Truman Sees Quick Approval Of Charter

President Confidently Offers New Plan; Other Capitals Also Active

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Harry S. Truman came back to the Senate today to hand his old associates the United Nations charter and ask them to ratify it promptly.

The President spoke with the simple, easy air of a man who felt pretty sure of getting just what he asked for.

"The choice before the Senate is now clear," he said, spacing his words carefully.

"The choice is not between this charter and something else. It is between this charter and no charter at all."

Re-Emphasizes Conclusion

Then, just before ending his seven-minute speech, he re-emphasized that conclusion to the men who have the final say-so on ratification.

"This charter points down the only road to enduring peace," he said.

"There is no other.

"Let us not hesitate to join hands with the peace-loving peoples of the earth and start down that road—with God's help and with firm resolve that we can and will reach our goal.

'I urge ratification.

"I urge prompt ratification."

There appeared no doubt his request would be granted since an Associated Press poll showed more than two thirds of the Senate membership already on record for the world organization.

Few Are Against It

Shortly before Mr. Truman went to the capitol Senator Barkley (D-Ky) emerging from the executive offices after a call with other legislators, said he told the President he 'couldn't put my finger on as many as six senators who will be against" the charter.

The senators, numerous members of the House who sat in chairs at the rear of the chamber, and the senatorial guests gave the President a tumultuous reception as he walked briskly into the chamber. They rose once more when he concluded his speech, cheering and applauding.

NEARLY ALL CAPITALS SEE QUICK APPROVAL

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 2 — Quick ratification of the San Francisco peace charter appeared certain today in the capitals of virtually all the United Nations.

From Russia to Peru, government leaders are setting in motion machinery for formal approval,

Foreign Policy Plans Outlined

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP) — The State department emphatically set forth today a policy of impartial friendliness toward both Britain and Russia.

In a communication to an informal committee of congressmen it also restated the department's dedicationto the principles of the Atlantic Charter and a determination to pursue an active course in international affairs, aimed at achievement of this country's own aims.

Outlined For House Group

Acting Secretary Joseph C. Grew wrote the outline to Rep. Coffee (D-Wash), leader of a group of four House members who called at the State department May 31 and asked five specific questions about this country's foreign policy.

"It can be stated unequivocally that the United States government has no tacit understanding or day-to-day working arrangement through which it has become 'de facto' or otherwise a part of an Anglo-American or any other front against the Soviet Union," Grew wrote.

"Conversely there is no truth in the assertions made by some hands of the Soviet Union to the detriment of the British Empire or any other nation. . . .

Leading World Role

"The leading role we have taken in the creation of the world security organization in San Francisco is conclusive proof of our friendly attitude to all freedom loving nations.

Answering the other questions Grew told the congressional group:

1. American policy in respect to the Polish and general eastern European questions "has not changed since the death of President Roosevelt. It continues to be as it was under President Roosevelt, based on the decisions of the Crimea conference, as well as on his program for the attainment by all peoples of the four

Byrnes Given Big Send-Off For New Post

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Senate today paid James F. Byrnes the tribute of confirmation as secretary of state without hearings, without debate and without dissent.

The nomination arrived from the White House at 12 noon, and in less than a half hour approval was granted.

This was the way the Senate—Republicans along with Democrats—chose to illustrate their confidence in the South Carolinian who served in the House, in the Senate, as associate justice of the Supreme court and as War Mobilization director.

Next In Line As President

The unanimous confirmation made Byrnes next in line of succession for the presidency if Mr. Truman should not complete his term.

As Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky put it:

"We all know Mr. Byrnes. It doesn't seem to be necessary to refer this nomination to committee."

Therefore, the rules were suspended by unanimous consent. And the Senate didn't even wait for the customary one-day layover of an appointment. Minority Leader White of Maine, speaking for the Republicans, declared that Byrnes' service "leaves no doubt" of his qualifications.

Byrnes succeeds Edward R. Stettinius, former U. S. Steel executive, who is to serve as U. S. delegate on the postwar security machinery.

Bantam in size, Byrnes has been a giant in political matters in the capital for more than a decade. He was the principal trouble shooter in the last several years of the Franklin Roosevelt administration.

Harry S. Truman had hardly taken the oath of presidential office when it became apparent that Byrnes would be a key in his administration as well.

Announcement of Byrnes' appointment was made by Mr. Truman on Saturday. First major chore of the new secretary will be to accompany Mr. Truman to the Big Three meeting in Berlin.

Yank Columns Roll Into Rubbled Berlin For Occupation Role

(By The Associated Press)

AMERICAN trucks rolled into Berlin yesterday carrying the advance units of American veterans of World war Two who will enter the rubbled German capital in a triumphal march today, Paris dispatches said.

Communications officers entered the city and set up facilities for the transmission of correspondents' copy and billeting detachments arranged quarters for the U. S. troops who will take over occupation zones in the city.

Other Nationals Join

Along with the Americans, hundreds of British, Canadian and French troops are expected to enter the once-proud capital of Hitler's shattered empire today and the occupation probably will be completed by tomorrow—America's Independence day.

Russia, the British foreign office disclosed has asked to be included in French-American-British discussions on reestablishment of Tangier as an international zone. Tangier was occupied by Spain in 1940. Informal discussions by French, British and American delegates on Tangier has been scheduled to start in Paris today.

Further in the diplomatic sphere, Britain notified Italy that although Britain had promised her her "fair share" of aid, huge war and reconstruction needs for various commodities meant that Italy must go short of urgently-needed supplies "for some time."

Belgium's former premier, Paul von Zeeland, left Salzburg, Austria, for Brussels after conferring with King Leopold III, who seeks to return to his throne. The status of the king's negotiations—or whether he may have decided to abdicate—was not clear.

In Britain, preoccupied by the general election Thursday, Prime Minister Churchill made an issue of how the Labor party might handle foreign and military affairs. He asked Clement Atlee, Labor party leader, to explain what "controls" his party's executive committee might exercise over a Labor government. Atlee, also concentrating upon London voters in the last stages of the Labor party's campaign to defeat the Conservatives, declared the committee had no control over actions of Labor members of Parliament.

Aussies Gain On Borneo As Japs Tighten

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, July 3 — Australian invasion troops pushed within 1,500 yards of the fire-swept heart of Balikpapan on southeast Borneo today as their commander, Lt. Gen. Sir Leslie Morshead, announced that the campaign already was "strategically won."

The Melborne radio said both the Sepinggang and Manggar air fields had been captured by the Australians, giving the Royal Australian Air force as its authority. This was not confirmed here, but Russell Brines, Associated Press correspondent on the scene, reported at 6:30 a. m. that the capture of Sepinggang was imminent. It is three miles from Balikpapan.

Resistance Increases

Japanese resistance increased measurably as the Australians drove forward. Japanese 5-inch guns, hitherto hidden, opened up on the beaches, joining periodic mortar and antiaircraft fire.

The Australians had taken more than three miles of beach and had driven better than 2,500 yards inland, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported early today.

General Morshead told Brines "the first few hours" settled the ultimate outcome of the invasion Sunday when the Aussies captured the "vital Paramatta ridge on the left flank of the beachhead."

The ridge put the Australians within a mile of the central docks and refineries which were destroyed by pre-invasion bombardments of the rich oil producing center.

Heavy Artillery Fire

The deeply entrenched Japanese were being subjected to steady artillery fire from Australian 25-pounders and aerial bombardment from carriers operating with the Seventh Fleet.

Naval gunfire silenced a number of the Japanese gun placements.

Thick black smoke from the burning oil storage tanks settled over the entire battle operation, during which airforce repair crews began immediately to repair the captured airfields for Allied use, the Melbourne radio said.

Manggar air field is ten miles northeast of Balikpapan and seven miles from Sepinggang.

American heavy, medium and fighterbombers continued to give close support to the ground forces, while U. S. carrier based navy fighters hit enemy road transportation inland.

This was the first disclosure

Nips Start Singapore Evacuation As Allied Power Continues To Close In

(By The Associated Press)

CORONADO, Calif., July 2.—The Japanese fleet made its final banzai suicide charge soon after Okinawa was invaded, and today has "virtually no effective fighting power left," Rear Adm. George Raymond Henderson, commander of an escort carrier task unit, said in an interview here today.

The officer, native of Pawtuckett, R. I., has spent three years' overseas and is at his Coronado home on leave. He was executive officer to Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher when the latter was commander of the carrier Hornet during the Doolittle raid on Tokyo in 1942.

B-29s Follow Up Record Assault

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Tuesday, July 3.—About 50 American Superfortresses blasted the Maruzen oil refinery near Shimotsu on Japan's mainland before dawn today, less than 24 hours after nearly 600 of the B-29s struck four Nippon cities on the greatest incendiary air raid of history. Only two bombers were lost in the record firebomb mission.

Explosive bombs were used in the Shimotsu attack, the sixth raid in eight days by the Marianas-based B-29s against Japan. Shimotsu is 35 miles southwest of Osaka on Honshu island. The target was the third oil plant hit in a week.

Part Of Dual Campaign

The precision demolition attacks are part of a dual bombing campaign now being waged by Maj. Gen. Curtis LeMay's 21st Bomber command. They are being alternated with the 500 and 600 plane incendiary strikes.

Targets in the two previous precision attacks included the Utsube river oil refinery and the Nippon Oil company's plant at Kudumatsu.

Superfortress crew men returned from the record incendiary attack said Japanese air and ground fire opposition was insignificant.

The 20th Air force, announcing from Washington that two of the B-29s failed to return, said that 20 crew members were rescued. Superfortresses normally carry crews of 11 men each.

In the four - pronged, before dawn mission Monday, the bombers from Marianas bases at Guam, Tinian and Saipan poured 4,000 tons of incendiaries on Kure, Shimohoseki, Ube and Kumamoto — all vital centers of Japan's war-making power of about 200,000 population or more each.

The attacks brought to 22 the number of Japan's key cities

Interception by Task Force 58 planes of the Jap battleship, cruisers and destroyers which steamed south to Okinawa led to such destruction that today the Japs have left "only a few destroyers, two or three cruisers, and some old capital ships," Henderson said.

He predicted, however, that despite this calamity, and the loss by Japan of vital natural resources, the war will last at least two more years. "We'll have to hunt them out and kill them one by one, and that may mean about 10,000,000 Japs of the military forces," he said.

EIGHT MORE VESSELS SMASHED BY PLANES

GUAM, Tuesday, July 3. (AP) — Search Privateers destroyed or damaged eight more Japanese vessels as they ranged from China to Japan in a strangling blockade of enemy shipping lanes, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported today.

Marine Corsairs ranged again over Kyushu Monday, shooting down eight Japanese fighters, while other Okinawa-based tactical air force planes struck again at the Sakishima islands off Formosa.

NIPS ANNOUNCE PLAN TO EVACUATE SINGAPORE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2. (AP)— The Japanese announced plans today to evacuate civilians from Singapore as Allied power to the east on Borneo rolled up dangerously close to the great naval base.

The Japanese-controlled Java radio said non-essential civilians would begin clearing out of Singapore the middle of July.

The Allies already control three air bases at Brunei, little more than 700 miles from Singapore, and now Australians are moving down Borneo's west coast toward

Hellish Inferno Separates Aussies And Japs On Borneo

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH AUSTRALIAN TROOPS AT BALIKPAPAN, July 2. — A river of burning oil—a hellish inferno of flame and smoke—made a no-man's-land between Australian and Japanese lines today.

As Australians and a few Americans watched from a white sand ridge which they had seized, a big storage tank a thousand yards away erupted like a violent volcano. A wall of flame 100 feet across leaped spectacularly hundreds of feet skyward.

The wild column of roaring flame seemed to lean forward, as though it were going to topple onto us across the valley. Scores of men stood up from their guns, watching in wonderment and shielding their faces from the heat.

Feel Heat Mile Away

Troops a mile away on the beach said they could feel the earth vibrate from the first blast and could feel the heat.

Flaming oil poured down ravines on both sides of our ridge, running faster than a man could have run. Several Australians said they saw a Japanese, trapped in a tree by the onrushing fire, slip a rope over a limb and hang himself before the flames reached him.

An Australian patrol, already retiring from the area because of Japanese artillery shelling, barely reached safety.

Evidently an enemy shell blasted the tank open after black smoke had been pouring from it since late yesterday.

JAP PHILIPPINE LOSSES NEARING HALF MILLION

MANILA, July 2. (AP) — With scattered Japanese units cracking before the steady advance of Americans and Filipino guerrillas, enemy losses in the Philippines have risen to 419,035, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today.

The total includes 9,774 prisoners, some of whom are predicting an early peace.

The enemy retained several strongholds on Luzon in the mountains northeast of the summer capital, Baguio, including Bontoc, Mankayan and Kiangan. Resistance at Kiangan was reported weakening, however.

Most American forces were resting after their long campaign. In the Cagayan valley fighting was principally between guerrillas and isolated bands of disorganized Japanese.

A War department intelligence officer, Col. Albert L. Warner, said American forces have lost 11,715 killed and 1,131 missing in the Philippines campaign—a ratio of 31 Japanese dead for every American dead or missing. His estimate of Japanese dead in the Philippines was 300,000.

Crash Victims Are Identified

Names of five persons, including a WAC, who were killed Sunday afternoon in the crash of an army plane 10 miles northwest of Olton, in Lamb county, were announced Monday night by officials at Lubbock Army Air field.

The dead are:

Lt. Frederick H. Jacoby, pilot; mother, Mrs. Marie Jacoby, 952 Vanderbilt Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Lt. Rex M. Tharp, co-pilot; father, Lloyd Tharp, Meadsville, Mo.

S/Sgt. Merle W. Sullivan; mother, Mrs. Ida J. Sullivan, 522 E. Davis St., Bushnell, Ill.

S/Sgt. Joseph N. Andruskevich; wife, 451 Southeast Adams St., Brownsville, Tex.

WAC Pvt. Christine H. Davis; two daughters, Bobbie Nell and Helen Elois, residing with her sister, Mrs. Jessie Sasser, Brookhaven, Miss.

WAC Believed Passenger

All the men were stationed at Brownsville Army Air field and the WAC, believed to have been a passenger, at Fort Sumner, N. M. Next of kin of all victims have been notified.

The twin-motored C-47 transport crashed at 5:20 o'clock on the Shaw farm three and a half miles northwest of Spring Lake. The plane fell in about 400 yards of the Shaw residence.

LAAF officials said that all who saw the plane just before the crash reported that the ship appeared to be "in trouble" and finally went into a steep dive. The impact left a crater more than big enough to drive an automobile into, witnesses said.

An account which an investigating Army board is giving much credence was that offered by an enlisted man at LAAF, Corp. Melvin Hines, an airplane mechanic in squadron C. Cpl. Hines saw the mishap while visiting at home two miles east of the crash scene.

Explodes and Burns

The transport exploded and burned as it hit the earth. Pieces of wreckage were strewn over a wide area.

A LAAF officer said the plane had left St. Louis Sunday morning; had landed at Majors Army Air field, Greenville, Tex., Sunday afternoon, and was en route to Fort Sumner, N. M., Army Air field when the accident occurred. The plane's home station is at Brownsville, an Army Air Transport command base.

The bodies were brought to Rix Funeral home, the firm said last night that no directions had been yet received for shipment of the bodies

Only Drizzles Are Reported On Plains

Heavy clouds over the entire South Plains area aroused hopes for a much needed rain yesterday, but at midnight only disappointing light showers and "drizzles" had been reported.

Lubbock received .01 inch of rain in intermittent showers that continued late Monday night. One-quarter inch was registered at Lamesa, where some rain was still falling at midnight.

Reporting light showers and cloudiness were Post, Spur, Crosbyton, Morton, Tahoka, Brownfield, Matador and Slaton; but not enough moisture was received to materially affect crop conditions, according to agriculture authorities.

Continued cloudiness was forecast for the South Plains today.

American Airlines Asks Fare Reduction

NEW YORK, July 2. (AP) — American Airlines, Inc., announced today it had filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics board stating that, effective Aug. 15, it will reduce its air passenger fares an average of 7½ per cent, resulting in an average fare of approximately 4½ cents per passenger mile.

American also proposed that air express rates be reduced at the same time.

Mercy Flight By Fortress Brings Oklahoman Here

Flown to Lubbock Monday afternoon in a 200-mile mercy flight from Altus, Okla., in a Flying Fortress, W. H. Tyler, 51, Olustee, Okla., grocer, was critically ill last night in West Texas hospital of what tentatively was diagnosed as hemorrhage of the brain.

The big ship, based at an Oklahoma Army field, touched its wheels to a Lubbock Army Air field runaway at 5:20 o'clock. Tyler was attended on the flight by his son, Raymond Tyler, of 1714 Twenty-eighth. He was rushed from the field to the hospital by a Plains Funeral home ambulance, escorted into the city by a siren-wailing police car.

Tyler is a brother-in-law of C. E. Flowers, of 3216 Twenty-second. He was placed under the care of Dr. O. W. English, a friend of the Flowers family.

He became ill Sunday, June 24.

Allies Move For Tangier Control

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP) — The Allies are about to end Spain's control of Tangier, where Francisco Franco made a grab to dominate the Straits of Gibraltar when it seemed that Britain had lost the war.

The plan is to work out a British-French-United States program for restoring the strategic stretch of the northwest African coast to its former international status, and then tell Franco how it is going to be done.

Meeting In Paris

That is the purpose of conversations in Paris which the State department announced today will get under way tomorrow. Russia may come into the picture too. The British foreign office said the Soviet Union had asked to be included in the talks and the request is being considered.

With France crumbling before Nazi armies and Britain seemingly headed for the same fate, Franco moved Spanish troops into the international area June 14, 1940. He announced his action as intended to preserve the "neutrality" of the 147-square mile area, only 29 miles from Gibraltar.

Blunt Announcement

Since 1923 the area commanding the entrance to the Mediterranean had been an international settlement with Britain, France, Italy and Spain as the principal administrative powers.

Today's State department announcement was bluntly worded, mentioning that Franco moved in "by unilateral action," and stating that in view of the end of the European war "there no longer appears to be any justification for the continued occupation by the Spanish of the international zone."

Area Irrigation Shows Big Hike

AUSTIN, July 2. (AP)—A new high in irrigation from wells in the high plains of Texas was indicated today in a progress report issued by the state board of water engineers in cooperation with the U. S. geological survey.

There were approximately 3,500 irrigation wells completed and the area under irrigation total 450,000 acres at the end of 1944, the report showed. Comparative measurements of water levels of 200 wells between the early spring 1938 and February, 1945, made a favorable showing attributed to three factors. These were:

Widely Separated

1. In most of the area comprising the principal pumping areas, the wells are still rather widely distributed;

2. Recharge to the underground reservoirs during the phenomenally wet year 1941 was very large;

3. The principal irrigated crops are wheat, maize, corn and cotton which usually require comparatively little water in addition to rain water.

"The record does not encourage the belief that the available supply of ground water in the high plains is inexhaustible, nor that concentration of heavy pumping in small areas is advisable," the report declared.

Average Change In Level

The average net decline or rise in the water table in the last seven years, by counties:

Bailey, rise 3.3 feet: Castro, decline 1.4 feet; Crosby, rise 1.9 feet; Deaf Smith, decline 3.3 feet; Floyd, decline 5.6 feet; Hale, decline 4.1 feet; Hockley, rise 3.5 feet; Lubbock, rise 2.8 feet; Lamb, rise 3.4 feet; Swisher, decline 4.6 feet.

Madame Chiang, Long Opposed By Old Guard, Believed 'Through'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The following dispatch was written by Walter Rundle, United Press manager for China, now in the United States.)

By WALTER G. RUNDLE
United Press War Writer

NEW YORK, July 2—Many Chinese in high government positions in Chungking predict with lightly concealed pleasure that Madame Chiang Kai-Shek never will return to her former position of power in China—may never return to her homeland from her present visit to the United States.

The attitude of these "old heads" in China's government toward the woman who at one time "was China" to millions of Americans, is the key to Madame Chiang's sudden departure and long absence from China.

Women, traditionally, have had no part in China's internal or international affairs, with only such spectacular exceptions as the empress dowager, and the elder statesmen, close to Chiang, bitterly resented Madame Chiang's great influence on the generalissimo and through him on China's national and international life. They set about, some years ago, to undermine her power.

MADAME CHIANG

They were critical of the madame's western ideas, western manners and what they called her "extravagant" use of jewelry, nail polish and other items of personal adornment. They persistently complained to the generalissimo that Madame Chiang was more American than Chinene; that she did not appreciate China's problems and that above all she was setting example for the Chinese people who were being urged to lead a life of austerity during China's war of resistance.

This campaign had a cumulative effect. Chiang, according to Chinese in positions to know, became increasingly critical of the madame's personal habits. And when

OPA Placid Despite Odessa Mayor's Ire

OUR backs are broad and we probably wouldn't do anything about it," District OPA Enforcement Attorney Frank R. Murray said Monday regarding advertisements sponsored by Mayor A. J. Burks of Odessa against the Office of Price Administration.

Burks' position as mayor had nothing to do with filing of an OPA civil suit against him in Pecos federal district court about June 20, he said. The fact he allegedly violated OPA regulations was responsible, he said.

Regarding Burks' advertisements, Murray said, "He has used some pretty harsh language, but he is just talking about an agency of the government." He said copies of the advertisements were in his possession.

The Associated Press had reported earlier that Mayor Burks had issued a proclamation climaxing a series of advertisements appointing every property owner in Odessa city limits a special officer.

Murray said the suit filed against Burks was a civil suit asking that he be required to register a house with the OPA rent office, and also alleging that he was seeking to illegally evict a tenant. Hundreds of similar suits have been filed over the district and since March 10 about $10,000 in judgments have been collected in favor of the United States govern-

Russia On Verge Of Winning Long Struggle For Use Of Dardanelles

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

Russia is about to realize an ambition dating from the time of Peter the Great—free passage from the Black sea to the Mediterranean.

Moscow has made no secret of its intention to end Turkish control of the Dardanelles and Bosporus straits. The question is expected to come before the Big Three at their meeting this month.

The Dardanelles, anciently called the Hellespont, is celebrated in history as the waterway over which Xerxes built his bridge of ships to Europe. In modern days, it has a vaster political and economic importance.

To Break Domination

Russia evidently has no intention of letting Turkey, which straddles the straits, continue to exercise military domination of this vital passage to ice-free waters for Soviet warships and cargo vessels.

Moscow has been reported by the Ankara radio to be demanding special privileges in the straits, such as a provision that they be closed to all but Turkish and Russian warships. Moscow has not commented on the report and it is possible that the Soviet Union takes a broader view of the problem, in line with the principles of the San Francisco charter.

Note On Control

Russia has sent a note to the Turkish government asking revision of the straits control and a new Soviet-Turkish treaty to replace the one cancelled by Moscow several weeks ago. The demands are reported to include the return to Russia of the Kars and Ardahan districts on the Soviet-Turkish border. That would be in line with the apparent Soviet intention of reclaiming all territory which once belonged to Czarist Russia.

The latter is regarded as a secondary problem, however, and not one which would require the attention of the Big Three. The straits question is different, involving the wide interests of various nations in the Mediterranean, and perhaps the status of other international waterways such as the Suez canal.

Three-Power Control

A Cairo dispatch to the London Daily Express reported that Middle East observers believe three-power control of the Dardanelles, Suez and the Panama canal might be proposed at the Big Three meeting. It sounds improbable with regard to the Panama canal, which is a 100 per cent American affair, but open to the ships of all nations on an equal basis.

Suez, on the other hand, is owned by several nations, with the British and French predominating. Russia might consider herself justified in asking a voice in managing this eastern outlet of the Mediterranean, since the value of a free Dardanelles would be partly nullified without it.

Suez Is Different

Although internationally operated, Suez is not military-controlled by Britain or France and is open to ships of all nations in peace or war. It differs from the Dardanelles and Bosporous in that Turkey has the right of fortification and to bar warships under certain conditions.

By the Montreux convention of 1936, Turkey not only can fortify the straits but close them to warships when she is at war or "should she consider herself to be threatened with imminent danger of war." Britain, Russia and France are among the interested powers which are parties to the treaty.

Russia Fears Restrictions

Russia feels that an unfriendly Turkey might restrict Soviet ship movements into the Mediterranean. Moscow contends that the Montreux convention contains loopholes which the Germans used against the Soviet Union during the war. It was charged that the Turks permitted passage of "unarmed" German ships carrying Nazi soldiers dressed as civilians.

Moscow dispatches indicate Russia may demand free passage for Soviet vessels in wartime, but the barring of vessels of countries at war with the Soviet Union. That is a special position which would require Big Three consideration, rather than a two-party agreement between Russia and Turkey.

Japs Say U. S. Women Piloting Army Planes

LONDON, July 2 (AP) — The Tokyo radio said today three American aircraft piloted by women had been shot down over Kwellin, China.

"Thus it is assumed that a shortage of American air crews, is so acute that women are now being employed on operational duties," said the broadcast.

The planes were flown by American girls dressed "in smart outfits which may have been designed by Walt Disney because they were so natty," said a Tokyo broadcast heard in San Francisco by the Federal Communications commission.

Tokyo declared this "amazing fact" came to light when women pilots raided Kwellin last Saturday.

"Since they were women," the report concluded, "their aerial technique was inferior and they immediately fell prey to Japanese flak."

Board Boosts State School Aid To $30

AUSTIN, July 2. (U.P.) — The state board of education today set the amount of state aid to schools for 1945-46 at a record high of $30 per capita, and ordered that the present $25 per capita apportionment be increased to $27.

The board authorized the $2 supplement to the 1944-45 allotment after a report that the available school fund will have an estimated balance of $3,300,000 at end of the fiscal year, Aug. 31. The additional $2 per student will require about $3,000,000 of the surplus.

For the 1943-44 school year the board granted a $4 supplement which made the total apportionment $29 per scholastic, the record high until the setting today.

Based on estimates from the state comptroller's department, income to the state available school fund for 1945-45 will be about $50,925,000, including the year-end surplus. Fixing of the $30 aid amount was in accord with two new laws enacted by the last legislature. One required that aid should not exceed the comptroller's estimated revenues.

The board also set aside $2,250,000 for purchse of school text books. The increase of $1,150,000 more than last year's allocation is because more texts will have to be purchased.

Nine Crew Members Of B-29 Are Killed

MAYFIELD, Ky., July 2. (U.P.)—Nine crew members of a B-29 Superfortress bomber were killed when their plane crashed near here yesterday during an electrical storm.

Camp Campbell officers said one man escaped with minor injuries when he was thrown free of the plane and parachuted to earth.

The unidentified lone survivor said the plane, stationed at Kirkland field, Albuquerque, N. M., "Seemed to tear to pieces in the air." Wreckage was strewn over a two-mile area in Marshall county.

The dead included 2nd Lt. Ward W. Copenhave, Albuquerque, N. M.

More Sugar For Area Sought

George H. Mahon, congressman from this district, is conducting intensive efforts to obtain additional sugar for this area, and 1,000 sacks, or 100,000 pounds, of off-shore Cuban sugar have been promised for shipment between July 5 and 10, it was announced Monday.

The regional office at Dallas has notified Joe Brown, district food rationing officer here, of plans to ship the sugar, Brown announced.

"The shipment would offer some relief, but that amount would be taken up quickly considering the number of canning sugar coupons, as well as regular rationing coupons out, said a grocery official.

Congressman Mahon has communicated with W. A. Orth, regional OPA administrator at Dallas, Imperial Sugar company at Sugarland, and has talked to OPA officials in Washington.

Figures given here this morning indicate Lubbock is receiving only 17.8 per cent of last year's supply.

Situation Desperate

The situation is worse than desperate, one wholesale grocer said here this morning. He said his firm received no sugar at all during June.

Shipments at another wholesale grocery firm were said so small that the firm "would be better off from a business standpoint if we didn't receive any sugar. Of course we're going to try to get all we can because the people need it," the man said. When 800 bags are received, and 800 customers are trying to get 10 bags each, ill feeling is caused, he said.

It was said at another firm no sugar had been received there in 30 days.

About 2½ cars were shipped into Lubbock territory from June 14 to July 1.

A telegram from the regional OPA office at Dallas to Congressman Mahon had stated that, "Sugar going into Lubbock area since June 14 in excess of shipment to any similar area in Texas."

A wholesale groceryman said that last year about 200,000 bags, or about 2,000,000 pounds of sugar, were used in Lubbock.

A summary of sugar shipments last year into Lubbock area follows: California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining company of San Francisco was shipping 52.4 per cent of sugar into the Lubbock territory; Imperial Sugar company was shipping 35.6 per cent, and other companies were shipping 12 per cent of the supply.

The C. and H. company now is not shipping east of the Rocky mountains, because all of its supply is needed to supply users west of the Rockies and government requirements and other companies other than Imperial also have ceased shipments. Imperial has reduced its shipment 50 per cent. "This means this territory actually is reduced to 17.8 per cent of last year's supply," a source here said.

Poisoned Liquor Has Killed 30 In Manila

MANILA, July 2 (AP)—Twenty-nine Americans and one Filipino have died from poison liquor since the occupation of Manila, nearly five months ago, and the Army provost marshal's office is cracking down on the city's gold-booming night clubs and restaurants.

The medical examiner of Manila revealed these results: Of 40 samples of liquor tested, 34 contained poison. One bottle contained four deadly "blends" of methyl alcohol, acetaldehyde, formaldehyde and oil of carbolic acid.

Of a hundred little bars and temporary shacks built to catch the armed forces' trade, police have closed scores found serving unlicensed beverages.

Dr. Rudolph Diesel patented the engine with which his name is associated in 1892.

Arraignment Of Woman Postponed

Charged by indictment of murder with malice June 17 of W. T. Lamb, service station attendant of Lowrimore Nineteenth street station, Winnie McKeever Garner, 18, was not arraigned yesterday morning. District attorney Burton S. Burks was out of the city and her arraignment was postponed until Monday.

A. J. Wright, 21, of Clyde, also charged in the case, was arraigned several days ago.

Judge G. V. Pardue of 99th district court said trial date for the two had been set tentatively for the week of Aug. 6.

Lamb was fatally shot when a man and a girl attempted to rob him and he resisted. Wright and Mrs. Garner, whose husband was here this morning, were arrested after an all-night manhunt in Lubbock, Lynn, Hockley and Terry counties. They signed statements admitting they were the ones who figured in the station shooting, and gave information on two armed robberies at Brownfield and near Weatherford.

Harvest Is Underway In Lower Panhandle

AMARILLO, July 2. (U.P.) — The 1945 wheat harvest was in full swing today in the lower panhandle of Texas as crews and combines virtually completed the big South Plains harvest.

Harvest in the North Plains area was estimated at 40 per cent finished.

Latest estimates were that 30,000,000 bushels of wheat-about 50 per cent of the 1944 total—will be harvested this year on the Texas plains. Hundreds of acres were plowed up or turned into pasture in late May and early June because of dry weather. Yields, however, are running from 10 to 20 bushels per acre.

Yank, Failing In Daring Foray To Jap Camp, Shoots Way To Safety

By WILLIAM C. WILSON
United Press War Writer

MANILA, July 2—Lt. Terrible Price, jr., of the First Cavalry, walked into a Japanese camp on Luzon, spent 10 minutes trying to talk an enemy colonel into surrendering, and then shot his way out alone when the situation began to look unhealthy.

Price, whose family lives at Ridley Park, Pt., decided to call on the Japanese commander after a captured Formosan told him there were 100 enemy troops waiting to surrender.

Accompanied by the Formosan and an interpreter, plus a supporting rifle platoon euipped with a field radio, Price started for the enemy lines.

Others Said Waiting

An hour later, a Japanese soldier stepped out of the bush before them, bowed from the waist and accepted an American cigaret. He told them another 60 Japanese were waiting on a small hill ahead, and a circling Cub plane verified his story by radio.

Price left the platoon and went on ahead with the prisoner and his interpreter. They crawled under a barbed-wire fence and ran into several uniformed Japanese standing around a small shack.

A Japanese lieutenant suddenly burst out of the hut brandishing a pistol, and Price found himself surrounded by heavily-armed and very hostile-looking enemy soldiers.

Jap In Nasty Temper

"The lieutenant yelled 'pass' at me several times before I caught on and showed him my Army identification card," Price said.

"He seemed in a nasty temper. He spoke to the interpreter and apparently was satisfied with his answers, but he made the interpreter lay his carbine down.

"We argued a while about my pistol, but I wouldn't give it up. I said 'take me to your commanding officer and we'll get on with this surrender business.'"

Price and the interpreter were taken to a Japanese captain who had been waiting a few hundred yards away.

Told War Ended

"By this time," the young calvaryman recalled, "we were telling them the war had ended three days ago and that we had been sent to tell them.

"We thought they were beginning to believe us when they asked us to come another 500 yards, after first unloading our guns.

"The interpreter unloaded his carbine and, after more bickering, I turned my back and ejected one round from my automatic. There were still seven rounds in the clip, but they seemed satisfied."

The pair were brought before the Japanese colonel, unaware that their supporting rifle platoon had given them up for lost and returned to camp.

Things Not Going Well

"The colonel talked for about ten minutes and I could see things weren't going well," Price said. "The colonel finally got up and after a brisk exchange of salutes he gave some orders and walked away."

The interpreter was permitted to go back to the American camp to verify the "report" that the war was over, and Price made up his mind to give the man a 10-minute start and then make a break for it.

When the 10 minutes were up, there were only three Japanese officers and two guards with Price. He hurled his steel helmet at one of the officers, shot a guard in the stomach and felled the other two officers with his second and third shots.

Then he started a mad dash for his own lines.

"Why they didn't hit me I'll never know," he said. "I went through a cocoanut grove, ran 200 yards across a camote field and dropped below a river bank with Japs firing all the time."

Back at camp, the first man Price ran into was the intepreter. The man shook Price's hand incredulously.

The Japanese colonel's last order to his troops at the end of the interview was to "dig two holes —grave size."

Consolidation Of 3 Bus Lines Announced

SHREVEPORT, La., July 2 (U.P.)—The Tri-State Transit Co., Interurban Transportation Co., Alexandria, La., and the Borderlon Line, Inc., New Orleans, joined together today to form what was known as the Southern Trailways bus line.

All three lines were involved in the transportation strike tieing up bus traffic in nine southern and midwestern states for several weeks. The walkout of drivers and mechanics was settled early last week.

President C. V. Smith, of Tri-State, will head the new concern, which will have headquarters in Shreveport.

Food Shortages Close Businesses

Various food shortages have forced the closing of several Lubbock cafes and restaurants and one wholesale grocery, according to a check by the Lubbock Evening Journal Monday morning.

The Olen Stewart Wholesale grocery closed today and will not open again until July 9 in an effort to build up its food stock. "Our stock was down to only about 1-3 normal," the manager said, "and we were sending our trucks out half loaded."

The company hopes to be able to accumulate enough stock this week to adequately take care of its regular customers.

A Lubbock business firm reported that no wholesale grocery, druggist or paper company in the city had any toilet tissue or soap for sale Saturday.

Other wholesale grocery companies said they did not expect to close although their stocks were exceptionally low. "However, we could close for three weeks out of every month and not lose anything," one of the managers said. "We could sell all we get in a month in one week."

The closing of several cafes and restaurants this week will serve a two-fold purpose, owners said. Besides catching up on food points, the employees will be allowed to take vacations. It has been customary the last two years for a number of eating places to close for a week in the summer for vacation of employees.

Bakery Store Closed

The retail store of Baldridge bakery, which has been closed since June 10 because of the lack of sugar, said today it was hoped the place could be reopened by July 10.

Luby's cafeteria will be closed until July 9 for repairs and vacations as will the B and B cafe. The Chili King cafe will not reopen until July 16.

There is an acute shortage of sugar for civilian and commercial users. Some of the eating places have been serving coffee and other drinks without sugar for several days. Most places give the customer a small amount of sugar in an envelope.

TODAY'S GAG

THE average American refuses to accept for himself a subservient position. The story is told that an Englishman had an American were presented to the ruler of one of the small eastern countries.

On looking over the Englishman's passport, the dusky monarch said, "I see sir, you are a British subject."

"I am," answered the Englishman.

"And you, sir, are a subject of the United States?"

"Subject, nothing," shouted the American. "I own part of the United States!"

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER:

I am sending you this little poem that I like very much and hope you will have room for it in your column. I think it is helpful to all war mothers.

Thank you.

Mrs. Lawrence Cannon,
Abernathy.

"I Saw a Star in Your Window"

I saw a star in your window last night
As I passed down your homey street.
And I felt just then that I knew you somehow,
Though perchance we may never meet.
For I have a star in MY window, too,
On a street just over the way,
And the beams of your star reach out to mine
Like hands that clasp eager to pray.

And I saw a star in God's window, too,
After dark when the day was done;
And it seemed God whispered to my sad heart,
"I gave a Son . . . my only one."
Then the light from God's star pierced the night afar
And touched gently our folded hands.
And the stars in the windows seemed to say,
"He understands . . . God understands."

COLLIE IS LOST

MICHAEL B. Mooney of 2313 Twenty-ninth, as freckled-faced and red-haired an Irish lad as ever we saw, is sad these days and that's the truth on account of his collie "Tex" is missing. If you see "Tex" or hear of anyone who has will you please call Michael at 5968?

The dog had only been home a week after getting his discharge from the Army where he served on sentry duty for two years. He is described by his young owner as unusually large, sable and white, with a tattoo number "2U8" under his right rear flank. There is a worn place around "Tex's" neck where a collar has been worn.

He has an unusually long head, according to Michael who added that they were pals since he had owned him for three years before the animal was loaned to Uncle Sam. And although he has been doing sentry duty, the dog is not vicious but on the contrary will shake hands or lie down at the slightest order.

Since "Tex" had been at air fields and started at the sight of an airplane, Michael believes it is possible he will turn up at a base but he has checked LAAF and SPAAF to no avail.

Prisoners Eat Better Than Outside People

HOUSTON, July 2. (AP)—A picture of life in Texas prisons, where inmates are served unrationed helpings of bacon, ham and sugar was painted by Riley Wyatt of San Antonio, chairman of the Texas prison board which held a one day meeting here today.

"The boys in white are now eating better than people on the outside," Chairman Wyatt said. "They have their bacon, ham and eggs, because they produce them on the farm. They have their sugar because they also produce it themselves.

"I have just completed a week's inspection of the prison farms and will say that crops are better than ever in the history of the system," he said.

The prison board chairman also said that the prison population today totaling 2,802 is the lowest in the history of the system for years. Four years ago, Wyatt said when he became a member of the board, the Texas prison population was 7,000.

Other members of the prison board are J. W. Keeland, Houston; Claude McCan, Victoria; Jim Wheat, Woodville; Barney Harrison, Greenville; S. V. Chapman, Sherman; R. L. Edwards, Denison; T. N. Whiteside, Beaumont, and L. T. Murray, Waco.

Conquest Of Okinawa "Decisive Victory"

OKINAWA, July 2. (AP)—The American conquest of Okinawa was "a decisive victory" in which "our troops slugged their way through and proved again what we already know—that the Jap has no chance against Americans," Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell declared today.

Stilwell spoke on the Army hour radio program to the United States. He has assumed active command of the victorious Tenth Army to which he was appointed several days ago in succession to the late Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr.

Calling on the Okinawa campaign, in which Buckner was killed June 18, "the most severe fighting to date in the Pacific," Stilwell warned that "organized resistance on Okinawa crumbled as announced on June 21, but that does not mean the complete cessation of hostilities by any means.

"The Japs do not quit in a body; they have to be chopped up until there are none left."

Fliers Coming Home After 38 Missions

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Guam, July 2, (AP)—For eight fliers in one superfortress crew today's greatest superfortress raid on the Japanese homeland was the flight to end all flights.

After 35 missions they're heading for the barn—the U.S.A.

Lt. Robert M. Schumacher and Maj. J. S. Obenour of Tacoma, Wash., said: "We thought it would be tough but it was a wonderful finish for the eight of us. No flak. No fighters."

Capt. B. R. Olive of (1219 West 5th St.) Freeport, Tex., said he could see fires for a hundred miles after leaving the target area.

The crew in the superfort piloted by Lt. Nicholas Kilargis of Philadelphia narrowly escaped having a firebomb cluster explode in the bombbay. One bomb stuck when bombardier Lt. Theodore Peck of Milwaukee, Wis., released.

"We didn't know whether the the arming device until they could was then the bomb would explode in a few seconds," Kilgaris said.

"Under the direction of Peck, Lt. Howard Causby of Corpus Christi, Tex., and gunner Sgt. William Mobley of Louisville, Ky., went into the bombbay and held the arming device until htey could pull the bomb away from the hook and throw it out manually."

None of Brig. Gen. Roger Ramey's Tinian-based 58th wing's planes were lost.

General Ike In Fishing Hideout

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is vacationing in a secluded place and at his request his location is being withheld. Several hundred soldiers have met their commander-in-chief in his vacation retreat and these included a United Press war correspondent. The following story is published with the consent of Gen. Eisenhower but details of his whereabouts are purposely withheld.)

By CHRIS CUNNINGHAM
United Press War Writer

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stowed his fishing tackle after another luckless afternoon and I parked him comfortbly in the tenth row for a preview showing of Ernie Pyle's "Story of G. I. Joe."

That is the movie Hollywood turned out as a tribute to the infantry. Near the general sat half a dozen veterans. Some were in wheel chairs. Others hobbled in on crutches. These men had been through all of what they saw on the screen. I watched them and I could see that they felt everything that went on in that picture—the laughs and the sorrows, mostly sorrows.

Some Choke Up

Some of these men were too choked up to talk about it afterward—

"It's the greatest war picture I've ever seen,' 'General Ike told me later. "I used to think 'What Price Glory' was the greatest picture of them all, but this one has got that whipped.

"I've only one fault to find with it. Why is it that in war movies a soldier who is hit always dies? Actually the figures show that one of four wounded die. But this is a great picture. Very, very good. Excellent."

I found the general in his vacation hideout on the bank of a trout stream. Up in the mountains he is getting away from things for a little while. He spends the greater part of every day on the stream which is so conveniently located that it serves, also, as a hazard on the golf course.

With Eight Soldiers

He was with a group of eight soldiers when I found him, all of them convalescent from wounds received in the European theater. The trout were not biting that day and the general was fed up with fishing.

He was momentarily fed up with golf, too. As we talked a WAC corporal attached to the hospital took a lusty swing on the tee somewhere behind us. She sliced and the ball whistled within six inches of General Ike's head. He ducked and said he hadn't had a closer shave in the battle zone.

Winds Smash Hangar And Planes At Mexia

MEXIA, July 2. (AP)—Twisting winds smashed the central hangar and four airplanes at the Mexia airport last night during a storm which caused an estimated $15,000 damages.

The destroyed planes belonged to the Mexia flying service.

Winds tossed several parked light planes over the hangar section more than 50 yards. Accompanying lightning struck several homes in the town, causing property damage. No one has been reported injured.

This is the third severe wind storm here this year.

Gen. James Rodwell Returns From Europe

NEW YORK, July 2. (AP)—Brig. Gen. James S. Rodwell of Rio Grande City, Tex., was among 3,000 men returning from Europe who docked at Piermont, N. Y., yesterday.

Gen. Rodwell, assistant to the commanding general of the Fourth division which conquered St. Lo, was accompanied by 181 officers and enlisted men of his command on the transport Sea Owl.

Kiwanis Wins Close One 3-2 From ABC In Seventh Frame

With two out and the score tied in the last half of the seventh inning, Hulin Fowler worked his way out of a fast chase between third and home to score the run that gave the Kiwanis nine a 3-2 victory over the ABC's.

A fast and furious pitching duel developed early in the game. Buddy Weber held the Business club to four hits and no runs throughout the first six innings.

Fowler figured in the first Kiwanis scoring as well as th last. With one out in the first inning he walked. Buddy Weber was promptly struck out. It was then that catcher Charles Galey, formerly working at short stop, caught a down-the-middle pitch to send it up against the Boy's club wall for a home run.

Lester York began to match Weber's strike outs in the second inning, whiffing eleven before the game was over. He gave up only three more hits.

ABC began their half of the seventh with the fourth of five hits off Weber — a single by Clark. Clark then stole second base, and scored when Bridge doubled. Wilson gained first base on fielder's choice. G. Guy rolled a grounder into the infield and reached first when Wilson was caught at third. Guy was then put out at second and Strickland struck out, ending the rally.

Fowler walked and stole second to begin the last of the seventh. Weber walked, and both advanced a base. Lester York struck out the next two batters. Hulin Fowler came too far off of guard, and Bill Wylie threw to catch him. In the midst of the ensuing chase, the ball got away, admitting Fowler with the winning tally.

Very few bad plays were made during the course of the game. Both infields and pitchers were in rare form, York giving up four hits and Weber allowing five. Charles Galey caught for the Kiwanis; Bill Wylie for the ABC's.

Hank Greenberg Wildly Received At Briggs Field

NEW YORK, July 2. (U.P.) — When the big fellow walked to the plate and 47,729 Detroit fans shook the stadium with their cheers, he knew he was at "home" again — in more ways than one.

This was the life Hank Greenberg dreamed about when he gave up a $55,000 a year job with the Tigers to become a $21 a month private in Uncle Sam's army, the first major league player, to enlist in World War II. Now back at "home" plate, where his spiked shoes had printed the final stride on dozens of booming homers, he was ready to resume his career after a four year "time out" for a war.

The cheers that greeted him in a reception unsurpassed at Briggs stadium yesterday were more in appreciation for what the good-looking Jewish boy from New York's Bronx had done for his country than for the homer the fans hoped he would hit.

That first time up he didn't hit a homer, but before the game was over he rewarded the faithful by sending a whistling liner into the lower left field stands to give him a round trip ticket to "home."

It was a big day all around for Detroit. Winning two from the hapless Athletics, 9 to 5 and 5 to 3, while the Yankees dropped two to the White Sox, the Tigers now lead by three and half games in the American.

Gilbert Named As Top Player In Poll

NEW ORLEANS, July 2. (AP)—Harold (Tookie) Gilbert, first sacker of the unbeaten Jesuit High school state and city prep championship team, was named today as Louisiana's No. 1 baseball player of 1945.

Gilbert, 16-year-old son of Larry Gilbert, manager of the Nashville Vols, thus qualifies as a member of the East team for the All-American Boys' baseball game sponsored by Esquire magazine. The game is to be played at the Polo Grounds, in New York, Aug. 28.

The Eastern team will be managed by "Babe" Ruth and its opponents, the Western All-Star group, by "Ty" Cobb.

Gilbert was selected in a poll conducted by the New Orleans, big league scouts, umpires and sports editors.

Ted Mace, Comiskey team outfielder, New Orleans, was runner up and Robert Tuminello, Baton Rouge pitcher, was third.

Coming in behind Garrison, Electra high school coach, were Tom Nuckley of Chillicothe and Jack Parr of Electra, both with 74's. O. B. Smith of Memphis carded a 76.

Annual Meeting Held By 7 Clubs

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Representatives of seven American league baseball clubs held what they described as an uneventful five-hour meeting here today, preliminary to a joint session with National league officials at Washington, July 12.

Will Harridge, league president, told newsmen the representatives discussed "strictly internal business and nothing of interest to the public." Every club was represented except the New York Yankees.

"This was the league meeting usually held before the All-Star baseball game and is customarily routine in nature," Harridge added. The All-Star game was cancelled this year in deference to the Office of Defence Transportation.

Presumably, the officials discussed the budget of Sen. Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, new baseball commissioner, who inherits from the late commissioner, M. K. Landis, an office balance of slightly more than $100,000.

Chandler's "executive assistant," Leslie M. O'Connor, who served as Landis' secretary for 24 years, brought the commissioner's budget into the spotlight Friday when he disclosed he had sent a statement to Chandler itemizing distribution of surplus funds during the Landis regime.

O'Connor said he had voluntarily sent the statement, commenting: "There were exaggerated reports that Judge Landis diminished the commissioner's office funds through poor investments."

The statement detailed major items in the expenditure of $767,589.20 surplus under Landis. It listed a loss of $20,000 through investments made in interest-bearing Insull corporation securities, but O'Conner explained that Landis took a voluntary reduction in salary. "And his act," the secretary asserted, "repaid the loss 400 per cent, since he took a total reduction of more than $100,000 in salary."

Hugh Mulcahy Goes Back To Phillies After 51 Months

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, July 2 (AP) — Hugh Mulcahy, workhorse pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies and the first major leaguer to enter the armed services, is on his way back to Baker field and the big leagues.

The veteran hurler from West Newton, Mass., is a master sergeant in the Eighth Army Special Service section. Since he enlisted March 9, 1941, he has amassed enough points for his trip home under the army's discharge program.

And just to do the thing up right, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Eighth Army commander, pinned a Bronze Star on the big ballplayer just before he left.

Mulcahy, now almost 32, goes back to the Phillies 20 pounds under his pitching weight. During the current baseball season in the Philippines he has pitched and won seven games but his average stint has been only a few innings and it was impossible for him to get anywhere near his top form.

There has been some gossip out here that Mulcahy may be in line for managership of the Phillies. It is well known that Mulcahy has long been a close friend of General Manager Herb Pennock and has been receiving numerous messages from him.

For Mulcahy it will be tough to pick up where he left off. He was selected on the National league all-stars of 1940, and has the major-league record of having pitched 197 games and 1,065 innings. Until recently, he held the record for most games pitched in a season—56.

Thumbs Up Declared Out For Saturday

ARCADIA, Calif., July 2. (AP)—Thumbs Up, winner of Saturday's $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, today was declared out of the track's closing day feature race Saturday, the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano handicap at a mile and one-half.

The withdrawal will leave the Mexico City champion, Gay Dalton, as favorite. He finished third Saturday. Texas Sandman, winner of second place, will not compete in this week's feature.

Do You Know

HOW TO SHAVE?

MANY MEN shave all their lives, yet never learn how! They simply smear a little lather or brushless cream on their face, grab a razor, and shave. Result: scratch, scrape, pull—an irritated skin—an unsatisfactory shave—and much unflattering comment about blade, razor, soap or whatever!

TO SHAVE PROPERLY, the first requirement is adequate preparation. Wash your face thoroughly with hot water and ordinary soap to remove the grit, oil and perspiration that ordinarily coats the face, and to soften the hair. Use good hot water—the time required for proper softening decreases rapidly, the hotter your water is. Then rinse the face thoroughly.

Now apply a good shaving soap (rubbing the lather in well with fingertips) or, if you prefer, a brushless cream. These preparations further emulsify the natural oil of the skin and permit the hairs to be wet more thoroughly. Allow from two to three minutes, or even longer for these simple tasks, and your shave will be quicker, easier, and more satisfactory.

AND NOW, the last requirement of a good shave—the blade you use. There are many satisfactory blades on the market, but one is quite unique and offers a great advantage over usual blades. This blade is hollow ground. Usual blades are ground like a jackknife, like this /\. The hollow ground blade is ground like a barber's razor like this /‾\. Due to hollow grinding, this /‾\ blade is not held rigid by the razor guard. The slight "play" at the flexible edge permits the blade to follow facial contours effortlessly without "bearing down". And it's "bearing down" that irritates tender skins and wears out delicate blade edges prematurely.

So men, prepare your face properly, use plenty of time and water, get yourself some of those hollow ground blades and—learn to make shaving a pleasanter, easier task.

Miss Varner defeated Patty Nixon of San Antonio for the women's singles title, 6-1, 7-5. Doubling up with Mary Cunningham of El Paso, Miss Varner and her partner won the women's doubles crown from Rosemary Buck and Frances Morris, both of Dallas, 6-2, 6-2. Kallison To Buy Team And Park

SAN ANTONIO, July 2. (AP) — Morris Kallison, San Antonio merchant, plans to buy the San Antonio club of the Texas league, says the San Antonio Light.

"He isn't disturbed by word from Bill DeWitt, general manager of the St. Louis Browns, who own the San Antonio franchise, that he never heard of Kallison and, besides, might want as much as $100,000 for the Mission baseball rights," the newspaper says.

The Browns own only the franchise. The ball park is the property of the city schools and was rented by the Browns when the Texas league was operating. Kallison is quoted as saying he first intends to buy the park. The school board already has approved a plan to sell the property.

St. Louis Wins Twice From Bosox On Kreevich's Hits

ST. LOUIS, July 2. (AP)—Mike Kreevich easily was the hero of the St. Louis Browns, twin bill with the Boston Red Sox today, clinching a tightly-pitched second game with a double in the ninth to drive in two runs for a 3-2 victory, and pounding his first home run of the year with the bases loaded in the Browns' 7 to 1 triumph in the opener.

The fateful double robbed Boston's Randy Heflin of a victory in his first major league pitching role after two years in the Navy. He held the Browns to three hits moving into the ninth.

Boston led in the second game 2 to 0 at the start of the seventh, after going for seven innings in the opener without advancing a runner past first base. Mark Christman scored the Browns' first run in the seventh to pave the way for Kreevich's winning double.

Jack Jakucki, who limited Boston to five hits in the opener, also scored his first home run of the year in the eighth.

Manpower Situation Is Over The Hump

CHICAGO, July 2. (AP) — The manpower situation apparently is over the wartime hump in the American league which today showed a decrease in its servicemen's list for the first time since Pearl Harbor.

The League Service bureau reported that the junior circuit's total of players in the armed forces reached a peak of 268 two weeks ago, but since has tapered down to 263.

This resulted from the release from service of four well-known players, Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers; Red Ruffing, New York Yankee pitcher; Sam West, Chicago White Sox outfielder; and pitcher Pete Appleton of the St. Louis Browns—and a rookie pitcher, Charles Bowles of the Philadelphia A's.

White Sox Move Into Third Slot

CHICAGO, July 2. (AP) — The White Sox movsd into third place in the American league today by splitting a doubleheader with the second place New York Yankees as the Red Sox dropped two to the Browns.

The Sox slammed the Bronx Bombers, 11 to 6, in the opener for their fourth in a row over the McCarthymen but took it on the chin in the nightcap, 6 to 1, as the Yankees' Bill Zuber put a stop to the New Yorkers' five-game losing streak.

Orval Grove, seeking his ninth victory of the season, tried to make it a clean sweep of the five-game series for the Sox, but was driven to cover in the fifth.

The Sox won the opener with a four-run uprising in the fifth after the visitors had tied the score at 1-1 in the top of the inning. Ed Lopat pitched the entire way for the Sox while the Yanks' starting twirler, Floyd Bevens, was knocked out in the big inning.

VEGAS CHANCE WINS

TIJUANA, Mex., July 2. (U.P.)—Vegas Chance, four-year-old longshot, today hung up a three-length victory in the seventh Furlong Independence handicap at Hipodromo De Tijuana.

Bill Meyers' Queen Law trailed the Lawry and Elliott Springer to the wire and bested the favored Gold Vince by a half length for the place.

Nelson Wins In Open By Margin

CHICAGO, July 2. (U.P.)—John Byron Nelson, a former railroad auditor, today ruled golf with the same sweeping success by which Bobby Jones dominated the game in 1930, the year he completed his immortal grand slam.

Not since "Emperor" Jones and his famed putter, "Calamity Jane" captured the British and American open and amateur championships 15 years ago has any golfer taken such a strangleheld on the game as Nelson, the tall, powerful Texan with the ice nerves and mechanical swing.

Now a Toledo, O., umbrella salesman, Nelson has won every major tournament in America with the exception of the Los Angeles Open—and he has captured most of them going away.

He won his first Victory National Open, yesterday, with a 72-hole total of 275 strokes, 13 under par and seven better than his foremost rival, Defending Champion Harold (Jug) McSpaden. The Sanford, Mr., Veteran tied for second with Ky Lafoon, Chicago, at 282 strokes.

Ray Bolger, dancing musical comedy star, Boston-born, once sold insurance, vacuum cleaners, and worked in a bank.

Officers Have Busy Weekend

Police, sheriff and juvenile departments worked at an accelerated pace over the week-end.

Two drunk drivers were arrested. Juel Valter Wood, 35, of Lubbock, was charged with drunk driving, and was fined $50 and court costs and his driver's license was automatically suspended six months. A Eunice, N. M., resident was nabbed by highway patrolmen late yesterday afternoon eight miles southwest of Lubbock on the Brownfield highway, and was put in jail to await a similar charge.

Two Youths Held

Juvenile authorities said two boys, 14 and 15, would be returned to Lubbock from Port Lavaca to answer charges that they stole an automobile at Slaton Saturday night. They were in the custody of the Port Lavaca sheriff's department.

A Lubbock Army Air field officer, Capt. Morris Wilson, 26, paid a $1 traffic fine for parking near a fire plug, $15 for drunkeness and $15 for allegedly using abusive language to police officers. A flight officer from Carlsbad, N. M., paid $107 to compensate for damages he allegedly inflicted on city property at the city disposal plant, where he is supposed to have gone to get a drink of water.

An automobile, registered to J. T. Rinehearт of 906 Ave. J and reported stolen early yesterday, was announced recovered by police.

Liquor Law Charge

Charged with liquor law violation, J. B. Roberts posted bond of $750, the sheriff's office said. The complaint set up allegations of two former liquor law convictions as a predicate for asking for the enhanced penalty. The enhanced penalty was also sought in a drunkeness case filed against Volney Brown, 56, of Slaton. Two previous convictions for drunkeness were claimed. He was in county jail last night.

A. L. Tate, 46, was arrested on a grand jury indictment charging child desertion.

Police said that drunks were more in evidence over the week-end than at any similar period in several months.

San Angeloan Fined For OPA Violations

FORT WORTH, July 2. (AP) — Homer G. Nickel, owner and operator of the Twin Mountain package store in San Angelo, entered a plea of guilty to criminal contempt charges in federal district court here today and was fined $200 by Federal Judge W. H. Atwell.

Nickel admitted selling whiskey on April 21 in excess of ceiling prices and on April 23 of selling whiskey in combination with wine, rum and gin, in violation of OPA regulations, while he was under a permanent injunction issued by Federal Judge James C. Wilson to refrain from further OPA regulation violations.

The permanent injunction was issued by Judge Wilson on January 25, 1944, restraining Nickel from further violation of maximum price regulations.

Amarillo Pilot Low Over Jap Mainland

IWO JIMA, July 2. (AP)—One plane among Mustang fighters challenging Japs over the home island of Honshu yesterday flew low enough to clip high tension wires.

The ship, flown by Capt. Ernest McDonald of (119 Polk St.) Amarillo, Tex., came back with three feet of wire dangling from a wing.

"I was going about 350 (miles per hour)," McDonald said, "and there was a very noticeable jar."

McDonald said he saw the power lines in time to clear his propellor "but they hit the wings and the lower part of the fuselage."

Jap Snipers Fire At Gen. MacArthur

By LEE VAN ATTA
Representing The Combined American Press

WITH INVASION FORCES AT BALIKPAPAN, July 1. (Delayed) (AP) — General MacArthur drew angry Japanese sniper fire this afternoon as the Army's Pacific commander in chief surveyed enemy strongpoints from the most advanced command post less than 200 yards from the Nipponese defense positions.

Striding first through damp swampland and later up shale hills dotted with Aussie occupied foxholes, MacArthur reached a spur-like crescent overlooking Mount Malang, first important objective of his Australian forces on the right flank.

As he stood conferring with an Australian brigadier, eight shots rang out, singing like a beehive. Staff members automatically ducked but MacArthur and the brigadier continued to pore over a large scale grid map completely unperturbed.

"He's been there for a bit of a time, you know," the brigadier murmured to the commander in chief. "We'll root him out later today."

With terse questions MacArthur probed the general and his staff for each development of the campaign—only four hours old at the time he went ashore.

Many Restaurants At Amarillo Closed

AMARILLO, July 2. (AP)—Seventy per cent of the restaurants here were closed today, saying they had no food and no ration points to replenish depleted supplies.

The Amarillo Restaurant association plans to meet tomorrow night in an effort to find a workable solution.

C. F. Sentell, district rationing attorney from Lubbock said at a recent meeting between OPA officials and restaurant men that the situation resulted from using too many ration points in one month instead of spreading them over two.

In Lubbock a wholesale grocery, three cafes and a retail bakery closed today for one week because of food shortages. The wholesaler said stocks were down to one-third of normal and no new merchandise was available.

Kuching air base—400 miles from Singapore.

The Tokyo radio in another broadcast heard by the Federal Communications commission declared that "the curtain is about to be raised on the homeland battle" and reiterated that "both men and women, young and old, would join in a suicidal defense for an "ultimate victory."

It asserted that new and improved suicide planes would attack the invasion fleet and "if the enemy manages to barely reach the shores, our air force and surface special-attack corps will attack him in body-crashing action."

And if the invaders get ashore, the broadcast added, "our Army forces will thoroughly smash him with body-crashing tactics also."

Nips Say "You Just Wait"

Admitting damage was spreading in cities hit by the Superfortresses, Tokyo continued: "We are permitting the enemy to raid us with his B-29s and P-51s while we are striving to make even one more extra plane."

New crack fighter planes are being turned out in great numbers, Tokyo went on and would soon go into action to "bring down enemy B-29s before the very eyes of the people."

Tokyo claimed that the United States and Great Britain, fearing defeat in invasion would crush the fighting spirit of their peoples, were trying to entice Russia to enter the conflict to end the war quickly.

ed by a responsible London informant. In London, too, eight noncommissioned German officers went on trial charged with staging a mock court in a British prisoner of war camp and of hanging a fellow prisoner who was not a Nazi.

From Wiesbaden, Germany, an Associated Press correspondent said the feuds and personal grudges which split the German general staff during the last stages of the war still continued during the captivity of these leaders.

By the end of June, it was disclosed, more than a quarter of a million U. S. troops had passed through the Le Harve embarkation port bound for the United States. Supreme headquarters announced that 3,200,000 of Europe's homeless had returned to their lands ,with 2,530,000 still remaining for repatriation. In Russia, the first groups of demobilized Red Army men began arriving home.

Quick Approval Of Charter Due

and it is possible that every nation will have acted by late fall.

The treaty designed to safeguard the world against aggression might attain unanimous ratification even earlier but for the necessary preliminary in some nations of reinstituting legislative bodies which were strangled during German occupation.

Interested In U. S.

All capitals expressed interest in the drive for quick indorsement in the United States Senate, but no government spokesman suggested that his government might wait to see what the United States would do.

Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow reported that "what the United States does or what is said in debate there certainly is not likely to affect Russia's stand one iota." He added that the Soviet union "undoubtedly will be one of the first nations to approve the charter."

The only delay in Britain's formal acceptance probably will be the interlude before the new parliament convenes Aug. 1. The British cabinet's approval of treaties is announced formally in Commons.

Quick Action Expected

Even quicker action was probable in France, where an official spokesman said Gen. De Gaulle's government could ratify the pact merely through publication in the official journal after approval by the cabinet, with no action by the consultative assembly needed.

In Chungking, China's ratification was expected shortly and without the slightest hitch, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa reported.

Won Wen-Hao, acting president of the legislative Yuan, will refer the charter to the supreme national defense council, which meets today.

Ratification in Belgium and Norway must await parliamentary elections in the fall; but the new government in Holland has announced that one of its first steps will be the creation of an emergency parliament, which would have authority to ratify.

Denmark's Riksdagen, now in session, was expected to act promptly after Danish delegates return to Copenhagen from San Francisco.

Argentina's foreign minister, Cesar Ameghino, said last Wednesday, that ratification could be expected "soon;" presumably by an executive decree by President Edelmiro Farrell.

Mexico's congress convenes in September and is expected to indorse the agreement quickly.

Madame Chiang

American aid was not forthcoming in the volume China had hoped for after Madame Chiang's visit to the United States, the elders added to their argument that she had less influence in America than Chiang had believed. They are reported to have raised doubts in the generalissimo's mind as to the advisibility of permitting her, almost single-handed, to shape China's relations with the United States.

Madame Chiang, a nervous and high strung woman, smarted under the growing tide of criticism and the fact that Chiang had sided with her critics on many issues. She suffered a recurrence of an allergic skin ailment which doctors described as due largely to a high state of nervous agitation and exhaustion.

There was a welter of rumors and a fund of fiction, circulated in China and later published in the United States, of quarrels between the madame and the generalissimo over a younger rival for the generalissimo's affections, of a baby born to the generalissimo of a Chinese nurse. These stories, according to the best information available in Chungking, were baseless. Their origin was unclear. Some persons suggested that they were a part of the general campaign to discredit the madame in the eyes of the Chinese public by pointing up the fact that she had borne the generalissimo no heir—valid excuse for divorce or the taking of a concubine by ancient Chinese tradition. These stories finally were scotched by the generalissimo himself at a fantastic tea party at which, in the presence of his wife and his assembled guests, Chiang denied the rumors of his infidelity.

While the rumors of domestic complications may have been a contributing factor, it was the continued personal and political criticisms that prompted Madame Chiang's sudden decision to quit China and abandon her role as one of China's most influential policy makers.

Heavy Blows Dealt Jap Fuel Supplies

MANILA, Tuesday, July 3. (AP) —Unrelenting heavy bomber raids have knocked out 90 per cent of Formosa's alcohol production capacity in one more blow at Japan's shrinking fuel supplies, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

His communique reported that a raid on the island completed the destruction of the big Heito sugar alcohol plant, which went up in what was described as "five tremendous explosions."

Fifth Air force and Seventh Fleet Liberators hit the naval base of Mako in the Pescadores for the second day in a row Saturday.

The around - the - clock aerial blockade of the Asiatic coast, extended now all the way from Shanghai southwestward to the Malay peninsula, sank eight coastal freighters and three luggers in 24 hours.

To the south, the tempo of neutralizing attacks was rising as heavy bombers blasted airdromes on the Celebes day and night and other heavies turned their attention on Malang air base in Eastern Java.

lative day on capitol hill today right where it started — moneyless and technically out of business.

Within the space of two hours, two attempts of the agency's backers to toss it a financial lifeline were rebuffed by major House committees.

First the rules committee, by a tie vote of five to five, refused to approve procedure allowing the House to act on a Senate amendment to the House-passed $771,000,000 war agencies supply measure giving FEPC $250,000.

New Measure Offered

Shortly therafter the appropriations committee, by a behind-closed-doors vote reported as 20 to 11, tabled the whole war agencies bill as passed by the Senate and reported out a new measure without a penny for FEPC.

The committees' action left FEPC and sixteen home front war agencies on a legislative merry-go-round that threatened to keep whirling long enough to block House plans for a two-months vacation starting next week.

FEPC's difficulties do not affect the finances of the other sixteen agencies. Congress took care of their financial needs for the fiscal year that started yesterday by allowing them to spend money in anticipation of the funds they eventually will get when the war agencies measure becomes law.

struck by American fire raiders since the incendiary campaign was launched March 10 with the first such attack on Tokyo. Today's was the 33rd incendiary and explosive bomb attack on Japan in a week.

Returned crew members reported they observed "good to excellent" fires spreading and some described the conflagration at Kure — Japan's largest inland sea naval base — as "wonderful." There was only weak Japanese fighter opposition and ground guns offered but meager and inaccurate fire.

Mitchells From Okinawa

Other American planes, including medium B-25 Mitchell bombers on their first mission from newly-conquered Okinawa, contributed to a bad week-end for the Nippon mainland.

Twenty-three of the Seventh Air force B-25s, escorted by Marine Corsairs, raided the Chiran airdrome on southern Kyushu island without encountering opposition beyond light ground fire.

Associated Press correspondent Al Dopking reported from Okinawa that they were probably the first B-25s over Japan since Doolittle's carrier-launched Mitchells made their historic raid April 18, 1942.

that carrier planes were participating in the operation. (The Japanese in an ambiguous broadcast Sunday night had referred to carriers.)

One American plane was lost in operations which included attacks on Tawao airfield and a supply area at Redeb.

By nightfall Sunday the Australian troops had overrun more than half the Klandasan section of Balikpapan, which formerly was the European residential quarter of the town.

Swing Toward Airfield

Part of the Australian force swung north from the town's flaming ruins and was reaching within two miles of the Sepinggang airfield, a 4,650-foot strip which the Japanese had built three miles from Balikpapan.

Despite stiffening resistance from an enemy who had been shocked on D-day by the heaviest pre-invasion bombardment ever unleashed in the Southwest Pacific, Allied losses were declared to be still light.

Capture of a 200-foot hill on the Aussie left flank put a stop to the accurate mortar and machine gun fire with which the Japanese had been harassing them.

Continued gunning by the U. S. Seventh Fleet silenced remaining Japanese coastal batteries which had met the invasion with intermittent fire.

Most Areas In Ruins

The invaders had not yet taken any important industrial area of Balikpapan, but all the refineries and tank farms appeared to be in total ruin.

Developing their invasion steadily, however, the veterans of the Seventh division had pushed their right flank a mile and a half east along the broad, mangrove-studded beach and had forded the Ketjil river, while their left flank gained three-quarters of a mile to the west.

Both wings had strong air support from Army and Navy planes, the Navy Wildcats and Avengers under Rear Adm. W. D. Sample overtaking an enemy truck convoy fleeing north and hitting 15 vehicles.

Sepinggang airfield, a first objective, is one of two good strips in the area.

CARLSBAD, N. M., July 2. (AP) —Col. W. H. Reid, commanding officer of Carlsbad Air field, reported today that 12 bodies had been recovered from wreckage of a four engine bomber from Davis-Monthan field at Tucson, Ariz., which crashed Saturday night.

Reid said the crash in rugged country about 20 miles east of Salt Flat, Tex., southeast of Carlsbad, was reported by the pilot of a westbound American airlines plane who saw the crackup and resultant fire.

All aboard the plane were killed, Reid reported. Names of the dead were not announced.

Odessa And OPA

ment, Murray said. He said he had a signed statement from Burks that Burks did not know registration of houses built in the last year was required.

ALL PROPERTY OWNERS ARE NAMED DEPUTIES

ODESSA, July 2. (AP) — A. J. Burks, mayor of Odessa, proclaiming that "a dangerous condition has arisen" in that city, said he had appointed every property owner within the Odessa limits a special officer.

"To check any further confiscation of property without due process of law," said the mayor in his proclamation, published yesterday as the climax of a series of advertisements he had been running against the OPA.

"Sour grapes," said Roy C. Hecox, regional OPA enforcement attorney, commenting at Dallas on the mayor's action.

The OPA on June 20 filed in federal district court at Pecos, Tex., a suit charging the mayor with violation of rent control regulations.

Burks said today he had received three or four applications for appointment "as special deputies to protect their property against federal rent control."

He said he planned a mass swearing in of all such deputies some time after a meeting of owners of rental property which he would call late this week or the first of next.

The proclamation said that when such property owners were sworn in by the mayor they would have full authority to protect life and property at any and all times, and asserted that OPA had:

"Forced our dairies out of business, starved our children for want of milk, almost stopped raising of cattle and hogs . . . confiscated our homes, . . . stopped any income from investments, . . . allowed all prices to rise beyond any reason except rents, . . . made it unsafe for a property owner to ask a renter to move."

At Lubbock district OPA enforcement Attorney Frank R. Murray said that Burks' position as mayor of Odessa had nothing to do with filing of the OPA civil suit against him.

Mr. Byrnes Takes Over

The New Secretary Is A 'Natural'

THERE is no doubt that the overwhelming majority of Americans approve the appointment and confirmation of James F. Byrnes as Secretary of State.

There is no doubt that in his selection of Mr. Byrnes, President Truman chose the most widely experienced man, in governmental service, our country has to offer.

And, judging from past records, there is little doubt that Mr. Byrnes will make a good Secretary of State in an era when a good one is demanded. Further, and heaven forbid, should anything happen to Mr. Truman, the North Carolinian who would then succeed to the White House would enter into his duties better prepared than anyone else in the national picture today.

Not only will the wide experience of Mr. Byrnes serve the nation and the President well in the affairs of state. His long, strong personal friendship with Mr. Truman will make it easy for the two men to understand each other; to confer fully and honestly with one another; to work together in the task of steering the American Ship of State alongside the ships of state of other nations. In every way, and from every angle, the appointment of Mr. Byrnes to the No. 1 cabinet position was a "natural," and that fact is appreciated by millions of Americans who, ordinarily, know little or nothing about appointees to the highest government positions.

Although much of his life has been spent in official Washington, and in the councils of the great, "Jimmie" Byrnes, as his intimates call him, has never lost the flavor of the small town and of the South, from which he stems.

He will view the problems of his office more from the standpoint of the average American citizen, than from that of the trained diplomat, or the product of the courts, or of Big Business. Thus, he will be able, we think, to express in trades and treaties, the wishes of the American people, rather than of segments of the people seeking advantages for their particular groups.

Although the two men do not have, even in the least, a physical likeness, there is much in the Byrnes outlook and attitude that is similar to the outlook and attitude of Cordell Hull, who for so many years was the bulwark of American diplomacy. Both are from the people and neither have ever veered away from the people, despite honors heaped upon them. Both are extremely democratic men despite the fact that high rank usually causes its holders to become detached from their fellow citizens. And Mr. Byrnes, like Mr. Hull, is an American citizen first, a world citizen next. In short, each man is blessed with common sense, as well as with a sincere desire for his country to be an active member of the great family of nations which all decent men realize must be brought together in the future than has ever been the case in the past.

The fact that the U. S. Senate confirmed Mr. Truman's appointment of Mr. Byrnes in record-breaking speed and without dissenting vote was in accordance with tradition, of course. As a former member of the Senate, Mr. Byrnes had that sort of reception due him in the upper House of Congress.

Yet we hazard that even if Mr. Byrnes hadn't had coming, by tradition, such generous reception by the Senate, he would have gotten it, anyway. For he has earned the confidence of the Senate, and of the people, throughout decades of good service to his country and in many forms. His entrance into the President's official family strengthens a cabinet already stronger than the nation has seen at any one time in many, many years.

It's A Serious Problem

"IT'S liable to get wusser before it gets better," was the way one Lubbock food handler put it yesterday when discussing with an Avalanche-Journal reporter the fact that several cafes and one wholesale grocery house had been forced temporarily to close their doors.

That the food handler was as "right as rain," few people will argue. Something has gone radically wrong with the U. S. food picture, and it will stay wrong until (1) there is more food; (2) there is better administration of the food problems in Washington, or a combination of the two.

The demands of our own armed forces, deployed around the world, plus needs of allied fighting men, would have disrupted the food picture to some extent; the needs of impoverished peoples in Europe and elsewhere would have added to the disruption, regardless of how efficient the administration of food problems might have been.

But there is widespread suspicion that better administration would have made the food problem less serious than it is, and easier of solution.

Perhaps we shall learn some day how much of the trouble can be laid to actual demand and how much to bungling in high places.

"Money will not make you happy," asserts an editor. Well, maybe not—but at least it will keep you from having to take misery on an empty stomach.

By the end of August the summer people had gone, and the season was past for boarders. We still owed the bank $200. Outwardly my mother showed no discouragement. "We've decided to stay here a little longer," she would say pleasantly when people asked about our plans. But she didn't fool us girls or my father, either.

Early in September he had an idea. "The government is taking bids for the stage line," he said. "There's no reason why someone on this end shouldn't have it." Until now it had been held at the Junction.

The stage carried not only mail, but express and passengers as well. We had a covered double-seated wagon (which we had every reason to believe would hold out until snow), a pung, and two horses that would otherwise be idle now that the summer was over. It meant only buying another pair. Those paid for, the checks from the government would be clear profit, my father argued.

My mother offered no opposition. Perhaps she thought it would do good. Perhaps she was desperate enough to try almost anything.

My father's bid was accepted, and on the very day he got the news, he hired Jay as a driver. Jay had been working in the quarry, but he was equipped for greater things. He was young, ruddy, and substantial. He had bright, joking eyes and a quick, lively speech. Before he had been on the route a week, every man, woman, and child was his friend.

His job wasn't easy. He had to start out at 6 in the morning in order to connect with the 8:40 train. Then he had to change horses, turn back, and get in at noon. He left again at 1, changed horses for a second time, met the 4:15, and headed home. You could set your clocks by him when he drove up to the post-office at 7.

He made good time, too, considering what happened along the way. There was the mail to sort. People wrote letters in those days, and every family took some kind of paper. Then there were the catalogs — Charles Williams, The National Cloak and Suit Company, Sears and Roebuck, Montgomery Ward. And there were the errands. If you couldn't get out to make a purchase, you paid the stage driver 5 cents to make it for you, either in the village or at the Junction. He would get you anything you wanted — needles, pins, buttons, medicine, packages of seed for your garden. Of if you had run out of something, he would match it for you—thread, crochet cotton, braid. You could even trust Jay to pick things out. A pattern. Dress goods.

He took messages, too—invitations, reminders, greetings. It was easier to tell Jay than to bother to write out a card. It was pleasanter, too, for Jay added something to every word he spoke. Not all of the messages were social ones. "Bill Leach wants to know when he should take off his bandage," he might say to my father. Or "Bert Billings can't figger why his burn don't heal." Sometimes the stage came dashing in a good half-hour ahead of schedule to announce a birth that was imminent.

People who had never trusted things to the stage before trusted them to Jay. Sometimes he had more of a load than the wagon could manage, even with ropes to hold it on. An organ might come along the same day as a plow, and there were always perishables to consider—crates of chickens and tubs of mackerel. Half the time something had to be left behind. Jay was smart in handling this problem. A box marked Millinery Do Not Crush must be delivered at once. A wash tub could wait until the end of the week.

People always wanted Jay to see what they had bought, and somehow before he was on his way again, a rug was unrolled, a sofa uncrated, or a knitting machine set up. He had carried these machines to almost every house on his route, and women seemed to take it for granted that when they gave any trouble, Jay would repair them. It was a wonder how he managed to keep his schedule.

He couldn't have done it without the help of his passengers. This was something he never had to ask for. It was an honor to help Jay. If you sat in the front seat, you sorted the papers. If you sat in back, you watched to see that the ropes didn't slip, and, if the load was bulky, as likely as not you held a crate of chickens in your lap.

People who had their own teams often preferred to go with Jay. The return trip cost only $1, and when you drove yourself, you had to stable your horse for the day, they reasoned. Besides, Jay could always show you things you wouldn't otherwise have seen. A flock of bluebirds migrating. A maple beginning to turn. An owl no bigger than your fist right out in the daylight. The red, bushy tail of a fox disappearing into a thicket. A pair of moose eyes through the alders.

The first month Jay carried 38 passengers and 402 pieces of express. That had brought in $88. The check from the government had been $90. Of the $178, $40 had gone to Jay, $35 to the stable at the Junction for the board of the horses, and the remaining $100 toward the horses themselves. Since they had cost $200, this left us, as far as the stage line was concerned, only $100 in the red.

My father was delighted. At the end of November we would be breaking even, he said, and from then on we would show clear profit.

"We will be home by Christmas, easy," he promised.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

IT IS eight o'clock in the evening, and ever since nine o'clock this morning I have been trying to sit down at my typewriter to write my column.

But not a single thought would come out of my head. It was so frightfully hot that my brain simply refused to function.

I went out into the garden to get some fresh air, but the outdoors was just like a blast furnace. Back into the house again for some cold water and more cold water, and the more I drank the hotter I got.

Who can look at life when the perspiration is breaking out all over you and life is a hot oven in which you slowly roast to a frazzle?

But now there is a terrific thunderstorm outside. The rain is coming down in torrents and it is pitch dark.

And a moment ago a blinding flash of lightning broke right over our house, and I surely thought it had struck.

Deuce, my little Sealyham, is terror-stricken. While I am writing this he is desperately trying to climb into my lap for protection, and he simply cannot understand the awful thunder.

BRANDEIS

His little dog brain cannot grasp why nature is growling and grumbling at him when he hasn't done a thing to deserve its wrath.

But the thought that comes to me now is that in spite of nature's anger, we are so much better off than our boys over in the Pacific.

At least we are dry and indoors and protected.

But they must go on, no matter how much it rains and thunders and how much mud and heat and dirt and danger there is all around them.

Yesterday I bought another war bond and I felt that I was a pretty patriotic sort of a guy, because in every one of the seven drives I had bought my share and what more could they expect of me?

But now, when I am getting a very mild sort of demonstration of what those boys are up against, I feel pretty small and insignificant and unheroic.

Thunder and lightning and rain and darkness, yes.

But there are no Japanese planes overhead, and no machine guns and no danger of losing a leg or an arm or my life.

I KNOW that in a half hour the sun will be shining again—as a matter of fact it is beginning to clear up right now—and I'll be outdoors, picking cherries off my tree.

But over there, sun or clouds, rain or shine, those boys have to go on. Some of them will never come back. Some of them will come back crippled and heartsick and mind-sore.

Maybe it's a good idea for nature to show us every once in a while what danger is.

I wish I could explain it to Deuce — although he seems to sense it better than a good many human beings.

And now the evening sun is breaking out—good night to you and to your boys. May they come back safely.

Baruch Plan Crumbling

German Industry Has Defenders

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

POWERFUL but hidden opposition has cropped up in Washington and London to Bernard M. Baruch's plan to raze Germany's heavy industries in an effort to prevent the Reich from plunging the world into another global war within 25 years. The movement has considerable support within certain circles at our State department and 10 Downing Street.

Official observers have reported that, despite the terrific bombing suffered by the Nazis, many plants which manufacture war weapons and materials were hardly touched. It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the enemy's industrial facilities can be put into running order in a few months, provided that the Allies supply machinery and repairs. The immediate controversy centers on that specific point.

TUCKER

The anti-Baruch industrialists do not say openly Germany should be reindustrialized on a permanent basis. They simply indicate that it would be folly to neglect these resources in the rebuilding of Europe. Similer suggestions have come from financial and industrial factions in Paris and Moscow.

It is stated here that in the areas assigned to the British for aerial destruction, hardly a chemical plant was destroyed. Although surrounding structures, railways and supply centers were ruined by precision bombing, the main factories survived. The Nazis themselves admit that it was the destruction of their transportation and communications lines which caused their defeat.

Oddly enough, many advocates of a lenient policy to the Thyssen-Krupp-Farbenindustrie clique are former New Dealers who have quit their official posts to earn handsome fees as counsel for corporations involved in the international cartels of prewar days.

MEAT: Housewives should not use their red points too recklessly because of Washington promises that House reforms of the OPA setup will mean a plentiful supply of meat for their tables. Although the amendments, which must still get through the Senate, were well intentioned, a close study hints that the changes will not bring improvement.

The provision permitting slaughterhouses to ship meat across state lines seems to offer the greatest hope of easing scarcities. Under present conditions people living near these centers could get good cuts, while folks dependent on Federal abattoirs which serviced the armed forces were out of luck. The revision is supposed to benefit the populations not so fortunately situated.

But these local houses have been the principal sources for the black market, which pays higher prices than the regular trade. There is no reason to believe that they will send their stuff to the honest dealers by reason of a new law, especially as OPA has an insufficient policing force.

IGNORANT: The requirement that OPA fix decent prices for all producers and handlers of meat should also increase the total supply. But the basic statute has always contained that proviso.

The law has not been enforced, which has compelled many packers and distributors to go out of business, because OPA's administrators were wholly ignorant of the intricacies and ramifications of the meat industry. A change of personnel is needed, but few practical experts will enter the government at this late date.

Most serious obstacle to betterment, despite these legislative steps, will be the railroad transportation troubles from now until Spring of 1946. The redeployment of several million men, together with furlough travel, will swamp all facilities.

In short, the House enacted the amendments with its tongue in its cheek. It had to meet constituents' and governors' rising clamor against famine, and the only possible political remedy was to repolish the law. But you can't eat House Joint Resolution 101 as amended.

POLITICS: President Roosevelt's death and Harry Truman's accession to the White House are the behind-the-scenes reasons for the recent epidemic of Democratic absenteeism in the House of Representatives. Majority truancy has been responsible for numerous parliamentary upsets for administration forces, and Speaker Rayburn has given his group several lectures.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THIS is the lull before the labor storm. Sporadic strikes are merely the warning lightning flashes and the distant rumble of thunder. The real tempest has not yet broken, but it will burst before the end of Summer unless union demands are heeded.

Informed business and labor circles are fully cognizant of trouble ahead. Each is making plans for the inevitable. The public is still unaware of the impending crisis.

The present unrest manifests itself in disputes over apparent trivialities — a walkout occurs because lunch-time checker games are prohibited. But experts maintain that this is a symptom of nerve strain aggravated by deep discontent.

LEMAN

A group of influential New York corporation executives have just returned from a tour of the Pittsburgh area. Here are a couple of firsthand examples of what they found:

The contract with blast furnace workers provides for a brief rest period at stipulated intervals when the mercury in the thermometer reaches a specified high mark. After the cooling-off recess the men go back to the grind.

Normally, from late May until Fall, employes have these deserved pauses. This Spring was very cold and the knock-off point was never registered. But the men struck for the extra breathers regardless of contracts.

A group of women welders went on a slowdown because they objected to being transferred to unfamiliar tasks even though their original jobs were ended by a military cutback. The women were fired on a 10-day dismissal notice. They stayed home the 10 days and then the union demanded their reinstatement.

Workers elsewhere downed tools in protest against meat sandwiches being sliced too thin. Bus drivers in New York left 50,000 weekend vacationists stranded on a beach three miles from a terminal as the result of a row over 15-minute lunch period with pay.

Previously, because of another squabble, drivers in the heart of the city operated their busses at a snail's pace ,thus delaying millions of workers in getting to and from their places of business.

WORRIED: Since V-E day there have been minor strikes in key industries such as rubber, automobile, iron, steel, glass, printing, meat packing, farm machinery, electrical, artillery ammunition and in several modes of transportation.

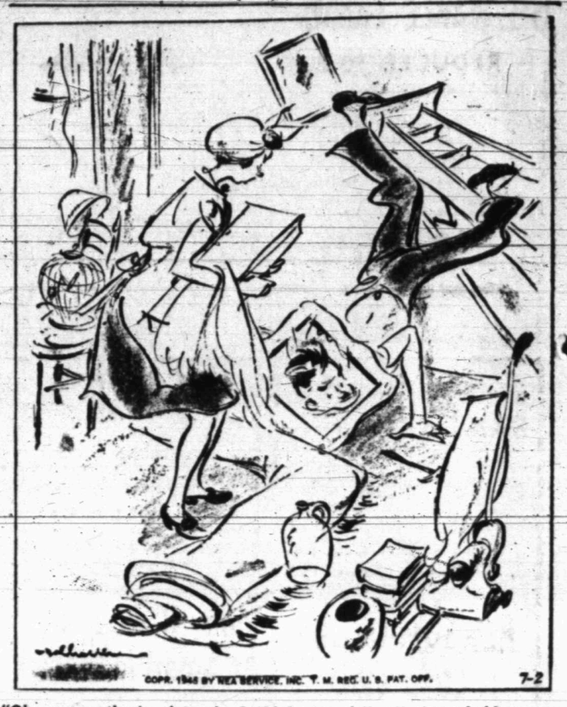

An ugly set-to looms in the Pacific Northwest with lumberjacks and mill hands who have been refused a minimum wage of $46 a week. The United Automobile Workers are debating whether or not to tie up the Detroit motor plants if present grievances are not promptly adjusted. And complaints buzz in West Coast shipyards where vessels disabled by the Japanese are being repaired.

Conservative Wall Street offices ballyhoo that the new line of the Communist Political association is at the bottom of the disturbances. One can be sure that the Foster gang will stir the witches' broth. Commies will take advantage of discontent that already exists but it gives this bunch too much credit to take for granted the labor jumps through its hoop.

The great basic unions — steel, coal, automotive etc.—have millions of new members who are not so disciplined as old-timers and who worry about the future.

If everyone were like us a politician's speech over the radio would be a soliloquy.

Reconversion Problems Are Very Real Now

Detroit Pre-Views Unemployment

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

DETROIT. — Here in the nation's greatest single war production center is found a replica of the manifold problems of reconversion from war to peacetime production that face industrial sections elsewhere.

This is a sort of preview here. Here the show already has started. Here and there is beginning the slow and tedious removal of machinery for making the implements of war and installation of machinery for making automobiles and other items for normal times. This is accompanied by unemployment, at least temporarily, and by the outbreak of jurisdictional strikes by CIO and AFL over which should get the jobs of moving and replacing machinery.

STOKES

The reconversion, even in its early stages, finds both management and labor in a nervous and excitable state. Each is warily watching the other, each fearful that the other will try to capitalize the unavoidable confusion of the change-over for its own advantage.

Both Camps Jittery

Management suspects labor of trying to increase its influence in industry and labor is suspicious that management will try to exploit the temporary unemployment and lay-offs to break down union controls.

It is evident that much tolerance and understanding will be required, here and elsewhere, if the country emerges from this period without serious difficulties. The problems are not simple.

Unemployment already is a fact here. Young Henry Ford, grandson of the automobile manufacturer, said that 50,000 to 60,000 workers will have to be laid off in their plants here because of production quotas assigned. He addressed state governors who spent a day here on their way to Mackinac Island for their annual conference.

DRAMATIZING the problem that will recur in many kinds of plants all over the country, was completion of the last bomber to be produced at the giant Willow Run Ford plant. It was "christened" mischieviously with a wad of gum plastered under the gear guns by a young woman worker on her last day at the plant. Only a few workers were left at the time.

The vast plant stands idle. How it and others like it all over the country can be utilized is a problem that concerns Washington and labor. This is a test of our ability to use our war resources to provide peacetime jobs.

Young Mr. Ford deplored the outbreak of labor trouble "when there is so much to do in reconversion." The way he said it seemed to indicate the tack that industry may take in trying to shift the responsibility to labor for troubles in the re-conversion period.

Labor Trouble Has Begun

Labor trouble has begun. Forty-six thousand workers went out on strike at various plants over the peculiar jurisdictional dispute incident to reconversion of which Detroit got a big and pungent taste, that is, as to whether CIO or AFL should move and replace machinery. It had to be taken to Washington, where it was settled with an agreement providing for local joint committees to handle this new type of conflict, with an appeal to national union committees.

This inter-union bickering seems silly and wasteful.

The tremendous reconversion problem was impressed upon a group of newspaper correspondents who were taken on a tour of the River Rouge plants where the slow job of moving out the tools for production of bombers, tanks, trucks, and the like and re-installation of machines and assembly lines for automobile production is going on.

A STRANGE and unaccustomed quiet hangs over the big buildings. Some automobile assembly lines are nearly ready. Henry Ford is getting ready fast for peacetime business. Three hand-made sample cars, the 1946 model, sat out on the lawn in front of the Dearborn Inn for inspection by the visiting governors.

Another problem that has been called to the attention of Congress by President Truman is clearer here than it seems to be to Congress. It was revealed in figures released by the Social Security board showing that Michigan's unemployment compensation reserve fund, upon which there have been greater drains in recent years than elsewhere, is enough to pay out maximum benefits to only 43 per cent of workers covered. Michigan's law provides $26 for 20 weeks. Other states are less generous, some far less so.

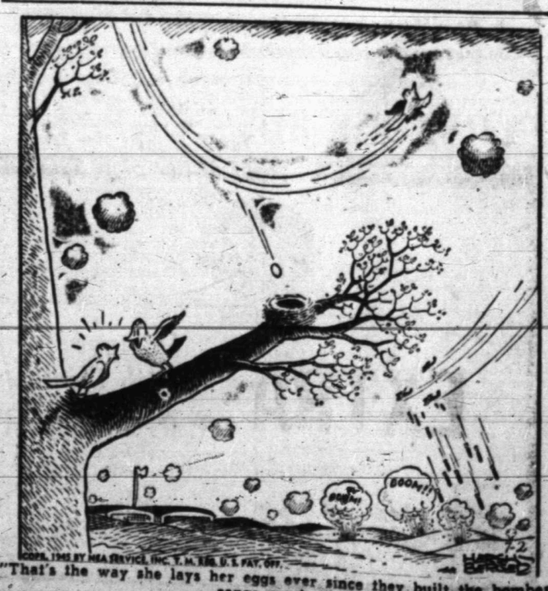

President Truman has recommended a compromise federal-state plan under which the federal government would contribute to provide for payment of at least $25 for 26 weeks all over the country. Congress has done nothing about it.

Perhaps it would be wise for congressional leaders to come here and take a look around.

TO END STRIKE

SHREVEPORT, La., July 2 (U.P.) —Full operation of the local Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company plant was expected by tomorrow, company officials said today, following an agreement yesterday of some 600 CIO striking glass workers to return to their jobs.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK, TEXAS

Sealed proposals will be received by The Housing Authority of the City of Lubbock, Texas, (hereinafter called the "Local Authority") at its office at 323 Avenue F in the City of Lubbock, Texas until twelve (12) o'clock Noon (CWT) on July 10, 1945, for the sale of its Temporary Loan Note or Notes in the aggregate principal amount of Four Hundred Eighty-Eight Thousand Dollars ($488,000.00), and designated Temporary Loan Note (Fourth Series), at which time such proposals will be opened and canvassed. Such note or notes will be dated July 31, 1945, and will be payable to bearer on August 6, 1946. The proceeds of such note or notes are to be used to pay the expenses incurred or to be incurred in the development of a housing project or to refund, renew or extend outstanding notes issued in connection therewith, and for which the Federal Public Housing Authority has agreed to make a loan to the Local Authority to assist in the development thereof.

For the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on such note or notes, the full faith and credit of the Local Authority will be pledged and such note or notes will be further secured by a requisition agreement between the Local Authority and the Federal Public Housing Authority under the terms of which agreement the Federal Public Housing Authority agrees to purchase an advance loan note of the Local Authority prior to the maturity of such temporary loan note or notes in an amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest thereof, and agrees to cause the proceeds of such advance loan note to be deposited at the Bank at which such temporary loan note or notes is payable for the benefit of the holder or holders thereof. Such note or notes will bear interest at the rate per annum fixed in the proposal which is accepted for the purchase of such note or notes, will be issued in such denominations, and both principal and interest thereof will be payable at such incorporated Bank having trust powers or incorporated Trust Company, as the purchaser designates in his proposal; such Bank or Trust Company must be a member of the Federal Reserve System and must have an unimpaired capital and surplus of not less than the aggregate principal amount of notes herein offered for sale, provided, however, that such unimpaired capital and surplus need not exceed One Million Dollars. The note or notes will provide that they are not valid until after such Bank or Trust Company has signed the agreement, appearing on each note, to act as paying agent. The note or notes will be transmitted to such Bank or Trust Company for delivery to the purchaser upon receipt and disbursement by such Bank or Trust Company of the purchase price thereof in accordance with instructions from the Local Authority. After taking delivery of the note or notes the purchaser shall obtain the signature of such Bank or Trust Company upon the note or notes as aforesaid. All fees or charges, if any, of such Bank or Trust Company shall be paid by said purchaser.

Complete certified transcripts evidencing the lawful organization of the Local Authority and the validity of such note or notes and the requisition agreement will be furnished the attorneys designated by the purchaser to approve the validity of such note or notes and such requisition agreement, at least five (5) days prior to the date of such note or notes. The fees or charges of such attorneys shall be paid by said purchaser.

All proposals for the purchase of such note or notes shall be submitted in a form approved by the Local Authority. Copies of such form of proposal may be obtained from the Local Authority at the address indicated above or from the General Counsel, Federal Public Housing Authority, Washington 25, D. C., or from Regional Counsel, Federal Public Housing Authority, in the Cities of Boston, Massachusetts; New York City, New York; Chicago, Illinois; Atlanta, Georgia; Fort Worth, Texas; San Francisco, California; Seattle, Washington; and Cleveland, Ohio.

Such note or notes will be awarded to the bidder offering to purchase the note or notes at the lowest interest cost, and in computing such cost the Local Authority will take into consideration any premium which the bidder offers to pay. No bid for less than par and accrued interest (which interest shall be computed on a 360-day basis) will be entertained and no proposal will be entertained for less than the full amount of such note or notes. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

In the event that prior to the delivery of the note or notes the income received by private holders from obligations of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal income tax law hereafter enacted, the successful bidder may, at his election, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase the note or notes.

Reconversion Slips Into High Gear But Fill-Ins To Be Slow

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP)—The government slipped its reconversion program into high gear today. Consumers, however, must wait months—at least — before most long-missing household appliances return in quantity to stores.

The War Production board released a "free" supply of metal for civilian goods, the amount depending on what is left over from war demands. It also began a gradual scrapping, over the next half-year, of its priority system for all but munitions items.

Yet electric and gas refrigerators, for instance, will not reach stores until September or October, and then probably as "demonstrator" models.

Can See Models

In other words, housewives will be able to see the new machines and enroll their names on dealers' lists of buyers. In most cases, however, the customer will be far down the list—many purchasers already have ordered sight unseen. This is the conclusion from an informal survey of government and trade sources.

Horeover, these officials believe it will be the middle of 1946 before refrigerators are freely available for "walk-in" buyers, and perhaps five to six years before the refrigerator makers have to start pushing sales instead of merely accepting orders.

Guesses at the length of time it would take to convert the present sellers' market into a buyers' market—that is, when strong promotion effort must be exerted to keep up total sales—ran about as follows:

Time On Commodities

Washing machines, 5 to 8 years; vacuum cleaners, 5 to 8 years; sewing machines, 5 to 6 years; electric irons; 3 years; alarm clocks, 18 months to 2 years; galvanized ware, 1 year; scissors and shears, 15 months; plated silverware, 15 months.

So heavy is the demand for military radar and radio that official sources said no more radios would reach the market before early 1946, if that early.

CAROL GOING TO SPAIN

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 2 (AP)—A reliable informant said today that former King Carol of Romania and Elena Lupescu would sail about July 14 on the Portugese liner Serpa Pinto for Lisbon. The couple returned recently from the Brazilian summer capital of Petropolis, in mountains northeast of Rio De Janeiro.

SOLDIERS DIE IN WRECK

U. S. 15TH ARMY HQ, Germany, July 2. (UP) — At least 12 American soldiers were killed and scores were injured early Sunday when a Germany-bound furlough train from the Riviera crashed into the rear of a standing freight train three miles north of Nancy, France.

STOCKS RECOVER MODESTLY

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Low-quoted utilities and assorted industrials tacked on modest recoveries in today's stock market while most rails and aircrafts stumbled.

Aside from sizable blocks of utilities, dealings were quiet from the start. Fractional advances predominated at the close. Transfers totalled 1,390,000 shares, smallest for a full session since June 12. They compared with 2,020,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .2 of a point at 66.5. Of 870 issues registering, 467 advanced, 250 declined and 153 wer eunchanged.

At highs for 1945 or longer were Electric Power and Light, Columbia Gas, International Hydro Electric and American and Foreign Power. Ahead were United Corp., American Water Works, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, International Harvester, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Johns-Manville, J. C. Penney, Montgomery Ward, Radio Corp. and U. S. Gypsum.

Bonds moved up selectively.

In the curb plus marks were attached to Cities Service, Diana Stores, Colonial Airlines, Gray Mfg. and Electric Bond and Share. Turnover here was 440,000 shares versus 510,000 in the preceding 5-hour stretch.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 2 (AP) — Cotton futures declined here today under long liquidation which was stimulated by reports that the Commodity Credit corporation had raised its selling price for July by ten points when an increase of 30 points was expected. NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Cotton futures declined 50 to 75 cents a bale today on commission house and New Orleans liquidation partly attributed to a belief that the cotton purchase program might be altered under department of agriculture control.

Selling met only light mill support and local covering influenced by dullness in the spot cotton market and the fact that many mills are closed for annual vacations and plant repairs.

According to trade reports, the Commodity Credit Corp. selling price for the staple during July will be set at 22.75 cents a pound compared with 22.95 cents, which the trade had calculated to be the government purchase price under the 1945 cotton purchase program.

Schools Reach High In Lunch Program

Lubbock county schools reached a new high this year in the community school lunch program, Roy Boyd, county superintendent of schools, has announced.

Seven county schools served adequate noon-day lunches to about 1,377 school children. Highest number of students served last year in the county was 1, 127.

Without the help of the War Food administration, most of these lunchrooms could not have operated this year, Boyd pointed out.

Agreements Signed

School lunch agreements were signed jointly by WFA and local sponsors who assumed complete responsibility for keeping lunchrooms in operation. The War Food administration's part was to help local sponsors operate the program efficiently, reimburse them for part of the operating cost and distribute perishable foods bought from farmers under price support programs.

Reimbursements from WFA this year totaled about $19,796.16, compared to $53,072.89 collected from the students in the sale of lunches. An average meal cost 16.4 cents. No discrimination is made between children who are able to pay for their lunches and those who cannot since one of the purposes of the lunch program is to provide healthful mid-day lunches to all school children, Boyd said.

Braniff Opens Regular Flights On New Route Through Lubbock

Lubbock inaugurated its first airline service Sunday morning, with the first plane's landing ceremonies being interrupted by rain.

As the first Braniff B-liner set itsw heels down on the runway at Municipal airport at 11:13 o'clock yesterday morning, a light sprinkle began falling and it had increased when the huge 21-passenger ship wheeled up on the concrete ramp alongside the hangar. By the time the first passengers had alighted, it was raining enough that they fretted about having to stand in it to have their pictures made, and before they could get back into the plane or into the airport lobby, it was pouring down. The shower continued for about 20 minutes.

On hand to witness the landing of the first plane were approximately three score pioneer residents of the area who saw the first passenger train puff into Lubbock back on Jan. 9, 1910.

Rain Prevents Broadcast

A broadcast program, marking the inauguration of Braniff service into the city, had been planned but the rain prevented it from being staged, so the landing of the plane was the only event to mark another milestone in the progress of transportation for Lubbock.

Later in the studios of KFYO, an impromptu broadcast was staged to commemorate the event. Chas. Beard and R. C. Shrader, Braniff vice-presidents; Walter Henshel, director of publicity; Chas. A. Guy, Avalanche-Journal editor; and DeWitt Landis, KFYO manager, participated.

Both the northbound and southbound planes into Lubbock Sunday were loaded with priority passengers, it was reported. Two passengers, Lt. B. W. Mills from Austin and Raymond Meyers, from Fort Worth, had Lubbock as their destination on the first flight into the city. Meyers came on business and to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Meyers, route 2, Lubbock.

Harry P. Brown, president of Brown Express, Inc., San Antonio, was the first passenger to alight from the plane as it stopped here. He was en route to Amarillo on business.

Mrs. C. D. Hoover of Amarillo, winner of the free trip to Lubbock in a bond sales contest at Amarillo, was the first departing passenger.

The first plane into Lubbock was piloted by Capt. A. G. Place of Dallas with First Officer E. R. Mitchell of Lockney co-pilot. Miss Elizabeth Hunt was hostess.

A party of 30 visiting city officials, airline officials and aviation enthusiasts who came to Lubbock in special flights Saturday afternoon, had to depart in special flights Sunday due to the regular planes being loaded with priority passengers.

Included in the group were: Charles Beard and Capt. R. C. Shrader, Dallas, Braniff vice presidents, who came here to represent President Tom E. Braniff in flight inauguration activities.

A total of 45 pounds of air mail left Lubbock Sunday on the two planes, Postmaster Amos Howard reported. The northbound plane to Amarillo carried 24 pounds and the southbound plane to Dallas took on 21 pounds.

Bill Coker is temporary mail messenger for air mail to Municipal airport, Howard said. Coker accompanied Howard Sunday in carrying the first mail sacks to the airport.

Sgt. Oliver Thomas Missing Over Japan

S/Sgt. Oliver Thomas, flight engineer on a B-29 Superfortress, has been reported missing in action since May 29, when he was on a mission over Yokohama and the plane went down.

THOMAS

A letter from his chaplain said that his plane was damaged over the target but did not go down until it was almost to the coast. The crew was seen to bail out, and the letter said it was reasonable to believe that they are all prisoners of the Japanese government.

S/Sgt. Thomas had been stationed in the Marianas since January and had flown 16 combat missions. He had been awarded the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf clusters. Before going into the Army, he completed three years of pre-med work at Texas Tech and while going to school was employed by The Baker company.

His father, O. E. Thomas, lives in Austin.

PAW Operating Texas Company Refinery

PORT ARTHUR, July 2. (AP)—The Texas company refinery was operating under government supervision here today following an order by President Truman designed to end a walkout of 250 negro employes.

One of the nation's greatest producers of 100-octane gasoline and Navy fuel, the 5,000-worker plant was taken over yesterday by A. P. Frame, director of refining for the Petroleum Administration for war, and Harry King, his assistant.

Frank L. Wallace, manager, continues to run the refinery under supervision of the PAW.

Willam H. Davis, director of economic stabilization, recommended seizure. In a statement he said that 56,000 barrels of the refinery's daily output of 135,000 barrels of oil products are assigned directly to military needs.
