MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned space probe toward Venus designed to make a soft landing on the night side of the planet.

An official announcement said the craft, Venus 6, would operate in conjunction with Venus 5, launched five days ago.

PIONEERED TRIP

The Soviet Union pioneered interplanetary contact when Venus 4 reached the distant planet Oct. 18, 1967.

The two new craft are expected to make the 155 million-mile trip by mid-May.

Tass said Venus 6 is designed to make a "smooth descent in the Venus atmosphere."

The equipment aboard will carry out "Scientific explorations together with Venus 5," Tass said.

Venus 6, as all previous craft in the Venus series, carries a pennant with an embossed image of Vladimir Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, and a coat of arms of the Soviet Union.

NO DETAILS

Tass gave no details on the exact mission of Venus 6. Earlier announcements of Venus 5 also were phrased in generalities.

Venus 6 was launched "to explore more fully the planet Venus and to receive a great volume of scientific information about it," Tass said.

Of the four known Venus shots, only one, Venus 4, succeeded in transmitting data from the planet's atmosphere. Venus 1 and Venus 2 sailed past the planet, and ground controllers lost contact with Venus 3 before it was to have hit the planet.

Venus 6 is equipped with a radio transmitter designed to operate throughout the mission. Tass gave the transmission frequency as 922.763 megacycles.

CONFIRMED HEAT

The United States sent an unmanned satellite, Mariner 5, past Venus in October, 1967. Mariner passed within 2,500 miles of the planet and confirmed findings by Venus 4 that the planet has a torrid atmosphere.

After its nearest approach to Venus, Mariner flew on into orbit around the sun.

HEART REJECTED Patient Dies

HOUSTON (AP) — The nation's second longest surviving heart transplant recipient died Thursday in St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

Henry W. Jurgens, 57, of Beatrice, Neb., who received a donor heart July 23, "died of apparent rejection" of the transplanted organ, a hospital spokesman said.

Until his death, Jurgens had lived longer than any other U.S. recipient except for Fred C. Everman, 58, who got a donor heart July 20 in St. Luke's. Everman now is at home in Arlington, Va.

Finds Sister Dead

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Valerie Thornton returned home Thursday to find the nearly nude body of her attractive, blonde sister, her feet tied together and a stocking around her neck.

Police said there was evidence of sexual aberrations in the death of Sandra Watson, 18, who had been baby-sitting for her sister. The baby was not harmed.

Police Chief John O'Connor said the apartment door was locked and that workmen in the building said they had heard nothing.

Children Killed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three children burned to death Thursday night in a fire which destroyed their apartment home while their mother was at a laundromat.

Police said when Grace Currera, 22, returned home, fire was spreading through the apartment. She received first- and second-degree burns in her effort to rescue the children.

The victims were John Currera, 4; his brother, Ryan, 2; and their sister, Lisa, 1.

Police said the children apparently had been playing with matches and the blaze apparently began in a garbage can.

Flu-Blamed Deaths Take Sharp Jump

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Deaths from influenza and pneumonia increased sharply again for the week ending Jan. 4, almost tripling the number expected, the National Communicable Disease Center said Thursday.

A NCDC spokesman said 1,323 persons died from flu and pneumonia during the week in 122 cities for which it keeps mortality statistics.

Only 528 deaths had been expected in those cities, leaving 995 to be attributed to the continuing epidemic of Hong Kong flu.

THIRD WEEK

It was the third consecutive week in which deaths more than doubled the number expected, according to NCDC figures. The center's weekly mortality report, however, said indications are that the epidemic is declining in many states.

In all 43 states have reported widespread or regional influenza activity over the past four months, the NCDC said.

As of Jan. 4, it said, widespread activity has been reported in 38 states, regional occurrence in five states and isolated outbreaks in six states.

Negro Students Hold Control At 2 Schools

Over 300 Arrests Made In California

By The Associated Press

Queens College, one of a half-dozen divisions of the City University of New York, prepared to reopen today after a two-day shutdown that followed the violent takeover of some offices by Negro and Puerto Rican students.

HOPEFUL

A spokesman said, "We really don't know what will happen. We're just hopeful." About 10 per cent of the 25,000 students are nonwhite.

Negro students remained in control of vital centers of two Eastern schools: Brandeis University at Waltham, Mass., and Swarthmore College, just outside of Philadelphia.

On the West Coast, police arrested 293 students peacefully in a second day of confrontation Thursday at San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif. At newly opened Southwest College 18 persons were arrested on charges of interfering with school operations. At East Los Angeles College 95 sheriff's deputies moved in to restore order after students took over a student center and one other building.

At California's El Camino College, Negro students burned an effigy of a speech teacher but the affair broke up without police being called.

At San Francisco State College, police broke up a demonstration after arresting five students and pushing a crowd of 500 away from the college entrance. Striking members of the American Federation of Teachers also defied a court order and resumed picketing but kept clear of students demonstrators.

MOSTLY NEGRO

Most of those involved in U.S. campus disorders were Negro students demanding changes in administration and policy of the colleges.

Militant students at San Fernando gathered for a teach-in, defying a state of emergency declared early Thursday by acting President Delmar T. Oviatt. It banned gatherings and permitted only faculty, students and staff members on the campus.

The arrests began about 10 a.m. Police marching 70 abreast, made several sweeps of the campus free-speech area before completing the roundup.

Police Sgt. Don Cook said the arrests were accomplished virtually without violence. This was in contrast to action Wednesday when about 1,000 demonstrators fought police who made 14 arrests. Six persons were injured then.

FERMENT

The San Fernando campus has been in ferment since Nov. 4 when members of the Black Student Union seized two buildings and held a number of persons at knife-point. They demanded changes in administration, staff and curriculum.

Swarthmore, with some 60 Negro students among 1,025 enrolled, has been working on a program to increase the number of Negro students, staff and counselors. Vice President Joseph B. Shane said. Action by 15 members of the Afro-American Student Society took school officials by surprise.

The students took over the 104-year-old school's administration building, saying they would remain until demands were met for a program to represent Negro interests in all policy decisions and amnesty for those involved in the takeover. About 45 Negroes are members of the society. School officials said classes continued and police were not summoned.

Brandeis President Morris B. Abram offered amnesty to about 60 Negro students who took over the university's communications center, but they rejected it. Their demands include establishing an independent African studies department and hiring of Negro professors. They say the demands are non-negotiable.

Dropout Suspected As Plane Hijacker

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The FBI flew a photograph of a Purdue University dropout to Miami today for examination by the crew of an Eastern Air Lines plane that was hijacked to Cuba Thursday with 72 passengers aboard.

The picture was that of Ronald Thomas Bohle, 21, whose father said he disappeared two days ago from his home in Michigan City, Ind.

ONLY ONE

An airline spokesman said the only passenger listed on the manifest who did not return from Havana was Mr. R. Bohle. Stewardess Joyce Jernigan said the hijacker told her his name was Ronnie and that he had attended Purdue University.

The Eastern flight was hijacked en route from Miami to Nassau in the Bahamas Islands. The passengers were returned early today.

Miss Jernigan said the hijacker told her he hated the United States.

"He said he was running from the FBI and that he was a Communist who had just completed a mission," the 21-year-old blonde from Miami said. "He didn't say what the mission was about."

"He held a seven-inch knife in my side the whole way" to Havana, Miss Jernigan said. The spy pirate sat beside her and "he would give me a little jab every time somebody came near."

Named For Moon Landing

These three astronauts, civilian Neil Armstrong, Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins and Air Force Col. Edwin Aldrin Jr., were named today as the crew of Apollo 11 mission, scheduled to land on the moon about mid-summer. Armstrong will command the moon flight, Collins will be the command module pilot on the flight and Aldrin will be the lunar module pilot. All are space veterans.

APOLLO 11 MISSION PLANNED JULY 15

Moon Landing Team Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A civilian and two Air Force colonels who have walked in space will fly the Apollo 11 mission, the first scheduled attempt by the United States to land men on the moon.

The civilian astronaut, Neil A. Armstrong, will command the spacecraft, tentatively set for launching in July, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday, in announcing the selection of the crew.

DESCEND

Armstrong and Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. are to descend to the moon in a Lunar Module from the main spacecraft. The main spacecraft will remain in lunar orbit, piloted by Lt. Col. Michael Collins.

Armstrong, who has survived two near disasters since becoming an astronaut in 1963, is a former test pilot for the X-15 rocket plane and was a Navy combat flier during the Korean War.

In choosing the three 38-year-old space veterans for the mission, NASA passed up the Apollo 8 astronauts who made the first lunar orbital flights last month.

But two of these, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders, have been named to the Apollo 11 backup crew. The other, Air Force Col. Frank Borman, is being assigned to ground work at his own request. He will become deputy director of crew flight operations.

Rookie astronaut Fred Haise is the third man on the backup crew.

JULY 15

The Apollo 11 launch date is July 15, but when it goes depends upon the results of the Apollo 9 and 10 missions.

Apollo 9, now set for launch Feb. 28, will be an earth orbit of the lunar module of the type in which Armstrong and Aldrin are to land on the moon.

It will be the first manned test flight of the capsule, and if all goes perfectly, NASA officials say there will be no need for Apollo 10. This test, now scheduled for May 17, would be a moon orbit of the lunar module. If it is skipped, the Apollo 11 flight may be moved up to mid-June.

Armstrong, the first civilian to fly in space, was the commander of the perilous Gemini

8 flight in 1966. After he successfully linked his capsule with a rocket in orbit, the capsule spun out of control, but Armstrong guided it to a safe splashdown in the Pacific.

Aldrin set a record for "space walking" on the Gemini 12 shot in 1966 by spending more than five hours outside his spacecraft on a four-day flight.

Collins also was an early space walker. On Gemini 10 in 1966 he walked in space for 39 minutes and stood in the hatch for another 49.

several special recognitions. One of these will be for Miss Nell Hatch, who was among the first paid employees of the Chamber of Commerce when it was organized in 1919.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, through its president, Ben Faulkner, will present its Distinguished Service Award to the outstanding young man of the year. Special recognition will go to S. Sgt. Nathan Mitchell, who has been named Airman of the Year at Webb AFB, and also to foreign students in pilot training at Webb.

SPEAKER

Major address of the evening will be given by Dr. George Kozmetsky, dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Texas, Austin. Dr. Kozmetsky, his wife and their 15-year-old son are being flown here Saturday afternoon by Paul Meek, president of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, in the Cosden plane.

Dr. Kozmetsky will speak on "How Citizens of a Community Can Build Their Own Future."

The speaker has been on the faculty of the University of Washington, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and the Carnegie Institute of Technology Graduate School and Industrial Administration.

IN INDUSTRY

He also has held top executive positions in industry, with Hughes Aircraft Company and Litton Industries, and later was an organizer of Teledyne Inc., which had a spectacular development in the defense electronics field.

Dr. Kozmetsky has served as consultant to cities and organizations in various areas of development. A dynamic speaker, he is a strong proponent of the idea that communities, through leadership and self-financing, can develop their own profitable industrial enterprises.

Invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Harlan Birdwell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Edith Gay, chamber secretary, said the banquet will be catered by girls of the home economics department of Big Spring High School, under direction of Mrs. Jack Alexander of the home economics department, and Ray Lawless, director of school cafeterias. The girls also will decorate the banquet tables.

Dinner music will be provided by White Music Co., and Texas Electric Service Co. will provide the stage for the head table.

Officers Seek Clues To Mystery Slayings

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Rangers and officers of several counties searched a wide area of Central Texas today for any clue to the mystery slayings of two prominent University of Texas students.

The nude body of Miss Keitha Morris, 20, brunette sophomore beauty, was found in Inks Lake 75 miles northwest of Austin late Thursday.

Officers said, after an autopsy, they are convinced she was thrown into the cold lake waters still alive after being strangled, beaten about the head, and her neck broken.

The discovery at Inks Lake ended a night and day search for Miss Morris after the body of her picnic date, John Albert White, 21, was found face down in the shallow waters of Bull Creek northwest of Austin Wednesday night. He had been shot and beaten about the head.

Sheriff T. O. Lang said today that his deputies and those of Burnet County along with Rangers and other state officers were trying to search the rough Hill Country along the Colorado River chain of lakes between Buchanan Dam and Austin.

The body of Miss Morris was found by Mr. and Mrs. George Harvey of Fullmore, Utah, as they fished in the lake. There was no trace of the young woman's clothing.

Two other university students prospecting for a picnic site came upon the body of White late Wednesday in Bull Creek.

David Bond and Dawn Horak, university students from Corpus Christi, told authorities they accompanied White and Miss Morris to the scenic spot where White subsequently was found dead. Bond and Miss Horak said the slain pair were alive and well when they drove away about 5:30 p.m.

Miss Morris' disappearance was not discovered until she failed to arrive for a drama club rehearsal that evening.

She was the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. John T. Morris of White Deer, in the Texas Panhandle.

Young White, a quiet former member of the Peace Corps who was graduated as valedictorian of his high school class, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack White of Corpus Christi.

Justice of the peace Robert Kuhn said a preliminary autopsy report showed Miss Morris strangled on water in her lungs, indicating she drowned after being dumped into the Central Texas lake.

STRUCK

He reported she was struck three times on the head and "strangled by a soft cord of some kind as well as suffering a broken neck."

"There was no apparent indication of criminal assault but there will be further tests along this line," the justice of the peace said, adding that his formal inquest verdict would be withheld pending developments.

Nixon, His Cabinet Go Back To Work

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon set his Cabinet to work today on a two-day round of conferences that will help shape the program he puts before Congress.

Nixon is going back to work himself, primarily on his inaugural address, after a 56th birthday trip Thursday to Northampton, Mass., for a family party. He received a pair of gold cufflinks from his wife; the promise of a red Irish setter from his staff; socks, neckties and pajamas from his daughters and a telegram from President Johnson.

The lead-off session in a series of Cabinet conferences with 22 Nixon advisory groups will be the meeting of Atty. Gen. Designate John N. Mitchell with the task force on crime and law enforcement. Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger of Los Angeles heads that group.

Other sessions were scheduled to cover education, public welfare, government organization and health. Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Robert H. Finch who will be secretary of health, education and welfare, and Postmaster General-designate Winton Blount were the other Cabinet members due to participate in today's sessions.

TAX ISSUE

A crucial issue due up later in the sequence is the 10 per cent income surtax which will expire June 30 unless it is renewed. Nixon at one point said it should lapse on schedule, but has since conditioned his tax policy on future budget and economic conditions.

The 22 task forces have, since election day, drafted reports for the new administration on an array of federal problems. Nixon is receiving summaries of their findings.

The President-elect spent Thursday evening at the $95-a-month Northampton apartment of his daughter Julie and her new husband, David Eisenhower.

He flew from New York to Westover Air Force Base and found a crowd waiting when he drove up to the apartment near the Smith College campus. The townspeople and students sang, "Happy Birthday, Dear Richard."

GREETINGS

"I don't feel any older," Nixon said. Mrs. Nixon, daughter Tricia and C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a close friend of the President-elect, were at the party too.

Julie cooked dinner, a chicken casserole, but the chocolate birthday cake with strawberry frosting came from a local baker.

Nixon received birthday greetings from former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, David's grandparents, and from Johnson and his wife. "You know that I will always stand ready to help in any way I can," Johnson wired.

Nixon stopped to shake hands with the crowds before he entered and as he left. The party lasted for over two hours and Julie accompanied her parents back to New York to spend about a day here.

Mrs. Oswald Seeks Libel Suits Bundle

FORT WORTH (AP) — Five libel suits for $5 million each were filed Thursday by the mother of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald against a congressman and several writers and publishers.

In the federal court suits Marguerite Oswald claims the defendants made false and misleading statements about her and her son, who was named by the Warren Commission as the hidden rifleman who shot President John F. Kennedy.

One petition names Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., along with John R. Stiles and Simon & Schuster, Inc. Ford was a member of the Warren Commission and wrote a book about its lengthy probe of the Kennedy assassination Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas.

The other four libel suits are against these persons and groups associated with books or magazine articles about the assassination.

—Jim Bishop and Funk & Wagnall Co.
—Stephen White, the McMillan Publishing Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System.
—Jimmy Breslin and the New York Magazine Co.

—William Manchester, Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc., and Cowles Communications, Inc.
Mrs. Oswald's suits assert some of the publications exposed her "to hatred, contempt and ridicule."

No Hippies Need Apply

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The sharp-appearing Corps of Cadets at Texas A&M University is going to permit freshmen longhairs. But no hippies need apply.

The old rule was haircuts peeling the hair to five-eighths inch on top.

The rule just promulgated by Corps Commander Hector Gutierrez permits hair long enough "to be combed over and laid down. The sides will be tapered."

The earlier ruling said nothing about temples and sideburns and soon a rule peeling the hair above the temples was needed. Then some fresh went all the way and peeled to the top of their heads.

A survey found no one much liked the five-eighths rule. Hair is growing like mad at A&M again.

Vietnam War Foes Continue To Dominate Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men opposed to pursuing a military solution in Vietnam will continue to dominate the Senate Foreign Relations Committee despite Sen. Eugene I. McCarthy's decision to hand over his seat to a staunch defender of the war, Sen. Gale McGee.

Any move to resume the bombing of North Vietnam or otherwise escalate the war would be sure to encounter the same heavy opposition from committee members that has plagued President Johnson.

There was talk in the Capitol corridors that Fulbright planned it this way, but it was at this point that McCarthy came to the rescue of McGee D-Wyo.

Fellow senators were amazed. Asked if he was surprised by McCarthy's move, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana replied, "I sure as hell was."

Asked to explain, Mansfield said, "I don't know the answer, ask McCarthy."

"An act of magnanimity and benignity," said McCarthy when a reporter put the question to him. However, in a statement the senator said he favored a smaller committee because he thought it could be more effective in influencing administration policy, and said he gave up his seat so fellow Democrats "could honor their commitment to Sen. McGee" that he would be reassigned to the committee.

McCarthy, who had vowed after losing the presidential nomination to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to use his place on the committee as a forum to continue opposition to the Vietnam war, told reporters he believed he could be named to any other committee he wished. "I agree," commented Mansfield.

Employers have an important tax deadline Friday, Jan. 31, 1969.

This is the due date for reporting Social Security and withheld income taxes for the calendar quarter ended Dec. 31, 1968, according to Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for Northern Texas.

Employers who receive a pre-addressed Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return," should use this form to report their tax liability.

"Employers' Tax Guide," (Publication 15) furnishes detailed information on these taxes. It may be obtained free by dropping a post card to Supply, Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 1738, Dallas, Texas 75221.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT Little Progress In Guild Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The strike of the Wire Service Guild against The Associated Press went into its second day today. A federal mediator scheduled separate meetings with the two sides after a joint session Thursday resulted in no announced progress toward settlement.

The news agency continued to supply its basic services in 50 states and throughout the world, including general, state, sports and financial news as well as photos and newscasters. The work was done by executives, exempt employees, non-Guildsmen and some Guild members who chose not to join the strike.

GUILD BULLETIN

The AP, in a suit filed in State Supreme Court here, sought to enjoin the United Telegraph Workers from leaving their jobs in observance of picket lines established by the Guild at AP New York headquarters and at bureaus across the country. The union was ordered to show cause today why the injunction should not be issued.

The Newspaper Guild of New York issued a citywide bulletin supporting the strike and directing members to refrain from handling Associated Press copy. When some members refused to handle the copy, the New York Post and the New York Times filed charges of unfair labor practices against the Guild with the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board.

The New York Daily News said it expects to resolve the issue under the arbitration provisions of its own contract with the Guild.

The Guild represents 1,313 editorial, photographic, clerical and other employees of the AP throughout the country. Negotiations have been under way for five weeks. The old contract expired Dec. 31, but was extended six times until Wednesday night when the Guild broke off negotiations and subsequently

'Light The Night' Might Cut Crime

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — A "Light the Night" program to help deter crime has been started by the Wichita Falls Board of Realtors.

Other cities in Texas and the nation have recently started similar programs as part of a program sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The lights are to discourage criminals, such as burglars and robbers and attackers.

Dear Abby

A Sister's Mistake

DEAR ABBY: When my sister was 15 she got in trouble and you know the rest. I was nine at the time and I've been trying to make up for her mistake ever since so my mother will be proud of at least one of us.

Well, I'm 13 now and the kids seem to like me and I am quite popular, but my problem is my mother. She worries about me all the time, and she keeps pushing my sister's past on me. It's like leading two lives. My own and what my mother thinks I am.

I think I have proved to other people that I am not a "bad" girl like my sister, but I'm still trying to prove to my mother that she can really trust me. Can you help me, Abby?

LIVING TWO LIVES
DEAR LIVING: Don't blame your mother for "worrying." It's not easy for her to forget what she went through with your sister. But one mistake doesn't make a girl "bad," so just concentrate on behaving yourself and your mother will "really" trust you soon.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three months to a beautiful girl. We are quite happy except for one aggravating thing.

On our honeymoon she was a vision. Always beautifully groomed and clothed, but now that we are living in our own apartment she is a fright.

Before going to bed she sneers her face with goopy creams and puts those God-awful curlers in her hair. In the morning she puts on a ratty bathrobe tied like a sack in the middle.

When I complain and ask her what happened to that gorgeous girl I took on my honeymoon, she says, "Well, we were staying at that lovely hotel and I had to look nice with all those other guests."

I ask you, Abby, doesn't a husband count? Or are strangers more important? Print this. It may wake her up before it's too late.

WONDERING IN YONKERS
DEAR WONDERING: Show this to your wife. One wise bride wrote, "Let the milkman, mailman and neighbors see me looking something less than lovely during the daytime, but when my husband comes home I want HIM to see me at my prettiest."

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and read your column and I sure wish you would put this in.

The man who was mad at his wife because he thought he couldn't father a child at HIS age and he said he was over 60 should listen to this. My grandfather is 82 years old and he has 23 children, and the youngest is ten years old, so there. And you can sign this "PROUD OF GRANDPA" IN RIVERSIDE.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Midland-Odessa College Okayed

The coordinating board for higher education has reaffirmed its recommendations, including an upper-level college for the Midland-Odessa area.

The board, in a report to the legislature, warned that the college population would almost double within the next decade. It was estimated that 375,000 Texans would be in colleges and graduate school in 1969 and that by 1980 this would reach 707,800. To meet the demands in physical facilities would cost around $404,000,000. The state will have to raise some $404,000,000 annually as its share of operations.

Tom Sealy, Midland, member of the coordinating board, said that the recommendation was for approval of the Midland-Odessa upper and graduate-level college this year and activation in 1973 when he estimated 800 students would enroll. By 1976 this would reach 2,600, he forecasted, and by 1980 it would be 4,800.

Coupled with this is a move to annex Midland County to the Odessa Junior College district and move the campus to a new location, possibly near the upper level college.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas College Coordinating Board said Thursday that the state has floor space in college classrooms to cover 1,500 acres of farmland — but that's not enough.

The comparison was made when the 18-member board, completing a three-year study of Texas educational problems, gave legislative and governmental leaders an advance look at the recommendations to go before the first legislature opening next Tuesday.

"The average citizen has no idea of the magnitude of higher education," board Chairman John Gray of Beaumont said. To care for this growing mass of student population, Gray said, will take by 1975, a total of $401,400,000 in federal, state and local funds for additional public facilities, and about $404 million in state funds annually for educational programs.

The blueprints for progress outlined by the board used three basic points in its plan. It is designed to (1) care for the rapidly increasing growth in enrollment, while (2) providing a rising level of excellence in higher education, in (3) the most efficient and effective methods possible.

The blueprint divides the higher education system in three component groups — community junior colleges, senior colleges with program expansion possibilities through first-level graduate offerings, and complex universities with program jurisdiction over doctoral-level graduate work and post-baccalaureate education for the professions.

The board recommended creation of 53 community junior college regions, each an area where most of the community junior college students will come and where at least one junior college district is feasible during the next 20 years.

The board also recommends creation of six new senior colleges—four-year institutions in San Antonio and Houston and upper-division colleges in Midland-Odessa, Corpus Christi, Dallas, and Houston.

Tech Lab Adds Nitrogen Test

LUBBOCK — Something new has been put into use at the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory, a part of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Center north of here.

A specific ion meter is now being used to determine the amount of nitrate nitrogen in West Texas soils, reports Jim Valentine, area soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This promises to be of real value to West Texas farmers since the new test will lend to increased accuracy in predicting the amount of nitrogen fertilizer needed for the next crop," says the chemist.

Research shows that heavy clay loam soils are capable of accumulating nitrogen when fertilizer rates exceed crop removal, points out Valentine. Recent soil testing work done on these heavy soils shows many instances where relatively high rates of readily available nitrate nitrogen are present.

Mort often higher concentrations of nitrate nitrogen are found where heavy rates of nitrogen were applied last year to crops having a low nitrogen requirement or where heavy rates were applied to high nitrogen requiring crops and, for some reason, the yield was low.

"The new test will be especially valuable in evaluating the amount of nitrogen needed for cotton and other crops where excessive nitrogen may be undesirable from the standpoint of lowering quality," adds Valentine.

In order for this new test as well as the basic soil test to be of most value, Valentine stresses the importance of collecting a representative sample for analysis. Inadequate or careless sample collection can bring misleading results. Suggestions for sample collection and mailing are available from the local county agricultural agent.

American Airfield In Delta Shelled

SAIGON (AP)—The South Vietnamese government claimed today 191,307 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops were killed in 1968, nearly six times allied losses.

But North Vietnam called 1968 "the best year so far in the Vietnamese people's struggle against U.S. aggression."

The Saigon government put South Vietnamese losses last year at 17,486 killed. The U.S. Command has not released official figures for the year, but American battle deaths through Dec. 28 were 14,521.

MIGHTY 'HIGH' Despite its claim of heavy losses suffered by the enemy, the government in a year-end review estimated total enemy strength at 300,100 Viet Cong,

North Vietnamese and political cadre. It claimed 151,000 North Vietnamese troops had infiltrated the South in 1968—an assessment vastly different from official U.S. estimates of 225,000 to 230,000 men.

The U.S. Command does not publish official estimates of enemy strength, but reliable American sources said the South Vietnamese estimate was considered "high."

In addition to those killed in action, the Saigon government said the enemy lost 21,050 men taken captive and 17,597 who defected under the "Open Arms" program. This accounted for a total enemy manpower loss of 229,654 last year, the government said.

However, it claimed that all but 20,900 of these men were replaced by the enemy command. But the report said the average battalion of Communist troops now is operating at half-strength and "their fighting capability is now very limited compared with that of their battalions in 1967."

Viet Cong gunners zeroed in on the airfield outside Can Tho, in the delta, a delta airfield at Soc Trang, an American artillery base near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon, and a South Vietnamese regimental headquarters at Quang Ngai airfield in the far northern war zone.

None of the attacks did much damage or caused serious casualties.

$1,400,000 Highway Work Slated In Howard County

The Texas Highway Department has about $10 million and the Colorado River Municipal Water District has about $8 million of work to be let during 1969, members of the West-Central Texas chapter of the Associated General Contractors, Texas Highway-Heavy branch, learned here Thursday.

The contractors, who heard these reports at Big Spring Country Club from District Engineer Jake Roberts, Abilene, and Owen H. Ivie, CRMW general manager, set a couple of precedents here. This was the first afternoon and evening meeting with dinner, and it was the first ladies night affair. Roberts had a piece of advice: "It had better not be the last meeting for the wives."

Included in the highway work projected for this year is about $1,400,000 for Howard County. This will be in two projects to be let simultaneously — the extension of US 87 (on a design similar to the present FM 700 loop) from FM 700 south to Hearne Street, and the completion of the FM 700 four-lane divided loop from Goliad east to an intersection with IS 20.

A sizeable job on reconditioning parts of US 180 in Borden County also is on tap, Roberts said. At the moment, federal funds have been totally depleted and purely Texas lettings have nearly exhausted Texas funds. Roberts, however, was hopeful that about March or April things will begin to pick up.

Ivie, who projected a film showing highlights of construction for the district's dam at Robert Lee, said that this work should be completed in March. However, the district has a contract letting Feb. 4 on 24 miles of 42-inch pipeline, the largest the district has ever installed, and a variety of pumps. Also due to be let during the year is the second section of 42-inch line covering the final 24 miles to the Robert Lee lake, plus four booster pump stations. Another possibility during the year, he said, is raising the top of Moss Creek dam (to enlarge the lake as a terminal storage point) and cutting a new spillway.

Ernest Lillard, director of public works for Big Spring, said that the city has one major paving program lined up for this year, and that a second is possible if the sales tax returns continue at the current levels.

Presiding over the meeting was Jim Richards, Austin, executive secretary of the AGC highway-heavy division in Austin, and his assistant, Tom Adams; Mayor Arnold Marshall and County Judge Lee Porter; and Dr. Charles Rainwater and Curt Mullins.

FATHER RAISES $35,000

She'll Die Unless...

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — "How do you go to your daughter's hospital bed and say, 'I'm going to have to take you home to die.'"

That is what A. J. Shuffield of Hot Springs said he will have to tell his beautiful, blue-eyed daughter, Brenda Andry, 19, if he can't raise about $35,000.

Brenda, a fragile blonde, has been ill four years with malignant hypertension — a form of high blood pressure — that has ruined her kidneys.

Shuffield, a $6,000-a-year plumber, said his daughter is being treated at a New Orleans clinic with an artificial kidney twice a week at $600 a session. "I tried to get her in at the University hospital in Little Rock," he said. "They turned me down because they didn't have any room in the kidney section."

Brenda must have a kidney transplant operation, Shuffield said, or the illness is terminal. With his wife acting as donor, the operation, excluding doctor bills and after surgery treatment, will cost about $20,000.

Brenda has a 17-year-old sister, Anita Gail, who is suffering from the same disease. Her ailment is not expected to reach as severe a stage.

Doctor and medical bills for the two girls have cost Shuffield about $150 a month, and by selling some property he owned, "I've been making it pretty good up to now."

Brenda's husband, Bobby Andry, 21, is a maintenance man for Oaklawn Racing Park.

A fund to meet the artificial kidney and transplant costs has been started by several persons with contributions being handled by the Arkansas First National Bank of Hot Springs.

Brazel New President Of Area Action Council

D. A. Brazel was elected president of the Howard County and Big Spring Community Action Council at the group's annual meeting Thursday evening. He succeeds the Rev. McVyn Montgomery.

Other officers were re-elected: John A. Coffey, vice president; S. M. Anderson, secretary and Earnest Morgan, treasurer.

Six others were named to serve on the executive committee with these officers. Two each come from the so-called "target areas" in the poverty program, from taxing agencies and from the community at large. They are, respectively: Mrs. Cruz Martinez and Arthur Adams; Mayor Arnold Marshall and County Judge Lee Porter; and Dr. Charles Rainwater and Curt Mullins.

The council will be in process of updating its membership, which includes representatives from the target areas, taxing agencies and the community at large.

The council has operated on a strictly volunteer basis, serving as liaison agency in poverty programs handled by the Office of Economic Opportunity. Chief programs here have been the Head Start program in the schools and the Neighborhood Youth Corps, which has provided employment to young people from poverty areas.

There was some discussion of a proposed "Follow Through" program, which might become available to help children who need further assistance after their Head Start program.

Also discussed was the possibility that Howard County may have to enter a regional Council of Governments, which are being set up over the state, under state guidelines to serve in the future as directing agencies for various federal grant programs. To date, Howard County has functioned independently and the council has not sought funds for paid employees.

A Devotional For The Day

The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal. (II Corinthians 4:18)

PRAYER: O God, we know that it is sometimes hard for us to have a correct attitude toward our possessions. Guide us as we strive to make choices of service that will put first things first. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Urgent Need For Reform

Something approaching despair is a common feeling when county government reform is mentioned in Texas. A decade-long do-nothing record dims hope that the new Legislature will do anything about this persistent and intensifying problem. But sooner or later something must be done, for Texas county government is an archaic mess.

Back in 1933, a rare reform-minded Texas Legislature passed a constitutional amendment for optional county home-rule and city-county consolidation. But its rural majority succeeded in drafting an amendment (Art. IX, Sec. 3) that was wholly unworkable and never used, though it is still in effect.

In 1947, the Texas Legislature passed the optional county road law, for central management of road building and maintenance. But few counties adopted it, and fewer still follow its sound letter.

The Research and Planning Council of San Antonio (Bexar County) and the Harris County Home-Rule Commission tried for years to get special county home-rule without success.

Texas voters did approve some consolidation of political subdivision functions for Harris County in 1966, but in 1968 refused to do the same for El Paso and Tarrant Counties.

The Texas Research League worked up an excellent plan for metropolitan-area governmental improvement, including optional home-rule county government with urbanized powers, that Gov. John Connally recommended. But the Legislature last year ignored it. Nor do the recommendations of the State Constitutional Revision Committee, awaiting the new Legislature, offer much hope for county reform.

If Texas is not yet ready for comprehensive constitutional revision or over-all metropolitan-area governmental reform, the simplest solution would be to submit to the people a workable local-option county-home rule amendment, with provisions for local intergovernmental cooperation and for functions and services consolidations. That would be sensible, democratic, and desirable, but will the Legislature do anything about it?

MARKING TIME

Another Miracle Fibre

What weighs one-fourth as much as steel but is four times stronger and costs $96 a pound for large quantities and $264 a pound for small quantities? Carbon fibers, one of the new wonder materials produced by the scientific revolution of the mid-20th century.

The British claim to be the pioneers in the production of carbon fibers. The first practical application apparently has been the use of carbon fibers, bonded by epoxy resins, in turbine compressor blades for Rolls Royce engines. But domestic corporations have also been experimenting with carbon fibers and with bonding agents or matrices.

Aside from who was first, the material has a fascinating history. In Britain it begins with a manmade fiber, polyacrylonitrile, produced by the chemical firm of Courtaulds. The fiber is subjected to a series of heat treatments in extremely high temperature furnaces used in atomic energy experiments. The end product is a thread of pure carbon with enormous strength resembling fine strands of shiny, dark gray hair.

The versatility of carbon fibers seems limited only by the technology of matrices. Epoxy resins cannot tolerate temperatures in excess of 500 to 600 degrees. But other bonding agents are sure to be developed. A ceramic matrix might, for instance, be an answer in some applications, such as the rotor blades in turbines. Carbon fibers have a number of promising applications in space flight engines and components where weight and strength are critical factors.

The high cost of producing carbon fibers now is only a reflection of the newness of the material and the technology which produces it. In quantity production the material cost can be reduced drastically. A new wonder material has joined the family of scientific marvels.

Holmes Alexander Mr. Nixon And The Oil Industry

NEW ORLEANS — Machiasport (Maine) is a fighting word in Louisiana. Congressman Hale Boggs, the Democratic House Whip, is claiming he was offered bribes for his influence, and he's willing to slug it out in a libel suit with Louis Nizer, the courtroom champ, against him.

Another Louisianaian, Sen. Russell Long, is off into windmill oratory against New England's threat to his state's petroleum and petro-chemical industries. The newspapers of the oil-bearing Southern states are nervous over what Mr. Nixon might decide about oil import to fire the furnaces of the chilly Northern cities.

IF IT WERE just a crass matter of presidential politics, any bunch of boys in the smoke-filled rooms could figure the outcome. Mr. Nixon lost Maine to the Democrats, so why should he allow that state to open a free trade zone and make a financial killing by refining and marketing foreign oil? Mr. Nixon lost Louisiana to the Wallaces, so why should he care what happens there? On the other hand, Mr. Nixon did all right in his native California which is the home of the immense Occidental Petroleum Co. Occidental is the promoter of the Machiasport project where the firm would sell gobs of oil from its Middle East fields.

BUT THERE is almost no chance that Mr. Nixon will stoop to make one of those old-time To the Victor Belong the Spoils decisions. This one's too important. The quota system which allows limited petroleum imports is delicately balanced. It permits foreign oil in foreign ships to feed into the country at a rate that keeps us from overdrawing our known domestic reserves. It provides American capital with revenue-earning investments abroad, and it's part of our diplomatic arrangements on three continents. If we have too much quota-and-tariff protection, we might use up our domestic oil too fast. If we have too little protection, we might become too dependent on foreign markets.

THE RIGHT-AWAY aspects are ones that suggest Mr. Nixon's Secretaries of Interior, Commerce and State won't do anything very sudden or sensational about the Machiasport free trade zone. The new Interior Department will need time to work out ways for getting Rocky Mountain and Alaskan oil unstuck from the Great Society policies that were business-blockers. Not only time, but Congressional agreement is needed, and there are some changes on Capitol Hill that don't show up in the election results.

FOR ONE THING, the Democratic majorities are going to be looser than before. They won't be working under the pressure of a Democratic White House. This could mean much less roll-back by city Democrats who go along with farm Democrats in order to construct huge national programs that don't work out very well for anybody.

The new Commerce Department might like to accommodate the Occidental Petroleum Co., but not at the price of angering a score of lesser oil concerns which would be uprooted throughout the South if there were a dislocation of industries.

THE LIBERALS and conservatives will both have reason to grumble, as they did under Eisenhower. He dreamed he heard angel voices singing the Hallelujah Chorus, and he awoke and set down the music he had heard in a dream. Yes, some dreams have significance.

Why Wives Rarely Dwell In Doghouses

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Husbands often dwell in doghouses for long periods of time. Wives rarely do. Why is this? The reason is that when a man is wrong he realizes it, feels guilty and therefore thinks it only fair that he be punished. A woman, on the other hand, rarely admits she is totally wrong about anything and sees no reason why she should submit to being sentenced to the marital doghouse.

LOOKING BACK over their lives, most men think they reached the golden prime of manhood at the age of 25. Most women, however, feel they were at their best during their high school or college years.

The night club business in Manhattan is in the deepening doldrums. Patrons apparently have decided it is no fun being mugged on the way home after being robbed in the night club of their choice.

There appears to be no end to violence in our time. A pet shop proprietor reports that some people now are buying savage piranha fish just for the pleasure of seeing them attack and eat alive other small fish in their home aquariums. What kind of twisted mind would find such a scene thrilling?

A GENERATION ago marijuana was widely used by jazz musicians who felt smoking reefer speeded up their perceptions and made them play better. Most found out, however, that this practice dulled rather than helped their performance. Today most musicians think pot is a pastime for juvenile delinquents.

It is a good policy never to lend money to a guy who wears dice-shaped cufflinks. One of the reasons a policeman's lot formerly was not a happy one was because of the corns and calluses he acquired while pounding his beat. The only cops who have foot trouble anymore are those who get fallen arches standing in one place directing traffic. The chief police occupational ailments seem to be backache and kidney problems from bouncing around for eight hours in patrol cars.

The more time a fellow spends boasting of his ancestry, the less time he has to do something that his posterity will be able to brag about.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me what causes bleeding hemorrhoids at least every other day. What is the best way to treat them, the right suppositories or ointment? Should I eat certain bland foods, or no raw foods, or could I take some internal medication to cure them? — R.L.T.

After all these years, too many people still do not understand what hemorrhoids or "piles" really are and why you can't expect ointments or medicines to "cure" them. Hemorrhoids are varicose veins. The special problem arises because of their location, at the anus, where they are subject to repeated irritation and pressure.

Varicose veins — swollen, distended veins — do not return to normal in that location any more than they do in the legs. Once swollen, they remain oversized. The one effective cure is surgical removal.

That does not, however, mean that all hemorrhoids have to be removed. One must consider how many such veins there are, how large they are, how much discomfort they are causing — itching, pain, actual bleeding. Ointments or analgesics can reduce minor discomfort, but they aren't going to change the fact that the veins are varicose. Avoidance of irritation obviously will help. It makes sense to avoid foods containing bran, seeds, or indigestible fibers.

Straining in the bathroom clearly is going to put pressure on the swollen veins, so avoidance of constipation is perhaps the most important measure of all in preventing discomfort and preventing the varicose veins from becoming worse.

But in today's case, with bleeding every other day or oftener, it is clear to me that the problem has gone beyond the stage at which ointments or careful diet can control the situation. My advice is to consult a proctologist or your surgeon immediately and see whether it isn't time to remove those hemorrhoids. In conjunction with this, pay close attention to the doctor's suggestions about after-care — dilation to prevent formation of adhesions and the need to avoid constipation and a repetition of the same trouble.

It is a mistake, in my judgment, for a patient with hemorrhoids to try to decide, without medical advice, as to when or if hemorrhoids should be removed. When or if removal becomes necessary, then have it done rather than just continuing the misery.

Emphysema can be controlled. David Lawrence More Money For Public Officials

WASHINGTON — The President, members of Congress, cabinet officers and federal judges are going to get substantial pay raises, but what the net increase will be is another story. Uncle Sam will take back a good portion in taxes, and leave a relatively small addition to income.

Thus, the President's salary, which since 1949 has been $100,000 a year, is going to be $200,000, according to the recommendations of a commission set up by Congress. But the net amount — a President will have available after paying federal income taxes on $200,000 will be around $36,000. Most of the executives of America's big corporations have far more net income than this, because their salaries are much larger.

AS FOR members of Congress, they are to have their salaries raised from $30,000 to $50,000, but the net income after taxes will be only $33,500.

Likewise, cabinet officers, who are scheduled for an increase from $35,000 to $60,000, will have a net income of only $38,000.

District judges, whose pay will be raised from $30,000 to $47,500, will net only $32,000.

THE SALARIES of Supreme Court justices will be raised from $39,500 to $65,000 dollars, but the net income will be only a little more than $40,000. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is being given an increase from $40,000 to $67,500 dollars, yet he will have left less than $42,000 a year.

CONGRESS, of course, furnishes money for various expenses incurred by its members in connection with their duties, but the allowances are for specific purposes, such as postage, phone calls, stationery, and travel to home districts. This helps a great deal, though senators and representatives, especially from populous states, find they have to provide out of their own pockets money for many expenses which are not reimbursed. They feel obliged to go to their states or districts more frequently than the number of trips covered by the transportation allowance. They also have to carry on such a large volume of correspondence with their constituents that they must dip into their own funds to pay for it.

ASIDE FROM the expenses of members of Congress, cabinet officers and the President and Vice President, the actual salary remaining may seem to some people of medium or lower incomes as a very high amount. What is overlooked is that many public officials must maintain homes in their own states as well as living quarters in Washington for at least a part of their family.

When all the figures are carefully studied, it is apparent why many of the capable men throughout the country are reluctant to take positions in Washington unless they have personal fortunes from which to derive additional income. If an executive is making substantial progress in a private company nowadays, he can expect to receive a large income even after he retires at 65 years of age.

Many of the people in this group who are in their forties and fifties cannot afford to detach themselves from all the "fringe" benefits of private business and go into public life. This automatically excludes from public service lots of able men and women.

SO IT MUST be concluded that the American people are not paying their public servants enough. Certainly the President of the United States, who administers the biggest single "business" in the world, ought to get at least as much as the president of General Motors or other large corporations. An annual salary of $300,000 to $400,000 is not unusual, and this is supplemented by other benefits that run the figure much higher. It means in many instances a compensation which is more than twice the $200,000 now being voted by Congress for the chief executive.

Marquis Childs For Nixon, A Swing To The West

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(For Marquis Childs, who is on vacation).

WASHINGTON — Not the least of the aims of President-elect Richard Nixon, if a goal not likely to be too much talked about, is a restoration of geographical balance within the power structure in Washington.

He intends to reduce the influence of the so-called Eastern Establishment and to bring the West and Middle West back into full participation in government both at and near the summit. One of his motives no doubt is the traditional one of rewarding those sections of the country primarily responsible for his election. But there is more to it than this.

IT IS A simple fact that the Eastern Establishment has been too dominant in Washington for a good many years. This is not because Easterners are in any way unfit for high place; to the contrary, they have made enormous contributions to the public service ever since the remote days of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Rather, it is because the heavy Easternization of the seats of consequence, which has so long been a fact of political life, has led to sectional divisions in this nation that are as real as they are subtle and as dangerous as they are unnecessary.

INDEED, TWO highly significant Presidential elections within the single decade, that of John F. Kennedy in 1960 and that of Richard Nixon in 1968, have clearly reflected an East-West polarization quite as genuine in its way as is the far older and far more advertised separatism of North and South. For both Kennedy in 1960 and Nixon in 1968 were placed into power by processes of sectional divisionism.

Kennedy was all but blacked out west of Chicago. Nixon's mandate for all practical purposes stopped, barring some limited success in the South, about at the Illinois line. Kennedy, in a word, was an Eastern and Nixon a Western choice. And this sort of thing, it hardly need be said, is not good in a country that needs all the unity it can get.

THIS COLUMNIST has reason to believe that before his tragic death John Kennedy himself was troubled by the spatial limitations of his national constituency and specifically by its almost exclusively Eastern tone and flavor. There is reason to suspect that Nixon is troubled by the obverse of this situation.

Moreover, any man of reasonable perceptiveness who attended the 1964 Republican National Convention in San Francisco and felt the unexampled bitterness of Western jeering at the very word "Eastern" could hardly fail to recognize that the nomination of Barry Goldwater was to a perilous degree motivated by sheer emotional hostility toward a whole region.

THAT THIS hostility was extreme is doubtless true. That it was for the most part unthinking is no less true. But that there was a certain human justification for it can hardly be denied. For a whole vast land west of the Appalachians has long been put on a very thin diet by an Eastern-dominated politics and an Eastern-dominated communications complex, both of which have tended to be patronizing indeed toward those fellows in the out-yonder.

THE POOR old South has for generations had this treatment and has perforce long since learned to live with it. But for the West it is a relatively new experience — and, more importantly, the West is also far richer in both electoral and economic terms.

It is a reasonable speculation that Nixon grasps all this and proposes to do something about it in the only way anything effective could be done. This is by making more room at the top for Western personalities and for legitimate Western interests.

'Thank You For Giving Us A Hero In Day Of Cowards'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If Raymond Sansoucie had been true to his name, he wouldn't have taken up that chase last New Year's Eve.

Sansoucie is French for "without care." Raymond Sansoucie cared, pursued a youthful purse snatcher and was shot to death over $6 the thief had taken from a 61-year-old widow.

Sansoucie, a father of four whose widow is expecting a fifth child, died in his wife's arms. Now his act of heroism has triggered a campaign by the St. Louis Grand Jury Association to raise funds for his family.

Within seven days, the fund billowed to nearly $50,000. And there were the letters. Many correspondents wondered if Sansoucie's blood should be on the American conscience.

SIGN OF TIMES
"It is a sign of the times that the good people suffer while the hoodlum element runs at large," said a letter with checks of $50 and $10 enclosed.

"In some way we have to turn the tables and add strength to the cause of law and order."

"Mr. Sansoucie was a hero. He saw a crime in progress and tried to do something about it, a rarity today," wrote another.

Sansoucie had been driving with his wife and three of their children when he saw the purse snatcher grapple with Mrs. Madge Robinson.

Sansoucie braked, jumped from the car and chased the man around a corner. Minutes later two men ran to Ruth Sansoucie and asked, "Are you Ruth? A man has been shot down the street and he's asking for Ruth."

'I LOVE YOU'
"I love you," Sansoucie told her. These were his last words.

Letters and donations started coming that weekend after the grand jury association announced it had started the fund. In the first week they had come from 22 states.

A professor of English from Ames, Iowa, pointed up the irony of Sansoucie's name and deed.

"Coincidence plays a great part in our human affairs, but I am struck by the ironic fact that Mr. Sansoucie's name, in French, sans-souci, means 'easy-going,' without a care in the world. A man who would stop his car to aid someone in distress seems to me to elevate the idea of sans-souci almost to sainthood."

One letter contrasted Sansoucie's act with the case of Kitty Genovese, the 28-year-old woman land, Ore. "I think I should say that this contribution is the first of its kind for me," the man wrote. "It is rare for me to be moved to make one. In this instance, though, it is important to me that I take a personal stand in support of a man who had the courage to care about his fellow citizens and their safety."

"One hears a great deal about crime on the streets in this country, but most of the answers physically offered omit mention of the point of view which Mr. Sansoucie so eloquently expressed. I would submit that his point of view, if widely accepted, will do more to combat street crime than all the congressional legislation imaginable."

"You can't blame others for not wanting to help for fear of their lives," an 80-year-old woman wrote in a letter accompanying her $5 check.

But another said, "Thank you for giving us a hero in a day of cowards."

FRUSTRATION
And another said Sansoucie's sacrifice proved two things. One of them was, "It does not pay to become involved and this makes me very sorry."

Many letters expressed frustration about what one writer described as our laws which give "every advantage to the criminal."

"It is disturbing to me, as I am sure it is to others, that we can no longer feel safe on the streets or in our homes. I feel, however," another wrote, "that there is no chance for this to improve until power is restored to our police and law enforcing bodies."

While five elderly ladies, members of the grand jury association, sorted the letters and counted up the money, a St. Louis police officer stood watch.

The officer spoke more about people's actions than the laws' limitations.

"I think the man (Sansoucie) went further than you can expect even the best citizen to," he said. "He did everything he should have done when he chased the man away. It should have ended right there. That's where the police come in."

NO FATHER
"He did everything you could expect of him and more. But I get paid to take the chances. It's my job. Let's face it, even if they collect $5 million, those four kids are still without a father."

"But on the other hand," the officer said with a shrug, "you get the people who won't even stop to call police when they drive by. They just don't want to get involved in any way."

"The victims themselves are sometimes our biggest headaches. They don't want to make all those court appearances, or they're scared of retribution."

"I don't know," he said, "I really don't know what you can do. I can't really blame them."

NIXON GOING TO DOGS

Pet In White House May Have Irish Name

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon is thinking of having a contest to find a good Irish name for the red setter he has not yet received as a birthday present.

The setter is a present from Nixon's staff for his 56th birthday, but is not to be purchased until after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Thursday, on Nixon's birthday, his assistants gave him a small bronze statue of an Irish setter.

In Northampton, Mass., Thursday night, Nixon remarked at a family birthday party that he might have some kind of competition to find an appropriate name for the dog.

Nixon once had a red Irish setter, but that was before World War II. Its name was King.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, announced Thursday that the staff was giving him another dog of that breed.

"We don't have a name yet. Mr. Nixon wants to meet the dog and judge its personality," Ziegler said. It wasn't until later that Bruce Wehlan, another Nixon press aide, reported the President-elect's mention of a dog-naming contest.

The Nixons already have two dogs, a Yorkshire terrier named Pasha, and a French poodle called Vicky.

There is the possibility of the fourth. President Johnson has said that one of his dogs, Bian-

Tugboat Sinks, Three Missing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A tugboat capsized in the Gulf of Mexico Thursday night and the Coast Guard was searching for three crewmen reported missing.

The Coast Guard said the tug, the Teresa S, capsized and sank three to four miles from the Southwest Pass, a Mississippi River channel about 70 miles southeast of New Orleans.

There were 10 men on the tug, the Coast Guard said, and seven were rescued by Coast Guard and commercial vessels.

The missing crewmen were identified only as Cecil Fitch, Joe Riffe and a man named Molina.

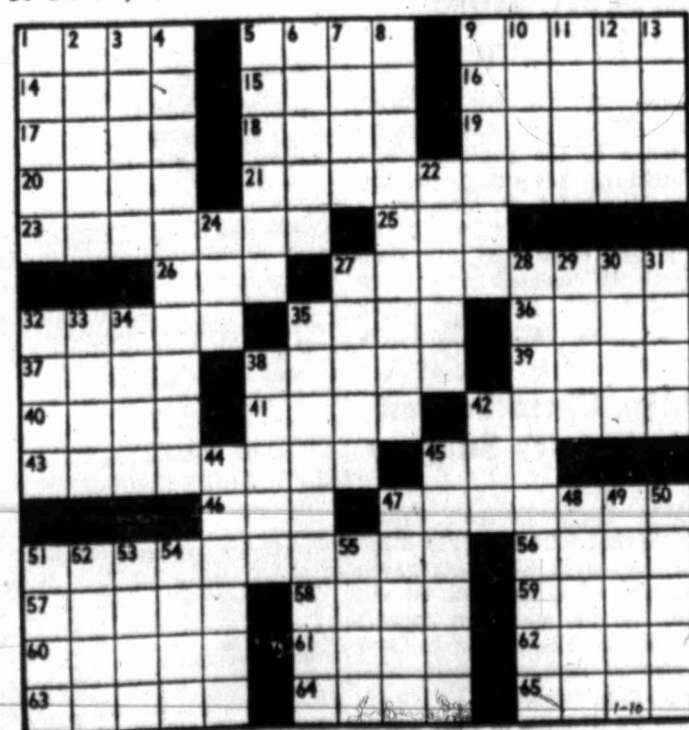

A barge loaded with phosphate rock which the tug was pulling downriver had not been located Thursday night, the Coast Guard said.

Seas were reported to be at three-five feet at the time of the accident.

Viet Peace Talks Thaw Hopes Vanish

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The ice has thickened around the already frozen positions of delegations to the Vietnam peace talks. Hopes of a thaw before the Jan. 20 inauguration of a new American president have all but vanished.

BAD ODDS

If there is any chance at all for a break in the ice, it seems more likely to come from Saigon than Paris. But South Vietnamese representatives have repeated emphatically that they reject any formula for a conference which affords the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front a semblance of equality with the Saigon government.

A communique issued Thursday night by the South Vietnamese delegation said Saigon "will not accept any formula or any arrangement which confers on the self-styled NLF a status of equality with the participating governments."

If Saigon sticks to its guns — and there is every indication it will — the conference cannot be started short of opening in the absence of Saigon, which is highly unlikely.

Saigon demands a clearly visible line at any conference table to indicate to the world that there are two sides involved, and not four. To accept anything less, say the South Vietnamese, would be to provide an opening for the Front to claim at least quasigovernmental status.

Except for "working sessions" at lower levels between the Americans and South Vietnamese, the machinery of the talks has been at a standstill for days.

North Vietnam and the Front reject any seating arrangement which fails to suggest four sides in the talks.

AMERICAN IDEA

The Americans and the South Vietnamese deny that the Johnson administration is exerting pressure on Saigon to ease its stand. But it seems clear that the South Vietnamese expect at least more sympathy for their position when Henry Cabot Lodge succeeds W. Averell Harriman as chief U.S. negotiator, after Richard M. Nixon becomes president.

There have been some indications of intensive discussions in Saigon between the Americans and the South Vietnamese government and hints here of South Vietnamese resentment at arm-twisting.

The American idea seems to be that a conference can be convened at a round, unmarked table, simply by declaring that the Americans and South Vietnamese regard the meeting as two-sided. Saigon, however, assumes that the other side then would declare it regarded the conference as four-sided and that thereafter, should talks get under way, the Front would seek to use the conference to reinforce its claim to equal status.

Leaving the elevator, each federal prisoner put an arm around the neck of a jailer and pressed a knife blade to the throat, said Rogers.

He said it was not known where the prisoners got the knives.

The two men locked up the turn keys and freed Edmondson. Except for the knives it was not known whether the escapees were armed.

Levy Lee Edmondson, 32, is under indictment in Howard County for theft of a tractor. He was arrested after the stolen tractor was found in New Mexico in September, 1968. He was released to Lubbock on Sept. 24 to answer burglary charges there.

Johnson, Buchanan, and two Dallas women were arrested here Dec. 23 at the Trails End Motel after their motel room had been filled with tear gas by local officers.

The two men were held in city jail here about 16 hours before a federal marshal from Lubbock picked them up. The women were later released.

The two men were being held in Lubbock in lieu of $50,000, which a federal commissioner there had set in each case.

Seeking Damages After Collision

A $26,395 suit seeking damages from Pollard Chevrolet Co. has been filed by A. H. Neves in 118th District Court.

The suit, styled A. H. Neves et al vs. Pollard Chevrolet et al, alleges that Neves' son, Ronnie Gene Neves, was injured when a car he was driving was in collision with a Pollard Chevrolet Co. wrecker, driven by Walter Long Road, on Dec. 14, 1968, on the Walton Long Road, some eight miles north of Big Spring off US 87.

Neves claims negligence on the part of Newton, and seeks $1,395 for damages to the car, $18,000 for medical expenses, $5,000 for mental pain and suffering allegedly caused to his son.

per Dagens Nyheter reported in its morning edition that Petr also will be accredited in Hanoi.

Swedish diplomatic relations with South Vietnam lapsed a year ago when the Swedish ambassador moved to Bangkok. No successor has been accredited to Saigon.

STORMY DUTY

U.S. Ambassador William Heath returned to his Stockholm post from the United States shortly after the Foreign Ministry announcement.

"I have just been told of this development," Heath said in an airport statement. "I hardly am prepared to comment at this time."

"You all know the U.S. objective is peace in Vietnam. Any move by any country must be assessed in the light of that objective."

Heath, who has been vacationing in the United States for the last three weeks, returned to Stockholm to clear his desk before retiring to private life.

He was appointed ambassador by President Johnson about two years ago and had a stormy tour of duty because of Sweden's anti-American stance on the Vietnam war and repeated anti-American demonstrations.

Sweden has become a haven for U.S. servicemen who have deserted their units in Europe and elsewhere, many of them to avoid transfers to the Vietnam war zone.

Light Snow Pops Parts Of Texas

By The Associated Press

Occasional light snow peppered parts of the Texas Panhandle this morning and arctic air enveloped the state.

Clouds thickened over the western half of Texas during the night, however, and temperatures at many points stayed half a dozen degrees or so higher than expected. It was mostly clear in the eastern half.

Early morning marks ranged from the 20s in West and North Texas through the 30s in most other sections, with the freeze line pushing as far south as San Antonio.

Radar detected a little snow from Dalhart toward Chisnolw into New Mexico.

Official observers foresaw a chance for some light snow, sleet or rain tonight and Saturday over the northwest and north central sections of the state, and perhaps light rain in the northeast.

A warming trend was predicted for all areas.

Temperatures climbed no higher Thursday afternoon than 35 degrees at Lubbock and 37 at Dalhart while top marks along the coast reached 65 at Galveston and 69 at Brownsville.

Predawn marks today ranged from 23 at Amarillo and 24 at Dalhart; up to 40 at El Paso and 41 at Brownsville. Readings elsewhere included Sherman-

Sweden-Hanoi Embassy Proposal Spelled Out

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish Social Democrat government of Premier Tage Erlander announced today it will recognize the Republic of Vietnam and proposed establishing diplomatic relations with Hanoi.

Foreign Minister Torsten Nilsson sent a telegram and a letter to his North Vietnamese opposite, Nguyen Duy Trinh, saying that because the negotiations in Paris "will be decisive for the peace in Vietnam, it would appear that the time has come to establish diplomatic relations."

ASSISTANCE

Recognition of a country can be decided by the government without the consent of Parliament, but opening an embassy in Hanoi would require parliamentary approval.

A communique from the Swedish Foreign Ministry said: "In connection with the plans for Swedish postwar assistance to Vietnam, these contacts (between Sweden and North Vietnam) have now become more concrete, thus increasing the need of establishing official relations."

Swedish contacts with Hanoi now are handled by the Swedish ambassador to Red China, Lennart Petri. The Swedish newspaper

Dirksen Says LBJ Wants Income Surtax Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen says President Johnson wants the 10 per cent income surtax extended, but "he would like some company" in recommending it to Congress.

There were indications Thursday Johnson wants President-elect Nixon to join him in the recommendation so the issue would not become the political controversy it was before Congress passed the surtax, at Johnson's request, last year.

The surtax expires June 30. It was originally imposed as an anti-inflation measure.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford, said he understood Johnson was prepared to make a statement about the surtax in his State of the Union message or budget request, and that Nixon would then issue a statement of his own.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert said, however, the White House had received no word from Nixon Thursday afternoon.

Dirksen told newsmen Thursday that Johnson has drawn up a tentative budget of $195 billion for the fiscal year starting July 1, an increase of $10.6 billion over current federal spending.

But the Illinois Republican said the $195 billion was a "base figure" which could be changed, depending on whether Johnson decides in favor of recommending the surtax extension.

Dirksen said congressional leaders were told at a White House meeting revenues would total about $198 billion during the year if the surtax were extended, and Johnson's tentative budget would allow for a $3 billion surplus.

In New York, a spokesman for Nixon said the President-elect had no comment.

Tom Johnson, acting White House press secretary, said the President has not decided when or how to present his State of the Union message or when his budget will be ready for presentation to Congress.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Officials continued to investigate Cecil Yancy Evans today in connection with the theft of the $365,000 McFarlin Diamond.

Evans, who told authorities he never made less than $200,000 a year, was charged in the theft Thursday.

The diamond reportedly was sold for $6,000 to an unidentified buyer near Phoenix, Ariz. It was stolen from the Witte Museum here last June and may be in Canada.

Baptists Needing India Evangelists

An enthusiastic campaign to enlist 500 pastors, laymen and musicians for a series of evangelistic meetings in India has been announced by the New Life Foundation of Houston.

Four crusades are scheduled — one each month, August through November — according to the Rev. Joe West, foundation director and coordinator for the crusade.

Known as the All India New Life Crusade, the mammoth nationwide endeavor is being sponsored by the 5900 church India Prayer Fellowship.

"Our teams will go into the Indian churches and give them practical help and counsel in how to share the message of Christianity with the masses around them," Rev. West, former pastor of the Westheimer Baptist Church in Houston, said.

"All the local meetings will be held in established churches and Christian schools," he added. "Christians are not allowed to meet in large auditoriums, in parks, or on the streets."

The crusade is receiving widespread support from pastors and laymen in Texas, according to Rev. West. Currently 34 associate crusade coordinators, who will be leading teams into all the major population centers of India, have been enlisted.

This will not mark the completion of the $95,000 improvement program, but it will recognize the occupancy of the major unit in the church plant expansion.

This also will be the occasion for the installation and ordination of seven elders and four deacons.

A tie to the beginning of the church nearly 16 years ago will be supplied by Mrs. L. B. (Bill) Edwards, who will be guest organist for the day, playing numbers that she used in the initial services in the old sanctuary. She also is to sing, and the choir, under direction of Mrs. W. E. Heideman, will have special music.

The Rev. Dan Sebesta, pastor for the past two years, said that he would have only a brief sermon in deference to other activities. The consecration service will come later when the entire project is complete.

The new sanctuary, which develops the three-cross theme, will seat approximately 230, not including the choir loft, which will accommodate 20 or more singers. There are three crosses on the exterior, the architecture extends this with fixtures and other appointments, including the three east windows with inset crosses. Olen Puckett is the architect and Talbot and Talbot, general contractors.

Three Executives Are On Committee

Executives of three statewide religious organizations, along with two university deans and five members of the Texas House of Representatives, are serving on a House Interim Committee to study employment, wages and related economic conditions.

The committee has been holding hearings throughout the state prior to making its report to the 61st Legislature which meets this month in Austin.

Religious Smorgasbord Is Present In New Government

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — America's religious variety — and flexibility — shows up strongly in the new administration and Congress taking over the job of U.S. government.

As usual, like the nation, it's an ecumenical composite. But it reflects an added prominence of some small and previously unrepresented religious groups.

Its interdenominational mobility is particularly dramatized at the top, in President-elect Nixon.

Like millions of people in modern times, he tends to migrate from one church to another for worship, according to circumstances, although he formally remains a Quaker.

His Cabinet includes three Roman Catholics, two Mormons and the others, mainly Protestants, mostly Presbyterians.

The new 91st Congress, a customary religious assortment, is made up of 399 Protestants, 111 Roman Catholics, 19 Jews and three Greek Orthodox. Three representatives do not list any religious connections.

Eastern Orthodoxy, which had no members at all in Congress until two years ago despite its nearly five million adherents, added one more this time, to make it three, giving it a slightly more proportional place in politics.

But there are no Hindus, Moslems or Buddhists, although they number around a quarter million in this country, mainly Buddhists on the West Coast and in Hawaii.

Roman Catholicism, which added two more in the legislative lists, has the largest number of any single church — 98 representatives and 13 senators — but this still isn't up to its share of the population, nearly a fourth at 47 million.

Figures on religious affiliation of the incoming federal legislators were compiled by Christianity Today, an evangelical fortnightly published in Washington, D.C.

Methodism, ranking second again in the legislative lists despite a loss of nine, now has a total of 90, including 23 senators and 67 representatives, a hefty count in relation to its 13 million adherents.

But the legislative role is even bigger proportionately for Episcopalians, numbering only 3.5 million nationally, but with 14 senators and 53 representatives, totaling 67, and also for Presbyterians, numbering only 4.4 million, yet counting 13 senators and 69 representatives, a total of 82.

Mainly, it is the affluent largely white denominations with British backgrounds whose share of legislative posts tends to be bigger than their share of the population, Christianity Today noted.

Youth-Sponsored Revival Held At Nazarene Church

The Rev. Lawrence Williams, Bethany, Okla., will be the evangelist at the youth-sponsored revival at the Church of the Nazarene, 1404 Lancaster, beginning Jan. 13 with services each night through Jan. 19.

Service time is 7:30 p.m. each day, except Sunday when the evening service begins at 7 p.m.

Rev. Williams is now devoting his full time to itinerant evangelism in the Church of the Nazarene with international headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Williams received his MA degree from Bethany Nazarene College in 1968 and was active as supply pastor while in school. In addition to his pulpit ministry, he is a baritone singer and plays a trombone.

His Bible-centered preaching is challenging, and he has been successful in winning people, both young and old, to Christ. As a child Mr. Williams lost his eyesight. In spite of this great handicap, God has helped him in his schoolwork and his preparation for the ministry. A unique part of his ministry is his ability to quote lengthy portions of the Bible.

Nuns, Baptists

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Singing nuns of the Medical Mission Sisters, led by Sister Miriam Therese Winter, provided music for "coffee house" morning worship services at a meeting of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society here.

"Baptists, Lutherans, the United Church have taken us right in," says Sister Miriam. "Finally, even Catholics are beginning to accept us." She calls her songs, "the Bible with a beat."

Married Clergy

LONDON (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church must allow married clergy for pastoral and ecumenical reasons, says the Rev. Michael Richards, priest-editor of the Clergy Review, a Catholic publication.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien Back In Role As A Pastor

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, former pastor of the First Baptist Church, was noted among other things here as a teacher of the Book of Job.

During the time following his pastorate here and his appointment last year of the position of associate pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Houston. He taught the book almost as many times as he conducted revival meetings.

In a letter here this week, he said that "I have now taught the Book of Job 171 times, and I have several appointments ahead."

He said he was happy to be back to pastoral duties, including preparation of an outline to teach the impending lesson to Sunday School teachers. He also teaches the Book of Revelation as a Sunday evening activity.

"Johnnie Kay (Mrs. O'Brien) and I are both very happy in our new relationship, but we miss all of our friends in Big Spring very much," he wrote. "May the best of heaven's blessings be upon all and each of you through the years I have several appointments ahead."

CHRIST READY TO AID THOSE NEEDING HELP

Sunday's lesson teaches that Christ was always ready to heal and help people. The Scripture reading is taken from Mark 1:21-45 and was written about 27 A.D. in Capernaum.

The word "doctrine" is thought by scholars to be interchangeable with "teachings," since the Greek word for doctrine also means teach. The fact that the term "doctor" was first used in English only for teachers reinforces this theory.

The people were astonished by the way Christ taught, for He taught with authority instead of quoting from old teachings, as did the scribes. He gave fresh insights and spoke as one who knew what He was talking about.

The conversation mentioned in Mark 1:25 is between Christ and the demon within the man. The demon or unclean spirit recognizes Christ as "the Holy One of God" and fears Him.

Christ's divine authority was shown not only in His teachings but also in His working of miracles. Mark pictures Christ as conqueror of diseases, death and demons. No evil power could withstand His word.

Padre Island Help Sought

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Brownsville Mayor Tony Gonzalez asked that the Texas Legislature Thursday for help in developing south Padre Island as a tourist attraction.

Gonzalez made the request at a hearing conducted at Brownsville by an interim Legislative committee on entertainment. The committee held an earlier hearing Thursday for help in developing south Padre Island as a tourist attraction.

Mayor Gonzalez also urged the legislature to legalize the sale of mixed drinks and pari-mutuel horse race betting.

The committee, headed by Rep. Joe Ratcliff of Dallas, also heard a request from the president of Amigoland Inc. for a special district which would provide some of the funds for the development and operation of Amigoland. The park, a bi-cultural entertainment and educational park, is to be constructed on the banks of the Rio Grande. A. J. Carnesi, Amigoland president, said.

Former Brownsville Mayor Marshall Vickers, a property owner at south Padre Island, also said the Texas Highway Commission should be encouraged to build a bridge from Port Mansfield to the resort island. He also asked that the legislature look into the problems of insuring property on the island.

Local Scouts To Hear Olympic Gold Winner

An Eagle Scout from Midland who won two Olympic gold medals will highlight the annual Buffalo Trail Boy Scout Council meeting in Big Spring Jan. 23.

He is Doug Russell, now a student at the University of Texas in Arlington. While in Scouting at Midland, Doug earned the highest rank possible for a Boy Scout. He is the son of Mrs. Betty Jane Russell, Midland.

At Mexico City he won the 100-meter butterfly event and then swam a leg on the winning 400-meter medley team. He established three world records, one of which still stands. During his swimming career he earned first place medals in all but the breaststroke, and earned 18 first places in national competition. He captured two first places in the Pan American games, the World Student games in Tokyo and the International Swimfest in Bremen, Germany.

The banquet will be held in the Student Union Building at 7 p.m. Tickets ($2) are available through district chairmen and executives. The annual council business session will be held in Room 100 of the HCJC Science Building at 6 p.m., and while this is in progress, wives will be entertained in the parlor at the Student Union Building.

Invocation for the banquet will be offered by Chaplain Robert T. Deming of Webb AFB and Dr. W. A. Hunt, HCJC president and council vice president, will extend the welcome. Dinner music will be played by Frank Wharton, in charge of music therapy at Big Spring State Hospital, and the HCJC stage band, under direction of John Stanley, will appear on the program.

Malcolm Abel, Midland, council president, will preside, and Lucius Bunton, Odessa, will direct the presentation of the Silver Beaver awards, the highest which the council can bestow for exceptional service to boys. Earl McKeehan, council executive, will present members of the staff, and the Rev. James Puckett, Baptist Temple pastor, Big Spring, will install officers.

Locally, tickets may be had from district committee members or by calling Joe Pickle at The Herald office.

Both sides blundered in today's hand, and the final triumph by South—the declarer at four hearts—was the result that nature intended on the deal.

West opened the queen of hearts and declarer won the trick in his hand with the king in order to lead a club. West put up the ace and continued with the jack of hearts. The ace was played from dummy, and East showed out—revealing that his partner had a trump trick.

It was South's plan to strip out the black suits and then put West on lead with the high heart. Declarer reasoned that, if his opponent could be made to open up the diamond suit, he might be able to restrict his loss to a single trick.

In executing his plan, South neglected to cash his high spades first. Instead, he played the king of clubs and then ruffed dummy's remaining club. West overruffed and got out with a spade. Observe that, had declarer cashed out the spades before playing the third club, West would have been deprived of a safe exit card when he was in—and he must surrender a vital trick whether he returns a spade or a diamond.

Once South let his opponent off the hook, he proceeded somewhat belatedly to cash the high spades, discarding a diamond from his hand. A small heart was overtaken by declarer's eight and the jack of diamonds was led. West covered with the queen and North's king won the trick. On the next diamond, East played the ten and West was obliged to let his partner hold the lead for, if he overtook with the ace, it would establish declarer's nine. East had nothing but black cards remaining and, on the forced return, South discarded the losing diamond from his hand as he ruffed in dummy.

When the jack of diamonds was led from the closed hand, West should have put up the ace and then continued with a small diamond for, unless East has the ten, the defense might just as well give up. If West had held the nine of diamonds, then his play of the queen would be correct for, once the king is dislodged, his ace-nine provide assurance of winning two tricks on the return.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you are apt to be upset finding out where you stand with others and stating your position. Then you can learn what they expect of you. This is all right if you do not about a contentious and argumentative attitude that defeats your primary purpose.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) An associate is very anxious you go alone with his ideas and it certainly behooves you to do so. If you soon want fine benefits, stop around. Buzz around like a bee, but don't stir up any wasps.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) With all the work ahead of you, it would be best to schedule your time or there can be confusion later. Plan time for health improvement. Why not buy that new hat you have long wanted?

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are very anxious to enjoy yourself but don't force others who do not want to too alone. Be heavy with your regular hobbies. Put energy to good use instead of going off on tangents.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although you want to give family a good housewarming, it would be better to remove tensions through kindness and understanding. Why argue? Show by example what is right.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Why don't you get busy and do something for your associates on this free day and show your appreciation? Get busy with correspondence, but show wisdom. Be brief and to the point.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You must use care regarding money matters. You have a tendency toward recklessness. Do necessary shopping and you can have a real saving. Be smart.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Don't take the risk of going after your goals without the OK of those who are connected with you. A little wit and humor with others can lighten things up nicely. Take them to pleasant places.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Stop causing delays deliberately or associates could become quite angry. Start thinking faster. Why not help others with their troubles instead of just looking on the sidelines and doing nothing?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some good friend could use you very much if you don't realize this person is under some tension. Be kind instead. Go after that personal desire tactfully. Take more philosophical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care you do not pursue some business or personal wish too forcefully, otherwise you won't get it. Handle that credit affair nicely. Take care you do not annoy a higher-up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have such excellent ideas you want to dish right into them, but you had better study them slowly for any kinks. An important higher-up can be of great assistance. Contact this person early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can finish work that requires precision with relative ease today. Stop being so nervous and you find that more responds more quickly to affection. Why make life such a burden? Change your attitude.

To Write Life Story

Arthur Bryan Cooper is only 15 and a high school junior but he's decided it is high time he wrote his autobiography. He's shown with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cooper, at their home in New Shrewsbury, N.J.

Boy's Life Story Surprises Scholars

NEW SHREWSBURY, N. J. (AP) — Arthur Bryan Cooper, who has led a busy life, has decided it is high time he wrote his autobiography. So what? So Arthur is only 15 years old. The high point of Arthur's career to date came when a paper he wrote was one of 50 chosen, out of 1,300 submitted, to be read at the recent 12th General Assembly of the International Geographical Union in New Delhi.

Thinking it over on the return flight from India the lanky high school junior decided that he should produce his life story while the facts are fresh in mind.

"He told me," said the boy's father, Louis, a businessman, "that he will start the story when he was 12 years old and became a member of the National Geographic Society."

"That year he attended the society's annual convention in Washington by himself, making his own travel and hotel arrangements and spending two weeks alone in the capital."

Arthur, a bespectacled straight-A student with an I.Q.

of 176, is basically a geography buff, but has other wide ranging interests.

He plays soccer, basketball and tennis, swims expertly and has been an Eagle Scout since he was 14.

"He also corresponds with a couple of girls, although he doesn't tell us much about that," said his father.

The paper Arthur submitted to the International Geographical Union was a treatise on the contributions early religious travelers made to Western knowledge about Asia. The other scholars were astonished when a 15-year-old kid stood up to read it.

"There weren't too many questions afterwards," Arthur told a reporter, "which means that no one took objection to what I said, so I guess I was right."

The trip to New Delhi cost about $2,500. Arthur's younger brother and his older brother and sister contributed from their savings, Arthur used all of his own savings, including his bar mitzvah money, and his father borrowed the rest.

"It cost a lot of money but it may get him a college scholarship," said the senior Cooper. "A lot of the geographers at the meeting who were affiliated with colleges and universities have offered to help him."

Demo Lame Ducks Push Pet Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Democrats' day of departure draws near, the cry of the lame duck resounds through the Capitol, defining problems, proposing solutions, praising the past and predicting the future.

The voices raised are those of public officials, soon to make way for the Republicans of Richard M. Nixon's administration and eager to use the prestige of high office in behalf of pet projects before they're back on the outside looking in.

Their goal, of course, is to generate enough public support to keep alive programs and continue policies which may hold no great attraction for their successors.

Secretary of Welfare Wilbur J. Cohen joined the chorus today telling Congress that malnutrition is a national problem and calling for the creating of three federal agencies to eradicate it.

On Thursday, Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall and the secretary of housing and urban development, Robert C. Wood, volunteered their views on some problems while Betty Furness, special assistant to President Johnson on consumer affairs, suggested government intervention to improve auto warranty services.

Secretary Cohen outlined his program to combat malnutrition in testimony prepared for a special Senate committee on hunger problems.

In addition to proposing the new agencies, he also recommended that food stamps be made available to all that need them, with eligibility to be determined by family income.

Cohen claimed current food assistance programs reach only six million of the nation's 22 million poor.

Udall said his most important accomplishment was helping to "bring in the total environment concept which everyone now accepts." This concept says that decisions on uses of public lands and resources, the amount of waste materials that can be dumped into the air, and the best sites for industrial plants and buildings be made from the point of view of effect on the over-all environment.

Secretary Wood of HUD also held a final news conference. He said Nixon had assured the nation's mayors, civil rights leaders and others that HUD's programs won't be turned off.

He then observed that HUD nearly doubled new housing starts for the poor and moderate income families to about 120,000 in the 1967-68 fiscal year and said he was confident the figure will double again next year, and that the 1968 Housing Act's goal of 600,000 units a year is not beyond the country's capability.

Miss Furness went before a Federal Trade Commission hearing on automobile warranty services to urge that the government intervene unless "serious problems" are not cleared up within one year. The FTC is looking into what an agency spokesman called evident dissatisfaction throughout the country with service under auto warranties.

Explosive Gains

Jimmy Stewart To Tour Vietnam

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Jimmy Stewart leaves Sunday for a 17-day tour of U.S. installations in Vietnam, his first visit to that war-torn country as a civilian.

Stewart's last visit to Vietnam was on an active duty mission with the Air Force. He is a retired brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve and served as a bomber pilot and squadron commander in World War II.

The Academy Award-winning actor will be accompanied by his wife Gloria, whose eldest son by a former marriage, Ronald, is serving in Vietnam with the Marine Corps.

Dr. Paul V. Prior said the National Science Foundation has provided for stipends to selected participants at the rate of $75 per week with a maximum of $675. There are allowances for dependants and travel.

All applications from junior and senior high teachers should be postmarked by Feb. 15. Application blanks may be obtained from Dr. Paul V. Prior, Department of Biology, Texas Technological College, Lubbock, Texas 79409.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Some of the coaches in the Reagan County tournament in Big Lake last weekend were grumbling about the manner in which the officials, in their words, were "taking care" of Crane's star, Tommy Jones.

Jones, of course, was being double teamed most of the way by all the clubs but the rival mentors were incensed over the fact that their boys were not allowed to throw too tight a net around the nimble Negro player.

Any number of players fouled out trying to keep Jones from scoring. The theory is that to stop Crane all a team has to do is slow down Jones—that there isn't much talent otherwise on the Crane club.

The Cranes, of course, had a double threat last year in Jones and Glen Fletcher, whose stock as an HCJC player is now steadily rising. Fact is, Fletcher is one of the most promising players to come along at the local school in years. Crane is a good bet to win any game as long as Jones can remain on the floor. However, Stanton fought the Cranes all the way down to the wire before losing by two points and figures to give Arlen White's team a fit when the two teams meet in District 4-AA play this season.

When the two teams meet Jan. 24 in Stanton, every seat in the house should be filled.

TV color man Paul Christman is one of those who concedes that the New York Jets must be given a good shot at the top money in Sunday's Super Bowl game with Baltimore, even though the Colts are now 17-point favorites.

Much, of course, depends upon the manner in which the Colts go about defending Joe Namath and Christman is very high on Joe. Says Paul:

"Namath has the best timing and the greatest arm since Sammy Baugh. For that reason, you can't count out the Jets. A great team can carry a pretty good quarterback. A great quarterback can carry a pretty good team. Namath can beat you quick. So could Baugh. The Jets with Namath are like a bad baseball team with Sandy Koufax pitching. Koufax throws a shutout and an error wins the game. With Joe they've always got a chance."

Granting Namath his dues, this one looks to me like the biggest mismatch since the two leagues started playing each other. I still don't know what New York is doing in the game, unless the AFL has gone downhill a lot in a year's time. The Jets had best dig a few moats in the Orange Bowl and fill them with crocodiles, in hopes of keeping the Colts away from Broadway Joe.

Any one of the NFL divisional winners could measure the Jets, who are in for an exercise of futility.

Sal Martinez, the middleweight buzzsaw in the fight stable of Martin County's Melton McMorries, is stepping up in class when he goes into a Tampa, Fla., ring against Songbird Williams Jan. 16.

None of Martinez' 26 fights have gone the distance and he's won 25 of those. Most have been achieved in a ring 17x17, however.

This time, promoter Earl Gilliam wants to see if Martinez can stash an opponent who has an opportunity to get on his bicycle. They'll lean to a 21x21 quadrilateral.

Songbird has fought Manny Gonzalez a couple of times. Manny put Williams away the first time out but Williams managed to go the distance in the rematch.

Williams has also fought creditably against the established Billy Smothers.

Sports Clinic Set Saturday

Howard County Junior College will host the USVBA Official's Clinic Sat. from 9:00 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

This year only rated officials will be recognized for officiating volleyball games. This official's clinic will be a big factor in preparing all interested persons in securing their official's rating.

John Koch, National Volley Ball Official from Dallas, and Regional Official's Chairman for Region 9 (Ark.-Okla.-Texas) will be on hand to assist in the rating.

Janice Hudson, president of the Texas Volley Ball Official's Association, and Wanda Armstrong, secretary for the association, will assist Koch with the clinic.

Miss Hudson and Miss Armstrong are former students and HCJC Jayhawk Queens.

Miss Hudson is now teaching at Monahan High School, while Miss Armstrong is physical education teacher and coach of Plains High School.

The Jayhawk Queens and Odessa College will serve as competitive teams for the clinic.

The written examination over rules will be given by Koch Saturday afternoon in room A-8 at the college.

Randy Matson Will Stick With Track

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Look out world! Randy Matson wants to compete in track again.

Matson, who started in a stock brokerage training program in Houston last week, has given up the idea of playing either professional football or basketball.

"Oh, I thought about it a lot," Matson said in a telephone interview. "I don't know if I could have made it. But I'm interested in a business career and I would have to put it off until I completed professional athletics."

"I hate to quit track now. I'm just 23. I should be able to improve."

Matson said he had given some thought to the possibility of competing in the 1972 Olympics in Munich, Germany.

"It's a long way off," Matson said. "I'll have to take it day by day. If it gets to the point where I'm unable to compete well I'll give it up. I want to win—not just compete."

As you can see, Randy Matson is back.

Matson said his employers—Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis—were "interested in me competing. This is a real good

RANDY MATSON

"I hope to compete this year in selected events," Matson said. "I hope to make as many meets as I can. It will take another month for me to get into decent shape so I could throw in competition. I hope to be in shape in time for the Fort Worth indoor meet in February. I would also like to go out to the West Coast for a meet or two."

Royals Lose; Coach Frets

The Cincinnati Royals, an early season threat in the National Basketball Association, have coach Ed Jucker concerned.

"I can tell you right now there are going to be some changes made," Jucker said after the Royals were beaten 119-110 by the Seattle SuperSonics Friday night.

Playing without Oscar Robertson, who became ill just before the opening toss up, the Royals came apart after leading by 21 points at one time in the first half. Jucker told newsmen he has been talking trade with six ball clubs the last eight games.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks beat the Phoenix Suns 134-120, and Oakland's Oaks whipped the Denver Rockets 136-115. Meanwhile in the American Basketball Association the New Orleans Buccaneers trimmed Minnesota 120-102 and the Houston Mavericks bested Los Angeles 104-89.

Willis Reed and Cazzie Russell were the big guns for the Knicks against Phoenix. Willis tallied 34 points and Russell 29.

The Oakland Oaks sort of frolicked with the Denver Rockets, taking a substantial lead of 11 to 2 early in the first period and remained in control thereafter.

HE'S A GOOD SKATER, BUT HE'S THE FUNNIEST LOOKING KID I'VE EVER SEEN!

DICK TRACY

MAKE MINE A MANHATTAN.

SAME.

HAVEN'T SEEN YOU TWO BEFORE. WELCOME TO THE "PAINTED LADY."

THANKS.

I UNDERSTAND THE "PAINTED LADY" HERSELF SHOWS UP LATER ON.

SHARPLY AT 10 O'CLOCK! SHE'S OUR MAIN ATTRACTION—

MARY WORTH

CALE MERMILL, FRANK! DID YOU TALK TO THE TWO GIRLS LAST NIGHT ABOUT—YOU KNOW WHAT?

YES... THEY STUCK TO THEIR STORY!

I ALSO DROVE OUT TO CURRY'S RESTAURANT AND INTERVIEWED THAT WAITRESS SHE—INSISTS THAT SHE QUOTED A CERTAIN CONVERSATION ACCURATELY!

THIS THING KEPT ME AWAKE ALL NIGHT, FRANK—AND I'VE DECIDED TO HAVE—OH, THE TWO PARTIES CONCERNED—AND THE THREE WITNESSES—APPEAR BEFORE THE BOARD— TOMORROW NIGHT!

IT'S YOUR DECISION, CALE... I ONLY INSIST THAT THE MEETING BE KEPT ABSOLUTELY SECRET!

REX MORGAN

THE POLICE ARE TRYING TO TRACE THE CALL, THEY ASKED THAT YOU TALKED IT AS LONG AS POSSIBLE IF IT'S THE CALL YOU EXPECTED!

HELLO! THIS IS DR. MORGAN. YOU ASKED THAT I CALL BACK, WHAT DO YOU TELL ME WHAT HAPPENED TO JULIE?

I'M GLAD YOU CALLED BACK! I WAS WONDERING WHETHER YOU KNOW HOW I CAN REACH YOUR FATHER? HE DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT JULIE'S ILLNESS!

I DON'T KNOW HOW HE CAN BE REACHED? NOW TELL ME WHAT HAPPENED TO JULIE.

WILL YOU HOLD ON A MINUTE? I'M HAVING TROUBLE HEARING YOU! I'LL HAVE THE SWITCHBOARD PUT YOU THROUGH ON ANOTHER EXTENSION.

TERRY

HEY! WAIT A MINUTE, THE WOMAN WHO SERVED DINNER WAS ELDERLY, A PURE FARM-PEASANT TYPE...

THIS ONE MOVES LIKE THEOPHORA HASP—AND SHE'S HEADING TOWARD THE RUINS!

SMITTY

THAT 'IL BASCAL TRIED TO PULL A FAST ONE ON ME—BUT HE DIDN'T KNOW I WAS AN OFFICE BOY MYSELF...

I KNOW ALL TH' TRICKS, TOO—BUT HE LOOKED LIKE A NICE KID, SO I'LL TRUST HIM.

MOON MULLINS

KAYO! WHAT DID QUEEN ISABELLA DO TO HELP CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS?

KAYO? KAYO KAYO!

WE HAVE TEMPORARILY LOST OUR PICTURE. PLEASE STAND BY.

A LOVELIER YOU Use Hot Compresses For Beauty Aid

By MARY SUE MILLER
If you've been burning your candle at both ends, you cannot expect to look as though you've been on a de luxe cruise. A routine of late-to-bed and early-to-rise offers nothing beauty-wise.

The skin is usually the first to show signs of strain. It goes pale and slack, except around the eyes where lines and circles deepen. Young skins come down with blemishes, too. For repairs, there is a slight charge
— extra effort and care for several weeks to come.

Very good treatment products, such as stimulation masks and creams, help to restore color and texture. But an old home remedy aids the cause. Simply compress comfortably hot water to the skin with a large face cloth. Continue for five minutes, then follow up with cold water.
Repeat twice daily, on rising and retiring.

After applying compresses at bedtime, massage dry skin with a rich emollient. To correct oily or blemished skin, pat on medicated cream or fluid; touch a disaster cream to a blemish, except in the case of acne, which calls for the advice of a dermatologist.

"Dr. Diet and Dr. Quiet" will do the rest. Simple fare and adequate sleep are super loveliers. So easy to take and so inexpensive!

LEANER AND LOVELIER

teens and adults to reduce! Just Lighter and Lovelier." It in-

Director Attends State Meeting

Mrs. W. N. Norred of Big Spring, district director of District Two, Texas Home Demonstration Association, attended the state board meeting Jan. 6-8 in Dallas. Theme for the meeting was "The Key is in Your Hands."

State meetings were scheduled for the next two years. Dallas will be the site for the meeting in 1969, and Galveston will host the group in 1970.

The national convention will be held Aug. 10-15 in Blacksburg, Va., in 1969. The District
Two meeting was slated April 24 in Denver City, and the District Two training course for THDA chairmen, council chairmen and HD agents will be held Feb. 6 at the Garden and Arts Center in Lubbock.

Pace Setter Is Style Setter

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, left, acting president of San Francisco State College whose firm stand against campus disruptions gained him wide attention, now may have another claim to fame as a style setter. He is shown with a colorful Tam

O'Shanter he has worn frequently on campus. At right, a group of girls is modeling similar headgear for a large downtown store in San Francisco. Note, tam at lower right has matching gloves.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband could never tell the front of the children's pajama bottoms. Yet I didn't want him to stop getting them ready for bed.

To show appreciation for his efforts and to help him, I sewed a bow in the front for the girls and a button for the boys.

No trouble at all ... Mrs.
S.J.

It also helps the children learn to dress themselves and sort their own clothes.

It's uncomfortable to wear pants backwards, eh?
Heloise

Dear Heloise:
My electric mixer started running slowly and when I took it to my repair lady, she said

Will Plant Tree
On Arbor Day

Mrs. John Edgar announced the Planter's Garden Club will plant a tree in Hillcrest Park on Arbor Day during Wednesday's meeting in the home of Mrs. Guy Cook, 1901 E. 21st.

New officers for the year were elected. The slate includes:
Mrs. Cook, president; Mrs. Don
Campbell, vice president; Mrs.
Jesse Crane Jr., secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Edgar, council delegate.

Mrs. Paul Koshi, soil scientist at the Big Spring Experimental Station, spoke on "How to Make a Soil Analysis." Dr. Koshi stressed the benefits derived from mulching with cotton seed hulls.

Mrs. Crane demonstrated three different floral arrangements using line materials.

The next meeting will be Feb.
12 in the home of Mrs. Don Campbell, 2700 Larry.

BSP City Council Supports Library

STANTON (SC) — Beta Sigma Phi City Council met Tuesday and made plans to support the proposed library bill being sent to the state legislature.

Resolutions stating their support will be mailed. The group met in the Martin County Library, and Mrs. John McIntyre Jr.
presided. The next meeting of the council will be at 5 p.m., Feb. 3, at the library.

it was due to flour in the motor parts.

She suggested that I put the dry ingredients in the bowl, and stir the liquid in the dry ingredients with ONE of the beaters. THEN connect it up and proceed as usual.

No fine dusty flour will get sucked into the mixer ... Mrs.
Jesse Marble

Dear Heloise:
How I do wish I could swap brains and energy with you, old
dear ... Julia Andrews

You might just get gyped,
dear! ... Heloise

Dear Heloise:
When cutting nylon net, try turning your scissors over and see how much easier that net is to cut. No catching or snagging ... Mrs. A.A.

Dear Heloise:
Being on a limited budget, yet wanting to dress my baby girl in cute dresses, I decided to sew for her.

The smallest pattern was too large for her, so I bought a baby doll clothes pattern. I enlarged it all the way around to allow for larger seams.

This particular pattern had six styles on it, so I got six outfits compared to the two or three views you normally get.

Now I'm happy ... they fit perfectly and were so very inexpensive.

And I used the left over material to make matching pants to wear over the waterproof ones ... Selena Gailey

Dear Heloise:
When you run out of flour, sugar, coffee or tea ... a good way to remember to buy more is to turn the lid of that particular canister upside down
... 11-year-old

Dear Heloise:
I solved the problem of sagging headings in my draw draperies.

I used boning (the kind that dressmakers use for strapless formals). I slipped a three-inch length of it alongside the pleat and tacked it on the wrong side.
It didn't require boning for

Mu Lambda Chapter Records Voices

STANTON (SC) — Mrs.
Claude Nowlin presented a talk on radio and television at the Monday meeting of Mu Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. Terrell Pinkston.

Mrs. Nowlin used a recorder to tape member's voices which were played back for evaluation. The hostess presided and read letters of appreciation from Dorothy Heavly of BSP International and from Girl's Town, USA, the sorority state project. Mrs. Judy Thompson reported on the BSP City Council meeting.

each pleat. For double width draperies, I used two three-inch strips on each end. This held up the rest of the heading in a satisfactory manner.

The draperies now open and close without "bowing their heads." ... Josephine Magnuson

Dear Heloise:
This morning after a sleet and snow storm, we were locked in our mobile home because both locks and knobs were frozen...

I kept my finger off the "panic button" and grabbed my hair dryer. I held the end of the hose against the lock and turned the dryer on "hot."

It worked like a charm, thawing out the frozen lock in just a few seconds ... Evelyn Parker
