'Revolutionaries' take over

Nigeria upset

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Self-proclaimed "young revolutionaries" announced they overthrew the government of Gen. Murtala Muhammed today because of "difficulties" with his seven-month-old regime. There were unconfirmed reports that Muhammed and several other persons were killed.

However, a U.S. official in Lagos said in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press in Washington that the rebels, who announced the coup over the radio, may have control of the state radio station only, and not the entire country.

Sporadic gunfire was heard inside the Dodan Barracks, seat of the Nigerian government, and witnesses reported several bodies on the streets near the barracks.

A bullet-riddled army staff car was left abandoned at a gas station near the barracks. Witnesses said there was blood on the seats and doors and secret official papers littered on the ground nearby.

The witnesses said a senior army officer was severely wounded in the car and taken to a nearby hospital.

The Dodan Barracks and Defense Ministry were sealed off and traffic diverted from approaches to the buildings. Other strategic buildings and areas in the city were guarded, but less stringently.

News of the coup was broadcast by Radio Nigeria which repeated the announcement at half-hour intervals. About six hours after the coup, which took place at about 9:30 a.m. — 3:30 a.m. EST — the capital was calm.

A Nigerian lieutenant colonel whose name sounded like Dimka read the coup announcement. He said the government was dissolved, travel was forbidden and a curfew from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. was ordered. "We are all together," the broadcast said.

Among the Americans currently in Nigeria are Arthur Ashe, Dick Stockton, Harold Solomon and Eddie Dibbs, all taking part in a tennis tournament.

Ed Noel, deputy information officer at the U.S. Embassy, said in his telephone conversation with The AP in Washington that all Americans in Lagos were safe, either at home or in the U.S. Embassy. Noel also reported sporadic shooting, brief panic and nearly empty streets in the Nigerian capital.

Murtalla, a hero in Nigeria's civil war with Biafra, seized power himself last July in a bloodless coup, the fourth since Nigeria gained independence from Britain in 1960.

Muhammed took over the government from Gen. Yakubu Gowon in a bloodless coup last July 29 while Gowon was attending a summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity in Kampala, Uganda.

Gowon himself came to power in a coup in July, 1966, six months after the military overthrew the civilian parliamentary government which the British left behind.

A Lagos broadcast monitored by the British Foreign Office in London said the coup was the work of "young revolutionaries."

A Foreign Office spokesman said the coup occurred about 9:30 a.m. and reports were filtering in from the British High Commission in Lagos, the Nigerian capital. But the spokesman said the Foreign Office did not know yet whether there had been any violence or what condition were like in Lagos.

Soviets give tanks to former foe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union reportedly has delivered new tanks and other military equipment to Zambia, which until now has backed anti-Soviet forces in the Angolan civil war, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

The Soviet military shipments were disclosed after Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said representatives of Zambia and Zaire have indicated that their countries are ready to accept a victory by the pro-Soviet Popular Movement in neighboring Angola.

The intelligence report of recent Soviet arms shipments to Zambia did not link that development with any shift in the Zambian position on Angola. It said simply that Zambia recently received eight Soviet T54 tanks and 20 amphibious scout cars. Zambia has accepted some Soviet military aid in the past, but not since 1974 so far as is known.

Popular Movement troops, spearheaded by Cuban soldiers and tanks, have been scoring major gains against western-backed Angolan forces, and there has been growing evidence that the war may end soon, at least in terms of a conventional fight.

Patriotic music, jets spice bicentennial ceremony

"We in the United States are not good because we are great, but we are great because we are good."

Rudy Juedeman, acting director of Region VI, American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, told a crowd attending special bicentennial ceremonies at Webb AFB this fact as he spoke briefly during a special presentation.

He commended the band for its patriotic selections and pointed out to the crowd that the youth in the band and the Webb pilots that were present "depict to me that America will endure."

"These youths represent our hope for the future and these pilots represent our security of today," Juedeman added. He also stressed the point that America is charitable and quick to help others.

Earlier, Janet Ivery, backed by the star spangled chorus from Campus Revue '76 sang a beautiful rendition of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." In addition to the accompaniment of the band, the choral group was also accompanied by jet planes overhead and the flapping of the flag in the air above. They probably never gave a more chilling rendering version of the battle hymn.

The fact that it was Lincoln's birthday caused the selection to be added to the program. Margaret McGee did a solo to the Pledge of Allegiance and Paul Ruiz gave the narration during the Ceremony of Allegiance by the group.

Col. Robert F. Brodman acted as master of ceremonies and welcomed special guests. Capt. Richard B. Risk, base bicentennial coordinator, explained how the base had become one of 606 specially designated military installations in the United States.

This was through work on bicentennial projects and the presentation of the Thunderbirds last year along with the dedication ceremonies of the new dining hall.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery and Mrs. Janelle Davis, co-chairpersons of the bicentennial, presented a special framed Big Spring-Howard County certificate to Webb and Juedeman presented the official ARBA certificate and flag to Webb.

Col. Robert E. Owens, wing commander, accepted the presentations and also received a bicentennial pen from Mayor Protem Polly Mays. Another pen was presented to Juedeman.

The special Webb Security Police Color Guard was in charge of raising the bicentennial flag. The music was furnished by the Golden Horns stage band, directed by Gene Currie.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Jimmie D. Baggett led the invocation and benediction.

The base bicentennial committee was commended. It includes Col. Owens, Col. Brodman, Capt. Risk, Maj. John M. Grathwol, Capt. Thomas R. Pettegrew, Capt. David W. Smith, 2nd Lt. Michael Flanigan, SMSgt. Philip Clark, MSgt. George Sullivan, TSgt. E. J. Johnfroe, TSgt. Don Turk, TSgt. Walter Kauffman, Mrs. Maria C. Klein, Mrs. Sylvia Sefcik, Mrs. Ellen B. Gladden, Jim Zapp, Mrs. Barbara Burg and Mrs. Janie Harmon.

WAIT UNTIL DARK — More and more persons have become night people in our complicated society. Marj Carpenter, reporter, explores the world of night people in Big Spring, the many people who work at night.

Cupid takes 50-year holiday for couple

Fifty years ago, a Big Spring couple decided to get married. They drove to Lamesa for the license and ceremony, only to find the courthouse closed. They called the whole thing off.

They returned home, eventually went their separate ways to marry other partners and lead happy lives.

They were both widowed several years ago, and met again through a mutual friend. When they decided to marry, they returned to Lamesa for the ceremony.

The couple is Millard P. Taylor, 76, and Ann Hornaday, 70.

Abe Hester, pastor of Second Baptist Church, performed the wedding rites with only two personal friends in attendance.

Mrs. Hornaday is the widow of the former Washington, D. C. newspaperman, Walter Hornaday.

They were actually married on Feb. 10, but it really makes a good Valentine's Day story — 50 years later.

In the city race, the person polling the most votes for mayor will win, the top person in place one and the top person in place two.

In the college trustee race, everybody has the opportunity of voting for two trustees.

School tax techniques discussed at meeting

Property classifications and appraisal techniques school tax officials must outline for the governor's office were discussed at the tax appraisal board meeting Thursday afternoon.

The deadline is March 15, said Don Crockett, assistant superintendent of business for Big Spring public schools.

State officials plan to use this information to determine how much state financial aid school districts are entitled to receive, Crockett said.

"If you do a real sloppy job," Crockett said, "it could cost you an awful lot of money."

If the school district tax office is too conservative in appraising, the state may correct the information through field audits and reviews, Crockett added.

In other business, the tax appraisal board:

— Discussed providing retirement and hospitalization benefits for appraisal office workers through the city, county and or college.

— Heard Carlton Harry, senior tax appraiser, praise the usefulness of identification cards for appraisal workers. The college provided the ID cards.

— And reviewed reports on appraisal office activity and finances.

All participating governments were represented at the meeting, except the city of Forsan, whose representative was ill.

FUTURE OLYMPIANS — Already in training, these three-year-old cross-country skiers share a little refreshment during practice at Franconia, N.H., Cross Country Ski Center. They are Amber Kelly of Swiftwater, N.H. and Matt Merrelli of Franconia.

Salvation Army accepting gifts to aid earthquake victims

The Big Spring Salvation Army is accepting donations to aid in the relief of Guatemalan earthquake victims.

Donations may be sent to Big Spring Commander, Brig. Robert Ball. He will forward the donations to Division Headquarters in Dallas. From there they will be sent to Salvation Army personnel on the scene in Guatemala.

She made her debut in this country with the Metropolitan Opera in New York which she left in 1956. She was often seen on battlefront tours during World War II.

When she left New York in 1961 she denied the move signaled retirement, saying, "Retirement doesn't exist for me. Retirement for me is death. Now I want to live a little."

She said she chose Dallas as her new home because, "I made many friends here through the years. Also, Dallas is in the South. The people in this part of the country are the people I like. I like the way they think and behave. They are real people."

After moving to Dallas she became active in affairs of the Dallas Civic Opera and the Dallas Symphony. Miss Pons was born in Cannes, France, making her first American appearance as "Lucia" in New York in 1931.

Lincoln had Confederate $5 bill when he died

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abraham Lincoln was carrying a Confederate $5 bill the night he was shot at Ford's Theater, but no one knows why.

The contents of his pockets that night were disclosed Thursday during ceremonies marking the 167th anniversary of his birth.

Librarian of Congress Daniel J. Boorstin suggested tongue-in-cheek that perhaps the martyred president was carrying it "as insurance in case the war went the other way."

President Ford laid a wreath at the Lincoln Memorial before a crowd of about 300. He said Lincoln "saw the political system created by the Constitution as a definitive answer to the ancient debate about the ability of man to govern himself in freedom."

Ford said the nation honors Lincoln "for the force of his faith in America and in the people" at a time when the worth of the federal government is being questioned.

The $5 Confederate bill, issued in Richmond, Va., on Feb. 17, 1864, was among a collection of items which an unknown person removed from Lincoln's pockets after he was shot at the theater on the night of April 14, 1865. He died the following morning.

The items were placed in a box and given to the president's son, Robert Todd Lincoln. His daughter, Mrs. Charles Isham, gave it to the Library of Congress in 1937.

The box had been stored since then in a safe in the librarian's office where Boorstin found it when he took office several months ago. Since there were no conditions attached to the gift, he decided to open it on Lincoln's birthday in the Bicentennial year.

Aside from the Confederate bill, there was no money. There were no favorable newspaper clippings about Lincoln and the conduct of the Civil War. There were two pairs of eyeglasses, one cufflink, a penknife, a handkerchief embroidered "A. Lincoln" and what appeared to be a watchfob.

HONORS LINCOLN — President Ford stands beneath the statue of Abraham Lincoln as he speaks during ceremonies at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington Thursday. It was the 167th anniversary of the emancipator's birth.

Former fiancee will testify for defense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With the prosecution ready to rest its case, Patricia Hearst's attorneys planned to call her ex-fiancee today to recount the night of the kidnapping that ultimately led to her trial for bank robbery.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said he would wrap up his case against the 21-year-old newspaper heiress today when he resumed questioning FBI agent Thomas J. Padden, "our final witness."

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey said he would immediately begin reconstructing Miss Hearst's kidnapping by calling her former fiancee, Steven Weed, to the stand.

Weed was left beaten and bleeding at his Berkeley apartment the chilly night of Feb. 4, 1974, when the Symbionese Liberation Army abducted Miss Hearst. He and the defendant have not met since the kidnapping. Miss Hearst was captured here Sept. 18.

The defense maintains that Miss Hearst took part in the bank robbery two months after her kidnapping out of fear for her life.

Browning based his case on Miss Hearst's own words and actions during her bizarre 19-month odyssey through the terrorist underground and on testimony of witnesses who saw her during that time.

The evidence he offered included bank camera photos of her during a San Francisco robbery two months after the kidnapping and a tape recording in which she proclaimed allegiance to the SLA.

Browning called 32 witnesses, including law enforcement officers, persons at the scene of the bank robbery and a Los Angeles area teen-ager who was kidnapped and spent a night with Miss Hearst and SLA members William and Emily Harris.

Bailey has secured U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter's approval to take the jury to two hideouts where Miss Hearst was kept in closets in the weeks just after her kidnapping.

They also will visit the bank that Miss Hearst and the SLA robbed on April 15, 1974.

Bailey said the excursion would be Monday. There will be no courtroom session because of a legal holiday.

The 13th day of the trial ended emotionally for the pale defendant Thursday as the government played for the jury a tape from the SLA featuring Miss Hearst saying she voluntarily joined her captors in the bank heist.

The frail young woman wept when she heard the stident, angry voice of SLA chieftain Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze spew a cold, militaristic account of the bank robbery.

Her shoulders shook visibly, and tears rolled down her face. She seemed to slightly regain her composure when a voice now identified as Harris railed about the news media and authorities fanning racism.

However, when her voice, soft but brimming with disdain, spoke as "Tania, a soldier in the people's army" she bowed her head and nervously rubbed her temple and lips.

Carter stared at the defendant when she referred to Weed on the tape as a "sexist, ageist pig" and then turned toward the recording machine again.

Her father, San Francisco Examiner president Randolph Hearst, stiffened when she called him "Adolf," presumably a reference to Adolf Hitler.

Her mother, Catherine, sat stone-faced, but the seven women and five men on the jury appeared enraptured as they followed her words with a government-prepared transcript.

The jury must decide whether Miss Hearst was forced under threat of death to rob the bank and make the dramatic tape, as she has testified outside their presence.

Browning originally intended to play only the portion containing Miss Hearst's speech, but Bailey insisted that the jury hear the entire reel.

DeFreeze and five other SLA members were killed in Man gets life sentence

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A jury has given Benito Alonzo, convicted of helping to arm prison inmate Fred Gomez Carrasco for a fatal escape attempt a life sentence as a habitual criminal. The 40-year old San Antonio man, who has been to prison four times before, heard the finding Thursday without showing emotion. His attorneys have said they will appeal.

The same jury found Alonzo guilty Wednesday night of delivering to Huntsville the three pistols used by drug kingpin Carrasco in an attempted escape on Aug. 3, 1974. Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandel of Huntsville said one of the weapons, a .357 magnum, was used by inmate Rodolfo Dominguez to kill hostage Julia Standley, a prison employee.

Carrasco, Dominguez and hostage Elizabeth Beseda also were killed.

The jury of seven women and five men was given "prison packets" containing records of a burglary and two theft convictions. Jurors never were told that Alonzo also had a conviction for heroin possession.

Alonzo was the second person to be convicted in connection with the escape attempt.

Ignacio Cuevas, one of Carrasco's two confederates in the attempted breakout, has been sentenced to death for capital murder.

Still to be tried are Lawrence Hall, the lifer who has admitted bringing the three pistols into the prison, and George "Skippy" Cisneros, who allegedly obtained the weapons in San Antonio.

Sandel of Huntsville promised not to seek the death penalty against Hall in return for his testimony.

Cisneros, like Alonzo, is accused of introducing firearms into the prison to facilitate an escape.

Alonzo said in a written statement that he obtained a satchel from Cisneros and drove with it to Huntsville, not knowing its contents. He said he turned it over to Hall.

Hall, a trusty, worked outside the walls as "house boy" for Alton Akins, an assistant director of the Texas Department of Corrections. He said he smuggled the weapons, into the prison in one-gallon fruit cans and hollowed out hams.

Once inside the walls he gave the weapons to inmate Fred Perales in a latrine, Hall said.

Funds sought for handicapped

The Easter Seal chapter for Crippled Children and Adults for Howard County will conduct a neighbor-to-neighbor fund-raising campaign March 1 through April 18.

The chapter strives to serve the needs of handicapped children and adults and depends on help from the community to insure its operation.

Antique killed antique lover?

DALLAS (AP) — Collecting antiques was a love of Alla Mae Russell, 75, who died last month when a blaze roared through her 25-room mansion.

Her love might have killed her.

Mrs. Russell lived alone in her home in a fashionable section of Dallas. The fire in which she died also destroyed $300,000 worth of paintings, jewelry and antiques, including an old Chinese lamp.

It was the lamp and its faulty wiring that arson investigators say probably started the fire.

"It had been left burning in the bedroom on a commode table between two upholstered chairs," said fire department spokesman Pete Nunez.

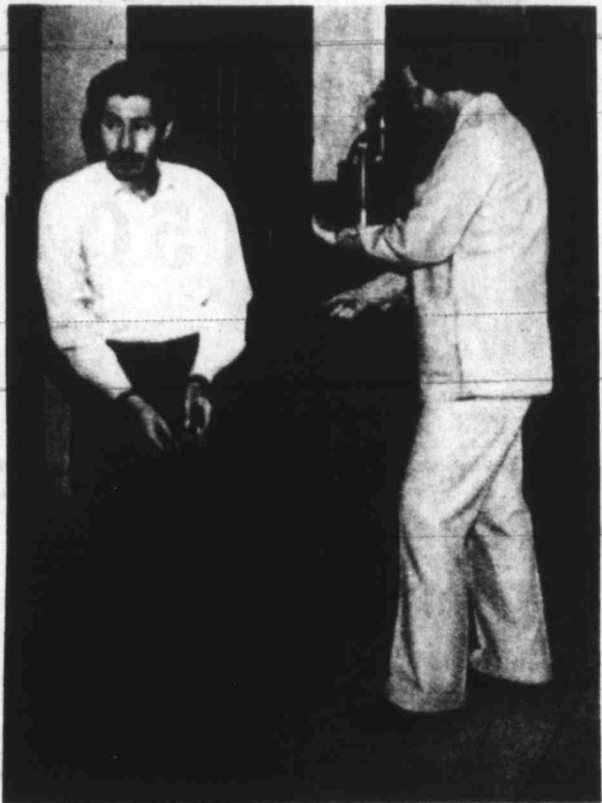

Mrs. Powell also loved animals. Most of her 40 to 50 cats died with her.

'Fuel Crisis' title of talk

The February meeting of the American Chemical Society will be held Wednesday at the Bonanza Steak

House, 903 Andrews Hwy., Midland. Members will gather 6:30 p.m. for socializing, and supper will begin 7:15 p.m. The meeting itself, will start 8 p.m. Guest speaker for the affair will be Dr. James W.

Robinson from Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. The title of his talk will be "Fuel Crisis". Guests are welcome and no reservations are required. For more information contact Jim Watson, Cosden, 263-7661.

SENTENCED TO LIFE — Benito Alonzo, 40, left, convicted of smuggling guns into Huntsville Prison to Fred Gomez Carrasco, leaves a jail elevator enroute to court in Austin, in custody of Deputy Sheriff Chet Joslin (right). Carrasco, a South Texas drug boss, was killed in an aborted break-out August 3, 1974, along with another inmate and two female hostages. Alonzo was sentenced to life in prison Thursday.

Group says doctors use too many x-rays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The president of the Texas Chiropractic Association has accused medical doctors of giving Medicaid patients too many x-rays at the taxpayers' expense.

Even patients who pay their own way get too many x-rays because doctors, anxious about malpractice suits, want their diagnoses confirmed, said Bill Timberlake of Dallas.

"Not only are increasing numbers of x-rays being taken, which area for the doctor's benefit rather than the patient, but the medical profession is charging the Medicaid program for it. This is the basic reason our welfare department needs an additional $49 million to $70 million to pay its bills," he added.

Marlin Johnston, executive director of the welfare department's medical program, later said Medicaid routinely pays for only $25 per year in x-ray and laboratory fees.

"The doctor must justify medically anything over that. He has to put it in writing. It has to be evaluated by an employee of Blue Cross (which administers the program)," Johnston said. "With the screen Blue Cross applies, I don't think there is abuse going on in that area."

He said the Medicaid program's estimate cost overrun was $35 million to $40 million for this biennium, which the welfare board had voted to cover with earned, but unallocated, federal funds.

BEST VIEW IN TOWN — Kay Boadle, employee of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, admires the view from the closed-in solarium in the hospital's new 40-bed unit.

Complete VA hospital unit costing $327,000

Jack D. Powell, director of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, announced that major construction has been completed on a new 40-bed unit on the hospital's sixth floor.

The new unit will house patients requiring skilled nursing care, and having rehabilitation potential. Services will be offered to eligible patients in the unit for a pre-determined length of time only.

The sixth floor had previously housed a 30-bed nursing home care unit which was closed last June when renovation began.

The new unit, costing $327,000, was constructed by the firm of Allied Steel Erectors Company of Abilene. When completely

Fourth grader finds teacher's $7,000 ring

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Fourth grade pupil Justin Green picked up "a pretty piece of plastic" at school last Friday and shoved it into his pocket.

He didn't know it at the time, but the "plastic" was actually a $7,000 diamond which fell out of the ring one of his teachers.

Justin heard classmates talking about a missing stone Monday and told the teacher about what he had found.

But he couldn't remember what he had done with his find.

Dave Nickerson, principal at Meadowbrook Elementary School, rushed to the lad's house and began a search with Justin's mother.

They found the diamond after taking apart the family washing machine. The stone had caught in a trap intended to keep small items from jamming up the washing machine.

"Oh good Lord. We were all happy," said Mrs. Erich Wendel, Justin's teacher and the owner of the diamond.

Said Justin: "I thought it was a piece of plastic. I was polishing it and making it shine and showing it to the other kids."

The principal gave Justin a $5 reward.

'Tough' actor Sal Mineo murdered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sal Mineo, known as "The Switchblade Kid" for his many film roles as a teenage tough, has been stabbed to death outside his Hollywood apartment house, authorities said.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Sheriff's Information Officer Anthony Silas said investigators were still searching for the murder weapon. He said there was no immediate indication of the motive for the attack.

Big Spring Herald publisher helps interview Hobby on TV

An interview with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby which will be televised at noon Sunday on KOSA (Channel 7) — Television in Odessa features a Big Spring participant.

Big Spring Herald

Publisher J. Tom Graham was one of three interviewers in the half hour discussion with Hobby. Hobby was making a swing through West Texas this week with stops in Abilene and Midland where he spoke to service organizations.

The interview with Hobby was taped on Wednesday afternoon for airing on Channel 7's "Sunday" show.

The lieutenant governor told the interviewers that the most crucial issue facing Texas is the energy problem, and he termed federal energy legislation a disaster for the state and nation.

Hobby also said he could see no need for new state taxes in the Legislative session coming up in 1977.

Report says

Zale's lost $543,000

DALLAS (AP) — A preliminary report in a company audit indicates at least $543,000 was misapplied from Zale Corp. funds since 1972, the firm's president, Donald Zale, said Thursday.

The Dallas County district attorney's office disclosed two days earlier that a possible misapplication of Zale company funds was being investigated.

Donald Zale said the misapplied amount is not expected to exceed $1 million.

"However, because the misapplications occurred through expensing against income, the company's past financial statements to shareholders and the public are not adversely affected," he said.

"Not only will the company's past financial statements not be adversely affected as a result of the findings, but, also, any recovery of losses will be income," he said.

Zale Corp. is bonded for losses up to $5 million, Zale said.

"The examination and audit indicates that only one person acted in this matter," he added.

Expert to strive for readable policies

AUSTIN (AP) — Health and accident insurance policies should be as readable as Reader's Digest, says Dr. Rudolph Flesch, author of "Why Johnny Can't Read."

The State Board of Insurance is paying Flesch $1,000 as a consultant on its attempt to implement a new law requiring simple language in such policies.

That includes his expenses for roundtrip airline tickets from Dobbsbury, N.Y.,

Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie told a news conference Thursday.

"Most insurance policies score below zero on Flesch's readability test," Christie said. "It is no wonder then, that lacking understanding, consumers cannot make a rational choice in the insurance market place."

Flesch said he would aim for a ninth-grade reading level in his recommendations on policy language.

Christie handed out random examples of stories written by Capitol reporters. Flesch said most of them ranked at the high school level on his test.

Christie only laughed when asked if Flesch had read over Christie's prepared statement for the news conference, which included such cliches as "mumbo-jumbo" and "I am not going to sit idly by."

Wallace backers to meet in Guthrie Saturday

The Delegate Selection Committee in State Senatorial District 30 for Gov. George Wallace will meet in Guthrie Saturday to choose a slate of nominees for delegates to the Democratic National Convention scheduled for July in New York City.

Members of the selection committee are Norma McPherson, Vernon; Allen Harp, Childress; Rusty Baker, Childress; H. Campbell, Floydada; Mrs. Green White, Burkburnett; Elmer Jones, Burkburnett; and L. D. Grice, Jack Roberts and E. O. McNeese, all of Big Spring.

Three delegates to the National Convention will be selected and each will be committed to Gov. Wallace's candidacy in the race for the presidency.

The name of each delegate nominee will be printed on the Democratic Presidential Primary to be held within Senatorial District 30 May 1.

The Saturday meeting in Guthrie, which will be open to the public, gets under way at 2 p.m. All participants, however, will be required to pledge themselves by oath to Wallace's candidacy for the presidency.

Fords visit grand dame

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford attended a birthday party for 92-year-old Alice Roosevelt Longworth and pronounced the Washington grand dame "just as attractive as ever."

President and Mrs. Ford dropped in Thursday night at Mrs. Longworth's Embassy Row home, where she was celebrating her birthday with friends.

The Presidential couple visited for 40 minutes. They brought along a gift in a large gold-wrapped box but declined to tell reporters what was in it.

Moynihan got many letters

BOSTON (AP) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, says he's received "perhaps 50,000 letters" about the world organization "but not more than 10 urged us to pull out."

"It's there, and we'll be in it," said Moynihan, who leaves his post at the end of the month.

The Harvard University professor of government commented after giving an hour-long speech Thursday night at historic Faneuil Hall. Earlier in the day he had taught his first class of the semester.

Moynihan deftly parried questions about the reasons for his resignation and his plans for the future. Although he has been mentioned as a possible contender for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate from New York, Moynihan has maintained he has no political plans.

Woman may be admiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. Fran McKee has become the first woman line officer in the Navy to be nominated for promotion to rear admiral.

Capt. McKee's name appeared Thursday on a list of 36 captains chosen for promotion to flag rank.

Line officers are not restricted in their duty assignments, as are specialists in medicine, law and supply.

The only other woman flag officer on active duty is Rear Adm. Maxine Connor, who heads the Navy Nurse Corps.

Capt. McKee, 49, now commands the naval security group at Ft. Meade, Md. She was born in Columbia, Tenn. During a 26-year Navy career, she has held recruiting, personnel and similar assignments.

Goldwater grabs secrets?

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. accidentally grabbed the suitcase of CIA Director George Bush at Los Angeles International Airport after they both arrived on a flight from Washington.

In response to reporters' questions at a news conference Thursday, Goldwater said he did not microfilm the contents or expect any reprisals from CIA agents.

Goldwater said the mixup happened because the two men had identical suitcases. He said, "I saw what I thought was mine and just grabbed it and left. I didn't realize it until this morning when I looked for my shaving kit."

The California Republican did have one new insight into Bush's personal habits. He commented, "I've got to say he packs very neatly."

Delegate selection committee for Carter to meet Saturday

The Jimmy Carter Presidential campaign in Texas has announced the formation of its delegate selection committee for Senatorial District 30. The committee by law is charged with the responsibility of selecting three delegates to appear on the May 1, 1976, Democratic primary ballot committed to Jimmy Carter.

The senatorial district 30 meeting will take place as prescribed by state law Saturday, Feb. 14, at 2:00 p.m. in Wichita Falls, located at Sikes Center Mall Community Room.

Delegate selection chairman for Jimmy Carter in District 30 is Joyce Powers, 2412 Cambridge, Wichita Falls, phone 767-5003. The delegate selection committee meeting is public. All Democrats are being encouraged to attend this meeting and actively participate in the delegate selection process for Jimmy Carter.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Five out of seven Jimmy Carters like Jimmy Carter for president.

U.S. Army rebuilds its tank supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, which Pentagon officials say has less than 40 per cent of its military tank needs, will withhold major tank deliveries to other countries for about 18 months until the Army's supply is replenished.

Secretary of Army Martin Hoffmann said the Army now has about 4,300 tanks, representing 39 per cent of its requirements. The tank shortage dates back to the 1973 Mideast war.

Government officials have pledged that no tanks will be exported from current limited production or from the Army's depleted stocks except in an emergency. Hoffmann said Thursday at a Pentagon news conference.

He said current M60 tank production of about 60 a month should double in the 1978 fiscal year.

Meanwhile, Hoffmann said he would choose the West German Leopard II tank over an American competitor if the Leopard proves to be the better war machine in tests that anticipate production of a brand new and advanced tank for the 1980s.

"We are after the best product for the American serviceman and I am absolutely dedicated to getting that," Hoffmann said.

General Motors Corp. and the Chrysler Corp. have each entered a prototype XM tank in competition against each other as the candidate for the tank of the future.

Hoffmann said the Leopard and the winner of the General Motors-Chrysler competition will be tested "head on."

Reality therapy for alcoholics mulled here

The tenth in a series of alcoholism programs sponsored by the Big Spring State Hospital was held today in the hospital auditorium.

Theme of the program was "Utilization of Reality Therapy in Alcoholism Treatment." Consultant for the program is Dr. Fitz-George J. Peters, associate director of field services for the Institute of Reality Therapy in Los Angeles. Peters is a practicing clinician at the institute where he works with clients, parents, communities and schools.

The monthly programs are made possible through a contract with the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and are presented in conjunction with Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital and Howard College.

Safer than booze, cigarettes

Pot poses no health hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't fret about their health if your teen-agers are experimenting with marijuana. The majority of them are these days and it's safer than booze or cigarettes, says Dr. Robert L. DuPont of the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

DuPont confesses he smoked pot himself when he was younger and didn't know better.

Not that DuPont, a physician, is a marijuana advocate. Quite the contrary, he told newsmen Thursday. "If it was up to me I would stop use of all of these drugs (marijuana, alcohol and tobacco) at the wave of my hand," he said.

But kids will be kids, he said, and it's important for parents "not to get so uptight" if their youngsters try pot a few times. The most recent survey shows that for the first time a majority of 53 per cent of youths in the 18 to 25 age group admitted trying marijuana and 12 per cent of the 14 and 15 years olds are current users.

DuPont's advice to youths is: Don't take it up if you haven't already because it's expensive, messy and does pose some health risks.

But the hazards are not as serious as cigarettes and alcohol, he said. "Alcohol really does kill people from overdoses," he said, "but it is virtually impossible to die from marijuana."

Cigarettes cause cancer and respiratory and heart disease, he added, but marijuana doesn't even cause bronchitis except among very heavy smokers. And the institute's fifth marijuana report to Congress contains no evidence it causes permanent biological harm, he said.

If you smoke pot and are determined to continue, DuPont said, "use as little as possible and as responsibly as possible."

Marijuana intoxication can impair your reflexes and judgment just the same as too much beer, wine or liquor and presents a "clear and present danger" to auto drivers and machinery operators, he said.

And, he added, there's still a lot scientists don't know about marijuana's effects on the body's chemistry and what they do know might be thrown out the window when more potent varieties of marijuana and hashish oil are used.

DuPont said he personally favors a $25 fine rather than jail sentences for simple possession of small amounts of marijuana. That would provide a signal that pot smoking is "prohibited behavior," he said, and imprisonment would be reserved for dealers in the drug.

Drugs in Dallas jail was standard practice

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County investigator says irregularities in dispensing drugs in the county jail have been "standard operating procedure," but that new procedures are being prepared.

Bill Hubbard, legal liaison for the sheriff's office, said he conducted an investigation that revealed prescription drugs had been "stockpiled" in the jail by ordering drugs for prisoners no longer in the jail or by using forged prescriptions.

County, state and federal investigators are conducting a probe into the alleged misuse of medical supplies at the jail and the director of nurses has been relieved of her duties, it was disclosed Thursday.

Mrs. Georgia Parks, a registered nurse, told the Times Herald she was ordered last week not to return to her job as director of the 13-member nursing staff at the jail until the multi-level investigation is completed.

Sources said the probe by county officials and agents of the Department of Public Safety and the Drug Administration covers alleged forged prescriptions for drugs obtained from Parkland Hospital and illegal stockpiles of drugs kept within the jail hospital.

Also under investigation are alleged fraudulent refills of drugs kept within the jail hospital and dispensed to patients by unauthorized personnel, the operation of an unlicensed pharmacy at the jail hospital and possible alterations and removal of patients records from hospital files to conceal misuse of drugs.

Mrs. Parks said she was removed from her job by Dr. J. M. Pickard, county health officer.

Explosion possibility

U.S. studies atomic disaster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal government is funding research into a little-known theory about how an accident at a nuclear power plant might trigger a dangerous steam explosion.

Officials of the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission said that the $100,000 project at Sandia Laboratories at Albuquerque, N.M., is only one of many studies probing possible safety hazards. They say there is no evidence at this point to indicate the theory is valid as applied to nuclear power plants.

But critics of nuclear safety say the hypothesis raises the spectre of non-nuclear explosions that could rend the walls of any of the 58 currently licensed reactors and allow deadly radioactive materials to spread into the atmosphere.

"The kind of explosion we're talking about is not very big, just equivalent to a few tons of TNT," said Prof. Henry Kendall, a nuclear high-energy physicist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a founding member of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"The hazard is that it could rupture all containment structures in the building and let radioactive material seep out into the wind," he said in a telephone interview. "If the theory is true, you could have a seemingly innocuous accident aggravated to the point of a major public catastrophe."

The theory, first proposed by astrophysicist Stirling Colgate in a study of volcanoes, tries to explain why surprisingly large explosions sometimes occur when molten materials come into contact with water. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's 1974 Reactor Safety Study cites four such explosions in small nuclear reactors and also a series of fatal blasts in industrial foundries.

In a paper in the August 1973 issue of Nature Magazine, Colgate hypothesized what he called a "dynamic self-mixing effect," in which an initial mixing of molten materials and water produces a high-pressure steam that in turn causes more mixing in a kind of chain reaction.

Colgate further speculated in an unpublished paper how such an explosion might occur at a light water reactor plant in the unlikely event all cooling systems failed and the uranium oxide fuel was reduced to a molten mass, an accident called a core meltdown.

The nuclear application of Colgate's theory is developed in an article in the February 1976 issue of Environment Magazine, published by a New York-based watchdog group called Scientists' Institute for Public Information.

Author Kevin Shea, a biologist and the magazine's editor, says Colgate speculated that following a meltdown, the molten fuel would come into contact with water and might produce a large-scale steam explosion sufficient to tear apart the steel and concrete walls of a power plant.

The Reactor Safety Study estimates the frequency of core meltdowns at 1 in 20,000 per year for each operating plant — so that with 200 plants in operation, such an accident could be expected every 100 years.

The study further calculates that only one in 100 meltdowns would lead to a steam explosion severe enough to release radioactivity into the environment.

Shea says that Colgate's theory challenges this last figure, by "postulating that in every case (of core meltdown) there is a potential for explosion by the dynamic self-mixing process."

Colgate, adjunct professor at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology in Roswell and unofficial consultant to the NRC at Sandia, said he was pleased that research was under way on his theory. But he said he feared Shea's article — which he had not seen — might exaggerate the danger.

"I do not like to be an alarmist, because I feel there has been a significant response to my concern at the national laboratories," Colgate said in a telephone interview from his home in Ward, Colo. "Our knowledge of this dynamic self-mixing is not at the level yet to affect arguments pro or con nuclear power plants, because the probability of its occurring is so remote."

"These kinds of experiments are conducted — no matter how far out the accident could be — to give us an indication of what could go on," said Gary Bennett, technical assistant to the NRC's assistant director for water reactor safety research in Germantown, Md. "Usually nature's been kinder to us than we are in our own minds."

Ian B. Wall, chief of the NRC's Probabilistic Analysis Branch, said data from small-scale explosions indicated molten fuel and water probably "would not interact in an explosive way." But, he said, experiments up to now have not been able to rule out this possibility at a power plant, "because of unknowns associated with a potentially large-scale event."

Bennett said the project at Sandia on "steam explosion phenomena" was budgeted at $100,000 for fiscal 1975-76 and probably would yield no definitive results until later in the year.

Preparing for one-act competition

WESTBROOK — Julia Sweatt, Pandora Moore and Jim Anderson, members of the senior class of Westbrook High School, recently began preparation for UIL competition in the One-Act Play District Meet.

Leading the cast is Ms. Sweatt, a two-time All-Star selection, having won plaudits for her performances in "Bluebeard Had a Wife" and "The Devil on Stilts." Sweatt's performances came in District 9-B competition in 1974 and 1975. This year she is cast in the leading role of Helen Pearson, a widowed rancher's wife who insists on donning a grieving widow's robes in this year's performance, "The Crosspatch."

Pandora Moore, a walk-on who impressed critics at the tryouts, is playing the role of Mrs. Hadley, maid to Helen, and provides the perfect foil to the pretended melancholy with a straight forward down to earth manner.

Jim Anderson, also appearing in his first OAP performance, typifies the West Texas cowboy, Sam Smalley.

Competition this year in 9-B includes schools from Westbrook, Jayton, Ira, Fluvanna, Hermleigh, Loraine and Highland. Zone competition will be held at Westbrook and Jayton schools with the top schools moving into final competition April 1 at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Plane deserves a chance

Granted that the craft is noisy, the British-French supersonic transport, the Concorde, deserves a chance to be tested at American airports.

The British and the French need to tap the rich U.S. air traffic market, if the plane is to make it. Their investment in the craft is tremendous. Had the Concorde been barred from American, it would have been a severe blow for both countries.

Quite likely, Texans will see a lot of the Concorde. Officials at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport say they would welcome visits by the huge craft.

Landings at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York and Dulles Airport in Washington probably would mean a major increase in noise pollution.

Critics of the huge craft insist that it will deplete the ozone layer, something that could greatly increase the incidence of skin cancer. Some scientists have merely said that the craft "might" disrupt the ozone layer, but environmentalists hopped on that claim like a chicken on a June bug.

By extending the Concorde tryout period for 18 months, the U.S. is giving the Concorde tests to be carried out. If it does damage the ozone layer, then neither England nor France will tolerate it for a very long period of time, either. It could be that the supersonic jet doesn't damage the atmosphere at all.

Other raps against the aircraft may carry more substance. It might not be an efficient plane, simply because it burns fuel at too rapid a rate. For that reason, the cost of flight tickets could be too prohibitive. The argument against it is "who needs to get where he's going in that much of a hurry, anyway?"

It'll be watched closely, by its supporters and its critics alike. Let the manufacturers have their period of grace and let us get on to matters of greater import.

Too prone to blame weather

There are some in the United States who blame the Russians for our dry spells, tornadoes and other violent acts of nature.

It is to be noted with interest then that Communist party officials in Russia are blaming the weather for their failures.

Then there is that Soviet writer who sticks way out there like a sore thumb — one Yuri Chernichenko. He says that, with proper planning, the weather could be overcome. At least, he points out, grain harvests shouldn't depend too heavily on the capricious elements. Yuri is of the opinion the planners simply need to pay more details such as contour plowing, crop rotation and timely sowing of crops that takes into account cyclical weather patterns.

Perhaps the Muscovites are on the verge of saying they invented weather.

Ford's Waterloo?

Rowland Evans

CHICAGO — Grass roots support for Ronald Reagan within the dwindling but ever more conservative Illinois Republican party threatens to make a Waterloo out of a state still regarded by President Ford's national strategists as total insurance against early reverses.

THE ILLINOIS primary March 16 has always been counted on in the Ford campaign for an overwhelming victory in a major industrialized state to negate possible earlier losses in less significant New Hampshire, Florida and North Carolina. But if Mr. Ford loses those three primaries, at best he could hope for a narrow win in Illinois and at worst a shattering defeat — a Waterloo — which would conceivably bring an incredibly early end to the incumbent President's campaign for the nomination.

The problem in Illinois, as elsewhere, is that the regular Republican organization and its hierarchy constitutes a Potemkin Village without substance. Although Mr. Ford still leads in private Illinois polls, far greater Reagan intensity at the grass roots makes it unwise for the President to depend on this state to salvage his campaign.

This contrasts sharply with assurance given Republicans nationwide by Howard H. Callaway, the Ford campaign chairman. Scarcely three months ago, Callaway was privately predicting 90 per cent of the vote in the preferential primary (called the "beauty contest" here because it does not affect delegates) plus 100 out of 101 delegates (the only Reagan delegate being his state chairman, Rep. Philip Crane).

THIS NONSENSE has been counteracted by sober, confidential reports to the White House that Reagan could win a third of the delegates elected by district on March 16. But, seemingly bemused by presidential invincibility, even these Ford partisans assume a runaway in the beauty contest. Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Mr. Ford's state campaign chairman, publicly predicts 2-to-1 victory.

Such continuing unrealistic forecasts are based on a gross overestimate of what the President gained in enlisting almost the entire Republican hierarchy, headed by Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: As a retired newspaperman, I have written and edited millions of slanted words to get across a certain point. It seems to me that the writers of the Bible slanted their point of view to get across their messages. Why should I believe the Bible? — W.L.

DEAR W.L.: You will only believe the Bible when you come to understand that it is not merely the product of fallible human writers, but God's Word to us.

You see, the Bible tells us that God loves us and wants to communicate with us. The Bible tells us that God loved us so much that He came down in human form to reveal Himself to us. In the Bible, God reveals Himself to men in every age. There are certainly many reasons for believing the Bible. For example, the amazing confirmation of many Biblical events and facts by archeologists is one indication of the historical trustworthiness of the Bible. Its effect on countless people throughout history is another.

I wonder if you have really read the Bible with a truly open mind and heart. I find many people who think the Bible is full of problems — but they have never even read it! Perhaps you would want to start with John's Gospel. You may not now believe that it is true, but if you come to true faith in God, it would be the greatest story of your life.

Bond ratings puzzle

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — While some of the nation's most important cities have had their bond ratings shaved during the past two years, scores of small and relatively unknown municipal units have had theirs raised to AAA — the very best.

Among them are the Simi Valley, California, Assessment District No. 8; the Smithtown, N.Y., Central School District; and the Wayne County, Mich., Sluiff and Kenope Drainage District.

About 150 other units were equally successful in attaining the best rating, which means the best credit terms. In the past 20 months they have borrowed more than $572 million on their AAA ratings, despite a troubled market.

All managed to market their bonds under an insurance program of the Municipal Bond Insurance Association, which guarantees the payment of principal and interest in the event of default.

"We're absolutely swamped with really good business," said John Butler, president of the Municipal Insurers Service Corp., White Plains, N.Y., which is the general manager of the association, a consortium of four big insurers.

The two organizations were formed in the spring of 1974 when a need was recognized to assist smaller municipalities in obtaining financing for essential projects. Many municipalities at the time were "unable to market bonds."

The consortium was formed for that very purpose. It includes The Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., Aetna Insurance Co., St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. and U.S. Fire Insurance Co., which have combined assets of more than $4 billion.

The consortium limits to $20 million the amount which may be guaranteed for any one issuer.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything I can do to prevent illness at high altitude? I lived at over 5,000 feet for 10 years, and then moved to 2,000, where I have been for 20 years. Now, when I return to visit I become ill on about the second day.

I do not have a heart problem that I am aware of. I get checkups. I would like very much to be able to visit at a high altitude for a few days at a time, but I become sick to my stomach and lose color and become weak. — Mrs. D.S.

Some persons take more time to adjust to high altitudes than do others. Symptoms of hypoxia (mountain sickness) become more noticeable (in those prone to it) at about 5,000 feet.

You say you lived at the high altitude for years without any effect. Persons can adapt to it. It has been shown that those living long periods at high altitudes have a greater number of red blood cells, which are needed to capture as much oxygen out of the oxygen-poor air as possible. However, you are older now, and age has a way of making us a little less efficient in matters such as breathing.

As you ascend there is the correspondingly increased need for more of the red corpuscles. If you are a bit anemic, there would be fewer of them to begin with and the adjustment would be that much more difficult. Too, if you have any degree of emphysema, the loss of lung efficiency would add to your woes. Your heart and lungs might get a good rating at 2,000 feet, but the symptoms at 5,000 might indicate a problem.

What can you do about it? Not much except perhaps to experiment with your travel timing. If it's at all practical, you could try taking an extra day to make the ascent, stopping part way along the ascending route. There is no medication or quick answer. You would be wise to have a blood count to determine if you have become a bit anemic over the past 20 years or to see if any of the other factors are at work.

I would advise caution in this matter. An altitude of 5,000 feet is not considered terribly high, and you should not experience the apparently severe symptoms you do at that height.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, age 51, has severe pain coming down her right leg. Her doctor told her the nerve endings are inflamed. She can't take vitamin B because she has diabetes.

What causes nerve endings to become inflamed, and what do you suggest be done? — Mrs. A.M.

Diabetic neuritis is an often-seen complication of that disease. It could affect the sciatic nerve as well as others. Vitamin B is an accepted treatment for this, and I cannot tell from your letter why this treatment would not be available to your daughter. Are you assuming this or has your daughter's physician told her?

It is also possible that this nerve problem is unrelated to her diabetes. The right leg involvement suggests damage to the sciatic nerve roots as they emerge from the spine. This would not be related to diabetes, but to such factors as bone changes in the lower spine. An X-ray would establish this.

Could the county government have drawn more interest from investments during 1975?

Howard County received $48,061 from certificates of deposit (CDs) during the year, information from the county audit indicates.

THIS IS SLIGHTLY less than the county earned the previous year when its bank depository contract provided lower interest rates. CDs brought the county $48,568 during 1974.

During 1975, end-of-month checking account balances at State National Bank averaged $337,458. They varied from a high of $572,286 on Feb. 28 to a low of $202,818 on April 30.

The county, during 1975, maintained an average of $1,059,219 in CDs on the monthly financial reporting dates.

During 1974, the county ended months with an average of $1,023,000 invested and $322,000 in checking accounts.

"It's a big job to try to keep enough on hand to operate but also to keep as much as we can invested," County Auditor Virginia Black said.

Tax receipts and license tag revenue are converted into CDs as soon as they arrive, Mrs. Black said.

Since April 1, 1975, State National Bank has been paying the county 5 1/2 per cent annual interest on CDs maturing in 90 days. Most county funds are pledged for this rate and time period, Mrs. Black said.

For funds pledged for a minimum of one year, the county is paid 6 per cent interest.

Money invested for 30-89 days draws 5 per cent interest, under the two-year contract with State National.

"If the county commissioners so elect, they will have the option on time certificates (CDs) of more than $100,000 of being paid at the treasury bill asked rate quoted the previous day ..." a letter from John A. Currie, bank president, stated.

"AFTER WE GOT the contract, the treasury bill rates dropped suddenly," Mrs. Black said. Only one time was the county able to secure better interest rates through this provision, Mrs. Black said. She invested $100,000 of revenue sharing funds at 6.65 per cent.

For the county, the new contract, though, is better than the old one.

Under the previous contract, the county made 4 and 3/4 per cent interest for the most frequently purchased 90-day CDs. The rate was 4 1/2 per cent for 30-89 days. For money, promised for 180 days or more, State National paid 5 per cent. That was the maximum.

Around September 1974, $100,000 treasury bills maturing in one year or less were drawing about 9 1/2 per cent interest.

In January 1975, this newspaper investigated county investments after the city was criticized for keeping too much money in checking accounts.

In a letter accompanying the city audit, John P. Wilson, a certified public accountant, made a number of recommendations. This was one:

"Maintaining a cash balance in excess of $1,000,000 in your checking accounts is not necessary for city operations and does create a loss of interest income."

The Big Spring Herald called this "Big Spring's $1 Million 'Piggy Bank.'"

City officials didn't like that. At the next city council meeting, Wilson was quoted telling City Manager Harry Nagel that the $1 million was reinvested within a week.

Fishing expedition

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A top space official, who went salmon fishing last year with Boeing bigwigs, tried afterward to award his fishing companions a "wasteful" $200,000 contract.

The inside story is told in confidential memos from the files of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

THE MEMOS identify the obliging space official as Jack A. Jones, a quality control chief based in Houston. He was taken fishing by corporate executives during a visit to Boeing's Seattle headquarters.

Another space official, Joseph H. Levine, was included on the fishing trip but played no part in seeking the $200,000 contract for his hosts.

The incident was turned into stark drama when the complainant, James Maxwell, suddenly died of a heart attack after he brought the scandal to the attention of NASA investigators. Friends say his diligence in pressing the investigation helped bring on the fatal attack.

Maxwell was upset because his name was listed as the NASA engineer who had requested the $200,000 contract. The money was supposed to be spent for research equipment that he thought was unnecessary. According to a confidential report, he saw "absolutely no need for this purchase request" and considered it "wasteful to spend (the) money."

It was Jones, not Maxwell, who sought the $200,000 contract for Boeing, the documents charge. He allegedly began pushing for the contract immediately after he returned from the fishing trip with Boeing executives.

The outraged Maxwell complained that the use of his name "implicates me in a violation of law." He died before NASA completed its investigation, which resulted in cancelling the contract. Jones and Levine got off, however, with a mild reprimand.

Footnote: A NASA spokesman confirmed that Jones and Levine were entertained by Boeing on the fishing trip and acknowledged that Jones had sought a $200,000 contract for Boeing after his return. Norman Wynn, one of the Boeing hosts on the salmon excursion, confirmed that it took place, called the affair "insignificant" and hung up on our reporter, Marc Smolonsky. Jones and Levine did not return our calls.

SURVEILLANCE SUBSIDY: When local policemen or prosecutors need special help to spy on alleged criminals, they turn to Uncle Sam for help. During the past seven years, the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) has responded with unusual generosity.

The agency has distributed a staggering total of $160.8 million to support 1,929 intelligence-related projects around the country. The figures were provided to Chairwoman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., whose Government Information subcommittee is investigating federal snooping.

Approximately $2.5 million dollars was earmarked directly for the "purchase of electronic surveillance equipment," according to the LEAA report provided to Abzug.

Incredibly, $1.3 million of the bugging equipment went to states which either prohibited wiretaps or had no specific laws on bugging.

California, for example, outlaws wiretapping except in unique circumstances. Yet, the federal government gave California authorities $96,596 for sophisticated surveillance equipment.

THE CALIFORNIA Department of Justice acquired, among other things, ten "beeper" systems, which allow police to follow vehicles at a distance, 15 voice-activated tape recorders, 36 miniature microphones and headsets, and five "intelligence kits" at $2,500 apiece.

Other states which prohibited wiretaps at the time they received their LEAA grants — Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan and North Carolina — were supplied with body transmitters, auto-tracking devices, and other unspecified "technical surveillance equipment."

Even when money is doled out to states where wiretapping is legal, there is little method to LEAA's mad giveaway. Official bugging is legal, for example, in New Jersey. There state authorities spent $206,093 in federal funds to buy eavesdropping equipment to handle 808 authorized wiretaps.

But, the report noted, there was "no correlation between the number of wiretap authorizations and the amount of funds expended for electronic surveillance equipment."

A devotion for today

Historical Valentine greetings include Penny Dreadfuls

Valentines are tender, affectionate messages of love, full of hearts and Cupids. Right? Wrong — if you're talking about Penny Dreadfuls, those insulting, slanderous, downright offensive valentine greetings that flourished here in the 19th century.

According to Sally Hopkins, director of the Hallmark Cards Historical Collection which contains numerous examples of Penny Dreadfuls, the cards first appeared in Victorian England. They quickly crossed the Atlantic and despite their barbarity became wildly popular.

"The cards were also called Vinegar Valentines, Comics or Rudes and Crudes," says Sally Hopkins. "But the usual name was Penny Dreadful, because they cost a penny and they were dreadful."

One such card, showing a grotesque woman wearing a bell for a hat, with the clapper sticking out of her mouth, says: "Your tongue is ever on the swing — And has a harsh discordant ring — How I hate its scolding tone — Your clapper is the curse of home."

Another contains a similar string of surly sentiments: "You hateful, despicable wretch, you lie whenever you draw breath. Deceitful, cunning, slandering devil, always trying to do evil. Beware that your lying tongue is not from your vile mouth wrung."

Why did people send Penny Dreadfuls? "Perhaps it was a reaction to the repression and stuffy morality of the Victorian era," says Hallmark's Sally Hopkins. "Or maybe some people wanted to get away from the usual sentimental and flowery valentines of the time."

Whatever the reason, thousands and thousands were exchanged in the 1800's. One year the Chicago post office even refused to deliver about 20,000 of the mannerless missives, calling them too vicious and obscene. Not surprising, perhaps, when the tender words of adoration inside often read like this: "I'll treat you with scorn whenever I pass you deceitful, oily-tongued snake in the grass."

Dear Abby

Children neglect elderly mother in nursing home

DEAR ABBY: I have an elderly mother who has been in a nursing home for the last four years.

I am one of her three children. (One son and two daughters.) We all live within a 45-minute drive from the nursing home, and all of us contribute equally toward the expenses, but I am the only one who visits her. I go there every day.

My brother goes once in four months. He says, "I just can't take it. That place is so depressing!" Can you believe it? He calls Mamma on the phone maybe once a week and keeps asking her if she "needs" anything. (All she needs is for him to visit once in a while.)

My sister runs over there once a month for five minutes. She doesn't even sit down. She tells me the "smell" of that place makes her sick. How is that for an excuse?

Although Mamma gets confused once in a while, she is far from senile. I know she's hurt, but there's nothing I can do about it.

Plane deserves a chance

Granted that the craft is noisy, the British-French supersonic transport, the Concorde, deserves a chance to be tested at American airports.

The British and the French need to tap the rich U.S. air traffic market, if the plane is to make it. Their investment in the craft is tremendous. Had the Concorde been barred from American, it would have been a severe blow for both countries.

Quite likely, Texans will see a lot of the Concorde. Officials at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport say they would welcome visits by the huge craft.

Landings at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York and Dulles Airport in Washington probably would mean a major increase in noise pollution.

Critics of the huge craft insist that it will deplete the ozone layer, something that could greatly increase the incidence of skin cancer. Some scientists have merely said that the craft "might" disrupt the ozone layer, but environmentalists hopped on that claim like a chicken on a June bug.

By extending the Concorde tryout period for 16 months, the U.S. is giving the Concorde tests to be carried out. If it does damage the ozone layer, then neither England nor France will tolerate it for a very long period of time, either. It could be that the supersonic jet doesn't damage the atmosphere at all.

Other raps against the aircraft may carry more substance. It might not be an efficient plane, simply because it burns fuel at too rapid a rate. For that reason, the cost of flight tickets could be too prohibitive. The argument against it is "who needs to get where he's going in that much of a hurry, anyway?"

It'll be watched closely, by its supporters and its critics alike. Let the manufacturers have their period of grace and let us get on to matters of greater import.

Too prone to blame weather

There are some in the United States who blame the Russians for our dry spells, tornadoes and other violent acts of nature.

It is to be noted with interest then that Communist party officials in Russia are blaming the weather for their failures.

Then there is that Soviet writer who sticks way out there like a sore thumb—one Yuri Chernichenko. He says that, with proper planning, the weather could be overcome. At least, he points out, grain harvests shouldn't depend too heavily on the capricious elements. Yuri is of the opinion the planners simply need to pay more details such as contour plowing, crop rotation and timely sowing of crops that takes into account cyclical weather patterns.

Perhaps the Muscovites are on the verge of saying they invented weather.

Ford's Waterloo?

Rowland Evans

CHICAGO — Grass roots support for Ronald Reagan within the dwindling but ever more conservative Illinois Republican party threatens to make a Waterloo out of a state still regarded by President Ford's national strategists as total insurance against early reverses.

THE ILLINOIS primary March 16 has always been counted on in the Ford campaign for an overwhelming victory in a major industrialized state to negate possible earlier losses in less significant New Hampshire, Florida and North Carolina. But if Mr. Ford loses those three primaries, at best he could hope for a narrow win in Illinois and at worst a shattering defeat—a Waterloo—which would conceivably bring an incredibly early end to the incumbent President's campaign for the nomination.

The problem in Illinois, as elsewhere, is that the regular Republican organization and its hierarchy constitutes a Potemkin Village without substance. Although Mr. Ford still leads in private Illinois polls, far greater Reagan intensity at the grass roots makes it unwise for the President to depend on this state to salvage his campaign.

This contrasts sharply with assurance given Republicans nationwide by Howard H. Callaway, the Ford campaign chairman. Scarcely three months ago, Callaway was privately predicting 90 per cent of the vote in the preferential primary (called the "beauty contest" here because it does not affect delegates) plus 100 out of 101 delegates (the only Reagan delegate being his state chairman, Rep. Philip Crane).

THIS NONSENSE has been counteracted by sober, confidential reports to the White House that Reagan could win a third of the delegates elected by district on March 16. But, seemingly bemused by presidential invincibility, even these Ford partisans assume a runaway in the beauty contest. Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Mr. Ford's state campaign chairman, publicly predicts 2-to-1 victory.

Such continuing unrealistic forecasts are based on a gross overestimate of what the President gained in enlisting almost the entire Republican hierarchy, headed by Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy.

"You have to start by understanding this fact of life," one prominent pro-Ford Republican confided to us. "There is simply no party organization in Illinois today."

Thus, Ford endorsements by county chairmen have limited significance, particularly to downstate Illinois where Reagan is strongest and where the party's precinct committeemen are independently elected satraps. Intense Reagan support among Republican activists has caused some party leaders to abandon the Ford ship and head for the uncommitted lifeboats.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN James Christopher of Peoria first endorsed the President but switched to uncommitted when shown a poll of his precinct committeemen backing Reagan. While 10 of 11 Republican Congressmen (all save Crane) support Mr. Ford, four are not running as Ford-pledged delegates some because they fear rank-and-file reprisals.

What's more, the President himself averted one symbolic setback only by extraordinary effort. Rep. Ed Derwinski, whose credentials as an Illinois Bourbon antedate Crane's endorsed the President in the early going but later announced he would run as an uncommitted delegate. It required a telephone call from his old congressional colleague, Jerry Ford, with less than 24 hours to spare, to hold Derwinski in line.

Other Illinois Bourbons are not so susceptible to leadership. Ogilvie, widely considered the greatest governor of Illinois in the post-war era, is still resented by grass roots Republican activists as a big tax, big government turncoat; his presence may hurt the President as much as it helps him. Sen. Percy is probably the most popular politician in Illinois today, but he remains a liberal anathema to Bourbon Republicans; Reagan forces, consequently, rejoiced when the President listed Percy among his vice presidential prospects.

MOREOVER, the Ford campaign clearly dissipated its huge head start. Ford forces have just got around to appointing township coordinators in Chicago suburbs, a step taken weeks ago by State Rep. Don Totten, an organizational wizard running the Reagan campaign.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: As a retired newspaperman, I have written and edited millions of slanted words to get across a certain point. It seems to me that the writers of the Bible slanted their point of view to get across their messages. Why should I believe the Bible? — W.L.

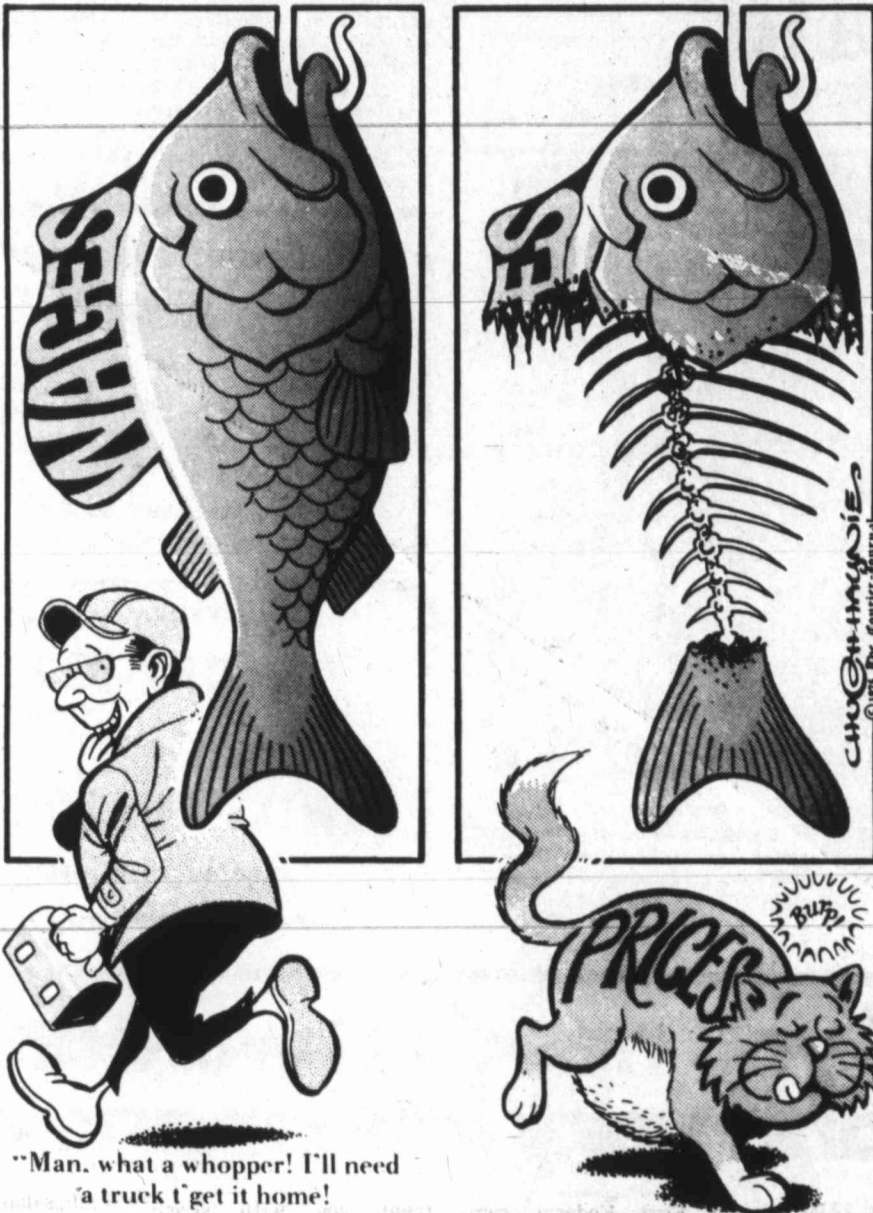

DEAR W.L.: You will only believe the Bible when you come to understand that it is not merely the product of fallible human writers, but God's Word to us.

You see, the Bible tells us that God loves us and wants to communicate with us. The Bible tells us that God loved us so much that He came down in human form to reveal Himself to us. In the Bible, God reveals Himself to men in every age.

There are certainly many reasons for believing the Bible. For example, the amazing confirmation of many Biblical events and facts by archeologists is one indication of the historical trustworthiness of the Bible. Its effect on countless people throughout history is another.

I wonder if you have really read the Bible with a truly open mind and heart. I find many people who think the Bible is full of problems—but they have never even read it! Perhaps you would want to start with John's Gospel. You may not now believe that it is true, but if you come to true faith in God, it would be the greatest story of your life.

"Man, what a whopper! I'll need a truck to get it home!"

Bond ratings puzzle

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP)—While some of the nation's most important cities have had their bond ratings shaved during the past two years, scores of small and relatively unknown municipal units have had theirs raised to AAA—the very best.

Among them are the Simi Valley, California, Assessant District No. 8; the Smithtown, N.Y., Central School District; and the Wayne County, Mich., Sutliff and Kenope Drainage District.

About 150 other units were equally successful in attaining the best rating, which means the best credit terms. In the past 20 months they have borrowed more than $572 million on their AAA ratings, despite a troubled market.

All managed to market their bonds under an insurance program of the Municipal Bond Insurance Association, which guarantees the payment of principal and interest in the event of default.

"We're absolutely swamped with really good business," said John Butler, president of the Municipal Insurers Service Corp., White Plains, N.Y., which is the general manager of the association, a consortium of four big insurers.

The two organizations were formed in the spring of 1974 when a need was recognized to assist smaller municipalities in obtaining financing for essential projects.

Many municipalities at the time were "unable to market bonds." The consortium was formed for that very purpose. It includes The Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., Aetna Insurance Co., St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. and U.S. Fire Insurance Co., which have combined assets of more than $4 billion.

The consortium limits to $20 million the amount which may be guaranteed for any one issuer.

Altitude can be problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything I can do to prevent illness at high altitude? I lived at over 5,000 feet for 10 years, and then moved to 2,000, where I have been for 20 years. Now, when I return to visit I become ill on about the second day.

I do not have a heart problem that I am aware of. I get checkups. I would like very much to be able to visit at a high altitude for a few days at a time, but I become sick to my stomach and lose color and become weak. — Mrs. D.S.

Some persons take more time to adjust to high altitudes than do others. Symptoms of hypoxia (mountain sickness) become more noticeable (in those prone to it) at about 5,000 feet.

You say you lived at the high altitude for years without any effect. Persons can adapt to it. It has been shown that those living long periods at high altitudes have a greater number of red blood cells, which are needed to capture as much oxygen out of the oxygen-poor air as possible. However, you are older now, and age has a way of making us a little less efficient in matters such as breathing.

As you ascend there is the correspondingly increased need for more of the red corpuscles. If you are a bit anemic, there would be fewer of them to begin with and the adjustment would be that much more difficult. Too, if you have any degree of emphysema, the loss of lung efficiency would add to your woes. Your heart and lungs might get a good rating at 2,000 feet, but the symptoms at 5,000 might indicate a problem.

What can you do about it? Not much except perhaps to experiment with your travel timing. If it's at all practical, you could try taking an extra day to make the ascent, stopping part way along the ascending route. There is no medication or quick answer. You would be wise to have a blood count to determine if you have become a bit anemic over the past 20 years or to see if any of the other factors are at work.

I would advise caution in this matter. An altitude of 5,000 feet is not considered terribly high, and you should not experience the apparently severe symptoms you do at that height.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, age 51, has severe pain coming down her right leg. Her doctor told her the nerve endings are inflamed. She can't take vitamin B because she has diabetes.

What causes nerve endings to become inflamed, and what do you suggest be done? — Mrs. A.M.

Diabetic neuritis is an often-seen complication of that disease. It could affect the sciatic nerve as well as others. Vitamin B is an accepted treatment for this, and I cannot tell from your letter why this treatment would not be available to your daughter. Are you assuming this or has your daughter's physician told her?

It is also possible that this nerve problem is unrelated to her diabetes. The right leg involvement suggests damage to the sciatic nerve roots as they emerge from the spine. This would not be related to diabetes, but to such factors as bone changes in the lower spine. An X-ray would establish this.

Could the county government have drawn more interest from investments during 1975?

Howard County received $48,061 from certificates of deposit (CDs) during the year, information from the county audit indicates.

THIS IS SLIGHTLY less than the county earned the previous year when its bank depository contract provided lower interest rates. CDs brought the county $48,568 during 1974.

During 1975, end-of-month checking account balances at State National Bank averaged $337,458. They varied from a high of $572,286 on Feb. 28 to a low of $202,818 on April 30.

The county, during 1975, maintained an average of $1,059,219 in CDs on the monthly financial reporting dates.

During 1974, the county ended months with an average of $1,023,000 invested and $322,000 in checking accounts.

"It's a big job to try to keep enough on hand to operate but also to keep as much as we can invested," County Auditor Virginia Black said.

Tax receipts and license tag revenue are converted into CDs as soon as they arrive, Mrs. Black said.

Since April 1, 1975, State National Bank has been paying the county 5½ per cent annual interest on CDs maturing in 90 days. Most county funds are pledged for this rate and time period, Mrs. Black said.

For funds pledged for a minimum of one year, the county is paid 6 per cent interest.

Money invested for 30-89 days draws 5 per cent interest, under the two-year contract with State National.

"If the county commissioners so elect, they will have the option on time certificates (CDs) of more than $100,000 of being paid at the treasury bill asked rate quoted the previous day..." a letter from John A. Currie, bank president, stated.

"AFTER WE GOT the contract, the treasury bill rates dropped suddenly," Mrs. Black said. Only one time was the county able to secure better interest rates through this provision, Mrs. Black said. She invested $100,000 of revenue sharing funds at 6.65 per cent.

For the county, the new contract, though, is better than the old one.

Under the previous contract, the county made 4 and ¾ per cent interest for the most frequently purchased 90-day CDs. The rate was 4½ per cent for 30-89 days. For money, promised for 180 days or more, State National paid 5 per cent. That was the maximum.

Around September 1974, $100,000 treasury bills maturing in one year or less were drawing about 9½ per cent interest.

In January 1975, this newspaper investigated county investments after the city was criticized for keeping too much money in checking accounts.

In a letter accompanying the city audit, John P. Wilson, a certified public accountant, made a number of recommendations. This was one:

"Maintaining a cash balance in excess of $1,000,000 in your checking accounts is not necessary for city operations and does create a loss of interest income."

The Big Spring Herald called this "Big Spring's $1 Million 'Piggy Bank.'"

City officials didn't like that. At the next city meeting, Wilson was quoted telling City Manager Harry Nagel that the $1 million was reinvested within a week.

Fishing expedition

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A top space official, who went salmon fishing last year with Boeing bigwigs, tried afterward to award his fishing companions a "wasteful," $200,000 contract.

The inside story is told in confidential memos from the files of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

THE MEMOS identify the obliging space official as Jack A. Jones, a quality control chief based in Houston. He was taken fishing by corporate executives during a visit to Boeing's Seattle headquarters.

Another space official, Joseph H. Levine, was included on the fishing trip but played no part in seeking the $200,000 contract for his hosts.

The incident was turned into stark drama when the complainant, James Maxwell, suddenly died of a heart attack after he brought the scandal to the attention of NASA investigators. Friends say his diligence in pressing the investigation helped bring on the fatal attack.

Maxwell was upset because his name was listed as the NASA engineer who had requested the $200,000 contract. The money was supposed to be spent for research equipment that he thought was unnecessary. According to a confidential report, he saw "absolutely no need for this purchase request" and considered it "wasteful to spend (the) money."

It was Jones, not Maxwell, who sought the $200,000 contract for Boeing, the documents charge. He allegedly began pushing for the contract immediately after he returned from the fishing trip with Boeing executives.

The outraged Maxwell complained that the use of his name "implicates me in a violation of law." He died before NASA completed its investigation, which resulted in cancelling the contract. Jones and Levine got off, however, with a mild reprimand.

Footnote: A NASA spokesman confirmed that Jones and Levine were entertained by Boeing on the fishing trip and acknowledged that Jones had sought a $200,000 contract for Boeing after his return. Norman Wynn, one of the Boeing hosts on the salmon excursion, confirmed that it took place, called the affair "insignificant" and hung up on our reporter, Marc Smolonsky. Jones and Levine did not return our calls.

SURVEILLANCE SUBSIDY: When local policemen or prosecutors need special help to spy on alleged criminals, they turn to Uncle Sam for help. During the past seven years, the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) has responded with unusual generosity.

The agency has distributed a staggering total of $160.8 million to support 1,929 intelligence-related projects around the country. The figures were provided to Chairwoman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., whose Government Information subcommittee is investigating federal snooping.

Approximately $2.5 million dollars was earmarked directly for the "purchase of electronic surveillance equipment," according to the LEAA report provided to Abzug.

Incredibly, $1.3 million of the bugging equipment went to states which either prohibited wiretaps or had no specific laws on bugging.

California, for example, outlaws wiretapping except in unique circumstances. Yet, the federal government gave California authorities $98,586 for sophisticated surveillance equipment.

THE CALIFORNIA Department of Justice acquired, among other things, ten "beeper" systems, which allow police to follow vehicles at a distance, 15 voice-activated tape recorders, 36 miniature microphones and headsets, and five "intelligence kits" at $2,500 apiece.

Other states which prohibited wiretaps at the time they received their LEAA grants — Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan and North Carolina — were supplied with body transmitters, auto-tracking devices, and other unspecified "technical surveillance equipment."

Even when money is doled out to states where wiretapping is legal, there is little method to LEAA's mad giveaway. Official bugging is legal, for example, in New Jersey. There state authorities spent $206,093 in federal funds to buy eavesdropping equipment to handle 808 authorized wiretaps.

But, the report noted, there was "no correlation between the number of wiretap authorizations and the amount of funds expended for electronic surveillance equipment."

Miss Tollett feted at shower

Miss Ann Tollett was honored Monday evening at a bridal shower given in the home of Mrs. J. C. Kelly.

Miss Tollett is the bride-elect of Grady Cunningham. She is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond L. Tollett. Cunningham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cunningham.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of blue and white carnations. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

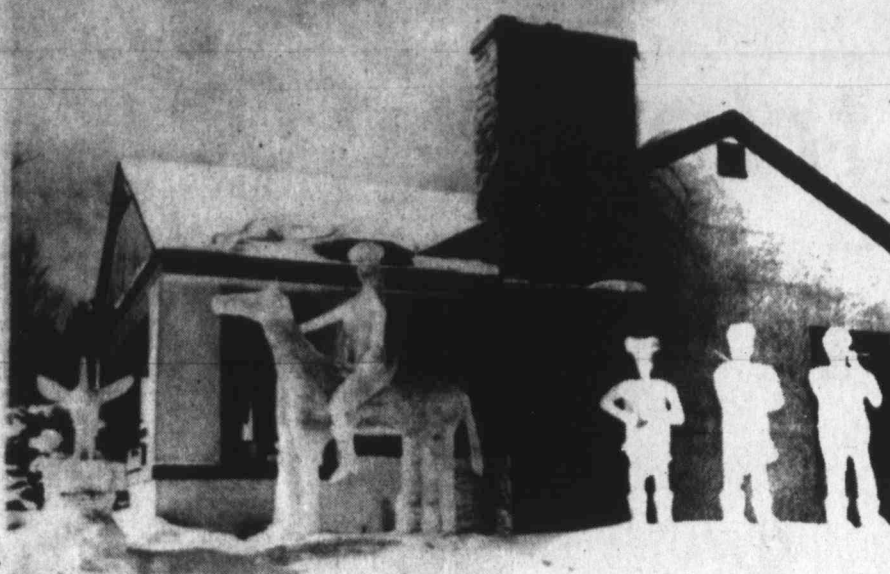

Miss Tollett and the mothers of the couple received blue and white carnation corsages.

Hostesses were Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. John C. Arnold, Mrs. James Baird, Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. J. M. Griffith, Mrs. H. F. Heard, Mrs. Stanley Lewis, Mrs. Orene McElrath, Mrs. Marie Rowland, Mrs. H. B. Stanaland, Mrs. Bob G. Thompson and Mrs. C. H. Wasson.

They gave Miss Tollett an electric blender.

The couple will be married March 2 in St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the Rev. Harland Birdwell officiating.

Historical Valentine greetings include Penny Dreadfuls

Valentines are tender, affectionate messages of love, full of hearts and Cupids. Right? Wrong — if you're talking about Penny Dreadfuls, those insulting, slanderous, downright offensive valentine greetings that flourished here in the 19th century.

According to Sally Hopkins, director of the Hallmark Cards Historical Collection which contains numerous examples of Penny Dreadfuls, the cards first appeared in Victorian England. They quickly crossed the Atlantic and despite their barbarity became wildly popular.

"The cards were also called Vinegar Valentines, Comics or Rudes and Crudes," says Sally Hopkins. "But the usual name was Penny Dreadfuls, because they cost a penny and they were dreadful."

One such card, showing a grotesque woman wearing a bell for a hat, with the clapper sticking out of her mouth, says: "Your tongue is ever on the swing — And has a harsh discordant ring — How I hate its scolding tone — Your clapper is the curse of home." Another contains a similar string of surly sentiments: "You hateful, despicable wretch, you lie whenever you draw breath. Deceitful, cunning, slanderous devil, always trying to do evil. Beware that your lying tongue is not from your vile mouth wrung."

Why did people send Penny Dreadfuls? "Perhaps it was a reaction to the repression and stuffy morality of the Victorian era," says Hallmark's Sally Hopkins. "Or maybe some people wanted to get away from the usual sentimental and flowery valentines of the time."

Whatever the reason, thousands and thousands were exchanged in the 1800's. One year the Chicago post office even refused to deliver about 20,000 of the mannerless missives, calling them too vicious and obscene. Not surprising, perhaps, when the tender words of adoration inside often read like this: "I'll treat you with scorn whenever I pass, you deceitful, oily-tongued snake in the grass."

Medical Auxiliary meeting features Choraliers, speakers

The Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary met Monday at Webb Air Force Base Officers' Club for a luncheon and special programs.

Bicentennial decorations were used on the serving tables. The head table was accented with an arrangement of red, white and blue carnations and American flags.

Mrs. John Affleck presided. After luncheon Miss Mary Jane Wright gave a dramatic reading of "The Ballad of the Lord and Columbus." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wright.

Ken Sprinkle directed the Howard College Choraliers in a selection of famous American songs. Harlan Thornton was the accompanist. Bobby Bradshaw was the soloist.

Mrs. Brad Oxford, state Medical Auxiliary president from San Antonio, was the guest speaker. Her speech, "Reflective Heritage," included a review of the qualities that made the United States, Texas and the Texas Medical Auxiliary great.

Mrs. Oxford said that the Texas Medical Auxiliary was the first medical auxiliary organized. It was formed in 1918.

Mrs. Oxford outlined the state Auxiliary's priority projects for the year. She encouraged the local auxiliary members to contribute to the Research Foundation, the Texas Medical Student Loan and the Physicians Benevolent Fund.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. James H. Chapple, Mrs. Norman D.

Fry and Mrs. Myrtle B. Shepherd, Midland; Mrs. Rose Hutcheson, Andrews; and Mrs. Brian Gordan, councilwoman, District II.

Hostesses for the luncheon meeting were Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall, Mrs. R. G. B. Cowper and Mrs. Buerk Williams.

Dear Abby

Children neglect elderly mother in nursing home

DEAR ABBY: I have an elderly mother who has been in a nursing home for the last four years. I am one of her three children. (One son and two daughters.) We all live within a 45-minute drive from the nursing home, and all of us contribute equally toward the expenses, but I am the only one who visits her. I go there every day.

My brother goes once in four months. He says, "I just can't take it. That place is so depressing!" Can you believe it? He calls Mamma on the phone maybe once a week and keeps asking her if she "needs" anything. (All she needs is for him to visit once in a while.)

My sister runs over there once a month for five minutes. She doesn't even sit down. She tells me the "smell" of that place makes her sick. How is that for an excuse?

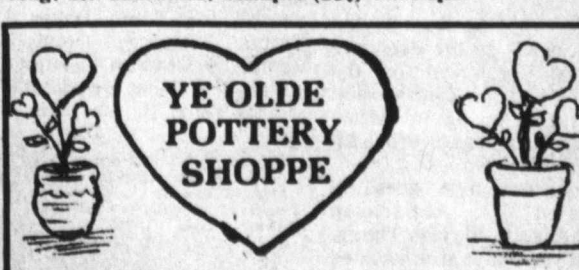

Although Mamma gets confused once in a while, she is far from senile. I know she's hurt, but there's nothing I can do about it.

Please print this. The shoe will fit both a woman, size 6, and a man, size 10. Let them wear it!

XII Winter Olympic Games

Rosi misses triple by 0.12 second

A SILVER AMONG THE GOLD FOR ROSI — West Germany's Rosi Mittermaier, who has won two gold medals in Olympics alpine events, lost her bid for an unprecedented sweep of three, but finished a strong second to gain the silver medal in Friday's ladies' giant slalom at Lizum, Austria. Shown here heading down the course yesterday, she was upset by Canada's Kathy Kreiner by 12-hundredths of a second.

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Canada's Kathy Kreiner edged Rosi Mittermaier by 12-hundredths of a second in the giant slalom today, ending the West German's bid for an unprecedented sweep of the three women's Alpine skiing events. And the United States, blanketed through the first three events, waited in expectation of a gold medal performance by Dorothy Hamill at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Miss Hamill, the 19-year-old from Riverside, Conn., took a commanding lead over Dianne de Leeuw, a Californian skating for The Netherlands, into tonight's final leg of the figure skating — the freestyle.

Jan Egil Storholt of Norway won the gold medal in the 1,500-meter speed skating and the Soviet Union picked up a gold in the 30-kilometer (18.6 miles) bobsled relay as these Games moved through the next-to-last full day of competition.

Also scheduled for today were the first two of four runs in the four-man bobsled event and three Group B hockey games.

With only the figure skating remaining among the finals on today's schedule, the Soviet Union led the medal standings with 12 gold and 26 total medals, followed by East Germany with six gold and 15 medals over-all.

The United States was third with two golds and a total of nine, three short of its all-time total of 12 won in 1932 at Lake Placid, N.Y. Prospects for breaking that record dimmed considerably today when Americans failed to crack the top three in the day's first three events.

Dan Carroll's fifth-place finish in the 1,500 and Linda Cochran's 13th in the giant slalom were the top American finishes.

Miss Kreiner, who hadn't won a big race since 1974, flashed down the icy trail over the Hoadl Mountain course with its 49 gates in 1 minute 29.13 seconds to give Canada its first gold of these Games. Miss Mittermaier took the silver in 1:29.25 and Daniele Bernabè of France won the bronze in 1:29.95.

Miss Mittermaier, the personable 25-year-old veteran of the European ski wars, lost her chance to become the first woman ever to capture the three Alpine ski events. She won the downhill Sunday and the slalom Wednesday. Only two men have ever won the triple, Toni Sailer of Austria in 1956 and Jean-Claude Killy of France in 1968.

"There were a lot of people here who may have expected me to win three gold medals, but I am very happy with two golds and a silver," said Miss Mittermaier. "I had not expected anything like this before the Olympics."

Asked if she had regrets about depriving the popular Miss Mittermaier of her third gold, Miss Kreiner said: "No regrets at all. I think there was some room in there for me."

Miss Cochran, 22, of Richmond, Va., completed her 12th-place run in 1:31.33. Mary Seaton, 19, of Hancock, Mich., was 17th in 1:31.58. Cindy Nelson, 20, of Lutsen, Minn., the bronze medalist in the downhill and considered the top U.S. hope for a medal in the giant slalom, wound up a disappointing 21st in 1:32.02. Leslie Smith, 17, of Killington, Vt., rounded out the American contingent in 27th place in 1:34.54.

Storholt, giving Norway its second gold of the Games, won the 1,500 in Olympic record time of 1 minute 59.38 seconds. Yuri Kondakov of the Soviet Union was second in 1:59.95 and Hans Van Helden of The Netherlands was third in 2:00.87.

Carroll, the 31-year-old veteran from St. Louis, was fifth in 2:02.26. Eric Heiden, 23, of Madison, Wis., came in seventh in 2:02.40 and Michael Woods, 23, of South Milwaukee, Wis., finished 23rd in 2:08.77.

Peter Mueller, who won a gold Thursday at 1,000 meters, was scheduled to go in the last pairing in the race but pulled out with what a U.S. official called an emotional meltdown. Dan Immerfall, who took a bronze in the 500 Tuesday, was not entered.

Heiden was entered in this race because Charles Gilmore, of Anaheim, Calif., withdrew during the recent qualifying controversy, saying Heiden was better in the 1,500.

Heiden said he was pleased with his seventh. "I was happy I did as well as I did," he said. "If it had not been so windy I am sure my time would have been better."

The women's figure skating medals decided today's competition, tonight.

HC rushes by T'Birds

Marvin Johnson pumped through 42 points Thursday night to lead the Howard College Hawks past New Mexico JC 94-77.

The Hawks took the lead for good at 26-25 and by midway of the first half they had built up a five-point margin 32-27. From then on Howard had a safe lead.

Howard's height advantage played a big part in the victory as the Hawks out-rebounded the Thunderbirds 55-38. The Hawks also outshot NMJC hitting 45 of 88 for 51 per cent while the T'Birds hit 35 of 85 for 41 per cent. The Hawks were also sharp from the free throw line, hitting four of five. NMJC zipped in seven of 12 from the charity stripe.

Johnson's big night moved him past Tom Bledsoe on Howard's all-time scoring list into the third spot just 37 points behind Taylor Williams 1,661 to 1,624.

The Hawks next game is Monday night in Abilene. When Abilene was here its coach said he preferred his teams to peak late so they could be ready for the playoffs. If that's the secret Howard may be in good shape, because last night's win was one of the best performances by the Hawks this season.

In other Western Conference action last night Western Texas beat Midland 77-61, Frank Phillips beat South Plains 92-71 and Odessa College measured Clarendon 99-83.

The Hawks are now 21-6 and 8-6 in league play. Howard is 11-3 at home and 10-3 on the road overall and 4-3 both ways in WC games. Howard is now tied with Frank Phillips for fourth with four games remaining on the schedule, two at home and two on the road.

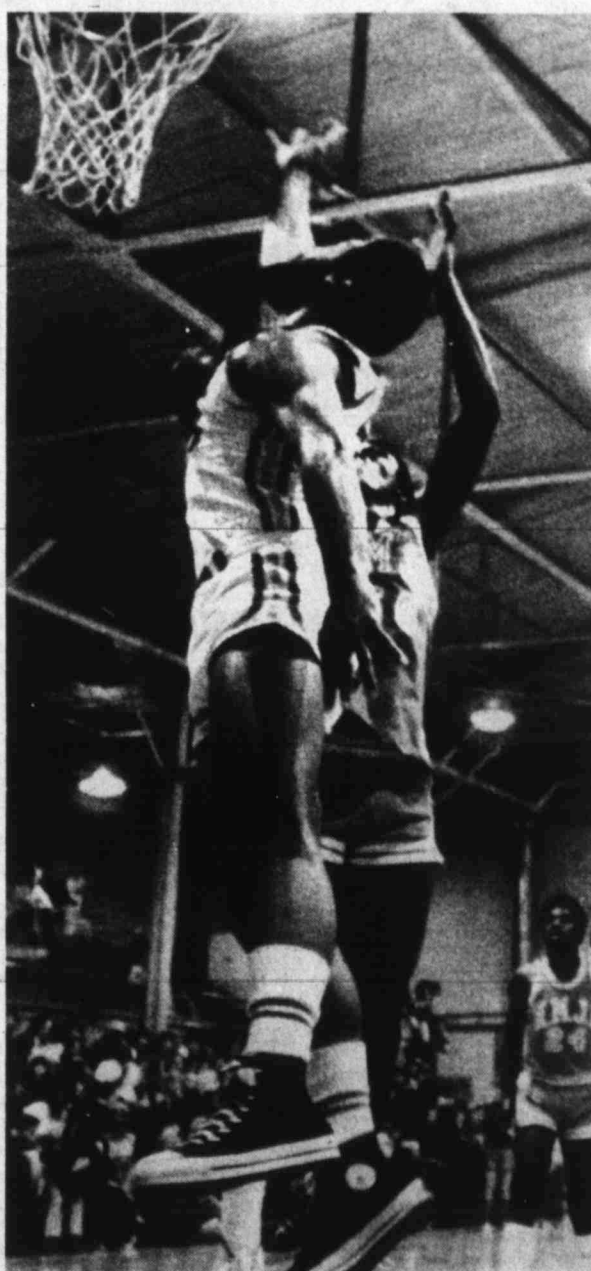

Carter named Snyder AD

SNYDER — Roy Carter, assistant principal at Snyder High School, has been named director of athletics for the Snyder public schools.

Carter replaces Maurice Hodges, who resigned as athletic director and head football coach earlier this week.

Carter's two-year contract will extend from June 1, when Hodges' resignation becomes effective.

Local coaches will first be considered for the football coaching job, the school board has indicated. No one has been named to succeed Carter as assistant principal.

PAYE UP — Howard College's Jimmy Paye goes up for a shot in the Hawks' 94-77 win Thursday night over New Mexico Junior College. Paye along with Marvin Johnson and Paul Cathey helped HC control the boards.

'Good as gold,' Curry says of Hamill odds

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Dorothy Hamill is as good as gold tonight "unless she really does something wrong" in the showcase production of the XII Winter Olympics — the women's figure skating finale.

The assessment was made in an interview Thursday night by someone who should know — John Curry. Curry turned in one of the most magnificent freeskating performances anywhere on ice Wednesday night and won the men's gold medal.

"You can write the results now," Curry said of the women's competition. "There is almost no way she can lose."

That "something wrong" could be a bad spill, but it would have to be combined with an almost perfect performance by Dutch champion Dianne de Leeuw of Los Angeles or Christine Errath of East Germany.

Although Miss de Leeuw is second to Miss Hamill going into the finale, Curry picks Miss Errath as the only skater who could score well enough to beat the 19-year-old U.S. champion from Riverside, Conn.

If anyone beats Dorothy Hamill tonight, it will be herself. She is plagued with stagefright and has a fear of falling. No wonder. She fell during a flying sitspin and it cost her the last world championship won by Miss de Leeuw.

Tonight, it will all be on the line again.

"There is nothing like the Olympics," Curry said. "Anything else is an anticlimax."

Curry said Miss Hamill is so far ahead after the compulsory and short program, which count 50 per cent of the total, and is so good in the freestyle, which counts the other 50 per cent, that she could survive a fall and win.

"Errath or de Leeuw would have to score all sixes to beat her," Curry said.

"Even if Dorothy skates in her ordinary fashion, she will get 5.8s from the judges."

The nine judges rate the skaters on technical merit and artistic expression.

Coahoma nips Anson for 6-AA girls title

SNYDER — Becky Snell and Debra Meyer hit for 20 points apiece to lead the Coahoma Bulldogettes over the Anson Tigers Thursday night 45-43 in an overtime win for the 6-AA girls title.

Coahoma took the lead early and held it throughout most of the game. Led by Kim Williams, the Tigers leading scorer with 25 points, Anson charged from a nine point deficit in the final quarter to tie the game in regulation time with less than 10 seconds remaining in the game.

The Bulldogettes scored four points in the overtime before Anson got on the board and the Tigers could not catch up again. Anson finished the season with a 22-6 overall record.

Coahoma now goes up against its post-season nemesis, the Slayton Tigers. Last year Slayton eliminated Coahoma in the bi-district game by two points. Two years ago, on their way to the state championship, the Tigers beat Coahoma by one point in the regionals. Three years ago Slayton dumped the Bulldogettes by 20 points in bi-district play.

This year Coahoma plays Slayton in Snyder's County Coliseum Tuesday night Feb. 17th tipoff 7:30.

The Bulldogettes championship squad has Snell, Meyer, Mickie Schafer, Barbara Ward, Nancy Wood and Karen Shirley at forwards, and Trenea Bayes, Tanya Sterling, Donna James, Kim Swann, Lusha Phinny and Jenny Hayes at guards. Sonny Barnes is the coach.

Bad news for Pacific-8: Bruins beginning to peak

Here's bad — and familiar — news for seven teams in the Pacific-8: "We're starting to peak," said Gene Bartow.

George Raveling said, "The people who have been criticizing Gene Bartow and the Bruins are going to have to eat crow when the season is done."

Raveling had just watched Bartow's UCLA Bruins dismantle his Washington State basketball team 104-78 Thursday night, and he was duly impressed.

So was Bartow, who frequently this season has shown displeasure with the play of his sixth-ranked Bruins, who upped their record to 18-3.

"We played our best 10 minutes of the year in the first half," Bartow said after the Bruins had built their conference-leading mark to 7-1.

Marques Johnson, who scored 19 points to lead the Bruins against Washington State, echoed his coach's comments.

"Since the Notre Dame and USC games we've played very well," Johnson remarked, "and I knew it would come."

The Bruins used a balanced scoring attack to whip the Cougars, with Andre McCarter chipping in 13 points, and Richard Washington and Gavin Smith 12 each.

The ninth-ranked Washington Huskies, who meet the Bruins in Pauley Pavilion

Saturday afternoon, lurk just a game back of UCLA in the Pac-8 standings, and have an impressive 19-2 record in all games.

Thursday night, Washington bombed hapless Southern Cal, which has yet to win a conference game, 93-75.

Seven-foot center James Edwards poured in 20 points to spark the Washington victory, and teammates Kim Stewart and Ken Lombard added 15 points each.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Al Weston and Joe Whelton combined for 50 points to lead the University of Connecticut to an 86-79 victory over Lafayette in the opener of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. In the second game, South Carolina whipped Fordham 75-65 as Jackie Gilloin keyed an 11-point run at the start of the second half.

Ken Harris scored the winning three-point play with 26 seconds remaining, and Drake snapped a seven-game losing streak by defeating Bradley 96-94 in Missouri Valley Conference action.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS" are they living in the past?

Outwardly, Episcopalians are pretty steeped in tradition. But in their relations with the world about them, they're a "today" sort of bunch.

They're usually among the first to address a compassionate ministry to "people problems" wherever those problems crop up.

Take alcoholism. It's no accident that one of the founders of Alcoholics Anonymous was a sympathetic Episcopalian minister, Sam Shoemaker...and some folks, today, make jokes about "Whiskeypalians."

It's true that this denomination is a bit more tolerant than some. They nourish a strange belief in guidelines — not straight-jackets — for a Christian life. They're not interested in condemning...but in helping people.

It isn't really a new idea. Just a timely one.

Episcopalians believe they have good reason for many of their views. Maybe some of the reasons would make sense to you, too. It costs you nothing to contact the nearest Episcopalian minister and find out. He won't even twist your arm.

'Luck' says Snead

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "You might say," observed broadly-grinning J.C. Snead, "it was a matter of luck."

The luck — which led to a seven-under-par 65 and the first-round lead in the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament — made its appearance moments after Snead plucked a four-leaf clover out of the soggy turf and stuck it in his pocket.

"Now," cautioned the mock-serious Snead, "it ain't that I'm superstitious or anything like that. But if I keep it in my pocket I might lose it. I think I'll eat it. That way it can't get away."

Immediately after finding the lucky clover Thursday, Snead saved par from a terrible lie in the bunker — "I had no shot at all; I was looking at six," he said — missed by a scant inch of holing another sand shot on the next hole and then dropped a 148-yard eight iron shot for an eagle two on the next hole.

"That's the first time I've ever holed out a full shot on the tour," he said, grinned again and added: "Luck."

Snead, a raw-boned, rangy nephew of the famed Sam Snead and the defending champion here, held a one-stroke advantage on England's Peter Oosterhuis, Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, rookie Jerry Pate and Curtis Sifford, tied at 66.

Bullets bomb Blazers

By The Associated Press

After playing the role of a reserve for nearly a month, Elvin Hayes finally got to start for the Washington Bullets — and it was no strain. Better yet, it was no pain.

Hayes, who had missed two games and played only parts of seven others because of a ligament strain he suffered on Jan. 20, had no apparent discomfort while helping to deal the Portland Trail Blazers a 92-81 loss Thursday night.

"I felt like 100 per cent," said Hayes after scoring 24 points in the National Basketball Association game.

Hayes also finished as the Bullets' top rebounder with 16 and blocked three shots.

In the other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Chicago Bulls 86-83 and the Golden State Warriors whipped the Atlanta Hawks 113-104.

Hayes scored 12 of his game-high point total in the third quarter to help the Bullets pull away. With Hayes showing the way, the Bullets increased their 46-40 halftime lead to a 76-57 advantage at the end of the third period.

Cavaliers 86, Bulls 83
Reserves Campy Russell and Fouts Walker rallied Cleveland in the second period and the Cavaliers went on to beat Chicago. Jimmy Clemons, who led the Cavaliers with 17 points, hit one of two free throws with 34 seconds left to make it 86-83. Then Jack Martin missed a jumper for the Bulls with 25 seconds to go and Nate Thurmond came down with the rebound, icing it for Cleveland.

Warriors 113, Hawks 104
Jamaal Wilkes scored 34 points, his NBA career high, as Golden State beat Atlanta. John Drew, who scored 33 points for Atlanta, fouled Phil Smith with 3:01 left in the game. Smith made the free throw to send the Warriors ahead, 100-99, then Golden State scored seven straight points to pull ahead by eight.

Daytona 500

Violators back in fold

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "I guess you've got two cheaters in Victory Lane," Dave Marcis quipped after he and Darrell Waltrip won a pair of 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's $350,000 Daytona 500 stock car classic.

Those two young rising stars of National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Grand National racing were set down for rules violations after posting some of the fastest times in pole position qualifying last Sunday.

Officials ruled that the cars of Marcis, Waltrip, A.J. Foyt and Bruce Hill were speeded up by "non-approved" equipment. They had to make changes, re-qualify and start back in the pack for the 125-milers Thursday.

"It didn't hurt Dave and me much as it turned out," Waltrip said. "We just lost a position or two for Sunday. Justice will prevail, and I guess it did."

Foyt, whose Chevrolet developed mechanical trouble and lasted only nine laps, will start in 31st place. As fastest on Sunday, at 187.477 miles per hour, he would have been on the pole and $5,000 richer if his speed had not been disallowed.

Hill's Chevrolet made only four laps in the qualifier and he'll start 33rd.

The Marcis Dodge and Waltrip Chevrolet will start in the second row behind new faces Ramo Stott and Terry Ryan in a pair of Chevrolets. Stott and Ryan, whose cars were legal, inherited the inside and outside pole because of the three disallowed speeds.

Stott's car malfunctioned at the start of the first 125-miler and made only 35 of the 50 laps. Ryan was competitive and finished third behind Waltrip and Richard Petty's Dodge in the second qualifying event.

Speed Weeks attention turned today to the windup of the International Race of Champions series with Foyt favored to take the $50,000 winner's prize. After three previous races in Michigan and California, Foyt leads the nine top drivers chosen from Formula I, NASCAR and Indianapolis type cars.

Foyt, with 31 points, needed only to finish sixth or better to win the series. Bobby Allison with 25 points and Mario Andretti with 23 are the only ones who could beat him.

Dorothy Hamill's bid for a figure skating gold medal and the attempt of West German Rosi Mittermaier for an unprecedented third Alpine skiing gold medal will occupy a considerable portion of the three hours of Olympic television highlights scheduled tonight.

On the next-to-last day of major competition at the Winter Games, ABC will show highlights from 8:30 p.m.-11 p.m. and from 11:30 p.m.-midnight. All times are EST.

Miss Hamill, 19, of Riverside, Conn., leads entering tonight's freestyle skating finale and should win the gold medal unless she performs very poorly. If anyone is to defeat her, it will be Dianne de Leeuw of The Netherlands or Christine Errath of East Germany.

Miss Mittermaier, 25, a 10-year veteran of the World Cup circuit, seeks to succeed where no woman has before in winning all three Alpine races. She has gold medals in the downhill and slalom and will seek to follow that today in the giant slalom. The racers take two runs with total best time winning. The best American hope is

Baptist Temple schedules concert

Baptist Temple Church at 11th and Goliad will present the Southwestern Seminary Men's Chorus and Consort Singers in a concert of sacred music on Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m. This program is being presented free and is open to the public.

The two groups are official touring choirs of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. The 36-voice Men's Chorus and the 10 member Consort Singers are composed of select students from the seminary's three schools: theology, religious education, and church music.

The group's respective repertoires will include a representative sampling of sacred music. James McKinney, director of the Men's Chorus is also dean of the School of Church Music at Southwestern.

He has chosen a program that represents a variety of musical periods and styles. Works by Robert Shaw, Aaron Copland, Austin Lovelace, and select American Negro spirituals will be featured.

Directing the Consort Singers, a madrigal group, is Mike Malek. Selected works to be presented by the Singers include, J. P. Sweelinck's "O Lord God, to Thee Be Praise," and Richard Felciano's "Chants for the First Sunday of Passiontide" and "Cosmic Festival." Also to be featured will be several traditional American and Jewish melodies.

The concert is part of a two-week, four-state tour of the Southwest. This program will be presented in the Baptist Temple church auditorium.

One of the six seminaries owned and operated by the twelve-million member Southern Baptist Convention, Southwestern holds the distinction of being the world's largest evangelical seminary.

DALLAS — Texas Baptists have responded with money, manpower and materials to help in Guatemala disaster relief.

In the first public Baptist response to the earthquake, leaders of 89 Baptist Student Unions across the state contributed $4,047.24.

The offering was taken Saturday night during the annual Texas Baptist Student Union Leadership Training Conference at Baylor University in Waco, attended by about 2,300 students.

In the aftermath of the Feb. 4 earthquake, the Southern Baptist Convention Foreign Mission Board dispatched a team to assess damage and determine response.

Immediately, $25,000 was made available to buy food and emergency supplies. Another $25,000 has been sent to Guatemala and additional funds will be made available as needed.

At the request of the Foreign Mission Board, Texas Baptists sent three doctors, a paramedic, 102 tents — including two for use as medical facilities — a ton of materials to be used in making medical casts and a four wheel drive vehicle.

Additional supplies — tents, sleeping bags, money, medical supplies have been sent by other state conventions.

synchronized cassette lectures of 45 to 50 minutes each with 480 color slides. Each cassette recorded by Dr. Roy Blizard, giving you all the pertinent historical, archeological, and scriptural information for each color slide.

If you see all six of these presentations you will have seen the significant historical and Biblical sites from Mt. Hermon in the north to the Sinai Peninsula in the south. "This will be a trip to Israel that you will never forget," it was pointed out.

The tour starts at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday night Feb. 17, the admission is free, and everyone is invited to come. There will be one series (approximately 1 hour) shown at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday night Feb. 17 and

This set of 480 slides and six cassettes are available for purchase upon request and would be a perfect teaching aid for churches, prayer groups, civic clubs, or for your own private library.

On October 18, 1976 Tommy and Jo Ann Williams will be leaving with a group of people to personally tour the land of Israel. Anyone desiring to go is welcome.

Ward sustains new bishopric

The Big Spring Ward of the Texas Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints sustained a New Bishopric on Sunday, Feb. 8, at a special sacrament meeting held under the direction of Stake President, Roland Hamblin. The action was brought about by the recent transfer of Bishop Joseph Mower to a new assignment.

Bishop Mower has served the Big Spring Ward as its Bishop since August 1973. He has been a resident of Big Spring for the past seven years while stationed at Webb AFB as an instructor pilot and recently as Civil Engineer.

As Bishop, he has been instrumental in organizing the ward youth program as well as preparing the chapel for its recent dedication. Ward members say his leadership will be greatly missed. He was given a unanimous vote of thanks from the membership in attendance. He and his wife Dixie and four children left Big Spring today, enroute to Norton AFB, California, where Joe will become a T-39 pilot.

The New Bishopric was organized following selection of Loyd Loveless. Bishop Loveless then chose his counselors, Lynn Wade and Steven Hirschi. The new Bishopric was given a unanimous vote of support by the ward in the special meeting.

Bishop Loveless was born in Payson, Utah, the son of Ned Tillivan Loveless and Gladys Romney Loveless. Following high school, he entered the University of Utah for one year prior to a full time mission for the Church in the East Central States. He returned to the University of Utah in 1965, and graduated in 1969 with a BS degree in Business Management.

Following his graduation, he was trained by the USAF as a pilot at Reese AFB. After instructor pilot training, he was stationed at Webb AFB in 1971 where he has remained since.

He left the air force in 1973 to become distribution coordinator at Cosden Oil and Chemical Company. He was called as First Counselor to Bishop Mower in 1973 and has served in that position until now. He married Diane Wilcox in March of 1967 in the Salt Lake Temple and has two children, Wendy 6 and Mathew 2.

Lynn Wade, first counselor in the new Bishopric was born in Ogden, Utah. He attended Weber State College where he graduated cum laude with a B. S. degree. He served a two year full time Mission in Switzerland prior to attending dental school at the University of Oregon.

Following this schooling he did one year of General Dental Residency at Keesler AFB, Mississippi, and was then assigned to the Dental Clinic at Webb AFB Hospital. He is married to the former Marianne Carroll of Salt Lake City which was solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple in December 1971.

Steven Hirschi was born in Salt Lake but raised in Vernal, Utah, where he graduated from Utah High School in 1967. He attended Utah State University and Brigham Young University where he graduated in 1971, in microbiology.

He entered pilot training in July of 1972, and trained at Webb following which he became an instructor and was again assigned at Webb. He is married to the former Carol Call of Vernal, Utah.

They also were married in the Salt Lake Temple. They have two children, Geoffrey, age 5 and Christopher, age 4 months. Prior to being chosen as second Counselor, Steve was Elders Quorum President where he has been instrumental in organizing a strong quorum of elders.

FAITH... UNLIMITED

In our nation's infancy, it was George Washington who showed us the power of faith. Faith gave him the courage to fight on while others fell in despair. Faith sustained him through the dark days of Valley Forge. He never doubted that right would ultimately prevail.

In our own troubled times, we too need the same deep, abiding faith.

The Church now—as in Washington's day—is eager to ease our doubts and to sustain our spiritual needs. With God's help, we shall persevere.

Texans should vote for uncommitted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas Democrats should vote for uncommitted slates of delegates to the party's national convention in July, says former Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

It is worth the "vigorous organization and work" needed to elect the uncommitted slates in the 18 senatorial districts that have them, Yarborough told a news conference Thursday.

The other 13 districts do not have such slates. Without naming Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Yarborough said: "One candidate in Texas has already announced that he has raised $2.5 million—they will cover this state with greenbacks—it is up to the people of Texas to show that they are as free of greenbacks as were the people of Mississippi and Oklahoma."

Bentsen made poor showings in Mississippi and Oklahoma before announcing Tuesday he would limit his presidential campaigning to his home state.

"Texas Democrats have a great opportunity this year to demonstrate to the party and to the nation that they will no longer send a delegation to the national convention packaged and pledged to be brokered by one man for his own personal gain," Yarborough said.

"I pledge you that I will campaign for the uncommitted slates in whatever districts I am asked to campaign in," he said.

His personal campaign debt from the 1972 loss to Bentsen is down "fairly close to $7,000," he said.

Mayor Ernest Angelo said if final approval is given as long as three years could elapse before service is approved.

Kiwanis Club's pancake supper slated March 4

The Kiwanis Club's annual Pancake Supper will be staged in the Student Union Building at Howard College from 5 to 8 p.m., Thursday, March 4.

Tickets will be $2 each and those attending can refill their plates as often as they desire.

Mike Ezzell, state representative, was the principal speaker at Thursday's club luncheon at the Settles Hotel. Ezzell offered a report on the expenditures of state money. He told his listeners the state should have a $500 million surplus in 1977. He reminded the Kiwanians Texas still has the lowest gasoline tax of any state in the union and that 27 per cent of the state's revenue comes from the federal government, something that would be sorely missed if it should ever be recommitted. Ezzell also said that during the 1976-77 fiscal year, 40 per cent of the state budget will go for education, compared to 45 per cent in 1968; 18 per cent for welfare, compared to 17 per cent eight years ago; 13 per cent for highways, compared to 23 per cent in 1968; seven per cent for health, compared to 5½ per cent in '68 and 13 per cent of other expenses, compared to nine per cent eight years ago.

Okay Midland bond issue

MIDLAND — By a resounding 2-1 margin, Midland County voters have approved a $6.3 million bond issue, which insures the construction of a multi-purpose facility on the Midland College campus as well as added classroom and training space. Two similar proposals for multi-purpose buildings have been voted down in recent years. Of an estimated 32,000 eligible voters, 4,263 cast ballots Tuesday. Proposition 1, which calls for additions to the occupational-technical space and a new academic classroom-fine arts building, carried 2,899 to 1,314. Proposition 2, which projected a plan for the multi-purpose facility, carried 2,894 to 1,384.

To build school at Sundown

SUNDOWN — A new $5.3 million public school will be built here, with prospects it will be ready for occupancy 18 months from now.

Construction will get under way in June. Sundown voters overwhelmingly approved the bond issue Tuesday, 338-77. The issue carries with it an increase of about $20 a year on a $30,000 home. The Sundown school district embraces 87 square miles.
