A LITTLE GIRL DISAGREES ON CHAS. FINGER

His Story no Good Because "The Bad Man Wasn't Good"

TELLS HIM, TOO

But Hundreds of Children Listen Wide Eyed To "Tale of Nini"

"Children, this is Charles J. Finger, writer of stories for little boys and girls like you, and he will tell you two he has written and they have never been told to anyone else before," Miss Lucia Powell, librarian of the Kemp public library, said yesterday afternoon when she introduces the editor of "All's Well," from Fayetteville, Ark., at the children's reading hour at the library.

"Oh Boy," came enthusiastically from scores of boys, and "Oh, gee," was lustily emitted from as many more throats; an indrawn breath whispered "Oh my," from as many girls, and two hundred youngsters sat listening to the "Tale of Nini," how the Egg, the Snake, the Centipede and the Stone frightened the bad, bad Man.

Didn't Like It.

"How many of you liked the story?" inquired the speaker when he finished the tale.

One hundred and ninety-nine hands waved gleefully, showing appreciation of the story.

"But why didn't you like the story?" he asked a little girl in the pale green cape when she voted "no."

"Because the bad man wasn't good," she answered.

Mr. Finger who is recognized the country over as a writer of children's stories told the children another tale, that of "Nini and the Cat," one that has not yet been published. These two stories will appear within the next two months in the St. Nicholas magazine. Thus the children of Wichita Falls had an opportunity to hear them before they appear in print.

Miss Katherine Hopper also conducted a story hour for the children who came late and could not find a place in the room where Mr. Finger was talking. The story hour which is being conducted daily this week in observance of National Children's Book Week will include a book pageant today given by children of Austin school, and stories told by Miss Dorothy Reid.

Before the Forum.

"How to Tell Good Books from Bad," was Mr. Finger's subject before the Woman's Forum Thursday afternoon at First Methodist church. "You cannot trust to critics," he said, "but you must be your own guide." What the critics say may be worthwhile, he told the women, but

THIS IS JUDGE J.H. BARWISE'S 96TH BIRTHDAY

He Is 96 Years Young Declare his Playmates Of Years Long Ago

"Grow old along with me,
the best is yet to be."
—Browning.

By BEN MEYER.
Record News Staff.

I interviewed four of Wichita Falls' youngest men yesterday—all of whom have been business and professional men here for 35 years and longer—and they told me about the youngest fellow of them all, Judge Joseph Hudson Barwise, who celebrates his 96th birthday today.

And because Judge Barwise, because of illness, could not receive them at his home on the occasion of his birthday. I asked them to send him their felicitations through the Record News.

The men I saw were R. E. Huff, P. P. Langford, J. T. Montgomery and Edgar Scurry—all of whom have seen Wichita Falls grow from a straggling village on the plains to a modern city of 60,000 souls.

But all of them are young men. They are younger in spirit than my college mates I left this summer. They all are very busy men, whose desks were covered with work, but they were enjoying it as a boy would enjoy a game of marbles.

"Ninety-six years old?" they all asked in astonishment. "You mean 96 years young! Judge Barwise is not an old man, he is just one of the boys," they all said. "Why there isn't a bigger boy in Wichita Falls," said Judge Scurry. "Do you know that rascal would sneak off tomorrow and go fishing if they did not keep him in?" he added. And then to their playmate of early years ago they sent these "Flowers for the Living."

My Dear Old Friend:
On this your 96th birthday I wish to express the high esteem in which you have been held since our first meeting over 43 years ago.

I can never forget the friendship extended in early days to the younger lawyer on through the many years that have intervened and to express my appreciation of your friendship and counsel in days when both were so much needed.

Also as one of those who have seen Wichita Falls grow from a village of 50 to a city of 60,000 people I desire to express my profound thanks to you as one who in pioneer days never faltered in love for and faith in the future of the young city as you were always a leader in development for over a quarter of a century. With best wishes for you and yours,
Your Friend.

ROBERT E. HUFF.

This is the message Judge Edgar Scurry sent to Judge Barwise:

"My dear old friend,

"Only a word of greeting on this, your 96th birthday. I hope you have spent a pleasant day and that you and I may go camping and fishing right soon. Your friend,

ED. SCURRY."

From an old-time acquaintance, J. T. Montgomery, local attorney, comes this word:

"Dear Judge,

"I congratulate you on your 96th birthday; not merely on account of your length of days, but that you have lived to see the city for which you have done much prosper beyond your early dreams; that your friends by the hundreds still remain; that your daughter, your sons and their descendants reverence you, and, thanks to good blood and good breeding are all respected and useful members of society. Your children and your children's children "call you blessed." May no cloud mar the sunset.

J. T. MONTGOMERY."

P. P. Langford, president of City National bank and for 40 years a friend of Judge Barwise, sent him this greeting:

"It is with great pleasure that I extend felicitations to an old friend, and fellow citizen, on this, a happy occasion. Time and the deep-seated interest of such citizens as you, Judge Barwise, have made this city. On this, your 96th birthday, I send you my best wishes.

P. P. LANGFORD."

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The Deathless Rose.

"Leare but one rose of all my garden,
And then I could be well content.
But winter comes, the highways harden,
And summer's joy is passed and spent.
My garden fills with drifted snows,
Without one rose."

But has not summer something left you,
Though autumn comes, though petals fall?
No winter ever quite befeft you—
You had the memory, after all.
Of roses when the spring was fled,
The roses dead.

In every life, in every meadow,
Some memory, a deathless rose,
Blooms on. Ah, yes, we have the shadow
When down the west the sunset goes.
Yet, time leaves something in the heart,
Although we part.

He Suggests to His Pupil That if Elected Red Name Him Postmaster

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Red Grange today spiked persistent rumors concerning his action at the close of the football season and ridiculed the idea that he would run for congress.

Grange denied he was being tempted to play for a New York outfit that was willing to give $40,000 for three games. "Red" is not sure of what he will do and insists that he still has the conference season to complete before he thinks about the other games.

When shown a copy of the petition being circulated to have his name put on the ballot as a candidate for the republican nomination for congressman at large "Red" laughed and hastened to exhibit the document to Coach Zuppke.

"Make me a postmaster, will you 'Red?'" Zuppke asked.

How much does he weigh? And the Record News is offering $1,000 in cash prizes for the correct answer. It is the greatest contest ever conducted in Wichita Falls. Contest closes Saturday night. Read details in today's issue and add up the elephant's weight.

CONTEST NEAR CLOSE, MANY MAIL TOTALS

Surely the Elephants Are Coming Judging From Answers

WITH only two days remaining, interest in The Record News $1,000 elephant contest last night had reached the greatest heights of any day of the contest. Dozens of Texas and Oklahom residents mailed their answers, or brought them in person to The Record News and turned them over to the contest editor.

• • • •

SIX o'clock Saturday evening is the deadline.

All answers received at The Record News office at that hour, or bearing a postoffice mark of that hour, will be given a chance at the first prize of $500, or any of the 24 remaining prizes, ranging from $1 to $300.

All prizes are in cash. By this time next week, some reader of the Record News will have been presented with $500 in cash, and 24 other prizes totalling $500 will have been distributed.

• • • •

FULL details of the contest appear in an advertisement in this issue. But the contest is simple. Any person who can add figures from 2 to 9 has a chance to win. Many school children have entered their solutions, and they have just as good a chance to win as the most expert accountant who handles figures daily. Any person can add—especially when the figures are below ten.

With the date of the contest drawing near a close, many contestants yesterday inquired as to the course of procedure in the event of a tie. This, also, is explained in the advertisement in this issue. A second puzzle has been presented and if there is a tie on the first, the winner of the second puzzle will be declared first in the contest. You can't miss the advrtisement.

• • • •

TURN the pages and you will see the picture of the elephant, his whole self covered with figures. It is the correct addition of these figures that will bring cash prizes of $1,000 to some readers of this newspaper. Are you interested? If so, look at the add, get out your pencil, and go to work.

68 LOST WHEN BRITISH U-BOAT FAILS TO RISE

Catastrophe Takes Place During Exercises in The English Channel

DEVONPORT, Eng., Nov. 12—(AP)—Sixty-eight lives, it is feared, have been lost by the disaster to the submarine M-1 which dived in the waters of the English channel off Star Point, early this morning and has not been seen since. A day-long search proved unsuccessful and tonight Admiral Sir Henry Francis Oliver, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, signaled the following message: "The commander in chief very much regrets to inform the Atlantic fleet that it is feared the submarine M-1 has been lost with all hands during exercises in the channel today."

A court of inquiry will be held tomorrow. The large flotilla provided with necessary apparatus failed to locate the exact spot where the vessel is lying. But it is in deep water where divers' operations are impracticable. The searching vessels were recalled tonight and although they are under orders to proceed to sea again at any moment, no hope remains.

When the submarine flotilla left Plymouth this morning for the channel, a strong wind and boisterous sea prevailed, but there was nothing to suggest an element of risk in carrying out tactical exercises.

Known as a submarine monitor because it was the first undersea craft to carry a big gun, the M-type submarine gathered fame toward the end of the war, but the M-1 did not participate in the sea operations of that period and three ships of this type have been in reserve since August. The craft mounted a 12-inch gun.

Much of the M-1 design is credited to the late Admiral Lord Fisher, first sea lord, who in 1915 proposed to man the submarines with big guns. By the time the M-1 was completed in 1918 it was considered that her employment might be disadvantageous because to demonstrate that the submarine monitor was practicable might induce Germany to adopt them. The British naval authorities consider this as having been eminently sound.

AMARILLO OIL, NOCONA GAS TO BE PIPED INTO CITY IN SPRING

Announcement Is Made By W. M. Priddy Before Technical Club

DOUGLASS ELECTED

Officers Are Chosen to Head Organization for Another Year

Announcement of two projects planned for Wichita Falls in the near future which will have an important bearing on the petrolium industry here was made Tuesday night by W. M. Priddy, president of the American Refining company and one of the city's leading business men.

Speaking before the Technical club of which he has just retired as president, he stated that plans have been completed and work will start in the spring on a new 10-inch crude oil line from the Amarillo fields; while some time in the near future, also, an industrial gas line will be built into Wichita Falls from the Nocona territory. Both of these enterprises, he said, are assured.

200 Miles Long

The oil line from Amarillo will be approximately 200 miles in length and will be built at a cost of $4,500,000. It is a joint project of the major and independent companies operating in this district, he said, and will carry crude from the plains to local refineries and the big coastal plants operated by the major concerns in south Texas. The independent refiners in this district, he said, would take out their shares of the crude for use in local plants, while the remaining portions of the major companies will be sent on to the coastal plants through existing lines.

Mr. Priddy indicated that the larger companies were shouldering most of the financial burden of the project and that a workable financial scheme with the smaller local operators had been mapped out.

The plains line project has been discussed and rumored for some time, but last night's announcement was the first definite one from an authoritative source. Experienced oil men pointed out that when the line is completed it will be able to bring to Wichita Falls all the crude needed to keep refineries of this district in operation. Oil men agree that the vast fields in the panhandle area have just been touched and that an immense amount of production will be forthcoming from that section in years to come. Regardless of production in the Wichita, Archer and Wilbarger fields, it now seems, local refining interests can always have adequate supplies of crude to keep their plants operating profitably. Exhaustion of adjoining pools will be met simply by tapping the Amarillo territory.

Cheap Gas to Plants

Of great importance to the industrial life of the city was Mr. Priddy's announcement of the Nocona main. As he explained it, this will in no wise compete with the Municipal Gas company which supplies all gas, natural gas utilized in Wichita Falls. It will bring only cheap gas designed for industrial plants, Mr. Priddy said, and will not be available for domestic purposes. This will insure an ample supply at all times and at rates which industrial concerns can well afford to pay.

While he did not state it as fact, it is inferred that Mr. Priddy himself will be interested in a major way in the promotion and financing of this project.

Aside from these two announcements, Mr. Priddy regaled the Tech club members with an interesting address on the oil and refining situation. It was made as a sort of official farewell, for he last night turned over the president's gavel to Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the city water department, who was elected president for the next year.

Dr. Douglass, recognized as one of the leading technical experts of the city and one o fthe most popular of the Tech club members, was hoisted into the presidential swing over his vigorous protests. The organization was accorded him because of his long service in technical capacities in the city and in the club.

Others Elected

Other officers named included W. F. Ivers, frist vice president; Earnest Birk, second vice president; and C. D. Bartleit, secretary-treasurer. Old directors re-elected were J. M. Isbell, W. F. Ivers, A. M. McPherson, A. H. Douglas and W. M. Priddy. New directors named were Ernest Birk, I. R. Sheldon, G. A. Remmington, C. D. Bartlett and Herbert Voelecker.

Taking up a discussion of the refinery industry generally Mr. Priddy told his hearers that there are 47 refineries in north Texas, 16 of which are located in and around Wichita Falls. As skimming plants alone, he said, they represent an investment of $8,000,000, while two costly superheaters are now being installed in local refineries at a cost of $200,000 each. Cracking plants in local refineries represent an added $3,000,000

Hoyle et al. No. 1, Michna, located in section 4, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, northern Throckmorton county, was down 1,600 feet yesterday and drilling.

South Megargel

Litchfield et al No. 1, Young, in the southeast corner of the Young tract in block 2432, just west of the Pandem lease, Sun company's south Megargel pool, was down 1,250 feet yesterday and drilling. Globe Drilling company has an interest in this well.

Hardeman County

Benedum-Trees interests are reported setting and cementing casing on several feet of sand topped at about 2,702 feet in their No. 1, Wheat, located about seven miles southwest of Quanah, central Hardeman county.

SE-Dixie, Stephens

Southern Exploration company and Dixie Oil company were down 1,654 feet and drilling yesterday in their No. 1, Stephens, in the center of lot 23, Colorado county school lands, in northern Throckmorton county.

O'Donohoe-Gates, Putnam

O'Donohoe and Gates were expected to finish up and abandon their No. 1, Mary Putnam Bishop, Netherly survey, between Holliday an dIowa Park yesterday, at a total depth of 1,850 feet. The hole tested two sands, one at 1,786-89 feet and another at 1,804-10 1-2 feet. Neither made a producer.

Kentucky, Jackson

Kentucky Oil Corporation reported the depth of its No. 1, Annie P. Jackson, in the southwest corner of the school house lot in the southwest corner of the Aldridge survey yesterday as 1,380 feet and drilling. The well is located north of the Chalk Hill production and east of the Barkley and Meadows area.

M-F, West

Murchison and Fain No. 1, West, located in the southwest corner of their lease on the West tract in the west half of 239, T. E. & L. Co. survey, east of Olney, were down 600 feet yesterday and drilling. The well is north of the Texas Unity No. 1, Sloan, recently completed.

Oldham Area

Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 1, Oldham, Eliza Hubble survey, southwest Wichita county, is holding up to about 70 barrels a day. No. 2, Oldham, in the northeast corner of the south portion to the same lease, is down 800 feet and drilling. No. 1, Abercrombie, in the southwest corner of section 2, abstract 1281, SPRRCO survey, east of the discovery well, is down about 300 feet and drilling.

Superior-Pyle, Kinder

Superior Oil Producing company's fourth attempt to make an oil well in east Archer county went glimmering yesterday when its No. 3, Kinder, (drilled fifty-fifty with T. J. Pyle), 300 feet north of the old No. 1, lot 58, block 5, Clark and Plumb was abandoned at a total depth of 1,525 feet after showing dry in sand at 1,291-94 feet.

It was the third attempt of the company in a distance of about 600 feet, the other east Archer county try having been located near the old Major pool.

SE Litchfield

Texhoma Oil and Refining company, No. 5, Campbell, two locations north of the No. 1, discovery well, in block 1483, produced a little better than 300 barrels in 12 hours flowing and swabbing yesterday it was reported. Sand was topped at 886 feet. Texhoma-Camp have Nos. 6, 7 and 8 drilling.

Tidal Oil company's No. 2 (The No. 1, was a dry hole, drilled some time ago and located on another part of the lease,) offsetting the discovery well to the east is reported to have pumped 100 barrels in 10 hours. Bottom of the hole is 896 feet. Tidal has two wells about on the sand, No. 5 and No. 4, both of which should have been down yesterday. No. 3, Tiday, is down about 700 feet.

Status of the Meadows-Creth well to the south could not be ascertained yesterday.

Upton County

Estimates received here yesterday on the Republic Production company's No. 1, Mrs. M. L. Baker, in northern Upton county, southwest West Texas, credited the well with a potential flow of anywhere from 4,000 to 6,000 barrels in the first 24 hours. Production is from pay at 2,300 feet. The initial showing in this well was from sand at a depth of 2,156 feet. At that time the Republic bought the well for a reported consideration of $750,000. The purchase included leases on some 877 1-2 acres. Johnson and McCamey were the original owners, Marland Oil company of Texas having helped them drill the well. Marland is well protected in nearby stuff.

F. L. Morgan, Republic field superintendent for Republic, was reported burned about the face when a default in the wiring ignited gas from the well. Another employe was similarly hurt, associated press dispatches yesterday said.

Atlantic, Sigler

Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 2, Sigler-Waggoner, in the southwest corner of the northeast forty of the northwest quarter of section 51, block 2, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, a half mile west and a quarter north of the old Sigler pool, southern Wilbarger county, made two small flows Wednesday night and was standing partially filled with oil yesterday.

The well has 120 feet of open hole and is caving badly. It is impossible to get within seventy feet of bottom. A string of five-inch casing was on the ground late yesterday and it was intended to run this to the pay, which has been barely scratched at an approximate depth of 2,453 feet before drilling in and completing as the six-inch above already serves to shut two water sands.

There is considerable gas showing in the well, which, everything considered, stands a good chance of matching its big brothers at South Vernon when the hole is put in shape.

IBSEN TRAGEDY

Modern Sequel to Drama Seen In Double Murden and Sulcide.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A modern sequel to the theme of Ibsen's famous drama, "A Doll's House," was attributed by David Deinsky as the cause for his killing himself and his two children by gas in their home in Brooklyn today.

The father in a note written before his death, pictured his wife as a modern "Nora," the wife who left her home in the Ibsen drama.

KILLED HIM AS SPECIAL FAVOR, SLAYER AVERS

Says Victim Wanted To Die But Lacked The Nerve

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP) Because the victim asked him to do it as a favor Joseph A. Packard, 25, told the police, he shot and killed Joseph F. Stein, 45, here last night as a quietly arranged act of kindness.

"I did it because I hated to see him live when he wanted to die," was Packard's plea when he was held on a murder charge after confessing that he had shot Stein at his room in the basement of a hospital where they both worked as window washers.

"I tried to kill Stein Tuesday night," he was further quoted, "but the revolver I had failed to discharge. I traded this revolver yesterday for a .45 calibre revolver. Then we went to Stein's room. He bowed his head, and I placed the revolver against it and fired."

Packard said Stein wanted to die because he had "wrecked his life," but other employes of the hospital said there had been ill feeling between the two men because Packard had made accusations against Stein's character. He is alleged to have constantly chided Stein for living under the onus of his accusations.

Packard's story to the police is "that after failing several months ago to obtain a possport for a trip to Europe, Stein became morose". He wanted to kill himself, Stein is reported as saying, "but he didn't have the nerve and asked me to do it."

News Of The Fields

Major Pool

Major Oil company's No. 1, Turbeville, a north offset to the old Major No. 11, Jefferson county school lands, southeast Archer county, will go on the pump for 35 to 40 barrels from sand below 1,100 feet. The rig is skidding east for No. 2.

Staley-Wynne-Cranfill

Staley-Wynne and Cranfill have made a location and are moving on for a test on the C. T. Marshall land, G. West survey, northwest of the old Hirschi pool, north Wichita county.

The hole will be located in the northwest corner of 837.

Mahlstedt-Mook, Lauster

Mahlstedt and Mook's No. 1, Lauster, in the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 3, BBB&CRRCO survey, abstract 51, northeast of the Gambrell pool, Young-Archer county line, looked like anything from 50 to 100 barrels yesterday. Four feet of sand had been drilled at 1,180-84 feet, and the well was swabbing considerable oil. It was thought probable that more of the sand would be taken.

The well is the only successfull Olney district wildcat completion of the week. It is expected to result inconsiderable other activity in this neighborhood.

Caldwell Area

Maer and Staniforth are rigging up rotary and will be spudded in a day or so on their No. 1, Young and Langford, located in the northeast corner of the west 60 acres of the east 80 of the Young and Langford survey, southwest of the Caldwell well, in block 123, ATNCL, north of Archer City, central Archer county.

On the Wisdom land, southeast of the well Burns et al were reported down 1,075 late Wednesday and should have been on the sand sometime late yesterday or today.

South Megargel

Simms Oil company had 200 feet of oil in the hole last night after taking a foot or so of a pay topped at 1,450 feet in its No. 1, Richardson, located in the northeast corner of its lease in 2425, southwest of Megargel, southwest Archer county. The well had previously bailed dry in broken sand at 1,451 feet and was regarded as a dry hole at that depth. The new sand was encountered late yesterday; when the stem was taken out of the hole it had filled up about 200 feet.

Sun Oil company No. 4, Richardson, a location west of the discovery well and on the north line of 2425, had the sand mud was setting and cementing casing at a depth of 1,432 feet yesterday.

Pandem Oil corporation's No. 2 Young, in the southeast corner of 2432 was feeling for the sand at 1,430 feet yesterday.

North of the No. 1 of Pandem-Simms those operators had touched a likely looking sand at 1,412 feet in their No. 2, Cockrell in 2433 and were taking a core last night to see whether to set and test or not.

Other States

Arizona.

A new test has been started in Arizona by the Borderland Drilling company, about 11 miles north of Bowie in Graham county in 12-11-28.

F. A. Black Drilling company has started a test on the Lordsburg Arch, southwest of the San Juan basin in New Mexico.

East of Wilcox Frank Copening et al have had several small shows and are now down 1,200 feet.

Four miles east of Bowie Wilcox Oil Syndicate is down 2,800 feet and drilling. There has been broken sand showing oil and gas since 2,700 feet.

North Dakota.

Former active non-partisan leader in North Dakota, A. C. Townley, is drilling a hole near Robinson. A shallow hole there two months ago is said to be making a small quantity of high gravity oil. Natives have dubbed it the gasoline well. It has been taken over the Robinson Development company.

Idaho

The Great Western Oil company has a showing of oil in a test well that it has been drilling for some time in the Star valley in eastern Idaho, about 70 miles east of Pocatello near Soda Springs. No other information is available and little importance is attached to the report.

New Mexico.

Huntington Park Oil company No. 1 Whipple, in 29-30-9, near the town of Blanco, San Juan county, on the east side of the Hogback, was completed at 1,646 feet and is reported flowing approximately 30 barrels a day. The well topped the first sand in the Farmington series at 1,484 feet and was good for four or five barrels. It was then deepened to the last sand in the series with the above results. The oil is of about 60 gravity. The strike is attracting considerable attention to that area and leasing is very active.

Continental Oil company No. 17, the deep test on the Rattlesnake dome in the Navajo Indian reservation, has been mudded off after making 1,800 barrels a day from the Dakota sand. Straight reaming to carry down the 15 1-2-inch casing is now in progress.

THE STEPPING STONES.

If a man looks at life and living from a different angle from his fellows, he is called a radical, and looked upon as dangerous.

But such persons are of far more value to the race than the human whose every idea comes to him as one of a herd.

In thinking his own thoughts, in fixing the values of life for himself, a man is only doing his duty in the onward march of the race.

The progress of society is due to the fact that individuals vary from the human average in all sorts of directions.

And that originality is so often attractive and useful that they are recoginzed by their tribe as leaders, and become objects of envy or admiration, and setters of new ideas.

All individuals who vary from the human average are not set up as leaders, however. Some are sent to prison, some to the mad-house, others are tarred and feathered.

Yet, these help to serve mankind.

They help point the way.

There always is a need of persons not only to discover new truths, and point out when what were once truths are true no longer, but also to commence new practices, and set the example of more enlightened conduct, and better taste and sense in human life.

All of us cannot do this.

There are few persons, in comparison with the whole of mankind, whose experiment, if adopted by others, would be likely to be any improvement on established practice.

But these are the salt of the earth; without them human life become a stagnant pool.

Not only is it they who introduce good things which did not before exist; it is they who keep the life in those which already existed.

The will of the majority deserves less respect, of the minority more.

For it is in the hope of this constant minority that the hope of progress lies.

WE ARE ALL IN ITS POWER.

The International Institute of Politics at Williamstown, in announcing the developing influences of chemistry on modern civilization, as the theme of its 1926 sessions, serves notice upon governments and people that chemistry is so profoundly affecting the destinies of mankind, both in peace and war, as to become an inseparable factor in the shaping of international affairs.

If you want your boy and girl to be a leader in the affairs of tomorrow, train him or her to be a chemist.

In the common mind chemistry usually is associated only with the corner drug store.

It is time that the public should awaken to a clear understanding of what this science of chemistry really means for mankinds.

To the realization that "its wizardry permeates the whole life of the nation as a vitalising, protective and constructive agent very much in the same way as our blood, coursing through our arteries, carries the constructive, defensive and life-bringing materials to every organ of the body."

If the man in the street will but understand that chemistry is the fundamental SCIENCE OF THE TRANSFORMATION OF MATTER, he will readily accept this sweeping assertion of Julius Stieglets, formerly president of the American Chemical Society.

And he will realize, for instance, why exactly the same fundamental laws of the science apply to, and make possible scientific control of, such widely divergent industries as farming and steel manufacturing.

Chemistry governs the transformation of the salts, minerals and humus (organic matter of the soil, usually leaf-mold and other materials, in which the decomposition is well advanced) of our fields and components of the air into corn, wheat, cotton and the innumerable other products of the soil;

It governs no less the transformation of crude ores into steel and alloys, which, with the cunning born of chemical knowledge, may be given virtually any conceivable quality of hardness, elasticity, toughness or strength.

And exactly the same thing may be said of hundreds of national activities that lie between the two extremes of farming and steel manufacture.

Whatever your occupation, chemistry can be to you both a tireless hand maiden and fairy godmother.

The domain of the science of the transformation of matter, i. e. Chemistry, includes even life itself as its loftiest phase; from our birth to our return to dust the LAWS OF CHEMISTRY are the CONTROLLING LAWS OF LIFE, health, disease and death, and the ever clearer recognition of this relation is the strongest force that is raising Medicine from the uncertain realm of an art to the safer sphere of an exact science.

To many scientific minds it has even become evident that these most wonderful facts of life, heredity and character, must find their final explanation in the chemical composition of the components of life producing, germinal protoplasm.

Consequently, mere form and shape are no longer supreme but are relegated to their proper place as the housing only of the living matter which functions chemically.

THE HUMAN TESTING LABORATORY.

Do you hope to see the day when machines will relieve man from the necessity of labor?

Would you change our subjection to physical laws, our exposure to hunger and cold, and the necessity of conflicts with the material world?

Then you do not have Man's best interests at heart.

Man owes his growth, his energy, chiefly to that striving of the will, that conflict with difficulty, which we call effort.

Easy, pleasant work does not make robust minds. Does not give men a consciousness of their powers.

Does not train them to endurance,

To perseverance,

To steady force of will, that force without which all other acquisitions avail nothing.

"I would not, if I could, so temper the elements that they should infuse into us only grateful sensations, that they should make vegetation so exuberant as to anticipate every want, and minerals so ductile as to offer no resistance to our strength and skill," William Ellery Channing declared.

"Such a world would make a contemptible race."

Channing called manual labor "a school in which men are placed to get energy of purpose and character—a vastly more important endowment than all the learning of all other schools." It does not follow, however, that every one will find energy of purpose and character in manual labor.

But work we all must if we mean to bring out any perfect our nature.

Even if we do not work with the hands, we must undergo equivalent toil in some other direction.

No business or study which does not present obstacles tasking to the full the mind and the will, is worthy of an intelligent man.

"Ease, rest, owes its deliciousness to toil; and no toil is so burdensome as the rest of him who has nothing to task and quickens his powers," observed a wise man.

Uncommon Sense

TALKING IT OUT

Two automobiles, each swerving to avoid other cars came together, head on.

The wind shields and front wheels of both were badly smashed.

The drivers were severely jolted, but able to get out.

One of them advanced threateningly, and began to abuse the other for running into him.

That was all your fault, you—he began."

The other held us his hand.

"This isn't going to do any good," he said, "If I answered you as you have talked to me you would probably hit me. Then I would hit back. We would have a fight here on the street and do each other more damage than the accident did, and meanwhile our cars would be ruined completely by other cars that would run into them.

"The thing for us to do is to get the cars off the road, and then talk it out. If you still want to fight at the end of the talk I'll fight, and I shall probably thrash you, for I am larger than you are, and am a first class amateur boxer to boot. What do you say?

The was nothing much the smaller man could say. Silently he helped get the cars to the side of the street. Then he sat down on the curb. "Now," he said, "go on with your talk."

"I was thinking the same things about you as you were thinking about me when I saw I couldn't avoid a collision with you," said the other.

"I was about to tell you that you were a fool and oughtn't to be allowed at a steering wheel. Then I got calm. I saw that both of us were forced into each other by other cars, and that neither of us to blame.

"I saw that you were very angry, as you naturally would be, for you hadn't stopped to think, as I did. So I just decided to let you see my point of view, and get you to agree with me."

"Well," said the belligerent man. "I do. So that's that. Except that I am much obliged."

Most of the collisions of life that awaken sudden anger can be talked out, if those who figure in them are willing to do so.

Just lately the nations of the world are trying to find a way to talk out the disputes that lead to devastating wars, and seem in a fair way to be successful.

Nearly all the little domestic squabbles over money and the rearing of children that lead to separation and unhappiness can be composed to see the other party's point of view.

It is misunderstanding that is to blame for much of the rancor and bad blood in the world, and misunderstandings are always due to the failure of one side to know what the other is thinking out.

It is the business of all society to war on crime and evil.

But that war does not occupy nearly so mucch time as needless wars between persons or nations who never are willing to consider the others—who never pause to talk it out.

We are still savage in many ways, and we never show it so much as in our quarrels, most of which are needless, and would be easily avoidable if we only were willing to think that the other fellow may have as good a reason for his opinion as we have for ours, and that there are better ways of changing his opinion than hitting him on the nose and then trying to make him apologize for it."

GREATEST BUSINESS IN THE WORLD.

The business of parenthood we must agree is the greatest and best in life.

Anything that a man may do in society to justify his existence and serve his generation is after all subsidiary to the business of parenthood, in which his own share is so relatively small and in which the mother plays so important a part.

And if we would hope and work for the New World that we always are awaiting, let us realize that the only channel through which it can come is that of New Parenthood—parents with new methods and ideals.

The New World can not come from new organizations, new housings, new governments—it cannot even come from new education, because, as all teachers tell us, the teachers look to the parents every time.

Most important is it to remember that the children of today will be the parents of tomerorw.

The child we are bringing up today we ought to be bringing up—not with a view of his being a doctor because his father was a doctor, or to his going to West Point because his grandfather was a colonel—but with the bigger aim, that he should be a good parent, A BETTER PARENT THAN HIS OWN.

If we do not make our chidren better than we are, then we are defeating progress.

We must have for them a bigger denial than we had for ourselves.

The line with which we begin this little talk, "The business of parenthood is the greatest in life," is from an essay by H. Crichton Miller, renowned British psychologist. In it he brings in this indictment against parents:

"The principal cause of all nervous breakdowns lies in the wrong treatment of the child by his parents.

"The need of the world is for new parenthood."

He tells us failures in parenthood are many, and lists some of them:

1. Failures to realize the child's makeup: "Parents are not potters to mould clay, but gardeners to protect bulbs."
2. Tendency to patronage: "Discouragement of real independence in the child."
3. Unwillingness to take risks for the child.
4. Sin of standing between the child and self-realization.
5. Domination of family tradition.

"We must realize," he concludes, that these children of ours are climbing: They must be allowed to choose their own paths to the peaks above; the trail which we blazed may not be for them the most direct: moreover the peak which they are trying to scale may not be ours at all—and yet it may be a summit, possibly a higher summit of the mountain of God."

To all mothers and fathers we commend Prof. Miller's book, "The New Psychology and the Parent."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE.

Scorpio.

In spite of the current superstition that Friday is an unlucky day, the planetary aspects of today are very favorable, and the omens are encouraging, not only for success, but for happiness. It is a propitious occasion for travel, change, or for marriage. It also promises to accelerate your preceptions, and to sharpen your judgments. All commercial enterprises that start today can be reasonably expected to be crowned with success. All changes in connection with the hame and family will be, according to the indications, beneficial to all concerned. Risk and speculation must, however, be avoided, unless disaster is courted. Those who wed under the auspices of today are promised lives of happiness and contentment.

Children born today are destined, according to the signs, to enjoy good health during their infancy. In their teens, however, much care and vigilance will be needed if they are to attain a normally physical majority. Their disposition and character will be erratic. At times, they will, by their conduct, charm and attract, and lead every one to suppose that their actions are only animated by love, kindness, and gentleness. At other times, they will show a tendency to be cruel, selfish, and self-centered. They will prove to be studious and ambitious, although, on occasion, they will show apathy and indifference. These contrary moods will not, however, seem assured of success.

If today is your birthday, you possess a great deal of initiative, and are both original and aggressive. Your persistency is very marked, and you are never disposed to take "No" for an answer. In your anxiety to attain what you may have in view, you are never discouraged, nor do you allow disappointment to weight you down. On the contrary, reverses and comparative failure serve only to make you redouble your efforts.

You have a marked personality, and are undoubtedly endowed with the attributions of a leader—both commercially and socially. There is no task that you attempt or undertake that does not feel the impression of your endeavor, and you can never do anything in the expected or conventional way.

You are humorous and affable, an omnivorous reader, a very careful student, and a lucid thinkers. Nothing, except sickness, can ever deter you from achieving success, if you only bend your efforts to work of construction and individuality.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE DREAMERS

The gypsies passed her little gate—
She stopped her wheel to see—
A brown-faced pair who walked the road,
Free as the wind is free;
And suddenly her tidy room
A prison seemed to be.

Her shining plates against the walls,
Her sunlit, sanded floor,
The brass-bound wedding chest that held
Her linen's snowy store,
The very wheel whose humming died,
Seemed only chains she bore.

She watched the foot-free gypsies pass;
She never knew or guessed
The wistful dream that drew them close—
The longing in each breast
Some day to own a home like hers,
Wherein their hearts might rest.

Organizer of Anti-Klan Association in Oklahoma Freed by Ma.

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Leland G. Ferguson.

HOW IT STARTED

Calling it "Board of Directors."

We are all familiar with the term "board" with reference to an authorized group of people such as "Board of Directors," "Board of Education," which in every-day speech is frequently abbreviated to just "the board." "We will have to refer that to "the board" a man will say about a matter that must be taken up with the board of directors of his concern.

The origin of this term takes us back to the first application of the old Anglo Saxon "bord" (a wooden plank) which gives us "tabel," for it was from the "bord" or table at which sat in olden days a council or court that the term "board" came to be applied to the council or group itself and soon became synonymous with any authorized group or assembly such as the present "Board of Trade."

Suggestions have been advanced by amateur antiquarians which would complicate the origin of this use of the word "board," but reliable authorities and the most extended research establish its ancestry unquestionably as the line of the old wooden table!

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Football and Heartaches.

The sport writers who write glowing accounts of the big games and the brilliant plays of our football heroes, don't half tell the dramatic stories about the great national sport.

There are more broken hearts, more fits of green jealousy and black envy than can be imagined over the intercollegiate and Army Navy games.

As the season draws to its close now, there will be dozens of girls who would hate to have anyone know that they missed the big games—who would have died of pure joy had they been asked to the lowliest of universities to witness just one battle.

Of course, most of these same damsels don't know a thing about football—wouldn't walk across the street to see it played by the finest players on earth—if there wasn't a great deal of glory and honor to be gained from having seen it played in all the big stadiums.

But knowing that all their more popular sisters are rushing off with sleek college youths to sit on hard uncomfortable seats and cheer politely at the correct intervals, the girls who aren't invited weep bitterly over their failure.

The sight of another girl accompanied by a stalwart figure in a fur coat fills them with the bitterest envy.

The world turns green before their eyes when they hear some rushed looking flapper exclaiming: "I simply can't make up my mind which bid to accept for next week—there are two big games on one day and I'd like to see them both."

The poor young things who haven't even had a chance to refuse an invitation to the local school game decided that life is too bitter for endurance when the end of the season is reached.

Now all of you who consider a big college game the ultimate goal in life, take heart and make up your minds that next year will see you surrounded by fur coats, wearing flowers and freezing with cold in one of the biggest and best stadiums.

Don't think that the end of the world has come because you didn't see a game this year.

There is a lot of time ahead, and you can't tell when you'll run into a man who doesn't care how he spends his money and is perfectly willing to take you to any game you want to see.

Don't get the idea that all the fortunate and blessed members of the feminine sex who are taken to games, enjoy themselves thoroughly. They pretend to, of course, but lots of them are guilty of wishing themselves at a good show.

Many of you get the idea that if you miss out on seeing football for a whole season you haven't a chance of ever being popular or happy.

Well, just banish those unhappy thoughts from your head.

Don't let your heart break over the glories you've missed. Make up your mind you won't miss them next year.

P. A. Rogers Urges Support Of Drive

Service to the public is one of the great and worthwhile phases of modern life, thinks P. A. Rogers, manager of the Wichita Falls Electric company and one of the prominent civic leaders of the city, joined yesterday in endorsement of the community chest because it, too, renders a service with which Wichita Falls cannot afford to be without.

"Every city," Mr. Rogers asserted, "ought to have and does have some method of providing aid to those of its people who are unable to provide adately for themselves. The social make-ups of big communities leave no other alternative but to make provision for the needy ones. That being as it is, any system that allows for the extending of this help in an efficient manner renders a distinct service.

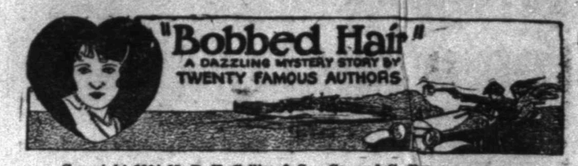

"I think the community chest idea is the best yet devised for this work. It has proved its efficiency and worth here in the past and I think any fair-minded man will concede that it is now one of the most important of our civic movements.

"For that reason I am glad to approve of it and bespeak for it the full co-operation of the entire community."

The chest drive this year will be conducted November 23, 24 and 25 on which dates organized teams of workers will attempt to bring in the $55,000 set as this year's goal. That amount will be needed to successfully carry on the city's welfare work for the next 12 months.

"Bobbed Hair"

A DAZZLING MYSTERY STORY BY TWENTY FAMOUS AUTHORS

Copyright 1924-25, P. F. Collier & Son Co. and G. P. Putnam's Sons
"BOBBED HAIR" with Marie Prevost is a picturization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore was to have announced her engagement tonight, but, instead, she stole away from Aunt Calimena's Connecticut home and has figured in a long series of exciting adventures on Long Island yachts. And now Auntie and her lawyer, Brewster, searching for the girl, find themselves aboard another strange vessel. Saltonstall Adams, one of Connie's suitors, is trying to explain his identity to the mysterious Sweetie.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

She giggled. "How stupid. You're either the Prime Minister of Portugal or an admiral in the Swiss navy."

Saltonstall Cabot Adams struggled into a sitting posture. "For God's sake, Miss O'Reilly, be reasonable."

Sweetie was human. "Don't agitate yourself, dearie." She sat down beside him. "You're in good company. None of these folks—" she indicated with a nod the rough lads who had taken command of the absent Mr. Harvey's motor boat—"is social register, but they're good stock. You can't tell what a couple of generations of money will do for them. Now, your folks started their nest egg by cheating the Indians. These boys——"

"Miss O'Reilly—" he was very earnest. "I haven't a doubt your friends are charming, delightful, perhaps a little abrupt"—he rubbed his shoulder—"but perfectly splendid Yale boys. But what are they doing here and where are we going and—for Lord's sake, don't lean up again that shoulder."

"We can't make no landing hereabouts."

Sweetie drew herself away stiffly. "Beg pardon. I hadn't meant to presume on the informality of the occasion."

"Miss O'Reilly, don't misunderstand me——"

She smiled gently. "Oh, I don't." Then her expression relaxed into something that bordered kindness. "I know. The Swede fetched you a clip on the shoulder. Well, I'm sorry. I'm almost sorry I tried to get your goat. But you'll admit it was a golden opportunity after all the welfare work you and your family have done for me and the likes of me. It used to be a real treat for all of us little shopgirls to be herded out on our one Saturday-afternoon-off to a 'picnic' at your mother's place and be read a paper on 'Browning's Influence on the Aztecs' and another on the 'budget system,' when you're making eighty-fifty a week."

Saltonstall Cabot Adams blushed. "I'm sorry, Miss O'Reilly. I can see now how little that must have benefited you in your chosen career of, say, rum running."

"Wrong again," said Sweetie. "Only the coarser natures go in for that sort of thing."

"Then what is it?"

She glanced up at the heavens. "'Last night the moon had a golden rim.' You don't get nothing out of me, except abuse. Here—" she took off her jacket and rolled it into a pillow—"lean your shoulder up against that. It'll be easier."

He looked at her. "You're very kind."

"Yes, I am," she snapped. "But here's where our conversation ends. If you're sensible you'll lay low and inconspicuous from this on." And to strengthen her point Sweetie moved away

Meanwhile the rough lads, one of whom Sweetie had referred to as Swede, had the boat running rapidly, though by no means quietly. Valiantly she nosed into the heavy sea and she left a pathway of churning silver behind her. It was really rather beautiful, but no one noticed it.

"You're to put me shore," said Pooch.

"When I get good an' ready," said the Swedish person. "We came out here to fetch something and we ain't fetched it yet."

Pooch squirmed. "I tell you it's dangerous."

"Who's there to be afraid of now we've shook the Scotchman?"

Pooch shrugged his shoulders. "You can't shake a Scotchman. He's probably stickin' to the side of this very boat now. I tell you there was something uncanny in the way he disappeared—or didn't. And the girl——"

"You're seein' things," interjected Doc, who was listening.

"I'm not seein' 'em. That's what makes me suspicious."

"Shut up," said the Swede. "We can't make no landing hereabouts anyway." The Swede was a big man and he had a way of speaking with authority. "So we're goin' right on to where we started for."

Pooch bided his time, but he was not convinced. Meanwhile his eyes watched the figure that had been so casually stowed aboard. Eventually the figure stirred. He was all but suffocated by the sail cloth that had been wrapped around him. He was bruised and sore. He wasn't at all sure, either, what had happened. By some maneuvering he managed to peer out through a hole in the canvas. At first he could see nothing. Very cautiously he made himself free of the canvas. If they thought he was done for, so much the better. He would lie low until the time came. Then all at once Lacy's heart turned over with a jerk. There, huddled in a coat, close beside him, was someone with a rikish white turban.

"Connemara." He whispered it, but above the sound of the engine no one could hear him.

The figure in the turban started, but did not speak or turn her head.

"I—I thought you'd got away with McTish. Oh, I wish to God you had."

The figure beside him started again.

Lacy stretched forth an aching, but would-be assuring, arm. "I could have sworn you went over the side with him just at the moment I was engaging these other vandals. You're not hurt?"

The figure shook her head without turning around.

"What a night!" said Lacy. "I like my adventure, but I like it toned down to the drawing-room pitch a bit more than this." He stopped. "And I don't care about having you mixed up in this either." Lacy had a way of masculine protectiveness that almost never failed to charm. The figure in the turban knew this technique was as old as Adam and also that it was only by some absurd pondering of chance that she was a recipient, but she experienced a strange and entirely pleasurable thrill.

Certainly she had a right to play this game a little longer. This gentleman knew a great many things she wanted to know, that she had a right to know. Besides which there was something curiously familiar about him. She hadn't seen his face, of course, but his voice and his manner were reminiscent.

"Would you care what happened to me?" the figure in the turban whispered.

"Care—" His voice indicated there was no word in English worthy of conveying the intensity of his emotion. "Of course I care, a great deal more than usual, so much more I'm getting a little disturbed about it. I've cared so many times before," he went on with agreeable candor, "that I can recognize all the symptoms. I'm no amateur carer. I have cared in every capital in Europe."

"Really——"

"It's a compliment, of course, to be admired by one who comes with a record of taste and accomplishment behind him."

The figure in the turban cleared her throat. "There are two schools on that subject."

"Connemara——"

The figure did not move.

Through a Woman's Eyes

Punishing the Man—a Powerful Preventative.

For eloping to Canada with another man's wife the "gentleman in the case" was sentenced recently to the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta for three years.

According to the law, his offense was not breaking up a home and ruining two lives—for that the statute books can not hold him accountable.

It was on a technical charge that they "got" him; as long as they did "get" him we do not care very much about the details, except that a direct penalty is necessary to punish every man who is a party to the desertion of a husband and the breaking up of a home.

Many people will ask:

"Why blame the man? There isn't a woman who was ever lured from her home and husband who was not at least a willing victim. No woman is led astray but porvides the string."

That may be true. Certain it is that the right kind of a woman never permits to develop a situation that might possibly lead to her throwing over every consideration of decency and honor. At the very best, she must be weak. But without the man to take advantage of that weakness she might have gone on, a respected and sheltered wife and mother and another home would have been saved.

And the point is that whether the woman is little or much to blame she does not "get away with it."

You have only to make an excursion to a few of the citys courts to realize how surely the woman pays.

When the little adventure has ended—and nine times out of ten she is deserted by the man with whom she ran away—she is without a place in the world where she can turn.

She has lost her name, her reputation, her home. Her husband usually divorces her. If she has children the state takes them away from her, and only social workers know how many of the hideous human mistakes that have tasted the bottommost dregs have gotten their downward impetus in this way. So, the woman pays.

And the man?

Except in unusual cases, he has up to this time gone scot free en route perhaps to the scene of his next adventure.

At best he was 50 per cent to blame. Why should he not share the penalty?

There is no doubt that punishing the man would constitute a powerful preventative measure. Though women may be warned of the consequences, each one thinks her case will prove an exception. But with the certainty of a prison sentence ahead of the man there will be fewer to offer a woman better "understanding" than her husband is able to give her and to induce or encourage her to burn her bridges and trust in him.

LITTLE GIRL

"what you feel yourself about a book is also worth while."

In explaining the opinion of critics he read a meaningless excerpt from the book, "If You Had Three Wives." The speaker said the critics had called the book a "deep" one, full of subtle sentences and phrases. He disagreed with them.

Criticising the critics, Mr. Finger told of the spectric school of poetry which had a short life in 1916. Two poets, a man and a woman wrote verse which the critics praised and much was said of the future of this school of poetry. Later it became known that the two were collaborating in writing the verse and were testing the critics to see what they would say.

"When we talk about reading the question of why we read and why do we educate is brought up. Nine out of ten will tell you that they read and educate in order to make a better living. Education makes for culture and the perfect gentleman, but education by itself cannot do it. There must be self discipline, clear thought and ability to think out things for ourselves.

Age Not So Good.

"While we may deplore the age in which we live, and that it is generally not what it might be, we may take it to heart," Mr. Finger told the hundred and fifty women who heard him. "Have you made that home what it ought to be? Have you had that reading aloud and that companionship that comes from reading, or have you left the most of it to the teacher, the schools and the Sunday schools? Have you left a part of it to them and do you work hand in hand with them?"

Mrs. W. F. Pagan who introduced the speaker, announced that Tuesday evening at 3 o'clock at the Wichita club a musical would be given by the music department of the Forum for the members and guests. Thursday evening, George Creel, lecturer and humorist will appear at the Junior college.

Negro, 101, Stranded Here Recalls Time Of African Seizure

A negro who said he was 101 years old and who had come to this country as a babe from his birthplace in Africa was taken in hand by welfare agencies here yesterday after he appealed for help to get back to Fort Worth. He said his mother was brought over in slavery when he was a few months old and that he lived as a slave until after the civil war.

The aged man, who did not give any special indication of his great span of years, came from Fort Worth with a party of younger cotton pickers. They deserted him here, he said, and since he was broke he had to have some help to get back to his home where he has lived for the last 50 years.

A colored welfare organization took him in charge and provided transportation back to Fort Worth.

TELLS CARE OF YOUR SKIN

MLLE. JEANNE

Who is an attraction at P. B. M.'s department store today in a lecture to women on the care of skin.

Wichita Fall's women who desire to learn how to take care of their complexions, will be interested in the lecture on "How to Care for the Skin," to be given by Mlle. Jeanne, a representative of Mme. Helena Rubenstein's toilet goods at P. B. M. this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mlle. Jeanne, is a petite titian haired French woman, who has been in charge of the toilet department of the P. B. M. all this week advising local women how to care for their complexions.

"American women are beautiful—but very careless of their skins," she says.

Lives Are Busy

"Considering their full busy lives—their constant rush-about, I marvel that they do not age more rapidly. But perhaps there's much of the secret of it—their vivacious dashings about stimulates and exercises their minds and bodies and builds health, and health is the real foundation of beauty."

The titian-haired Parislenne believes that the climate of the south and west dries the skin and she emphatically insists that water should never be used on the skin of women in this section of Texas unless the skin happens to be of the oily type, in that case, she says water should be used freely.

Mlle. Jeanne gives a few suggestions to southern women which are briefly outlined below:

Never use ice on the face. It is particularly damaging to the tender skin about the eyes and it does not reduce pores.

Do not use mud packs. They draw the skin artificially and lead to a break down of the tissues.

No "Over Nights."

One should never leave cream overnight on an oily skin; this is however, very beneficial to a dry skin.

Be very careful of the eyes; preserve their luster. The eye-cup should be placed alongside of the toothbrush in importance as a health and beauty aid. An excellent eye wash may be made with a mixture of one pint of witch-hazel and one-fourth ounce of boracic acid.

Watch the hands. Faded wrinkled hands may belie the story which a beautiful face tells.

In massaging, do not rub the skin; pat it. This invigorates without stretching the skin and muscles.

Last, not least by any means—take time, worlds of it, for the care of youthfulness. It is a woman's valuable possession and it should be prized.

All of Fragrance.

In her lecture today, Mlle. Jeanne will tell the women of fragrance poudre, pomades, astringents and indelible lip rouge also the new geranium rouge. She gives out many of Madam Rubenstein's own beauty helps. She does a bit of rejuvenation work herself in effacing wrinkles and removing blemishes.

And as Mlle. Jeanne says, "No Wichita Falls woman needs to grow old and unattractive."

Evidence and arguments were heard during the day and the case will be concluded rFiday. Chesney was injured by a falling drill pipe.

SALVATIONISTS' WORK PROVES CHARITY VALUE

Its Leaders Are Over-The-Top in Toughest Sectors Of Local Relief

An army that serves in times of war as well as in times of peace—and that labors with equal zeal and efficiency on a roaring battlefield or in the less conspicuous sectors of municipal relief is making its appeal to Wichita Falls for funds with which to carry on in 1926.

Years ago the Salvation Army was organized in England and since then it has spread into a world-wide system of unselfish workers whose ministrations are by-words to the needy and stricken. No one but has heard of the army and is familiar in some degree with its activities.

Leaders Are Capable

Wichita Falls has always been fortunate in having a capable Salvation Army force at work. The local organization has been well-officered and well-manned; not as adequately in point of numbers, perhaps, as it might wish, but at least sufficiently to do typical Salvation Army work in typical Salvation Army style.

The variety of work done by the army is legion itself. Most any kind of relief work for the poorer class is turned over to it for attention. A worthy family in summer may need ice to cool milk for a suffering babe; the Salvation Army supplies it. In winter another worthy family may require blankets as a shield against howling winds. The Salvation Army supplies these. In all seasons some one needs bread, some one needs shoes or stockings, somebody always needs something; and the Salvation Army is turned to first of all.

Work In Detail

A study of the activities report at the end of the year together with the financial statement shows in a little more detail just what the local branch of the army is doing.

The financial statement shows that this organization requires one of the largest cash outlays of any participant in the community chest. Its work in years past has justified this heavy expenditure and partially on the strength of this it is entitled to consideration again. The community chest ampaign for $55,000 will be conducted here Nov. 23,24 and 25, at which time organized teams of business men will make a thorough canvass of the city in the interests of the Salvation Army and the eight other organizations participating in the fund. The liberality with which the city contributes will gauge in some degree the forthcoming effectiveness of the army's great work.

That being as it is, those who have a proper conception of the Salvation Army, what it means, what it stands for and what it does, will see to it that it receives the full portion for which it asks.

Head of Boston's Famed Peace Parade Was a Faker and Impostor, Officials Charge; Inquiry Is On

Says His Resplendent Uniform Was Combination Of Templar, Pythian and Odd Fellow; Lead Impressive Strut Down Street

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The storm which broke over the Armistice day peace parade continued to rage today over charges Masons made that Hammond T. Fletcher, chief martial, was a "common faker and imposter."

Clarence M. Dunbar, eminent commander of the Knights Templar, has has been summoned from Providence to investigate Fletcher's status.

Fletcher, who represented himself to be a "past grand master of the Knights Templar," was a resplendent figure as he led the parade in a uniform which, Masonic officials claim, was a mixture of Knights Templar, Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows' regalia.

As chief martial was about to take his post at the head of the parade, W. L. Terhune, head, of the Square and Compass club, the Masonic club of Boston, challenged his right to Masonry. Fletcher avoided the challenge by ordering the parade to start.

In a statement today Mr. Terhune said:

"When I learned that certain societies which were unpatriotic in the war were going to march in the Armistice day parade, I declined to have my organization participate. I was astounded when I learned that this man Fletcher was to be chief martial and that he claimed to be a past grand master of the Knights Templar. Knowing him to be a fraud, I challenged his right to Masonry."

The parade resulted in a disturbance on Boston Common where 500 members of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations attempted to disrupt a meeting which followed the participation. Surrounded police, the veterans charged up a nearby slope to a German Howitzer captured by a Yankee division in the Argonne where they met and adopted resolutions branding the parade as "an unforgettable insult," and those in charge of it "peace-at-any-price fanatics."

The disturbance started when Dr. Francis Von Oy, German war veteran and a Harvard graduate student, was introduced as a speaker at the "peace meeting." His appearance on the platform was followed by jeers of the veterans.

Non-Skidding Paraffin is Latest Hope of Beauty Experts For Those Who Wish to Become Young Again

Many Faces Rejuvenated Years Ago Must Now Be Worked Over Because the Wax Slipped, Parisians Declare

PARIS, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Non-skidding paraffin is the latest hope which Paris beauty doctors are holding out to those with old faces who desire to be made young looking. Many of the faces rejuvenated years ago by injecting paraffin under the skin to fill up hollows and wrinkles have assumed their old time look because the paraffin slipped.

One notable case was the husband of a well-known actress. The wife insisted that he should have his face reshaped so that she would not be forced to get a divorce from him. She said he looked too old when he appeared in public with her. She herself had been worked back into a seemingly young girl under the skillful methods of the beauty doctors. The husband underwent the necessary treatment but the paraffin used to take out the seams and furrows of his face melted and ran downward, puffing out his cheeks and jaws.

As the man was well known in Paris his case was a great tragedy for the "face lifters."

The demand for paraffin treatment became almost nil and investigators went to work to discover a non-skid way.

This they now affirm they have found.

Chamberlain Only 12 Years Behind Me, Is Shaw's Opinion

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, invited by T. P. (Tay Pay) O'Connor to attend a non-partisan dinner on Nov. 20 in honor of Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, has made a characteristic reply. A postal card received by Mr. O'Connor reads:

"No, really. The dinner should be to me.

"It was I who proposed a Locarno pact in 1913 and again on New Year's Day, 1914, when it might have prevented the war. What use is it now when all the mischief is done?

"However, it is greatly to Mr. Chamberlain's credit that he is only 12 years behind me instead of 50."

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night —Adv.

OLYMPIC BILL OF VAUDEVILLE WORTH SEEING

"Confessions of a Queen" Is a Headliner In Itself

An unusual vaudeville bill, supported by an excellent film attraction, "Confessions of a Queen," make up this week-end's offering at the Olympic theatre.

Five acts of lively vaudeville kept audiences well-entertained yesterday afternoon and evening. A continuous showing, from 1 to 11 p. m., drew large crowds throughout the day. The bill will continue through Friday and Saturday.

Pictures in Shadow.

Emile Edouard, master of shadowology, has a very unusual offering in his hands, which present many weird and amusing pictures in shadow. He opens the bill.

Uke Low is an attractive youngster who keeps the crowds entertained with his "grand opera on a ukelele," his cigar-box melody and a few quick and unexpected steps. He is a versatile lad who got a big hand at last night's performance.

The Elinore Jackson Trio offers "The Flirt," a clever skit on modern domestic life. The erring husband's predicament. The erring husband flirts with his wife's sister and this gets him in a serious predicament that turns the audience into an uproar.

A Dance Review.

Hooker and Davis present a novel dance revue.

A "Little Fantasy," the offering of a clever and artistic dancing and musical company is cordially received. Offering much in the way of fun and frolic, they play, they sing and they dance their way into the hearts of their audience.

"Confessions of a Queen" is a headliner in itself.

"Limited Mail" Is a Film Thriller

"The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. Classic of the screen which begins at the Strand theatre today, is a picturization of Elmer Vance's thrilling melodrama of the west, directed by George Hill.

The story concerns the fortunes of Bob Snobson (Monte Blue) a ne'er-do-well Easterner who turns tramp and joins forces with Spike Edward Gribbon) and Potts (Willard Louis), two others of the care-free brotherhood. When the three save the Limited Mail from destruction by a mountain landslide, Jim Fowler (Tom Gallery), the mail clerk, strikes up a friendship with Bob.

Romance and Thrills.

Together the two men bring up Bob's motherless little son Bobbie (Jackie Huff) and together they fall in love with Caroline Dale (Vera Reynolds), an attractive little waitress. Bob's past in the form of a chorus girl returns to disturb his romance, and further complications result when Jim is killed in a wreck due to Bob's carelessness in missing a danger signal. Bobbie falls into a stream when he follows Bob in his grief-stricken wanderings, and the man sacrifices the boy to rescue the Mail train from a landslide.

How Spike rescues little Bobbie, how Caroline's faith is restored and she and Bob find happiness together forms the climax to the dramatic story.

In Colorado Mountains.

"The Limited Mail," filmed in the Colorado mountains, is said to have some of the most beautiful shots ever seen in a photoplay; and the exciting sequences of train wrecks and landslides are said by reviewers in other cities to add materially to the enjoyment of this production.

Darryl Francis Zanuck wrote the scenario.

"Freshman" Offers a Lloyd Success

Harold Lloyd adds another outstanding characterization to his coward of "Grandma's Boy," his mind physician of "Dr. Jack" and his stuttering Lothario of "Girl Shy" with his delineation of a college boy in "The Freshman," his latest contribution to the world of mirth, showing Saturday at the Olympic theatre.

It is said that Lloyd gives the best performance of his career in "The Freshman" in which he has caught the spirit of a college youth whose ambition is to become the most popular boy o nthe campus. The trials and tribulations he goes through to attain fame bring about scores of hilarious incidents, with a large measure of sympathy running throughout the picture.

This marks Lloyd's first screen attempt in a story of college life, but the part he plays in "The Freshman" seems to model him to perfect measure. Johyna Ralston has been accorded the heroine role, and others in the cast are Hazel Keener, Brooks Benedict, Pat Harmon, James Anderson and Joe Harrington. Sam Taylor, John Grey, Ted Wilde and Tim Whelan wrote the story and Taylor and Fred Newmeyer directed.

If I should need a surgeon, friend,
And you should happen there;
Just open me with song, my friend,
And close me with a prayer.

MRS. FERGUSON OPPOSES SUIT BY DAN MOODY

She Instructs Highway Commission to Hire Legal Aid in Case

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—New chapters were written in the Texas state highway embroglio today when Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson ordered Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the state highway commission, to contest the suit of Attorney General Dan Moody, seeking to cancel contracts held by the American Road company, recovery of $650,000 and ousting of the company from the state.

Another chapter was the filing of a suit by the attorney general against Sherman & Youmans Construction company at Houston, seeking to cancel surface contracts in Harris and Galveston counties and to prevent payment of claims of approximately $30,000, and recovery of $1,176.13 alleged over payment.

A third chapter came with the agreement of the American Road company and the Hoffman Construction company, some contracts of which have been cancelled, to make $500,000 bond each "for faithful performance of contracts."

As a fourth chapter John Hornsby, Travis county attorney, has been spoken to, he said, as intervenor in the American Road company case, and John Brady of Austin, Lon Curtis of Belton and John Byckett, Jr., of San Antonio, have been retained as attorneys for the highway commission to contest the attorney general's suit. Hornsby declared, however, that if he appeared in the case, hearing of which is set for Monday at Austin, he "will appear as county attorney for the state as I lawfully should."

Other developments were numerous. They included the statement from Attorney Genral Dan Moody that his answr to the governor's charge that he was exceeding his authority would be made in court.

TECH CLUB

or a total investment in refineries of over $13,000,000. And this does not include, Mr. Priddy pointed out, tank cars, storage tanks, current inventories and such items which run into additional millions.

The products of all these refineries exceed $50,000 a day, the speaker continued, while they employ over 2,000 people upon whom are dependent at least 15,000 people in Wichita Falls alone. The monthly payroll exceeds $450,000.

Crude oil for use in these refineries come in through pipe lines from as far north and east as Duncan, Okla., from as far west as Vernon and from as far south as Archer county. The major companies, of course, send their crude on to the big coastal refineries at Houston and Port Arthur, but much of it is held out by the independents of this territory for use in their own plants.

From these facts and figures Mr. Priddy went into a discussion of the processes and products of refining. Fuel oil is first run into skimming plant stills, he said, where it is subjected to heat. The lighter fluids come off first in the form of vapors and are condensed. Thus is obtained navy gasoline. Then comes kerosene gas oils and finally fuel oil is left. This latter product in a heated condition is pumped to the cracking plants where, under enormous pressure of as high as 800 pounds per inch and hig temperatures of as great as 1,400 to 1,800 degrees ferenheit, it is converted to gasoline and a fluid resembling crude oil itself.

There are two cracking processes used, Mr. Priddy said, these being the Cross and the Dubbs. In the former process the stills used are made from the breach ends of naval guns and are manufactured by the same company which turns out the big marine defense weapons. They are tested to withstand a pressure of 10,000 pounds per square inch. The fluid from the Cross cracking plants goes back to the skimming plant where more gasoline is taken out than was ever obtained from the best Burkburnett crude by means of the old skimming process.

Gasoline from the cracking plant, he said, is far superior to so-called straight run gasoline in that it is anti-knocking. Mr. Priddy said that the disagreeable odors which come from a cracking plant and which are noticeable in Wichita Falls when a norther puts in an appearance are compounds of sulphur for the removal of which a method has but recently been devised. This is done by runnin the gas through steel shavings, scrap iron or other ferrous material. When these sulphur compounds are removed the gas can be condensed the same as casinghead.

In addition to their standard petroleum products, the local refineries ship great quantities of special products, among which are painters' naptha and a cleaner's gasoline used in the dry cleaning industry. This latter liquid is adaptible to cleaning fabrics since it leaves no stain or odor after drying.

It is possible that in the future convivial gents in New York and Chicago may get a healthy kick and glorious drunk from the gasses of Wichita Falls refineries, Mr. Priddy went on to say. Many refineries elsewhere, he declared, are making alcohol which is identical with grain alcohol. It is in reality a synthetic product having all the constituent elements of grain alcohol and in New York now bootleggers are using it extensively in their concoctions. It is said to impart a tremendous wallop, the speaker asserted, is non-poisonous but is more apt to produce sickness in the consumer than regular grain alcohol.

In the past year local refineries have spent over $3,000,000 in improvements, Mr. Priddy said, and he then went on to explain how it was the greatest industry of which Wichita Falls now boasts. It exceeds threefold the investment value, payroll and productive value of any other industry.

Mr. Priddy announced at the conclusion of his address that in the near future J. Frank Norfleet, Hale Center rancher who won world-wide fame several years ago by trailing a gang of crooks and bringing them to justice, would visit Wichita Falls as his guest and would address the Tech club. He will also probably make other appearances before Wichita Falls organizations, he said.

Classification of Charities in Wichita Falls Answers Question Of How Important Work is Aided

In Preparation for Community Chest Drive its Endorse: Show How the Other Side of Life Is Taken Care of in This City

A group of worthy Wichita Falls gentlemen were discussing welfare work in general the other day. The forthcoming community chest campaign was a timely topic, they believed, and hence they went into various angles of the work.

"It's a good thing, of course," said one, "but I have never been able to thoroughly understand how it works out. Why is it, for example, that the Salvation Army does most of the actual relief work? We are told that it gives away most of the old clothes, provides most of the free meals and free beds, and does a lot of other relief work that the rest of the welfare organizations here do not attempt. And then I don't know what the Municipal Welfare board is, what it does and why it should be supported."

The Question Answered.

The answer to these questions is obvious enough to any one familiar in the least degree with the welfare scheme in Wichita Falls. To the layman, though, it is perhaps a puzzling system at first sight.

The thing "works out" just does any enterprise which has a central governing body and various departments to handle various branches of endeavor. A manufacturing company for example, has its president, vice presidents, superintendents, department managers and other officials as the executive or directing units. Then it has the production department, the purchasing department, sales force, accounting staff, etc.

By using a little imagination, welfare work here can be classed in something the same way. The Municipal Welfare board, composed of the mayor, secretary and representatives of each participating welfare organization, acts as an executive or directorial unit. The eight other organizations have a part in the Wichita Falls community chest may be considered as corresponding to department or branches of the factory. The Y. W. C. A., for instance, has one function to perform; the day nursery has another; the Salvation Army has another—and its chief welfare consists of making distribution of material relief.

In Various Sections.

This is because the army's work in the poorer sections of town where the workers come in contact with that class of people in which relief work is needed. This has been true from the start. Salvation Army men and women have labored with those to whom poverty and want is no stranger; they are able to discerne speedily and almost infallibly a case of genuine destitution from one that is feigned. They are, therefore, equipped to deal with this class of people, to know where relief work will accomplish the most good.

The Y. W. C. A. in its work of providing creation and study privileges for girls has small opportunity to come in contact with cases of destitution. Therefore it administers material relief in but few special instances. The same situation governs the activity of the boy scouts, camp fire girls and other organizations, each of which have a special field of endeavor.

Thus it is that the Salvation Army with its workers who each day go into the poverty-stricken homes of the community comes into contact most frequently with cases where relief is necessary. That is why it is given the clothes, the food, the blankets and the other commodities to distribute. If, in its rounds, the army finds a suffering babe that needs medical attention it calls the Red Cross; if it finds an abandoned youngster it summons the Texas Childrens Home and Aid society representatives; if it finds a girl or boy in reasonably comfortable home surroundings it seeks to enroll her or him in the camp fire girls or boy scouts. Similar action is taken by all other organizations and the result is a unified, co-ordinated system of welfare and relief administration rather than a hit-or-miss proposition.

A Good Thing.

That is the "why" of "a good thing." It is all done in the interest of economy and efficiency. It is really a big business; and as any business that succeeds must have departments and executives, so must the welfare work if it is to accomplish those things for which it is designed.

Tulia Murder of Last July May Be Cleared In Arrest Of Man By Burns Detective

Barney Finn, Finger Print Expert From Fort Worth, Aids Investigation

An investigation which, it was hoped, might lead to a solution of the slaying last July of an automobile salesman near Tulia, was presumably still under way in Wichita Falls last night, although in official quarters it was said that no developments had thus far been obtained. Barney Finn, finger print expert of the Fort Worth police department, who was here earlier in the week in connection with the case has returned, but O. H. Bailey, attached to the Burns Detective Agency of Dallas was still here last night.

The investigation centered around a man arrested here by the police department on a narcotic charge. Sufficient evidence was found here, it was said, to warrant further attention into the case and for that reason the Dallas and Fort Worth experts were summoned.

Chief of Police George H. Hodgins said last night that his department was not taking an active hand in the affair but that he understood from Bailey that nothing of importance had been unearthed as yet.

The Tulia salesman was robbed and shot to death last July while he was en route from Amarillo to Tulia. His body was found beside his car on a country road several days after his disappearance excited attention.

BLAYNEY HAS HIS IDEALS.

College Faculty Must Be Nothing Less Than the Best, He Says.

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A college that offers anything short of the best in faculty material is committing a crime against the student, Dr. Lindsey Blayney, president of the college of Industrial Arts, late today told the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in convention here. Mrs. John D. Sherman, president general federation of women's clubs, deplored the "breakdown" of the American home, and Dr. Walter M. N. Splawn president of the Texas university, discussed results of the recent Texas school survey.

I know a certain party
Who fares, when summer's done—
To that bright land where golden sand
Lies warm beneath the sun.
There, 'till the fall of springtime,
Abides by sapphire seas
He looks away across the bay
To rows of gleaming keys.

It is not wealth that lures him,
He's journeyed year on year
When on the road past his abode
The leaves fell brown and sere,
To that sun-lighted Eden
And lived there until spring,
And never got a house or lot
Or farm or anything.

Though others that I know of
Have piled up riches there
(Where sands are sold almost like gold)
And now are free from care,
Though thousands flock there yearly
On mighty fortunes bent,
This party that I speak of
Is still without a cent.

He'll reapepar in April,
And in my apple tree—
He'll perch and sway at close of day
And sing a song to me.
And when the nest he's built there,
By gentle breezes tossed—
Swings to and fro he'll never know
The fortune he has lost!

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE LITTLE ELVES—XI. — by W.J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

THERE WAS ONCE A WICKED WOMAN WHO WAS UNKIND TO HER STEP-DAUGHTER. THE LOVELY GIRL, BEFRIENDED BY THE THREE LITTLE ELVES, MARRIED THE KING. THE STEP-MOTHER, WISHING TO MAKE HER OWN DAUGHTER QUEEN, THREW THE REAL QUEEN INTO A RIVER. SHE TURNED INTO A DUCK. ONE NIGHT THE KING WAVED HIS SWORD THREE TIMES OVER HER AND SHE WAS RESTORED TO HIM. HE HID HER, AND SENT FOR THE STEP-MOTHER TO ASK HER WHAT PUNISHMENT SHE THOUGHT WAS DESERVED BY ANYBODY WHO WOULD THROW ANOTHER INTO THE WATER.

"WHAT SHOULD BE THE PUNISHMENT FOR SUCH A PERSON?" ASKED THE KING.

THE OLD WOMAN ANSWERED, "THE WRETCH DESERVES NOTHING BETTER THAN TO BE PUT IN A BARREL WITH SHARP NAILS AND ROLLED DOWN THE SIDE OF A HILL INTO THE WATER." "YOU HAVE PRONOUNCED YOUR OWN SENTENCE," SAID THE KING.

SO HE SENT FOR SUCH A BARREL, PACKED THE WICKED WOMAN AND HER DAUGHTER INTO IT AND ORDERED THAT IT BE ROLLED DOWN THE HILL INTO THE RIVER. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

RECORD MAKERS

Dallas sports scribe calls attention to fact S. M. U.'s Mustangs seem about ready to set a football record for the southwest conference, and it'll not be in games won and lost. Saturday's final conference clash of the current race with Baylor will make or break the Ponies' chances to set the new mark.

* * *

S. M. U. has played three conference games this year. The Dallas eleven has failed to push over a point. The Morrison outfit has been scored on once. That was when Fay Wilson took a pass from Dusty Berry in that Aggie game and then kicked the resultant try for point after touchdown.

* * *

THE OUTLOOK

Should the Mustangs fail to score on Baylor and yet hold the determined Bears away from the final chalk line, one of the most peculiar records in the history of the conference will have been established. They ought to make a record of some sort just out of habit if nothing else. For three seasons the Mustangs have been setting various records. In 1923, S. M. U. won the championship through the air. All but three touchdowns were scored on forward passes. In 1924, they won two games and tied four, none of which was a scoreless tie. Now in 1925, after getting off to a whale of a start in non-conference affairs it begins to appear they're not going to score even so much as a safety in the conference race.

* * *

ABOUT TREXLER

That the Spudders made a clever move in drafting Floyd Trexler, outfielder, from the Virginia league seems assured. This point was brought out in the record of his baseball career published in these columns a week or so back. That W. B. Edwards, president of the Wilson club of the Virginia league thinks a great deal of Trexler, was shown in a letter received at baseball headquarters Thursday.

* * *

Edwards had nothing but compliments for Trexler. His missive in part: "You will find that Trexler is a good ball player, and one of good habits. Give him a little time in the spring, as he generally starts a little slow, but he is a real hitter!"

* * *

Freddy Dorman writes in to declare Trexler has the stuff. Dorman played with Trexler year before last when he was farmed out by the Spudders.

* * *

MAT STOCK RISES

Alec Ross apparently is going to kep his word in regards to bringing big time grapplers to Wichita Falls to perform under the auspices of the Wichita Falls wrestling association. Ross wired The Record News yesterday that all details for the staging of the association's next card at the Majestic theatre November 24 have been closed. The main event, as announced several days ago, will bring together Wayne (Big) Munn, the colorful Nebraska giant, and Pat McGill, Canadian heavyweight champion, in a finish match.

* * *

MATTY RETURNS

Matty Matsuda, the wonder Jap matman, will take on Charley Mason of Butte, Mont., in a finish mill on the same card, said Ross. Matty was forced to postpone his planned invasion of Mexico shortly after the Brown-Matsuda match staged here last month. The Jap hurt an arm in his battle with Brown, then injured it again in a match at Plainview the following night although conquering his opponent in speedy fashion. He has been resting until recently.

* * *

One Way of Getting Over

When Ross closed the deal with Munn and McGill a week or so back he was not in Wichita Falls. Neither was the writer. Ross knew we were out of town, and the route he took to get the news to us was rather devious. The missive we received on our return was: "Mr. Hannah, tell Jack to tell Mr. Bell to tell Blondy when he returns that I've matched Munn with McGill for November 24."

* * *

DOC TO THE RESCUE

Wichita Falls' twilight league will be in on the organized race for the state amateur baseball championship next season. But if it wasn't for L. O. (Doc) Landon, president of the league, the bunch would be left in the cold. For Doc is going to attend the meeting of Texas amateurs at Waco tomorrow, paying his own expenses, and line the twilighters up with the rest of the state.

* * *

CHIRPS FROM THE HOT STOVERS.

The old pot has begun to boil, and the hot stovers are in full swing. That tentative starting batting order of the Spudders for the 1926 race picked by Frank Thompson, the grandstand manager, and carped in his column the other day has caused a heavy protest by another Spudder fan. His letter to the column follows:

"In this morning's Record News I read with some merriment Frank Thompson's lineup against our old-time foes, those Panther-Cats of Fort Worth, six times Texas league winners.

"For four years I have hardly missed a home game and always rooted for the Spudders. And so can be classed as an ardent Spudder fan, although not a grandstand manager.

"My lineup against the Cats, and one which will make John Jacob Astor Ats stand up and take notice, follows:

"Distel, 3b; Bodie, 1b; Williams, cf; Sutherland, lf; White, ss; Washburn, 2b; Trexler, rf; Query, c; Roberts, p. Winters relief pitcher.

As for the shortstop whose name begins with a D., every one who follows the game knows he refers to Driveros of Beaumont, but if the grandstand will stay with White he is the better man and one to be feared against Fort Worth portsiders. Ask Jake.

COYOTES DRILL FOR LION TIFF UNDER COVER

Stephenson to Be Back In Game With Indians Saturday

The Coyote Pups wil meet the Burkburnett second stringers at Spudder Park this afternoon at 3:45. The club is in first class condition and Coach Montgomery intends to send in his full strength for the game.

The club has been working out regularly for some time and with the improvement it has shown during the last few days should give the Burkburnett lads something to think about. On Clyde Fly, the Tennessee school boy, the Pups will depend for the field generalship. Fly has been playing a great brand of football at quarterback and is cool headed while under fire.

A long skull practice was included in program with the rest of the workout Thursday afternoon. Coach Montgomery announced a probable lineup as follows: Anderson, Goff or Giles, ends; Bains and Saye, tackles; Powell, Davenport or Tandy, guards; Nichols, center; Fly, quarterback; Brackett and Carter, halves; Captain Farris, fullback.

COYOTES NOT IN SHAPE—THOUGHT.

The Coyotes came away from that Electra contest Wednesday in poorer condition than at first had been thought. But on the whole, the Pack is in fairly good shape considering the toughness of the mill with Reese's Tigers.

Bill Flippin, wingman who was carried from the field by his mates early in the game but later returned to shine at his position, had stiffened up Thursday morning and limped around in sore commiti on. Moore and Ray were bunged up a bit and showed the effect of the battle yesterday. Coyal Francis is not in any too good shape. However, all these can be catachised as minor injuries, and the lads with proper care should be in fine fettle by the time of the Vernon encounter billed Monday at Spudder Park.

Brown Pushes Linemen.

McCallum sent his youngsters through a secret session yesterday and at the finish declared he felt his team would give the Lions a very much harder fight than was the case in that other battle staged before the ineligibility shakeup registered in this section the past week whereby Vernon, Electra and Wichita Falls were ordered to play their games again.

Fritz Taylor took a lengthy drill with his place-kicking toe, and looked very much alive.

The Old Battle Spent.

Brown McCallum, Coach Bud's brother who is assisting him, shot the linemen through a stiff workout.

The Coyote outlook is far brighter than prior to that 35-0 victory of Vernon's two weeks back. The Pack displays a harder fighting spirit, and is working smoother in all departments of play. There were many fumbles in the Electra game, but these breaks failed to cool the Wichita Falls battling ire. It is not likely the lads will be so butter fingered Monday. No club fumbles and messes up plays every day the way the gang did Wednesday.

DATSON HURT IN McMURRAY GAME.

The Junior college Indians took a short limbering up workout Thursday afternoon with only 14 men showing for practice. The club came out of the McMurray game Wednesday with but one injury that looked at all bad. Fred Datson, midget halfback, had his knee badly twisted and may be out of the Weatherford contest Saturday afternoon.

A few other members of the squad were limping slightly, but none of their injuries were serious. Outside of Datson the club will be in good shape for the game Saturday.

Doyle Stephenson is expected to be back in the game Saturday at halfback. He was out for the past week with a bad knee. Stephenson has developed into one of the best backfield men on the club, and was one of the shining lights of the Quanah high school and North Texas Aggie contests.

Munday Cagers Defeat Weinert

MUNDAY, Nov. 12.—The Munday high school girls basketball team defeated the Weinert high school team here last night on their new indoor court, 16 to 5, while the boys team tied 14 and 14, with the Weinert boys, and the game was forfeited to Munday when Weinert refused to play off the tie.

The Munday girls' team has been defeated only once in four years and that four years ago by Waco high for the state championship. Coach Wilson says he has a better team this year than the one defeated by Waco, and expects to compete again this year for state honors. They recently defeated Goree high school, while the Munday boys were defeated by Goree. Coach Starling of the boys' team is rapidly whipping his team into shape and expects to give the strongest teams in this part of the state some hard tussles before the season ends. He has been handicapped somewhat in not having experienced players to work with, but with only two weeks training has built up a wonderful team.

DUKE COOLS POLLOCK IN TWO ROUNDS

Wildkitten Grabs Judges' Verdict Over Eddie Murdock

Duke Trammel, Fort Worth's king of southwestern pugilistic circles barring little Tommy White, and some are willing to wager the rejuvenated Duke can put it on Tommy, last night made short shrift of Dave Pollock, the Atlanta welter, continuing to knock 'em cold in what looms as one of the most surprising comebacks ever staged in southern ring annals.

The wanton Fort Worth mauler stopped the Georgia Cracker cold in little more than an actual three minutes of milling. Nothing occurred in the opening round. They sparred lightly a few seconds in the next canto. Then Trammel who had scored twice with a left jab, poked over with that port punch and followed with a right cross to the lower boundary of the Georgian's map. That was all. Pollock was several minutes coming out of it.

Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls feather, won a judges' decision over Eddie Murdock, Sulphur featherweight, in a slashing ten-rounder. Monte was all in at the finish, but he scored more effectively and oftener than did his speedy little opponent.

There were a number of fans who disagreed with the verdict, however. Tim Collegan and Bill Strachan were the judges. Now go and get 'em.

Kid Mitchell, Electra negro heavy, lost a slugging decision to six Second Smith in a four round bout. Kid Norford, Wichita Falls ebony [illegible] weight, who claims he is a heavyweight tamer challenged Six Second Smith for next Thursday night.

Scrappy Williams took a popular decision over Young Brynm in a four-round curtain raiser. The boys are flyweights.

W'FALLS POLO FOUR TO PLAY OKLAHOMA CITY

Will Rogers, Ardent Mallet Wielder, to Be Guest Of Club

Wichita Falls poloists after a lapse of play since the Texas-Oklahoma fair swing into action Sunday and Monday against Jim Minnick's Oklahoma City four on the Texas-Oklahoma field. The Sunday encounter is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock, the Monday match at 2 o'clock.

Will Rogers, world famous cowboy-comedian and lecturer who appears at the Junior college Monday evening, probably will be a guest of the Wichita Falls Polo club.

Rogers is an ardent poloist, in fact, during his present lecture tour has been entertained by the polo organizations of many cities, and even participated in a number of games.

Minnick is one of the leading polo-ists in the southwest and will bring with him a first class quartet to battle the Wichita Falls four. Minnick, by the way, is a close friend of Rogers' of years' standing. The pair used to ride the range together, and have played on the same polo teams.

The probable starting lineup of the Wichita Falls club will be Fletcher, Featherston, Robbins and White.

The club, organized several months back, is composed of this four, HoustonCowden, D. O. Johnson, John Fastnow, Jerreyl Gose, Jermoe Stone and E. Pendegrast. Dr. J. H. Fletcher is president of the organization, C. H. Featherstone, secretary-treasurer, and Horace Robbins, team captain.

Minnick's polo ponies arrived in Wichita Falls Thursday.

MEMORY

You can talk of law and order
And obedience to such,
But when it comes to poker
They don't amount to much—
For of all the joys of living
That my vanished years could claim
Not one had half the pleasure
Of a friendly poker game.

Old Faces look upon me
As I think of other years,
Old stories frolic lightly
As each form of old appears;
I can see the hands they're holding
And the way they play the same
The old familiar faces
Of a friendly poker game.

Where are they? Time has scattered
The devotees of chance—
Business—money—matrimony—
There was one that fell in France;
But I heard them call of evenings
On each old familiar name—
As they sit at momery's table
In a friendly poker game!

The Chosen Field.

Of all the fields of professionalism to which star amateur players turn, there is none less concerned with the actual translation of physical effort into the dollar-mark than that of pro football. Of course, the call of the cartwheel is there—undeniably—but you can conceive of no other branch of athletics in which is apostles are so irrevocably cut off from participation in their sport than in football. And pro grid play offers the only road of return.

The college and amateur baseball player may turn to organized ball because he likes to play the game better than anything else, but should he elect to remain an amateur he can play with amateur teams as fast as those that trained him. There is no sudden curtain lowered on golf, tennis, basketball and, except in certain sections, on track and field sports, but the man who loves football, who has played his span in high school and college, is through. Town teams there are, occasionally, but they are crude at best, and the man who has known good coaching and fine team play is lost on them. Once his college career is through he has only two alternatives—coaching or professional play. And either way he loses his amateur status.

It is unquestionably this, far more than the lure of salaries, that will gain for the pro ranks graduates from the colleges.

The average corn crop of the United States brings more money than the wheat, cotton, potato and rye crops combined. Did Mr. Volstead have anything to do with this?

On the Pro Subject.

While we are on the pro subject, it is worthy of note that the Associated Press recently pointed out that professionalism of various kinds is luring an extraordinary number of the high figures of sport. Not so extraordinary. In these days of international competition that requires considerable commercialized backing to enter competing teams, even in sports like tennis, where the team personnel is small, the big figures of the various games are forced further away from the amateur idea. It is not within the bounds of human nature for the youngster, male or female, in ordinary circumstances, who travels to Olympics or international games of various sorts in the comfortable ways our star athletes naturally travel, not to think of the easy dollars that can be gained from commercializing physical prowess.

The tragic difference is that once the professional line has been crossed they can not return; and it is only after it has been crossed that all too often they learn it is not worth while.

Much is made of Paavo Urmi's refusal of a quarter million dollars to run as a pro. As a matter of fact, the glamour of the flying Finn would have been dulled within a week of the change, and his chances of collecting a quarter million would be poor, indeed.

Bobby Jones is America's best beloved champion. But if the redoubtable Atlantan turned pro, the great American public would not care two shakes of a stick for him. For the GAP is that way about its pros, except in baseball. Which is a miracle or a remarkable psychological fact, whichever you prefer to call it.

Out of the mud—the rush—the smear—
The mass play pall that covers me,
I thank whatever gods are here
For my incomparable knee.

The Lucky Longhorns.

Whatever may or may not have gone to the Texas squad this year in the way of breaks, the Orange team on the night of Nov. 7 occupied at least one fortuitous position. Nothing could happen to any team in the conference between that date and Thanksgiving that could materially alter the future of the Texas team.

T. C. U. could defeat S. M. U.—Rice could win or lose to A. & M. and Baylor—Baylor could beat S. M. U. and Rice and S. M. U. mar the grid prospects of both T. C. U. and Baylor—none of those things could at all effect the final status of the Texas team. Its outcome for Turkey Day was fixed irrevocably on the Thanksgiving game.

LIONS BESET BY INJURIES TO LEADERS

Ryan and Norwood Out Of It As Vernon Preps For Pack

VERNON, Nov. 12.—Ryan and Norwood, absent from practice all week, donned the moleskins again today. Neither lad was in condition to do any very hard work.

VERNON, Nov. 12—Apparently hard luck is not through with the Vernon Lions, as two of Baggett's stars are out of the lineup at present because of injuries and illness. Ryan, broken-field runner and quarterback, is out of moleskins just now because of a wrenched back received in practice early this week. Norwood, giant tackle, is out because of illness.

However, physicians report that both will probably be able to join the squad again before the end of the week. Both are watching the squad work-out each afternoon from the sidelines.

Two Men at Center.

With Captain Robinson out of the lineup because of a ruling of the league officials last week, Coach Baggett is working two men at center. Ralph Parker promises to make Baggett's first choice for the fighting captain's position, while Lewis will probably make a strong substitute.

The Lion mentor is again concentrating on off-tackle plays. He evidently regards his passing combination a finished product since watching its results in the Vernon-Wichita Falls game two weeks ago. Few passes are thrown on the field of practice now.

Luttrell at Quarter.

With Ryan out of the lineup, Luttrell has been running the team during the early part of the week. Luttrell has bee nout of the lineup since the Electra game because of illness. He generalled the Lions in the Vernon-Electra affray on Oct. 24, but apparently did not have the confidence of his team. The club is working much better under his direction this week.

Leo Doped To Start at Back In Arizona Go

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Leo Baldwin of Wichita Falls, all-State high school halfback in 1923, may be used in the Longhorn backfield Saturday against the Arizona university Wildcats. Baldwin started the season in the backfield, but failed to show to advantage and was shifted to end where he for a time, performed as a regular.

Baldwin was regarded the most brilliant and promising member of the strong freshmen team of last season, but so far Higgins, tackle, and Saxon, halfback who also were members of the "fish" eleven, have surpassed his work with the Longhorns.

With Shearer out of the running because of a fractured elbow, Olle will play at end. Although comparatively small and light, Olle is a splendid defensive payer.

Gilliland, halfback is the scoring ace of the Arizonans, Coach Stewart is priming his men to stop.

Illinois Youngster Drives Two Holes In One Same Day

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—If reports are true, Laddie Wladizenski, 18-year-old caddie of Robinson, Ill., was the golf sharpshooter of the universe Armistice day.

He was credited with two holes in one and with breaking the Lincoln park municipal course record.

His tee shots at the 337 yard second hole and the 167 yard seventh were aces. His card was 32, against the former record of 35.

Douglas Erel, Shreveport, La., and another partner of Laddie in a three-some confirmed the reports.

AGAIN THEY AVER BENNY MAY RETURN

Retired Lightweight Champ Talks it Over With Rickard

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Benny Leonard, less than a year after retiring as lightweight boxing champion of the world, yearns for a fight, by his own admission, but the objections of his mother have not been overcome.

Leonard told of his desire to don gloves while going through light training in a gymnasium and his return became almost a probability when it was learned that he had communicated wit hthe state athletic commission. Tex Rickard, promoter, admitted that he was considering the retired champion as a principal in matches this winter.

"And there is a prospect," Rickard added, "that he will face Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship next summer. Leonard will have to re-enter the ring as a welterweight as I don't think he can make 135 pounds. There will be plenty of opponents for him and he is a favorite with the public."

"I may get in a punch or two next summer," Benny said. "Sure I want to fight again. I have been feeling like returning to the ring for some time. Perhaps if I can prevail on my mother, who doesn't want me to fight, I will be among those present next summer."

Sherman Star Not Ineligible

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Two counts of ineligibility brought against Ralph Welch, Sherman high school football star by Dallas Oak Cliff high, were dismissed today by the executive committee of the Texas University Interscholastic League, while action on a third was postponed. Keith, another Sherman high star, was cleared of a charge of ineligibility.

Coach Butler's Sherman high eleven is favored by many followers to win the state title, though ruling of Welch ineligible would blast hopes of the Sherman team. Welch, 190-pound fullback, is regarded as one of the most promising young athletes in the state.

GLOOM FALLS ON OWLS AS GAME NEARS

Rice Fullback Unable To Participate in Aggie Encounter

HOUSTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—George Murray, Rice Institute fullback, will not play in the game with the Texas Aggies here Saturday, and in all probabilities will be unable to participate at Baylor on Thanksgiving, according to John W. Heisman, coach at Rice.

Murray has developed a rather serious infection in one of his underprops, and has been in a local hospital since returning from Baton Rouge, La., where he played against the Louisiana State Tigers.

Leg in Bad Way.

Doctors attending the athlete were forced to cut his leg and insert a drain-pipe and it will be several weeks before he will be able to get around, it has been announced. Last Saturday the Owl fullback played with a swollen leg. Sunday morning when he reached Houston, he was taken to a hospital, where it was at first believed that he would be able to play against the Aggies. But the leg took a turn for the worse, and the incision was necessary.

The loss of Murray to the Owls will seriously handicap the team, as he has been one of the mainstays of the Rice backfield this season. Coach Heisman is grooming Calvin and Hill for the position; both of the men look well in late practices.

Owls Hard At It.

Indications are that the Rice team will be well preparedfor the Aggies. Heisman sent his charges through a week of hard practice, and topped the program with a large dose of scrimmage Thursday. Friday will be spent in polishing up the team for the Redclad warriors, who will arrive in Houston Friday morning.

Ticket sales indicate that one of the largest crowds ever to witness a Rice home game will be on hand fo rthe contest.

Band To Play At Wichita Contests

Tom McCarty has taken over the directorship of a group of high school pupils and has started to get a band in shape for the two big games that will be played in Wichita Falls Saturday and Monday.

The band may not have the number desired for the games, but music will be furnished anyway, it's said. Those in the band practicing in the college building Thursday were: Tom McCarty, Verna Bullard, Emmett Quillen, Ira Lee Uttz, Bill Rogers, Lewis Foster, Wilson Gray, Regas Dowblen, Bryon Johnson, James Gidding and Haward Alexander.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The cotton market today was fairly active, although there were periods of quiet during the middle of the day. After an opening gain of 65 to 71 points due entirely to a readjustment of the differences between this and the northern market owing to the advance in the latter during the holiday here on Wednesday, the general trend of prices was downward although the recession encountered stout resistance until about the middle of the afternoon when prices sagged rapidly under liberal realizing and liquidation of the prospect for a return of good weather in the belt. At the lowest levels reached prices were 39 to 43 points below the early highs on active months. The close was a little above the lows, showing net gains for the day on active months of 33 to 40 points and only 5 to 18 points on the mode distant and less active months.

At the start Liverpool did not come up to expectations and New York opened easier. December here traded at the start at 19.90, January at 19.85 and March at 19.72. After easing off 22 to 30 points during the first half hour of trading in sympathy with New York the market rallied on the continued rains in the belt, but only December made a new high at 19.96.

Late in the morning prices eased off some on a rumor that a prominent private authority estimated October consumption at 480,000 bales, later said to be 498,000 bales, but rallied slightly again only to ease off sharply in the afternoon to low levels for the day on clearing weather in the west. December dropping to 19.57, January to 19.50 and March to 19.30 and 39 to 42 points down from the early highs.

Exports for the day totaled 54,543 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Resolutions today followed yesterday's big advance in the cotton market, January contracts selling off to 19.74 in late trading, or 56 points net lower and 66 points below the high price touched on Wednesday. January closed at 19.76, the general market closing steady at net declines of 30 to 45 points.

The market appeared to be dominated by reactionary sentiment owing to the extent of the advance from the low levels of last Monday, combined with relatively easy Liverpool cables, rumors of rather disappointing domestic consumption figures for October and reports that Lancashire spinners were considering a proposal to increase mill curtailment.

After opening easy at a decline of 17 to 35 points the market recovered a good part of the loss, selling up from 19.93 to 20.19 for January on renewed covering with trade or investment buying. On the whole, however, demand was much less active than on the previous day. This was regarded by local traders as indicating that smaller short accounts had been fairly well covered and the early advance consequently met increased offerings.

Prices eased off gradually during the early afternoon, but broke a little more sharply toward the close, when selling became more aggressive and seemed to include more hedging by the south. December broke to 20.28 and March sold off to 19.87 or 32 to 56 points net lower on the general list. December was relatively firm the entire day, owing to the continued absence of arrivals here from the south for tender and at the close was 54 points above January compared with a premium of 30 points at the close of the previous day.

It was rumored that private returns indicated domestic consumption of 480,000 bales for October against 483,000 for September.

Exports today 54,533, making 2,844,739 so far this season. Port receipts 59,772. U. S. port stock 1,396,906 bales.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Stock prices made spirited recovery from recent weakness at the opening of today's market, but sold off from their earlier high levels in the afternoon as professional traders reduced commitments to await developments after the close of the market. These proved to be extremely favorable as the New York federal reserve bank announced that its rediscount rate was unchanged and the directors of the General Motors corporation declared an extra cash dividend of $5 on the common or $1 more than was generally expected earlier in the day.

Closing quotations were generally 1 to 2 points higher, although there were a number of gains substantially in excess of these figures and a sprinkling of losses ranging from fractions to 2 points. The averags of 20 leading railroad stocks established another new record high. Trading started off at a fast pace with the ticker 10 or 12 minutes behind the market toward the end of the first hour, but it slowed up perceptibly in the later trading. Total sales were 2,360,800 shares, or nearly a million below those in Tuesday's record breaking session.

Speculative interest centered largely in the motors, fluctuations in which were erratic. General Motors opened 5⅜ points higher at 145, advanced to 245½, broke to 136 and then rallied to 139¾. Hudson and Essex, both higher at 118½ after fluctuating between 115 and 120¼. Mack Trucks showed a similar net gain at 222⅜ after having sold as high as 226. White and Packard each closed a point higher, the last named touching a new high record for the year at 43½.

Dupont was the spectacular individual performer, opening 23 points higher at 270, climbing to a new high record for all time at 271¼ and then breaking to 248. Nash Motors soared 10 points to 450 and Loose Wiles Biscuit jumped 15 to 125, but the turnover in each case was small.

U. S. Rubber common, which is expected to resume dividends shortly after a lapse of over 4 years, was bid up 7⅜ points to 94, the highest price since 1920. New peak prices also were attained by American Brake Shoe and Foundry, American Ice, American International, American Sugar Refining, California Packing, International Combustion Engineering, May Department Stores, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Railway Steel Spring, Schulte Stores and Utah Copper.

Rails were under steady accumulation, although the failure of the Southern Pacific to increase its dividend caused disappointment in some quarters. Baltimore and Ohio, Northern Pacific and Lehigh Valley were bid up to new maximum quotations while New York Central, Illinois Central, "Nickel Plate" and Seaboard Air Line closed a point or so higher.

U. S. Steel common showed a net gain of 1 point at 133⅝ on buying apparently influenced by reports of a further improvement in trade conditions.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and held steady at that figure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp 10 point rallies in Italian and French currencies on the announcement that an agreement had been reached for the funding of the Italian debt was the feature of the firm foreign exchange market. French francs were quoted around 4.07 cents and Italian lire just under that figure. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.84⅝ and Norwegian and Danish kroner made substantial recoveries from yesterday's weakness.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Sharp reduction of the Chicago stock of wheat, to less than 200,000 bushels of regular contract grade led to a lively upturn in wheat prices today. Eastern mills were reported to be taking wheat away from here and the market closed nervous, ¼ to 3c net higher, December style, December $1.53¼ to $1.53⅝ and May $1.46¼ to $1.46⅞ with corn at ⅛ to 1¼c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c up and provisions varying from the same as Tuesday's finish to a rise of 15 cents.

Wet weather tending to hinder husking and to delay the movement of corn had a good deal to do with strengthening the corn market. In addition more or less buying was based on the fact that the government crop report as to corn was less bearish than expected. Oats was lifeless.

Provisions went upgrade with corn, despite weakness of hogs.

Market Gossip

R. E. Flowerree and Co., brokers, Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Fenner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

New Orleans opened 60 to 70 up this morning to conform to the advance at New York yesterday, but immediately realizing began to check any tendency toward further advance.

General rains over the belt except in extreme western sections and talk to the effect that enough of this year's crop has been made unintendable by the weather to strengthen the contracts markets considerably, and th emarket took the early selling well. Export were heavy.

Reports of clearing weather in most sections of the belt increased the volume of realizing in the afternoon. Shorts became aggressive sellers and the market lost about half of its early gains.

The general feeling at the close, however, is that values may slip a little more if good weather materializes, but that the large amount of unteniderable cotton in this crop and big consumptive demand will eventually enhance values.

GRAINS.

Wheat: The matter of immediate supplies of wheat is the dominating, in fact, the sole factor in the present market. Advances in price don't increase the movement or the offerings from any source, receipts continuing to run about one-third of last year's volume.

The slow movement is illustrated by Bradstreet's figures of the available supply which show increase for the week of 142,000 against 13,800 last year. The total available supply is given at 170,000 as compared with 241,000,000 a year ago. The cheapest wheat which can be bought is from Duluth and this is held 2½ over December Chicago. This about four cents out of line for delivery on the new December.

Some of the buying was attributed to foreign account, thought to be lifting of hedging against cash wheat.

Coarse Grain: The government estimate on corn had been anticipated and was ignored in today's market. In this grain, as in wheat, the situation in the cash article controls prices. There is a brisk demand for current arrivals, particularly for the old crop, offerings of which are very light, and premiums advancing. No. 2 yellow selling today 1⅜ cents over December. We do not discover anything particularly stimulating in this market but continue to believe that estimates of large yield have been fully discounted.

STOCKS.

The sharp recovery of yesterday greatly restored confidence of traders, and the upward move progressed further under more pronounced trend this morning with opening advances to the extent of 23 points in Dupont.

Other substantial advances were made in the initial trading by Chrysler, General Motors and Hudson.

Rails were again firm and active with New York Central the outstanding feature. Attention centered upon General Motors in anticipation of the outcome of the director's meeting this afternoon purposes.

U. S. Steel was heavily bought and the oils were in good demand under leadership of Mariand and Pacific oils.

General Motors declares extra dividend of $5 this afternoon, and Federal Reserve remains unchanged at 3½ per cent.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, ov. 12.—Conditions on the Fort Worth market were very agreeable to the selling side all around, with the single exception of calves where the usual take-off reached 25 to 50c.

Receipts in the cattle division aggregated 6,300 head, 2,800 of which were in the calf section and were generally of a plain character.

Hog receipts were again small, confined to two cars and a niggerdly array of trucks.

Sheep receipts were normal aggregating around 500 head.

The beef supply was larger than for other days of the week, but trade was slow. Early sales took short fed steers at $6.60.

The stock arrived in generous measure, and the trade took to the supply in a manner satisfying to salesmen. Butcher cows and canners were quoted steady to strong, best of the good cows moving in small lots at $4.50 to $5.50, but carloads did no better on the early rounds than $3.50. Canners were generally going at $2 and better.

Heifers and yearlings were in the medium class, clearing generally at $5 and within the spread of $4.50 to $5.75.

Bulls were unchanged.

The absence of shipping support caused calves to take a short circuit, resembling at 25 to 50c decline on a level with packer bids at Wednesday's close. A few heavy calves were taken early at $6.75 and common calves moved around $3 to $4.50. There was almost an entire absence of light veals.

Restricted swine supplies of a car and a portion of a car, kept the market steady. Truck holdings in the good to choice class moved at $12.10 and a carload made $12. Strong weights took $11.65. Pigs and packing sows were steady, the former at $10 to $11.25.

Sheep receipts ran largely to shorn wethers selling at $8.10. These were steady. Strength appeared in feeder lambs at $13 and feeder yearlings at $11, were steady as well as breeding ewes at $7.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Cattle, 14,000; recent decline on better grades fed steers temporarily stopped; trading uneven; generally steady with weeks 50c to $1.50 downturn yearlings selling to better advantage than comparable grades heavies; best heavy steers $11.35; choice yearlings $13.50; bulk fat steers $8.50@10.75; she stock steady to 25c higher; considerably higher for week; vealers 50c lower; other classes steady.

Hogs, 34,000; opened 10c lower; closed mostly 10 to 15c off; spots 15 to 25c lower; killing pigs 25 to 50c lower; bulk good and choice 160 to 325 pound weights $11.40@11.60; top $11.70; bulk desirable 140 to 150 pound kind $11.25@11.50; majority packing sows $9.70@10.20; better grades killing pigs largely $11.35@11.50; shippers took 9,000; estimated holdover 12,000.

PROBE SLIDELL FIRE

DECATUR, Texas, Nov. 12.— An investigation is being conducted by Wise county officers into the origin of a fire at Slidell, northeast of here, early today in which three business houses were destroyed. The garage, a confectionery and the Durham building on the west side of the square were burned.

IRRIGATION

Effect of Root Rot on Cotton Staple and Fiber.

Root rot of cotton in Texas causes great losses annually to the farmers through the death of productive plants in their fields. But there are other losses besides the plants killed.

Experiments have been made to determine the effect of the disease on the lint produced. The effect depends upon the relation of the time of the death of the plant to the maturity of the bolls.

If a boll is practically matured at the time the plant is killed by the disease on its roots the length and strength of the staple is but little affected compared to lint from healthy plants in the same field.

Where the bolls are not matured at the death of a plant they will open up afterward but the lint from them is very inferior in quality. It is shorter in staple, uneven and irregular.

The strength of the fiber taken from plants killed by root rot is materially reduced, especially to when the bolls were more or less immature at the time of the death of the plant.

Numerous tests made by the United States department of agriculture show a dimunition in strength of 30 to 40 per cent.

It can readily be seen that the farmer suffers losses other than just from the death of producing plants. The disease not only cuts down his yield by killing a part of his producing plants but also lowers the quality of the lint produced with a consequent lowering of the price he receives.

VETS HISS AS MITCHELL IS DENIED LEAVE

Wartime Aviators "Boo" Message From Secretary Davis

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Hisses and boos came from 300 wartime aviators at an Armistice day dinner last night when a telegram was read from Secretary of War Davis refusing permission for Colonel William Mitchell to attend.

The demonstration was heard by many radio listeners who tuned in on WRNY at the Roosevelt, where the dinner was held.

Aviators post 743, American Legion with a membership representing every squadron that had active duty at the front in France, gave the dinner. The telegram from Secretary Davis said:

"In view of the fact that the physical presence of Colonel Mitchell is necessary at the court martial before which he is appearing, favorable consideration cannot be given to your request."

The telegram was in answer to two messages sent to President Coolidge asking that the colonel be permitted to come to New York for the reunion.

A telegram from Colonel Mitchell saying that he could not be the honor guest was cheered. The post telegraphed President Coolidge that it endorsed unequivobaly Colonel Mitchell's position before his court martial.

In an address Representative F. H. LaGuardia former aviator said: "Billy Mitchell is not being judged by his peers. He is being judged by nine dog robbers of the general staff."

THIMBLE THEATRE— BY SEGAR.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

Men Are Disgusted With Lack of Personal Daintiness; They Shun Temper, Tears and Arguments; They Dislike Pose, Vanity

A young woman asks this: "What are some of the things a girl should avoid doing if she wants to make a hit with men?"

Well, daughter, that depends upon the individual man. Every mother's son of them has his own little private list of "don'ts" for women, but, generally speaking, I should say that chief among the feminine foibles that get on men's nerves are:

Slovenliness. Men put cleanliness next to godliness in women, and nothing disgusts them more than a girl with unkept hands and frowsy hair, who looks as if her clothes had been thrown at her with a pitchfork. It is only artists who like women in flowing robes with loose ribbons.

The ordinary man likes a girl who is neat and tidy and trim and taut, whose heels are straight and who never wears soiled finery. No maiden ever snared a man's fancy in a negligee and no wife holds her husband's love who wears kimonos to breakfast.

Men don't like women who argue. Whatever the balance of an unappreciative world may think of his opinions, every man looks forward to being Sir Oracle to his wife.

He wants the woman he marries to gasp with awe and wonder at his wisdom as he lays down the law, and so he passes up the girl who challenges every statement and is loaded up with facts and statistics to prove him wrong.

High temper in a woman disgusts a man. A woman with her face distorted with fury and her tongue saying venomous words, is as repulsive a sight to him as is a drunken woman. Also he is afraid of her. He may be brave enough to face a machine gun, but when it comes to facing a virago, his bones turn to water and his soul quails within him. He doesn't want for a wife a woman who will keep him terrorized and walking gingerly and speaking softly for fear of rousing the devil within her.

Men don't like morbid women, who are always wallowing their emotions and they flee from a teary woman who is forever telling her grievances as they would from the plague.

Men want women to listen sympathetically to their hard luck stories but they don't want to lend an ear to a woman's tale of woe.

They are willing to help a woman friend in trouble by lending her money or sending her flowers, but they are not going to spend any evenings mingling their weeps with hers and the boy who lets a lachrymose lady get past their office door loses his job.

Men don't like vain women who expect to be perpetually flattered. When it comes to incense burning they had rather be the burnee than the burner. They don't mind offering up a few well deserved tributes to a girl's hair and eyes and boyish figure, but they also have hair and eyes and boyish figures that are deserving of mention.

And the girl who is so stuck on herself, as the phrase goes, that she never notices anyone else, makes no killing with men.

Men do not like girls who pose, who pretend, who put on airs. They loath the girl who is always telling about what an aristocratic family she came from and who acts as if she were a queen, condescending to an humble subject every time she goes out with a man.

They admire and respect the poor girl who dresses according to her means and who makes no bones of telling that she works because she needs the money and that she makes her own frocks and hats and helps mother with the cooking.

But they have a contempt for the working girl who pretends to be a blase society bud, who has gone into an office for the thrill of the thing and who lies about her home-made gown being a cheap little import that she picked up for $175 and who says that the kitchen disgusts her and that she can't boil water without burning it.

Men don't like dumb Doras that they have to work like coal heavers to entertain and who never have a word to say for themselves. Neither do they like women who monologue by the hour about themselves and who never give a man a chance to put in a word edgeways.

And they abominate sarcastic women who are always making witty and cynical cracks.

Men don't like the gold diggers who are out for all they can get, who are always hinting for presents, who invariably order the highest priced dishes on the menu and who insist on being taken to the most expensive places to dance.

Nor do they like a cheap woman who is always counting the pennies and who affronts their vanity by intimating that they can't afford the things they are doing. They like a woman who takes what they give without question and enjoys it, who whether they offer her champagne or sandwiches and coffee, or whether they take her to ride in a flivver or a Rolls Royce makes them feel that she is having the time of her life.

Men don't like women who brag about their conquests and who make out that there are dozens of millionaires just dying to marry them. They know that they will be Exhibit X in her collection of scalps and that she will tell the next man all about them.

Men like a women to be appreciative but not over-pleased. Just because they take her out is no reason why she should go around looking like the cat that has eaten the canary.

Few men like to have a woman run after them so openly that everybody perceives it and speculates about whether she will be able to catch him or whether he will be foxy enough to outwit her, and the average man feel murderous toward the woman who is always calling him to the telephone.

These are the things that men dislike in women. The things any man likes are amiability, good nature, daintiness and the tact that enables a woman to make a man feel pleased with himself, with her and with all the world.

MUMMY OF TUT REMOVED FOR AN INSPECTION

Richness of Art on Coffin Amazes Experts

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The inner coffin of Tut-Ankh-Amen's sarcophagus, containing the mummy, has been removed from the Pharaoh's tomb to that of Seti II, nearby, for examination. The coffin, which is of human shape, with a painted face believed to represent the features of the young king himself is one of the most beautiful pieces of work discovered by the Egyptologists.

The mummy, however, was found to be adhering to the sarcophagus, owing to the liquids poured over it in the ceremonies whereby the pharaoh was dedicated as a god.

All those present at the removal of the sarcophagus from the tomb were greatly impressed with the richness and majesty of the art lavished upon it by the ancient artisans. Several days of extremely careful work will be required to detach the mummy safely from the adhering shell.

Minerals Of Sex Says Scientist In Russian Fiction

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—The physician Manueilov, residing in Leningrad, which is the seat of most of Russia's fiction, announces the discovery that minerals have sexes just as animal and plant life.

He declares that extended investigations into the atomic characteristics of minerals show the same masculine and feminine characteristics as those of vegetable and animal cells.

Facetious Moscow coumenters on the discovery point out that if theory were carried into practice it might be possible to start gold, diamond, platinum and radium breeding farms.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.
