SCORES KILLED IN TEXAS-OKLAHOMA TORNADOES

Parker's Approval Hinges On Three Votes

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Governor Moody in a recent interview of some of the accomplishments of his administration said that more and better highways had been constructed and were under construction than in any like period in the history of the state. He said that obligations of the highway department inherited from a previous administration amounting to more than $6,000,000 had been paid and that nearly 4,000 miles of all weather highway had been contracted and placed under construction in the past three years.

R. S. Sterling, head of the state highway department, is quoted by a Houston paper as saying that he had signed $110,000,000 in vouchers during his tenure of office which has been two years and four months or at the rate of $4,000,000 per month.

Do not the statements of Governor Moody and Mr. Sterling indicate that very satisfactory progress is being made in road construction in Texas? And isn't an expenditure of approximately $4,000,000 a month about all that can be handled judiciously by the state highway department? The state highway department appears to be doing its work so well that there is little necessity for a large state bond issue for highway improvements.

This is the season for storms. We have them along abou this time almost every year. Some of them do considerable damage. It is also the season or rumors of storms. A rumor starts that this or that town has been blown away, the rumor is never anything less than complete destruction, and newspaper telephones are kept ringing by anxious inquirers.

It is a good thing that there are newspapers which can more or less quickly determine the truth of such rumors. If a rumor comes in that this or that town has been blown away it is generally the work of only a few minutes to call a correspondent in that town and learn that it has had a light shower, or that the skies are clear or whatever the condition is.

It is one of the functions of newspapers to print accounts of things that have happened or occur. It is also one of a newspaper's functions to find out that a great many rumored happenings are only rumors.

Land owners in the strip on the Texas-Oklahoma border transferred from the jurisdiction of Oklahoma to Texas by a ruling of the United States supreme court plan to carry their fight for title to their lands to congress, says a dispatch from Hollis, Okla. We can't see wherein congress can give them any relief but the state of Texas ought, and ought to do so with the least possible delay. Anything less than giving those who have obtained claims to the land under the state of Oklahoma valid titles from the state of Texas would be an injustice that would bring shame to every Texan.

Rev. R. P. Shuler, known in Texas as "Fighting Bob," has begun a 20-day jail sentence in the Los Angeles jail for contempt of court. Shuler criticized two superior court justices in a radio address for their actions in the Julian Petroleum company cases.

Before going to California Reverend Shuler was pastor of the University church of Southern Methodists at Austin. He was prominent in local option campaigns at Austin and other places in Texas. Without attempting to pass upon the justice of his sentence, it is easy to believe Reverend Shuler will lose none of his prestige on account of his jail term and that it will have rather the effect of making him more formidable. In contempt cases even when the contemptor receives a jail sentence, our sympathies are often with the judges who are forced to impose such a sentence. It is, in most cases, a wise judge who ignores alleged contempt. Contempt often makes the contemptor appear the more contemptible when it is not dignified with recognition.

The law of libel and contempt is pretty well established, so far as publication in newspapers is concerned. A newspaper is more likely to be held accountable for what it prints than is a minister for what he says in his pulpit. The radio, over which many candidates and ministers and others now address the people, has brought new problems of the application of the law of libel and contempt. We will expect to see the enactment of laws and their interpretation by the courts restricting the license that speakers over the radio now enjoy.

Chicago Starts Belated Collection of City Taxes

CHICAGO, May 6. (US)—Collection of the first real estate taxes received by Cook county in more than two years was started today in Oak Park.

Factional quarrels over the details of reassessment, in one phase of which Mayor William Hale Thompson charged that downtown Chicago property in the "loop district" had been under-valued by more than $500,000,000 were responsible for the long taxless period.

In the meantime the city of Chicago and Cook county ran out of funds. They sold tax anticipation warrants until the banks refused longer to handle them. For two months last winter, city, county and school board employes went without pay.

UPPER HOUSE TO DECIDE ISSUE TODAY

Both Sides Claim Victory In Bitter Fight Over Nomination

'SCANDAL' EXPLODES

Senator Denies Offer of Judgeship for His Favorable Vote

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—The senate will vote tomorrow on the severely contested nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the supreme court, with the result believed tonight to hinge on three senators still in the doubtful class.

The agreement to vote tomorrow was reached after the senate had made its own investigation of the charge by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, that federal judgeships were being offered in return for votes for Parker.

Charge "Ridiculous"

In a session tense with excitement and angry exchanges, Senator Ashurst named Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, as the senator who, he said, had told him he had been offered a judgeship if he would vote for Parker.

Senator Dill said Senator Ashurst had misunderstood him, and told the senate the whole thing was "ridiculous." He said a personal friend from Washington had urged him to vote for Parker, but he did not consider the friend had made any offer. A reference had been made to judgeships, he said, but he did not take it seriously.

At nightfall foes of Parker claimed they still had the votes to reject him. Friends of the nominee, however, were hopeful and estimates of the outcome ranged from rejection by three votes to confirmation by one vote.

Administration Republican ranks still were divided tonight by the two-fold opposition of organized labor and of the National association for the advancement of the colored people. Likewise, the Democrats were split, but Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, who is leading the fight for confirmation said tonight "we have a chance."

Allen Replies

Senator Allen attacked the Arizonan for his statements of yesterday:

"I have known many instances," he said, "in which senators inclining toward the front page have attacked the president of the United States but I have never read an attack upon the president of the United States as unbridled and unconscionable as this one.

"The mere fact the senator from Arizona now says that he did not mean to include the president of the United States does not in any sense soften the real meaning."

Barry Miller Starts 'Speechless' Campaign

DALLAS, May 6. (US)—Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Miller Pierce, left here today on a "speechless" campaign trip—which will carry him through North and East Texas.

Miller intends to meet his friends informally on the 10-day sojourn and will make no addresses to aid his bid for the Texas governorship. Cooper, Mt. Pleasant, Honey Grove, Mt. Vernon and towns in Cass county are on the itinerary.

WHO'S WHO

Brother of President Arrests Son of State Senator

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., May 6. (AP)—"You can't arrest me," declared the young trout fisherman "my father is a state senator."

"I can't eh?" the deputy game warden is quoted as having said, "Well, my brother is president of the United States."

And sure enough he was, for the deputy game warden was Prof Theodore Hoover, dean of the school of engineering at Stanford university, who gets a dollar a year for his deputy job. He was walking through his estate in the Santa Cruz mountains when he saw Roy Fellom Jr., 19, whose father is a state senator, and two other boys fishing for trout.

The boys appeared in justice court here today on a charge of catching more than the legal limit of fish.

Arthur Muehler, one of the boys, was fined $30 for fishing without a license. Senator Fellom was attorney for the three.

NAVY PROGRAM ASKS BILLION

Britten to Introduce Bill for Construction

WASHINGTON, May 6. (UP)—A $1,000,000,000 10-year naval building program to bring the United States to parity with Great Britain was announced today by Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee, who will propose it to the house in bill form tomorrow.

Britten said his program, designed to cover American needs under the London treaty, calls for building of 150,000 tons of new destroyers, 73,500 tons of six-inch gun cruisers, 69,000 tons of aircraft carriers and 52,700 tons of submarines.

Britten's announcement came on the eve of two other important phases of the naval situation—the introduction of the new naval appropriations bill and the senate foreign relations committee's first hearing on the London treaty.

Britten's program contemplates a large expenditure of money, but the bill follows rather closely to President Hoover's anticipations.

Britten's program provides for a number of six-inch gun cruisers, adoption of which in the London treaty has been cited as a new departure in modern American naval policy. Hitherto 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers were held necessary for protection.

Burman Earthquake Toll Reaches 600

RANGOON, Burma, May 6. (US)—Estimates of the death toll of Rangoon and the town of Pegu, where last night's earthquake and the recurrent shocks today spread their worst disaster, rose tonight. Conservative reports put the dead at 600 while others estimated at least 2,000 killed in the stricken, fire-swept areas.

The shocks continued throughout the day, and the panic-stricken inhabitants fled to the open roads tonight as emergency police were rushed to Pegu, which was practically demolished by the quake and then razed by a wind-fanned fire.

The room in which the body was found was sealed with paper stuffed about the windows. There was a stocking twisted about her throat and she had been shot in the chest. No weapon was found in the room.

FRESH VENIRE ORDERED FOR BRADY'S TRIAL

Two Days of Examining Talesmen Secures Just Three Jurors

AIKEN TRIAL OPENS

Lamesa Man Called Insane By Witnesses as Testimony Opens

COURTROOM, DALLAS, May 6, (AP)—Having exhausted more than one-third of the venire of 225 with only three jurors qualified, District Judge C. A. Pippen today ordered 200 talesmen brought into court here for the second murder trial of John W. Brady of Austin, former civil appeals court judge.

The talesmen will be asked to appear Thursday afternoon.

The trio accepted for jury service today were Alvin O'Brien, 43, former publisher of the Walnut Springs Hustler and now a printer here; R. M. Brantly, neat appearing Seagoville hardware man, and E. F. Brownlee, young Dallas automobile salesman.

O'Brien and Brantley said they were members of the Baptist church. Brady is a Catholic. Brownlee, a married man, was not asked about his church affiliations.

At the close of a day and a half of questioning, the state had used five challenges and the defense four. Each side is allotted 15. The defense challenged E. N. Meredith, a former klansman, C. M. Terry, Baptist Sunday school teacher, and M. Jacobs, who took a minor part in "The Criminal Code," Little Theater production in which Jacobs said McCraw played "a heavy role."

The state challenged George Greenwell, who had been on a jury in a previous trial which assessed a light sentence. It also exercised a challenge on Don Carl, who said that he many years ago went hunting with John L. Peeler of Austin, defense witness and attorney, and that Brady or his brother once visited his father's place.

STATE ATTACKS AIKEN'S CLAIM

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, May 6.—Cross-examination fireworks featured the second day of J. W. (Bud) Aiken's trial here Tuesday when District Attorney T. L. ONE VACANCY IN ALSUP JURY

Testimony Due to Start Today in 'Frameup'

FORT WORTH, May 6. (AP)—With only one vacant seat left in the jury box, testimony is expected to be opened in criminal district court before noon Wednesday in the trial of John Alsup, former policeman, on a charge of murder in connection with the alleged "frameup" of the First State bank of Polytechnic April 10.

The 11th juror was selected late Tuesday just before the list of talesmen summoned into court for jury service became exhausted.

Deputy sheriffs will be sent out Wednesday morning by Judge George E. Hosey to bring additional talesmen to the jury room as a result of the special venire of 250 men being exhausted Tuesday noon.

Alsup is on trial for the slaying of Will Tate, negro, who with George Terrell, another negro, were killed by Alsup when they fled from the bank during an attempted robbery. It is alleged that Alsup plotted to send the negroes to the bank that they might be slain for a reward.

Denying his guilt and saying he acted as an officer in good faith in killing the robbers, Alsup is expected to take the stand in his own behalf. A. P. Boyt, barber, and Will Vincent, charged as accomplices, are expected to testify for the state.

Red River Valley And East Central Texas In Paths of Lethal Winds

While three persons were killed and about 20 injured in scattered tornadoes and windstorms in Northwest Texas and Oklahoma Tuesday, disturbances in Central Texas were taking a much heavier toll. In the latter territory, several communities were directly in the path of swirling gales.

In Central Texas, estimates early Tuesday night place the dead at 65 in seven localities. This total may be raised or lowered as the rescue work progresses. Eighteen were reported dead at Frost, one at San Antonio, nine in McLennin, Hill and Navarro counties, five at Runge and 22 near Nordheim.

Twister Levels Frost, Texas, as 65 Persons Die

Storm Moves North

The funnel-shaped tornado which swept parts of McLennan, Hill and Navarro counties formed over Waco and swept north, according to H. B. McAlister, Waco resident, who was in Byrum, Hill county, at the time the cyclone struck there.

The tornado swept a path 300 yards wide, missed Byrum about two miles, wrecking several farmhouses in its path and passing Malone, struck Frost, Navarro county, demolishing most of the buildings in the business district there.

H. J. Nichols, Corsicana aviator, flew over Frost afterward and said the tornado apparently came from the southwest, traveling in a northeasterly direction and cutting a path about 10 miles long.

All children in the Frost school escaped injury. They were taken to the first floor of the building. The top floor was blown away.

Nordheim Struck

A tornado which swept along the gulf coast late today spent its force on the little town of Nordheim in DeWitt county, leaving in its wake more than a score of dead.

This storm struck in Goliad county and after cutting a swath through the rural sections jumped to Nordheim where it levelled every building in its path.

The bodies of 22 Mexicans were found on farms in the territory around Nordheim.

L. Lupe Garza, his wife and three small children saw the tornado approaching from a distance and ran for the shelter of their farm home. All were killed when the wind wrecked their house and it tumbled upon them.

Mrs. Otto Furshin, wife of a prominent DeWitt county cotton planter was killed when a flying timber crushed her skull. Her husband was critically injured.

Mrs. Paul Machost, another Nordheim woman, fell victim to the storm's fury.

A large abandoned lodge hall at Nordheim was converted tonight into an emergency hospital to care for 40 injured who were brought in from rural sections.

An unidentified Mexican was killed and four were injured when a house was demolished 12 miles from Spur, in northwestern Texas.

Many Injured

Fifty or more persons were injured in various parts of the state, those most seriously at Randolph field, Runge, Frost, Byrum, Brookins, Mertens and Spur, although several were reported injured in Dallas by glass shattered by the windstorm.

The windstorm which tore a path across West Texas damaged crops and near Coleman, Eastland and Dibrell, demolished derricks in several oil fields.

First news received in San Antonio of the storm at Runge came with the arrival of automobiles and trucks bringing the injured. Runge is 60 miles southeast of San Antonio.

All telephone and telegraph lines were wrecked by the storm and news to San Antonio was tele-

North Texas and Oklahoma Count Many Casualties

Twisters forming out of menacing wind clouds that swept over the whole area Tuesday swirled down upon nine communities in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma, taking three lives, injuring more than a score of people and sweeping away homes, buildings and vegetation along their paths.

Hail and terrific sandstorms took a heavy toll of property damage in those areas where the winds did not reach cyclonic proportions. Scattered cloudbursts and lesser rains following on the heels of the downpours earlier in the week added to the burden of swollen waterways and the threat of high water damage was increasing Tuesday night. Widespread damage to wire connections and to highways all over the country were reported.

Negro Killed Here

A bolt of lightning, striking in the midst of a rain and windstorm in Wichita Falls early Tuesday afternoon took the life of John Ryan, negro, as he stood on the sidewalk before a home in the 1900 block on Huff avenue.

On the Henrietta road, just outside the city limits, the high wind formed a miniature twister which swept away a group of rabbit and chicken houses, ripped up sign boards and uprooted trees. Several large trees in the residence section were splintered. Heavy black clouds driven by a 25-mile gale menaced the city throughout the day. The barometer dropped to 28.79 and the air was thickened by the scattered remnants of heavy sandstorms originating to the west. In a brief, fierce shower that fell shortly afternoon a rainfall of .23 of an inch was reported.

Walters Suffers

The storm bombardment took its heaviest toll at Walters, Okla., where rescuers were still at work Tuesday night caring for the injured and homeless after the series of tornadoes there Monday. A Mexican was killed in the oil fields there. Another lost his life at Spur.

The twisters whipped through this section of the state, striking at Bowie, Childress and Graham. In Oklahoma serious property damage was incurred at Mangum, Lawton and Duncan. Two people were injured near Frederick and three at Duncan. The wind and hail was followed everywhere by a terrific sandstorm that added to the damage by battering roofs and shattering windows.

Danger to railroad schedules was feared Tuesday night as rivers and creeks in Oklahoma continued to rise. Highways were flooded and pavement washed away. Several bridges were threatened in Northwest Oklahoma where the rains were heaviest and most continuous.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT AT WALTERS

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., May 6.—Under the bombardment of another heavy wind and hail storm Tuesday afternoon Walters continued to count the toll of the series of tornadoes which swept through the town Monday afternoon. Rescuers found the body of Jesus Cobas, Mexican laborer, near the splintered shack where seven other Mexicans were hurt when the tornado wiped out the oil field. Two children among the injured are not expected to recover.

At least 20 homes near the field were swept away and scores of destitute people are being cared for by their neighbors. The business men of Walters Tuesday afternoon completed an organization to sup-

JURY CLEARS ED SPRIGGS

Negro Acquitted in Slaying Of Youth

Ed Spriggs, 55-year-old negro, was acquitted of the charge of murder against him in connection with the slaying of Isaac Johnson, 18-year-old negro youth, by a jury in the 89th district court Tuesday afternoon.

Testimony in the case was brief, having begun during the morning session of the court. The verdict was returned shortly before 4 o'clock after the jury had deliberated less than one hour.

Witnesses for the defense testified Johnson had made threats against Spriggs and the defendant's original plea of self-defense was made the center of his attempt to obtain a verdict of acquittal. John Martin, Wichita Falls attorney, represented Spriggs. Prosecuting attorneys were Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, and Wayne Somerville, county attorney. Johnson was shot to death in a negro cafe here several weeks ago following an alleged altercation.

OKLAHOMA HAS WIDESPREAD LOSSES

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 6. (AP)—Oklahoma tonight was surveying the havoc caused by tornadic winds, cloudburst and hail late yesterday and today. Three persons were known to have been killed and more than a score injured at scattered points in the western part of the state. Property damage was estimated at upward of $500,000.

Unsettled weather conditions prevailed tonight over a wide area of central and western Oklahoma, and damaged communication lines making a check in the storm area slow.

Those killed last night were Mrs. C. P. Bush, 63, wife of a farmer living near Greenfield, in Southern Blaine county; the 5 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Black, living near Rush Springs in the southern part of Grady county, and a negro boy, who lived near Greenfield. Sabath Demands Law Against 'Short Selling'

WASHINGTON, May 6. (US)—Denouncing the "big bears" in Wall street for the recent smash in stock prices, Representative Sabath, Democrat, of Illinois, today demanded legislation to prohibit "short selling."

GOOD TEETH MUST HAVE VITAMINS AND MINERALS

Foods Should Be Eaten Regularly That Are Rich in Vitamins "C" and "D"

Vitamins, minerals and roughage, as supplied by the balanced diet, directly and indirectly contribute to promoting good teeth and gums.

Foods should be eaten regularly that abound in Vitamins "C" and "D." These include tomatoes, fresh peas, raw cabbage, spinach, lettuce; citrus fruits, raspberries, peaches, apples; eggs, butter and whole milk.

In preparing these foods for the table, sugar will make them much more appetizing. Add a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt in cooked vegetables. Follow the same rule in making French dressing for the vegetables. Sweeten stewed fruits to taste. And there are many delicious pudding recipes that call for eggs, butter, milk and sugar.

The balanced diet is much more taste-appealing if sugar is given its place—as a flavor—in desserts—also jams and jellies. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

TRIAL SLATED ON 'AIR PIRACY'

Radio Broadcaster to Be Arraigned

ST. LOUIS, May 6. (UP)—Prosecution of the first "air piracy" case faced federal authorities here today.

George W. Fellowes, erstwhile private detective and washing machine salesman who set up a broadcasting station in a back room of his home was the defendant.

Fellowes is specifically charged with operating a station without a license and broadcasting programs of other stations without their consent. On the radio "bootlegging" charges he is liable, if convicted, to a maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary, a $5,000 fine, or both.

Action against Fellowes followed protests that he was re-broadcasting programs of other stations as original, had confused radio fans by often announcing his station was in some foreign country, and that he used his station for washing machine selling purposes.

The equipment found in his home was valued at less than $1,000.

Fellowes, since his arrest, has claimed "the air is free" and announced his willingness to "fight the case to the supreme court if necessary."

Education Should Come Before Dry Laws

WASHINGTON, May 6. (INS)—An attempt to have the International Congress on Mental Hygiene go on record as stating the struggle against alcoholism was one of its chief problems for consideration, was blocked today by objections against making the congress a forum on prohibition.

Dr. Phillip David Bookstaver of Harrisburg, Pa., added an amendment to the resolution stating the congress believes education against alcoholism should come before legislation. He remarked the congress did not want to go on record as in favor of the prohibition law."

"INFORMAL" MENTAL CLINIC EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, May 6. (INS)—An "informal" hospital, where mental patients appear without identification papers, legal certificates or medical diagnosis, has helped Paris solve its problem of the mentally diseased, Dr. Edouard Toulous, medical director of the Psychopathic hospital of Paris told the international congress of mental hygiene today.

"I consider the open Psychiatric hospital as the essential machinery of a psychiatric organism and of prophylactic action," he said.

The Ku Klux Klan was referred to in the speech of Adolf Meyer, psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.

He termed the klan one of a group of demagogic societies," responsible for revolt and consequent advancement of mental hygiene.

Haven Emerson, public health professor at the college of physicians and surgeons in New York City, referred to the increase in suicides.

"Is it not at least as important that the suicide rate has risen from 4.09 to 10.7 for each 100,000 of our people in 70 years as that the diabetes death rate has done about the same?" he asked.

"Is there a greater need to report upon a rising death rate from appendicitis or to analyze, publish, teach and if possible prevent the conditions that brought about a rise in the divorce rate from 26 per cent 100,000 to 68 per 100,000 in 50 years?"

Dr. K. Herman Bouman, Amsterdam university professor of psychiatry and neurology compared alcoholism to insanity, and said:

"Even very small quantities of alcohol produce a condition that has all the essential characteristics of delerium."

In dress it's Distinction

in a cigarette it's Taste

IT'S THE UNUSUAL that distinguishes a gown. Again, it's the unusual that sets Chesterfield apart.

STYLE in a gown, "chic" in a hat—and in a Chesterfield, Taste!

TASTE IS THE REAL REASON for Chesterfield's enduring popularity... the better taste of choice tobaccos, mild and ripe, blended and cross-blended to a rich delicacy of flavor, unique in a cigarette—in every sense of the word ..."TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

It's Same Old Sun, But All Else Has Changed, Says Dix

The Sun May Still Rise in the East and Set in the West, but No One Can Deny That the World Itself Has Changed. What With Science and the Modern Woman and Parents Who Obey Their Children.

A man writes: "You say that the world has changed. What has changed? I say nothing has changed. The sun still rises in the east and sets in the west. Water runs down hill and smoke goes up just as it always has done. Men attract women and women attract men, just as Adam and Eve were attracted in the Garden of Eden. Boys and girls fall in love now just as they did hundreds of years ago. Children are born in the same old way. So I ask you: What has changed?"

Of course, when I said that the world had changed I meant it only in a manner of speaking, and writing now in a calm frame of mind I'll take off a few million alterations. Still, even the physical world has changed. Even in recent times nature has blown off a few volcanoes and changed the courses of rivers and earthquakes have shaken down mountains and man has cut continents in twain and made lakes where none were before, and constructed new islands and made the desert blossom like the rose. Also climates have changed, and if some of our prehistoric ancestors who used to disport themselves in the tropical jungles in Alaska and thereabouts should return they would find that the winters were a deal colder than they used to be.

Certainly we have the same old sun and moon, running on the same old schedule, but they don't light up the same scenes that they used to by any manner of means. They glint now on buildings piled high as Jack's fabled beanstalk grew, on airplanes flashing through the upper air, on floating palaces that cross the ocean in four days, on radios and telephones and telegraphs and automobiles and on moving and talking pictures, on a thousand miracles of modern science and invention.

Why, only the other day a little flapper asked me what girls did when I was young, and when I told her that our "dates," only we called them beaux then, came and took us to church on Sunday night and that when they called we spent the evening in talk and singing songs and making fudge or popping corn and that it was a great event when we were invited to a ball, and that we felt very adventurous when we went buggy riding with a boy and that girls stayed at home and helped mother instead of going into business, she almost wept with sympathy.

"What!" she cried, "no night clubs, no going out anywhere to dinner and to dance, no automobiles, no moving pictures, just having to sit up and talk to a boy all evening, what a terrible time you must have had. How thankful I am that everything has changed."

Of course, men are men and women are women, just as they were in the beginning, but while the modern woman may take after her great-grandmother Eve in looks and figure and have on just as few fig leaves, that's about all. The inner woman is totally different, and it is folly to deny that the emancipated lady of today, with her vote in one hand and her pocketbook in the other and her ability to stand on her own feet and hold down a good job, hasn't changed from the meek, downtrodden, helpless clinging-vine female of the past.

Certainly men and women are attracted to each other just as they always have been. There is nothing new in sex appeal. And they still marry, as they have done the thousands of years since civilization was established, but the relationship between men and women and marriage has changed.

Perhaps human nature is not different from what it has always been. Perhaps grandfather was no more faithful to his wife than grandson is. Doubtless there have always been men who were philanderers and grouches and drunkards and tightwads. And women who were shrews and naggers and shiftless housekeepers and wasters and spenders. And, doubtless, husbands and wives bored each other and got on each other's nerves and grew weary of each other.

But in the old days when people got married they stayed married because divorce was a scandal and a disgrace and something that simply wasn't done in our best families. So grandma turned a blind eye on grandfather's wanderings and grandfather put up with grandmother's shortcomings and homes remained intact on the outside, no matter what sore of civil strife went on in the inside.

But now most young couples get married with the thought in their minds that if they don't like it they won't stick to it and to get a divorce is no more a stigma than to have the measles, and every modern husband and wife know that the real work of courtship begins when they get married and that if they keep each other and their home together they have got to make matrimony interesting and put a lot of pep into it.

And if you think children haven't changed you simply don't know your sterilized milk. Why, babies used to be so common that even the poor could afford them by the dozen. Now they are in the luxury class and the upkeep of a small infant costs as much as a yacht or a Rolls Royce. They used to could be born anywhere. Now they have to be born in a hospital. They used to be satisfied with mother as a refreshment counter. Now they have to have certified milk and out-of-season vegetables and a balanced diet that costs as much as living at a swell restaurant. They used to just tumble up. Now any child of 3 who hasn't had a couple of major operations couldn't hold up its head in a prep school.

And when they are older it is not children who mind their paretns, it's parents who obey their children. Mother may have worn wool stockings, but daughter has to have silk. Father may have walked five miles to the little red schoolhouse, son has to have an automobile to go two blocks and as for turning a bad child over your knee and spanking it, nobody would even dare to try it.

Oh, yes, things have changed a lot when you come to think of it.

—DOROTHY DIX.

SCHOOL TOGS ARE SMART
Pattern 1777

By ANNE ADAMS

The small girl will adore this little wool ensemble for school or play. It consists of blouse, jacket and skirt. The skirt is pleated, and both skirt and jacket are cleverly trimmed with braid, which may, of course, be omitted. Two buttons fasten the jacket in cardigan effect.

For a practical, as well as a chic rig, I would suggest jersey, challis or sheer tweed for immediate wear. For spring, pique would be lovely.

The bodice, which is sleeveless, may be made of silk crepe, pongee, linen or cotton pique.

Designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 54-inch wool and two yards 36-inch bodice fabric.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our new spring book of pattern styles is now ready. Price 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to R-N Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Broken Ranks of 'Boys in Blue' Form for Last March to Lawton

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., May 6.—Less than two score veterans of the civil war had arrived Monday for the three days reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and its auxiliaries, but about 150 members of the daughters of union veterans W. R. C. and of the G. A. R. are here.

This is the first G. A. R. reunion held in Lawton since 1904 when almost 4,000 delegates were in attendance. The boys in blue who are present are showing the feebleness of age. The youngest veteran here is past 80, but the average is 86.

Business sessions and a memorial session were held Monday and a general campfire meeting held Monday night.

Possibly the last march which the Oklahoma organization will ever undertake will be witnessed in a parade to be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, a four blocks march in the heart of the business section. Auxiliaries will participate in the parade.

A number of national and state officers are in attendance, including Adjutant Gen. A. C. Sims, of Oklahoma City, acting commander. Mrs. Winnie Fraser, gold star mother of the American Legion, Mrs. Hazel Soucy, national organizer of the D. U. V., Mrs. George Keech, state organizer, of Denver.

If the weather permits the visitors will be taken to Post field Wednesday where an infantry review will be given by troops of the regular army for their pleasure.

Every Headache Is a Warning

What is a headache? Physicians tell us that headache is "the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest." The cause of simple headache is high nerve tension or strain, which leads to high blood pressure and serious injury to the nervous system.

The next time you have a headache, neuralgic or rheumatic pains, or periodic pains, try the improved method of relief—two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water. Being liquid, Capudine gives relief almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. It relieves by soothing the tense nerves—not by deadening them. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore, is the ideal remedy.

For over thirty years Capudine has been bringing relief to those who suffer from nervous pains. You, too, will find it a joy and comfort when your nerves are unstrung and when you suffer from pain. At drug stores in 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

GRAIN CONCERN PLAN OUTLINED

Corporation to Establish Five Branches

CHICAGO, May 6. (INS)—At least five branches of the Farmers National Grain corporation, with a district manager in charge of each, will be established by the corporation in time for the 1930 harvest, according to an announcement today by C. E. Huff, president of the national cooperative.

The branch office for the spring wheat area, extending from the lake ports of Duluth and Superior westward to the line in western Montana which divides the eastern flow of grain, probably will be located in St. Paul, Duluth or Minneapolis.

The winter wheat branch will be at Kansas City, Mo., and will include in its jurisdiction markets at Omaha, Neb., St. Joseph, Mo., and other points in the Southwest, and the mountain territory centering at Ogden, Utah.

In the Pacific Northwest, it is probable that more than one office will be required. Among the cities being considered are Spokane, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

In the Northeast, an office probably will be opened at Buffalo.

In the soft wheat territory, extending from Missouri eastward to the seaboard, several cities, including St. Louis and Indianapolis, are being considered for the location of another branch.

Export business from New Orleans and Galveston will be controlled from the Chicago office.

In accordance with France's desire to centralize the industry, two of the largest French manufacturers of airplanes and seaplanes have joined the Societe Generale Aeromautique.

All Florida banks, state and national, held resources of $278,049,410.54 at the end of 1929.

"Just a few words of praise of your medicine. Nothing gave me relief and health as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. I am a practical nurse and was so rundown that I was unable to work. Healthiest!

"My little daughter is about the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. Wm. L. Pieper, 1043 Drexel Ave., San Antonio. "And I want to give credit where it is due.

"Elaine was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels are not regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.—Adv.

King George Goes To Horse Races

LONDON, May 6. (INS)—Celebrating the 20th anniversary of his accession to the throne, King George of England devoted himself today to the sport of kings.

After the customary anniversary formalities at Buckingham palace, his majesty motored to Newmarket to be on hand for the opening of the first important meeting of the British flat racing season.

The anniversary celebration opened with a salute of 21 guns fired from the artillery barracks in Hyde park. Bells of St. George's chapel, Windsor chapel and other edifices were rung, and all public buildings displayed flags in honor of the occasion.

Following the traditional custom, King George received a number of his servants from Buckingham, Windsor and Sandringham palaces in a reception room of his London home. He presented them with medals commemorating their "long and faithful service."

An enthusiastic crowd was gathered outside the gates of Buckingham palace when the king left in his limousine for Newmarket. Smiling and apparently in vigorous health, he returned their cheers with cordial waves of his hand.

More trophies were given this year than ever before; six silver cups mounted on black bases, 190 gold medals and 53 pennants were given. The medals, which were only given to winners of first place, are of gold with a small bar across the top on which is written "Harmon County, 1930."

Two Oklahomans Held For Damaging Balloon

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 6. (UP)—E. E. Fairbair, 50, Oklahoma City, and Louie Lapoint, 21, faced charges of attempted murder today after they were alleged to have poured acid on a balloon and parachute owned by C. C. Bonnette, balloon exhibitionist.

Fairbair was held in the county jail, Lapoint, Bonnette's foster son, was free without bond.

When Bonnette inflated his balloon here Sunday for a scheduled parachute jump he discovered that both the balloon and parachute had been damaged by the acid. A rain prevented him from making the ascension last Saturday when, officers said, the balloon probably would have collapsed in the air.

Crowd Smiles Approval When Court Reunites Young Newlyweds

BATON ROUGE, La., May 6. (AP)—A court order signed by Judge W. Carruth Jones in district court made final and binding today the marriage vows taken by Ernest M. Clark, 27, of Deridder, La., and Miss Edna Murphy, 17, of Evadale, Texas, after parental objections had separated the young couple at the altar and kept them apart for two days.

Clark went into court yesterday with a habeas corpus writ demanding that his bride be turned over to him, and charging that the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Murphy, formerly of Evadale, had taken his wife by force from him immediately after they were married late Saturday, and had since held her incommunicado. The parents told the court the young folks had slipped away without their knowledge to be married, and that they considered the wedding hasty and the bride too young.

However, Judge Jones put it up to the young people, and when each swore under oath that nothing would change their attitude to the contract entered into, an order absolute was decreed restraining the parents from further preventing their daughter from going to her husband.

The pair left the court hand in hand, while a smiling crowd looked on approvingly, and the Murphy's indicated they would relent from their formerly stern attitude.

Wheat Looks Better In Burkburnett Area

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 6.—Late rains have afforded an excellent prospect for wheat, cotton, feed and other crops in the Burkburnett area, which extends through Clara, Thrift, Bridgetown and Cashion. As a trading center for these places, Burkburnett is practically assured of a better wheat yield than the preceding year. Most of the wheat here is headed out and will be ready for threshing in a short time.

The Record News Offers Its Readers a Booklet on Making Cellars Dry

Real estate dealers say that a good dry, light cellar adds from $500 to $1,000 to the value of an ordinary dwelling. Moisture and darkness favor mildew, molds, decay, and putrefaction; moisture also hastens the corrosion of metals. Hence, a dry cellar makes for wholesome, sanitary conditions in the home; promotes comfort and health; lengthens the life of homes, furnishings, and plumbing; and increases the usefulness of basements for storage, workshop, and laundry purposes.

Our new government booklet, Making Cellars Dry, tells all about this. Send for a copy today, using this coupon.

"Colored Race Want a Leader"—headline. And many a misinformed person will propose Amos 'n' Andy for the honor. The situation will still remain dark.

A Plague of Locusts

THE world changes rapidly, as far as the conditions under which men live are concerned. But nature herself moves forward very, very slowly. You have to count time in 10,000-year jumps to notice much change.

A plague of locusts is infesting the land of Egypt once more.

Thousands of years ago the locusts had established themselves, in this same Egypt, as one of nature's most deadly weapons. As unaccountable and uncontrollable as floods or tornado, they could swoop down on a green countryside, turn it to a barren waste and then vanish, leaving famine and destruction behind.

We think of them as belonging to Biblical times. But nature changes slowly. She still strikes with the locusts, just as she still strikes with earthquakes and other scourges. Five thousand years from now the people who live in the Nile valley will probably find the situation just the same.

One thing, though, is worth noticing. In ancient Egypt the inhabitants could do nothing before the invading locusts but beat their breasts in lamentation. Today they are fighting back, with considerable effect—and the story of their fight helps one understand the real extent of a locust invasion.

Near a town called El Arish the Egyptions made their most determined stand. They dug a trench a mile long across the locusts' line of advance. Presently a black mass of locusts seven miles long came across the plane. The trench filled with them. Gasoline was poured in and ignited, the charred bodies were thrown out and the trench filled with living locusts again, to be set afire once more. Flame throwers like those used in the world war were called into service.

Finally the advance was repulsed. A bit of ground two miles square was covered with dead locusts—black with them. In places they lay four inches deep.

Thus, while the plague is the same now as it was in the days of the Pharaohs, mankind's method of replying to it has improved immeasurably. And it is just as well that this is so. There is something about one of these tremendous onslaughts of millions upon millions of insects that is extremely disquieting.

There have been scientists who have wondered whether men or insects would ultimately inherit the earth. Men have brains and weapons to fight with, but the insect world has a fecundity that can triumph over almost any sort of opposition. Trying to obliterate a tribe of insects is like trying to behead the Hydra.

However, a man's chances in this war are a trifle better than they used to be. The mosquito, for instance, has been completely routed at Panama. And now Egypt seems to be finding how to deal with the locusts. The stricken peasants of Moses' day had no flame throwers or gasoline-soaked trenches to combat their invaders with.

Ohio Prison Riot

ALTHOUGH reports from the Ohio penitentiary continue to be somewhat vague and contradictory, one thing seems rather obvious: there has been, somewhere, a dreadful amount of bungling and inefficiency there at Columbus.

The prison itself was fearfully over-crowded and sadly out of date, of course. And the fire in itself was enough to upset the routine of the most carefully-run institution. Those things, to be sure, go without saying.

Yet the amazing fact remains that a solid week after the last dead body had been carried out of the prison, discipline was still broken down. More than 1,200 convicts were still utterly defiant. The state's most dangerous and desperate wards were still telling the state where to get off—and were getting away with it.

Somewhere, surely, leadership and executive ability met a test that was just a trifle too much for them. It is hard to see how any other interpretation can be put on the facts.

Where Wives Have to Obey

TO REALIZE how thoroughly American women have won their freedom from the binding customs and laws of the past you have only to read what happened in Paris recently.

Nelson Morris, Chicago packing magnate, was married to one Jane Aubert. He had a divorce action pending against her; while it was pending, she got an engagement as a dancer on the stage of the Palace theater. Morris promptly filed suit against the theater.

The other day the court handed down a decision in his favor. The theater was ordered to pay him 50,000 francs damages, on the ground that it could not legally employ his wife when he had forbidden her to appear on the stage.

In France, evidently, the wife is legally bound to obey her husband. While in America—

A Road to the Future

YOU MIGHT just keep your eye on the California motor caravan that is touring south through Mexico, attempting to blaze an auto highway from British Columbia to Buenos Aires.

That highway, so far, exists chiefly on paper. There are enormous gaps in it, and it will cost millions to fill them. But they will be filled eventually, and the completed highway will be a tremendously important thing for everybody concerned.

Some day, beyond doubt, you yourself will be making that trip in your own car—you and thousands of your fellow citizens. You will get a magnificent outing, and the Latin nations through which you tour will get a new prosperity and a new understanding of this country. Everybody concerned will be benefited greatly.

As Per Fannie Brice's Request

Love is a shawl of rich and vivid lace,
Made from the stuff of dreams that strangely fade;
There is a first caress to form the base.
Slowly it grows, for shawls are slowly made;

There is a knot for each remembered kiss,
Placed as a memory of tender hours,
Always the shawl of love must grow like this—
Sweet and mysterious as morning flowers.

Wear it a while for all the world to see,
Revel in all its soft persuasive lure,
And at the proper time, all tenderly,
Lay it away—for love is never sure;

Lay it away—and if perchance you do—
Love may begin another shawl for you! —DON WAHN.

Bravo!

It is a stale accusation that dramatic critics go into a huddle and talk over the new plays during the intermission and thus arrive at an opinion. The Guild's "Hotel Universe" production which runs for two hours without an intermission, was received with divided verdicts, half of the reviewers praising it highly and the others scorning it. The Guild advertised the next day, adding: "There appears to be a difference of opinion."

Most amusing, however, is the N. Y. Amusement Guide's observation concerning the Guild's advertisement. In this manner: "S'funny that those widely diverted opinions occur over a play that has no intermission or chance for conclave."

Irony

One of the swelegantly appointed hot-spots in the 50s is a replica of Stanford White's mirror room in the old Madison Square Garden apartments. The hot-spot is operated by Jack Clifford, who married Evelyn Nesbit long after Miss Nesbit divorced Harry K. Thaw, who killed Stanford White for paying ardent attention to Evelyn.

The hot-spot's best customer is Harry K. Thaw.

Pun My Soul!

Ruth Etting can make up a sentence containing the word sensuous like this: "How long sensuous kissed, kiddo?"

A Wisey

It was Lester Semel's eavesdropping that brought it here. He testifies to the fact that Beatrice Lillie is as swift on the snippy comeback off stage as she is on. A pest approached her at a party and said: "My dear, I spent six dollars to see you in your last show."

"Pul-leez" flipped La Lillie as she gave that indefinable toss of her head, "refunds are made at the box-office, not here!"

Breaking the Spell

Among other romantic ditties last season and the season before was "I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby." The delightful song hit was in the "Blackbirds" revue. Ada Ward helped make it famous.

Ada, who was so romantic and whose songs put you in the same mood, became a bride in February, we have just learned. She became the wife of a chap named Anderson Gilmer.

He's an embalmer!

It Could Happen

Counsellor Fred Kaplan Matthews offers the one about the darky from Alabama who decided to get himself educated, and thus fool the politicians who disfranchised colored voters. When he was questioned for the literacy test he proudly chirped: "I'se been educated plenty, ax me anything?"

"Do you know the Constitution of these United States?" he was sternly asked.

"Yes, indeedy!" he beamed.

"Do you know the name of the tenth president?"

"Yes, siree!" he replied with great satisfaction.

"Well then," was the next query, "do you know what habeas corpus means?"

"Hmmmmmm," hmmmm'd the stumped licorice stick. "Ah shuah does. It means that this heah black boy cain't vote in Alabamy!"

Hmmm, Somfun!

The biggest scandal, it appears, doesn't concern the socially registered or the stage and screen celebs or the Broadway night-loafers. And more amazing is that the N. Y. Times, the most conservative of all newspapers, scooped down on the naughtiest story.

For, according to the Tuesday Times of April 22, a headline reads:

79,111 Women Housed
In Y. M. C. A. in Year

Tee-hee.

Merciless Truths

By Elizabeth Webb Russell: You should tell your wife everything you are sure she'll find out. . . . Someone has kindly suggested twenty ways to make a million. It would be swell if he would suggest a million ways to make a twenty. . . . She was only a garbageman's daughter, but she sure knew all the dumps. . . . Some girls are so numb they do not know whether "lettuce" is something to eat, or a proposition. . . . One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives, but it has its suspicions.

Oop!

Ring Lardner, who once telegraphed his regrets that he couldn't attend a dinner because it was the children's night out and he had to stay home with the nurse, offered this alibi in dodging another affair:

In response to an invitation to a press agent's dinner Lardner wired: "I wish I could make it but I cannot and it is a matter of real regret, as I have always yearned to be at a banquet where most of the speeches were in a foreign tongue."

The Art of Love

By Philip R. Davis: "Never tell a woman you love her when a kiss will do as well."

That's Awl There Is, Etc.

"Dear Peck's Blab Boy," affectionally special deliveries Mrs. Martin J. Wagner, "to ease your mind a little on your controversy with Ethel Barrymore I am writing to remind you that you had it coming to you, young man. Is it any wonder that she says you dramatic critics ought to be shot after you wrote sometime ago in one of your gossip departments that her new 'heart' was a rich young society chap of Pittsburgh?"

But what has that to do with dramatic criticism?

CARESSE ⚜ A Complete Novel By RUTH TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS

Caresse O'Neill, daughter of the owner of Shady Lawn Inn in the village of Riverton, is jilted by her sweetheart, Ted Branard, son of the town's wealthy banker, on the day of the wedding. Caresse insists on continuing the party which had been arranged in her honor, and telephones Billy, a New York friend, to come down and bring two other friends as escorts for Miriam Nowell and Bess Parker, her best friends. They later go to a nearby roadhouse.

A few weeks later Caresse and friends are riding on a lonely road when the car gives out of gas near the old Morton place, which they believe abandoned. They go to the house, find a lighted lamp and a grand piano, and start dancing. Suddenly the door opens and the owner, Lee Deering, enters, to confront them.

Caresse's friends slip out of the house while she tries to explain their presence to Deering, and Caresse accepts his invitation to muffins and coffee before she returns home.

Deering becomes a boarder at Shady Lawn Inn and his friendship with Caresse develops rapidly. Teddy Branard returns suddenly, and calls on Caresse. She forces him to take her to a local roadhouse as a blow at Ted's father.

The elder Branard promises Ted a new boat if he will forget Caresse, then offers Mrs. O'Neill $50,000 for the inn on condition she leave Riverton. The offer is refused.

At a birthday party for Caresse the next night, the village constable appears and informs them a complaint has been signed against them for disturbing the peace.

In court the next day the case is dismissed for lack of prosecution, Teddy forcing his father to drop the matter on the threat to "tell the truth" about the whole affair and the persecution of the O'Neills.

Caresse and Teddy elope, but the car crashes into a wall when Teddy, drunk, loses control.

CHAPTER VIII

How pale she was! How pure she looked as she lay there with one white hand dangling down with its pink tinted finger ends almost touching the floor!

She did not look as if—— But the doctor had said—— There was all the evidence——

Lee bent down and lifted Caresse's hand and laid it beside her. He shrunk back with disgust as the whisky aroma that pervaded her rose to his nostrils. It was true!

Caresse moaned longer than she had before. Her eyes opened slowly. They were bewildered eyes, eyes not yet clear from the fog of unconsciousness that had swept down on her at the moment of the accident. But to Lee Deering, with the information he thought he possessed, those slowly opening eyes held a drunken leer.

She spoke weakly, wanderingly. "Where—what—where am——"

Her voice trailed off.

"Alive," said Lee, curtly. "If that's of any consequence."

She dropped back into her coma for a moment, and Lee believed it further evidence of her drink-befogged condition. He must wake her up.

"Can't have her around like that much longer," he told himself, disgustedly. "Got to get her home."

He thought of calling Caresse's mother to come and get her. Then he recalled how kind Mrs. O'Neill had been to him. He knew it would hurt her to have him do that. No, he would take Caresse home himself.

He poured out some of the aromatic spirits of ammonia the ambulance surgeon had left, added water and held the glass to her lips.

"Here," he said, not too kindly. "Drink this. Maybe it will help you come out of it."

He lifted the girl's head and helped her as she obediently swallowed the potion. In a few moments her eyes opened again, and they were clearer, held more of sanity.

Lee nodded, approvingly.

"It did do some good," he commented, but even Caresse's slowly wakening senses saw that he did not smile. His lips were drawn tight, hard.

Full consciousness came to Caresse. She made an effort to sit up.

"Lee!" she exclaimed. "How—how did I get here? The accident! Teddy! Where is he? O-o-o-o-h!"

"Not so lucky as you; your Teddy's gone off to the hospital," informed Lee. "Feeling better?"

"I—I don't know. I—Lee!" She saw his face and his expression terrified her. "Oh, Lee what is it? If you only knew——"

"I know enough."

"But I didn't mean to—I wasn't going to—honestly——"

"What did you do it for, then?"

"But I tell you I didn't mean——"

Her voice rose to a wail. She was trying to convince Lee Deering of her innocence of something, but apparently he did not want to be convinced. Or would not be.

"You meant to do enough to bring a lot of sorrow to that fine mother of yours," he told her, sternly, "or you wouldn't have done it. I wouldn't have thought it of you, Caresse."

"But you don't understand. I was going to—I mean I was not going to——"

"You think I don't understand?"

There were talking at cross purposes. Caresse thought Lee had discovered about her elopement, and she was trying to tell him about her change of heart and intention. Lee, on the other hand, believed she was making an effort either to condone herself, or to excuse herself for having been drinking. That, in his opinion, she could not do.

He averted his eyes from her, as he spoke.

"As soon as you're feeling up to it," he said "I'll get the car and take you home. You've been out late enough, and it's time you began to think of your mother's feelings."

His manner was so strange, so cold, Caresse could not understand it. But it brought all her pride to her aid. She sat up, calling to her aid all her reserve force.

"I'm ready to go now!" she announced. "I don't want to force myself on anyone who doesn't want me. It's quite plain, Lee, that you are anxious to get me out of here. And I'm anxious to go!" she added, defiantly, though there was a hurt in her heart at the attitude her friend had taken toward her.

Why wouldn't Lee understand that she meant no wrong—that she had a reason to do as she had? He wouldn't even let her explain. Resentment took the place of other feelings as she saw the way he looked at her. It was—it was—almost as if he hated her!

Could she have known, she had almost probed Lee Deering's feelings. He was not altogether sure, at that moment, whether it was, in fact, Caresse herself he hated, or the thing she had done.

"All right," he nodded. "I'm ready any time. I'll come in after you when I bring the car around."

"Don't bother," shrugged Caresse. "I can make it myself. Sorry to trouble you. Couldn't you call a taxi?"

"I'll take you to your mother," bit off Deering, and strode out the door.

Caresse sank back on the couch, tired, aching. She felt the shock of the accident all through her, but it was her mind that was troubling her most. To what had her idea of getting even with Cyrus Branard brought her? Teddy, drunk— And now, maybe, he was dying in the hospital. Lee Deering had not even told her how badly Teddy was hurt.

Then swept back her own indignation against Ted. And now—Lee! Lee, her friend, had turned against her. She did wish Fate had arranged it that she might have been brought some place else than to Lee Deering's house.

She heard the car outside, and lifted herself painfully, first to a sitting posture, then to her feet. She tottered as the blood flew to her head, but she set her teeth and willed that she would not fall. She would not show any more weakness before Lee Deering.

When he came in after her, she summoned spirit to shake off the arm he held out to help her.

"Don't be a little idiot," said Lee, testily, and he picked her up bodily and carried her out to the car.

There was little feeling of comfort, and no snuggling in Lee's little car during that ride. Lee was glum, and he sent the machine humming over the road.

"In an awful hurry to get rid of me," thought Caresse, hurt and resentful. "I haven't done anything to him."

Aloud she said:

"Why the great rush, Lee? I'm not anxious for two smash-ups in one night."

"You're in no danger," he snapped. "I'm sober, and in my right mind."

"So am I, and what I'd like to know—"

"Yes?"

Something in his intonation made Caresse snap her lips, too. Tears stung her eyes, but she decided she would make no further attempt at conversation. If he wanted to act that way to her just because she had been intending, once more, to marry Ted Branard, why—

What busines was it of his, anyway? He didn't care anything about her himself, nor did she care about him. All the same it hurt that he, who had been such a good, cheerful pal, should turn against her.

There were no words between them until they drew up before the gate of the inn.

"You needn't bother to get out," said Caresse, coldly. "I can make it alone."

"Think so?"

Lee laughed shortly, but paid no attention to her. He leaped from the car and lifted her out, helping her to the front door.

Caresse made one last effort to clear the atmosphere.

"If I could explain, Lee," she began.

"I think you'll have enough of that to do to your mother, Caresse. You're all right? You can get in? Good night, then."

Tears filled Caresses' eyes, and dropped frankly down her white cheeks as she saw Lee drive away without a backward glance. She was so done in, physically, she was hardly able to cope with this. Lee had hurt her, and she could not understand why. It only added to her misery.

She forced back the tears, though, as she turned to the door and opened it softly. She did not want to see mother tonight. She would feel more up to it tomorrow. But she meant to tell her everything.

"I won't let him worry me!" she whispered to herself, as she closed the door. "I won't! I have enough to think about."

So did Lee Deering.

He did not drive straight home after he left Caresse. Instead, he turned at the cross roads and went down toward the Long Hill road with its clear driving stretch. He wanted space and the feeling of motion in which to do his thinking.

To say he was disappointed would be putting it mildly. He did not think he was hurt.

He thought himself merely disgusted. But he was hurt. An ideal had fallen that night, and to one of Lee's temperament, prone to worship ideals, it was a hard blow.

The jazz girl, in all her moods, actions and ramifications, was anathema to Lee Deering. He felt he had spent a good part of his last few years running away from them.

One girl of the jazz sort like Caresse had all but ruined his life. Or so he quite believed. He thought of that girl—her name was Edythe Leigh—as well as of Caresse as he bowled along through the night and felt the cool sweet air on his face.

Once he had thought Edythe of the languorous dark eyes, and the tantalizing, soft white skin and willowy body was all that the gods had given to man. He had believed that heaven itself had given her to him. For Edythe had told him she was his. He had been in a seventh heaven of delight for the few weeks during which he had believed in her. He had worked at fever heat with the idea of gaining fame and fortune to lay at the feet of his goddess.

The awakening had come, sharp and sudden. He had discovered what others had known all the time—that, instead of being the bit of feminine perfection he had believed her, Edythe's feet were not only of clay, but very miry, repulsive clay.

Edythe, in fact, was the exemplification of the modern jazz girl. Her components were many, and she made no slightest effort to discriminate in her favors.

Lee Deering shuddered as he remembered how he had felt the night he had learned that Edythe thought nothing whatever of kissing any man to whom she took a fancy. And Lee had been awed when she had allowed him to kiss her!

Nor was that all. It did not take much investigation, once his suspicions were aroused, to discover that Edythe Leigh had a reputation as a drinker with which few men could vie. That had been the finish.

He remembered how she had tried to coax him.

"No, Edythe," he had told her, firmly. "This is the end. I'm through with women. My work will be all now."

She had tried to cling to him. He remembered that her breath had smelled like that odor arising from Caresse on his couch as he had put her aside. He had meant what he said. He was through.

Because of Edythe Leigh, Lee Deering had put New York and all it meant for him behind him. He had come out to the lonely place on the Riverton hillside to work. He had meant it when he had said he wanted nothing but his work. He meant never to be interested in women again. Certainly not to fall in love with one.

He had not fallen in love with Caresse O'Neill. He was sure of that. But it had been such a relief, after his eye-opening experience in New York, to believe he had found in the world one girl who was clean, and pure and fine—who would not drink or lend herself to any of the questionable practices that so many girls made a habit.

In Caresse, he believed he had found such a girl. His friendship with her had become one of his reasons for living. Now that, too, was shattered. He could not believe in Caresse any more. Chance had shown him that she was no different in any way from one whom he knew so well, Edythe Leigh.

Of course, the two girls had acted differently. Edythe had laughed at him; called him a granny. Caresse had cried—or almost cried. The tears in her eyes had not escaped Lee Deering, even if they had not perceptibly affected him.

The two girls were of the same mould, he thought, as he turned his car homeward. He was tired, worn out with his own thoughts and emotions.

"Just another little fool like Edythe Leigh," he summed up Caresse, as he put up his car and plodded to his rest, his shoulders sagging. "Ho-hum! Serves me right, I suppose, for being soft enough to be taken in so easily."

FOUR WOUNDED IN BANK RAID

Two Bandits May Die And Third Wounded

DAYTON, Ohio, May 6. (AP)—Two of a trio of bank robbers were wounded, probably fatally, today by two police guards during an attempted robbery of the Xenia avenue branch of the Union Trust company here. A third bandit was wounded and a small girl passer-by was shot by a stray bullet.

Police said one of the critically wounded men was James Royal of St. Louis, Mo. The two robbers were struck by a score of bullets from repeating rifles in the hands of police guards.

Details of police were rushed to the scene to aid in capturing the third member who escaped. Police said the man had been hit.

The guards reported to police headquarters that the robbers entered the bank, displayed weapons and demanded money. The guards said they were hidden from view of the robbers, and as the trio stepped up to the cashier's cage the repeating rifles were turned on them.

Bank officials obtained the police guards last April 4 after the Xenia avenue branch was robbed of $33,000 by five bandits armed with machine guns.

CONOCO'S CHALLENGE CONFIRMED!

on America's Greatest Motor Proving Ground

PIKE'S PEAK!

Now it can be told... the true story of motor oil merit! For this was a test of America's representative motor oils in competition! A daring thing for CONOCO to do, done in confidence. Confidence based on the now-proven advantages of Germ-Processed oils... These tests brought out facts about motor oils which should affect the pocketbook of every motorist . . . Facts which we believe should force a swinging to Germ-Processed Motor Oils by every reader of our message.

Three Other Popular Oils Were Tried . . . Side By Side With CONOCO Germ-Processed

Other oils often have been "tested" on speedways, in cross-country dashes, and over the ocean. But they were "tested" only against operating conditions! CONOCO'S Germ-Processed oil was proven against operating conditions, and in comparison with other oils as well!

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

All performance claims herewith made are based on a Certificate of Performance issued by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association

No. 2860

The CONOCO Germ-Processed oil proved its superiority in the Pike's Peak Tests and with such finality, that now all motorists will know the facts . . know how the wearing grinds up to the top of Pike's Peak and down again, up and down again, and again, showed each oil in its true colors . . . and how the Germ-Processed film so defied the clawing talons of friction that test thermometers showed lessened water and oil temperatures, to the amazement of disinterested engineers!

Motor Parts Were Measured After Each Oil Was Tried . . .

Cylinders were measured with a micrometer, at top and bottom, pistons likewise, and the cylinder taper accurately recorded, after each oil was tested. These measurements were accurate to one ten-thousandths of an inch. This is what the reports of the test developed. Comparing the wear with the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed oils against average wear with the other oils, showed a decrease in wear in favor of CONOCO Germ-Processed oils of 76.4%.

Pike's Peak Tests Conducted Under AAA Supervision . .

American Automobile Association observers purchased all oils used in the open market, placed them in separate containers, marked them with a code letter, and locked them up. All crankcase fillings were made by AAA observers who then sealed the inlets and outlets of each motor. All gasoline allotments, every temperature reading, every micrometer measurement, every test was checked by an AAA observer. During every moment of the test, an AAA observer was riding in each car. The records of this test were initialed by an AAA observer as each entry of fact was made, and will be shown to any person on request to the company.

CONOCO'S Superiority Was Proven Under AAA Supervision

Lubricity means slipperiness, smoothness, and lower co-efficient of friction, as compared to another oil. The Extra Lubricity of CONOCO'S Germ-Processed oils is due to its amazing ability to penetrate metal surfaces! Thus, we believe Germ-Processed oil brings a lubricity, a minimum of friction to your motor because it becomes a part of the motor metal.

CONOCO gives you facts . . . The Pike's Peak Tests reveal that your automobile motor can last longer . . . that your operating expenses can be lowered! Will you drive in today, at the Sign of the Red Triangle?

INDIA'S REVOLT TURNS WARLIKE

Outbreak Result in State of Martial Law

BOMBAY, India, May 6. (AP)—An almost endless list of outbreaks today marked the turning of the imprisoned Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of civil disobedience from peaceful into warlike progress.

Bloodshed occurred in a dozen cities where hostile actions of the "Holy One's" followers were met with armed forces. The home and Indian governments strengthened the hands of local police authorities with trooped and armored cars.

Outstanding among the day's disorders was a clash at Delhi in which two natives were killed and 50 or more seriously wounded. A half mile procession of Gandhi's devotees filed into the city's principal thoroughfare, Chandi Chowk, refusing to disperse.

With this group the authorities grappled for several hours, finally being forced to seek the aid of cavalry troops, who emerged this afternoon in control of the situation.

Following the Delhi disturbances the police proclaimed a state of martial law, forbidding the gathering of more than five persons. Enforcement of this statute throughout India would necessitate mobilization of every available troop both European and native.

Meanwhile the central figure in this turbulent picture remained remote from strife within the encircling walls of the Poona jail, where according to latest information, he was well and cheerful.

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—The senate campaign funds committee today prepared for an early trip to Illinois and a personal investigation of charges that the candidates in the recent Republican senatorial primary there spent more money than their reports to the committee showed.

Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, who won the nomination, told the committee that her expenditures totaled $252,500, all her own money, and Senator Deneen, her defeated rival, reported expenditures of $24,000.

The committee, however, has received charges that more than these amounts were expended.

BIG TORTOISES DEFY HUMANS

Weird Creatures Found on Galapagos Islands

NEW YORK, May 6. (US)—On the Island of Indefatigable, in the Galapagos archipelago, slow and gigantic tortoises are crawling today unmindful of their less fortunate brethren now in the New York aquarium.

It was the only regret of Commodore Vincent Astor and his expedition when they returned from the Galapagos islands that these enormous creatures, weighing almost as much as a man, were too heavy to be kidnaped.

But there were plenty of other living things on the Astor yacht, Nourmahal, to console them. There were land and marine iguanas, one-foot penguins, strange flightless cormorants, boobies, forked-tail gulls, 50-pound tortoises, and young sea lions.

The Nourmahal, which is more like a small passenger liner than a yacht, docked at pier 1, North river, close to Battery park. Commodore Astor and his companions went home, while the crates of marine life were transferred to the aquarium.

The party was at the Galapagos islands, which are off the west coast of South America, a month. They spent most of that time in trying to reach the unexplored interior of Indefatigable island and picking up the strange birds, plants and reptiles in their path.

Six tortoises, weighing from 40 to 60 pounds, were taken into captivity. Known as testudo porteri, these creatures were thought by scientists to have been long extinct. They have little relationship with the huge sea turtles on the shores of the Galapagos.

When the party returned to the yacht the scientists examined each specimen of the collection carefully and what was not new was thrown into the water.

Two hundred specimens of live fishes, believed to be the largest number to survive a long haul, were in the tanks of the yacht when she arrived in New York.

Educator Finds What Makes Us Lead or Follow

NEW YORK, May 6. (US)—Here's bad news for fat girls—and for thin girls, too!

Dr. George C. Bellingrath of Teachers college, Columbia university, completed a study today in which he found that high school girls who are too fat, too thin, too tall or too short, can never become leaders of their classes.

The leadership doesn't apply to studies, however. What Dr. Bellingrath wanted to discover was:

"What makes boys and girls who are presidents of their classes different from boys and girls who never become leaders?"

Here is what he found:

A boy can be a leader among his classmates whether he is fat, whether he is tall or short, and despite poor or good marks in studies. A boy can be a leader whether his family is rich or poor, whether socially prominent or otherwise. But with girls it's another story.

Girls in high school who wish to attain leadership must be of average height and weight, must have good school marks and good school habits, and come from a family that is socially prominent and economically well-to-do.

Of the women of the Irish Free State between the ages of 30 and 35, over 40 per cent are unmarried.

14 Women in Jail for Bootlegging Need Bridge Couple

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, May 6. (INS)—Because there were not two more women bootleggers in jail at Dubuque there is no fourth table bridge game in progress there today among the female prisoners.

Federal court attaches returning from Dubuque related today that the 14 women prisoners petitioned Judge George C. Scott to commit two additional women in order that their fourth table of bridge might be complete.

There were no others of their sex to be tried on liquor charges so the women had to get along with three tables.

COURT SETS DRAINAGE PLEA

Hearing on Lake Wichita Petition Monday

A hearing on the formation of the proposed drainage district in the area northeast of Lake Wichita where property has been considerably damaged through seepage from the lake, was set for next Monday at the weekly meeting of the county commissioners court Tuesday. This week's meeting was postponed from Monday due to the absence of Judge John P. Marrs and several commisioners.

The proposed drainage system will be for the purpose of reclamation and conservation, the commissioners explained. Formation of the drainage district was asked some time ago in a petition signed by the property owners in the area.

The court received the April reports of the treasurer and the drainage district from Tom McHam, county treasurer; and those of O. L. Gibbs and R. V. Gwinn, justices of the peace here, J. B. Shannon, justice of the peace at Iowa Park and W. H. Coffman, justice for the Electra precinct.

The commissioners approved the appointment of P. L. McDonald as deputy constable by O. E. Whisnant, constable for the Electra precinct. Permits for laying gas and water lines were granted to C. C. Haralson and Clyde Irby in precinct No. 2 (Burkburnett). The remainder of the court session was occupied in charity hearings.

Court Injunction Halts Destruction Of Driveway Owned by Neighbors

Controversy over the destruction of a joint paved driveway between adjoining houses here Tuesday resulted in the filing of an injunction against Leonard D. Townsend by W. G. Bentley to prevent the former from tearing down the concrete which gives Bentley access to his garage at the rear of his home, 1504 Thirteenth street.

The order to stop the work of tearing out the concrete, which was begun Tuesday morning, was issued at once by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court. Citations were served on the workmen and they were forced to level off the portion of the drive they had removed so that Bentley could drive his car into his garage.

It was explained the drive had been laid when the houses were built during the boom days here and that the original owners had agreed not to remove the drive without joint consent, since it lay on the propery of both owners. The property was later sold with this agreement. Mr. Bentley claims, but Mr. Townsend now desires to sell the property and the prospective buyer desires a private drive, necessitating removal of the joint drive.

Little Theater Gives Brilliant Performance of Famous War Drama

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

Lulu Vollmer's three-act play, "Sun-Up," won the state Little Theater tournament at Fort Worth about 10 days ago as the Waco entry. Just why this remarkable story of the North Carolina hill-folk won that decision was demonstrated with great clarity at the Wichita Falls Little Theater Tuesday night, when a small opening-night crowd sat in almost breathless silence through an excellent performance.

The play with which the local Little Theater is closing its 1929-30 season rated among the foremost post-war dramas of a few years back. Because of its unusual strength, and because of its far departure in style from any play done here in recent years, it will prove during this week's showing one of the most gripping and effective pieces produced by the Little Theater.

Only one element in "Sun-Up" justifies momentary postponement of a paeon of praise for Miss Margaret Tanner's "Widow Cagle." This element is the consistently retarded tempo of the entire play in all its phases. Reflecting with impressive honesty the eastern mountaineer's stoical simplicity, the characters in Tuesday night's performance not only succeeded in speaking rarely and slowly, but created an atmosphere of calm quiet which obviously encompassed their audience. That interest was maintained at high tension through intervals of silence which amounted sometimes almost to minutes, and through dialog whose speeches had been wrung dry of feeling, constitutes a glowing tribute to the excellence of the presentation.

Then back to Miss Tanner, who for these four days certainly is "Widow Cagle." Those who saw a revealing portrayal of an austere society matron, contributed by Miss Tanner in "Men Are Like That," are in some measure prepared for the dominating, silent but unquenchable soul of the Mrs. Cagle which Miss Tanner creates for "Sun-Up." Her performance does not stand by itself, as a diamond set in platinum does not stand alone in its own brilliance. But as intended by the author, the spirit of old lady Cagle pervades the entire atmosphere of the play with a growing majesty of character born only of simple virtues untarnished by "larnin'." The entrancing tale of hill-life moves as slowly, but as surely and inevitably, as the mind of the stern widow.

Nor may the only role taken during the year by F. C. McClung, director, be overlooked. Carrying the part of old Pap Todd, devotee of the old fashioned jug, Mr. McClung found his best opportunity in the first act. His propensity for recounting, revealing, and otherwise detailing his own wounds sustained in a remote struggle with "the Yankees" furnishes one of the brightest of many humorous moments. He also demonstrated aptly just how much of art may be introduced into so simple an act as becoming seated on a crude kitchen stool.

The robust figure and voice of Arnold Cureton find in the role of Sheriff Jim Weeks, a part for which they, presumably, were cast. It is his best performance to date, by far, and is more than adequate for the purposes of "Sun-Up." Lesser but equally important impersonations which were carried with almost no detraction from the prevailing "Cagle" atmosphere, were given by Miss Jennie Louise Hindman, Bryan Lovelace, Ernest Robertson, Raymond Strong and Walter Friberg. If any slight change in characterization might be suggested to afford more complete atmospheric harmony with Miss Tanner's consummate example, it would be that the costuming of Emmy fake more truly after Rufe's mother, rather than yearning noticeably for sophistication.

The most effective sets thus far improvised for the Little Theater are provided for "Sun-Up." Behind the cabin trees reflect with amazing reality the successive seasons from spring to winter. Inside the room, the fireplace, with an old iron pot for victuals; the spinning wheel, a coffee grinder, a real gourd dipper at the water bucket—and a genuine old four-poster bed, created an authentic setting which greatly enhanced the finesse of the entire production.

$50,000 ASKED IN SUIT HERE

Seton A. Barnes Files Claim For Injuries

Damages amounting to more than $50,000 are asked in a suit filed Tuesday against the Southwestern Bell Telephone company by Seton A. Barnes, Wichita Falls oil operator, on a claim growing out of injuries he is alleged to have sustained last January in a highway crash involving an automobile said to have been used by an employe of the telephone company.

The crash occurred on the Fort Worth highway south of Henrietta, the car in which Mr. Barnes was riding colliding with an automobile parked at the side of the road. The injured man was brought to a hospital here with critical injuries which caused physicians to fear for his life, it was said. According to the petition filed here, the parked machine was the private car of an employe of the telephone company but the owner was at work on telephone lines near the highway at the time and therefore was in line of duty. The claim also asks that all expenses incident to the case and the value of Mr. Barnes' automobile, which was practically demolished, be paid by the telephone company.

How to Prepare Greens

All green vegetables should first be put to soak in a large pail of water to which a tablespoonful of salt has been added. This will result in the sinking to the bottom of the grit and dust and will also cause any small insects to become loosened so that they will separate from the vegetables. At the end of the hour lift out the vegetables, wash under running water, throwing away all spoiled or tough parts. Put to cook over a slow fire with very little water in the bottom of the vessel and keep the cover on. Cook until tender then remove the lid and allow the water to evaporate. Serve and season with butter and a small amount of salt.

In using the vegetables raw clean them carefully as in the first part of the recipe which I have just given.

Beet tops make fine greens. Select the young tender beets with large tops and crisp stems. Wash carefully and chop the tops and stems into small pieces. If you desire, the small beets may also be peeled and chopped in with the leaves. Cook and serve with butter. Turnip tops may be prepared in the same manner as beet tops.

Greens and Potato Cakes—Some greens such as spinach and lettuce or spinach and beet tops may be cooked together in one pan. Potatoes are cooked in another. Mash and season the potatoes, mix the chopped greens and the potatoes together, form into cakes and brown in the oven.

Baked Green Loaf—Two cups of chopped spinach or other greens, one cup of melba toast crumbs, one-half cup of chopped walnut meats, two well beaten eggs, one tablespoonful of melted butter. Form into a loaf adding a little milk if needed for molding and bake 30 minutes.

Green Salad with Cottage Cheese—Mix equal quantities of lettuce with some other greens, such as spinach, nasturtium leaves or watercress, and chop together. Dress with a little olive oil and arrange a mound of cottage cheese on top.

Puree of Green Vegetables—Take any green vegetable or mixture of them and cook until tender, then pass through a sieve or colander. Chop and mash the remainder. Combine the whole with some cream, add a little butter and salt.

Spring Salad—On lettuce leaves spread equal parts of chopped spring green vegetables and lettuce. Cover with equal parts of chopped celery mixed with diced beets.

Greens with Cheese en Casserole—Wash the greens thoroughly to remove all grit and chop not too fine. The water that clings after the final washing affords enough moisture for cooking in one of the heavy aluminum pans tightly covered. After about 10 minutes' cooking fill the bottom of a casserole. Add a generous sprinkling of grated cheese. Add more of the greens, another layer of grated cheese and so on until the casserole is filled, covering the top with the grated cheese. Place in the oven until cheese begins to melt, but do not allow it to brown or become tough through actual cooking. Serve hot.

Greens and Rice—Measure a half cupful of rice and wash thoroughly. Let soak in the last water for about an hour, drain and cook until tender in a quart of boiling water. Then put the rice into a colander and rinse under running cold water, which washes away the sticky liquid and also separates the grains of rice. There will be about two cups of cooked rice to which add one cupful of cooked and mashed spinach. Mix thoroughly, put into a casserole and bake for 20 minutes. Remove cover and place under flame until slightly crisped on top. Serve each portion with a lump of butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Choking

Question—H. D. writes: "To settle an argument—is it possible to choke to death on one drop of water? In what part of the throat would it have to be lodged to do this? Can a person choke to death on a small fish bone not quite one inch in length?"

Answer—It would not be possible to choke to death on a drop of water. It might be possible to severely choke on a small fish bone which had become wedged crosswise.

Cream and Kidneys

Question: Mrs. T. R. asks:—"Will you please advise if cream is bad for the kidneys?"

Answer—Cream has no particular effect upon the kidneys.

Ice Cream

Question: Mrs. W. R. writes—"When I eat ice cream red blotches appear on my face. What is the cause of that?"

Answer—It may be that you have a sensitiveness against ice cream. This is generally caused by a condition of acidosis and can be corrected by an orange juice fast for about a week followed by a diet rich in alkaline mineral elements.

Darwin's Ear

Question: M. J. H. asks—"Can you tell me what is Darwin's ear, and what does it signify?"

Answer—Darwin's ear simply means that the ear has an eminence or point on the outer part of the top of the ear. It has no particular significance but is supposed to be an evolutionary throwback.

SPUDDER CLUB REDUCED TO 18 MEN BEFORE TAKING ROAD

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

While storms were sweeping o'er the land Tuesday, and a wind blowing that would make a home run out of a grounder through short, a person of long residence here assured us that we need fear no cyclones, tornadoes, etc. "There has never been such a thing in Wichita Falls," said this person. "The legend has it that the Indians who selected this spot as their home were guided by some sort of ghostly instinct that assured them no such calamity would befall this spot."

Well, as this sentence is being written, a cyclone hasn't appeared. By the time the reader is perusing it we admit that the town may be wiped off the earth, for we frankly don't trust anything pertaining to the supernatural. Nevertheless as we type we are fervently hoping that those derned Injuns were right!

This department is about to reveal some press box secrets, namely, some of the dark and hidden bits of humor that tend to make life tolerable for sports scribes esconced in the eminence above Athletic park while the Spudders slay their foes beneath. Or get slayed, as the case may be.

To be sure, it may be heresy and treason to admit that now and then sports scribes tire of watching the fracas going on below, but such nevertheless is true and let the inquisition come when it may. However this is usually true only on Sundays, when the scribes have visions of a good fishin' hole, or maybe a comfortable lounge and a book of more or less repute. And as if sent from above, the scribes are provided their before-mentioned secret diversion only on Sundays.

It being a sandlot ball game that each Sunday is played on the weedy acreage just to the north of Athletic park, and which is visible only from the press box. If things are lagging on the Spudder lot and neither the Spudders nor their foes are offering thrills of any kind, all one has to do is lift one's eyes to the nearby sandlot, where the bases are always full, home runs knocked every two seconds, and where the players are so weary from running the bases they can scarcely play their positions when at last they make three outs and are forced to the field.

Last Sunday's game offered one of the most enjoyable spectacles so far. One of the teams had a pitcher who was a scream. His delivery was preceded by most remarkable movements of the body. First he crouched like a sabre-toothed tiger ready for a spring. Then he whirled around, facing second base. Then he rocked to and fro three times and suddenly whirled out of this contortion and threw the ball to the batter.

As the Spudders were walking away with the San Antonio Indians below us, this odd pitcher kept the scribes rolling to and fro in laughter. Furthermore, the game ended in a riot and provided another laugh. Probably it was an argument over an umpire's decision. Anyway players and spectators suddenly crowded onto the field and there were many gesticulating fists to be seen, though from our perch we could not tell whether blood was flowing or notice any broken noses. But it was undoubtedly a disagreement of some sort. If the umpire was the victim, he must have emerged minus a part or parts of his anatomy. Indeed, sandlot umpires stand to lose life and limb when they take the field. A quick eye and accurate judgment give them their continued lease on life. A fault means a mobbing, or probably a lynching. In such a situation he must undoubtedly be a pretty good ump, to say nothing of his bravery in following such a calling on the sandlots. Now and then, of course, he commits the unforgivable sin of calling a base runner out stealing second, and he is forthwith attacked, as he probably was in Sunday's game. But more than likely he is cautious and manages to preserve his life. Viewing the precarious existence of these sandlot arbiters, we realize what a soft life professional umps lead, with league rulings that forbid the players even to talk back.

The early Buddhists, a learned modern theologian tell us, believed there were scores of heavens and hells to which souls ascended, or descended, according to their worth or ignominy. A soul deemed preeminently good, went to the most alluring heaven, and a soul utterly damned went to the worst of all hells, and so on. One of the lesser hells, the theologian tells us, was Vetarani, where "loafers who went fishing were plunged into a river of bitter water."

What a blessing is modern, enlightened theology, which does not deem fishing a sin!

GALERIA, NEBEL FARMED OUT

Squad Opens 21-Game Series of Road Tilts Today

The reduction of the Wichita Falls baseball club to 18 men, in accordance with the league ruling which goes into effect 30 days after the opening of the season, was announced by President William E. Huff Tuesday afternoon shortly before the Spudders embarked on an extensive road trip, the afternoon game with the Fort Worth Panthers having been called off on account of wet grounds.

Galeria, Nebel Leave

The reduction of the Spudder club to the required number was effected by the release on option of Chick Galeria, southpaw hurler, to the Pine Bluff club of the Cotton States league, and the release of George Nebel, outfielder, also on option, to the Springfield, Mo., club of the Western association.

Several days ago Roland Flinn, rookie Maine moundsman, and Russell Cromer, also a right-hand hurler, were sent to the Augusta, Ga., club, leaving but two men over the required number on the Spudder roster.

The reduction of the club to 18 men was not required until Friday, the rule specifying that clubs shall be reduced to 18 men for games of that date, but the impending road trip led Mr. Huff to make the reduction early. The Spudder roster as it likely will stand for some time now follows:

Pitchers: Wiltse, Steengrafe, Vincent, White, Caldwell, Florrid and Hillin.

Catchers: Crouch, Bradbury.

Infielders: Burns, Storti, Allday, Levey, Euller.

Outfielders: Fitzgerald, Bettencourt, Kloza, Orr.

Squad Departs

The Spudders embarked at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday for Fort Worth where they were scheduled to take a train Tuesday night for San Antonio, scene of the opening battle of a series of 21 road games.

Fresh from a string of four victories, one over Houston, two over the San Antonio Tribe, and one over the Cats, the Spudders will play the Indians in a three-game engagement beginning today. Then follows two games at Waco, three games at Beaumont, three at Houston, three at Dallas, three at Fort Worth, and four at Shreveport. A postponed game likely also be played in Shreveport, making five games in the home of the Sports, club officials said.

The road trip probably will put to an acid test the Spudders' position in the first division, a position they have successfully retained so far. The league standings this morning are unchanged, the Spudders remaining in the third notch after Shreveport's 3 to 0 shutout of the Dallas Steers, and the 1 to 1 tie Beaumont and Houston played at Houston. The latter game was called at the end of the 10th inning on account of darkness. The game scheduled between the Indians and Cubs at Waco was postponed, like the Spudder game here, on account of wet grounds.

Alcibiades New Derby Favorite

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)—A filly was considered just another entry in the Kentucky Derby until 1915 when Regret came along to revive the prestige of her sex.

Fifteen years have passed since the daughter of Broomstick accomplished the seemingly impossible and Regret's performance has not been repeated. There are devotees of the turf, however, who believe that the 57th running of the Blue Grass classic will tell a different story as 10 smart fillies are eligible.

The majority of those who think a filly will lead the field down the Churchill Downs stretch on May 17, pin their faith on Alcibiades, the fleet miss from Hal Price Headley's farm in Fayette county, Kentucky.

The chestnut daughter of Supremus has been out once this year and although finishing fourth displayed such class that her odds in the future books remained unchanged.

Alcibiades was at her best as a 2-year-old, showing a clean pair of heels to everything she faced in the filly division. Leaving the barrier seven times, she won four races, was second once and went unplaced twice, to earn $17,950.

Near the end of the season, however, she began to falter and went into retirement pounds lighter than in the spring and looking drawn. With a winter's rest she has come back to training with the same grand appearance that marked her debut last spring.

Cochet Will Play Only In Cup Challenge Round

PARIS, May 6. (AP)—Henri Cochet, the world's premier tennis player for 1929, insists that he will confine his court activities for 1930 to the Davis cup challenge round matches.

He has announced and confirmed that he is out of the French international hardcourt championships beginning May 17 and will not defend his Wimbledon title.

"My strict amateur standing is the reason," Cochet told the correspondents. "I must work for a living. I can't afford to spend the entire months of May and June playing tennis at Roland Garros and Wimbledon."

Cochet is known to have been a staunch advocate of the American proposal for open tournaments, matches between amateurs and professionals, which was voted down by the congress of the International Tennis Federation in Paris last March.

Athletic Honors Not English Preference

CAMBRIDGE, England, May 6. (AP)—Cambridge university undergraduates prefer scholastic to athletic honors.

In a debate at the Cambridge union the motion "That this house prefers a double blue to a double first" was thoroughly voted down.

Translated into American the motion would read "That this house prefers two major letters to a Phi Beta Kappa key."

There were more than 160 high school basket ball teams in Montana during the recent season, though the state's population is slightly less than four persons to the square mile.

Four Hurdlers Of West Coast In Big Meets

LOS ANGELES, May 6. (AP)—One of the finest quartets of hurdlers in intercollegiate competition will flash for the University of Southern California in two coming national trackfests.

The meets are the I. C. A. A. A. A. gathering at Boston May 30 and 31 and the national collegiate event at Chicago, June 6 and 7.

Whether it is high or low timbers, the speedsters from the Trojan institution boast a past that smacks of numerous points in these climaxing cinder conventions of the 1930 season. Their future seems almost unbounded, for three of them are sophomores and the fourth a junior. The three sophomores are national champions of one kind or another.

In the high hazards Edward "Jeddy" Welsh, Pasadena, Calif., leads the parade. Although an expert in the lows also, Welsh will stick to the elevated hurdles in the big meets, the event in which he won the National Junior A. A. U. championship last summer with a time of 14.9 seconds. He also placed third in the senior race.

Teamed with him is William Stokes, a national interscholastic champion in both the high and low hurdles in 1928 when he ran for a Baton Rouge, La., high school. He has shaded 15 seconds a number of times and runs the furlong timber chase in 24.3 seconds.

The principal furlong hurdle exponent seems to be Bill Caris, another 1929 junior A. A. U. champion, who has done 24 seconds flat. The San Pedro, Calif., negotiator of low barriers, has been hard pressed to shade his running mate, Earnest Payne, who also has made the 220-yard tourney in 24 flat.

New Shortstops In Vogue in South

ATLANTA, May 6. (AP)—The shortstop position will present more new faces than any other in the Southern league this year.

Seven and possibly eight of the Dixie clubs will offer new hired men at the post between the keystone and hot corners.

Mobile has imported Joe Longnecker from Jacksonville of the Southeastern league, giving Shortstop Don Rutherford and three other players in the deal. At Birmingham, Eddie Taylor will replace Ernie Smith, who went to the White Sox, while Memphis obtained Ray Flaskamper from the Texas league to succeed Charlie Engle, who also graduated to fast company.

Little Rock has a newcomer, Buck Redfern, formerly of the White Sox, and Chattanooga has acquired Bobby Lamotte from Baltimore. A last year's reserve, Montague, has the call at New Orleans to succeed John Burnett, now a Cleveland Indian.

Nashville has Ollie Marquardt, Sparky Adams and Dolly Gilchrist as contenders for the job left by "Shine" Cortazzo, who went to Minneapolis. Jimmy Johnston and Leo Bader are shortfield candidates at Atlanta although Johnny Jones, who had the job in 1929, still is on the Cracker list.

Boxing Gets Big Play At Mississippi A. & M.

STARKVILLE, Miss., May 6. (AP)—The Mississippi A. & M. boxing team, first college fistic team in the state, started the season with a group of inexperienced battlers and no equipment, but made a go of it financially as well as in the ring. All of the Maroon matches drew well.

The Aggies won four, lost four and drew one match to break even for the season.

Boxing teams in Mississippi colleges were made possible when the state legislature passed a bill two years ago, legalizing the sport.

Schmeling, Like Dempsey, Chooses Elegant Life in Hotel Suite

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, May 6.—The suite in the Hotel Commodore occupied by Max Schmeling was a striking reminder of the quarters of Jack Dempsey when the Manassa Man Mauler was in the heyday of his championship career.

The same magnificence with which the ubiquitious Doctor Kearns used to pitch the temporary camps of Dempsey was there—a big parlor and a string of connecting rooms, very costly to inhabit. Waiters constantly moving in and out with pitchers of ice water, and trays of edibles. A dozen great wardrobe trunks scattered around. The telephones ringing in all the different rooms at once.

And in the rooms the corresponding characters that used to infest the premises wherever and whenever the one time heavyweight champion of the world set up his tepee. Some of these characters were indeed the very same. There was Prof. William McCarney, the ol' clo' man of fistiana, for example, all dressed up in his Sunday best, and sauve, and smiling, and gloriously reminiscent, as he lolled in the depths of a big settee.

Even Joe Benjamin, the sheik of the San Joaquin, was there. He had called with his friend Mendel, the golf pants maker, to pay his respects. The California lightweight was a fixture of the Dempsey entourage in the olds days. Of course, the ubiquitious Doctor Kearns was not on hand, but taking his place in the cast was Joe Jacobs, with a huge cigar in his kisser, volubly greeting all comers, and retiring at intervals to the bath room for important conference with some.

This last was a peculiarly Dempseyesque touch. No one was ever able to find privacy in any of the many rooms that Kearns always had at Dempsey's disposal in a hotel. Only the sanctity of the bath room afforded freedom from eavesdroppers. Many an important deal in Dempsey's behalf was consummated in the bath room by Doctor Kerns. 'Twas in the bathroom of your operative's apartment in the Great Falls hotel, in fact, that the conference was held which decided the fate of the Dempsey-Gibbons battle at Shelby.

A little Daschund was rolling around the floor of the Schmeling suite Sunday. He had brought it over from Germany for a newspaper friend. You could kick up a purp somewhere around Dempsey's rooms. A score of newspaper men were talking to the Black Uhlan of the Rhine—or at least they talked to him when he held still for a minute. He was up and down, and back and forth, shaking hands with newcomers, and answering the telephone, or just pacing the carpet with all the erstlessness of the Dempsey of a few years ago.

"My, my!" remarked Joe Benjamin, glancing around at the mob. "It's just like the old days. And how that guy resembles Dempsey before Jack got his beezer lifted! I never saw anything like it. He moves around a room like Dempsey. He's got big hands like Dempsey. Well, if he can only fight as good as Dempsey when Dempsey was his age, I feel sorry for Sharkey."

Tom McArdle, the pudgy matchmaker of Madison Square garden, leaned against a table listening to the chatter. Frank Bruen, general manager of the garden, called early to say hello, and incidentally to ask the Black Uhlan about fighting for the garden corporation next year if Max wins the heavyweight title, a point on which Frank got no satisfaction.

Moke Jacobs peered in for a moment. Herman Black, the baron of Atlantic highlands, sat with a pitcher of water at his elbow, from which he imbibed heavily. Mushky Jackson, the young trainer of gladiators, was acting as a sort of Major Domo, assisting the callers out of their coats, and into them. Schmeling's own trainer, Max Mahon, listened eagerly to the chatter, and said nothing. All day long a string of visitors passed through the rooms. It must have been something of a strain on the Black Uhlan, but he kept smiling cheerfully, and talking volubly in his broken English.

Max has an accent that reeks of the Rhineland, but it is easily understood after you get the hang of it. Moreover, he quickly assimilates conversation addressed to him in English. In fact he talks more English now than he does German, even to his German callers. When a business proposition is put to him in English, he has to revolve it around in his mind awhile, possibly to translate it into German for his own reflection, but for ordinary conversational purposes his English suffices.

He has a world of personality, which is perhaps another way of saying charm. His cordiality is natural. He loves the crowd as Dempsey loves it. He likes the bustle and stir in his hotel camp. Around Sharkey there is a peculiar air of surliness and even hostility. The Black Uhlan has that thing which is so rare in human beings, popular appeal.

He seems very confident he will beat Sharkey, and after Sharkey he would like to fight Dempsey. The vague possibility of Tunney returning to the ring was suggested to him, and Schmeling's eyes brightened. Would he like to fight Tunney? Ach, yes! That would draw a lot of money. The Black Uhlan has an eye to business, you can see that.

He asked many questions about Sharkey's battles with Loughran and Scott. Did he box them, or did he fight them? Obviously Schmeling wants to find out as much as possible about his opponent. He is a bit of a thinker, is the Black Uhlan. He expressed himself as anxious to get started to work for his battle under the auspices of the milk fund on the night of June 12 as quickly as possible. His appearance indicates that he has done some little training already, but he said the most important thing is to become acclimated.

"I never saw the guy fight," commented Joseph Benjamin after he had gotten a good load of the German, "but he acts like a fighter who looks like a fighter. I've seen mighty few champions that didn't look like champions, and this fellow's got it. My, my, how he reminds me of Dempsey!"

And the sheik of the San Joaquin fell into deep reflection. Possibly he was meditating on the last time he saw Dempsey, which was when the Manassa Mauler pegged a big right hand at him, severing a long, and large, and beautiful friendship.

BLACK UHLAN GETS LICENSE

Farley Sanctions Battle for Title

NEW YORK, May 6. (INS)—After twice interviewing the German contender and others connected with the world's heavyweight championship fight here on June 12, Chairman James A. Farley, of the New York Boxing commission, announced this afternoon that Max Schmeling would be granted a license to fight Jack Sharkey for the title on the date mentioned.

The license, it was announced, would cover all of Schmeling's future ring activities in this state, the boxer having agreed to the following terms as laid down by the commission:

1. That if he wins the title from Sharkey, he will enter into no contracts prior to Oct. 15, in order to allow his legal obligations to Arthur Bulow, his discarded manager, to expire.

2. That if he becomes champion, he will defend the title in New York within a period of one year under the auspices of a promoter acceptable to the commission, provided this promoter's terms are equal to those offered elsewhere.

3. That the opponent he is to meet in this later fight must be the recognized logical contender, approved by the commission.

New York University Grid Coach Ill

NEW YORK, May 6. (INS)—"Chick" Meehan, football coach of New York university today was in the hospital.

Authorities at the French hospital admitted the noted athletic coach was under treatment there but declined to confirm or deny the report that he had undergone a serious operation.

It was reported the famous coach was suffering a throat malady.

Rookie Misses Fly; Has His Alibi Cold

PITTSBURGH, May 6. (AP)—Hack Wilson, chunky Chicago Cub outfielder, lost a couple of fly balls in the sun during the world series, but it took Gus Suhr, new first baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates to lose one in the snow.

Pittsburgh sport writers are still thumbing through the records in an effort to find a local opening day when the weather was as unusual as on the Bucs' inaugural recently. The game was halted on account of a snowstorm.

Just before the whole thing had to be called off, one of the Cincinnati Reds poled a high foul, Suhr, a Californian, ran for it, stumbled, slipped, made a vain effort to brush the flakes tumbling into his face and then fell in the snow. So did the ball!

"Stumpy" Thomason, Georgia Tech's halfback menace for three seasons and a star of the 1928 undefeated Golden Tornado, will play pro football with Buffalo next fall.

Stocks Hold Gains to the Close Despite Renewed Bear Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 6. (US)—Stocks closed higher today despite renewal of bear pressure and some profit-taking late in the afternoon. As expected the recovery that developed toward Monday's close carried over in the early trading. Realizing caused some softness around noon but offerings were well absorbed and sufficient new demand was influenced by the better tone of the market as a whole to sustain the better price levels to the close. Steel finished with gain of 1¼, while Radio jumped 4¾, Columbia Graphaphone 2⅛, American Telephone 3¾, International Telephone 1¼, General Electric 1½, Westinghouse 6, General Motors 1⅜, Fox 3⅝, Paramount 3¼, Warner 3, New York Central 6, Pennsylvania 2¼, Montgomery Ward 1⅞, Worthington Pump 9¼ and Consolidated Gas 2⅞. Turnover dropped to under the 5,000,000 share level. Call money eased from renewal of 3¼ to 3 per cent.

It has been a long time since so many people called the turn on a good rally in the market. Even the biggest billionaires jumped in too soon last October. The fact that so many did guess that the recovery would be experienced, however, is a further demonstration of how highly professional the market is and tends to limit the extent of the rally itself. Professionals who jumped in Monday and bought at the attractive prices then available were not buying for the long pull. There were some bargain hunters but their number were negligible. Many of those who did buy were glad to take the profits available today because they know there is a series of disturbing business reports ahead and that the most powerful financiers are giving their time to international affairs. Such talk as Monday's market being a "bear ambush" is bunk. Most of the big shorts were well covered late Monday. The late Monday rally represented sharp-shooting trading purchases in most part and the more ragged character of the market this afternoon was due to grabbing of profits.

Coppers as a group and the red metal as an industry proved the most disturbing factor both in the business world and the stock market. The 13 cent a pound price is pretty near actual cost to some producers. Unless consumers come in and buy ahead—and there is little indication they will do so—a cut to 12 cents a pound or under is in prospect. That means actual cost to many producers and therefore a small margin of profit to the industry as a whole. Under these conditions it is foolish to guess what dividends the copper companies will be paying in months to come.

While Electric Bond and other utility interests continue to talk bullish they have evidenced that they no longer will "hold the bag" as they did in the October-November break. As a result there is a group of strong professionals picking away at several of the stocks, particularly International Telephone. The same group has been most responsible for the pressure on Timken Roller Bearing. It is learned that that 100,000 share order for Warner Brothers was put in when the stock was at 58 which to some traders gives the idea that the inside support is just under that level. Those interested in Zenith Radio expect special development that will add to business in the near future.

As expected the bond market is showing material improvement. There is almost as much bunk being spread around about the reparations financing as there is about the market. There will be no "dumping" of the bonds. The bankers know their powers—and their limits. Advices indicate there is squabbling between representatives as to how large an allotment of the first issue France and other nations should take. The first $300,000,000 issue will be well over-subscribed if only for the advertising value alone. Subsequent issues will be made attractive. In fact there are many ways of getting the bonds out without making direct public offering.

Sterling dipped fractionally in another quiet but unsteady foreign exchange market. Cotton rallied fitfully due to somewhat more bullish weather advices. Wheat and other grains benefited from similar influence.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 6. (AP)—Wheat went sharply higher on the cash grain market today largely in sympathy with values on contract markets. Corn was strong but other grains showed little change. Demand was fair to good for everything but barley which continues slow sale even for the light offerings. Mills bidding $1.13@1.14 wheat delivered Texas common points. Bids and offers on coarse grains as follows, basis carloads delivered T. C. P., freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 93½@94½c; No. 2 white 96½@97½c; No. 2 yellow 97½@98½c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 56@57c.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.88@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.58@1.60.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per hundred pounds according to type, etc., $4.25@4.50.

Dealers also quoted basis delivered Texas group one points as follows: No. 2 mixed corn 90½@91½c; No. 2 white 94½@95½c; No. 2 yellow 95½@96½c. No. 2 white oats 52½@53c; add one cent to white oats for delivery Texas group three points.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 6. (AP)—Keeping step with an upward march of the securities market, wheat prices today made notable gains, and finished near the top level reached. Broader export demand for wheat from North America was a stimulating factor, together with announcement of 8,987,000 bushels decrease in the world's stock of wheat. Furthermore, there were complaints of excessive rains throughout Italy, France and Hungary, as well as of prevalence of rust in South Italy.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1⅝@2¾c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@1⅜ up, oats ⅛@1c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 12c down.

At no time were wheat bears able to make any special headway despite further rains reported in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Corn and oats moved upward with wheat. Provisions went lower.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May (offers) $1.05; July $1.02⅛@1.02¼, $1.04⅝@1.04⅞; Sept. $1.05, $1.07⅞. Dec. $1.09⅝, $1.12⅝. Corn, July 80¾@80⅞c, 82¼@82⅜c; Sept. 81⅝@81⅞c, 83¼@83⅜c; Dec. 75⅝@75½c; 76⅞c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May 6. (US)—The recovery in wheat today led to emphasis of the general opinion that the market had discounted the apparent bearish factors. However, there was little expression regarding any probable strong advance, though some look for a consistent improvement in export demand for the remainder of the season.

While there is nothing in the immediate outlook to suggest advancing wheat prices and therefore commission houses are not recommending bull positions it is pointed out that there is still chance for crop damage.

Several factors were bullish in the corn situation today. Receipts were much smaller, shipping demand was of substantial proportions and there were complaints from sections of the belt that there has been too much wet weather for seeding and proper starting of the crop. Traders, however, look for an increase in receipts on any strong advance.

Broomhall says that weather conditions are favorable for harvesting in India and that his agent maintains that yields are unsatisfactory, disagreeing with the recent official estimate.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 6. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Fat lamb trade around the 11-market circuite was uneven. Fed lambs steady to 25c lower, Arizona spring lambs at Kansas City and St. Joseph realized 12.35 while best fed wooled lambs at Chicago and Omaha went at $11.25. The supply approximated 49,600 against 53,700 a week ago and 52,877 the corresponding day last year.

No material price changes registered on hogs, prices at most points being steady to 10c lower. The day's top of $10.30 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 96,900 an increase of 9,500 over last Tuesday and 25,500 heavier than a year ago.

Shipping demand was sufficient to maintain steady prices on better grades of strong weight steers but otherwise best steers and yearlings trade was weak to 25c lower. Light weight steers and yearlings continued liberal. The supply of heavy steers was light. Lighter weights of steers and yearlings are the lowest of the season. Chicago scored $14.25 on choice 1537-pound beeves and obtained $13.50 for best light weight steers. Choice 14.29-pound Kansas fed steers at Kansas City brought $13.50. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 42,500 against 39,017 a week ago and 38,386 a year ago.

Storms Refuses Plea for Clemency

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 6. (UP)—Acting Gov. C. S. Storms refused the plea of J. T. Crane for clemency today.

Crane has served 15 days of five five-year sentences for embezzlement.

He was given a number of leaves of absence by Gov. Henry S. Johnston and was in Amarillo when his last leave expired in November, 1928.

He refused to return to the state claiming Johnston had promised him a pardon for assisting in an audit at the penitentiary. Johnston previously had pardoned him in a three- year sentence from Marshall county on an embezzlement charge.

Following his arrest at Amarillo, Crane sought release on a writ of habeas corpus. The district court denied the writ and Crane appealed to the court of criminal appeals of Texas.

Because they were not getting satisfactory prices for dogskins, dog owners in the interior of China refused to sell, and this has caused a shortage of the "fur" in Chinese cities.

Airplane Cabin Noises May Be Largely Reduced

WASHINGTON, May 6. (INS)—Airplane cabins may be made even more quiet than the railway passenger car, thus removing one of the big objections to air-travel, according to results of a two-year series of experiments by the bureau of standards, the commerce department announced today.

"The experiments were divided into two principal parts, one dealing with the reduction of noises at their source, particularly the propeller and engine exhaust, and the other with the reduction of noises that find their way into the aircraft cabins," the aeronautics section of the department said.

"The former line of experiment has still much before it, but the latter has already reached practical results, as the sound engineers have found several combinations of materials that possess the three prime characteristics for airplane cabin insulation, the quality of shutting out sound, the quality of absorbing sound, and lightness of weight."

By insulating the cabins, through the use of aluminum and fiber board walls between which was packed a kopok fiber of fluffy and resilient nature known as "dry zero," it was found possible to bring about a sharp reduction of interior cabin noise. Conversations were easily carried on with the speaker and listener eight feet apart in an experiment conducted with a navy transport plane.

Over-Production Warning Issued

DALLAS, May 6. (AP)—American business men must "stop fighting for volume" at the expense of net returns, Arthur L. Kramer, past president of the Texas Retail Dry Goods association, told members of that organization at the opening of their annual convention here today.

"Government reports show in almost 90 per cent of the instances that, while business volume in 1929 showed an increase, there was a decline in the net profits," Kramer declared.

In his presidential speech, A. M. Goldstein of Waco warned members against relaxing vigilance against unfavorable tax legislation.

Four Natives Killed By Indo-China Rebels

HANOI, Indo China, May 6. (AP)—Rebels led by communists invaded Concession in the vicinity of Vinh today and killed four natives. Police and soldiers counter attacked, killing 20, wounding 25 and arresting 90 of the insurgents.

The largest rabbitry in the world is near Sudbury, England. Rabbits are specially bred here for their fur-yielding naturally colored pelts in chinchilla, blue beveren, musquash, and ermine skins.

200 TO MAKE QUANAH TRIP

45-Piece Band to Accompany Wichitans

Definite work toward enlisting 200 local business and professional men for the Junior chamber of commerce goodwill trip to Quanah on May 20 will begin Thursday morning, according to plans laid at a meeting of the goodwill trip committee Tuesday night.

Stops will be made at all intermediate points on the Quanah trip, it was said, with a special entertainment planned for Vernon on the return jaunt. The goodwill party will be accompanied by a 45-piece Junior chamber of commerce band, directed by Leo M. Underwood, and will present a brief program in each town visited. The affair at Vernon will take the form of a dinner dance, plans for which will be completed by the intercities relations committee, it was said.

Automobile dealers of the city have indicated their willingness to aid in providing transportation for the party, it was said. Exhaustive canvass of the industrial firms of the city for representatives to go on the trip will be started Wednesday, according to those in charge. The trip will start from the A. D. Lightsey Storage place, 704 Scott, at 9 a. m. The committee in charge of preparations is as follows: A. D. Lightsey, chairman; C. A. Spragins Jr., vice chairman; Hugh McDowell, W. B. Featherston, Joe B. Carrigan, J. J. Engleman, G. W. Pond and R. J. Flechtner.

C.-C. Secretaries To Meet Here

Chamber of commerce secretaries and managers of the third district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will meet in Wichita Falls next Thursday morning for a preliminary conference in connection with the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Abilene during the last week in May.

This information was given The Record News Tuesday by Ed C. Burris, chamber of commerce manager at Graham, and chairman for this district. Mr. Burris will preside at Thursday's session here.

Representatives of district 3 held a conference in this city several weeks ago to hear the year's work outlined by W. B. Hamilton, president, and to consider the annual budget.

Similar district meetings to that to be held here Thursday will be held at the same time in Amarillo and at Lubbock.

Demand for volume production has occasioned profuse duplication of plot and stage tricks in the prodigiously rapid growth of talking pictures, as we all have noticed. There has been no such little courtesy as respecting priority if some bit of action or turned phrase has gotten over largely. Such niceties may work themselves into the scheme when the initial rush is over, but not yet.

◇

Consider, as an illustration, the avidity with which screen singers have taken up the tear-pump used by Fanny Brice in "My Man." This consisted, as you recall, of going through the chorus a second time, in the crisis, and breaking down in a vain effort to carry the crushing load of sorrow to the last measure. The stunt has been adopted numerously. The point of collapse has been advanced, in some instances, possibly because an astute director clearly recognized that the little girl's capacity for deep feeling was far greater than her bent for singing. Still other cases reveal that for the maximum degree of artistry in a picture, the advancement should be carried to the extent of breaking down the lovely heroine just before she gets to the song.

◇ ◇ ◇

Progress has mingled freely with this prodigious growth, however, in the matter of revues, for instance. "Paramount on Parade," which opens for one week at the Strand Friday, will demonstrate that much was learned about revue-building by observing the bothersome elements of "Hollywood Revue," "Show of Shows," and "On With the Show." Those performances had their moments, but some of them were thoroughly irksome, as Joe Brown would yap it. Aside from having the most pretentious array of talent assembled for one film thus far, "Paramount on Parade" really gives them something interesting to do, one right after another—a fact conceded by those who seek diligently for flaws. Among the two-score celebrities contributing to this dramatic extravaganza, Ruth Chatterton, William Powell, George Bancroft, Maurice Chevalier, Mitzi Green, Dennis King and Nancy Carroll merely begin the long list of ultra-prominents. "I'm Isadore, the Toreador," written for Harry Green, sounds entertaining, too. Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, and Leon Errol in silk hats as masters of ceremonies—the hats look embarrassed.

Which brings us to a real news item—contained in last minute dispatches from the front. Claudette Colbert and Walter Huston in "The Lady Lies," will be added to Friday night's bill at the Majestic as the first attraction procured for a re-showing through the recall service to which this department has devoted itself. "The Lady Lies" has been requested by more patrons than any other picture. It will follow the closing performance of Richard Dix' "Loving the Ladies," Friday night, and should get the screen about 10 o'clock as a complimentary addition to the current show.

The production of talking pictures has been begun in Denmark, a system invented in that country being used.

MANY FIRMS ENTER DISPLAY

Committee Named to Draft Opening Program

Reservations for display space in the new Industrial Mart, to be opened here Saturday, continued to come in to the Junior chamber of commerce industrial development committee Tuesday, it was announced.

Draughon's Business college, the Sandwich Supply company, the Remington-Rand Business service, and the Perfection Water company made reservations Tuesday to bring the total number of firms to 42. In addition to those requisitions for display space, the Brown Cracker and Candy company reserved a second booth.

R. E. Shepherd, Darrold Kahn, and Frank Humphrey were appointed Tuesday as a committee to arrange a program for the opening night celebration. Studio entertainers of radio station KGKO will provide a variety of numbers, it was said, and the program will be broadcast through the local station.

School And College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Both the high school and college annuals, the Coyote and the Wai-Kun, will be distributed next week, according to announcements at the regular high school and college assembly Tuesday morning. Coyotes will come in Monday or Tuesday and the Wai-Kun shipment will arrive later in the week.

College students met at the activity period Tuesday morning for a short business session. Several important announcements concerning the closing up of school work were made. It was announced that the final meeting of the graduating class was to be next Monday morning in room 140 at the regular activity period.

Election of officers for 1930 and '31 will be the principal feature of the regular meeting of the Girl Reserves Friday morning at the activity period, according to Jane Adams, president. Only juniors and sophomores for 1931 are eligible for election.

Five vaudeville acts will furnish the entertainment for the high school and college students Thursday morning at their regular assembly, when the dramatic department presents a pay program for the benefit of the Wai-Kun and the Coyote, high school and college annuals.

As a compliment to M. Paul Doumer, president of the French senate, who lost all his four sons in the war, the city of Paris is naming a thoroughfare the "Street of the Four Sons of Paul Doumer."

CHURCH MEET OPENS TODAY

Methodist Leaders of World Gather at Dallas

Wichita Falls will be represented by two delegates in the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church, South, which opens Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the First Methodist church in Dallas.

W. B. Hamilton, lay leader for the Wichita Falls district, and Rev. C. A. Spragins, presiding elder, will be the two delegates from this city who will sit in the group of nearly 500 representatives of Methodism the world over, representing the supreme law-making body of that organization.

The last preceding general conference was held in Memphis, Tenn., in 1926. Many of its members, at each session, are from foreign countries. The North Texas conference, of which Wichita Falls is a part, has 16 delegates in the conference, eight lay and eight clerical.

The sessions of the general conference are always intensely interesting. They attract preachers and laymen from all over the world. It is estimated that from 1,500 to 5,000 persons are in attendance at all sessions which extend over a period of three weeks. All sessions are to be held at the First Methodist church, Dallas, of which Dr. Carl C. Gregory is the pastor.

Election of Bishops

One of the most interesting questions before this quadrennial session is whether or not any bishops are to be elected. Several bishops have died since the last session of the general conference but there is some question about the election of others to take their place. If new ones are elected, several Texans are prominently mentioned as possible candidates. Dr. C. C. Selecman, for eight years president of Southern Methodist university at Dallas, may be elected. Dr. Paul B. Kern, pastor of Travis Park Methodist church, and formerly dean of the school of theology of Southern Methodist university, is also prominently mentioned. It is a coincidence that both of these men have been actively identified with the only connectional institution west of the Mississippi that the Methodist church has.

An important matter before the general conference relative to the Episcopacy is that of all bishops serving for a term of years instead of for life as is now being done. Three of the most conservative conferences in Southern Methodism are asking that all bishops be elected for a term of years, probably eight.

The report of the educational commission, created by the last general conference and of which Dr. Paul B. Kern is the chairman, will be before the coming session. This comission was created for the purpose of working out a plan whereby some of the general and conference boards might be done away with and one board plan the policies and program of the entire church. For the local church, they are to recommend a plan of organization that will do away with much overlapping of organizations within the church, thereby conserving both time and energy because under existing conditions, several organizations are trying to do the same work independently instead of cooperatively.

Financial System

The financial system of the entire Methodist Episcopal church, South, will come up for revision. An effort will be made to take the responsibility of raising the finances of the church from the preacher and presiding elder and placing it upon the laymen and administering it through local church budgets.

The general conference, being the law-making body of the church, will adopt a constitution for the next quadrennium. It has been found that numerous changes have become necessary in the present constitution because of changing conditions in the administration of the church program.

Connectional officers for the next four years are to be elected at the present session. Besides making the laws and determining the ritual of the church, the general conference elects members of the General Sunday School board, the General secretary and Sunday school editor; the secretaries of the mission board; the Epworth league board; the secretary of the board of lay activities; the hospital board; the board of education; the board of finance; the board of church extension; the board of temperance and social service; the book committee which has charge of all publishing houses, and appoints the board of trustees of all church properties.

Outstanding speakers are to be presented daily during the sessions of the conference. Bishop Edwin Hughes of New York City will be the principal speaker on the opening date. Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York will speak Thursday of this week. Other speakers and fraternal delegates from other denominations will be on hand.

Other delegates in North Texas are as follows: E. D. Jennings, dean of the college of arts and sciences of Southern Methodist university; R. H. Shuttles, Dallas; John Speer, Denton; Mrs. S. M. Black, Dallas; Jess Morris, Greenville; Walter B. Wilson, J. W. Blanton, Dallas. Alternate lay delegates are Will C. Anderson, Winnsboro; Sam Householder, Byers; P. C. DeShong, Paris.

Clerical delegates from North Texas are Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas; Dr. O. T. Cooper, Dallas; Rev. Geo. C. French, Denton; Rev. C. A. Spragins, Wichita Falls; Dr. S. A. Barnes, Dallas; Rev. R. G. Mood, McKinney; Rev. W. T. Whitesides, Greenville; Rev. E. V. Cole, editor of Christian Advocate, Dallas. Alternate clerical delegates are Rev. F. M. Richardson, Paris; Dr. S. S. McKeeney, Wichita Falls, and Rev. J. A. Old, McKinney.

Artificial silk is now being made from the bark of the giant redwood tree.

Property Vacancies Here Practically Normal, Real Estate Survey Shows

Property vacancies in Wichita Falls are only seven-tenths of one per cent over the five per cent which is considered normal, and are considerably lower than those prevalent in most large cities of the United States during the past two years, according to reports of the vacancy survey given at the bi-weekly meeting of the Real Estate board at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

That Wichita Falls has reached almost a normal stage again was declared by realtors Tuesday on the basis of the situation revealed by the survey, and the opinion that general conditions here are much better than in other sections of the country was expressed.

Condition of Houses

It was noted that the cause for vacancy was due in a large part to the poor condition of the rental property or due to the fact that the houses were not in first-class condition.

The complete report follows:
Single houses, 8,691.
Duplex houses, 591.
Total residences 9,282.
Vacancies, single houses, 459.
Vacancies, duplexes, 73.
Total vacant, [illegible]
Percentage vacancies, single, 5.3.
Percentage vacancies, duplex, 9.6.
Total percentage vacancies, 5.7.

The locality of the vacancies was classified as "first, second, third, fourth and fifth class." Of first class residences only 27 houses were vacant; second class, 80; third class, 135; fourth class, 186; fifth class, 59.

Types of construction were also classified as "A," "B," "C," "D" and "E" with the following results: Class A, 59 vacancies; class B, 64; class C, 155; class D, 160; class E, 142.

As to the condition of the property, the following results were evidenced: "Good," 48 vacancies; "fair," 161; "poor," 323.

Other data shown in the survey compiled by the realtors included telephone and electric connections and gas meters.

A total of 11,115 telephone connections was reported—a gain of 54 during the year; 10,685 electric connections—a gain of 96; 10,785 gas meters—a gain of 237.

A vacancy percentage of 4.1 was reported in a survey of apartment houses, 15 of the 363 being vacant.

Traffic Discussion

Development of traffic and transportation from its earliest stages up to the present era of commercial aviation was discussed by Dudley B. Foy, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce. The speaker also discussed the activity of the Interstate Commerce commission in handling more than 24,000 cases annually.

Installation of officers for the ensuing year was staged at Tuesday's meeting. The following will serve in the designated offices until next May: Roscoe Staton, president; Fred Cone, first vice president; Homer Karranbrock, second vice president; L. E. Junell, secretary, C. R. Seals, retiring president, and Walter Curlee were added to the board of directors.

C.-C. DIRECTORS HEAR REPORTS

Board Assumes Share of West Texas Budget

Directors of the chamber of commerce heard a brief but comprehensive report of last week's United States Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington, by J. S. Bridwell, president, at their regular meeting held Tuesday noon at the Wichita club. Mr. Bridwell has just returned from Washington.

Discussion of the navigation and flood control conference held in Shreveport last week was given by Orville Bullington, who represented the local chamber of commerce in that session.

It was announced that plans for entertaining the group of Oklahoma City business men expected here next Monday call for a dance in honor of the visitors at the Wichita club on Monday night. No other definite program will be planned for their visit here, it was said.

Endorsement of the current program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was voted by the directors, as well as the assumption of this city's pro rata share of the budget of the regional organization. A delegation will be sent to the 1930 convention to be held in Abilene, it was said.

Home-Owned Institutions Accept the Challenge
Some chain stores have removed from their shelves every article and product produced locally. All chain stores discriminate against articles grown and produced at home.
The fight is getting hot—we are going to carry the issue into every home in Wichita Falls in order to reach the women, who are the buyers. The women must realize the truth—that the chain store is a foreign-owned, profit-collection agency for the benefit of a foreign owner, and their methods do not help the community now or in the future.
The women of this country hold the purse strings to fifty-two billion dollars that go annually to the purchase of the necessities of life.
