Prairie-chicken comment period reopens

Fish and Wildlife Service seeks additional information from public scientific community

By Mella McEwen
mmcewen@mrt.com

With the publication of a proposed conservation plan for the lesser prairie-chicken in the May 6 Federal Register, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has reopened a public comment period on the proposed listing of the bird as a "threatened" species.

The public — including oil and gas operators, ranchers, real estate developers and residents across the five states that hold the lesser prairie-chicken's habitat — will now have until June 20 to submit comments. A final decision on listing the species is due by the end of September.

Fish and Wildlife Services Spokeswoman Lesli Gray said the proposal now includes a special rule, issued under Section 4(d) of the Endangered Species Act that would allow "taking" of the lesser prairie-chicken during traditional land use activities if they don't significantly affect conservation and recovery efforts. She stressed that the special rule would go into effect only if the bird is listed. "It would provide flexibility in land management," she said. The public is invited to comment on this proposal, as well as the conservation plan and the proposal to list the species.

"We have received input and encourage the public to send additional comments to the state conservation plan and the 4(d) rule," Gray said. "There's been a lot of interest."

The special rule proposal drew immediate criticism from the Center for Biological Diversity. "We're disappointed the Service is using a rule that is supposed to enhance wildlife conservation to lock the lesser prairie-chicken into small areas of habitat, preclude their recovery and give blanket approval to industrial activities that are pushing them to extinction," said

Aphasia advocates create new organization

■ Group aims to increase collaboration between organizations to enhance treatment for people with condition.

By Joseph Basco
jbasco@mrt.com

Advocates from across the country came to Midland for a three-day session from April 25-27 to raise awareness about a condition that affects hundreds in the Permian Basin.

The condition, known as aphasia, occurs when a person recovering from a brain injury, such as a stroke, has difficulty speaking or understanding what others are saying.

In the Permian Basin, about one out of every 250 people have aphasia, said Kitty Binek, executive director of Aphasia Center of West Texas. She added that stokes are the leading cause of aphasia.

Aphasia Center of West Texas welcomed aphasia advocates from places such as Orlando, Fla., and Chicago to think of ways to combine their resources together to not just raise awareness but also to think of effective ways to help people with the condition.

Binek said the group of researchers and advocates from around the U.S. that met in Midland tried to find ways to advance what she calls the "life participation approach." It is a model of reteaching life skills — such as speaking fluently — to people with aphasia by putting them in normal life activities such as gardening or cooking in a team setting.

NRA official: 'Culture war' more than gun rights

Associated Press

HOUSTON — The National Rifle Association kicked off its annual convention Friday with a warning to its members they are engaged in a "culture war" that stretches beyond gun rights, further ramping up emotions surrounding the gun control debate.

NRA First Vice President James Porter, a Birmingham, Ala., attorney who will assume the organization's presidency Monday, issued a full-throated challenge to President Barack Obama in the wake of a major victory regarding gun control and called on members to dig in for a long fight that will stretch into the 2014 elections.

STATEBRIEFS

FROM WIRE REPORTS

EL PASO

Texas AG's same-sex opinion doesn't worry entities

Cities and counties that offer same-sex partner health benefits don't anticipate altering their policies after the Texas attorney general called the practice unconstitutional, though his opinion does serve as fuel for litigation against entities providing benefits to gay couples.

Attorney General Greg Abbott's opinion this week, while not binding, is the latest of several challenges to same-sex benefits across the country that so far have had mixed results in the courts and prompted changes after officials in other states took action. In Texas, local governments from El Paso to San Antonio and north to Dallas County have their legal departments reviewing their benefits plans but don't appear ready to budge yet — noting that their policies don't address issues such as marriage or gender.

"It's a benefits package that top companies in the area offer to their employees," said Clay Jenkins, the top administrative official for Dallas County, which has a lesbian sheriff. "It is not only the right thing to do but also allows us to attract top talent so we can continue to have success."

The cities of Austin, El Paso and Fort Worth already offer some benefits to domestic partners, while Pflugerville, outside Austin, became the state's first school district to extend similar benefits.

"If our policy violates the law, we'll change it. But I'd conclude we are not doing that," said Samuel T. Biscoe, Travis County's top administrative official. "Legally, we are in good shape."

Wind-damaged lights on Texas Tech tower removed

Crews have taken down the wind-damaged bank of lights atop a 150-foot tower at Texas Tech's football stadium, and people are now allowed near the site.

Athletic department spokesman Blayne Beal says a crane was used Friday at Jones AT&T Stadium in Lubbock to lower the teetering bank of lights and the other two banks were removed. He says the tower may also come down.

Winds topping 40 mph Thursday damaged the top bank of lights in the southeast corner of the stadium that seats more than 60,000. Nearby structures were evacuated as a precaution. Nobody was hurt.

Workers in the south end zone offices, the football training facility and the athletic training center did not report Friday until the area was certified as safe.

SAN ANTONIO

Jail inmate mistakenly released

Authorities say a county jail inmate was mistakenly released before being sent to prison because of lost paperwork.

Bexar County Sheriff's Office spokesman Paul Berry said Friday the woman was back in custody the next day after authorities learned about the mistake.

She was released from jail Tuesday after serving time for misdemeanor theft.

She also had been sentenced to eight months in prison for a felony theft conviction. But authorities said the paperwork about the felony sentence didn't make it to the booking section before she was released.

AUSTIN

House strikes down pilot drug needle exchange

An effort to create pilot needle exchange programs for drug users in seven counties has narrowly failed in the Texas House.

Republican state Reps. Susan King and John Davis pleaded with their GOP colleagues not to strike down the bill over political fear. Conservative activists called the program tantamount to the government enabling drug users.

A coalition of Republicans and Democrats said the program would reduce the rates of HIV and hepatitis by letting drug users exchange dirty needles for clean ones.

The bill would have established programs in Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Harris, Nueces, Travis and Webb counties.

The bill was defeated 70-63 after a recount.

COMMENT

From 1A

Jay Lininger with the Center, in a statement.

The lesser prairie-chicken is a species of prairie grouse commonly recognized for its colorful spring mating display and orange eye combs. Once found in abundant numbers across much of Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, the lesser prairie-chickens' historical range of native grasslands and prairies has been reduced by an estimated 84 percent. The substantial decrease in the range of the species is primarily a result of habitat fragmentation and loss caused by development and conversion of the species' native grassland habitat to agriculture.

The five range states and the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies submitted the plan to the service, which encourages voluntary conservation of the species and its habitat. Texas has a conservation agreement in place, as do New Mexico and Oklahoma, and federal agencies and private land owners are forming additional partnerships. The Natural Resources Conservation Service's Lesser Prairie-Chicken Initiative has provided funding and technical assistance to private landowners who want to improve the species' habitat.

"Our overarching goal is to work with our state and federal partners, private landowners and others to support and expand efforts to conserve the lesser prairie-chicken and its habitat before it requires the protection of the ESA," said Fish and Wildlife Service Director Dan Ashe in announcing the reopened comment period. "Reopening the public comment period gives us the opportunity to gather additional information on the listing proposal and the range-wide conservation plan, underscoring the important conservation contributions of working lands."

"We are encouraged by the efforts of the five range states and the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies to develop a conservation plan that covers a broad spectrum of partners and activities," said Benjamin Tuggle, regional director for the Service's Southwest Region. "The Service remains committed to working with industry, private landowners, the states and others to identify and implement actions that conserve the lesser prairie-chicken as part of a working landscape."

NRA

From 1A

More than 70,000 NRA members are expected to attend the three-day convention amid the backdrop of the national debate over gun control and the defeat of a U.S. Senate bill that would have expanded background checks for gun sales. It was introduced after December's mass shooting at a Newtown, Conn., elementary school. A small gathering of gun control supporters were outside of the convention in Houston.

Porter's remarks came in a short speech to about 300 people at a grass-roots organizing meeting and set the tone for a "Stand and Fight"-themed convention that is part gun trade show, political rally and strategy meeting.

"This is not a battle about gun rights," Porter said, calling it "a culture war."

"(You) here in this room are the fighters for freedom. We are the protectors," said Porter, whose father was NRA president from 1959-1960.

Rob Heagy, a former parole officer from San Francisco, agreed with Porter's description of a culture war.

"It is a cultural fight on those 10 guarantees," he said, referring to the Bill of Rights in the U.S. Constitution. "Mr. Obama said he wasn't going after our guns. As soon as the Connecticut thing happened, he came after our guns."

That theme carried throughout the day and reached a crescendo in a 3 ½-hour political rally punctuated by fiery speeches from state and national conservative leaders.

"You stood up when freedom was under assault and you stood in the gap, you made a difference," former U.S. senator and Republican presidential candidate Rick Santorum told the cheering crowd of more than 3,500 at the rally.

"This is a critical time in American history. Something big is happening in America," Santorum said. "Stand for America. Fight for America."

Gov. Rick Perry criticized gun control supporters as opportunists who prey on the raw emotions of tragic events.

"You can almost set your watch for how long it takes for people who hate guns, who hate gun owners, to start a new campaign," after a mass shooting, Perry said.

Obama, who has pushed for gun control measures, was a prime target for criticism the entire day. NRA Executive Director Chris Cox bragged about the organization's political victory.

"It was great to see the president throw a temper tantrum in the Rose Garden," Cox said.

Fire victim's daughter to council, chief: Engine needed at Station 5

From staff reports

The daughter of the victim whose house completely burned on April 27 met with City Council members and Fire Chief Robert Isbell on Friday afternoon, wanting a fire engine to be put back at Fire Station 5.

Laura Burford spoke with Isbell and others nearly a week after her mother, Nancy Burford, suffered second-degree burns to her hands and face during a house fire that completely burned the structure.

"By having equipment at Station 5, we are duped into thinking it can fight fires," Burford said.

In response, Isbell said there won't be an engine at Station 5 until he has adequate resources and statistics that show the service demand for that area. He added that the fire department prioritizes saving lives over structures.

APHASIA

From 1A

"How can we, as a group, not only help advance the life participation model but also advance our best practices," Binek said.

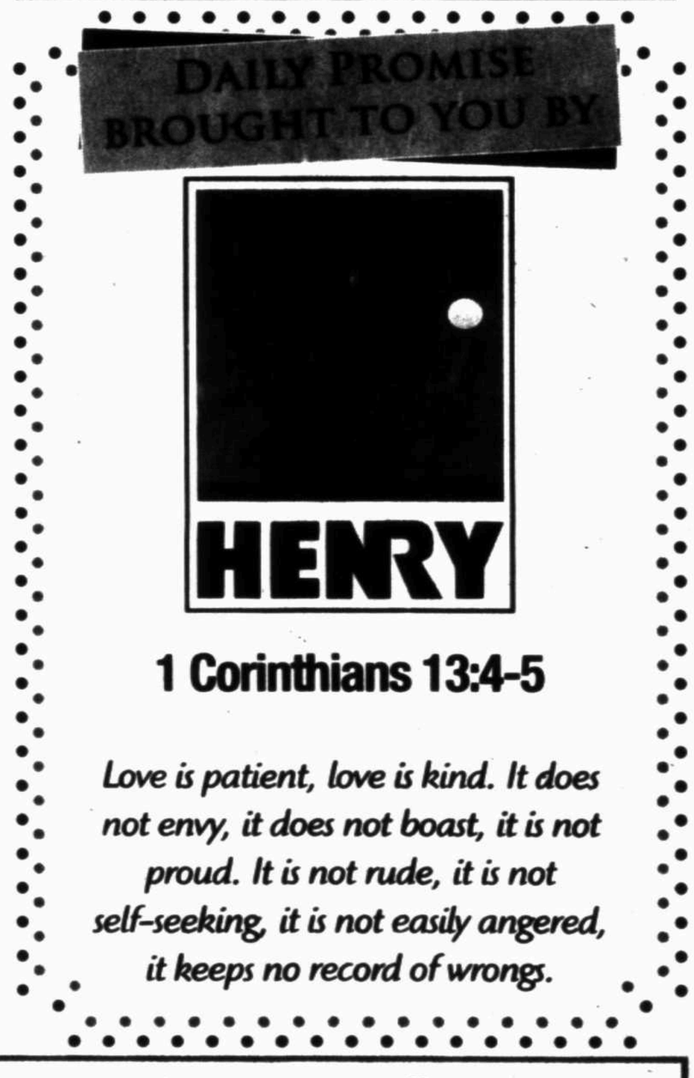

Kathryn Shelley, marketing and development director for the Aphasia Center, said they are communication workouts. A diverse group of people from different backgrounds would talk about a current event, which leads to providing peer support and socialization skills.

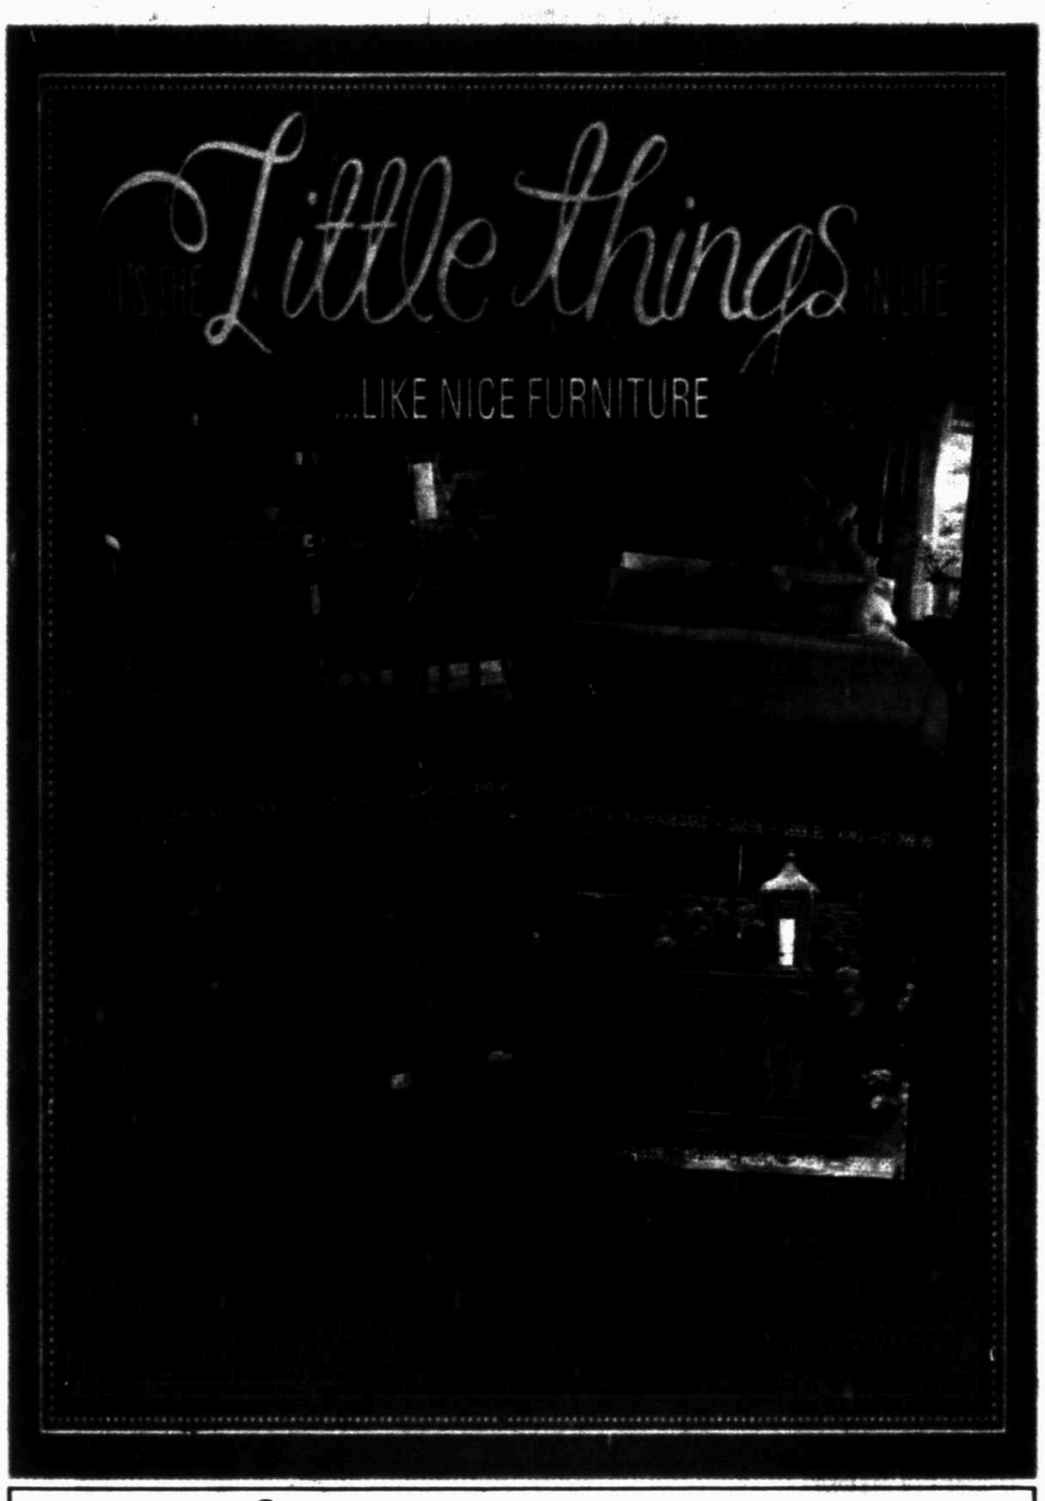

She also said the group is looking for ways to collaborate the centers together and streamline the aphasia treatment process nationwide. Karen Tucker, executive director of the Adler Aphasia Center in Maywood, N.J., said centers programs across the country differ, so they will form what she called an "association of aphasia community program providers."

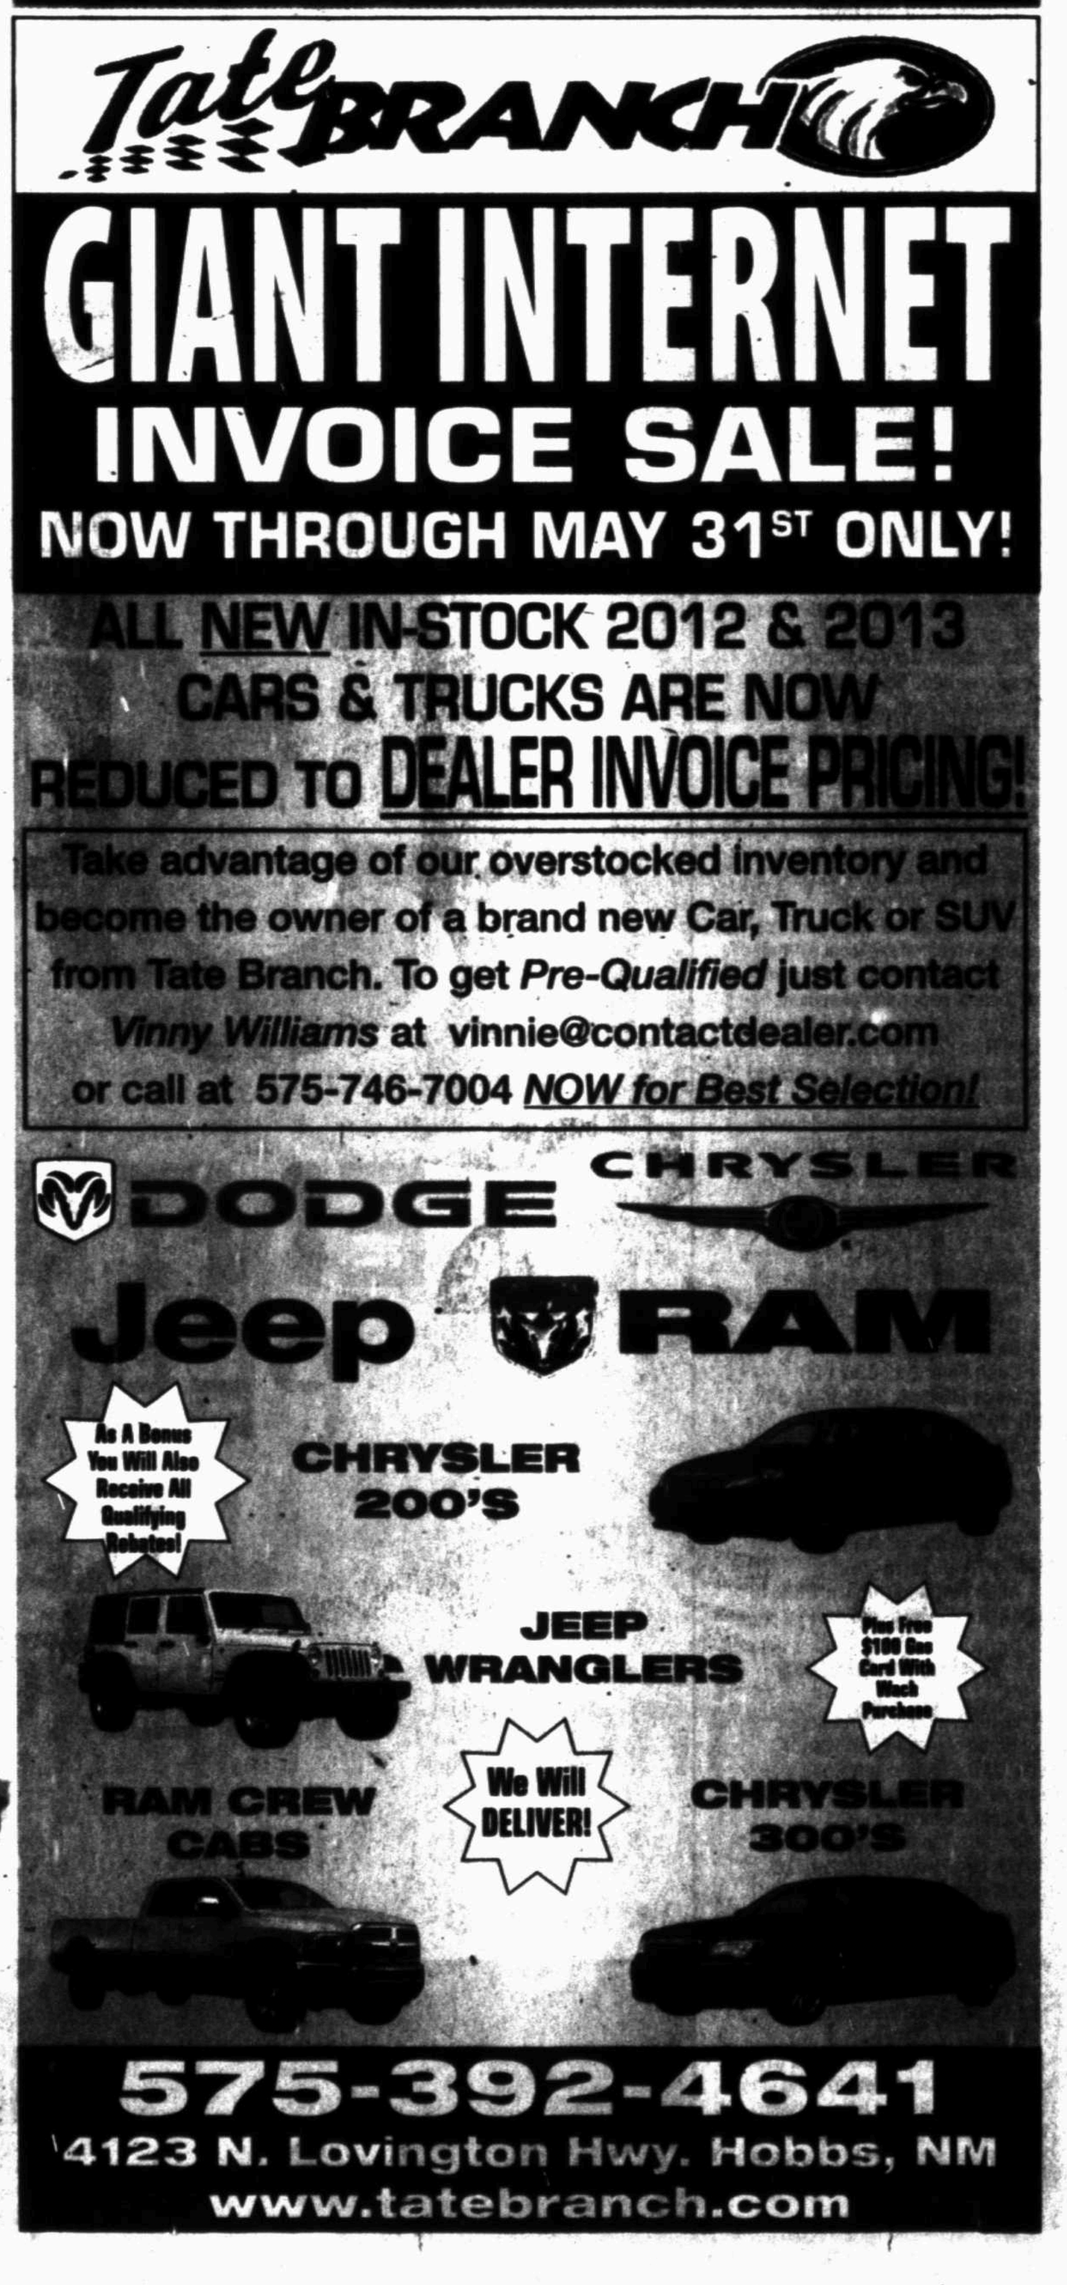

Shelley said the association's ultimate goal is to advance more ongoing support for people with aphasia. Binek said the local center doesn't receive government funds and instead rely on donations, fundraisers and volunteers.

Moving forward, Binek said awareness is key, noting that people can take the ability to converse for granted.

House gives OK to tax bill as fight on others loom

Associated Press

AUSTIN — A week that began with Gov. Rick Perry vowing not to sign a new state budget without tax relief ended Friday with the House tentatively approving one business tax exemption and Democrats protesting another on the way.

Small businesses in Texas with less than $1 million a year in revenues would remain exempt from the state franchise tax under a bill that advanced in the House without debate. That relief is scheduled to expire this year unless the Legislature passes an extension.

But while that bill from Republican state Rep. Harvey Hilderbran drew no objections, another set to be laid out Tuesday by the chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means committee did.

That tax-cutting bill would cost the state about $397 million as currently written, and Hilderbran acknowledged Friday that the price tag could go higher as lawmakers tack on amendments between now and next week. But his refusal to put on a ceiling on how much tax relief the bill could pack roiled Democrats, who are leery of the cuts coming at the expense of state services.

"I'm working on a number and trying to keep that number," Hilderbran said.

The House passed a new $93.5 billion state budget last month that is now being negotiated with the Senate. Republican state Rep. Jim Pitts, the House's chief budget-writer, acknowledged that the budget does not set aside any money for the tax bill.

A frustrated Rep. Yvonne Davis, who chairs the House Democratic Caucus, at one point said it was "ludicrous" that Republicans could not provide a set price tag for the bill or where the money would come from to pay for it.

Perry on Monday said he won't sign a new state budget unless it came with tax cuts. He has proposed a $1.6 billion cut in business taxes. Last month, Perry called for a 5 percent reduction in business tax rates.

Under another bill overwhelmingly approved Friday, the House voted to extend the Texas Economic Development Act that gives tax breaks to companies and wind farm projects. The state comptroller reports that 128 projects invested so far under the program pack $62.4 billion investment.

Critics say the plan needlessly subsidizes companies and cuts property taxes to school districts by $4.4 billion.

Senator pitches Texas teacher retirement offer

Associated Press

AUSTIN — The latest proposal to shore up the pension fund for Texas' public school and university employees would apply a higher retirement age only to employees with less than five years on the job but would also require all workers to contribute more.

The offer, pitched Thursday by Lubbock Republican Sen. Robert Duncan, would mean that workers would have to contribute 7.7 percent beginning in 2015, up from the current 6.4 percent. And school districts for the first time would have to chip in 1.5 percent for their workers' retirement to supplement the state's 6.8 percent contribution.

ENERGY BRIEFS

FROM STAFF & WIRE REPORTS

HOUSTON

US rig count up 10 this week to 1,764

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas was up 10 this week to 1,764, according to Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

There were 1,403 rigs listed as searching for oil, up 22; 354 as searching for gas, down 12; and seven as miscellaneous, unchanged. A year ago this week, there were 1,965 rigs in the U.S.

Directional drilling rigs ended the week at 197, a decrease of two. The U.S. added eight horizontal drilling rigs, totaling 1,092. There were 475 vertical drilling rigs, up four.

The number of rigs searching for oil and natural gas in Texas dropped three to end the week at 831. At this time last year there were 933 rigs in Texas.

There were 78 rigs in New Mexico, down one, and 174 rigs in North Dakota, up one.

Among the other major oil- and gas-producing states, Alaska and Oklahoma each gained five rigs. Pennsylvania and Wyoming were up one each.

Louisiana decreased by one rig.

Arkansas, California, Colorado and West Virginia were unchanged.

In the U.S., 1,690 rigs were listed as on land, up nine; 23 as in inland waters, down one; and 51 as offshore, up two. There were 48 rigs in the Gulf of Mexico, up one.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in Canada was down one this week to 121. Oil rigs were unchanged at 66. Gas rigs dropped one to end the week at 55. Rigs listed as miscellaneous were unchanged at zero.

There were 1,885 total in North America this week. At this time last year, there were 2,096 rigs in North America.

NEW YORK

Oil rises above $95 on US jobs data

The price of oil climbed again Friday as a better-than-expected U.S. jobs report pointed to growth and a rising demand for energy this year.

Benchmark crude for June delivery rose $1.62 to finish at $95.61 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Oil jumped after the Labor Department said that employers added a solid 165,000 jobs in April — and far more in February and March than first thought. Job growth in April drove down the unemployment rate to a four-year low of 7.5 percent and sent a reassuring sign that the U.S. jobs market is improving.

Oil is getting support from a weaker dollar, as well. The euro was at 1.3111 against the dollar Friday versus 1.3067 late Thursday. Because oil is bought and sold in dollars, it becomes attractive to investors with foreign currency when the dollar falls in currency trade.

Gasoline prices held steady at the pump. The national average Friday was $3.52 a gallon. That's down about 12 cents from a month ago and 28 cents lower than a year ago.

Obama: US, Latin America must fight drug violence

Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — President Barack Obama on Friday cast Mexico as a nation ready to take "its rightful place in the world" and move past the drug battles and violence that have defined its relationship with the United States. He then headed to Costa Rica to prod Central American leaders to tackle those same issues more aggressively.

Obama's visit to Mexico and Costa Rica is being followed with great interest by Hispanics in the U.S., Mexico, Central America and farther to the south.

In Mexico in particular, he tried to set a new course for ties with the U.S., eagerly promoting Mexico's improving economy and its democracy.

"A new Mexico is emerging," Obama told a crowd of young people during a speech at Mexico City's grand National Museum of Anthropology. "Mexico is also taking its rightful place in the world, on the world stage. Mexico is standing up for democracy not just here in Mexico but throughout the hemisphere. Mexico's sharing expertise with neighbors across the Americas. When they face earthquakes or threats to their citizens or go to the polls to cast their votes, Mexico is there helping its neighbors."

However, Mexico's high poverty rates have barely budged in recent years. Its economy grew by only about a 1 percent rate in the first three months of 2013 and is not creating anywhere near the 1 million jobs annually it needs to employ young Mexicans entering the workforce. Without jobs or opportunities to study, many young people have become easier prey for recruitment by drug cartels.

Forest Service asks states to return cash

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Forest Service is in the business of preventing fires, not starting them.

Yet the agency set off alarms in Congress and state capitols across the West by citing automatic spending cuts as the basis for demanding that dozens of states return $17.9 million in federal subsidies. And it's all come down to a bureaucratic squabble over whether the money is subject to so-called sequestration because of the year it was paid — 2013 — as the Obama administration contends, or exempt from the cuts because of the year it was generated — 2012 — as the states insist.

It's a standoff heightened by history and hard fiscal realities. But with taxpayer cash scarce, both sides are digging in: The Forest Service has to slash 5 percent of its budget under sequestration. The states, meanwhile, have depended for decades on a share of revenue from timber cut on federal land. Perhaps least willing to compromise are members of Congress who are up for re-election next year and are loath to let go of money that benefits potential voters back home.

It's not clear who gets to decide or whether the question ends up in court. But lines have been drawn.

"We regret having to take this action, but we have no alternative under sequestration," Forest Service Chief Tom Tidwell wrote in March to governors in 41 states, explaining that because the payments were issued in the 2013 budget year, the money would be subject to sequestration.

Republicans and Democrats from Capitol Hill to the governor's offices banded together to fight back, arguing the money was paid to the states well before the spending reductions went into effect. The governors of Alaska and Wyoming have flat out refused to send the dollars back.

"The frustration level is off the charts on this," said Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., whose timber-rich state is the top recipient of the Forest Service payments and stands to lose nearly $3.6 million.

Wyden, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said he and Alaska Sen. Lisa Murkowski, the panel's top Republican, are working together to "turn this around" so their states and others are not forced to return any money to the federal government.

"This is slap-your-forehead-in-disbelief kind of stuff," Wyden said.

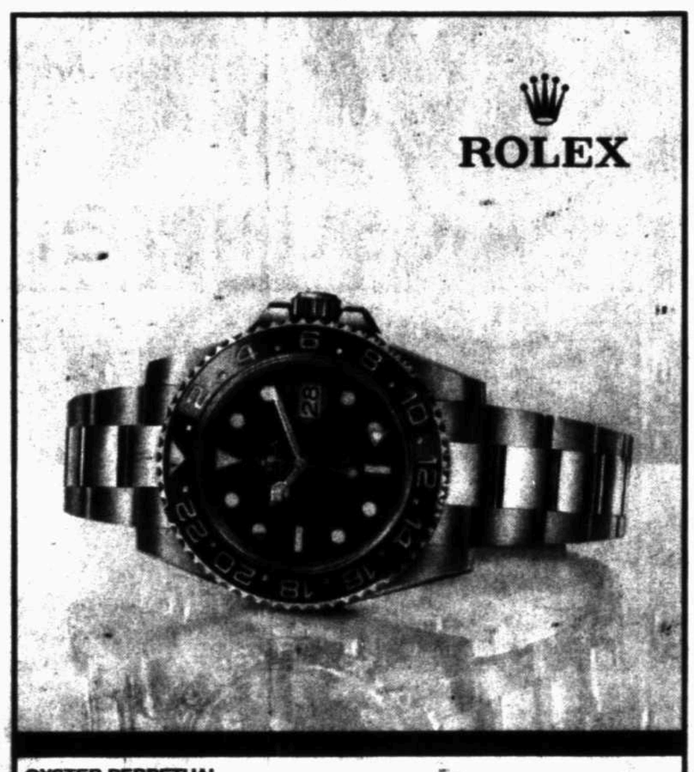

At issue are so-called county payments, a revenue sharing plan that's existed since President Teddy Roosevelt created the national forests to protect timber reserves from the cut-and-run logging going on at the time. For nearly a century, hundreds of counties received a quarter of the revenue from the timber sold on federal land.

In recent years, the law has acted as a subsidy for states and counties hard hit by logging declines triggered by measures to protect threatened species. The money is being used for roads, schools and emergency services and is a welcome addition to cash-strapped county coffers, especially in the Northwest.

Idaho's Valley County, for example, would have to return more than $128,000 from its budget of $2.5 million for roads and schools. That leaves Gordon Cruickshank, chairman of the Valley County commission, in a no-win position. Should he forgo the repaving of even a single mile of the county's 300 miles of paved roads, defer maintenance on a bridge or lay off two county employees?

"We are struggling really hard now to figure out what to do," Cruickshank said. "It's a tough pill to swallow that they sent these payments out just a few months before sequestration, and now they want them back."

Police: Houston airport gunman intent on suicide

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A man appeared intent on suicide, or what's known as suicide by cop, when he opened fire with a pistol inside a busy terminal at Houston's largest airport and died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, police said Friday.

Carnell Marcus Moore, 29, of Beaumont, shot himself in the temple with a 40-caliber semi-automatic pistol Thursday afternoon after shooting twice into the ceiling at a ticketing area at Bush Intercontinental Airport.

A Department of Homeland Security special agent who confronted him in the terminal also shot and wounded him in the shoulder when Moore refused to drop his weapon. Homicide Sgt. Brian Harris said Moore's head wound was the fatal gunshot.

"At this point we know what this was and what it wasn't," Harris' partner, investigator Fil Waters, said. "And what it was, was a desperate act committed by a confused young man who has apparently lost all hope."

Harris said Moore had a bag containing an AR-15 rifle with ammunition. That gun was not fired and not removed from the bag, which also contained a Gideon Bible and a suicide note that indicated Moore had no plans to hurt others, Harris said.

"'Here in the last hour, I yield to mercy when this could have turned bad,'" Harris said, reading some of the contents of the note signed by Moore.

Police said events leading up to the airport shooting began Tuesday in Beaumont when Moore abducted the female manager of the apartment complex where he worked as a maintenance man and insisted at gunpoint she accompany him to Houston, about 85 miles to the west.

Moore, who had no criminal record, apparently had become infatuated with her but Waters said she is engaged to another man and did not return his affections. She somehow convinced him to release her.

Authorities said she filed a report with Beaumont police Wednesday, but they had not been able to confirm that.

Moore checked into a Houston hotel Tuesday. He called a brother who told police Moore had said about a month ago that he wanted to confront an armed officer. The brother told detectives he asked Moore if he had a gun with him, but Moore said he had disposed of his weapons.

Surveillance video shows Moore arriving at the airport's Terminal B just after noon, dragging a bag he took from his pickup truck and taking a seat. The gunfire erupted about 90 minutes later. People in the terminal began screaming and running for cover but no one else was hurt.

Houston Police Chief Charles McClelland said it is not illegal for people to carry firearms in public areas and that Moore had not breeched secure areas of the airport.

Thieves targeted Texas fertilizer plant in the past

Associated Press

WEST — Burglars occasionally sneaked into and around a Texas fertilizer plant in the years before a massive, deadly explosion — sometimes looking for a chemical fertilizer stored at the plant that can be used to make methamphetamine, according to local sheriff's records.

Sheriff's deputies were called more than 10 times to West Fertilizer in the 11 years before an April 17 blast that killed 14 people, injured 200 and leveled part of the tiny town of West, according to McLennan County sheriff's office files released through an open-records request. Multiple calls involved suspicion that anhydrous ammonia was being stolen.

The records portray a plant with no outer fence that was a sporadic target of intruders. Law enforcement was occasionally called because someone had noticed the smell of gas outside or signs of an intruder.

Anhydrous ammonia is a fertilizer that is a frequent target of burglars trying to manufacture methamphetamine. In the right conditions it can be flammable or explosive, though that is nearly impossible outdoors. However, a leak of the gas could create a potentially fatal toxic chemical cloud. The plant also had an unspecified amount of ammonium nitrate, a chemical that has been used in explosives, like in the Oklahoma City bombing.

A spokeswoman for the Texas State Fire Marshal's office, which is investigating the explosion, said the anhydrous ammonia tanks stored at West Fertilizer at the time of the blast appeared to have no scorch marks or any sign that they were part of a blast that left a crater more than 90 feet wide.

Officials have not ruled out the role of an intruder or other criminal activity being involved. Ten first responders and two people volunteering to help fight the initial fire died in the explosion.

Matt Cawthon, the chief deputy sheriff in McLennan County, said in an interview Friday that anhydrous ammonia theft calls had declined in recent years, as had the number of meth labs authorities have busted as Mexican drug cartels are smuggling in more of the drug.

Andrews boys, girls golf teams win 3A state titles

From staff reports

AUSTIN — The ending for the Andrews girls golf team wasn't quite as dramatic as the boys on Friday at the Class 3A State Golf Championships. But nonetheless, the results were the same for both Mustang golf squads as they pulled off the double by winning two golf state championships in the same year.

• The Mustangs boys squad won its first state title since 1999 by a single stroke over Argyle. Andrews shot 315 on Friday and combined with its 316 from Thursday to shoot a 631 over the two days. Argyle shot a 313 on Friday and finished at 632.

Meanwhile, the girls squad didn't leave any doubt in winning their third straight Class 3A state title. The Lady Mustangs shot a school record 315 at the state tournament to finish at 652 and win by 45 strokes over Region I rival Snyder.

It's the second time in school history that the two programs have won in the same year. The last time was in 1987 in Class 4A when current girls coach Mark Burgen was a senior at Andrews.

"I tell you what, I was quite nervous for the boys. But our girls, I was breathing pretty easy by the turn today," Burgen said. "It's extra special for me to have a part in both these fantastic events, as a player and on the other end of it, the coaching end of it 26 years later. It's fun watching these kids celebrate and the parents celebrate."

The Andrews boys squad teed off this morning, and coach Jeff Miller said his team had a rough start to the day on the Jimmy Clay Golf Course layout. With the wind whipping again on the tree-lined course, Miller said his squad lost 10 shots in the first three holes to Argyle.

But he said his squad gained back those shots and were down by 1 at the turn, and the two teams were tied after 14 holes.

Junior G.K. Morrison led Andrews with a 74 on Thursday, and Miller said that score "was huge." Josh Baltzell shot a 77, including a double bogey on 17 and a bogey on 18. Morrison finished tied for fourth at 154 and Baltzell ended up in seventh place at 155.

Hunter Montgomery shot 80-83—163, Casey Fowler 83-81—164 and Tanner Montgomery 78-88—166. Erik Wallinder, who was playing as an individual, shot 81-80—161 over the two days.

Midland High's Lance White hits a home run in the fourth inning against El Paso Americas during the bi-district playoff round Friday at Kokernot Field in Alpine. The Bulldogs advanced to the area round after their 11-6 win over the Trailblazers.

ALPINE — Jackson Lancaster didn't see Lance White's game-changing hit in the top of the fourth Friday, but what he heard told him all he needed to know.

"My head was down, and I hear everybody go, 'Oh my God,'" Lancaster said, "and I looked up and see the ball going over the fence."

White's two-run home run in the top of the fourth, a shot that drew oohs and ahs from the Kokernot Field crowd, opened the floodgates for Midland High, which scored five in the inning and never looked back in an 11-6 Class 5A bi-district victory against El Paso Americas.

The Bulldogs move on to face either Weatherford or Richland in the area round of the Class 5A playoffs after defeating the team that eliminated them in the area round last season.

Midland High (27-6) never figured out starter Jimmy Cubillos in Game 1 of the teams' series last year. But Friday, MHS made good on its second crack at Cubillos as White busted the game open with one swing of the bat.

"I just saw a curveball. I was kind of expecting it," said White, who was 2 for 4 with a home run, two RBI and two runs scored. "I just sat back on it and drove it."

Midland High scored eight runs after White's shot, his first of the season. But afterwards it was the hit that made it 3-0 that had the Bulldogs buzzing.

"I'm not sure what (the pitch) was," said MHS coach Barry Russell, who watched it go over with both hands extended in the air. "But he got every bit of it."

"It was a no-doubter," senior Alex Mata said. "That cleared (the fence) by about 30 feet. It pumped us up, made us want to put more runs on them."

After scoring consecutive runs on a fielder's choice and a throwing error, Ryan Whittenberg put the Bulldogs up 6-0 when he laced an RBI triple in front of a diving Mike Urquidi in left.

Americas, meanwhile, didn't get its first hit until its 11th batter as Lancaster started out strong.

"Jackson just does what Jackson does, he goes out there and throws strikes," Russell said. "He got wild there a couple of times, but he understands that he's got to throw strikes."

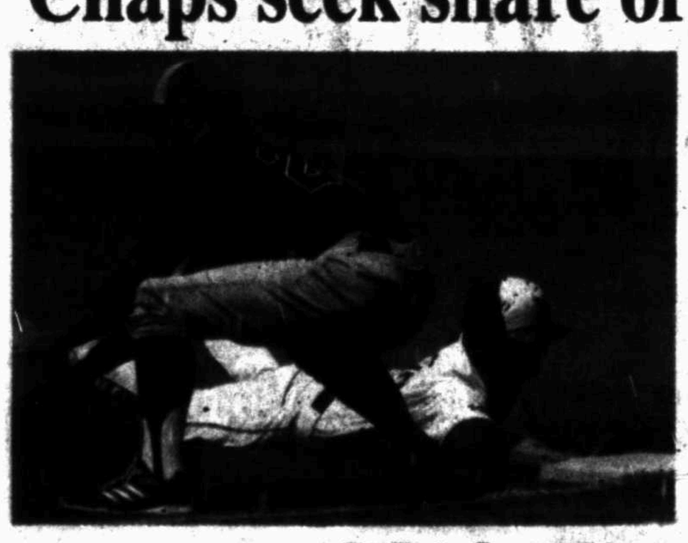

Lancaster's defense helped him out also as Americas (18-13) didn't advance a runner into scoring position in the first four innings thanks to a beautiful 6-3 double play by Gilbert Sanchez in the second and Whittenberg gunning down a stealing Urquidi at second in the third.

"We take a lot of pride in our defense," White said. "(We) try to just make plays behind our pitcher so he can throw strikes."

The Midland College baseball team has put itself in a position to win its first Western Junior College Athletic Conference title in more than a decade.

The Chaparrals go into today's final day of WJCAC play with a one-game lead over New Mexico Junior College after MC swept a doubleheader over Western Texas College by scores of 7-3 and 11-8 Friday afternoon at Christensen Stadium. NMJC fell off first place after getting swept in a home doubleheader by Frank Phillips College by identical 5-3 scores.

Midland can clinch at least a share of the title with a doubleheader split at Western Texas College today, which would be its first WJCAC title since 2002. But if one asks the Chaps (41-13, 26-8), they have no intention of sharing any title.

"We're going to go out there just like we did (Friday)," said MC sophomore pitcher Jason

Justin Northwest leads series, 1-0

From staff reports

BROWNWOOD — The Midland High softball team is fighting for its season today after a loss Friday.

The Lady Bulldogs opened their best-of-three Class 5A area playoff series against Justin Northwest with a 9-3 loss at Lady Lions Softball Park in Brownwood. Game 2 of the series is set for noon today at the same venue, and should the Lady Dawgs win it, a third and decisive game is set to take place 30 minutes after Game 2's completion.

The Lady Texans (19-16) picked up the win despite seeing Midland High (30-7) outhit them, 11-9, thanks in large part to four costly Lady Dawgs' errors.

Midland High got on the board first in the opening inning after a two-out single by catcher Courtney Warren plated leadoff hitter Brooke Ryan for a 1-0 advantage. But Northwest struck right back with three runs in the bottom of the first.

Bri Barnhill led off with a solo home run and Catherine Totty followed by drawing a walk. Courtesy runner Amber Stockwell scored when catcher Sydnee Hinkle tripled to center, giving Northwest a 2-1 lead.

Wide-open race expected in 139th Derby

Beth Harris

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A trainer flooding the field with five horses. A black jockey trying to make history, and a woman rider, too. Louisville coach Rick Pitino seeking a double — champions in racing and basketball. He's sure in the right place.

The 19-horse field for today's Kentucky Derby is balanced, with no definitive favorite.

Orb is the pre-race choice, just barely. Nearly overshadowed is his trainer, Shug McGaughey, who really, really wants this race. Doug O'Neill trying to win back-to-back. And then there's the threat of rain, which has done in some of the best-laid plans on race day.

It sure looks like a topsy-turvy Derby.

"I don't think we've got Secretariat in this bunch, even Seattle Slew," four-time Derby-winning trainer D. Wayne Lukas said, "so I think it's going to boil down to the trip and the pace and a lot of other things."

Todd Pletcher will saddle a record-tying five horses — undefeated and early second choice Verrazano, Revolutionary, Overanalyze, Palace Malice and Charming Kitten.

"We laid out a plan to get here with them, and it's all come down pretty much like we hoped," said Pletcher, who has one Derby win with 31 previous starters.

Verrazano is 4-0 in his young career, not having run as a 2-year-old. He'll

College: Western State Colorado University
High School: Trinity
Sport: Track/Cross-Country

Farris on why he chose WSCU: "Location was probably the biggest thing. I do have family up there about two hours away. ... The training is going to be the best. I love the cold and I hate the heat. I'm kind of sick of (the heat), and want to get away from it. ... I went to a running school there last summer, and met the coach and just fell in love with the school. I never imagined going to such a small school, but it's just a fit for me."

Farris

Trinity coach Cindy Brock on Farris: "It's about quality racing for him. He's not willing to settle for just being a champion in the Permian Basin. He wants someone else to race, someone to push him. He wants to get better and see where he can go. I don't think his potential has been tapped. I am excited for him to see where he can go in the college career. I really think there's more out there for Christian Farris."

Notes: Farris is a two-time state champion in cross-country, the 1,600 meters and 3,200 meters at the TCAF level where he also holds the state record in all three events. He won the TAPPS 3A state cross-country title this past fall and will be running in the 1,600, 3,200 and 1,600 relay at the TAPPS 3A state meet next weekend. ... Farris said his decision was between Stephen F. Austin and WSCU, which is in Gunnison, Colo. He also had offers from Cameron University in Oklahoma and Nova Southeastern in Florida. ... Farris is undecided on his major, but is considering kinesiology, forestry or working toward becoming a veterinarian. ... WSCU is the defending national champion in cross-country at the NCAA Division II level. Farris is expected to be a member of that team, but will begin running the steeplechase during track and field season. Farris finished sixth in the high school boys division in the steeplechase at the Texas Relays last month.

Errors help Andrews beat Big Spring

Lady Mustangs 10
Lady Steers 5
Andrews leads series, 1-0

The Big Spring softball team out-hit Andrews on Friday in the first game of their best-of-three Class 3A area round series.

But the Lady Steers also had four errors, and the Lady Mustangs took advantage to not only take the lead but keep Big Spring at arm's length in a 10-5 victory at the Freddie Ezell Softball Complex.

Big Spring out-hit Andrews 12-8, but three of Big Spring's errors led directly to Andrews' runs in the game.

The Lady Mustangs scored three unearned runs in the fourth inning, two more in the third and two in the fifth to clinch the victory.

"You can't ever expect a team to make errors," Andrews coach Priscilla Ramirez said. "We just try to execute and do our job at the plate. One of the things we wanted to do was put pressure on their defense and we were effective doing that today at times."

Andrews (28-7) will need to win today's second game to clinch the series, and Big Spring (17-18) will need to win two to get that done.

Big Spring's day in the field could have been summed up in the fifth inning when a throwing error on a bunt by Ceci Santibanez rolled all the way to the right field fence and Santibanez traveled all the way around the diamond to score, Erica Contreras also scored on the play, giving Andrews a 10-4 lead.

"We did it to ourselves is all you can say," Big Spring coach John Sparks said. "We shot ourselves in the foot today."

Andrews jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the second inning, but Big Spring cut it to 4-3. But Andrews added three more in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Meanwhile, Big Spring plated single runs in the fourth and sixth, while Andrews pitcher Shannon Hobbs had four strikeouts in the final three innings.

"It's very big to win the first game because you don't want to go into the second game knowing you already have a loss," said Andrews center fielder Allison Florez. "We're very confident in each other."

the bottom of the fourth before Midland High went up 9-1 with three runs on three hits in the fifth, chasing Cubillos in the process.

The Trailblazers, however, responded with three runs in the bottom of the fifth thanks to four consecutive hits after a flyout to start the inning.

The last of those hits was a two-run single by Nick Cubillos, which Orlando Garcia followed with a sacrifice fly to make it 9-4.

"Those guys just flat out compete," Russell said. "I'm impressed with what coach (Jesse) Munoz does. I told him last year that his kids were well-coached and I told him again."

But that was as close as the Trailblazers got as Midland High tacked on two insurance runs in the top of the seventh, including an RBI triple by Brent Stewart, who was 2 for 4 with two RBI and a sacrifice fly.

Americas got the runs back on a two-out rally in the bottom of the seventh but wasn't able to get close.

And while White said it was nice to avenge the team's loss to Americas in last year's area round, the Bulldogs admitted that Friday was, hopefully, just the beginning.

"It's just the first round and we kind of expected to win," Mata said. "We've got higher goals than this."

The Lady Texans never looked back from there as they forced Midland High to use three different pitchers. Stefani Baeza only got through two innings before Brooke Ryan replaced her in the circle. Kendra Evans ended up recording the final two outs of the game.

Midland High's best chance to cut into Northwest's lead came in the top of the fourth when the Lady Dawgs loaded the bases with one out, trailing 5-1. They were unable to get any runs across.

Warren and Ryan led the Lady Dawgs at the plate with each going 2 for 4 with an RBI and a run scored. Brie Wrobel was Northwest's top hitter going 2 for 4 with three RBI.

Sugar Bear is a sweet 2 yr old female beagle/dachshund mix. She loves kids and most other small dogs. She was dumped when pregnant and some wonderful people took her in. Sadly she lost her puppies but she was spayed and given lots of love. Sugar Bear would make a great family member!

MCS track teams win regional titles

ABILENE — The Midland Christian boys and girls track teams each ran away with a regional title Friday.

The Mustangs and Lady Mustangs won their respective divisions convincingly at the TAPPS 4A North Regional Track & Field Championships at McMurry University. The Mustangs scored 157 total points, which was significantly better than second-place Lubbock Trinity's score of 84.

The Lady Mustangs were just as dominant, scoring 134 points — almost double of what second-place Grapevine Faith (69) put up. And the Lady Mustangs did so despite having its 400 relay team disqualified after being ranked first in the event heading into the meet. They did, however, manage to win the other two relays with Kami Berryhill, Kirsten Defrance, Madeline Smith and Kenzie McGraw combining to win the 800 relay and Defrance, Kayla Dupriest, Kendall Blanchard and Morgan Ashton winning the 1,600 relay.

Individual gold medalists for the Lady Mustangs included Emma Thompson (discus), Berryhill (pole vault), Defrance (800) and Ashton (300 hurdles). The Lady Mustangs had individuals qualify for state in all but six events.

The Mustangs picked up a gold medal in the 800 relay, but did get the 400 and 1,600 relay teams qualified for state, which is critical as they attempt to win their third straight team title at the state meet next weekend. MCS also got individual gold medals out of Bryson Taylor (discus), Brit Hooper (pole vault) and Alex Causey (1,600). The Mustangs had individuals or teams qualify for state in all but five events.

ANDREWS

From 1B

"It was so hard out there today, and the wind blew so hard and the pin placements were really tough," Miller said. "When the last kid putted out, I wasn't sure because some scores weren't posted. It definitely makes it that much sweeter (to win by one stroke), and it would've been bittersweet if we hadn't of won it."

Meanwhile, the girls squad started fast and never let off the gas in winning its title. Four of Andrews' five players shot 82 or better as Sarah Black led the way with a 74 and finished at 159 and in second place. First-round leader Hailey Burgen finished third following up her 78 with an 82 to finish at 160. Kalli Jennings was fourth with an 84-77—161.

Payten Payne shot a 94-82—176 and Brittney Lambert shot 90-91—181.

"We played really well today, and we shot 315 today and that was a school record for us," Burgen said. "The last time we did that was in 1987 when we shot 316, when we pulled off the double. That's pretty neat."

CLASS 3A BIG SPRING BOYS TIE FOR 3RD, FALL IN PLAYOFF

AUSTIN — The Big Spring boys golf team improved by 16 strokes on Friday and ended up in a tie for third at the Class 3A boys state golf tournament at Jimmy Clay Golf Course. The Steers shot 320 on Friday and finished at 656 for the tourney, tying with 2012 champion Fredericksburg.

The Steers then lost a one-hole team playoff for the third spot.

Ryan Pollard led the Steers on Friday with a 75 and finished at 162, while Tyler Bryan shot a 79 and finished at 161. Tate Kennedy shot 84-83—167 over the two days, Devin Robenson 84-82—166 and Jason Guevara 88-84—172.

CLASS 2A GRAHAM FINISHED 17TH

AUSTIN — Stanton senior Kendra Graham shot a second-round 94 and finished tied for 17th at the Class 2A girls state tournament.

Graham shot a first-round 88 and her 94 put her at 182 for the two days as she tied with Jim Ned's Kylee Hargrove.

Salado won the girls team title with a two-day score of 719, winning by 30 strokes over second-place Sonora. Holliday won the boys title by two strokes over Whitesboro.

CLASS A RANKIN'S THOMPSON TAKES 2ND

AUSTIN — Rankin's Tanner Thompson lost a one-hole playoff for the Class A boys medalist title on Friday at the Class A boys state tournament. Thompson shot a second-round 77 and tied with Normangee's Logan Young, who shot a second-round 158.

The two players played the 18th hole at Lion's Municipal Golf Course.

As a team, the Red Devils shot 349 on Friday and finished at 701 and in third place. Weimer's top team won the tournament with a two-day total of 683.

Memphis won the girls title with a two-day total of 695, and was 48 strokes ahead of second-place Grapeland.

DERBY

be trying to disprove an old Derby jinx: no horse since Apollo in 1882 has won without racing as a juvenile.

Relative unknown Kevin Krigger will be aboard Goldencents, trying to become the first black jockey to win since Jimmy Winkfield in 1902.

"I'm going to ride us the race that should get us to the Kentucky Derby winner's circle," Krigger said.

The colt is partly owned by Pitino, whose Cardinals won the NCAA championship last month. The coach recently got elected to basketball's Hall of Fame, so a Derby win would complete the ultimate trifecta.

Rosie Napravnik wants to grab history for herself, too.

No female jockey has ever won the Derby, although she came closest, with a ninth-place finish in 2011. Napravnik will ride 15-1 long shot Mylute.

"He feels great, he's acting great and I'm very confident heading into the Derby," she said.

LUBBOCK — The Midland College softball team pulled off an upset Friday night during the first day of the NJCAA Region V West Tournament at Lubbock Christian University's Plains Capital Park.

After defeating Western Texas College, 7-5, in the first round, the Lady Chaparrals outlasted top-seeded and No. 7-ranked Howard College, 7-6, in nine innings. With the pair of wins, the Lady Chaparrals are now one win away from advancing to the championship game of the tournament. They'll play Odessa College, an 8-7 winner over El Paso Community College, in the semifinals at 2:30 p.m. today.

After overcoming five errors, which accounted for all six of Howard's runs, the Lady Chaps were able to get a timely hit from Midland High grad Gaby Muniz in the top of the ninth. With Savanna Koke starting off the inning at second base as part of the international tiebreaker rules, Muniz led off the frame with an RBI single that turned out to be the decisive play of the game.

It was the proper ending to a game that saw MC respond time and time again to Howard's charges.

"That was a game where we played well at the plate," MC coach Tommy Ramos said. "We had too many defensive errors at critical moments and that really cost us. The game shouldn't have gone to extra innings, but I'm proud of the girls for the way they kept fighting at the plate. Every time they scored we'd battle and get the runs back."

Muniz finished 2 for 4 with a double and two RBI, while catcher Taylor Clancy was 3 for 4 with a double and RBI.

In the Lady Chaps' first game of the day, they managed to hold off Western Texas. Leanna Meyer was 2 for 3 in the win with two RBI.

Ramos hopes that the strong first day of the tournament carries over for the remainder of the weekend.

"It gives our girls some confidence, which is something we've been lacking," Ramos said. "We need to hang on to that now."

From 1B

Zgardowski. "Our goal to finish (the regular season) is to sweep Western and be 43-13. We don't want to be 42-14, so we're going to go out there with the same approach."

Added sophomore outfielder Blair Beck, "We just need to come out, play the game like we know how to, play hard and hopefully we can get this conference championship. It would be big for Midland College."

The Chaps would love to get the same kind of offensive production they got on Friday as they had 11 hits in the first game and then followed it up with 14 hits in the crazy, high-scoring second game.

A four-run second inning in the first game helped Zgardowski (7-1) not only pitch with some cushion but it helped him relax. Despite giving up nine hits, Zgardowksi only gave up three runs in his complete-game victory.

"I felt like I finally got back on track after the last two weeks," said the right-hander from San Antonio. "I just worked on getting back into the zone and working ahead. I kind of stumbled in the fourth inning and I started being passive. (Assistant coach Jim Lawler) came up to me in between innings and said, 'Just do what you did in the first three innings'. I just started working down in the zone and (catcher Hunter Redman) called a great game, so half the credit goes to him."

Even though the Westerners (20-34, 15-19) cut it to within 5-3 after two runs in the fourth and another run in the fifth, the Chaps added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

"When (the MC offense) is leading the nation in runs scored, it gives us pitchers confidence to just get in and out because we know they're going to put up five-plus runs a game," Zgardowksi said. "It gives us a great chance to win every day."

The Chaps needed every bit of that offense to come through in the second game.

MC and starter Cody Brown were cruising with a 6-0 lead through six innings as Brown allowed one hit in that span. But then in the seventh inning and with one out, the Westerner bats awoke with five consecutive hits against Brown to knock him out of the game. After Jacob Mena tied the game at 6 with a two-run double, and after another pitching change that saw Jared Robinson come in for Keanu Ramos, the Chaps were finally able to get out of the inning when Robinson struck out the final two batters.

Midland College coach David Coleman credited Robinson (9-1) for stabilizing the game and giving his team a chance to win the game.

"Getting those two strikeouts were huge," Coleman said. "He got us out of a bind."

Once again, the Chaps' offense had an answer as a two-run home run to left by Chris Shaw and a two-run double by Tyler Barlow highlighted a five-run frame which gave MC an 11-6 lead through seven innings.

"They've done it all year," said Coleman about his team having an answer offensively. "It seems every time somebody has a big inning, we'll respond. We got a big response there and kind of got some separation."

Beck, who was 2 for 5 in that second game with two RBI and scored a run in the seventh, said after WTC tied the game it was important for his team to raise its intensity level.

"We came back in the dugout, we came together and got some hits," Beck said. "It was big time because we needed those two wins. I have a lot of confidence in these guys and I don't ever get nervous. I also have a lot of faith in our pitching. I believe whoever we throw out there they're going to get the job done."

Every Chap in the lineup had at least one hit with Ethan Kohnle (3 for 5), Shaw (2 for 4) and Beck leading the way with multiple hits.

The Chaps conclude the regular season today when the series switches to Westerner Field in Snyder. The doubleheader begins at noon as the Chaps look to finish WJCAC play with a title in hand.

RockHounds drop 7th straight

From staff reports

CORPUS CHRISTI — The Midland RockHounds lost their seventh consecutive game with a 10-4 loss to Corpus Christi at Whataburger Field on Friday night.

The Hooks (17-11) had 13 hits and had a five-run second inning to help complete a four-game sweep of the RockHounds (13-15).

The big hit in the second inning came from George Springer, who connected for a two-run double against Midland starter Josh Bowman (2-1).

Bowman lasted just four innings after giving up seven runs on seven hits with three walks and four strikeouts.

Midland got to within 6-4 with three runs in the third thanks in part to a two-run single by Beau Taylor.

But the Hooks pulled away even further as they added single runs in the fourth and fifth innings and then plated two more in the sixth.

The RockHounds return to Citibank Ballpark at 7 p.m. today to begin a four-game series with the Frisco RoughRiders.

Teenage girl has an unsettling reunion with dad

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl who has been trying to give my father a second chance. I was taken away from my parents when I was 8 because they were on drugs. I haven't seen my father for three years, but now that he's living with my grandparents and me, I decided to give him a second chance.

He has been very "handsy" with me — giving me massages, kissing my cheek — and this all makes me very uncomfortable. I thought it was because he hasn't seen me in a while, but today as I was leaving to go to my mom's, he slapped my butt as I walked out the door. Now I'm scared. I spend a lot of the day at home with him alone. I don't want things to get out of hand. Any advice? — WORRIED IN DELAWARE

DEAR WORRIED: Your father has lost three years with you. He may not realize that his "little girl" is no longer a child. That is why it is important that you TELL him what he's doing makes you uncomfortable. You should also tell your mother and grandparents about what's happening and that it scares you. You do not have to tolerate unwanted contact, and if it persists, report it to a teacher or counselor at school or contact me again.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dilemma. I work in a small high school in a student support position. Girls come into my office who are pregnant and excited about it. Telling them congratulations for putting themselves in this position seems counterproductive or like I am endorsing this choice. I don't.

No high school girls — or boys, for that matter — should put themselves in a position to be a parent when they themselves aren't fully grown and independent. I feel like saying, "You have ruined your life" instead, but I hold my tongue. What do you suggest? — DON'T WANT TO ENCOURAGE THEM IN ILLINOIS

DEAR DON'T WANT TO ENCOURAGE: Your job is to support the students, not to condemn or endorse their predicament. Telling a pregnant girl she has ruined her life isn't helpful. What you need to do is encourage the girl to get a diploma while she can.

Too many girls fail to complete their high school education when they have a baby, and it impedes their ability to provide for themselves and their child because they are suited only for minimum-wage jobs. If you are enthusiastic about helping them, your positive attitude may be contagious and inspire them to succeed.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a short time ago about my marital problems, but I have to share this with you. My husband, who walked out on me, went to a counselor for a session. Then we went together, and he learned a few things about me and himself.

He is coming back, and we are going to work harder at our marriage. We both recognize there were places where we needed to work together more, that he doesn't need to be afraid to talk to me and I can be pretty understanding.

Thank you so much for being there, Abby. I know you always recommend talking to a counselor before doing anything rash, and you are so right. It made all the difference. — GRATEFUL WIFE IN ARIZONA

DEAR GRATEFUL: I'm pleased counseling helped to open the clogged lines of communication between you and your husband. While it may seem expensive, it's far cheaper than a divorce can be, both emotionally and financially.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 4, 2013:

This year you carry many ideas to fruition. Others love how you manifest your desires. You will gain financially in the next few months. You might receive a pay raise or just be lucky. If you are single, you will have a relationship if you want one. Starting in July, you could meet someone in your daily travels. You won't need to start online dating or anything of that nature. If you are attached, you connect with each other even more deeply than in the past. This one-on-one time will be instrumental to your well-being. Count on PISCES — he or she is a good friend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You derive your power and energy from your understanding of the material world and the universal laws of life. Your ability to intertwine these two will guide you to success. You'll have many different opportunities head your way. Tonight: A quiet dinner at home.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★ You know what you want, so charge into your day and get just that. Your smiling manner draws many people toward you. Your popularity soars, and you'll want to see your friends. The more people you surround yourself with, the happier you will be. Tonight: Out late.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ If you would like to head in a different direction, do. Others might admire your courage, but they don't realize the strength of your intuition, which carries you through many difficult situations. Make an offer to a loved one that is too good to resist. Tonight: On center stage.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Reach out to someone at a distance, or perhaps someone who practically speaks a different language with his or her far-out ideas. When you expose yourself to a different way of thinking, you are freeing your mind from self-imposed restrictions. Tonight: Somewhere you can relax.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★ A loved one might decide that it's time to eliminate the gap between the two of you. You won't say "no," but you could be hesitant to say "yes." Remember, it isn't worth the experience or your time if you do not fully live in the moment. Tonight: Go with what feels right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ You are full of life and energy. Today you'll bypass those who are not in a similar mood, as you might need to let off some steam and be more playful. Support yourself by getting more of what you want. Reach out to a loved one at a distance. Tonight: Where people are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ Understand that if you really want to let go and enjoy the moment, you might to run an errand or two. Some of you might need to spend a few days working on waylaid projects. Know that there will be better opportunities ahead. Tonight: Let your inner child emerge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ Your creativity comes forward, and it allows you to add some fun to your plans. A child or loved one delights in your company. The trust you have for each other is mutual, which permits more give-and-take. Express your high energy in a project. Tonight: The fun continues.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★ You typically are very adventuresome, which is why others might be making remarks about your contentment to be home right now. What is nice about today is that you get lots of R and R, and you get to choose your company. Tonight: You do not need to go far.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ You instinctively know that it is time to catch up on others' news, as well as any past emails, calls and projects. Do not make this a big deal. People are more important than running errands. Be spontaneous when making decisions. Tonight: Hang out with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★ Holding back might be nearly impossible. Whichever indulgence you choose to get into will help you release some pressure. Know that there is a limit to this behavior, and you'll want to rein yourself in before things get out of control. Tonight: Meet an older relative for dinner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Honor what is happening within a group of friends. Together you could go off and come up with a fun idea involving a get-together. Consider yourself inspired right now. Your imagination is endless, and it delights many. Tonight: Whatever knocks your socks off.

3300 MaMar

You will be asking where to sign when you walk through the doors of 3300 Ma Mar across the street from Grafa Park. Upgraded and redecorated, it has fresh designer paint colors, sinks, faucets, Plantation shutters, skylights and crown molding in every room. These are just a few of the many artistic touches that grace the home. Constructed in 1965 with 3,206 square feet (per MCAD), there are four bedrooms, two full baths, two half baths, two living areas, two dining areas and a fabulous sparkling pool! Schools for this area include Rusk Elementary, Alamo Jr. High and Lee High.

As you arrive at the tan brick home, you may park in the circular drive or take advantage of the alley entrance to the two-car garage. The front door is on the right through the wrought iron gate, where a beautiful garden area and trellis covered porch greet visitors. Doors open to gorgeous Saltillo Tile flooring that flows throughout the main areas of the home. Spacious rooms, an open floor plan and decorator details provide enjoyable areas for living. The den features a fireplace across one wall with room for couches and chairs for relaxing. A half bath and cleverly painted wet bar is located nearby as well as the formal dining area. While enjoying a meal at your dining table, you will have a view out the windows of the pool which was recently renovated from the concrete up including the pool equipment. It is a gorgeous view and can also be seen from the kitchen window.

The roomy kitchen is bright and airy with white cabinets, some of which have glass in the doors for displaying items. Stainless appliances, ceiling tiles and large crown molding make this a very enjoyable workspace. The counter is large enough for bonus seating or you may serve meals in the breakfast nook. Two closets provide storage and a huge pantry is located right around the corner in the mud room. In addition, there is a bonus room and an oversized laundry room. An exterior door leads to the pool and covered porch where you can enjoy dining or relaxing by the pool. There are two fountains by the pool as well as a side bricked area for grilling and a storage room for keeping pool supplies tucked away.

Follow the hallway from the breakfast nook and you will see the master suite. This bedroom is full of details from a walk-in closet with built-in cabinets and shelves to a door that leads to a quiet back porch with a trellis and beautiful garden area where you can sit and relax to enjoy the outdoors. An 8 foot privacy fence is also new and makes this area secluded and serene. The master bath has a beautiful stained glass window, dual sinks and glass shower.

Back in the hallway, a full bathroom is bursting with decorator details! A skylight, unique countertop and Talavera sink combine to make this a unique space. Continue down the hall and you will discover three more bedrooms, each with their own wonderful qualities. Two face the front of the house and garden area; one has built in shelves and the other has a built-in desk and shelves. Both have large closets with ample storage. The fourth bedroom is on the back of the house and features a walk-in closet and half bath.

This gorgeous home is full of details! Great care was taken while making renovations and the owners purchased the best of the best to make it the perfect space. Additional amenities include: alley entrance, circular drive, pool, skylights, fireplace, minimal yard maintenance, recent updates, tile flooring, Plantation shutters and crown molding.

Timing the turn signal

This is a crazy deal to me! Why do people turn on their turn signals when they are two blocks from their turn street? You know.... if there are two other turns before they get to their intended turn, how the other people supposed to figure out where in the heck they are really going to turn?

I saw this old green Cadillac on Garfield the other day that turned on their turn signal at Midland College to make a right onto Wadley! Now ..silly.....how many right turns are there between Midland College and Wadley and how are people supposed to know which right turn is being taken? Now, if someone is waiting to cross a street and the car approaching has on their signal, do you think they would know that the oncoming car was not turning at that intersection?

This applies to alleys and parking lots too! I mean.....how are we to know? How about no turning on your signal until there is not another place to turn between you and the intersection where you are headed? Come on folks.....this is another one of those things just "Drivin me Crazy"

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
To this day I don't understand men when it comes to tools. Take my grandfather, for instance. He had a tool for every job. When the battery died in my watch, he had a jeweler's screwdriver to replace it. When I needed to fix my front stoop, he had a cement mixer in his shed. And when I had to rotate my tires, he had an impact wrench just like the tire shops. So when he passed away, I was left with a garage and house full of tools. I kept a few and put the rest, like a house jack, up for sale at my yard sale. You can imagine my surprised when two guys started fighting over the house jack. How many people really need to lift their home? The same thing happened over some rusty screwdrivers. In all honesty, I thought most of it was junk. You can buy much nicer looking tools at any store. Why would anyone want an old hammer set or a rusty radial arm saw?

Carry: If you're trying to understand men's obsession with tools, good luck. Even my wife has given up.

Cash: Although the marketing departments of the big home improvement centers have sure figured it out!

Carry: While it may seem odd to you that two guys would argue over a tool like a house jack, it's actually not that surprising. You can imagine that if you needed to move a house from its foundation, a house jack would prove to be very valuable.

Cash: Old tools, even rusty ones, often preform that same valuable service. While you can buy most tools new at a retail store, new and shiny isn't necessarily better. In fact, some old tools are much more durable. They were made from solid metal parts that just won't break. Many of today's tools are made from less expensive materials like plastic.

Carry: Much like your grandfather, many people have an appreciation for these old tools. That's what makes them one of the hottest selling items at any garage sale. Even that old hammer set or rusty radial arm saw can be quite valuable to some.

Cash: Although you may not fully understand men and their tools, there is one thing you can take from your experiences. The next time you see two men fighting over a set of tools at your garage sale, raise the price!

Fast Facts

Tool Up

Open almost any toolbox and you're likely to see name brands such as Stanley, DeWalt, Makita, or Craftsman, to name a few. That's because these companies have been around for many decades. Frederick Stanley created Stanley tools in 1843 as a bolt and door hardware company. Raymond DeWalt started his tool company in 1922, perfecting the radial arm machine to provide more versatility for woodworkers. Makita was founded in 1915 as an electric motor sales company, and Sears launched its Craftsman brand in 1927.

Tool Time

Many people wish they could be great craftsmen. That's probably why home improvement shows like This Old House have made celebrities out of everyday repairmen. The show began in 1979, making host Bob Vila a household name. In 1989, Vila left the show because of arising conflicts with commercial endorsements. He started his own show, Bob Vila's Home Again, later renaming it Bob Villa. This Old House continues to aire with it's lastest host Kevin O'Connor who took over in 2003.

Answered Prayers

My church holds a fundraising yard sale every year. As the minister, I find it's a great way to meet with a part of the congregation that I don't often see on Sunday.

One of the parishioners, Mary, brought her husband to the sale in hopes he would find something to buy. While he was browsing the tables, I took the opportunity to say hello.

As we made small talk, I mentioned that I haven't seen him in church for several weeks. "I've been out playing golf," he told me rather honestly.

As he saw my disappointment, he found a way to justify his choice.

"But don't worry," he said. "My game is so bad, I pray every time I hit the ball."

(Thanks to Kenneth P.)
