

Dress Plant To Locate In C-City

First Production Due In 3 Weeks

'Jeanne' Comes To Town

Izy Freudenreich, upper center, signs the lease bringing Jeanne Manufacturing Company to Colorado City as Charles C. Thompson and Don Benson approve. At upper right, Bob Browder, Texas Electric Service Company Area Development Department, left, who introduced the manufacturer to Colorado City, and City Manager J. A. Sadler Jr. view a grouping of women's fashions displayed by Freudenreich from Jeanne plants.

Partnership Job Cited As 'Key' To Success

"We're proud to become industrial partners with Jeanne Manufacturing Company."

That's the way Charles C. Thompson spoke to Izy Freudenreich after the pair had signed the lease which is moving Jeanne into Colorado City's former Armory Building.

"Your company is a firm with an enviable reputation in women's fashions and a company which is on the move," the Colorado City Industrial Team Inc. president continued.

"Our citizenship has shown beyond a doubt that this community industry partnership will be successful and beneficial to both the company and Colorado City."

Thompson was joined by Don Benson, Chamber of Commerce president, in praising the hundreds of persons who have poured enthusiasm into the Go-For-Industry campaign.

"This was a whirlwind development once it all started," Benson said. "We were in contact with Jeanne Manufacturing only one week before the decision was made to locate here."

"But this all started a long time ago... way back there when our Go-For-Industry fund began."

"And every person who worked for this drive... who contributed to it, large or small... helped bring us to this happy day."

"This fine spirit and work didn't stop with a successful fund drive, the Chamber president pointed out."

"Dozens of citizens from all walks of business have been hard at work — often around the clock — on committee assignments for industrial sites, contacting industrial prospects, working for financing plans, surveying our labor market, developing attitude," Benson explained. "And all this has resulted in Jeanne's move to Colorado City."

Thompson heaped special commendation upon the Area Development Department of Texas Electric Service Company, headed by Oscar Castillon, which has worked throughout Texas and the nation in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial team.

"Their assistance has been invaluable," he declared.

Bob Browder, member of the TESCO staff, introduced Freudenreich to Colorado City and was here for the signing of the agreement Thursday and Friday.

Both Thompson and Benson emphasized also that all travel expenses in behalf of the Go-For-Industry campaign was paid for out of the individual pockets of the volunteer workers on those assignments or by their own particular business firms.

"This is the spirit of the entire program," Thompson said.

Likes Town 'Go' Jeanne Executive Emphasizes

What did it take to bring a new manufacturing payroll to Colorado City?

Just... about the whole town, that's all. Especially in attitude.

And the executive who signed the 5-year lease for Jeanne Manufacturing Company put it in pretty plain words himself.

"One of the major influences for our selecting Colorado City," spoke Izy Freudenreich, "is the important fact this community appears eager, determined to want progress... and is ready to continue working for progress."

"This is important to industry."

"The industry and the community must be good partners. Not only for the day when we first come to town, but for all the months and years ahead."

"All of us at Jeanne are impressed that Colorado City and its citizens are the kind who make good lasting partners all the time."

Freudenreich, who is associated with Jack Cohen in the Jean operation of eight women's wear manufacturing plants in Texas, said the fact that more than 700 separat citizens contributed their dollars to start Colorado City's search for industry testifies to all the overall interest for industrial development.

He also cited other evidence of this personal interest — from the cleaning of streets to the numerous committees who speedily developed information, details and assignments for Freudenreich and other members of the Jeanne company staff.

The Jeanne executive already has conducted two interviews with several potential employees of the Colorado City plant.

He was impressed by their eagerness for industry to bring more jobs into the community.

Not all was listening on his part, however.

"I'm a believer in Jeanne employees being good, loyal citizens of their own community," Freudenreich emphasized. "We encourage our employees to support their hometown and their merchants."

"It is the community... the individual citizens... the merchants and businesses who worked to bring us to Colorado City."

A women's wear manufacturing plant will begin production in downtown Colorado City within the next few weeks.

The industry will be a division of Jeanne Manufacturing Company of Dallas, a firm with seven more plants and nationwide distribution.

Location of the plant with a maximum potential of 300 employees was announced Saturday by Izy Freudenreich, an associate of Jeanne Manufacturing; Charles C. Thompson, president of Colorado City Industrial Team Inc., and Don Benson, Chamber of Commerce president.

Jeanne will manufacture women's dresses and sportswear.

"We are planning to start production within the next three weeks," said Freudenreich. "It just depends on how quickly the building can be made ready for production."

The plant, a direct result of Colorado City's Go-For-Industry campaign, will be located in the Industrial Building, formerly National Guard Armory, facing south in 100 block of East First Street.

Industrial Team has leased the 10,200 square foot brick, tile and steel supported facility from Texas Amory Board and is rushing improvements and renovations for the new industry.

Five-year lease for the building and improvements was signed here Thursday night by Freudenreich, representing Jeanne; Thompson and J. W. Randle, representing Industrial Team.

Work converting the former armory to the manufacturer's specifications actually began before Freudenreich and Bill Gentry, plant mechanical engineer for Jeanne, hurried by plane here Thursday to sign the agreement and check plant specifications.

Improvements will include 45-tons of refrigerated air-conditioning, expected to be installed within two weeks; a new roof which will be started Monday; enclosure of window areas, already under way; acoustical ceiling, painting and special lighting and electrical equipment.

First machines of the manufacturer will begin arriving this week, Freudenreich said.

Jeanne, an Equal Opportunity Employer, will announce later when it will begin hiring workers, but prospects can begin registering their names, addresses and employment experience now in the Chamber of Commerce office.

The Colorado City plant will be an operation with garments being cut, made and finished here.

Although the plant will have a maximum potential of 300 workers, Freudenreich emphasized that production will begin gradually.

"Our production line will be increased as the employment program progresses."

It is anticipated the payroll will be under 100 employees during the initial months of operation.

Freudenreich said the Colorado City plant will be one of the largest in the string which already employs more than 700 in the Jeanne manufacturing setup.

The Dallas based firm, in business for 25 years, supplies a wide range of the women's fashion market on a nationwide scale from its plants in Dallas, Mexico, Edgewood, Mineral Wells, Frost, Maypearl and Gainesville.

Under the leadership of two principal associates, Jack Cohen and Freudenreich, Jeanne has developed a business which now has a volume between seven and eight million dollars annually.

Its Dallas headquarters plant is located at 1300 Crampton, across the street from the Apparel Mart, with 44,000 square feet of facilities.

"This plant in Colorado City will be one of the most modern in all of West Texas," Freudenreich said. "And the air-conditioning and other improvements being installed by the Industrial Team will provide for splendid work conditions."

Jeanne will utilize all of the building's 7,350 square feet of main ground floor armory space entirely for production.

Boiler and pressing rooms, facilities for garment hanging, storage areas will utilize most of the 2,850 square feet remaining on the ground floor.

An office will be located at the East First Street front on east side of the main entrance.

An additional 2,850 square feet of second floor space is not included in the manufacturer's current plans.

Workers will have convenient parking for their cars south across the street from the plant on the parking lot adjacent to T&P railroad.

Jeanne's decision to locate one of its major manufacturing operations in Colorado City culminates an unprecedented

Blacksmith Shop To Museum Renderbrook Ranch Gift To Texas Tech

A building once used for the frontier's inventive artisan, the blacksmith, and $20,000 memorializing the L. L. Ellwood family were given today (July 12) to the Ranch Headquarters at Texas Tech in Lubbock.

The gifts were announced by Frank H. Chappell Jr., of Lubbock, a member of the committee working to establish an authentic southwestern ranch headquarters at the site of The Museum at Texas Tech.

The $20,000 gift will go for the general cash need for the project and brings to $129,820 the total pledged.

To keep the development on schedule $200,000 must be pledged by Sept. 1.

The gifts of the $20,000 and the blacksmith shop were made by Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Bassham of Colorado City in memory of the Ellwood family. Mrs. Bass-ham is the sister of Chappell.

The gifts were made with this notation:

"In memory of the Ellwood family — their barbed wire and ranching enterprises as such have contributed to the development of the area. We should like to request particular mention in memory of Col. L. L. Ellwood, Mr. W. L. Ellwood and Jean Ellwood Chappell."

Chappell manages for the family the Renderbrook Spade Ranch southwest of Colorado City and the Chappell Spade Ranch at Tucuman, N. M.

The Southwest Collection at Texas Tech previously received from the Ellwood Estates approximately 300,000 leaves of material on family enterprises dating back to 1860. At one time the family controlled about 400,000 acres of Texas rangeland.

Col. Isaac L. Ellwood was the co-inventor and manufacturer of barbed wire. Chappell and Mrs. Bassham are his great grandchildren.

In 1889, Col. Ellwood, who lived in DeKalb, Ill., purchased the 130,000-acre Renderbrook Ranch near Colorado City. Two years later he added the Spade Ranch of 128,000 acres in Hale, Hockley and Lamb counties.

Thompson Is Man of Year

Charles Thompson, one of the most respected farm credit advisors in the nation and a counselor to governors, presidents and congressmen, has been selected to receive the "Man of the Year Award in Texas Agriculture" for 1969.

Thompson, at an active 71 years, is one of six prominent agriculturists and leaders in related fields to be honored by the award from the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

The awards recognize contributions to improving levels of living and economic progress in communities, counties, the state and the nation, explained H. C. Stanley, Jr., Taylor County agent and president of the TCAAA, the largest organization of its kind in the United States.

Thompson will be presented the award at the Association's annual convention August 3-5 in Houston.

This year's honoree is chairman of the Farm Credit Board of Texas, which oversees the operation of the Federal Land Bank, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Houston Bank of Cooperatives. This board is the major financial policy board for the $12 billion Farm Credit System in the Southwestern area.

Thompson, himself a farmer and rancher in Mitchell County, has helped many 4-H and Future Farmers of America members by financing their projects and giving them animals to feed.

He attended Simmons College (now Hardin-Simmons) and later transferred to the University of Texas Law school and received his law license in 1923. Thompson was one of the charter members of the first 4-H Club in Mitchell County and he was one of the first from this county to attend the State 4-H Club Roundup.

Following a stint as Mitchell County judge from 1924 to 1931, Thompson entered private law practice and later helped organize the Mitchell County Agricultural Credit Corporation which saved many farmers and ranchers during the depression years.

pression years. From this start in 1932, he has held other key positions with agricultural finance groups and in 1957 was chairman of the Credit Committee called together by former President Eisenhower to study the drought conditions in the Great Plains.

Thompson is president of Colorado City Industrial Team, Inc. and served on the boards to help improve the area. He is an active Methodist and a member and past president of the Lions Club, also past president of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

The "Man of the Year" served on the board of trustees of Texas Technological College for 19 years and was chairman of the board for 15 years. In appreciation for his service, the college awarded him an honorary doctor of laws and named for him a new campus dormitory. His almost unlimited list of contributions to agriculture and improved rural living were cited by the county agents of Extension District 2 in their nomination and they further added to their citation that perhaps his greatest attribute is that he never forgets a friend.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor's note: The Colorado City Record received a copy of a letter written by Mrs. Vance Phenix to the editor of "Action Line" of the Houston Post. Her letter to the Houston paper follows.

Dear Sir:

I wish to inform you—if you have not already learned the truth—that my "Home Town" Colorado City, Texas is not a "Ghost Town", but is a very much alive small town with a proud historical heritage—a town alive with progressive people who love their town and work together for progress.

We have taken The Houston Post ever since my Architect husband and I moved to Houston in 1925. We really feel insulted and of the notion to stop "The Post". After all these years you can see where our loyalty still leans.

If it were a "Ghost Town" don't you know that you would not be receiving such a letter from me? After living here over forty years we still cherish the wonderful memories of our "Home Town" and visit it at least once a year.

Scores of people from there, who now live in Houston, have considered a "get-together" to discuss how to get even with you for making such an untrue statement.

From Hurt, Mrs. Vance D. Phenix

CONVERSATION CORNER

HUNGER, according to the wise ones, is the first instinct and food the most important need of living things, including human beings.

Is it any wonder, then, that so many words meaning food of one kind or another, saturate our speech?

Food takes care of our first instinct and primary need. It follows that food plays a big role in the language—or "slanguage"—we use for persons, things, and states of being.

BREAD, once the staff of life to us, is not always bread any more. Not a loaf, or roll, or corn muffin, or hot biscuit, that is.

Bread in this go-go generation means money, it seems, though by the time this appears in print it may mean something else.

Now that isn't so illogical as it sounds at first. Bread sustains life. So does money—whether you are overjoyed about the fact or not.

THEN, there is the common expression "egg on the face." That one means embarrassing situation and has nothing to do with feeding the baby.

Egg has long been a handy word in the way of casual and not necessarily "literary" descriptions of people.

As children, we all yelled the old "Last one in, is a rotten egg" at picnics and swim parties.

More recent decades have brought into favor the "Good egg" for people like Efrim Zimbalist, Jr. . . and "Bad egg" for the criminals he captures on FBI.

VEGETABLES and fruit get into the act, too. Spinach and lettuce still sometimes mean what bread means now—money.

In the best circles a pretty girl is not known as a tomato. In certain other circles she is. Also, a pretty girl may be a chick; in England she's a bird; and in the Old South, a peach.

Even King Solomon associated romance with fruit when he wrote in his poetic "Song," the lines "Comfort me with apples for I am sick of love."

Maybe that's responsible for the aged expression "Apple of his eye."

WHEN the desire to belittle gets the upper hand, there are those who settle for prune-face or pickle-puss of cabbage-head.

A lemon can be anything from a disagreeable person to a bad buy. . . as in "We got a lemon on that last car."

Poor fish means approximately what hen-pecked does. Oyster is what the world is to the very rich or lucky or to the over-confident.

To bring home the bacon is to support a family. Turkey is a show which flops or a big deal which fizzles.

EVER pause long enough to consider how many endearing terms are variations of favorite foods—mostly desserts?

How's about honey, sugar, sweetie-pie, cup-cake. . . and the folk song lyrics "Lips like cherry wine?"

You've got to admit they all have a better, more selective sound than molasses, saccharin, mince-meat, pancake, and "mouth like tap beer."

People who call their little ones "Punkin'" or "Cookie" would never stoop to "Squash" or "Vanilla Wafer." it would not be the same.

IT WOULDN'T be fair to quit the subject without reminding you of applause for flattery or polite exaggeration. . . small potatoes for the humble. . . fly in the soup for trouble. . . ham for actor. . . well-preserved for nice old ladies (ugh). . . and nuts for people who dare disagree.

"Cheese it" for stop has gone out of style, along with Mae West's "Peel me a grape."

This season it's all bread. And like cool it, man, a bank roll by any name would spend as sweet.

HEAR TELL that Rochelle and Arnel B. Smith are back home from a vacation trip to Westfield, New Jersey, where they visited Rochelle's sister and her family.

While there, they also visited Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and New York City. In New York they attended the Martin Beck Theater to see "Man of La Mancha."

Enroute back to C-City the Smiths visited in Dallas and in Arlington with son Barton and daughter Ronell.

SEEN LATELYS included Margaret (Mrs. Warren) Costin and Blanche (Mrs. Frank W.) Wilson on the downtown scene. Blanche was saying goodbye to the citizenry. She and Frank moved to Pampa, Thursday.

The Wilsons, by the way, recently spent some time in Denver, Colorado, with their daughter and her family and later in Amarillo with Blanche's sister and mother who is recovering from major surgery.

Saw, too, Don Benson. . . Josie Randle (Mrs. Bill) and Ann Randle Davis. . . Ellen Burson, wife of Guy. . . Larry Lakey, nice young pastor of the Assembly of God Church.

SHARED the lunch counter with Jane Majors, wife of Sam L. (Buzz) Jr. and one of our town's lovely-to-look-at-gals.

Asked about her husband's mother, Mrs. Sam L. Majors, Sr., to find that she has returned to Carlsbad as patient in the sanatorium there.

Mrs. Majors had been hospitalized in El Paso for a while but was flown back to Carlsbad by Frank Deregibus, Tuesday.

MAIL CALL in recent days brought a note from Mrs. Eddie Thomasson, the former Donna Prescott, of Savoy.

Donna wrote to say that Linda (Welch) Pendergrass, her husband Denzil, and daughter Shelley Dee-visited the Thomassons and their baby daughter Hartly Michelle in Savoy. The Pendergrass family lives in Ft. Worth.

Donna added "I enjoy the Colorado City Record so much! It is awfully nice to read about all our old friends and know what they are doing and where they are."

LETTER from Mrs. John Carroll, nee Anita Ezell, of Cottonwood, Arizona, brought pleasure when she wrote, recently, "I have been meaning to write and compliment the paper."

Anita expressed appreciation for the Record's Father's Day column, Memorial Day column, and the graduation issue featuring high school pictures.

Then she recounted some of her memories of C-City. . . Sunday singings, the Stamps quartet. . . all-day Sunday School picnics at Seven Wells. . . talent shows in the park.

Anita is daughter of Mrs. Mary Ezell and the late Charles Ezell, Sr.

"ACTION LINE" and the Houston Post are still very much the main topic of discussion around here.

Mrs. R. J. Wallace called long distance to express her righteous indignation to Record publisher Joe Bell over "Action Line's" maligning C-City. She lives now in Bellflower, California.

Ida (Mrs. Vance) Phenix mailed Conversation Corner a copy of the letter she wrote the Houston Post with a note saying "How incensed it made me!"

Ida also enclosed an "Action Line" clipping quoting our Jerry McKay of Houston. He's son of Addie Ruth and Fred McKay, and graduate of Baylor University.

"You mentioned Colorado City as a ghost town. It has 7,000 population. . . and if you don't retract I'm gonna hate you."

For Ida Vance's reaction see Letters to the Editor.

Rancher's Blacksmith Shop

Here is the Renderbrook Spade Ranch Blacksmith Shop which will be a part of authentic Ranch Headquarters at The Museum Texas Tech in Lubbock.

 The Renderbrook Ranch was expanded later to 160,000 acres.
 Then, Spade Ranch was expanded to more than 268,000 acres by his son, W. L. Ellwood, making it one of the largest Texas ranches.

Gift of the blacksmith shop

 from the Renderbrook Spade Ranch is particularly appropriate since barbed wire which built the Ellwood fortunes originally was developed in a blacksmith shop.

 "The best blacksmiths were artists at their trade," Chappell said, pointing out that they were the "inventors" on the range.

 The art of shoeing horses was only a minor part of blacksmithing. Shrinking steel tires to fit wagon wheels was an art
 now almost lost in the West, Chappell said, and there were other jobs for the blacksmith to do.

 "When a problem came along,
 and a particular piece of equipment was needed," he said,
 "the blacksmith would devise something that could be used.
 Many pieces of early ranch equipment were the brainchild-ren of able blacksmiths."

 Chappell said the final effect of the blacksmith shop, when it becomes a part of the Ranch Headquarters "will be as if the blacksmith just went off to lunch

 The executive said Jeanne asks its employes - including those on the production line - to work in dresses.

 "We make dresses," he stated, "and we are proud of our product."

 "We believe when our employes are in neat, attractive dresses they have a better feel for the product they make...and put better quality into this product."
