BEAUMONT STREETS PEACEFUL

BEAUMONT, June 18.—Peace returned to Beaumont's bloody race riot streets following a near-record night-long session of a military court of inquiry.

Most of the Gulf Coast shipbuilding town's white citizens had returned to work as order was restored by martial law and the Negro population contemplated a "Juneteenth" without celebration.

Tomorrow is Juneteenth, immemorial celebration day commemorating emancipation of slaves, but all festivities were cancelled Beaumont, where two persons were killed and sixty or more injured in rioting and fighting in the streets. Property damage was estimated at $20,000.

And while tenseness relaxed, one of all the trouble, a young shipyard worker who allegedly attacked a white woman, the wife of a shipyard worker, was still sought by police.

A military court continued in session through last midnight, questioning many of 200 men held by law for taking part in riots. Yesterday, 17 men were questioned and all but one released. He was turned over to city authorities charged with possessing a shotgun with a barrel which was too short.

The press was barred from sessions of the court.

Police Chief Dickey said police had no evidence to verify rumors that racial troubles were stirred up by Axis agents.

He said it was up to the F. B. I. to decide how the riots were started.

ZONE NUMBER WILL AID IN MAIL DELIVERY

The zoning of 178 of the larger cities of the United States makes it helpful for persons sending mail to those cities to not only give the house or street address, but to have the zone number also, said Postmaster L. H. McCrea today.

As an illustration, the probable address of some friend of yours would read like this: John H. Jones, 324 Hemphill, Dallas, 4, Texas. Meaning that the party lives in zone 4.

This is made necessary by the thousands of new employes that have been brought into the post-offices of the larger cities to take the vacated places of those changed to other forms of work, and to care for the great increase of mail brought about by war conditions, Mr. McCrea said. There is no time to give them the thorough training needed in order to properly distribute the mail, but the zoning method seems to facilitate the casing of the mail in the large cities, and thus obviate the delay that of necessity will come to your mail unless the zone number goes with other units of the address.

Asked how one was to secure the zone number of the friend they wished to address, Mr. McCrea said the most logical way would be for the person in a city thus zoned to send you his zone number as well as his street address. Mail without the zone number will probably be delivered, but it will be subject to delay.

Of course, Mr. McCrea said, one could write the postoffice in the city, giving the known address of the party and the zone number would be supplied.

CISCO CLIMATE PLEASES WOMEN TRAINEES

Women trainees arriving in Cisco recently to take the place of those graduating and leaving for jobs in various parts of the nation, represent many states of the south.

They are finding Texas climate as varied as the states they represent, but all enjoy the Cisco Country breezes that makes sleep enjoyable after the temperature of the day. The cool that comes after the sun goes down is surprisingly like mountain country, some of them say.

First Lady of the Lone Star State Is Fifth To Be Featured in Cotton's Portrait Series

Mrs. Stevenson's Picture Appears In Mademoiselle

Joins Other First Ladies In Praising Cotton's Serviceability

She is Mrs. Coke Stevenson Jr., and her state is Texas. Her portrait, the fifth to be published in the series being sponsored by the National Cotton Council and Cotton-Textile Institute, will appear in the July issue of Mademoiselle. With Mrs. Stevenson will be shown her two lovely daughters, Scottie Gayle and Linda Fay. All three, of course, will be wearing cottons to show women all over America the lovely-looking, long-lasting garments that can be made of this favorite family fabric.

Made at Mansion

The portrait, taken in front of the stately Governor's Mansion at Austin, was made by Wynn Richards of New York, one of the nation's leading photographers, who has been commissioned to do the portraits of the First Ladies of all the cotton-producing states. For the picture, Mrs. Stevenson selected a smartly tailored dress of white pique, with matching hat. She dressed her daughters in delightful big and little sister costumes of striped chambray, with eyelet ruffle pinafores.

Wearing cotton is nothing new for either Mrs. Stevenson or her daughters. "Cotton is my choice because it is cool as well as cool-looking," Mrs. Stevenson said. "I like it's freshness and durability. In fact, my daughters wear nothing else because it's so easy to keep clean."

Mrs Stevenson, a native of Cleburne, Texas, is a Texan from start to finish. Consequently, she appreciates the value of cotton to her state. She attended the University of Texas where she met and married Coke Stevenson Jr., son of the Governor of Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson Jr. made their home at Junction where the Governor's family had settled almost a century ago, until the death of Governor Stevenson's wife last year. The younger Mrs. Stevenson then moved to the 80-year-old mansion at Austin to serve as official hostess for the Governor.

The portrait series, presenting for the first time a typical picture of the cotton-country as well as the story of cotton's serviceability on the home-front, already has featured the First Ladies of Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Next month, Mrs. Ellis Arnall of Georgia will be pictured, followed in succeeding months by Mrs. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Mrs. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, and Mrs. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina.

An ardent supporter of cotton, Mrs. Stevenson is wearing a tailored dress of white pique. The little girls are wearing big and little sister dresses of striped chambray, with eyelet ruffle pinafores. This portrait will be published by the cotton industry in the July issue of Mademoiselle as the fifth presentation of the industry's "First Lady" series.

WHIP THE AXIS AND FEED THE WORLD; BIG JOB

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The United States is preparing a food program that contemplates keeping the armed forces abroad until 1947, and participation in a world food pool for the benefit of foreign civilian populations, it was disclosed yesterday.

The revelation was made by the senate appropriations committee which had before it printed copy of a voluminous letter in which the "five-year program for production of critical war food," was outlined to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Outlined on a five-year basis, Ickes said that the six bureaus within the Department of the Interior prepared the program of increased production above and beyond that which has already been put into effect, and added:

"The program is set up as a maximum contribution to the world food pool, for meeting the most pressing deficiencies, to help feed the civilian populations and the United Nations and armed forces at home and abroad in the years 1943 to 1947."

The increased production which the program is expected to achieve, Ickes reported, are these: 1,500,000,000 pounds of meat; 1,750,000,000 pounds of fish; 11,000,000,000 pounds of milk; 100,000,000 bushels of potatoes; 1,000,000,000 pounds of beans.

STRATEGIC DEAD-END.

MOSCOW, June 18.—Red army troops seized enemy trenches on a fortified height in a surprise assault south of Lake Ilmen and held firmly to a river bridgehead above Oriel today as a prominent Soviet observer reported signs that the Germans have reached a "strategic dead-end" in Russia.

ELSIE GLENN IS IN SCHOOL AT BARKELEY

Miss Elsie Glenn, a government social worker in Cisco from 1933 until February, 1943, is now in training, under civil service, at Camp Barkeley preparatory to becoming a dental technician and hygienist. Army dentists conduct classes and practical work is done each day.

At present the Cisco young woman is assisting Lt. Wm. Feldman at the chair in the operative department, where the filling of teeth is done. Twenty dentists and twenty assistants are on this floor of the station hospital.

Loyalty can be a slave chain. People are exploited because they will believe no evil of the leader who exploits them.

TURKISH FRONTIER REOPENED

LONDON, June 18.—British authorities have re-opened the Turkish-Syrian frontier after a 48-hour closure which may have been ordered to cloak movements of Allied armies, an Ankara dispatch reported today.

Radio Moscow quoted Berne quarters today as saying that German authorities had closed the Brenner Pass between Germany and Italy to all traffic. The broadcast, reported by U. S. government monitors, speculated that the action might have been made in preparation for the evacuation from Italy of "industrial equipment, capital and other valuables."

The ban on travel between Syria and Turkey was lifted at 6 a. m. Thursday, it was disclosed, and the Taurus Express, an international train from Syria and Iraq, was expected to arrive in Ankara Saturday morning, two days behind schedule.

Both the British Ninth and Tenth Armies are now in the Middle-East and presumably would participate in any invasion of Axis-held Crete or the Dodecanese Islands, stepping stones to Greece. Axis broadcasts have reported large American detachments also are in the Middle-East, but there has been no Allied confirmation of this.

KENNON WAS 78 YEARS OF AGE TODAY

R. W. H. Kennon—not quite "as fit as a fiddle," but almost—was 78 years old today and spent most of the day at his private desk in the Daily Press office.

Mr. Kennon was born at Union Springs, Ala., June 18, 1865, and came to Texas in 1887. His first work was at Dallas, where he worked at the printing business. Later, he was publisher of the Rockdale Reporter for many years and came to Cisco in 1919. He started the Cisco American in 1920 and was also publisher of the Cisco Citizen several years later.

For a number of years he was employed on the Cisco Daily News and the Daily Press, but has not been employed full time for the past three years. Recently, Mr. Kennon spent a month with his brother near Cameron, Texas. He enjoyed the visit very much, he stated on his return to Cisco, but was "perfectly delighted to be back in God's Country."

GOOD CITIZEN RETURNS AND BUYS BUSINESS

Absent from Cisco since last August, Jack Elkins comes back home to enter again into business.

Mr. Elkins has purchased the A. V. Clark service station at the corner of Eighth street and E avenue and has moved his shop equipment and replacement parts to this place, where he will continue the service station and will give his personal attention to his specialized work of motor tuning, carburetor and electrical service.

The special announcement of Mr. Elkins to the people of Cisco and adjacent territory will be found in this issue.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, under congressional fire for OPA's price-fixing and rollback policies, has ordered establishment of the controversial community-wide ceiling prices on food in virtually every city in the United States, it was learned today.

Such prices—the same throughout a community for various classes of stores—were set in 130 cities last month for hundreds of common food items. It was understood that OPA field directors have been instructed to do the same thing in 300 more communities within the next few weeks.

While congress has been attacking Brown's subsidy-rollback program, designed to cut back the retail price of meats, coffee and butter to last September levels, grocers' associations have been denouncing the community-wide price system. Independent grocers claim that it is unfair to them, inasmuch as lower prices for chain stores and super markets are widely "advertised" by the OPA lists.

But the community price system is part of the roll-back program to which OPA is committed. OPA officials estimate that the uniform prices will reduce food costs 2 to 3 per cent.

Heretofore, price ceilings have been based on prices charged by individual stores on the "freezing" dates for the various items, and varied from store to store. The community prices are set by OPA after studies of prevailing prices and costs and vary from commniuty to commnuity. Within a community the price of a specific item is the same in the same class of store, but varied among independent grocers chain stores and supermarkets. For example, the price of a certain brand of bread in a small independent store might be 12 cents a loaf; in a larger independent or chain store it might be 11 cents, whereas in a supermarket it might cost only 10 cents.

Argument over OPA policies took "the play" away from debate of recent days on the food supply prospects. But Rep. John Taber (Republican, New York), kept it current with a warning that unless OPA's "long-haired professors" are dismissed immediately, starvation may stalk the United States next winter.

War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis warned civilians that they must get accustomed to eating more cereals, beans and potatoes, to compensate for eating less meat.

Extension of the community price system to all major cities is bound to bring more criticism from the grocery trade, but it probably will be only a faint cry compared with the denunciations of OPA being aired in congress.

A new facet was added to the congressional campaign against OPA yesterday by charges that the agency had assumed unwarranted jurisdiction over profits. Brown reassured the special house committee investigating executive agencies that although profits as well as prices come within OPA's jurisdiction, profits will be regulated "only to prevent inflation."

Brown's statement was an answer to charges by Committee Counsel Harold Allen that "secret files" subpenaed from David Ginsburg, former OPA general counsel, revealed the plan to fix prices on a basis of profits.

COURAGE.

The Connally Smith anti-strike bill is one of the most honorable and courageous measures that has been passed by Congress in recent years. It goes far to restore the freedom of that body to act in the public interest, free from political dictation by selfish groups who are strong and vocal but who represent only a minority of the people. We are glad to have it revived.

NEGRO SCHOOL AWARDED BIBLE.

The junior department of the Daily Vacation Bible session had as a project this year the purchase of a Bible and its presentation to a negro Sunday school of Cisco. The project was completed Thursday with a program at the First Methodist church, as follows: The Lord's Prayer; song, "Enter Into His Gates," by Bible school; pledges to American and Christian flags was followed by presentation of the Bible by Lavelda Cagle and its acceptance for the Negro school by Mattie Mims; presentation of rules for care of the Bible, Mona Lee Cluck; Song, "God Is Love," by Negro Sunday school; "Rainbow Song" by Bible school; song, Psalm 24, chanted by four groups; right tower, Lucile Ricks, Billy Fay Robinson, Patsy Ruth Nance and E. L. Hazelwood, Jr.; left tower, Louise Jackson, Lavelda Cagle, Bobby Jean Dean and Edgar Hickman; inside the gate, Renabel Bible, Ella Gwen Waddell, James Porter, Betty Lou Brogdon, Lovell Paul; outside the gate, Jimmie Waddell, Helen Woodward, Jeanette Crawford, Emma Lee Donahoe, Phil Kelly, Mona Lee Cluck, Crystal Smith, Mary Louise Shurwin; "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," Negro Sunday school; story, "The Bravest Man I Ever Knew," Mrs. Wm. H. Cole. Benediction by Mrs. Cole completed the program. Helpers were Mrs. J. R. Wright, Mrs. Randolph Lee Clark and Mrs. J. S. Mobley.

Those present from the Negro Sunday school were George Haynes, superintendent; Elnora Frank, Martha Mims, Mattie Mims, Louise Mims, Florine Shelton and Cathryn Shelton.

MRS. V. H. BOSWORTH HOTESS TO JUNIORS.

Girls auxiliary of East Cisco Baptist women's missionary society met in the home of their sponsor, Mrs. V. H. Bosworth, Wednesday afternoon. After the meeting had been opened with prayer by Jane Houston, Margaret Bowsorth, president, conducted the business session. Mrs. Bosworth brought the lesson from the first chapter of the mission book, "Topsy Turvy Twins," which was enjoyed by the group.

Those present were Jane Houston, Angeline Pence, Margaret Bosworth, Frances Dennis, Laverne Dennis and Mrs. Bosworth.

"POT-LUCK" MEAL ENJOYED BY COUNCIL.

Members of First Christian church council met at the church Tuesday for a "Pot Luck" luncheon. Decorations of seasonal flowers gave a festive appearance to the room and the dining table was decorated with the blossoms. Rev. J. R. Wright gave the invocation.

Following the meal installation of officers for the coming year was held. Those inducted: President, Mrs. J. S. Mobley; first vice president, Mrs. Sam Kimmell; second vice president, Mrs. George Atkins; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. Guy J. Ward; Missionary chairman, Mrs. J. R. Wright; World Call secretary, Miss Alice Bacon.

Approximately 20 women were present.

STATED MEETING HELD TUESDAY NIGHT.

Cisco Chapter, 461, Order of Eastern Star, met in regular stated meeting Tuesday night with Mrs. Fred Steffey presiding. The meeting opened in regular form, concluding with a pledge to the flag. Minutes were read by Mrs. Mary E. Brown and reports of various committees were given. Two officers, Mrs. Minnie Lee Rosenthal and Mrs. Maisel Allen, were installed.

Twenty members were present.

THIS IS A FIGHT FOR OUR LIVES

Many may not realize that this is a fight for our lives — for the honor of our wives, sisters and daughters. If we lose, we as a race of people are doomed.

But we do not expect to lose. Our boys will fight to the last ditch, which we think will be enough to win.

The enemy got around to it, too.

And the Axis dictators really geared their people to war. Their factories, their mines, their workers, their transportation systems, their farms—all were organized to the last man and woman and last ounce of energy.

And that's against the giant resources of America—industry unchallenged, unhurt, working overtime to give our fighting men and women the weapons they need—more and more planes, more tanks, more guns, more ships, more and more electric power!

That's where the electric light and power companies of America clicked. Not one electric light bulb, not one kilowatt of power was denied to our war effort. We're proud that we have more electric power here in America than all the rest of the world combined, and we are using it.

Yes, we have built up in this country more electric power than all of the Axis dominated countries combined.

Lines have been extended to new factories and military training camps ahead of schedule.

It was not an accident that America was powerful.

Electric companies, under business management like the West Texas Utilities, had planned ahead. Knowing their business schooled in emergencies, they knew that in that crucial test we had plenty of electric power—whenever and wherever needed!

It is not for us to say what needs too—no shortage, no rationing, no increase in cost.

It is an outstanding war-time example of what free men can do. Free enterprise works!

We're fighting this war to hold this freedom. Government bureaucrats should place full emphasis on winning the war and desist from their political endeavors to permanently change our system of government.

BEAUMONT STREETS PEACEFUL

BEAUMONT, June 18.—Peace returned to Beaumont's bloody race riot streets following a nearly night-long session of a military court of inquiry.

Most of the Gulf Coast shipbuilding town's white citizens had returned to work as order was restored by martial law and the Negro population contemplated a "Juneteenth" without celebration.

Tomorrow is Juneteenth, immemorial celebration day commemorating emancipation of slaves, but all festivities were cancelled for Beaumont, where two persons were killed and sixty or more injured in rioting and fighting in the streets. Property damage was estimated at $20,000.

And while tenseness relaxed, one of all the trouble, a young Negro yard worker who allegedly attacked a white woman, the wife of a shipyard worker, was still sought by police.

A military court continued in session through last midnight, questioning many of 200 men held by law for taking part in riots. Yesterday, 17 men were questioned and all but one released. He was turned over to city authorities charged with possessing a shotgun with a barrel which was too short.

The press was barred from sessions of the court.

Police Chief Dickey said police had no evidence to verify rumors that racial troubles were stirred up by Axis agents.

He said it was up to the F. B. I. to decide how the riots were started.

ZONE NUMBER WILL AID IN MAIL DELIVERY

The zoning of 178 of the larger cities of the United States makes it helpful for persons sending mail to those cities to not only have the house or street address, but to have the zone number also, said Postmaster L. H. McCrea today.

As an illustration, the probable address of some friend of yours would read like this: John H. Jones, 324 Hemphill, Dallas, 4, Texas. Meaning that the party lived in zone 4.

This is made necessary by the thousands of new employes that have been brought into the postoffices of the larger cities to take the vacated places of those changing to other forms of work, and to care for the great increase of mail brought about by war conditions, Mr. McCrea said. There is no time to give them the thorough training needed in order to properly distribute the mail, but the zoning method seems to facilitate the casing of the mail in the large cities, and thus obviate the delay that of necessity will come to your mail unless the zone number goes with other units of the address.

Asked how one was to secure the zone number of the friend they wished to address, Mr. McCrea said the most logical way would be for the person in a city thus zoned to send you his zone number as well as his street address. Mail without the zone number will probably be delivered, but it will be subject to delay.

Of course, Mr. McCrea said, one could write the postoffice in the city, giving the known address of the party and the zone number would be supplied.

First Lady of the Lone Star State Is Fifth To Be Featured in Cotton's Portrait Series

Mrs. Stevenson's Picture Appears In Mademoiselle

Joins Other First Ladies In Praising Cotton's Serviceability

She is Mrs. Coke Stevenson Jr., and her state is Texas. Her portrait, the fifth to be published in the series being sponsored by the National Cotton Council and Cotton-Textile Institute, will appear in the July issue of Mademoiselle. With Mrs. Stevenson will be shown her two lovely daughters, Scottie Gayle and Linda Fay. All three, of course, will be wearing cottons to show women all over America the lovely-looking, long-lasting garments that can be made of this favorite family fabric.

Made at Mansion

Wearing cotton is nothing new for either Mrs. Stevenson or her daughters. "Cotton is my choice because it is cool as well as cool-looking," Mrs. Stevenson said. "I like its freshness and durability. In fact, my daughters wear nothing else because it's so easy to keep clean."

Mrs. Stevenson, a native of Cleburne, Texas, is a Texan from start to finish. Consequently she appreciates the value of cotton to her state. She attended the University of Texas where she met and married Coke Stevenson Jr., son of the Governor of Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson Jr. made their home at Junction where the Governor's family had settled almost a century ago, until the death of Governor Stevenson's wife last year. The younger Mrs. Stevenson then moved to the 80-year-old mansion at Austin to serve as official hostess for the Governor.

The portrait series, presenting for the first time a typical picture of the cotton-country as well as the story of cotton's serviceability on the home-front, already has featured the First Ladies of Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Next month, Mrs. Ellis Arnall of Georgia will be pictured, followed in succeeding months by Mrs. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Mrs. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, and Mrs. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina.

An ardent supporter of cotton, Mrs. Stevenson is wearing a tailored dress of white pique. The little girls are wearing big and little sister dresses of striped chambray, with eyelet ruffle pinafores. This portrait will be published by the cotton industry in the July issue of Mademoiselle as the fifth presentation of the industry's "First Lady" series.

WHIP THE AXIS AND FEED THE WORLD; BIG JOB

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The United States is preparing a food program that contemplates keeping the armed forces abroad until 1947, and participation in a world food pool for the benefit of foreign civilian populations, it was disclosed yesterday.

The revelation was made by the senate appropriations committee which had before it printed copy of a voluminous letter in which the "five-year program for production of critical war food," was outlined to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Outlined on a five-year basis, Ickes said that the six bureaus within the Department of the Interior prepared the program of increased production above and beyond that which has already been put into effect, and added:

"The program is set up as a maximum contribution to the world food pool, for meeting the most pressing deficiencies, to help feed the civilian populations and the United Nations and armed forces at home and abroad in the years 1943 to 1947."

The increased production which the program is expected to achieve, Ickes reported, are these: 1,500,000,000 pounds of meat; 1,750,000,000 pounds of fish; 11,000,000,000 pounds of milk; 100,000,000 bushels of potatoes; 1,000,000,000 pounds of beans.

STRATEGIC DEAD-END.

MOSCOW, June 18.—Red army troops seized enemy trenches on a fortified height in a surprise assault south of Lake Ilmen and held firmly to a river bridgehead above Oriel today as a prominent Soviet observer reported signs that the Germans have reached a "strategic dead-end" in Russia.

FATHER'S DAY REUNION—This father and his son won't be kept apart on Father's Day by the war, because they are both in it and both assigned to the same Marine base. Both privates in the Leathernecks, they are Boyce Thompson, 18, left, and his father, David R. Thompson, 36, who was recently transferred to San Diego, Calif., from Washington, D. C., and found his son recovering from an appendectomy at the Marine Corps Base. They lived at 700 Cypress street, Sweetwater, Texas, and took the Marine oath together at Abilene, Dec. 3, 1942.

ELSIE GLENN IS IN SCHOOL AT BARKELEY

Miss Elsie Glenn, a government social worker in Cisco from 1933 until February, 1943, is now in training, under civil service, at Camp Barkeley preparatory to becoming a dental technician and hygienist. Army dentists conduct classes and practical work is done each day.

At present the Cisco young woman is assisting Lt. Wm. Feldman at the chair in the operative department, where the filling of teeth is done. Twenty dentists and twenty assistants are on this floor of the station hospital.

Loyalty can be a slave chain. People are exploited because they will believe no evil of the leader who exploits them.

TURKISH FRONTIER REOPENED

LONDON, June 18.—British authorities have re-opened the Turkish-Syrian frontier after a 48-hour closure which may have been ordered to cloak movements of Allied armies, an Ankara dispatch reported today.

Radio Moscow quoted Bern quarters today as saying that German authorities had closed the Brenner Pass between Germany and Italy to all traffic. The broadcast, reported by U. S. government monitors, speculated that the action might have been made in preparation for the evacuation from Italy of "industrial equipment, capital and other valuables."

The ban on travel between Syria and Turkey was lifted at 6 a. m. Thursday, it was disclosed, and the Taurus Express, an international train from Syria and Iraq, was expected to arrive in Ankara Saturday morning, two days behind schedule.

Both the British Ninth and Tenth Armies are now in the Middle-East and presumably would participate in any invasion of Axis-held Crete or the Dodecanese Islands, stepping stones to Greece. Axis broadcasts have reported large American detachments also are in the Middle-East, but there has been no Allied confirmation of this.

KENNON WAS 78 YEARS OF AGE TODAY

R. W. H. Kennon—not quite "as fit as a fiddle," but almost—was 78 years old today and spent most of the day at his private desk in the Daily Press office.

Mr. Kennon was born at Union Springs, Ala., June 18, 1865, and came to Texas in 1887. His first work was at Dallas, where he worked at the printing business. Later, he was publisher of the Rockdale Reporter for many years and came to Cisco in 1919. He started the Cisco American in 1920 and was also publisher of the Cisco Citizen several years later.

For a number of years he was employed on the Cisco Daily News and the Daily Press, but has not been employed full time for the past three years. Recently, Mr. Kennon spent a month with his brother near Cameron, Texas. He enjoyed the visit very much, he stated on his return to Cisco, but was "perfectly delighted to be back in God's Country."

GOOD CITIZEN RETURNS AND BUYS BUSINESS

Absent from Cisco since last August, Jack Elkins comes back home to enter again into business.

Mr. Elkins has purchased the A. V. Clark service station at the corner of Eighth street and E avenue and has moved his shop equipment and replacement parts to this place, where he will continue the service station and will give his personal attention to his specialized work of motor tuning, carburetor and electrical service.

The special announcement of Mr. Elkins to the people of Cisco and adjacent territory will be found in this issue.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, under congressional fire for OPA's price-fixing and rollback policies, has ordered establishment of the controversial community-wide ceiling prices on food in virtually every city in the United States, it was learned today.

Such prices—the same throughout a community for various classes of stores—were set in 130 cities last month for hundreds of common food items. It was understood that OPA field directors have been instructed to do the same thing in 300 more communities within the next few weeks.

While congress has been attacking Brown's subsidy-rollback program, designed to cut back the retail price of meats, coffee and butter to last September levels, grocers' associations have been denouncing the community-wide price system. Independent grocers claim that it is unfair to them, inasmuch as lower prices for chain stores and super markets are widely "advertised" by the OPA lists.

But the community price system is part of the roll-back program to which OPA is committed. OPA officials estimate that the uniform prices will reduce food costs 2 to 3 per cent.

Heretofore, price ceilings have been based on prices charged by individual stores on the "freezing" dates for the various items, and varied from store to store. The community prices are set by OPA after studies of prevailing prices and costs and vary from commniuty to commnuity. Within a community the price of a specific item is the same in the same class of store, but varied among independent grocers chain stores and supermarkets. For example, the price of a certain brand of bread in a small independent store might be 12 cents a loaf; in a larger independent or chain store it might be 11 cents, whereas in a supermarket it might cost only 10 cents.

Argument over OPA policies took "the play" away from debate of recent days on the food supply prospects. But Rep. John Taber (Republican, New York), kept it current with a warning that unless OPA's "long-haired professors" are dismissed immediately, starvation may stalk the United States next winter.

War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis warned civilians that they must get accustomed to eating more cereals, beans and potatoes, to compensate for eating less meat.

Extension of the community price system to all major cities is bound to bring more criticism from the grocery trade, but it probably will be only a faint cry compared with the denunciations of OPA being aired in congress.

A new facet was added to the congressional campaign against OPA yesterday by charges that the agency had assumed unwarranted jurisdiction over profits. Brown reassured the special house committee investigating executive agencies that although profits as well as prices come within OPA's jurisdiction, profits will be regulated "only to prevent inflation."

Brown's statement was an answer to charges by Committee Counsel Harold Allen that "secret files" subpenaed from David Ginsburg, former OPA general counsel, revealed the plan to fix prices on a basis of profits.

COURAGE.

The Connelly-Smith anti-strike bill is one of the most honorable and courageous measures enacted by Congress in recent years. It goes far to redeem the reputation of that body as an outfit of political dodgers. Its meaning is so strong and clear that even the president, with his well known tenderness toward organized labor, will hardly venture to veto it. If he did so, in the nation's present mood, such action might be overridden.

For this extreme action one man, L. Lewis, with a great deal of his own power as a labor leader in an industry vital to the nation, would have great responsibility. He has attempted, by a shutdown of the mines, to force a group whose work is essential for victory to accept his demands. Whether he succeeds or fails, he will have done a disservice.

SIMPLIFICATION.

The Office of War Information troubles the waters a little more by naming a few hundred items that will need to be simplified, to save work and materials. Here are a few ex-basis. Hitler and Mussolini, who achieved and retained their power by knocking together the heads of their opponents, will be unable to understand how Americans can remain united without such compulsion from a central source.

In this country refusal to salute the flag has been common almost entirely to one small sect, whose members object on religious grounds. In several states children have been expelled from public schools because they obeyed their parents instead of their teachers. Such evictions are unfair to the children who have made a natural choice and who may suffer from mental or emotional warping as a result of their unfortunate experiences. As long as a person obeys the laws, pays his taxes and is willing to serve his country in war or peace, we can safely assume that he is a loyal citizen without resort to compulsory oaths or salutes.

Judging by remarks from Washington the bag that victory is in is a windbag.

Magic words are not a myth. A guy uses all of his ammunition trying to kill you; then he speaks the words, "I surrender," and he can't kill him.

EASE KIDNEY PAIN THIS WAY TO AVOID GETTING UP NIGHTS

The merry-go-round has gone to war!

Like the plants that made refrigerators, stoves, furniture and many another familiar household item, a plant that made merry-go-rounds is now turning out vital equipment for our fighting forces.

It was the biggest job ever performed by American industry to change over from washing machines to guns, from automobiles to planes and tanks. A job that demanded more machinery, more equipment, more men . . . and more electric power!

That's part of the story why America clicks, of our amazing ability to get things done. Let's feel proud of our achievement . . . proud that we have more electric power here in America than all the rest of the world combined, and we are using it.

Yes, we have built up in this country more kilowatt-hour output than all the Axis dominated countries combined.

Lines have been extended to new factories and military training camps ahead of schedule.

It was not an accident that America was power-full.

Electric companies, under business management like the West Texas Utilities, had planned ahead. Knowing their business, schooled in emergencies, they saw to it that Uncle Sam had plenty of electric power—wherever and whenever needed!

It's on tap for all civilian needs, too—no shortage, no rationing, no increase in cost.

We're fighting this war to hold this freedom. Government bureaucracies should place full emphasis on winning the war and desist from their political endeavors to permanently change our system of government.
