Bureau Outlines State Water Plan

The statewide water plan calls for an equal share in the cost by the Army, Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau.

Engineering plans drafted by the three groups could reach Congress within two years, but authorization and appropriation of funds would remain for the indefinite future.

Rep. John Young of Corpus Christi, Texas, is agreeing with the plan. "The real impetus for this undertaking must come from the people of Texas themselves, even though it eventually will have to be authorized by Congress," he said.

This is not the Reclamation Bureau trying to push something down the throats of the people of Texas," he noted. The program is the outgrowth of years of study by both Texas and United States engineers.

The East-West canal is estimated to cost $19 billion. It would run about 45 miles inland from the Gulf of Mexico coast and would be piped under some 100 miles of hostile territory.

It would cost $1 billion a billion gallons a day.

By comparison, it was noted that the cost of delivering water over the Canadian-Huron dam and WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater says the United States and the military security of Southeast Asia may hang in the balance as East and West grapple with the crisis in Laos.

While being obviously wary of discussing the subject, Kennedy managed at his news conference Wednesday to dramatize official concern over the Communist forces to destroy the independence and neutrality of the Laotian kingdom.

His meeting with newsmen attracted roughly 100 per the Pentagon announced it had ordered 3,000 troops and some jet planes into Thailand next month for maneuvers. Communist threatened Thailand borders Laos.

Asked about the situation, Kennedy announced that W. Averell Harriman, undersecretary of state would travel to Moscow today bearing a presidential message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the subject.

"Kennedy said, 'We will keep a good deal more about the prospects for Harriman's complex mission very tight. It will be a delicate mission and we will be very careful about it.'"

Britain and the United States are urging Khrushchev to stop nuclear test ban talks, though it is not clear that they are not directly sanguine about the test ban.

Goldwater said that test ban that they agree to, but that test ban could induce him to participate in an early summit meeting with the Soviet premier.

Since January 1, 1960 to 1960 to 1960, the United States has not been in Laos while the military has been entering that country has been "200 or 300 at the most."

Critics of the administration's Cuba policies would be more precise. And Kennedy believes it would be "imprudent" at this time to recognize a Cuban government in exile which might not adequately represent the Cuban folk.

The President is confident the House members, if given a chance by the Rules Committee to vote on major administration programs, "will make very clear that they think the people are still committed to the economic goals Kennedy has in mind."

In discussing Laos, Kennedy asserted that "I don't want to say to you that we are prepared to Secretary Harriman's trip. But he did make these three major points:

Report Lead In Slaying

Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in Atlanta said they plan to compete the hike begun by slain William L. Moore.

1. "If we fall in it," he said, "I would think this prospect for 'action' in South Vietnam would be geographically closer to us would be substantially lessened."

2. Noting the control exercised by the Soviet Union in Laos as recently as last July, when an American plane was shot down, a Geneva Kennedy said the next few weeks should show "whether the Soviets maintain the same degree of control now. Influence they desire to maintain their, whether they are thrown in the direction of a maintenance of the Geneva settlement."

3. "If Laos falls into Communist hands," said Kennedy, "it would increase the Communist threat to the northern frontiers of Thailand. It would put additional pressure on Cambodia and would put additional pressure on South Viet Nam, which in itself would put additional pressure on Malaysia."

4. In the field, Kennedy said he believes problems involving the United States and France can best be handled now at the diplomatic level, without a "personal meeting" with President Thieu.

5. Kennedy also announced he will travel at Hyannis Port, Mass., on May 10 and 11 with Canada's new prime minister, Lester Pearson.

On another controversial issue—staiding domestic and foreign aid to the United States—Kennedy would see nothing wrong with the United States financing the distribution of birth control information abroad "so that everyone can make their own judgment."

Described as "outgoing" and "slaying," which he termed an "assassination" of a Maryland integrationist hiking through Alabama.

He agreed that one reason the economy is advancing slightly faster than his advisers predicted in January was the prospect of an early and substantial tax cut.

Reaffirmed his support of American efforts to be first of "land" in the Pacific, but said he does not fear that any cutback in the program might lead to later regrets should the Soviets make a new breakthrough.

Said federal employment, the number of men and women in the civilian programs are increasing at a slower rate than the growth in the population and the economy.

"One of the reasons I think we have been so difficult in getting our own program going is that we have our tax policies," he said, "it is because people misread the statistics or are misled."

He replied simply and Christy, ever given, replied: "No, I haven't heard of any, and there is none planned."

A detailed account of the ambassadors' conference with the Soviet leader reached the State Department and the White House much later.

Officials reportedly were concerned with any evidence it might contain of a developing hard line toward the West on the part of the Soviet government and Khrushchev personally. Evidence of the emergence of such a line was found here Monday in Soviet reportedly proposed to "Khrushchev was that an effective way to tackle the dead-end of the negotiations." Gromyko would be to throw the whole problem into a higher level meeting. Both London and Washington officials had speculated that if Khrushchev refused to attend an East-West foreign ministers' conference would be set up to go into the differences which still block agreement.

The best known of these differences is over the number of on-site inspections which would be permitted annually on Soviet territory and reciprocally on U.S. and British territory to make sure that a test ban was not being violated.

ABWA 'Boss Night' Set For Tonight

A group of ladies, members of the American Business Women's Association, attended the South Western District Convention in Odessa over the weekend.

Workshops were conducted by national and district officers. ABWA is primarily an educational association and very valuable information and instructions were covered in the workshops, pertaining to this phase of work.

Elizabeth Herring, junior past president of the local chapter, served as general chairman of the bulletin board committee. Scrapbooks and bulletins from the local chapter were shown and favorably received.

A big event for ABWA members is the night when each member brings her boss to the meeting and entertainment is provided for this boss.

Thursday night, tonight, is the time for this occasion for the chapter. This annual event is one of the entire membership looks forward to and is devoted to the employers and enlightening them on ABWA. At this time the "Boss of the Year" is selected and awarded a trophy.

Mr. Bill Brown, manager of Texas Electric was awarded the honor in 1961 and Mr. Bill Wilson of Wilson Motors in 1962. The 1963 "Boss" will be named Thursday night at the Martha Ann-Woman's Club. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Remembered Doesn't Illuminate

WHAT IS REMEMBERED By Alice B. Toklas.

Some books are like footnotes to the collected literature of a period. This is one of them.

"Miss Toklas," recollections, will be intelligible only to the somewhat initiated reader. You must bring to the reading of this volume at least a slight acquaintance with Gertrude Stein, and her relatives, the art movements of Paris in the early years of the century and the literary atmosphere of that era.

You also must be aware that Gertrude Stein wrote "The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas" as an exposition of her own life and the lives of her friends. But of course, Miss Stein was not always lucid.

Assuming then that you are aware of Miss Stein's role as a catalyst of her times, you can obtain further reflections of that role in these memoirs of her companion, secretary, typist, housekeeper, and friend, Alice B. Toklas. But she is not articulate. Her book resembles a diary, concerned mainly with the nervous pinnacles which Miss Stein made from one place to another. It is filled with name-dropping, with anecdotes that sometimes seem irrelevant, and the minutiae of daily life and tourism.

There are no revelations of character, no significant observations of artistic purpose or literary inspiration. The book's value lies on the fringes of the footnotes.

Watch Out For Unneeded Vitamins

STILLWATER, Okla. (U.S. —) Americans waste about $330 million a year in excess nutrition they don't need, says Dr. Helen F. Barbour, who heads the food and nutrition department at Oklahoma State University.

She said the misuse is especially needless for vitamins, which in some cases are "simply wasted and thrown off by the body."

Dr. Barbour said excessive doses of vitamins A or D also can have harmful effects, such as creating loss of appetite, irritability, nausea, headaches and other unpleasant symptoms.

"The irony is that we are the most nutritionally privileged country on earth and have available an unmatched selection of foods," she says. "Yet we also have become very vitamin-conscious, particularly where our children are concerned."

She concedes there are special cases where vitamin supplements may be needed — especially for persons "recovering from illness or in cases of constant nervous tension which may interfere with food digestion."

Triangle In Sick Big City

SALT BY Herbert Gold

A story about two men and a woman in a New York City hotel. That is the gist of Gold's novel.

First there is Peter, an over-30 bachelor who stays in Wall Street. He is interested only in money and a series of incredibly swift conquests of various females who catch his eye. Brief conquests.

Then there is Barbara, a Virginia girl who came up to New York to work as a window decorator for a store. She becomes one of Peter's fleeting conquests, and if Peter had ever been capable of falling in love this would have been the time.

And there is Dan, the Cleveland friend whom Peter encourages to come to New York after Dan's divorce mess. Dan receives promotional letters for a magazine and has an affair with Barbara after Peter has dropped her.

The situation spins itself out in a web of emotional climaxes which bring each of the three characters into sharp contrast.

Gold presents a very salty picture of the more absurd types in the Manhattan world. They include a good many roundheaded females. They range from a warped magazine executive who keeps running out to the room to a small coterie of freaks engaged in making pornographic movies.

The author's style is a rather strange, but effective mixture of the vivid and the descriptive. He keeps conversing with the reader and his characters keep rambling introspectively through their own distorted words. Parts of the novel have a striking narrative power, but after finishing it the reader may feel like opening the windows for some fresh air.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — A fellow has written a book about how people lived here in the old days and to make it more realistic he did the whole story like a travel piece the way he figured it would have happened if he had landed in Mexico in 1507.

And the fellow says he and a friend studied life around Compostela on the Gulf Coast and said of his a spell with the Totonacs Indians.

He says the Totonacs were graceful boys and they fed him turkey, corn bread and a corn beer that he figured was around 80 octane and produced a 10-aspirm hang-over.

The Totonacs gave him vases of hot chocolate which he drank with gold-plated cane tubes and the chocolate had flowers floating around the top like a cocktail-bowl.

Apparently, the Indians took a special liking to these travelers because they were always giving the writer flowers to wear and looking parties for him and everybody became the best of neighbors.

Now when we get into the field of poetic license I can draw my own conclusions as well as any historian. And what probably happened was this writer named Harvey and his friend Spencer landed their sailboat on the beach near Compostela when the Totonacs were about to launch off a festival celebrating Empirical Knowledge Day.

Harvey and Spencer agree a couple of Nihilists dressed in white skin (axolotls) and they went straight to the village because Harvey said he recognized the voice of a late departed friend in the howls of a beaten dog.

When they walked into Compostela, the Totonac king came up and greeted them and Harvey said: "Hi there, chief. You boys getting ready throw party?"

The king bowed politely and said: "We regard it as a soul — purge since we come to the same result in another way. Why don't you put us in some chemical experiments?"

So the visitors sat down beneath a mango tree and the Totonacs handed them some huge bouquets of flowers to wear and served them a couple of glasses of something that tasted like brake fluid.

Spencer took a big pull and shouted: "Whoa! What's this stuff?"

"Historians will refer to it as corn beer," the king said. "But around here we call it Bull Gin."

And Harvey asked: "How on earth do you make it?"

The king said: "On we distill high grade corn mash and drop a hill hide in. When the hide disintegrates the gin is properly aged."

After a while nobody could say anything except "Moo" and the Totonac cooks began serving turkey, lima beans, squash, tomatoes, corn bread, tobacco and rubber, which the book lists as their principal products.

Of course Harvey and Spencer were amazed at all these things

Think Duel Was Rigged

MOSCOW, AP — Leningrad

medical deaths have charged foul play in the dueling death 126 years ago of Russian's foremost poet, Alexander Pushkin, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported Wednesday.

Pushkin was mortally wounded by George Heckeron D'Anthes, a French officer in the service of the czar, whose attentions to the poet's wife provoked the duel.

Izvestia said Leningrad criminal-medical experts had determined that D'Anthes used a big pistol than Pushkin and that he wore a bullet-proof shield under his guardsmen's uniform.

The report said the experts studied 1,500 original sources, including notes on the duel recorded by eyewitnesses.

Mitchell Back On Job In Newburgh

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Joseph Mitchell was "getting back into the swing of things" as his city manager's job today. He described himself as "broke, in debt, but extremely happy the nightmare is over."

The "nightmare" was Mitchell's trial in a $20,000-shakedown case. A jury in New York City acquitted him of any role in the case, and he returned to City Hall Wednesday to resume his duties. His first move was to sign a voucher for some $3,000 in back pay.

Mitchell, who skyrocketed to national prominence with a controversial welfare crackdown aimed at what he termed relief chieftains in Newburgh, said he spent "a minimum of $30,000" on his defense.

"I'm among the truly needy," he said. "It's one of the great ironies of my life."

Asked about his plans for the future, Mitchell said:

"I plan to start getting reorganized again and get the job done. Getting back to my desk after nearly five months away is almost like starting all over again."

"I held a staff meeting soon after I got back, but I'm afraid I didn't get too much work done. So many well-wishers were coming into my office it was like a parade. And there were congratulatory calls to take letters to answer."

"Thursday morning I hope to start back into the swing of things. There are lots of things to be done—routine-sounding to the average man—but terribly important to a city like Newburgh."

"There's a rather large and significant urban renewal project that has been dragging. There's a sewage plant and an incinerator plant that have to be put into construction, and there are a few more parking lots to build."

"These are just routine chores that are part of a city manager's job, but, boy, I'll be glad to do them."

Asked about welfare, Mitchell said Newburgh has been holding the line on that for the past two years, "despite extraordinary

—Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Brown, 2202 Twenty-sixth Street, are the parents of an 8 lb. 13 oz. baby girl born at 2:30 p.m. April 24 at Cogdell Hospital.

—Mrs. William T. Gerald was approaching the entrance to the Union Commerce Bank branch in suburban Shaker Heights Wednesday when she was jostled by a man running from the bank. In hot pursuit was Mrs. Gerald's husband, manager of the branch.

She began running alongside her husband and asked, "What's going on?"

"I'm chasing a bank robber," he answered. "Get out of here."

Gerald, 36, pursued the man and caught him in a field. He received $5,354 that had been taken from the bank a few minutes earlier.

Police identified the robber as William Albert Godwin, 35, a Brecksville salesman.

Refugees Will Not Return Until Monday

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Red Cross says the U.S. American Surveyor, now unloading ransom supplies in Cuba, will not return to this country with refugees until at least next Monday.

Ray Donkin, of Red Cross national headquarters, said he knows of no reason for the delay. The freighter, which took 8,000 tons of drugs, medical supplies and baby food to Havana last week, is scheduled to bring about 1,900 more refugees to the United States.

The ship is the sixth to carry such cargo to Cuba in exchange for the release of 1,110 Bay of Pigs invaders last December.

Observer Sees Long Campaign For Laos

EDITOR'S NOTE—Malcolm W. Browne for the last year and a half has been chief Associated Press correspondent in South Vietnam. He has traveled into many remote areas with troops and reported the action. Now in the United States, he has been asked many questions about the Vietnamese war. In this article he answers some of these questions.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Q. How is the war in South Vietnam going?

A. For a few months the war has been on a kind of plateau. Fighting and casualties go on, but neither side has gained much. The Communists have not achieved what they hoped to do, but they are still fighting as hard as ever.

Q. How long do you think it will take to win?

A. The most discouraging aspect is that the Viet Cong is evidently recruiting fighters just as fast as it loses them in battle. In this respect the war could go on indefinitely. Saigon and Washington hope the Viet Cong will realize it can't win and will give up. The Viet Cong hopes Washington will get tired of spending and bleed and agree to a negotiated truce of the Laotian type. Neither side shows signs of giving in.

Q. How deeply is America involved?

A. As deeply as possible—short of combat divisions. The decision has been made to hold the line against Communist subversion. Americans in Viet Nam feel that the White House would send in combat units if it became obvious there was no other way to win. As it is, G.I. advisers are shooting and getting shot. Technically, this is not combat, but to call it anything else is quibbling with words.

Q. What would happen if America pulled out?

A. Most Saigon government officials, American diplomats and military officers agree the Communists would take over quickly. Without American support, President Ngo Dinh Diem's government could not stand. The strongest opposition to the government is the Viet Cong.

Q. Should America continue support of the Diem government?

A. It is doubtful that there is much choice. America can influence Vietnamese policies only by persuasion. To use force would bring charges of imperialism that would strengthen the Communist position throughout Southeast Asia. The CIA is kept out of Vietnamese politics and confined to war activity in the countryside, for the most part.

Q. What is life like for the average American soldier?

A. If he's in one of the support units, such as the helicopter crew, he is under fire almost daily. Soldiers usually serve 12-month tours, and most I've known have been anxious to leave.

Q. Vietnamese army units have been charged with lacking aggressiveness and being unwilling to fight. What about that?

A. Most of the Vietnamese soldiers I've known struck me as courageous—but if they are not pushed, they insist on cooking lunch and having a long siesta, even when their units are in hot pursuit of the enemy. The Vietnamese officer corps is organized on the basis of political reliability. Many officers are unwilling to initiate action that could backfire into a reprimand from the palace.

Q. How effectively are American waging guerrilla warfare?

A. In general, American field officers and soldiers are doing an impressive job. Many speak Vietnamese enough to communicate with local commanders. They have tried to live on local food and can keep going in the jungle. There are few privates and fewer draftees—most are seasoned professionals.

Q. How effective are helicopters?

A. Without them it would be hard to continue the war, although helicopters are easy to hit with a machine gun. If the Viet Cong had better weapons or a few armed airplanes, helicopter war would be even more dangerous. But helicopters have made it possible to keep the Vietnamese army on the move.

Q. Will Viet Nam become a second Korea?

A. Most American officials consider this unlikely. Ambassador Frederick Nolting feels that neither North Viet Nam nor Communist China is in a position to risk that kind of war. North Viet Nam's small but growing industry is the major hope for its economic future. This industry would be destroyed in a larger war.

Q. How about progress toward democracy in South Viet Nam?

A. The machinery exists but under an emergency clause in the constitution President Diem rules by decree. There is no habeas corpus. Secret police keep tabs on everything. The government contends that democracy must be built from the hamlet level upward, educating peasants and getting them accustomed to the democratic process. Diem says that before Saigon moves farther toward giving the people a voice in their government, the Viet Cong will remain popular.

Q. How much influence does

Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, the first lady, have?

A. She is very powerful. She is the wife of Diem's brother, regarded as the second most powerful man in the country. Mrs. Nhu is beautiful and charming, with an extremely forceful personality and a good deal of political strength in her own right. She has been charged by many opposition leaders with corrupt business dealings and with amassing a fortune in foreign banks. I asked her about these charges once, and she answered that her family had always been wealthy and didn't need more money. She was much more interested in power, she said.

Q. How big a factor is Communist infiltration through Laos?

A. North Vietnamese agents come in through Laos steadily, but intelligence men feel the rate is not numerically great—a few hundred a month. There is no evidence of weapons being infiltrated. Chinese-made medical supplies and North Vietnamese uniforms turn up, and some rice is smuggled. The main strength of the Viet Cong seems to be internal. Even if the Laotian border could be sealed, I think the war would continue pretty much as it is.

Q. Where does the Viet Cong get its weapons?

A. Most Viet Cong weapons now are new U.S. military weapons, captured in ambushes on government units and attacks on outposts. Often a Viet Cong unit is organized initially with no weapons. The political organizer tells his men and women that they must fight at first with handmade arms—spears, daggers, swords and crude shotguns. To get better weapons, the unit must capture them from the enemy. The system evidently works. Viet Cong arms

Army Missile Plenty Tough

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army's Pershing missile proved itself as tough as it is rough in a service launching tests now ended here.

A 100-mile flight Wednesday was the fourth successful launch by troops to see how the Pershing would fly after being ejected from the firing pad over rough ground, as well it might be in battle conditions.

Men of the 4th Artillery's Battery A, Fort Sill, Okla., launched the rocket and it functioned without a hitch, a spokesman said.

The 38-month-old Pershing program now shifts to White Sands, N.M., where troops will fire it for practice before being assigned to Pershing battalions which will be stationed in Western Europe.

Objects To Title Of 'Vice Chairlady'

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—A woman who Mrs. Francis H. Fike complained about her title as "vice chairlady" of the Morris County Republican organization. She had been introduced as "chairlady of vice" and had received letters addressed to the "chairlady of the vice committee," she said.

Union County Republicans here acted Wednesday changing post title from vice chairlady to assistant chairlady.

But in nearby Morris County, Mrs. Fike was re-elected as vice chairlady.

Cash Report True, But Slightly Aged

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Reports of a plane crash on Madison's far East Side resulted in a rash of telephone calls Wednesday at Trux Air Force Base.

One housewife said she could see smoke and was sure a plane had crashed.

A base spokesman said that advance notice will be given the next time the base fire department holds a fire drill and burns a useless plane. The plane used in the drill crashed last October.

now include modern recoilless cannon, heavy mortars, rocket machine guns and very large supplies of submachine guns.

Q. To what extent is the war spilling over into the civilian population?

A. Accidental civilian casualties are probably equal to or greater than military casualties. Air force bombing and strafing and artillery fire, a particularly heavy toll, there is no foot line, and the war generally rolls into hamlets without warning. Throughout the Mekong River delta, peasants have improvised air raid shelters, sinking earthenware crocks into pits.

Accidental loss of life is fractionally high. Many American officials feel bombing and shelling in the countryside may do more harm than good. A family that lost a mother or a child in a raid is likely to look sympathetically on the Viet Cong, which condemns such things as the work of the U.S. Diem imperialist warmongers.

Terror cuts both ways. The Viet Cong has sometimes shelled swarming rural market places, and often burns down schools, assassinate teachers and local officials, or murders families whose men cooperate with the government.

Q. Where does the Viet Cong get its weapons?

A. Most Viet Cong weapons now are new U.S. military weapons, captured in ambushes on government units and attacks on outposts. Often a Viet Cong unit is organized initially with no weapons. The political organizer tells his men and women that they must fight at first with handmade arms—spears, daggers, swords and crude shotguns. Mississippi Panel Accuses U. S. Marshals Of Brutality

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A Mississippi legislative committee has accused U. S. marshals of brutality in connection with desegregation.

The committee said the marshals, in the University of Mississippi, the Justice Department's prompt denial accused the committee of manufacturing and distorting facts.

The Mississippi legislative report, released Wednesday, said the findings were based on the testimony of 20 sworn witnesses. The report charged mistreatment of persons arrested during rioting last fall after a Negro student, James H. Ray, was killed on the campus at Oxford.

Neither the witnesses nor the persons allegedly mistreated were identified.

The Justice Department said in Washington that the report was an "unsubstantiated document" containing facts "disputed or ignored, and inaccuracies manufactured."

In Montgomery, Ala., Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy described the legislative report as "inadequate and incomplete."

carried out a systematic pattern of brutality toward prisoners, clubbing, manhandling and torturing them.

The committee said between 100 and 150 persons ranging in age from 12 to more than 50 were injured in a garage near the campus.

The report added: "All persons, regardless of age or physical condition, were forced to sit on the concrete slabs for periods up to 20 hours, with knees drawn up toward their chests, their hands clasped around their knees, their eyes in the front, without turning their heads or speaking to anyone. This was planned and executed as physical torture."

The report said between 100 and 150 persons were kept in a basement room 27 by 40 feet in the university's administration building.

The marshals wore gas masks but none were given the capsules who suffered severely from the presence of gas during a large portion of the time they were held in this basement as much as 18 hours," the report said.

In its report, the Justice Department said 250 marshals caught in the rioting, 100 were injured, 27 of them by gunfire.

The department added that about 800 persons had been taken into custody from places as far away as Los Angeles and that some were armed with shotguns, rifles, knives, clubs and blackjacks.

The committee said it would release the other two installments of its report.

Negro Is Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Hamilton L. Holmes has become the University of Georgia's first Negro member of Phi Beta Kappa, a national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Holmes, one of 84 named for membership of his race, studied at the university, was named Phi Beta Kappa member of Phi Beta Kappa, a national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Holmes, 21, and Charles A. Holmes, also of Athens, took part in the desegregation of the University of Georgia in 1961 after racial barriers were ordered lowered by the federal courts.

Alaska and Florida are the two last strongholds of the hoodlums.

OPEN SEASON

It's Not Hard To Visualize How Great War Might Start

BY INEZ ROBB

When the only two survivors of the Third World War finally crawled out of their cave and blinked in vague recognition at the sun, the first one said, "What was it all about? It seems so long ago. Do you remember what started the war? I seem to remember that some Cuban refugees declared war on the President of the United States."

The other man, rubbing two sticks together in an attempt to start a fire, was silent for a moment. Finally he said, "No, I wasn't Cuba. I'm sure of that. It started in the East, or Far East." The first man studied the second man, hoping against hope to find a sign of animal life, something to replenish the almost exhausted supplies deep in the cave. "Wasn't there trouble in a place called Laos?" he asked. "It was a place called Viet—something? It was so long ago."

"No, no," said the man rubbing the sticks. "It wasn't about any of those. It's all coming back to me now. Now I remember. It was about a cat. Don't you remember the United States had an ambassador out in the Far East?"

"Yes, of course," said the first man, excitedly. "It's all beginning to come back. I was an American in the days before the last war. And we had an ambasador in India named Galbraith. If I remember correctly, his first name was John? Not many years have shortened the name of the cat to Ahmed, although the charge was never proved." The second man continued.

"Wasn't he one of those Harvard men who ran the government in your last administration, the administration of—? I'm afraid I've forgotten his name," said the other man as he looked critically at the sticks in his hands.

"It was Kennedy," said the first man. "And there were a lot of them. That is, a lot of Kennedys. Many Americans felt only the Third World War would save us from a Kennedy dynasty. But you are right about Galbraith. He was a Harvard professor. But it's funny I don't remember anything about a cat. And what did it have to do with Galbraith? Or the war?"

"I don't know why I'm doing this. If there isn't anything to cook," the second man declared, but he continued to rub the sticks together.

"As for the cat," the second man went on. "It belonged to Galbraith. Or rather to the Galbraith children. It had been given to them in India in the state of Ahmedabad. So the children called the cat Ahmedabad. Or at least that was the story going the rounds in the last terrible, ten days before the last war. And we had an ambasador in India named Galbraith. If I remember correctly, his first name was John? Not many years have shortened the name of the cat to Ahmed, although the charge was never proved." The second man continued.

"Wasn't he one of those Harvard men who ran the government in your last administration, the administration of—? I'm afraid I've forgotten his name," said the other man as he looked critically at the sticks in his hands.

"It was Kennedy," said the first man. "And there were a lot of them. That is, a lot of Kennedys. Many Americans felt only the Third World War would save us from a Kennedy dynasty. But you are right about Galbraith. He was a Harvard professor. But it's funny I don't remember anything about a cat. And what did it have to do with Galbraith? Or the war?"

"I don't know why I'm doing this. If there isn't anything to cook," the second man declared, but he continued to rub the sticks together.

"As for the cat," the second man went on. "It belonged to Galbraith. Or rather to the Galbraith children. It had been given to them in India in the state of Ahmedabad. So the children called the cat Ahmedabad. Or at least that was the story going the rounds in the last terrible, ten days before the last war. And we had an am-

Steel Profit Is Changing For Better

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Staff
NEW YORK (AP)—Steel profits are changing rapidly for the better. The steel industry is expected to see a sharp increase in profits in the second quarter of 1963, compared with the first quarter.

Reigning on the first 10 months of 1963, steel companies have made enough to cover the old depressed rates. Profits will be higher in the first quarter of 1963, but this should change in the current quarter.

The reasons for the had comparison with last year are many and special. One is a different mode of taking depreciation allowances which makes reported net profits smaller even when gross earnings rise. Another is the much later increase in steel prices. The industry's depreciation allowances and their effect on customer planning.

Twelve companies have reported net earnings so far and of these eight lag behind a year ago. The other four were steel firms with specialized products in heavy demand or with other individual advantages.

Armco, Jones & Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet & Tube report doing better now than in the first quarter of 1962. But their first quarter returns haven't caught up with those of 1962. Industry observers look for similar reports in coming days from U.S. Steel, Republic and Republic.

The labor situation is credited by most speculators with making the difference in the two years. In 1962 customers started stockpiling early, building up inventories at a rate of two million tons a month for a time. A new labor contract was signed early in April and customers started living off their stocks. But during the booming steel market, steel mills operated near capacity and profits soared.

This year labor negotiations couldn't start before May and a strike occurred before August. Customers have only lately been stockpiling in earnest. Steel production is climbing now—and so are profits.

But during the first three months of 1963 stockpiling wasn't much in evidence. Gains in profits from the deerskin inventory in 1962 came mainly from increased business activity in general which started steel output up.

Youngstown Sheet says the late timetable for customer stockpiling is the principal reason first quarter volume trailed the year ago level. But it also notes that a change in U.S. Treasury rules on depreciation allowances has increased sales charges by $1.4 million. That boosts funds available for corporate activity, but depresses net profits.

Youngstown Sheet's net income of $7,123,469 so far this year compares with $9,309,041 a year ago. Jones & Laughlin's profits dropped to $7,200,000 from $11,000,000 last year. Armco's to $11,013,000 from $14,443,000.

But in all cases the indications were clear that profits are rising now along with production. The current quarter results should pull well ahead of year-ago figures. If there isn't too big a letdown after strike hedge ordering stops, the results for the year as a whole should top 1962.

In that rollover year net income for the industry fell 18 percent behind 1961—a major reason steel companies may find recent price increases were justified.

The main cities of Hong Kong are Victoria and Kowloon.

Junior Editors Quiz on SENSE OF SMELL

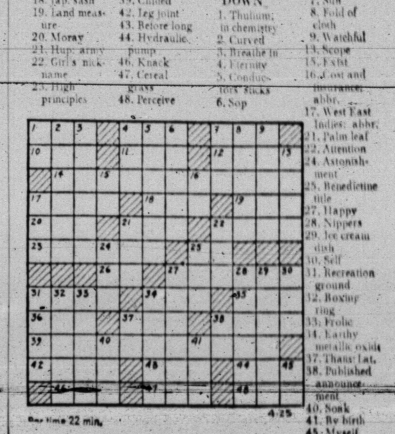

ANSWER: Smell is an extremely important sense to animals, because it is through this that they get most of their information about distant things. We humans rely more on our sight and our intelligence to give us an idea of the world around us. Yet we do use smell. Certainly smell is giving Richard, in our picture, a definite report on a distant object. What is happening is that vapor or gas is rising off the turkey, carrying many minute molecules. These enter Richard's nostrils (A) and are carried into his nasal cavity. Here they mix with a liquid in the lining of the nose. The chemicals in the liquid then stimulate nerve cells which lead toward a small center composed of certain lobes of the brain (B). From this center, information about the smell is sent to the main control or direction center of the brain (C). In Richard's case, the control center is getting a very favorable report about the smell; it suggests something very good to eat. So it will send orders through Richard's body, telling him to sit down at the table and get ready to eat. In the case of something which has turned bad, our smell wisely tells us not to touch it.

FOR YOU TO DO: Blindfold a friend who's willing to try an experiment and then hold his nose so he can't smell. Give him bits of onion and apple to taste. He'll probably have difficulty deciding which is which. This shows smell and taste are closely related.

Rhee Gives Up On Wish To Return

By ROBERT MYERS
HONOLULU (AP) — Dr. Syngman Rhee, a weakened shadow of the iron-willed "Tiger of Korea," may have given up on his greatest wish—to go home to die.

Three years after he was deposed as president of South Korea in bloody student rioting, Rhee lies quietly in a Honolulu hospital, whispering Christian hymns or listening to his Austrian wife read aloud.

"He never mentions going home any more," his nurse, Elaine Johnson, said. "He seems to be resigned." Until six months ago, she said, Rhee would ask, "Which way is north?" and talk of going home. "Now he talks only of what his life has been, not of the future."

Rhee tried to go home 13 months ago. That trip was called off by objections from the military government that now rules South Korea. It is apparent the Korean government still doesn't want Rhee back.

Anyways, Rhee isn't strong enough to try again.

Rhee was 88 last month. He has spent most of his three years in Hawaii in hospitals. He still spends five or six hours daily out on a patio in a wheelchair. Otherwise he is bedridden. His wife, Francesca, keeps all but close friends away.

"He has good days and days when he's a little confused," Mrs. Johnson said.

Korean friends apparently pay pay his bills. "I don't think the Rhees have anything left," Mrs. Johnson said.

Mrs. Rhee lives in a small, four-room house on the hospital grounds. Mrs. Johnson said she once asked Mrs. Rhee if the Korean strong man had any regrets about his life.

"None at all," Mrs. Rhee was quoted. "He'd do the same thing again. Only he'd do more."

Bill Curbs Junketing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Administration Committee approved Wednesday a crackdown on junketing by congressmen, including a ban on foreign travel by lame ducks who won't be back for the next session.

It sent to the House floor a bill which would affect travel practices of members of both the House and the Senate.

The bill would put traveling legislators under the same expense limitations that now apply to members of other branches of the government who go abroad on official business. It also would require them to file for public inspection their expense statements, including their use of foreign funds.

Members of Congress who are not candidates for reelection either through retirement or election defeats would be prohibited from arranging junkets after Congress adjourns. In the past, lame ducks frequently have arranged extensive foreign trips at public expense.

Snyderite Is Initiated

PLAINVIEW — Cecil Morris Osborne Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Osborne, 3716 Austin, Snyder, was recently initiated into Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatics society at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview.

Osborne, senior speech major, and religion and English minor, is active in drama at Wayland and was recently cast in a leading role at "Break Down the Wall," written by two Wayland faculty members. He was chosen "Spinning Wheel," campus leader, this year with nine other seniors.

Based on participation and roles in dramatic productions, membership in Alpha Psi Omega is invitational. Eligibility includes sophomore standing and a 1.0 grade-point average.

It Was Not Good Day For Kennedy

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press New Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has some sunny time when things are looking up, but Wednesday's news conference wasn't one of them.

Things were looking rather down in most of his answers to the main questions asked him about the news conference, but Kennedy's news conference wasn't one of them.

But three very important events since Kennedy's last meeting with the news media, April 23, didn't come up at Wednesday's session.

The first was the "raised prices" with Kennedy's consent, the atomic submarine Thresher sank with 128 men aboard, and the reported inclusion of three Central Intelligence Agents in this week's swap of Cuban and U.S. prisoners.

No one at the news conference asked the President anything about the steel price increase and the mystery of the sunken Thresher wasn't mentioned at all.

He was asked only indirectly about the prisoner swap, and in this way.

Now that the Americans have been released, what will America can policy be toward letting Cuban exiles in this country resume their hit-and-run raids on Cuba?

Kennedy brushed it off. He said discussions would be useful, but at another point said unloading the exiles "cannot do the job."

He could have been asked to explain in some detail about the arrangements for the prisoner swap.

The President was dim on hopes for a nuclear test ban agreement with Russia, indicated no interest in a summit meeting with Premier Khrushchev, and at a meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle at this time.

He was vague on hopes for getting rid of Castro or finding peace in Laos.

In a limited way he was optimistic about what Congress will do in his programs, he thinks money spent on space is worthwhile, and he thinks the economy is growing stronger.

Nuclear test ban—he wasn't very "sanguine" about getting Khrushchev to agree in one this spring. He said "we feel time is running out."

"If we fail in Laos," he said, "I would think the prospects for peace on matters which may be geographically closer to us would be substantially lessened."

A summit meeting with Khrushchev, Kennedy said, none is planned and it doesn't seem to him it would be useful unless we were in agreement upon a test ban, which we are not now.

Castro—Wednesday, as before, Kennedy gave no indication this country intends to do any more than it is doing now to get rid of the Communist dictator. And what it is doing now isn't getting rid of him.

De Gaulle—Kennedy showed no enthusiasm for a meeting with the Frenchman who threw the Atlantic into confusion by banning Britain from the Common Market and insists on developing his own nuclear weapons.

What Kennedy said in effect was: If the United States and France have anything to discuss, let their foreign ministers discuss it.

Solon Says Scientists Do Poor Job Outlining Needs

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., feels scientists have done a "very poor job" of presenting their money needs to Congress and as a result this country's space program may be in for financial trouble.

Congress is determined "to prevent the space race from becoming an extravagant and wasteful bonanza," he said Wednesday.

Teague, chairman of the House Manned Space Flight Subcommittee, urged scientists to do a better job of communicating with Congress and the public on financial needs of the space age.

He described any trouble that might arise in Congress as "not necessarily fatal, but it could grow into something very serious indeed."

The Texan spoke to more than 300 scientists and space planners at a manned space flight conference which ended Wednesday.

Of the scientists, Teague said, "The learned gentlemen come before our committee and demand — and I think the verb is not too strong — a budget of $1.7 billion for the coming year."

We are told that this is the absolute minimum and that if we cut the request by as much as $100 we shall be crippling and endangering the entire space exploration program for the future."

At first glance, this is pretty frightening talk. However, we said every congressman knew that the budget preparation began 18 months ago. The whole concept of space exploration has been changed — in many important respects — in the meantime.

"For all we know, the request should be for a billion dollars more, or a billion dollars less. Or, indeed, it could be that the request is absolutely right. We really have no way of being certain."

This is where better communication between Congress and scientists comes in, Teague said. "They seem almost intent upon bedazzling Congress and the public with a glamorous and bizarre jargon," he added.

A large and growing group of race is a stunt, he said, and another group feels lunar exploration is a too expensive luxury.

Teague said he is in a group which believes "the only possible justification for the expenditure of these vast sums of money is that it will lead to a permanent and impregnable reinforcement of the defense of our nation."

Sight Regained After 60 Years

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Since she was 9 weeks old, Miss Bessie Sikes has been virtually blind. Suddenly, at 60, she has regained her sight.

"I think it's just a freak, a wonderful, amazing freak," Miss Sikes said. "I don't know how long it will last. Maybe a few days. Maybe a year. Maybe forever."

For 60 years her only sight was one per cent vision in her right eye. She could tell night from day, nothing more.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock Sunday morning, still wearing her nightgown, she walked into the kitchen, drank a glass of water, and casually rubbed her left eye because it seemed moist.

Suddenly she saw something — the floor.

She fell to her knees and ran her hands across the smooth linoleum, streaked green in design. Bessie Sikes had never seen the color before. She didn't know what it was.

"I thought I'd gone crazy. My crazy left eye was going around and around, it wouldn't stop," she recalled.

She rose, and there was a white refrigerator. "Big as a house," she said Wednesday.

Trembling with disbelief, she went to the window, and for the first time in memory she saw a blue sky, tops of two palm trees, a chimney. Nothing was perfectly distinct, but she could.

"A little glimpse of heaven," she called it.

The next morning she was in the office of an ophthalmologist who had known her for 25 years. "Amazing, amazing," she quoted him.

The doctor, who insisted on anonymity, described her long blindness — as choroiditis, inflammation of the retina with a membrane cost over the eye. Apparently Miss Sikes developed the condition when she had spinal meningitis as a baby.

Sunday, a cataract became dislocated, the doctor said, and the vision of the eye had not been destroyed. So now she can see through a dislocated lens, her doctor said.
