Diamond M Museum's loss warned

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

The possibility was raised Tuesday that Snyder could lose the Diamond M Museum and its related art collection.

Simultaneously, the president of the Diamond M Foundation board, Evelyn McLaughlin Davies, enlisted support from the community in her personal crusade to keep the collection in Scurry County.

Stressing that she was speaking only for herself and not the foundation, Davies summarized her feelings to chamber of commerce directors. "I'm worried," she said.

Regarding increased support of the Diamond M, she suggested a simple plan, "Use it," she said.

To explain the possibility of losing the Diamond M Museum, Davies explained the operation of the foundation itself.

"The Diamond M Foundation supports and maintains the museum. It receives no grants and no tax monies. Every penny of cost (for the museum) is paid by the foundation."

With the current downturn in the county's oil-based economy, the income for the Diamond M Foundation has decreased as well, she noted.

This has created a situation where the foundation board, in its regular review of the museum's operation, "Sees a lot of money being spent for a collection seen by, relatively speaking, very few people," she said.

The majority of the foundation board is comprised of the four children of Diamond M founders Mr. and Mrs. C.T. McLaughlin to include Davies; Jean McLaughlin Kahle of Fort Worth; Ruth McLaughlin Riddle of Paris, Tx.; and Mark McLaughlin of San Angelo.

Other board members are locals Wayland G. Holt, Jay Huckabee and John Jarrell.

Davies expressed Tuesday her desire that the museum collection stay in Scurry County. "I think it belongs here. Mother and Dad put it here."

But she characterized her current efforts regarding this as, "A finger in the dike."

"As president of the board, I will do everything I can to keep it here." But, she noted her greatest fear is that a "shift of officers" in the foundation board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to let Florida authorities execute multiple murderer Ted Bundy for the 1978 slaying of a 12-year-old girl in Lake City, Fla.

The court, without any recorded dissent, turned down the state's emergency request aimed at dissolving a federal appeals court order that postponed Bundy's scheduled execution.

He was to have died in Florida's electric chair Tuesday morning, but the death warrant for his execution was good through noon today. Florida authorities asked Justice Lewis F. Powell to let them execute Bundy by then.

Powell referred the request to the full court.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted Bundy an indefinite postponement Tuesday less than seven hours before he was to die.

Friend killed

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Gunmen dressed as women ambushed the car of a right-wing businessman and friend of Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile today, killing him and two others, police reported.

The killing of David Puzon, 65, occurred six days after the slaying of Rolando Olalia, a prominent leftist whose death supporters blame "fascist elements" allied with Enrile.

There have been no arrests in either attack.

Enrile, a harsh critic of President Corazon Aquino's policy of negotiating with the communist insurgency, has denied any involvement in Olalia's slaying.

Police said Puzon's car was attacked at about 7:30 a.m. in San Jose del Monte.

FM 1611 response is mixed

By VICKI BROWN
SDN Staff Writer

At a public hearing here Tuesday, officials with several local entities spoke in favor of the proposed extension of FM 1611--creating a western truck route looping Snyder--while other citizens noted a depressed economy as a reason to delay construction.

During a question and answer session late in the one-hour meeting, Harold Lacik, with R.E. Smith Oil Company, commented, "It is economically a poor time to spend tax money whether state or local funds. It's time to tighten our belts."

In response to this, Pct. 3 Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr., a proponent of the plan, asked state officials to comment.

Bill Barnett, a highway department district supervisor who moderated the session, replied that if the project is scrubbed here, the state money set aside for it will likely be pulled out of Scurry County and spent on another farm-to-market road project.

More than 50 individuals attended the meeting to discuss the proposal with officials with the Abilene office of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

During the session, state officials presented information concerning the project's design. They also commented regarding the requirement for acquisition of right-of-way across property currently owned by the heirs of Wade and Harrie Winston.

Following the presentation, local residents asked questions and offered opinions on the proposal.

All citizen comments will be submitted along with all other information regarding the proposal for a final decision by state highway department officials.

Linda Smith, engineering assistant for the district, opened the meeting by explaining the history of the proposal from the state's release of some $1.2 million for the project in February to a vote by county commissioners in May to accept the plan. That vote passed by a 3-2 margin.

Smith noted that the district has already conducted environmental studies to determine

Brooks to chairman...

President's post changes at WTSB

Directors of West Texas State Bank Wednesday announced the appointment of a new president and the promotion of Martin Brooks to chairman of the board. H.W. Cargile, chairman, will be elevated to senior chairman.

Named president and chief executive officer effective Thursday is Bill C. Parker, 45, who is a veteran banking officer.

Brooks, who has been president of WTSB since 1974, will remain actively associated with the bank in a less demanding and stressful position. Due to some previous health problems and the current demands of the banking industry, Brooks said he can no longer maintain the level of energy required as CEO.

The board said Parker comes highly recommended in all areas of the banking industry and looks forward to his new direction and guidance.

A reception is planned for a later date so that citizens of Snyder and Scurry County will have an opportunity to get acquainted with Parker.

A native of San Angelo, he is a graduate of Southwest Texas State at San Marcos. He has been associated with banks in Corpus Christi, Austin and Midland. Most recently he has been employed with the Price Waterhouse accounting firm in Midland as consultant to the banking division for West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

Parker and his wife have three sons, ages 11, 9 and 5. His wife is a native of El Campo and is a graduate of the University of Houston. The Parkers are members of the Methodist Church.

While in Midland, Parker was active in a variety of civic endeavors. He was a member of the board of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and he was also active in the Lions Club, United Way, cancer and heart associations, the Midland Association of Retarded Citizens, scouting and youth soccer.

"We are looking forward to moving our family to Snyder," Parker said. "We are excited about Snyder and the prospects of rearing our children in Snyder."

'Smokeout' set tomorrow

The Great American Smokeout will be observed here and across the nation Thursday as part of efforts to curb smoking by the American Cancer Society.

Snyder High School's Future Homemakers of America will host a "Great Balloon Release" in front of the high school at 11:55 a.m. as part of the observance.

M*A*S*H effort shatters record

Blood drive workers here sought to have the largest blood drive ever for Scurry County Tuesday, and locals responded by having 335 register to give blood with 303 donors eventually counted.

This broke the previous donor record by some 110 pints.

"We're just thrilled to pieces," said Sallie Tate, president of the advisory council here for United Blood Services of Lubbock. "Most of the day, we were too busy to look up."

The UBS advisory council is co-sponsor of the event along with the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

As extra incentives, UBS scheduled a special "M*A*S*H" drive held at the National Guard Armory.

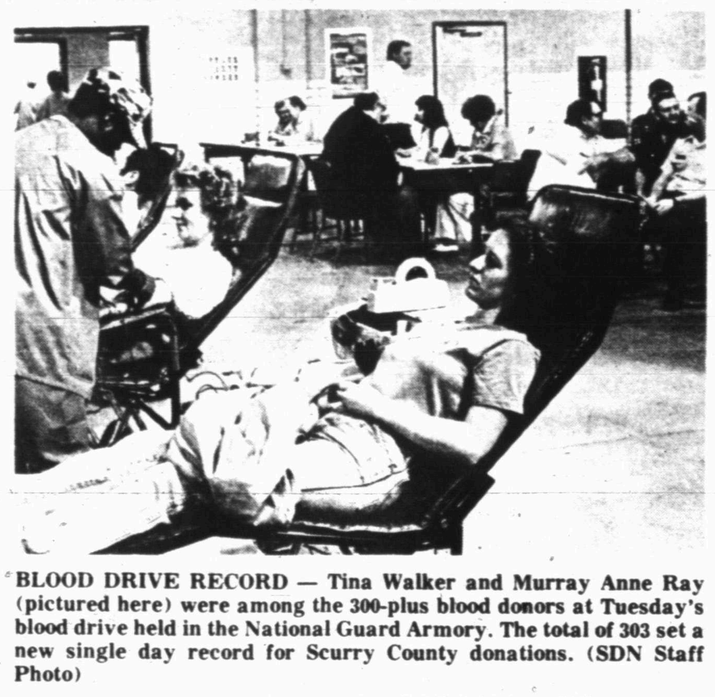

The drive featured also a competition between Snyder restaurants to see which could provide the most employee donors.

The winner of this competition and the recipient of a "traveling trophy" was The Shack. Some 10 local restaurants joined in the competition.

The response Tuesday provided 114 first time donors.

Repeat supporters of local drives were honored also with "gallon pins." Topping the list was longtime donor Dr. Jim Tully, who received an eight-gallon donor pin Tuesday.

Comments sought on sex education

Material related to a planned sex education project--one which deals primarily with information to help curb unwanted teenage pregnancy-- is now on display in the conference room at the Snyder school administration building.

The material is displayed to allow parents to view it prior to a planned "open forum" to discuss the proposed study unit.

This forum is scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the junior high auditorium.

If approved by the school board, the course work would consist of a two-week unit which would be taught in health classes next spring.

Plans are to offer the "human growth and development" course as part of health studies for fifth grade, seventh grade and high school students.

The basis for the perceived need of the course is the increase both here and statewide of unwanted teenage pregnancies.

Sources in the material note that it is now estimated that one-fifth of the 13 and 14-year-olds in this country are what they term "sexually active."

It is noted "knowledgable" young people are more likely to postpone sexual experiences.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best way to keep children at home is to provide a pleasant atmosphere and let the air out of the tires."

At the joint civic club luncheon last week, Delbert and Dorothy Downing were seated next to two Snyder ministers--Ken Branam of the First Baptist Church and James Merrell of the Trinity Methodist Church.

Downing inquired about student interest in the field of ministry. Figuring the best defense is a good offense, Branam beat everyone to the punch.

"I really thought we would have had more students...preachers only have to work two hours a week."

Downing then told about an incident a couple of years ago. Students at his session were not showing much interest in the career-occupations information.

One young fellow, in particular, displayed his boredom. It prompted Downing to ask, "Young man, what are you interested in?"

To which the honest kid replied, "Retirement."

What's in a name?

The Wall Street Journal apparently thinks a great deal. The nation-wide and highly-respected financial publication recently had its attorney fire off a letter to a monthly newspaper designed to get young children into the newspaper reading habit.

The letter was sent to the 1,000-circulation monthly which called itself the Small Street Journal. The Wall Street Journal said the name similarity was creating public confusion.

Whew! We're glad they got that straight.

A matter of semantics. One fellow said a "modest" tax hike costs you $300, while a "substantial" tax cut lowers your taxes by $30.

Further evidence shows that fish oil helps prevent disease

DALLAS (AP) — Eating more fish can help prevent hardening of the arteries, but substituting widely available fish-oil capsules for seafood may not be as beneficial, researchers said.

Researchers have known that fish oil can lower levels of cholesterol and other harmful substances in the blood and inhibit blood clotting, and they have theorized it could prevent hardening of the arteries, the leading cause of heart attacks and strokes.

But this is the first time that has been demonstrated, said Harry Davis of the University of Chicago.

Davis told the annual meeting of the American Heart Association on Tuesday that 16 rhesus monkeys fed diets high in fish oil developed far fewer arterial deposits, or "plaques," than 8 monkeys fed a diet high in coconut oil, a saturated fat known to cause hardening of the arteries, or atherosclerosis.

Monkeys fed the coconut oil diet had larger and more severe plaques, and the plaques were found to contain more inflammatory cells that can damage the artery wall and enhance the formation of the deposits, Davis said.

He said the reasons why fish oil had that effect are unknown. It lowers blood cholesterol levels, which is believed to be beneficial. It also has various effects on artery walls, the liver and spleen, but researchers do not know which of those are beneficial, he said.

John Parks of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., reported that in similar studies with African green monkeys the fish oil seemed to keep cholesterol in a liquid form, rather than a semi-solid form, in the bloodstream, perhaps making it easier for the body to get rid of the offending cholesterol.

Davis said his studies and other research suggest that fish oil may be beneficial when substituted for other saturated fats, such as those in meat.

But he said no studies show a beneficial effect of adding fish oil, such as in capsules, to a typical American diet that is already high in calories, cholesterol and saturated fat.

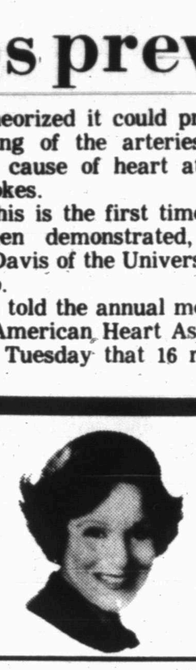

"Our recommendation would be to replace the saturated fat in your diet with fish," he said.

"Popping a couple of fish oil capsules is not going to solve what the problem is," said Dr. Edwin Bierman of the University of Washington.

He also advised substituting fish for meat in some meals, as the American Heart Association has advocated for some time.

Bierman has found that fish oil can actually be harmful in some patients with disorders that make them unable to properly process fats. A number of such patients had higher cholesterol levels after taking fish oil than they had before, he said.

One Day Without Cigarettes Can Change a Smoker's Life

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow will mark the 10th Annual Great American Smokeout, an upbeat, good-humored, one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours — just to prove they can do it.

The idea was conceived by the American Cancer Society, which insists that anyone who can live without a cigarette for 24 hours can quit forever. So, if you're hooked on cigarettes (or cigars) and you really want to quit, why not start tomorrow — just for 24 hours?

The following information may motivate you: According to John F. Banzhaf III, executive director of ASH (Action on Smoking and Health) in Washington, D.C., lung cancer is the single largest contributor to the total cancer death rate. It accounts for 25 percent of all cancer deaths in the United States. It is estimated that 85 percent of all lung cancer cases are due to cigarette smoking. As a smoker, you are 10 times more likely to die of lung cancer than a non-smoker.

This year there will be 100,000 lung cancer cases among men and 49,000 among women. Of these, 89,000 men and 41,000 women will die of the disease. The number of women who will die of lung cancer is increasing at an alarming rate. Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer for women — now it's lung cancer!

A word about smoking-related diseases — emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease. This year an estimated 350,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. deaths in World War II; it is eight times as many people who die in automobile accidents.

A congressional study has just reported that health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured. (And how does one measure the amount of heartache, remorse and guilt suffered as a result of a preventable, self-induced tragedy?)

What about "secondhand" smoke? Is it actually damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Yes! Furthermore, studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day. Why? Peer pressure, no doubt.

"How about the rights of smokers?" you ask. Of course they are entitled to smoke if they wish. But they will have to find a place where they can smoke to their hearts' content without offending those who can't tolerate it.

"Quitting cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit, but my readers have told me it's the most effective, and in the long run, the easiest way. Cutting down is less traumatic, but the temptation to smoke is often too powerful to resist while smoking just one, two or three cigarettes a day.

Those who are heavily addicted may require professional help to break the habit.

So, if you're hooked on cigarettes, or have been telling yourself, "One of these days I'm going to quit," why not start tomorrow — just for 24 hours?

It won't be easy, but I can promise you, it will be the best Thanksgiving present you can give yourself — and those who love you.

The American Cancer Society has put together a wonderful booklet, "How to Stay Quit Through the Holidays." It's free. Pick one up at your local American Cancer Society office, or write for one, and please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. The address is in your telephone book.

P.S. A favor, please? If you quit tomorrow even for 24 hours, I want to hear from you. Then write again and let me know how long you were able to stay clean. Good luck. Keep me posted. I care.

the room in a recent regional tournament, the queen of diamonds was led against six spades. There were many different results, some pairs not even getting to slam. Today's declarer, who was in slam, won his king of diamonds, drew trumps ending in dummy and led the queen of hearts, carefully unblocking the jack. West won the king and continued diamonds. Declarer won with dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond. Then he played his last two spades, discarding first a low club and then the queen from dummy. When he played the heart ace and his low heart to the 10, West went out to lunch. Obviously West had to hold his last diamond, and when West finally and reluctantly let a club go, declarer decided that West had been forced to unguard the king. So declarer played his club ace and made his slam when the king came down.

At other tables, the play may have been the same, but if West resigned himself to the inevitable and let his clubs go without pain, those declarers probably finessed in clubs and were set.

Don't show where it hurts

How can one explain the intuition that tells a declarer where key cards are located? Hesitant play by the opponents is part of the answer. Another part is correctly judging the pressure experienced by a defender as the hand winds down.

Oil production cutbacks could hurt mobilization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weak prices for oil and the resulting decline in domestic production could jeopardize U.S. national security in the event of a military mobilization, according to a report given to a cabinet-level group.

However, administration officials have been skeptical when the argument of national security has been raised, saying it masks a plea for economic relief from a financially ailing industry.

The National Defense Council Foundation, a conservative study group, has submitted a paper making the mobilization argument for review by the cabinet group headed by Deputy Energy Secretary William F. Martin.

Syria now facing isolation

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria, already out of step with its Arab neighbors, faces growing isolation by the West if more links to terrorism are exposed in trials in Europe.

Diplomatic and economic sanctions already imposed on Syria for its alleged support for international terrorists, although largely symbolic, have stung President Hafez Assad and his self-styled role as leader of the "Arab nation."

But they do not appear to have undercut his position among the majority of Syria's 10 million people, although the pro-Western middle class has been shaken by the sanctions they fear will isolate Syria.

"Assad, above all, wants to be respected and it appears he feels snubbed. But he knows that in the Middle East peace process he is too pivotal to be abandoned," said a Western diplomat, speaking on condition he not be identified.

"The actions by Western countries have, if anything, strengthened Assad's position internally," he said.

But, if as seems likely, the forthcoming trials in Europe provide further evidence of the involvement of Syrian agencies, particularly the all-powerful Air Force Intelligence service, Western diplomats believe there would be "dark clouds ahead."

"If these people are found guilty and the Syrian connection is proved it would be very difficult for the governments concerned to ignore that and that would obviously have a negative effect on relations," another Western diplomat commented, also on condition of anonymity.

The trial of two Palestinians, Ahmad Hasi and Farouk Salameh, accused of a West Berlin bombing March 29 opened Monday and investigators have said the men were supplied with the explosives by the Syrian Embassy in East Berlin.

Hasi has been identified as the brother of Nezar Hindawi, a Palestinian jailed for 45 years in London last month for trying to bomb an El Al Israeli airliner. The British charged he was aided by Syrian intelligence.

Another Palestinian, Nasser Hassan el Ali, is awaiting trial in Madrid, Spain, for the attempted bombing of an Israeli airliner June 26. Spanish authorities said he carried a Syrian passport and claimed he belonged to Fatah-Uprising, a Damascus-based Palestinian faction.

Another Palestinian, identified as a cousin of Hindawi's, is being held in Genoa, Italy, on terrorist-related charges and judicial officials said there are indications he was linked to the Syrians.

Syria, Moscow's main Arab ally, has long been used to being held at arm's length by the West and out of step with other Arab countries.

Syria's support for Persian Iran against Arab Iraq in the 6-year-old Gulf war has long angered other Arab countries who fear the spread of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's puritanical brand of Islamic fundamentalism.

With few friends outside of Iran and Libya, Assad now appears to be facing problems with his main benefactor, the Soviet Union.

Syria, reliant on the Soviets for weapons, owes Moscow an estimated $10 billion with little prospect of repayment.

Lasers burn thru arterial deposits

DALLAS (AP) — The first human trials of laser-powered devices to burn through clogs in arteries supplying the heart show they could be cheaper than bypass surgery and more effective than balloon treatments, researchers say.

Clogged coronary arteries were opened at least partially in six of the first seven Americans to undergo the procedure that could help prevent heart attacks, said Dr. Timothy Sanborn of Boston University Medical Center.

Sanborn, describing his findings Tuesday at the annual meeting of the American Heart Association, said laser thermal angioplasty could become widespread within two years if the successes continue.

"The results look promising," he said, noting that there have so far been no important complications.

In the procedure, an optical fiber tipped with a metal cap is inserted into a blood vessel near the skin and threaded through vessels until it reaches obstructive deposits in arteries that supply blood to the heart muscle.

Light from an argon laser is fed into the optical fiber to heat the metal cap to 750 degrees so it can burn through the fibrous, waxy deposits.

These deposits, produced by hardening of the arteries, or atherosclerosis, are a leading cause of the more than 500,000 heart attack deaths in the United States annually.

Sanborn said that two research groups in England also have just begun using similar devices to burn away coronary artery blockages.

Sanborn, Dr. Gregory Abela of the University of Florida Health Science Center in Gainesville and other researchers at perhaps a dozen centers in the United States and Europe have used the devices to destroy obstructions in other arteries that are easier to treat.

Some doctors just don't listen

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I began to lose my hair, and also became impotent. Doctors told me that it was all in my head and that I needed a psychiatrist, that it was caused by a problem between my wife and me, etc. Then I found out that the medication I was taking was the culprit. Why don't doctors believe their patients?

DEAR READER — This is a good question. The answer depends on how far you want to generalize about the medical profession. Some doctors simply don't listen to their patients; these practitioners are not good doctors, in my opinion. Nonetheless, many perfectly capable physicians sometimes don't listen to their patients. There are many reasons for this; I suppose they all boil down to the fact that doctors are human and make misjudgments. Good doctors who sometimes fail to listen carefully to their patients usually regret their lapses. What may have seemed to be a straightforward case of imagined illness suddenly becomes an unusual disease (that the doctor didn't think of) or a side effect of medication (that the doctor didn't know of or forgot about).

I believe that the prudent practitioner must always assume that a patient's complaints are bona fide and real. If the doctor is unable to discover an appropriate cause of the complaints, he or she has the responsibility of referring the patient to another doctor. This is why there are specialists — physicians and surgeons who are trained in dealing with specific diseases or specific organ systems.

As a general rule, doctors try to do a good job and provide service. Physicians who are not comfortable listening to their patients (and giving them the benefit of the doubt) probably should seek other lines of work. Patients could help them with that decision by making tracks to the kind of doctor who does listen.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Does having a tubal ligation have any effect on weight gain?

DEAR READER — No. Weight gain after gynecological surgery is almost always due to diet. The woman consumes more calories than she burns up.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report, WEIGHT CONTROL THROUGH CALORIE CONTROL, which offers healthy tips on weight loss, diet and exercise. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A recent test showed that my urine had a urobilinogen level of 8, a small amount of bilirubin and a specific gravity of 1.030. All other values were normal. Is this something I should investigate?

DEAR READER — Yes, you should. There are traces of bile in your urine, which could indicate liver blockage or liver disease. In my opinion, you need a thorough medical examination and blood tests. Ask your doctor's opinion about this.

Seafood dangers reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seafood, which makes up a growing proportion of American diets because of its health benefits, also may present health risks because it is among the least regulated of foods, a private health advocacy group said today.

"The vast majority of seafood reaches the consumers' plates without being inspected by any government agency, state or federal," said a report by Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, a non-profit nutrition advocacy group.

The group said thousands of Americans become ill each year from eating seafood contaminated with bacteria or viruses, and many others are at long-term risk from consumption of products that contain toxic chemicals.

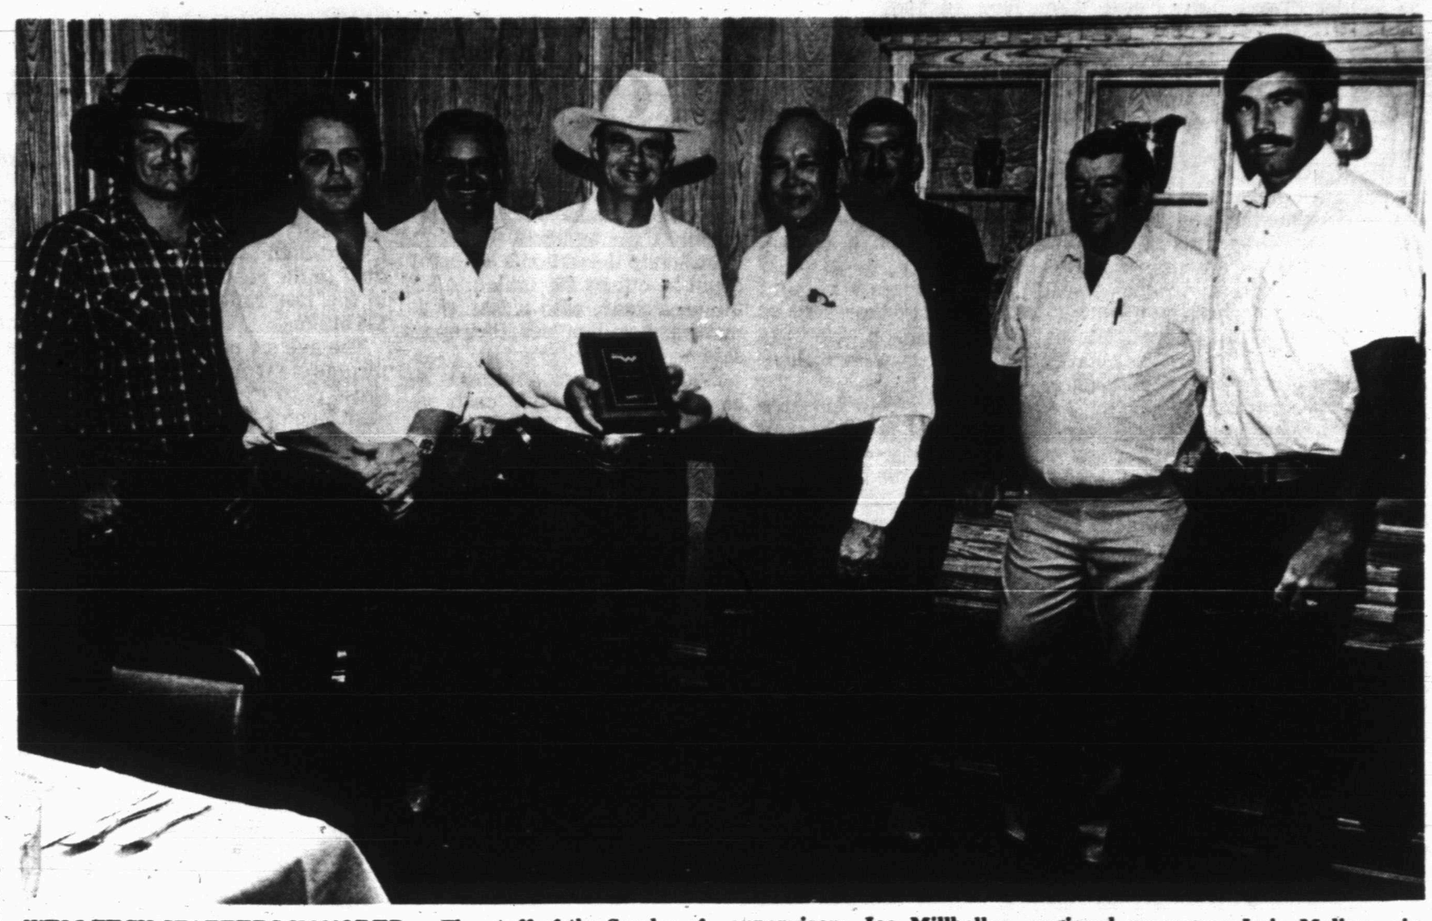

The report said the federal government should assume responsibility for setting uniform national standards for fish and seafood and set up an inspection program to make sure those standards are met, much like the program governing meat and poultry.

"The microbiological and environmental contamination in seafood is widespread and presenting harm, risks and unnecessary costs to the public," the group's report said, although it acknowledged that data on health consequences are sketchy because of inadequate reporting.

Inspection is handled primarily by the National Marine Fisheries Service, an arm of the Commerce Department. But that inspection is entirely voluntary and intended more to promote sales of seafood than to protect consumers, the group said.

The service's inspections have been declining at the same time that U.S. seafood consumption has risen, the report found. In 1985, the average American ate a record 14.5 pounds of fish and shellfish, an 11 percent increase since 1980.

Withholding forms expands to 4 pages

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 100 million workers are about to have their first encounter with the new overhaul of the federal income tax.

Within the next several days, employers across the nation will begin receiving supplies of a revised Form W-4 that every worker is required to file to adjust the amount of taxes that will be withheld from paychecks once the new law takes effect Jan. 1.

The sooner the form is filed, the better for most workers, says the Internal Revenue Service. Under the law, employees have until Oct. 1 to complete the form, but a person who waits that long could face a penalty for having too little withheld earlier in the year.

Whatever simplification is expected from the new tax law, it is not evident in the new W-4 forms. The old form and its instruction covered two pages; the new version, unveiled by the IRS at a news conference Tuesday, covers four pages and includes a 22-column table of figures.

It could have been made simpler, said IRS Commissioner Lawrence B. Gibbs. But in 1988, when workers begin filing tax returns under the new law for the first time, "many taxpayers would learn they owed thousands more in taxes and, in some cases, penalties as well," he said.

"Going from two pages to four means a more complicated-looking form and the greater likelihood of some public confusion but doing so also means people's withholding will be reasonably close to the actual amount of tax owed," Gibbs said.

The W-4 form has been revised to reflect that the new tax law raises personal exemptions and standard deductions but reduces some itemized deductions and repeals others. The aim is to permit workers to bring their withholding reasonably close to their actual tax liability.

About three-quarters of the 102 million tax returns filed this year claimed refunds, meaning those taxpayers had too much withheld from their paychecks. Refunds averaged $982. Many people deliberately have taxes overwithheld because they like to get a one-time refund, but Gibbs said those who want to balance withholding and liability will find it easier under the revised form.

To fill out the form, workers will have to estimate what adjustments (such as Individual Retirement Account contributions), itemized deductions and tax credits they will have under the new law for 1987.

Over half of all workers — chiefly those who do not itemize deductions and do not have a working spouse — will be able to adjust withholding on the new form without making any calculations at all, said Arthur Altman, the IRS official in charge of forms.

WTSU board is behind president

CANYON, Texas (AP) — West Texas State University regents gave President Ed Roach their wholehearted and unanimous support despite a no-confidence vote the faculty earlier gave him.

"The board feels that Dr. Roach had done an outstanding job during these times of financial difficulties for higher education," Board Presiednt T. Boone Pickens said after the Tuesday vote.

The vote follows two weeks of controversy at the university during which time faculty members voted no confidence in Roach and the Alumni Association gave Roach its support.

"In as far as Dr. Roach is concerned, the task at hand is not completed and the job will not be easier, but we as a board wish to express our appreciation to him and offer our total support."

Idling cropland could increase food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp increases in consumer food prices and unemployment will occur if new programs are designed to take huge amounts of surplus cropland from production, an economic analysis by the Agriculture Department predicts.

Some critics of farm policy want strict programs of supply management to curb excess production of wheat, corn and other crops to drive up prices and improve farmers' income.

The department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday that 1986 net farm income may be in the range of $26 billion to $30 billion, a $1 billion increase from the agency's forecast last month.

In 1985, net farm income dropped to $30.5 billion from a record of $32.7 billion in 1984, a year in which a huge rise in farm inventories ballooned net income figures from $13 billion in 1983.

By USDA reckoning, net income figures reflect changes in the value of crop and livestock inventories.

The report said that a large-scale acreage program to idle 125 million acres, about half the program crop acreage base, could boost U.S. farm prices 30 percent to 40 percent from their 1985-86 level. By comparison, the 1986 program idled about 44 million acres.

As a result of such a massive acreage program, federal spending for price support and income support payments "would fall to nearly zero" after a few years and farmers' net cash income would probably rise, the report said. In contrast, spending for various farm programs in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30 rose to a record $25.8 billion.

"However, large farm price increases (caused the sharp cuts in production and) would likely reduce U.S. farm exports 30 to 50 percent," the report said. "Also, the mix of foods purchased by domestic consumers would shift away from more expensive high-value products in response to a 30-35 percent rise in retail food prices."

Further, under such a program, U.S. agriculture's contribution to the nation's economy could be cut by $50 billion to $75 billion a year, with a loss of as many as 2 million jobs, the report said.

Under another method of calculation, the "net cash income" of farmers this year is expected to be in the range of $42 billion to $46 billion, down $1 billion from the October forecast. Net cash income in 1985 was at a record high of $44 billion, according to the report. The midpoint in the 1986 range would also be $44 billion.

The agency computes net cash income of farmers by subtracting gross cash expenses from gross cash income from farming operations.

"Net cash income for crop farms is expected to be down in 1986, going from 1985's average $27,000 per farm to about $25,000," the agency said in a brief summary of a December outlook report. "Government payments to crop farms will rise more than 50 percent, cushioning this year's drop in commodity prices."

Economists said lower expenses this year should save crop farms more than $3 billion in 1986.

"The average livestock operation, which typically includes some crop production, had cash income of more than $17,000 this year because of higher prices, production and government payments and lower expenses," the report said.

TSTA/NEA PRIDE IN excellence

A Matter of Discipline

The Texas State Teachers Association, along with this newspaper, is proud to sponsor this series of articles to help parents instill pride and excellence in our children's school careers.

Parents want to rear children to be responsible, caring members of society. Discipline is, of course, part of this effort.

Some parents worry that they may not be using discipline effectively.

Will sparing the rod spoil the child? Should you give your child nothing but kindness and patience in hopes of avoiding any psychological damage? Should you reward your children every time they do something right? Too much physical punishment can be harmful to a child and often doesn't accomplish the goal. Besides, the parents don't want their children to fear them.

Indulgence and reward don't always work either when used separately. How can you find the right balance for your child so you can deal constructively with his behavior? Here are a few suggestions.

Talk with your children. Ask them why they aren't doing what you are asking them to do. Maybe they've had a bad day or have been bullied by someone and they are choosing to ignore you as a way of asserting themselves. They may not respond to reason, though. If so, explain the consequences of disobedience and then follow through if they still choose to disobey.

Think carefully about your feelings toward discipline and behavior. Do you have clear, reasonable rules? Do you enforce them as soon as you find they have been broken? Are there specific times for curfews, TV cutoff, homework, bedtime?

Encourage your children to respect proper authority. Explain to them that there are some things that can't be changed and that these are rules that must be obeyed.

Remember that children need firmness. Set limits for their actions that they aren't ready to set for themselves. This doesn't mean that you always should try to impose your will upon your children. Find areas you know your child can decide for him/herself.

Teach your child to be cautious. They can plan to avoid trouble by steering clear of fights, by not carrying money and other valuables to school, and by not joining in when other students disrupt class. If your child does get into trouble in school, make sure you have all the facts before you act. Talk with everyone involved.

Watch for signs of chronic misbehavior — poor grades, truancy, drifting. Many children misbehave when they are trying to act like adults too soon. They feel they can make decisions for themselves when they really aren't ready yet. Some are influenced by questionable companions or use drugs and alcohol. That may be the time for you to get outside help. If you see your child slipping into behaviors that you can't correct by yourself, outside help may be your next step. Talk to teachers and counselors for referrals.

There's a lot of hard work involved in disciplining children. Your children may have been misbehaving for some time. They may not think you mean it when you start to correct them after all this time. Don't give up. Sometimes, when you think you are making the least headway, children surprise you and do what you ask.

Remember, an important factor in your child's self-image is what they think you think of them, and their self-image is a major factor in how they act and what they do.

Tough questions await president at turning point

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, struggling to get off the defensive and quell reports of dissension within his administration, faces questions at a news conference about sending arms to Iran, a nation he accuses of fostering terrorism.

The president meets the White House press corps tonight for the first time in three months, and questions are certain to focus on recent turns in the Reagan administration's foreign policy.

Attention was expected to turn to matters such as Reagan's denial that he had swapped arms for hostages with Iran, as well as the confusing results of his Iceland summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

On the domestic front, Reagan most probably will be asked about his failed campaign to hold onto a Republican Senate and whether he plans to take a confrontational or cooperative style with the new Democratic Congress during his final two years in office.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters Tuesday that Reagan and his staff prepare so extensively for the quizzing that "we can guess 99 out of 100 questions that you guys pose and we can tell 'em nine times out of 10 who's going to ask them."

Reagan's news conference comes a week after he attempted to curb media speculation about the deal with Iran in a nationally televised speech. Reagan said he wanted to give the facts to the American people because he had been forced by media reports to make public the secret relationship with Iran.

Fourteen percent of 1,464 adults polled nationwide by the Los Angeles Times last weekend said they found Reagan's statement essentially true.

The president said he had approved a secret effort to establish contacts with moderate elements in the Iranian government and admitted that some U.S. arms had been shipped to Iran as a result. He denied that the arms were traded for the release of three Americans held hostage in Lebanon.

The arms shipments to Iran were part of a seven-year pattern of CIA operations to gain favor with the Tehran government while at the same time trying to destabilize it, according to unnamed sources cited by The Washington Post today.

Reagan also is expected to be queried on the apparent split within his administration over the Iranian connection and his reasons for not informing congressional leaders and the Joint Chiefs of Staff about the operation.

Museum planning Christmas exhibit

Christmas decorations for the Scurry County Museum will be made in workshops planned this week and next week.

Anyone who would like to give volunteer time to the project is invited to attend the workshops, planned from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Nov. 19, 20, 21, 24, and 25.

A special demonstration on making dough art ornaments is scheduled at 1 p.m. on Thursday. Martha Gist will be in charge of the program.

"We would appreciate any help, whether an hour or every day," Shirley Leftwich, museum director, said. "People who can come during the lunch hour can bring a sandwich and we will provide tea and coffee."

"Christmas in Storybook Land" will be the theme of this year's holiday decorations in the museum and the museum would like to borrow storybook toys for an exhibit being planned. For more information call 573-6107.

Your Birthday

Nov. 20, 1986

I've good news for you, Scorpio. It looks like your bank account will be much fatter by your next birthday than it is at the time of this year's celebration.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The smaller pieces will slip into place today once you perceive the general outline. Don't try to put the details first. Major changes are ahead for Scorpio in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Confidential information given to you today will eventually prove to be to your benefit. However, secrecy is essential for the present.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your assessment of a situation is especially keen today, so rely upon your judgment. You won't miss any relevant clues when sifting through the evidence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In career situations today, your greatest asset is your ability to take a nominal opportunity and enlarge it into something really worthwhile. Use it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) What may appear to be a moderate gesture of good will from a loved one might turn out to be something far grander than you first imagined.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're in the thoughts today of someone with whom you have powerful emotional links. This dear friend is ready to help you where needed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Paint your canvas with bold strokes and bright colors today. Your bigger ideas will do better than any of your lesser ones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Most days, we have to work very hard for what we get, but this is one of those times when you may do well materially without having to put in too much effort.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be hesitant to take control today where you see persons who are supposed to be in charge just floating. If you can do better, do it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A project that interests not only you, but several others as well, will meet with success today if everyone involved looks out for one another.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you may have to influence a small, select group. If this is true, single out the key people. Work closely with them instead of with the majority.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is the time for Librans to try to figure out ways to expand upon good things they already have in the mill, especially the moneymakers.

AMERICAN FARMER–Barry Ezra of Ira, left, is congratulated by Coby Shorter, right, National FFA secretary, on his achievement of the American Farmer Degree. The degree was awarded in a ceremony at the 59th National FFA convention, held in Kansas City, Mo. Nov. 13-15.

B. Ezra becomes American Farmer

KANSAS CITY, Mo.–Barry Ezra of Ira, son of Martha Ezra, joined an elite group of Future Farmers of America achievers recently when he received the highest FFA degree of membership–that of American Farmer.

Along with 735 other outstanding FFA'ers, the former Ira FFA chapter member was honored at the 59th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Ezra, a sophomore at Western Texas College, is a 1985 graduate of Ira High School.

Always a highlight of the convention, the American Farmer degree ceremony included the presentation of a certificate and gold key to Ezra as he walked across the convention stage in front of thousands of FFA members.

The American Farmer program is a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Government renews toy safety campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consider whether those darling toys beckoning from the store window are safe and sturdy before buying them as Christmas gifts, federal safety experts are urging.

"Nothing should spoil one of the real highlights of this time of year — the sight and sound of children happily playing with their new toys," Consumer Product Safety Commission Chairman Terrence M. Scanlon said Tuesday, at the agency's annual Christmas toy safety news conference.

Most parents are pretty careful of what they buy, but still there is a need for annual reminders, added Barbara Bush, wife of Vice President George Bush.

Scanlon stressed choosing the proper toy for children of various ages, and announced that the Safety Commission has issued two new pamphlets to help parents do this.

Entitled "Which Toy for Which Child: A Consumer's Guide for Selecting Suitable Toys," the booklets come in versions for ages birth through 5 and for ages 6 through 12. They can be obtained, at no charge, by calling the commission at 800-638-2772, or writing the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C., 20207.

Grant Teaff honored by Baylor University

WACO–Baylor University head football coach Grant Teaff was designated an Alumnus Honoris Causa in special homecoming ceremonies recently.

Teaff, a native of Snyder, was presented a special certificate by Baylor president Herbert H. Reynolds.

The Alumnus Honoris Causa award recognizes "the loyalty and dedication of friends of Baylor, sufficient to warrant honorary alumni status," Dr. Reynolds said. "The award is reserved for a fraction of one percent of our constituencies to ensure the prominence of the award."

Teaff, a graduate of McMurry College, is in his 15th year as head coach at Baylor and has compiled an 87-76-5 overall record. His 87 victories are the most in school history, and his 58 wins in Southwest Conference games rank sixth on the all-time SWC list.

He was named National Coach of the Year in 1974 and has been named SWC Coach of the Year five times.

Baldridge honored by royalty group

Buddy Baldridge of Clairemont has been named by the National Association of Royalty Owners, Inc. as the organization's outstanding member of 1986 at its recently completed annual convention in Oklahoma City.

The 40-year-old ranch, CPA and petroleum gas lease management consultant is currently chairman of NARO-Texas, the state affiliate of the 39,000 member national association. Both are devoted to representing mineral, royalty and surface owners of the nation.

Baldridge received the "Chairman's Cup," the group's highest honor, from outgoing national NARO chairman Tom Allen of Houston.

Baldridge was responsible for merging the West Texas Land & Royalty Owners Association with NARO-Texas this past year, which added nearly 500 extra members into the state organization greatly expanding NARO's capability in the state," Allen said.

Allen said Baldridge also was responsible for establishing a new NARO capability in Austin, where Warren Anderson, veteran oil industry lobbyist and attorney, has been retained to represent NARO-Texas members in legislative and regulatory maffairs.

Baldridge has served as a member of the NARO National Legislative Council since 1983 and as a member of the organization's Board of Governors since 1984.

His business interests include ownership of Energy Consultant Services of San Angelo, a petroleum land management organization serving mineral and royalty owner clients throughout the nation.

Indicted judge is denied paid leave

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — State District Judge Tom Cave, charged with swapping courtroom leniency for sex, began an unpaid leave of absence Tuesday after his request for a salaried leave was denied.

The State Commission on Judicial Conduct rejected Dave's request to continue getting his $75,587 annual salary while on leave, said commission director Bob Flowers.

Flowers would not say why the commission refused the pay request, but said the judge will be allowed to contest the decision during a Jan. 9 hearing in Austin.

The Texas Constitution allows the commission to suspend a judge under indictment, with or without pay, as soon as the indictment is issued. But the commission generally allows judges to step aside before they are suspended.

In his request to the commission made yesterday, Cave, 56, said the 11-count federal indictment against him is based on witnesses who are not credible.

"I assure you that immediately following my vindication at trial, I want to resume my duties," Cave said in his letter sent Tuesday to the commission.

Tom Hill, one of Cave's attorneys, called the judge's request "not a pleasant decision, but one we thought was best for all."

Before being indicted Friday, Cave said in an interview with The Dallas Morning News that he planned to continue as 213th District Court judge.

The judge, along with attorney Ronald Aultman and bail bondsman Joe Dorsey Adams, are accused of conspiracy to violate civil rights, violation of civil rights and mail fraud. Aultman faces three additional charges of witness tampering.

The 18-page indictment accuses the men of coercing female probationers to have sex with Cave in return for leniency from the bench. In one case, the indictment alleges Cave had sex with a probationer about 90 minutes before she appeared in his court.

Shooting rampage stuns neighbors

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — A man described by neighbors as a loner is accused of rambling through his neighborhood firing at neighbors and police in a bloody shooting spree.

In a matter of minutes, William Douglas Riley gunned down three of his neighbors and a Killeen policeman in a flash of violence police say they cannot explain.

Police said Riley, 64, had never filed complaints against his neighbors nor did he offer any reason for the shootings when questioned.

Monday, Riley was charged with attempted capital murder, three counts of attempted murder and burglary of a habitation with intent to commit a felony. He was held Tuesday in Bell County Jail under bonds totaling $95,000.

Neighbors in the federal housing complex where Riley lived said the old man was known as being very withdrawn.

"He had nothing to say to nobody," said neighbor Robert Edwards. "He was a loner."

But Sunday night, after being startled by gunshots, Edwards and his neighbors watched in shock as a man they identified as Riley walked calmly along the sidewalk pumping a shotgun.

Riley first struck at his next door neighbor's home.

Cenobia Escamilla, Riley's next door neighbor, was a friend of Riley's daughter and said hello to him occasionally. She knew him better than any of the other neighbors.

Escamilla, her husband Felix Bargas, cousin Cornelio Lopez and her parents were watching television about 7:20 p.m. when they heard what they thought was a car backfiring.

Moments later the family was diving for cover after a shotgun blast shattered the back window. Ms. Escamilla was struck in the abdomen and Lopez suffered a severe wound to his side.

Ms. Escamilla lay still on the floor pretending to be dead but waiting for the next blast she knew would kill her, she said from the hospital where she was listed in stable condition.

Riley walked coolly from the house and returned home for more ammunition.

"I just can't believe how calmly he walked back to his house," said Mary Perez, a neighbor.

UNIQUE PHOTO–Created through a unique process using wood, this print will be displayed with numerous other photographs and artwork by USAO senior Cindy R. Hanzalik. The exhibit opened Sunday and will run through Nov. 30 in the USAO Art Gallary. (USAO Photo)

Former resident's exhibit underway

CHICKASHA, Okla.–An exhibit featuring silkscreen prints, photographs and other artwork by senior Cindy R. Hanzalik of Chickasha opened Sunday with a reception in the Art Gallery at the University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma.

Hanzalik is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Hanzalik, former Snyder residents.

Titled "Bridges Crossed and Bridges Waiting to be Crossed," the exhibit will be open through Nov. 30. The USAO Art Gallery is located on the third floor of Davis Hall.

Hanzalik has earned scholarships and honors at both USAO and Western Texas College, where she attended before transferring to USAO in 1984.

At WTC, she was a member of the Art Club, Kappa Chi, and earned the Nancy Caton Merit Scholarship.

At USAO, she earned a talent scholarship and is treasurer of the Art Club. Hanzalik also is a member of Phiwho participated in an intense five-day study of Africa'a socioeconomic development. The Scholar-Leadership Enrichment Program (SLEP) is sponsored by the State Regents for Higher Education.

Last year, her photos were exhibited at the Photographer's Forum and "Come and Take It" Art Show. Awards include first through fourth place showings in a 1982 exhibit in Snyder. An earlier appearance at the "Come and Take It" Art Show earned Hanzalik first, second and fourth place awards in 1982.

Snyder JV defeats Wylie girls in OT

Snyder junior varsity girls got some key free throws to edge Wylie High School 47-43 in double overtime here Tuesday night.

The game was the first for both teams this season.

The young Tigers were down 37-32 late in regulation but hit a hot streak when Evette Housden scored to make it a three-point ballgame. Michelle Candanoza bagged a pair of free throws minutes later, and Teena Braziel's charity shot with 16 seconds sent the game into overtime.

The teams exchanged leads but Melissa Williams managed a pair of free throws with four seconds left to give the game a 41-41 look and force another three-minute period.

Snyder never trailed in the second overtime. Shelly Tomlin bagged a field goal and Braziel followed it up with a pair of free throws. Braziel later gave the hosts a 47-41 advantage on another field goal.

Braziel's 15 points and 13 rebounds paced the effort. Beth Alvis punched in 9 points and Williams and Housden added 6 apiece. Tomlin led on the boards with 16 rebounds. Candanoza had nine steals.

"We turned the ball over way too many times (59) and showed a lot of inexperience," said Coach Vicki Nelms. "Still, I thought that the girls showed a lot of character to overcome that. They did a good job."

Snyder will play again Friday, taking on Hermleigh varsity girls at 6:30 p.m. in the high school gym. A second game, pitting Snyder sophomore boys against Hermleigh varsity boys, will be held at 8 p.m.

Fouls flood Snyder Gymnasium as ladies tumble to Wylie Bulldogs

Had it been a football game, neither team would have reached the 10-yard line.

Snyder's Lady Tigers went down to defeat in the season basketball opener here Tuesday night, falling 59-57 to a good Wylie High School team amidst a shower of referees' flags - make that whistles.

The Tigers were whistled for 35 fouls and finished the game with only four players. Wylie benefitted by going to the line an outrageous 47 times. The Lady Bulldogs canned 29 nine of them and that was the difference.

There were a couple of other reasons the Tigers came up short, however. The Tigers have lost only 13 ballgames in just over two years, and in almost all of them, Snyder got behind early in the game. That was the case Tuesday as Wylie led 12-5 after the first quarter and 29-16 at intermission.

BREAKS PRESS – Wylie's Tammy Harvey gets the ball past the outstretched arms of Snyder junior Teri Sue Henry during Tuesday's ballgame between the Bulldogs and Tigers-here. The Tigers were hit with 35 fouls and finished the game with just four girls on the floor. They rallied from a double-figure deficit but fell short, 59-57, at the final buzzer. (SDN Staff Photo)

"We only shot the ball a few times in the first six minutes. We just weren't putting the ball up much," said Coach Ken Housden.

Also, Snyder got just 10 of its 57 points from the post position, which will take time to jell. The Tigers start two sophomores at the spot, along with junior Teri Sue Henry.

"I thought we settled down and played much better in the second half, but those fouls killed us. I can't believe we had 35 fouls," said Housden.

The Tigers did play better in the second half. Snyder outscored the visitors 8-1 early in the third quarter. Six straight points from Stephanie McKnight made it a 30-24 ballgame.

But the Tigers were already in foul trouble. They lost their first player, sophomore post Rhonda Echols, with 3:28 still to go in the quarter.

Wylie eventually went back in front by as many as 10 points. Holly Fuller came off the bench to offer a hand and she cashed in for four quick points to put Snyder within two points, 48-46, midway through the fourth quarter. Still, Snyder was losing players at a rapid rate. Melody Pickering, the other sophomore post, joined Echols and Henry on the bench with 3:39 left to play in the game. Wylie increased its lead to six points.

LaFon Williams came in and scored a three-point play to pull the Lady Tigers within three, 57-54, with under a minute to play. McKnight and Wylie's Cindi Tate pitched in a free throw apiece moments later. McKnight, a 5-3 point guard, scored on a 15-footer with 21 seconds left to bring the Tigers within a point, 58-57.

Snyder tried to force a turnover at that point, but Wylie got the ball down court, and McKnight fouled Tate again with five seconds left. McKnight joined Henry, Echols, Pickering, Angie Housden and Christy Comer on the bench - leaving just four players on the floor for Snyder.

Tate went to the line and hit her first free throw. The second was no good and was rebounded by Williams, but the Tigers were unable to get a shot off before the final buzzer.

McKnight's 27 points led the Tigers. Comer and Williams scored 6 apiece and Henry, Fuller and Echols notched 4 apiece. Snyder went to the line 28 times but connected on only 13 occasions.

Wylie got 15 points apiece from a pair of 5-10 juniors, Tracy Corn and Marian Shelton. Shelton was 11 of 15 from the stripe.

Tammy Harvey added the effort with 11 points. She was 9 of 10 from the line. Tate scored 9 points.

Snyder will try to tone down the whistles this weekend as the Lady Tigers play in the Big Spring Tournament. Snyder is scheduled against Lubbock Coronado at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Big Spring High School Gym.

'Little' Lever looms large

by The Associated Press

Lafayette Lever is proving that even a little guy can sometimes prosper in the paint, where the NBA big men reside.

The 6-foot-3 Denver guard had 21 points and 15 rebounds, giving him 33 rebounds in two games, as the Nuggets defeated the New Jersey Nets 125-112 Tuesday night.

"What's happening is the big guys are blocking out really well and the guards have been able to sneak in and get the ball off the boards," Lever said. "For us to win, we have to get the ball moving and get everyone involved in the offense like we did tonight."

While Lever was frustrating the Nets, who have the NBA's worst record at 2-7, 6-foot-7 Alex English scored a season-high 43 points for the Nuggets.

"Alex always makes the big shots," Nuggets Coach Doug Moe said. "He didn't want to come out, but we had to give him a little rest and he played 43 of a possible 48 minutes."

In other games, it was Los Angeles Lakers 114, Dallas 110; Milwaukee 111, Golden State 85; Portland 115, Houston 111 in overtime; Indiana 98, Los Angeles Clippers 93; and Seattle 119, Sacramento 105.

Trail Blazers 115, Rockets 111

Portland won its fourth straight game as Kiki Vandeweghe scored six of his 23 points in the final 1:18 of overtime at Houston.

The Rockets led 81-74 going into the fourth quarter before a 12-3 spurt gave the Trail Blazers an 86-84 edge. Nine straight Houston points by Mitchell Wiggins gave the Rockets a 97-91 advantage with 2:10 left, but a basket with three seconds left by Terry Porter, who scored 22 points, forced the overtime.

Robert Reid scored 21 points for the Rockets, who lost Ralph Sampson with a right ankle sprain in the second quarter. Sampson missed the start of the season with a sore left ankle.

Lakers 114, Mavericks 110

Magic Johnson scored 29 points, nine of them in a 3½-minute span, as Los Angeles came from behind to win at Dallas.

Johnson's seven points took the Lakers from a 100-100 tie to a 107-102 lead with 1:43 left in the game. After the Mavericks scored five straight points, Johnson added two free throws to

Bay City player highlights Texas preseason cage team

HOUSTON (AP) - Bay City's LaBradford Smith throws a baseball 90 mph, can high jump 6-feet-8 and once used his 40-inch vertical leap to hurdle a defender to dunk a basketball.

Rosenberg Terry's Johnny Pittman is the state's latest 7-foot super-star, often compared for former Houston schoolboy Tito Horford, now playing for the University of Miami.

Smith, a guard, and Pittman, a postman, headline the preseason Texas schoolboy all-state basketball team selected by Jay Parker of Houston.

Smith and Pittman are joined on the first team by forwards Larry Johnson of Dallas Skyline and Darren Terry of Hughes Springs and guard Courtney Jeans of Hurst-Bell.

Parker's scouting service ranks schoolboy basketball players throughout the state and publishes them in a scouting letter and newsletter.

Pittman signed a scholarship agreement with the University of Kentucky last week and will attend the SEC school next fall.

"He needs to be brought along slowly," Parker said. "He'll contribute as a freshman, start as a sophomore and own the world as a junior."

Pittman averaged 13.4 rebounds, 18.1 points and seven blocked shots per game last year as a junior. He hit 52 percent of his field goals.

"He won't be a forward," Terry Coach Fletcher Walker said. "He's 262 pounds plus. He's a dyed-in-the-wool post player."

Pittman is built like Darryl Dawkins (NBA New Jersey Nets)," Parker said. "After he catches the ball, there's nothing anyone can do."

Smith, 6-3, is one of the top recruited schoolboy players in the nation. He has led Bay City to a 94-3 record, including the 1985 state title.

"He's one of the top players in the nation, in a class by himself," Parker said. "He literally jumped over Ivan Jones (former Houston Madison player). Ivan was set to take a charge and LaBradford jumped clean over him and dunked the ball."

Killeen's Maurice Artis, 6-11, 225, is the post on Parker's second team.

The second team forwards are Darrell Johnson, 6-6, 225, Houston Yates, and Vladimir McCrary, 6-6, 210, San Antonio Madison. The guards are Rodney Diggs, 6-4, 170, Houston Yates, and Tony Jackson, 6-3, 180, North Dallas.

Johnson already has signed a scholarship agreement wth Southern Methodist and should make an immediate impact with the Ponies, Parker said.

"He's a Charles Barkley (NBA Philadelphia 76ers) type," Parker said. "Put him in a Houston Rockets uniform and you'd think he was a pro."

Smith won a dunk contest last year that temporarily left the audience speechless, Parker said, adding that Smith threw the ball 50 feet in the air from half court and then started running for the basket.

"As the ball reached its apex and started down, LaBradford was going up," Parker said. "He grabbed the ball with one hand and stuffed it with the other.

"There was total silence for about two seconds. Nobody could believe what they saw. LaBradford told me later it was just something he'd worked out in his back yard."

Cowboys to use big play Sunday against Washington

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys will feature something new and something old in their weapons inventory Sunday against the Washington Redskins.

Something new: Rookie wide receiver Mike Sherrard.

Something old: Veteran running back Tony Dorsett.

Landry says he hopes the pair can provide a big-play explosion to beat Washington.

"That's what beats them," he said. "Big plays."

Dallas, 7-4, trails Washington and the New York Giants, both 9-2, in the NFL Eastern Division. A loss could be a serious blow to Dallas' playoff hopes.

Dorsett has been bothered by an injured knee since the third game of the season. But Landy said the fourth-leading rusher in NFL history has rebounded.

"Tony's starting to come back now," Landry said. "The Raider game (two weeks ago) was the turning point. Now he knows he can have a little pain and still run well."

Dorsett rushed 22 times for 101 yards and one touchdown against Los Angeles. Against the Chargers on Sunday, Dorsett took a screen pass 25 yards to the 2-yard line late in the game to set up Dallas' winning touchdown. He also rushed for 76 yards.

"He and Mike Sherrard are the ones who could make the big plays," Landry said.

Sherrard leads the NFC with a 23.1-yards-per-catch average. He leads the team with five touchdowns.

Landry has gradually worked Sherrard into the offense. He said he will give the first-round draft choice from UCLA more playing time against Washington.

"When the ball touches his hand, he doesn't miss it too often," Landry said. "We'll probably have him on the field a lot more."

Landry indicated running back Herschel Walker is still slowed by injuries. Walker sprained his ankle Nov. 2 against the Giants, and he has a touch of bursitis in his right knee. Walker is listed as probable for the Redskin game.

He said it won't be easy to hit big plays against the Washington defense. He cited the San Francisco 49ers' loss to Washington on Monday night. San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana threw for a team-record 441 yards. He blistered the Redskins for 33 completions.

But San Francisco managed only six points.

"Washington seems to have returned their healthy people," he said, "everybody seems to be back now. They're a very tough, competitive team. With a defense that stays on the field out there and gives up 500 yards and you only score six points against them, they must have something going for them."

SMU's Reese suspended as still more allegations beseige Mustangs camp

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist tight end Albert Reese was suspended from a second game following still more allegations that he received benefits from a booster, school officials said.

In addition, allegations last week of more NCAA recruiting violations motivated Mustang Club board member Frank Roby to resign Monday. Roby said the "air of mystery" surrounding the athletic department had become too frustrating.

The Dallas Morning News reported Tuesday that a company controlled by developer George Owen, already accused of providing a rent-free apartment for Reese, paid utility bills for the former high school all-american.

SMU Athletic Director Bob Hitch said Tuesday that there was not enough time for the school to fully investigate the charges before the game Saturday against Arkansas and therefore had no choice but to suspend Reese.

Reese said he was disappointed he would have to miss the final game of his collegiate career. Nevertheless, he said he supported the university's decision and would root for his teammates from the sidelines.

Reese was suspended from last Saturday's game against Texas Tech because of allegations that Owen supplied him with a rent-free apartment. Owen denies the charge.

Roby said Monday he was tired of being kept in the dark about financial matters regarding the athletic department.

"We're the ones they go to and say, 'OK, guys, let's work harder to make this up. We're running short of money,'" Roby said. "Yet we have never been consulted on financial decisions at all - where the money goes and why."

Also Monday, SMU asked an NCAA committee to delay a scheduled hearing on a motion to return scholarships the university lost as a penalty for rules violations uncovered in 1985.

Hitch and faculty representative Lonnie Kliever said it might damage the university further to present evidence of cleaning up the program in the midst of more allegations.

Hitch and Kliever requested the postponement before the NCAA Committee on Infractions in Kansas City. The committee voted unanimously to postpone the appeal.

Last week, former SMU linebacker David Stanley said he got $25,000 to play for the Mustangs when he joined in 1983 and continued to get payments of $750 a month even after the school was placed on probation last year.

Hitch and other athletic officials have denied the allegations, and SMU President L. Donald Shields has said he will call a special board of governors meeting to discuss a plan of action.

Clemens adds AL MVP to award list

KATY, Texas (AP) - Boston pitcher Roger Clemens and his family have celebrated winning the American League's Cy Young Award and Most Valuable Player Award the past two weeks.

Clemens and his wife, Debbie, are expecting their first child in four days and the couple is busy decorating the nursery and trophy rooms in their new home.

But awards and fatherhood won't soften Clemens' approach to pitching when he returns next season.

"I guess I just get mean when I get between the lines because that's the way I make my living," Clemens said Tuesday after becoming the first starting pitcher in 15 years to win the AL's MVP title.

Last week, Clemens became the third player in history to earn the AL Cy Young Award by a unanimous vote after leading the Red Sox to the World Series with a 24-4 record.

"When I go between the lines, I change," Clemens said. "It's not arrogance or cockiness. I just realize that I only get about 35 chances to go out there in a season and I have to make the most of each opportunity."

Clemens, 24, received 19 of 28 first place votes for 339 points in easily outdistancing Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees and Boston teammate Jim Rice in the balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Mattingly, the 1985 MVP, had five first-place votes and 258 points but failed to become the first player to win the award in consecutive years since the Yankees' Roger Maris in 1960-61.

Rice, the league's 1978 MVP, was third with the other four first place votes and 241 points in the balloting by two writers in each of the 14 league cities.

Clemens made a spectacular comeback from shoulder surgery last August.

He won his first 14 games, set a major league record by striking out 20 batters against Seattle April 29 and became the Red Sox' slump breaker, winning 14 of his games following a Boston loss.

"I didn't plan it that way but it was a challenge that presented itself and I was fortunate enough to capitalize on the opportunities," Clemens said.

Schmidt NL MVP

NEW YORK (AP) - Mike Schmidt, the slugging third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, today was named the National League's Most Valuable Player and became only the third in his league to win the honor three times.

Schmidt, who was the MVP in 1980 and 1981, joined Hall of Famers Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers as three-time NL MVPs. Musial won the award in 1943, '46 and '48 while Campanella won in 1951, '53 and '55.

Schmidt won easily in the balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, drawing 15 first-place votes, five for second-place and four for third, totalling 287 points.

Glenn Davis of the Houston Astros, finished second with 231 points, polling six first-place votes. Gary Carter of the World Champion New York Mets had one first-place vote and finished third with 181 points while his teammate Keith Hernandez was fourth and drew the other two first-place votes. Hernandez had 179 points.

NBA ROUNDUP

put Los Angeles ahead to stay at 109-107.

Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 26 points.

Bucks 111, Warriors 85

Milwaukee set two team defense records in the first half while routing Golden State.

Ricky Pierce, starting for the injured Sidney Moncrief, scored 26 points and Jerry Reynolds added 23 for the Bucks, who established team lows by holding the Warriors to 13 points in the second period and 35 points in the first half. The Bucks shot 63 percent from the field for the game and led 85-55 at the end of the third quarter.

Purvis Short, averaging 25 points per game, scored 10 for the Warriors, while Joe Barry Carroll finished with six points, 11 under his norm.

Pacers 98, Clippers 93

John Long scored 12 of his 24 points in the third quarter, and Indiana went on to hand Los Angeles its fourth consecutive loss.

New officer slate ok'd by chamber

The slate of chamber officers for next year was approved by the full board Tuesday and will include David Kattes as president-elect for 1988.

Elizabeth Potts, current president-elect, will serve as president during 1987.

Other officers approved Tuesday were Mike Banta as vice president and Joe Coronado as treasurer. Banta will be in his final year of a three-year term and both Kattes and Coronado will be new directors beginning Jan. 1.

The other member of the chamber executive committee during 1987 will be Jack Denman in his capacity as immediate past president.

The action to approve the slate of officers came during the regular November meeting of the board.

It included a split vote by the board to approve a resolution endorsing the FM 1611 plan which was also the subject of a public meeting here Tuesday night.

The vote to endorse it was 5-1 with one abstention. Voting for the measure were directors Roy Baze, Barbara Gray, Max von Roeder, Barbara Williamson and Margaret Drum. Mike Banta voted against and Harley Bynum abstained.

Elizabeth Potts was presiding and was not required to vote. Directors Jack Denman, Fred Castillo and Phil Fortune had attended the meeting, but were required to leave before the FM 1611 vote was taken.

Absent Tuesday were Jerry Vestal and John Daniel.

In other chamber business, it was noted that income from chamber dues was now some $16,000 behind what was budgeted. Chamber Manager Mort Ewing credited this in part to a loss of one-year members initially recruited during a membership drive conducted in the spring of 1984.

The current income from dues is some $45,500, and he noted he feels from $45,000 to $50,000 annually from dues is "a realistic goal historically.

Directors also reaffirmed a plan made last week to film the AJRA National Finals Rodeo here within stipulated agreements; and heard a report concerning the appearance of the Lubbock Ballet performing the "Nutcracker" ballet here Dec. 13.

CIA operated in Iran for past seven years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA has conducted operations in Iran for seven years designed to thaw relations with Tehran and simultaneously help its internal opponents, a published report says.

The Reagan administration's once-secret program of contacts and arms shipments to Iran was just a part of that effort, which started during the Carter administration, The Washington Post reported in today's editions.

At the same time, Pentagon and administration officials told The Associated Press that the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff is prepared to tell Congress that the Pentagon knew nothing of President Reagan's decision to ship military supplies to Iran to improve relations with that country.

The Post report, citing intelligence and other sources it did not identify, said the CIA provided the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini with a list of between 100 and 200 names of people said to be Soviet collaborators and intelligence agents. About 200 suspects were executed, dealing a major blow to Soviet operations and influence in Iran, the report said.

Under President Carter, while 52 Americans were being held captive in Tehran, the CIA began several operations against Khomeini, designed to gather information and inflict "punishment" on the Iranian government, the article said.

Since then, the CIA has supported opponents of the Khomeini regime, the report said.

These efforts have included sending nearly $6 million in aid to the Front for the Liberation of Iran, the Paris-based main group of Iranian exiles opposed to Khomeini; providing equipment and money for the Front's anti-Khomeini radio station in Egypt, which broadcasts into Iran; and supplying a transmitter so Reza Pahlavi, son of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, could beam an 11-minute broadcast into Iran two months ago.

The Post, quoting administration sources, also reported that among the supplies Reagan sent Iran in recent months were parts for Hawk anti-aircraft missiles and for TOW antitank missiles.

Adm. William J. Crowe, chairman of the joint chiefs, has been called to testify next Tuesday before the House Armed Services Committee.

Museum 'needs' added patrons might swing a seven-member board vote in a different direction.

In response to questions from the chamber board regarding what they might do to support her effort, she replied, "Increasing the number of people (using the museum) is the main object."

Expanding on this, she asked that local citizens "come and see it regularly, bring other people with them and offer us any advise they feel might help."

The Diamond M Museum was opened here on April 1, 1964—growing out of the art collection established by the McLaughlins.

The center of the collection includes 13 original oil painting by N.C. Wyeth, famous for his illustrations of a children's classic book series.

Some of these paintings were recently selected for a world tour of Wyeth's works.

Other artists displayed there include Charles Russell, Frederick Remington, Andrew Wyeth and W.H.D. Koerner plus such current Western artists as Wayne Baize, James Boren, Emilie Guthrie Smith and Tom Ryan.

The museum has been featured in numerous statewide newspaper and magazine articles including a full-color feature in the Texas Highways magazine.

Comments asked for ISD course

The material now displayed will be sent to parents in the district. Part of the plan encourages the parent to work with their child at home in the study of the subject.

School officials note parents will be given the option of having their child taught the subject matter.

"Now is when we want public comment regarding the study unit," noted Assistant Superintendent Tom Scannicchio.

"That's why we urge parents to come by and look at this material and to appear at the meeting set up next Tuesday."

The material itself at the fifth grade level deals with such areas as the onset of puberty and describes the physical changes which both boys and girls go through at this time.

Included in the material are drawings which depict the reproductive systems for both males and females.

At the fifth grade level, school officials note, the plan is to group class members into boy or girl groups.

The seventh grade material discusses sex role stereotypes and begins to deal with such subjects as questions about pregnancy and intercourse, the menstral cycle, breast development, masturbation and veneral disease.

One emphasis of the course material will be to warn of the possibility of sexually transmitted diseases, for example AIDS.

At the high school level, the book material deals with "facts and myths" of contraception and the sex drives of both boys and girls.

Emphasized throughout the material is the need for parent-child communication regarding sex education.

Developing "communication skills" are detailed for both.

To remove loose or old veneer, Wood magazine suggests you start by working an edge loose with a thin-blade putty knife or drywall-taping knife. Then, squirt vinegar under the veneer to help release the old glue (give it a few minutes). The veneer should pop off in large sections.

FM 1611 draws mixed response

the impact of the project on the area. An investigation of the social and economic effects was also made.

"In 2½ years, the savings to motorists in time and fuel will pay for the road. However, we did not take into account money to be spent here during the construction phase," she said.

Although state officials can offer recommendations on possible alternative routes, Smith noted that no other route is feasible. "Our alternatives are to build or not to build," she added.

Billy Jackson, right of way agent for the highway department, explained procedures necessary to acquire a right-of-way from landowners. Although just over 26 acres will be required for the project, only 100 ft. of right-of-way will be needed across Winston property. County officials will be responsible for acquiring the right-of-way and will be responsible for the payment to the landowners.

In September, commissioners hired J.N. "Joe" Montgomery with the firm Austin-Foster Appraisal Associates of Abilene to appraise the needed right-of-way. Although the court accepted his report during their Nov. 3 meeting, the amount needed for acquisition has not been released.

State officials will monitor the right-of-way proceedings to make certain that the county follows federal regulations. "If the county cannot acquire the needed property (and the state approves the proposal), we will go with the right of eminent domain," Jackson said.

This occurs when a settlement for "just compensation" for the property cannot be reached with the landowner. The property is purchased from the owner even if he does not wish to sell in order to serve "the best interests of the community."

Jackson noted that during the appraisal process, the appraiser usually considers the property at its "best and highest use currently" according to existing market values. "Later commercial development will increase value of adjacent property," he said.

Ed Vernon, resident engineer in Snyder, explained the extension's proposed route and construction design.

As proposed, the improvement consists of two sections for a total length of 3.7 miles. The first section which follows existing county road southward from FM 1607 for approximately 1.8 miles will be rehabilitated with new materials.

The other section which crosses eastward to State Highway 350 (the Big Spring Hwy.) and intersects FM 2763 must be constructed across Winston property. As proposed, the roadway will be 40 ft. wide, providing two 12-ft. lanes with 8-ft. shoulders.

Vernon also noted that an intersection at FM 2763 and the Big Spring Hwy. will be created. "It will be signed or lighted depending on the needs of the traffic," he added.

Following a 10-minute recess, county residents offered additional remarks.

Wayne Glass, a local farmer and rancher, said that although farmers could benefit by the route, "I do have other routes."

"How are Snyder businesses goint to fair economically if everyone goes around? To exercise eminent domain just for convenience is wrong," he added.

City Engineer Don Osborn spoke for the proposal on behalf of City of Snyder staff. He cited two studies, one conducted in 1972 and the other in 1978, which recommended a truck bypass around the city to "handle a large volume of trucks carrying heavy equipment."

The 1972 comprehensive study, conducted by Southwest Planning Associates, Inc. of Bryan, surveyed all the city's needs including water, sewer, traffic and other areas. The 1978 study was specifically a traffic engineering study conducted by Turner, Collie and Braden Inc. of Austin.

Travis Hatter noted that the 1978 study projected Snyder's population to reach 18,000.

As a representative of the Western Texas College board of trustees, Edwin Parks noted that on June 9 the board unanimously passed a resolution in favor of the proposed construction. Trustees believe that sound will not be a problem for students since the buildings sit some 300 ft. from College Avenue and an equal distance from FM 2763 south of the college.

"The board is concerned about the ranchland. Half of the board are ranchers and they are concerned about splitting the property. But progress ought to prevail in this matter. The people (landowners) should be reimbursed in a liberal way," Parks added.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Mort Ewing noted that members of the chamber's board of directors have also passed a resolution in support of the proposal to eliminate traffic from the downtown square. "Initial studies conducted primarily by C.D. Gray indicate that the economy in the long run will be better off due to decreased maintainence costs.

Gray said that the state's proposal to utilize 1.8 miles of existing county road will transfer maintenance of the section from the county to the state. He added that current cost for maintenance totals some $10,000 per year.

Citing the need to reroute heavy trucks and those containing dangerous substances around the city, former city councilman Don Gressett also spoke in favor of the extension.

In response to a question by Travis Hatter, Burnett noted that the state issues the route permits to truck drivers, but has no means to enforce compliance with the route ordered.

Contractor Ralph Price and rancher Bill Voss also spoke in favor of the proposal due to their need to move large equipment around the county.

Speaking against the road, Oda Mae Spence added, "My son farms and never has had problems getting tractors through town because he gets up early."

County residents have 10 days to send additional comments to the Abilene office. Written statements will be accepted by the local office at Box 396, Snyder, and by the Abilene office at P.O. Box 150, Abilene, 79604. Statements must be postmarked by Nov. 28.

All material pertaining to the project will be forwarded to the Austin office for final deliberation. State officials will make their decision within 45 days after receiving the information.

If the state approves the extension, work will begin in the fall of 1987 with a projected completion date in August or September of 1988.

Shoplifting arrests noted

Police jailed two shoplifting suspects Tuesday, including one arrested at the Scurry County Jail.

That arrest resulted from a 1:40 p.m. call from employees of the Wall's Factory Outlet Store. They reported two black females shoplifting some children's clothing items from the store.

A car matching a description of the suspect's vehicle at Walls was later located parked at the Scurry County Jail and a 21-year-old woman — visiting a jail inmate — was arrested for misdemeanor theft at 2:35 p.m.

The second shoplifting suspect, a 29-year-old male, was arrested at 11:10 p.m.

Charges against him were related to the second arrest of a 21-year-old suspect Monday in connection with a series of shoplifting incidents at Safeway, Kmart and TG&Y said to have occurred over the past several weeks.

In other action Tuesday, city officers jailed one suspect for public intoxication.

One wreck occurs

A single minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in the 5:43 p.m. collision in the 2600 Block of 37th St. were a 1982 Chevrolet driven by Althea Schwartz Wood of 2703 38th St. and a 1967 Chevrolet driven by William Robert Harper of 3610 40th St.

No injuries were reported from that mishap.

Missile ban still sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz's proposal to retain "a small nuclear ballistic missile force" is raising new questions about the Reagan administration's arms control policies.

Two senior administration officials said Tuesday that Shultz had strayed from President Reagan's call for a ban on all U.S. and Soviet ballistic missiles.

Confusion over the arms control policies arose as the State Department and one of the officials said Shultz's statements had been approved by the administration.

Mrs. Byrom was honored as a parent volunteer for her work with Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts. She has been involved with the organizations for several years, this last stint began four years ago. She currently serves as den leader for Pack 258 and publicity chairman for the Lone Buffalo District. The presentation was made in conjunction with National Education Week. (SDN Staff Photo)

El Paso, New Mexico still fighting over water rights

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Lawyers in three-piece suits and cowboy boots battled each other in the latest round of a 6-year-old fight between El Paso, Texas, and New Mexico for one of the oldest issues of the American West — water rights.

El Paso, just 40 miles south of here, wants to drill 21 wells in the New Mexico side of the Hueco Basin, an underground body of water on both sides of the Texas-New Mexico border. It also is petitioning for another 266 wells in the Lower Rio Grande Basin, between El Paso and Las Cruces.

"Not one drop" of New Mexico water for El Paso has been the battle cry of those opposing the request, who have been nicknamed "no-droppers" because of their stance.

"I suggest they start implementing more stringent measures to safeguard their water sources for a long time," said Diane "Punkie" Garretson, Dona Ana County commissioner-elect.

At a hearing that began Tuesday before New Mexico State Engineer Steve Reynolds, attorney Peter Schenkken, representing El Paso, was surrounded by about a dozen lawyers for the "no-droppers."

Reynolds accepted hydrologist Lee Wilson as an expert witness for El Paso subject to cross examination by opposing lawyers, who spent a good part of the morning objecting to the state engineer's decision.

Wilson testified his experience includes studies on ground water use and conservation for several New Mexico municipalities and El Paso. Throughout his testimony, Wilson referred to a two-inch-thick report he prepared for El Paso to support the city's petitions.

El Paso's current population of about 500,000 is projected to grow at a rate of about 3 percent annually, he said. The city needs to find alternative water supplies and allow the Texas side of the Hueco Basin, from where it has been getting most of its water, time to replenish itself.

Widespread snickering from a crowd of about 50 people drowned out part of Schenkken's question to Wilson on whether El Paso would be willing to share with New Mexicans water it expects to draw from the requested wells.

Recent killing in Kyle, Tex. said example of gay bashing

KYLE, Texas (AP) — The slaying of an Austin businessman, whose body was found in a burning auto, may be an extreme example of "gay bashing," says a national homosexual rights group.

But a police investigator says that motive is only one possibility in last week's murder of Edward Schiffers, 39.

Schiffers was found dead in the front seat of his burning car at an Interstate 35 rest stop in Kyle. His hands were tied behind his back with baling wire, he was partially clothed and had been struck in the head, police said.

A preliminary autopsy indicated that the cause of death was smoke inhalation.

Jeff Gutierrez, a spokesman for the Gay and Lesbian Service Center of Los Angeles, said the rest stop where Schiffers was killed may have drawn people intent on attacking homosexuals because it was "a notorious meeting place for gays."

Both Schiffers' business partner and a former roommate told the Austin American-Statesman that their friend was homosexual but not the sort of person who would frequent such a hangout. They said he may have been attacked while stopping to use the rest room, the newspaper reported Tuesday.

Gutierrez said he heard about the slaying from a friend of Schiffers while helping to establish an information clearinghouse to keep track of and publicize assaults against homosexuals.

The issue of "gay bashing" has received increased news media attention in recent weeks. Attacks on homosexuals have "been going on for centuries," Gutierrez said, but they have intensified this year because of public fears about the spread of the AIDS virus.

Gutierrez said his information on the slaying is limited to the reputation of the rest area and the fact that Schiffers was a homosexual.

Police have reported neither suspects nor witnesses in the case. Firefighters found Schiffers' body about 4 a.m. Wednesday when they were called to the blaze by a passing motorist.

The Golden Gate Bridge opened at San Francisco May 27, 1937.
