OKLAHOMA CITY — Stop sending used underwear. Please. And no more tweezers. "We have enough for the nation," American Red Cross spokeswoman Elizabeth Quirk says. And single shoes with no match? Thanks, but no thanks. People sending donations for the Oklahoma tornado victims are creating what the Salvation Army warns could become a "disaster within a disaster" by emptying their closets instead of opening their wallets. The relief agencies say they need money, not cast-offs.

Price leap

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices took the biggest leap in nine years last month as Americans faced a record spike in gasoline prices and costs jumped for many other goods and services — from food and clothing to doctor's office visits and airline tickets. April's 0.7 percent rise in the Consumer Price Index, reported by the Labor Department on Friday, was the largest since October 1990 and pushed the rate of inflation so far this year to 3.3 percent on an annual basis. Wall Street investors, sensitive that signs of inflation could prompt Federal Reserve officials to raise interest rates, were spooked. The Dow Jones average of industrial stocks closed at just over 10,913, down almost 194 points although slightly off its in-session lows. Bond prices also were down sharply.

Judge releases boy to parents

■ Judge had option to hold 11-year-old boy for 10 days, but released him after 2 nights following a detention hearing.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

The mother of an 11-year-old boy who admitted making a terroristic threat on a school bus Wednesday afternoon, said Friday that she would "like for each parent ... to explain ... to their children the severity of their words."

The Midland Independent School District "is definitely not playing" and is serious about enforcing its zero tolerance toward bomb and death threats, whether made in jest or with intent, said Rose Mary Romero.

"They will be held accountable as my son was," Mrs. Romero said near noon Friday after her son, Jacob Ramirez, was released from Barbara Culver Juvenile Justice Center following a detention hearing before Midland County Court-at-Law Judge Marvin Moore.

Jacob, a fourth-grader at Henderson Elementary School, reportedly remarked that he was going "to bomb the school."

His comment was within earshot of the bus driver after the boy had boarded the bus for a trip home.

Jacob was turned over to school officials and was taken into custody of the MISD Police Department for a two-night stay in a cell in the Culver Juvenile Justice Center's detention ward.

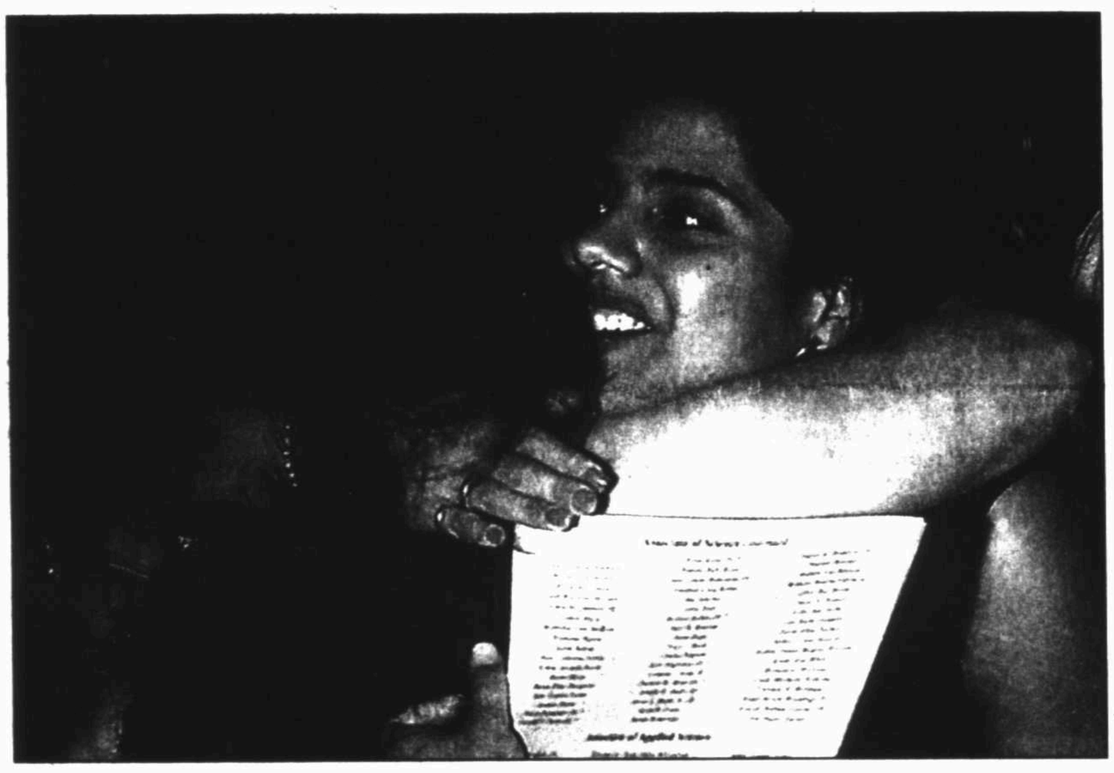

"I would hate for any other child to go through the same thing that my son went through," said Mrs. Romero, who noted that her son, shackled during the hearing, was "repentant ... very sad. He was crying."

Group of Midlanders work to get funds for one-acre skate park

By Rick López
Staff Writer

If you're attending Celebration of the Arts this weekend, take a minute to visit an impromptu skate center just west of the Midland County courthouse.

You'll see limber skaters propel themselves off wooden ramps, slide over yards of guardrail and race each other at amazing speeds.

Colorado Street downtown will be closed of between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. today and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday for the skate center set up by the group, Citizens for Midland Skaters.

But the ramps and rails won't be there for long. After this weekend, local skaters may not have a choice other than skating on parking lots or gritty streets.

However, CMS and other Midlanders are leading a campaign to help build a one-acre skate park, said Pam Sledge, a CMS member whose 10-year-old son, Matt, is an avid skater.

Their efforts began February 1998, when Ms. Sledge and other parents of skaters collected 450 signatures for a petition to show the Parks and Recreation Department that there's a local interest in building a skate park, she said.

Weeks later, the group obtained permission from Mayor Bobby Burns and the City Council to raise funds for the park. Burns and Councilman Berry Simpson told the group that the city will use public money to match the amount of donations CMS collects.

In addition, the city has designated an area of Beal Park to be used exclusively for the skate park. Beal Park will be located northeast of Loop 250 and Highway 80 and is scheduled to be completed in a year, city officials said.

Total cost to build the skate park is $200,000 and the group has collected $10,000 so far, Ms. Sledge said.

Though the city didn't set any time constraints for the collection of donations, CMS must meet one other important deadline.

The Abell-Hanger foundation has told the supporters that they will give them $15,000 if they can collect that amount in donations by March 31, 2000. But conditions of the grant prohibit the group from raising the money through fund-raisers, because donations are a more accurate gauge of how much demand there is for the park and justify the investment, Ms. Sledge said.

Memorial project

The park will do more than offer youngsters a safe place to play.

It also will be built in the memory of Sam Geer and William Wooten, both 11, who were killed Oct. 9 while skating

Gov. Bush plans to sign bill that would lower legal blood alcohol level to 0.08

■ Midland police are pleased with the bill; others feel it won't stop drunken drivers.

By Richard Acosta
Staff Writer

AUSTIN — Texas is one of the few states in the country where the legal blood-alcohol level has remained 0.10.

That soon may change.

A bill, which recently left the Senate floor and is on its way to the governor's office, would drop the level down to 0.08, a more commonly used limit.

If Senate Bill 114 is signed into law it will modify Section 49.01 of the Texas Penal Code to change the definition of intoxicated to mean, among other things, having a alcohol concentration of 0.08 or more.

The rest of the law reads, "Not having the normal use of mental or physical faculties by reason of the introduction of alcohol, a controlled substance, a drug, a dangerous drug, a combination of two or more of those substances or any other substance into the body."

The bill is being finalized and Gov. George W. Bush will sign it as soon as possible, according to Scott McClellan with Bush's office.

If this law is passed by the governor it will take effect on Sept. 1; then there

Yugoslavia: NATO bombing kills dozens of ethnic Albanians

By Candace Hughes
Associated Press

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — NATO bombs hit a convoy of ethnic Albanian refugees and killed dozens early Friday, Yugoslav authorities claimed. Reporters were shown a devastated scene of charred bodies, wrecked tractors and terrified survivors.

NATO said it was investigating the claim, while the State Department urged skepticism on Serb reports that blamed the allies for the attack on the Kosovo village of Korisa until the facts are known.

Officials at NATO headquarters, speaking on condition of anonymity, said there was no immediate indication that allied aircraft were involved. NATO conducted intensive attacks in the area but the officials noted Serb shelling near the village as well.

By Friday evening, 79 bodies had been found, the Serb-run Media Center in Kosovo reported, adding the toll could rise as searches continued. Sixty-one people were injured, it said.

Serb TV initially reported the attack was with cluster bombs, but the Media Center later said laser-guided missiles hit the convoy.

At the Pentagon, Air Force Maj. Gen. Charles Wald said the destruction depicted on Serb TV did not appear to be the result of a cluster bomb. He said the TV images did not show impact marks on the ground that cluster bombs would cause.

The ethnic Albanians had emerged from weeks of hiding in woods and stopped overnight in the village near Prizren when the bombs struck, some survivors told reporters allowed to visit the scene by Serb authorities.

An Associated Press Television News crew saw dozens of bodies, including those of two children, burned beyond recognition and lying near two craters beside a road. A group of 50 women and children huddled in the cellar of a village home were crying.

"I don't know the exact number (killed). Many. Everyone was sleeping," said one dazed survivor, Feriz Emini.

In the background were human remains, some 20 smoking tractors and clusters of wrecked buildings.

The previous highest number or deaths reported from a single NATO attack was 75 refugees killed April 14 in a convoy near the southwestern Kosovo town of Djakovica. NATO acknowledged a misfire.

In Washington, State Department spokesman James P. Rubin said the attack claim is being carefully reviewed because "it's an area where there was Serb shelling and in the general area there was substantial NATO activity."

"Given the past practice of the Belgrade television of misleading the world and misleading the Serb people with blatant, outright lies, I would urge everyone involved to treat Belgrade's information on this subject with extreme caution until NATO, which has shown its willingness to admit when mistakes were made, has been able to complete its assessment of what happened," Rubin said.

British officials said any investigation into erroneous airstrikes now include a new element.

"There are now reports of Kosovar people being rounded up and herded under bridges so that when NATO aircraft attack these bridges, these people can be displayed as civilian casualties," British Defense Minister John Spellar said in London.

In Moscow, the Russian Foreign Ministry accused NATO of a "new crime."

But it was not clear whether the ethnic Albanians were trying to return to their homes in Kosovo or join the hundreds of thousands who have fled, describing a Serb campaign to expel them in the name of "ethnic cleansing."

Emini said he was heading to Albania while others indicated they had come out of hiding because they thought it safe to go home.

Some 780,000 ethnic Albanians have left Kosovo, which had a pre-war population of 2 million, since NATO bombings aimed at forcing Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to stop Serb repression began March 24.

In Macedonia, first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton visited a huge refugee camp, held hands with children, told their parents they would go home and announced business loans for the country to help its laggard economy cope with the influx of refugees.

"We do not intend to let the evil which Milosevic perpetrated against these people keep them away from their homeland and their homes," Mrs. Clinton said. "That is a very basic, fundamental commitment that is shared not only by those in the U.S. who are committed to this effort but our allies as well."

ALCOHOL: If signed, law would take effect Sept. 1

(From 1A)

will be a 90-day grace period before the law can be enforced, Lt. Judy Alton with the Texas Department of Public Safety, said.

Midland police officers are pleased with the bill.

"I used to be a Capitol police officer and I have heard them debate on bills like this for years," said Craig Matthews, drug recognition expert for the Midland Police Department. "I hope the law makes things better. I hope the thought of the law being stricter will make people drink less beer or not drive when they are drunk.

"I do think the number of arrests will go up, because we have to retrain the officers for the new level. However, at .08 there is still a major loss of vision, reaction time and motor skills."

Ms. Alton said that it is good that the law is being changed, but thinks people are starting to obey the law.

"People's attitudes about drinking and driving are getting better," Ms. Alton said. "MADD (Mothers against Drunk Driving) and other groups have done a lot to help the situation. There have also been court cases that have brought tragedies to the forefront and have help changed minds about this issue.

"It is true that some officers feel that one or two beers is one or two beers too many. However, we are not going to pull over too many people who have only had one or two. Being intoxicated has a lot to do with people's metabolism, body size, how much they drank in a certain amount of time, as well as blood-alcohol level."

However, not everyone is happy with the change.

Bruce Riley, owner of Riley's Road House on Wall Street, is one such person.

"They (police) watch us and target us all the time," Riley said. "We monitor the drinking of the people in our place, we cut people off all the time. The problem is not here; the problem is these house parties where someone will drink a 12-pack and drive home."

Riley said that a change in the law will not really have an effect on most drunken drivers in the long run.

"The drop to .08 really doesn't matter, 'cause it is up to the discretion of the officers," Riley said. "They interpret it any way they want to in order to get an arrest. They sit out in front of my place, but they don't sit out in front of the Hilton or the country club.

"They always arrest people who cannot afford a good attorney to get them off; they end up having to plead out and it looks good for the cops. There are some cops that are fair, but there are some who are just trying to make a name for themselves, so they go for the easy targets," he said.

"People used to come in here all the time from out of town and spend money. Now no one wants to come here, they go spend their money in Odessa. Bottom line is, if a drunk wants to drive home they will drive home."

Not all owners of establishments that serve alcohol think the change is bad.

Richard Ross, with the Hilton Midland, said that the law will have less impact on them because they have a "captive audience."

"We are not a destination bar like some other places," Ross said. "Most of the people in our bar are guests of the hotel and only have to take an elevator to their room, rather than drive to and from."

Robert Grando, part owner of Dos Compadres, said the restaurant's perspective is different from a bar's.

"I guess it's great; the level should be lowered," Grando said. "In a restaurant, people eat and drink. It is not like they are buying it at a store and taking it home. But I think people will be more aware of their drinking because of the law."

Monty Grissom, manager of Wall Street Bar and Grill, said that he did not think the law will do what police want it to.

"I think people are still going to drink," Grissom said. "There is such a fine line between .10 and .08 that I don't think people are going to notice the difference. But, we really don't serve drinkers here like a bar would. Maybe they would have a different opinion."

PARK: Group wants safe place for kids to skate

(From 1A)

on Midland Drive.

Tammy Wooten, William's mother, is part of a committee that's trying to make the park a reality.

"I know we're going to have an amazing, well-known skate park one day," Ms. Wooten said. "The kids will have a safe place to skate and remember William and Sam."

Ms. Wooten had been planning a memorial for the boys when the CMS began its campaign. CMS sought permission from the Wootens and Geers to collect donations made in the boys' memories.

"We all want the same thing: a skate park," Ms. Wooten said.

Ms. Wooten's son, 15-year-old Tim, is also supporting his mother's endeavor.

"My mom's really determined to get this, so I think there's a good chance this can happen," Tim said. "I think it's pretty cool."

After his brother died, Tim moved from Oklahoma City to Midland, where he now attends Midland Freshman High School. He stopped skating several years ago, but had a change of heart after moving to Texas.

"I thought maybe I could do the skating in memory of my little brother," Tim said. "I use him as motivation."

For now, he practices on parking lots without cracks, wide seams or pebbles.

Community effort

Michelle Meiner, 10, and Brittney Harkness, 11, knew the boys from their fifth-grade class at Greathouse Elementary School.

On June 12, the girls and other members of the Greater Midland Football League cheerleading squad will host a car wash to raise money for the skate park.

Sam Geer was a member of the Midland Colts, which is part of the league.

Since the CMS can't hold any fund-raisers, the cheerleaders will do the work and donate the profits to the fund, said Renee Meiner, Michelle's mother.

"It could have been anyone's kids that day," Ms. Meiner said of the boys.

That's why the cheerleaders and their families are lending their help to the cause.

"They want something good to come out of this, so (the boys') deaths won't be in vain," said Brenda Harkness, Brittney's mother.

Brittney hopes families will take advantage of a park that will carry her friends' names.

"It'd be fun to go exercise there," Brittney said. "Maybe people will go there and make friends."

Michelle knows how difficult it is to skate in the confines of the neighborhood.

"I skate right here, in front of my house. You can't skate that far away because there's not that much room," she said.

Ms. Sledge said the community's actions proves there's a need for a skate park.

"It's pretty clear there's support for it," she said. "It's not a passing fad."

How to help

Parents wanting to help the cheerleaders with their fund-raisers can call Ms. Harkness at 684-7966.

Donations can be mailed to the Permian Basin Area Foundation Skate Park Foundation, P.O. Box 10424, Midland, Texas, 78702, or to the William Wooten and Sam Geer Memorial Fund at the same address.

HONOR: Teachers nominated by colleagues

(From 1A)

artist, Warren rates at the very top of the scale as a master teacher," MC President David Daniel wrote in his nomination letter.

Teachers are nominated for the award by their colleagues, past and present.

"I first became aware of professor Taylor nearly 20 years ago," Marilynn Derwenskus, associate professor at Ball State University, wrote. "Through his paintings, Taylor established himself as a forerunner of new directions in contemporary watercolor."

"I love art and the path it has taken me through my entire life," Taylor said. "Art has a very real place in my life, and I know that in the classroom-studio, this path speaks as loud as my voice."

Taylor has taught art for 27 years, 20 of those years at Midland College. In that time, Taylor said that he was particularly happy that the college's identity and mission have become more accurately shaped.

"Warren spearheads different art projects on campus ... mining his students for talent and finding the funds," said Leslie Williams, Fine Arts/ Communication Division chair.

This year, the art department at MC will begin a permanent art collection. Pieces are painted by students and are bought from advanced students.

"It will be a teaching collection," Taylor said.

Recently, the department started a visiting artist program and scholarships and material grants.

"Art has a unique and wonderful way of expressing the complicated gamut of human experience ... And, to impart some of this potential to my students, is to allow them the same opening and epiphany that has been my personal joy," Taylor said.

Beyond teaching, Taylor also paints and sells his art in shows across the country. His work has been featured in more than 250 exhibitions.

He is a former member of the Midland Art Association Board of Directors and former committee member and adviser for the Arts Assembly of Midland, assisted in organizing a cooperative gallery for local contemporary artists and served on the acquisition committee for the Art Institute of the Permian Basin in Odessa.

Taylor is a signature member of the American Watercolor Society and the National Watercolor Society. He is a full member of the Watercolor USA Society National Organization.

The San Antonio-based Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation was established in 1950 by Randall Gordon Piper and his wife, Minnie Stevens Piper. The foundation operates from funds from two oil companies that the couple operated.

The Piper Foundation began honoring professors in 1958. Out of the 80 professors nominated since 1991, 12 have been from community colleges.

Charles E.P. Simmons, MC government and history instructor, was recognized as a Piper Professor in 1993.

"I think that one of the nicest things that can happen in a person's life is to be the right person at the right place, at the right spot," Taylor said.

RELEASE: Judge felt boy had 'concerned, interested, involved parents'

(From 1A)

Following the hearing, which was closed to the public, Jacob was turned over to the custody of Mrs. Romeo, and her husband, Pedro. He probably will return to school on Monday.

Moore had the option of detaining the boy for 10 working days and renewing that detention period, but did not after considering the boy's background, home environment and circumstances of the offense and the arrest.

"Mr. and Mrs. Romero were very concerned, interested, and involved parents," Moore said Friday. "Not all parents are. These folks were. That made me feel a little more comfortable."

Cassandra Moholt, a prosecutor who handles juvenile cases for District Attorney Al Schorre, noted that by Texas law children "are not criminally responsible for their actions until they are 10 years old" or older.

Alleged offenders 17 and older may be charged and tried in court as adults.

"Once they (juveniles) are at Culver, then it is up to the staff of Culver whether or not they hold them for one night or hold them for the next available detention hearings," which are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Ms. Moholt said.

"And they (detention officers) take into consideration the law enforcement officers' request. And once it gets to the detention hearing, then it's under the discretion of the judge whether they are released right away or held for 10 working days. It's sort of a series of discretionary decisions."

For an adult offender, a terroristic threat is a Class B misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in jail and/or a maximum $2,000 fine.

Punishment for a juvenile offender ranges from counseling and probation to boot camp and commitment to confinement by the Texas Youth Commission, she said.

MISD has a zero tolerance on terroristic threats, Ms. Moholt said, and the District Attorney's Office supports that policy as governed by law.

In his five years on the bench and in his previous years as a prosecutor in prosecuting juvenile offenders, "I can't remember a bomb threat at a (Midland) school," Moore said.

The recent series of terroristic threats on Midland public school campuses apparently are "a result of what happened up at Littleton," Moore said in referring to the April 20 massacre of 12 high school students and a teacher by bomb and gunfire by two classmates who, in turn, committed suicide.

"We've never had them before and suddenly we have a rash of them," Moore said.

MISD officials "take it seriously, obviously. Certainly, the courts take it seriously.

"I've got a real concern that I've got someone (in court) who had made a threat, who has let it be known that they, either in a misguided joke or seriously, are going to do something at school, injure someone at school," Moore said. "And I've got a decision to make — what I am going to do for the next 10 working days with that kid.

"Realistically, I can't hold that kid forever," Moore said. "We can hold him for 10 days and come back and hold him for 10 days more and 10 days more. They can be held in subsequent detention hearings. Realistically, you don't sit there and hold the kids and certainly you don't sit and hold a very small kid."

From his perspective, Moore said that a "threat from a 10- or 11-year-old to me is the same as a threat from a 17- or an 18-year-old. It's a threat. And we have to evaluate the nature of the threat."

In America and "in other countries, you hear about kids that young committing acts of violence," Moore said. "I have children. I've got to worry about the same thing. I've got the same concerns other folks do. So, I'm coming from not only the position of a judge in the case" but also as a parent.

The students arrested in Midland for making on-campus bomb and death threats have been "remorseful ... from what I have seen," Moore said. "That is not always the case with the kids" at the Culver Juvenile Justice Center, and especially so for "repeat offenders," who "are not generally remorseful.

"I don't suspect that anything was going to be carried out. But those kids up in Littleton had signs, too, and I don't think anybody suspected them, either."

Moore said that "those days (of not taking threats seriously) are over because of Littleton."

While allowing that her son was saddened over his making the bomb threat aboard the school bus, Mrs. Romero said that her son and his playmates were "talking about little bombs made out of paper, paper that you can just flick at the girls ... like a spit wad or so. ... Well, I guess it was so easy for him to just blurt something like that (about bombing the school), not thinking of his words.

"He said, 'Mommy, we were playing. We were talking about throwing the girls spit wads, little bombs made out of paper,' those things that they could flick at the girls and bother them," she said.

Chinese suspicious of conspiracy in U.S. embassy bombing

By Renee Schoof
Associated Press

BEIJING — From irate workers who hurled bits of concrete at the U.S. Embassy for four days to sophisticated scholars of international affairs, Chinese are embracing a slew of conspiracy theories over NATO's bombing of their embassy in Yugoslavia.

For many, the missiles that slammed into the building in Belgrade symbolized a 100-year struggle to build a modern country in the face of bullying from foreign powers. Thrown into the mix are deep pride in China's long civilization and shame that it lags behind the West technologically.

The communist government has kept those emotions raw through five decades of propaganda outlining what it maintains are the humiliations visited on China by predatory foreigners. The leadership has urged Chinese to build a strong country that can never be humiliated again.

Western powers led by the United States are "using all methods, including political, economic, military and diplomatic means to obstruct and destroy China's development," the People's Daily, the Communist Party's most authoritative newspaper, said in a commentary Friday.

Far from accidental, the NATO bombing was a provocation to see a "united, advanced, hope-filled China pushed into chaos and an abyss," the newspaper said.

Books and media reports that have railed against the United States off and on for the past decade have resonated with the public. From what China maintains were questionable calls that kept it from winning gold at the Atlanta Olympics to hectoring about human rights, many feel the United States has frustrated China's rise and overlooked progress in improving living standards and personal freedoms.

Throughout NATO's air campaign, the entirely state-controlled media have focused on the U.S. role and civilian casualties in the airstrikes, while scarcely mentioning the killings and expulsions of ethnic Albanians in Yugoslavia's Kosovo province.

When NATO mistakenly attacked the Chinese Embassy on May 7, strong nationalist feelings unified China's people behind its government. Biased media coverage and partial, changing explanations from NATO fed a belief that the West wasn't telling the truth.

As students, workers and others poured into the streets last Saturday, a mix of propaganda, patriotism, indignation and suspicion generated an array of conspiracy theories in the official media.

According to one, the United States wants to use the Yugoslav war to dominate Europe and then move on to Russia and China. Another says the embassy bombing was designed to push China into blocking recent peace moves in the United Nations and give NATO more time to pummel Yugoslavia.

Either way, the bombing was seen as a test of China's resolve.

"This is part of the United States' global strategy," said foreign policy expert Shen Jiru. "The United States thinks we're weak and believes it will be unbeatable for another 15 years."

Leading newspapers carried articles last week asking incredulously how U.S. spy satellites, the most advanced in the world, could have failed to recognize the prominent Chinese Embassy with its red flag flying.

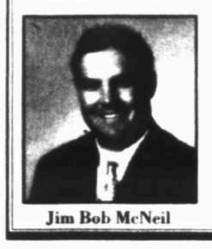

"Most people still question the explanation that it was an accident. Not because they have any hard evidence of conspiracy, but because the current evidence supplied by NATO and the United States is very shaky so far," said Jia Qingguo, a professor of international studies at Peking University.

"This was definitely done on purpose. How could it be anything else? They were using the most sophisticated weapons. This was Clinton's attempt to keep China down," said one protester taking a break from hurling bits of broken concrete at the British Embassy last Sunday. When asked his name, he replied "Man of China."

Entertainment and news programs backed up the image of a China standing firm.

A memorial concert for the three journalists killed in the bombing was held Thursday night in the southern city of Shenzhen and broadcast by Hong Kong's Phoenix Television, which is widely viewed in southern and eastern China.

The concert, titled "Today the Chinese can say No," featured refutations of NATO's explanation interspersed with pop songs and dances.

Albanian bandits turn frontier town into anarchy zone

BAJRAM CURRI, Albania (AP) — Kosovo's war has been one big bonanza for the bandits who control this renegade frontier town and prey on aid workers and journalists in shiny four-wheel drive vehicles loaded with high-tech gear.

Nestled against the snow-flecked mountains that run along the Yugoslav-Albanian border, Bajram Curri made its name long ago as a place beyond the control of Albania's weak government. But the Kosovo fighting has turned it into a zone of anarchy, and demonstrated how easily the current conflict can spill over into Albania and elsewhere in the Balkans.

"There is no public order here," said Brenda Ismaili, a teacher. "Everyone has a gun and no one feels safe."

The brazen bandits, who favor Kalashnikov rifles among their arsenal of weapons, have snatched so many cars, cameras, computers and satellite phones that few aid groups or journalists dare come here these days. About a dozen groups have been robbed at gunpoint in recent weeks, mostly in roadside ambushes.

The rebel Kosovo Liberation Army also operates from the town, luring Yugoslav army forces to the border, only 6 miles away.

There's been almost daily shelling in the region since December, months before NATO launched its airstrikes.

Yugoslav forces entered Albania on Tuesday and seized two small border villages for the day before retreating, the latest in a series of cross-border incursions in pursuit of the rebels.

"We have it all here," said Pier Gonggrijp, who runs the local office of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. "We have shelling, we have refugees, we have criminals, a little bit of everything."

The OSCE is the only international operation with a permanent presence in Bajram Curri (pronounced BUY'-rahm SOO'-ree), and it has had its share of problems, including the theft of two vehicles. In the latest incident Tuesday evening, an OSCE worker was walking along the town's main road when a thief placed a gun against his neck and told him to hand over his walkie-talkie and pocket knife. He complied.

An impoverished, ramshackle outpost, Bajram Curri features a long-running feud between the town's two most prominent and violence-prone families, the Haklajs and the Hoxhas.

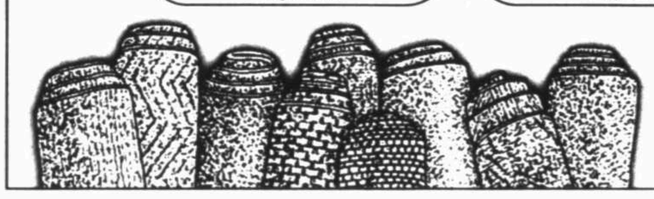

Last year, gunmen shot and killed the brother of Fatmir Haklaj, a large bearded man who was then the town's police chief, firing nine bullets into the victim, according to town residents.

An enraged Haklaj cast aside his badge and organized and took part in killing nine people he believed were responsible — one for each bullet used against his brother. It's a story most anyone in town will tell, with the proviso, "please, don't mention my name."

An influx of aid groups and journalists earlier this year seemed to temporarily divert attention away from the feud, and the bandits feasted on the well-equipped visitors.

Impeachment debate turns obstreperous

By Mitchell Lansberg
Associated Press

MOSCOW — Angry lawmakers shouted and jeered Friday over whether Boris Yeltsin had brought Russia to ruin, and opponents of the president claimed they had enough votes to impeach him on at least one of five counts.

Lawmakers predicted the impeachment measure with the best chance of succeeding in the vote scheduled Saturday was the charge of starting the 1994-96 Chechen war.

"Today, the Russian president is practically incapacitated, and today, the Russian president is the main obstacle preventing Russia from straightening its back and arising from its knees," Communist Viktor Ilyukhin told the chamber. "Every day the country is ruled by Boris Yeltsin brings new serious trouble for Russia."

Gennady Seleznyov, speaker of the lower chamber of parliament, the State Duma, claimed at least 312 members of the chamber would vote to impeach Yeltsin on the Chechen count; 300 votes are needed for impeachment.

Fighting in Chechnya killed thousands of men and failed to clearly accomplish its goal of preventing the breakaway region from seceding.

In addition to the Chechnya charge, Yeltsin is accused of destroying the Soviet Union, selling out Russia to the West, illegally dissolving parliament in 1993, and waging genocide against the Russian nation with policies that wrecked the economy and health care system.

At 68, the Russian leader has suffered numerous illnesses that have often kept him out of day-to-day politics.

However, a significant pocket of support for Yeltsin emerged Friday, with the eccentric nationalist Vladimir Zhirinovsky leading the charge in the Duma on the second day of impeachment hearings.

Gesturing wildly and banging his fist on the podium, the fiery Zhirinovsky electrified the parliament chamber. Among other points, he charged that Russia would be playing into NATO's hands by impeaching Yeltsin, and that the nation needed to be unified against external threats.

"They are bombarding Yugoslavia to later bomb Moldova, Ukraine and on to Moscow," Zhirinovsky shouted. "World War III against Russia may start in June!"

Another lawmaker, Oleg Morozov of the centrist Russian Regions faction, said it was possible the impeachment bid would fail on all five counts. However, he said most of his group of 25 would vote for impeachment on the Chechen war count.

Seleznyov noted that Kremlin officials were busy lobbying lawmakers who were still undecided.

The Kremlin also sent an ominous warning to the Duma late Thursday. The ITAR-Tass news agency quoted an unidentified senior Kremlin official as saying impeachment would be tantamount to a declaration of war against the Kremlin, and "the president's decisions may be most unexpected."

Yeltsin is fiercely opposed by Communists and their left-wing allies. He has support among some right-wing nationalists and among parties that are considered moderate.

However, his support may have eroded after he fired Prime Minister Yevgeny Primakov and his Cabinet on Wednesday, the day before the impeachment hearings began. Primakov had been well liked by most factions in parliament, and his dismissal infuriated many lawmakers.

Yeltsin's envoy to parliament, Alexander Kotenkov, went over the charges against the president Friday, concluding that they were motivated by politics, not law.

Kotenkov also observed that most of the accusations concerned events that took place before the last presidential election. "The people of Russia, by voting for their president ... in the summer of 1996, have removed any possible accusations against him," he said.

Yeltsin refused an invitation to appear at the Duma hearings.

Lawmakers heard Friday from five witnesses who spoke mainly on legal aspects of impeachment. But 25 other witnesses, including former Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, failed to show up. Most of the missing witnesses reportedly oppose impeachment, and the Duma cannot compel attendance.

A Duma vote for impeachment would be the first step toward removal of the president, and the odds are still in his favor. To remove Yeltsin, impeachment must be approved by two-thirds of the supreme and constitutional courts and the upper chamber of parliament, the Federation Council.

The Federation Council, which is made up of regional governors, scheduled an emergency meeting for Monday to discuss the political crisis.

Clinton takes steps to smooth way for ground troops to enter Kosovo

By Stewart M. Powell
Hearst Newspaper Service

WASHINGTON — President Clinton took diplomatic steps Friday to clear the way for quick deployment of U.S. ground troops into Kosovo as the vanguard of a peacekeeping force once a truce takes effect there.

Clinton personally apologized by telephone to Chinese President Jiang Zemin for a mistaken U.S. bombing of China's embassy in Belgrade — the latest gesture to soothe Beijing and avert China's veto of a planned U.N. Security Council resolution to authorize a U.S.-led peacekeeping force for Kosovo.

The Clinton administration continued working with Russia as well to avert a possible Russian veto of the planned U.N. authorizing resolution.

Deputy Secretary of State Strobe Talbott and Russia's envoy to the Balkans, former Russian Prime Minister Viktor Chernomyrdin, planned to resume discussions in Helsinki Tuesday on an emerging blueprint to end the conflict in Kosovo.

The plan is designed to persuade Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to accept allied conditions and halt his forces' murderous ethnic cleansing of ethnic Albanians in Kosovo in order to win cessation of the escalating allied bombing campaign against Yugoslav forces that has dropped more than 10,000 bombs and missiles since March 24.

State Department spokesman James Rubin said U.S. officials are banking that Chernomyrdin will return to Belgrade carrying "the clearest possible understanding of what will be necessary for President Milosevic to agree to, and to accept, so that we can suspend the bombing."

The United States is prepared to suspend the bombing campaign "only if there's a rapid and precise timetable for the withdrawal of all Serb forces (from Kosovo) and there are verifiable and demonstrable steps to that end," Rubin said.

Jamie Shea, NATO's spokesman at headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, said allied forces are prepared to enter Kosovo within hours of Milosevic's acceptance of NATO's conditions for suspending the bombing.

"If President Milosevic has the good sense to do that tomorrow ... then certainly NATO would be ready," Shea said. "When Milosevic is ready, we are going to be ready because we won't allow a vacuum to arise in Kosovo."

Combat planners at NATO headquarters and at the Pentagon are enlarging the size of the peacekeeping ground forces targeted for duty in Kosovo after a ceasefire goes into effect.

We support Mayor Burns' Proclamation of a Month of Prayer to END abortion in Midland

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, The values and freedoms we cherish as Americans rest on our fundamental commitment to the sanctity of human life; and

WHEREAS, The first of the "unalienable rights" affirmed by our Declaration of Independence is the right to life itself, a right the Declaration states has been endowed by our Creator on all human beings - whether young, old, weak, or strong, healthy or handicapped; and

WHEREAS, Since 1973 more than 40 million abortions have been performed; and

WHEREAS, Abortion has been and continues to be, a divisive issue, yet each of us can and should work together peaceably, to affirm and celebrate life both by supporting mothers, children and the unborn, and by promoting adoption and the virtues of strong families; and

WHEREAS, We are poorer not simply for lives not led and for contributions not made, but also for the erosion of our sense of the worth and dignity of every individual; and

WHEREAS, To diminish the value of one category of human life is to diminish us all; and

WHEREAS, Planned Parenthood of West Texas is operating its facilities in Midland for the purpose of providing abortions to the women of West Texas; and

WHEREAS, I respectfully request that the Directors of Planned Parenthood, as fellow citizens of this community, reconsider and reverse their decision to operate an abortion facility in the City of Midland; and

WHEREAS, I encourage the citizens of Midland to speak up now to the members of your family, your co-workers, to your friends and neighbors, and your elected officials to join in taking a stand against abortion in Midland; and

WHEREAS, I urge the citizens of Midland to support adoption as the best alternative to abortion, an alternative that provides children with the opportunity to grow up in a nurturing environment, and to support a strong abstinence message to our young people; and

WHEREAS, We believe the future of Midland depends upon the strength of our families and the recognition of the sacredness and potential of each child; and

WHEREAS, We have been given the precious gift of human life, made more precious still by our birth in or pilgrimage to a land of freedom. It is fitting, then, that 26 years after the Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade which struck down State anti-abortion laws, that we reflect anew on our many blessings, and on our corresponding responsibility to guard with care the lives and freedoms of even the weakest of our fellow human beings;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Robt. E. Burns, Mayor of the City of Midland, Texas do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1999, as:

"A MONTH OF PRAYER TO END ABORTION"

I call upon the citizens of this blessed City to gather during this month in homes and places of worship to give thanks for the gift of life, and to reaffirm our commitment to the dignity of every human being and the sanctity of each human life.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the City of Midland, Texas, to be affixed this third day of May, 1999.

Robt. E. Burns, Mayor

Tornado victims plea: No more used underwear

By Rachel Zoll
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Stop sending used underwear. Please.

And no more tweezers. "We have enough for the nation," American Red Cross spokeswoman Elizabeth Quirk says.

And single shoes with no match? Thanks, but no thanks.

People sending donations for the Oklahoma tornado victims are creating what the Salvation Army warns could become a "disaster within a disaster" by emptying their closets instead of opening their wallets. The relief agencies say they need money, not cast-offs.

"When people have lost everything, they don't want everyone's scraps," Salvation Army spokeswoman Kelly Drawdy says. "Getting used underwear — that's a morale issue."

The twisters May 3 killed 44 people in Oklahoma and five in Kansas and destroyed thousands of homes.

About 30 truckloads of donations arrive daily at the Salvation Army warehouse here, where a space the size of two football fields is bursting with clothes, furniture, food, diapers, toys and cleaning supplies.

The unloading requires about 200 volunteers a day and the Salvation Army is struggling to find enough help.

Inside the bags of clothes, volunteers have found worn underwear and items in such poor condition no one would want them. And even many of the new items are not essential.

"With cash, you can buy what is needed at the moment and you can buy only what you need," says Bob Waldrop, Catholic Charities disaster coordinator. "We're not in the middle of a desert. We're in the middle of an urban area in a well-settled state. If it's not here, we'll go to Dallas to buy it."

The deluge of tweezers came after someone not connected to the Red Cross gave a news interview about the need for them, probably because of complaints about splinters, Ms. Quirk says.

Waldrop received a large Federal Express package this week earmarked for the relief effort with four used pillows inside. "I can't even imagine what it cost to ship," he says.

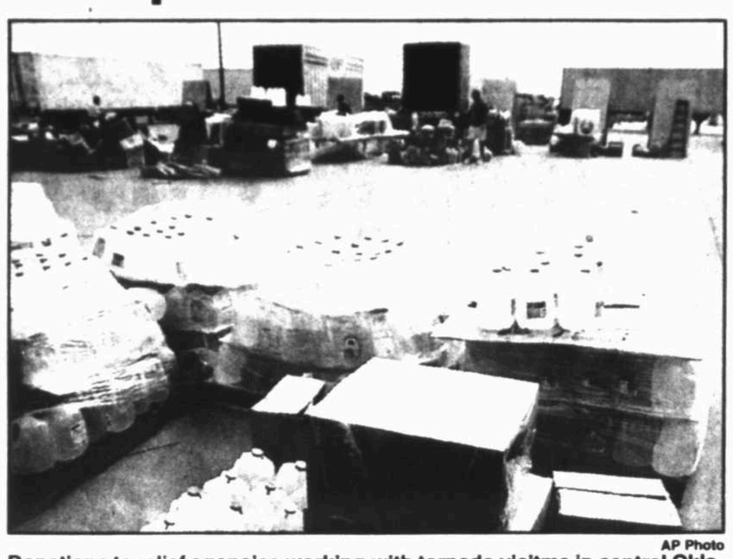

Donors would do better to hold garage sales and donate the profits, he says.

World Vision, which has received about $1 million worth of donated goods so far, is trying to avoid a repeat of the Hurricane Mitch relief effort in Central America.

So many unusable clothes were donated after that disaster that some agencies were forced to dump enormous loads in a landfill, World Vision spokeswoman Cathy MacCaul says.

World Vision is considering selling any surplus clothes donated to Oklahomans.

"It's better than throwing it in a landfill or burning it," Ms. MacCaul says. "Maybe we can recoup the costs or use what's left over for relief."

Senate approves restrictions on gun show sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans forced passage of new restrictions on gun show sales Friday, overriding solid Democratic opposition and a complaint by President Clinton that the provision was "riddled with high-caliber loopholes."

The vote, 48-47, came in an atmosphere of intense political jockeying over gun control spurred by last month's shooting rampage at a Colorado high school.

"They know the public wants gun control, but they're afraid to offend the National Rifle Association," Sen. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said of the Republicans.

Countered Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, "The National Rifle Association hasn't had a thing to do with it. I don't care whether they accept it or not."

Republicans said their proposal would require background checks for anyone who buys a weapon at a gun show. That marked a retreat for the GOP, who refused earlier in the week to accept such a plan, and Hatch and others said they might be open to further concessions.

At the same time, it was not clear whether the bill would ever come to a final vote. Lawmakers of the two parties accused each other of laboring to make sure it died.

Republicans, led by Hatch and Sen. Larry Craig of Idaho, said their intention was to require a background check on anyone seeking to make a purchase at a gun show. On Wednesday, Republicans muscled through passage of a plan requiring only voluntary checks in some cases.

Democrats said even the revised measure was loophole-filled. Sensing the political upper hand, they refused to allow Republicans to clarify their proposal further, forcing GOP senators to cast votes on a measure that Clinton attacked vigorously earlier in the day.

"The new Senate Republican bill is still riddled with high-caliber loopholes," the president said at the White House.

"It won't stop criminals from buying guns at gun shows. At the same time, it will open up a new pawnshop loophole that lets convicted felons get guns at a local pawnshop. That's actually worse than current law."

The maneuvering came on legislation to increase prosecution of juvenile offenders. Majority Leader Trent Lott brought the measure to the floor this week expressly to allow the political parties to respond to the shootings in the Columbine High School in which two student gunmen killed 12 fellow students and a teacher before killing themselves.

Democrats responded with a raft of gun control proposals, while Republicans generally sought to turn the debate toward violence present in modern-day television programming, movies, video games and the Internet.

Senate GOP aides conceded their party was outmaneuvered on the issue, and other officials said recent private polling indicated strong support for gun-control measures even among GOP voters who have opposed it in the past.

"The Democrats have seized on a political issue, and I understand that and regret that," said Sen. John McCain of Arizona, a contender for the GOP presidential nomination and one of a group of senators who forced Craig and Hatch to reverse course.

On other issues, the Senate rejected a proposal by Schumer to require Internet Web sites to obtain federal licenses if they sell firearms.

And Sen. Herb Kohl, D-Wis., announced that he and Hatch had agreed to a bipartisan proposal requiring sale of safety locks with guns. No vote was taken, and the fate of the provision was in doubt given concerns expressed by some of the Senate's strongest gun-control advocates that it was not strong enough.

The GOP amendment on gun shows was agreed to in an unusual atmosphere in which Hatch and members of the GOP leadership openly lobbied reluctant Republicans to save the provision from rejection.

In the end, 47 Republicans and Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., supported the proposal, while 40 Democrats and seven Republicans opposed it.

Mother kills her three young children, herself

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A woman who suffered hallucinations and thought everyone was out to get her shot her three children to death, then killed herself.

The bodies of the children, ages 4, 5 and 7, were found on a bed Thursday evening. Their mother, 28-year-old Tonya Avery, lay dead on the floor nearby. All four had been killed with shotgun blasts.

Police spokesman Don Aaron said Ms. Avery had left what appeared to be a suicide note. He would not disclose what it said.

Albert Davis, Ms. Avery's father, said she had been exhibiting signs of mental illness in recent months.

"She just started seeing and hearing things and everything, and thought that everybody was against her and thought that she was going to die," he said. "I just never thought it would come to this."

Police were called to the home when a neighbor noticed that the home was unusually quiet and its front porch light had been on all day.

Led by rising gas prices, inflation picks up sharply

By Alice Ann Love
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices took the biggest leap in nine years last month as Americans faced a record spike in gasoline prices and costs jumped for many other goods and services — from food and clothing to doctor's office visits and airline tickets.

"The best news on inflation is probably behind us," said Sung Won Sohn, an economist with Wells Fargo & Co. in Minneapolis. "Even though one month does not make a trend ..., I think we are beginning to see pent-up price pressure show up."

April's 0.7 percent rise in the Consumer Price Index, reported by the Labor Department on Friday, was the largest since October 1990 and pushed the rate of inflation so far this year to 3.3 percent on an annual basis. That compares with a 1.6 percent rise for all of 1998, a year in which consumers benefited from falling energy prices.

Wall Street investors, sensitive that signs of inflation could prompt Federal Reserve officials to raise interest rates, were spooked. The Dow Jones average of industrial stocks closed at just over 10,913, down almost 194 points although slightly off its in-session lows. Bond prices also were down sharply.

A 6.1 percent surge in energy prices, the biggest one-month gain on record, led the inflation upswing. Gasoline prices soared 15 percent in April, the most since the government started keeping track in 1935. The cost of fuel oil and electricity also rose.

The surge in energy prices was predicted, however, and is expected to be temporary.

After global economic turmoil pulled energy prices down sharply last year, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed this spring to limit production for a while. Unlike most previous OPEC cutbacks, this one so far has been generally followed. Also, analysts say, military fuel demands for the conflict in Yugoslavia are tightening energy markets.

The latest Lundberg Survey of 10,000 gas stations nationwide found the average per-gallon price of gasoline was $1.2337 on May 7, up about 23 cents since it bottomed out in February. The respected industry report also noted that pump prices now appear to be stabilizing after several weeks of quick growth.

Food prices also went up in April, by 0.1 percent, after a decline in March. Fresh vegetable prices fell 0.4 percent as early spring harvests began, but the cost of fruit soared 3.8 percent as droughts in Florida contributed to that increase. Meat, poultry, fish and egg prices rose 0.3 percent, including a 1 percent increase in the cost of beef.

But the greatest worry to economists was an unexpectedly sharp 0.4 percent April increase in core prices, which exclude the often-volatile energy and food categories. It was the biggest increase in core prices since January 1995.

"Because of that, this report I think has more credibility. It may not just be a temporary bump," Sohn said.

Clothing prices jumped 1.5 percent, the biggest monthly increase since March of 1990. Housing prices were up 0.4 percent, including a 1.9 percent increase in hotel prices.

The cost of medical care rose 0.4 percent. Prescription drug prices rose 0.8 percent, doctor's office prices 0.4 percent.

Tobacco prices jumped 3.6 percent. Airfares rose 2 percent. Motor vehicle prices rose 0.1 percent, which analysts said largely reflected expiration of new year's sales incentives.

Brisk spending by American consumers, enjoying the lowest unemployment rate in almost three decades and big stock market gains, has been credited with keeping the U.S. economy healthy in the midst of international economic trouble.

A third of the world's countries have gone into recession during the past two years. The resulting fall in world demand for U.S. products and flood of discount-priced imports have helped keep inflation in check.

Mother of rescued toddler recalls 'a smile I will never forget'

MULVANE, Kan. (AP) — Jessy Kraus gave his mother a smile she'll never forget after the little boy was rescued from the bottom of a well in a five-hour ordeal.

"It is a miracle and it is a blessing," said the boy's mother, Karen Kraus.

Jessy, who is 17 months old, was released Friday from HCA Wesley Medical Center 12 hours after his nationally televised rescue from the well in his back yard in Mulvane, 20 miles south of Wichita. He had been trapped 16 feet below ground.

Firefighters dug a hole by hand alongside the well to get him out because they feared the use of heavy equipment would injure him. Rescuers and neighbors cheered when firefighter Tim Deneen brought Jessy to the surface.

"He smiled for me. He knew me. He looked at me. It is a smile I won't ever forget," Mrs. Kraus said.

Jessy suffered from exposure and some scrapes, said Dr. Curt Pickert at the Wichita hospital. The boy ate a plate of scrambled eggs at the hospital, then went home to take a nap.

"A little boy is going to live and have a normal life thanks to them," said Annie Schlaegel, the boy's grandmother, of his rescuers.

The ordeal was reminiscent of that of a Texas toddler more than a decade ago.

In Midland, in 1987, the case of 18-month-old Jessica McClure created a nationwide sensation after she fell into an abandoned well and became trapped 22 feet down in a hole 8 inches wide. It took emergency crews 2 1/2 days to reach the little girl.

Survey: Hispanics trust courts more than other groups

By Richard Carelli
Associated Press

'The consensus is that the courts protect our constitutional rights, and that they are honest and fair. But there is also an overwhelming belief that equal justice under the law is more equal to some than to others.'

— Frank Bennack Jr., president of The Hearst Corporation, which funded the study.

WASHINGTON — Black Americans have far less confidence in state and local courts than their fellow citizens do, a new nationwide survey suggests. Surprisingly, Hispanics expressed greater overall satisfaction than non-Hispanic whites in the performance of courts.

"Opinion is divided sharply across racial lines," said Frank Bennack Jr., president of The Hearst Corporation, which funded the survey for the National Center for State Courts.

"The consensus is that the courts protect our constitutional rights, and that they are honest and fair. But there is also an overwhelming belief that equal justice under the law is more equal to some than to others," he said.

The survey results, made public Friday at a conference studying public perceptions of courts, indicate that 68 percent of blacks believe "people like them" are treated worse than others in court.

Conversely, only 33 percent of Hispanics said people in their own ethnic group received worse treatment than others from the courts. More non-Hispanic whites (47 percent) and blacks (60 percent) said they think Hispanics receive less than equitable treatment.

About 42 percent of Hispanics and non-Hispanic whites believe blacks receive worse treatment, the survey indicated.

Among Hispanics, 33 percent said they strongly agreed with the statement that courts make reasonable efforts to ensure all litigants get adequate legal help. Only 29 percent of non-Hispanic whites and 27 percent of blacks said the same.

The survey was based on 1,826 interviews conducted between Jan. 13 and Feb. 15. About 1,200 people were randomly chosen. An additional 300 Hispanics and 300 blacks were selected "to ensure that the findings reflect the voices of the major groups in American society," the report said.

The sample was weighted so the three groups were represented in the same proportion as in American society — 12 percent black and 13 percent Hispanic and 72 percent whites and others. The survey had a margin of error of plus or minus 2.3 percentage points.

Overall, 85 percent of Americans believe courts protect criminal defendants' constitutional rights, and only 18 percent prefer that a judge ignore the law to ensure a defendant's conviction.

But 81 percent also say they believe judges' decisions are influenced by political considerations, and 78 percent agreed with a statement saying elected judges "are influenced by having to raise campaign funds."

Most Americans — 80 percent — also believe that legal disputes "are not resolved in a timely manner." Sixty-eight percent disagreed with the statement "it is affordable to bring a case to court."

And 53 percent disagreed with this statement: "The media's portrayal of courts is mostly accurate."

The survey's results regarding minorities track the findings of a poll commissioned by the American Bar Association last August. It found that many Americans think the nation's courts do not provide equal justice for racial minorities.

ABA President Philip Anderson, a lawyer from Little Rock, Ark., said then that his organization "will intensify our efforts to eradicate gender and racial bias in our courts."

The two-day conference at which the new survey was released is jointly sponsored by the ABA, the League of Women Voters, the Conference of State Chief Justices and the Conference of State Court Administrators.

Columbine victim's faith is held up as an example

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — As explosions and gunfire thundered through the halls of Columbine High, Cassie Bernall closed her eyes and clasped her hands in prayer. One of the killers pointed a shotgun at her and asked if she believed in God.

Yes, she said.

And then he killed her.

Around the country, Ms. Bernall's affirmation of faith has been recounted in Sunday school classes and at church youth gatherings. The 17-year-old girl has been cited as an example to other young people. She has become something of a martyr.

In Catonsville, Md., Kristen Eppard, 15, was so moved by Ms. Bernall's story that she plans to take the young woman's name when she is confirmed Sunday at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

"I just thought it was really awesome how she did that," said Miss Eppard, whose father is a priest in their charismatic Episcopal faith. "She's a martyr because she stood up for God and she died that way. I want to be just like her."

Elementary school teacher Kathi Cossey of Houston said Ms. Bernall's death "made me really think, what would I say, knowing that you're going to go to heaven and someone is sitting there with a gun."

Many Internet sites are devoted to Ms. Bernall's life and death. One such site shows her smiling face hovering in clouds as Jesus peeks over her shoulder.

Randall Balmer, a professor of American religious history at Barnard College in New York City, said there has been a groundswell to designate Ms. Bernall a martyr, something that has not been done in the Protestant faith since the 1500s.

"This is really quite extraordinary," he said. "The flames of martyrdom are being fanned by these various preachers who apparently have embellished the story as they have told it. It takes on a life of its own."

Like most teen-age girls, Ms. Bernall fretted about boys, her weight and being popular. A few years ago, the blue-eyed blonde fell in with the wrong crowd. She dabbled in witchcraft and was fascinated with suicide.

Her parents, Brad and Misty, moved her to a different school and sent her to West Bowles Community Church, an Evangelical Presbyterian congregation.

Under protest, Ms. Bernall joined the church's youth group, where her anger gradually subsided. About two years ago, she returned from a retreat as a converted Christian, said Dave McPherson, West Bowles' youth pastor.

"I've seen kids that get a change for a week and they're back into the old grind," he said. "Not Cassie. She dug in, and spiritually, she started reading her Bible and she started praying."

She studied hard, enjoyed photography and art and hoped to win a scholarship to attend college in Britain, which she had recently visited, said 17-year-old Craig Nason, a fellow youth group member. She often carried a Bible at school and wore a bracelet that read "What Would Jesus Do?"

"She was like the rest of us," Nason said. "She had fears. She had doubts. But she chose to have faith through all of those things. What made Cassie incredible is she had faith."

McPherson said Ms. Bernall struggled with everyday problems after her conversion but stayed her religious course.

"She was saying, 'I sure would like to be popular, but I'm not going to let it get in the way of my spirituality. I wish I were built different, I wish I was slim, I wish I was the prom queen. I wish that I had certain dates,'" he said.

Ms. Bernall was studying Shakespeare in the Columbine High library when Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold began their rampage. In all, 12 students and a teacher died before Harris and Klebold committed suicide.

In a statement issued at Ms. Bernall's funeral, the Bernalls said: "Her life was rightly centered around our Lord Jesus. It was for her strong faith in God and His promise of eternal life that she made her stand."

McPherson believes her legacy will be to lead more people toward Christ. At his church, attendance is up about 500 people because of the massacre, he said. Other religious leaders have reported similar increases.

"I think it's been very much across the board, anyone who would identify with Cassie's faith, not her denomination, but her faith in Christ," said Doug Clark, field director of the San Diego-based National Network of Youth Ministries. "Cassie is being seen as a hero."

Gov. Bush takes fire as hate crimes bill falters

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Gov. George W. Bush was under fire Friday while Democratic legislators struggled to save a bill to toughen the Texas hate crimes law.

The lawmakers and gay rights advocates said Bush, a front-running presidential prospect, failed to show leadership on the bill named for a black man dragged to death behind a pickup truck in East Texas.

"This is backroom politics at its worst. He's trying not to appear to be a religious right puppet while he is doing their bidding," said the Rev. Michael Piazza, pastor of Dallas' Cathedral of Hope, which says it's the nation's largest lesbian and gay church.

"He wants the world to believe that he is a compassionate conservative. We want the world to know that his compassion does not extend to all the citizens of Texas," Piazza said.

At the center of the storm is the James Byrd Jr. Act, which has received the backing of President Clinton and Democratic presidential candidate Bill Bradley.

The bill would increase criminal penalties for hate crimes against people of various groups, including race and sexual preference.

It also would put a prosecutor in the attorney general's office to investigate them; provide specialized police training; set aside money for small towns that can't afford to prosecute; and provide civil remedies for victims.

The bill sailed through the Democratic-controlled House but has languished for weeks in a committee of the Republican-controlled Senate.

Democrats failed twice Thursday night in efforts to force the bill to the full Senate for a vote. Friday midnight was the deadline for Senate committees to consider bills, and the Legislature adjourns May 31.

Asked repeatedly about the bill, Bush has said only: "I will look at the bill when it makes it to my desk, if it makes it to my desk."

That brought a plea from a Democratic senator Friday.

"I beg the governor, get involved in this issue as you do tax reform," said Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston.

Dianne Hardy-Garcia, executive director of the Lesbian and Gay Rights Lobby of Texas, ripped Bush's neutrality.

"His unconscionable, immoral lack of leadership on this issue is both tragic and exasperating," she said.

Childbirth Classes for Expectant Teens

Expectant teens tend to have different concerns than older mothers. Many are not comfortable in a class with older couples. Also, the healthcare needs for younger women are different than those of older expectant mothers. That's why its very important that pregnant teenagers get comprehensive prenatal care and instruction.

At the Birthplace our goal is to obtain better outcomes for babies and their mothers. This includes shorter, more comfortable labors with fewer complications, and greater satisfaction.

Mary Ellen will assist a laboring young woman throughout the entire labor, providing emotional support, practical comfort measures, and help to make the birth experience a positive memory with rich rewards and feelings of accomplishment.

Suburban school system begins break early due to bomb threats

By David Koenig
Associated Press

ALLEN — Officials who canceled the last two weeks of school because of repeated bomb threats are now ducking brickbats from angry parents and puzzled students.

"I just think it's ridiculous," said parent Kurt Dowd. "I think they're playing right into the hands of these people that are perpetrating this."

Schools in Allen, a suburb north of Dallas, have received 11 bomb threats this week, requiring eight evacuations at the high school, two middle schools and an elementary school. No bombs have been found.

A 15-year-old student has been arrested and charged with calling in one th eat from his middle school cafeteria. But school officials believe most of the threats are unrelated, copycat actions.

The district, with 9,800 students in kindergarten through high school, canceled the rest of the school year after a board meeting that began Thursday night and stretched an hour past midnight.

"We're not sure we can guarantee the safety of every Allen ISD student ... we had to err on the side of caution," said school district spokesman Tim Carroll. "We have to assume every threat is real even if deep down a lot of us think these are kids, these are threats, these are just jokes."

Carroll said the threats were taken even more seriously in the wake of an assault that left 15 people dead in a Colorado school last month.

But parents — many of whom didn't learn of the cancellation until Friday morning's bell — were calling the Allen Independent School District, the Texas Education Agency and even Gov. George W. Bush's office to complain.

Despite the protests, the education agency will allow the district to fall short of the required 180 days of instruction, said agency spokeswoman Debbie Graves Ratcliffe. That protects the district from any threat of losing state funding.

At Allen High School, students were allowed inside — but only after passing newly installed metal detectors — to gather backpacks and other belongings. Few of them took the threats seriously.

"It's kids trying to test the system," said junior Vinh Nguyen. "I don't think they mean to hurt anybody, they just want to get out of school. I'm pretty ticked off; they got what they wanted."

"It's kind of sad," said senior Sayed Kulaly. "Some of the seniors needed to bring their grades up, and now they might not graduate."

While some parents fumed — three or four complained to the governor's office, according to a spokeswoman for Bush — others supported the decision, albeit reluctantly.

"They're trying to do the best thing," said Dennis Motta, whose son, Danny, is a sophomore at Allen High. "It's lousy that we have to live like it's Fortress America. If they find them (the callers), they should prosecute to the full extent of the law."

District curriculum director Penni Jones recalled shrugging off bomb threats while she was a student in neighboring Plano in the early 1980s. "But as a parent, and as educators, we don't want to take any chances."

Classes had been scheduled to end May 27. High school graduation will go on as planned May 31, and officials said lagging seniors will be given extra assignments to bring up their grades.

It was an ignominious farewell for the high school, which will be replaced by a new campus in August.

"There's probably going to be more security next year," said junior Sami Kahn as he left the old school for the last time.

Dragging death trial to be held in Bryan

By Richard Stewart
Hearst Newspaper Service

BEAUMONT — After considering nearly 30 Texas counties — and being turned down by many of them — Jasper County authorities have decided that the second trial of a white man charged with last June's brutal dragging death of a black man will be held in Bryan.

Testimony in the capital murder trial of Lawrence Russell Brewer Jr., 32, of Sulphur Springs, is due to begin Aug. 30, state District Judge Monte Lawlis said Friday in Jasper. Brewer is one of three men charged with dragging James Byrd Jr., 49, of Jasper, behind a pickup for almost three miles along country roads early June 7. Byrd was decapitated when his body hit a concrete culvert.

A jury in Jasper earlier sentenced Bill King, 24, to death. The trial of Shawn Berry, 24, is scheduled for sometime this fall. Berry's attorney said he wants his trial to be held in Jasper.

Lawlis first ruled that Brewer's trial would also be held in Jasper, but agreed to move the case after prosecutors said they didn't want the location of the trial to be an appeals issue.

District Attorney Guy James Gray said he and Sheriff Billy Rowles visited almost 30 Texas counties before settling on Brazos County. Some counties had scheduling conflicts or didn't have proper facilities for a high-profile trial, but many officials said they didn't want the trial in their counties. The first trial attracted scores of reporters from around the world.

During a meeting with officials in Bryan this week, Gray said, one official stood up and said that while he, personally, didn't want the trial in his county, he was embarrassed that others had turned their backs on Jasper.

After Byrd's death, Jasper was visited by Ku Klux Klan and black militant groups. However, no demonstrations were held during King's trial, nor were there any serious security problems.

Lawlis said he anticipates issuing an order forbidding any groups or individuals from having any demonstrations near the Brazos County courthouse during Brewer's trial. A similar order was issued during King's trial.

Courthouse renovations in Bryan, due to be finished before the trial, will increase security at the entrances to the courthouse, Lawlis said. While the 85th District courtroom — the largest in the building — won't be available until Aug. 30, Lawlis said he anticipates starting jury selection about three weeks earlier in a smaller courtroom.

Mitchell's double-double

■ Big Spring sprinter wins 100- and 200-meter dash for second straight year.

By Stewart Doreen
Assistant Sports Editor

AUSTIN — Big Spring's Tory Mitchell might be the most dominant athlete in his sport that this generation of West Texans will ever know.

More evidence supporting that statement was brought to the table here Friday as the senior extended streaks in both the 100 and 200 meters to two years at the UIL Track Championships.

Much like the way Mitchell ended the Memorial Stadium era of the state meet one year ago, Mitchell won the Class 4A 100 and 200 for the second straight year and made history before 20,652 track fans at the new Michael Myers track facility on the University of Texas campus.

In 1981, the UIL formed Class 5A. It was not until Friday night that a runner in Class 4A or 5A had won the 100-200 double in consecutive years. Before then, the last runner to do so at the Class 4A level was Kenneth Curl of Houston Worthing in 1968-69. Curl was running in the highest classification at the time.

Mitchell

Friday night, however, might not have been about making history for Mitchell. It looked and sounded like another attempt by the junior national champion in the 100 and 200 to gain the respect he has sought and deserved.

Going in, Mitchell had mentioned all the "talking" that was going on between he and the Braziel brothers (Jerome and Jerrod) of Fort Worth Dunbar. Earlier this spring, all three were supposed to meet at the Jesuit Relays in Dallas. At the last second, Dunbar decided to run at a meet in Fort Worth,

Bruton captures gold in 100-meter hurdles

By Stewart Doreen
Assistant Sports Editor

AUSTIN — Greenwood's Kahra Bruton found out early and often Friday that she wasn't going to beat Luling's freshman phenom Ychiundia Spears at the UIL Track Championships. In the triple jump and long jump, the record-setting 14-year old bested Bruton.

So when it came down to the 100-meter hurdles, there was adversity to deal with, and for Bruton, that just meant turning the motor up a notch. She did just that Friday at Mike Myers Track Complex.

"I think that (what had happened earlier in the day) got me ready for the hurdles. It made me mad, and when I get frustrated and mad, it helps me," said Bruton, who also ran the anchor leg on Greenwood's 400-meter relay team which finished fifth. Luling, whose anchor was Spears, finished fourth. "It pumps me up and makes me

'Killer E's' lift Lee; MHS falls

Two Erics plus two two-run homers equal win for Rebels

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

There has to be a George Lucas film title in here somewhere. "Two guys named Eric," or the "Killer E's Strike Back."

LEE

|---|---|
| Game 1 | |
| Midland Lee | 8 |
| EP Coronado | 6 |

Midland Lee's Eric Neatherlin and Eric Clodfelter hit dramatic late inning two-run homers at Ernie Johnson Field Friday afternoon to give the Rebels a stirring 8-6 Class 5A area baseball playoff victory over El Paso Coronado to go up 1-0 in the three-game set that resumes here at 11 a.m. today.

In a series that figured to be heavily in the favor of the Rebels, at 24-5 the champions of District 4-5A, Lee had to spit out hang nails, get the long ball and nip the pesky Thunderbirds (17-12-1) on the home field.

In fact, until the "Killer E's" stroked Lee some good luck late, it looked like the T-Birds had the favored Rebels on the ropes, once leading by a 5-1 margin as late as the top of the fifth inning.

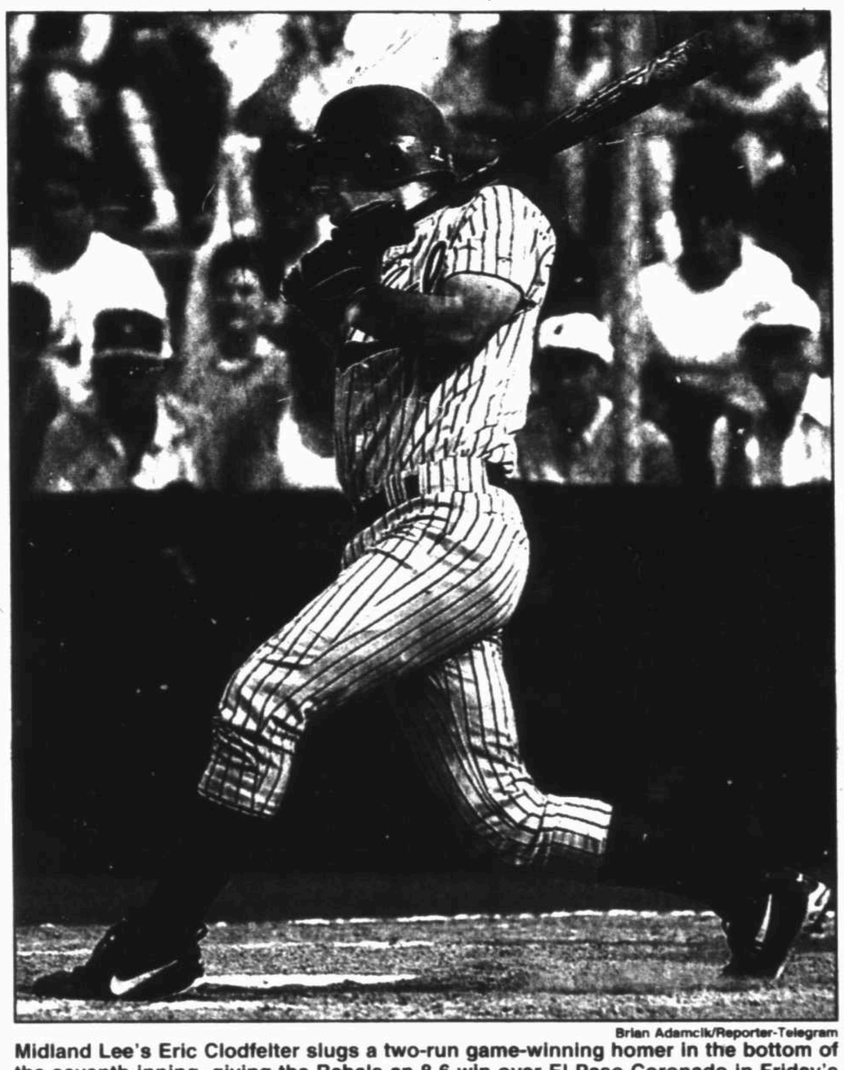

"I always felt we would win the game," Neatherlin said. "We were having a lot of problems with the high stuff from their pitcher (David Cervantez)," Neatherlin said. "In the sixth inning I finally got hold of a low one for the bomb and I thought that was going to be the game winner. His (Cervantez') high stuff looked really convincing at the plate, but we weren't touching it."

Neatherlin's blast gave Lee a 6-5 lead over Coronado, but the T-Birds struck back when Hawk Scott doubled home Paul Coppinger with the tying run in the top of the seventh.

Another Eric, this time with a Clodfelter on the end of it, came to the plate with one out and Matt Winston on second base following a key sacrifice bunt by Marc Matthews.

"Everyone in the park knew we were going to bunt in that situation," said Lee coach Jesse Benavides. "When Marc got that bunt down, it put a lot of pressure on their pitcher."

Clodfelter, who had already struck out twice against Cervantez, added, "Matthews' bunt put a man in scoring position and gave me a chance to get a game winning hit. We had been swinging at bad pitches, pitches up in our face, all day. I got a fastball in the middle of the plate and low for the homer. That really felt good. I guess the 'Killer E's' came through again."

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram
Midland Lee's Eric Clodfelter slugs a two-run game-winning homer in the bottom of the seventh inning, giving the Rebels an 8-6 win over El Paso Coronado in Friday's first game of a three-game series at Ernie Johnson Field.

Clodfelter also got the win in two innings of relief. He gave up a run to spoil the heroics of Neatherlin in the seventh, but didn't give up a lead run.

"I knew we would come back," Clodfelter said. "I just really didn't want to give up a lead run in the seventh."

He got E.J. Sanchez to ground out, leaving Hawk Scott on second base with his run scoring double.

Coronado shocked Lee early with single runs in each of the first three innings.

Bulldogs get ambushed by Socorro, 10-0

EL PASO — If Friday afternoon's trip to El Paso for the Midland High baseball team had been for mere pleasure, the Bulldogs would either be asking for their money back or headed back home already.

| Game 1 | |
| EP Socorro | 10 |
| Midland High | 0 |

Other than perhaps a good dose of character building, Midland High couldn't take much positive out of its 10-0, five-inning run rule loss to El Paso Socorro in the first game of the Region I-5A best-of-three area round playoff series. Not only was it the first loss of the season for the Bulldogs to an opponent outside of their own District 4-5A, but it puts their season on the brink today.

Midland High will face Socorro in the second game today at noon MDT at El Paso Community College. If MHS wins, it will force a third and decisive game immediately to follow. If the Bulldogs (26-8) lose, their season is over.

Advancing to next week's regional quarterfinals figured to be tough, but No. 9 Socorro (22-5) looked like an insurmountable object in the first game, dominating in every phase possible. On Friday, at least, the rankings didn't lie.

"They kicked our tail," said Midland High coach Barry Russell. "They wanted it more. They did everything they could do to win and we didn't. Maybe we were just glad to be here."

A bad omen for the Bulldogs may have surfaced in the top of the first after Midland High's Aaron Hamblin singled with one out against Socorro's Bernie Minjares. Up to the plate stepped Laynce Nix, and it seemed like the perfect time for the Bulldogs to make the first statement of the game.

After all, Nix has been the postseason hero for the last two years for the Bulldogs, and his two mammoth home runs last Saturday carried MHS to a 7-6 win

Miami holds off elimination with great 4th quarter

By Chris Sheridan
AP Basketball Writer

NEW YORK — Patrick Ewing sat all alone at his locker, a look of dejection on his face so strikingly similar to his glassy gaze of playoffs past.

"We messed up. We messed up," Ewing said.

Just six words, but no others could have said it better.

The Knicks were thoroughly outclassed in the fourth quarter Friday night of what could have been their clinching game, dropping an 87-72 decision to the Miami Heat that forces a Game 5 in the first-round series Sunday.

It'll be the third do-or-die game between Miami and New York in as many years, but this time, for the first time, everyone will be at full strength.

"Without a doubt, the Knicks have been somewhat of a nemesis to us, other than the Bulls, and in adverse situations we've learned to come together, believe in ourselves and find a way to win," center Alonzo Mourning said. "We showed that this evening, but all it guaranteed us was a trip back to Miami."

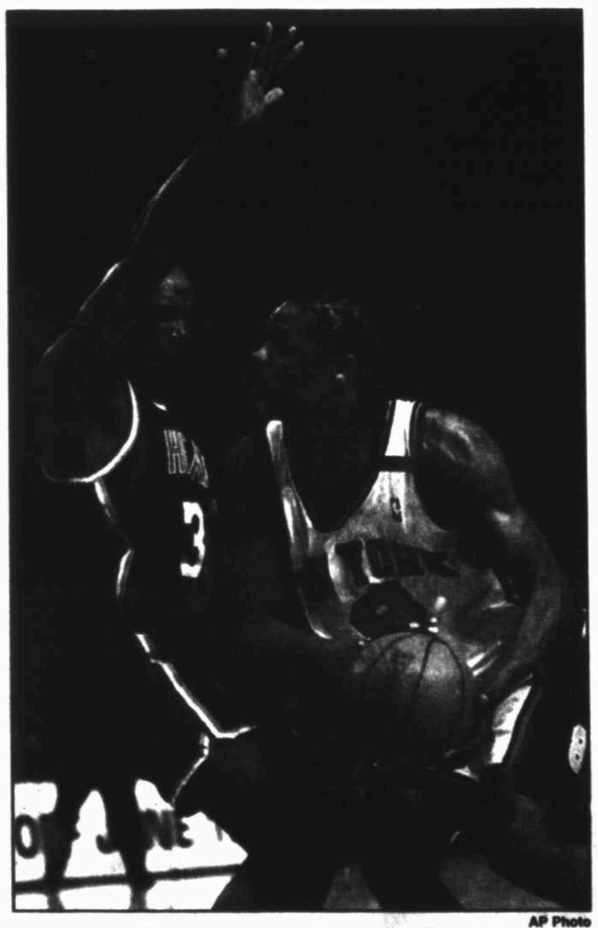

With Tim Hardaway finding his scoring touch, Mourning shutting down Ewing and Miami's bench providing a sorely needed boost, the Heat staved off elimination. The fourth quarter was shockingly one-sided with Miami outscoring New York 29-10.

So now it's back to Miami Arena, site of so many memorable playoff moments from this fierce rivalry.

"I don't think we'll have any advantage," Miami's Dan Majerle said. "Homecourt hasn't meant anything in this series. Sunday is going to be an all-out war."

In 1997, several Knicks were suspended for a fight that

Lady Mustangs to play for state championship

Staff Report

WACO — The Midland Christian softball team moved into position to win its first Class 4A TAPPS state championship here Friday with a 5-4 win over Lutheran North, a team that was the three-time Class 5A TAPPS champion before moving down in classification this year.

Leading 5-2 in the top of the seventh in this state semifinal matchup, the Lady Mustangs faced dire circumstances before hanging on for the win.

Lutheran North scored two runs to cut the MC margin to 5-4 and had runners at second and third base with no outs before reliever Sarah Lemons found a way to get out of the jam for the save — with a little help from her friends.

Lemons got one batter to hit to Edna Bolero, who made a shoestring catch. Bolero then threw home to nail another runner at the plate for a double play. Lemons then got a grounder to second base to end the game.

Lutheran took a 2-0 lead in the second on a two-run homer by Whitney Heath. MC narrowed the gap in the third when Cara Brininstool drove in a run with a single.

In the MC fifth, the Lady Mustangs scored four times to get the win. Holly Lemons gave MC a 3-2 lead with a two-run double then MC scored two more times on an RBI single by Paula Brininstool and an RBI single by Bolero.

Mindy Sheppard (12-4) got the win for MC.

MC (25-11) now moves to the title game today at 10 a.m. against Waco Reicher, who was a 3-1 victor over Concordia Lutheran on Friday.

Dumars' 20 points ensure that he'll play another day

Associated Press

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Joe Dumars made sure he has one more game to play.

Dumars, who will retire at the end of the season, scored 20 points Friday night as the Detroit Pistons routed the Atlanta Hawks 103-82 to even their first-round series at two games each.

All four games have been routs. Atlanta won the first two games by 20 points each and Detroit won Game 3 by 15 points.

The fifth and deciding game will be played Sunday in Atlanta, where the Hawks won the first two games. But this time they will play at Georgia Tech because the Georgia Dome was booked for a concert.

Should the Pistons win, they would be only the sixth team in NBA history to come back from an 0-2 deficit in a five-game series.

Grant Hill scored 23 points and Bison Dele 17 for the Pistons. Steve Smith, who picked up his fourth foul with 5:51 left in the third quarter, had 21 points for Atlanta.

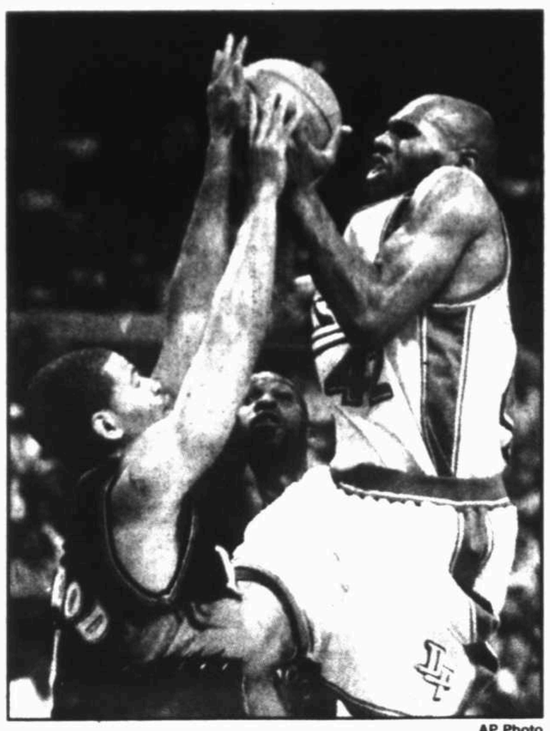

Dumars, who turns 36 on May 24, never looked better. Finding the range early with his high arcing jump shot, he hit four 3-point baskets — three in the third quarter when the Pistons made it clear they were determined to play another day.

The Pistons' playoff record for 3s is six by Bill Laimbeer in the 1990 NBA Finals.

With recently released POW Christopher Stone looking on, the Pistons opened the second quarter with a 12-2 burst. A 3-point basket by Dumars, followed by Dele's free throw, gave Detroit a 39-21 lead with 8:11 left in the quarter.

The Hawks narrowed the gap to 43-33 on a jumper by Smith with 3:03 left in the quarter, but two baskets by Dele helped Detroit take a 54-39 halftime lead.

More importantly, perhaps, was the fact that Dikembe Mutombo, the Hawks' 7-foot-2 center who dominated Detroit in the first two games, picked up his third foul with 11.9 seconds left in the half. Mutombo finished with eight points and eight rebounds.

Jazz outduel Kings to stay alive

Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Nothing like a little adversity to motivate John Stockton, Karl Malone and the not-yet-over-the-hill Utah Jazz.

Stockton hit a 23-foot jumper with seven-tenths of a second remaining as the Jazz stayed alive in the NBA playoffs with a 90-89 victory over the Sacramento Kings in a scrappy game Friday night.

The victory evened the first-round series at two games apiece and sent it back to Salt Lake City for a decisive Game 5 on Sunday.

Malone had 23 points and 16 rebounds, and Shandon Anderson had eight points in the final 90 seconds as the Jazz rallied.

Chris Webber had 18 points and 11 rebounds for the Kings. Vlade Divac had five of his 14 points in the final 24 seconds, including two free throws with 7.2 seconds left that gave the Kings an 89-88 lead.

HEAT: Miami wins to force fifth game

took place late in Game 5 of a seven-game series, and in 1998 Mourning and Larry Johnson were banned from the building after another fight. Both teams will have all their weapons when they go at each other one more time.

"It's only befitting that we have to go through the series this way," Mourning said.

The Heat will go into the deciding game with a fresh dose of confidence, knowing they were able to manhandle the Knicks at Madison Square Garden in a fourth quarter that began with them trailing by four and ended with them winning by 15.

Hardaway had his highest-scoring game of the series with 14 points, including a 3-pointer that put Miami ahead for good with 7:54 left. Mourning had 16 points and 13 rebounds and held Ewing to three points and one rebound in the second half.

The biggest boost, by far, for Miami was the contribution of bench players Terry Porter, Clarence Weatherspoon and Voshon Lenard.

Porter had 16 points, shooting 5-for-6, Weatherspoon had 14 points and six rebounds and Lenard added 10 points, shooting 4-for-6.

"There's a big difference between tonight and just 48 hours ago," Heat coach Pat Riley said.

Weatherspoon and Porter combined for eight of Miami's first 13 points of the fourth quarter when the game turned decisively for the Heat. By the time the final buzzer sounded, more than half the crowd had given up and left the building.

"We lost our poise, played frustrated and got run over like they got run over in Games 1 and 3. These are very atypical type games," Knicks coach Jeff Van Gundy said.

The fourth quarter began with New York leading 62-58, but the Heat quickly tied it on baskets by Weatherspoon and Lenard.

Hardaway gave the Heat their first lead since the second quarter on a 3-pointer with 7:54 left that made it 67-64, and it was 71-66 2 1/2 minutes later when Porter found Hardaway open again at the 3-point line for a shot that drew a huge collective groan from the crowd as the ball was still in the air.

It went in, the lead was up to 74-66 and Porter ended all doubt with 4:12 left by making a 3-pointer that increase the lead to 11.

The Knicks shot just 2-for-13 from the field in the final quarter with five turnovers. Miami, on the other hand, was 9-of-15 from the floor.

"We really got embarrassed in Game 3," Porter said. "We tried to come out with an edge and we came out with an edge, and our bench just stepped up when it needed to."

The Heat led 33-26 before Ward hit a 3-pointer, and another 3 by Ward tied the game at 37-all with 3:05 left in the first half. Larry Johnson added a 3-pointer and a put-back at the buzzer to give New York a 44-40 halftime lead.

Ward led the Knicks with 10 points at the break, while Mourning had just five and Hardaway eight for the Heat. Porter and Lenard kept Miami in it by combining to shoot 5-for-5 for 12 points.

Notes: Former Knick John Starks attended his second straight game, this time sitting courtside with Spike Lee in the seat often used by Lee's wife. ... Referee Joey Crawford to Miami assistant Stan Van Gundy: "I haven't heard that line since grammar school," after Van Gundy told him he could "call it both ways." ... Ward suffered a cut near his eye during the third quarter, and Childs bruised his thigh. When Ward picked up his fifth foul early in the fourth quarter, seldom-used Rick Brunson became New York's playmaker. ... Mourning stopped wearing his protective goggles midway through the third quarter.

MHS: Minjares shuts out Bulldogs

over Amarillo Tascosa. Against Minjares, Nix grounded sharply back to the mound, and Minjares spun and threw Hamblin out at second and shortstop Omar Quintanilla threw out Nix at first to completee double play.

In the second inning, Jayson Nix hit into an inning ending double play to further signal the offensive frustrations of the Bulldogs against Minjares. Midland High could only manage four singles off Minjares in five innings, and not a single Bulldog baserunner made it as far as second base.

"He was awesome," said Russell of Minjares, who didn't walk a batter and threw only 61 pitches. "We had just four little ground ball hits. The bad thing is that we're probably going to see him tomorrow because he threw so few pitches."

On the other hand, Midland High junior right-hander Mark Avila is finding out that while a move from the junior varsity to varsity during the regular season might not be so tough, the playoffs are literally a whole other ball game. Avila, who went 4-0 and had a 0.78 ERA in district after his call-up from the JV, has struggled mightily in both of his playoff appearances this season.

After giving up an unearned run in the first, the roof caved in on Avila in the second when he surrendered five earned runs. A pair of two-run triples from Javy Lopez and Alonzo Ruelas gave Socorro a 6-0 lead.

Despite the big lead, though, Socorro wasn't hitting many balls hard off Avila. That changed in the fourth with Socorro leading 7-0 after Adrian Soto walked and Mike Carbajal singled. Quintanilla, who led all El Paso hitters in average, homers and RBIs during the regular season, hit a three-run bomb to right-center, giving Socorro its run rule cushion and sending Avila out of the game.

"I left him (Avila) in there because I thought he was throwing pretty well (before Quintanilla's homer)," said Russell. "He didn't have a curveball or a split finger (fastball) and you're not going to do well in the playoffs without a number two or three pitch."

All that was left for Minjares was to take care of the Bulldogs in the fifth to send everybody home early. Pinch hitter Michael Glover had a two-out single, but Minjares struck out Aaron Pullin to invoke the run rule and improve his perfect mark to 10-0.

Socorro certainly lived up to its billing and the win might have appeared easy, but coach Chris Forbes won't hear of it.

"It wasn't by any means an easy game," Forbes said. "We just hit the ball well and Bernie did a great job. "To us all this means is that we don't have to win two games tomorrow."

That's something Midland High has to do. The Bulldogs will send senior right-hander Pullin to the mound for today's first game, and the odds look decent for Midland High since Pullin saved the first game of last week's series against Tascosa and pitched a complete game victory in the second.

Playing in a bigger than usual park (355 feet down both lines) might have blunted the power supplied in the MHS lineup by Nix and Cotey-Joe Cswaykus, who between them could only manage a second inning single by Cswaykus. However, it didn't appear to hurt Quintanilla.

"We talked about changing our hitting approach all week, and we didn't even hit the ball today," said Russell.

AREA NOTES: Some wild games took place on other area fronts. Abilene Cooper came from 10 runs down to defeat El Paso Franklin 17-16 in the first game of a three-game set. Also, Lubbock Coronado blasted El Paso Bel Air, 20-2, in a five inning, run rule game. So MHS' fall to Socorro wasn't the worst beating of the day.

LEE: Late HRs lift Rebs to win

(From 1B)

Catcher Joe Brilliant was just that, brilliant, going three-for-four, including a solo homer against Lee starter Collin Gilliam in the fifth on the way to a 5-1 lead.

"I really didn't feel that it would be this close," Benavides said. "Any time you get down by four runs, it's scary."

Matthews hit a leadoff triple in the second and was left stranded as Cervantez KOed the next three Lee hitters on strikes. In the first, Cervantez walked two Rebels and had one called out for arguing strikes after he thought he had walked. So, with three potential runners, no Rebel made second base. It looked like Lee was in the self-destruct mode.

But Lee got back in the game in the bottom of the fifth, with not much time left to waste, with three runs, all unearned. Lee scored two of them when Coronado second baseman Dominic Gonzalez made back-to-back errors. He fielded a hot grounder by Winston and tried to tag out Ryan Klatt moving to second. However, Klatt knocked the ball out of Gonzalez' hand. Gonzalez picked the ball up and then threw wildly to the plate where Lee's Nate Brignon scored. That cut the margin to 5-4.

"We got a big break on two (Coronado) miscues in the fifth and that played a major role in the game," Benavides said. "It gave us a chance to get back in the game. And then all we had to do was turn the game over to two guys named Eric."

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Inspiration

His name is Bill. He has wild hair, wears a T-shirt with holes in it, jeans and no shoes. This was literally his wardrobe for his entire four years of college. He is brilliant. Kind of esoteric and very, very bright. He became a Christian recently while attending college.

Across the street from the campus is a well-dressed, very conservative church. One day Bill decides to go there. He walks in with no shoes, jeans, his T-shirt, and wild hair. The service has already started and so Bill starts down the aisle looking for a seat.

The church is completely packed and he can't find a seat. By now people are really looking a bit uncomfortable, but no one says anything. Bill gets closer and closer and closer to the pulpit and, when he realizes there are no seats, he just squats down right on the carpet. (Although perfectly acceptable behavior at a college fellowship, trust me, this had never happened in this church before!)

By now the people are really uptight, and the tension in the air is thick. About this time, the minister realizes that from way at the back of the church, an Elder is slowly making his way toward Bill.The Elder is in his eighties, has silver-gray hair, and a three-piece suit.

A godly man, very elegant, very dignified, very courtly. He walks with a cane and, as he starts walking toward this boy, everyone is saying to themselves that you can't blame him for what he's going to do.

How can you expect a man of his age and of his background to understand some college kid on the floor? It takes a long time for the man to reach the boy. The church is utterly silent except for the clicking of the man's cane.

All eyes are focused on him. You can't even hear anyone breathing. The minister can't even preach the sermon until the Elder does what he has to do. And now they see this elderly man drop his cane on the floor. With great difficulty he lowers himself and sits down next to Bill and worships with him so he won't be alone.

Everyone chokes up with emotion. When the minister gains control, he says, "What I'm about to preach, you will never remember. What you have just seen, you will never forget. Be careful how you live.You may be the only Bible some people will ever read."

Lee students call for tolerance, understanding

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

Tolerance, education and communication. Three seniors at Midland Lee say those three practices are essential if we are to understand one another and continue to work together for solutions.

Perhaps it is how those three words are strung together that would better serve to explain what Charu Gupta, Rikesh Patel and Keith Leventhal are hoping to convey: education leads to tolerance; tolerance leads to better communication; better communication brings peace, love and understanding.

■ Text of statement/2C

Gupta, Patel and Leventhal, all three featured panelists and speakers at Tuesday night's "Voices of West Texas: A Search for Solutions" public forum on school violence, said they felt compelled to come forward and express their non-Christian point of view in what is an overwhelmingly Christian town. As a result, the three worked on a statement the night of the forum that they hope will go toward the furtherance of understanding and an increased respect for a diverse range of religious beliefs in Midland.

Midlanders return from Habitat journey to Philippines

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

When Bob Price first traveled through Manila 18 years ago, what he witnessed then would never serve to prepare him for what he saw in March upon his return.

"I guess the biggest impression I have was how appalled I was at the poverty," Price said. "I was appalled at how far down they have gone in their economy. It's devastating to see."

That poverty is the very reason that Price and a dozen other Midlanders visited General Santos City, on the southern tip of the Philippines, March 21-28, as part of Habitat for Humanity's Jimmy Carter Work Project '99. The group of Midlanders were recruited as volunteers after Habitat's Dan Smith spoke to the congregation of Grace Presbyterian Church, appealing for the need that existed in the impoverished country. Many of the volunteers who made the March sojourn across the Pacific will give a presentation Sunday at 7 p.m. in hopes of creating even more awareness of the problems that exist and the ways other Midlanders can help through Habitat.

The Midland group built a house for the Recalde family — a married couple with two young children.

The home was one of 50 cinderblock houses — 16x19 feet — built in the neighborhood where they worked. Sweat equity being a large part of the Habitat philosophy, families must qualify for a loan and agree to donate a certain number of labor hours in helping build their own house with the

Network television sinks Noah's Ark

By Richard N. Ostling
AP Religion Writer

Why do showbiz people feel they have to improve on the Bible? Don't they realize that the scriptural stories, as they stand, have managed to captivate the masses for millennia, without artificial tweaking?

Lead us not into such temptation.

But Hallmark Entertainment succumbed with its "Noah's Ark" miniseries on NBC-TV May 2-3. It's the season for "sweeps" ratings that determine next year's advertising revenues, so the show started with a bloody battle, a drunken victory orgy, and a city destroyed by fire bolts.

The Bible contains lots of such mayhem, of course, but the Hallmarkers leaped a thousand-year gap to jazz up their yarn. They inserted poor Noah into the destruction of Sodom (Genesis 18-19), which had nothing to do with the Flood epic in Genesis 6-8.

In the beginning, viewers were forewarned: "For dramatic effect we have taken poetic license with some of the events... ." Few could complain about

Fane Downs, pastor at Trinity Presbyterian, writes Bible study for national women's group

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

An interpretation of the Psalms, written by the Rev. Dr. Fane Downs, senior pastor at Trinity Presbyterian Church, has been published and distributed nationally as a Bible study guide for Presbyterian women's groups. The women's groups, or circles as they are commonly called in the church, will begin study of Downs' work, "Old Songs for a New Millennium" when fall studies begin later this year.

"Every year, the Presbyterian Women, a national organization of lay women, have a Bible Study that many thousands use," Downs said. "They choose a topic three years in advance and it takes that long to get everything in place."

Downs admitted she was no expert on the Psalms, but when she received the assignment, read through the book two or three times. Such in depth study of the book revealed to her more clearly just how much many of the chapters and verses deal with everyday instances we face at the turn of a new millennium.

The Rev. Dr. Fane Downs, senior pastor, Trinity Presbyterian Church.

"Psalm 137 is about when the Israelites were in exile; it's a psalm of lament and how they had been driven from their homes," Downs said, relating the chapter to that of the plight of ethnic Albanians being driven from their country by Slobodan Milosevic's Yugoslav troops. "There are psalms about the oppressed, the poor, and when the enemies are circling around. People feel threatened by a lot of things and psalmists call on God's help in these times of trouble."

The Psalms, which Downs calls, "an amazing work of literature," is a collection of Hebrew poetry and prayers. The book also includes prayers and psalms of comfort and joy, and as Downs said, "virtually every aspect of life today."

Her study is divided into nine sessions, featuring Psalms of celebration, instruction, remembrance, trust, vengeance, confession, communal lament and praise.

Tolerance, education is essential

When the decision was first made to stage a public forum on school violence, I don't think anyone realized that one of the by-products of such a forum would be increased tolerance of those who are not of the Christian faith.

Patterson

More communication between kids and adults, and the need for us to stop labeling and ostracizing kids who are different would certainly be considered two of the main results of this week's town hall meeting.

While it wasn't a surprise that the debate around God in the schools was broached during the forum, what was a little more surprising were the discussions that took place after the cameras had been turned off and Channel 9 had returned to regularly scheduled network programming.

After the bright lights had dimmed, the discussion between audience members and teen panelists continued for maybe 10 minutes. A high-school panelist engaged a junior high girl in a debate over Christianity's role in the school. The older girl said that although she considered herself a strong Catholic, the Supreme Court ruled Christianity had no place in the school, that's the way it was and the younger girl would just have to accept that.

But the younger girl didn't accept it. She in fact stood her ground and it was interesting to watch the two of them exchange ideas and beliefs. Neither yielded to the other.

Later in the evening, I was approached by a group of three students who expressed a desire to see more than just Christanity on this Religion page. The students, all exceptionally bright, made strong cases for their beliefs and said they wanted to write a statement about how it is important

The Good Book: Zechariah (Part 37 of 66)

Overview:

Zechariah prophesied during the time of the return of the Jews from their Babylonian exile.The message of Zechariah is similar to other prophets of the post-exilic period. There is an emphasis on the return of the people from bondage and punishment, a rebuilt temple, a purified community, and the coming of the messianic age. Zechariah differs from other prophets in that he received his messages in the form of night visions with the assistance of an interpreting angel.

Theme Passage:

8:3-6 "Thus says the Lord: I will return to Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem; Jerusalem shall be called the faithful city, and the mountain of the Lord of hosts shall be called the holy mountain. Thus says the Lord of hosts: Old men and old women shall again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand because of great age. And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in its streets. Thus says the Lord of hosts: Even though it seems impossible to the remnant of this people in these days, should it also seem impossible to me, says the Lord of hosts?"

NOAH: Phoniness drowns efforts of actors and other cute animals

the addition of non-biblical minor characters (Coburn's peddler) and made-up dialogue to move things along.

But for those in the know, there were biblical howlers aplenty. It was the patriarch Abraham who bargained with God to save Sodom if he could find even 10 righteous people. On TV, Noah did the pleading The biblical Sodom was destroyed for cruelty to strangers, including homosexual gang-rape; TV fudged the reasons. And on and on.

The phoniness all but drowned the efforts of the cute beasts and such humans as Oscar-winners Jon Voight, Mary Steenburgen, F. Murray Abraham and James Coburn — not to mention big budget special effects and comedy club one-liners.

Secular TV critics guffawed at some of the jokes, and at the whole ludicrous production. But this is no laughing matter for those who believe the Bible is Holy Writ, especially if they believe it records history, not fables. The loudest reactions emanated from America's largest Protestant group, the conservative Southern Baptist Convention.

Whatever scriptwriter Peter Barnes ("Merlin," "Enchanted April") did to Noah, Daniel Block, professor of Old Testament at the Baptists' seminary in Louisville, Ky., was far angrier at what he considered "shameless perversion" of the character of God.

Block's attack, posted on the Internet, said God was "presented alternately as confused, indecisive, foolish and weak."

The professor was especially upset over the closing lines uttered by the voice of God: "Perhaps I went too far. I am one, eternal, perfect. But I can be wrong. Don't ask me to explain, Noah. I need man as much as man needs me. We fulfill each other... ."

Block says, "It is not God that needs us, but that we need him, desperately."

Some Baptist teetotalers also gripe that the TV Noah got drunk. But, hey, folks, take a look at Genesis 9:21. Another quibble concerns Noah's sons who, according to the Bible, took wives on board the ark. The TV sons brought flirtatious girlfriends, including one belly dancer (remember those sweeps), and wed only after the ark landed.

Feminists must have been pleased that Noah's TV wife conducted the sons' wedding rather than the old man. And environmentalists gained P.C. airtime when Mrs. Noah wondered why God would want to preserve cockroaches and snakes, and Mr. Noah preached that all nature is valuable.

The Gospel According to Peter (Barnes) touches on the nature of the Bible, another big issue for the Baptists and many others. As Block complained, modern interpretations say the meaning of Bible texts lies with the reader, not with what the author intended. This show certainly was a case in point.

Don't look for big Sunday School sales when the video is released.

Speaking of marketing, the ark's rocky voyage raises questions about cable TV's Odyssey Channel, which was created by ecumenically minded Christians who disliked hard-sell TV evangelism. Hallmark recently bought a piece of Odyssey as an outlet for its programs.

With its new religious partners, maybe Hallmark will learn to imitate Hollywood's DreamWorks studio, which consulted numerous Bible experts while scripting "The Prince of Egypt." That animated feature on Moses recently passed $100 million at the box office.

STUDENTS: Trio of seniors hopes for tolerance of their non-Christian views

(From 1C)

Patel and Gupta are practicing Hindus. Leventhal is Jewish.

The statement stresses in its opening words that it is not the students' intent to speak out against Christianity or religion, but rather to educate. The students refer to their statement as "pro-understanding, pro-achievement, pro-justice and pro-communication."

"We support the ethical foundations of Christianity and the policy of 'loving thy neighbor as thyself' and not discriminating against different beliefs," the statement reads. "If one's neighbors differ in religious perspectives, does the Bible condemn them and advocate persecution? Or does it promote love and brotherhood? An interpretation of the Bible would suggest that everyone should be treated with love and respect with no qualifications on love."

The students assert that beliefs in one's superiority in the name of a religion creates tension and instability.

"Religion is meant to guide us to love and brotherhood, not to promote violence and hatred," according to the statement. As Mahatma Gandhi wrote, 'I do not know any religion apart from human activity. It provides a moral basis to all other activities.' "

Patel said the purpose of their statement is to educate others.

"We hope to better people's understanding of other people's views," he said. "To accommodate everyone's view, to help people gain greater amounts of tolerance and for there to be more room for tolerance and less room for division."

Gupta, valedictorian at Lee, said intolerance of their views has always been an underlying issue, but the catalyst for coming forward with their opinions was Tuesday night's forum, in which prayer in school and the inclusion of God and Christ in one's life were themes that were repeated and offered as solutions to school violence.

"I guess what really bothers us is that people imply that people of different belief systems aren't as moral as (Christians)," she said. "I can deal with that, I've had to for quite a while. But at certain times, it seems like it's something that needs to be addressed."

Gupta said she has been the recipient of attempts to persuade her into other faiths and it has been suggested to her that her belief system is incorrect, tactics that she feels are "inherently contradictory" to religious freedom.

"We don't have a problem with Christians practicing their faith," she said. "And I don't know if it's that they have a problem with us practicing ours, but sometimes it is implied that we're not as good and we're not as moral because we're not Christians."

Gupta said what she wants people to realize more than anything is that all people — Christians and non-Christians — need to work together to solve problems.

Leventhal takes exception to prayers before football games offered in the name of Jesus.

"The thing that offends me, if you will, is that Jesus is a Christian belief," Leventhal said. "I don't believe in that. When they change the prayers to '... in God's name we pray,' I don't mind it as much. My vision of God and your vision of God may be different, but we still believe in the same God.

"But when they say '... in Jesus' name,' I feel personally that they're forcing their beliefs on me."

Leventhal stressed that his reason for co-authoring the statement is to increase tolerance and to not promote division.

"I hope that everyone can be treated as an equal with no basis to religion," he said. "I'm equal to the next person who is equal to the next person."

"Communication and respect for different ideas helps us work through our differences," Gupta said. "When we sit back and talk with one another, a lot of the time we can better understand why a person does and believes what they do."

If such shared communication involves people with violent tendencies, Gupta said, "if you can relate to that person you make that person less likely to lash out at society."

Patel said his parents taught him that appropriate behavior was appropriate behavior, regardless of one's religion.

"When they told me don't steal or hurt anyone, they didn't tell me not to do those things because of religion," Patel said. "Your actions confirm your innocence. You religion doesn't necessarily confirm your innocence.

"We don't want people offended or taken aback by our statement, nor do we want to create tension. We just want people to understand where each of us is coming from. That we're are all different and we need to get over those differences without having feelings of superiority based on race, beliefs or sex."

Leventhal realized their efforts wouldn't change everyone in town.

"If we can change five or 10 people, that's a start," Leventhal said.

Beliefs Are Not Uniform

An ethical proposal

This statement is not anti-Christian, anti-religion, or anti-athletics; it is pro-education, pro-understanding, pro-achievement, pro-justice, and pro-communication.

Have we forgotten why the Pilgrims fled to North America? Do we not remember the roots of the Holocaust? Do we know why ethnic Albanians are fleeing from Kosovo? The answer is religious persecution.

The Supreme Court case of Everson v. Board of Education in 1947 made the separation of church and state a central focus of government and law; in 1962, Engle v. Vitale declared school prayer unconstitutional. This is an issue of whether religion should be inherent within the school system and identified as the core problem in our society.

Prayer in school will not prevent school violence. The incorporation of religion into the school system will only create more problems. Life can continue without religion, but not without morality. Though morality is subjective, it is not subjective to the point that one belief system is superior to another.

We support the ethical foundations of Christianity and the policy of "loving thy neighbor as thyself" and not discriminating against different beliefs. If one's neighbors differ in religious perspectives, does the Bible condemn them and advocate persecution? Or does it promote love and brotherhood? An interpretation of the Bible would suggest that everyone should be treated with love and respect with no qualifications on love.

Why should any student with good morals be questioned simply because he isn't Christian? This student represents many in society who follow a personal code of ethics that is not necessarily tied to any religion. Morality is an issue of personal beliefs and execution of those beliefs.

Our focus to solve problems in society should aim to accept and help people rather than to ostracize and label them as "non-believers" and therefore "immoral." Our society once largely fought against the segregation of races; however, we must now fight against the segregation of faiths. Moral people in society are not determined by which faith they practice, but what actions they take. Children of all faiths are known to engage in hedonistic activities; the name of one's faith does not imply innocence; one's actions confirm innocence.

The answer to society's problems does not lie within a religiously set ethical code. The solution lies within tolerance and acceptance of differences within humanity. Oppression breeds violence. Tolerance results in peace.

Religion is not wrong, but believing that one is naturally superior to another creates tension and instability. Religion is meant to guide us to love and brotherhood, not to promote violence and hatred. As Mahatma Gandhi wrote, "I do not know any religion apart from human activity. It provides a moral basis to all other activities..."

DOWNS: 23rd Psalms universal in appeal

(From 1C)

It is the fourth session, Psalms of Trust, in which the study delves into the 23rd Psalm, one of the most memorable, meaningful passages in the Bible.

"The 23rd Psalm is for when you are afraid, worried or facing any kind of difficulty," Downs said. "If you look at the 23rd Psalm, it's hard to find anyone not touched by it anywhere."

In her study book, Downs writes, "So familiar is this psalm that one hesitates to make a comment. While this is a classic piece of individual devotion, it also invokes strong and enduring images of salvation history — God's care for all God's people. The metaphor of shepherd and host evoke a rich range of images that bring the Old and New Testaments into conversation."

Downs said the most difficult psalms to rewrite and interpret are those which deal with vengeance.

"Psalm 137 starts out so lyrically and sad, then it wants the Lord to kill the enemies and to tear them down," she said. "There's some tough stuff in there. It's not everywhere, but people in the psalms of vengeance are crying for God to take action on their behalf."

Both the book of Psalms and Downs' study close out on an up note.

"The final lesson is on praise," she said. "Everything that breathes, praise God. The tone of the Psalms ends with triumphant praise."

Downs will visit 12 cities instructing leaders of various Presbyterian women's circles on how to teach the lessons. Her travels will take her to Montreat, N.C., Jackson, Miss., Kansas City, Mo., Pittsburgh, Columbia, S.C., Louisville, Ky., Fort Worth, San Angelo and Amarillo.

Prior to her service with Trinity Presbyterian, Downs pastored congregations in San Antonio, Dallas and Abilene. Before her ordination to the ministry in 1988, she was Professor of History at McMurry University in Abilene.

PATTERSON: Tolerance, understanding of other views essential

that everyopne have tolerance for and respect of other people's viewpoints. And so the statement, included today, was written that evening and given to me the next day, Wednesday.

Which is, I suppose, what you get when you tell a group of exceptionally bright students that if they'll write a statement in 'x' amount of time, you'll fit it into the newspaper for them.

At one point in our discussion Tuesday, one of the students made the point that she was disappointed that Christianity was the only religion represented on the Religion page. In defense, I said that it is the predominant school of religious thought in West Texas. The audience dictates the number of stories.

But while talking to the student, Charu Gupta, who practices Hinduism, I thought about others like her and her friend Rikesh Patel, also a Hindu, and their friend, Keith Leventhal, who is Jewish.

Shouldn't these people be given an avenue to have published what they believe in, too?

Of course they should. After all, it doesn't say "Christianity" at the top of the Religion page.

I knew what these kids wrote would be well thought out. Their viewpoints may not be in the West Texas mainstream, but the point is, they are entitled to believe whatever they choose- and they deserve to have other people respect their right to hold those views.

After the forum, my kid engaged in a discussion with a member of the Jewish faith. She said that while she wishes to remain true to the faith in which she has been raised, she understands more why Keith Leventhal believes what he believes and she furthermore respects both his heritage and his right to believe it.

Shouldn't we all do that? If a 13-year-old can figure that out, why can't everyone else?

I guess maybe we can take it even one step further: shouldn't we respect a person's right to his or her beliefs even if that belief is that the only way to get through the doors of heaven is by way of the doors of the church in which they attend?

I may not agree with that thought, but does my disagreement make it wrong for that person to believe however they choose?

Of course not.

Christians, Jews, Muslims, Hindus, Buddhists — whatever the label, whatever the belief system and by whatever name the higher being is called — all should be given the dignity to believe as they wish.

As Charu said to me, the Hindus may not call them Commandments, but they still live by the same code of morals represented in the most famous Top 10 list ever made.

A Christian sitting in Row 1 at a school has the right to disagree with the Buddhist seated in Row 2. But that same Christian — and others like him — should have the decency to permit that same Buddhist the freedom to believe what he or she wants.

It's really none of my business, for instance, that a Muslim believes Muhammed suddenly turned from illiterate to prophet, just as it is no business of the Muslim that I believe Jesus died on a cross.

Everyone with a belief system is hopefully all working for the same common goal: to live a good, decent, fulfilling life with hope of a reward for that earthly good in the end.

It seems like we should concern ourselves more with making our own lives right instead of trying to make someone else adapt to our way of thinking.

I feel fairly certain that God, Allah, Buddha, Christ and Muhammed would only expect us to take care of ourselves while extending a loving hand to those whose religious philosophy differs from that of our own. Maybe that's what the Bible means when it says, 'Judge not, lest ye be judged.' "

HABITAT: Philippinos happy, grateful in spite of their poverty, living conditions

volunteers.

"This family moved into their home from a dirt floor, bamboo hut," said Jim Brown, who also made the trip. "They came from something extremely small to a house with a raised concrete floor, a concrete block house with a tin roof. It's such an improvement to them that we can't even envision it. Three-hundred square feet to us makes a nice size bedroom. To them it's a whole house, but they were so proud of it that they had already started landscaping it before we had even finished it."

All 50 of the families that had applied for a Habitat house in the General Santos City neighborhood the Midlanders visited qualified for the no-interest loan necessary before the work began.

"The adults there spoke very little English, but their children did," Brown said. They teach it in the schools. The children were lovely, and they love to practice their English. They were very outgoing."

Added Price: "The poverty is devastating, but the people still seem to be happy, outgoing, friendly, smiling all the time. And boy did they work. They were there working well before we got there every morning. I'm sure they were there at sun up and worked every day until after dark.

President Jimmy Carter also made the trip and in fact flew over on the same airplane with Price and other Midlanders.

The Jimmy Carter Work Project is an international effort of Habitat for Humanity. The goal of JCWP '99 was to build 250 houses from March 21-28. Building took place at five sites — General Santos City, Manila, Bacolod City, Dumaguete and Tagbiliran. An estimated 6,000 volunteers were needed to complete the project.

VINCENT KITUKU

The neck has the ability to turn the head

What qualities and responsibilities make a wife a Proverb 31: 10-31 woman? As a Godly wife, what separates you from the rest of the crowd? Are you an equal partner in the service of the Lord with your husband? Can your husband count on you for spiritual and moral support?

Kituku

I have a special respect for the godly talents wives have in affirming gentle leadership. I learned about God, values of life, and self sacrifice for one's family from my special mother, although cultural constraints could have limited her influence on my life. Beth Meade, my neighbor, was told by her grandmother that, "Husband is the head and the wife is the neck. However, the neck has the ability to turn the head any direction." I can't argue with this wisdom. The "neck," if it's holding on to the word of God, has the ability to turn and keep the "head" heaven bound. I am eternally indebted to my wife who is skillful in knowing when, how, and where to turn her "head."

Christ, as the head of the church, protects, provides and leads it. For a family, God has placed these responsibilities upon husbands, not because of any physical, mental or spiritual superiority. In situations where these responsibilities are not carried out by husbands for one reason or another, some wives have done commendable jobs. I have heard more testimonies of husbands turning to God because of their godly wives than vice versa.

The Bible says, "... teach young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children." A loving, Godly wife is a special gift. A man also experiences spiritual and social security by knowing that his wife has an unquestionable relationship with God, loves him despite his failures and genuinely honors him. "A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband: but she that maketh ashamed is as rottenness in his bones" (Proverbs 12: 4).

In all my life, I have never heard my mother say or do anything that would dishonor my father. My mother affirmed that he was our father, even though we might not agree with all his perspectives. This made me respect my mother all the more. How we viewed his perspectives was our problem. He was our father. She kept him in focus as her first priority. She reverenced and esteemed him. In doing this, she gained a whole community's respect.

A wife's physical responsiveness as an essential factor in maintaining a strong marital relationship is largely not discussed in spiritual arenas. It is suppressed or considered a taboo in some traditional cultures. However, the Song of Solomon gives us another view, "I am my beloved's and his desire is toward me. Come, my beloved, let us go forth into the field..." (Solomon's Song 7: 10-11).

Thinking of the qualities and responsibilities of my wife last Valentine's Day, I composed a poem, "A Blanket for the Sky" which partly reads:

A home is not bought and hands do not construct.

A wife is the home. She is the sky.

She opens up for thirsty lands to flourish.

An elastic sky that expands to accommodate changing family needs.

A sky with a rainbow to uplift a sinking spirit.

A warm sky for a shivering child.

A sky that holds her thunder until the visitors leave, then it pours.

A sky whose blanket is love.

Wives, you have the tools and ability to help your husbands in their responsibilities, grow spiritually together, build a healthy marital relationship and enrich the world as partners. Are you willing to stand up by the husband God has blessed you with or will changing cultural waves put your devotion to God and commitment to your marriage at risk?

Author takes issue with end-of-the-world theology

By Jim Jones
N.Y. Times News Service

Grace Halsell took chemicals to darken her skin to do research for her book "Soul Sister." She swam the Rio Grande to cross into the United States in gathering inside knowledge for another bestseller, "The Illegals."

Now she has plunged herself into end-of-the-world biblical prophecy in researching her latest book, "Armageddon: Understanding God's End Game."

"I find the Armageddon mindset very dangerous," said Halsell, who was in Fort Worth to receive a media ethics award from Texas Christian University's department of journalism.

Halsell, a native of Lubbock who now resides in Washington, D.C., lived in Fort Worth for a time and was the first female police reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in the late 1940s.

"Then I left to write my way around the world," she said.

She toured the British Isles on a bicycle, did free-lance writing in Lima, Peru, where she visited the Incan ruins of Machu Picchu, and wrote for newspapers in Hong Kong and Tokyo. Later, she was a speech writer for President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Her latest book, which is to be released this year, expresses her fears about the end-times theology of many Christians.

Exponents of Bible prophecy believe that a powerful and gifted leader, known as the Antichrist, will lead a world coalition in the battle of Armageddon. The Antichrist will be defeated as Christ returns with the armies of heaven.

Many Christians, particularly those in more liberal mainline churches, see Armageddon as merely a symbolic battle between good and evil on Judgment Day. But many other believers see it as an actual event that will take place in a valley near Megiddo in Israel.

Another of Halsell's books, "Prophecy and Politics: the Secret Alliance Between Israel and the U.S. Christian Right," published in 1989, also explores her concerns about Armageddon theology.

But on the eve of the year 2000, she wanted to look again at what it means to be a Christian, and why some Christians, such as the Rev. Jerry Falwell, look toward a violent end of the world.

"Must we totally destroy this world in order to usher in a 'new heaven and a new earth?'" she asks.

Halsell draws on experiences in 1983 and 1985, when she traveled to Israel on tours led by Falwell. She encountered many on the trip who are convinced the world will end in a bloody battle on the plains of Megiddo.

Armageddon theology is preached by much-admired evangelists, such as Billy Graham and Luis Palau. But as the year 2000 approaches, Halsell said she is alarmed by end-of-the-world comments being made by many, particularly Falwell and Pat Robertson, president of the Christian Broadcasting Network.

"Their sermons are filled with scary stuff," Halsell said.

Falwell and Robertson are among those who believe that biblical signs are in place — such as the emergence of Israel as a nation, widespread immorality, numerous earthquakes, floods and other disasters — to indicate that the end of the world as we know it is near.

In her new book, Halsell explains many end-times theories, such as "the Rapture," a belief that true Christians will be caught up into heaven by Jesus before the final tribulation, which includes the Battle of Armageddon.

"People feel a need for certitude, and they like the idea of being saved from all this tribulation by the 'Rapture,'" she said.

Halsell bases her views solely on her own research and experiences as a professing Christian and not on any credentials as a biblical scholar. She argues that those who preach Armageddon theology replace Christ's teachings about universal love with a God of war.

They portray Jesus "as a five-star general, astride a horse, leading all the armies of the world," she said.

A better way to usher in "a new heaven and a new earth," she said, is to focus on revolutionary philosophies taught by Jesus, such as loving one's neighbor.

Halsell also finds it paradoxical that many Christian leaders, such as Falwell and Robertson, are so cheerful even though they preach that a terrible Battle of Armageddon is imminent.

"The world is coming to an end and they are still smiling," she said.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll have: 5-Dymanic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 15, 1999:
New beginnings are possible in whatever area of your life you choose. You're more powerful than in recent years and are determined to get what you want. When you manifest your strength and personality, you are a sure winner. Your career could take a very special turn. Be realistic in your expectations. You yearn for soul-satisfying work. If you are single, you draw others with your charisma. Don't demand too much from others or dismiss any views that are not your own. If attached, work on understanding each other more clearly. GEMINI helps you see new ways of making money.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ New beginnings are possible. Curb spending, make resolutions and listen to a friend who has much to share. Discuss a potential new project. Express your sense of friendship and caring. Make plans for a get-together. Tonight: Out and about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★★ When you make a decision, that's it! Use your iron will, and make what you need and want happen. Don't settle for any less than what works for you. Spending could make you feel nearly euphoric. Remember, tomorrow will come! Tonight: Enjoying life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★ Take a back seat. Make a personal resolution. You might feel as if your life is a bit out of kilter. By afternoon, do exactly what you want: Catch a good movie, take a walk in the country or browse a flea market. Talks about the future open doors. Tonight: Anything goes — almost.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★ Call friends and plan a get-together in the near future. A relationship you feel has been going sour will rejuvenate. Make that effort. Sometimes you sell yourself short. Don't do that now. A partner wants to treat you; let him. Tonight: Vanish with a favorite person.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★ Maintain a high profile, listen to news and draw others into your plans. Your sense of responsibility comes out with family, especially older relatives. Bring friends together later in the afternoon. Wherever you are, there seems to be a party going on. Let festivities happen. Tonight: A partner is dreamy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★★ Acknowledge the role a special person has in your life. Do something special to let him know how valued he is. Perhaps inviting him for a day trip or taking him to a special play or music event will hit the spot. Your nurturing ways pay off. Consider what would make you happy. Tonight: With a loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★★ Your imagination takes you down different paths, alters plans and reveals great ideas. Visualize what you want and make calls and inquiries. Relate one-to-one with a partner; you'll be pleased with the results. Discussions about long-term desires are timely. Tonight: Could be wonderful!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Defer to a partner who has your best interests in mind. Don't sell yourself short; recognize that the time is right for a new beginning. A new relationship christened under these aspects could become very special. Follow your intuition. Tonight: Opt for togetherness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ Pace yourself and get certain "musts" out of your way. You can accomplish a lot. Make a resolution about health, diet and exercise. You can do it! Make plans for the afternoon, when your more gregarious side emerges. Popularity soars. Tonight: Do something you have put off way too long.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★★ Listen carefully; another has a lot to share. Give an estranged friend or relative another chance if you can. You could experience a fresh start. Laughter and fun happen as you relax. Allow more nurturing into your life. Take time to consider an important purchase. Tonight: Have a blast!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Handle a personal matter and clear out errands. A domestic matter you've been putting off can be done, if you want to do it. New beginnings on the homefront are more than possible. A childlike, irrepressible paramour proves to be most enticing. Tonight: Let the fun begin.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ A decision could affect the quality of your day-to-day life. It could be a more powerful computer, hiring an answering service or maybe even springing for a brand-new car. You will be beaming ear to ear as you share good news with family. Tonight: Happy at home.

Byrd waives congressional immunity

FAIRFAX, Va. — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the proud guardian of the historic rights and privileges of the Senate, has waived congressional immunity and offered to face the consequences for causing a fender-bender.

The 81-year-old West Virginia Democrat told prosecutors that he doesn't want special treatment in connection with the May 7 accident.

He could be fined an amount to be determined by a judge.

The senator had been given a ticket for following too closely, but the citation was dropped under the constitutional provision that grants members of Congress immunity from arrest while Congress is in session.

Sen. Robert Byrd offers to face the consequences for causing a fender-bender.

Byrd spokeswoman Ann Adler said the senator "wants to do the right thing legally. He wants to appear in court — the whole thing."

A summons was reissued and Byrd is scheduled to appear in court July 19.

Byrd rear-ended a van in a rented Cadillac, police said.

Avery Brooks is wrapping up a seven-year run on "Star Trek: Deep Space Nine."

GARY, Ind. — Millions of TV viewers might know him as the Federation's Capt. Benjamin Sisko, but here Avery Brooks is just one of the folks — and that's the way he likes it.

"This is what it is all about," Brooks said. "I am home again. I am not a big star, just another brother."

The deep-voiced actor is wrapping up a seven-year run as Sisko, commander of a strategic space station on "Star Trek: Deep Space Nine."

Sisko was awarded an honorary doctorate of theater arts from Indiana University Northwest on Thursday. Brooks, 50, attended the university from 1966 to 1968, and his mother taught music and education there.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Greta Garbo's ashes will be buried in the city of her birth.

The reclusive film star died in New York City in 1990 at age 84. She was cremated and the ashes have been kept at a New York mortuary while her niece and sole heir, Gray Reisfield, decided what to do with them.

She has decided on Skogskyrkogaarden, the cemetery in Stockholm where Garbo's parents are buried, she said in a statement Friday.

The ashes will be interred June 17 after a small private ceremony in a cemetery chapel.

MUNICH, Germany — Robert Redford's newest moviemaking partners aren't in Hollywood but in Europe.

Germany's Kirch media group said Friday that it and Italian media mogul Silvio Berlusconi will cooperate with Redford's Wildwood Enterprises on film development and financing. The European companies will put up money and Redford will direct, act or produce.

Among the projects already planned is a $70 million production of "The Legend of Bagger Vance," Kirch said.

LOS ANGELES — Hercules is blasting into space.

Kevin Sorbo, star of TV's "Hercules: The Legendary Journeys," will trade mythology for a science fiction-action series based on the work of the late "Star Trek" creator Gene Roddenberry.

The new syndicated series, expected to debut in the fall of 2000, is being developed by Roddenberry's widow, Majel Barrett Roddenberry, with Tribune Entertainment Co. and Sorbo.

"Since my pre-teen days, I have been a fan of Mr. Roddenberry and the worlds he created in 'Star Trek,'" Sorbo said. "I guess you could say I'm trading the past for the future."

Two Roddenberry projects are under development. Sorbo can choose which he wants to star in.

"Gene Roddenberrry's Andromeda" is about a scientist on a distant planet who is inadvertently transported 500 years into the future. The other show, "Gene Roddenberry's Starship," tells the adventures of an exploratory space vessel.

Sorbo's "Hercules" will wrap its five-year run in December.

Our Lady of Guadalupe hosts Foster Care celebration Sunday

By Jimmy Patterson
Staff writer

In an effort to increase awareness and in recognition of May being National Foster Care Month, a community wide celebration and recognition of foster and adoptive parents will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Our Lady of Guadalupe Parish Hall, on Carden Lane.

"What we're trying to do is to bring awareness to the fact that children are in need of foster care and adoption," said Susan McHughes, Foster and Adoptive Home Recruiter for Children's Protective Services. "We have only a limited number of homes in Midland that are open to take foster children, and we have very few minority homes. We would like to see an increase in the number of minority foster parents as well as foster parents in general."

McHughes explained that Sunday's event at Our Lady of Guadalupe will feature both community leaders and current foster parents and families.

The celebration will also feature the Iva Boze Community Choir, a children's community choir and Spiritual Forces.

Currently, over 500,000 children and youth are in the U.S. foster care system, a 90 percent increase since 1986. There are approximately 142,000 foster families in the system, which represents a 3 percent decrease since 1986.

A recent study showed that 12-18 months after leaving foster care, 27 percent of males and 10 percent of females had been incarcerated; 33 percent were receiving public assistance; 37 percent had not finished high school, and 50 percent were unemployed.

McHughes said the process of qualifying as a foster care parent or family normally takes six months.

"We have a 30-hour training process and that class gives prospective parents an idea what foster care is all about; the abuse and neglect the children have suffered, and the behaviors to expect. The process also gives prospective parents a chance to look at the program and see if it's right for their family."

Some reasons people choose not to enter the foster family program include concern for younger birth children, and the separation that comes when foster children are removed from the foster home.

"A lot of foster parents who do have younger children say it gives them a real understanding of what it means to have family and care for them," McHughes said. "The majority of them say it gives their own birth children a good experience when foster children come into the home."

For more information on Sunday's program, or to find out about foster care, call McHughes at 686-2272.

Sledge-Harper lead Invite

With a two-day total of 133, 11-under-par, the team of Dennis Sledge and Phillip Karper have a three-shot lead over Tim Kohn and Rick Gasser (136, 8-under-par) in the Midland Invitational held at Midland Country Club on Friday.

With eight teams within seven shots of the lead, Saturday's final round looks set to be a shootout.

First round leaders Gary Womack and Chris Brown fell off the pace slightly with a 1-over-par 73 but are still in the hunt with a two-day total of 139.

Frogs sign swimmer

LEAGUE CITY — Dana Kizer, grandson of Fred R. Kizer of Midland, recently signed a letter of intent to swim for Texas Christian University.

A swimmer at Clear Creek High School here, Kizer was first team all-state in water polo and swimming. Kizer won fifth place in the boys 50-yard freestyle and seventh placed in the 100-yard freestyle events at the state swim meet this winter.

Jacks acquire Shmyr

The Odessa Jackalopes acquired tough man Dean Shmyr in a trade Friday. Shmyr, a 28-year-old forward from the New Mexico Scorpions comes to the Jacks in return for future considerations.

Shmyr, at 5-feet-11, 200 pounds, was one of the toughest players in the Western Professional Hockey League last season finishing with 309 minutes in penalties. A native of Vancouver, British Columbia, Shmyr also scored four goals and added 12 assists in 41 games for the Scorpions. The seven-year pro has also seen time in the International Hockey League with the Cleveland Lumberjacks.

"We traded for Dean to add toughness to our lineup," said Joe Clark, Director of Hockey Operations and Head Coach of the Jackalopes. "He's a versatile guy because he can also play defense if we need it. Dean could very well be quite popular with our fans because of his physical style."

In another move earlier this week, the Lake Charles Ice Pirates acquired Odessa forward Jamie Dunn to complete a trade made earlier in the season.

Floyd to head OC women

ODESSA — Odessa College announced Friday that Tricia Floyd accepted the head women's basketball coaching position.

Floyd, the former Lady Wranglers assistant coach, will replace Stephie Clark, who is resigning this summer. Clark is expecting a baby this summer with husband. Jackalopes coach Joe Clark.

Floyd served as an assistant for three years. She began her coaching career n 1993 as the assistant women's basketball coach at Manchester College in Indiana. In 1995, she became the head women's basketball coach at North Park College in Chicago.

"This is a great opportunity for her to continue the good work that she and coach Clark have done," said OC Athletic Director Jim Carlson.

Drillers shut out RockHounds, 4-0

Staff Report

TULSA — The Midland RockHounds' bats were probably a bit snoozy from the late night doubleheader because the offense just couldn't find a wake-up call to the Tulsa Drillers' pitching in a 4-0 loss Friday night.

Corey Lee (4-0) was solid on the mound for the Drillers as he pitched seven scoreless innings, allowed just three hits, walked five and struck out 10 RockHounds to earn the win.

The crucial inning for the Drillers on this night proved to be the third as Tulsa scored all three runs they needed. Chris Brumbaugh, who went 4-for-4 and scored two runs, led off the inning with a double. Ryan Lane then drove in Brumbaugh with a single to left. Later in the inning, Milt Cuyler put the finishing touches with a two-run single up the middle off Midland starter Jason Anderson (1-4).

The Drillers added an insurance run in the sixth inning off Midland reliever Chris Nelson. Brumbaugh singled, Lane added a hit-and-run single and then Juan Piniella walked to load the bases. Nelson then walked Adrian Myers with the bases loaded to cap the scoring for the Drillers.

The 'Hounds (17-18) continue this 10-day road swing through the Texas League East Division with a 2 p.m. doubleheader today in Arkansas.

LATE NIGHT BASEBALL: What was supposed to be a seven-inning nightcap of a double-header Thursday night turned into a 15-inning marathon, but the RockHounds came out on top, 5-4. Adam Piatt drove Jeff DaVanon home for the winning run in the top of the 15th, then Andy Kimball pitched a perfect bottom of the 15th for his first save of the year. The game lasted four hours and 44 minutes and ended just before 2 a.m.

Chris Gorrell (1-0) earned his first victory of the season by pitching five innings of relief. He had a chance to win it in 13 innings after T.R. Marcinczyk's RBI single gave Midland a 4-3 lead, but Gorrell gave a run back to Tulsa in the bottom of the 13th. However, he worked his way out of one-out, runner-on-third jams in the 13th and the 14th to set up the win.

Palmeiro's clutch single help lift Texas over O's

ARLINGTON (AP) — Rafael Palmeiro hit a tiebreaking, two-run single in the seventh inning as the Texas Rangers handed the Baltimore Orioles their fifth straight loss, 7-6 on Friday night.

With the game tied 4-4 in the seventh, Tom Goodwin drew a leadoff walk from reliever Arthur Rhodes (1-2). Goodwin went to second on Mark McLemore's sacrifice bunt and Ivan Rodriguez worked a two-out walk to set the stage for Palmeiro, who drove in 121 runs for the Orioles last season.

Palmeiro pulled a double inside the first-base bag to score Goodwin and Rodriguez and give Texas a 6-4 lead.

Goodwin's RBI single in the eighth made it 7-4, but the Orioles closed to 7-6 on Cal Ripken's first homer of the season, two-run shot off John Wetteland with two outs in the ninth.

Delino DeShields then reached on an infield single, but Wetteland retired Tommy Davis on a ground-out to earn his 11th save. It was the Rangers' fifth win in their last six games.

Reliever Tim Crabtree (2-0) got the win despite allowing two hits and one walk in one-third of an inning.

In the eighth, Baltimore put runners on first and second on leadoff singles by DeShields and Charles Johnson against Mike Venafro.

Bell, Everett lead Astros past San Francisco

HOUSTON (AP) — Derek Bell's two-run single in the sixth inning sparked the Houston Astros to a 7-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants on Friday night.

Carl Everett went 4-for-4 as Houston won for the 11th time in 14 games.

Shane Reynolds (6-2) pitched six innings, giving up four runs and seven hits, while striking out seven and walking two. He also had a two-run single.

Billy Wagner pitched the ninth for his 11th save.

Kirk Rueter (2-2) allowed five runs and 10 hits in five innings. Houston improved to 9-2 against lefties, the best record in the National League.

Houston rallied for three runs in the sixth inning off Rueter to erase a 4-3 deficit.

Everett led off the inning with his third hit of the game, a double, and moved to third on a single by Tony Eusebio. Tim Bogar drove in Everett with a single.

Glen Barker pinch ran for Eusebio and the runners advanced to second and third on a double steal. Bell followed with a two-run single up the middle to make it 6-4.

Houston added a run in the seventh on Everett's fourth hit, an RBI single that drove in Richard Hidalgo who had singled and stole second.

San Francisco took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run double by J.T. Snow.

Lukas' past could repeat itself at '99 Preakness

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Their names are Charismatic and Cat Thief, not Thunder Gulch and Timber Country. But trainer D. Wayne Lukas sees a lot of similarities between his two Preakness starters and the pair he ran in 1995.

He wouldn't mind a similar result, either.

That would be a win by Cat Thief, third in the Kentucky Derby, and a third by Charismatic, the Derby winner. That was how Timber Country and Thunder Gulch switched places for Lukas four years ago.

This doesn't mean Lukas thinks Charismatic can't win the Preakness on Saturday at Pimlico. He just thinks Cat Thief can.

Charismatic won't be the favorite for the 1 3-16-mile classic, but then no Derby winner has been the Preakness favorite since Go for Gin, who finished second in 1994. The odds on Charismatic, however, will be far, far shorter than his 31-1 in the Derby.

The expected favorite is Derby runner-up Menifee, beaten by a neck by Charismatic.

"I feel confident I got my horses good, and they certainly could win," said Lukas, who has been intimately involved in Triple Crown racing for 20 years and knows the pitfalls all too well.

Charismatic and Cat Thief will be his 24th and 25th starters in his 17th Preakness. He has trained winners of four Derbys, four Preaknesses and three Belmonts.

Four years ago, after Thunder Gulch won the Derby and Timber Country won the Preakness, Thunder Gulch went on to win the Belmont Stakes, making Lukas a Triple Crown trainer without a Triple Crown champion.

"Everything in these horses is very similar," Lukas said Friday when asked to compare his two starters Saturday with the two in 1995.

The roads Cat Thief and Timber Country traveled to the Preakness are very similar.

"He ran in three prep races (before the Derby) and didn't win," Lukas recalled of Timber Country, who was third, second and fourth in those starts.

Silverbulletday takes Black-Eyed Susan

BALTIMORE — Silverbulletday showed why she might have won the Preakness by overpowering the field in Friday's Black-Eyed Susan and smashing the stakes record.

The best filly in the land was set to run in Saturday's $1 million Preakness and challenge the boys for the first time. But the 3-year-old star drew the outside No. 14 post position, and trainer Bob Baffert and owner Mike Pegram decided to scratch her from the second leg of the Triple Crown.

Silverbulletday, the overwhelming 1-9 favorite, took care of six challengers in a hurry in the $200,000 Black-Eyed Susan, winning by a comfortable two lengths over Dreams Gallore. Vee Vee Star was third, 16 1/2 lengths back.

Woods, Pate stand tied for Nelson lead

Associated Press

IRVING — Tiger Woods and Sergio Garcia could be on a collision course in the Byron Nelson Classic.

■ Golf Roundup

In a strong, hot wind that kept scores from getting out of hand, Woods made three straight birdies Friday to pass the 19-year-old Spaniard, then joined Steve Pate in the lead with a tournament record-tying 12-under 128.

Woods failed to save par from short of the green on No. 18 and had to settle for a 67 on the TPC Four Seasons at Las Colinas. Pate made birdie from behind a hot dog stand on his way to a 5-under 65.

Their 36-hole score was two short of the PGA Tour record and tied the mark in the Nelson Classic set by Woods and Lee Rinker two years ago.

Garcia, who took the lead at 12-under with an eagle on No. 7, couldn't muster another birdie the rest of the way and finished with a 67. He was at 129 with Jeff Gallagher, whose 62 on the TPC was perhaps the best round of the tournament, given the blustery and somewhat drier conditions.

"I had a lot of birdies and bogeys, so it was a little more erratic because of the wind," Woods said. "You can always take advantage of the downwind holes, and I played those terrible. Ironically, I played the holes into the wind perfectly. It was one of those weird deals."

In the midst of all that was an intriguing exchange between Woods and Garcia, the two most dynamic amateurs to turn pro on their respective side of the Atlantic.

Their eyes met as Garcia walked to the 16th tee and Woods was standing on the 10th tee. Woods applauded, and both broke into a big smile.

"He's got a lot of fight in him. I pride myself in that," Woods said. "I never give up on the golf course, and he's the same way."

Separating them is Pate, 37, who admitted he was old enough to be Garcia's father.

"I watched him at the Masters," Pate said. "I know he hits it really hard, and that's about it. And he looks like he's about 14."

Sorenstam takes a two-shot lead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Annika Sorenstam fired an 11-under-par 61, the best score in LPGA history on a par-72 course and the lowest on the tour this year, to take a two-shot lead over Michelle McGann after the opening round of the Sara Lee Classic Friday.

Sorenstam shot a 7-under-par 29 on the back nine of the 6,242-yard Hermitage Golf Course. That included one stretch of four straight birdies and another of three straight. Her score of 61 broke the Sara Lee tournament record by two strokes.

"I was just trying to stay calm out there," said Sorenstam, the Swede who has not won this year despite two second-place and two third-place finishes. "It felt like things were going my way. I was just aiming at the fairways and the pins.

Trevino takes lead in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS — Lee Trevino, looking ahead to the day when he will sharply curtail his playing scheduled, shot a 5-under-par 67 Friday to take the lead after the second round of the Las Vegas Senior Classic.

Trevino played Friday at the par-72 Tournament Players Club at Summerlin.

But it was his even-par 71 on Thursday at TPC The Canyons that has him in position to win his first tournament since last June, the Southwestern Bell Dominion.

"It (the wind) really gets whistling up there" in the afternoon, Trevino said of The Canyons course. "And the greens are twice as hard as they are here."

Frank Conner was at 4-under after a 69 at TPC The Canyons.

First-day leader Isao Aoki was 4-over in the 30 mph afternoon wind at The Canyons to drop back to 3-under with Fred Gibson, Vicente Fernandez, Dave Eichelberger and Dave Stockton.

Ibara

A performance artist from France, Ibara works his mastery in paint on a 30-foot wall of black panels—a blur of color attuned to the pulsating beat of music. His show is mesmerizing, as he transforms the still wet paint into something even more spectacular. Ibara performs at the Preview Party and during the Celebration on Saturday and Sunday.

Art Cole, Distinguished Artist

The founder of Midland Community Theatre, Art Cole now resides in Santa Fe where he works full-time on his watercolors, oils and portraits. Many are on display in private and corporate collections around the world. His watercolor, "Apache Canyon Church," is featured in COA's limited edition poster.

Bugs & Balloons

Featuring Annie Hickman and Allynn Gooen, Bugs & Balloons combines intricately sculpted costumes, whimsical original songs, and graceful multi-cultural dances that thrill their audiences. Watch Allynn blow up three balloons with one breath, twist them while talking non-stop, inviting audience volunteers to join in enacting familiar stories on a stage inflated with colors. Bugs & Balloons will be featured during Sunday's Celebration.

Ricochet-Street Concert

This six-member country band was named Country Weekly's Top New Vocal Group of the Year and boasts a #1 hit, "Daddy's Money." Their Top 10 hits include "What Do I Know" and "Love Is Stronger Than Pride." Ricochet will perform a street concert Saturday night, 7:30 p.m. - midnight. Tickets are $10 in advance, $12 at the concert, and are available at Luskey's Western Stores in Midland and Odessa.
The Street Concert with Ricochet is sponsored by NewsWest 9. Opening Bands: Checkpoint and Black Gold

GENERAL INFORMATION:

To ensure the integrity of our newspaper, for the benefit of our readers and advertisers, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reserves the right the revise, reclassify, edit or refuse any advertising. We also reserve the right to convert all advertising into digital and/or audiotext formats within our other products and services.

Please check your ad the first day it appears, and, if you find a mistake, please call our office at 682-6222 so we can correct the error immediately. This will ensure that your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. If an error does occur, you can choose to rerun your ad once for free, or we'll gladly refund the cost of the portion of the ad affected by the error. If an ad is inadvertently omitted, we will assume liability up to the cost of the ad itself – consequently, we will publish your ad in our next available edition or refund the price you have paid.

Rate charges are determined at the time of placement. All ads accepted are subject to credit approval. Some classifications require payment in advance. Credit applications are required for business accounts.

We welcome your suggestions or comments. Please call: Brandi Alexander, Telephone Sales Supervisor, 687-8813.

PLACING AN AD:

Call 682-6222, Monday through Friday, from 8a.m. – 6p.m.

A friendly Advertising Consultant will help you word and schedule your ad for best results.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT WORKS!

❶ Promote Your Merchandise - The more descriptive you are the more likely your merchandise will appeal to someone.

❷ Check The Market Value - The most common mistake that occurs is over or under pricing your goods.

❸ Always Include The Price - People are more likely to respond when they know the price range.

❹ Keyword Your Ad - Begin each ad with the name of the item, such as "Stove" or "Guitar" rather than "Kenmore" or "Gibson", "Ford 1997" instead of "1997 Ford", or by its key reference point, such as location or area in real estate ads..

Dateline Detroit

By K. Loni Yates

NASCAR debut of 2000 Monte Carlo race car delayed

Fans will have to wait until the NASCAR 2000 race season to feast their eyes on the all-new 2000 model-year Monte Carlo in action because NASCAR has not approved the 2000 Monte Carlo for use in Winston Cup competition.

However, fans will see the Monte Carlo in pace car trim beginning Memorial Day weekend when it starts the field at both the Indianapolis 500 and the NASCAR Coca-Cola 600 events. The production model is set to hit Chevrolet dealers later this summer.

Panasonic and Car Toys launch mobile DVD theater

Want the convenience of an in-car theater system with the quality of a DVD system? Panasonic and Car Toys have introduced the first mobile DVD player which consists of a dash-mounted player which accepts DVD movies for rear-passenger-only viewing on a 7-inch LCD viewing screen.

The dash-mounted player fits in the dashboard like any double din-size car stereo and the flat 7-inch diagonal LCD monitor is designed to be installed for rear passenger viewing between the front seats, in an overhead rear panel or elsewhere in the back of the vehicle. The manufacturer's suggested retail price for the player and the screen is $2,400.

2000 Mercury Sable offers adjustable brake pedals

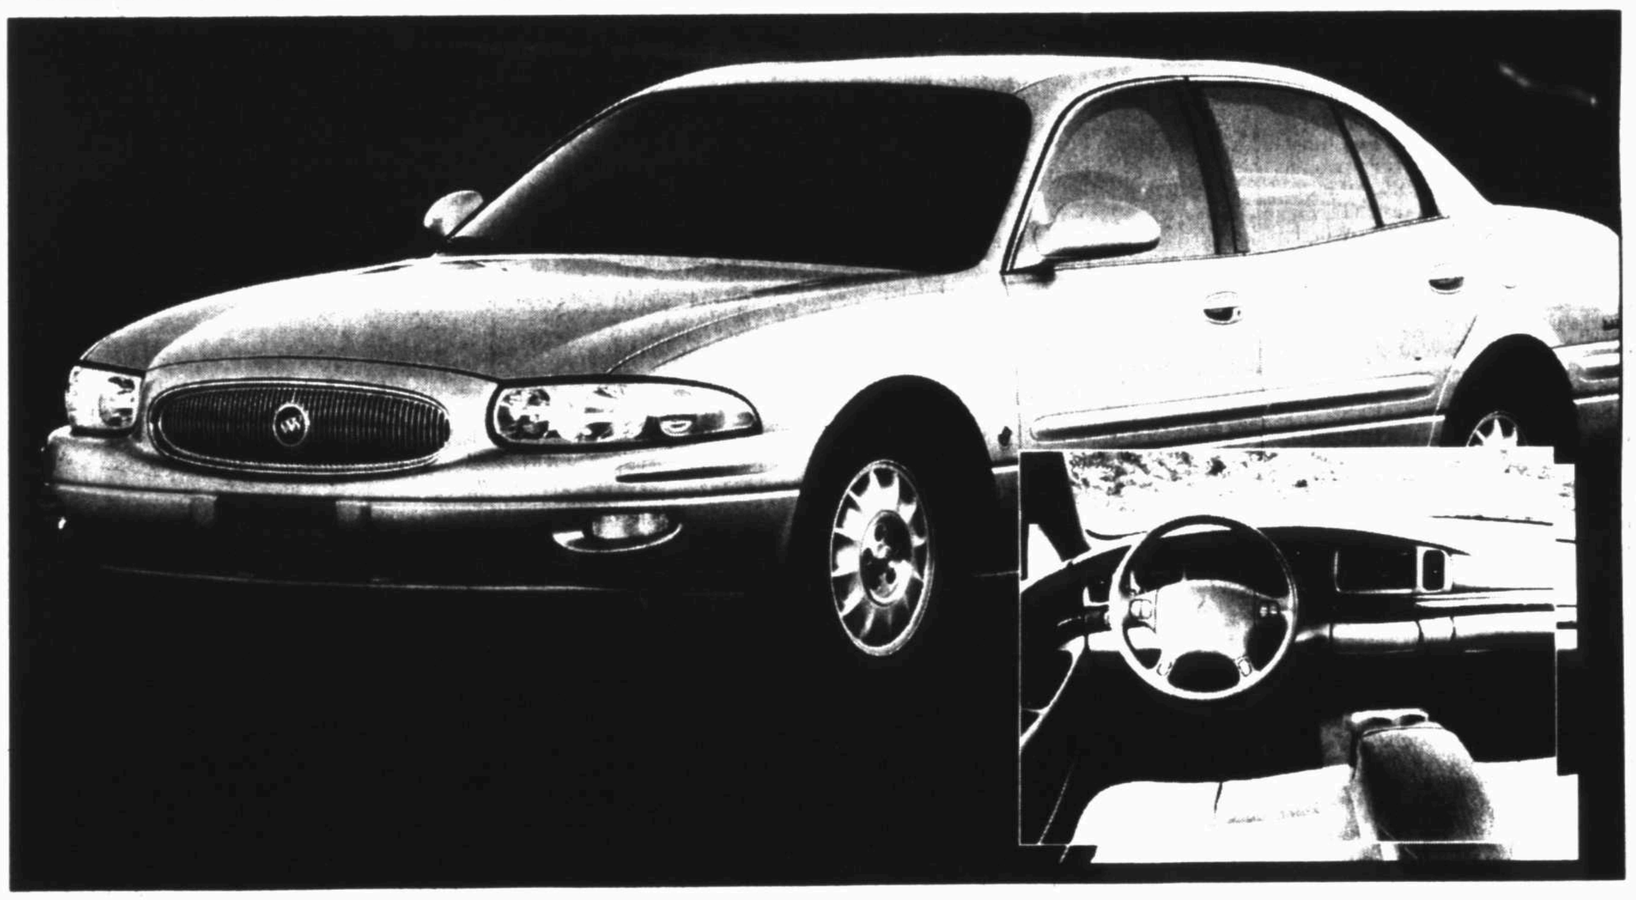

Shorter drivers may appreciate a new option offered on the 2000 Mercury Sable. The Sable will be available with power adjustable accelerator and brake pedals which can be moved horizontally up to three inches toward the driver from the standard location; vertical pedal height does not vary.

A switch on the driver's lower seat cushion alongside the power seat buttons controls the adjustment of the pedals, which are operated by a small electric motor under the instrument panel. The adjustable brake and accelerator pedals are also available on the Ford Taurus.

New web site offers free model-specific vehicle registry

The new computer site Performancelist.com allows consumers to receive model-specific information on accessories, products and related events for their vehicles. The site was designed to offer a one-stop signup registry for car, truck and SUV enthusiasts who want to be the first to know what's available or new for their vehicles.

Performancelist.com is easily accessible via Internet search engines and allows consumers to enter their favorite make and model of car, truck or SUV, receive information on products and events specific to their vehicle, and sign up for e-mail notification of new products and events.

Making It Better: 2000 Buick LeSabre Sedan

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.

"The LeSabre product story is a strong message summed up like this: LeSabre has been the best-selling full-size car in the United States for seven straight years — and we've just made it a lot better." With that statement, Peg Holmes, Buick public relations director, announces the big news from Buick this year.

Available in Custom and Limited models, the LeSabre is manufactured by General Motors in two Michigan plants: Detroit-Hamtramck Assembly Center and Orion Assembly Center in Oakland County's Orion Township.

The new LeSabre is powered by a tried and true drivetrain that has garnered more than its share of awards and accolades during this decade: the oh-so-sweet 3800 Series II V-6 married to the silky-smooth 4T65E electronically-controlled four-speed automatic transmission.

With a strong family resemblance to other Buick sedans — a hint of the larger Park Avenue and previous LeSabre in front and a suggestion of the Regal in the rear — this sedan is both handsome and conservative while sleek and refined. With a 112.2 inch wheel base, up 1.4 inches from the '99 model, the front and rear track is also 1.9 inches wider for better handling. Buick engineers managed to stiffen the body chassis while actually decreasing the turning radius of the car by almost a foot.

On the road, the large sedan is fast, quiet and solid — relatively nimble at speed while delivering safe, predictable handling. The brakes are outstanding. The standard issue General Ameri GS60 215/70R15 tires help keep this car glued to the road.

Inside the cabin, improved displays and controls mimic the Park Avenue, while seat mounted front seat belts are easier to use and less likely to get tangled. The armrest yields new flip-out cup holders while the dashboard contains an additional power point for portable electrical devices such as a cellular phone or laptop computer.

Back seat passengers are treated to cavernous quarters with plenty of leg room — comfortable for three adults. A rear armrest standard on the Limited has built in cup holders and a lockable pass-through to the trunk.

Underhood fluids are easy to reach but are not consistently marked. Properly equipped the LeSabre can tow a trailer with a maximum weight of 1,000 pounds and a maximum tongue weight of 100 pounds.

By the numbers

Engine performance numbers for the 3800 Series II V-6 with Tuned-Port Injection are: 205 hp @ 5,200 rpm and 230 lb/ft of torque @ 3,700 rpm. EPA fuel economy for the 4T65E electronically-controlled four-speed automatic transaxle is 19 city/30 highway using regular unleaded gasoline.

Standard safety/security equipment includes: dual front airbags, front side airbags, four-wheel disc brakes with anti-lock, daytime running lights, remote keyless entry, PASS-Key III passive theft-deterrent system, Battery Rundown Protection, automatic power door locks and lock-out protection. Limited models add an alarm system and cornering lamps.

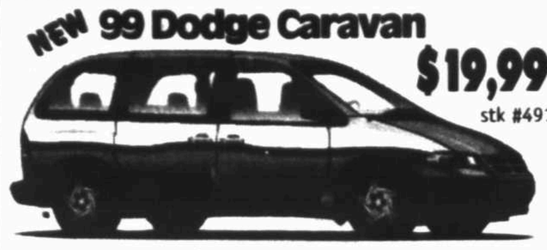

Optional safety/security equipment includes: full range traction control ($175, also part of $715 Prestige Package on Limited), and OnStar service, the dealer installed "travel companion" which links driver and LeSabre to a live, trained advisor to help with a vast wealth of support covering some 250 service categories. This support is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days each year.

Retail pricing for the 2000 Buick LeSabre ranges from $22,890 for the Custom (same price as the '99 model!) to $26,695 for the Limited ($475 more than '99). Destination charge adds $615. Supplies of this all-new Buick are improving — be sure to check with a local dealer to select one.

314 Clerical Help Wanted

*CUSTOMER SERVICE/ COLLECTION
Flexibility

Are you looking for an office type job that can be a little bit flexible with hours? Do you love talking to people on the phone? Do you possess a minimum of basic computer skills? Then check this job out.

We are currently looking for a person who can make 60+ outbound calls per day to existing customers and log the information into the computer system. The main focus will be to encourage customers to make payment, thereby continuing their service with our company. This position is not a hard collection position, but rather a soft collection with more of a slant toward sales/ customer service.

We would prefer applicants with a friendly and outgoing nature, but aggressive enough to collect payment. The applicant should have at least 3+ years experience in an office environment and be able to work on his or her own with light supervision. This is a temporary position with a strong possibility of turning into a permanent position for the right person. The successful applicant will work 40 hours per week, Monday through Friday. The daytime hours are flexible, but the candidate must be able to work from 4:00 pm- 8:00 pm daily. The hourly rate of pay will be $7.00- $8.00 per hour depending on experience.

If you possess the skills, attitude and tenacity that this job requires, fax your resume to: TAMI at 682-6999. Make sure to include daytime and evening phone numbers. (Interviews to start immediately). No phone calls please.

Thousands of items including outdoor furniture, yard decorations, Colorado black slate for fish pond trim or step stones, river boulders, some antiques, primitives and collectibles, costume jewelry, old foreign coin collection, a few prints, paintings, lamps, afghans, beautiful Christmas decor new and old, 33 RPMs of 40's- 60's, small appliances, many decorator items (a few of estate quality), plush rugs for bedrooms and bath, clothing of larger sizes, shoes, three types of live doves, Southwest decorative items, novelties, dishes and kitchen items galore, exerciser, power blower, tools, picture frames and more plus a table for the men.

We're reducing our library by 400 volumes including 100 books on Texana. Other categories: humor, art, archaeology, gardening, World War II, oil, historical, travel, self- improvement, inspirational, Hispanic topics, cooking, bios, health, old reference sets. Most hard cover and many larger, high quality books on varied topics. All are in mint condition.

Our authentic American Indian relics are a result of condensing a collection found over 30 years. Items include arrowpoints hide, scrapers, knives, bone tools, choppers, hammerstones, metates and manos. Most are in imperfect condition but of value to beginners and for study.

Price range goes from boxes of small items for him/ her and the home for 10¢, 25¢ and 50¢ to a large bolo- pendant of turquoise and silver for $200 and a large framed original illustration (circa 1930's) for $350. Much may be priced too low for this market but we want to downsize possessions.

We're South of Bluebird and West of Garfield, just past the loop.
