Butte Slams Demo Executive Committee for "Throttling Party Conscience in Texas"

Republican Nominee Is Heard By Huge Crowd in Palace Address; Gives Ideas.

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS.
Record News Staff.

George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor, last night challenged the "arrogance of the little hierarcy of 31 members" of the democratic executive committee in session at Austin "trying to throttle the consciences of the democrats of Texas."

He spoke before 1,300 persons who filled the Palace theatre, while others stood about the front of the building beneath amplifiers which were strung up to carry his voice outside the building. The speaker was given enthusiastic applause by his audience. His hearers stood up as he entered, and again at the close of his brief address.

Quotes Llewellyn Statement.

His reference to the democratic committee, his first campaign mention of the opposition, was made as he quoted from a statement made by Dwight Llewellyn, Dallas member of the democratic party organization, that the committee, while at Austin, would require every democratic office-holder and nominee to immediately declare their support of every nominee, from governor to constable, and for those unwilling to so declare, to resign their offices or commissions.

"They are trying to throttle the consciences of the democrats of Texas," Butte declared. "What arrogance," he added, then said:

"Will they get away with it?"

Shouts of "no, no," came from all parts of the audience, and one of the men on the speaker's platform shouted:

"They're getting scared."

Introduced by Mrs. Guest.

Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, democrat, sister of Clyde A. Sweeton of Greenville, himself prominently mentioned this year for the democratic nomination for governor, introduced Dr. Butte in a short talk which drew much applause.

"I have always been a democrat," Mrs. Guest said, "and I will vote for the nominees when they are in the right, and when they will give me somebody to vote for.

"But I will not vote for an impeached, outlawed governor," she continued.

"Nor will I vote for a dummy," she added.

"Dr. Butte," she declared, 'is more the choice of the mothers of Texas than of any party.

'He has stood for those things which Jim Ferguson has tried to tear down."

Republicans Here.

Among those sitting on the platform back of Dr. Butte were Mesdames Mamie Dale Brown, Iowa Park; Maude Thomas, A. B. Eichelbarger, C. W. Snider, A. B. Cain, Mack Thomas, W. K. Miles, C. J. Barnard, Mrs. Little, O. P. Maricle, J. C. A. Guest and Miss McKinney; Messrs. Rhey Hart, Al Ellis, W. W. Silk, Arch Dawson, Charlie Van Thorn, John Marrs, Melville Peters, W. M. Sanford, L. V. Hull, Reverend R. A. Barnes, Orville Bullington and W. W. Gray.

C. A. Rogers, a democrat, presided over the meeting.

"A vote is no longer sovereign, when it is cast for a party and not for a principle," Rogers declared in a brief talk, in which he presented Mrs. Guest. Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, opened the meeting with a prayer.

Dr. Butte, the republican nominee for governor, plunged at once into the reasons which guided him in resigning as law dean of the university, and making the race for governor.

"Fergusonism" is the one issue, despite efforts to drag in other issues, he declared.

"There are a good many side issues and a lot of underbrush, which we might as well clear away at the beginning of this campaign," he declared.

He is running as a Texan and as an American, though his name is on the republican ticket, and to preserve constitutional government in Texas rather than to score a party victory, Butte told his audience.

Is Challenge to Youth.

"I entered this fight at the call of the youth of Texas, that Texas shall be free; the call of honest and patriotic Texans, who put Texas first and party second," he declared.

The re-election of James E. Ferguson he said, asking his audience to stress the idea of re-electing the impeached governor, by proxy after the courts had denied him a place on the ballot, "would be a subversion of the law and the constitution of Texas," he declared.

Shall the test of a democrat be whether he shall follow James E. Ferguson?" he asked, "or rather whether he shall follow that high-minded, patriotic citizen, John W. Davis, who declared in his Onaga address:

"My party when it's right, but when it is wrong, some other party—this shall be the test of all true Americans."

Prolonged applause greeted the speaker here.

This points out, he declared, one of the profound evils of present-day politics, that of blind partisanship; and then he reiterated the declaration of his other speeches, that while the Texas supreme court has held there is no legal force to the party platform pledge, the condition has arisen that the court pointed out

G. O. P. AND KKK ALLIED TO BEAT US, DEMOS SAY

Executive Committee in Session to Launch Fight on Butte.

'DESERTERS' ASSAILED

Party is Warned That More Rigid Discipline Must Be Had.

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN Oct. 6.—Charging that the republican party is in secret alliance with the ku klux klan to preach the "heresy that a party pledge is not binding" the state democratic committee meeting here today issued an appeal to democratic voters to join in a "patriotic uprising" in every county of the state.

The committee met to plan ways of combating the activities of the republicans and Dr. George C. Butte, their candidate for governor. About 25 members attended either in person or by proxy. James E. Ferguson, husband of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson democratic nominee for governor, held a proxy of an absent member. He declared it was "a 200,000 majority meeting."

Plan a Campaign

A vigorous campaign in all parts of the state was planned. Campaign committees of five will be appointed in each senatorial district to assist the executive committee member from that district to bring out the full democratic strength. The resignation of C. D. Lipscomb of Quitman as a member of the committee was accepted and Walter W. Jones of Mineola appointed to succeed him.

An address to "The Democracy of Texas" was adopted by the committee in which it was declared that "any voters who participate in a democratic primary and refuses to "support the nominee selected in such a primary their party" is to be denounced.

Those refusing to support the party nominee "are guilty of a breach of faith with their party associates" and their act is declared to be political treason.

Fraud or Corruption

The only excuse for deserting the party is either fraud or corruption in obtaining the nomination, the address stated, or that some question has arisen concerning the fitness of the nominee since the nomination. None of these circumstances exist, the address said.

"It was left to a certain disgruntled element in the party who are now siding with the republican party and who are, we now charge, in secret alliance with the ku klux klan to announce the doctrine that a democrat has the right to bolt simply because the party nominee was not his choice in the primary election," said the address. "The said disgruntled element in Texas are especially vicious in their attacks against Mrs. Ferguson, the democratic nominee for governor and this is true in the face of the fact that no republican, no welcher and no mugwump newspaper has dared or will dare to say that Mrs. Ferguson's nomination was not fairly and honorably won. Under these circumstances the democracy of Texas will refuse, as it has always refused to follow those who teach the infamous doctrine that a promise voluntarily entered into is without binding effect."

Democrats are warned that there must be more rigid party discipline and that hereafter those who refuse to support the nominees of the party should not be permitted to participate in the primaries or become candidate for office.

The entire nation is looking to Texas, the address continues, pointing out that the democratic fight affects the morale of the national party.

BUYING LIFTS MARKET

Violent Advances In Wheat And Rye Traced to Europe

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO Oct. 6. — Violent advances in the price of wheat and rye today were followed by a quick reaction, chiefly the result of sudden wholesale profit taking. When the day was ended, however, the principal outstanding fact was that bread stuffs had again outdone all recent top quotations, and that export demand had shown a vigor far beyond the ordinary limit.

After running up as much as 4 1-8 cents a bushel above Saturday's finish, the active future deliveries of wheat closed today at 7-8 cent to 1 3-8 cent gain, December 1.49 1-2 to 1.49-5-8 and May 1.53 7-8 to 1.54.

Great Britain, France, Italy and to Scandinavian countries were the principal sources of the energetic buying of wheat and rye today.

Fosdick Resigns Post Under Fire Of Church Foes

Leaves Pulpit Following Long Wrangle Between Two Factions.

IS NO SURPRISE

Baptist Minister Declines to Become Presbyterian Despite Invitations.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Foedick, a Baptist preacher in a Presbyterian church whose pulpit for two years has been the center of an international controversy between fundamentalists and modernists, today handed his resignation to the New York presbytery.

It was Rev. Dr. Fosdick's answer to the judgment of the Presbyterian general assembly that he should forswear his Baptist membership and become a Presbyterian by subscribing to the confession of faith or give up his associate pastorship of the First Presbyterian church of New York.

Resignation Expected.

The issue had been clearly drawn, both in the dictum of the general assembly and a subsequent communication formally tendered the minister by the presbytery of New York. It was considered reasonably certain the resignation would be accepted.

That it had been tendered was made known in statements issued today by Dr. Edgar Whitaker Work, chairman of the special committee of the local presbytery designated to deal with the Fosdick case. There was set forth the text of the decision of the judicial commission of the general assembly at Grand Rapids, Mich., last May 28; a formal notification Dr. Work sent Rev. Dr. Fosdick last September 1; and the pastor's reply, dated today.

In declining to become a Presbyterian, Rev. Dr. Fosdick wrote that he was not moved by denominational reasons, for he had no sectarian loyalties. He was convinced, however, that he would be guilty of "moral surrender" and a "violation of conscience" if he subscribed to the "confession of faith" after two years of vehement personal attack from a powerful section of the Presbyterian church.

For him to forsake the Baptist church for the Presbyterian would "encourage a return of denominational closed shop."

Although Dr. Fosdick declined to discuss his plans, it was the general belief among the members of the church on Fifth avenue who flocked to the meeting of the presbytery today, that he would continue to preach from the First Church pulpit until the report of November 10 was submitted.

LITTLE RAIN HERE.

Promised Storm Fails to Materialize Monday.

A dribble of rain that did little more than dampen the pavements was the best the city could get out of threatening clouds that rolled in early last night. It seemed at a time that a certain shower was imminent, but by midnight the stars were out again.

Reports from points north of here on the Denver indicated that a heavy rain had fallen there throughout the day. The storm, evidently, faded out before it got this far south.

DISPOSAL PLANT BROUGHT CLOSER BY CITY ACTION

Council Obligates Self to Try and Finance Sewage System.

$150,000 IS INVOLVED

New Move Probably is Forerunner of Big Disposal Plant.

Obliging itself to sell the necessary amount of bonds to cover all expenses, if it can be legally done, the city council last night took steps which, it is thought, virtually assures a new sewage disposal plant here in the near future. The sum of $150,000 was mentioned as the probable cost of the project.

A sewage disposal system for Wichita Falls has been prominently before officials for the past week following a visit here by State Sanitary Engineer Ehlers and an assistant, Mr. Whedby. The two men conducted an exhaustive examination of sewage conditions and pointed out a fact that has long been suspected—that the city sooner or later would have to put in an up-to-date disposal system for its wastage.

Complaints Come in.

Complains from communities between here and the Red diver brought the situation to head by calling attention of the state engineers to conditions created by emptying raw sewage into the Wichita river.

In considering the matter last night the council authorized Mayor Collier to obligate the city in the following agreements:

1. Select an engineer to make a preliminary report and estimate of the cost of a sewage disposal plant.

2. Sell a $150,000, or necessary amount, bond issue if it can be legally done.

3. If bonds cannot be voted and sold, issue warrants or certificates of indebtedness against earnings of the water and sewer funds.

Will Make It Pay.

4. If bond issue or warrant cannot be lawfully carried, no other bond issue will be submitted until that for sewage disposal is put through.

5. Continue to flush out Wichita river to alleviate situation as much as possible.

6. Investigate possibilities of using sewage on irrigation lands.

7. Will visit other disposal plants in the state to familiarize commissioners with the subject.

8. City engineer will gauge the sewage flow.

Unborn Babe Halts Trial For Murder

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 6.—The feeble flame of unborn life today saved Mrs. Annie Hauptrief from the ordeal of trial for her own life on charges of murder by poisonsing four of her young stepchildren.

The baby, which physicians predict will come as a Christmas present to her and to the invalid husband whom she also is charged with attempting to poison, interposed its faint strength against all the machinery of criminal prosecution with the result that the trial, which was started in the Hays county district court here this morning, ended abruptly with temporary postponement until next Monday.

Mrs. Hauptrief sat apparently unmoved through the proceedings.

Both the state and the defense today issued statements of the position that would be taken when the case came to trial.

SENATORS FACE UPHILL BATTLE; DROP THIRD 6-4

Nats Waver in Pinch and Giants Crash Through to Impressive Win.

ANOTHER THRILLER

Ninth Inning Rally Puts Game in Doubt and Crowd in Turmoil.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Out of one of the wildest baseball maelstroms that world series has ever witnessed, the New York Giants emerged victorious today over Washington in the third game and gained a commanding edge in the 1924 championship struggle.

Fought out on a new battlefield before the greatest crowd that ever flocked to the Polo grounds, lair of the four-time National league champions, the Giants won by a margin of 6 to 4, but the outcome was in doubt until the final play in the ninth inning, when the Senators were checked only by typically spectacular finishes.

Watson Halts Rally

Three runs behind, going into the ninth, after a luckless battle against heavy odds, the Senators scored one run and had the bases full with only one out when "long John" Watson, the third Giant pitcher of the inning, stopped the rally and saved the game for the McGraw men.

This was the climax to a game that, though sparkling at times with the most brilliant sort of play, was also largely of sandlot character, punctuated with loose work, missed opportunities and marked by the most ineffective exhibition of twirling any series contest has witnessed in years. In a parade of the wooden pitchers, four moundsmen were called into the hectic fray by each of the rival teams, while the rush of other reserves produced a total of 29 combatants before the smoke of the battle had cleared.

The Giants, leading from the start, but never out of danger, won because they were steadier, displayed the more effective punch when it was needed, and, at critical moments, put up a formidable defensive barrier in which Frank Frisch, playing one of the most spectacular games of his career, was the outstanding figure.

Senators Die Hard

The Senators fought gamely and they were always threatening, but the American champions played against heavy odds after losing the services of their veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, bulwark of the team's great infield and batting hero of yesterday's victory. Peckinpaugh, pulling a "Charley horse" in running out an infield grounder in the second inning was forced to retire and Washington's make-shift inner defense, after that was wobbly.

But Peck's mishap, which Manager Harris said tonight was not serious, and probably would not keep him out tomorrow, was only one of the several factors that produced the Senators downfall and damaged their prospects of gaining their first world championship. In the crisis the team's pitching staff collapsed, its attack fell down in the pinches and with two costly misplays, one by the usually reliable Harris and the other by Miller, substituting at third base for Bluege who had moved over to fill Peck's shoes at short, figured in the reversal.

50,000 See Game

The Senators fought their losing battle before a record breaking crowd of close to 50,000 that cheered them with enthusiasm scarcely less than that of the home crowd that saw the two opening games in Washington. The Giants, making their first appearance before the Metropolitan followers since the cloud of scandal enshrouded them, were noisely received by the crowd, which seemed to have largely forgotten the dark page in the closing chapter of the National league race, but the real acclaim was given the battling Senators.

In the fourth inning, when the Senators scored twice and pulled up to within one run of the Giants, the crowd called wildly for a further rally, which was checked, however, with the bases full. Again in the eighth when the visitors threatened to break through and in the ninth when they were stopped once more with the bases loaded, they were encouraged by exciting outbursts. It seemed to purge and possibly rattle the Giants—this unusual hometown demonstration, but they pulled themselves together in the face of it and won.

The size of the crowd, however, was full proof of the unusual interest that has been aroused by the fight between the Senators and Giants in spite of circumstances which it seemed at first might jeopardize the playing caliber of the championship. Officially, the paid attendance was 47,608, but several thousand more did not contribute to the gate receipts of $188,572.

The previous record attendance was 46,202, established in the fourth game of last year's world's series, when the receipts, $181,822, also set a high mark up to that time.

Frisch and Watson were the heros of the Giant triumph today but dramatic as was Watson's rescue feature in the ninth when a hit would have at least tied and possibly won the game for the Senators, the most spectacular role was enacted by the "Fordham Flash." Of three startling defensive plays Frisch pulled, all of them curiously enough, at the expense of "Goose" Goslin turned the Senators back when they were most dangerous. The first of these, and the most brilliant, came in the fourth inning when Frisch raced into centerfield and

President Open National Convention Monday at Washington.

IDEA WILL DEVELOPE

Believes Organization Is Destined to Show Growth in Future.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Thanking the American Red Cros for its accomplishments for "practical humanity and inspired charity," President Coolidge in an address opening the annual meeting of the society here today pleaded for a truly civilized world where the cost of armament, of pensions, of fortifications were not required to be borne."

"Where resources could be used," the president said, "to promote, not destroy happiness—in such a world what mighty works could be accomplished under the leadership of the Red Cross spirit. Poverty, ignorance, prejudice and all uncharitableness might be completely relieved and rendered."

Says We Make Progress

Toward such an ideal he declared the race is making progress. It will be achieved, he asserted, "not by some magic formula in some inspired moment," but because men and women were more and more demanding it.

In the Red Cross, he said, the nation has its opportunity "to capitalize and direct the finest, the most appealing attributes of our human nature—charity. It is a strong support, he said, of the government and a reliable guarantee of the progress of civilization, showing the way "to a more complete realization of truth and justice through mercy."

"Emphasizing its practical idealism," Mr. Coolidge recalled the accomplishments of the Red Cross in relieving the distress of a year ago from the earthquake in Japan.

Insures Relief

"The Red Cross," he continued, "had the organization estable of turning this great overflowing of the sympathy of the nation to the best account. It insured a maximum of relief at the minimum of outlay. The gratitude of a great nation disclosed in manifold form, more than repaid the splendid response of our people directed through this organization. Philosophers and historians may record this as marking a new era in the relationship between nations."

Describing the Red Cross as the only organization he knew which accomplished any good by "looking for trouble," the president declared it had a definite, comprehensive and practical program for helping those who need help "when they need it and where they need it."

No Creed, No Party.

"It knows no creed, no party, no classes or groups. It is proof that materialism is not the dominant motive of the people of the United States. The Red Cross idea will develop as mankind develops. The ideals underlying civilization are the ideals of brotherly love, of tolerance of kindliness, of charity. The beauty of life lies in meeting whatever destiny awaits us, thrusting one another, helping one another."

Mr. Coolidge welcomed the convention as the meeting of an organization "able to translate into results our deep regard for the interests of humanity."

SCIENCE BATTLES TO SAVE LIFE OF BABE DOOMED TO IDIOCY

Dr. Oscar A. Spier and Baby Friedman.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Discussion of the question of whether hopelessly deformed and demented babies should be allowed to live, has been revived by the case of Baby Friedman.

The child, definitely established as being of the mungoloid idiot type and incurably imbecile, first attracted attention when it was falsely reported to the district attorney that the attending physician, Dr. Oscar A. Spier, had ordered nurses to let the infant starve to death. It was found, to the contrary, that Dr. Spier was using, aided by specialists, every resource of science to save the child's life.

Considerable discussion of this subject was aroused nationally a few years ago when Chicago doctors proposed to allow a deformed baby to die.

The child had been removed from her mother's side to another hospital, as it was feared that her presence would be detrimental to the condition of her mother, Mrs. Walter Friedman, of the Bronx.

The child's life, says Dr. Spier will be definitely prolonged, but she will undoubtedly spend that at an institution for defectives.

Boyd Suggests Reorganization Of Game Department

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 6.—Reorganization of the state game, fish and oyster department by the legislature to provide for a board of five commissioners and a manager to be appointed by the commissioners is recommended in the annual report of Commissioner W. W. Boyd made public this week. The method is suggested to replace the present system of rotating heads and training inexperienced men with each administration, Mr. Boyd said.

"The commission can never function properly unless some such system is adopted," he continued. "Each member of the commission should be selected from a different section of the state, and would serve without pay except for expenses incurred when attending meetings. Two years are at present required to outline a policy and get it going, due to the vast area of the state and the time needed to familiarize one with the intricate work of conserving the wild life of Texas."

Enforcement Better

An epoch in game conservation is claimed in the report. After more than 60 years of game and fish legislation, last fall saw the beginning of the first real enforcement, due to the full use of the special game fund granted by the thirty-eighth legislature, Mr. Boyd said. Some 50 game wardens were placed in the most important game fields, and as a result of their activities, much game has been saved and the revenues from all sources greatly increased.

Fishing Licenses Suggested

"Sentiment is strong among sport fishermen that we should have a law requiring every person who fishes in a regular running stream or in any of the public waters of the state to have a fishing license, the revenue derived from such source to be devoted to the enforcement of the fishing laws and for the establishing of additional fish hatcheries for restocking lakes and streams."

The belief among the sport fishermen that commercial fishing is depleting the supply of fish on the Texas coast is not borne out by the records of the state game, fish and oyster department, according to Mr. Boyd's report. The production this year surpassed that of last year by 172,724 pounds. The total production for the year, 4,288,627 pounds, is 1,000,000 pounds more than for the year 1912, which was a representative year for that period, Mr. Boyd said.

The oyster output for this year, 88,514 barrels, is a little below the figure of 1912 but it is well ahead of most of the intervening years and is said to be a 24 per cent increase over last year's oyster production.

NEW MOUNTAIN TRAIL.

Hill Gives Country New Beauty Route in West.

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—A picturesque trail was hewed through Red Gap pass in Glacier National park and the way to a new scenic wonderland made accessible to the American tourists as the result of the "railroad engineering sense" coupled with the keen eyesight of Louis W. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern railway.

The old trail to Belly river was a long, hard one, winding around the mountains. Few cared to travel it. Mr. Hill, who probably more than any single individual has been instrumental in the establishment and development of Glacier park one day while mountain climbing, made the discovery of a possible route for a trail that would bring the "beauty spot just across the mountains" several miles nearer for the tourist.

U. S. Consul Obtains Liberation From Jail Cells.

By The Associated Press.

HONG KONG, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Harvey L. Decker, American wife of the manager of the Canton City Transportation company, was subjected to rough handling, jostling and jeering and finally to detention in a police station cell Saturday by a force of 20 armed and unarmed Chinese policemen of Canton, according to word received here today.

Mrs. Decker, who is in delicate health, had gone to the station in connection with a demand for payment of police tax alleged to be due from her husband on the ground that he is engaged in business in Canton. Mrs. Decker was arguing that she and her husband should be exempt from the tax because the Canton City Transportation company is a foreign corporation, when a revolver was thrust against her side, she was dragged out of her motor car and carried into a barred cell.

Mrs. Decker endeavored to communicate with the American consul general but was prevented by police officials, until nearly two hours when her husband was informed and invoked the assistance of the consul, who obtained her release.

MORE CONGOLEUM RECEIVED.

Heavy Shipments Brought Into Wichita Falls Last Week.

During the past two weeks more Gold-Seal congoleum has been shipped into Wichita Falls than is normally received in two months.

Local stores are putting in extra heavy stocks so that they will be able to fill orders of all customers wishing to take advantage of the reduced prices effective from October 6th to October 11th.

As these prices hold only for a week merchants recommend that purchases be made as early as possible so that buyers will have a complete range of patterns and sizes from which to make their selections.

When a similar sale was held several years ago many of the most popular patterns and sizes were exhausted three days after the sale began.

Congoleum week will not be restricted alone to Wichita Falls as merchants in literally every town, city and village in the nation will join with the congoleum company in offering American housewives this popular floor-covering at less than list prices.

England Seeks To Recover Holy Well

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A quest for a holy well, which dates back to the very beginning of Christianity, is shortly to be undertaken in the middle of the famous Strand, the thoroughfare which unites Charing Cross to the ancient city of London.

This holy well of St. Clement was closed over many years ago, but its exact location just behind St. Clement Danes church, the familiar Wren structure which occupies an island site in the Strand opposite the Law Courts, is clearly indicated by an inscribed tablet. The office of works has given the necessary permission to excavate to the church authorities who, two years ago, succeeded in having thrown open to the public the ancient Roman bath, nearby, which visitors may now see in exactly the same form in which its builders left it 2,000 years ago.

History makes frequent mention of St. Clement's well, which played an important part in early Saxon and mediaeval English Christianity. Its uncovering will have a great antiquarian and archaeological interest to many who do not care a fig about its spiritual significance, although tradition has it that the waters of St. Clement's well were specially efficacious in the cure of skin diseases.

KIWANIS HEARS REPORT

Detailed Account of Everything Done This Year Given By Queisser.

A detailed report of the actual work done by Kiwanians in the past two years in the way of charities, civic improvement and organization activities was read before the Kiwanis club at the regular weekly meeting Monday noon at the Kemp, by Frank Queisser, secretary.

Further reports of the club will be made next Monday and the whole will be published in the near future according to a vote of club members, it was announced.

The meeting was presided over by Rev. Fred T. Datson, president, who introduced Dr. Felix Collard chairman of the educational committee and requested him to instruct Kiwanians as to the many activities of the club with which all members were not wholly acquainted. Dr. Collard then requested the secretary, Mr. Queisser, to read the report, following which, two enjoyable violin duets were given by Paul Rutledge and Mrs. Joe Crouch with Miss Katherine Kilander at the piano. After hearty applause, the entertainers responded with the ever popular "Sextette from Lucia."

Butte Rally At Clarendon Draws Out Early Crowd

Republican Nominee Talks to Sunrise Gathering Monday Morning.

LARGEST THIS YEAR

Randall County Voters Out in Force to See G. O. P. Aspirant.

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Oct. 6.—A sunrise political meeting was held at Clarendon at 7:45 o'clock this morning for George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor, and over 200 persons, including many women, went through the rain to a downtown picture theatre where the candidate spoke. County Judge-elect Ralph Porter and District Attorney Charles Dean were leaders in arranging the meeting. Col. T. S. Bugbee introduced Butte.

It was declared to be the largest political meeting held in Clarendon throughout the campaign, and the republican candidate was given the most enthusiastic applause of any speech he has made. The candidate was handed a telegram signed by citizens of Miami, Texas, saying "we are eighty-five per cent for you."

The primary pledge he told his hearers, is a type of contract between the party and voters, and before a voter can be morally bound by it, the party must fulfill its obligation of giving him a democrat for a nominee. Jim Ferguson, he said, tore the party pledge to tatters two years ago, and by his election now the constitution of Texas which Ferguson evaded in getting his wife's name on the ticket, would be "trampled."

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 6. — A bonus system to encourage the increase in the number of children in professional men's families and a reduction in salary for all bachelors is the solution offered by Professor William MacDougall of the psychology department at Harvard university to maintain the percentage of the highest intellectual types in the community which he says is actually being filled up from the lowest types of force of economic conditions.

PEOPLE WHO WERE ONCE GOOD LOOKING

A heartrending and yet interesting thing happened in a downtown store when a middle-aged lady got into a loud argument with a clerk. "I know what I want," she kept saying. "I have tried all those other things, but I know from what I saw it do for some friends of mine that it is Black and White Ointment which gets rid of those pimples and blotches. I was just as pretty as any girl when I was young, but I got careless and now I am in the fix you see."

So many people are now insisting on Black and White Ointment, and Black and White Soap, to get rid of pimples, blotches, eczema, rash, tetter, ringworm, "breaking out," etc., because they see and hear of the thousands of others who now know they can depend upon it. And they are more economical, too. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and Soap.—Adv.

Irrigation

By A. M. McPHERSON

HARDWATER

The hardness of water is caused by various compounds which have been dissolved in the water. When it rains the water which falls immediately begins to dissolve out certain impurities from the soil or rocks over which it may flow or pass through.

Limestone, gypsum and substances containing magnesium are what cause hard water.

Salt and the various alkalis do not cause hard water in the ordinary accepted sense.

People generally speak of water being hard when they have difficulty in making a lather with soap. In other words, if soap does not dissolve readily in water it is called hard.

Hard water is often classed as being temporarily hard or permanently hard. By temporary hardness is meant that the water can be rendered soft by boiling, but if boiling does not make it soft then it is said to be permanently hard.

Temporary hardness is caused principally by the water carrying limestone in solution. Boiling causes limestone to be precipitated.

Permanent hardness is largely caused by water carrying in solution a form of lime called gypsum. Gypsum is only slightly precipitated by boiling.

Various chemical treatments have been devised which render hard water soft. There are some very large softening plants in various parts of the country.

From the standpoint of irrigation hard water is very desirable. The harder the water the better for the soil.

THIS BRIGHT BABY GIRL

Brought Joy to Home. Mrs. Price's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scootac, Pa.—"I never felt like working, and when I would try to do any work standing on my feet, I would just drag around all day long. At times I would have terrible pains and would be in bed three or four days. I was in this condition about a year when I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers. I had heard different women say it was good for women's troubles, and my aunt thought it would help me as it had helped her. So I took the Vegetable Compound and it brought things right, and I was in good shape before I became a mother again. I believe it helps at birth, too, as with both my other babies I suffered a great deal more than with this one. I thank you a thousand times for the good your medicine has done me." —Mrs. ROBERT PRICE, Scootac, via Lockhaven, Pa.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use.

Texas Pays Big Freight Bill To Haul Dirty Wool

Need Scouring Plants in State to Clean it for Shipment.

ONE HALF IS GREASE

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—Freight on millions of pounds of grease, dirt and other wastage from wool is paid yearly by Texas shippers because of the lack of any wool scouring plants in this state, Charles E. Baughman, state market and warehouse commissioner, declared today in announcing a conference to consider this matter.

The greatest wool producing state in the Union, which can boast of one city that is the world's largest primary mohair market, has no means of cleaning the wool to make it marketable, Mr. Baughman said.

20 Million Pounds

Texas last year produced a little less than 20,000,000 pounds of wool. About half of this weight, it is estimated, was grease and dirt, which must be extracted before the wool is ready for the manufacturer. "Scouring" is a process by which this dirt and grease is washed from the wool. The dirt, of course, is waste, but the grease can be used in the manufacture of soap. Mr. Baughman estimates that almost 10,000,000 pounds of this by-product goes East to the Atlantic coast markets, principally Boston, and that the Texas growers have to stand the freight bill.

The freight rate on scoured wool is higher than on raw wool, but the reduced weight and space after scouring is said to more than make up for the additional freight rate and the grease made into soap is an added profit.

Interest in Cotton

The great interest in cotton here overshadows other industries, of which wool is one of the most important, statistics disclose. Kerrville, for instance, ships 6,000,000 pounds a year, and that city is said to be the largest primary wool and mohair market in the United States. In the shipment of wool it is said no other city equals Kerrville in volume. Del Rio, Brownwood, Brady, San Angelo and Llano are other large wool centers. With the breaking up of the large cattle ranches in West Texas, it is reported that cattle men are turning to sheep raising.

STRUGGLE FOR BIRD LAW

Texas Seeks for 50 Years to Obtain Protection For Warblers.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—Texas has struggled 50 years to grow a bird law that would protect all song birds, J. G. Burr of the Game, Fish and Oyster department declared here today.

"Quail got the first protection 65 years ago on Galveston Island," he said. "Forty-five years ago a large part of the state had a law protecting song birds, and this protection was extended over a large territory 20 years ago when the farmer found that birds destroy harmful insects. And five years ago bird protection became effective in every county in the state. Whether this fuller protection was granted because birds sing, was not indicated by the practical minded projectors of the law.

"But for the abominable diet of the bird, such as worms, spiders, wasps, grasshoppers and boll weevil, it is doubtful if their aesthetic side—their song—would have been recognized except as a by-product, for 100 years to come.

SCHOOL SAVES THE GIRL

Training School Eager to Prevent Juvenile Delinquency.

By The Associated Press.

GAINESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 6.—Saving the girl who is in "danger of falling into habits of delinquency" as well as those who have already fallen, is now the mission of the State Girls' Training School here, Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, superintendent, explained today in clearing away some misunderstandings about the school. She appealed for the cooperation of citizens to send girls who are in danger of becoming delinquent, before it is too late.

The law in Texas at present unhappily puts proceedings in juvenile cases on the basis of a criminal procedure, Dr. Smith said. It would be far better for such cases to be handled by school authorities and without publicity for the unfortunate girl, she said. Dr. Smith explained how girls are sent to the school and what type the law provides shall have advantage of the school's training.

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6. — The state board of health will cooperate with the Waco health department in an elaborate health exhibit planned by that city for the Cotton Palace exposition, according to announcement today by Dr. Malone Duggan, state health officer.

The exhibit, it has been announced, will include displays illustrating fly and mosquito control; meat, food and dairy inspection; and a working model of the new sewage disposal plant that Waco is planning to build. Moving pictures on health subjects which will be shown daily will be an added attraction to the exhibit, according to Dr. Duggan.

Radio Retains Its Popularity

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 6. — After a popular reign of more than three years, radio continues to command the interest of the public, say officials of the larger radio casting stations of Texas.

"Do you have any trouble in getting material for your programs?" was the question propounded to W. E. Branch, program director of Station WBAP of the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

"No trouble at all," was the enthusiastic reply, and here is Mr. Branch's explanation.

"Station WBAP has never paid for any of its entertaining talent and never expects to; yet, we have no trouble in getting more than enough people to make our programs complete.

"I sometimes believe that it is the southern hospitality so universally recognized that is manifesting itself in the enthusiasm and cooperation of the entertainers and speakers that make our station a success. The people of Fort Worth and surrounding towns are only too glad to give of their time and their best talents for the entertainment and pleasure of the radio audience, phantom in makeup, mythical in size, yet positive in its applause and appreciation."

"Fool Desire" Is Dickson's Excuse For His Law Suit

Attorney Start Attack on Fergusons to See What Would Happen.

SAYS IT'S A SERVICE

Is Third Time He Has Taken Up Cudgel in State Issues.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—The purpose of Charles M. Dickson, a young attorney of San Antonio, in bringing suit to disqualify the gubernatorial nominee of the dominant party in Texas, was simply to discover what the law is on woman's right to hold office, Mr. Dickson explained today.

For the first time he made public his reasons for instituting the injunction proceedings which resulted last Monday in an opinion by District Judge George C. Calhoun holding in favor of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, the democratic nominee for governor. The case comes before the Court of Civil Appeals on appeal this coming week. This is the third time he has brought suit affecting the entire state.

Will Help, Anyhow

Beyond "a fool desire" to aid the "dear people," as he expressed it, Dickson believes that his law suit, even if it finally goes against him, will be a service not only to the state but to every woman office holder, present and prospective. It will settle the law so there will be no doubt about it in the future, he said.

Mr. Dickson is 37 years old, married and has two children. He was graduated from Southwestern University and his law school was the office in which he is now practicing law.

This is the third time since he began the practice of law in 1911 that Mr. Dickson on his own responsibility and at his own expense, has started a suit to interpret some general state law. In 1915 he instituted proceedings which resulted in the present standard fire insurance policy used by the state fire insurance commission. Believing that the old policy, which had been adopted by the commissions, and finding that it was working hardships on some persons, he brought a suit on which the courts knocked out nine provisions of the old policy and compelled that it be rewritten. In 1919 he began legal proceedings to determine whether former service men who had not paid their poll tax could vote, which resulted in establishing the right of soldiers to vote who, while on foreign service had not paid their poll tax.

COLLEGE CLASSES CROWDED

Record of 957 Students Set At West Texas School

Special to The Record News.

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 6.—With a record enrollment of 957 students, the West Texas State Teachers college authorities find many of their classes overflowing. The departments of English and mathematics are larger than ever before.

So many students wished to enroll for manual training work that all of them could not be accommodated at the beginning of the college year. Eighty-eight students are enrolled in this department.

The departments of music, expression and education are so full that it is difficult for registrar D. A. Shirley to find rooms in which they can hold their classes.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Canyon Boy Upsets Car Twice; But He Escapes Uninjured.

Special to The Record News.

CANYON, Texas, Oct. 6.—Calvin Myers of this city seems to think that turning his father's Ford over is merely an incident of the day. Friday, while driving rapidly he struck a pocket of soft dirt, the car turned over twice, leaving him beneath it, but uninjured. Road workers righted the car and he drove into town. Monday he again started for town and while coming down hill locked the brakes, the car again overturned and Calvin landed on his feet, clear of the car. In the accidents only the windshield and the top of the car were broken.

New Criminal Law Ideas Introduced In Hauptrief Case

SAN MARCOS, Texas, Oct. 6.—Psychology and psycho-analysis and all the other new ideas recently introduced into modern criminal law, may be used to assist in explaining the strange plight of Mrs. Annie Hauptrief, who is charged with murdering her four stepchildren.

Her trial started Monday. Her brother, Richard Schulze, is a co-defendant. Besides the charges of poisoning the four children they are also charged with the attempted muder of the woman's husband, William Hauptrief.

Makes No Explanations

Silently, Mrs. Hauptrief has sat in the county jail here for months, uncomplaining. She is said to have confessed to Sheriff George M. Allen of Hays county last summer that she administered poison to the four children and to her husband, but beyond that she did not go. The reason for the crimes with which the woman and her brother are charged are still shrouded in mystery and silence.

The case has another unusual angle in the disappearance of Mrs. Hauptrief's attorney, Judge J. F. Carl of San Antonio. Judge Carl arranged for bail for the woman and her brother last July. Some weeks later it was reported that he had been drowned in Lake Austin near Austin. His clothing was found on the banks of the lake early one morning. After a brief investigation the police authorities and state rangers dropped the case with the announcement that Judge Carl had voluntarily disappeared and had not been drowned. Since then, another attorney has been retained for Mrs. Hauptrief.

State to Prosecute

State authorities, among them W. W. Battle, until recently state chemist will testify in the case. Mr. Battle made a chemical analysis of the stomachs of the Hauptrief children after their bodies had been exhumed. He has made a sealed report to the district attorney, Fred Blundell, who will prosecute the case. What he found has never been publicly disclosed.

Three of the Hauptrief children died within a month, the first death occurring April 8, 1923. The last of the four died in the following November. The incident that brought to light the sudden death of the children was the illness of their father, William Hauptrief.

Various Countries Use Different System of Using Telephones

What do people say in various lands when they answer the ring of their telephone?

In England it is: "Are you there?"

In France: "Allo."

Stockyard Traders Must Have Bonds To Cover Dealings

By Bascom N. Timmons
Record News Staff

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—A new regulation, effective November 1, is announced by the secretary of agriculture under which bonds will be required to cover the business transactions of commission men, traders, packer buyers and other dealers at Fort Worth and all other public stockyard markets. Heretofore commission men only have been required to be bonded and it has been urged that transactions of other classes of business agencies in the same markets should also be covered by bond.

Authorized By Bill

Authority to make such a requirement was granted to the secretary of agriculture in the last agricultural appropriation bill, and the new bonding requirement is in the form of an amendment to the existing regulations under the Packs and Stockyards Act.

The bonds now to be required of all market agencies and dealers buying or selling livestock at public stockyards markets are to range in amount from a minimum of $1,000 to a maximum of $50,000, according to the volume of business handled, plus 10 per cent of the amount of the business over $50,000. The amounts are to be determined either by the largest amount of sales or purchases, or both combined, on any one business day in the preceding twelve months or by the averag of such transactions for two business days based on the total number of business days and the total transactions in the preceding twelve months, as the market agency or dealer may elect.

The regulation also provides that when two or more dealers are the employees or agents solely of the same principal they shall be covered by a single bond based on their total business. This permits all the business transactions in the public stockyard markets of any packer to be covered by one bond.

COMING DOWN THE HOME STRETCH

And now the idea of November are in sight. And now the heavy cannonading of the campaign has begun, and the big Berthas of all the political factions will shell the brushwood and the thicket for votes until the November election day.

Wall Street is betting three to one that Calvin Coolidge will be the winner. Wall Street is betting seven to five that Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York will be his own successor.

As for the national chairmen of the three big organizations, Shaver of West Virginia, predicts that Davis will take down the prize; Butler of Massachusetts that Coolidge will remain at the White House for another four years, and Nelson of Wisconsin that LaFollette will either win or throw the election in the house.

Mark Sullivan who is a republican, dyed in the wool, predicts that if the election were held today all the Germanic voters in America would vote for LaFollette but the republicans hope to head this off before election day by convincing the aforesaid voters of Germanic origin that Coolidge is the only man who can save the private or parochial schools of the Lutherans and Catholics. Mark has made another discovery—that citizens of Germanic origin are either Lutherans or Catholics and the way to take them away from LaFollette is to convince them that the republicans will preserve the supreme court intact—as it has been for one hundred and forty-eight years.

David Lawrence is a republican. David has made the discovery that John W. Davis is running third wherever David has traveled since the beginning of the campaign, but this may change before the coming of election day. Davis may pass LaFollette and come in plain view of Coolidge, just after Coolidge has made a landing.

Arthur Brisbane is the highest priced editorial writer in the world. He is the editor of the Hearst newspapers. In every issue of the Hearst combination writer Brisbane tells of the glories of LaFollette, his achievements as a statesman, his love for the down-trodden people and he also tells his readers of the curse of great wealth accumulated by the few. Regardless of this writer Brisbane is going to cast his ballot for Coolidge and Dawes.

This is a remarkable campaign. All the publicity strategists who are newspaper correspondents and all the republican campaign managers since the campaign began, have been telling the people that Coolidge is running first, LaFollette second and Davis third. "You pay your money and you takes your choice."

It will be recalled that Mark Sullivan, David Lawrence and Arthur Brisbane are ardent admirers of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and the strong right arm of the Coolidge administration. It will be recalled that the Mellon plan of taxation appealed to these gentlemen and they placed Mellon in the niche of fame as the second Alexander Hamilton of American history.

October is here. All the republican managers are claiming a walkover; all the democratic managers are claiming the cause of Davis growing brighter every day; all the LaFollette managers and fighting Bob himself predict a landslide for the Wisconsin senator and his Montana running mate.

There isn't going to be any landslide away from Davis in the solid south section. There may be a landslide away from Coolidge in the wheat growing states and Kansas and Nebraska. There isn't going to be a landslide from Coolidge to Davis or LaFollette in the New England states.

Davis is going to make his great fight in New York and New Jersey. He has been given assurances that Maryland and Delaware and West Virginia and Missouri and Oklahoma are certain to elect the democratic electoral ticket.

It it is possible for the democrats to capture New York and New Jersey their leaders feel that they will place Davis and Bryan in the White House. New York is to be the eastern battle ground. Forty of the best known leaders and speakers of the republican party headed by Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes are going to invade the state this month and the practical politicians of the party are going to take the state from Sandy Hook to Lake Erie for votes for the republican nominees.

Wall Street is betting three to one on Calvin Coolidge in the early days of October. Now who will be the favorite and what will be the betting odds in the early days of November?

SIDE LIGHTS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Political bosses and political managers are ever in evidence. There are times when they play the people for fools. Practical politicians are made in the same mould. They may carry different brands but they are very much alike when it comes to playing the game.

New York democrats nominated Alfred E. Smith for a fourth time. Smith is looked upon as the most remarkable vote getter the empire state of the east has ever known. When the republicans realized that Smith was to be the democratic nominee they tossed all the baggage overboard, drowned the Ku Klux Klan over the protests of their up state leaders and nominated Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for governor.

They nominated a notoriously wet republican on a dry platform pledged to law enforcement. Colonel Roosevelt is the thorn in the side of the ultra dry republicans of New York. He has been dunned by the anti-Saloon League leaders including the famous Dr. William H. Anderson, now doing time at Sing Sing for forgery.

Now this wet colonel, the son of a great father has declared for drastic law enforcement of the prohibition acts when all who read and think in the state of New York are aware that he looks upon prohibition as an invasion of the personal liberty of the citizen, enforcement a farce and hope for the coming of moisture of a liquid sort carrying a kick everywhere under the flag.

New York democrats are bold and in the open. Their platform calls for a modification of the Volstead act. They are not hypocrits. They are for moisture and publicly announce the fact. But the wet colonel, son of a great father, has thorns in his pathway. Now the republican head of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of New York has declared in the public prints that Col. Roosevelt will not do, that the fifty thousand members of her venerable organization will not support him and that the republican leaders insulted the prohibition republicans of the state when they nominated the wet colonel for high office.

This makes it interesting all around. Governor Smith is for modification. Colonel Roosevelt personally is as wet as the Atlantic ocean and politically for drastic law enforcement; Rev. Dr. Thomas, the nominee of the socialists for governor is for all the LaFollette demands, and all the world knows that Wisconsin is the wettest of American states and that the Musselini of the Badger country is personally dry and has been politically wet throughout his career.

When it comes to practical politics the political managers of the empire state of the east are amazing players. Barnum said that the people liked to be fooled. Was the Yankee showman right?

The things one stands for are called convictions; the things one falls for are called fingers.

Psychology: The rich man grew thin and smiled; the poor man grew thin and cursed.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

ATTEMPTING THE IMPOSSIBLE

So wild, of late, have girls become,
In fashion's smartest sets,
So free with Scotch and golf and rum,
And endless cigarettes,
That careful mothers, in affright,
Have vowed, in quavering tones,
That girls must not go out at night
Except with chaperones.

In Queen Victoria's proper day
A girl observed this rule,
O'er them the chaperons held sway,
When they were not in school.
One look, the least bit undemure,
One brow, too archly bent,
And lo! the erring maid was sure
Of drastic punishment.

But those were days when every dame
Of thirty-five or past,
Regarded smoking as a shame,
And looked on gin aghast.
At least two feet below the knee
Their modest garments hung,
So they were fully fit to be
Examples for the young.

Today the dames of every age
No more are meek and mild,
But all with eagerness engage
In pastimes rough and wild.
So mothers best had be resigned;
They may, from none to none,
Page all the world, and never find
One good safe chaperone!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

LIBRA.

Today's planetary aspects are very serene, and although they do not appear to be exceptionally propitious for either commercial or artistic efforts, they distinctly favor social functions, and home or domestic affairs. They very clearly indicate that a marriage will yield happy and enduring results, without very much change of the aftermath which attends too many of these great adventures. They also portend the ending that you desire to a courtship, and you need fear no untoward results if you put your Fate to the test. They also favor domestic felicity, and a desire to "let all bygones be bygones."

A child born today will, given good living conditions, enjoy normal health, and possess a good and vigorous constitution. Its character will be generous and strong, its disposition amenable to good influence, its mentality up to the average. This child, in its attitude toward others, will always be kind and forbearing, and it will have sufficient determination to avoid pitfalls and snares. It will excel more in outdoor, than indoor life, and contact with nature will broaden its temperament.

If today is your birthday, you seem at times ashamed of your remarkably good traits, and endeavor by an air of bonhomous and discourtesy to hide them from the world. This attitude does you great harm among those who do not know you intimately, and even places a strain on those who love and respect you. They are hard put to it to discover or create excuses for your acts or your speech, and they can never understand why you do not respect the assertion of life, and show everyone that you are alive to the necessity of being kind and courteous at all times.

If you have a clean body, nothing is gained by donning dirty clothes to hide your cleanliness; in the same way, you are kindhearted and thoughtful of others, and you gain nothing by wearing an attitude of indifference or unkindness in order to hide these virtues of which you should be proud. It is not a sign of weakness to be generous or forbearing; it is a sign of weakness to be ashamed to demonstrate these feelings, and to hide your light under a bushel.

THE MOTHER'S PART.

A mother plays such a big part in a young girl's life. On her depends the kind of light that comes from her daughter's eyes—the kind of music that comes from her voice—and the kind of laughter that comes from her lips.

This sounds as if I am putting a great responsibility on the mothers—but the moral obligation is theirs and they must face facts.

The mother's first duty to her daughter is to make the home happy and attractive, so the girl will want to stay in it.

The next is, not to criticize her daughter's friends, but to let her invite them to her home so the mother can see the kind of company she keeps. Then tactfully she can open her daughter's eyes to the undesirable ones, if there are any, and weed them out by suggesting nice, attractive girls and boys to take their places.

The mother should try to manage the family income so the daughter can have attractive clothes, and new ones occasionally.

I had such a lovely letter from a girl the other day who wrote that her mother was a good manager, and she was able to have pretty dresses.

Clothes mean so much in the life and happiness of a girl that every mother should consider the matter seriously and do the very best she can to keep her daughter well dressed.

She will have her reward—for no girl would be disrespectful or unladylike to a thoughtful and unselfish mother.

OH, YOU ROBBER!

By JEROME BEATTY

McGraw and his hired men were so insulting that Tim felt it necessary to clear the home bench, and 12 Giants, lockstepping their way across the field to show their derision, were sent to sit on the sunny side of the fence in right field. McGraw, ordered to disperse, withdrew to the little batroom at the end of the bench and watched the remainder of the game by peeping furtively out of the tiny door.

The jeers didn't disturb him. He was in love and heard them not.

McGraw, of course, didn't realize this. However, even had he been conversant with all the facts he might not have withheld his vociferous complaint when Tim called a Chicago base runner safe after even the man sitting atop the semaphore over near the elevated station could see that a quick throw from Snyder to Kelly had caught the runner off the base by three yards.

That evening Benny spoke with Nettie. After hearing her purple comments upon the quality of Tim's umpiring that afternoon, Benny hurried to find Tim and advise him to buy his cigars outside the hotel until further notice.

"In spite of everything," Benny consoled Tim, "you'll get her yet. But keep away from her now."

Such is the make-up of an umpire that he never lets himself suspect he has erred. It's too dangerous a precedent. And it is bad form for one umpire to speak of another's mistake. So Benny refrained from explaining the true situation.

Baseball players delight in picking each other to pieces, but umpires—together they stand for a lot of things few but umpires would stand for.

"Why keep away from her?" Tim asked innocently. "You pan me for that I-don't-care-stuff I did and now you won't let me try to fix it."

"Didn't I tell you she was a bug about the Giants—and that umpires were touchy subjects with her? Well, the Giants lost this afternoon."

"So? I thought probably they did," he said innocently. It was not extraordinary, this ignorance. Umpires often work through games and at the end are in doubt as to which club won. "She still has the idea that we're to blame for the Giants' slump? She's crazy, Benny. I'm going right down and see if I can't square it with her."

"You won't do anything of the kind. We're goin' to be here for 10 days, and there's plenty of time. Tonight we're going to a vaudeville show."

They sat in their seats until the trained monkeys had finished their last trick and fled into the open air only when the news weekly began to show the latest hats from Paris. Benny returned to the hotel. Tim thought he would walk around a bit.

It was long after midnight when he finally decided to turn in. He was fitting the key into the door of his room when he heard a woman scream. Someone was running toward him. He stood at the junction of four long corridors. In the dim light he saw a man swing around the corner. Tim leaped toward him.

"Get the robber!" the man yelled in a high, piercing voice. "Which way did h go?"

"I dunno," said Tim.

"You go that way and I'll go this," said the man, dashing down one of the halls, at the end of which a red light indicated a fire escape.

The man's directions were indefinite, so Tim run toward the source of the screams. The corridors were beginning to fill with half-dressed, excited guests. The door of a nearby room was flung open and a beautiful young woman in a nightgown burst out.

"A man! A man!" she cried. "He took my jewels!"

Roger Miller, the house detective, sleepy-eyed, pushed his way through the crowd.

"Which way did he go?" he asked.

Nobody seemed to know. Miller started down the hall toward the red light.

"He didn't get out there," Tim said. "A man's guarding that. He must have gone the other way."

"Who's guarding what?" Miller demanded. "This is the only fire escape he could reach without going through somebody's room."

The crowd followed him to the end of the hall. No man was there.

Tim was astonished.

"A man was chasing the thief," he explained. "He told me to go the other way and he would watch here."

The detectives for a moment was speechless. Then he burst out:

"That man was the burglar," he roared. "You had him in your hands and you let him go."

The woman who had been robbed stepped forward. She peered into Tim's face.

"He let him go?" she exclaimed. "I don't believe it." She shook her finger in Tim's blank face. "Seach this man. He looks like the thief.

An hour later Tim dropped thankfully into his bed. Dragged from their sleep by the commotion, Benny, the hotel manager and the day clerk had established in the mind of the excited woman the undoubted honesty of Tim Patterson.

Benny had informed her that the man she accused was a "professional arbiter" and she quickly apologized. Roger Miller dressed and set out to look for the thief.

Tim and Benny rose rather early the next day.

"I looked like a sucker last night," Tim muttered to Benny at breakfast. "I had that guy and let him go."

Benny agreed that the situation was most unfortunate.

"If you'd caught him you'd have shown up that detective," he mused. "Woulda made you strong with Nettie."

"I'd like to catch him," Tim wished. "I'd like to run onto him on the street and grab him and take him to the police station."

"Did you see what he looks like?"

Tim couldn't say that he did. Both admitted that therefore conditions were rather unfavorable for any heroic detective work on Tim's part.

Tim worked behind the bat in the morning game. Benny was on the bases. The crowd was large, for a battle between the Cubs and Giants always is worth while.

The game went into the ninth with the score 2 to 1 in favor of the Giants. With Adams on second, Heathcote came up, pining for a hit that would tie the score and put the Cubs back in the running.

Nehf slipped a fast one over the inside corner of the plate.

"Str-ik tuh!" cried Tim.

"Gimme a chance," Heathcote growled to Tim. "That was 'way inside."

"Str-ik tuh!" yell Tim, for Nehf had shoved over another while Heathcote was arguing.

"You're a hot umpire," sneered Heathcote, keeping his face toward the pitcher, however.

Heathcote did swing at the next one, whanging a sharp single to left. Adams rounded third and tried to score on the hit. Meusel with a great throw to Snyder, nipped Adams by inches.

"Yuh reet!" cried Tim, with a hoot of his right arm.

The Giant fans whooped it up as several Cub players surrounded Tim. Grimes came running toward Tim from the third base coaching line.

"What did you call that?" he yelled, scandalized, as if he could not believe his ears.

Tim walked quickly down to meet him, swinging his mask in his right hand.

"You heard me, Mr. Grimes. Ask another question and out you go."

"You're a swell umpire," snarled Mr. Grimes. "Scared of McGraw, I guess. Afraid he'll get your job."

"Beat it, Mr. Grimes!" said Tim decisively.

PANTOMIME BY J. H. STRIEBEL

HOW IT STARTED

"Rolly-Poly"

For the first time this summer, in a country hotel, I ate the delicious old confection called raspberry rolly-poly and learned the origin of this term supplied by amiable tormentors to people who may be described as plump or fat.

The original rolly-poly is a cake or pudding which is spread with fruit, rolled into the well-known form of a "jelly roll," and so baked, or steamed, if it is of pudding consistency.

Literally the word means a little fine flour (poly being a derivative of the Latin "pollen," from which we have our "pollen," or "dust" of flowers, which is rolled into a little cake).

It should be said that we intend nothing unedifying to the fat boy—but the truth must be told!

Women Secretaries, the "Daytime Wives" of Their Employers—Are Early Marriages a Mistake?—Would it be Wise to Continue Her Friendship With a Japanese Girl?

DEAR MISS DIX—My employer is a splendid young man with a wife who doesn't deserve the kindness he heaps upon her. She spends most of her time at clubs and in her automobile, and does little else but waste his money and have a good time.

Don't you think that the girl who serves a man faithfully as his stenographer or secretary, who works for him eight hours a day, is doing him more downright good in many instances than his wife who spends his money, instead of helping him to make it?

I consider myself, for instance, a really vital asset to my boss in his struggle to get ahead. The word "wife" in its true sense means helpmate. Therefore we girls who help our employers are often really more their wives—that is, helpmates—than the women to whom they are married.

BERTHA.

Answer: Undoubtedly you are right, Bertha, and in that lies the danger of the relationship between a man and his woman secretary. It is a situation compounded of all sorts of sentimental fire hazards—propinquity, mutual helpfulness and dependence, understanding, sympathy and the same interest and aim and ambition.

Every efficient private secretary knows ten times as much about a man as his wife will ever find out. At home to his wife, he is just the children's father and the bill payer, and a man who generally has to be cajoled into going out of an evening. His wife doesn't know anything about his business. She doesn't know what his aspirations are. She even knows only of his successes or failures in a vague way. And she is generally not much interested in any of these things except in so far as they bring in more money.

But the secretary is in the thick of the fight with the man. She stands shoulder to shoulder with him in the struggle, and if he is victorious it is largely through her help. She knows what the odds were against him; how plucky the fight he put up, and how clever the strategy by which he outwitted his foes. So it is no wonder that the man turns to her, rather than to his wife, for sympathy and comprehension.

And on her part, the woman gives of her ability and service without stint. She becomes a blind partisan. She makes a hero of her employer and only too often she finds herself caring too greatly for the man who belongs to another woman.

For that spells misery for all three of them, the man, the wife and herself.

As to a woman's helping a man, that is a curious problem, Bertha, and there are many angles to it. Undoubtedly, you help your employer by giving him efficient service and bearing part of his load for him. Perhaps his butterfly wife helps him too, just by being a butterfly. You never can tell.

Just as the tired business man prefers idiotic musical comedy to Shakespeare, so many men find rest and relaxation in playing with doll-baby women when they are not at work. They want frills and frivols, instead of helpmates. And many an extravagant wife drives a man into being a money-getter who ends up as a millionaire.

Men are strange creatures, Bertha. No woman can guess the answer to one of them. But don't let yourself get to pitying your employer because he hasn't got a helpful wife. He may not prefer that kind. There is nothing in this daytime wife fallacy except sorrow for the girl who puts her faith in it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of early marriages? Should a girl tell the young man she goes with all her family affairs?

QUESTIONER.

Answer:

I think that early marriages are almost invariably a mistake. Accidents will happen, and occasionally when a boy and girl get married they grow up together and continue to love each other, and live in peace and happiness, but this rarely happens. Generally, when two undeveloped youngsters get married, they grow away from each other instead of together. One stays put and the other goes on, and by the time they reach man's and woman's estate, they have nothing in common but the chain that binds them together, and which they hate.

Marriage is a serious business for grownups, not a lark for children. It takes a stiff neck to bear the yoke of wedlock without breaking under its weight, and this no boy or girl possesses.

So I advise you not to marry until you have come to yourself, until your tastes are formed and you know what sort of a life partner you really want; not to marry until you have had your playtime and are ready to settle down; not to marry until you have enough income upon which to live.

The love that won't stand the wailing test during an engagement would melt away like ice in the sun before the trials and tribulations of matrimony.

Certainly a girl shouldn't blab her family secrets to any stranger. It is most dishonorable for her to do so. She is betraying her own blood. She is broadcasting things that should never be told. What a girl's father and mother and sisters and brothers do does not concern her best beau.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been associating with a Japanese girl who is wealthy and highly educated. I like her very much. Do you think it will hurt me to continue our friendship?

UNKNOWN.

Answer:

On the contrary, I think it a very great privilege for you to have such a friend, and that almost every American girl could be greatly improved by associating with a highly bred Japanese girl.

No women in the world are more refined, more gentle, more delicate and dainty in every way than are Japanese ladies. From their infancy they are taught every charm of manner and grace of deportment. They are schooled in self-control, and self-sacrifice is held up before them as the highest ideal of womanhood. They are brought up to reverence old age, to be generous and kindly to the poor, and to look upon education as the highest privilege that the gods can grant.

Surely, American girls need to be taught these things, and any American girl is lucky who can learn them from a flower-like Japanese playmate.

GLEANINGS FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

BY CLARK KINNAIRD

"A MAN IS AS OLD AS HE FEELS"

Plato ordains that old men should be present at the exercises, dances and sports of young people, that they may rejoice, in others, for the activity and beauty of body which is no more in themselves, and recall to memory the grace and cheerfulness of that flourishing age.

Montaigne, that charming Frenchman, who devised the essay, found no consolation in the advice.

"My judgment restrains me from kicking against and grumbling at the inconveniences that nature orders me to endure," he wrote, "but it does not take away my feeling: I, who have no other object in view than to live and be merry, would run from one end of the world to the other, to seek one good year of pleasant and jocund tranquility."

"Seeing it is the privilege of the mind to rescue itself from old age," he says, "I advise mine to it, with all the power I have; let it in the interim continue green, and flourish, if it can, like mistletoe upon a dead tree.

"But I fear 'tis a traitor; it has contracted so stiff a brothership with the body that it abandons me at every turn, to follow that in its need: I wheedle and deal with it apart in vain; I try to no purpose to wean it from correspondence; in vain to quote Seneca and Catullus, and represent it to beautiful—ladies and royal dames;

"If it's companion has the cholic, it seems to have it, too; even those faculties that are most peculiarly and properly its own, cannot then perform their functions, but manifestly appear dazed and stupified; there is no sprightliness in its productions, if there be not at the same time an equal proportion in the body too."

Our philosophers are to blame, Montaigne says, because in attributing the causes of the extraordinary emotions and sallies of the soul to a divine ecstacy, love, martial fierceness, poetry, and wine, they have not also allowed health its share in them. "Boiling, vigorous, full, life health, such as formerly the verdure of youth and security kept me supplied withal; that fire of sprightliness and gayety darts into the mind flashes that are lively and bright beyond our natural light, and with the most working, if not the most extravagant enthusiasms."

He speaks for old age when he says:

"I formerly used to mark cloudy and gloomy days for extraordinary; those are now my ordinary ones; the extraordinary are the clear and bright.

"I am only merry in fancy, or dreaming, by artifice to divert the melancholy of age; but certes, it requires another remedy than the efficacy of a dream. A weak content of art against nature!

"'Tis great folly to heathen and anticipate human inconveniences, as every one does. I had rather be a less while old, than be old before I am really so."

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE
Give and Take

In the old-fashioned Sunday school books the hero always attained a great place because he was good and noble and kind-hearted and self-sacrificing.

There were villians, but in the end they always went to jail.

With all their evil ways they could never withstand the conquering power of virtue.

Youths who were reared on this sort of literature began life under a very grievous misapprehension of the facts, and were visited with bitter disappointments as a consequence.

For unfortunately this is a world in which the wicked too often triumph, and the unrighteous prosper.

It is not necessary to be wicked to triumph, or to be unrighteous to prosper, but it is necessary to know that good will not always of itself, and to understand that this is a world in which one must fight for what he gets.

In the main, fair dealing and common honesty win.

But it is not safe to believe that every successful man is honest and fair dealing, or that every honest man will necessarily be successful.

The only safe thing is to keep one's eyes open, and to go into the game willing to give blo wfor blow, always fighting fair, but never for a minute willing to defuse battle with an adversary merely because he happens to belong to a different social station in life.

It is wise to recognize that there is evil and corruption around us, and to be on the watch for them.

And it is of the highest importance to remember that personal greed is oftenest used to catch the unwary, by the crooked speculator, and the bucket shop swindler, and the hundreds of different sorts of rogues who life in wait for money hungry.

Here is where the honest have an advantage, for if they are really honest they want nothing for which they do not have to pay, and consequently are not tempted to invest their savings in the hope of unearned profits.

In the give and take of the game, one must be continually on the lookout for enemies, and learn to recognize them whether they are hidden behind the bulwark of material success and respectability, or behind the black handkerchief of the burglar or the holdup man.

Getting ahead is not a difficult business if one knows how to expect, and is willing to work—not just to keep a job, but to keep getting better jobs.

But do not expect fair play and chivalry and friendship and helpfulness from everyone you meet.

You will not find it if you do expect it, and if you are always on guard and will be far better able to thread your way among the pitfalls and traps that are spread by the wicked.

Mexican Bridge Reopened Monday

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 6.—Mexican officials today reopened the international bridge at 7 o'clock after it had been shut down Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock due to the refusal of gambling concessionaires to close the public games.

R. C. Lecanda, personal representative of President Obregon, was in charge in the bridge closing, which marooned about 300 American men, women and children on the Mexican side. Lecenda said that the step had been authorized by the president because of gambling being conducted openly in Juarez. Owing to the fact that the gamblers are operating under a state license the municipal authorities have been powerless to stop it.

Lecenda today said he intended to close down the bridge at 1 p. m. and demand passports from everyone visiting the Mexican side in the event gambling continued. The showing of marriage licenses on the part of couples also will be required it was said

NEWSPAPERS MISTAKEN.

Wheeler Says Their Claims Not Correct in Politics.

By The Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6.—Senator Wheeler, independent vice-presidential candidate, in an address last night at Puyallup, near here, said:

"Some of your newspapers are already starting out to tell you that when Senator LaFollette and myself are elected the industries will shut down and the railroads quit running. The republicans have quit attempting to meet campaign arguments with counter-argument or facts and the resorting to intimidation!

"I want to tell you they will go further. If there are any of you can be debauched, who will sell your votes, and you haven't got the money yet, you had better look sharp because if you haven't got it these republican politicians are holding out on you."

COHEN NOT WORRYING.

Negro Under Fire at New Orleans Unruffled by Suit.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—Walter Cohen, negro comptroller of customs for the port of New Orleans, said today he was worrying not at all over the prospect of the filing of a suit to enjoin him from further performing of the duties of his office on the ground that he is a person of African blood and descent and therefore can not be a citizen of the United States. The suit, which was to be filed some time today in federal district court by Edwin Bolte, who said he was an attorney of Washington, D. C., is aimed at the validity of the 14th amendment and Cohn apparently is merely a side issue and the means of bringing it before the courts.

VALUABLE BAG LOST.

Woman Loses $2,800 and Fails to Claim It.

By The Associated Press.

ISCHL, Austria, Oct. 6.—A woman's handbag was found recently in a local restaurant and, upon being opened, revealed 2,000,000 Austrian crowns, worth about $2,800, along with two silver coffee spoons belonging to the restaurant and marked with its name.

The proprietor advertised for the owner, but in vain. It was apparent the woman in question preferred to lose the $2,800 rather than acknowledge the pilfering of the spoons.

Ring Gets Low-Down On Passports When He Starts On Tour

I had to take a oath that I would defend the constitution of the U. S. vs. All enemies foreign and domestic"

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

Well boys I was down to the custom house the other day getting a passport for the little woman and I, and I ain't been there since 1917 so I had forgot what a serious business it was and a specially when you have got your wife along.

Now they have got a rule that when a husband and wife is going together, why only one of them has got to go down there and do the work. Well for inst. I went down there myself and left the little Mrs. attending to the kiddies and the tennis court and of course I had my passport pictures which always looks like you was one of the Smith brothers and your wife was Emma Carus or Fay Templeton.

A Friend Helps Out

Well the man says you have got to have a birth certificate to prove that you were born in the U. S. of no parentage, so I says I may have a birth certificate if you care to come out and make a search through the house so the man says are you in Who's Who and I says I think probably because who ain't a specially when they have paid $12.50 or whatever it is. So he looked in Who's Who and sure enough there I was along with two or three other Lardners inclusive of a policeman.

Well the next thing he says was that I had to go and get myself a witness to testify that I was born in the U. S. so I called up a party aptly named Harry Friend and he come down and signed on the dotted line that he had knew me for 15 years but how that proved that I was a native born U. S. citizen is more than I can fathom because I was pretty old before Mr. Friend ever seen me.

Well the next thing is that I had to take a oath that I would defend the constitution of the U. S. vs. all enemies foreign and domestic, and I took the oath but between you and I, why if Jack Dempsey come up and called me a name I would pretend like I had not heard him.

Divert and to the Point

Now after that comes the description of applicant and the boys in the passport bureau won't look at you and describe you themself but you have got to describe yourself and you can't even describe your Mrs. instead of yourself. The first point is age, the second is stature, and then they ask you describe your forehead, eyes, nose, mouth, chin, hair, complexion and face, and add any distinguishing marks that you might have.

Well, if you was describing your Mrs., you might answer practically all the questions with the word beautiful, but when you have got to describe yourself, it makes it a whole lot tougher.

Age—39.
Stature—6, 1, ½.
Forehead—Noble.
Eyes—Open.
Nose—Open.
Mouth—Pretty.
Chin—Hard to shave.
Hair—Falling.
Complexion—Leathery.
Face—Handsome.
Distinguishing marks—Many moles.

Then after that the guy brings in your witness and he and you swear to it and you have also go to swear that you ain't going to stay out of the U. S. only for a couple of months or years and then they soak you $10.00 and that's all they is to it, but I will say one thing for the boys, namely that I offered them a $1.00 tip for their trouble and they said no thank you it's a pleasure, probably meaning they hoped I wouldn't come home.

REPAIR REVOLT DAMAGE.

Free State Rebuilds Dublin Postoffice and Other Buildings.

By The Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The Free State government has at last started rebuilding the Dublin post office destroyed in the rebellion of Easter, 1916. Work has now commenced on the old site with a view to preserving the tradition and character of the original building intact.

Dublin's next most beautiful building, the Four Courts, was destroyed in the fighting of July, 1922. The damaged parts of the ruins have been repaired and the walls are considered good enough to justify the rebuilding of the whole edifice. The restorations so far designed are in keeping with the treatment of the original eighteenth century architect, James Gandon, and stone similar to that in the original structure is being used.

Dr. Fred B. Johnson of San Antonio, Texas, chief of staff of Colonel William Joseph Simmons, head of the new order, declared today that the klan is fast declining on account of internal strife and that the membership has dwindled from 4,500,000 to half a million.

Gypsies Gather For Convention

By The Associated Press.

DRAGALEVTSI, Bulgaria, Oct. 6. The old monastery in this village on the slope of Mount Vitosha, near Sofia, was the gathering place the other day of many thousands of gypsies. They arrived on horseback, on donkeyback or on foot. During the night their bivouac fire twinkled all over the mountain side.

From many towns and villages in the Sofia district they arrived to celebrate the fete day of St. Mary the Virgin, which the gypsies observe more ardently than the Christians, despite the fact that the day marks an event in a religion they do not profess.

By nightfall the enclosure of the old monastery began to fill with men and women of dark complexion and great vivacity. The women were picturesque in their baggy trousers of bright-colored calico. Having cooked their stews, they seated themselves around the steaming pots, each person dipping up the food with a wooden spoon.

HOW WILL ARMY FARE?

West Point Draws One of Meanest Football Schedules.

Followers of the fortunes of West Point gridders are wondering how the soldier boys will fare in one of the toughest seasons ever mapped out for the West Point team. The Army's game with St. Louis university this year was a departure in schedule making.

No Short Cut To Championships, Avers Edgren

Dempsey Didn't Have Title Donated on Gold Platter.

TILDEN FOUGHT ODDS

Many Champs Find it No Snap Retaining Honors.

By ROBERT EDGREN.

There is no short cut to championships. In any sport the crown is never placed on the brow of the title winner until after many disappointments, hard work and a willingness to stick to it. None of our title holders ever reached the pinnacle without a long rough climb all the way.

The heavyweight crown wasn't handed to Dempsey on a shining gold plate. Jack withstood many hard knocks the disappointments before he won the championship from Jess Willard. And Dempsey has found retaining the title as difficult as winning it. Jack never lets a single day pass without working in the gymnasium or in the open keeping his weight down and his eye and hand in trim.

Nothing Easy.

Leonard, Walker, and all other ring champions age constantly in training and are always fearful of making the slightest slip that would endanger their titles that were only won after a long gruelling grind.

Wrestling laurels have changed hands often in the past, but I can not remember anyone who had an easy time reaching the top.

The achievement of Bill Tilden in the tennis world reads like fiction with the hero only winning after a long struggle against big odds. Starting as a ball boy for an elder brother Big Bill spent nearly ten years patiently learning and perfecting the game that eventually became invincible on both sides of the Atlantic. Tilden's progress was marked by many hours of daily practice and study by night how some particular stroke could be used more effectively and how defensive strokes could be turned into offensive value.

The time came when Tilden believed he was ready for national competition. Equipped with a versatile game and an ideal build for tennis Tilden didn't find his path lined with roses. He was defeated quite a few times before finally winning the national trophy in 1920. Ever since Tilden has demonstrated his superiority, but he never lets up in practice or study of the game.

Jones Earned Laurels.

The feat of Bobby Jones winning the national amateur golf honors at the Merion Cricket club was the deserved reward for years of ceaseless practice, patience and perserverance. While only twenty-two the new champion is a veteran in tournament experience. He captured his first golf title when only twelve. At the age of fourteen the Georgian, who already was known as the boy wonder of the south, made his debut in national competition at the Merion club where eight years later he won the amateur classic for the first time.

Jones taught himself the game. His style became the model for both amateurs and professionals because of its easy, powerful, swing. Since 1919, Jones has made the greatest stroke record of any American, amateur and professional. In shooting over a difficult course in the fewest number of shots Bobby was in a class all by himself. At match competition he was not so successful.

Every time Jones competed in the national amateur tournament Fate was dead against him. Opponents flashed unexpected power when opposing the boy wonder from the cotton regions. Bobby would not be far from par figures himself but always became the victim of peculiar circumstances. He never got the breaks.

Anyone with a smaller heart than Jones would have quit.

Bobby kept plugging away improving his game and hoping for the time when luck would finally break his way. After many bitter disappointments Jones at last realized his ambition when he won the amateur classic the other day at the Merion club, beating George Von Elm of Los Angeles decisively in the finals.

Lipton Punishment Glutton.

The story of Jones is just like any other champion. They all consume a great deal of the bitter before tasting the sweet.

Sir Thomas Lipton intends meeting one more challenge for the cup. The old boy is sure a bear for punishment.

What's happened to the old wail about the two New York clubs buying the pennants?

The failure of both New York teams to come through should do baseball a lot of good. Three must be civic rivalry before the world series can be completely successful.

The spectacle of both New York clubs striving for the premier pennant was entirely too much of an exhibition.

LOS ANGELES STARTS ROW.

Movie Burg's Three Coast Franchises Irk Rest of League.

The fact that Los Angeles is to have three Pacific coast league franchises is not particularly pleasing to some of the larger cities of the circuit. San Francisco, Portland and Seattle are strongly against the proposed shift of the Salt Lake club to Long Beach for various reasons.

San Francisco wants the Bees on the grounds that Los Angeles, in proportion to population, has been the worst ball town in the league, while the Seal Rock metropolis is rated the best.

TIGERS PLAY AT HOME.

Princeton's grid team plays every game but one at home this season. That exception is the contest with Harvard. The Tigers go to Cambridge November 8, hoping to avenge the 5 to 0 defeat of last year.

A Helper, inclosing the clipping containing last spring's dope of a well known critic that Washington would finish last in the American league, asks us to have said critic come over and help him move his piano.

Brown-Chicago Tilt First East-West Grid Game

The first intersection al grid game of prominence this season will be between the University of Chicago and Brown university of Providence, R. I., at Chicago, Oct. 11. At left, Captain Jim Sheldon of Brown making a goal from placement. At right Coach Stagg in his thirty-third year as coach of Chicago, talking over the makeup of his team with Captain Franklin Gowdy.

JIMMY COMING BACK

JIMMY CARROL.

Jimmy hasn't appeared in the American legion arena here in a long time. In fact, Jimmy hasn't appeared anywhere but once the past two months. Jimmy rested up for a period and then broke down into Waco last week to give Moko Carpenter the drubbing of his life finally knocking the China Springs slugger for a row of bed posts. Carrol's showing was better than ever before, we have it from Waco scribes.

Now Carrol has been substituted for Carpenter to mix it with Dick Atkins of Childress in an eight-rounder Thursday night in the new legion fight quarters, 1505 Lamar.

Zachary Credited With Nat Victory

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Zachary, Washington southpaw, has been credited with the Senator's victory over the Giants yesterday instead of Marberry, who stopped a New York rally in the ninth with the score tied, but pitched to only one man.

This was decided today by the scoring board, according to announcement by Fred Lieb of New York, chief scorer, on the theory that Zachary, though knocked out of the box, had pitched 8 2-3 innings and was entitled to the most credit for the victory.

CLEM PINSON RETURNS.

Brilliant Aggie Halfback Comes Back to Grid Fold.

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 6.—Clem T. Pinson of Forney, letter man in the Texas Aggies backfield last year returned to the college this afternoon and donned a uniform preparatory to helping fill the vacancy left by the injury to Captain Miller, one of whose legs was broken in the game with Southwestern university here last Friday.

Pinson returned in response to an appeal from Coach D. X. Bible over telephone Friday night. Pinson is a speedy halfback and was the leading man in yard gaining last season.

Coyotes Mix It Up With Burk Eleven Today

Contest to Have No Direct Bearing on State Marathon.

WICHITA DUE TO WIN

Contest Another of Series of Test Games For Homelings.

McCallum's Coyotes will hook up this afternoon with the Burkburnett class B grid team at 4 o'clock in another one of the series of test tilts the Wichita Falls mentor has matched preparatory to cutting loose in the real race for the Texas high school championship.

McClain will referee and King will umpire, said McCallum last night.

The Coyotes' probable lineup will be composed of the following: Left end, Shaw; left tackle, Wainscott; left guard, Browning or Donk; center, Hobbs; right guard, Copeland; right tackle, Pierce; right end, Howle; fullback, Cannon; halfbacks, Steed and Powell; quarterback, Deems or Lawson.

This contest is not to be the only game of the week for the Coyotes if plans run smoothly, declared McCallum. Efforts are being made to match a tilt with Graham for the latter portion of the week.

Today's game will be played in Spudder park, and an admission charge of 50 cents will be in order. The newly organized high school pep squad is expected to jump into action this afternoon in full blast.

The outcome of this game will mean nothing in the state race other than the new lineup on ability of each team which will be given. The Coyotes are doped to win but the smaller Burkburnett club may prove capable of upsetting the bucket.

ORIOLES WALLOP ST. PAUL

Baltimore Takes Lead in Series With 10-to-1 Victory

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 6.—By walking away with today's game, 10-to-1, the Orioles of the International league left for St. Paul tonight, leading in the little world series three games to one. The Saints, champions of the American association were helpless before the speed, slow ball and surve of big George Earnshaw, a right hander from Swarthmore college. Earnshaw allowed only three hits. He struck out 10 men and walked only one. The lone St. Paul run was the result of a homer into the bleachers by Koenig in the sixth inning. Connolly, Baltimore right fielder, made a desperate try for this ball, but it slipped off his glove and went into the stand. The official attendance today was 3,190 and receipts $4,382.92. Score:

WATSON, THE NEEDLE!

JOHN WATSON

He was relief pitcher during the 1923 series, and again yesterday John Watson went to the rescue. Watson stepped into the gap in the ninth inning for John McGraw and with one run already across, three on the paths and one out, quelled the Washington rally possibly saving the day for the Giants.

McGraw got Watson in "battery" trade with the Braves in 1923. He swapped Jess Barnes and Earl Smith for him and Gowdy.

SOX RETAIN CITY HONORS

American Loop Cellar Champs Win Final From Cubs, 5-3

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—The White Sox remain Chicago champions, even if they did finish last in 1924 American league race. Bowling over the Cubs today 5 to 3, the American league nine, led by Johnny Evers, retained their city title, rewon last year from the national leaguers after a lapse of 12 months.

It was the sixth game of the series, the Cubs having captured the first and fifth combats solely on the pitching of Grover Alexander. In all the other contests the Sox pitching and attack were superior. Score:

DON'T FORGET JIM MUTRIE.

He Gave Gotham First National League Flag in 1888.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—While the baseball world is bestowing praise once more on the masterful leadership of John McGraw in giving the New York fans their tenth pennant under his regime the name of Jim Mutrie must not be forgotten. Mutrie it was and not McGraw who gave the big town its first National league pennants. Mutrie led the old Giants to two flags in 1888 and 1889.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.—Many Missouri colleges and universities are increasing their efforts to bring the largest number of students possible into some recreative and athletic activity.

Bam Sits On Sidelines, But He Has Solace

BROKE EIGHT RECORDS

George Herman Equalled Quintet of Series Marks.

While Babe Ruth goes through the novel experience of being merely a writer and spectator at the world's series this year he may find some solace in the thought that in the last fall melee in which he played he hung up several new records of more or less importance and equaled a few more.

Combined, his world's series achievements as they stand are records to be proud of. This despite the fact that John McGraw had the big fellow's number in one of the three series in which the Giants and the Yanks clashed.

Here are the world's series records which Ruth broke or equaled in the 1923 battles against the Giants—and his sixth world's series.

Set New Records

By slamming three home runs in the series.
By increasing his total to four for all series games played.
By hitting for total of 10 bases.
By increasing his total of extra-base hits in all series to 18.
By making 12 extra bases on his long hits.
By drawing eight bases on balls.
By increasing total number of passes to 15.
By increasing total number of strike-outs for all series to 21.

Equaled Existing Records

When he hit two homers in one game.
When he scored total of eight runs.
By making five extra-base hits.
By making six extra bases on hits in one game.
By taking part in sixth world's series.

JUDGE LANDIS TO GO?

Bloom to Present Congress Bill on Baseball Supervision.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, announced tonight that he would introduce at the next session of congress a bill under which baseball would be governed by a federal commission.

"The nation-wide interest in the world series," he said, "combined with the national chagrin in that one of the participating teams is involved in a scandal convinces me that the time has come when the federal government should maintain a supervisory interest in baseball.

"Baseball is a matter of interstate commerce." "The two major leagues and most of the minor leagues are interstate affairs. Baseball magnates recognized the demand for some sort of super-regulation, when Judge Landis was chosen as czar but the game is too big for one man control."

O'CONNELL RECEIVES ANONYMOUS LETTER IMPLICATING OTHERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Jimmy O'Connell, Giant outfielder banished from baseball after confessing a part in the effort to bribe Heinie Sand of the Phillies to throw a game, today declared that he would delay his departure for his California home when shown a letter alleged to have been written by a Broadway gambler.

The anonymous letter, which was printed in a New York newspaper, said that a certain group had wagered $100,000 that New York would win the National league flag by two games and that $5,000 had been paid over to a Giant player in the bribe effort. The crippling of the team late in the season, the letter said, "worried the gamblers about these two games" undoubtedly referring to the last two contests of the season with the Phillies at the polo grounds.

O'Connell seemed heartened by the letter's insistence that he was only the "goat" as he has maintained since being cast out by Commissioner Landis.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The elephant trainer got the two baby elephants dressed ready for the motion picture in yesterday's story.

When dressed they stood on their hind legs and, while Tootsie carried a big doll in her arms, Bootsie carried a satchel, and then they walked around the studio until afternoon when they were to be taken over to the circus and their pictures taken.

But just as they were about to leave the studio, Mike the big baboon spied the big doll in Tootsie's arm, and recognizing it as the one he often performed with, he ran up to her and tried to grab the doll from Tootsie by its skirts. Tootsie held on. The baboon pulled and the dress came off, leaving a naked doll in Tootsie's arm, with head, arms and legs wobbling. The doll looked so queer without its clothes that Tootsie was afraid of it; so when Mike made a second grab for it Tootsie let go, and Mike, holding on to the doll, ran up a ladder on to the little railroad. There he seated himself with the doll in his arms and rocked his body back and forth, singing a baboon song to it.

"Could you beat that?" said the director when he saw it.

As he stood watching all this, Billy thought that never in his life had he seen so interesting a place.

"I feel quite curious to know what they will want me to do. I hope it is not to walk around on my hind legs, for that is both tiresome and awkward," thought he. Then aloud: "Toodles, what do you suppose they will teach me?"

Not receiving an answer, he turned to look at Toodles, who only a minute before had been standing beside him. But no Toodles was there. "Well, I must have been interested not to have noticed Toodles' departure!"

As he was puzzling his brain about this, he chanced to glance through the big open door that led out into the yard where he saw a street of houses where but a half hour before had been a race track. The houses had sprung up like mushrooms or the Aladdin houses you read about in The Arabian Nights.

"How ever could they have built a whole street of houses is a mystery to me," thought Billy, and he was about to investigate when he saw four men come out of one of the huge store rooms with a big flat piece of canvas on a frame, which when set up proved to be the picture of a corner house with veranda, chimney and so on painted on it.

Pathologist Points Out Value of Texas Plant Life.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—Untold riches for Texas lie in the yet undeveloped wild plants of this state, the commercial development of which will some day unlock treasures without limit, according to J. M. Del Curto, pathologist of the state department of agriculture.

The candelilla weed and the candelilla wax produced from it, is one of the industries which Mr. Del Curto predicts will some day become very important in Texas.

Habit

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It does not do to become abstracted in the school room. The teacher in a high school class was an ardent billiard player in off hours. One day he said: "Now, we start with this formula."

He took up the pointer and advanced to the blackboard only to be interrupted by a shout of laughter from the class. In his absence of mind he had first chalked the end of the stick, just as if it had been a billiard cue.

$15,000 and Overriding Royalty Involved in Big Deal Monday.

Ray and Massie have purchased from Pigg and Murchison 30 acres offsetting Winnipeg Drilling company's 10, Bond-Hawkins-Williams fee, northeast 40 of secton 100,H&T CRR survey, block 14, Wilbarger county, for a consideration of $15,000 and three-eighth overriding royalty.

Location has been made for two wells offsetting to the south and west the Winnipeg producer, and both derricks are up, but it is intended to drill the test to the south, No. 1, Bond e al, first.

SENATORS

grabbed Goslin's looping fly over his shoulder while going at top speed.

It Would Have Hurt

At the time there was no one out and the only man on base was Rice, who had walked, but the full importance of Frisch's play quickly became apparent when Judge followed with a rousing double. Bluege walked, Rice scored on a sacrifice fly by Miller and McQuillan, blowing up completely, passed two more men.

"Rosy" Ryan, his successor, forced in a run with another pass before Leibold flew out to end the rally, which, but for Frisch's great play, might have turned the whole game into a rout.

Frisch retired Goslin again in the fifth on a catch scarcely less brilliant than that of the preceding inning, but the other notable "pinch play" by the Giant captain came in the seventh. Here, with two on base, he scooped up Goslin's crackling grounder and got his man by an eye lash.

Last Four Innings

McQuillan, chief hope of McGraw's right handers, and "Firpo" Marberry, Washington relief star who stopped a Giant rally and saved yesterday's game, were the opposing moundsmen at the start, but though they were credited, respectively, with the victory and defeat, neither lasted four innings.

Ryan, relieving McQuillan, was erratic, but helped his own cause with a slashing home run into the grandstand in the fourth and stuck to his guns until the ninth, when Jonnard, who pitched to only one batsman and walked him, and Watson were thrown into the breach.

Marberry went to pieces in the second inning, when the Giants took the lead with two runs, aided by two balls, a wild pitch and a hit batsman.

But Harris was as guilty here as Marberry, for the Washington manager, with one out, muffed a throw from Bluege on Jackson's grounder and lost a bright chance for a double play which would have stopped the Giants without a tally.

Score Again

The Giants scored again in the third, Kelly crossing the plate on his single, Terry's safe blow, and a double play which checked further tallying, but Marberry was replaced by a pinch hitter in the Senator's fourth inning sortie.

The Giants steadily added to their lead as Harris shifted his boxmen in quick succession. Ryan's homer was made off Russell, Marberry's successor who also was in the box in the sixth when Miller let Gowdy's sharp blow get through his legs and the backstop tallied on Ryan's sacrifice and Lindstrom's double. Martina, the third hurler, got through the seventh without damage but Speece, the fourth and last, was found for three hits and one run in the eighth.

BUTTE

might arise, under which he declared the democrat is relieved of even the moral force of a pledge.

Never a Klansman.

"I am not, and have never been a member of the ku klux klan," he declared, as he has stated in each campaign address.

"I have not and will never have any alliance with it," he continued.

"My party two years ago went on record definitely as to that organization, and I publicly endorsed that stand.

"Yet, the politicians are trying to raise that issue again to cloud the real issues.

"For me, they will have to drink the dregs of that venomous cup alone. I will have no part in this new orgy of hate.

"My own position and that of my party have been on record for the past two years, while many of those who are now opposing me were as silent as owls, waiting to see which way to flop."

Butte declared the election of the Ferguson ticket would give Texas opportunity for "the most startling example in history of irresponsible personal government," declaring that Ferguson, who received the democratic nomination by "proxy and by accident," would wield the real power of the governor's office, but would not be accountable for his acts, as would the governor.

He drew a picture of Mrs. Ferguson in the governor's office, and James E. Ferguson in a downtown law-office. No legal reason could prevent Ferguson, he said, from becoming the attorney of those who desired to employ him—from those who might desire the submission of certain proposed laws, of those who wished to see legislation vetoed; the law, he said, could not prevent Ferguson from becoming the attorney of those who might want to seek pardons from the governor, and "sometimes me might make a professional call on the governor."

Traces Ferguson Record.

He then traced Ferguson's own record as to pardons, declaring the records indicated Ferguson granted executive clemency in one form or another to 3,070 persons during his term, of which over 200 were in homicide cases.

The person who wields the executive power has unlimited influence over policies of the state and the handling of millions of dollars a year, through the appointment of state officers, and otherwise, Butte pointed out. The state highway department will spend $13,000,000 alone during the next two years, he said, and the incoming governor will have the opportunity of all three members of the commission.

"Who do you think would compose the little coterie in Ferguson's downtown law-office?" he asked.

Ferguson's actions at the state convention in Austin and at the first meeting of the executive committee in Houston indicated who would wield the power of that office, Butte asserted.

Mystery Clothes Holman Shooting

A veil of mystery that gives promise of remaining intact surrounds the fatal shooting early Monday morning of Ora Holman, negress, who died at 9 o'clock yesterday in the General hospital from the effects of a bullet wound in the head. Belief that the shot was fired by a person or persons intent on robbery was expressed yesterday by officials who have been working on the case.

The woman was hit as she was asleep in the rear seat of an automobile driven by her husband who, with his wife and another negro man, was returning from cotton fields south of here. The incident occurred on the Seymour road a few miles south of Holliday.

A white man who had fixed the Holman car after it had developed engine trouble, and a man and a girl companion who passed the scene a few minutes before the shooting were questioned at Holliday yesterday by District Attorney Allred and Assistant County Attorney Kuntz. Both denied any knowledge of the shooting.

The negro companion of the Holmans, who had been held by police here was released Monday afternoon.

"I gave it to that fellow straight, I can tell you," boasted Smith. "He is twice as big as I am, too, and I told him exactly what I thought of his rascally conduct, and I called him all the names in the dictionary and a lot of others as well."

"And didn't he try to hit you?" asked Brown.

"No, he didn't; and when he tried to answer me back, I just hung up the telephone receiver and walked away."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph

Mothers

Playing Bootblack

One Mother Says:

It had always been a task to get my boys to blacken their shoes, until one day they stopped to watch a busy shoe-shining shop down town and came home with an idea. They proceeded to rig up a shop of their own in the basement, using an old kitchen chair and their box of boot-blacking material. The whole family became their regular Saturday morning customers.

Color Cut-Outs

"I just love the country," exclaimed Betty Cut-out, as Dorothy Anne's big brother helped them out of the automobile and Betty saw the pretty white farm house with green shutters. "I think the place you live in is so pretty. I don't blame you for liking to live in the country, not one bit."

"It's too bad we don't happen to have a good school near here," sighed Dorothy Anne. "But then if I'd never gone to school in town I would not have known you. Now come in and I'll show you the rest of my family and my very own dog."

The two girls took hands and went skipping up the long walk that led to the house.

Dorothy Anne, when she comes home, changes into a tan dress and tan socks. Then she wears an apron colored pale blue

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The cotton market today lost a good part of Saturday's advance owing to better weather reports than expected and re-selling by recent buyers who appeared to be evening up their commitments in preparation for Wednesday's government report. After selling off to 24.95, December rallied to 25.25 but broke back to the early low level and closed to 25.05. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 35 to 54 points.

The opening was weak at a decline of 17 to 50 points. Active positions sold about 40 to 57 points net lower in the early trading under southern hedge selling and liquidation by Saturday's buyers who were disappointed by the failure of the weather map to show any indication of the drop in temperature, predicted the end of last week. After initial selling orders had been absorbed, trading became comparatively quiet followed by mid-day rallies accompanied by reports of a continued firm spot basis in the southwest. Demand failed to broaden on the advance which carried October up to 26.32 and January to 25.56, however, and the market weakened again under renewed pre-bureau liquidation.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—The cotton market today was reactionary and the general trend of prices was downward although there were frequent moderate rallies which served to hold those bearishly inclined in check. At the lowest, December, the most active month at present, showed a loss from Saturday's close of 54 points, but this was cut down by a rally in the late trading based on reports of rains in west Texas which reduced the net loss to 38 points. The other months showed net losses of 39 to 43 points.

At the start, Liverpool was about as due, but the market here opened lower with rather active selling in opening call which forced December and January down 43 to 49 points, the former months trading down to 2495 and the latter to 2501. A subsequent rally based on fears of unsettled weather owing to a low depression in the far northwest, advanced December to 2522 and January 2530, or a recovery of 27 to 29 points from the low but the improvement did not hold as liquidation, hedge sales and scalpers selling caused prices to again ease off and in the early afternoon new lows were established at 2484 for December and 2493 for January or 54 to 57 points below the previous close. There was a moderate rally in the late afternoon which trimmed the loss somewhat.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 6.—Factors reported he good buyers spots. One firm sold 2,000 bales this morning at good basis.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6.—Rains in the west and a cold wave which were predicted Saturday, failed to develop as a whole and those who bought Saturday were inclined to liquidate today.

Considerable buying developed in the late afternoon on reports that New England mills were buying both spots and futures and private predictions that danger from a cold wave is not over but merely delayed. West sent in late reports of considerable rainfall in the plains sections.

Uncertainty as to what the bureau may show is likely to induce more or less evening up between now and its issuance and cause an irregular market.

Indications, however, point to a smaller estimate than generally expected owing to the large abandonment of acreage and recent unfavorable weather in the east.

Grain Jumps

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Although huge export buying, said to total 5,000,000 bushels, hoisted wheat and rye today to fresh high record prices for the season, profit taking largely blotted out the advance. On some of the transactions, wheat for delivery next May reached as high as $1.57 a bushel, a jump of more than 4 cents since Saturday's finish. Closing quotations on wheat ranged from ¼ cent net decline to 1⅜ cents gain, December 1.49¼ to 1.49⅜ and May 1.53⅝ to 1.54, with corn 1⅜ to 2⅜ cents down, oats ¼ to ¾ cent off, and provisions ranging from 17 cent setback to a rise of 20 cents.

Corn and oats were swayed largely by the action of wheat.

Provisions as well as in grain profit-taking sales wiped out much of an early advance based on record breaking high prices for cereals and hogs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Stock prices turned reactionary in today's market when heavy professional selling pressure was exerted against St. Paul issues arousing apprehension over the road's ability to refund the large maturities next year. Net losses in the active issues ranged from small fractions to 2½ points, trading, however, being relatively light in character.

St. Paul preferred was hammered down 2⅜ to a record breaking low, then rallied a point. The common touched a new low at 10⅝ and then recovered to 11¼, off ⅜.

United States Steel common, Baldwin, American Can and Studebaker, frequently referred to as the pivotal shares, closed fractionally lower. Chandler and General Motors touched new minimum prices for the year at 31⅝ and 58⅝, respectively.

Several of the western carriers lost ground in sympathy with the weakness in the St. Paul issues, losses of a point or so being recorded by Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Texas and Pacific.

Oil stocks were heavy despite favorable trade news which included publication of statistics showing record-breaking consumption of gasoline in the United States during August and a reduction of stocks on hand, smaller Mexican oil exports and an increase in Smackover crude prices by the Standard Oil company of Louisiana.

Baylor Grad Routs Gangs In Chicago

Special to The Record News.

WACO, Tex., Oct. 6.—How a Baylor University graduate went to Chicago to study sociology and in his investigations secured enough evidence to result in the breaking up of the Blacks and Tans, once Chicago's most powerful underworld organization, was told here this week by friends of Dan Russell, of the class of 1922, who visited the university.

He Gets Degree

Two years ago President S. P. Brooks of Baylor handed out an A. B., degree to Dan Russell, who had earned his way through college mowing the campus lawns, pruning trees and keeping classrooms and administration buildings clean. This week Dan Russell same back to the university, one of America's most famous young sociologists and scholars.

Shortly after Dan graduated from Baylor he resumed his studies in the University of Chicago, where his work attracted the attention of the Chicago police, who for three years had been attempting to secure enough evidence on the Blacks and Tans to drive them out of the city or place them in prison. Dan Russell was called in by the police. He was given the job.

Routs The Gang

For more than a year, Dan continued his investigations in the slums of Chicago. This clandestine, powerful, underhand organization, whose activities ran the gamut from liquor smuggling to murder, fascinated the young sociologist. Its activities soon became known. Then, when he was armed with facts and prima facie evidence, his investigation came to an end and the Blacks and Tans, whose dens spread over a wide area of Chicago, were routed. Their gambling houses were raided, their social gathering places scoured for evidence, and their leaders imprisoned.

FAIR VISITORS LOSE

Lost Articles Turned Over to Police for Safety

Fair visitors left their traces. Several articles of lost clothing have been found and they have been taken to the city hall for safe keeping until they are called for, according to Chief of Police George Hodgins.

Among the pieces is a gray coat for a little boy about six years of age. Souvenirs of the third annual Texas-Oklahoma fair fill the pockets almost to the bursting point.

Many Petitions Before Council

A number of petitions aside from the regular routine of the city council came before the city council which met Monday evening in the Morgan building.

Charles I. Frances, representing F. J. LeGear, read a petition asking that Swartz street be closed one block in the South park addition. The petition was referred to Commissioner Clifford for investigation.

H. Leland Smith represented by Judge Edgar Scurry presented a petition to the council for a water connection on Bonner. It was voted by the council, after controversy, to have the water department take up the pipe and relay it at the expense of the city.

Homer Karrenbrock represented Mrs. Alice Robertson in a request to close an alley running through block 237, original townsite, and to deed back to her the alley which she had deeded to the city.

Permission was granted to the Wichita Brick and Tile company to tunnel or go over the Petrolia highway for the purpose of removing brick clay from their property on the north side of the Petrolia highway.

A motion was made that the manager of the telephone company appear before the council at the next meeting, Monday night, October 13, to make explanation concerning the placing of pay telephones in places of business.

City Loses In Fight Against Service Charge

Rehearing in Gas Case Is Denied By State R. R. Commission

DECISION MONDAY

Still Offers Opportunity to Present Facts and Seek Relief

Although holding out consolation in the form of a promise that the city could in the future submit another plea for a rehearing, the state railroad commission in a decision handed down yesterday at Austin denied an immediate rehearing in the city of Wichita Falls' fight to knock out a 50 cent service charge imposed by the Municipal Gas company.

This means that for the time being, at least, the charge now paid each month by gas consumers here will be allowed to stand. The decision has been awaited since last January when an appeal for a rehearing of the case was first filed.

Still Has Jurisdiction

In its opinion rendered yesterday the commission still adheres to its decision rendered Dec. 29, 1923, in which it held that it has appelate jurisdiction to consider the case. It said in part: "the legislature, in conferring jurisdiction on this commission with reference to the production, transportation and the sale of natural gas at the same time pointed out the method of procedure in two separate and distinct classes of cases.

"We believe that if the legislature intended to place this responsibility on the railroad commission with respect to appeal cases it would have said so as it did in conferring jurisdiction under section 3."

Has Recourse

The opinion, in referring to relief for the city in the future said: "the city of Wichita Falls may invoke remedy before this commission any time it may feel itself in a position to submit facts established that the consumers of natural gas in that city are injured because of a contest which they will prove to be unfair and contrary to public interest."

Just what the city's next move will be has not yet been decided. No mention of it was made at the city council meeting last night, but it is presumed that Mayor Collier, City Attorney George and other officials will determine on a course of action in the near future.

Meeker Back To Ohio Via Airplane

By The Associated Press

WILBUR WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 6.—Ezra Meeker, 90-year-old pioneer of Seattle, Wash., arrived at McCook field at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in an airplane piloted by Lieut. Oakley Kelly. Meeker flew all the way from Seattle, under special dispensation of Assistant Secretary of War Davis, after he had asked that he be permitted to thus retrace a trail that he traveled over in a prairie schooner.

Lieutenant Kelly and his venerable passenger were placed in an automobile and paraded down the mile-long grandstand, where they got a greater hand than anything that has happened at the races so far.

"My nose got cold," Meeker said. "I havent got much else to tell about the trip. Sure I'd do it over again."

Seventy-two years ago, Meeker toiled along the transcontinental trail in a covered wagon. This time he looked down on the Rocky mountains from a height of 10,000 feet.

At no time, Kelly said, did Meeker evidence the slightest qualms, either at speed or altitude.

"He's a warrior," smiled Kelly.

The two left Seattle Wednesday, completing the journey of 2,200 miles in a little more than three days.

"Looks like there's going to be some good racing," Meeker said, as he stepped out of the automobile and settled himself in a box to witness the events that he had traveled a continent to see.

Meeker will return to Seattle by train.

Frost Nips Crop Prospects in North

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 6.—The Sioux City Tribune's weekly and final crop report for the 1924 crop season in northwest Iowa, southwest Minnesota, South Dakota, and northern Nebraska today says generally heavy frosts the first of the week brought the crop growing season to an end, though the damage done to corn by the frosts was not nearly so great as had been anticipated nor as great as some reports have had it.

In the northern tiers of counties of Iowa and Nebraska and in the southern tiers of counties of Minnesota and South Dakota the damage to corn was materially less than it was farther south and farther north. This is explained by the fact that the land in these counties is higher and dryer and that these sections had less rainfall during the planting season.

There will be fields of soft, unmarketable corn in all sections, and at the same time there will be fields of mature corn in all sections except in the lowlands, where fields were planted late because of wet weather. Fall plowing has been completed. Live-stock is in prime condition to enter the winter.

"GHOSTS" IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

Probe of Alleged "Padding" of Registration Is Started.

By The Associated Press.

CLAYTON, Mo., Oct. 6.—An investigation was started in St. Louis county today by the election board following receipt of evidence that wholesale "padding" of the registration books had been perpetrated in many precincts in the three-day registration period. According to an estimate of the election board the registration totals about 55,000, or 10,000 more than had been expected under the most favorable circumstances.

Al Autenieth, chairman of the republican central committee of this county, asserted he had evidence to show that from 400 to 500 names had been placed fraudulently on the registration books in the northern part of the county. Deputy Sheriff Wengler reported to the election board that 16 men whom he had found registered in one polling place had gone to another to be registered, giving the names of St. Louis police characters.

Suit Against Canadian Wine Merchant May Bring Disclosures.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Alec Adilman, president of the Sunset Wine and Spirit company of Montreal, has been sued for $100,000 damages in the supreme court here by Meyer Rosenthal, formerly connected with the company. He charged that Adilman and a brother, Notman, falsely charged him with the piracy of the schooner Lutzen off the United States coast several months ago. The Lutzen was looted of several thousand cases of liquor and the crew made prisoners.

Information filed in a French court in Brest, France, where Max Jerome Phaff, an American, is under arrest as an alleged rum pirate, mentioned a man named "Adelmann" of New York as the man "higher up" who furnished funds in unlimited amounts for the smuggling of liquor into the United States from Canada. Federal officials have started an investigation into this phase of the case.

Former Kaiser's Maid Slays Her Three Husbands

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Marie Krueger, for two years personal housemaid of the kaiser, is under arrest charged with having murdered her three husbands and other men to whom she was at various times engaged.

Her arrest follows a sensational career since leaving the kaiser's employ, a series of amazing adventures having been occasioned by her posing as a countess.

Frau Krueger, from her experiences at Berlin and Potsdam, was familiar with all the nobility of Prussia, and it was an easy matter for her to ape their manners and customs. She was known to have carried her pose successfully in Austria, Switzerland and other countries.

When her desire for a roving life left her, she bought a small hotel in Hamburg, but fell afoul of the police and was forced to serve a term in jail.

It was upon her release she began her hectic matrimonial experiences. The first man to whom she was engaged died a few days before the wedding. Soon after his death she married a wealthy man of advanced age.

Police have learned that Frau Krueger attempted to kill her husband by hiring a young man to overturn a boat in which they were riding, but the young man refused, and the husband escaped his fate only to die by poison shortly afterward.

The woman also used poison to kill her second husband.

A first attempt failed and Frau Krueger, believed to have a religious mania, is known to have paid a woman to pray for his death. The prayers or a stronger potion were successful.

Herr Krueger, the third husband, was murdered by having his throat cut by a razor.

Authorities declare they have proof of several other slayings.

ANATOLE FRANCE DYING

Noted Author Expected to Expire At French Home

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Anatole France is near death. During the last 48 hours he has greatly weakened and all hope is abandoned for any recovery from the gradual decline which has taken place during the last six weeks. During the last two years his health has been very delicate and more than once he has been reported gravely ill.

In the latter part of August, while at his country home near Tours, he was suddenly taken ill and since then, though there have been partial rallies, he has been confined to his bed in a very feeble state. Yesterday a new relapse began and at a late hour tonight a telegram reported that though death might be delayed the veteran author and philosopher was not expected to survive more than a few hours.

SHOOT TO CRIPPLE.

New York Cops Practice on Animated Screen.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—A new target range for the training of police in shooting at moving figures, has been installed in the gymnasium of police headquarters.

The "animated target" which will be used by rookies in the police training school and by patrolmen in shooting practice, consists of a motion picture machine which projects moving men, automobiles, etc., upon a screen. These moving objects are the targets for the marksmen. When a shot is fired the movement stops for an instant, showing light through the hole made by the bullet, and clearly indicating where the bullet took effect. Hits and misses are clearly indicated for a second or so, then the movement continues.

The new gallery, police officials say, provides realistic practice, and shooting to cripple rather than kill fleeing criminals will be a part of the training.

THE TEXACO STAR

Published by The Texas Company, Port Arthur. "Illustrating real conservation, we send a photograph showing the type of steel gun-barrel tank in use on some of our leases in the North Texas Division.

"The tank is so constructed that from one inch to three inches vacuum is maintained. Vacuum regulator is also shown. We have seven of these tanks in operation, from which we conserve 200,000 cubic feet of gas daily, not conserved previously, which is taken to our Electra gasoline plant.

"This tank and others of like construction pay us good dividends. On the present price of gasoline and residue gas sales, we figure that each three or four months these tanks have earned their investment. Also, they greatly reduce fire hazard on our producing properties."

The above tanks are manufactured by the Panhandle Refining Company's Boiler Shop department. For particulars call the following numbers: Day Phone 7125. Night, 2530 or 2225.

New York Firm Wins Out Over Europeans

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6.—After a lively battle for several months between American, British, German, French and Dutch interests for possession of the rich manganese fields in the Chiaturi district of Georgia, the largest and most productive in the world, the Americans, as represented by the banking house of W. A. Harriman & Co., of New York, carried off the laurels. Both the Georgian and Russian governments have accepted their offer in principle, and it remains only to draw up the details of the contract, involving several million dollars and covering 25 years.

The contract gives the Americans the monopoly of the exportation of manganese from Russia, and the fields mentioned in the agreement cover an area of 10,000 acres. It is estimated that they contain nearly 100,000,000 tons of ore, which is sufficient to supply the world for half a century.

As now being worked by the Soviet engineers, the mines are producing 500,000 tons a year, but the Americans will increase this to 1,000,000 tons, or sufficient to meet two-thirds of the world's requirements.
