WASHINGTON, Apr. 13. (AP)—The Cummings bill to enforce railroad consolidation after an experimental period, was reported favorably today by

ANTIS PIN HOPE TO FIGURES FOR CHANGE IN LAWS

COMMITTEE WADES KNEE DEEP THROUGH MAZE OF TESTIMONY

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—Three more witnesses called by the wets, told the Senate prohibition committee today that moral conditions had grown worse under the Volstead act.
One of them, Father Francis Kasaszium, of Sugar Knoch, Tenn., painted a graphic picture of wide-open saloons, wild carousals by young people, drunkenness in homes and intoxication among school children in the anthracite towns of Pennsylvania.

Police statistics shown Police statistics from many cities were submitted by Stanley Galko, of the Moderation League, to support his assertions that arrests for drunkenness, particularly among automobile drivers,
had taken an enormous upward swing since the dry regime came in.

The last witness of the day, Mrs.
Viola Anglin, deputy chief probation officer in the New York City family court, declared cases before that court had increased since prohibition, because the wives and children are suffering more than before.

Many Stills Operated
"The prohibition officers under my direction tell me that in their districts you can find 150 to 200 stills," she said. "These not only are operated in clear and other stores, but also in the home."

"Penitents are the homes of stills, you open a door and instantly get a whiff of the stuff they make. The children are there and must know all about it."

She added that while "the material condition of the wives and children had improved under prohibition, their moral condition" had not.

COLONEL WILLIAMS 'DRUNK', SAYS GENERAL BUTLER IN 'COCKTAIL COURT-MARTIAL' CASE

Gets Tough Job

General Butler, shown at his desk, is New York's new immigration commissioner, in charge of Ellis Island.
He succeeds Henry H. Curran, who resigned following the Countess Carthage furor.

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Apr. 13.—Defense testimony in the cocktail court-martial of Colonel Alexander S. Williams, opened here today with Lieutenant Commander Harold Willett, a navy surgeon, on the stand, as first witness for the suspended commander of the Fourth Regiment of Marines.
Commander Willett stated that he saw and spoke to Colonel Williams at the Hotel Del Coronado on the night of March 6; that he smelled no liquor on the Colonel's breath and noticed nothing which would justify classifying the Colonel as intoxicated.

Williams To Testify
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Apr. 13. (AP)— Colonel Alexander S. Williams' own version of the catastrophic cocktail party that brought down upon him the official wrath of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, was scheduled to be told at today's session of the Colonel's court martial on a charge of incompetence and insubordination in the public rooms of a Coronado Hotel.

The prosecution's case against the suspended commander of the Fourth Regiment of Marines culminated late yesterday in the spectacular testimony of General Butler, arch enemy of post-Volstead drinking and former leader of the forces of reform in Philadelphia.

From his emplacement in the witness chair the General raked the defendant Colonel's reputation as an officer and a gentleman with accusations that echoed through the court room in a crescendo of cutting denunciations.
On the night of March six last, averred the one-time chief of Philadelphia police, when he was a guest of honor in Colonel Williams' Coronado home, this defendant, Colonel Marines, was guilty in his home, and at the nearby hotel Del Coronado, of the following:

Says "He Was Full"
He was loquacious; he staggered; he stared vacantly through blood shot eyes; he was "full" and last and most horrible to relate of a Colonel of Marines, he gagged.

The outburst of General Butler's testimony shattered the composure of what started out to be a rather quiet court martial. Three witnesses had been examined by the prosecution, all of them guests of Colonel Williams on the night of March six, and all of them evidently reluctant to tell the world he had been drinking.

Captain Clifton B. Cates, member of Colonel Williams' staff and World War hero; Major Ross Rowell, commander of the marine corps, aviation unit, and widely known flier; Captain Charles Rice of General Butler's staff, admitted heartily that Colonel Williams might have been interested, possibly was intoxicated, but that if he actually was "slightly under the influence of liquor" he certainly was "not at all boisterous."

"Devil's Agent"

The town of Essex, Ia., hadn't had a dance for 20 years and then Miss Bertha Engstrom, of Hawatha, Kans., arrived and started an old-time fiddler's contest. The affair raised a storm in church circles and Miss Engstrom, accused as an agent of the devil from the pulpit and was driven from her boarding house. The whole trouble with Miss Engstrom and the good people of Essex arose during the contest when some of the members of the younger generation, drawn to the scene of the crime by the strains of the music, began doing the "Charleston."
The good conference of the community then became aroused and the fuss started.

MANIAC DIES BY OWN HAND AFTER BURNING SCHOOL

DEAF MUTE RUNS AMUCK NEAR SABINAL LATE MONDAY NIGHT

(By Associated Press.)
SABINAL, Texas, April 12.—A young mother was killed and the school building was burned last night at Utopia by a 40-year-old man who suddenly went amuck. Utopia is a small mountain village 22 miles northwest of here.

The man, near death from two self-inflicted wounds, was found at his home early today after an all-night search.

Struck Woman With Pistol.
Suddenly going insane, the man set fire to the school house last night.
While it still was blazing, he went to the home of Will Jones and when Mrs. Jones answered his knock he struck her down with the butt of his pistol. Mrs. Jones' children screamed and the man drowned their cries with a shot.

Poses Organized.
With her last breath, Mrs. Jones gave the name of the man and a posse was organized.

The maniac eluded his pursuers all night, but as they returned to the village near dawn word was received that he had returned home. There he was found shot by his own hand. He was placed under heavy guard.

The man, a deaf mute, died today after admitting his crime. He gave no reason for his attack. It developed he had shot himself with the shotgun and taken poison.

One Man Halts Silk Robbers In New York

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—A million dollar silk robbery was frustrated today by a lone customs guard who engaged single-handed in a gun battle with a band of river pirates who were loading a cargo waiting shipment to France on North river pier.

North Carroll, customs guard, heard a noise beneath the pier where the silk was stored prior to loading.
When he investigated, he found a thirty foot motor boat with a ladder leading to the pier. A few bales of silk were in the boat. He immediately opened fire with his revolver. The pirates returned his fire but soon sped away.

Carroll heard a cry and believes he struck at least one of the pirates.
The silk was part of a shipment from Japan which had been brought by way of San Francisco.

Terrell, who has charge of the liquor critics of the prohibition law was delivered today by Attorney General Sargent. Speaking before the Women's ment, he declared purchasers of liquor morally guilty of bribery, warned government prosecutors not to criticize the law, appealed to the women of the country to ostracize those who serve liquor in the home, and promised those who foster violation of the statutes that "the hand of punishment shall fall as often and as heavily as those now charged with the duties of administering the law can cause it to

Alleged Cold Checker Held By Police Here

A man about 25 years of age, who gives his name as J. C. Crawford, is being held by city police here for investigation in connection with the passing of several forged checks during the past few days. The accused man was apprehended in Martin's Connections Tuesday morning through a ruse by a clerk, and another check similar to the one which he attempted to pass was taken from his pockets, officers said.

The checks, three of which are being held, are made payable to J. C.
Crawford, signed by H. H. Halsell, well known local stockman and farmer, but in the absence of Mr. Halsell from the city, members of his family deny that such checks have been issued.
The checks are all of 25 denominations.
The accused man does not deny attempting to pass the checks, but claims that they were given him by Mr. Halsell.

Ex-Mexican Policeman Here Held In El Paso

Joe Cox, Mexican, former city police officer in the Mexican quarter of Lubbock, who left here about a month ago, taking with him a stolen automobile, and having been found him a trail of cold checks, is being held by authorities in El Paso, according to advices received at police headquarters here Tuesday morning.

Cox, who still held his police commission when he left here, and who apparently had gained the confidence of local merchants, made these merchants the victims of cold checks in the extent of approximately $400, according to advices here.

In addition to this, he appropriated an automobile, which also is being held at El Paso.
Officers will probably leave here in the next day or two to bring Cox back to Lubbock to face charges both of burglary and fraud.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Apr. 13. (AP)—
The dirigible Los Angeles was taken from her moorings this morning in preparation for her first flight since the loss of the Shenandoah last fall. After several hours at the mooring she was to cruise in this immediate vicinity, returning before night.

The main cable attaching the dirigible to her mooring mast broke as the craft was being pulled into the steel tower.

Several hundred feet of cable whipped around the mast, striking Jersey Franklin, a motion picture cameraman and inflicting severe lacerations.
The dirigible was attached to the mast by a new cable and preparations were made for flight within a few hours. During the process of ballasting the ship, she stood almost on end of the mast.

Pre-School Child To Receive Attention Of National Congress

NEW YORK CITY. — One million fathers and mothers of rural and civic communities of the country have united to make sure that no American child shall enter school for the first time next September who is not 100 per cent physically fit.

The parents, all members of the National Congress of Parent and Teachers, are working with Secretary of Commerce Hoover, President of the American Child Health Association, as part of the national observance of child health day, May 1.

"Beginning the first of May," said Mrs. A. H. Rooby, president of the National Congress of Parent and Teachers, "it will be the aim of our organization to see that every child who expects to enter school next year undergoes a thorough physical examination. As a follow-up during June, July and August, children not entirely fit will visit clinics and physicians so that remedial defects may be taken care of."

"Sixteen thousand organizations of parents will engage in the project. We are making a real effort to put parent power to work at a worthwhile venture by pointing out that the best contribution a father can make to his community as a citizen is a completely well child, and that the responsibility of sending to school a child ready to be taught, belongs to the home."

The motto for the summer roundup of children is "Every Father and Mother a Blue Ribbon Parent in 1926," that is, a parent who has done his or her part to make his pre-school age child 100 per cent perfect.

The Dellmarter Magazine has presented to the congress $500 to be given in prizes to the five Parent-Teacher associations attaining the best results and developing the most effective methods in the summer roundup.

The child of pre-school age has heretofore been neglected, Mrs. Reeve points out, for there are almost no existing clinics which give special attention to the physical and mental health and the social behavior of the child who has not yet come under the influence of the school.

WU PEI FU AGAIN GAINS CONTROL IN CHINA

PEKING, April 13. (AP)—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, leader of the Chihli party, ousted from control of the Peking government a year ago by a half ago by Marshalls Chang Tso-Lin and Peng Yu-Hsiang, once more dominates the capital of China.

A bloodless coup d'etat carried out early Saturday by leaders of the Kuomintang (national armies), formerly followers of Marshal Peng, placed chief executive Tsun Chi-Jui under restraint, freed his predecessor, former President Tason Kun and called Marshal Wu "to restore the political situation" in China. Peng is believed to have retired to Urga, Mongolia.

The coup means a complete realignment of the forces striving for mastery in Northern China. It breaks the anti-Kuomintang alliance between Wu and Chang Tso-Lin and his Manchurian Shantung armies. While the Kuomintang hold Peking backed by Wu's army on the South and Southwest, the Manchurian-Shantung forces, presumably hostile to the new constitution, threaten the city from the East and Northeast. In view of the strength of the Wu-Kuomintang alliance Chang is not expected to take the offensive soon.

The turnover is the outgrowth of negotiations carried on for the last week between the Kuomintang leaders and Marshal Wu, who with the Hupai army with which he has advanced from the Yangtze river in the last two months, has been awaiting the expected call at Pootinfu, eighty miles

MEXICO CLOSES PRIVATE BANKS

CHIHUAHUA City Institutions Shut By Government; Others May Be Closed, Too

(By Associated Press.)
JUAREZ, Mexico, April 13. — The order of the federal government which yesterday resulted in the closing of all private banks in Chihuahua City was issued because the banks were exporting gold to the United States and other foreign countries in violation of the federal law. In the opinion of Mayor Alberto B. Amador, a prominent local banker, last night. "We consider enforcement of the measure dependent only on the personal judgment of the Federal District Attorney in Chihuahua City. I do not think it will be backed by the national banking commission or the state treasury."

"The Federal District Attorney here told me yesterday that he considered the proceeding unlawful. I am advised that the Chihuahua City Federal authorities took soldiers and police with them when they went to confiscate the gold in the private banks. These police were posted at the doors, the safes were opened and the gold taken. The Federal judge in Chihuahua City issued the order on the complaint of the Federal District Attorney."

"All privately owned banks in the state of Chihuahua have big reserves in cash which are 80 or 90 percent of their deposits."

Poison Victim Is Resting Well In Local Hospital

W. N. Ballard, 25, single man, employee of the State highway department, who was brought to a local hospital late Monday after drinking two or three ounces of muriatic acid at a road grading camp about six miles south of here, was reported by hospital attendants as being somewhat improved Tuesday, with yet only slight hopes held for his recovery. Pending further developments in his case, attending physicians are reluctant to make a statement regarding his condition, beyond the fact that he rested fairly well last night, and showed slight improvement this morning.

Mr. Ballard, who had been ill for several days, drank the acid while a companion went to a nearby house to call a physician to administer to his illness. The acid was used at the camp for soldering purposes on machinery.

'Play Ball' Is Cry Over Big League Parks

PIRATES BEST BET IN NATIONAL RACE.

By NEA Service
 NEW YORK, April 13.—Can the Pittsburgh Pirates repeat? What are the chances of the New York Giants to overthrow the champions? Will the St. Louis Cardinals upset the dope by winning the 1926 National League pennant?
 A vote of 106 of the leading players of the National League favors the Pirates to repeat with the New York Giants as the runner-up. While admitting the strength of the St. Louis Cardinals at the bat and in the field, the athletes rate the pitching too mediocre to win a pennant.
 Only a limited few picked the Cardinals to win, the pennant vote being overwhelmingly in favor of the Pirates and the Giants, with the Pirates enjoying a nine point margin.
 Here is how the National League clubs will finish if the star players of that circuit know anything about baseball:

PLAY BALL:
 The old call to battle sounds again today through the baseball world as sixteen major league teams for the American classic which leads to pennants and the final crown of world's championship in mellow October days.
A. A. Will Open Tee
 While the American and National league teams take the post in the major dobbies, the American Association opens its twenty-fifth year baseball endeavor and the Southern Association starts its twenty-sixth pennant race.
 Clear skies and slightly rising temperatures were predicted for the eight cities entertaining major contests, but at that the weather promised to be more suitable for football than baseball, with heavy wraps the style hints for a quarter of a million customers. The mercury has been unable to register very far above the freezing point in most of the cities.
 The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators, twice winners of the American bunting, will find plenty of competition in their struggles to repeat this year. At least two other teams in the National League look just as good to the dop-

TRAILING THE BIG LEAGUERS

BILLY EVANS SAYS
Quantity Of Rookies Holds Up, But Quality Is Still A Little Off
 Not more but better ball players is the cry of every major league manager.
 Most of the players who came up for the spring training test this year have been far removed from the major league standard.
 There is no lack of quantity as to major league recruits but there is certainly a dearth of quality. Spring phenoms are the exception these days. During my travels to 14 of the training camps I don't believe I saw over a dozen players among the recruits who looked decidedly impressive.
 A number showed much ability and promise but most of them are two or three years away, some of them more than that.
 When I speak of impressive players, I have in mind players who look ready to step into a regular job and deliver if given the chance.
VETERANS
 While the recruits as a whole have been a disappointment, the fine play of any number of veteran stars has brought smiles to a number of the big league managers.
 Stanley Harris is delighted at the condition of Walter Johnson. The big fellow is father advanced at this time than in years.
 Everett Scott, counted out last fall, is doing a remarkable comeback for the Chicago White Sox. He has caused the usually reticent Eddie Collins to enthuse.
 Collins, by the way, is in great form himself. The injury to his leg last year that threatened to end his career seems to have entirely mended.
 Catcher Frank Snyder of the Giants, reported to have retired last fall, is looking and catching better than in years.
 This condition holds good all along the line and gives the managers and managers something to be thankful for.
ORIGINAL
 Umpire Clarence Rowland of the American League staff has sprung something entirely new this spring; he is wearing a wrist watch on the field.
 No doubt some of the athletes will hold this against him.
 However, the stunt of fastening the watch around the wrist has definitely removed one of the favorite odd-time customs, the snatching of the watch by some irate player and throwing it over the grandstand.
 The wrist watch will hardly become a standard part of the umpire's equipment. I am sure Hank O'Day would offer strenuous objections.
WISDOM
 Speaking of umpires and their time pieces recalls a story Tim Hurst once told me.
 Tim had a habit of carrying on the field a very valuable watch presented by admiring home folks. A certain National League player, who often took issue with Tim, threatened to throw it over the grandstand the very first time it was pulled on him as a threat to forfeit the game.
 Tim knew the player would make good his word, so he substituted a cheap gold watch in another pocket. When the opportunity arrived for him to pull the watch on said player because of a strenuous kick, Tim came up with the cheap one. It had cost him $5. True to his threat, the player threw it over the grandstand.
 Tim put in a bill for $50 to the league president and the player was assessed a fine to cover that amount. The laugh was on the player. And, when Tim revealed the true facts, it became the joke of the organization.

PAUL WANER
 One of the most promising youngsters to come into the major leagues in seasons is Paul Waner, flashy outfielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Waner was obtained from San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League, where he starred last year. The Pirates paid a hefty sum for the tot, but according to reports issuing from the training camp of the Pittsburgh club, Waner is making good with a vengeance. Some critics are opining Waner will start the season in the Pittsburgh outfield. Waner is a great hitter, fast foot and covers ground sensationally.

STARS PICK NATS TO REPEAT IN 1926

By NEA Service
 NEW YORK, April 13.—Who will win the American League pennant in 1926?
 That question was recently submitted to a vote of 100 veteran stars of the circuit presided over by Ban Johnson.
 The consensus of the players is that Washington will repeat with the Athletics and Detroit as the strongest contenders.
 The vote was very close, Washington enjoying only a six-vote margin over Connie Mack's club in first-place votes. While the players respect the prowess of the Tigers, the opinion prevails that the club will be shy good pitching.
 A majority of the Detroit votes rate the Tigers as certain to finish in third place.
 Here is the way the American League clubs will finish if the vote of the 100 star players run true to form:
 1.—Washington Nationals
 2.—Philadelphia Athletics
 3.—Detroit Tigers
 4.—St. Louis Browns
 5.—Chicago White Sox
 6.—New York Yankees
 7.—Cleveland Indians
 8.—Boston Red Sox

Bat Of Hornsby Threatens Many Diamond Records

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—The record-breaking bat of Rogers Hornsby this year begins a new attack on major league averages which have rebuffed the persistent challenge of a long line of clouting stars.
 Champion hitter of the National League for six consecutive seasons, the thirty-year old pilot of the Cardinals sets out on his twelfth major league campaign with a notable achievement already posted. But he still is short of Ty Cobb's remarkable American League record, for the veteran Detroit leader topped the junior circuit in eight straight seasons and eleven times in twelve years.
 Within easier reach of the St. Louis infielder, however, is an opportunity to become the first major league player to post four averages of at least .400.
 When he soared over this mark last year, Hornsby became one of only three players who have reached three times into the .400 field during their careers. Cobb and Jesse Burkett, former Cleveland and St. Louis batting ace, share the honor with him.
 Hornsby first exceeded the mark in 1922 when he hit .401. He followed with .423 in 1924 and .403 last year. George Sisler shapes up as the only other player within range of the record, the St. Louis Browns' star having posted .401 in 1920 and .420 in 1922.
 Other honors tempt the Cardinal infielder. Hornsby, twice home run champion of both leagues, is making menacing gestures at Babe Ruth's all-time record for circuit clouts. In 1922, he established a National League mark of 42 four-base drives, while last year he led both leagues with 39.
 His final goal will be the surprising of Cobb's all-time average of .369 for twenty-one seasons. In his eleven campaigns, Hornsby is only a few points short of Ty's figure with a grand average of approximately .363.

2 MAJOR LEAGUE PILOTS ARE PAST 25TH YEAR

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—Two big league pilots start the 1926 season in the quarter-century class, each with high hopes of a pennant triumph.
 Connie Mack, tall tutor of the Philadelphia Athletics, narrowly missed a championship last season, his twenty-fifth as a manager. His National League rival, John McGraw, of the Giants, also occupied second place in 1925, after a string of four straight pennants, but he aims to crown his twenty-fifth year of leadership this season by nailing another flag to the mast.

These two veterans have no rivals in length of managerial service among present-day pilots. Mack has handled the reins of the Athletics ever since they joined the American League. McGraw, since 1902, has lifted the New York National League club to a position more consistently dominant than that of any club in either league. Ten pennants have been gathered by McGraw's men in this period.
 Not since 1913 have McGraw and Mack matched wits in a world's series struggle. It would be an epic affair if the fortunes of conflict should bring them together again next Fall in the diamond classic.
 In their three previous clashes, Mack was victorious twice, in 1911 and 1915, while McGraw carried off the laurels in 1905 with the aid of the magnificent pitching of Christy Mathewson.
 The ranks of 1926 managers show only one newcomer, Joe McCarthy, erstwhile Louisville pilot, who has been entrusted with the fortunes of the Chicago Cubs.
 Rogers Hornsby, slugger-leader of the St. Louis Cardinals, will be starting his first full season at the helm, but he showed his ability in the latter part of the 1925 race after succeeding Branch Rickey as Cardinal boss.
 Wilbur Robinson, former teammate of McGraw's on the old Baltimore Orioles, will start his thirteenth campaign as chief of the Brooklyn Dodgers but he is the only other big league pilot with more than ten years of experience.
 The roster of managers follows:

Tech Track Team Meets Buffaloes This Afternoon

Coach Higginbotham's Tech College Matador track and field team went into action against the Canyon Normal Buffaloes at 3 o'clock on Tech field this afternoon in a twice postponed meet in which officials predict that some real is to be shown.
 The meet is the second appearance locally of the Matadors, who lost April 4 to the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets and is the first appearance in public of the Buffaloes.
 The meet was scheduled to be held here last Saturday, but was postponed due to inclement weather, and again was set for Monday afternoon, when weather intervened, but Tuesday broke clear and still, and some real performances are anticipated. The Buffaloes have a crack team, both on the field and on the track, and possibly hold a slight advantage over the Matadors due to experience of some of the performers, but the Matadors exhibited a brand of work against the Yellow Jackets that presages hard competition for the visitors.

Repair Work On Merrill Park Is Moving On Rapidly

Reconditioning work on the diamond at the Merrill Park, and repair work on the grandstand, fences and other surroundings is moving along at a rapid clip, and a few more days will see the park in the best condition since it was opened two or three years ago.
 The diamond has been plowed up, turtle backed to a certain extent, and teams and drags are now engaged in smoothing the surface. Only drags are being used in the leveling process, for in the opinion of those in charge of the work, a roller will do more harm than good.
 Carpenters are remodeling the grandstand, and rebuilding the portion that was burned away last year, and have just about completed the job. The fences have all been straightened up, paced, and sign men are busily engaged in dressing up this portion of the park with advertising signs telling of the wares of local merchants. The fences will be fully covered with these, officials of the amateur association said.

Cobb Heads Vets Still In Activity In Major Leagues

NEW YORK, April 13. (AP)—Passing of four well known veterans from the major leagues since the 1925 curtain fell still leaves ten players who have survived at least fifteen seasons of "big time" baseball.
 Missing from the ranks this year will be George Burns, former Giant and Philly outfielder; Ivy Wingo, Reds' catcher; Rube Marquard, New York, Brooklyn and Boston hurler; and Rube Benton, New York and Cincinnati pitcher.
 Ty Cobb, entering upon his twenty-second campaign, will top the remaining veterans in playing experience. Next come Tris Speaker, Cleveland leader, and Walter Johnson, Washington mound star, both of whom will open their twentieth campaigns.
 Other fifteen year players are Grover Alexander, Cubs; Babe Adams, Pirates; Eddie Collins, White Sox, and Zach Wheat, Robins.

A POULTRY COUNTRY

The Dallinger Ledger proudly announces that Runnels county is shipping two carloads of eggs to market every week—big refrigerator cars, at that.

It is a healthy rivalry, but would it not be better for all concerned to develop a few more Talpa in West Texas?

Westland county is starting a remarkable campaign based altogether on poultry and poultry products. The oil boom left it flat of its back, agriculturally, but the hen is putting it back on its feet.

West Texas is a natural poultry country. The conditions are ideal for the production of chickens and eggs.

SHRINKING

A recent census report shows that farm land in the United States decreased in value 21 per cent between 1929 and 1935. The total value in 1925 was estimated at $7,779 millions of dollars, compared with $4,829 millions in 1935.

This possibly is true, however, of only a portion of the country. Out here in West Texas the pendulum should be swinging the other way.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

MONOPOLIES? ALASKA COULD TESTIFY TO ONE OR TWO

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON — If Secretary of Commerce Hoover (likes) monopolies as much as he appears to in declaiming against the monopoly of British rubber interests, why does he stand for them in Alaska on a scale that enables them to ride the territory half to death.

The question is Dan A. Sutherland's, Sutherland's the Alaskan territorial delegate in Congress.

"It really is a spectacle for people to behold," he observed in a recent speech—the high priest of American monopoly twisting the British lion's India-rubber tail.

If a decline in population is any proof that a territory is being mismanaged, then Sutherland appears to have made out a case, for Alaska's population has declined in the last few years.

"Neither did they very generally come back," he continued. "A great many were killed. Placer mining was about played out, too, so of the survivors, large numbers, once away, scattered to other fields."

"When the falling off had reached bedrock, the territory, for various reasons, didn't immediately begin to fill up again.

"It will, however. Low grade mineral workings are taking the place of the placers. And, in my judgment, the cityward movement away from the farms has nearly reached its peak. I believe Alaska's agricultural development isn't far in the future."

One great truth humanity seems to be incapable of learning is that Nature never says one thing and true religion another. They are always in complete accord.

About the time experience had taught a man how to live the end is so near it isn't worth while turning over a new leaf.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Audrey, 15-year-old ward of HARRY MORTON, is madly in love with him. He is wealthy, unburied, middle-aged and handsome, immensely attractive to women. NONA, a Chicago girl, connected with the stage, also is in love with him, and jealous of Audrey.

He tells Audrey he never can marry her. To divert her attention, he hires a young secretary, JOHN PARRISH. She detects his purpose. Then he sends for Nona to come to Peoria, having first sent her five thousand dollars with which to buy a piece of jewelry. She comes. Morton tells Audrey that he has made over to her, as his adopted child, half of all his wealth. Audrey learns of Nona's visit, and meets her. Morton and Nona contrive to leave Audrey alone in Nona's hotel room. She finds they have gone out together. Morton leaves Nona at the hotel elevator that night, but does not return home. He has taken Nona to the theater, and about the city, where his friends could see them. Audrey waits up all night for him, finally falling asleep in her chair. At seven o'clock she finds he has not returned home. Knowing beside his bed, she cries, "She's got him!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

was artificially alert. Like his smile, its brightness was unreal. "You've never tried to fool me before," she went on. "Did you—we're you—oh, daddy, daddy, daddy!" Her voice trailed off, and she sank fainting on the floor.

It was a different Morton who stooped, picked her up, and ran with her to the kitchen. To the house maid, who ran after him pale, tricked, he gave abrupt orders: "Turn on the ice-water faucet. Fill that glass. When the water comes cold enough throw a glassful in her face."

Audrey's dress was open at the throat, but he pulled it wider. "Don't be so nervous, half-aloud. 'Oh, you meanly brute! What in G-d's name have I done! On child! child! child!'"

He was rubbing her hands and wrists, and from time to time wiping her eyes, tenderly, where the water that the maid had thrown remained in the girl's eyes. When Audrey began to stir, he patted himself on the forehead and drew her head protectively into his lap, with his arm wrapped around the fair curls.

"I've got to go on with the thing, I've got to!" he groaned. "But God forgive me! Forgive me, dearest little child!"

Audrey had refused to go to bed, after she finally came out of her faint, she told Morton listlessly, that she wanted to go downtown with him. While her maid was helping her to dress, Morton hurriedly changed his own clothes. His linen had been wringed from use the day before, and there was a little streak of mud upon his collar.

Audrey ate a few mouthfuls of breakfast, half-heartedly. Morton himself scarcely was able to eat. He kept his eyes fixed anxiously upon the girl, and his spirits rose as she moved more vigorously and certainly. He was very tender with her as he took her arm, when they left the house, and helped her down the steps, and out to the waiting automobile. He held her hand and patted it, absently, from time to time, as they rode to his office.

"If he is in here only a few moments," he said. "Do you want to wait?"

Audrey responded, almost without interest: "Is Nona up there?"

She did not answer him, but kept her hand on Nona's arm.

"Nona, I've got to ask you," she went on. "Where were you—and he together last night?" Her voice was imploring as if it were raised in prayer.

Nona moved back. "Together?" Her astonishment was not to be doubted. "It's left me at the elevator at eleven o'clock! He said he couldn't come up stairs, because everybody would know it!"

Audrey looked at Morton, and saw ebullient corroboration in his eyes. "Oh!"

It was a sigh of thanksgiving. Nona and Morton looked at one another, and then back at the girl. Some new force had come into Audrey; new life and strength. Color flowed into her pale cheeks, and with a little restless gesture, she moved her head away from Morton's arms.

"Forgive me!" she said to him. "I thought—something!"

Nona took the girl's hands, and lifted them, clasping them closely. Her lips were curved into a smile that was almost tender.

"You really and truly love him, too, don't you?" she said. "We both love him—and what's going to happen to us all?"

She dropped Audrey's hands, and turned to Morton. Emitting a little helpless laugh, she touched him on the shoulder with her forefinger.

"Nona, and Lois, and Miss Morton here—heaven knows how many others—all after you! Poor man!"

It was not until they were on the train that night, on the way to Chicago, that Audrey first noticed the brilliant diamond and platinum pin that was on Nona's breast. She leaned over and touched it.

"That's beautiful," she said. "Nona made silent inquiry of Morton if she should really."

"He gave it to me—he made me a present of it only two or three days ago," Nona said.

Morton arose abruptly, and left the Pullman drawing room in which they were sitting. Audrey had snatched her hand away from the pin, as if it had stung her.

"Why—why did he do that?" she asked.

"I don't if I know," Nona said, comfortably. "He just sent a young fellow over with five thousand dollars, and told me to buy something pretty. And I did. He you like it?"

Audrey did not answer, but looked down at the large aquamarine ring that adorned her own right hand. "I don't understand," she said at last. "I guess I don't understand anything. My whole life seems to have turned into a jumble, a week ago! I was happy—maybe the happiest girl in the whole world. Now I'm only miserable." Her lips quivered, and a big tear stole down her cheek.

Nona was on her knees beside the girl in an instant. "Does it hurt you, too?" she cried. "Don't cry, little girl. I've cried, too it doesn't do any good."

CHAPTER XIV

Morton returned home shortly after eight o'clock. Audrey was sitting on a stool in the hallway, her head banging against the wall, and her hands clasped in her lap.

He took quick note of the tired circles about her eyes, and of her bloodless face, but he made no comment. "Hello, dear," he said, stooping over and kissing her.

She looked up at him, her eyes wide and lusterless, and made an attempt to speak. Her throat refused to function, and she emitted only a little questioning sound.

Morton talked on, rapidly. "Got shaved by a barber, who squirted violet water on me," he said, handing his coat and stick to the maid. "I think he must have put some stinkum on my hair, too."

Walking up and down, he rubbed his hands together briskly. "Just about enough time to get a bath, change my linen, and go back downtown."

He quickly shook his head. "I'll wait down here in the car," she told him.

He hurried inside, up the elevator, and into his office. Without taking off his coat and hat, he called Nona's hotel, and asked for her room. She answered sleepily.

"I'm coming over there with Audrey," he said. "Nona, the poor child is ghastly tired, and in deep trouble."

"I'm sorry, Harry," said Nona. "Truly, I'm dreadfully sorry. Is there anything I can do?"

"Nothing now," Morton told her, "except I want you to be kind to her."

When Morton and Audrey arrived at Nona's room, she was dressed, but her heavy eyes proclaimed that she had not yet shaken off her drowsiness. Audrey sank into a chair in the corner, and looked out the window, after Nona had greeted her.

"I don't understand," she said at last. "I guess I don't understand anything. My whole life seems to have turned into a jumble, a week ago! I was happy—maybe the happiest girl in the whole world. Now I'm only miserable."

Her lips quivered, and a big tear stole down her cheek. Nona patted her on the knee. "Don't cry, child," she advised.

"Don't you ever cry?" Audrey asked her, dabbing at her eyes with her little handkerchief.

"Lord, yes!" said Nona. "I've cried a lot, lately. It's all on account of Harry Morton, too."

She patted the other girl on the knee again, and sighed. "Two nights I lay awake without closing my eyes, because of him."

Audrey's tears had ceased, and she was regarding her companion soberly. "Are there other women in love with him, too?"

CHLORINE TREATMENT FOR CITY WATER URGED BY COMMITTEE AFTER INSPECTION OF WELLS AND PLANT

Chlorine treatment for the water that is used through the mains of the city of Lubbock is recommended and urged for consideration of city officials, in the report of Miss Mae Murie, head of the committee from the Church Women's Federated Auxiliary, that made an inspection of the water and sewer plants of the city the past week in connection with the clean-up and better health campaigns.

Due to the inability of Miss Murie to accompany the committee on the inspection trips on account of the heavy press of duties in the Red Cross town, where she is secretary, Mrs. J. J. Miller, was named chairman of the committee by Miss Murie.

News of Wells Being Treated

It was found that none of the wells are now being given the chlorine treatment, the committee report said, and in fact no records were found where they had ever been analyzed of the water being used here.

The recommendation urged that at least the well on the northeast edge of the city should be given anti-bacteria treatment, preferably chlorine, as there is a swimming pool near that well that water from the pool may seep into the well and contaminate the water. The report explains that the water in this well is only eleven feet from the surface.

Chlorine Kills Bacteria

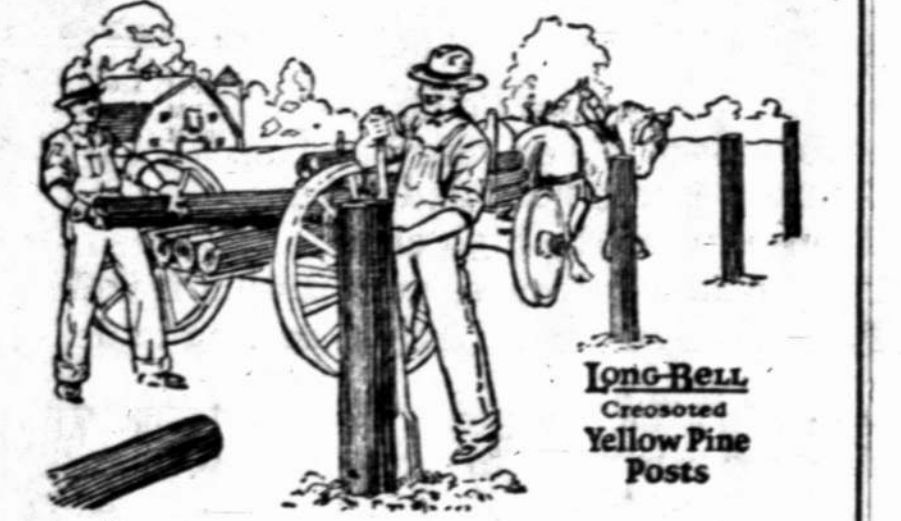

The chlorine treatment, the report goes on to say, kills every bacteria of every kind in water, and is recognized as the best and most economical available. It is being used in almost every town in the state that has a population of 500 and over, the report said.

LUBBOCK TO MAKE BID FOR NEXT STATE CONVENTION OF RETAILERS WHEN ASSOCIATION MEETS IN MAY

An appeal will be made to the Retail Merchants Association by President Paul Sherrod Tuesday night when the association meets for its regular monthly meeting, for a big delegation to go to Dallas to attend the annual convention of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas. It has been suggested that Lubbock ask for the 1927 convention and to do this it will be necessary that a large delegation of enthusiastic Lubbock boosters make the trip.

The convention which is the 21st annual meet will be held in Dallas, May 17th, 18th and 19th and preparations are being made by the committee in charge for an attendance of over 1000 retail merchants from every section of this state. A very instructive program is being arranged which will take care of the group meetings of retailers, as well as the joint convention meetings and the credit men's meetings.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS ARE DOING

Said Fence Post Fungus to the bug next door, "I heard farmer Brown make an awful roar, when he saw we had eaten his big oak posts—he's mad as a hornet and swears by his ghost, he'll poison our gizzards with Creosote posts." And true to his oath, farmer Brown bought posts that were treated full length with Creosote. And he set them out in a fence row neat and dared old Fungus to come and eat. That red eyed microbe is bold as he's mean, said "there isn't a post that I've ever seen, that I can't destroy in a very few years—what we'll do to Brown will sure cause him tears."

But as he approached the Long-Bell post, he smelled the odor of Creosote, and turning he said to his trembling wife, "that's the worst I've encountered in all my life. If these posts taste at all like they smell, our holiday sure is shot all to pieces." The neighbors say, along about dark, old Fungus was seeking a Bois d'Arc.

In addition, the Retail Secretaries Association of Texas is another most important organization of trained and experienced retail secretaries closely affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association of Texas.

A fourth association, a part of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas, was organized a few years ago and represents the presidents of the 189 local associations in Texas. These presidents, who are all leading merchants in their respective towns, also meet in annual session at the time of this convention to study their problems as executives of the local associations.

All four of these associations hold their annual meetings at the same time and at the same place and closely cooperate with each other for the benefit of all concerned, meeting in joint sessions every morning, and holding separate meetings every evening.

At the 26th annual convention the following executive officers will be in charge: E. O. Dean of Orange, president, Retail Merchants Association of Texas; C. C. Witcheil of San Antonio, president, Associated Retail Credit Men of Texas; Solon Todd of Sherman, president, Texas Retail Secretaries Association and W. A. Achilles, Austin, president of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas Presidents' Council.

Several other matters of interest to every merchant will be discussed at the meeting, according to president Sherrod and it is hoped that a representative attendance will be present to help solve the problems.

FIRST ELECTION IN TEXAS RECALLED BY HISTORIAN

AUSTIN, April 12. (AP)—The first stirring of the political pot in Texas with its half million potential voters being called upon to support various candidates for state offices is a far cry from the first election ever held in this state with its then less than 6,000 voting strength, 90 years ago.

Personalities and the question of annexation to the United States were the principal bases of campaign arguments at that time. Sam Houston, Henry Smith and Stephen F. Austin were candidates for president. A historian of the day asserts that Sam Houston, the successful candidate, was "opposed by a small aggregation of adventurers who used every means to traduce his name and weaken his candidacy."

In the election Houston received 4,274 votes, Smith 743 and Austin 587. It is recorded by contemporaneous writers of the time that party played very little, if any, part in the contest for the presidency. Sam Houston entered the race only twelve days before election day and despite the fact that newspapers were non-existent and the only means of communication were by irregular mail service and "grapevine" telegraph, he won by an overwhelming majority.

It seems, however, that what little animus was engendered by a historian of the day asserts that Sam Houston, the successful candidate, was "opposed by a small aggregation of adventurers who used every means to traduce his name and weaken his candidacy."

Prior to the election of a president, governmental affairs were under the guidance of a provisional government, constituted at New Washington in March of 1836. David G. Burnett was president ad interim.

ANTON FARMER IS HURT IN AUTO SMASH HERE

M. Taylor, a farmer from near Anton suffered a lacerated finger and several minor body bruises, his two companions, one a lady, were considerably shaken up, and two Ford cars were greatly damaged as the result of a collision at the intersection of Broadway and Avenue I last night between 10 and 11 o'clock, Desk Sergeant Wiley L. Metcalf, of the Lubbock Police department was driving the other car, but escaped unharmed.

The car driven by Taylor turned turtle on the pavement, demolished the top and windshield, and in some manner the end of one of Taylor's fingers was clipped off, presumably on a portion of the windshield, that shattered in every direction. Otherwise his car was not damaged a great deal.

Sergeant Metcalf's car, which was ploughed into by the other machine was damaged to a much greater extent, but did not turn over. Taylor admitted later that he was in the wrong and offered to pay for repairs on the later car, but this was refused.

Other occupants of Taylor's car escaped injury except minor bruises. Both cars were within the speed limit, Sergeant Metcalf said.

MOODY NOW LEADING IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR, SAYS T. K. IRWIN WHO IS TO SPEAK TONIGHT AT COURT HOUSE

Dan Moody, present attorney general of the state of Texas, who is making the race for governor, the highest office to be conferred upon an individual in this state, is now far in the lead over his opponents, in the opinion of Hon. T. K. Irwin, at present representative from Dallas county in the legislature, who was here Monday in the interest of his campaign for attorney general to succeed Mr. Moody. Mr. Irwin will speak tonight at the courthouse here.

"My choice for governor of Texas at the present is Dan Moody," Mr. Irwin said, "but primarily my choice is anyone who can beat the Ferguson. I believe that Lynch Davidson, if elected, will make the state an excellent governor."

Upholds Moody's Actions

"My choice for governor of Texas at the present is Dan Moody," Mr. Irwin said, "but primarily my choice is anyone who can beat the Ferguson. I believe that Lynch Davidson, if elected, will make the state an excellent governor."

He upheld Mr. Moody in all his actions during the present administration, saying that he had done nothing more than any honest public official should do in the interest of his state and nation.

Mr. Irwin, who took a prominent part in the recent argument as to whether or not the governor should call a special session of the legislature to thresh out certain perplexing problems said that he remains firm in his belief that a special session should yet be held, and doubly so since the financial status of the state is in such a precarious position.

"The legislature should meet, forget politics and personal grievances, and do whatever is in its power to do to put this state back in good financial standing with the investing public," he said, in referring to the condition into which the state has drifted in the sale of bonds. He explained that the investing public is slow to make purchases of either state or school bonds due to unsettled conditions in general, but especially with regard to highway construction and maintenance work.

Mr. Irwin said that even though a special session of the legislature now would practically ruin his campaign, he stands ready on a moment's notice to forget his personal ambitions, and report to the state capital to do anything in his power to relieve the present situation.

Backs Higher Education

In regard to appropriations for higher educational institutions, Mr. Irwin said he believed that every school should have all the money it needs for its proper functioning, and that he will support any bill to this end. He advocates, however, that there should be no waste in the appropriations, but that they should be directed to the purpose for which they are set aside. Bringing the situation home to Lubbock, he said he heartily favored any appropriation by the legislature for the Tech college, a need for which can be shown.

He rapped the plan of the Board of Control to close the state teachers college at Alpine, saying that he will make a strong fight to keep the school open, due not only to his interest in education, but to the influence that such a move would have on other institutions of learning. If one is closed, there is a possibility that efforts may be made to close others, and the brunt of the burden will be carried by West Texas, where the population is yet more sparse than the eastern part of the state, he said.

"If crime could be wholly suppressed for a period of 24 hours only," Mr. Irwin said, "the savings over the United States would be sufficient to build almost three such schools as the Tech college. Records in the criminal bureau at Washington show that crime costs the United States $3,000,000 every 24 hours; that crime costs the state of Texas more than the higher institutions of learning, the eleemosynary institutions, and all state departments combined; and that in Lubbock, based on an average of other towns in the state, $148 is spent on crime to every $1 spent for industry."

Mr. Irwin advocates centralization of the penitentiary system of the state on the grounds that in this way they can be made self-supporting instead of a continual drain on the state treasury. In addition to crops and other means of revenue raised on penal farms in the state, the legislature is called upon to pay $23.18 per month per convict for support of the present system, while the scholastic fund amounts to only $14 per year. Mr. Irwin said in referring to the 1924 report in connection with the two.

This situation, he said, should be reversed, and instead of this vast amount of money being spent to support our penal institutions, the public schools and higher institutions of learning should be given the upper hand.

"Why Girls Leave Home" Is Explained

NEW YORK, April 12. (AP)—Desire to spend wages on pretty clothes and the necessity of seeking the society of young men outside the home figure prominently in the reasons "Why girls leave home," according to a study being conducted by the Travelers Aid society. Among other reasons are: Lack of understanding of home and lack of confidence between parents and daughters.

get out the papers and P.A.

"ROLL"-call! Time to take out the tidy red tin or tippy red bag of Prince Albert, and roll the greatest little home-made cigarette ever. P. A. rolls easier—doesn't land in your lap or blow all over the place. That's because P. A. is crimp-cut and stays put in the papers.

And what a wonderful taste these home-rolled cigarettes have! Mellow as moonlight. Mild as Indian summer. Cool as a draught of spring-water on a sultry day. Cool and comfortable! P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. Because—the Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch.

Open a tin or bag of P. A. and revel in that fragrance of real tobacco. It smokes just as fragrant too. If you've never rolled them with this tobacco, a million-and-more men will tell you what you've been missing. Get started now. You'll want to make up for lost time by rolling one right after another.

P. A. is great in a jimmy-pipe too. As a matter of fact, many men who thought they never would like a pipe have switched to P. A. and are now pipe-regulars. Try Prince Albert both ways. Pipe or cigarette, it's just the mellowest, sweetest, most enjoyable smoke ever.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and tippy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

THREE CONVICTS CAUGHT AFTER ESCAPE

TENNESSEE OFFICERS IN SUCCESSFUL SEARCH FOR PRISONERS

 NASHVILLE, April 12.—Three of the convicts who escaped Saturday night in the largest jail delivery in the history of the Tennessee state penitentiaries, were again in custody tonight with every effort being made to apprehend others. Twelve of the men who escaped were looked upon by A. A. McCorkle, prison warden as dangerous criminals. Lee Allen of Carroll county, serving a term for robbery and grand larceny, who with Howard Barr, Knox county robber, overpowered two guards, locked them in cells and led the escape, was captured in Shelby Park today by Gus Kiger, city detective, after Allen had been shot in the leg by officers in a gun battle. Kiger was shooting to kill, but the escaped convict was not seriously injured. Charles N. White, serving a term for robbery in Shelby county, was taken with Allen.
 Mac Wilcox, of Franklin county, grand larceny, was captured earlier in the day in a negro dwelling where he hid from city police. Lewis S. Epe, state commissioner of institutions, who returned hurriedly to Nashville from Chattanooga today attached no blame to prison officials for the escape. The prisoners in the "white wing" reported the break to a lobby guard, giving the first news of the delivery. The men escaped through a window after sawing one bar which left an opening of six inches. Several trustees in the wing, who declined to accompany the exit party said it required five or six minutes for one of the fellows, a 200 pounder, to squeeze out at the spring bar.

Jewelers Cheered By Boost From The Athletics

DALLAS, April 12. (AP)—Athletes and taxes are to give Texas and Louisiana jewelers cause for jubilation at their joint convention to be held here May 3 and 4. College and high school athletics will be thanked for a great boon they have brought the business in the way of a demand for loving cups and victory trophies of all kinds. A greater cause for joy, however, is the elimination of the five per cent war tax on the retail price of jewelry, which recently was removed by congress.
 The war tax has been paid by the jewelers without passing it on to the purchaser, according to Myron Everts of Dallas, president of the association. This tax has been so burdensome, Mr. Everts said, that it has been the direct cause of many failures in the retail business and for general depression in the trade. Retail jewelry failures have increased two per cent in Texas since the tax was imposed, and since it was removed the business has shown an immediate revival, he said.
 The great growth of athletics of all kinds has brought to the business a new and distinct line of goods represented principally by trophies, medals and similar evidences of victory given for the winning team of the winning individual. Silver and gold footballs, silver loving cups, handsome articles suggestive of the golf links, such as silver golf bags and miniature golf clubs are keeping the silver and gold smiths busy.
 "Something of the same cause has given the wrist watch renewed popularity," said Mr. Everts. The wrist watch had been prevalent just after the war but died down in a few years. It is again coming to the fore, the jewelers state, and is now called a strap watch, and is favored by golfers.
 The watch itself has undergone some radical changes. A watch is now produced that will stand upright in the pocket, which, according to the watchmen, makes it a better time keeper. The art of making watches very thin also has reached a high degree of efficiency.
 The two associations will have before them for consideration the question of consolidating to form the Texas-Louisiana Jewelers' association. The association met here last year with the Arkansas organization pursuant to an invitation from the Texas association to form a tri-state association. Arkansas, however, voted not to come in, but Louisiana is returning this year to further consider the proposition.
 A. E. Nomas of Waco is vice president of the Texas association. The association has no secretary-treasurer at present.

JARDINE'S STAND ON RELIEF IS DEMANDED

(By The Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON, Apr. 12.—A conference on farm relief legislation Saturday between Secretary Jardine and Chairman Haugen of the House committee, brought on a demand later from Representative Kitchin of Kentucky, a Democrat, on the committee, that the Secretary drop the cloud of secrecy and lay his cards on the table.
 On leaving the agriculture department, Mr. Haugen had said he had informed the Secretary that his committee probably would close hearing and draft a bill next week.
 He added that he was inclined to favor the equalization fee on agricultural commodities as a means of stabilizing surplus prices as provided for in the corn belt plan and the Dickinson bill, but that Mr. Jardine opposed it. The Secretary, he said,

BARS GO DOWN AS IMMIGRATION MEN ACT

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—The Senate Immigration committee turned thumbs down Saturday on seventeen bills which would have admitted various classes of aliens without regard to quota restrictions, then favorably reported a measure to admit for a period of one year aliens honorably discharged from the American army after their service in the World War, who are now abroad.

ANTIS PIN HOPE TO FIGURES FOR CHANGE IN LAWS

Believes in "Wine Restriction" "I am sure also of the firm conviction that such a policy of wine restriction would have the incidental advantage of eliminating almost entirely the scandalous, corruption and bribery of public officials, would stop the growth of the bootlegging millionaire class, would check disrespect for law, and would in addition produce a handsome national revenue."

Women Issue Challenge "I have in no uncertain terms informed the Senate prohibition committee of their uncompromising opposition to the modification of the Volstead act, the Woman's National Committee of Law Enforcement today issued a challenge to the American people to uphold the constitution and listened to the advice of speakers who asked them to pound at the job of building up sentiment for law observance."

Principal among the speakers was Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who is in charge of the department of justice liquor prosecution forces. She said "careful units of women" could be public officials delivering their best efforts, even though such officials at times be the kind that "unwatched, slight the task in hand."

Mr. Rockefeller is Heard Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a statement read to the conference, asked "why not be honest with ourselves and admit that our children will not be the high minded, fine people that we want and expect them to be unless their parents set them an example of being just and law abiding citizens."

Political Assets and Liabilities Mrs. William Harrison Cole of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs brought in the challenge for enforcement. It was contained in a report which listed the assets and the liabilities of the nation as they relate to observance. Among the assets were good citizens, intelligent voters, and citizens of character willing to stand for office.

Liabilities were listed as corrupt politicians; the instinct to hide party aims; indifferent citizens; the system of political patronage; political machine; timidity or cowardice in fighting well known evils, and yielding to "enemy propaganda."

MANY QUESTIONS FACE ILLINOIS ELECTORS

ZOOS AND WORLD COURT ARE CHIEF AMONG PROBLEMS (By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, April 12.—The World Court, prohibition, legalized betting, public improvements and more, were among a multitude of issues involved in today's state-wide primary.

Chicagoans who for years have been traveling to East Chicago, Ind., to witness the sport of flatfoot, were heartened by predictions of backers of the measure that it would carry the city, 5 to 1. It's a local option affair, with each city deciding whether it will have boxing under commission rules. Should the measure carry here, it was anticipated that Chicago would have its first ring battle about June 1.

Chicagoans were handed ballots calling for $12,000,000 of bond issues for civic improvements. They also are deciding whether they want a zoological park.

In the Republican senatorial battle, Illinois is choosing between Senator William B. McKinley and Frank Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, the latter, an enemy of the World Court. Senator McKinley defended his vote for adherence to the court on the ground of party regularity.

OFFICIALS FEAR MOB ACTION IN OKLAHOMA

CAPTURE OF NEGRO, WHO IS SAID TO HAVE KILLED 2, CAUSE (By The Associated Press) HOEDENVILLE, Okla., April 12. (AP)—Hughes county officers steeled themselves against the possibility of trouble today as they guarded Roosevelt Hamilton, 26 year old negro bootlegger who Saturday night shot and killed two deputy sheriffs, and who was captured near Wetumka last night and rushed to the county jail here early today for safe keeping.

With the capture, the work of a posse of more than 500 men was brought to an end. Southeastern Oklahoma had been thrown into a frenzy at the killing of the officers and the searching mob split into half a hundred sections in its effort to find Hamilton.

The negro was caught by a group headed by Constable Willie King. They surprised him while he was trying to cross a clearing. While King covered him with a gun, Jack Barnes and Reley Brock, two others of the party, seized him. Then, fearing trouble, they rushed him toward Hoedenville, without letting news of the capture become known.

Hamilton is accused of killing Mitchell Compler, a special deputy sheriff, and Weldon Wilson, son of the night

(By The Associated Press) BEAUMONT, April 12.—An examination of the transcript of testimony of Daniel Updegrave, president of the Missouri and Southwestern Railway, March 20, at a hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning the proposed extension of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine Railroad indicates some errors in the account of the hearing on that date.

No Questions Asked Him No questions were asked him by counsel for the Kansas City Southern of his own road. The examination was by Examiner Beleg and Colonel Duff who proposes to extend the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine. "Mr. Updegrave said that in conversation with Colonel Duff his road was willing to enter into through rates and divisions, and also want terminal facilities, if terms could be reached, but that the Cotton Belt would not finance the proposed extensions. The witness said that he had not discussed with any one connected with the Kansas City Southern answers to a questionnaire from the Interstate Commerce Commission prior to making the answers.
