Consideration Of Demands Of Market Pushed

Secretary Hyde Warns American Farmers That They Are Likely To Defeat Demands For Living Standard

(By The Associated Press)

MANHATTAN, Kas., June 8. — Secretary Hyde told American farmers tonight their plans for production must start with consideration of the economic demands of the market.

Addressing the American Institute of Cooperation, the department of agriculture secretary said "whether we shall continue to produce price breaking surpluses boils down to how we want to live.

Standard Demanded

"Today the American farmer," he said in a prepared address, "demands an American standard of living. Such a standard of living is possible. Indeed, we must attain it. But the farmer himself must not defeat it.

"His production plans must start with consideration of the economic demands of the market. Adhering to that procedure all along the line, we can then organize agriculture so that the American farmer can reach the golden goal of economic equality.

Intelligence Great Enough

Secretary Hyde said the intelligence, thrift industry and efficiency of the American farmer "is great enough to meet and defeat the world in producing any of our great agricultural crops.

"But to do so," he said, "they will have to sell on world markets at world prices. That means that southern planters shall measure

Two Boys Returning To Mexico After Close Of College Are Shot Down At Ardmore; One Cousin To President

(By Associated Press)

ARDMORE, Okla., June 8— Urged to action by the governor of Oklahoma and the representatives of a foreign government, Carther county authorities decided tonight to bring murder charges in connection with the slaying by a peace officer today, of two Mexican boys returning home from American colleges—one a cousin of the Mexican president.

Marvin Shilling, county attorney, said murder charges would be filed tomorrow against Bill Guess, deputy sheriff, who, in the belief he faced desperadoes, shot to death Emilo Cortes Rubio, 20, relative of President Ortiz Rubio of the southern republic and his chum, Manuel Gomez, 22. Similar charges, Shilling said, would be brought against Deputy Sheriff Cecil Crosby, companion of Guess.

Killed Beside Car

The boys were killed beside their motor car, parked along a main highway here early this morning. Salvador Cortes Rubio, 24, another cousin of the president was unhurt.

Shilling's announcement followed request by the officers that the charges be filed so they might be vindicated, for they contended Guess fired after the boys had drawn guns.

Attorneys Prepare To File An Appeal For Alvis Graves To Higher Court; Youth Under Life Sentence

Transcript of testimony and bills of exception in the case of Alvis Graves, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Horace L. Smith here last January 11, were submitted yesterday to attorneys for approval preparatory to the filing of an appeal to the state court of criminal appeals.

The defense complains of improper testimony in the trial before Judge Homer L. Parr in connection with the introduction of evidence regarding the dying statement of Smith. One bill of exception challenges the testimony relating to the relationship of Mrs. Smith and the defendant, attorneys said.

Tom L. Simpson told of Smith's statement. The defense challenges the admissibility of the dying declaration.

The testimony relating to the relationship of Mrs. Smith and Graves was described as irrelevant, immaterial and prejudicial to the defendant's plea of self-defense, it was said.

Smith was killed at a dance. Robert Averett also was killed during the shooting. Three other persons were injured.

Assistant District Attorney Burton S. Burks, who directed the prosecution, was reviewing the defense attorney's pleas yesterday.

American Whisky Raw — Not Fatal

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 8.—American women are spoiled, much more so than English women, J. B. Priestly, British author, told interviewers tonight between the acts of his play "Good Companions."

"The American husband," he said, "is probably the ideal husband—for the American woman.

"Hollywood is a place where people get up at six o'clock in the morning and do physical exercises. It is terribly respectable and even duller than Bloomsbery. The whisky I got in America was rather raw but not poisonous."

Texas Independent Oil Men In Meeting Describe Condition As "Uninformed And Incompetent Leadership"

Conference Asked

Committee From Group Is To Meet With Governor Sterling; Special Session Will Be Urged At Confab

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 8.—The conference of Texas independent oilmen, after several addresses dealing in emphatic fashion with what was described as "uninformed and incompetent leadership" among certain East Texas oil interests, decided to seek legislative aid in damning the onrush of East Texas oil, and to negotiate with non-cooperating owners to the same end.

There was no unanimity in placing the blame for the conditions that have beaten down the price of Texas oil from above a dollar a barrel a year or so ago, to the present purported ten cents, said to be the price of a good deal of the crude now coming from the East Texas fields.

Estes Is Target

Carl Estes, Tyler newspaperman, who led the more or less successful fight against proration in East Texas, was the target of a number of speakers, while others defended his course, and said that while he may have erred in some respects, his actions sprang from a desire to protect the interests of East Texas landowners, brought from the desperation of a severe drouth to approaching prosperity by the discovery of oil.

Robert R. Penn, member of the Texas proration advisory committee, proposed an adopted motion that a general committee appointed at today's session to attain the

Dr. Walton Speaks To Graduates In Commencement

DR. T. O. WALTON, president of Texas A. and M. college, yesterday in addressing members of the 1931 graduating class at Texas Technological college urged them to accept the challenges of both the home and government and make substantial contributions to the two fundamental institutions.

Dr. Walton delivered the commencement address to 163 members of the Technological college class

Conferring of degrees and the awarding of diplomas and scholarships followed Dr. Walton's address. About 1,500 persons attended the exercises held in the college gymnasium.

Home And State Foremost

Foremost challenges hurled at the graduates of today arise in the home and the government of the state and nation, Dr. Walton said.

"Every man and woman leaving college should have some definite objective in life," the speaker said. "Each should accept some challenge which will bring the best in them to the surface.

Have Wrong Viewpoint

"If you have taken advantage of the opportunities offered by the state with the idea that your earning power will be increased and that you will have an easy time during the remainder of your life, I am afraid that you have come out with the wrong viewpoint, by virtue of that college education.

"Those who look at a college education from a monetary viewpoint are doomed to disappointment," the speaker added.

"The most important thing a college education should give you, is the power to make a contribution to the welfare of the home which you expect to establish. The home is the fundamental institution of

Radio Speech Of Shaw Draws Fire

LONDON, June 8. (AP) — George Bernard Shaw's recent radio speech in connection with the Rouen commemoration of Joan of Arc, in which the playwright declared the French girl was lacking in "sex appeal" and was not pretty, drew a reply tonight from another churchman, the Catholic archbishop of Westminister.

"Both in letters to correspondents and in communications to the press," the archbishop's statement said, "the British Broadcasting company has suggested that the choice of Mr. Bernard Shaw to speak on St. Joan of Arc was made with the knowledge and implied approval of the archbishop of Westminister.

"His eminence desires it to be known that this suggestion is without foundation and that in his opinion the choice of words by Shaw were unfortunate. They have given grave offense to Catholics both in England and abroad."

"Mel" Traylor, A Self-Styled "Hill Billy," Climaxes His Rise To Fame

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 8.— Melvin Alvah Traylor, who never saw a railroad train until he was 19 years old, sat today at the head of the nation's fifth largest bank

The president of the First National bank, now only 52, completed today a merger with the Foreman-State National bank, climaxing his rapid rise to financial fame. Amalgamation of these two institutions was another triumph for Traylor, a former president of the American Bankers' association.

Traylor never owned a pair of shoes until he was seven or saw a train until he left his father's back woods farm in southern Kentucky at 19 to seek his fortune in Texas, but today his judgment affects 3.5 per cent of all the country's bank deposits.

He sometimes refers to himself as a "Hill Billy." His financial shrewdness was bred by the hard work of making ends meet in those almost inaccessible Kentucky hills.

MELVIN A. TRAYLOR

Texas still remembers him as a wise judge of "cattle paper," principal medium of exchange in the land where he learned the banking business and its prime tenet, making sound loans.

The international financial career of "Mel" Traynor began in the bank of Malone, Tex., where he was cashier, teller, janitor and guard. Two years later the Citizens National of Ballinger, Tex., acquired his services. In less than a year it paid its first dividend. The watch which the stockholders voted to Traylor on that occasion is still one of his most prized possessions.

Traylor escaped the Texas live stock crash of 1919 and is

Mary Helm Auxiliary Of Church Meets In Circles Monday Afternoon

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

Denver, June 8.—Today we've been cityites and spent the day downtown mingling with the Saturday shoppers drawn by week-end bargains at department and grocery stores. The rush here, the clangor of street cars, the noise of heavy traffic makes Lubbock seem more quiet than it actually is. And a morning spent in strange banks elbowing our way among people who anticipated the noon closing sent us home weary and glad that we live in a town small enough to have an acquaintanceship among the men with whom we must do business.

Constantly seeking identification is an unaccustomed process to one who has lived for years in a town no larger than Lubbock.

Yet, they are not all in the hurry of big business. This morning we found a mousey little man puttering around in charge of safety deposit boxes in the basement of a large bank. He was practically uninterested in our visit and kept aimlessly working about a small desk. He seemed to be a part of the underground world and was as uncommunicative as the thick walls between which he worked. And while I was fascinated with watching him move noiselessly about, strangely enough he had cleared up the business of the visit with considerable dispatch.

Driving here is easier than downtown Lubbock on Saturday afternoons as people drive with less abandon. But parallel parking calls for skill that we have let grow rusty in broad-streeted West Texas towns.

The drive through lower Colorado and Northern New Mexico is beautiful even though the country has not been long emerged from winter. Bluebells blanket southern Colorado, with patches of yellow and orchid blossoms to relieve the monotony of blue and green. Lower down, we passed through a rolling country covered with white blossoms and through the Panhandle country there were patches of yellow Blossoms after the sand of the Canadian hills.

There was a late freeze here after considerable balmy weather in early spring and lilacs as well as many other blossoms were killed. The snowball is blooming all over Denver and, while there are few blossoms, foliage is of the freshest green.

Snow still blankets the peaks west of town although we had not seen it until this morning when the clouds lifted after having clung to the lowest hills for two days. Driving up we didn't see Pike's peak at all as it was so cloudy

Highways are not filled with tourists as they will be later in the season. Of the cars we saw, few were filled with the khakied and trousered matrons who frequent this section during the hotter summer months. Most of the cars bore Colorado licences and few were loaded with bedding and other such baggage which marks one as the camper.

Schools closed here yesterday and and today thousands of children have gone to city park to play in the sunshine which has warmed the day to almost summer temperature, even though the morning was cold. Most of those who were on the streets this morning wore coats and few were in summer clothes at that time of day. The dress parade here this Saturday morning, however, was no show in styles of the minute. One thing marked the women, however, and that was the sensible shoes they were wearing. Walking oxfords predominated and the gait of women could be more accurately described as a tramp than in any other way.

The old, old red brick and stones buildings and residences here are interesting; streets lined with tall trees with overlapping branches are pleasant to drive down; the distant mountains are picturesque, but like a lot of other people I have no desire to live here. We have poverty enough in a town of 20,000 and cripples enough so that city streets where one must brush constantly against people who are ill-fed, poorly clad and whose faces are haggard and hard hold little appeal.

People seem to care too little for other people in a city. And yet, this morning in this neighborhood, a petition was being passed about and signed for presentation to the mayor asking that the city charities take some further care of a poor old lady and her half-witted son who have long resided in the section and who are about to be ousted for nonpayment of rent. The couple only arouse sympathy in the neighborhood and yet kindhearted people are signing a petition to keep them from being turned out homeless into the city.

Chief Executive Works On Trio Of Speeches To Be Delivered Within Week; Conferences Of Officials Held

ORANGE, Virginia, June 8. (AP)—President Hoover prolonged his stay at his Rapidan camp until today to obtain as much rest as possible before resuming the arduous work of writing three speeches to be delivered a week hence.

By remaining over Sunday night, the chief executive avoided a drive to Washington through a heavy rain storm that caused mishaps to many motorists.

Over the week-end, he was advised by Secretary Adams the navy department would be able to save about $25,000,000 out of the annual appropriations for this and the next fiscal year.

Abandonment of the Island of Guam in the Pacific as a naval station was suggested to Mr. Hoover by the naval officials. They said the island had no military value under present naval defense plans. Withdrawal of all forces, except those needed by the civil government, was recommended as an economy measure for next year.

The conference with naval officials was the fifth held with department heads in the chief executive's economy campaign.

PATENTED ROASTING PROCESS CONTROLS FLAVOR OF COFFEE

No Other Roasting Process Can Develop Such Uniform Goodness

Coffee drinking has become a joy forever to the millions who daily fill their cups with Hills Bros. Coffee. Of all coffees sold there are none that can duplicate its delicious, deep-flavored goodness.

This matchless flavor is due to the accuracy of every process from the blending to the packing of the fragrant coffee.

Of special importance is the control of the roasting process. Instead of roasting coffee in bulk—the ordinary way—only a few pounds at a time pass through the roaster in a continuous stream. The flow of coffee, speed of operation and the heat are accurately controlled. Every berry is roasted evenly by this process—Controlled Roasting—invented and patented by Hills Bros. Naturally, the resulting flavor is uniformly delicious, something that is rarely the case in bulk-roasted coffee.

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted and ground, it is packed in vacuum. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Registration booths at the American Legion home, the Up Town Dance Palace, and the Lubbock and Hilton hotels will be open from 10 to 2 o'clock, Saturday, June 20. The first session will be held Saturday afternoon at the Up Town Dance Palace.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet in the American Legion home.

Following the afternoon session, both the legionnaires and members of the auxiliary will be complimented with a brief auto tour and a picnic supper at the Lubbock county park.

A dance is scheduled for Saturday evening.

The local entertainment committee has worked out a program of fun that will be mixed in with the meeting.

Attendance At Session Urged

Mayor J. J. Clements Issues Invitation To All City Officials Of Texas To Be In Lubbock June 15 And 16

"Lubbock wants to urge all Texas city officials to be on hand for the nineteenth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities," Mayor J. J. Clements said yesterday.

"Of course, we want an opportunity to entertain these city builders but we are interested primarily in having a large attendance on account of the splendid educational program that has been prepared for the convention June 15 and 16."

Mayor E. O. Thompson of Amarillo, who has just recently completed successfully negotiations with the gas system serving Amarillo for a material reduction in rates, will speak.

Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock and James V. Allred, attorney general, and other important Texas officials are on the two-day program.

The subject of city planning will be handled by John E. Surratt and Major E. A. Wood of Dallas.

City Manager John N. Edy of Dallas; R. E. McDonnell, Kansas City; state health officer, Dr. J. C. Anderson of Austin are on the program as well as many other speakers.

One of the most interesting features of the program will be a round table discussion of all mayors present. Each mayor will report on his individual problems and these problems will be discussed.

"The small towns of Texas can benefit particularly from this discussion," Mayor Clements said. "The small town officials have an opportunity to come here and solve some of their problems by learning how other cities have solved similar questions."

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the City of Lubbock are cooperating to offer the convention delegates a splendid entertainment program along with the business sessions.

Maureen Orcutt Remains In Women's British Open Joust

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 8. (AP)—One American girl, Maureen Orcutt, and 63 natives of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, swished and waded their ways around soggy Portmarnock course today for places in the match play for the British women's golf championship starting tomorrow.

Leading the field was Miss Enid Wilson, English champion, whose 75 Saturday in the first qualifying round was considered remarkable under the adverse conditions. Today she needed 83 with the wind and rain even more severe for a total of 158, nine strokes better than Diania Fishwich, defending titleholder, and Wanda Morgan, who tied for second with aggregates of 167.

Fourth place went to Molly Gourlay with 83 and 85 and fifth to Miss Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., girl who took and 87 today to add to an 82 Saturday for 169 and fifth place.

Oklahoma and Missouri will divide the Big Six 1931 baseball championship, a play-off being impracticable because of class-work.

Texas Tennis Joust Starts At Ft. Worth

Seventy-Six Entries In One Event; Wilmer Allison Is Favorite With Barnes Out Of Competition

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEADOWMERE COUNTRY CLUB, FORT WORTH, June 8.—With 76 entries in one event, one of the largest fields to yet participate in any of the annual tournaments, the Texas District Lawn Tennis association state championship opened here today with matches in the men's singles only. After all day competition, the first round was incomplete, but will be completed early tomorrow morning and the survivors will go into the second round.

Matches played today ended true to the form chart when tournament favorites such as Wilmer Allison, John Barr, Earl Taylor, Jake Hess, Quinn Connelley, Doc Barr, Jimmy Quick and Donald Longcope triumphed without extending themselves.

Sixteen Are Seeded

Sixteen of the 76 entries in the men's singles were seeded with Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, first, and Jimmy Quick, Dallas, second, others to be seeded were: Jake Hess, Fort Worth; Earl Taylor, Austin; J. B. Adoue, sr., Dallas; John Barr, Dallas; Louis Thalheimer, Chicago; Fred Royer, Dallas; "Doc" Barr, Dallas; Lucien La Coste; Austin; J. McDiarmid, Fort Worth; Charles Sloan, Houston; Ted Hackney, Fort Worth; Quinn Connelley, Fort Worth; Donal Longcope, Houston, and H. Holden, Houston.

The feature match of the day saw Wilmer Allison, 1930 American Davis Cup player, play under wraps to defeat H. Pickens, Fort Worth, 6-2, 6-0. Allison, who declined an invitation to join the United States Davis cup team this year, played an all-round consistent game, but was especially effective with a short chop that Pickens repeatedly failed to handle.

Jimmy Quick, who holds the Texas doubles championship with John Barr, got off with mediocre tennis against H. W. Lawrence of Fort Worth, but Quick soon found his game and played into the second round with a 6-2, 6-2, victory.

Earl Taylor, University of Texas star, found W. E. Crotty, jr., of Fort Worth, tough in the first set but the state university man managed to sweep through with a 6-4, 6-2 driving game. Jake Hess, Rice Institute star, showed his home town how well he can play the net game with a quick 6-0, 6-0 decision over Howard Key of Eastland. Hess was at the top of his game, sending back volleys and placements like a champion.

Bruce Barnes, 1930 singles champion, is not defending his title because of playing in an eastern tournament, but the field is strong and although he ranks as the outstanding favorite, Wilmer Allison is expected to find the championship lane rough starting with the second round matches tomorrow.

Dizzy Dean's Wedding Is Postponed; Fiancee Says He'll Win 20 Games, Then

HOUSTON, June 8. (AP)—Miss Patricia Nash, fiancee of the one and only "Dizzy" Dean, announced tonight that their marriage had been postponed until the close of the present Texas League season.

"Owing to the fact that it is now mid-season and the Buffs have a splendid chance to win the Texas League pennant, I think it is the best that we postpone our marriage until after the Dixie championship is won." Miss Nash stated in announcing the postponement.

"Sure, Dizzy is going to win more than 20 games and he'll pitch Houston to some wins in the Dixie series," the pretty little brunette said in discussing Dean's future.

Plans were announced last week for the wedding this week. As announced the ceremony was to take place near home plate in a Texas League ball park preceding one of the night games.

His father formerly managed and played as catcher for the White Sox.

NEW YORK, June 8. —(AP)—Two auto loads of University of Arizona polo players, led by Captain Gene Mauger, their coach, hit the westward trail today, fortified by experience and a commission to organize inter-collegiate polo in the wide open spaces of the west.

The Arizona boys, taking their mounts wherever they could find them, spent a brisk fortnight of activity in the east but failed in their effort to enter the inter-collegiate championship tournament, starting on Long Island this week.

They completed plans, however, for a return to the east and participation in the title tournament in 1932. Meanwhile, Captain Mauger has the authority of the inter-collegiate polo association to organize a "western circuit" among the polo playing colleges and universities. The object will be to produce at least one western entry each year for the eastern tournament.

On the return trip, the Arizona team will play at Cleveland, June 13, Columbus on June 14 and then compete in a tournament at Kansas City, Mo.

Two Dallas Pros And Corpus Christi Player To Represent Southwest In National Open

Scheider, Carpenter, Butler Shoot Low Scores On Brook Hollow Course To Win Over Field Of Twenty Players

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 8.—Francis Scheider, Dallas, Hugh Carpenter, Dallas, and Tony Butler, Corpus Christi, qualified here today as representatives of the Southwest in the National open golf tournament at Toledo.

Scheider, professional at Brook Hollow, toured his home course in 74-76—145, Tony Butler, Corpus Christi Country club pro, had a 75-76—151, and Carpenter, assistant pro at Cedar Crest, Dallas, got a card of 74-77—151. Tied with the latter two was Jack Burke of Houston, but he lost out in the swatfest to eliminate one of the three second-place ties. It was the first time in several years that Burke had failed to qualify for the national tournament.

One bad hole in the afternoon round put Larry Nabholtz of Dallas out of the running. It was the long No. 5 which he and Jim Macke Zie halved in nines. Had Larry rammed down his ten-foot putt on the eighth stroke he would have finished in a four-way tie for second place.

Butler was first of the three who tied for second to cinch his place. He took the first hole with a four.

Carpenter thrilled the gallery with a spectacular approach at the second hole. They did equally well from the tee, but on the second shot Carpenter played the ball to within six inches of the pin. Burke's shot rolled to the back side of the green and he went down in four and out of the running.

Twenty players completed the 36 holes. The others withdrew at various stages.

Scores included:

Dick Metz, San Angelo, 80-74—154.

Ben Hogan, Cleburne, 85-80—165.

Charles Strack of Oklahoma A. & M. and Everett Marshall of the University of Iowa are among the ex-collegiate grapplers now performing.

Panhandle League Officials Gather At Amarillo Meet

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League and of the Panhandle League, has called a meeting of all officials of the latter organization and of all parties interested in teams or the league at Amarillo tomorrow night. At that time a definite answer as to whether Lubbock will be represented in the league is expected, together with the posting of the required funds which Lubbock men have been trying to raise through the selling of stock for the past two weeks.

It is likely that a schedule will be drawn up and adopted at the meeting tomorrow night. If Lubbock comes through, and it is expected that it will, the season will start next Wednesday, with Lubbock playing at Clovis and Amarillo at Pampa, returning here and to Amarillo on Friday and Saturday. Lubbock men interested in the club here are invited to attend.

Harry Wanderling, sent here to manage the Lubbock team, went to Clovis last night to attend a meeting of officials and to report on the Lubbock situation. It is reported that Clovis, Amarillo and Pampa have already raised the required funds. The outlook here, Wanderling said yesterday, is brighter than at any time since the work started, already more than half the money having been collected.

...e nation, and if it breaks down, ...l other institutions are useless.

Has Greater Obligation

"The college graduate has a ...reater obligation to society than ...e person who has never had ...uch educational advantages,' Dr. ...Valton said. "The college grad...ate must endeavor to aid those ...who have not had college educa...tions.

"Among our graduates there are ...ery few who have made a study ...f government. We are making a ...reat error in not being able to ...understand the trend of national ...and international affairs. It is up ...to the persons who understand the ...trend of events to keep the na...tion in balance.

"Several years ago our people ...were inclined to scoff at the idea ...of communism taking hold of any ...government of thinking people. ...Today, one of the largest nations ...of the world has a communistic ...form of government."

Peace Battles More Severe

Dr. Walton said the peace time battles were more severe than those of wartime.

"There is no blare of drums, stirring battle hymns or plaudits of the people to urge you on," he said the battles must take place silently in the laboratory and the classroom."

Communism is not so far away from the United States as some people may presume, the speaker said, and every effort of education must be diverted to the cause of guarding our system of government.

"Illiteracy has not been wiped out in our country," he said. "A fertile field for anarchy and communism exists among the illiterate. "Then, there are about 15,000,000 of persons in the United States today who probably do not know where their next meal is coming from. They, too, form a fertile field for such teaching.

"Young ladies and young gentlemen, your graduation signifies that you have knowledge. Pursue your studies on through life and you will develop that knowledge into wisdom and will be in position to accept the many challenges life offers to you," the speaker said in ending his talk.

Degrees were conferred upon the graduates by Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Technological college. Deans of the different schools announced the names of the graduates of their departments. Although this is the school's 6th year, this is the fifth class, no students being graduated in 1926.

Special music was furnished at the exercise by the college orchestra and choral club. Rev. C. E. Wooldridge gave the invocation.

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist church, St. Louis, Mo., preached to graduates Sunday morning in the college gymnasium on the text "Turn ye, take your journey and go". Deuteronomy 1:7.

Brings Striking Message

Classifying conflicts in one's personal life as "curves in the road", Dr. Holt brought a striking message on the problems which the older generation is passing on to the younger, naming himself as "one of the older generation who is not here to give advice".

These problems are listed as: "What are the morals of the new generation to be?"; "Are we good enough to make good of the natural resources at our command?" "Can nations be neutral?"

Answers Suggested

"Our faith must be reasonable; it must be adventurous and it must be stubborn" said the speaker.

The pessimism and cynicism regarding depression which is prevalent in groups today were compared with other periods in history and the advance in personal freedom since the World war was given as one of the greatest advances towards a solution.

Dr. Paul W Horn, president, presented scholarships yesterday which totaled $1,915, in addition to a silver loving cup, a dictionary, and a medal.

now is the time for graduates to begin working for their school," he added.

He praised the work of the 1931 class, classing them as "real workers."

President Paul W. Horn, giving his annual address to the association, pointed out a number of instances where graduates of the college have been recognized as leaders in their chosen fields. He told of receiving praise from higher institutions for work done by Tech graduates.

Citing the deaths of George F. Baker, David Belasco, Dr. A. A. Michelson and Dr. S. P. Brooks, President Horn talked on "Properly Evaluation of the Right Things in Life." He declared college ideals should be reflected in ideals of success

Dr. Horn praised the work of the athletic department and stated the board of directors was entirely in support of the present administration.

"We're just beginning," Coach Pete Cawthon declared when called on to make a talk on the athletic situation at the institution. He told of the work of the department in the last year and of plans for the future, announcing the 1931 football schedule.

Following his talk, a report was made by the secretary after which the election of officers was held.

Farm Borrowers Make Good

WHILE authorization of government loans to farmers to the total of $57,000,000 was made by legislation providing for repayment, appropriation for that purpose has been regarded in some quarters as if it were an outright gift. Such an aspersion upon the integrity and business capacity of farmers as a class is contradicted even before the first of the notes given for relief funds have fallen due.

Under the loan plan about $48,000,000 has been advanced to 384,000 individuals on the security of crops to be planted and cultivated with the proceeds. Notes taken were based on normal crop maturities, with due dates varying between September 30 and November 30, according to locality and climatic conditions. The department of agriculture reports that many of the borrowers have already paid back their loans in whole or in part out of the proceeds of early fruit and vegetable crops on which the government held no lien. Others, finding they did not require the full amount of the loans promised, have turned back the checks for second or later instalments thereof, by way of cutting the interest costs.

The farm loan is a genuine revolving fund rather than a liability to be charged off to distress. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce campaign, led by farmer members themselves and seeking as early repayments of loans as is possible in this section, aims at a worthy goal.

CONCERNING HOLIDAYS

Some day somebody somewhere will be moved to utter a warning against the unlicensed multiplication of legal holidays. The more holidays we get, the less inclined people are to take them seriously. A few enthusiastically observed would be better for the object intended than many indifferently celebrated or neglected altogether.

New Year long ago lost its significance for most people. Even the public schools usually do not close for Lincoln's birthday or for Columbus day. Comparatively few observe Thanksgiving as a religious festival. Even Memorial day has become more a touring and outing occasion than one for remembering those who saved the Union.

If legal holidays are to be merely occasions for escaping work, they might as well be distributed evenly through the year. It would simplify matters, for instance, to have a specified day of every month made a legal holiday, taking its name in each from some historic anniversary occurring within the month.

Who will be first seriously to suggest a revision of holiday schedules in the interests of a harrassed and confused mankind?

RISING COST OF MEDICAL CARE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN,
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The progress of scientific medicine is, no doubt, chiefly responsible for the increase in the cost of medical education, the increase in the cost of medical care, the rise of specialization, and the tremendous development of hospitals.

Modern medical education requires at least eight years of a young man's life at an annual expense of $1,200 a year. Modern scientific diagnosis in a difficult case demands the use of a tremendous amount of scientific apparatus and the application of the highest medical talent. In the hospital, such apparatus is made generally available in the hospital, also, the services of many physicians in various specialties are easily accessible to the patient.

Hospitals have increased from approximately 1,000 in 1900 to 5,000 in 1910, and to 6,719 in 1930. There are today almost 1,000,000 beds available in hospitals, and at least two-thirds of all of the physicians licensed to practice in the United States are associated with the hospitals in some manner. Of the 98,491 physicians now associated with hospitals, 45,000 or almost 50 per cent, are specialists, contrasted with some 15 per cent of specialists in 1905.

Another factor has been the development of technical assistants in medical care, including dietitians, physical therapy technicians, X-ray technicians, nurses, orderlies and social service workers, so that today, in addition to the 155,000 physicians licensed to practice medicine in the United States, there are at least 2,000,000 additional workers who devote practically all of their time to the care of the sick. Since labor cost is one of the highest costs in any service, these facts must be considered in connection with the cost of medical care.

The development of university practice, group practice, medical centers, contract practice, industrial practice and similar changes in the nature of medical practice, has been the response to an attempt to decrease the cost of medical care by lowering the cost of the overhead through better distribution.

In every scheme that has been developed the chief fault is the lessening of personal relationship between the physician and the patient. It is human nature for the worker to feel his responsibility to the source of his income. It is safer for the patient if the physician feels that he is responsible primarily to the patient. Any plan that lessens the responsibility of the trained physician to the patient or that denies him the reward of individual effort of superior ability is detrimental to the welfare of the patient.

It must be remembered in this connection that medical education in this country has been improved constantly and that the medical profession of the next generation will be in general of a much higher grade than that of the present. It must be remembered also that research has shown that 90 per cent of the diseases affecting human beings can be diagnosed and treated by a general practitioner with the amount of equipment he can carry in a handbag. It is only the remaining 10 per cent of difficult and serious diseases that requires hospitalization and the co-ordinated services of numerous specialists.

What Other People Think

There is nothing to do in this old world but to keep going right on. I notice that while there are a lot of "stop" signs on all the city streets, there are enough "go" signs to keep the crowd moving along. Awful slow it seems, but after a while we get out of the ruck and out into the pleasant country. It isn't the same as if all the signs said "stop."—Dr. Charles M. Sheldon.

Disagreement Feared

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Considering the attitude of old world delegates at the recent Washington meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce, American diplomacy is not much surprised at hints from Europe of a plan on that side of the Atlantic to postpone the Geneva disarmament conference arranged for next February.

In opening the business men's meeting, it will be remembered that President Hoover plainly intimated how necessary it would be for the subject of military establishments to be fully ventilated in connection with whatever suggestions might be made relative to further war debt reductions.

From that time forward not a word was said bearing directly upon the topic of debt reductions. It was skirted in various ways, to be sure, but not in a fashion to justify a more specific reference to the fighting forces of any of the powers represented. This was notwithstanding the fact that all the countries with large outstanding obligations in the United States had been expected to make the most of them as one of the causes of the economic depression.

WHILE IT IS TRUE that the gathering was commercial, it was perfectly understood that those who attended, it were fully informed as to their various governments policies on world political issues, and the conclusion was obvious that they had been warned against letting military problems enter into their discussions here, no matter what plans it became necessary to scrap in order to avoid them.

The initial address by Mr. Hoover, it is agreed, plainly nipped the debt issue (because it was rendered impossible to deal with it by itself alone) in its incipiency.

Talk of delaying the February conference in Geneva had not then gained currency. Perhaps it had been mentioned between European chancelleries, but no intimation of it had been given to Washington. This has not been done, formally, even yet, but there no longer is any question that it is contemplated.

THE NOMINAL explanation of the European nations' hesitation is their expressed doubt of the possibility of making the necessary preparations for the negotiations by the date originally chosen.

Officialdom, however, recognizes that, in reality, old world government leaders think an agreement too unlikely to be arrived at to make a meeting of their plenipotentiaries safe, since open admission of their failure to come to terms probably would make a chronically uncomfortable situation acute and perhaps dangerous.

Germany, to be sure, is an exception, as it was, indeed, in Washington.

It would have had here and would have in Geneva everything to gain and nothing to lose, being virtually disarmed already, but the assumption is that its opposition to delay (which may turn out to be complete abandonment of the February meeting will prove ineffective against the other European capitals' determination.

OF ALL PUBLIC MEN in the United States, Chairman Borah of the senate committee on foreign affairs has been most outspoken in diagnosing the European powers' prolonged inability to hit upon a plan for a mutual lightening of the military burden which weighs so heavily upon all of them.

The Idaho senator has said repeatedly that the Versailles treaty evidently created a situation, in favor of the World War's winners, which can be maintained solely by force; while it continues, disarmament can only be debated, but not accomplished.

The state department (naturally, for its position is more ticklish than an individual senator's) has no comment to offer, but it is quite well understood that it is keeping entirely out of the conversation over the Geneva date—presumably regretting the prospect of delay but seeing nothing it can do to prevent it.

FASHION AND PROSPERITY

Cotton has been hard hit by changes in women's fashions, for other fabrics have displaced it in recent years. A concerted effort seems now to be making to bring it back into popularity. A greater use of cotton goods would bring prosperity to the cotton planters in the South and to the textile mills using cotton wherever they may be.

The fashion designers are co-operating with those interested in providing a better market for cotton goods. Women's gowns, which have stopped at the knee for a long time, are now much longer. Those on view in the shop windows reach to the ankle. This means that it will take more cloth to make them. It has been said that a difference of six inches in the length of a dress skirt means prosperity or poverty for the textile mills.

If the skirts are to be six inches longer the manufacturers of fabrics of all kinds will be benefited by the decree of fashion for more cloth in a garment. It may come about that fashion will do more to relieve employment in certain industries than has been done by all the conferences that have been held. At least we, of the South Plains—where cotton is a bread and butter crop, can fervently hope so!

PLAN IS DIFFERENT

It is not always the mark of wisdom to indict the Gay Nineties, as they are facetiously called, as an era of stuffy and strait-laced mid-Victorian gloom. Some aspects of the period, in truth, were as merry and as jovial as others were solemn. Particularly was it a time when childhood had not yet forgotten how to frolic in the streets to the tunes of the hurdy-gurdy and the German band, or, more often, to the music of its own singing.

That was the somber and puritanical age when the carnival spirit was abroad on the sidewalks, especially during the twilight hours, and there was scarcely a city block that did not resound with the noise of innocent capers and jubilees. The speeding automobile and the current passion for "organized play" and the movies put an end to these neighborhood frolics.

Today children of "nice people" don't play on the sidewalks, and it is exceedingly dangerous for anybody's children to make a playground of the streets.

Few enjoying the "new freedom" and this escape from prudery, hypocrisy and intolerance would go back to the stiffness and dignity of the Gay Nineties, but a little more of the spontaneous play of that dim past would do this sophisticated age of dying-jazz no harm.

"Easy pickings," as the ukulele expert says.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

A PITCHER CAN PITCH AN ENTIRE GAME WITHOUT THROWING A BALL

An umpire, in accordance with Sec 2 of Rule 30, can call a ball for every twenty seconds in which the pitcher does not deliver the ball. This goes on until four balls are called on the batsman, and he takes his base. With the runner on first the pitcher pretends to throw to first, and the runner takes second, in accordance with Sec 6 of Rule 31. The pitcher balks in the same way to second, and third, a run being scored.

The second batsman up is declared out for changing boxes when in batting position, in accordance with Sec 10, of Rule 44. The third man up is declared out for failure to step up one minuteafter being called—Rule 44, Sec. 2, and the fourth man up, is out for not taking his proper turn in batting order per Rule 44, Sec. 1.

This procedure is followed for the entire nine innings, the opposition failing to score, and in five of the innings the pitcher allowing runs to be made. Such a game, of course, is purely hypothetical, and would never really happen in a game, but is correct according to the Rules of Baseball.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BERYL BORDEN, secretly in love with TOMMY WILSON, discovers that he is planning to elope with her half-sister, IRENE EVERETT. So she and her "gang" kidnap Tommy and take him into the country where she urges him to continue in college and not break the heart of his aunt who is financing him. Failing to convince him, Beryl lets Tommy return to her sister. Irene, enraged at the long wait, refuses to listen to his pleas and postpones the elopement.

Next day Tommy goes fishing with his uncle and finds Beryl and her gang on the beach. One of the boys, ANGIE REED, is carried out by the tide. Tommy and Beryl rescue him and call a doctor before taking him home. She finds it hard to bear the reproaches of MRS. REED and her family and the sneers of her jealous sister.

When Tommy again begs Irene to marry him, she says she will not let marriage interfere with her career and informs him that she is to have a radio audition.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

"I think," Mrs. Everett said to Beryl in the voice of one who copes with a hopeless situation, "that it would be more considerate of you to go to your sister and see if there isn't something you can do for her. You know better than anyone else what an ordeal she has been through and with this audition, ahead of her tomorrow she is really under a great strain."

All the women looked at Beryl. For a moment defiance was plainly expressed in the flush that spread over her cheeks and in the pronounced lift of her chin, but common sense came to her rescue and saved her from making a scene.

"And someone must cook dinner," her mother added suggestively. "Heaven knows I can't do everything and I'm sure Mrs. Reed needs me here. Someone must make up to her for . . . "

"What's the trouble?" Charlie Reeds voice cut in as he made his way into the room.

It seemed to him that they all tried to tell him at once but he turned to Beryl. She told him as simply as she could what had happened, neither accusing nor sparing herself.

"I'll never let him go away alone again," Mrs. Reed sobbed, her eyes beseechingly upon her husband's face.

"What?" he said, surprised. Then: "I guess what that young fellow needs is a lesson in sportsmanship. It wasn't playing fair to go in by himself while the others were busy," he added and strode away upstairs.

Mrs. Reed gasped, and Beryl experienced a blessed feeling of relief. At least there was one adult in the world who was not eager to pillory her.

"I'll cook dinner," she said pleasantly to her mother and hurried away.

One among the women, realizing that they had been outdone in generosity by a man, remarked vaguely: "Beryl's a good cook, isn't she?"

Mrs. Everett sighed. "When I can get her into the kitchen," she admitted.

But today Beryl's mind was not on cooking. She saw the apples, sliced and spiced and guessed that they were intended for a pie but when she made the crust she forgot the rule for mixing it and stood rubbing the shortening and flour to a fineness that would rob the pie of all flakiness.

Irene came in while she mused over the pastry bowl, to get a glass of ice water. She studied Beryl for a moment with sly speculativeness. Then she said with a plaintive simper, "I've got a frightful headache."

"That's too bad," Beryl said with uncertain sympathy. She was too used to faked headaches in the family to take them seriously.

"Really I have," Irene went on. "I don't know what I'm going to do."

"Take an asprin and lie down."

"I don't mean about my head. I've done everything for that, but I've got to get that yellow blouse washed and I can hardly stand on my feet."

"What do you want the blouse for?"

"Didn't mother tell you?"

"Tell me what?"

"That I'm singing for RKO tomorrow?"

"And you must sing in a yellow blouse. I see—a yellow linen blouse that's been waiting a week for you to launder it."

"It's the only decent one I've got to go with my gray suit," Irene pouted. "I'm not lazy. It's not my fault if I can't get things done.

Servant Tells Murder Story

Filipino Arrested For Killing Of New York Doctor; In Confession Details Of His Crime Are Revealed

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—Gavino Demier, Filipino servant, was arrested today and confessed, police said, that he killed Dr. George Edward Deely to get money for his "girl friend." Dr. Deely, a widely known specialist, was found stabbed and beaten to death in his home last Tuesday.

Demier was discharged by the physician five days before the crime. He said that after the killing he went to Philadelphia where he stayed until today.

Police said they had traced Demier to Philadelphia a few days after the killing but wishing to avoid extradition delays, shadowed him until he returned to New York today. He was then arrested.

Police believed the doctor was killed with a knife and his skull fractured by being pounded against the floor. At first revenge was believed to be the motive for the crime, but later detectives said they learned a sum of money had been taken.

Demier, a muscular man who formerly was a pugilist, said that when he left the doctor's employ he took a key to the house. Returning about 4 a. m. last Tuesday, he crept into the house and took $34 from the doctor's dressing table. As he was leaving the room he stumbled, awakening the physician, and the killing followed.

Highwayman Shot Down In Robbery

NEW ORLEANS, June 8. (AP)—A man, who gave the names of Thomas Carson and Frank Casey of El Paso, Texas, was shot down today by a street car motorman after he had robbed the conductor and attempted to rob the driver of a motor bus.

Walking out of the shadows, the man held-up motorman Robert Glass and Conductor Furry Curtis and, after taking $8.75 from the conductor, made them wait in the empty street car until the bus came along.

As the man entered the bus and demanded money from the driver, Motorman Glass shot him in the back. The bullet entered his spine and he was believed dying at the hospital.

"You mean a real voice?" Beryl peared to be deeply impressed. soprano—like yours?"

Irene simpered. "Well, you could rdly expect to have a voice like ne," she said, pityingly.

"You would be sacrilegious," Beryl orted and left the room.

Irene was so insulted that she cided Beryl should not accom- ny her to the studio after all. it she did not go near Beryl to l her this while the latter wash- and ironed the lingerie and cook- the dinner.

In fact, she said nothing during e meal of her new decision. Mrs. verett unconsciously appeased her jured feelings somewhat by criti- ing the food.

"Oh well," Beryl answered list- ssly, "I don't feel like cooking."

"Mooning over someone?" Irene ked maliciously.

Beryl nodded. "Someone I feel ry for," she said sweetly, and rene's intuition warned her to drop e subject. When Beryl spoke like at she was going to be cuttingly rcastic, and Irene didn't want to se her temper to the point of dis- osing to Beryl what she had in ind for her.

But when she did speak of it, the ext morning at breakfast, she met ith opposition from an unexpect- d quarter. Beryl was away minding e store while Mr. Everett—who ft the house before his wife or rene were up—returned to break- st with them.

On this occasion he seemed to be a hurry. "Beryl tells me she's oing to New York with you," he aid to Irene. "Give me some more offee if you've got some hot, other. I want to get back and nish the vegetable rack before eryl leaves. "Pa! Can't you ever realize how hose newspaper interviewers would ake it sound if they found out rene had worked in a grocery tore!"

"What newspaper interviewers?" r. Everett asked hazily.

"Oh, you're as bad as Beryl!" rs. Everett exclaimed. "Can't you e what's ahead of your daughter? ut of course you wouldn't know," he added with a weary sigh. "Fame eans nothing to you. All you've ver known is turnips and cabbages. Why, I don't believe you've ever old an alligator pear in your life!"

she added, warming to her subject.

"Mother," Irene broke in stiffly. "After all, even alligator pears have nothing to do with me and my career. I should like to forget groceries for a while. I'm sick to death of the thought of them."

Mr. Everett grunted, and looked at the two eggs and bacon on her plate, the stack of toast and jar of jam.

"It's not for this family to despise groceries," he said testily. "And I'd like some more cofee if anyone around here has time to think of me."

"You needn't hurry," Irene informed him. "Beryl is not going with me."

Her mother looked at her inquiringly and Mr. Everett ejaculated: "Eh?"

"I won't have her," Irene burst out. "She's impossible; you should have heard the things she said to me yesterday!"

"Probably nothing but the truth," her father retorted. He was in an irritable mood this morning; due very likely to his badly cooked dinner of the night before. "If you women would stop arguing and fighting all the time and pay more attention to—"

"Your meals," his wife added for him. "You're just like all men—thinking of your stomach all the time. You used to be different." (That usually got him.) "I declare," she began to cry, "I don't know what to do," and her husband's habitual meekness was quickly restored.

"There, there, Mother, I know you have a hard time," he soothed, "but Beryl's a great help to me; you aren't going to let Irene disappoint her like that, are you?"

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 8. (AP) — The cotton market here was less active today than it was last week. Prices fluctuated rather nervously though showing less dependence on the stock market. Opening cables were much lower than due at the start and the weather in the belt generally reported favorable over the week-end. The market closed near the top showing net gains for the day of 11-12 points.

Liverpool cables came in 6-7 penny points worse than due and private cables reported that local traders and Bombay liquidated. Manchester cabled that the market was disorganized with cloth and yarn business unsettled.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Cotton rallied from an early decline today.

The general market closed very steady at net advances of 7-10 points.

The opening was steady 9-11 points lower in response to reports of favorable weather over the week-end, relatively easy Liverpool cables, and the lower opening of the stock market.

There was considerable selling of January during the day which was believed to be for foreign account, with some traders attributing it to Bombay interests, but general offerings were not heavy after the early selling had run its course, and the new low level of prices seemed to have brought in an increased trade demand.

member of the directorate, John W. Carpenter, of Dallas, was absent. Those attending the conference were Mr. Jones, R. A. Underwood, Plainview; Mrs. F. N. Drane, Corsicana; Riley Stricklind, Amarillo; Thomas Johnson, McKinney; John A. Hulen, Houston; Houston Harte, San Angelo, and Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock.

Extended consideration was given to finances for next year. Since Gov. Ross Sterling has not signed the appropriations bill, details of the budget were referred to the finance committee, consisting of Mr. Carpenter, General Hulen and Mr. Harte, Dr. Horn said following the meeting. The committee is to meet after the governor takes action, and not later than 30 days, it was said.

Athletics at the college also came in for considerable discussion. Details of the policy of the department likewise was left to the budget committee, the president said. A report of a survey and recommendations of the Association of Texas Colleges was made to the board.

The directors authorized the college to become a member of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

Announcement of the work accomplished during the past year was made by Dr. Horn. He told the board that the school had an enrollment of 2,319 students for the year.

Other business taken up included the adoption of amendments to the by-laws and the outlining of work of the committees; expression of appreciation to the senior class of 1931 for the presentation of the "Double T" bench; and announcement of the summer school which is to begin today.

The board extend a special welcome to General Hulen as a member to the group. He was appointed to the finance committee and was named a special committee on military affairs. General Hulen succeeded Frank E. Clarity, of Fort Worth.

All of the regents here for the business meeting attended the college commencement exercises held yesterday morning.

Stocks Stage Impressive Rally After Decline Which Was Led By All Rails

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 8. (AP)—Stocks rallied rather impressively today after an early decline that had been led by the rails. The recovery was unspectacular compared with last week's feverish ascent, but it was substantial and the average of 90 issues rose 4.2 points net, closing above the level reached last Thursday.

Not for some time had the market been able to show so large a gain on so small a turnover for today's volume was only 1,700,000 shares. Rails issues, which had wilted under Pennsylvania's report of a first quarter net loss, recovered quickly after the morning's accumulation of offerings had been absorbed. Oils, favored by a more cheerful turn in the news, looked much stronger. Coppers, motors, chemicals and foods acquired group strength, and the utilities moved up vigorously.

ends of the meetings, be instructed to negotiate with representatives of the major companies, landowners and any others concerned in efforts to choke down the production.

Attack All Angles

The general committee, composed of fifty-seven members, in a session immediately after the main meeting, made plans to attack the problem from every angle. W. L. Todd, Dallas drilling contractor and former vice president of the Simms Oil company, was elected chairman of the general emergency committee, with Frank P. Zoch, San Antonio, vice chairman, and Ed A. Landreth, Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer.

The committee named a sub-committee to work out complete organization plans and to make overtures to Governor Sterling for a formal committee visit this week, probably Thursday. At the same time, the whole committee will meet in Austin to further plans for the campaign.

Convincing Efforts

At the meeting with Governor Sterling, committeemen will attempt to convince him that a special session of the legislature is a "dire necessity" to put teeth into proration laws as a preliminary step to choking off the field.

Another move of the general meeting was to adopt a resolution by Charles F. Roser of Fort Worth calling on all producers to put a stop to the drilling of unnecessary wells. Roeser also put a motion, adopted, to name two representative oil men from East Texas, two from South Texas, two from West Texas and two from North Texas to choose four attorneys and draft a comprehensive conservation statute to offer Governor Sterling and the legislature in the event a session of the legislature is convened.

Nearly a dozen members of the Texas legislature attended the meeting, three of them coming with a first-hand knowledge of conditions gained from a week's study in the East Texas fields. Among them were A. M. Howsley of Albany, author of the Howsley bill about which much of the argument concerning proration has raged. The bill failed of passage at the last session of the legislature.

Joe Danciger, anti- prorationist who filed the first suit seeking to enjoin proration, addressed the general meeting. He attacked the Howsley bill as one likely to bring more disaster, and declared his belief that proration works out inequitably. Asked what remedies he proposes, Danciger said he had none, but that such remedies as the Howsley bill would "kill the patient."

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 8. (AP)—Livestock trade around the market circuit was featured by further price upturns on killing classes of cattle. Although the chief factor in influencing the advance was a curtailed supply, the eastern dressed beef trade had a better tone. Fed steers and yearlings were on a strong to 25 higher basis, with light weight steers and yearlings finding an active outlet at the full advance.

Country demand for stockers and feeders also widened and with supplies of thin cattle light prices were firm to 25 higher. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 43,200 a slight decrease from a week ago.

The hog market was active at strong to 15 higher prices. Total offerings were around 65,300, as compared with 106,437 last Monday.

Spikes Case

M. Bell, a cattle buyer for the Blankenship brothers around Tucumcari in 1901 and 1902, was also a witness.

Reputation Said Good

Mr. Ralls testified as to the reputation of the Spikes brothers for all the years he had known them in Crosby county and that it was good. He has lived in that county for many years and knew the family.

Carrol Littlefield, another Crosby county resident, who first went to that county in 1891 and who lived in the north side of the county during 1899 and a little later, testified as to the reputation. He said on cross examination that John Spikes lived probably 30 miles south of him. He admitted that his knowledge was "limited as to John Spikes for I did not know of John Spikes being in trouble." Later Littlefield said, he was in New Mexico.

Husband Personal Attorney

Mrs. J. Wilson Boyd, who lived in Crosby county for 31 years, testified that she "knew all very well except Dick and John" and that their general reputation was "good." On cross-examination she said her husband was personal attorney for John Spikes in a number of business deals. She could not say if he had ever represented him in any criminal matters. "I never heard a thing about them except that they made other people respect their rights and they respected the rights of others," Mrs Boyd testified in relation to the trouble the Spikes boys might have had in New Mexico. She "understood the trouble was about grass."

Bob Brown, Ralls, who went there in 1902, met Jeff, Ernest and Fred and all three had good reputations. He knew them after they returned from New Mexico. On cross examination by E. L. Klett, Brown said he once worked for Ernest and that they had "slept, ate and camped together."

"Peaceful Men"

Elijah English, better known as "Lije," for 40 years a resident of Crosby county, said he once lived with Fred as a neighbor and that he knew the boys and all were "peaceable men." On cross examination by George Dupree, Mr. English said Fred was the only one of the boys to come back: Ernest and Sam he did not know if they ever returned to Crosby county. "John might have pulled a maverick once in a while," he admitted.

Never Heard of Trouble

John English, a brother, said he "knew Jeff, Ernest and Fred." I don't think I knew Dick," he said. They all had good reputations. On cross examination he said he was not in the cattle business until after the slaying of the two boys. He knew John well, the others were too young. "If I heard of John Spikes having trouble in Crosby county I don't recall it," Mr. English stated. "I heard some talk about the trouble in New Mexico, it was cattle rustling I suppose."

E. C. Brown, of Ralls, who moved into the county in 1902 and who has known the three Spikes brothers, Fred, Jeff and Ernest, "about 25 years," said they all had good reputations. On cross-examination he was unable to recall when Ernest went to California. Although he had testified that Jeff Spikes was one of the first men he met in the county, he admitted he never knew Jeff had been out of the county to New Mexico.

John B. Kurlie, a brother of Jim who lived in southern Crosby county, said he had lived there for 43 years and knew the boys when they moved in. As the county was sparsely settled, he said he knew "practically everybody" in the county. On cross-examination he admitted his knowledge as to John was mostly casual but he never heard of his being in trouble.

Mrs. O. E. Scott, daughter of J. A. Beddingfield, who has resided in the county since 1892, said the reputation of Jeff, Fred and Ernest was "good." On cross-examination she said she went to school with Sam, Fred and Dick and that their "oldest sister was my first teacher." She only had Fred in her room a year. he was "a young man when I went to school with him," she stated. "I never did hear anything against John until this trial came up," Mrs. Scott stated. She was invited to and attended a farewell dance given by Dick Spikes before he went to New Mexico. There was "lots of talk" about the killing and she heard "it was he that had been waylaid by a gang and murdered."

She never heard of much of the details of their trouble except through Sam Gholson. On cross-examination she said she met Sam in 1925 at her home in New Mexico then and that he was "too old to be dangerous."

All Good Reputations

Stanley Carter son of Dr. Carter, a pioneer Crosby county physician, went to Estacado in 1890 or 1891 was not sure which. He knew the Spikes boys around Old Emma, had known them all since 1891 and went to school with two or three. All had a good reputation. Jeff, Fred and Sam he has known since the slaying. Jeff intimately and he sees Fred once in a while. On cross-examination by George Dupree brought out that at the time John Spikes lived in the south part of the county, "off the cap rock," he was going to school. First he heard of any mavericking "was today." John Spikes once had a mail route to Dickens he said.

Senator Parrish said he went to Crosby county in 1901 and came to Lubbock in 1923 and that in Crosby he "punched cattle, tried to teach school and held office." He was county judge and had worked for the G-Bar-L outfit. He did not know John and Dick but knows Fred, Jeff and Ernest. On cross-examination he said he helped dig the grave for the two boys when their bodies were brought back to Crosby county about 1902 or 1903. Jeff was "one of the first men I met in Crosby county," he stated. He did not know Sam so well. He worked with Ernest, "in the cow camps and on the trails after the killing" he stated.

Bob Smith, living in Blanco canyon ten miles north of Crosbyton, said he was born in the county 50 years ago and that "there was one other white boy born in the county before I was." He knew Jeff and Fred well, he said, also knows J. Evetts Haley and told about being given a copy of the book "The XIT Ranch of Texas." Later in talking to Haley he told him that Jeff was a neighbor and a mighty good friend of mine and I wished it was not in there."

On cross-examination Mr. Smith said he thought John had some cattle but was not sure as to the number. He knew nothing of their activities in New Mexico, he stated.

Knew All Six

Will Ezell, former county-district clerk and surveyor of the county, said he went there from Fort Worth in 1899, going to Old Emma, had some cattle and worked for the St. Louis Cattle company. He knew all six, as Jeff and John came back a time or two to see their brothers. They would stop with Fred on the way to town to see him. Cross-examination brought but little additional information except that he was not sure if Sam Spikes ever returned to Crosby county. He also was one of the men who helped dig the graves for the dead boys; heard "that Bud Lee and Sam Gholson had waylaid and killed them"; knew both men and they had good reputations. Never talked to the Spikes boys o. their troubles, but got some of this information from J. T. Morrison. As district clerk he did not examine the records to see if John Spikes had ever been incicted. The papers were moved to Crosbyton from Emma while he was clerk.

Walter Pierson went to the county in 1899 and for 20 years was in the cattle business for himself. He knew John, Dick, Fred, Ernest and Jeff. They had good reputations before going to New Mexico and after they came back. Mr. Pierson admitted he knew little about their reputation in New Mexico, on cross-examination.

Bert Smith of near Old Emma, has lived in Floyd, Lubbock and Crosby counties since 1906 and has known Jeff and Fred well since then. "They had good reputations." He knew nothing of their reputations in the Mesa Redonda community in New Mexico in 1901 and 1902 except by "hearsay" he said on cross examination.

Ed Vaughan of Lubbock, who has lived near here since 1901 said he knew Fred by reputation since he was in business here and that Fred has had a good reputation.

John D. Shipley, Clovis, who lived in Floyd county thirty years ago and who knew the Spikes boys when he was a boy, said they had good reputations. He first met them in 1895 he said. "They never ganged in Texas and I never knew of their ganging in New Mexico," he stated on cross-examination. He "never heard of a soul saying John Spikes was a cow thief," he said.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 8. (AP) — Cash grain demand, slight.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carload delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Wheat No. 1 ordinary hard, old crop 75-76; new crop 67-70.
Corn, No. 2 mixed 66-68 1-2; No. 2 white 68 1-2@69 1-2; No. 2 yellow 69@70.
Oats, No. 2 red 28 1-2@29 1-2.
Barley No. 2 nominally 38@39.
Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.37@1.39; No. 2 kaffir 1.32@1.34.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 8. (AP)—Heavy rainfall in parts of Alberta province, Canada, and predictions of showers elsewhere in Canadian drouth territory, led to lower prices today for cereals. An increase of 515,000 bushels shown by the United States wheat visible supply, contrasting with 2,363,000 decrease at this time last year, was also a bearish factor. On the other hand, private Washington reports indicating possibility of 4 per cent beer were cancelled by brokers with a sudden late rally in wheat, but the market quickly fell back again.

Wheat closed unsettled, 8-9 to 1 1-4 cents lower, corn unchanged to 1-2 down, oats 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7 cents.

Paving Contracts Will Be Awarded

A mile of highway on College avenue east of Texas Technological college and also 1.53 miles on Nineteenth street on the south side of the college will be included in the paving contract to be let by the state highway commission June 22, local officials of the department said yesterday.

"The college avenue contract includes not only college avenue but also 19th street," Guy R. Johnston, construction engineer, said.

"The 19th street work will include 19th street west from College avenue to the intersection of highways 24 and 137 from the west. The slab will be 20 feet wide. It will be located on the south line of the property of Texas Technological college.

City To Have Opportunity

"We are placing the slab on the south 20 feet of the college property so that the city of Lubbock will have the opportunity of creating a city paving district and pave the south side of the street in the city limits."

Mr. Johnston explained that by the state making the south line of the slab on the south line of the college property, it would given the property owners and the city the chance to pave the street 20 or 30 feet wider and make the paving 40 or 50 feet, if it was desired.

The corporate limits of Lubbock now form the south side of the street. Under the new plan it will be possible to move the city limits to the north a short distance so that the city can pave. "This was not possible on College avenue because the entire street was the property of the college," he explained.

Property owners along 19th street can, if they so desire, have a 60 foot paved street, the engineer added.

Students Killed

investigation be conducted and Senor H. Valdez, Mexican consul at Oklahoma City, had made a formal request that Guess be charged with murder. Shilling and Valdez cooperated in an inquiry late today.

Salvador Rubio and Gomez were students last year at St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kansas, also attended by Fernando and Guillermo Ortiz Rubio, sons of the president. The latter were believed en route to New York. The three youths whose trip ended here had left Atchison yesterday for Mexico City. Emilo was a student at the Rolla, Mo., school of mines.

Had Purchased Arms

The surviving youth, who explained the party had purchased arms and ammunition in this country because they were cheaper than in Mexico, said he believed his companions feared the officers were robbers.

An apparently pursuing motor car, said Salvador, had made the youths apprehensive and they did not halt for rest until they reached the residential section of this southern Oklahoma city.

Because Salvador was standing a distance from the machine, he could not describe the shooting, but both Guess and Crosby said a gun protruding from a blanket thrown about his shoulders and that Guess fired, killing the blanket-garbed student. Then, the officers said, the youth who had been disarmed produced a small pistol and Guess fired on him.

The youths did not fire, Salvador was unarmed.

"They knew we were officers," said Crosby. "We told them that first of all and they read our stars."

Consul Valdez was to be joined here by Father Richard Burns of St. Benedict's college. At Washington it was said such matters usually were left in the hands of local consuls. Salvador Rubio remained at a private residence. He is the son of a Mexico City attorney. Gomez lived at Morelia, Mexico.

At an inquiry conducted late today by County Attorney Shilling, Mat Alexander, a city detective who was passing in a motor car at the time of the shooting, told of picking up a cocked pistol from the side of one of the dead youths.

Authorities said two other pistols, an automatic shotgun and many rounds of ammunition were found in the car.

The inquiry was abandoned late today until morning. Consul Valdez remained in Ardmore.

Mexican Embassy Asks Full Probe

WASHINGTON, June 8. (AP)—The Mexican embassy late today requested the state department to open investigation into the fatal shooting of two Mexican students at Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Embassy officials made it clear in announcing the action tonight the representation to the state department was not in the nature of a protest. It was explained that the embassy wished only to have full information for the case for transmission to Mexico City.

Faith And Hard Work Said To Be Greatest Needs Now

AMARILLO, June 8. (AP)—Faith and hard work are the greatest needs of the nation, according to members of the Panhandle Bankers association here for their twenty-seventh annual convention.

Problems of bankers were discussed by speakers at the business session this morning, most of the time being spent with the condition of agriculture, the bankers agreeing that the "live at home" idea must be encouraged and that diversification of crops offer the only possible remedy of conditions.

Negro Charged In Theft Here

L. E. Ellison Held In Jail Charged With Theft Of Bass Drum; Other Loot Is Found In Negro Quarter

The next time L. E. Ellison, negro, former hotel bellboy, "finds" a musical instrument it probably will be a piccolo, or flute, and not a bass drum, police said yesterday.

A drum is too hard to carry around and keep people from seeing it, officers explained.

Ellison is in the city jail charged with stealing the drum from Z. D. Davis, 2322 Eighth street. The musical (?) instrument was found in the negro's room in the "Flats" Lubbock negro quarters by officers following a tip from persons who had seen the drum in his possession.

L. E. said he found the drum.

"Yeh. He probably did find the drum, but it was in, or near, Davis' yard when it was found," officers countered.

Other loot found in the negro district Sunday included two lawn mowers, police said.

their living standards against those of India and China; and that wheat growers must meet Russian standards of living."

Tracess Tariff Trend

Tracing the international tariff trend, the secretary said some countries have "tariffs so mountainous as to make our tariff wall look like a clutter of molehills."

"Boiled down," he said, "we can probably continue to produce tobacco, lard and to some extent pork, rice, apples and citrus fruits for export market, and, unless foreign expansion becomes too great, sell them at a profit.

"In cotton, we face a prospect of severe competition. The consumption of foreign growths of cotton is increasing faster than is the consumption of our own cotton. Sensational expansion of foreign cotton lands, however, is not likely. By reducing our costs and producing a higher quality of cotton, we can probably maintain our foreign market. Cotton growers need to balance their production both as to volume and quality against their market demands.

"The growth of domestic demand has practically eliminated exports of dairy products, beef and poultry products, but there is little, if any room, for expansion of the volume of their production."

Many times in his address the secretary adverted to the subject of wheat, the Kansas wheat grower, he said, needs to know today what is happening thousands of miles away in Soviet Russia, in the Argentine, in Australia.

The man made no effort to fight extradition from the neighboring state, the sheriff said.

Details of the tragedy were lacking tonight. County Attorney Charles H. Dean and Sheriff Flanagin are to make a thorough investigation of the affair tomorrow.

Funeral arrangements for the woman had not been made tonight, as far as could be learned here.

Murder And Suicide Verdict Is Returned In Two Deaths

PARIS, June 8. —(AP) —A verdict that Mrs. Elvira Manuel, 33, died of gunshot wounds at the hands of her husband, Tom Manuel, 45, and that Manuel's death was suicidal, was returned today by Justice A. W. Sheffield at an inquest. Manuel and his wife, who had been separated several months, were shot to death last night at his filling station, a mile east of Paris. Investigators learned that Manuel and his wife went riding together last night.

Policeman Held Under Bond After Shooting At Oil Camp

GLADEWATER, June 8. (AP)—J. M. McMillan, a policeman was under $1,000 bond here tonight as a result of the fatal shooting Sunday of Walter L. Black at an oil camp two miles from here.

Black was struck between the knees and hip as he allegedly was running from officers investigating reports that drinking had been in progress at the camp. The bullet severed the femoral artery and Black bled to death. He was taken to a doctor's office, but died shortly after reaching there from loss of blood.

Vatican And Italy Search For Solution To Problems

ROME, June 8. (AP)—The Vatican and the government were still searching today for a basis of at least a temporary solution of the controversy that exists between them, and at the moment neither side despairs of finding one.

Through regular diplomatic channels and through unofficial negotiations the conversations are continuing, it was learned on the best authority today, and there was nothing to indicate any drastic steps were contemplated.

Inventors of a new method for running automobiles with a mixture of acetylene gas, air and water assert that it provides more power and is more economical than gasoline.

President Is Texas Speaker

Dr. H. Y. Benedict Speaks Before 600 Graduates Of Texas University At Commencement Exercises

AUSTIN, June 8. (AP)—Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, told approximately 600 graduating students in commencement exercises today that "obviously it is unfair to spend money that comes from all of the people upon you if you are not to be of benefit to all the people."

"Is it a wise investment for the state to spend about $1,000 per head in order to turn loose into the body politic a group such as I see before me?" Dr. Benedict inquired.

He answered his own question as follows: "That public money spent in graduating you is a wise investment is shown by the fact that the graduates of state universities, scattered through the populations of their states, do influence for good all the population of their states. Some black sheep among them live anti-socially, their power for harm increased by the education they have gotten; some neither help nor hinder much the commonwealth; some are the little leaven that leaveneth the whole lump, and are essential to the building of a happier and nobler commonwealth.

"At least once each succeeding year each among you should search his conscience by asking the question: Did the state of Texas win, lose, or draw when it invested money in my education?"

The value of work and good citizenship was stressed by Dr. Benedict.

"Man is a worker, man is a citizen, man is a spirit," he said. "Work is a duty, too much idleness a vice, parasitism an abomination. Have your work, learn your work, do your work. Happy he who is in love with his job."

"Good citizenship is a second duty. Man is now the animal most dangerous to man. Rattlesnakes and fever ticks are not as dangerous to him as he is to himself. The antidote to snake poison is more easily found than the antidote to harmful interclass and national struggles.

"Never allow your lives to degenerate into mere routine," Dr. Benedict advised. "Always try to keep coming into contract with the new. Make it routine to break the routine. While doing your work in the world and being a good citizen, do not forget to grow as a human being by keeping alive all the interests and sympathies that you are lucky enough to possess.
