Along The Waterfront

F. S. Dobkins and a friend Bob Sutherland, of Uvalde, tried to fish Cedar Bayou last Saturday, but traffic was so heavy that it looked as though traffic lights were needed and so they up-anchored and retreated to Mesquite Bay where there was more room and not as much chance of getting run over.

Apparently this worked out to their advantage, for they caught 14 nice reds. Twelve of them averaged two pounds each and one Dobkins caught went eight, but it remained for Sutherland to make the prize catch of the day. One of his reds weighed in at 12 pounds.

Bill Massie, Bobby Massie and Billy Essex of Fort Worth, Texas, caught 111 trout and 20 drum, two to three pounds, in three days' fishing, reporting at the Cove Bait Stand.

Floyd Kent and party of Waco, 60 trout.

Mr. Thompson, San Antonio caught ten trout.

Mr. Fossie and son, Rockport caught one 2 1/2 pound trout and one pompano at the Cove Harbor.

Historical Association Completes Applications For Eleven Grave Markers

At the regular meeting of the Aransas County Historical Association, Mrs. E. J. Johnson reported that applications had been completed for markers on the graves of nine former service men, and turned them over to Chairman Jack Baughman for forwarding to the proper authorities in the U.S. Army Quartermaster's department.

Among those for whom markers have been requested were Alis (or Ales) D. Benson, grandfather of Mrs. Johnson, who enlisted in neesee Infantry, CSA; Thomas H. neesee Infantry, CSA; Thomas H. Beever, another grandfather of Mrs. Johnson, who enlisted as a private in Lane's Brigade, Texas Cavalry, being in Wood's Company I. Madison's regiment, CSA;

Robert J. Tedford, grandfather of John E. Tedford, who served under Captain P. P. Porter, of the Light Infantry Company from Grims County, in the 17th Brigade; Murdock W. McRae, grandfather of Elmo Brundrett, who was a member of Lamar Home Guard Volunteer Cavalry, CSA, and Refugio County, 29th BGTM;

Omer E. McLead, father of Frank McLead, who was a sergeant in Troop B, Fourth Regiment, U.S. Cavalry; George Albert Brundrett, father of George Lee Brundrett, who served in Company D, Hobby's 8th Regiment, Texas Infantry;

Charles Francis Bailey, grandfather of Travis Bailey and Mrs. Mattie Bailey Bushart, who saw service in the Refugio County Home Guard Reserve; Joseph Hugh Wilson, a member of the 63rd Alabama, under Captain Fulton, in Colonel Law's regiment; and John A. Clarke, grandfather of Miss Katie Lee Clarke.

This is the first group of graves for which markers have been requested, and for which the necessary information was available to fill out the applications.

Information is still being sought on John Rector, a negro, who fought in the Confederate armies; R. S. Irwin, CSA, who enlisted around Athens, Ga.; J. M. Hoopes, CSA; J. R. Hawes, CSA; M. C. Charlesworth, CSA; William McKenna, CSA; and Robin Dye, a veteran of the Spanish American War.

Sheriff's Office Asks Information For Emergency Use

Sheriff Virginia Shivers has asked that all motels, hotels, where tourists or vacationers may stay, list the name of the place, the name of the manager, and telephone numbers of either pay phones or residential phones, or office phones with her office, for use in case of emergency.

"Many times," she said, "people will call in here and need to locate someone in an emergency. They will give you the person's name or nickname, and perhaps the kind of car he or she may be driving, and tell you that these people are staying at a beachfront hotel, trailer park, or tourist court."

The information is not sufficient to enable the sheriff's department to locate the person wanted, she said, no matter how great the emergency may be.

"Lots of time, she said, 'the motel may not be listed in the phone book as a motel, but is listed under the name of the manager, or it may have a pay phone that's not listed.'"

So she is asking every one of these places to drop her a card or call, so they can be listed on a card index in the sheriff's office. Information needed is name of place, name of manager, address, post office box number, phone, how phone is listed, and any other data that will help.

Rockport's Publicity Continues to Get Around

Rockport's publicity continues to get around, and the latest is that contained in the summer advertising section of "GO" magazine, published in Austin.

In a five page section there are a number of Rockport advertisers including the Rockport Steel Form and Manufacturing Company, Sea Gun Motel, Emory K. Spencer, the Sandollar Motel, and Key Allegro.

In the accompanying copy, several Rockport citizens are mentioned, among them Mrs. Kay Bergel and Miss Lola Bonner, on both of whom short biographical sketches are given.

Also included as one of the illustrations in the section a reproduction of one of the canvases exhibited by Jack Sanders in the Sea-of-rama Art Show, "The Last Voyage" with a caption that says "Rockport artist Jack Sanders specializes in painting coastal scenes for which his part of Texas is best known, using what he describes as a secret media especially effective in reproducing ocean waters on canvas. (Liver of a pleasant double life, Sanders is also owner of the Sandollar Motel on Fulton Beach.)"

Of Mrs. Bergel, the article says: "Mrs. Kay Bergel is president of the Rockport Steel Form and Manufacturing Company, a booming outfit which manufactures forms for highways, airstrips, bridges, irrigation canals, and whose business is transacted throughout the country. (Mrs. Bergel's firm fabricated the forms for the Corpus Christi causeway, is presently manufacturing forms for the bridge across Devil's River in Del Rio.) Although steel form manufacturing may seem an unusual profession for a woman, Mrs. Bergel is no stranger to the business. Her family had been in the steel business in West Virginia, and when her husband died several years ago, Mrs. Bergel—who had moved to Rockport from San Antonio—started the Texas business with the help of A. C. Shivers, sheriff of Rockport. Kay Bergel, who is active in every civic project her community undertakes, is an astute, vigorous businesswoman whose ability and confidence in the community have contributed substantially to the growth of her area."

Under the heading of "Personalities," the magazine says: "Lola Bonner of Rockport is one of those rare creatures who successfully combines brains and beauty. A tall brunette who could easily have made a career of modeling, she is, instead, a successful lawyer. Born in Gregory, Lola graduated from Texas A&I College, Kingsville, with an outstanding record (first female student body president, outstanding woman athlete, debate team award winner, two listings in the collegiate 'Who's Who')."

"After graduation, she taught speech and physical education in the Beeville Public Schools, then studied law at UT. After passing the Texas Bar, she opened her own office in Rockport in 1958, is now the only lady lawyer admitted to practice before the Southern District Federal Bar."

"Lola's extra-curricular activities are as unusual as her profession. She was first woman member of the University Skydivers Club, judge advocate; Jack Hurd, Orange Grove, quartermaster; Melvin Boehm, Alice, chaplain; Frank Hunze, Mathis, membership chairman; DeWitt McGee, Corpus Christi, hospital chairman; and Dr. A. L. Brownlow, surgeon. Trustees are Pablo Villareal and Justo Guerra; guard is Eleuterio Leal, Jr.; and Justo Guerra was also elected officer of the day."

Oregon Takes Moving Pictures Of Shrimp On Bottom

Successful motion pictures have been taken of the action of deep-water red shrimp when approached by a trawl net on the latest cruise of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Research Vessel Oregon, according to Harvey R. Bullis, Jr., in charge of Gulf of Mexico and South Atlantic fisheries exploration cruise and gear research.

The Oregon's cruise was planned to calibrate and test a self-contained, deepwater motion picture camera, designed by the USFWS, and was carried out in five steps. Developed to obtain photographs of shrimp behavior at great depths, the new camera was tested in 1200 to 1500 feet of water, along the edge of the Continental Shelf, and gave direct photographic evidence used in determining the efficiency of the nets.

Two cameras were used. Bullis said, and experimental 400 foot capacity 16 mm lighting system, and an Edgerton still camera. The motion picture camera was mounted on the headrope of the trawl net during operation. The still camera was placed on the sea floor for detailed study of bottom conditions.

The first three steps of the program were devoted exclusively to housing and equipment testing and development of handling procedures. Experimental application of the equipment during steps four and five produced 1400 feet of movie film and 2,000 still negatives.

Trawl drags were limited to 30 minutes each, to keep down chances of losing equipment through bottom fouling. The motion picture camera shot across the mouth of the trawl, directly above the foot-rope on the bottom.

The films showed numerous fish and shrimp, but more detailed study is needed to reach conclusive opinions on their behavior, Bullis stated. In general, the shrimp reactions ranged from passive inaction to violent flipping and swimming.

Both kinds of deep water Royal Red shrimp were present. Most of the fish appeared to belong to the grenadier family, although many as yet unidentified species were photographed. Most of the fish appeared capable of vigorous swimming and made efforts to escape, including diving into the mud of the sea bottom.

Still photographs show many areas of bottom carpeted with a thin layer of unidentifiable material, Bullis stated. Sufficiently fragile that none have been discovered through normal trawling activities. Dense patches of mud-dwelling white sea anemones were photographed. A single royal red of the smaller variety was photographed hovering or swimming a few inches above the bottom in one of these stills.

In addition, a series of bottom color photographs was taken in cooperation with the National Geographic Society, using a camera furnished by the Society.

Editorial

Two weeks ago, in this paper, directors of the Aransas County Youth Sponsors' Association gave notice of the closure of the Aransas County Youth Center, which parents fought, bled and died to furnish the young people of the community, not to be re-opened until these same young people "show enough interest in good clean recreation to warrant re-opening."

Last week there were eleven juveniles in court for drinking. Their ages ranged from 14 to 20; their fines were from $25 to $100. The higher figure was meted out to a second offender, who paid $25 for his first offense.

Undoubtedly there is considerable connection between the two situations, although to argue that eleven convictions for teenage drinking was the direct result of the closure would be silly, for teenage drinking in Aransas County has been increasing steadily for a long time.

"It's getting completely out of hand," said Chief Deputy W. L. Hierholzer, "and we've started cracking down harder than ever. The eleven arrests that we made last week are only a patch on what we're going to make, and we've had Liquor Control men over here twice recently, and we're going to get them back as often as we can. Some local beer sellers are going to wind up losing their licenses, and there are going to be a whole lot more youths paying fines, if that is what it takes to stop it."

Sheriff Virginia Shivers backed him in his statement. "Whatever we have to do," she said, "we're going to do, because these youngsters are becoming a nuisance to everyone, including themselves. It's illegal to sell liquor or beer to minors, and we want to stop this before it gets still worse and we have a whole lot of trouble."

It's not out-of-town youngsters here for their vacations that are doing the drinking. All eleven of those arrested last week were local, some of them from families whose children ought to know better. About half were Anglos, the others were Latinos. No Negroes were involved.

"If some of the local parents started wondering about where their children were nights, and took the trouble to find out, it might help matters considerably," Hierholzer said. "We've arrested some of the 'so-called nice boys' during the past week, and we'll arrest some more of them unless they change their habits and stop breaking this law."

Joe Earl Hunt, Hierholzer's assistant deputy, said it doesn't look like the parents of a lot of kids care where they are or what they're doing. If the parents did, he said, they'd do something about it. "Those kids," he said, "got some older one to go buy a case of beer or other liquor, because local dealers aren't too careful about checking ages of those who are buying. Then they start out for an evening on the town."

"The young people are way out of hand," Hierholzer said. "It's too bad, but they are, and we're trying to do what their parents should have done, but we have to do it the hard way, and arrest them."

As one of those who attended the original meeting at the old courthouse, when the subject of a Youth Recreation Center first came up, the writer is fairly familiar with the work and trouble that went into furnishing the center for Aransas County. There were times when it didn't seem as though it could be done, and only by the hard work and sacrifice of many members of the community was the center made possible.

Admittedly, it wasn't a plush layout like those in some communities, but it was a place where young people could go, dance and be together with a minimum of adult supervision. But even that minimum was too much for the modern generation, many of whom apparently prefer to grab a case of beer, a car, and a companion or companions for what may turn out to be a wild ride and a trip to jail.

There is a specious feeling of being an adult in all this that some young people like. These same young people are completely unaware that being an adult isn't only cigarettes, cars, beer, girls, and flirting with the law, while papa and mama pay most of the bills.

Being an adult means facing up to your responsibilities squarely; paying your bills; building a home; being of service to your country, your community and the people around you; raising children that are an asset to the community and the nation. The reason there are so many juvenile delinquents is the fact that a lot of these children's parents never became adults either.

J. REID SIMMONS IN TOWN FOR SHORT VISIT WITH FAMILY

J. Reid Simmons, former postmaster, arrived Monday for a short visit with his family, while still undergoing training for his new job as a postal inspector. After going to Washington when he left Rockport, he was transferred to Denver for a short time, and lately has been working in New Mexico.

"The work is challenging," Jimmy said, "and I sure do like it. The travel involved is interesting and the people I have met have been fine."

He expects to be transferred to Utah for a time before returning to Washington for the completion of his training and a permanent assignment, at which time Mrs. Simmons and their two daughters will join him.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Silchenstedt and children, Ann and Edward, along with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barber and the grandson, Alan Lee Passmore, spent the weekend at Falcon Lake.

Power Squadron Stops Here On Annual Rendezvous

About three hundred boating enthusiasts, in some half a million dollars worth of yachts, arrived in Rockport Monday and left Tuesday morning for Port Aransas. They are participating in the 14th Annual District 21 U. S. Power Squadron Rendezvous.

The rendezvous, which left Freeport Friday, was honored here Monday night by a barbecue attended by a number of people from Corpus Christi, led by John H. Walker, commander of the Corpus Christi squadron.

The boat caravan will reach Bahia Azul at Old Ingleside on Wednesday. This is the last port-of-call on the pleasure cruise.

Members of the power squadrons of Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Lake Charles, Beaumont, Galveston, Houston, Orange and Austin are participating in the cruise this year. It is an annual event during the Fourth of July holiday period.

Participating members put into practical use the things they learn in Power Squadron training classes held each year in January for the 50,000 members of the national organization.

The purpose of the civilian group is to teach its members safety in boating, navigation, meteorology and sailing.

Guide Prepared For Tourists Who Wish To Headquarter Here

The Chamber of Commerce has prepared a short guide on interesting spots in South Texas that can be reached easily by tourists and vacationers who wish to headquarter here for the beach and other facilities, but who also wish to take short trips to explore the area immediately surround Rockport.

This little town beneath the leaning liveoaks, says the guide, is the focal point of the vacationing public in Texas, where people from San Antonio and West Texas rub shoulders with citizens of Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and beautiful bays in Texas.

Using Rockport as headquarters, within a week's time the summer holiday driver may wander from the seacoast to the largest fresh water lake within the borders of Texas and then down to Old Mexico and its night life; visit four huge wildlife refuges; fish for everything from fresh water black bass to sail fish and marlin, and still wind up at home with money in his pocket and no need to take (continued on page 8)

Hurricane Season Is Already Here

In case you hadn't noticed, Texas is 20 days deep in the hurricane season without even a hint of one of the big blows.

In fact, Texas hasn't had a hurricane in more than a year and a half, and it certainly needed this breather after Hurricane Carla hit in September, 1961.

The U.S. Weather Bureau officially calls June through October the hurricane season.

Hurricanes and tropical storms are named after women, spawning some bad jokes as always, and if your name is Arlene, Beulah, Cindy, Debra, Edith, Flora, Ginny, Hannah, Irene, Janice, Kristy, Laura, Margo, Nona, Orchid, Portia, Rachel, Sandra, Terese, Verna and Wallis, you may hear some more bad jokes directed your way.

For these will be the names of hurricanes this year in the order listed.

The Weather Bureau has four sets of names which will be used in rotation meaning that in 1967 the same names will come up again probably.

However, you will never see a hurricane named Carla again. The name of a major hurricane is retired. The name replacing Carla on the list is Clara.

Carla swept the Texas coast but the warning system was so good residents had time to flee.

This led to one of the great migrations of history, with coastal residents jamming highways inland bumper to bumper to flee the storm.

They were fleeing high water pushed up by the hurricane rather than the winds, although the wind can result in fatalities like a tornado.

Even then, 34 persons lost their lives by Weather Bureau calculations. Estimates of financial loss ran as high as $500 million. The Red Cross said at least 205,000 persons had their homes destroyed or damaged.

Still, it was not the biggest or worst hurricane in some respects. The greatest natural disaster in American history occurred at Galveston Sept. 8 and 9, 1900. The island was covered by high tides, with a loss of from 6,000 to 8,000 lives—there was no way to count them all.

Brownsville was nearly destroyed. (continued on page 8)

C of C Directors Have Busy Meeting

Members of the Board of Directors of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce are already laying plans for as many as possible to attend the August 12-13 meeting of the Louisiana-Texas-Hug Coast Highway Association, to be held at the Robert Driscoll Hotel in Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Mary Juergens told directors at their regular meeting that great progress is being made on the road. Bids have been asked for the new ferry at Cameron, La., one of the missing links in the highway, and other work is going forward as rapidly as possible.

President of the board, T. E. Griffith, reported that he had recently discussed another portion of the road with District Engineer Tom Foster of the Texas Highway Department.

Griffith said that the highway department engineer said that final plans and specifications for the 2.3-mile Copano Causeway are being completed, but that it will probably be the first of 1964 before bids will be requested. Once the contracts were let, Griffith said, Foster believed that it would take approximately two years to complete the new bridge, which will be built to the east of the present wooden trestle. The new causeway will be of pre-stressed concrete.

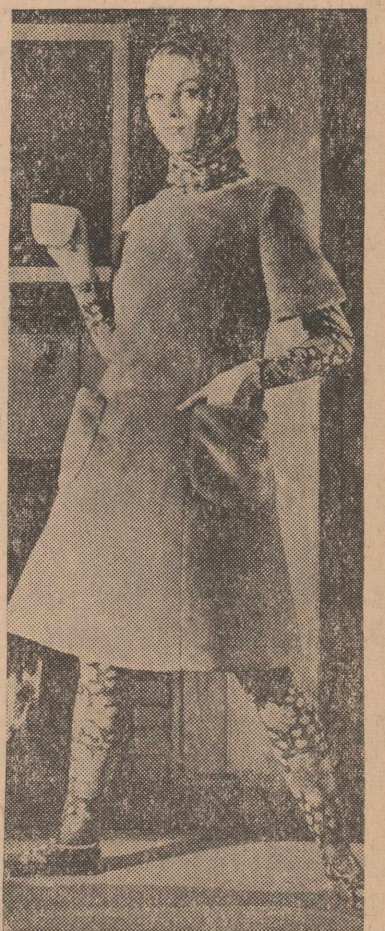

S. E. Doughtie, of Bay City, president of the Hug-the-Coast Association told Mrs. Juergens that with these important works being started, "we will be able to seek re-designation of the Hug-the-Coast route to U. S. 11 during 1964."

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m., Monday, Aug. 12, although many of those attending are expected to arrive on the preceding Saturday and Sunday. Entertainment for the ladies is planned for Monday morning, and Monday afternoon there will be a bus tour for those delegates who wish to see some of this part of Texas.

This bus tour starts at 2 p.m. and crosses the Padre Island Causeway, proceeding up the roads through Padre and Mustang Island to Port Aransas, then across the ferry to Aransas Pass and Rockport, where coffee will be served by the Rockport Chamber of Commerce.

On Tuesday, Aug. 13, there will be a business meeting of the Board of Directors of the Highway at 9 a.m., followed by a business meeting of the general assembly. A luncheon will follow, with an address by a representative of the Texas Highway Department, and the meeting will formally adjourn at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. James A. Jarboe is the associate delegate from Rockport, but as many other directors of the local Chamber of Commerce as can make it intend to attend as many (continued on page 8)

Boating Tips...

Each of the familiar buoys shown above has a story to tell. If you haven't been "getting their messages", here's what they mean: 1) Red, even-numbered buoys—keep them on your right entering a channel or going upstream (remember: red, right, returning). 2) Black, odd-numbered buoys—keep them on your left entering a channel from seaward or going upstream. 3) Black-and-white vertical stripes—mid-channel marker which can be passed on either side. 4) Black-and-red horizontal stripes—obstruction marker which should be passed on side indicated by topmost color. For example, if the top color is red, keep the buoy on the right entering a harbor. Clear all buoys by at least 50 feet, caution Mercury boating experts. Also, don't tie up to a buoy—it's a federal offense.

This clipping when presented at the Cove Drive In box office will admit John L. Brundrett and guest to attend the show on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday, July 7, 8, 9, free of charge.

Boating Tips...

FREE END
TO BOAT

The boater's most common use for line is tying up to a dock. To do the job like a real "salt", learn these two simple hitches, suggest Mercury outboard authorities: use the upper knot in the illustration to tie up to a cleat. Pass the line around the cleat under both horns, then diagonally across the top of the cleat and under the first horn. Tuck the loose end under the line where it passes across the top. The more pull by the boat, the greater the holding power of the hitch—yet it can be loosened easily by tugging at the free end. Use the other knot, the clove hitch, to tie up to posts or piles. It consists of two loops with the free end tucked under. Don't use this hitch for permanent fastening, since it may eventually slip.

Buchholz-Morrison Wedding Celebrated Saturday

Miss Marilyn Ruth Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Morrison, of Rockport, Texas, became the bride of William Theodore Buchholz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Buchholz, of Garland, Texas at 7:30 p.m. on June 29 at the First Presbyterian Church in Rockport. Rev. A. Arnett Ward, of Corpus Christi, and former minister at Rockport, officiated, assisted by the present minister, Rev. Cecil H. Lang, Jr. The church was decorated with two candelabra with white tapers and two baskets of white gladioli. The aisle near the front of the church was lined with white tapers on long candlesticks and tied with white bows.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Don Buchholz and the matron of honor was the sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Eddie Morrison. She wore a blue dress with a short blue veil caught with a flower and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a white dress of ballerina length made of peau de soie with pleated skirt and white lace packet. Her veil was fingertip length on a satin bandeau. She carried a pink corsage of sweetheart roses on top of a white bow.

Ushers were the bride's brother, Eddie Morrison and the groom's brother, Fred D. Buchholz. Organist was Mrs. N. F. Jackson. Solist was Mr. J. Allen Frye who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Assembly room of the church. The table was laid with a white cloth decorated with small roses and a centerpiece of pink carnations in a stemmed glass bowl. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and white lily-of-the-valley and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Pink punch was served from a cut glass punch bowl on the other end of the table. Mrs. Frank Wix served the punch and Mrs. Bob Morrison served the cake. Miss Ann Heinen, niece of the groom, was at the bride's side and another niece Barbara Bryant helped with the refreshment plates.

Marilyn's going-away suit was of aqua knit with a striped overblouse. Her accessories were beige. Immediately following the reception the newlyweds left on their honeymoon, which will be a week's trip back to Camp Le Jeune, N.C., where Sgt. Buchholz is stationed. They will live near the Marine Base.

The Buchholz family attending the wedding were: Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Buchholz; Mr. and Mrs. Don Buchholz and Robert; Mrs. M. J. Heinen and Hazel, Jimmy and Ann, all of Garland, Texas; Another sister—Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bryant and Kathy and Barbara Bryant of Denver City and Fred D. Buchholz of Lubbock, youngest brother.

Joye, Jr. of Corpus Christi; Mr. and Mrs. August Brown and Mrs. Edward Brown of San Antonio; Rev. and Mrs. A. Arnett Ward and Sandy of Corpus Christi; and Mr. and Mrs. J. "It's wonderful to be able to depend on electricity for so many things"

says the Edward Tieman Family of Harlingen.

As a mother and homemaker who also holds down an outside job, Mrs. Tieman finds that electric appliances help make her housework easier and give her more time to enjoy with her family.

The Tiemans live in an all-electric Gold Medallion home. All told, they use electricity in 51 different ways—from heating and cooling their home to running an electric toothbrush. Like thousands of other CPL customers, the Tieman family lives better by making generous and effective use of modern electric service.

"Considering the many ways we use electricity, the cost is very reasonable," Mr. Tieman says. "Electric living certainly isn't expensive like some people think."

"If we ever build another house," he says, "it definitely will be all electric."

C OF C DIRECTORS—

of the meetings as possible. Incidentally, Mrs. Jarboe is the one responsible for Rockport being included on the bus tour. But for her it would have returned to Corpus Christi without giving delegates a chance to see this area.

In other action, the directors of the Chamber approved a motion to seek Governor John Connally as speaker for the annual banquet next year, to be held on a weekend in March, and then listed to various committee reports.

Mrs. Mary Juergens said the Chamber had been approached on the possibility of a summer theater for Rockport, but that Jack Ashford, one of those interested in the matter, would not be able to meet with the directors until later, when he might have more concrete suggestions to make.

Directors also discussed various facets of the Christmas street lighting program, in view of the statement by officials of the Central Power and Light Company that one of the biggest drawbacks, erection of the lights, could be overcome by company aid in men and specialized trucks.

Mrs. Juergens also read a letter from the Federal Small Business Administration (the same descended upon Rockport after Carla) enclosing a questionnaire which wanted to know a number of things. Among the questions asked were: "Does your community have an incorporated local development company?"

If not, the SBA wanted to know: "Do you have any projects under consideration where additional capital not available locally on reasonable terms is needed to assist an identifiable small business concern with the construction, expansion or conversion of plant facilities and the acquisition of equipment."

The questionnaire also asked: "Would your community be interested in a joint meeting with other communities in your area, where a representative of SBA could explain SBA's Development Company Loan Program and, if desired, information concerning the formation of a local development corporation?"

President Tommy Griffith reported that he had met with the Aransas County Navigation District, following the last meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and had discussed better policing of the beach and water, as well as marking of the end of the beach road, and some control over swimming in the ski basin.

Officials of the Navigation Board said that posts and reflectors have been installed at the turn-around at the end of the beach road, to obviate danger of driving over the drop-off there, and that signs had been erected in the basin in an effort to stop the swimming.

HURRICANE SEASON—

ed in 1880, Indianola suffered destruction twice, in 1875 and 1886.

Small boys with dreams of pirates may disagree, but the only hurricane known to do anybody any good was the one in the fall of 1818 when four of Jean Lafitte's ships sank or ran aground.

The Weather Bureau lists these as Texas' worst hurricanes:

1. September or October 1818, when Lafitte's ships were lost or damaged.

2. Mouth of Rio Grande, 70 die, Aug. 6, 1844.

3. Indianola destroyed, 176 lost, Sept. 16, 1875.

4. Brownsville nearly destroyed Oct. 12-13, 1880.

5. Indianola destroyed second time, Aug. 19-29, 1886.

6. Galveston Sept. 6-9, 1900, 6,000 killed; $20,000,000 property damage; 15 foot tide; 120 m.p.h. winds (estimated.)

7. Half of Velasco destroyed and 41 lives lost, July 21, 1909.

8. Tides 12 feet tall inundate Galveston, 175 deaths, Aug. 16, 17, 1915.

9. Corpus Christi, 20 dead, Aug. 13, 1916.

10. Near Corpus Christi 284 die, Sept. 14, 1919.

11. Near Brownsville, 40 lives lost Sept. 4-5, 1933.

12. Winds up to 150 m.p.h. hit Matagorda Bay with tides 14.7 feet, eight lives lost, Aug. 30, 1942.

13. Near Galveston, 19 lose lives, July 27, 1943.

14. Port O'Connor, winds of 135 m.p.h. three persons killed, Aug. 26-27, 1945.

15. Winds of 135 m.p.h. at Freeport, high tide 11.4 feet above normal on Houston ship channel, two lives lost, Oct. 3-4, 1949.

16. Carla, Winds of 175 m.p.h., tides 19.5 feet, 34 lives lost, Sept. 8-14, 1961.

GUIDE PREPARED—

another vacation to rest up from the one he's just had!

The Rockport area has developed almost exclusively as a summer and winter tourist resort, featuring summer homes, modern motels, an art colony, Florida-type subdivisions and a shrimp fleet, so picturesque it is the delight of every eye in the artist's summer school which held an exhibition on May 31 through June 2. The annual festival, the Sea-o-rama, comes just a week later this year, June 8-9, with bathing beauties, parades, boat races, and a big street dance.

Local points of interest are the marine aquarium and laboratory of the Texas Game and Fish Commission; a number of old homes, including the stately old Fulton mansion; the Mother House and Chapel of the Schoenstatt Sisters of Mary, the Big Tree and Goose Island State Park. The park fronts on Aransas and St. Charles Bays, just north of Rockport, and the grounds of the Schoenstatt Sisters are reached just about half a mile before the concession stand in the park. Year by year Goose Island is one of the most popular of all state parks. Facilities include shelters for overnight that may be rented at a fee of $2 per car, or in case of larger parties, for $150. Picnic fees, from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. are $1 a car, and boats and motors may also be rented. Tables in the picnic areas are free to the first comers.

One of the best-known attractions in the park is the Big Tree, a giant oak which Ripley once said was the largest and oldest in Texas, more than 2,000 years old.

A tour to most of the interesting spots in South Texas may be taken from Rockport, starting north on Highway 35, and crossing Copano Causeway. Goose Island lies to the right, down a road about a half mile past the northern end of the causeway, and the route is well-marked.

Continuing north of Highway 35 from the road leading to the park, the next intersection is FM 774. Turn right, and follow almost into the little town of Austwell to a conspicuous sign marked with a wild goose, which points the way to Aransas Wildlife Refuge, which lies at the end of FM 2040. The Refuge is just across the bay from Goose Island State Park, but you have to drive some 25 miles from Rockport to reach it, because it lies on a peninsula.

Forty-seven thousand acres in extent, approximately one-third of the Refuge consists of lakes, ponds, tidal flats and marshy swales. This area and the 55 miles of shoreline fronting on Mesquite Bay constitute one of the most important sanctuaries for waterfowl in the state, and in winter form the home of America's last flock of whooping cranes. Other refuges are the one east of San Benito — Laguna Atascosa — on Farm Road 210, and Santa Ana, 11 miles south of Pharr, on U. S. Highway 281.

Visitors to any of them may count birds by the thousands at any time, and Aransas Refuge also abounds in deer, wild turkey and javelinas. Leaving here, take FM 240 into Austwell, then FM 113 through Tivoli where you turn east, still following it until it joins U.S. 77, and from there into Victoria it is only a half hour's drive.

Victoria is one of the oldest cities in this part of Texas, and there are many old homes there of much interest to the antiquarian, some of them having been built prior to the Civil War. These are noted in the book "Early Texas Homes", by Dorothy Kendall Bracken.

Besides the early homes in Victoria, there is the McNamara Museum, and a visitor should see the Chinese room and other antique rooms in the Denver Hotel, operated by former State Senator and Mrs. C. M. Blackert, who have collected authentic antiques and Chinese period furniture as furnishings. Another Victorian institution is "Kite" Fossatti's delicatessen, on the City Hall square. Many people reverse this above Sam Houston, the Alamo and the oil depletion combined, because of the quality of its German "Vittles" known to generation after generation of South Texans. Also worth seeing is the old grist mill in Memorial Park, where cholera victims were buried over a century ago, and graves of the Taylor-Sutton feudists in the local cemetery.

Leave Victoria's tree-lined streets and towering courthouse on U.S. 59, south, and, thirteen miles down the road, in the little community of Fannin, turn left on Park Road 27 which leads to Fannin Battlefield and the little Goliad State Park Museum. There are much used facilities here for picnickers, and many foreign visitors stop to see where one of the battles of the Texas revolution was fought.

Back on Highway 59 again, it is 12 miles to Goliad, one of the oldest cities in the state. High points of interest are the Presidio of La Bahia, now being restored; one of the oldest Catholic churches in the state; Mission Espiritu Santo, restored in WPA times; Mission Rosario, a crumbling ruin; the site of Aransas College; many old homes; an antique courthouse; an authentic village square; a memorial auditorium and stadium, and the grave of Fannin and his men.

Between Goliad and Refugio, on U.S. 183, the road runs between cattle ranges; Refugio is a typical South Texas county seat, dependent mostly on cattle and oil.

Leaving Refugio on U.S. 77, Woodsboro is five miles to the south; then from Woodsboro to the gate of the Rob and Bessie Wildlife Foundation Refuge it is about another 20 miles. The Refuge gates are to your left as you head south, and mark the entrance to the largest privately-endowed wildlife foundation in the world. Visiting hours are on Thursday, starting at 3 p.m., and visitors are treated to a lecture, a tour of the museum, which is excellent, and a trip through portions of the Refuge, where much research is being done on plentiful wildlife.

Back on U.S. 77 once more, Sinton is four miles to the south, and there are two more Welder parks at Sinton. One has a small zoo, the other has tennis courts, horse show ring, barbecue pits, a golf course, and playground equipment for children.

From Sinton, take FM 881 and Highway 9 to Mathis, and Lake Corpus Christi State Park. The 477-acre park rates high as a tourist attraction for the casual visitor, the day-long picnicker, of the overnight camper. It excels as a family recreation spot, offering fresh water fishing, swimming, boating, skiing, camping and picnicking. Chief attraction, of course, is the lake behind Wesley Seale Dam, from which Corpus Christi draws its water.

Leaving Mathis on Highway 9 again, this time headed east towards San Patricio, which, although famed historically, is largely a state of mind today. At Robstown, turn right, and take U.S. Highway 77 into Kingsville, past cotton and grain fields.

An eight-mile loop tour of the Santa Gertrudis King Ranch headquarters is designed to give the casual visitor a scale view of just about everything that goes on at the ranch. No pass or fee is necessary. Usually there is a man at the gate who registers visitors and dispenses information.

One mile from the main gate a paved road branches off to the left. The motorist who follows this will see small herds of Santa Gertrudis and European breeds of cattle, a steer feeding project, thoroughbred yearling colts and fillies and quarter horse mare bands in the pastures along the road.

The loop circles back through headquarters, past the Colony where many of the King Ranch personnel live, past the thoroughbred training barn and race track, the old stable, and the Big House and the home of Richard J. Kleberg, Jr. Both the latter are restricted to visitors.

Leaving the ranch and headed for Rockport once more, going north on U.S. 77, turn right at Bishop on State Highway 70, and you'll pass through the famous Chapman Ranch.

At Chapman Ranch headquarters, turn left on FM 286 to its junction with FM 358, then right again, to the north end of Padre Island. Crossing the causeway, it is only a short distance to Padre Island Park. Cabanas and other shelters may be rented there, although it wise to make reservations ahead if you want one. Bob Hall Pier sticks out into the Gulf like a sore thumb, and is well-patronized by anglers.

From here it is possible to drive up the beaches of Padre and Mustang islands for 20 miles, to Port Aransas. There is a paved highway, but when the beach is hard-packed (and is usually is) it's more fun to drive on it. Port Aransas is a fishing and summer resort town, with many motels and charter boats, drawing its sustenance from the tourists and vacationers. There is a marine laboratory, the Institute of Marine Science of the University of Texas that is interesting. There is also a long fishing pier, as well as the great jetties that flank the seaward entrance of the Port Aransas-Corpus Christi ship channel. All three are favorite haunts of fishermen.

From Port Aransas it's only a short ferry ride to Harbor Island and the causeway leading to Aransas Pass. This is a typical shrimping town, with its harbors packed with trawlers during bad weather or when the shrimp aren't running.

Rockport is ten miles to the north and Corpus Christi, a bright bustling city of 187,000 is 15 miles to the south. This tour has skirted it, for Corpus Christi is a story in itself.
