Hard Blow Is Given Pension Liberalization

Bill To Repeal Racing Sent Back To Committee By Vote Of 15 To 14; House Delays Pension Consideration

Licensing Of Real Estate Men, Spreading Tax Payments To 10 Months And Registering Of Lobbyists Favored

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 10.—The Texas senate revived hopes of friends of horse racing today by returning to committee 15 to 14 a bill to repeal the four-year-old law permitting race track betting.

At the same time the house dealt a hard blow to old age pension liberalization with a 68-66 vote to postpone further consideration of a liberalization bill until April 6.

Claim Hearing As Proper

The senate last week by a vote of 20 to 8 attached a racing repeal amendment to a minor house bill regulating track employes. When the bill came up for final consideration opponents of repeal argued track operators and horse breeders were entitled to a hearing before their properties were destroyed.

Postponement of the pension liberalization scrap was considered highly important because the session was almost half over. Proponents admitted the bill would have rough sledding in the senate if it ever reached that body and Governor James V. Allred indicated he would veto it.

Bills Recommended

The house state affairs committee recommended bills to license real estate dealers, permit installment payment of delinquent taxes over a ten-month period, require registration of lobbyists and remit one-third of the ad valorem taxes to 14 counties in the Sabine-Neches water conservation district.

The house recommitted a bill to prohibit courts from granting injunctions in labor disputes without a hearing. It was sent to the judiciary committee. The labor committee previously had recommended it.

A resolution proposing an interstate agreement on oil and other natural resources taxes was reintroduced in the house in such form it

(By The Associated Press)

JEFFERSON, March 10—A soft-footed slayer slipped to the bedroom window of Sheriff Alex Brown early today and killed him with a shot in the back.

The death of the popular officer whose vigorous methods made him prominent throughout East Texas aroused a citizenry which launched an intensive hunt for the unidentified assailant.

Admittedly, however, the prospect of trapping the killer was slim. Officers reported no clues. The trail of the slayer was lost a block from the scene of the crime. No motive was advanced.

Death Fulfills His Hope

"God May Strike Me Dead Before I Get To My Cell If I Am Guilty," Man Had Said

(By The Associated Press)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., March 10.—A heart attack at the threshold of prison today forestalled a life sentence for Samuel Whittaker, who said he hoped "God may strike me dead before I get to my cell if I am guilty" of wife murder.

He never reached the San Quentin cell that awaited him. He died in the prison hospital four days after commitment.

Whittaker, 62, a Los Angeles theater organist, was convicted of killing his wife in a faked holdup for her $18,000 double indemnity life insurance. He had appealed but was taken to prison pending final decision on his case.

Prison Physician Leo L. Stanley said Whittaker was in "poor condition" when he reached San Quentin last Saturday, he was assigned to the hospital

No Trace Of Bookkeeper Is Reported Here

Federal Bureau Of Investigation Men Come To Lubbock To Probe Missing $11,000 From Lubbock Bank

Behind a welter of rumors surrounding the disappearance of a handsome bookkeeper of Lubbock National bank and the announcement $11,000 in currency was missing from that institution no tangible clue had reared itself at midnight to solve the apparent perplexity of investigators.

FORT WORTH, March 11. (Thursday) — Burns Kittrell, missing Lubbock bank bookkeeper, was not held by Fort Worth police early today, contrary to rumor, said Fort Worth police.

The department, through the night sergeant, said, however, C. E. Luce, city recorder of the Lubbock department, was in Fort Worth and had left the police station at 11 o'clock for an "unannounced" place.

To the corps of investigators had been added that day two members of the federal bureau of investigation.

Sifted from the maze of rumors and held up for some credence was a report of a man he had seen Burns Kittrell, the bookkeeper, at Amarillo Monday morning, approximately 20 hours after the Lubbock man reportedly had last been seen here.

That statement, if true, would indicate a report Kittrell had taken a train Sunday night from Amarillo to the west coast was erroneous. A man answering his discription had bought a ticket to Los Angeles, said a railway employe, and had boarded the train. It would have arrived at Los Angeles at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Police and other investigators were told by an informant he had seen Kittrell and had visited briefly with him Monday. He said they walked into a coffee shop and ordered coffee.

"What are you doing in Amarillo?" he quoted himself as asking, and said he was answered, in substance: "I'm on vacation and plan running down to the Fat Stock show."

The informant said he asked

Bill Restricting Degrees Is Killed

AUSTIN, March 10. (AP) — The house education committee today killed a bill to restrict graduate work in state-supported colleges to the University of Texas, Texas A. & M. college and Texas Technological college.

The proposal was the subject of a lengthy hearing recently and a subcommittee to which it was referred recommended adversely. Virtually all higher institutions expressed opposition.

However, there remained on the committee calendar for hearing next Thursday a similar proposal which would permit graduate instruction in the three schools, the College of Arts and Industries and one teachers college to be named by the board of regents.

The committee approved a bill to permit payment of state apportionment to school districts delinquent in their obligations to the permanent school fund providing they show they have done everything legally possible to service the debt.

"Same Mistake" As General Motors Made—Martin

(By The Associated Press)

THE Chrysler strike—with 60,000 wage earners idle — turned to the courts Wednesday while negotiations continued.

A circuit judge ordered strikers to answer Saturday to the corporation's plea for an injunction to oust the "sit-downers" from nine Detroit plants.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, said the company was "making the same mistake that other corporations have made—that of endeavoring to institute law by injunction."

The action was similar to that taken by General Motors at Flint, Mich., where strikers held plants in defiance of injunctions and citations for contempt of court.

Almost at the same time it was announced that final agreement on issues which remained after resumption of work following the General Motors strike was tentatively reached and probably would be formally announced today.

Strike Is Ended

A sit-down strike of six hours duration ended at the St. Louis General Motors Chevrolet-Fisher Body plants when workers ratified an agreement reached by plant managers and union leaders.

A new sit-down strike, however, threw 2,200 employes into idleness at the Reo Motor Car company's plant at Lansing, Mich. Most of the workers remained in the plant, and Lester Washburn president of the Lansing U. A. W. A. local, said the strike was called because 15 men had been discharged for union activities, and because of a "general pay cut."

"Mistaken Identity" Hinted For B. Bidenkap, Nabbed Here

Chances for clearing Bernhoff Bidenkap of charges of armed robbery at Galveston Feb. 12 were indicated early today when the Morning Avalanche was advised by Police Chief Tony Messina of Galveston the sailor's detention and charge "probably was a case of mistaken identity."

Capt. John G. Churchill had supported the sailor's contention he was in Lubbock when a Galveston seamen's union had been robbed of $500. He showed documentary evidence. The Morning Avalanche in repeated messages over Associated Press facilities supported the sailor's assertions after seeing the evidence and, Tuesday, one of the witnesses to the robbery testified Bidenkap, who had been "identified" by fingerprints and "almost positively" by photograph as the man sought, was not the suspected felon.

The man, who had been removed from Lubbock Sunday, will go before an examining body today. A crowded docket forestalled his arraignment Wednesday, said Chief Messina.

Alabama Goes Wet In Voting

State Sweeps Its 22-Year-Old "Bone Dry" Statutes Aside In Election Wednesday On County Option System

(By The Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 10—Alabama swept its 22-year-old "bone dry" statutes aside today as its larger cities gave majorities for repeal in a county option election.

Twenty-one of the state's 67 counties gave repeal majorities in unofficial tabulations of the option elections. Prohibition trailed in several others in which the vote was close.

Jefferson (Birmingham), Mobile and Montgomery gave smashing repeal margins.

Vote 83,588 To 73,640

The statewide vote, with 1,455 of 2,202 boxes reported and every county heard from stood: For repeal 83,588; against 73,640.

(By The Associated Press)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 10. Amid gallery cheers the California assembly today voted to "pardon" Thomas J. Mooney, convicted San Francisco Preparedness day parade bomber.

The resolution, challenged in some quarters as to its legality, now goes to the predominantly Republican senate, where it apparently awaits a cooler reception than it received in the Democratic assembly.

Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of the aging labor leader who has served the past 20 years in San Quentin on a life sentence for murder, was in the gallery which cheered Assemblyman P. A. Ritchie and T. A. Maloney as they urged fellow members to vote the pardoning resolution.

Only Gardner Johnson, of Berkeley, and E. V. Lathian, Alhambra, voiced opposition, both declared Ritchie's proposal unconstitutional and quoted from opinions of Attorney General Webb and Legislative Counsel Fred B. Wood stating the legislature did not possess the power to grant pardons.

Wheeler And Landis Debate Court Reform

Two Men Famous As Liberals Take Opposite Views Last Night In Chicago; Senator Flings Challenge To FDR

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 10.—Two men famous as liberals — Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) and James M. Landis, chairman of the Federal Securities commission — hotly debated President Roosevelt's court legislation before the fourth annual Woman Congress here tonight.

Wheeler accused the president of preaching "haste and hate" to hasten the forging of a weapon which, he said, might be used by another president to extinguish all liberty.

Issues Challenge

He challenged Mr. Roosevelt to submit instead "any reasonable constitution amendment," pledging that members of congress would submerge their individual views and quickly approve it. If the administration wishes, Wheeler added, ratification by the states could be completed within a matter of months.

Landis contended that the present Supreme court has set itself up as a super-legislature, standing athwart the path of social progress.

Only Constitutional Way

The president's proposal to name six new justices is the only constitutional way to meet the problem, short of a constitutional amendment, he said. Declaring that the child labor amendment has been kept out of the Constitution for years and that another amendment might face equal delay, Landis declared:

"We dare not repeat the mistake of Buchanan—to let the nation, as he did, after the Dred Scott decision, falter and fumble too long for its destiny. We must, if we can, find a way to do otherwise."

Wheeler asserted he would sacrifice party loyalty if necessary to

GIBRALTAR, March 10 — Three mystery steamers, a usualy reliable source said today, landed new contingents of Italian troops at Cadiz, Spain, Saturday and Sunday.

The steamers, this source said, displayed neither names nor flag. The informant said more than 2,000 soldiers landed from the ships.

From Algeciras came an unconfirmed report that the German ship Deutschland landed a cargo there, believed to include guns and ammunition.

The German warship Admiral Graf Spee, the Algeciras reports stated, arrived there during the afternoon and joined the Deutschland and the German oiler, Max Albrecht.

British naval authorities here said they were unable to obtain confirmation of another report, that six Soviet submarines had arrived at Barcelona.

Swift Developments In Reform Battle Are Followed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 10. — Attorney General Cummings, urged the Roosevelt court bill upon the senate judiciary committee today as a means of preventing the constitution from being "tortured."

No sooner had Cummings spoken than there was a series of swift developments:

Cummings

From the ranks of his own party, from a senator still uncommitted on the court issue, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, came a counter-proposal that the Constitution be amended to require a two-thirds vote of the Supreme court to invalidate an act of congress.

Senator Borah (R-Ida), an opponent of the administration proposal to place six new justices on the Supreme court, quickly asserted that the Roosevelt bill, taken in technical conjunction with statutes now in effect "would come pretty near to abolishing the court."

Pittman Has Suggestion

Senator Pittman (D-Nev) expressed a view that the membership of the court might well be mandatorily increased to eleven and possibly fifteen to increase its efficiency.

Senator Austin of Vermont, member of the regular Republican faction of the opposition, descended upon the attorney general with a series of belligerent questions that quickly produced a sharp-spoken exchange.

And from several members of the committee came the contention that the possibility of 8-7 decisions by a Supreme court of 15 members suggested that the bill would "leave us where we are now."

"That Might Happen"

"That might happen," Cummings' replied, "if those men who were appointed as liberals turned out to be conservatives, but I wouldn't expect any such result."

The caucus room was jammed with spectators. A score of senators, in addition to committee members, were present. Cummings, loiled in the witness chair, chewing gum, while a battery of camera bulbs fired away.

First, he read a prepared statement supporting and explaining the president's proposal to appoint an additional federal judge for each judge over 70 who will not retire, with a maximum increase of six in the Supreme court. His argument followed closely that outlin-

Death Sentences Upheld By Court

AUSTIN, March 10. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals upheld today four death sentences assessed in lower courts in three murder cases and a criminal assault conviction.

Luke Trammel of Brazoria county lost his final appeal when the court overruled his motion for rehearing in the shotgun slaying of Felix Smith, Retrieve prison farm guard, in an escape June 19, 1936.

It overruled a similar motion by Elmer Pruitt of Henderson county given death in the killing of Martha Jane German, Sept. 15, 1934, who was slain in her home and her body ignited after kerosene was poured on it.

Affirmed were death penalties assessed C. Matura upon conviction in Stonewall county for beating to death Rebecca Coursey of Haskell county, May 6, 1936, with a piece of harness, and Earnest McCarty of Tarrant county, for criminal assault upon Mrs. Irma Crain, March 10, 1936.

Buying Boosts Stocks, Cotton, Grain Upward

Widest In Years

Prices Sent Upward To New Post-Depression Peaks As World Developments Create Broad Buying Range

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 10.—Worldwide buying on an intensive scale lifted a broad range of commodity prices to new post-depression peaks today in one of the widest advances in recent years.

In unison, shares of companies expected to benefit from price advances shot up from $1 to $4 or more a share in a buying rush that carried forward other divisions of the stock market as well.

Cotton Leads Surge

Cotton, with a net advance in some futures of as much as 95 cents a bale lead the upward surge, with grains, non-ferrous metals, rubber, coffee, silk, hides and cotton seed oil futures following sharply. Silk sales set a new record on the New York commodity exchange with 9,370 bales changing hands, against the previous best figure of 6,850.

SEES GREATER CONSUMPTION

HOUSTON, March 10. (AP) — W. L. Clayton of Anderson-Clayton and company, the world's No. 1 cotton merchant, believes the world will use more cotton in 1936-37 than ever before.

"This year it appears as if world consumption may be as much as 29,500,000 bales," Mr. Clayton said today, his first day back in his office after a two months tour of South America. The cotton year is from August 1 to July 31, he explained in discussing consumption figures.

In the pre-depression year of 1928-29, world consumption climbed to 28,800,000 which then was an all-time high, according to Mr. Clayton. Two years later the consumption climbed to 27,729,000 bales.

The consumption figures are the brightest spots in the world cotton picture, according to Mr. Clayton.

While prices have recently pointed upward, the extensive movement of today's markets came as a surprise to traders. They said worldwide industrial recovery, the armaments race, the inflationary tendencies following currency depreciation abroad and speculative buying, all had played their part in the advance.

In all world markets grains soared to new highs for the season.

Rural Electrification Program For Lubbock County Proposed In Session

A RURAL electrification program which would supply light and power and would run appliances and allow better radio reception on the farm, Wednesday night was broached to a representative gathering of the Roosevelt National Grange chapter and visting representatives of five other Granges.

It was announced that 558 applicants had been contacted and that an eventual goal of 2,000 was envisioned.

The assemblage was informed preliminary work looking toward a county-wide program to take in at least 50 miles of line had got under way Wednesday after conferences with Ralph W. Moore, state Grange master and member of President Roosevelt's national council. With Moore were Harold W. Gaulrapp, organizer of the National Grange, and Guy Travis of Lamesa.

The three men conferred Wednesday with Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division of agriculture at Texas Technological college, and other facutly members; Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president; H. L. MAKING LINENS LAST

EVERY once in a while we hear of a piece of linen taken from an Egytian tomb in a good state of preservation, so it stands to reason those used today should last a lifetime. Roll your fine linens instead of folding them. If you fold them in the same way year after year, the creased portions will weaken and perhaps tear.

Soap and water will remove most stains from linen if it is washed before the stain becomes set. If you must use a chemical stain remover, launder the piece as soon as the chemical has done its work. For good results in ironing, make sure that the linen is uniformly damp. Wrinkles are often persistent in linen fabrics so have the iron warm enough to smooth them away. Don't let it approach the scorching point, however, because even an invisible scorch will damage the fabric.

ACNE, BEAUTY PROBLEM

IF YOU have acne, or suspect you have acne, you need medical as well as beauty advice. Do see your family doctor and follow his instructions conscientiously.

Acne is caused by a number of things, both simple and involved. Its diagnosis being as uncertain as it is, cure is difficult. Nevertheless, the sensible procedure is to lay your case before a physician, meanwhile doing a few routines yourself to relieve and conceal the blemishes.

Acne, which experts think is caused by faulty digestion and elimination, is fairly easy to overcome. Correct your diet, cutting out greasy, spicy, overrich foods and substituting in their place fresh vegetables and fruits. Take daily walks and do setting up routines which exercise lazy abdominal muscles.

GETTING RICH QUICKLY

M. LEO RIPPY, director of adult work of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, like most everyone else, has thought of the many things he might accomplish if he only "had a million dollars." But his reaction to such a thought is different to the one of most of us. He told a congregation at First Methodist church about it Sunday night.

Riding along on the train recently, Mr. Rippy began to ponder on the many things he would do if he suddenly fell heir to a million dollars. He decided he would travel, would buy books he has always wanted to possess, would build the home of his dreams and own a few automobiles. Which thoughts aren't so different from yours when you contemplate being newly rich, are they?

But Mr. Rippy continued his thinking. He likes to drive his own automobile, but it occurred to him if he was a millionaire and insisted upon being behind the wheel he would be considered queer. He likes to dig around in the yard with his flowers and shrubs, but if he had an estate of several acres he would have to employ gardeners and caretakers and if he arose before the sun to work out in the yard he would be considered eccentric, he decided.

He never gives a thought to the possibility that his friends are trying to "get to" him for any money or social prestige, but if he were rich he might find he had several fair weather friends, he decided. His home life would be changed and his income tax might give him quite a bit of difficulty.

After considering all of these things, Mr. Rippy decided he is better off as he is. Not a bad decision, is it?

"Reasonable" Extensions For Taxes Authorized In Measure

WASHINGTON, March 10. (AP)—The house adopted and sent to the senate today a resolution to authorize the commissioner of internal revenue to grant "reasonable" extensions of time, up to June 15, for filing "windfall" tax returns.

The tax enacted last year, was designed to recover for the government a major part of the old AAA processing taxes in those cases in which a person liable for the tax shifted the burden to others yet did not pay the tax to the government because of invalidation of the AAA.

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lawrence verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. ## National A.A.U. Tournament Entries To Fight It Out In Texas Title Contest Tonight

The Thin Man? He'll Be Found At Denver Joust

DENVER, March 10. (AP) — The "thin man" won't be hard to find next week.

He'll be out there playing basketball in the National A. A. U. tournament.

For the third successive year, mile-high Denver will be a mecca for extra-tall young men who find on the basketball court their additional quota of inches counts more than in any other sports event.

West Texas Teachers college of Canyon will come here for the meet, starting Sunday, with the claim of the tallest college team in the country. Shackelford, the center, stands 6 feet 9 inches and the two forwards, Arthur and Stephenson, are only a few inches shorter.

Fortenberry 'Way Up There'

Bob Gruenig, Denver Safeway center, used his 6 feet 8 inches to advantage in winning the scoring championship of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league this season.

Joe Fortenberry, Bartlesville center who has been an All-America choice at the past two tournaments, towers eight inches or so above the six foot level.

Willard Schmidt, Colorado Springs center, at 6 feet 10 in one of the tallest men in independent basketball, but sickness probably will keep him out of this year's national.

The entry list stood at 42 today.

Former Tech Captains To Be Seen In Action On "Alma Mater" Court; Will Gilmore And Alvin Crews To Play

What do college basketball players do when they get through playing college basketball?

They continue to play basketball, when time and opportunity allow. That is what some of Texas Tech's best known cagers are doing, and for proof you are invited to the Texas Tech gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock. It is advised that you come earlier than 8 o'clock, because the 2,000 capacity hall is due to be jammed by that time.

Sponsored By C. Of C.

Playing under the colors of the West Texas Cotton Oil Mill at Slaton, also bearing the banners of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, several former Texas Tech stars and their mates tonight clash with what is perhaps the outstanding college team of the state—the Stephen F. Austin college Lumberjacks of Nacogdoches.

The Oilers from Slaton are champions of independent basketball in Texas. The Lumberjacks are champions of the Lone Star conference. Both have qualified for and entered the national A. A. U. tournament starting Sunday at Denver, in which forty or fifty other outstanding clubs of the country will compete for amateur basketball's richest prize.

Both teams will be on their way tomorrow for Denver. To be admitted to the national tournament, a team must have registered an impressive record for the season, and there is no doubt as to the records made by the Oilers and the Lumberjacks. The 'Jacks are undefeated in college competition this year. The Oilers have not lost a game in any kind of competition. They won all their scheduled games during the season, captured every tournament they entered, climaxed their Texas tournament campaign last week by copping the Southwestern A. A. U. championship in a field studded with standout teams.

Familiar Faced

Four former Texas Tech captains are regular members of the Oiler club, and all of them are well remembered here. Wilson Gilmore and Alvin Crews, who have graduated to coaching ranks, were outstanding performers on Tech's Border conference championship teams of two and three years ago. Both served as team captains. Leroy Crews, younger brother of Alvin, was captain elect of the 1935 team, after making good on Tech's last championship five. He was a regular on this year's Matador club, along with Hugh Snodgrass, who captained the 1936 outfit. All are with the Oilers, who defeated the hitherto undefeated Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys and then whipped a team largely composed of Southern Methodist university stars, Southwest conference champions, to win the Southwest A. A. U. at Dallas.

Joe Bob Stephens, manager of the Slaton crew, has announced the team will leave early Friday for Denver, where the most brilliant cage aggregations of the country, collegiate and independent, will compete for eight days. Two other Texas Tech stars, Curly Wilkinson, center, and Judge Garrett, high scoring forward, are listed as members of the Oiler club, and may play tonight against the rampant East Texas club.

College Champions

The Stephen F. Austin club after winning its conference championship and beating the Southwest conference representative advanced far in the Olympic games tryouts last year. Since the team first started campaigning for conference championships, back in the days of the old T. I. A. A. and up through the recent Texas Conference race, the Lumberjacks have either won, tied for or claimed second place in championship races.

The Oiler lineup tonight probably will consist of Alvin Crews and Pete Burke or Jack Miller at forwards, unless Garrett elects to play; Jim Neely, former Hardin-Simmons star, at center; Leroy Crews or Snodgrass and Wilson Gilmore at guards. Burke is another Texas Tech ex, a transfer from Oklahoma who was bothered with eligibility problems while trying out for the Red Raiders club. Miller, former North Texas Teachers star, has been a valuable asset to the club this season. Neely, well known hereabouts as the Slaton High school coach and as official of most of Tech's home games, is the leading scorer of the club. Gilmore, who joined the club for the A. A. U. tournament, took scoring honors in the final game of the Dallas joust, however. He was leading scorer at Tech while a regular member of the Raider club.

Tonight's game starts at 8 o'clock. Admission is 50 cents "straight." Part of the proceeds go toward defraying expenses of the club to the national tournament at Denver.

At Tech Again

Former captains and star goal-shooters for Texas Tech's varsity cage teams, Wilson Gilmore, at top, and Alvin Crews return to the college gymnasium court tonight to join more recent Tech players and others against an invading team from East Texas, the Stephen F. Austin Teachers college Lumberjacks. The Tech players are with the Slaton Oilers, strong independent outfit which has not lost a game this season.

Aintree Field Is Cut To 33

Three American-Owned Horses Among Twelve Scratched In Grand National List; Six Foreign Threats Entered

LONDON, March 10. (AP)—The field for the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, March 19, was reduced to 33 today when twelve jumpers, three of them American-owned, were listed among the final non-acceptors.

The scratching of the three American horses—Paul Mellon's Drinmore Lad, John Hay Whitney's Doubled Crossed and Mrs. Marian Scott's Battleship—reduced the foreign threat to six, the same number that started last year when Reynoldstown defeated 34 other jumpers for the second straight year.

Drinmore Lad had been rated among the favorites until recently when his trainer declared he was in no condition for the trying four mile and a half test. Double Crossed had raced at Aintree several times while Battleship was shipped abroad last year after a fine record over the jumps and on the flat in the United States.

Burden On What Have You

Left to seek a fourth American victory in the classic were J. B. Snow's Lelaniege and Delachanie, Robert Lehman's Didoric, Frank Gould's What Have You, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Flying Minutes and Jesse Metcalf's Kiltot. What Have You, a son of Tryster, is the only American-bred horse among the sextet. He raced successfully over the jumps in the U. S. last year.

The complete list of eligibles:

Blazen Buckthorn, Cooleen, Crown Prince, Dawmar, Delaneige, Delachance, Didoric, Don Bradman, Drim, Dryburgh, Ego, Emancipator, Field Master, Flying Minutes, Golden Miller, Irving, Keen Blade, Kiltot, Milk Punch, Misdemeanour II, Passing Fancy, Pencraik, Pucka Belle, Ready Cash, Royal Mail, Splonaud, Sugar Loaf, Sunspot II, Tapinois, True Blue, Uncle Batt, and What Have You.

Joe Tinker Is Starting Over After Failure

Famous Double Play Star Back On Feet After Tossing Bad Health Out At Plate; Seeks To Rebuild Lost Fortune

By PAUL MICKELSON

ORLANDO, Fla., March 10. (AP)—Joe Tinker, sparkplug of the unforgetable Tinker to Evers to Chance double play combination of baseball, beamed broadly as he answered the knock on the door of his very modest one-story cottage.

"Yes, siree, it's still me," he chuckled as he stuck out his hand. "That old double play combination of Tinker to hospital to graveyard has been broken up for the time being at least. I'm still a bit weak, but picking up speed every day."

The great and picturesque Chicago Cub shortstop of yesterday did look a bit fagged, but he didn't look like a man of 56 years who stole a base on the grim reaper six weeks ago.

The Ups And Downs

Since Tinker retired as a player in 1915, his life has been one of progress, prosperity and near poverty. He ran his $40,000 baseball savings into three quarters of a million by shrewd investment in Florida real estate.

The boom collapsed and Joe lost his fortune. His health went with his wealth, so Tinker is starting all over again, hoping now to make a living talking about baseball on the radio.

"You know one of the big reasons why I got out of that hospital?" he demanded triumphantly. "These letters and telegrams. Why, I didn't know so many people knew or even remembered me. Got them from all over the country. Gosh, baseball people are swell people. And Johnny Evers was one of the best of the lot."

Mrs. McAfee And Mrs. Giles Win Ladies Day Golf Prizes

Mrs. Guy McAfee and Mrs. J. P. Giles won prizes yesterday in the bi-weekly "ladies day" golf tournament at Lubbock Country club.

Twelve women golfers participated in the nine-hole event following luncheon at the clubhouse. Mrs. Ford Benham was hostess.

Mrs. McAfee's prize was for lowest medal. She fired a 47 for the nine holes. Mrs. Giles was awarded for scores on blind bogey holes.

Sailor Watkins Ends Undefeated Ring Streak Here With Victory Over Fenton

Chesty Tex Comes From Behind To Beat Canadian

Sailor Tex Watkins signed off his winter wrestling booking in Sled Allen's Auditorium ring last night by dashing out a typical Watkins beating to an arch rival from Canada, Rod Fenton. The Post sheepherder and ex-navy man won the last two falls of a three-fall engagement before a packed house, outwitting and outroughing the drop-kicking athlete from Alberta.

The customers came in droves, anticipating a wild, rough melee, and they were not disappointed. Sentiment wavered in favor of Fenton, but Sailor retained the respect of his fans by his strutting, bluffing, slugging mannerisms.

Plenty Of Action

Fenton, who introduced the drop-kick to this circuit, having learned it as a caulk-fighter in the Canadian wilds, so the story goes, connected with a salvo to the Watkins chin and chest in the first fell to blast all reason from Sailor's mind. He did scram for the ropes, but hustled back in before clearing his fuzzy brain. Fenton met him with two solid kicks to the Adam's apple, and pinned Watkins in 18 minutes.

The slugging, rabbit-punching, biting and slapping continued in the second fall, with Watkins carrying the fight this time. He had faded before Fenton's hearty rushes in the first fall, but met him in the second with a risky attack consisting mostly of jarring punches to the back of the neck. Rodney recovered from a torturous arm squeeze and chased Tex out of the ring with a few weak drop kicks. Sailor came back in, closed with the Canadian, rushed him against the rope corner, swivels a couple of times, all but driving Fenton's head back into his shoulders, and won an easy fall in 8 minutes.

They wallowed on the mat with toe-holds and arm busters in the third fall, which lasted 9 minutes. Watkins winning with a Japanese crab after encouraging Fenton's drop-kicks. Fenton connected lightly with one. Watkins stumbled around as if dazed, but alertly caught Fenton's flying heels in his arms, turned him about and pressed down with the crab hold. He was hard to break from it, and they would have been fighting yet had Referee Clements not intervened.

Freeman Wins Opener

The supporting card was packed with action. Nick Bozinis, more vicious and evil-tempered than ever, found a ready taker in Andy Tremaine, but Andy failed to get rough soon enough and stay rough long enough. He held Nick to a draw. Tremaine was a sucker for Nick's headlocks, and took a lot of unnecessary punishment with his right fist swinging free. It was fast and furious.

The newcomers, Abe Freeman of New York and Larry Schaaf of Indiana, both youngsters, pleased the crowd with a 7-minute curtain raiser that saw the huskier and more experienced Freeman win with a flying head scissors and body press. Freeman looks like a comer, and probably will get another chance to show his wares here.

Lubbock Westerners, Shaping Up For Track Season, Invite 4 South Plains Teams Here For First Meet On Friday

The track and field season officially opens in Lubbock this week with the Lubbock Westerners playing host at a five-team meet at Texas Tech's athletic grounds.

Teams of Lamesa, Abernathy, Amherst and Anton have been invited to compete with the Westerners here Friday afternoon in a meet starting at 3:30 o'clock. Each school has indicated it will have representatives present for the first public meet of the season here.

Team Shows Promise

Under Coaches Goober Keyes and Weldon Chapman, the Westerners have been working out since the end of the basketball season, and coaches are somewhat optimistic. They do not see a district championship team at the high school, but enough letter men and other experienced athletes have returned to cause a brighter outlook than usual.

In the dashes, Coach Keyes has the speedster from last year's team, Harold Ingley, football flash, who placed second in the district and was a member of the relay team. Other prospects for the dashes are Walter "Jumbo" Webster, Robert Castle, Bill Sessums, Melvin Cooksey, Coulson Paxton, Harold Parsons and Rusty Johnston.

Strong Huddles Team

Jarvis Wright and R. M. Jennings have been showing promise in the half-mile. Earnest Winter, recovering from a knee operation, and Joe Pytell, are leading the milers.

Arvil Lee Oden, Henry Ford and Melvin Cooksey give the Westerners a strong lineup in the hurdles. Oden placed in the district meet last year, and was a member of the relay team. Ford is the pole vaulter and high jumper, placing in these events last year. Dutchy Cawthon, Joe Bob Foster, Othello Upton and Johnston, up from the Cowhand squad, are nice looking prospects for the jumps and pits. Ingley, Cooksey and Ford are leading candidates in the broad jump department.

Virgle Simmons, Rafe Nabors and Webster are expected to handle the weights very handily. Each will try the shot and discus.

Visitors expected to give the Westerner athletes trouble Friday afternoon include Grant, all-round athlete of Anton High, and "Speedy" Houpt, big basketball star from Abernathy.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Friday meet.

Little And Manero Seek To Wrest Four-Ball Title From Picard And Revolta Today

MIAMI, Fla., March 10. (AP) — Henry and Johnny Revolta, winners of the $4,000 international four-ball golf matches the last two years, advanced to the finals of the current classic today with a 7 and 6 victory over Harry Cooper and Jimmy Thomson.

The opponents for the 36-hole final will be Lawson Little and Tony Manero, who turned back a valiant last ditch stand by Willie MacFarlane and Frank Walsh to win one up.

Picard and Revolta carded a best fall 13 strokes under par for the match over the soggy Miami Country club course.

MacFarlane and Walsh were three down at the halfway mark and four down after 27 holes but they nearly came back on the last nine, played in a drizzle of rain.

Plainview, Frenship Cagers Advance In State AAU Play

HILLSBORO, March 10. (AP)—The State A.A.U. girls' basketball tournament started tonight in gymnasiums here, Abbott, and Itasca.

Results included: Newsome (Camp county) defeated Mesquite (Dallas county) 48 to 25; Bullard defeated Cranfills, 64 to 20; Emory 64, Emmet 20; Allison 49 Hillsboro 11; Van Horn 27, Lott 25; Blum 49, Pearl 47, Newton 45, Itasca 30; Plainview 73, Highland 15.

Bedias and Bardwell forfeited to Frenship and Irene, respectively.

Sam West Leaves For Brown Training Base At Santone

Sam West, starting his eleventh year as a major league outfielder, left yesterday for San Antonio to join the other St. Louis Browns in training camp. He was one of the first big leaguers to sign a 1937 contract, an agreement being reached when he met the new Brownie owners at San Antonio in January.

West, part owner of a drugstore here, will enter the camp as a casualty, having sprained a knee when working out with Texas Tech athletes early this week. He hopes to be ready for full time work within a few days.

Fifty-two varsity and 75 freshmen oarsmen are reporting for crew at the University of California.

Braddock Gets Rich Offer To Go To Berlin

Schmeling Would Pay Champion Quarter Million To Go With Him In Germany; Scanlan Makes Similar Offer

BY BOB CAVAGNARO

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP)—The unpredictable heavyweight championship situation, headed variously for New York, Chicago and the law courts, picked up another possible destination today as it rolled merrily on with titleholder Jim Braddock receiving two more offers approximating $650,000.

Max Schmeling, who earned a chance at regaining the title when he butchered Joe Louis with his right hand last summer, offered Braddock $250,000 cash and American motion picture and radio rights, calculated to produce around $150,000 more, if he'll put the title on the line in the 1936 Olympic stalium in Berlin with Schmeling.

Just A Coincidence

Previously, Dennis Scanlan, who was Sonja Henie's manager when the Norwegian figure skating queen turned professional a year ago, offered Braddock $250,000 to defend his crown against Schmeling in the vast Olympic stadium.

The fact that both offers represent a quarter of a million dollars in cash is no more than peculiar coincidence. According to Schmeling and his American manager, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling said he made the offer "on behalf of the Deutschland Halle, A. C., which is the largest sporting organization in Europe."

Schmeling said Scanlan did not figure in his plans.

Max Is Serious

"I am ready to post a forfeit of $25,000 that, if I should win the title I will defend the title in the United States in September, 1937, against Louis or any person who may be considered the outstanding challenger, on a percentage basis," said Schmeling.

This all came about, Joe Jacobs explained, because eight days of negotiating separately with Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden, Mike Jacobs and Gould have failed to produce any assurance, other than their contract, that Braddock will be in the ring with Schmeling on June 3. Braddock plans to pass up that date to keep one with Louis on June 22 in Chicago.

The fastest thing a human can do is wink an eye.

Bill On Court Change Killed

Efforts To Revamp Judiciary System This Session Prove Futile And Will Not Be Resumed, Report Says

Information from Austin Wednesday revealed that efforts to revamp the Texas judiciary, including redistricting of the 99th, 110th and 106th courts, have been dropped and will not be resumed during the present session of the legislature.

In a telegram to George W. Dupree, a member of the Lubbock Bar association's committee opposing court redistricting, Senator G. T. Nelson said:

Matter Is Closed

"Hearing on Van Zandt bill for judicial redistricting postponed indefinitely. Van Zandt agreed yesterday for bill to be killed in the committee. This closes the matter for this session of the legislature."

Senator Olin Van Zandt, of Tioga, was author of a senate bill calling for court redistricting and Representative Adkins, of Brady, authored a house bill which was beaten in committee early this week.

Enemies Of Soviet Accused In Sabotage Of Weather Reports

MOSCOW, March 10. (AP)—Enemies of the Soviet were accused today of sabotaging Russia's weather reports.

Under the headline "enemy in meteorological station," the newspaper Izvestia reported from Archangel one plane had crashed and another been forced down because a radio station at Lechukom sent out false weather reports.

Injunction In Cases Denied

Hearing Is Scheduled For 10 A. M. Monday On Applications Of Druggists For Order To Halt Permit Cancellation

Temporary relief from orders of Texas Liquor Control board cancelling their permits to dispense liquor for medical purposes, Wednesday was denied three Lubbock applicants by Judge Daniel A. Blair of a 72nd district court.

Hearing of applications for temporary injunctions restraining the control board from interfering with exercises of provisions in the permits was set down for 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Applicants were Lawrence H. Redwine, Oran Wilson and F. E. Carter and Oran Wilson jointly, druggists.

Another Hearing Set

A similar application, filed last week by former Judge Clark M. Mullican for Pope Pool, another Lubbock druggist, was granted at Plainview Saturday by Judge C. D. Russell of 64th district court. Hearing was set for Friday, before Judge Blair.

All applications alleged the control board March 3 had cancelled permits after charging sale of liquor without prescriptions; asked that orders of the board be set aside and that an interlocutory order be granted suspending the board's order in cancelling permits, and that on final hearing the temporary injunction be made permanent.

Courts Have Jurisidiction

Interpretation of the law is that district courts have jurisdiction of appeal brought from the board's orders; that there is no further appeal, and that suits be tried de novo.

Bert Ford, administrator of the board, said last week at Austin of 50 suits filed against the board, 28 had been adjudicated, 24 for the defendant and the others for plaintiffs "because of faulty complaints."

Twenty-nine holders of premits in Lubbock area have been cited by the board and eight permits cancelled, Ford said.

Directors Of Y Organizations At Tech To Meet Friday Night

J. I. Kilpatrick, chairman of the board of directors of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian association of Texas Technological college, has called a meeting of the board for 8 o'clock Friday night at the First Methodist church, said Dr. A. J. Bahm, sponsor of the association.

Budget and program of the "Y" association for this year will be discussed.

B. P. Faubion of Dallas, state secretary of the YMCA, will meet with the directors. Faubion is to speak at a dinner sponsored by the association as part of the Older Girls conference Friday night at 6:15 o'clock at the church.

McMurry Debaters Are To Meet Tech

Two McMurry college teams from Abilene, concluding a four-state tour, will meet two Texas Technological college teams in debate Friday.

The freshmen debaters, Warlick and Waggoner Car, will speak at 4:15 o'clock in room 202 of the administration building against the visitors.

Alton Hankins and Junius Carter represent Texas Tech in a debate against a McMurry team at 8 o'clock Friday night in the auditorium of the engineering building.

R. L. Willis, coach of the Abilene teams, has informed Miss Annah Jo Pendleton that members of his teams, are J. B. Holt and Woodrow Adcock, and Alex Bickley and W. F. Martin.

The question is: Resolved that congress should be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry.

No individual has ever had a complete collection of the world's stamps. It has been estimated that between two and three million dollars would be needed to acquire such a collection.

Allred Is To Keep Up Fight

Governor Says He Wants Clear Cut Vote On Repeal Of Race Wagering Law; Senate Turns Act Back To Committee

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 10. — Governor James V. Allred said in a statement today he would continue to fight for repeal of the race track wagering statute.

He commented after the senate returned to committee for a public hearing a measure which last week it passed to third reading.

Shall Continue To Fight

"I shall continue to fight for a clear cut vote and for repeal of the race track gambling law," he said. "The bill is now before the senate committee on criminal jurisprudence. "I hope the committee will give it an immediate hearing and an early report."

Meanwhile, Speaker Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro said he would have sustained a point of order, if he had had the opportunity, that the senate method of proposed repeal was unconstitutional.

The point was that a repeal amendment was not germane to the purpose of a bill to regulate track employes. That bill was the one re-committed. The house adopted another repeal bill by a big majority.

Negro Is Acquitted Of Charge Of Slaying Texarkana Banker

TEXARKANA, March 10. (AP) — Butch Moorehead, 35-year-old negro porter, was acquitted today of a charge of slaying Brice Williams, 55, prominent Texarkana banker, last November.

Moorehead pleaded self-defense. He testified the banker was killed accidentally when a gun was discharged during a scuffle after the negro was shot.

Motion For Instructed Verdict Is Granted In Damages Action

On ground that plaintiffs had not proved their case, a motion for instructed verdict was granted Wednesday in 72nd district court in the case of Carl Claborn and his father against Sisters of Mercy hospital at Slaton.

Motion was filed after plaintiffs had presented their testimony and rested their case late Tuesday.

Plaintiffs took a non-suit to end the case which was filed nearly a year ago.

Nineteen - year - old Claborn of Lynn county asked $11,500 damages for injuries allegedly suffered at the Slaton institution when receiving treatment there.

WHEN WE STOP GREASY INDIGESTION WE FEEL JUST FINE

Our stomach can't digest grease. Neither can our bowels. Only our pancreatic juice, working with our bile juice, can digest grease.

When we get bad taste, headache and that nasty grouchy feeling which comes from greasy indigestion, take 1 Carter's Little Liver Pill before each meal and 1 after.

Carter's Little Liver Pills bring a large flow of our pancreatic juice and bile juice into our bowels. The large flow of these juices digests the grease we have eaten. Then we burst into life and into our work like a joyous skyrocket.

But if you want this glorious relief from greasy indigestion, ask your druggist for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and stubbornly refuse to buy anything else. 25c.

WITH YOUR ENGINE OIL-PLATED

Any oil ad is right when it tells you that normal starting of your engine—even in warmer weather—might still hurt worse than miles of speed. But is it enough just to TELL YOU? Or wouldn't you rather know exactly HOW your engine and your oil can really be SAVED? You don't want just general statements, but plain sane reasons. And here they are on OIL-PLATING . . .

It is the only type of lubrication not done solely by squirts of oil. Squirting can't ever begin till the engine moves, and then the oil must still spread around. So there's very little oiling for some little while! But Oil-Plating, formed only by Conoco Germ Processed oil, is always completely spread, before you even leave your house, the stores, or a movie. That's specifically because patented Germ Processing forces this oil to seek an actual physical union with all engine metals. The cylinders, pistons, bearings and other parts take on this oil for good, and become lastingly Oil-Plated!

Really bound on by Oil-Plating, clear to the top of the cylinders, Conoco Germ Processed oil can't ever sneak away and leave bare spots. No matter how long you park, Oil-Plating doesn't run down. No matter how long you speed, Oil-Plating doesn't thin down to nothing, squeeze out, or burn up. So you can really tell why you save, and why the oldest or newest car is safer, changed over to Conoco Germ Processed oil.

Road Problems To Be Talked

Robert Lee Bobbitt, Chairman Of State Highway Commission, Is To Attend Convention Of County Officials Here

For the purpose of meeting West Texas county judges and commissioners, and discussing with them a road program for this area, Robert Lee Bobbitt, new chairman of the Texas Highway Commission will be in Lubbock March 19 and 20, Harry Hines, Wichita Falls, West Texas member of the highway body, has announced.

"At that time we will have an opportunity to familiarize Judge Bobbitt with the road program so badly needed in this district," he added.

First Official Visit

It will be the first official visit to Lubbock and this section of the new chairman. It is the hope of officials that he will become familiar with conditions in this section.

"I am not satisfied with the amount of road improvement in this division," the former chairman said. "I have been from Midland to Plainview on a number of occasions in the past six months, inspecting various roads that I consider should be important arteries of travel and which would aid in the further development of this section.

"I am tremendously anxious to do everything within my power to accelerate road construction in this section."

To Complete Program

Mr. Hines said the commission was committed to a plan of completing the present road program of the state, before entering an extensive expansion program of designation or construction.

"Highways 15 and 84 are my pets," he went on. "I want to see them completed across this section, to the New Mexico state line. They will bring a lot of tourists to this region, especially in the winter, when people traveling from east to west or west to east, will want to avoid snow in the mountains on northern routes.

"We also want to complete highway 24 west of Lubbock, to the state line. New Mexico will meet us at the line, when we get our work completed.

"A good sized section of highway 84 will be authorized built in the very near future east of Lubbock.

"I am also hopeful that a substantial allotment of funds will be made by the highway commission, for work in this district."

Mr. Hines said he hoped highway 51 north of Brownfield to Levelland and Littlefield, and extending on to Dimmitt, Hereford and other points will be completed, as well as a recently designated highway from Muleshoe to Morton and later built down to Plains and perhaps farther south.

Construction of a present county road from Brownfield to Lamesa will receive sympathetic assistance from the commission.

CHILD DIES OF INJURIES

PARIS, March 10. (AP) — Phyllis Stieger, 5-year-old daughter of Dr. Simon Stieger, CCC camp physician, died in a hospital here today of injuries suffered when she was struck by an auto as she ran across a street.

The driver of the machine was held blameless.

The sun, apparently the largest and brightest of all stars, actually is one of the smallest stars visible to the naked eye.

Locations For Soil Meetings In Lubbock County Announced

Definite locations for several of the district meetings to select 1937 soil conservation committeemen, have been announced, said Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent.

Slaton's meeting will be in the city Hall Thursday night; Idalou in the high school gymnasium Friday night.

At Shallowater Monday night the meeting will be in the community club house and Wednesday night in the Frenship gymnasium at Wolfforth.

Fine Of $125 And Costs Given In Liquor Law Violation Case

Assessment of $125 and costs Wednesday was made by a county court jury in the case of Mrs. L. L. Ford, charged with liquor law violation. Another case against her remains to be tried, said Robert J. Allen, county attorney.

The jury reported at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Set for trial in that chamber is the case of Mrs. J. D. Fawcett, charged with liquor law violation, said Judge J. J. Dillard.

Another Question About CARDUI

MOTHERS RECOMMEND IT

"Why do so many MOTHERS recommend Cardui to their daughters?"

Isn't it but natural that any good mother should tell her daughters about Cardui if the mother herself felt that she had been benefitted by this medicine?

It is impressive that so many women report having taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers

Cardui has been found to benefit women when weakened by malnutrition (poor nourishment); and it helps to relieve much discomfort at monthly periods.

Thousands of women testify Cardui helped them. Of course, if it does not help you, consult a physician. Adv.

Second Year Of Experiments In Preserving Pork In Oils Is On At Experiment Station

A second year of experiments in preserving pork in various kinds of oil was begun this week by Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock experiment station, and Fred Hale, chief of the swine husbandry department of the experiment station at College Station.

Hale left Tuesday night after they had placed hams and bacon in refined cotton seed oil, crude cotton seed oil, mineral oil, sardine oil, and peanut oil at the local station.

The experiments had been tried for one year but they did not want to draw deductions until they had tried them a second year, Jones said.

They will determine how long meat may be preserved without loss of flavor, and will make other deductions.

R. E. Karper, vice director of the Texas experiment station system, also visited here, attending to business concerning grain sorghum work in this section.

Gly-Cas Succeeds After Others Fail

Kidney Disorder And Rheumatic Pains Over Mrs. Delk's Body Made Her Life Miserable; Gly-Cas Amazes With Its Quick And Thorough Action

"For ten years before I learned of Gly-Cas I had been unable to eat anything without gas and bloating," said Mrs. Julia Delk, Smackover, Ark., (near El Dorado). "The foods I ate did not seem to do me any good, digestion was very poor and attacks of indigestion were entirely too frequent. My bowels were terribly irregular and try as I did I could find nothing to help me—my entire system was clogged with poisons. I lost my appetite entirely and finally my kidneys were affected. Rheumatic pains settled over my body and my hips and limbs were in an awful shape. I could hardly get a good night's sleep and it was almost impossible to walk without help at times. I did not know where to turn next when I was persuaded to give Gly-Cas an opportunity—and found it wonderful."

MRS. JULIA DELK

"This new remedy regulated my bowels almost immediately," she continued. "My stomach is now in good condition, my kidneys no longer bother me and all those aches and pains have left my body. I can eat the foods I wish without any ill effects afterwards, sleep fine and get around with ease. I have taken many medicines in the past few years but never one that can compare with Gly-Cas — it gives REAL results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug, 1319 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

Justice Agent Talks To Club

"Science In Crime Detection" Is Discussed At Rotary By Rufus C. Coulter Of Dallas; Work Is Explained

A discussion of "Science in Crime Detection," by a U. S. department of justice agent and annual election of four directors, comprised Wednesday's session of the Rotary club at the Hotel Lubbock.

Directors named were: John W. Broome, Warren P. Clement, R. C. Goodwin and Jim Williams. They met with President Kenneth Oberhelteer and the board following the meeting. James Kilpatrick and George M. Garrett, director and Sam T. Davis, secretary, conducted the election.

Song Leader Clement led the group in singing. A quartet, which included J. A. Raley, jr., W. A. Jackson and George Meiser, sang with the leader, two special selections.

Dallas Man On Tour

Homer D. Grant was program chairman of the day, presenting Rufus C. Coulter, Dallas, of the U. S. department of justice, who is on a speaking tour in this section.

Establishment of the technical laboratory of the bureau, in Washington, in 1932, by J. Edgar Hoover, head, was detailed by Mr. Coulter, who added "its results have amply demonstrated its value." The men in the laboratory were carefully selected. There are ten men in the document examination division, where handwriting, typewriting and other problems of extortion notes, etc., are handled; three men are in the fire arms identification division; the remainder handle geology and metallurgy problems, including radio, sound, electricity and chemical problems.

"We have on file 35,000 water marked papers, 2,000 automobile tire designs, 1,800 types of ammunition and bullets, 340 firearms of different sizes and types," he explained.

Services of the department of justice laboratory are available to all peace officers in the nation. Last year 16,773 examinations were made. Work of a new type of examination for documents, the infrared photographic type, was explained. Through this it is possible to photograph marks apparently erased or obliterated on paper or cloth. He told of the log of a commercial airplane pilot, killed in a crash, being photographed and the last minutes of the pilot's record, deciphered.

Four cases in which the government bureau's work was prominent were cited, including a Chandler, Okla., bank robbery case, an extortion note case at San Angelo, the Stalcup-Brown murder of Sheriff W. B. Arthur at Dickens and the Sudan bank robbery last summer.

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING

Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and is especially suited to tender skin. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.

Doctors recommend an oily ointment because it penetrates the outer layers of the skin more effectively. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For over 40 years it has been—and still is—successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.

Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 1, Baltimore, Md.

Our Self-Made Troubles

THE safety experts look up from their desks to announce that our automobiles killed more people in January of this year than in any other January on record—thus compelling us to reflect that our greatest perils these days seem to be the ones we create for ourselves.

The traffic menace is strictly a man-made affair. There is no immutable natural law which makes it a menace—except, possibly, the law that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same moment. Since we created this menace, we could end it over-night if we chose to do so.

But we don't choose. We refuse to give up the driving habits which tragic experience has proved to be dangerous; we refuse, for the most part, to permit our police to build an effective system of traffic control. And so we go on, killing people at a rate that would raise a heaven-shaking cry of protest if the deaths were caused by some plague or pestilence.

IT seems to be mankind's fate in this modern world to create new dangers for himself as fast as he destroys old ones. The automobile, which kills the people whom medical science saves from death by smallpox, yellow fever, and cholera, is one example; on a vastly greater scale, war is another.

Here, again, we face a menace that we ourselves created. It is exactly like the traffic menace except that it is infinitely larger. Traffic threatens to kill us individually; war threatens to wipe out our whole civilization.

Suppose some natural force—a strange new disease, a return of the ice age, or something equally elemental and beyond human control—were coming up on the horizon the way war is coming up; something that bade fair to destroy entire cities overnight, to inflict the most excruciating suffering on millions of people, to kill women and children by wholesale, to disrupt the entire world's economic and social mechanisms, and to reduce every great nation on earth to bankruptcy and chaos.

Would there not be the most frantic, determined effort by all the nations of the world to enlist their best brains, spend to the limit of their ability, and co-operate like brothers of the Golden Age, in order to avert the danger? Would not all quarrels, jealousies and suspicions be shelved until the danger had passed?

THE answer is too obvious to need repeating; so, too, is the distressing fact that although a danger precisely like the one described above does threaten the world, and threaten it imminently, we do nothing whatever to turn it aside. Turn it aside? We made it ourselves!

In little things and in big things, it's the same story. We seem to be able to get around all our troubles except the ones we ourselves have called into being.

A BENEFIT OF WAR

In a recent interview abroad, Viscount Astor, husband of American-born Lady Astor, M. P., cited an interesting fact.

Under auspices of the League of Nations, a group of nutrition experts has been endeavoring to get countries to devote more care of the important matter of proper food for their young.

"In some countries where we cannot get interest in nutrition on the ground of child welfare," maintains Lord Astor, "we find it aroused by the need for stronger recruits for the army."

While this seems too strongly reminiscent of fattening the kine for the market, preparedness for war apparently does serve at least one good purpose. What an ideal state of things it would be, now, if this trend toward proper child care would gather momentum and become a permanent feature of our civilization, and war could be outlawed.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"News broadcasters have made much progress, but they still walk to the post-office for the home town newspaper," A. M. Richards notes in the Ropes Plainsman.

"Our opinion," W. D. Starcher opines in the Dickens County Times "is that in regard to constitutional law the Supreme court could be as wise as both the President and Congress."

Today's One-Minute Sermon

But love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest; for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: Condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven. St. Luke, VI: 35-37.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

by MARIE BLIZARD © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT, charming young New York advertising executive, rents her deceased father's Connecticut estate to LARRY SMITH, attractive young bachelor architect, and promptly likes him tremendously. Daphne has one sister, JENNIFER, six years younger, just out of college and at her first job.

Jennifer resents Daphne's attempts at guidance and proceeds to date whom she pleases, including TUCKER AINSLEY, wealthy playboy and former beau of Daphne's. Next Jennifer finds that Larry is not married and she makes a play for his attentions. This develops a struggle between the sisters for the same man.

One night Larry dates Daphne. At the same time Daphne refuses Jennifer permission to date Tuck. Daphne spends a thrilling evening with the man she loves, is sorry she didn't let Daphne date Tuck just once more. Then, in the early hours of the next morning, she returns to her apartment to find Jennifer is gone.

Daphne has been openly defied. She lies awake over the problem, falls asleep finally. At dawn Jennifer knocks at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

Daphne stared at the door for a full minute, her feet refusing to obey the command of her brain. She was afraid to open that door. The pounding in the silence of the early morning struck blows of apprehension into her.

At last she reached the door and jerked it open.

"Hi, there! You're a sound sleeper." It was Jennifer, a little less lovely in the gray light. The hem of her white satin gown was soiled. Her hands were blue where they clutched her evening wrap about her shivering shoulders. Her hair was in disarray but her manner was jaunty enough.

Daphne was unable to speak. Her fears turned to swift anger that bubbled up in her throat. Without speaking she turned and went into the bath, started the hot water in the tub. Then she stepped back to the living room and lighted the hearth fire.

"Sit here," she said shortly and drew a chair up before the fire.

Jennifer sank into it and waved her chiffon handkerchief airily above her head.

"Thass what I call service. You're a good sport."

Daphne had knelt down to take off Jennifer's slippers.

Thass. The word returned to her. She sat back on her heels.

"Jennifer," she asked gently, "have you been drinking?"

Jennifer kicked off her slippers and sat up a bit straighter. Her head moved in a gesture Daphne knew too well but her voice was not as brave as she meant it to be. "What if I have been? I'm of age and I know what I'm doing. Why don't you go to bed?"

"That's what I'm going to do. I don't trust myself to talk to you now. Your tub is ready. We'll discuss this tomorrow."

The mantle clock struck six.

Twelve hours later it was striking when Daphne let herself into her living room. This was the hour she had dreaded all day, a day that Jennifer had stolen from her. This should have been a memorable day in her life. A day to savor her newfound happiness.

Instead it had been a day filled with heaviness and weariness. With the weight of her responsibility and the knowledge that it was unfair that she, who was only a girl herself, should have to meet the problem that Jennifer had proved herself. Oh, let me be wise and careful, she pleaded with herself. Don't let me alienate Jennifer. She's only a child and I must be father and mother to her. Show me the way to treat her.

She had expected to be greeted with sullenness, with defiance. Perhaps Jennifer would not be there at all.

"Jennifer!"

"Hello, darling, welcome home. I've a treat for you tonight. I'm making something you like for dinner." Jennifer was in the kitchen. Daphne caught her breath in sheer surprise while she took in the unexpectedness of fresh flowers in the bowl on her desk, the small table smartly set for two.

She took firm hold of herself. She was not to be wooed this way. But she took her cue from Jennifer and and responded brightly to Jennifer's questions about the day until they had cleared away the dinner and sat, with their coffee before the blazing hearth.

"Might as well make up your mind to it, Jennifer, the time has come to talk. I want to know where you were last night."

"You might as well make up your mind, you're going to hear some unpleasant things yourself, Daph. One of the things is that I'm not going to be treated like a child anymore. However, I'll tell you where I was last night.

I went on a party with George Blumenthal."

"Who in heaven's name is George Blumenthal and why did you lie to me about wanting to go out with Tuck?"

"George Blumenthal is a very charming, very rich young man that I met at a party somewhere. He . . . he knows a lot of people and he happened to call me up and ask me out after you had left." Daphne knew that Jennifer was lying.

"We went to someone's apartment and then we went to a club for a dance. I didn't really mean to stay so late but we ran into some friends of his. And—oh, Daphne, you'll be glad to hear this—one of them is in the dress manufacturing business and he gave me a card to come and see him about giving me a job as a model. I really meant to come home earlier but I knew you wouldn't even think about me when you were with Larry. I think Larry is simply divine. What did you do?"

"Most of the night I went crazy and the rest doesn't concern you. Look here, Jennifer, I am not going to be misled. Last night you were drinking. You came home looking fuzzy and while we're on the subject, you might keep it in mind that my last application for admittance to the Old Ladies' Home was rejected on the grounds that I'm still too young. Memory still serves me well enough to know all about this type of party.

"There are lots of things I had to learn in the unpleasant school of experience any single young girl learns in New York." Daphne went on, "and you're going to cut out this crowd of sophisticates."

"I'm really surprised, Daphne, that your application was turned down. You've trotted out some of the most delectable old-fashioned ideas I've ever heard. Didn't you ever hear about pleasant cocktail parties? Didn't you know that nice people do take a drink occasionally?"

Daphne had risen to her feet. Dark eyes blazed into ice blue eyes. "I've heard and learned more than you'll ever know, Jennifer, as long as I'm supporting you and responsible for you, you'll take orders from me. You're going back to school tomorrow and finish your course. You are not going out with men I haven't met. You're not going to take another drink. Is that plain?"

Jennifer studied the gloss on her fingernails coolly enough but her breath came faster and then she blazed:

"Daphne Brett, you may be my sister but I've a mind of my own! We've never had anything in common and we might as well have a show-down. You're not supporting me anymore. I'll have a job tomorrow and you can like it or leave it."

Tears welled up in the dark eyes and then Daphne clasped her two hands together and turned away.

Instantly Jennifer's arms were about her and she pressed her wet cheek to Daphne's.

"Oh, I'm sorry; I'm sorry!" she cried. "We were both angry and you've always been wonderful to me. I'm a little beast, Daph, but I'll try not to do it again. I promise. But, darling, you must realize that I'm a person and not a child. Only don't let's ever do this again. Let's try to meet each other half way."

"If Daphne had known where half way was, she would have tried. Or if she had known that Jennifer's half way was a strange measurement of all Jennifer way, she would have acted differently. She would have given her more rope. And she would have been suspicious of her sister's scheming.

She would have sensed what was in Jennifer's mind when she said casually enough one day, "Daphne, how does Tuck do the things he does—keep a car and a man and all that when he doesn't work?"

Daphne answered, "Oh, he has a little money. About ten thousand a year from his father's estate."

"He'd make a good husband." Jennifer said and pretended concentration on her magazine.

"I never thought so," Daphne answered as idly. "Tuck is pleasantly social but he's been around too much. His gold is tarnished. He isn't quite a gentleman. That's one of the reasons I don't want you to see too much of him."

Jennifer's attention ostensibly was on the printed page. Actually, she was seeing a girl in beautiful clothes saying to a salesgirl, "Send it to Mrs. Tucker Ainsley, please."

In early days the weapon hand was bared and held out as a symbol of peace. This is believed to have been the origin of handshaking.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S repeated references to his exodus from the White House on "January 20, 1941" have provoked as furious a cloakroom controversy as was roused by Calvin Coolidge's "I do not choose to run."

In so many words Mr. Roosevelt seems to promise that at the end of his second term he will turn over the presidency to somebody else, "whoever he may be"—another cryptic expression. But certain Senators who have discussed the court issue with him privately think they discern a threat lurking behind the promise.

In his talks with them he emphasized and reemphasized his ambition to hand down a workable government to his successor "when I leave the White House on January 20, 1941." But some substitute an "if" for the "when" in their own minds, provided he has not converted Congress, the people and his party to his program of judiciary reform by that time. What strengthens this suspicion is his demand for Supreme court expansion—an act almost as daring as a thrust at the two-term tradition.

DEDUCTION: Southern Congressmen hostile to Secretary Perkins' tolerant deportation policies recently awoke to the presence of numerous northern lectures in their home cities and states. Some of the "carpet-baggers" were Republicans, and their speeches sang the same tune—criticism of the Secretary's opponents on the immigration question.

A sub-rosa inquiry prompted by letters from home disclosed that the orators' fees and expenses were being paid out of a secret fund appropriated to the Labor department for enforcement of the "contract labor law". The politicos next discovered what they should have known and remedied long ago. In view of general bars against immigration, there has been no "contract labor law" to enforce for six years, and therefore no need for such an appropriation.

But the forgetful legislators have been appropriating $200,000 annually, and Miss Perkins spent $83,000 of it for promotion purposes. With torrents of denunciations against such violation of the law and disregard for Congressional dignity, the sub-committee handling her finances eliminated this item and reduced other sums for good measure. She will first hear of it when the measure reaches the House floor next week.

DISCLOSED: Secretary Morgenthau's unhappy experience with George Bonnet, emergency French ambassador, has aroused Capitol Hill curiosity over the administration's mysterious conference with distinguished statesmen from abroad.

Mr. Bonnet's secret visit to the Treasury would have escaped American reporters if the Washington correspondent of the Petit Parisiene had not called a sensational story to his newspaper. The dispatch said that Mr. Morgenthau had promised France "unequivocal support" in her monetary difficulties. It was most embarassing to American officials—and American reporters, who fully believed the yarn because of the close working arrangement existing between French diplomats and writers for the official press.

The horror-stricke Secretary of the Treasury resorted to heroic measures to repair the financial fences. Summoning the Parisienne correspondent to an open press conference, he wrung from him the admission that he had simply "guessed" at the purport of the Bonnet-Morgenthau conversations. Others present got the impression he was simply "protecting" M. Bonnet. They noted that Mr. Morgenthau had a bulky, stenographic transcript of his "agreeable talk" with the French Ambassador. And two days later France fixed up the franc so as to improve its purchasing power in relation to the dollar.

NOTES: Utilities ask that proposed investigation of propaganda be broadened to include government ownership agitation . . . Strong move is on in the Senate to repeal the Wheeler-Howard act "communizing" the Indians—Senator Wheeler favors repeal. . . . International conference on the textile industry will be held in Washington next month.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

EXCEPTIONALLY authoritative sources confide that Myron Taylor of U. S. Steel obtained private White House assurance of a quid pro quo before he finally consented to shatter all precedents by making terms with an "outside union." His bargain is understood to entail legislation making labor unions legally responsible for fulfilment of contracts.

There have been significant indications recently that President Roosevelt favors such a law. Still more startling is information from reliable and unusually well-posted quarters that John Lewis will raise no serious objection to a measure of this kind. The American Federation of Labor people may yell themselves hoarse in opposition to it, but the inside dope is that they will be unable to stop it without Lewis' help.

Legal responsibility for unions—in the British manner—would go far to take the sting out of union recognition for most financial and industrial leaders. Many conservatives who now criticize Mr. Taylor would feel that his "surrender" was worth while after all on those terms. New Yorkers are from Missouri about alleged "assurances" from this administration. They'll believe in them when they see them, not before. But they will be watching eagerly for developments along this line.

EXAMPLE: In any case, insiders know that Mr. Taylor has been under pressure from the White House for several months past to make some sort of a deal with John Lewis.

Mr. Taylor is hardly what you could call an ardent admirer of the New Deal, but on several occasions in the past he has shown an inclination to "make his peace with the inevitable."

For instance, U. S. Steel was one of the first large corporations to take costly advertising space in the 1936 Democratic campaign book. It proved a most valuable example for Democratic canvassers to cite in approaching hesitant corporate prospects.

SIGNAL: Banking higher-ups get word from European contacts that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., has been subjected to an intensive and skillful propoganda barrage from Britain and France in the past few weeks. The aim has been to induce him to relax the terms of the "gentleman's agreement" among the three countries and allow the pound and the franc to slip lower in terms of the dollar. Our government has been told in practically so many words that France's financial predicament might lead to catastrophic collapse at any moment unless the United States would cooperate in this way. Mr. Morgenthau has not been at all responsive to these impassioned arguments.

RETIRE: The New York Cotton Exchange is showing signs of authentic life these days for the first time in years. The actual market position of cotton has at last caught up with the synthetic prosperity created for it in the early days of the New Deal. A price level originally artificial is now supported by economic realities.

Where the government once held title to about 6 million bales of cotton—a perpetual threat to the market—its holdings have now been reduced to a mere 2 1-2 million bales. The total crop carryover in this country has been slashed by more than six million bales. Supply and demand are coming into equilibrim again cotton mills are unable to keep pace with orders.

Cotton men figure this would be a swell time for Uncle Sam to dispose of the balance of his stocks and retire from the business for keeps, leaving the cotton market to the "free play of natural economic forces". They are doing their best behind the scenes to sell this idea to the proper Washington authorites, but the latter remain non-committal.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS, No. 46

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

At a whispered command from their chief, the hostile savages burst from ambush and encircled the startled travelers. George, feeling that in Tarzan's absence the responsibility of leadership rested on his shoulders, quickly raised his high-powered rifle to fire.

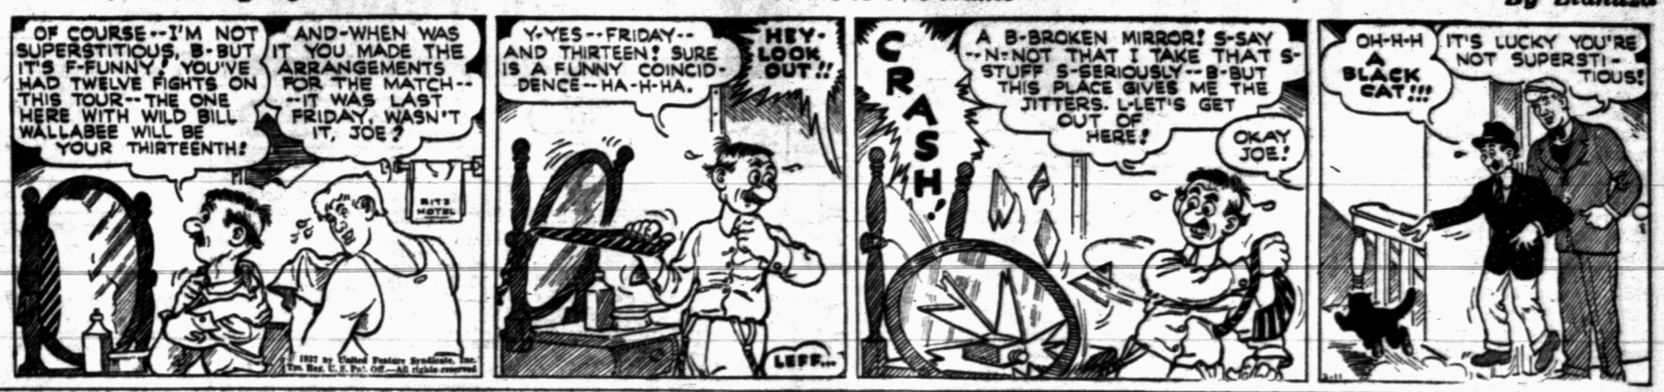

Then he saw a score of arrows pointed at him. This was a time, he decided, to beseech rather than challenge Lady Luck. He flung down the gun and tremblingly searched for his rabbit's foot. And he suffered a thousand tortures until he grasped it in his eager hand.

Ula Dale, however, put no faith in anything except power in dealing with these hostile savages. At least she would try to frighten them. She whipped her revolver from its holster, but immediately five of the quick-footed Indians sprang upon her and disarmed her.

Now the tribesmen stood grim and silent. "Tohua," Ula called, "ask them what they want of us." Tohua conveyed her demand to the chief, who pointed to the bodies and spoke: "White man kill my people. We kill white people. We feed white people to Great Destroyer!"

rather than to a cell.

Mrs. Ethel Whittaker was slain in what her husband said was an attempted holdup in their home the night of March 16, 1936. Police soon arrested a young Kentucky mountaineer, James Fagan Culver, who had been seen fleeing from the Whittaker apartment.

Young Culver told officers that Whittaker had given him a little money and asked him to simulate a holdup in order to thrill a woman friend.

The mountain boy testified Whittaker drew a revolver and started shooting. Mrs. Whittaker was killed, and Culver wounded.

The state presented evidence that some of the bullets in Mrs. Whittaker's body came from her husband's pistol, and argued that he plotted her death to obtain her insurance.

A jury fixed Whittaker's punishment at life imprisonment. Culver was given a term of five years to life on a second degree murder charge.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP)—Commodity stocks, strongly supported by steels, rails and motors, raced to new recovery peaks in today's market, many gaining 1 to 4 points and some much more.

Soaring prices for wheat, cotton, rubber, lead, tin, zinc and export copper spurred bidding for favorites and frequently put the ticker tape behind.

The Associated Press average for 60 issues was up .5 of a point at 75.3, its best level since April 14, 131. Transfers totalled 2,823,470 shares compared with 2,391,670 yesterday.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 10. (AP)—General buying lifted cotton prices another dollar a bale today to new highs for the season and to within a few points of the best levels in 7 years.

In active trading all options moved ahead briskly, at one time being up around $1.50 a bale. The inevitable profit taking and realizing sales in the last hour cut down a part of this gain but March finished at 14.07 bid, May at 13.75, July at 13.60 and Dec. at 13.22.

Only in July, 136, when futures touched 14.14 temporarily at New Orleans have options reached into this ground since 1930. At New York the March position ran ahead of New Orleans and managed to establish a new high since that year.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP)—Cotton advanced about $1.00 a bale today on general buying stimulated by renewed strength of foreign markets. May sold up from 13.73@13.91 and closed at 13.84 with final prices 17 to 19 points net higher.

A rally to 14.29 for March during the morning carried that position up to the best level since June 1930. Interests here reported some improvement in demand for spot cotton with desirable grades difficult to buy.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, March 10. (AP) — The average price of middling spot cotton at 10 southern markets today was 14.13 cents a pound; for the past 30 days 13.30 cents a pound.

to the fullest extent in the program.

Recently, a proposal to include a small group around Lubbock was denied by federal officials as being too limited and not profitable.

Moore has two meetings scheduled for today; at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Muleshoe and at 8 o'clock tonight at Ralls. Friday, he will be at Fort Worth at the state FFA meeting.

Moore said there are approximately 30 Texas counties in which some application of the plan has been tried and that numerous others are interested.

fell before the eyes of his wife, with whom he had been talking seconds before.

Officers from several counties in this area converged upon Jefferson to begin what appeared a fruitless manhunt. Federal alcohol unit officers, who often worked with Brown, offered aid and the state department of public safety dispatched Ranger Capt. H. B. Purvis from Austin.

All available bloodhounds in the territory were set loose at the scene of the slaying but when they lost the scent a block away, officers theorized the killer escaped by automobile.

Expedition Plans Early Man Study

Dr. W. C. Holden, acting head of the history department at Texas Technological college and curator of the West Texas Museum association, will head an expedition which Friday will go to the Big Bend country to excavate a cave near the mouth of the Pecos river and seek evidence of early man.

Completion of plans was made Wednesday afternoon. Mayor Ross Edwards, W. G. McMillan, Dr. C. J. Wagner, W. L. Pearson, and other individuals, as well as several Tech students, will join the expedition.

Evidences if found would be presented to the museum association and placed on display at the association's partially completed building on the campus.

An ash heap in a Val Verde county cave challenged attention of Doctor Holden and McMillan in an earlier visit. The heap had been built over a long period and showed evidences of an early race.

Much equipment for excavation will be taken.

was not subject to a point of order which had blocked it. It was sent to state affairs committee without debate.

The senate held an executive session, reportedly to consider appointments by Governor Allred to the state board of education and the Amarillo court of civil appeals, but no announcement as to confirmation or rejection was made.

Leaders in the race repeal movement, while admitting their cause had suffered a severe reverse, asserted they would press for action by the senate committee on criminal jurisprudence, the chairman of which, Albert Stone of Brenham, said a hearing would be held soon.

In the committee, in addition to the bill returned, were the measure which had passed the house and a similar bill which originated in the senate. The bill re-committed originally provided only for regulation of track employes, but was amended in the senate to repeal race betting.

Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, repeal leader, stated efforts to abolish race track wagering had suffered "a tremendous setback," but the fight had only begun.

The senate highways and motor transportation committee reported favorably tonight a bill to increase the highway patrol personnel contingent upon appropriations made for the purpose.

The measure set no maximum strength and was substituted for a proposal by Senator W. R. Newton of Cameron to approximately double the present 147-man patrol.

jump in Chicago wheat futures prices today.

In some cases excited brokers quoted wheat at the highest prices in eight years here and the cereal sold at the highest levels in several years at all major world markets.

The top quotation in Chicago, $1.40 a bushel, was paid for May wheat, the highest this particular contract has been since 1929 and within 2 5-8 cents of the peak reached by any delivery since then a year ago May wheat sold just below $1.

The five-cent jump, maximum permitted in one session, was socred by July and September wheat.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 10. (AP)—Unprecedented big European purchasing, about 12,000,000 bushels, whirled wheat values excitedly up five cents a bushel today to the highest point reached in eight years.

Immense profit-taking on the wheat advance, however, led to more than two cents setback from the top as the day ended in wild tumult.

July and September deliveries of wheat, representing the 1937 domestic crop, were in the van of today's advance, but the topmost price was reached by May, an old crop future, $1.40 a bushel.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1⅛ to 3½ cents above yesterday's finish, May $1.37⅝@1.37⅞, July $1.21⅞@1.22, Sept. $1.19⅝@1.19¾, corn unchanged to 1½ higher, May $1.09⅝@1.09⅞, July $1.05@1.05⅛, Sept. 99⅝@99¾, oats ½ to ⅞ advanced, May 48⅝@48½, and rye showing 1¾ to 2 cents bulge, May $1.08⅝. Provisions results varied from 7 cents decline to 5 cents gain.

FORT WORTH REPORT

do what he thinks best for the wage earner, small business man and the farmer.

"I was for them in 1924 at the sacrifice of party loyalty and, if necessary, I will do it again notwithstanding Mr. Farley's threats," he said.

While Wheeler contended that it cannot be maintained "with good faith" that interpretations of the present Supreme court deprive congress of power to relieve those in need, to continue a farm program, and to protect the consumer against monopoly, Landis asserted:

"This uncertainty (concerning the individual predilections of the court) throws doubt upon laws already passed or now in contemplation, irrespective of careful and conscientious draftsmanship, dealing with such matters as old age pensions, social security, collective bargaining, control of crop surpluses, crop insurance, soil conservation, coordinated river basin control, government aid for better housing—to catalogue only a few of the measures that bespeak the aims of our generation."

Vetoes of the supreme tribunal against social legislation, Landis added, strip organized democratic government of the power to achieve objectives of long standing.

Wheeler challenged the president's contention, made in recent addresses, that the nation confronts a crisis.

He said the president painted a picture of poverty, sweatshops, unemployment, inadequate housing, drouth, floods, poor crops and strikes and that "all this, it is implied, was because of the Supreme court."

"As I saw that dark picture unfold," Wheeler continued, "I wondered what the president meant when I sat with him but four short months ago on the platform from which he spoke in Denver and heard him declare that the government had 'sought and found practical answers to the problems of industry, agriculture and mining'."

Landis spoke of a portion of the opposition to the court legislation as men who "recognize the existence of the problem and are sincerely grieved by it." They hope, he said, that time will see new men appointed to the bench and the conflict thus ended.

Labor Situation

portant developments. In Pittsburgh Ralph H. Martin, spokesman for the grievance committee of employes representatives of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, said a salary increase had been negotiated for the corporation's "white collar workers."

At Cleveland, the Republic Steel Corp. announced extension of a 10-cent an hour wage boost to groups not included in a previous order, and also established a vacation plan based on length of service.

A new strike occurred in the heart of Detroit, where about 70,000 wage earners were idle. The dispute closed the 12-story Crowley, Milner and Co. department store and threw about 3,500 employes into idleness.

Conferences continued in the Hudson Motor Car Co. strike, in which more than 10,000 were idle at Detroit.

New wage schedules were posted in the press and metals department of Fisher Body plant No. 1 at Flint, where week-end disputes had temporarily closed two plants affecting 13,000 workers.

Two transportation strikes hindered activities in Chicago. The six-day old taxi drivers' walkout continued unbroken, with two unions contesting for membership. No violence was reported, in contrast to Tuesday, when more than 50 were seized in disturbances.

U.S. Attorney First Speaker

Attorney General Cummings' Views On President's Court Proposal Given Wednesday; Developments Are Swift

ed by the president.

Borah was first to join the issue.

"Suppose after six members are added to the court as proposed in this bill," he asked, "they should still divide eight to seven, would not this entire plan fail?"

"It would depend on which side the eight were on and which side the seven were on," Cummings said.

Doubt Should Be Wanted

The attorney general replied that his objection to split decisions applied only to those which invalidated acts of congress. He argued again that any division of opinion on the court in such matters established a reasonable doubt that an enactment of congress was invalid. This doubt, he argued, should be honored by the court as a whole.

It was true, Cummings said, that if the new justices proved to be "ultra conservative," there would be no change in the court situation. "But I do not think it's apt to happen if we have on the bench forward looking judges," he said.

"Your proposition then—" Senator King (D-Utah) intervened "—calls for justices who are in sympathy with your views?"

When There Is Reasonable Doubt

"No not with my views, sir, but the view of men who hold with the court that it should not invalidate an act of congress when there is a reasonable doubt as to its unconstitutionality. To that extent, yes, yes, yes. That's the kind of a Supreme court we ought to have in America."

"How do you know the appointees will take the liberal view you think they will," Borah asked, his eyes twinkling.

"All I can say is what Justice Holmes said—the new Constitution has to take some chances—and I say that we have to take some chances, too."

O'Mahoney Joins In

O'Mahoney took up the questioning, asking if Cummings would oppose a constitutional amendment "providing that no act of congress shall be declared unconstitutional without the concurrence of two-thirds of the court."

On "principle," Cummings said, he knew of no objections. He added that "the chief objections grow out of expediency and the difficulties of achievement—the long period of time which, he contended, must elapse before an amendment can be formulated and ratified.

Includes Recovery Act

The attorney general said he would be "perfectly content to live under the kind of law we are getting from Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo." (The liberal faction of the Supreme court).

"Does that include the National Recovery act," Borah shot in. (The act was outlawed by a unanimous decision).

"Yes certainly—" Cummings replied, the remainder of his rejoinder lost in a burst of laughter.

Senator Austin, burly Republican from Vermont, his face livid with indignation, charged into the questioning. He observed that Cummings had argued that a constitutional amendment was out of the question.

"Does it follow then that we must give up all hope of amending the Constitution and giving the people the chance to pass on this as provided by the Constitution?" he asked. "In my experience when the people of the country favor an amendment it can be ratified within a year."

"I have not reached the conclusion you have," Cummings retorted. "If there is no opposition by any great political party, you may get it through with some speed. But if it affects property rights and runs counter to any political party, the chances of getting it through quickly are practically nil."

Missing Currency

Kittrell if he still were with the bank and received an affirmative answer.

A report an official of the bank had gone to New Mexico was denied by police at midnight.

An authoritative source said grilling of a man who had not been detained even as a material witness was being conducted late Wednesday night. That person had been questioned earlier in the week, it was known.

Wednesday's developments came hard on the heels of a significant finding of Tuesday. A cache authorities were directed to in a letter not intended for them disclosed $1,750 in bank notes and indicated the money was a "present" for the person to whom it had been addressed from a prominent Amarillo hotel.

The money had been accepted by the bank as part of that missing, although positive identification of the currency had not been announced.

One of the FBI agents, it reliably was reported, had been assigned to the investigation.

A dragnet thrown about communication and transportation channels was being kept taut, but all authorities questioned by newspapermen shook their heads sententiously.

Tech Band Is All Dressed-Up Last Night In Concert

With their concert at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the college gymnasium, Texas Technological band, under the direction of D. O. Wiley, conductor, ended a drive to pay for their new uniforms. An estimated 1,750 persons attended.

Preliminary estimates showed ticket sales amounted to about $2,000.

At the opening of the program Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, introduced Claude Thompson, student president, who in turn introduced Director Wiley.

Under the act of the special session legislature calling the county option elections, it was provided if one county returned a repeal majority, possession of liquor purchased in state operated stores would be legal throughout the state.

Legal liquor's flow through the state will start some time after March 25, after Governor Bibb Graves proclaims the result of today's election in the 67 counties. Most observers expected legal sale to start by April 1.

Nine Boys In Ugliness Race

Candidates For "Bachelor Of Ugliness" Degree Named In Convocation Wednesday At Texas Tech; Vote Is Set

Students at Texas Technological college Wednesday morning nominated nine candidates for the degree of "Bachelor of Ugliness."

"There are uglier boys on the campus, however, and we're going to try to get them on the ballot", said Jim Lindsey, editor of the Toreador, which is sponsoring selection of the ugliest boy.

Students Nominated

Men students nominated from the floor in a convocation this morning were: Raymond Curfman, Electra; Fred J. Davis, Fort Worth; S. D. (Tox) Wiginton, jr., Levelland; Fred Stickle, Arp; Leldon Hudson, Wellington; Padgett Maddox, Lubbock; Joe Tom Weddle, Bonham; Dean Felber, Olney; B. H. Turner, Lubbock.

The Toreador is holding the election in answer to a challenge from Texas Christian university and Hardin-Simmons university students that Tech find an uglier boy than their candidates.

The boy chosen will be well liked or he would not receive the larger number of votes, said Lindsey.

Secret Ballot Planned

The "winner" will be elected Wednesday of next week by secret ballot.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, dismissed classes for 30 minutes Wednesday morning so that the students might be nominated. The degree of "Bachelor of Ugliness" will be conferred in a convocation soon after the election, Doctor Knapp said.
