleasure out of it," she concluded.

Defenders Of Gerhart Eisler Will Fight Case To The Limit

LONDON, May 18 (AP)—Defenders of fugitive Communist Gerhart Eisler pledged today a legal "fight to the utmost limits" for him.

Eisler, who fled the United States while under sentence for two criminal convictions, is in a south London prison awaiting an extradition hearing next Tuesday.

The British Council for German democracy, which styles itself "completely non-party," has retained a lawyer for Eisler and promised to use every legal means to prevent his return to the United States.

Jumped Bail

The council appealed to the public for books and cigarettes to make the Communist leader's jail stay more comfortable. The group said it also planned a campaign to raise money for his defense.

Eisler, described by a U. S. House of Representatives committee as No. 1 Communist agent in the U. S., jumped bail of $25,000 and stowed away on the Polish liner Batory when it left New York. He was forcibly removed from the ship by Scotland Yard men at Southampton last Saturday.

The British Cultural Committee for peace, a leftist organization, last night sponsored meetings which passed unanimously resolutions demanding the release of Eisler.

Paul Robeson, American negro singer; Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red" dean of Canterbury, and Konni Zilliacus left-wing Laborite member of parliament, spoke at the meetings.

Queries Prepared

Communist members of parliament meanwhile listed six new questions on the case which they want to ask in Commons.

Two of the queries are for Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. They concern British relations with Poland, which has protested against the seizure of Eisler on a Polish ship.

The Moscow radio also chimed in with a defense of Eisler. An English broadcast heard by the Soviet monitor in London said this "well-known fighter against fascism" had to "go into hiding to escape persecution at the hands of reaction.'

"For the last few years," the broadcast said, "Eisler has been hounded and badgered by American reaction. The notorious committee on unAmerican activities picked him out as an object of persecution and a means of flogging up anti Communist hysteria in the United States . . .

"This hounding and badgering prompted Eisler to board the Polish steamship Batory and quit the U. S."

Super Extravaganza Being Opened By AFL

Great Exhibit Being Staged

CLEVELAND, May 18 (AP) —The American Federation of Labor opens a super extravaganza today to sell the AFL to:

1. The public.
2. Employers.
3. Its own 8,000,000 members.

The federation has been staging a union label exhibit every year now since the war. It has had amazing growth each year.

I. M. Ornburn, the show's genial director, estimated that a half-million persons will visit the vase Cleveland auditorium in the next five days to see the exhibits of 200 industries. The big theme is to improve labor-management relations.

It started out as a kind of county fair to demonstrate the products of union workers. There are more than 500 exhibitors in this year's show.

Free Ticket Given

Ornburn now is thinking of putting the show on the road, instead of limiting it to once a year. He's dickering to get a tent big enough to house it. He says next year's exhibit will be in Philadelphia and in 1951 it will be in San Francisco. But after that all the big indoor show places will have been exhausted, he thinks.

Part of the reason for the show's popular appeal is the free ticket which everybody gets at the entrance. That entitles the ticket-holder to a chance on a wide variety of home appliances, etc.

Everybody gets a shopping bag, and it will be full of samples before the owner trudges past all the booths and sights.

David Dubinsky's international ladies garment workers is staging a fashion show, with glamourous New York models. The powerful teamsters' union has the music hall section of the auditorium all to itself for a colossal display and show.

George Harrison's Brotherhood of Railway Clerks has an $18,000 miniature railroad lay-out. There's a rail around it to keep the crowds from getting too close. In the exhibit people walk to and from trains, busses and planes, and fast-stepping porters are lugging their bags.

Military Displays

The Army, Navy, Air Force and engineers all have big displays of the latest equipment of interest to the average citizen.

Forty apprentice bricklayers will compete during the week for a $500 prize as the nation's most expert learner at that trade. They'll be judged by the neatness of their work as well as speed. Today's bricklayer has many more detailed technical problems involved in the placing of one brick than the artisan of 40 years ago, says Harry C. Bates, head of the bricklayers' union. There are nar-

And Howard Didn't Even Get Himself Wet

Plenty Of Excitement Caused By Youngster On A Tricycle

PAWTUCKET, R. I., May 18 (AP) — When six-year-old Howard Heeks borrowed a neighbor's tricycle last night he never guessed all this would happen--

Howard sped off down Fountain street, where he lives, swung into Carnation and began rolling swiftly down Carnation's steep hill.

At the bottom, close to the bank of the swift-flowing Blackston river he lost control and tumbled off.

Seven-year-old Ronald Rodrigues, watching Howard's wild ride from 100 yards away, couldn't see all the details but he was sure Howard had rolled over the bank into the water.

He ran up to see. Other people saw him running and ran up themselves. Somebody called a cop. Somebody called the fire department. Three police cruisers screamed up, neck and neck with a couple of fire trucks. Police headquarters sent a detail of men to take charge. An ambulance rolled in.

The cops strung up police lines to keep back the crowd of curious. The firemen began dragging the river. For two hours they searched with no success.

It was at that point somebody spotted young Howard peeking out from the crowd. He wasn't even wet.

Miss Louann Hardy Gives Recital Here

Miss Louann Hardy, violin soloist, was presented in recital Tuesday night in Lubbock High School auditorium.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hardy of 1911 Main, Miss Hardy was enthusiastically received by a large audience, who praised her technical mastery of the instrument in addition to the intense feeling with which she played.

Miss Hardy has appeared as soloist with the Houston Symphony orchestra, Lubbock Symphony orchestra, and North Texas Symphony orchestra, of Denton.

Accompanist was Miss Jeaneane Dowis, of Denton.

Reservoir Plan Is Rejected By Army

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — A proposal for two small reservoirs on the Leon river to aid flood control and provide more water for Abilene and Stephenville has been rejected by the Army engineers.

The projects were suggested as a substitute plan for the proposed Proctor reservoir which the engineers previously had recommended.

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of Army engineers, announced the opposition in a letter to Rep. Burleson (D-Tex). Referring to surveys of the entire Brazos river watershed, which includes the Leon among other tributaries, Pick said:

"Flood conditions in and above Abilene and Stephenville are such . . . that practicable plans of reservoir control have not been found economically favorable. . . .

The Proctor reservoir on the Leon river was recommended by the engineers as a part of a comprehensive flood control program on the Brazos watershed.

RENTS DECONTROLLED

AUSTIN, May 18 (U.P.)—The city of Marshall began its initial experiment without rent control today. Action of the Marshall city commission in decontrolling rents was approved yesterday by Gov. Beauford Jester.

Bill To Boost Pay Advanced

AUSTIN, May 18 (U.P.)—The way was open today for House action to approve a ten per cent pay hike for police and firemen in Texas.

The measure was okehed last night by the House committee on municipal and private corporations. A voice vote gained the approval after a stormy session in which Houston and San Antonio spokesmen sparked opposition.

The measure, in effect, would raise the present floor on wages ten per cent.

Boost Made Optional

The Senate approved the bill earlier with a stipulation that the pay boost would have been mandatory in cities of more than 40,000 population.

However, the measure as sent to the House contained an amendment by Rep. W. H. Abington of Fort Worth making the hike optional on the part of all cities.

Sen. Walter Tynan of San Antonio, sponsor of the measure, told committeemen that salaries in Houston and Dallas would not be changed since those cities already meet the proposed minimum. But, he added, San Antonio and Fort Worth salaries would be affected.

A charge that the measure was "class legislation" was leveled by Houston City Attorney Will Sears.

Short Funds Claimed

He said Houston opposed the first police nd fire bill passed in 1937 and "we oppose it now."

C. Ray Davis, commissioner of taxation at San Antonio, said his city had insufficient funds to "pay an additional $200,000." He added, "it will be necessary to cut the police and fire personnel to meet these demands."

However, Mayor Sam Hoover of Pasadena, a proponent of the bill, told the committee that the new measure did not infringe on home rule as charged by opponents.

Hoover said he regretted that the bill did not boost wages 25 per cent for "underpaid" police and firemen.

Personnel Is Problem

Another proponent, Policeman Earl Maughmer of Houston, told the committee:

"When they (policemen) leave home in the morning they never know when they are coming back. They are the most underpaid of

THE ANSWERS

MRS. O. O. SPARKS, 2618

Thirty - third, housewife: "I keep my dog in the yard at all times except when I am with him. I think in this way he doesn't bother anyone; therefore, no one should bother him. I believe that the incentive to poison dogs is caused from stray dogs wandering over the neighborhood and destroying other people's property."

CULVER HILL, 2816 Twenty- third, head of the advertising department, Hemphill - Wells Co.: "Usually dogs are poisoned because they are annoying, barking too much for no reason. We keep our dog either in the house or in our backyard and we have tried to train her not to bark just for the 'fun of barking'."

LEETE JACKSON, Jr., 3905

Twenty - first, KFYO salesman, "The main thing is just have a good pen for them and devote some time to dogs and play with them and be sure to exercise them. That will have a tendency to keep the dog in. We do have something in this Heart of the Plains Kennel club in connection with that. We will give a $750 award for information leading to conviction of a dog poisoner. The Dog World and Dog News magazines offer $100 awards."

W. K. LOFLAND, 120 N. Ave. V, driver for Railway Express: "About the best thing I know to do is keep them up at night. During the day there's not as much possibility of a dog being poisoned as at night. If someone is going to poison a dog, they will come nearer doing it at night, for fear the children might get poisoned if they do it in the daytime."

W. C. BOYD, 2114 Twenty-

seventh, owner of W. C. Boyd Service station: "Keep them up and keep their places clean and don't allow dogs to be loud and noisy. Use deodorant and disinfectants in their pens. It will keep neighbors from getting out of patience and falling out with you. In other words, it just keeps peace in the family."

W. E. ELLIS, 1509 Twenty-

fourth, barber at Hotel Lubbock Barber shop: "I would say to keep the dog in the yard. There are too many dogs running loose outside. I think they ought to pass a city ordiance which would force people to keep their dogs penned and that would eliminate dog poisoning to a great extent."

DEATH BENEFITS PAID

NEW YORK, May 18 (U.P.)—Texas families received slightly more in life insurance death benefit payment during the first three months of 1949 than during the same period a year ago. The Institute of Life insurance reported families were paid $11,664,000 compared to $11,139,000 in 1948.

Two Federal Judges Trying To Stay Calm In Spy, Red Trials

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 18—Two federal judges are leaning over backwards to stay calm.

One, Harold R. Medina, is presiding at the trial of 11 Communist leaders in New York. The other, Albert L. Reeves, has the trial of Miss Judith Coplon here.

In both cases tactics of the defense lawyers have annoyed the judges, and they've let it be known.

But both are bent on doing nothing that could be called "unjudicial" or that would make them seem prejudiced against the defendants.

If the defendants are convicted and appeal to a higher court, the verdict against them might be thrown out, if the defense lawyers could show that the conduct of the trial judges hurt their clients' chances with the jury.

Appeals Certain

If there is a conviction in these cases, they're pretty certain to be appealed all the way up to the U. S. Supreme court.

Take the Coplon case . . .

Judith Coplon, 28, former Justice department employe, is charged here in Washington, where she used to work, with taking government papers to injure the United States and help a foreign power.

(The FBI says she took the papers to New York and there met Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian. Both were indicted in New York on a charge of espionage conspiracy. Miss Coplon will be tried there later).

Her attorney, Archibald Palmer, a short man who hurries when he walks and hurries when he talks, has wrangled repeatedly at the trial with the government lawyer.

Judge Annoyed

He's been talking for days, and some of this has annoyed Judge Reeves. Recently he told Palmer: "I can't put up with any more of your childish doings. Let's try this case . . ."

The spectators in the courtroom have been getting a bang out of the doings and Judge Reeves had to warn them: "This is not a vaudeville show. If you want vaudeville, you'll have to go to another place."

In New York the 11 leaders of the American Communist party were charged with conspiring to "organize . . . persons who teach and advocate the overthrow and destruction of the government of the U. S. by force and violence."

Denies Lectured

They were indicted by a federal grand jury last July. Their trial before Judge Medina didn't start until Jan. 17. It's still going on and probably won't end before August.

Thousands of pages of testimony and arguments have been used up already. There are more thousands to come. Medina like Reeves, has tried to keep his patience. Sometimes he gets fed up.

For example, late in April Eugene Dennis, who is secretary of the Communist party and is acting as his own attorney, got up to "make a brief observation." Finally Medina said to him:

"I suppose you are daring me to do something to you. You can be just as disorderly, just as disobedient as you like but you will not goad me into doing something which will be a source of difficulty later in the trial."

After that, Medina called a five-minute recess and when he returned the court was calm again.

No matter what the judges do or don't do, the defense attorneys will appeal any conviction of their clients on various grounds.

Reds Win East German Election But 'No' Votes To Help Allies

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, May 18. — Eastern Germany's 4,00,000 votes against Communism may have thrown gravel into the gears of Soviet strategy at the four power talks in Paris opening Monday.

The Communists claimed a "tremendous victory" in the East German election, but the fact that one-third of the voters went against them clearly was as staggerring a blow to them as it was a surprise to everybody else.

As a result the Soviet Union may pause, and reappraise its plans of action in the Paris conference. For instance, she must weigh new factors in deciding what position to take on any proposal for withdrawal of all armies of occupation from Germany.

12 Million Vote

Before the election, the Russians had been reported as favoring withdrawal by both east and west occupation forces, presumably with the idea that East German Communists were strong enough to seize control of any central German government embracing all zones, either at once or later.

But in the voting Sunday and Monday in the Russian zone, 12,024,221 voters cast valid ballots. They had the choice of voting for a hand-picked slate of candidates for election to a "people's congress' (Soviet-style parliament) for East Germany, or voting against the ticket. Yet 4,080,272 persons voted "No" as evidence that they didn't want Communist rule.

There arises, then, this obvious question: In an area swarming with Soviet troops and Communist spies, how many voted for the Communist slate, although actually wishing they had the courage to vote against it?

Strengthens Allies'

The one-third "No" vote enormously strengthening the hand of the United States, Britain and France in the Paris meetings. They now will face the Russian strategists knowing that West Germany's 46,000,000 inhabitants are solidly opposing to Communism, and at least a third of those under Russian rule don't like it any better.

Walter Upbricht, a top East German Communist leader, clearly was stung by the vote, although he called it a "tremendous victory." He met with Socialist Unity (Communist) party officials and told them "We must make every effort now to win a majority of the 'No' voters for German unity." He said an appeal to their nationalism still seemed the best tactic.

Ulbricht interpreted the election as the go-ahead for Communists to consider the new people's congress the "sole representative" of the German people. A majority of the people of all Germany, he asserted, oppose the western occupation statute and want an early peace treaty.

He instructed the leaders to try to win over all Germans, "from worker to industrialist," but emphasized this invitation for capitalist support would not mean abandonment of "the anti-fascist democratic order which has been established in the fast zone and the east sector of Berlin."

In East Berlin, he said, 58.1 per cent of the population voted for the Communist slate "even though the enemy press and foreign radio stations in Berlin did their utmost to influence the elections."

Yugoslavia has been working since 1946 to complete the 54,000-kilowatt Maribor Otok power plant—which the Germans started and partly completed during their occupation and then destroyed to the best of their ability when they left.

Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president at Texas Technological college will leave Monday for Corpus Christi. He will deliver the commencement address at the University of Corpus Christi there Tuesday.

Americans Help Mexican Get Operation, Artificial Leg

TIJUANA, Mex., May 18 (U.P.) — Jose Jesus Jimenez, 16, began walking without crutches today, thanks to his good American neighbors across the border.

Jose lost his leg in a Mexico City streetcar accident two years ago. Rather than be a burden to his widowed mother, he came here to shine shoes and sell newspapers.

Has Costly Operation

He hobbled about on crutches until the leg began bothering him where it had been amputated. The Tijuana branch of the Al Bahr Shrine temple chipped in and paid for an expensive operation.

Then a group of San Diego residents heard about Jose and took up a collection to pay for an artificial leg. An appliance company furnished it at cost.

Gets Final Fitting

Yesterday, Jose went to San Diego for his final fitting. He couldn't speak English but his smile told how grateful he was as he went through the last minute adjustments.

Then he got up, handed his crutches to a friend and headed home on his own two legs.

Church Group Council Approves Closed Shop; Safeguards Asked

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—The federal council of the Churches of Christ in America has given qualified approval to the closed shop or union shop.

The council, which represents 27 Protestant and eastern orthodox denominations, said in a statement adopted yesterday by its executive committee:

"Where either the closed or union shop emerges with proper safeguards, as the result of collective bargaining, we believe the agreement . . . should be approved and supported by church people."

In a closed shop, only union members may be hired. Non-union men may be hired in a union shop, but must join the union after they are employed.

Oppose Some Strikes

The council's statement, designed to help "bring industrial relations more into accord with the will of God," opposed jurisdictional strikes, which it termed unjustifiable "in the light of the public interest."

It said jurisdictional disputes "can and should be resolved with justice without resorting to strikes."

The statement was submitted by the council's department of the church and economic life, headed by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio.

"We believe that compulsory union membership," the statement said, "should be neither required nor forbidden by law. The decision should be left to agreement by management and labor . . .

The council said closed or union shop agreements should include safeguards for the rights of individual union members and for the general public "against possible abuses through monopoly control over prices and practices."

Safeguards Are Listed

The safeguards, the statement said, would include:

Free and frequent election of union officers.

Provisions in union laws to protect against excessive dues and initiation fees and against discrimination.

Periodic review in contract talks.

The statement said proposals for various forms of union security had arisen because "labor unions that are strong, free, stable and responsible can best serve their own legitimate interests and those of the public."

More than 40 members attended the all-day, bi-monthly meeting of the executive committee.

Club Begins Rodeo Ticket Sale Drive

Members of the American Business club today launched a full-scale ticket sales program for their Boys Club rodeo with a kickoff breakfast in Hilton hotel.

Eight teams gathered to lay plans to canvass the city in selling rodeo tickets scheduled June 8-11 in Jones stadium, Texas Tech.

President George Dale gave each of captains their sales kits which include a minimum of 60 tickets for each club member. The team captains are: Bill Marquis, Oliver Thomas, Wally Bruce, Bill Collins, Garland Nistel, Doc Stewart, Dutch Wiginton and Hugh Anderson. Adance sales of the box seats have already passed the $3,000 mark.

In addition to a gigantic parade the rodeo will present some outstanding talent in a variety of acts. There will be prizes totaling $4,000 for contests in bulldogging, bronc riding, roping and other rodeo features.

Air Force Officer To Hold Interviews

An Air Force officer today was in Lubbock to interview young men interested in pilot training.

Capt. John G. Henry, aviation cadet project officer of the El Paso recruiting district was to be here today and Thursday to talk with prospective applicants for pilot training.

Applicants may contact Capt. Henry at the Army-Air Force recruiting office, room 203 of the Postoffice building. Arrangements for interviews may be made in advance.

Applicants for cadet training must be between 20 and 26½ years of age, and must have two years of college or be able to pass an equivalent examination. High moral, personal and physical qualifications also are required. Both single and married men may apply.

Aviation cadet classes during 1949 will begin on June 29, Aug. 10, Sept. 20 and Nov. 1. Special arrangements have been made so that college seniors may quality as candidates now and begin flight training after finishing school.

The training includes academic instruction in aircraft engineering, meteorolgy, navigation, communications and other aviation subjects.

Pact Hearing To End Soon

WASHINGTON, May 18. (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee today winds up hearings on the North Atlantic pact after 16 days of public testimony.

Only 11 person remained to be heard among the 95 called to express their views on the 12-nation alliance. The American Legion headed the list of the witnesses due to close out the testimony opened on May 27 by Secretary of State Acheson.

Into the committee's record has gone a wide range of views—from Acheson's staunch support to the bitter opposition of the American Communist party.

"Strong Peace Bid"

Those for the treaty say it would make a strong bid for peace by discouraging any would-be aggressor, its foes say it is an alliance aimed at Russia and leading to war.

From this testimony the committee will make a report in the next few days—possibly by early next week. It is expected to give unanimous approval to the treaty. Two-thirds of the Senate must approve before the United States can become a member of the alliance.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters the treaty will not be called up for Senate action until the recipocal trades agreement bill is out of the way. Then, he said, Democratic leaders will decide whether the treaty will have priority over other legislation.

He also said there will be no hearings started on the $1,130,000,000 arms-for-Europe program until the treaty is ratified. "There is no urgency for the arms program," he said.

Yesterday the Associated Press understood Connally to have suggested to Democratic leader Lucas (D-Ill) that the Taft-Hartley repeal bill be taken up before the treaty.

Connally was understood by a reporter to have told Lucas informally outside the Senate chamber: 'I'd like to see the treaty put off a while. We need a rest." The exchange occurred when Lucas came up to Connally and the reporter, who had been discussing treaty action plans.

But later Connally told reporters he was misunderstood. He said in a statement that after the reciprocal trades bill is out of the way, then the Democratic leaders will decide whether to take up the treaty or domestic legislation.

Before Connally issued his clarifying statement, the report that he had suggested a delay in acting on the pact had left State department officials surprised and puzzled.

They offered no official comment in advance of a news conference by Secretary of State Acheson. But there seemed to be no doubt that they still are counting on fairly quick action.

Nonsense Or Not, Presidents' Family Luck Runs In Threes

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—Anyone with an elementary knowledge of numerology could have predicted yesterday's election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., to Congress.

Political success seems to run in threes where a presidential family is concerned.

If you're not up on your numerology (study of the occult significance of numbers), then any second-hand encyclopaedia will show you that at least half a dozen presidents were sandwiched-in, followed or preceded by successful politicians.

It goes all the way back to John Adams, the second president of the United States His eldest son, John Quincy Adams, became the sixth president. And John Quincy's son Charles Francis Adams was U. S. minister to Great Britain.

Three Tafts

A name you see almost every day figures in another one-tow-three: Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader His father was William Howard Taft, the 27th president And President Taft's father was Alphonse Taft, attorney general in President Grant's cabinet and minister to Austria and Russia.

John Tyler, the tenth president, was the son of John Tyler, the governor of Virginia. The president's son was Lyon Gardiner Tyler, president of William and Mary and a top lawyer of his day.

Zachary Taylor, the 12th president, had a father who held a political job in Louisville. And his son-in-law was Jefferson Davis, president himself—of the Confederacy.

The father of Theodore Roosevelt, the 26th president, was prominent in New York politics, and one of the president's sons entered the political arena.

Succeeds Sol Bloom

That brings up young Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., who won a smashing victory in New York's 20th congressional district and will come to Washington to succeed the late Rep Sol Bloom.

His father was the 32nd president, and his grandfather James Roosevelt held several diplomatic posts under President Cleveland.

The figure three doesn't figure in these two, but they show that presidents have successful offspring:

The grandson of President U. S. Grant has been active here on the advisory council of the bureau of plant industry, soils and agricultural engineering. He is U. S. Grant 3rd.

And President Sam Houston (of Texas, that is) had a son who served briefly in the U. S. Senate not many years ago.

You can take it from there.

The bakery and confectioners' union turns out a cake every 15 minutes. American and Lorillard Tobacco companies will show how cigarettes are rolled out of their plants. A daily tabloid newspaper will be printed throughout the show.

Two gold-plated bicycles — one for a boy and one for a girl—will be chanced off. They're specially built and are worth about $1,000, the metal polishers' union says.

Everybody gets something free. Cleveland's three major labor writers get in on the show, too. They have to count a batch of nails, tell Mayor Thomas A. Burke how many there are, and then let somebody guess the grand total.

The difficulties of obtaining top caliber young men for police and fire duties was stressed by Rep. Lamar Zivyley of Temple, who summed up the proponents' case.

He said the difficulty will continue until a guaranteed minimum wage is assured.

Mail New Phase In Electra-Rail Fight

ELECTRA, May 18 (U.P.)—Mail service, or lack of it, plagued Electra residents today in still another phase of its long battle against becoming a "whistle stop."

Irate citizens complained that since the Fort Worth and Denver Railway's streamlined Zephyr stopped making regular stops here, mail service was considerably slowed.

A pipeline company said a daily report mailed to Wichita Falls, some 30 miles distant, took two days to arrive.

Postmaster W. P. Slaton said he had received many similar complaints and had forwarded them to his superiors.

The Zephyr picks up a 24-pound bag of mail every evening "on the fly," but does not halt in Electra unless long-haul passengers are waiting Most mail is moved by local trains.

Official stops for the Zephyr were cancelled by the railroad last week for eight northwest Texas town. The move was to speed up passenger service.

WAA SALE SLATED

DALLAS, May 18 (U.P.)—The War Assets administration will open sealed bids on unsold units at Bluebonnet ordnance plant at McGregor May 30. Among items for sale are a portion of an ammonium nitrate line, a bomb booster line and a part of a load line.

LITTLE INTERPRETER — Ruddy Herrera, 14-year-old parochial school student, acts as interpreter for Alfonso Carrasquel, shortstop for the Fort Worth, Texas League baseball team, who doesn't speak a word of English. Little Ruddy speaks English and Spanish fluently. Carrasquel is a native of Venezuela.

One-Student Class Graduates Tonight

ADA, Kas., May 18 (AP) — Sixteen-year old Eva Mae Bradbury graduates tonight.

She's been a one-student class since she started in the first grade.

When Eva Mae started to Elementary school at nearby Rose Hill she was the only pupil in her class. She looked forward to attending high school because she thought she'd surely have classmates there.

But she was alone all four years.

Although she's the only senior she'll be accorded full honors in a complete complete commencement program. As the senior class she was given the traditional dinner by the junior class.

Mexican Police Push Search For Gunman

MAZATLAN, Mexico, May 18 (U.P.) — Hundreds of federal and state police and armed possemen searched the high Sierras in northern Sinaloa today for escaped gunman Rodolfo Valdes, known as "El Gitano" (The Gypsy), reputed killer of 50 men.

Valdes escaped from jail here three days ago by sawing his way through the bars of his cell window.

He had been sentenced for shooting and killing Sinaloa state Gov. Rodolfo Loaiza at the 1944 Mazatlan carnival.

Ecuador has formed a Development Corporation to finance new ventures there.

FARM LEADER DIES

MISSION, May 18 (U.P.)—Funeral services will be held today for Loren V. Williams, 58, president of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Farm bureau and one of South Texas' agricultural leaders. Williams died Monday of a heart attack.

Card Playing, Liquor And Wild Women Give Visitor Hard Time

RENO, May 18 (AP)—It was a delightful period of jack pots and straight flushes, Salvadore Manriquez told the jury—until he met a blonde, a brunette and a redhead.

Manriquez, Sacramento, Calif., cafe and jukebox operator, was the state's star witness yesterday in the trial of a cigar-smoking woman wrestler and her two companions on robbery charges.

The accused are Johnny Mae Young, 28, the wrestler, from Oakland, Mary Anice Huse, 22, a night club photographer and barmaid from Monrovia, Ala.; and Eva Lee McDevitt, 24, a former bar operator at Houston.

Victim Tells Story

This was the story the 200-pound Manriquez told the jury:

He arrived Jan. 27. He started playing slot machines at a gambling club about 5 p. m. He played all that night, and all the next day until 7 p. m.—with an interruption only in the morning to play poker.

He started with $119, quit with $1,100 to $1,500

When the three women entered his life while he was relaxing at a bar in another club.

There were several drinks at several bars.

Finally, there was one last drink. That ended Manriquez' memory of the jovial evening.

He came to in the back seat of a big sedan, Johnny Mae on one side of him and Mary Anice on the other His face was covered with blood and his head hurt.

Thrown Out Of Car

"Then they threw me out of the car," Manriquez testified, pointing to the three women, all dressed in trim, tailored suits. "They asked for my money or else."

A deputy sheriff found Manriquez lying in a field a mile north of town several hours later.

"The blood on his face was frozen like icicles" Deputy Sheriff Rudy Hoganson testified. "His feet were purple." Hoganson said it was about seven degrees below zero.

Dr. Elwood Reno testified he treated Manriquez for "continuing abrasions so numerous they couldn't be counted" on his hand and face. He also treated Manriquez' frozen toes.

The trial resumes today.

Two of the defendants, Johnny Mae and Mary Anice, also face robbery charges in another case. John Elmer Nelson, a 210-pounder from North Platte, Neb., told police last month that he was beaten and robbed by the girls at a downtown bar

Aggie Grad Reports For Extension Post

Carpenter comes here from Mission where he was first stationed after graduation from college. He majored in entomology and part of his duties with the office here (located in the Agriculture building at Texas Tech) will be the control of cotton insects.

Red Power Lessens In Germany As '100% Yes' Election Fails

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Kremlin must have been set rocking by the election in the Soviet zone of Eastern Germany, where more than a third of the voters balloted against hand-picked, Communist-approved candidates for the new "people's congress."

The Red Command had anticipated the usual favorable vote of virtually 100 percent in such elections. This was to be a triumph for presentation at the forthcoming meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers' council in Paris.

Moscow's strategy was to lay before the council this "people's congress" of 2,000 delegates which would match the federal republic of Western Germany. Not only that, but the congress contains 500 delegates specially designed to represent Western Germany.

Strategy Fails

In short, the "people's congress" was to have been put forward by the Russians to represent all Germany.

What line of strategy the Muscovites will pursue since their upset is a matter of keen speculation in western diplomatic circles. Certainly the so-called "people's congress" has lost any magic which it might have held for Western Germany had the election been practically "unanimous" as planned.

Meantime General Lucius D. Clay, retiring American military commander in Germany, returned home yesterday to be accorded highest honors in the capital. President Truman presented the general with a second Oak Leaf cluster, in lieu of a third Distinguished Service medal, for services "of supreme value to his country and to humanity."

Clay had stuck by his post until he had seen the raising of the Soviet blockade of Berlin and the creation of the new federal republic for Western Germany—a republic which contemplates the inclusion of Eastern Germany in due course.

Revolt 'Momentous'

This revolt of the German voters in the Soviet zone is in itself a momentous development, but it seems to me to fit into a picture of much broader significance. Last weekend this column analyzed the statement by Paul G. Hoffman, director of the Economic Cooperation administration, that "our way of life will be secure if Europe is strong and free in 1952."

What new development could after the European picture? Well, it would be the failure of Communism to hold the peoples of the various countries which have been absorbed into the Soviet bloc. That is, the rejection of communism by these peoples.

Now comes this rebuff to the Russians in Eastern Germany which was supposed to have been thoroughly communized. We see that there is a powerful anti-Communist element in that zone, and that it dares raise its head.

Then take a look at Yugoslavia. This Balkan state was supposedly the most thoroughly communized of all the satellite states. It was Communism's forward theatre for training and supply in the "cold war." But Moscow's hold on that state cracked up on the rocks of Yugoslav nationalism. Marshal Tito and his followers subscribed to Communism, but doggedly clung to nationalism rather than asknowledge Moscow as the seat of sovereignty. The cominform launched a drive against Tito—and thus far has been beaten at its own game.

In neighboring Bulgaria there have been purges of prominent Communists. Then Bulgarian premier Georgi Dimitrov—one of the big Reds—recently went to Russia. One report had it that he was seeking medical treatment, but there has been widespread speculation that he is being ousted from his job. In any event, Bulgarian political waters have been troubled.

There also have been many reports of dissatisfaction in other satellite countries, including Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Numerous prominent citizens from satellite nations have been seeking refuge in Western democracies.

All in all we have an interesting picture of considerable discontent behind the Iron Curtain. I don't think we should jump to sweeping conclusions, but it is interesting to note that it's not all honey and flowers in the bolshevist empire.

Gary Housewives Skip Cleaning, Fight Vice

GARY, Ind., May 18 (AP) — Gary women are going to spend their summer vacations at home in houses that missed spring cleaning, but they intend to keep Gary free of vice.

The women — 900 determined housewife-vigilantes — have the word of Detective Capt. Peter Billick that Gary is "cleaner than it has been in 43 years."

And the Gary underworld has the women's word for it that it's going to stay that way.

"We're letting our own spring cleaning go and we won't take any vacations this year," said Mrs. Benjamin Saks, one of the leaders.

Billick said, "Moving vans are carting away gambling equipment. Prostitutes and gamblers have been leaving by bus."

Natural Gas Law Assailed

By SARAH McCLENDON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 18—Brigson Tuesday urged Congress to clarify the natural gas act to exclude arms-length sales by gas producers to interstate pipelines. Thompson is a member of the Texas Railroad commission. He said fear of regulation by the Federal Power commission is proving a deterrent to oil exploration in Texas. Oil men fear that their products, where both gas and oil are found, may both be regulated and thus the producers would be allowed only a 6½ percent return on their investment.

Federal Regulation Feared

Gen. Thompson said over 3,000 gas wells in Texas were capped now for lack of market. Independents and big companies alike fear this Federal regulation.

"The oil industry has asked for no federal subsidies. Let it alone and wildcatters will find all the oil and gas we can possibly need."

He said under questioning by Senator Bricker (R-O) that he "seriously doubted" if gas prices to consumers would be increased by this bill although he thinks it will increase the market for gas and ultimately increase the price paid to producers at the well.

Senator Reed, Kansas, who wrote the amendment to the original natural gas act in 1938, said language was clear to exclude producers and facilities at production level, but it appeared further clarification was necessary.

Senator Lyndon Johnson, (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate subcommittee which is hearing the matter, in a preliminary statement said the Federal Power commission had reversed its own decisions on this subject and individual members had changed their own views. "I know that Congress can write a bill which makes it perfectly clear.

"Natural gas producers are now harassed and they feel as if they are the victims of a unilateral OPA."

Tech Judging Team Cops Fifth In Meet

A Texas Tech judging team which Monday participated in the American Royal Dairy show in Kansas City placed fifth in the entire contest, according to information received Tuesday by the division of agriculture at Texas Tech.

The Tech team placed first in the judging of Ayrshire cattle, and a team member, George Pliler, was high individual in the judging of Ayrshire cattle.

Iowa State Tops Show

Top honors in the entire judging contest were taken by a team from Iowa State university. Other teams were Kansas State, second; Oklahoma A & M, third; Missouri University, fourth; Texas Tech, fifth; and L. S. U., sixth.

In addition to Pliler, other members of the Tech judging team were William Krueger, Paul Jones, and Tommy Hewlitt. The team was coached and accompanied by K. L. Neeley, lecturer in the animal husbandry department of Tech's agriculture division.

This year's American Royal Dairy show was the first ever to be held.

Who said so? And why are they the most wonderful tires ever built?

For more than two years these great tires have dominated the automotive scene, written themselves into the design of the newer motor cars, fixed themselves in the enthusiasm of countless thousands of motorists.

What is all this? What's going on? Why should a couple of new tires create such a startling revolution? Why were they followed by a hustle of attempted imitation — why were they never successfully equalled or duplicated?

Yet here they are — just a couple of nice looking tires. What's inside of them? What do they do that other tires won't do? Why should you prefer them, insist on them, buy them? Why do millions insist on them and buy them?

The answers are very simple

The answer starts with the simple fact that they are the exclusive and original U. S. Royal "Air Ride" tires. They take more air than ever before because there's more air room inside them — yet they ride you and cushion you on less air pressure. That's point number one.

Point number two is that they steer magnificently, easier than former tires, because their treads were especially designed for steering. Their treads are for sure and easy steering as well as safety.

Point number three is that by combining lower air pressure and faultless steering you get a tire that provides complete vehicle control around the turns, in parking maneuvers, on the straight-a-way at any speed — yet they are tires that also ABSORB THE ROAD. They cushion you and your vehicle from every shock and discomfort. They are tires that pave their own highways as they go along.

The difference between them

What's the difference between these two U. S. Royal tires? The difference is quantity. You get a bigger tire in the Royal Master, one with much deeper tread rubber; one whose traction and stopping tread may be renewed by regrooving time and time again. And the U. S. Royal Master costs more because it's a bigger tire with a proportionately greater capacity and span of life. Both tires are the finest net value in the world.

They are not luxury tires. They are not cut-price tires. They are pure value — the greatest value in tire history.

The tires that revolutionized automotive riding and driving

1. The tires that perform with more air and less air pressure
2. The tires that absorb the road they travel on
3. The tires that fully cushion every shock and road strain
4. The tires that radically influenced modern automotive engineering and design
5. The tires that have been copied and imitated but neither equalled or duplicated
6. The only tires of low air pressure with especially designed steering tread
7. The tires without any excess (lazy) rubber — run cooler and, therefore, wear much longer
8. The tires exactly designed to fit your present wheels
9. The tires chosen as original equipment on the finest of the new cars
10. The tires that make old cars feel like new
11. The tires that pay for themselves in pleasure, protection and long wear

These are the tires whose revolutionary qualities and sensational performance established today's highest standards of riding and driving comfort, safety and economy.

Sold by U. S. Royal Dealers everywhere at fair and stable prices representing the highest tire value in the world.

IF WE'RE a little hard to get along with for a few days—or months!—please bear with us.

We've just returned from the Founding Fiesta in Laredo where, as the guests of the City of Laredo, The Plainsman and The Little Woman literally have been showered with honors, all but overcome with courtesies and, literally, loaded with lovely gifts.

As we said the other day, we are unworthy of Laredo's designation as Texas' outstanding editor and many other Texas editors have more right to both the distinction and the observance as staged by the Border City.

But we would be less than honest if we didn't confess to enjoying both the designation and the generosity on the part of Laredo in having us down there as the city's honor guests at the Fiesta and the premier of the movie, "Streets of Laredo."

There are many thoughtful, kind and extremely generous people everywhere.

But nowhere can there be more thoughtful, kindly or generous people than we found in Laredo. They did so much for both The Little Woman and The Plainsman that we were constantly delighted — and flabbergasted.

Officialdom of Nuevo Laredo, across the border in the Mexican State of Tamaulipas, joined in the whirl of parties and activities, as did a troupe of movie people headed by William Demarest and Mona Freeman.

The American and Mexican consuls and their staffs, the Mexican generals and their staffs, were all in the picture. The Spanish embassy at Washington was represented by its charge d'affaires and by the Spanish consul at Galveston. Four officers representing the Canadian Army came down from Ottawa and a group of American Air Force people was there from Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

There were parties every minute on both sides of the border, speeches, music, news reel shots — everything anybody can imagine.

WE ARE especially indebted to Mayor and Mrs. Hugh S. Cluck of Laredo, to Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Allen, who own the fine newspaper, the Laredo Times; to U. S. Consul and Mrs. V. Harwood Blocker; to Mexican Consul and Mrs. Reynoldo Jauregui Serrano; to Manager and Mrs. Bill Stiles, of the Laredo Chamber of Commerce, and to his assistant, Bill Hall, and Mrs. Hall.

If their hospitality and thoughtfulness hadn't been so very definitely sincere, we should have been embarrassed over all the wonderful things they did for us.

The Little Woman was kept literally dripping in orchids from the time we left Lubbock until our return. To cap the climax, Mr. and Mrs. George Loos—he's the widely known showman whose home is in Laredo—turned one whole side of our hotel quarters into a bower of flowers.

Mayor Cluck's luncheon; Consul and Mrs. Blocker's cocktail party with more than 200 guests; the chamber of commerce's dinner in Nuevo Laredo and the City of Laredo's dinner at the Plaza hotel were simply scrumptious.

We are deeply appreciative, of course, of all the lovely gifts of flowers, perfume and jewelry, and a case of canned wild pheasant.

We are humbly grateful for the three-foot high gold loving cup, appropriately engraved and presented formally at the banquet.

We are appreciative of all the many kindnesses constantly exhibited to us. But somehow or another, the thing that touched us the most was the very last gesture.

With a month-old engagement in Lubbock to make good on, we had to catch a fast flight from San Antonio at 2 p. m., in order to get back home by 7 p. m.

Although we could have ridden from Laredo by bus or train early in the morning to make the plane at San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, of the Laredo Times were adamant.

They insisted on driving us the 160 miles themselves, entertaining us at luncheon in San Antonio and personally putting us on the airplane.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen wouldn't listen to anything else—despite the fact that it killed a day for them at a time when Laredo was busy with movie stars and various other celebrities.

Their insistence upon taking us to San Antonio, it seems to us, typifies the tremendous hospitality of the Texas-Tamaulipas border and of "The Gateway to Mexico."

DESPITE the whirl we were in during our two-and-a-half day stay in Laredo, we managed to keep our eyes and ears open and learn something about what is going on in that part of the state.

Just as we are growing in Lubbock, and other cities up here in West Texas are growing, too, so is Laredo improving and expanding on all sides.

Tomorrow, we shall outline growth and expansion of the Webb county capital and its Mexican counterpart across the river. We shall anticipate, too, the continued growth and improvement which are certain to come there in the next few years.

The gradual "opening up" of Mexico in recent years has had a terrific impact on Laredo and Nuevo Laredo. Those who knew the 194-year old Texas city prior to 1940 have no idea of the changes recent years have wrought.

We'll bring you up to date on another part of our great state in the very next stint.

TWENTY-TWO years ago this coming Saturday, a young fellow name of Charles Augustus "Slim" Lindbergh sent the world, and especially this country, into a tailspin by putting his rickety airplane down at Paris after flying across the ocean.

Editorialists editorialized, orators orated, what radio announcers there were then whooped and hollered and there was dancing in the streets. Young Lindbergh had done something extra special. There was no doubt about it.

Today, less than a quarter century since Lindbergh's Paris flight, there are about 20 airplanes flying across the Atlantic and nobody thinks anything about it. Ocean hopping is routine stuff.

Thus the world moves and with it, the people.

Twenty-five years from now the atomic bomb may mean nothing at all in the face of some now unsuspected defense for it

BY DREW PEARSON: FRANCE WILL REFUSE TO WITHDRAW HER TROOPS FROM GERMANY

Senator Says Aid To Education Pays Big Dividends

WASHINGTON — Firmly and without fanfare, France has told the United States it will not withdraw its occupation troops from Germany—regardless of what is decided at the Big Four meeting on Germany.

PEARSON

The French ambassador, popular Henri Bonnet, told this to Secretary of State Acheson on Thursday on orders from his government. Bonnet who has just returned from consultation in Paris, stated flatly that France does not feel the Germans can be trusted yet, therefore cannot take the chance of pulling out its occupation forces.

The French attitude has upset Acheson's plans somewhat for he was considering the evacuation of all four powers in return for quick elections in eastern and western Germany. Acheson has cabled the American embassy in Paris to try to induce French Foreign Minister Schuman to change his mind before the foreign ministers meet May 23.

Barkley And Baseball

Being a loyal Kentuckian, Vice President Alben Barkley's first love in sports is horse racing. But he was highly pleased the other day when Dell Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, presented him with a gold, lifetime pass to all baseball games at the Yankee stadium.

"There's something I ought to tell you before accepting this lifetime pass," Barkley explained. "The way I feel now, I'll live to be 95 years old. But my doctor tells me I might even be around for 105 years. Now, do you still want to give me the pass?"

Webb assured the vice president he would still be welcome at the age of 105—provided he rooted for the Yankees. Barkley is now in his 72nd year.

ECONOMY-preaching Representative Robert Rich of Pennsylvania ran into a statistical buzzsaw when he tangled with freshman Senator Hubert Humphrey the other day on federal aid to education. During a hearing by the joint committee on inter-governmental relations, Rich was complaining about federal grants to states.

"Take this aid-to-education bill," he said. "Where will it end? We will spend $300,000,000 the first year, $500,000,000 the second year and the next thing you know it will cost the taxpayers a billion dollars."

"That's exactly what I hope," shot back Humphrey, "and the government couldn't make a better investment. Studies by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce have shown that spending for education always yields a high return in economic prosperity.

"For every dollar federal, state and local governments spend to improve school facilities there is an average $6 return in productive earnings. The National Education association reports that an illiterate man between the ages of 35 and 44 averages only $486 income a year.

"Elementary-school graduates in the same group earn $1,228, high-school graduates, $1,764, while college graduates between 35 and 44 average $2,465 a year. It's a proven fact that areas where the greatest illiteracy prevails also are the most backward economically. Do you want me to go on?"

But Rich had had enough. Though quite a fast talker himself the gentleman from Pennsylvania was too happy to pass on to another subject.

Merry-Go-Round

Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse was literally knocked off his high horse the other day. Though an expert horseman, he was toppled when an unruly colt crashed into a fence and pinned the senator's leg. No bones were broken, but Morse still has a bad limp . . . Back from the hospital, Majority Leader Scott Lucas has put an end to rumors he might resign as floor leader. He's in the pink and rarin' to take on any Republicans or Dixiecrats who cross his path . . . After Chairman Tom Connally of the Senate foreign relations committee accused Senators Watkins of Utah and Donnell of Missouri of taking two-thirds of the time at the North Atlantic pact hearings, Senator Watkins began counting his back wordage. According to his arithmetic, he has taken up less than 15 per cent of the time of the hearing, though he and Donnell of Missouri together have done 42 per cent of the questioning . . . The AFL's Dick Ornburn, who makes a career of promoting good-will between industry and labor unions, has been given a new title by Vice President Alben Barkley—"ambassador of good relations." Orburn union-industries show, which opens today in Cleveland, gets bigger and better every year.

WHILE combing through Senator Taft's minority report, Senator Thomas of Utah, scholarly chairman of the Senate labor committee, scribbled down some notes that throw a light on the coming labor battle in the Senate.

Thomas found that Taft had actually recommended 28 changes in his own Taft-Hartley law, but only 20 changes in the old Wagner act. This comes surprisingly close to Thomas's own bill, which is backed by President Truman.

The Utahn picked out the main differences and jotted them down on a scratch pad. It is around these issues that the debate will hinge on the Senate floor.

Here are Senator Thomas's note: "Secondary boycott—Thomas prohibits one type, Taft prohibits all but 'struck work.'

"Jurisdictional strikes—no substantial difference.

"National emergencies — Taft adds injunction and plant seizure and mandatory report to Congress.

"Five-man board — Taft makes seven and nonpartisan.

"State law, closed shop—Thomas makes federal law supreme, Taft makes state law supreme."

No Cancer In Ohio?

Senator Bricker of Ohio, Republican, is leading the fight to cut down on cancer research. He's even against building up the cancer laboratories at Ohio State university, and quotes Dr. Charles Doan, Ohio's medical dean, as saying there is no need.

The real truth, however, is that Senator Bricker has been misquoting Dr. Dean. While the senator has been arguing that Ohio state doesn't need more facilities, actually the university has applied for $1,500,000 to construct new cancer-research facilities. This, incidentally, is the largest application on file.

NOTES of an Innocent Bystander—The Broadway Lights: Ingrid Bergman's big hit, "Intermezzo," will be revived at The Little Carnegie Theatre. Good timing. The plot deals with an international love-triangle, not unlike her current headlines. Leslie Howard is The Other Man . . . M. Berle is investing $30,000 in the new revue, "Alive and Kicking" . . . Mervyn Neison, on the other hand (his production, "The Ivy Green," was a recent costly flop), is mending his wounds out of town. He's back doing his night club act . . . Robert Sherwood and Moss Hart are these Kind of Guys: They insisted that Irving Berlin's name be billed above their own in the forthcoming musical, "Miss Liberty." . . . The very last shot in "The Stratton Story" is expected to be 1949's most unforgettable scene.

The Airistocrats: ABC's "Blind Date" with Arlene Francis is big-timers via television. She comes over attractively, and her breezy banter sets the pace . . . The same network's "Stop the Music!" came over with excitement. Better than it is on the radio, we thought. . . . Ingenious as well as interesting is CBS's "The World Is Our Beat." They have far-flung correspondents engage in a global round-table. . . . The Martin-Lewis shebang gets funny, but not every pun rates what appears to be "planted" guffaws from the studio audience. Makes it sound like a convention of comedians' mothers.

BROADWAY Side-Show: He's one of the most experienced young directors on Broadway. He was sent to a television network with high recommendations . . . THE Story-Tellers: J. Gunther's "Behind the Curtain" is the Book-of-the-Month for July. A chronicle of his first visit aboard since the war. . . . Earl Wilson's next, "Let 'Em Eat Cheesecake," will be published by Doubleday. Arthur Godfrey has written the foreword . . . George Orwell (he auth'd the best selling ironic expost of totalitarianism, "Animal Farm") has another trenchant treatment of the same evil. It is named "Nineteen Eighty Four." . . . Frances Parkinson Keyes' tome, "Dinner at Antone's," is her third in a row to top one million copies. . . . Cosmopolitan's Saroyan piece has whiz in the wordage . . . Doubleday will publish Marion (See Here Private) Hargrove's next novel. One chapter is ready. The theme: Disillusionment with marriage.

BROADWAY Confetti: Jackie Gleason's Foreign Legion number in "Along 5th Avenue" rates all the howls it gets. Slick wordage with a click delivery. . . Billy Eckstine, the current rage at the Paramount, did a one-nighter at the Club Ball, Washington. He was paid $6,000. Two years ago he played there with a 17-piece orchestra and got $400. . . . It's Not What You Were It's What You Is Dept.: Lee S. Cobb gets top billing in a revival of "Golden Boy" on 42nd St. He has a small part in it, but he's the star of the Pulitzer Prize Winner, "Death of a Salesman," 3 streets away . . . Then there's Kirk Douglas, who hit the packpot with "Champion." He had a small role in "Mounting Becomes Electra" but that re-issue stars him over the male leads, Raymond Massey and Michael Redgrave. . . American Broadcasting executives won't permit Dick Brown to hum the title of "Baby Face" on "Stop the Music!" because at rehearsal it came out: "La de dum, you have the cutest little la de dum."

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

A COUPLE of teen-age models in New York recently confessed in a newspaper interview that the boys they date often don't like the styles the girls wear to please the fashion world.

For instance, the mbodels have to wear short hair—for short hair is a "must" these days according to the dictates of fashion. But the boys who take them dancing are blunt about saying they much prefer the more feminine shoulder-length bob.

MILLETT

Well, it will be that way all through the years, girls. You can't be a slave to the fashion world, and expect to please the man of your life (or of the moment), too.

For the world of fashion doesn't give a hoot what the men may think of a new style. They proved that conclusively when they put women into long skirts against widespread masculine protest.

They proved it again when they revived the short haircut—even though it's a safe bet that nine out of 10 think a woman sacrifices a lot of her femininity when she has her hair whacked off.

So it's a wise woman who doesn't completely ignore the Important Man's ideas of what is becoming to her, in order to follow the hard and fast decrees of fashion. For the fashion world isn't interested in how any particular woman looks in the eyes of any particular man.

FASHION IGNORES MAN

The fashion world just says: "Wear it whether you like it or not. Wear it if it makes you look silly. Wear it because it's the latest thing—and that ought to be reason enough."

But the Important Man doesn't give a hoot about what is fashionable. All he is interested in is seeing his girl or his wife look her prettiest and most feminine.

That's why his advice shouldn't be ignored. He may not know anythink about fashion, but you can bet your bottom dollar that he has looked at enough women appraisingly to know when a dress or a hat or a hair style is becoming to a woman and when it isn't.

Besides, if a man is interested enough in how a woman looks to express an opinion, she's taking a pretty big risk to ignore it. If he can't get her to dress to suit him, he may spend all his admiration on the girls who happen to wear the kind of clothes he likes.

"Try And Stop Me"

BOBBY CLARK, one of the greatest comedians of our time, would like to revive the lion act he did in burlesque with his old partner McCullough. The manager of a side-show offered Clark a dollar to wrestle with a lion. When Clark demurred, the manager assured him, "Our real lion has escaped. This fellow (McCullough) will wear a lion skin and the suckers will never know the difference."

Clark, of course, perked up at once when he heard this. And the real lion walked into the cage behind his back while he told the audience what he was going to do to the "king of beasts." The next ten minutes provided more laughs than any other act I can remember. Clark whacked the lion with his cane, kicked it, played leap frog with it and waved a flashlight in its eyes. When the lion roared, he would cry: "That's great! You sure are fooling the audience." Occasionally he'd sniff and declare: "What a performance! You even smell like a lion."

For the payoff the lion would start chasing Clark around the cage. The manager yelled, "Hey, I've been trying to tell you! That's the real lion in there with you!" Clark's speech was: "This is a heck of a time to tell me!"

80,000 Expected To Attend Huge Yankee Stadium Party

NEW YORK, May 18 — Miss Mary Margaret McBride, a lady with whom I have conducted a discreet romance for some time, is celebrating her 15th anniversary in the radio business on the 31st day of this mmonth, and it ought to be a heller. I guess M. M. McB. is the only gal who ever needed Yankee stadium to throw a party in.

RUARK

Miss McBride is unique to our time. Once a day, five times a week, she gets up and gabbles happily, in a wee girl voice, into a microphone, selling paint and peanuts and shoe polish and noodles and similar truck. In between her breathless, girlish plugs for the products, she chatters beguilingly with guests who range from authors to hog callers.

For this they pay her an outrageous amount of money. Mary Margaret has mad at least five million beautiful dollars in the past 15 years. About eigh million housewives accept her every world as purest gospel. She has worked through more than 8000 programs, and has chattered with about 12,000 guests in that 15 year span.

100,000 Turned Away

Most of them will be at her party at the stadium. Atop the invite list will be just as many women as they can cram into the house that Ruth built and Joe DiMaggio—when he is working—maintains. Reason for the rental of Yankee stadium is that when they threw a party to commemorate M. M. McB.'s 10th anniversary they hired Madison Square Garden. They had to turn away 100,000 admirers.

There's never been anybody quite like my gal Mary Margaret. Pushing 50 years, she is a little pouter-pigeon of a woman who wears a perpetual expression of childish delight. She has a voice approximating that of a juvenile to whom Santa Claus has come unexpectedly. Behind this frilly facade she has a head as hard as a paving block, and a canny brain that could tangle with Gromyko and come out at least even.

Miss McBride's anniversary party will consist of an hour's entertainment for radio and an hour's entertainment for the guests of which a minimum 80,000 are expected. I asked Estella Karns, M. M.'s strong right arm, about the plans and got the following answer

"THUS far," said Stell, "we know that Olsen and Johnson are going to land in the ball park by helicopter. Lawrence Tibbett, Morton Downey and Jane Pickens will be singing and Fred Waring and his choir in attendance. Gen. Omar Bradley and his wife will be guests of honor.

"There's some indecision about how Mary Margaret will make her appearance on the platform, which will be built sturdily and large in the vicinity of third base. The Marchioness of Donegal wants to give her an English thoroughbred to make her entrance on, and there's talk of borrowing Gen. Bradley's horse. Also talk of an elephant, but Miss McBride never liked riding on elephants.

"This we know: She'll be piped onto the platform by a covey of Scots bagpipers. Heaven knows how many of the prominent 12,000 she's interviewed over the years will be present. Some that can't make the platform will be piped in from Paris and Palestine and Norway and other places by short wave. The President of Haiti is sending a decoration and the President of the U. S. might even come. Last time Mrs. Roosevelt was her."

Huge Guest List

A certain breed of roses has been named for Miss McBride—an acre of them are currently being forced into bloom to commemorate M. M.'s field day.

Miss McBride's costume is already a subject for feverish controversy. A prominent psychiatrist has said that pale blue is the only color that is psychologically suitable for Yankee stadium. Final choice has been left up to Mary Margaret's faithful listeners.

The guest list says Miss Karns, will include actors, publishers, authors, playwrights, prize fighters, baseball players, ex-convicts, song writers, historians, Nobel and Pulitzer prize winners, adventurers, explorers and poets and peasants. All come to honor a little gal who sells floor wax and chit-chat over NBC.

OPPORTUNITY FOR THE THRIFTY

The campaign to sell Series E U. S. Savings bonds which got underway this week has been named most aptly an "Opportunity Drive."

Those who stand to benefit from it most are those who participate in it. It provides a systematic way, practical for almost every person, to lay aside some money regularly for the rainy days that are pretty sure to come along sooner or later. The bonds pay an excellent rate of interest, with a strong probability that the dollars realized from their future sale or maturity will buy more than those invested in them now.

As to their security, no investment could be more sound. If they ever should become worthless, then U. S. currency will be worthless, too.

The investment is sufficiently attractive to warrant the prediction that thrifty Lubbock people will exceed their assigned goal of $408,000 before the drive ends on June 30.

Deep Wildcat To Be Tested

Testing of the Devonian is scheduled for Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 15 American warehouse, deep wildcat in the Cedar Lake area of Northeast Gaines County.

The prospector drilled to 12,186 feet in Ellenburger, encountering sulphur water in that horizon. When drilling through Devonian it showed possibilities of a discovery on drillstem tests.

Operator now has plugged to 12,314 feet and was preparing to drill out cement to 12,350 feet and make production tests of the Devonian.

Production Is Extended

Location is 1,650 feet from south an deast lines of section 5, block H, D & W survey.

San Andres—Permian production from the West Seminole field of West-Central Gaines County has been extended by the completion of Cities Service Oil Company No. 1 Northrup, 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 35, block G, CCSD-&RGNG survey.

Flowing through a 32/64-inch choke, the well was completed for a natural 24-hour potential of 550 barrels of oil, with no water and gas-oil ratio 740-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 32.3 degrees.

Production was from the open hole zone at 5,059-5,140 feet. Top of pay was called on 5,050 feet.

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware was venturing ahead toward the Southeast Gaines County Ellenburger at its No. 1 M. S. Doss, wildcat 10 miles southwest of the Cedar Lake field and 4,620 feet from east, 7,430 feet from south lines of league 292, Lynn CSL survey.

Well Is Acidized

It was under 13,275 feet, penetrating a lime formation thought by observers to be Devonian.

Prospects of an extension to Fusselman - Silurian production from the Dollarhide field of Southwest Andrews County appear to have faded for Cities Service Oil Company No. 1-E Cowden, 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 14, block A-52, psl survey.

After testing through perforations at 8,784-89 feet and making water, operator squeezed off that section and perforated casing at 8,645-99 feet with 216 shots.

That zone was swabbed dry and acidized with 1,000 gallons. Oil and drilling mud then were swabbed, and the formation was re-acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Swabbing recovered 286 barrels of fluid in 29 hours. Shakeout was 10 per cent acid water at the start of the period and 50 per cent sulphur water at the end. The venture was swabbing ahead and waiting on orders.

In all probability, it will plug back and attempt completion from the Devonian, which showed good prospects when penetrated. Total depth is 8,792 feet.

Black Hills Mud Unclouds Mud, Beer

'Bentonite' Beautifies Legs, Drills Oil, Wins Horse Race

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 18.

Spring was in the air—and w summer right in front of me. In the form of shapely, painted legs.

I followed the shanks into the National Press building and asked the lady wearing 'em her name. She turned out to be Alice Lanham, a dark-haired secretary.

I asked her about this leg-makeup business and she told me. It's harder, it seems, to paint a woman's legs from the knee down than it is to dab her face from the shoulder blades up.

"You have to be an artist—almost," Alice said.

You either take a handful of cotton, or squirt some of the stuff in both hands and then put a layer on each leg. Smooth, and above everything else fast because it dries quickly.

Saves Stockings

"It's strictly springtime makeup and saves a lot of stockings," she said. "If you go in swimming you have to wipe it off. And if you get caught in bad thunderstorms, you come out with streaks that look awful—like a lot of runners. When you go to the beach, you may as well forget about leg makeup because the sun won't tan through it. It doesn't work that way."

I thanked Alice for an interesting one-minute interview and made for the library to learn what goes into the wonderful stuff that gives a woman a phony pair of stockings.

Turns out it's a magnificent mud dug from the Black Hills that is quietly slipping into the lives of most Americans.

When mixed with other things, it has the power to swell, absorb, or become adhesive.

Used In Races, Steel

It's called Bentonite and is odorless, tasteless, and a little soapy in appearance.

In addition to the shank makeup, you'll find it in toothpaste, in the sand that shapes molten steel, and even on the hooves of horses that run in such races as the Kentucky Derby.

Like the legendary Dutch boy who stuck his finger into the hole in the dike, it plugs the leaks in giant dams.

According to information I found in the library: When modern oil drills cut through strata 18,000 feet under the earth's surface, this magic mud cleared away the debris and shot it up to the drillers.

Scientists say that Bentonite has the greatest efficiency for absorption that nature has devised. It's highly absorbent in water and also is useful for oils, glycerin, dyes, metal salts, and many other substances.

Clears Cloudy Wines

Bentonite (not a trade name, folks) has this absorbent quality because it consists mainly of particles so fine that more than 600,000,000 of them are needed to dot a surface one-inch square.

There have been many tempers lost—including mine—in the American home, where most accidents occur, over how best to remove linoleum laid in hard-setting cement. The answer is, of course, Bentonite. It salves the balky linoleum.

Cloudy wines and honey are cleared up by passing a Bentonite solution through them (on prescription) and at least one brewer does this to uncloud his foggy beer.

Don't forget Alice and the race horses. Alice winds up with pretty brown legs. Horsey youngsters like Ponder and Capot have four feet that glisten and click off the miles in record time.

Bentonite swells the hooves of Ponder and Capot and makes it easier for them to dig into the track.

Masked Group Flogs Veteran

LAFAYETTE, Ga., May 18 (AP)—A 26-year-old war veteran said he was flogged by 20 men in Ku Klux Klan regalia who accused him of drinking too much and not taking care of his family.

"I thought they were going to hang me," J. C. Stoker related in giving details of the Monday night beating.

He said the men held a noose around his neck while they lashed him. Several of the mob fired shots and shouted "Hang him" and "Shoot Him," reported Stoker, a carpenter and the father of three small children.

Mrs. Stoker said her husband's undershirt was soaked with blood when he reeled back into the house after the assault.

The young veteran said his wife and children were left in tears when the men took him from his home.

"I have never and will never spend any money for whisky when it takes food and clothing from my family," Stoker declared. "The Klan has undertaken a big job if they want to beat up everybody that takes a drink."

Sheriff Weymon Harmon said he was investigating the incident. Twenty persons have been whipped recently by mobs in nearby Georgia and Tennessee counties.

Argentina is excited over the report that an American picture producing company will make a feature film there, based on Argentine life.

Economy Plan Gets Setback

WASHINGTON, May 18. (AP)—Senators trying to whittle federal spending refused today to give up, despite another setback.

The latest reverse—a victory for administration budget plans—came late yesterday when the Senate wiped out its previous order calling for a five per cent cut in the operating costs of the Labor department and the Federal Security agency. The reduction would have amounted to about $11,000,000.

After killing that economy order, the Senate passed by voice vote and sent back to the House a bill carrying $2,409,000,000 for the two agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. That figure is $185,000,000 more than the House voted.

Economy Still Sought

It was the second regular appropriations bill passed by the Senate. Last week the economy group failed in an attempt to cut five per cent off the annual allotment for the Treasury and Post Office departments.

Yesterday's defeat disappointed those out to trim spending and it indicated an up-hill fight all the way in the future, but Senator Wherry (Neb), the Republican leader, said the battle is just getting started.

He told a reporter the economy block will bounce right back with a motion to cut the $1,300,000,000 Agriculture department bill by five per cent. The Senate opened debate on that measure yesterday and resume today.

Overall Cut Unlikely

"We are going to keep right on driving," Wherry said.

He added that if the economy move gets no place an a bill-by-bill basis, a motion to trim all appropriations five to 10 per cent probably will be offered after all the money bills have been acted upon.

But Senator Byrd (Va), leader of the spend-less forces on the Democratic side, said he is pessimistic about the chances for an overall cut later. He said it will be very difficult to achieve any economy "unless we do it as we go along."

The Senate voted 44 to 37 on April 28 for a five per cent cut in the labor-federal security bill. A motion by Senator Green (D-RI) to reconsider that decision was approved yesterday, 43 to 41.

QUARTER-OUNCE STILL MISSING

Atomic Laboratory Loses Uranium 235

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP) — The atomic energy commission was looking for a missing quarter-ounce of Uranium-235 today after reporting recovery of a larger amount from waste material at one of its laboratories.

In an announcement Tuesday night the commission took note of reports that a much greater quantity of the atomic-bomb material had disappeared and could not be found.

It said that all told about 1.05 ounces of the stuff — 32 grams — could not be accounted for last February after a routine inventory at the Argonne national laboratory in Chicago. The FBI was notified

25 Grams Accounted For

"To date," the announcement said, "25 grams of the 32 have been accounted for at Oak Ridge, (Tenn.) through analysis of contents of containers of salvage material, machine turnings, chemical solutions and so forth sent there from Argonne laboratory for recovery treatment.

"The remaining seven grams — less than ¼ ounce — is not believed to have been stolen or lost as analysis of the waste is still continuing."

The earlier reports set the amount of missing U-235 as high as three quarters of a pound. The created quite a flurry, especially after the FBI confirmed that it had investigated a report of missing fissionable material from the Chicago laboratory.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) top Republican on the Senate-House atomic energy committee, commented that the report was "startling and fantastic if true."

The excitement finally was quieted by the commission's announcement, issued by its deputy general manager, Carl Shugg.

Closely Guarded

It takes from two to 200 pounds of Uranium to make a bomb, according to the commission's figures. The material is closely guarded because it is high-priced, potentially dangerous as a poison, and because the commission does not want unauthorized experiments with it.

Shugg's announcement listed some of the measures taken to keep any atomic minerals from getting loose.

"The installations of the atomic energy commission account rigorously for all fissionable materialz brought onto or taken off their premises," he said.

Besides periodic inventories, the announcement added, "This involves chemical analysis of large quantities of residues from machining, chemical and other operatons involving Uranium and Plutonium in various forms."

Cigaret Bootlegging Halt Asked In Bill

WASHINGTON, May 18. (AP)— A bill intended to halt what its backers call "cigaret bootlegging" into tobacco tax states landed in the Senate today.

The House passed the measure yesterday after hearing estimates that mail order shipments of cigarets from tax free states cost states with cigaret taxes some $40,000,000 a year in lost revenue.

There was sharp debate before the bill was approved on a voice vote. Some lawmakers contended the multi-million dollar mail order business is perfectly lawful. Others said it exists simply on tax avoidance.

The bill would require persons selling cigarets in interstate commerce to report the sales to the tobacco tax administrator of the destination states, unless the sales were to regular licensed dealers.

Thirty nine states have tobacco taxes.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 4, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and total loss ... I don't see how I could ... I heard of Barcentrate, I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in how I felt and the weight I was losing. I started with 200 pounds when I started and I had a loss of 47 pounds and was able to undergo the operation. I am grateful for ... and others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take four tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.
