Showdown Near On Rights Bill At Atlanta Cafe

U.S. Justice Hugo Black Refuses to Intervene in Case

By United Press International

A possible showdown shaped up today between Negroes and an Atlanta restaurant owner who defied the civil rights bill and chased Negroes away with a pistol.

A U.S. Supreme Court justice Monday refused to intervene against enforcement of the public accommodations section of the law before a final decision has been made on the law's constitutionality.

An enforcement order from a special three-judge federal court became effective today.

The restaurant owner, Lester Maddox, stood by his vow to "never integrate," but said he would not close the doors to his Pickrick restaurant until Negroes show up for service.

Maddox said he expected such a move today but William Alexander, attorney who represented three Negro ministers in the case, said his clients had no plans of going to the Pickrick.

In another part of the same court action — the first court tests of the civil rights law — Moreton Rolleston, owner of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, said he would comply with the decision of Justice Hugo Black and the special court and accept Negroes as guests at his motel.

The suit against Maddox was instituted after three Negroes who said they were preachers "and everybody knows how preachers like fried chicken" showed up at the Pickrick on July 3, the day after President Johnson signed the civil rights bill.

The Pickrick specializes in fried chicken.

They were chased away by Maddox who pulled a pistol and a number of his customers who beat on the Negroes' car with ax handles.

Bullfighter Out of Step, Misses Toro, Stabs Own Instep

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spain's "Beatle Bullfighter," El Cordobes, said today he gored himself — by plunging his sword into his right foot instead of into the bull.

Cordobes, 28-year-old matador with a Beatle haircut, is the highest paid bullfighter in Spanish history.

He said the accident happened during a fight in Bayonne, France.

"The bull flipped me into the air and as I fell I felt the sword spike into my right foot," he said. "I felt a sharp pain, but I killed that bull and later I killed my second bull of the afternoon.

El Cordobes said the wound would keep him out of action for a week.

MIG Aircraft Flown In After US Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China has moved a small number of Soviet-built jet fighters into North Viet Nam, it was reported authoritatively today.

Sources here said 12 to 15 of the MIG airplanes were flown into North Viet Nam after the U. S. Navy conducted its air strike last week in retaliation for Red torpedo boat attacks on U. S. destroyers.

The MIGs may have been drawn from a force estimated at about 100 on Red China's Hainan Island, or from lightly reinforced units in South China.

So far they have made no menacing moves, nor are they presently regarded as a threat to the far superior American aircraft aboard carriers in the South China Sea and at bases in South Viet Nam.

While intelligence here verifies South Vietnamese claims that Red Chinese aircraft have arrived in Communist North Viet Nam, there apparently is no supporting evidence that Chinese ground forces have moved in.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said last Thursday he thought it "probable that the Communist Chinese will introduce some combat aircraft into North Viet Nam." He said he assumed Hanoi, having no combat planes, "would make such a request and that it would be answered."

No official guesses have been made as to who would pilot the MIG fighters if they were thrown into combat. Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said Saturday he would not know about that, but added that North Vietnamese pilots had been receiving training to fly the aircraft.

Movement of the jets into North Viet Nam was seen here as a ready means for the Communist Chinese to make a quick show of support for Hanoi. Peking said Sunday it had the right to act "in every possible way" to help Hanoi after the retaliatory U.S. air strike on North Vietnamese bases.

Cease-Fire Agreement On Cyprus Being Kept

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—The United Nations said today the cease-fire between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities was being "generally observed" except for isolated and often accidental incidents.

An official statement said Turkish air force F100 Supersabre jet fighters today reconnoitered the weekend battle area in northwestern Cyprus but took no offensive action.

The planes flew over the battle area around Kokkina, a Turkish Cypriot coastal village surrounded by Greek Cypriot troops. Turkish jets had bombed and strafed the Greek positions there for four straight days starting last Friday.

Turkey said Monday night it would refrain from further air raids unless new ground assaults were launched against Kokkina.

Some Ground Fire

(In Ankara, a Turkish Foreign Office spokesman said Turkish jets reconnoitered the Kokkina area, noted some "not very important" exchanges of fire on the ground and took no offensive action.)

(In London, the Cyprus high commission said the Greek Cypriot government had protested to the United Nations about today's reconnaissance flights.)

The U.N. confirmed today that Turkish jets Monday strafed the Greek Cypriot port of Polis, 55 miles northwest of Nicosia. A spokesman said it was estimated that 10 persons were wounded and five cars, four houses, a movie theater and one cafe were damaged.

Holding Urgent Talks

Greek Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kypiranou left by plane for Athens today for what he called "talks of an urgent character" with Greek officials.

The Greek Cypriot government declined to comment officially on the Turkish demand that the cease-fire be conditional on a Greek Cypriot withdrawal from captured Turkish Cypriot villages in the northwest.

But high Greek Cypriot sources said Monday night it was "psychologically impossible" to meet the Turkish demands.

Poverty War Bill On Way to Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, handing President Johnson a juicy election year victory, today passed and sent to the White House his sweeping $947.5 million "war on poverty" program.

The Senate passed the House-approved bill by voice vote.

The legislation, an essential element in the President's election plans, will embark the government on a broad program of financial—assistance to areas where pockets of poverty persist amidst general prosperity.

A key provision will establish youth camps to train young men and women in new skills and give them outdoor conservation experience. The bill also will provide aid to small businessmen and farmers to underwrite local anti-poverty projects.

It is certain to be an issue in the presidential election campaign.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee for President, opposed the bill when it first passed the Senate July 23, as a hodge-podge of discredited programs resurrected from the New Deal 1930's. Goldwater signed a blistering Senate GOP condemnation of the bill as being designed "to achieve the single objective of securing votes."

Johnson has called it a vital program to help those living in want while most Americans prosper. Democrats say one-fifth of the nation's population lives in poverty where the "doors of opportunity are closed."

The major stumbling block was a loyalty oath proviso added by the House before it cleared the bill over some Republican resistance last Saturday by a vote of 226 to 184.

The Dixie-sponsored provision would require persons to sign affidavits disclaiming any affiliations with Communist or subversive groups and pledging loyalty to the United States as a condition for receiving aid for anti-poverty projects.

It was the major difference between the House bill and a similar measure identical in dollar total passed July 23 by the Senate.

Billie Sol Faces New Appeal or Starting Sentence

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —One-time farm tycoon Billie Sol Estes today faced the prospect of either filing another appeal to his mail fraud and conspiracy convictions or beginning to serve a 15-year jail term.

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Monday refused to reverse the convictions.

The three-judge panel ruled that evidence was sufficient to warrant the conviction and the trial court was correct in refusing Estes' plea for a directed verdict of acquittal.

City Hears Proposal On TV Cable System

A request to operate a TV cable system which will bring multiple - channel viewing to Pampa was presented to the City Commission today.

Amos Page, representing the See-More Corp. of Wellington, asked the city to grant his company a franchise to construct a micro-wave relay station which will bring perfect TV reception to customers.

The charge for the service would be around $7 per month with no installation charge.

Page told the commission that within a year multiple - channel TV viewing would be possible.

He said customers would be able to get stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and as far away as the West Coast.

He said cable customers would be able to get a TV station or picture on nearly all of the present channels.

The city took no action this morning, however, said the request would be studied and a decision made at a later date.

In other city business today, Commissioners quickly waded through routine items including the opening of bids for a 10-inch pump and motor for the city water department.

Action on awarding the bids was delayed until next week, pending a study of four submitted bids.

Commissioners paid monthly bills in the amount of $23,389 and appointed Carl M. Wright to the position of park superintendent.

Autopsy Remains Secret on Trio In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The results of an official state autopsy on the bodies of three slain civil rights workers remained a closely guarded secret today, one week after the badly decomposed remains were found buried under a 20-foot earthen dam.

Neshoba County Attorney W. Rayford Jones said a summary of the autopsy report "probably" would be made public eventually but declined to set a tentative date.

The FBI continued its painstaking investigation into the deaths of the three young men whose bodies were found last Tuesday on a farm four miles from Philadelphia, Miss.

The FBI steadfastly has refused to comment on the progress of the investigation or on a weekend statement by President Johnson that an early break in the case was expected. There were reports that failure to find a murder weapon was holding up arrests.

Coroner Cecil Jackson said at Philadelphia he had not received the autopsy report but would reconvene the coroner's jury and "try to reach a verdict" as soon as the report comes in. He said he didn't know the reason for the delay.

Jones said he was still awaiting results of laboratory tests made by the FBI before releasing the autopsy. The FBI issued its usual "no comment" to this, but reliable sources said there was no direct connection between the lab tests and the autopsy.

An earlier, unofficial report said the state autopsy would show all three workers were shot but it made no mention of beatings.

Fake Colonel Under Arrest For Swindling

CHICAGO (UPI)—Investigators today looked into a wide-ranging fraud scheme by which they charged a phony "ex-colonel" swindled the nation-wide Disabled American Veterans (DAV) out of more than $2 million.

Harold Sager, 45, a New York native who operated out of Chicago as a solicitor for the veterans group, was charged with witholding profits from the sale of donated material ranging from brassieres to soybean plants.

Illinois Atty. Gen. William G. Clark capped a six-month investigation by announcing Sager's arrest Monday. Clark said the alleged scheme "was one of the meanest and most miserable rackets I have ever witnessed."

"He was defrauding men who had been injured and disabled in the defense of their country and their widows and orphans who, in a great many cases, are in desperate need of help," Clark said.

South Vietnamese Plan Raid Shelters

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government today announced plans to dig 500 public air raid shelters capable of protecting 400,000 residents of Saigon from possible Communist air attacks.

City Prefect Duong Ngoc Lam, announcing the plan at a public meeting at city hall, also asked citizens to construct air raid shelters in their own back yards.

Some officials in Saigon, which is known as the "Paris of the Orient," have criticized residents of the capital for being gay and light hearted despite years of warfare against Communist guerrillas.

Premier Nguyen Khanh declared last winter, "people are dying in the countryside but only twisting in Saigon."

Lam said the government is trying to create an atmosphere of "real emergency" with its recent air raid drills.

The drills started after U.S. planes bombarded North Vietnamese torpedo boat installations in retaliation for two Communist attacks on American destroyers in international waters.

They fitted in with government efforts to bring the war effort home to the pleasure-loving residents of Saigon.

Lam criticized the reaction of the capital's citizens to the first practice air raid drill Sunday. He said traffic started moving before the all clear sounded.

Lam said people crowded around first aid teams and fire fighters "as if it were all a play." He called for "a more active discipline."

Suspect Awaits Denver Police On Four Counts

A 21-year-old ex - convict remains in Gray County jail today awaiting extradition to Denver on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, car theft, burglary and parole violation.

Thomas L. Lange gave FBI officers and Sheriff Rufe Jordan a statement yesterday admitting breaking away from officers in Denver, stealing a car and driving it to Pampa.

Lange was shot by Denver Deputy John Dolan during an escape from a car while being transferred from the Denver jail to a hospital.

Dolan fired six shots at Lange. One of the bullets lodged in his right side.

Lange told officers he went to a hotel room in Denver and removed the .38 caliber bullet himself.

He said he then stole a car and drove through Kansas and New Mexico before coming to Pampa.

He was arrested by Highway Patrolmen Vernon Cawthon and Paul Geiser Sunday night at Fleetwood's Cafe, 1½ miles west of Pampa.

The patrolmen said when Lange approached them they thought he was drunk. It was later learned he was under the influence of Benzedrine, taken to ease the pain of the wound.

Four-State Hunt On for Missing Magazine Sellers

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) —Authorities in four states today sought seven young magazine sellers, two of them girls, who disappeared from a motel near here Sunday.

The sheriff's office identified one of the group as Arlen Thiel, 25, Chicago, who was sought for auto theft. Deputies [illegible] was believed to be armed.

Missing with Thiel were Deanna Blakesley, 20, Traverse City, Mich., Mark Cline, 19, and Bert Edwards, 20, of Indianapolis, Larry Dickerson, 21, Harbor Beach, Calif., Sue McMahon, 20, Boston and Robert Grovier, 22, New York.

"There's the possibility these people were kidnaped," said Sgt. James Mastran. "We are deeply concerned for their safety."

Lt. Orlando DeLullo said the sheriff's office was "awaiting word from another city" where the car the seven were last known to be using was reported.

Missing with the group were company checks valued at $450 and about $300 in cash.

DeLullo declined additional comment on the case other than to say kidnap had not been confirmed in the group's disappearance.

Dallas Newsman Speaks in Gotham

Editor Decries 'Shackles of Censorship'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Felix R. McKnight, executive vice president and editor of the Dallas Times Herald, said today the "shackles of censorship" must be resisted by the American press, even though those who would impose them would do so in an honest attempt to prevent violations of justice.

McKnight, addressing the 87th convention of the American Bar Association, agreed with critical jurists that ways must be found "of making certain that in no way will those who watch events in the name of the public interfere with justice or the public order."

He added, however, "neither should we, as servants of the people, yield to a suppressing hand that would, in the name of justice, impair the function of an informative press. . ."

McKnight emphasized that the responsibility for providing impartial coverage of courtroom trials and other controversial events must be born by the press itself—not imposed by outside forces.

"The American newspaper's reporting and editorial judgment are not perfect," he said. "But the remedy is not to return to prohibitions against publishing, to printing only by license from the court.

Rather, it is to deepen and carry forward the tradition of newspaper responsibility."

McKnight declared that "no legislated law, no canons, no codes of principles or standards can quell the desire of free peoples for knowledge imperative to the retention of their freedoms."

He also stated that others, along with the press, share the blame for occasionally providing prejudicial information in the form of "leaks, and rather official leaks."

"The sources of such prejudicial information . . . may be a calculated leak to the press, sometimes from highly authoritative and responsibile officers of the court, of information not yet proved or even admitted as evidence in court but definitely prejudicial to the rights of an accused if he ever gets into court," he said.

"This being the case, an indictment for contributing to an erosion of justice in this country should include our society, along with merely one of its elements, the free press."

Foreign News Commentary

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Nam crisis has pinpointed a long-festering sore point in the Atlantic alliance.

It is the nagging fear of some of America's allies, notably France, of being dragged by the United States some day into a world conflict in which they have no direct interest and without even being consulted.

The United States air strike against Communist North Viet Nam brought the grievance to a head again.

An almost immediate reaction of many allied officials, and particularly French officials, was: "Why weren't we consulted?"

The fact President Johnson sent a message to President Charles de Gaulle of France and other allied leaders, and that the United States called a special meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) permanent council to explain reasons for the air strike, did not change this feeling.

The messages did not reach Europe until more than 12 hours after the attack was launched and none of America's European allies — except, apparently, Great Britain —was asked for an advance green light.

As one French official commented privately, "this could easily start a third world war in which we would be involved. Yet no one asked our opinion beforehand."

Another equally sour, though unofficial, French comment was, "we may be allies, but we aren't satellites of the United States."

The incident is certain to give a boost to long standing demands by NATO member countries for an improved system of advance consultation on major global policy matters.

It also can be counted on to confirm De Gaulle once again in his conviction that France must have her own national nuclear striking force and that the Europeans must gradually replace the United States in the NATO driver's seat.

De Gaulle argues that possession of a national nuclear force not only is an additional safeguard for France against Communist attack but also enables her to decide when and if she should let herself be committed by actions of her allies.

And he can be counted on to press for a constantly larger voice for the Europeans in running NATO.

Single Panel OK'd On Mental Health

AUSTIN (UPI) — A 112-member committee on mental health was on record Monday as favoring a single agency to guide the state's mental health services.

The committee met in Austin over the week-end and recommended four plans for the 59th Legislature to consider. They were:

1. Placing the whole program under the Board for Texas hospitals and Special Schools, which now administers state mental hospitals and clinics.

2. Placing the program entirely under the State Health Department, which now has some mental health services.

3. Creating a State Department of Mental Health with its own governing board.

4. Combining health and welfare activities under a single agency and eliminating the present state welfare department.

Dr. Francis J. Gerty of Chicago, former director of the Illinois Mental Health Department, favored a separate agency. He said Illinois created a department such as that by taking mental health services away from its Department of Public Welfare.

Warning Issued Demonstrators By Federal Judge

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A federal appeals court warned a group of civil rights demonstrators Monday that the rights of free speech and free assembly is "not a license to trample on the rights of others."

"They must be exercised responsibly and without depriving others of their rights, the enjoyment of which are equally as precious," the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals said in ruling on a case that grew out of racial violence last year at Danville, Va.

The court, in a 3-2 decision, specifically:

—Refused to rule on the constitutionality of a Danville ordinance restricting parades and picketing;

—Sent 105 cases of arrests under the ordinance back to the state courts for trial;

—Refused to take up the question of whether five persons arrested under the ordinance may collect unemployment benefits;

—Dissolved its own temporary injunction which ordered the city to stop prosecuting persons arrested under the ordinance.

Navy Pilot Second Captured by Viets

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI) — Just seven months ago life was smiling on Everett J. Alvarez.

He was 27, a naval aviator and on his honeymoon.

Communist North Viet Nam has reported that Alvarez is a prisoner. If so, he is the first American to fall directly into the hands of the North Vietnamese during the American phase of the long Indochina war.

An American free-lance pilot with the picturesque name of "Earthquake" McGoon was shot down by Vietnamese Communists during their war with France. The Communists said he died in the crash. His body was never returned.

Second Captured Pilot

Alvarez would be the second U.S. naval pilot to be captured by Communists in Indochina. Lt. Charles Klusmann of San Diego was shot down and captured by the Communist Pathet Lao during a reconnaissance flight over Laos June 6.

At least 11 American servicemen are known to be held by the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam. Communist China has four Americans in its prisons serving out long terms for espionage.

Alvarez, who comes from San Jose, Calif., was one of the U.S. naval aviators who took part in the air strike against North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases on orders of President Johnson on Wednesday.

His jet fighter was one of the two shot down by anti-aircraft fire. Today came the announcement that he is a prisoner.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced that steps would be taken to secure his release.

Prayed For Capture

Alvarez' wife, Tangee, told reporters in San Jose that she "prayed all night Everett would be the one taken prisoner." The second pilot is believed lost at sea.

Alvarez is believed to have ejected. The North Vietnamese did not say whether he was injured.

LONELY MONUMENT — This lonely Texas Historical Marker, located in Gray County near Lake McClellan, marks the area where one of Texas most fierce Indian battles was fought on a crisp autumn day in 1874. During the fight, two white girls—captured by the Cheyenne in Kansas—were rescued by the U. S. Cavalry. Inset shows inscription on marker.

Monument Recalls Days Of Early Indian Raids

By RAY RODGERS

Tales of Indian battles and stories of early day settlers and their conflict with Indian tribes of the Panhandle still make Gray County a favorite hunting place for historians and weekend hobbyists looking for Indian battle relics.

One spot that holds special interest is the area around McClellan Lake, 25 miles south of Pampa.

The area was a favorite camping spot for huge tribes of Cheyenne Indians during 1870-80.

In 1874, a company of U. S. Cavalrymen were sent into Gray County to keep the Indians under surveillence until Fort Elliot could be built in Wheeler County to protect the settlers.

On Nov. 8, the troops received word that a band of Cheyenne Indians had captured two white girls during a raiding party in Kansas. What followed was one of the largest Indian battles that took place during 1874 in the Panhandle.

A small band of troops under Lt. Fank Baldwin sujprised the Cheyenne and rescued the girls.

One of the girls Julia German of California, now Julia Brooks, returned to Gray County during 1952 and picked out the site where she and her sister were rescued.

A monument has been erected near Lake McClellan relating the incident.

It is one of several monuments erected over the Panhandle paying tribute to the soldiers who died fighting the Indians.

Only one monument is known to be erected in tribute to the Indians.

It is found in Hutchinson County and was erected by Indians themselves.

It reads, "God bless our forefathers . . . they fought and died for what they loved the most. . . their land."

Former POW in U. S. Now Cattle Breeder

CLOVIS, N.M. (UPI)—It's a long way from a grimy prisoner of war compound in barren Tunisia to a prime cattle breeding farm on the flat plains of Eastern New Mexico—but a former Italian Air Force medical officer has made the transition.

What's more, Dr. Michele de Maio is well on his way to establishing what one American Angus Assn. official called "one of the finest Angus herds in the nation" and has given his herd an international flavor by importing a famed Irish bull.

Last Saturday Dr. de Maio put the sleek 1,785-pound bull on display at a field day held by the New Mexico Angus Assn. at the 1,000-acre Eastern New Mexico farm operated by de Maio and his father-in-law L. T. Hanes.

As cattlemen eyed the huge bull with envy, Dr. de Maio told a little of how he came to this country.

A descendant of an aristocratic Italian line which has produced some 18 physicians since 1855, Dr. de Maio surrendered to the Allies in Tunisia in 1943 along with a great many of his fellow countrymen.

Prisoner in Texas

He was placed in a prisoner of war camp at Hereford, Tex., only 60 miles east of Clovis near Amarillo, Tex., and became interested in the sprawling agriculturally rich high plains of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

After the war he applied for American citizenship, receiving it in 1949, and came that same year to New Mexico to practice medicine.

CO-ORDINATED LOOK — Varsity stripes in eight school color combinations turn up in bedspreads, blankets, and towels. These give a room a co-ordinated look even when the bed isn't made. The coed handy witha needle can turn her towel into a laundry bag, study toga (see above) or a poncho.

Prepare Well for Trek to College

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It's almost time to start down the lists again. No sooner do we file camping lists than school lists rise up to demand attention.

If you have a college-bound youngster, the list of what - to-take is long and explicit. Youngsters who live at home and commute to college daily will have lists, too.

As a rule, all personal possessions should be marked. In the past, this meant sewing on name tapes till you were glassy-eyed. Then, iron-on tape made their debut and proved satisfactory on some items.

But the ease and swiftness of the new marking pens or felt-tipped markers endear them to the last-minute rush artist like myself. You know, if you print the name carefully on a hemline (or the bottom of an ankle sock) it doesn't look too messy and it does last "the life of the garment."

Besides clothes, the coed will want a bright room with pinups, stuffed animals, alma mater pennants and any little kookie fad in high esteem. She'll be guided in part by correspondence from fellow classmates at the school, by department store college boards, by local students.

Ready to help the cause along are some new home furnishings. School-color stripes show up in bedspreads, blankets and towels, nationally distributed. Dormitory roommates can co-ordinate their room plans by letter before they even meet.

Dear Abby....

Modesty One Thing--Idiocy Something Else

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband was raised in a family where modesty was the eleventh commandment.

About a year ago, he developed a hernia which kept getting worse. After begging him to see a doctor, he finally went. The doctor said he needed an operation right away.

When my husband found out there would be a surgical nurse there, he said he would rather die than have the operation. He went to four other doctors and they all told him the same thing, and none of them could promise him that a nurse wouldn't have any part in caring for him. My husband said nurses are okay for women and children, but not for a man with a hernia.

This was the first time he had been to a doctor since he took his physical for World War II. He is worrying me sick. Can you help me?

MODEST'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Modesty is one thing — idiocy is another. Ask one of those four doctors to assure your husband that nurses couldn't care less about a patient's body. And he should cut out the foolishness and head for the hospital.

DEAR ABBY: I would like some information on how long a person should wait after the death of her husband (whom she loved dearly) before calling a gentleman friend who asked her to ring him up as soon as she felt like it.

PROPER IN PENSACOLA

DEAR PROPER: Just long enough so that she won't feel guilty when she dials.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when another couple you know quite well call you up and say they "might" be over? Sometimes they show up and sometimes they don't. There have been times when we would have gone some place ourselves, but we stayed home waiting for them.

D. and S.

DEAR D. and S.: Next time they call, tell them you want to know definitely if they plan to come because you "might not" be home.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of the topless bathing suits?

DALE

DEAR DALE: I think they're tops — for boys!

No matter what you do, the approach of another birthday. Rather, he should look forward to it as toward a new year during which to take stock of what he has accomplished and to make plans for the future.

But how can we fight the "tyranny of birthdays"? How can we keep from letting birthdays get us down?

There are several sound and sure ways. The first is to live for today and tomorrow, and not look longingly to the past.

The second is to replace outgrown interests with new ones. This should be a conscious and calculated effort. If you've had to give up tennis, then take up golf. If you've had to give up golf, what about gardening? Don't ever let an interest go without replacing it with another.

The same is true of friends. Nothing is more pitiful than the old person who has few friends left, because through the years he never bothered to replace the friends who moved away, grew indifferent, or died.

There's no reason why an older person can't have as many friends as a young person. But friends have to be replaced as you go along. You can't wait until you are old and suddenly make a new circle of friends.

And you should keep busy always. If some jobs grow too hard, look for easier ways of doing them, or look for new jobs.

Clothes Poll

By HELEN HENNESSY

It's all right for song writers to claim that heaven should be thanked for little girls. But mom and dad might want to qualify that a bit.

They know their dainty offspring are a force to be reckoned with where the budget is concerned.

Parents of teen-age girls can tell from their dwindling checking accounts that their young darlings have a consuming and expensive interest in fashion — an interest that has been catered to and surveyed by experts.

And now the people who design and sell clothes have set their sights on pre - teeners. These youngsters are 18 million strong as compared to the 15½ million in the 15-19 age group and they have definite tastes and opinions.

Television and the fashion pages of newspapers have played a big role in awakening young people to the fact that clothes and grooming can be a way of life. And they're clamoring for the same independence in selecting their wardrobes as is given to their older sisters.

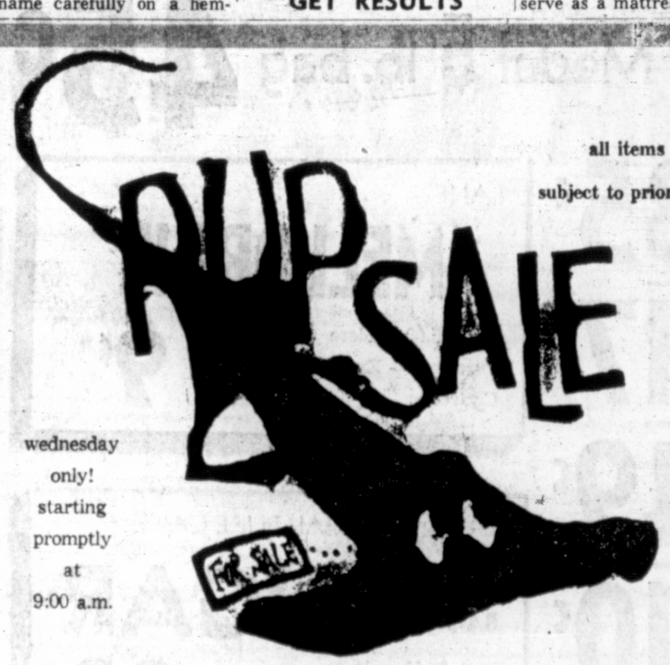

Eli Rousso, whose well-known sportswear firm (Russ Togs) has done considerable research on the likes and dislikes of this age group and its economic impact, had this to say:

"They're a new force to be reckoned with. They're hep.

"They want independence, and now is the time to give it to them. They're young enough to guide but old enough to absorb values that can last them all their lives.

"Let them have a hand in selecting their clothes. Clothing means a lot to the pre-adolescent. It's why fads are born, why tomboys turn into young ladies overnight."

It's also why a supervised charge account starting at around 12 or a clothing allowance as early as 10 isn't as revolutionary as it sounds.

Hairbows Out in Paris Fashion

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—The most sensational Paris fashion to sweep the world last spring was the Chanel coiffure with a bow in back.

But its creator decreed today it's out-of-style.

The Chanel hair - do — hair caught back with a floppy bow at the nape of the neck a la Tom Jones or George Washington—has turned the most female heads the world over since the Italian "beehive" style of eight years ago.

Nonetheless, the coiffure has been banished from its birthplace, the Paris salon of their stylist Rene Goujean. The reason: it's too popular.

"It's finished! It's passe," announced Goujean, who coiffed the models in bows for the spring-summer fashion show at the house of designer Chanel.

"Everybody's wearing it, and when everybody wears a style, it doesn't last long."

The coiffure was born accidentally in the elegant, Directors-style salon of Goujean.

Goujean's young blonde daughter, Arlette, who works as a hairdresser in the salon, fixed her hair with a back bow on an impulse one day. An executive from the House of Chanel happened to drop in and asked for her own hair to be pulled back like Arlette's.

Mlle. Chanel spied the style on her employe and ordered it for her pretty mannequins.

Since Chanel is perhaps the most revered designer in Paris, everybody from rival designers to ordinary shopgirls watches her collection as if through a microscope. Each tiny change can affect style circles around the world.

The day after Chanel's show, Goujean's customers rushed into his shop to demand the hair-do. He quickly had bows made to be sold with a shampoo and set.

Rival hair stylists came out with their own versions. Paris hat shops cashed in on the fad with huge bows of silk and velvet.

Within two weeks the fashion was a street style. Department stores here sell bows as cheaply as one dollar in every color from wild plaids to white lame for evening.

In the Paris subway you see three out of five young girls wearing back hair bows. Some try chiffon in pale colors. Most stick to the original Chanel style of black silk or wide grosgrain ribbon.

Through photographs of the Chanel show, the hair style conquered other lands. Women wear it in New York, Stockholm, Rome, London and other cities.

But since any shopgirl can imitate the style easily at home, the elite fashion setters are abandoning it. Some hair salons here are introducing variations.

At the Goujean salon, the creator sighs sadly if a customer orders "the Chanel hair-do."

The Chanel mannequins who have their hair done at Goujean's still wear the style for the fashion parade. But the rich Paris debutantes in Chanel suits, who are Goujean's devoted customers, have gone back to his earlier style of straight, slightly "teased" hair curving, 1920-style, over the cheek.

To take the ladies' minds off the back bows, Goujean created another style for summer: false bangs. The idea is to cut your hair short for the summer life, and then for evening add the bangs attached to a wide head band.

Frick Will Stay Until Replaced

CHICAGO (UPI) — Major league baseball executives, already assured that Commissioner Ford Frick will remain in office until they choose his successor, turn today to other matters to wind up the annual joint summer meeting.

Frick, who last week announced he would retire at the end of his present contract, Sept. 21, 1965, agreed Monday to remain until after the 1965 World Series, an extension of his term approximately two weeks.

Meanwhile, Frick and Presidents Warren Giles of the National League and Joe Cronin of the American League were to report on "the functions of the office of the commissioner in the light of changing times."

The report will go to the Executive Council and major league clubs prior to the December baseball meetings for consideration then. Pending the report, no one shall be authorized to "screen" a candidate for the job.

The leagues also learned that their television committee within 30 days will submit to TV networks and ad agencies a proposal for a Monday night "Game of the Week" in which all 20 teams would share equally.

Four games would be played each Monday and two televised, one in the East and one in the West. The other games would be "stand-bys" in case of rainouts.

Independent Baseball

The City Slickers edged the Bandits 12-11 for their fifth victory in a row last night.

The Bandits led from the fourth inning until the eighth, when a five-run burst gave the Slickers their winning runs. A two-run rally in the ninth fell short for the Bandits.

Bill Norris was the winning pitcher. Mike Stone lost.

Bill Thomas homered twice for the Slickers, the only round-trippers in the game. He also added a double to make him three for four at the plate.

Eugene Madrid was five for five, including a double and a triple, for the Bandits. Alonso Gomez had three singles and a triple in four at bats, also for the losers.

Three double plays by the City Slickers made Norris' job easier.

The two teams play again tomorrow night.

NFL Teams Count Injuries After Games

By United Press International

The aftermath of the National Football League's first weekend of exhibition games brought reactions running from jubilation to woe throughout the NFL training camp circuit as the teams counted their injuries, made squad cuts and regrouped for their games this weekend.

The New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals appeared to be the hardest hit by injuries as Allie Sherman lost the services of flanker Frank Gifford, and ends Del Shofner and Aaron Thomas due to pulled leg muscles. Each is likely to miss Saturday's game against the Packers.

Wally Lemm counted flanker Bobby Joe Conrad among his injured after St. Louis upset Green Bay, 20-7 in New Orleans. Lemm praised his defensive unit of Joe Robb, Don Brumm, Luke Owens and Sam Silas, for keeping the pressure on Packers quarterback Bart Starr.

Skins Welcome Taylor

The Washington Redskins welcomed All-Star hero Charlie Taylor, a halfback, into their Carlisle, Pa., training camp after they dropped a 28-27 squeaker to Detroit without him.

Taylor, voted the outstanding player in last Friday's All-Star Game at Chicago, was picked first by Washington in this year's NFL draft and is being counted on by coach Bill McPeak to beef up the Skins' running game, which proved to be a glaring weakness against the Lions.

Cards Ride High On White's Bat

By United Press International

The hottest bat in the major leagues belongs to Bill White.

A non-starter in this year's All-Star contest although named to the team, the St. Louis Cardinal first baseman has boosted his average from a mediocre .263 at the mid-season break to a highly respectable .306, up 43 points and earned at a time when averages do not fluctuate greatly because of an increasing number of at-bats.

The 30-year-old ex-Giant, acquired by the Cardinals in March 1959 for pitchers Sam Jones and Don Choate, extended his consecutive game hitting streak to 18 Monday night with a first inning run-producing single as he helped St. Louis to a 2-1 victory over his former teammates.

Setting Hot Pace

In the last 18 contests, White, who played every inning of the 1963 season and has missed only two games this year, is 34 for 73, a blistering .466 clip.

The 6-foot, 190-pounder wasted no time carving a niche for himself in the record books with a home run in his first trip to the plate in the majors, which incidentally was in Busch Stadium, St. Louis, a feat the Cardinals obviously remembered when searching for a first baseman three years later.

White's first inning single scored fleet-footed Lou Brock who had singled and sped to third on Giant starter Don Herbel's wild pickoff attempt. The decisive run was driven in by winning pitcher Bob Gibson (10-9), whose single brought home Tim McCarver in the second inning.

The Giants were not as successful in scoring men from second base on hits.

Nailed At Home

Catcher Tom Haller was nailed at home by rightfielder Mike Shannon in the fifth and leftfielder Brock cut down Orlando Cepeda at home when he neglected to slide in the eighth inning.

Jim Hart's 19th homer of the year in the seventh was the only extra base hit of the contest as the Giants slipped three games behind league-leading Philadelphia.

In the only other major league game, right-hander Bob Purkey breezed to a four-hit, 7-2 victory over Los Angeles after the Reds staked him to a 4-0 first inning lead. Steve Boros had three RBI and Frank Robinson two while rookie outfielder Mel Queen stroked three of Cincinnati's 10 hits.

Randall Seeking Revenge Tonight

HOUSTON (UPI) — Garland (Rip) Randall, of Houston, meets Manuel Gonzalez, of Odessa, tonight in a scheduled 10-round fight that has all the earmarks of a "real" grudge fight.

They have so-called grudge fights every week at the local wrestling arena, but these two fighters just don't like each other.

Randall, the world's fourth-ranking welterweight, has never beaten Gonzalez. The best he has done is a draw after losing to the Odessa welterweight.

MONTREAL (UPI) — Roy Emerson of Australia won the Canadian tennis championship Sunday when he overcame compatriot Fred Stolle, 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Werblin Rakes All-Star Game as Too Dangerous

By United Press International

It was a day for licking wounds and Monday morning quarterbacking throughout the American Football League camps after the weekend slate of exhibition tilts.

"Seasoned" rookies, who saw their first pro action over the weekend, greeted the new crop of prize rookies who just made camp after Friday night's college All-Star game with the Chicago Bears.

New York Jet owner Sonny Werblin had some caustic comments on this annual training lag Monday.

"Today, owners are bidding high for top draft talent," he said, "only to wind up with money down the drain when their fine freshman prospect is crippled by injury either in drills for the All-Star game or in the games themselves."

Could End Classic

Opposition from other quarters may mean the end of the annual summer classic.

Werblin's comments were made with a note of relief as two of the Jets' much-hailed rookies, fullback Matt Snell and linebacker Ralph Baker, got through Friday's game unscathed.

Also none the worse for wear was John Morris, the Boston Patriots' No. 3 draft choice, who checked into camp after a fine performance in Friday's game. Morris now plunges into competition with Bob Dentel for the starting offensive center position on the Boston roster.

The Buffalo Bills got their first look at three college All-Stars as the team went through light workouts after an exhibition victory over the New York Jets, 26-13, Saturday night.

Coach Lou Saban welcomed Michigan's Tom Keating, Penn State's Harrison Rosdahl and Bobby Smith of North Texas State. Saban cut four players Monday to make room for the new men. The Bills released Missouri fullback Paul Underhill, University of Detroit linebacker Bob Koval, Georgia Tech halfback Ray Menheim, and line-backer Bob Pelkington, who played basketball at Xavier, Ohio.

Four Chargers Hurt

While the Bills came away from their exhibition game in good physical shape, the San Diego Chargers' 43-20 win over the Denver Broncos cost them the services of four men. Rookie end and linebacker Ken Dill is expected to miss most of the season as a result of a fractured ankle suffered during the game. Defensive back George Blair will be out three weeks with a head injury, as will defensive tackle Ernie Ladd with a dislocated shoulder. Rookie defensive back Leslie Duncan's fractured jaw will keep him sidelined for an indefinite period.

U.S. Has Chance to Keep Its Nose Out

There's a fascinating opportunity shaping up for the western world and notably the United States of America. That opportunity is a brand-new breakthrough in the process of minding our own business. Whether or not we will take advantage of this opportunity remains to be seen.

When George Washington was president of the infant United States, he cautioned us to avoid foreign entanglements, observing that nations in Europe were nations of eternal war. He did not counsel isolation. Rather, he indicated that our function, as a free people, was to make friends with all, trade and do business with all, but make no permanent alliances with any.

Probably his advice was never completely understood or believed. But whatever we should or should not have done, through the 19th century, the fact is that early in our own time, Washington's advice was shunted aside and we became involved in our first European adventure of intervening in a dispute that was really an economic and political contest between Britain and Germany. World War I, after the trappings are removed, emerges as a development peculiarly European and amazingly along the lines Washington had foreseen.

But we did not permit the European nations to work out a solution for themselves. We intervened, tipping the scales of power in favor of Britain. France, which was a British ally as well as a major battleground for the war, had assisted us in our revolt from Britain in the 18th century. This was fresh enough in the minds of Americans so that "Lafayette, we are here" became the justification for an anti - German campaign.

Following World War I we found that we could not easily pull out of the entanglement we had made of European affairs. World War II was little more than an extension of World War I. And once more we intervened, again against the Germans.

From that day to this, America has practiced interventionism on a world scale.

But we would like to remind ourselves that in World War I, there was an excellent opportunity to let Europe resolve its own problems. The fighting in France had bogged down into a stalemate that froze into stagnation on the Western front. Left alone, a resolution might have occurred which would have kept our skirts clean and we could have continued on friendly terms with all peoples involved.

Nor was this our only opportunity to mind our own business. Once more, when World War II was joined, Germany made a major move against Russia and for a while Russia and Germany were poised at each other's throats. But again we intervened, this time on the side of Russia as well as Britain. . . . a move we may ultimately regret more than any other event in our history. Had we permitted the two, Hitler and Stalin, to battle it out, would it not be true that there would have been less bloodshed, less of a world problem today?

These things we can see more clearly with the benefit of perspective.

But now the stage is set for a third World War. And if a war breaks out, our entrance will automatically make it a world war. Once more a schism is apparent. And this time it emerges between Russia and Red China.

Russia, of course, is going to do what it can to make it appear that she is our friend and that we should side in with her against China. Traditionally, that is, in both world wars, Russia was an ally. But in World War II, so was China.

If we have any ability to learn form prior errors, the time to reveal that ability is now.

There is an understandable worry on the part of many Americans that the rift between Russia and the Red Chinese is phony. Experts who are in the best position to know, say that it is not only real, but deep and probably not susceptible of solution within the immediate future. Fine.

All we have to do is to give neither aid nor comfort to either side, and by our remaining aloof, we may not only prevent the war from breaking out, but should it erupt, our willingness to take sides would limit the conflict and make a solution possible which would not depend upon our perpetual policing.

In many respects, this current communist impasse is equivalent to the Russian - German impasse before we became involved in the second holocaust.

So we have an opportunity at the moment that may never appear again. Russia is no longer an ally and neither is Red China. There is no reason to side in with either. There is every reason to recall Washington's sage advice and to refuse utterly and absolutely to become involved.

This might well be the greatest service toward world peace that we could ever hope to perform.

Long, Long Trail

Whether we're for progress or against it, we're stuck with the existing confusion. And with more and more people living on less and less land, it's no longer true (if it ever was) that: "What we don't know won't hurt us."

Take the once uncomplicated matter of keeping clean. Being brought up in the conviction that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," salvation seemed simple if we just washed enough. So people spent lavishly to get indoor bathrooms and laundry tubs. Soon we had to have two or three bathrooms in one house — then automatic washing machines. Laundries became big business, and first we knew, coin-in-the-slot laundromats began appearing in every community.

Somewhere along the line a new word, "detergents," came into the mother-tongue — and "soap" went out. In due course, bubbles began appearing in the tapwater — whether it came from the city waterworks or the well in the backyard. And there was a fine to-do when scientists discovered this was because, unlike soap, detergents in the wastewater did not "break down" under sewage treatment, or in leaching pools or in septic tanks.

So the chemists went to work on this alarming manifestation. At long last, in recent months, we have been assured that a "biodegradable" or soft detergent, that breaks down readily and goes away under modern sewage treatment procedures, has been developed and will replace the old-fashioned "hard" detergents by the end of 1965.

But we are warned, it is still too soon to crow. While the biodegradable detergents give up readily under sewage treatment which is exposed to the air, they degrade very slowly at best in airless septic systems or treatments and are specially troublesome where the entire flow from a laundry is involved. So the shock-troops of science are still on the job. One crew, right now, is manning the Johns-Manville "Labmobile," a special trailer with a variety of filtration equipment, including a filtration system to remove detergents from wastewater. This research tool is touring the country, testing and processing waste and potable waters wherever there's pollution to run down and attack at the source.

As matters stand, those on the sewer lines will have it made when the soft detergents are available. But many large dispensers of wastewater into septic tanks, leaching pools or streams, will still need special processing to protect the water supply of their neighbors. Vigilance is still in order for those with private wells and nearby disposal systems.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Many phonograph records today feature folk singers, pictured on the record covers with their guitars. Years ago saxophones were the thing; then came ukuleles. Banjos also had their day. Now guitars are playing an important role in popular music. Guitars go back to ancient times through their venerable ancestor, the lute. During the 14th and 15th centuries their popularity reached a peak throughout Europe; and the folklore of nearly every country centers around some form of guitar music. Maybe that's where some of our folk singers got their tunes.

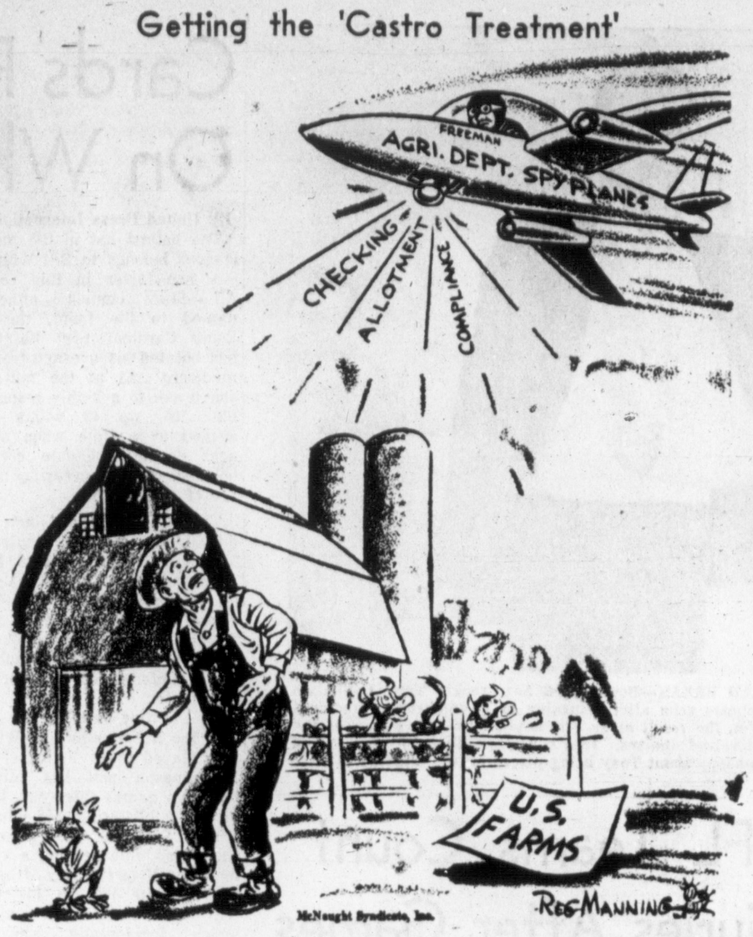

Today's smile: At the Tanglewood concerts in the Berkshires of New England, Erich Leinsdorf was conducting the Boston Symphony. The music was thunderous when suddenly there was an abrupt silence, denoting a rest in the music. At that brief moment a feminine voice was heard: "But, I always use three eggs and bake mine in a hot oven.'

We've heard about some pretty good Japanese tennis players through the years, but never heard of a Jap golfer of note. Yet the Japs have been playing the ancient Scottish game since 1903 when their first 18 - hole course was opened at Kobe. . . New Zealand boasts 325 registered golf courses and more than 60,000 players, which shows the folks down under know a good game when they see it.

Thoughts while shaving: An insurance company survey shows there are more deaths from accidents during the summer than at any other season. So, be careful. . . .The same survey disclosed that lightning kills an average of 200 persons in the U. S. each year. . . . We think sport parachuting is a crazy sport. Last year 32 persons were killed engaging in it. And we don't think a nationaly-known brand of coffee would object if sports parachutists stole its slogan "Good 'til the last drop." . . . After reviewing 5,700 applications Harvard University selected 1360 for admission there this fall. They expect that about 1115 will accept the invitation to study there. The freshman class usually totals 1,200. . . .We read a news ite recently that Morocco is increasing its budget to lure tourists. The same day we read a magazine piece that said Moroccan tribesmen regard cameras as "instruments of the devil." While visiting the Casbah we hope none of the tourists ask the tribesmen to pose for a picture. . . .If you're trying to cut down on cigarettes and find it difficult, there's a new cigarette case on the maket that doles them out to you at pre-determined intervals. It's equipped with a time clock, which can be set for any period from five minutes to two hours. Once the clock has been set the case cannot be opened until the proper time has elapsed. . . .A friend just back from Greece tells us the difficulty in settling things on Cyprus is that 78 per cent of the 590,000 population are Greek in language, culture and religion. The rest are Turkish and neither side will yield an inch. . . .The Los Angeles (Calif.) HERALD - EXAMINER reported: "A 45-year - old housewife walked into her backyard to turn off a leaking pump." Nothing like conserving water. She might need it for a chaser.

Country Editor speaking: "An inferiority complex is fine if the right people have it, and are permitted to keep it."

Goldwater Against Visiting Viet Nam 'For Present;' Says It's 'Too Gimmicky'

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Senator Barry Goldwater is turning thumbs down on a suggestion from close advisers that he make a flying trip to South Viet Nam for a first-hand study there.

Arguments being advanced by the Republican presidential standard bearer's lieutenants for their dramatic proposal are:

—Johnson Administration policies in Southeast Asia in general and Viet Nam in particular will be a crucial election issue. Goldwater has long been highly critical of these policies. An on-the-spot survey would spectacularly spotlight his intense interest in this extremely explosive problem and the key importance he places on it.

— Former President Eisenhower scored heavily in the 1952 campaign when he announced he would go to Korea. It is asserted the same would result from a Goldwater trip to Communist - assailed Viet Nam.

— As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and its influential Preparedness Subcommittee, once headed by then-Senator Lyndon Johnson, Goldwater is particularly concerned with the welfare of the country's military forces — which in the past crisis - wracked week have been greatly augmented in and around South Viet Nam.

— The Johnson Administration has evinced the utmost sensitiveness about members of Congress going to Viet Nam for personal scrutinies of conditions there. Strenuous pressures have been exerted against their doing that. State Department and Pentagon authorities have flown there repeatedly, but not a single member of Congress this year. Last spring, when Representative Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., second ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, proposed heading a bipartisan group to Viet Nam, he was "persuaded" to drop this plan under vigorous backstage urging.

MAYBE LATER! — Senator Goldwater rejected his advisers' dramatic plan on the ground "it's too gimmicky."

While eagerly welcoming imaginative and ingenious ideas and proposals, the GOP nominee stressed he will not countenance electioneering tricks or stunts. He pointed out he has always campaigned squarely on issues and projects, and firmly intends to adhere to that practice in the presidential battle.

However, he did not wholly rule out a Viet Nam visit.

Although considering that inadvisable "for the present," Goldwater told his lieutenants "the time may come when it will be worth some new thought."

After Congress adjourns, two Republican members of the powerful House Appropriations Committee intend to make a personal survey of Viet Nam whether the Democratic Administration likes it or not.

Representatives William Minshall, O., and John Rhodes, Ariz., have informed Representative George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman, of their decision and requested they be designated the official representatives of the Appropriations Committee, which has jurisdiction over all federal spending, including the more than $600 million a year in Viet Nam.

Minshall and Rhodes expect to be turned down, but that will not deter them. They are prepared to pay their own expenses.

FORGED DISPLAYS — Those portraits of President Johnson and Postmaster General Gronouski sprouting in postoffice lobbies and offices throughout the country are not due to any sudden outpouring of admiration and devotion.

They are compulsory on direct orders from postal superiors.

Regional postoffice officials sent out directives that in effect require the displaying of photos of Johnson and Gronouski — generously provided for this publicity purpose. Following is this carefully unpublicized order:

"Postmasters: Enclosed are portrait photos of the President of the United States and the Postmaster General. There are two sizes. The larger portrait of President Johnson is intended for use in offices of postmasters and other postal officials, and in lobbies of smaller postal facilities.

"If additional photos are needed, please advise."

WHAT WASHINGTON's BUZZING ABOUT — The secretary of the late glamor star Marilyn Monroe is now a Justice Department employe. After Miss Monroe's suicide, the secretary went to Europe for a long stay, then got a job in the Washington headquarters of the U. S. Information Agency. Several months ago, she quietly shifted to the Justice Department. Movie actor Peter Lawford and his wife Patricia, sister of Attorney General Robert Kennedy, were close friends of Miss Monroe and attended her funeral. . . . Representative Albert Rains, D-Ala., according to White House insiders, is slated to replace Robert Weaver as head of the Housing & Home Finance Agency — after the election. Presumably, Weaver will be given another high office. Rains, chairman of the Banking Committee's Subcommittee on Housing and a long-time champion of housing legislation, is not running for re-election. He is highly regarded by President Johnson, who is particularly grateful to Rains because he had a big hand in putting the President's communications bill through the House. . . .Representative John Anderson, R-Ill., and other Republican legislators are still convinced U. S. wheat sold to Russia is being re-exported to satellite Cuba, despite administration denials. Last month, Captain Arthur Fertig, skipper of an American merchant ship involved in a dispute with Soviet port officials, claimed he saw U. S. wheat being loaded on a Russian transport for Cuba. State Department authorities denied knowing anything about that, but Representative Anderson and his Republican colleagues are convinced there is something to it and are conducting a thorough inquiry.

EDITOR:

The non-Communist white man is the United Nations' favorite whipping boy. Although the UN charter forbids intervention in domestic matters, its Economic & Social Council suspended South Africa for her policy of racial segregation. The Soviet Union remains a member, however, as her concentration camps have been certified as integrated.

If the UN controls the racial policies of its members, will it also attempt to regulate the religious policies as well? The voice of Christian nations in the UN becomes weaker with the admission of each new member. Will we soon see an anti-Christian bias equal to the anti-white bias?

The UN has become an international agency for downgrading the white man, upgrading the colored man, and fostering communism.

Ballot Boxes Prove To Be No Substitute for Freedom

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

This, being an election year, I occasionally receive unwelcome news about somebody who returns to the ballot box, as a matter of conscience, despite expressed convictions that government, per se, is evil and that mob rule is immoral.

I face the statement I will quote with mixed emotions-consternation and amusement: "— we must continue to exercise our voting privilege when given a chance of improving the situation even a little, but at the same time try to educate people to the idea that majority rule isn't morally right."

At this time I can find no justification for the idea that anybody will be able to educate others to believe that mob rule is wrong while sanctioning mob rule themselves but the real clue to the problem rests in another statement, "perhaps this is our chance to gain control away from them and maybe strengthen the Republican party enough to once more have a representative two-party system".

My correspondent is exactly correct. If she wants to live under a representative two-party system and wants her party to hold the control and power over others, for any reason, good or bad, she should certainly vote to assist the candidates she likes in their search for power over those of whom she disapproves. If you want the rulers you elect to hold power over you and those who disapprove of the rulers you like, the ballot box is the only proper method of sanctioning the system.

My correspondent also mentions that voting is a privilege and it certainly is a privilege granted by government so that you may express a preference for the rulers under which you are willing to serve while you sanction the system and the rulership which may be imposed by the winner, even tho you do not care for that type of rulership.

None of which has anything to do with a willingness to stand on your own two feet, in freedom.

Of course, my correspondent ignores the fact that she sanctions the rulership of her candidate over me and that by voting, she also sanctions the system which will provide me with a ruler of whom she disapproves. Of course, rulers will be elected again by others who believe their candidate for rulership knows what's best for me and my family and that they will get the best of the deal if "their man" is elected, but, at least, I will not have any of the rulers on my conscience and when we get right down to cold, hard, reason, it is only my own conscience with which I am concerned.

Of course, those who vote obviously do not mind that I, too — and my family will become the victims of their consciences which dictate that some good will come out of evil.

In the midst of all this, I also recognize the absolute fact that people who express their warm approval for private enterprise even in public print, advocate voting for one ruler instead of another until they can help educate the masses to understand the evil which they sanction by their own voting. Seems to me that people are known by their deeds and not their idle conversation.

But, my wife is wonderful. She said, "It's rough to take and I continue to remind myself, as you remind yourself, that only five years ago we believed our candidate would make the best ruler and that he could accomplish great things if only we could help him succeed in his search for the power which would make it possible for him to make laws in order to make things better for everybody whether they liked it or not. And she is so right and we will continue to exercise patience and remember our own evil doings at the ballot box.

And I also remember and think about the people stacked up in big cities and I think about people in houses only 20 or 30 feet from their neighbor's and I will now go to my class and talk about the ultimate folly of man, with arms out - stretched, eager for chains.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 11, the 224th day of 1964 with 142 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and Venus.

The evening star is Saturn.

Those born today are under the sign of Leo.

On this day in history:

In 1909, the first radio S-O-S in history was sent by a disabled ship off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

In 1919, Andrew Carnegie, the industrialist and philanthropist, died.

In 1935, Nazi storm troopers demonstrated against the German Jews.

In 1962, Soviet astronaut Andrian Nikolayev was launched into space for a trip that lasted nearly four days. He was followed 24 hours later by astronaut Pavel Popovich.

A thought for the day — Abraham Lincoln said: "Truth is generally the best vindication against slander."

Wit and Whimsy

She — Is that a real diamond?

He — Well, very nearly.

A story being told on the capital's cocktail circuit has Soviet Premier Khrushchev pausing during an inspection of Russian troops to ask a private how he likes life in the Red Army.

Private — Oh, I can't complain.

Khrushchev — You bet you can't.

The program opened June 8 and final classes will be held Friday.

U. S. Newsman Shot on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — An American news correspondent was shot and wounded while covering a Turkish-Greek Cypriot battle on the northwest coast of Cyprus, the United Nations said Monday. A fellow newsman was injured.

Alvin Rosenfeld of the National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) was hit on the left side of the face while driving his car near Mansoura, a U.N. source said.

Jay Miller, also of NBC, suffered bruises and shock when their car ran off the road and overturned after Rosenfeld was shot.

The two newsmen were evacuated from the battle area by U.N. Swedish troops. They were first taken to the Cyprus Mine Corp. hospital at Pendayia.

Rosenfeld was given a blood transfusion at Pendayia and operated on. A U.N. source said there was no damage to the brain.

Non-Defense Costs Outrun Population

WASHINGTON (Spl) — If population growth were a good yardstick for the growth of non-defense spending by the federal government, such spending should be a lot smaller today, according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Since 1947, federal non-defense spending has soared 171.1 per cent, more than five times the population increase of 30.9 per cent.

FBI Agent Notes Importance of Patience, Perseverance

EDITOR'S NOTE: It takes "patience, perseverance and persistence" to solve crimes, says a famous FBI agent, now working on the case of three racial killings in Mississippi. Here is a special report on the case.

By AL KUETTNER

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — From the top of Olen Burrage's new dam you can see a glow in the night sky from the carnival and midway of the county fair south of Philadelphia, Miss.

Visitin the carnival, you would never guess that the townspeople of Philadelphia — moving by the rules of tradition into fairgrounds cabins for the annual event—had anything on their minds but fun.

Looking at Burrage's dam, you would never guess from the smooth soil that will back up a fishing pond that it held a dark and gory secret just a few days ago.

But the townspeople were not allowed to forget that all was not fun in Philadelphia. The presence of a large group of earnest and patient young strangers — agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation—served to remind them their town had three unsolved murders.

The FBI — plus local and state authorities—meant to find the solution to the three crimes if they could, but it was a tough problem to unravel.

Victims of the slayings — which may go down in the books among the most ruthless racial killings in recent years —were Michael Schwerner, 24, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Andrew Goodman, 20, New York City, and James Chaney, 22, Meridian, Miss. Chaney was a Negro.

Working On Project

The three were working on a "Mississippi summer project," a controversial interracial effort to get more Negroes registered to vote and to focus the nation's attention on Mississippi racial conditions.

Hundreds of the "workers" were fanning out along Mississippi highways, into small towns and large, in the early summer. So it happened that these three were traveling in the vicinity of Philadelphia, investigating the alleged arson-burning of a Negro church, when they were arrested for speeding.

On June 21, according to Neshoba County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price, they were released from jail, taken to the edge of town and sent on their way. That was the last time anyone would admit seeing them alive.

As the FBI entered the case, the state was flooded with rumors and speculation as to the whereabouts of the missing men.

It was all a hoax, claimed many who objected strenuously to the Mississippi project.

Wild stories made the rounds. They had been killed and their bodies slipped into quicksand that prevails in the Bogue Chitta swamp near Philadelphia, said some. They had been fed into the claws of a sawmill "hog," said others.

But few were prepared for the facts, apparently supplied by an informer whose tongue was loosened by a large reward offering.

The facts were that the three workers had been shot to death, either before or after at least one sadistically beaten, and their bodies had been placed in a shallow hole at about the mid-pint of the 400-foot earthen dam Burrage was building for his new fish pound.

Approximately 20 feet of fill dirt had been bulldozed on top of the bodies by the unsuspecting contractor closing the middle of the dam.

The FBI, protecting its sources, refused to say where the information came from that led them — equipped with a bulldozer and a "drag line" scoop — to a specific spot on the Burrage dam.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory said he relayed information to the FBI supplied by two former mental patients concerning location of the bodies. The FBI said the information was of no value.

A Dutch clairvoyant even got into the act. It was reported the man, Gerald Croiset, sent "impressions" across the Atlantic about the case.

Working from some basis of reliable information, the FBI found the badly decomposed remains before nightfall, Tuesday, Aug. 4. The bodies were put into plastic bags and sent to Jackson for post mortem examinations.

Results of the autopsy: All had been shot. No official report has been issued but a family doctor reported that Chaney had been savagely beaten, probably with a blunt instrument or a chain.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people in Mississippi hope they catch the people responsible for this and bring them to justice," said a Jackson businessman who is white.

The investigation at the federal level was being run by soft-spoken Roy K. Moore, an FBI agent who looks like a banker and to whom no crime problem is unsurmountable.

"Patience, perseverance and persistence" are the factors that pay off in crime investigation, Moore recalled last week.

Arson Investigated In Marble Falls Fire

MARBLE FALLS, Tex. (UPI) —Authorities are investigating the chance of arson in a fire that destroyed a vacant industrial plant valued at $500,000 Saturday night.

The Department of Public Safety reported that a car was seen speeding away from the building just before the fire was discovered.

Three fire units, hampered by low water pressure, fought the blaze. The plant, vacant since 1961, was owned by the Republic Transcon Industries of Dallas.

It was on the south side of Marble Falls, about 30 miles from the LBJ Ranch.

STORMS KILL 12

SEOUL (UPI) — Heavy rains Saturday night killed 12 persons in South Korea, injured 32 and destroyed 564 houses, police reported today.
