With these etting back on their mber of people re- ork will be one of the ter on in the year. in demand for dur- during recent months ason for not expect- a percentage rise in early in the New ver, as volume picks nes, activity will be hundreds of other e concrete result jobs, fatter pay en- higher wage rates by er.

1936 will probably e strikes than dur- just closed. How- any stiff increase in and no real shortage labor as yet, I have prolonged tie-ups in dustry next year. By as, industrial employ- tory payrolls should eak for the re- d—roughly 10 per the 1935 level. One the coming twelve a labor standpoint demand for, and prem- ed by, skilled work- ers point to marked in purchasing pow- al areas.

FARM RECOVERY ver in farm sections higher — probably percent. No matter eame Court may de- AAA, benefit pay- ers will continue at least until the snow flies. With more acreage and a fourth year of drouth unlikely, crops should be better. Larger harvests, multiplied by approximately the same prices, equal larger total income. Since the cost of the products which the farmer must buy will not be much higher, his profits in 1936 should continue to upward tendency which started several years ago. Farmers have now greatly reduced their debts, so their increased income will mean even more money for new purchases.

Merchants face the best trade outlook in five years. The combination of increased farm income, larger factory payrolls, and greater dividend payments should boost sales in most lines between 8 and 12 per cent above the 1935 average. Because wholesale prices are not slated for any sharp advance, retail price tags, which are now slightly above a year ago, will show startling mark-ups during 1936. Installment buying, aided by lower carrying charges, will be very brisk. Quality goods will move better than they have in recent years. One of the bright spots of the recent holiday season was the good call for luxury merchandise and this trend will be even more noticeable next year.

A SELLING YEAR If ever there was a time to get behind sales campaigns and drive them ahead, it is now. Sales managers and salesmen alike can expect fine rewards next year for people are in a buying mood. I advise fixing sale quotas 10 per cent as a minimum above the 1935 level. In some lines and territories calculations should be scaled upward even more because selling will be very profitable in 1936. Lineage totals will continue the rise which began in 1933 and advertising managers should figure on at least 10 per cent gain over the 1935 level. The best gains will be shown in the rural areas during the early months.

Farm regions appear to me as the best selling territories. They have been most unfavorable sales areas for the past eighteen months. However, urban centers are due for a come-back and they may have the edge by next December. The best advice I can give is to spread your advertising risk geographically, keeping in mind that the Pacific Coast, the Rocky Mountain, the Middle-west, and the Southern states will give you the best return as the year opens. Most important of all, be sure that your selling methods are in step with the times. New ideas, fresh copy, attractive displays—and delivery of the goods—decide whether or not you will maintain your trade position and whether the profits of your company will keep pace with the general improvement in earnings.

BULL MARKET NOT OVER The huge increase in industrial profits and the steady advance in dividend payments have been very much in the 1935 spotlight. The same will be true in coming months. As a rough estimate, I should say that profits would swell by about 25 per cent. That is the principal reason why I am not worried over the sharp rise in prices since last March. My basic position on stocks is that a bull market began in July, 1932 and that long-pull upward swing has not yet culminated. Despite any temporary unsettlement, the trend next year will be upward. As to the extent of the rise, it is impossible to make a definite forecast although I would be surprised if it were less than 10 per cent.

Within this broad pattern there are a number of industries whose percentage gains will be better-than-average from here on. Those groups connected with the heavy industries, as distinguished from those doing a consumers' business, look best to me. Building companies will reflect the big improvement in construction activity. They will stimulate many other industries, particularly raw and fabricated metals such as the coppers and steel. Farm tool, industrial machinery, and office equipment concerns face another year of recovery. Electrical equipment makers anticipate a better demand for their profitable heavy items. Automobile production will easily top this year's output of 4,135,000 cars, lifting accessory business along with it.

UTILITIES AND RAILS Other groups do not have quite such an optimistic outlook, although only few lines will show losses. Mail order and chemical earnings will be satisfactory. The railroads will welcome heavier crop and durable goods tonnage but higher operating costs will prevent satisfactory earnings. Dairy foods, grocery chains, meat packing, coal, and textiles will enjoy only moderate gains. On the other hand, the outlook for paper, oil, and department store groups is promising. Despite political uncertainties the power industry has a great future. Taken as a whole, the stock outlook by industries is fundamentally sound.

that needy Hall County citizens could become affiliated with the NRS for work.

City and county officials were still puzzled this morning as to what stand the Works Progress Administration would take in the matter. At present all WPA workers must get their employment through the NRS office; and in the event the office is closed permanently WPA work in the county will hit a snag, unless other means for furnishing labor are provided.

so crushed, such a woebegone little figure that Aunt Ellen could scarcely bear to look at her. Tears stung her eyelids. She wondered if the poor child knew what she was about. It was a serious thing, leaving a husband. Giving up a sweetheart. Aunt Ellen knew. Scott's grandfather had been proud and had never asked her to reconsider, though he had loved her deeply.

Nancy had decided: "Dana's weak. She couldn't stand being poor, so she pulled out."

Mrs. Cameron was first to break the circle. She got up, pulling her robe about her. "We'll all take cold sitting here," she said firmly. "Dana looks dead on her feet. She must get some sleep."

Secretly she was girding her resources for battle. She said to herself, "The silly child is still in love with him. It's written all over her face. If he tries he might be able to persuade her to go back to him. But she'll stay here if I can keep her!"

After breakfast Dana sat in the vicinity of the telephone, fully expecting it to ring. But the morning hours wore away and there was no call from Scott.

He was showing more judgment, Mrs. Cameron thought, than she had expected. Maybe he, too, had decided it was impossible for them to make a success of their marriage.

If that were so, the plan she had in mind, could be speedily carried out.

Mrs. C. W. Weekley returned to her home in Vernon this morning after a visit here with her daughter, Mrs. Russell Middleton.

Mrs. C. H. Brown and children of Lockney were guests of Judge and Mrs. A. S. Moss Sunday.

five truck loads of machinery loaded in Oklahoma City and ready to be moved to the Knorpp location in the county. Moving of the machinery is being held up until Fort Worth and Denver Railroad officials open a railway crossing near the Knorpp location, four miles east of the Tampico crossing.

Fort Worth and Denver railroad officials maintain that opening a crossing near the location is too hazardous, as there is not enough vision approaching the crossing from any direction; and it is thought that accidents might occur as the hundreds of trucks crossed the railway tracks going to and from the oil well. Dozens of trucks would be crossing the tracks until the oil well is drilled.

An entire new rig is being shipped here from Oklahoma City. Three engines, pumps, mudhogs, casings, drill stems, bits, and other drilling equipment—all new—are to be put in action at the Knorpp No. 1 location. Several truck loads of equipment has been unloaded at the railroad, awaiting orders to cross the tracks.

When the new rig is constructed, the drillers will be able to go to almost any depth desired; and the rig will be almost elaborate as the Phillips rig nearby.

Drilling at the Knorpp well has been shut down, awaiting the new rig. Three crews are still in operation at the Phillips test, but the depth of the well was not disclosed.
