Cubans Battling On Three Fronts

Castro Gathers 25,000 Troops Against Rebels

MIAMI (UPI) — Anti-Castro guerrillas were fighting on three fronts in Cuba today and 25,000 militiamen have been mobilized against them in one area alone, an exile leader said.

Maj. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, a former Castro army officer who now heads the rebel second National Escambray Front, said a guerrilla army has been battling in the third front area of Las Vallas Province since Nov. 10.

Raul Castro, brother of Premier Fidel Castro, was in command of government forces in Las Villas in Central Cuba and has mobilized 25,000 militiamen in the Banao-Sancti Spiritus region in an effort to crush the rebels, Menoyo said. He refused to say how many militiamen were fighting.

Menoyo, who helped Castro defeat former dictator Fulgencio Batista, also said in a news conference Wednesday that armed combat was going on in the Organ Mountains in the western province of Pinar Del Rio and in the Crystal Mountains in the eastern province of Oriente.

He said the guerrillas have won most of their fights, using Czech tommy guns and U.S. rifles captured from Castro in combat or in garrison raids.

(In New York, exile sources told United Press International that anti-Castro guerrillas had landed in Cuba at opposite ends of the Caribbean island).)

Menoyo said the stiff fighting near Sancti Spiritus has forced the Castro forces to isolate the town. He said Raul Castro has ordered that peasants who were not government supporters be arrested and paraded as prisoners captured in the fighting.

Nevertheless, peasants and even some militiamen have defected to the guerrillas, according to Armando Fleites, secretary general of the Escambray Front in New York. Fleites said Castro troops were killing peasants suspected of siding with the revolt.

Menoyo said that a courier reported the front near Sancti Spiritus, a center in the rich agricultural central Cuban region, extended 10 miles. Everado Salas was named as commander of the guerrilla forces in the central region.

Brazilian Admits He Started Fire Which Killed 307

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — A Brazilian has confessed starting the circus fire which killed 307 persons Sunday in suburban Niteroi, police said today.

Police spokesman Teodoro Gouveia de Abreu said Adilson M. Alves, the alleged arsonist, told questioners he started the fire to get back at a circus employe who beat him up.

Alves was being held at security police headquarters here. A cordon of army tommygunners surrounded the building to block any attempt by bereaved Brazilians to lynch the prisoner.

Gouveia said Alves claimed it was an alleged accomplice, Valter Rosa, who sprinkled the gasoline which turned the circus' tent into a blazing inferno. Rosa, however, denied any connection with the fire.

The circus employe said to have beaten Alves was identified as Maciel Felizardo. No other details of the beating were available immediately.

An estimated 2,500 persons, half of them children, were in the circus "big top" when it blazed up Sunday. Some were burned to death, others trampled in the stampede for the exits.

About 600 survivors were injured, many of them critically.

Police experts suspected arson from the beginning.

Connally Starts Political Drive

FORT WORTH (UPI)—John B. Connally, retired secretary of the Navy, plunged into the battle today for the Democratic nomination as governor of Texas.

He returned to Fort Worth Wednesday from Washington and his final day in the Navy. His wife and three children were on hand to greet him (they had returned earlier).

TWO SHOPPING days left until Christmas.

UN Reprimands Russia And China As Oppressors

Showdown Avoided On Goa Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The General Assembly slapped diplomatic reprimands on the Soviet Union and Communist China for their suppression of Hungary and Tibet and then began a three-week Christmas recess early today.

Quiet diplomacy headed off a potential new showdown on India's seizure by force of Goa and two other Portuguese enclaves on the Indian coast. The temporary end of the 16th session came at 11:51 a.m., CST. The world parliament will reconvene for limited debate on Jan. 15.

Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia brooked no delay in the triple-header session of the organization's closing day. He spurred the delegates of 104 countries through 20 items, the bulk of them concerned with money measures to stave off threatened bankruptcy for the United Nations.

It authorized a $200 million bond issue and took steps for emergency financing of the U.N. Congo operation and of the peacekeeping U.N. emergency force in the Middle East.

The assembly called for renewed peace talks between France and the Algerian nationalists' provisional government; supported Israel against Arab demands to expand the Palestine conciliation commission and have it take over the Arab refugee problem, and reaffirmed standing U.N. objectives on the reunification of Korea.

It postponed consideration of Cuba's latest complaint of U.S. "aggression" until the resumed session in January, which is scheduled also to discus the

Tshombe Yields On Resources, Police Control

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe has agreed to end the secession of his mineral-rich province and return it to the control of the central government, it was announced today.

Joseph Ileo, central government information minister, announced the terms of the agreement reached after 17 hours of talks between Tshombe and Premier Cyrille Adoula at the big Kitona military base.

The conference broke up early this morning and both headed back to their respective capitals. Tshombe landed at Ndola in a U.S. Air Force Constellation and was to continue to Elisabethville by road.

The last time Tshombe made such an agreement with central government authorities he was their captive in Leopoldville. When he returned home he rejected the agreement.

This time he went to the conference voluntarily. U.S. and United Nations officials were witnesses. However, there still was a loophole in that he made the agreement as president of Katanga but did not commit the rest of his government to it.

When he left Kitona early today he said he would present the matter to his provincial assembly.

Ileo said Tshombe accepted an eight-point document in which he:

Accepts the application of the fundamental law of May 19, 1960, which sets the Congo up as a federation with a central government at Leopoldville.

Recognizes the individual unity of the republic of the Congo.

Recognizes President Joseph Kasavubu as chief of state.

Recognizes the authority of the central government over all parts of the Congo Republic, thus giving the central government access to the province's resources.

Accepts the participation of the representatives of Katanga in a governmental commission which will meet Jan. 3 to examine a draft constitution.

Agrees to take all measures to allow Katanga senators and deputies to participate in parliament.

Agrees to place the Katangese gendarmerie under the authority of President Kasavubu.

Agrees to respect the resolutions of the United Nations general Assembly and Security Council and facilitate their execution.

Informed sources said the Kitona conference nearly broke up when Tshombe walked out after 15 hours. But U.S. Ambassador Edmund A. Gullion and U.N. Assistant Secretary General Ralph Bunche persuaded the two Congolese politicians to keep talking.

Adoula was quoted as saying before leaving Kitona: "This time we exist on action by Mr. Tshombe," apparently meaning that the unity and peace project would blow up unless the Katanga president acted in good faith.

Pampa Residents Urged To Donate To Charity Fund

An appeal went out today from George Newberry, general chairman of the 1961 United Fund campaign, asking Pampans to help reach the $68,746 goal.

Total contributions at noon today stood at $57,027. This is $11,715 short of the goal.

Newberry said he wanted the appeal to go especially to several hundred individuals who contributed last year, but have not been contacted so far this year.

"There are many who have not been called on," Newberry said, "and we are asking them to either mail in their checks or contact the United Fund Office at MO9-9522 and we will have a solicitor call on them to pick up the contribution."

Newberry said there are at least 150 to 200 persons in Pampa who have contributed $50 to $100 or more in previous years who have not contributed anything this year.

The drive chairman said the main reason for this, he believed, was because they had not been contacted by fund solicitors.

"At this season of the year it becomes difficult for workers to make calls," he said, "and that's why we are appealing to these people to send in their contributions or contact the United Fund office and we will have some one call on them."

Newberry said he felt there would be a generous response to his appeal.

"Pampans have just too much pride to wind up in the failure column," the campaign chairman added.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it, Lewis Hdwe.

Engineers Close Hearing On Trinity River Project

FORT WORTH (UPI)— Army engineers studied testimony today taken at a public hearing on the merits of extending the proposed $712 million navigation project on the Trinity River to Fort Worth.

A spokesman for the U.S. Corps of Engineers said its recommendations on the plan will be forwarded to Washington for possible inclusion in the 1962-63 congressional budget if approved.

There were about 1,000 persons at the day-long hearing Wednesday. The plan won overwhelming endorsement from businessmen, citizens and officials along the 370-mile Trinity River Valley.

But it was opposed by the Texas Railroad Association and delegations from three West Texas cities.

Two Texas congressmen, Jim Wright of Fort Worth and John Dowdy of Athens, led advocates of the plan. They said opening the Trinity to navigation by ships and barges is necessary to industrial development of the valley and the entire state.

They said some Trinity valley towns already have lost industries to other states because the river, and its resulting cheaper transportation rates, is not developed.

"This story could be repeated many times over again," Wright said. "Too long has this area suffered industrial retardation and denial."

Spokesmen for Amarillo, Lubbock and Childress opposed the plan on grounds the development would hurt instead of help West Texas.

James H. Eubanks of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce transportation committee said his group was "vigorously opposed" to opening the Trinity to barge traffic.

"Such traffic on the Trinity would create a powerful tendency toward centralization of wholesale and industrial facilities in the Dallas-Fort Worth area," Eubanks said.

Opponents generally argued taxpayers in other areas would bear the burden of the canal, but Dallas and Fort Worth would derive the principal benefit.

Wright said the Dallas-Fort Worth area, with 1.6 million people, is the largest population center in the world with the possible exception of Mexico City, that does not have water transportation.

Nehru Planning Personal Watch Over Goa Areas

BELGAUM (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru for the time being will supervise personally the administration of the three conquered Portuguese enclaves in India, a Defense Ministry spokesman said today.

Reports from New Delhi said Nehru has instructed the Indian military governor, Maj. Gen. K. P. Candeth, to release all political prisoners jailed by the Portuguese for their "anti-national" activities in Goa, Damao and Diu.

Candeth ordered Indian officials to treat Goans as equals and prepare them to run a democratic administration themselves.

An Indian spokesman said technicians were being rushed into the enclaves to restore communications and repair buildings damaged during the lightning invasion.

Officials said shops, schools and business centers in the enclaves reopened today. The Goa - India border remained sealed to civilian traffic because of land mines, but authorities said preparations were being made to provide transportation into Goa for newsmen.

The developments came as Goa's new rulers awaited orders from New Delhi on what to do with the enclave's Portuguese governor general Manuel Antonio VassaloE. Silva who is being held captive.

1,000 Men Battling Flood In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—More than 1,000 men piled sandbags on a strained levee today in an attempt to keep the rampaging Pearl River from inundating the industrial suburb of Flowood.

Mayor Chastaine Flynt of Flowood ordered the multi-million-dollar area evacuated Wednesday when it became apparent the levee might not hold.

"It will be almost a miracle" if the levee withstands the pressure of the rain-swollen river, said Flynt. "It's going to take a lot of people sacking a lot of sandbags."

Gov. Ross Barnett called out 500 National Guardsmen and an additional 200 convicts from the state penitentiary at Parchman Wednesday night to aid in the battle.

"It looks serious, very serious," said Barnett. "It's going to be expensive but I don't want to leave anything undone. I want to do everything humanly possible to prevent the destruction of the town . . ."

Floods already have left more than 2,000 persons homeless in Mississippi, mostly in the Hinds-Rankin county areas east of downtown Jackson. A levee break at Flowood would force 300 to 500 more to leave their homes.

Streets just a few blocks from the downtown Jackson stores were standing under water and a local theater was forced to close when a creek overflowed causing flooding in the movie house.

Empty homes were prevalent at Flowood today with gaily decorated Christmas trees unattended. The women and children had gone to visit relatives and friends or were being sheltered in one of four Red Cross shelters set up in Hinds and Rankin counties.

Most of the men, workers at the five factories in the area, stayed behind to fill sandbags and help hold the levee. One factory alone, the Knox Glass Co., employs 750, and officials said if the water reached its boilers it would be shut down for two months for repairs.

Volunteers, including students from area colleges out for the Christmas holidays, streamed into the area to offer help in holding the swollen river.

Congo And India Stir Foes Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign aid and U.S. contributions to the United Nations faced growing congressional opposition today because of the Congo fighting and India's invasion of Goa.

Rep. Walter H. Judd, R-Minn., a senior member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, joined a swelling chorus of GOP protests against U.S. support for the U.N. attack on Katanga Province.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, another member of the foreign affairs group, also protested the Congo action. In addition, he opposed any appropriation to purchase some of the $200 million in bonds the United Nations will issue to try to bail itself out of debt.

"Anybody who buys these bonds ought to have his head examined," Hays said.

Former President Hoover and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have led the Republican assault.

Judd called the Congo action "wrong" and said he regretted even more India's assault on the Portuguese enclaves within her borders.

He said the military actions by the United Nations and India, a foreign aid beneficiary, will make defense of the world organization and the aid program in Congress next year harder than ever.

Both programs, he said, "will have rough going next year."

Judd forecast a bitter fight on the Congo issue early in the session. He predicted the same fate for an expected request from President Kennedy for authority to buy as much as $100 million in U.N. bonds.

As the Republican attack grew, Democratic leaders sprang to the defense of the administration. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Congress must "face up to the Communist challenge" by being ready to buy the bonds.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the American policy in the Congo was in the best interest of both this country and the African people.

Senators who attended the briefing said Rusk gave no indication that U.S. policy toward India was being changed because of its seizure of the Portuguese enclaves.

Holiday Slated At Courthouse

County Judge William J. Craig announced today that all officers in the Gray County Courthouse will be closed this weekend, Saturday through Monday, Dec. 25.

Only exception will be the sheriff's office.

On the following weekend all county offices will be closed with exception of the district court.

District court will convene on Monday, Jan. 1, and a new grand jury will be impaneled by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

Alleged Slayer Seeking Release

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Fred Semaan, prominent criminal attorney, charged that police badgered a confession out of Mrs. Eunice Beynon that she killed her sister and brother-in-law with rat poison and asked for a writ of habeas corpus to get her out of jail.

Dist. Judge John Onion Jr. set a hearing for Friday on the writ.

Kennedy And Macmillan Meet

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met here today for Big Two talks to close Allied ranks and plan new diplomatic strategy against Russia in the Berlin crisis.

Kennedy arrived in his Air Force jet after a flight from Palm Beach, Fla., where he paid a last-minute hospital call on his seriously ill father before plunging once more into global problems.

Macmillan and Bermuda Governor Sir Julian Gascoigne greeted Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the American party at Kindley Field, the U. S. Air Force base here.

Macmillan drove with Kennedy immediately to Government House where Kennedy will stay during two days of talks.

Berlin was expected to top the agenda.

In that same connection, the two leaders were expected to weigh a summit session with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Such a meeting might have to be held without French President Charles de Gaulle who adamantly rejects negotiations with the Russians at this time on Berlin.

Divisions within the North Atlantic Treaty alliance also will get the attention of the Anglo-American conference, plus renewed nuclear testing.

Kennedy saw his stricken, 73-year-old father just before going to the West Palm Beach airport. The President on his departure appeared considerably less grave than on his five previous hospital calls.

Accompanying the President were Rusk; Charles Bohlen, assistant secretary of state and expert on Soviet affairs, and U. S. Ambassador to Britain David Bruce.

The British party also included Foreign Secretary Lord Home; Ambassador to the United States Sir David Ormsby-Gore; cabinet secretary Sir Norman Brook and

Public Concerned About Liberties, U Prexy Asserts

DALLAS (UPI)— University of Dallas President Robert Morris sees no sudden burst of conservatism in the United States. Neither does he feel "extremist" or "ultra-conservative" groups exist.

"For my part, I believe the terms 'extremist' and 'ultra-conservative' have very little basis in fact," Morris said.

"I see only growing concern for our shrinking liberties. I see only more concern by mothers and fathers about the fact that the world in which their children will live will be one in which neo-slavery will prevail."

Morris, former naval counter-intelligence specialist, counsel for congressional security subcommittees and attorney and now the president of the Roman Catholic University of Dallas, has become a spokesman for the conservative cause.

"As I see the development of the world," Morris said, "unless the people of the United States begin to express themselves, Americans will lose their freedom.

"I've watched Asia move into bondage because our government, newspapers and to some extent clergy and educators did not speak out against what was taking place.

"I have seen Cuba and a dozen other countries fall into bondage. We are obviously being encircled, and the success of the encircling movement is due, in large part to the fact that Americans have not been awakened to the seriousness of their plight.

"The stakes are the liberty and freedom of the next generation, and I would not be an educator worthy of the name if I did not contribute my modest share to the necessary awakening."

Morris has traveled over nearly all of the United States during the past year on public appearance and speaking tours.

In great demand ("I get four or five requests every day"), Morris said he tries to limit his appearances to two or three a week, principally in the area around Dallas.

Yule Office Parties Opposed By Britons

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI) — It appears that the institution of the Christmas office party is doomed here. It is under relentless attack by government, press and public as a barbaric custom that slipped into Britain from the United States when nobody was looking.

People are going to extraordinary ends to avoid office parties this year. Miss Olga Detarding, heiress to the Shell oil fortune, has devised this strategem: Early on Christmas Eve she plans to get aboard the night train from London to Scotland. On Christmas Day she will take the day train from Scotland to London. Please do not disturb.

Henry Sharek, a theatrical producer with a large number of employes, took sterner measures:

"I fooled them this year. Right now we are moving.

What has been his experience with office parties?

"Sheer disaster, old boy. All that passionate love of the landing! Then the cold light of morning! Pah! it is a horrible American custom which they can have right back along with Elvis Presley."

The attack against office parties is being made on three fronts:

—They undermine executive authority. Sir Miles Thomas, a director in a dozen corporations: "Those things are too democratic, you know. Echelon must be maintained. I usually say a few words at staff parties. Appearing in as non-pompous a guise as possible, but always eschewing the paper hat. I will say for our parties that no one actually ever walked out wearing a paper hat."

—They cause marital problems. Corporations constantly receive complaining about the irresistible cycle that lipstick takes from the vanity case, to the lips of female secretaries to the faces of husbands. There also are dark references about couples going into stock rooms to check on supplies when everybody knows perfectly well that the annual inventory was closed two weeks ago.

—Employes frequently shed their inhibitions to the point where they remind the boss of the six worst policy decisions he made in the previous calendar year. This frequently results in employment dislocations as a result of dismissals usually hidden behind the humane facade of resignations. The 'Daily Express' is especially concerned about this facet of the problem and prints a cartoon on the subject. It depicts a large office Christmas party in which the boss is disguised as Santa Claus. Two minor employees are staring at Santa Claus and one of them remarks: "Pity if he heard you refer to him as a dreary misconception of an obsolete legend — that's the general manager."

The man who may point the way out of the wilderness for Britain is, oddly enough, an American. He is Police Superintendent Orlando Wilson of Chicago. Word has reached here that he is conducting a successful campaign against office parties. Ernest Marples, British transport minister, plans to get in touch with him and see how he does it.

Shock Wave Of Nuclear Explosion Surprises Experts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A small nuclear explosion 1,200 feet under the New Mexican desert Dec. 10 set off shock waves far stronger than expected.

Leonard H. Murphy, chief seismologist of the Coast Survey, said the experiment in the peaceful uses of the atom flabbergasted everybody.

He said scientists calculated the explosion would transmit three times less energy in the salt bed it was fired in than one in the rock formation where such shots are usually tested.

Shelton's Video Show Failed To Impress Writer

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—A glaring incongruity supplied the only fragment of entertainment that I could find in Tuesday night's "Red Skelton Show."

"Freddie and the Yuletide Doll," as the CBS-TV half-hour was called, was Red's all-pantomime Christmas show. Now, when Skelton says all-pantomime, we know that he really means some-pantomime. We expect him to be overzealous in the use of sound effects. And we also are accustomed to the chorus.

The incongruity was this: Someone decided that Tuesday night's program should serve to introduce a stereophonic equipment gimmick called "surrounding sound." The idea of surrounding a pantomime program with stereophonic sound systems strikes me as a bit on the kookie side. May as well introduce picture windows to fall-out shelters.

The skit found Skelton portraying the Christmas-lonely, sorrowful bum. He's in a snow-covered park and he finds a Raggedy Ann doll. He wishes the doll into being and presto! his wish comes true. The doll becomes Cara Williams of the "Pete and Gladys" series.

They hit it off real well. Bum gets doll-girl. Bum skates with doll-girl. Bum loses doll-girl. Bum walks off into the night—lonely and sorrowful once more.

This should have been a poignant interlude despite the staleness of the story. But the design lacked steadiness and cohesion. Too often Skelton and Miss Williams had to react, not to dramatic instinct and inventiveness, but to the mushy lyrics of the songs in the background. They failed to develop and sustain a palpable mood.

And most unfortunate of all, Skelton again was unable to prevent himself from indulging in tasteless, illusion-shattering gestures.

Only the most routine of pantomimic technique was required of either star. It seems to me that, with the exception of some brilliant characterizations performed in last season's all-pantomime program before U.N. delegates, Skelton's periodic dips into the art of pantomime are fundamentally thin, chaotic and uninspired. He is masterful, a delight to watch, in vignettes. But in the longer sketches, which must evolve a poignant mood, the talent tends to disintegrate.

The Channel Swim: "Lee, the Virginai," a portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee, is set for Monday, Jan. 15, on NBC-TV. Thomas Mitchell is the narrator.

Linda Darnell will be the guest panelist for the first week when "Your First Impression," a daytime game show, debuts on Tuesday, Jan. 2 . . . A cartoon series based upon the "Baby Snooks" radio series is being prepared for TV. A search is being conducted by producer Ray Stark for a young lady to dub the voice of Fanny Brice's famed characterization.

Business Upturn May Hint Boom Period Nearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Is it a boom?

That was what economists wondered today about the strong business advances scored in October and November.

Government experts hesitated to say flatly that a boom has developed. They conceded the lusty performance of the economy of the past two months may have been the beginning of one.

"It is still too early to tell," one official said.

The view among President Kennedy's own advisers was that business has rebounded handsomely from its late summer lull and possibly is exceeding even their optimistic forecasts.

The White House aides pointed out, however, that the economy is operating about $30 billion below capacity and that unemployment is still fairly high—6.1 per cent of the labor force in November.

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges said personal income climbed by $3.8 billion in November, a big rise for one month. It reached a record annual rate of $429 billion with the aid of an even bigger advance of $4.1 billion in October.

Hodges said corporate profits reached an annual rate of $47 billion before taxes in July, August and September, and estimated they are now approaching a $50 billion rate. He predicted that early in 1962 they will top the record $51.5 billion reached in the spring of 1959.

Corporate profits have climbed from a low of $39.6 billion in the first three months of this year.

Hodges said consumers have grown less worried about the international situation with the easing of the Berlin crisis and are spending more freely.

But he pointed out that with unemployment in November still more than 6 per cent of the labor force, "we haven't licked all of our problems by any means."

But compared with a year ago, sales were up nearly 15 per cent and orders 20 per cent, he said. Factory sales of hard goods increased 3 per cent in November to a record annual rate, seasonally adjusted, of $15.8 billion, and new orders went up 1 per cent to a new high of $16.2 billion.

OLEANDER'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Russia's Drycleaning Trade Found Lagging

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dale W. Hushaw, an American drycleaning expert, is back in this country after a two-month visit to Moscow.

He brings us reassuring word that there is no danger of the Russians closing the drycleaning gap.

U.S. superiority in this field, he reports, probably will last for at least our lifetimes, and certainly for the lifetimes of our best suits.

Hushaw, an instructor at the Los Angeles Technical College, has first hand information about this because he has been supervising the installation of $1.5 million worth of American drycleaning equipment in the Soviet capital.

I had a talk with Hushaw about his experience and he told me the Soviet decision to purchase the equipment apparently stemmed from Premier Nikita Khrushchev's 1959 visit here.

Mrs. Khrushchev toured the plant of the National Institute of Drycleaning, and it wasn't long after this that the Russians began dickering with a U.S. manufacturer.

At that time, there were only two drycleaning plants in the whole of Moscow. This meant that all but a few of the city's seven million residents had to shift for themselves.

Most Americans in Moscow sent their woolens to Finland for drycleaning, Hushaw said.

The U.S. equipment more than doubles the capacity there, but drycleaning still is beyond the reach of the vast majority of Muscovites, he said.

Hushaw found that Soviet drycleaners used time-consuming methods, such as sewing a belt to the hem of a dress to keep it from getting lost.

"There are some American women who think it's impossible to drycleaning a dress without losing the belt," he said, "but actually our marking system is fast and efficient."

Hushaw also discovered that the Soviets remove all the buttons from a garment before drycleaning it. This is because most Soviet buttons are made of a material that dissolves in the cleaning fluid.

We Americans may lose more buttons at the drycleaners than the Soviets do, but we don't have to wait as long for service.

Commies Demand Rule Over Plane Travel To Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)— East German Communists today demanded the right to control Western air and land traffic to isolated West Berlin.

The official Communist party newspaper, Neues Deutschland, made the demand in a call for speedy negotiations to give Germany a peace treaty and end Western rights in Berlin.

The newspaper also rejected again a West Berlin proposal that the East-West Berlin border be opened over Christmas to allow friends and families to be reunited.

With Christmas only five days away the newspaper dashed all hopes the Communists would relax their opposition to opening the city border closed to Berliners since Aug. 13.

It said that any West Berliners who wanted to visit relations in East Berlin could move to East Berlin.

Speed of sound in air increases with the temperature, but at room temperature it is about 344 miles per second.

Big Christmas Gift May Be Taxable

Although it may come as a surprise to some people, the federal government levies a tax which applies to gifts made by one person to another. However, the government has no desire to tax ordinary birthday and Christmas gifts. The law therefore excludes from taxable gifts the first $3,000 given to each individual in each calendar year.

The law allows each giver an over-all exemption of $30,000 before the tax applies. In addition, gifts to the church, community chest, and similar charitable organizations are excluded from taxation.

The tax applies whether the gift is of money or of property. If it is of property, the tax is computed on the fair market value of the property at the date of the gift.

The purpose of many gifts is to remove the property from the taxable estate of the giver at the time of his death. This may or may not be accomplished. The federal law provides that transfers made within three years before date of death shall be deemed to have been made in contemplation of death and shall be taxable in the estate of the one who dies.

It may be advisable to "look a gift horse in the mouth," for the gift may cost the one who receives the gift in income taxes as well as the giver in gift taxes.

For income tax purposes the cost basis of property received by gift is the cost to the giver, plus the amount of any gift paid with respect to the gift. The other rule is that in case of property received by inheritance, the cost basis is the fair market vjalue at the date of the decendent's death.

An example will show the application of the rules. Suppose a farmer acquired his land in the early days at a cost of $10,000. This property is now worth $50,000. The farmer wishes to retire and to escape estate taxes, so he gives the farm to his daughter.

Although he may pay federal gift taxes totaling several thousand dollars, when the daughter decides to sell the farm for its $50,000 value, she still has to pay income tax on about $40,000 profit (the difference between the sales price and her father's cost of $10,000, less the amount of any gift tax he may have paid).

On the other hand, if the farmer had not given the farm to the daughter, but had left it to her under his will, he would have saved the gift tax. The daughter would hqve taken the property at a cost basis of $50,000, so upon the sale she would not have had to pay any income tax.

Of course, there would have been some estate tax and administration expenses in the father's estate, but that would have been much less than the total gift and income taxes which resulted from the gift. However, depending upon individual and particular circumstances, there may be occasions when a gift is advisable. Your lawyer can advise you on this matter.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Four Sentenced On Check Counts

Seven convictions were returned by Lewis M. Goodrich, Gray County 31st Judicial District Judge yesterday during a trial held in the district court room, County court house.

Sentenced to two years in the state penitentary after pleading guilty to charges of passing forged checks were, Pamelia Mendell, Loran A. Mendell and Peggy Joann Yates, all of California. Carol V. Latus, Pampa, was also sentenced to two years when she pleaded guilty of accessory to forging checks.

The Mendells and Yates are being held in county jail awaiting transport to Borger and Amarillo where they will stand trial on similar charges.

Others convicted were, George Miller, Pampa, who pleaded guilty to forgery and was released on three years probation; Dean Murphy Young and L. A. Blackwell, both of Pampa, who pleaded guilty to charges of theft and were each sentenced to five years probation.

Den Party Held By Lefors Cubs

LEFORS (Spl) — Cub Scouts of Troop 19 met in the scouthouse recently for their respective Den Christmas parties.

Boys of Den one received Christmas presents from their parents, and stockings filled with candy from their den mothers, Mrs. Fred Cullon and Mrs. Evelyn Smith.

The Den Mothers treated the boys to refreshments at a local cafe. Attending were Karl Kingham, Mike Smith, David Earles, Herman Brobst, Charlie Clemons, and Walter Todd. The next Den meeting will be Jan. 11, 1962.

Den two opened with the songs appropriate to the season. The boys exchanged gifts and received a candy cane filled with candy beads from their den mother. Attending were; Bobby Thacker and James Taylor, Den Chiefs; Joe Bob Fish, Phillip Collins, James McDonald, Lanny Atchley, Richard Roberts, Orville Robison, Ken Prestige, Mike Torres, Dennis Boyd, Chuckie Audleman, Debbie Torres, a guest; and den mothers, Mrs. Don Robison and Mrs. Cedar Torres.

Catholic Yule Rites To End Sunday Night

St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, 2300 North Hobart St., will bring the Christmas Novena being observed at 7:30 p.m. each evening this week to a close with the solemn observance of the Feast of the Holy Nativity of Jesus Christ and the celebration of the annual Christmas Midnight Mass on Sunday. Rev. Fr. Edward Cashman, C. M., pastor of St. Vincent's will be the celebrant assisted by Rev. Fr. Ronald Ramson, C. M., assistant pastor.

Beginning at 11:15 p.m. Sunday the 60 voices of the St. Vincent's Senior Choristers and St. Vincent's Junior Choristers under the direction of Tracy D. Cary will sing a pre-mass service of Christmas carols, anthems, and seasonal music for double choir, ensemble, flute, and organ.

The carol service will open with "Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence" from the Liturgy of St. James, arranged by Robert Graham, followed by "The Snow Lay On the Ground" by Leo Sowerby and "Nazareth" by Charles Gounod. Two familiar carols "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "The First Noel" will be followed by "Stars of Glory" by Janowska and "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon. Flute obbligatos will be played by Mrs. Homer Krueger and Mrs. Jack D. Edwards will be at the organ for the mass and Cary for the Prelude and Postlude.

At midnight during the singing of Novello's festival arrangement of "Adeste Fideles" the celebrant, joined by altar acolytes and attendants will proceed to the manger for the blessing of the creche.

Music for the liturgy will be "Mass in Honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus" by Strubel. During the offertory will be performed for the first time by the double choirs, flute, and organ, a motet - anthem, "Hodie, Christus Natus Est" composed by the choirmaster, Tracy D. Cary, especially forthe occasion and dedicated to his former teacher, William J. Marsh, organist-director of St. Patrick's Co-Cathedral in Ft. Worth. During the distribution of Holy Communion Mrs. Homer Krueger, will play "O Holy Night" by Adolph Adam, for flute and organ.

Soloists include Miss Julia Neslage and Mrs. Dale Walker, sopranos; Miss Shiela Chisholm, contralto; Jack D. Edwards, baritone; and Tracy D. Cary, tenor. A setting of the Liturgical Propers "In Navitate Domini" by A. Edmond Tozer will be sung by an octette composed of Mrs. Lynn Boyd and Miss Neslage, sopranos; Miss Theresa Marak and Miss Chisholm, contraltos; John Schwind and Jack Edwards, baritones; and Cesare Buzzitta and Cary, tenors.

Confessions will be heard each evening following the Christmas Novena and on Saturday from 4 to 5:30 and 7 to 9 p.m. There will be no confessions on Sunday, Christmas Eve, except after the Novena. Schedule of masses will be midnight, 6 a.m., 8 a.m., and at 10 a.m.

Christmas morning the annual Novena of Masses will begin which will be celebrated on each of eight successive days.

Youth Fined $25 On Assault Count

Robert E. Mitchell, 18, 509 Maple, was fined $25 and costs yesterday when he pleaded guilty before County Judge William J. Craig on a charge of aggravated assault.

Mitchell was arrested by city police at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday in the 400 block of Oklahoma St., following an argument with a classmate, Valerra Moore, 17, Elm St.

Police said the young couple got into an argument and Mitchell struck the girl. The complaint was signed by the city police department.

Blood, Money Lead Ft. Worth Police To Robber

FORT WORTH (UPI)— Police and a bloodhound followed a trail of blood and money yesterday to a house where a wounded gunman was hiding on the roof.

They gave credit for the capture and for foiling a supermarket holdup to George Walters, 21, a store clerk, who managed to stay calm and act quickly although his 18-year-old wife was being held hostage with a gun at her head.

Police identified the gunman, who was wounded in the leg as Charles Ernest Eaves, 23, who lives in White Settlement, a Fort Worth suburb, with his wife and their two children.

About a month ago police said Eaves told them he successfully robbed the same supermarket (an A&P store on Fort Worth's west side).

About 15 minutes after closing time Tuesday night, he forced Mrs. Nancy Walters to get out of her car parked near the store and to walk with him to the front of the store.

Walters, a store clerk, saw what was happening and before the gunman was admitted, he ducked to the back of the store to the meat market and telephoned police.

Walters' wife was the woman being held hostage. She had been waiting outside to take Walters home.

Police arrived just as Eaves was leaving. Supermarket officials said he had about $2,000 with him.

Anti-Communist Bills Pending In Congress

The Congress this year had before it for consideration a number of anti-Communist proposals. Several of these were for the purpose of amending present law to correct defects pointed out by the courts and which had to be corrected in order to bring about future convictions. One of these was H.R. 470 which passed both Houses and is now Public Law 87-366. This particular law was for the purpose of amending the Foreign Agents Registration Act so as to include within the definition of a "foreign principal", domestic organizations which are substantially supervised, directed, controlled, or financed by a foreign government or foreign political party. It also sought to clarify the commercial exemptions of the Foreign Agents Registration Act by providing that a foreign principal, in order for its agents to be eligible for exemption from registering under the act, must be engaged in activities which are either private and nonpolitical and financial or private and nonpolitical and mercantile. It measurably expanded the coverage of the law with regard to individuals and organizations that could have previously technically avoided its requirements. Its effects are already being felt, and its results will be measurable.

There are two other laws that passed the House of Representatives last year but which have not yet passed the Senate that will add measurably to our strength in opposing Communism. One of these is H. R. 3247. It is the result of an extensive study of recent Supreme Court decisions by a special subcommittee of the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives. The particular decision creating the need for this measure was the case of Yates v. the United States (354 U.S. 298). In that case the Supreme Court of the United States had reversed convictions of several defendants on the charge of conspiring to overthrow the United States government by force and violence and with organizing groups for the same purpose. The Court held that the term "organize" referred only to the official organization of the Communist Party and not to a continuing process of organization. The Court pointed out that the organization of the Communist Party of the United States was in 1945 and that the indictments returned in 1951 were barred by the three-year statute of limitations. Hence, in order to close this technical loophole that was created by the Supreme Court, the House of Representatives adopted H. R. 3247, which reads as follows: "As used in this section, the term 'organize', with respect to any society, group, or assembly of persons, includes the recruiting of new members, the forming of new units, and the regrouping or expansion of existing clubs, classes, and other units of such society, group, or assembly of persons."

This Bill, if passed by the Senate and signed by the President as we can expect it to be, will provide another most effective weapon against any possible spread of insidious Communism.

Another measure which was passed by the House of Representatives and which will be of interest to the people on this subject, is H. R. 4469. This measure was considered by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and is for the purpose of amending the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950 "so as to provide that no individual who willfully fails or refuses to answer, or falsely answers, certain questions relating to subversive activities, when summoned to appear before certain Federal agencies, shall be employed on any merchant vessel of the United States or within waterfront facilities in the United States."

This Bill attempts to deal with the problems of Communists on vessels and related areas such as waterfront facilities. The very nature of the waterfront industry makes it most vulnerable to infiltration by subversives. Armed with this legislation, the United States Coast Guard can do a thorough and complete job of screening seamen from merchant vessels. This Bill is patterned after a California statute which has been held valid by the United States Supreme Court. Hence, it is anticipated that once it becomes law, no measurable difficulty will be encountered through the courts. It will effectively break off one of the most important links in the world-wide Communist communication system and will do great damage to many espionage activities.

There are other measures pending, one of which is the prohibition against the shipment in interstate commerce of goods imported from Cuba. It is my hope that these measures will all be passed and implemented in the early days of the coming session of Congress.

Mrs. Santa's Favorite Frosted Chocolate Cake

We hope your holidays are happy days and that during one of them you'll have a chance to bake Mrs. Santa's favorite chocolate cake.

At Christmas time, or any time, this is a recipe we consider one of the very best from General Foods Kitchens.

MRS. SANTA'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

3 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
½ cup water
1 cup thick sour cream
2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
2-3 cup butter
2-3 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
3 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla

Place chocolate and water in saucepan over very low heat until chocolate is melted, stirring until blended. Cool thoroughly; then add sour cream, mixing well. Meanwhile, measure sifted flour, add soda, salt and baking powder, and sift together. Cream butter and sugars. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each. Add vanilla and beat. Add dry ingredients alternately with sour cream mixture, mixing well after each addition. Pour batter into 1 paper - lined 9 - inch layer pans. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Spread frosting between layers and over top and sides of cake.

SANTA'S FAVORIT EFROSTING

3 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup sour cream
4½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Remove from heat and let stand until thoroughly cooled. Blend sour cream, sugar, and salt. Gradually add chocolate to the sugar mixture; then add vanilla. Beat well. If frosting is soft, chill until of desired consistency for spreading. Makes 2½ cups.

"The Twist" Sweeps Country Right Into Confection Called "Twist Cake"

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

From the Peppermint Lounge in New York, a new dance called the "Twist" is sweeping the country. So to help you keep your kitchens up to date, we invented a special "Twist Cake" to serve at holiday dances. It is made of two long layers of chocolate mint cake, sandwiched together with a rich filling of nuts and cream cheese and gaily frosted with pink and white "twists" of frosting.

TWIST CAKE
(Serves 12)

CAKE:

1 package deluxe chocolate mint cake mix

FILLING

Few drops red food coloring
3 ounces cream cheese
¼ cup cream or milk
¼ cup confectioners' sugar
1 cup finely chopped walnuts

FROSTING

2-3 cup shortening
7 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1-3 cup cream or milk
½ teaspoon peppermint extract

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Pour batter into greased and waxed paper lined jelly roll pan (15½x10½x1-inch). Bake in a preheated 350-degree F. oven for 20 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool 10 to 15 minutes, then turn out on rack and remove paper. Cool thoroughly. Cut cake in half lengthwise to form 2 strips, each 15½-5 inches.

Prepare filling by beating cream cheese with cream or milk. Beat in sugar and continue beating until smooth. Stir in nuts. Spread filling on one strip of cake and top with other strip of cake. Prepare frosting by blending shortening with 3 cups sugar. Beat in remaining sugar alternately with cream or milk, and beat until frosting is smooth and creamy. Fold in peppermint extract. Reserve 1-3 of the frosting. Color remaining frosting a pale pink. Frost top and sides of cake with pink frosting. Decorate with white frosting using piping bag and large rosette tube.

Roast Duck May Vie For Honors On Holiday Tables Around The Country

Now that turkey is a year 'round visitor on the dinner tables of America, it need not necessarily be served on a holiday. Why not serve roast duck for Christmas dinner - one duck for four people, twin ducks for 6 to 8 people. Cranberry sauce is as delicious with duck as with turkey. Served in orange cups, it offers a colorful accompaniment. Brocolli offers Christmas green and for the savory traditional onions, try combining them with heated, canned broiled mushroom crowns.

ROAST DUCKLING WITH GIBLET RICE STUFFING

4 to 5 lb. duckling, ready - to-cook weight
1 cup rice
2 tablespoons fat
½ cup diced onion
1 can (3 oz.) chopped, broiled mushrooms
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon powdered marjoram
½ medium green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet

Prepare duck for roasting. Cook giblets and neck in salted water until tender. Meanwhile, cook rice according to package directions until just tender and drain thoroughly. Melt fat in skillet over moderate heat. Add onion and cook about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add rice and mushrooms, which have been drained, reserving broth for use in soup or gravy. Chop and add giblets. Add seasonings and green pepper. Mix thoroughly and stuff duck. Close vent opening by lacing string around poultry pins. Roast on rack in open pan in preheated 325 degrees oven until done - 1½ to 2 hours for medium well done, 2 to 2½ hours for very well done. About 15 minutes before duck is done, brush with a mixture of the honey and kitchen bouquet. Makes 4 servings.

Christmas Platter Features Ham Sure To Catch Eyes Of Yule Guests

A Christmas platter featuring a glazed ham with pineapple and maraschino cherry trimmings will be sure to catch the eye of all who gather around your holiday table. You're likely to have a large group, too, so a whole ham is really the ideal meat cut.

Preparing a ham is easy, leaving plenty of time for you to spend with your guests. Purchase a 12 to 14 pound ham. Place it, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan.

Insert a meat thermometer, so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part. Be careful that the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water or cover the pan.

Roast the ham in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until the thermometer registers 160 degrees F. Allow about 18 to 20 minutes per pound.

Pineapple - Brown Sugar Glaze

1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons flour
¼cup pineapple juice
Pineapple slices
Maraschino cherries

Combine the brown sugar, mustard and flour. Add the pineapple juice and mix thoroughly. Spread mixture over ham. About ½ hour before ham has finished baking, remove from oven and pour off drippings. Decorate with pineapple slices cut in half and maraschino cherries. Return the ham to the oven about 30 minutes to allow the glaze to set.

Pecan Stuffing Adds New Taste In Dressing

As we become involved with holiday preparations, traditional foods take a starring role in menu planning.

Here is a well-beloved recipe for pecan turkey stuffing from our files, which has been handed down through several generations of wonderful cooks. . .each in turn famous for their creative cookery. We've streamlined it for present day methods, but have kept all the old-fashioned wonderfully flavorful goodness. The pecans add a special, elegant festive touch to a food that is sure to be served at every holiday feast. This stuffing is so good that we'd be willing to wager that it will become a tradition at your house, too!

ROANOKE PECAN STUFFING FOR TURKEY, CAPON OR CHICKEN

Turkey, capon or roasting chicken
4 cups water
2 stalks celery, washed
1 peeled carrot, cut into ½ inch slices
1 small onion, cut into quarters
1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups thinly sliced celery
2 cups chopped onions
½ cup finely chopped parsley
1 cup long grain rice
4 cups small torn corn bread pieces
2 cups small torn whole wheat bread pieces
2 cups chopped pecans
2 cans (4 oz. each) mushroom stems and pieces, undrained
3 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Combine turkey, capon or roasting chicken neck and gizzard, water, stalks of celery, carrot slices and onion quarters in saucepan; cover and simmer gently until gizzard is tender. Set aside to cool stock. Discard vegetables and neck piece. Cut gizzard into small pieces. Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in fry pan. Add sliced celery, chopped onion and parsley; cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Set aside. Brown unwashed rice in remaining ½ cup butter in fry pan or Dutch oven. Add poultry stock and enough water to make 3 cups liquid. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Combine in large mixing bowl the breads, celery-onion mixture, rice and stock, pecans, mushrooms, seasonings; mix well. Season cavity of bird with salt; stuff loosely with dressing; skewer and roast poultry as desired.

Yield: 12 cups stuffing.

Common Market Outline Offered By U.S. Agency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Few discussions of American business can take place nowadays with with this great new economic unit dominated talks at the National Association of Manufacturers two weeks ago and also the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach last week. This week (Thursday and Friday) the subject will be prominent during President Kennedy's meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda. The following outline on the Common Market was prepared by the Washington bureau of United Press International.)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here are the ABC's of the Common Market:

Q. What is it?

A. It is an area in Western Europe which is being welded into one big "free trade" economic unit. The market, which is expected to expand still further, now covers six countries with an area of 449,000 square miles and a population of 170 million.

Q. What countries are in the market now?

A. France, Western Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Britain is negotiating to join. Other Western European countries also are expected to enter the market.

Q. How are the present six members becoming unified economically?

A. They are gradually eliminating all tariff barriers and other barriers to the movement of industrial materials and products inside the market. They are setting up a common external tariff wall against outsiders, including the United States.

Q. How far have these six countries moved toward elimination of internal trade barriers on industrial items?

A. Each of them has slashed tariff duties by about one-third. Further cuts are tentatively scheduled for Jan. 1.

Q. What about the common external tariffs?

A. Each of the six has moved about one-third of the way toward a common external tariff. This has required high-tariff countries of Italy and France to lower their tariffs and low-tariff countries like Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg to raise their duties. For Germany this has meant a lowering of some duties and a raising of others.

Q. What about farm products?

A. The Common Market countries have not yet reached final agreement on a common internal or external farm policy.

Q. What economic effects have been seen inside the market?

A. The Common Market is enjoying a wave of prosperity. Industrial productivity is rising. Investment capital is moving into the area. A good many American firms are setting up plants inside the market to take advantage of the big new market. Consumers are enjoying lower prices and inefficient producers are being squeezed out—two logical consequences of any reduction in tariff duties.

Q. What about the United States?

A. So far the UKNITED States has benefited. U.S. exports to the booming Common Market rose last year to $3.8 billion. But the Kennedy administration is worried over prospective loss of industrial and farm markets. Unless the Common Market lowers its external barriers sharply, manufacturers outside the market will be at a big disadvantage in competing for sales inside the market.

Q. Why did the United States favor creation of the Common Market, if it creates a problem for us?

A. In the first place the United States figured this difficulty was a price worth paying to help establish a strong industrial bulwark against communism in Western Europe. In the second place, the Kennedy administration hopes to solve the problem by persuading the Common Market to lower its tariffs against industrial items from the outside and to adopt a liberal policy on imports of farm products.

Q. Does the President think he can talk the Common Market into that without any quid pro quo?

A. No. The United States will have to cut its own tariff duties to get trade concessions from the Common Market. U.S. and Common Market negotiators recently were reported nearing agreement on an initical reciprocal tariff-cutting agreement which would lower most Common Market external tariffs by 20 per cent in exchange for lesser concessions from this country.

Q. Will this solve the problem?

A. By no means. Further liberalization of the Common Market's import policies on industrial and farm products will be needed, if the United States to hold its share of the European market. That's why Kennedy has decided to wage a fight in Congress next year for broad new authority to cut U.S. tariffs. He says he will need this as a tool to negotiate with the Common Market.

'WINGTEL'—RESTRICTED TO GEESE—The George Opp farm in Rock Port, Mo., is a plush stopping-off place for wild geese headed South. Opp and fellow farmers provide $1,500 worth of grain daily for the visiting birds. So far this season, they have been hosts to about 150,000. Here is part of the guest flock on land and lake on Opp farm.

Attorney Denied Right To Enter Race For Judge

AUSTIN (UPI)— The State Supreme Court turned back an Odessa lawyer today in his attempt to get his name on the Ector County ballot for county court-at-law judge.

Raymon Stoker, Odessa attorney, sued Ector County Democratic chairman Bill D. Kimbrough and county court-at-law Judge William M. Hill and asked a district court to force them to let him be a candidate for the judge's job in the May 5, 1962 Democratic primary.

The court was created in 1959 and Hill was elected in 1960 general elections. Hill and Kimbrough contend Hill was elected to a four-year term that does not expire until 1964. They said the office would not have a vacancy subject to the 1962 elections.

But Stoker contended that because of constitutional provisions for staggering of terms of county courts-at-law, Hill's election was for an unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1962. Stoker said the law says the courts' judges shall have been elected starting in 1953 for four-year terms, which would put the next election of a judge in 1962.

The State Supreme Court refused today, without written opinion, to consider Stoker's attempt to get a court order putting his name on the ballot.

Winter Rainfall Gave Big Boost To 1961 Harvest

AUSTIN (UPI) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture today hailed one of the wettest winters in years as a major factor in making 1961 the most productive for Texas farmers in more than a decade.

The output was the highest all-crop production total in 11 years, the USDA said, despite a late-summer date with Hurricane Carla that tore up hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of crops.

"It was an excellent season, boosted by one of Texas wettest winters in many a year," crop statistician Cary Palmer said.

The bright spots were:

—Acombined principal crop value of $1.6 billion, 15 per cent above 1960.

—Record sorghum yield of 45 bushels an acre.

—The fourth largest wheat crop on record, at 84,870,000 bushels, with a record wheat yield of 23 bushels an acre.

—Record corn yield of 30 bushels per acre.

Texas biggest money crop, cotton, brought farmers $864 million. Farmers brought in a 4,750,000-bale cotton crop that was 9 per cent above 1960 and the eighth largest in 95 years of agriculture record-keeping. June and July rains were the key to the cotton crop, which was carried through the drier late summer.

Looking ahead to next year's crops, Palmer said rains in November and December help paint a good picture for grains next year. Statisticians expect a wheat crop in 1962 one-fourth below this year because of lower acreage allotments, but say a crop of 61.5 million bushels would be another "excellent" crop and the fifth consecutive good wheat total for Texas.

Wheat acreage allotments after the 10 per cent mandatory reduction will be approximately 3.6 million acres to farms under the wheat stabilization program.

This compares with the 4,067,000 acres seeded for harvest this year.

The cotton allotment for 1962 will be 7.69 million acres, compared with the 8,550,000 harvested acres this year.

'Friendly' Bank Forced To Close; Shortage Found

MAUD, Okla. (UPI)—Over friendly business practices were blamed today for an estimated $350,000 shortage that forced the government to close the town of Maud's only bank six days before Christmas.

"This is a case of no money stolen, but the payment of excessive overdrafts and in accommodation of depositors," said B. C. Green, vice president of the First National Bank of Maud, a family-owned institution.

"We are covered by liability bond and there will be no loss to anyone."

Several businessmen in this central Oklahoma town of 1,136 offered to make loans to the bank to help make up the shortage. Bank officials talked to federal agents about making restitution, but it appeared definite that the bank would not reopen.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was preparing to make payments to depositors of up to $10,000 each.

The fellow who promises his girl the moon had better be prepared to provide her with a mink space suit.

Wise homemaker keeps sponge, squeegee and pan for suds handy for quick clean-up jobs, such as making picture window sparkling bright in just minutes.

Organization Key To Pre-Holiday Cleaning

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The flaws in how we budget our housekeeping time show up with embarrassing clarity around the holidays when social activities, church and social programs, special events and shopping put an added strain on the schedule.

Can we plan our time more efficiently? Certainly. But it takes effort and will power.

Not by nature a superbly organized homemaker, I nevertheless honor those who are and do attempt to adopt some of their philosophy. I've also been dipping into learned home economics articles on the management of time and energy, which may make life less harried.

One hazard to the well - planned schedule is the unplanned interruption. A good example is the over - long telephone conversation with a friend, but it doesn't get the beds made. When hardpressed for time, turn your back on this form of verbal recreation, switch off the phone bell and get the work finished.

We can develop greater proficiency in sandwiching in extra tasks, say the experts. With automatic laundry equipment, you can wash a load while you prepare breakfast.

This might be a special load, such as cushion covers or talbecloth and napkins, or curtains.

Clean up a kitchen drawer or bring order to a pantry shelf while dinner is cooking. Make minutes count, counsel the experts.

One secret of making minutes count, I've learned, is to keep minute - saving supplies at hand. For example: a needle, thread and scissors for prelaundry mending, for popped - off buttons, for rips or tears, are needed near the washing machine or drier as well as in the main sewing basket.

If you have spots that need the frequent touch of soap and water, such as banisters, kitchen woodwork or a living room picture window, keep a sponge, small pan and a squeegee conveniently near the kitchen sink. When smudges show on the window, it takes only a minute to add suds to the pan and sponge and squeegee the streaks away.

Emphasized by home economists and homemakers alike is the virtue of sharing housekeeping responsibilities with other members of the family. I would dearly love to share the responsibility of picking up his room with our 9 - year - old son, but his idea of picking up is merely to rearrange the clutter.

However, he can and does take out the trash, empty wastebaskets, care for the animals and shine the shoes.

Now might be a good time to review what responsibilities the children can assume. I was surprised and pleased the other day when our 12 - year - old did a thorough job of shampooing her little sister's hair —one job less for me on Saturday night.

If the strain of holiday housekeeping grows too great, consider what commercial services might be enlisted to help. For example, sending out the shirts for a week or two to a commercial laundry will salvage valuable time for other duties.

"Carry out" food service might be used occasionally for family dinners. Or, have groceries delivered by the independent grocer instead of standing in line at the supermarket.

Before you start to tell a sotry, be sure you'll be able to complete the story.

Dear Abby....

She Flips Because He Won't Chip

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have tried laughing, weeping, cussing and going home to mother, but I can't get my husband to finish the marble - topped coffee table he started three years ago. It's true, he has never finished anything he started, so I suppose I should be accustomed to it, but after 15 years this is ONE thing I want him to finish.

It is a lovely green marble which he bought in Spain, and would be perfect in our living room. He has the necessary tools, materials, ability and time.

If you print this, go ahead and use my real name. We have Air Force friends scattered over three continents who will know exactly who he is anyway. Hopefully,

STEVE'S MAGGIE

DEAR MAGGIE: Chip away at him, Honey. If it isn't finished by the first of the year, hire someone to do it.

DEAR ABBY: Tonight my love affair ended. I've read your column with mixed feelings because I know what it is to hunger for someone who can't be legally yours. I have something to pass on to those unfortunate mixed-up people (that's what we are) who try changing jobs or moving away but somehow always find a way to get together again.

I have a devoted husband, wonderful children and a full life. So why did I get myself into a situation which could destroy all this? I don't know the answer, and I don't think anyone does.

I am not a reigious person, Abby, but I prayed to God to help me WANT to end this thing. And, while praying, I really didn't want anything to change.

Tonight I sit here in amazement and I can't explain it. God must have worked the ending through my lover. I saw him today at our little meeting place. It became obvious to both of us that the desire for each other was gone. I suddenly feel differently about him. He is just "another man" when for so long he was my "everything." He took me back to my car and we hardly said goodbye. On the way home I knew I had to talk this over with someone so, Abby, you filled a real need for me. I think I got this out of my system for good. Tell others in the same situation that when friends, ministers and psychiatrists can't help, try prayer and be patient.

Thanks, Abby, for letting me tell you this. I'm signing my real name but please don't use it.

Sincerely,
MRS.—

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in her early teens. Several years ago her Daddy died on her birthday. I have wanted to give her a nice birthday party every year, but because it is also the anniversary of her Daddy's death, it spoils the day for all of us. Some say she should have no birthday party at all. Others say to pick another "birthday." If anyone else has had this problem I wish they could tell me how they solved it.

NO BIRTHDAY FOR NELLIE

DEAR NO: Your daughter shouldn't have a party on the anniversary of her father's death. But there is no reason why she couldn't celebrate her birthday a few days before, or a few days after.

Anemic Salaries Reason For Nursing Shortage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many women in white have plenty of reasons to sing the blues about the economic condition, the American Nurses' Association declares.

And, the ANA fears anemic salaries paid general duty nurses in non - governmental hospitals will mean that some patients just won't get good nursing care when they need it.

The association also reports that poor salaries in professional nursing also are responsible, to some extent, for a decline in the percentage of young people turning to the field.

In a new study—"Good Nursing Care, Is it There When You Need It?" — the ANA reported that the professional nurse on general duty in the typical hospital earns $3,800 a year.

This average compares to $5,215 on the average for a school teacher and $4,730 for a factory worker.

The ANA, in a national survey, already has found evidence that some "poorly paid" general duty nurses in non-governmental hospitals have deserted the bedside—for the more financially rewarding care of patients in governmental hospitals.

The survey, a spot check of non - governmental hospitals, showed that 20 per cent of the budgeted positions for professional nurses are unfilled.

The ANA said there are 504,000 active and 200,000 inactive nurses in the nation. Among the inactives are some who stay at home because there's not enough left in salary to make work worthwhile after paying someone to care for the children.

The Public Health Service, according to the ANA, recommends 300 nurses per 100,000 population. As matters now stand, the supply of active nurses is equivalent to 257 fulltime nurses per 100,000 population.

Class Party With Mrs. J. Haggard

Grace Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church held its Christmas party in the home of Mrs. John Haggard, 1301 N. Russell on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Mack Harmon, class president presided.

Mrs. Mattie Heath, vice president, led in prayer. Christmas carols were played throughout the afternoon by recordings.

Gifts were exchanged. Each member also brought a gift to be sent to the Orphan's Home; also monetary gifts were contributed to the Lottie Moon Christmas program.

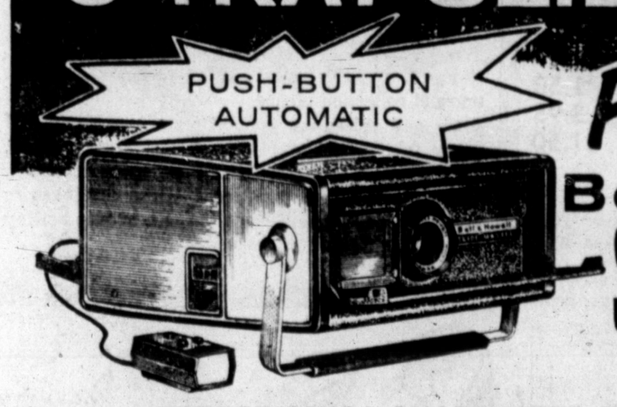

Christmas corsages were presented to president, vice president and class teacher.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Mary Bennett and Mrs. Lizzie Welton.

Eighteen members and one guest attended.

Southern Africa Acts To Attract White Settlers

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — South Africans read two contrasting stories in their newspapers recently. They illustrated the struggle of the dominant but outnumbered whites here to hold their ground in a rising black sea.

"State to open seven settler offices overseas," read one headline. It was the story of a new move by the government to attract white immigration to South Africa.

Two days later another story appeared. Its headline was "Goodbye South Africa Day for 600 Emigrants" — the largest number ever to leave in one day. They were sailing on the same ship to seek new lives in Australia.

The immigration and emigration figures reflect the uncertainty over what will emerge tomorrow, and in the next few years, from the racial tensions of South Africa.

Immigrants have outnumbered those leaving South Africa in almost every year since World War II. There have been few exceptions but last year was one. Nearly 3,000 more left than entered.

This year the tide has turned again. In the first seven months, over 9,500 arrived and almost 9,000 left.

These figures are whites. No one knows how many black Africans slip across the border each year, attracted, paradoxically, by the higher standard of living here.

The government estimates that there are at least one million foreign black Africans working here and has threatened to try to send many of them back to their countries.

The whites, with their superior techniques and Western civilization, run things in South Africa. Only they can vote and hold the best jobs. But they are outnumbered by more than three to one.

The latest figures show that there are slightly more than 3 million whites in South Africa, nearly 11 million blacks, 1.5 million mixed blood Coloureds and about half a million Indians.

An authoritative study has estimated that by the year 2000 there will be over 6 million whites — if there is immigration to help the natural increase. But there will be more than 21 million blacks, nearly4 million Coloureds and neary a million and a half Indians.

Just after World War II, the United Party government of the late Gen. Jan Christian Smuts embarked on a large-scale immigration program. But when the present governing National party came to power in 1948, it was stopped.

The predominantly Afrikaans-speaking Nationalists, descendents of the Dutch settlers, feared immigration would tip the scales against them, and in favor of the English-speaking whites.

Now, however, the Afrikaners have achieved their main objectives. In the past year, they have transformed South Africa into a republic and cut their ties with the British Commonwealth. Elections this week are expected to put the National party securely in power for another five years.

Those white South Africans leaving the country have been mostly English - speakers, disheartened by South Africa leaving the Commonwealth as well as doubt what the future will bring. The Afrikaners say they have no place else to go and intend to hold on here — if necessary, by force.

Black nationalism has swept most of the continent except here in the south.

The policy of the government has now turned to encouraging white immigration. The state's first immigration center was opened recently at Brakpan. It can handle 22,000 immigrants a year. Only four passed through it in the first month.

Many critics believe it is too late to get large-scale white immigration. The major postwar migrations from Europe are over. The life is attractive and the climate superb, but there is uncertainty about the future.

NUCLEAR AGE CHURCH—Construction begins soon on the first church in the nation designed to double as a community fallout shelter. Model above shows the Green Mountain Christian Church which will be built in Lakewood, a suburb of Denver, Colo. The shelter will accommodate up to 800 persons for a two-week period and will have ventilating equipment, air filtering machinery, generator and well for water. Emergency supplies such as food, blankets, medicine and clothing will be stored in the building.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States government probably spends almost enough on information services in these cold war days to pay the entire cost of government in one of the Coolidge economy years.

It is strange, therefore, that the U. S. public is not better informed. For example:

Edward R. Murrow is just back from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council meeting in Paris. Ahead of him came word that Murrow was unhappy with U. S. information activities at the council meeting. He is chief of the U. S. Information Agency. Murrow's was the old, old story well known to veteran newsmen here. The several NATO delegations agreed among themselves that news of the council meeting would be limited.

Each delegation was to reveal to reporters an agreed minimum about the vital public business transacted by the NATO council. So this occurred: The NATO British from time to time briefed the British newsmen. The NATO French from time to time briefed the French newsmen. And, so on. But the NATO Americans did not brief the American newsmen.

American citizens were not as well informed as they should have been about council events nor were they as well informed as the subjects and citizens of other NATO nations. The American delegation was well supplied with information officers. Murrow, himself, was there.

Perhaps the U. S. delegation led by Secretary of State Dean Rusk simply was double crossed on publicity by his opposite numbers. That could be how the propaganda goof occurred. But, another question is: Why?

Perhaps the reason is that our U. S. government public relations officers lack prestige with their bosses, lack any real authority. The word from Paris was that the chief military and diplomatic information officers attached to the U. S. council delegation were not permitted to attend some of the council sessions.

Whether their opposite numbers were present is not clear. Present or not, the foreign information officers seem to have been briefed by their principals who evidently trusted them with delicate information. In trusting the information officers, these principals also trusted their home country people who ultimately would get the information.

Trust is something that works both ways. If public officials have so little faith in the people, then the people may soon have even less faith in the public officials.

Quick Weather Tips From Jet Airliners Loom

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Jet airliners some day may drop down from high altitude and watch dangerous thunderstorm-cloud cover open up as if by magic.

A project called Pilot-to-Forecaster Service Test is trying to anticipate nature's sudden notions.

Impetus for the program was provided by mounting fatalities in airliner crashes and the anticipated increase in jet travel in the next five years.

Pilots in the project talk directly to a professional meterorologist by radio contact on 122.6 megacycles to determine weather reaction at the estimated time of arrival of the craft from 100 miles away.

Accuracy of this service is expected to be cut down to within a variance of plus or minus 30 seconds.

"Clear skies can change into a potentially dangerous thunderstorm in less than 30 minutes," Donald C. House, meteorologist in charge of the Kansas City Weather Bureau, said. "The reverse is also true.

"A better and faster means of reporting conditions is necessary.

"We want to know when one airport like Kansas City's Municipal will be closed by a low ceiling and when Fairfax, just a few miles away, will be open." That occurs frequently, House said.

U.S. Weather Bureau meteorologists and Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) facilities were combined here and in Washington, D.C., for the one - year test at a cost of $220,000.

Clarence W. Reynolds, Office of Aviation Weather Services, heads the project. It started July 1.

One of the problems of the jet age is to learn how to handle jet traffic at conjested air terminals in relation to the speed of the plane in the air.

When a jet makes a descent from a normal cruising altitude of 30,000 feet to two or three thousand feet, industry officials feel, it is better to land.

Fuel consumption is about doubled if the jet comes down for a landing and is forced to climb again.

House said the day of holding a plane over a terminal airport for two of three hours awaiting a break in the clouds will soon be over.

Meteorologists here agree weather is the most important single factor in contributing to airliner crashes.

An outstanding example of how dangerous a storm can be to a plane, House said, was the Capital Airlines Viscount crash May 12, 1959, near Baltimore. Twenty - seven passengers and three crew members were killed.

A new weather reporting system, House said, probably will be necessary to cope with this problem and it will be the start of a brand new field in meteorology.

Presently, reporting stations are spaced about 60 miles apart across the United States.

"It is impossible to know when airports will open and close without sufficient observational data," the 43 - year - old weatherman said.

"Our ability to predict is no better than our ability to observe."

Supplementary stations, manned or electronic, placed within 15 to 20 miles of an air terminal, could provide a more accurate reading of the ceiling and visibility, the two most important items, he said.

Radar is used but it lacks depth perception and sometimes weather is exaggerated or underestimated on the scope. Ground elements also can block out weather conditions.

Lubbock Couple Losers In Suit Against Surgeon

AUSTIN (UPI) — A Lubbock couple lost another attempt yesterday to recover damages from a doctor they accuse of negligence in an operation.

The State Supreme Court refused to change lower court rulings that found Dr. Clifford E. Payne was not negligent in his surgery on Mrs. William J. Shockley of Lubbock.

Mrs. Shockley and her husband brought a malpractice suit against Payne, contending the doctor caused abdominal damage in surgery to relieve blockage that followed previous operations.

The Lubbock trial court ruled in favor of the doctor, and the Shockleys appealed. The Court of Civil Appeals said Payne was the only medical witness and the court is bound by the fact that "he did a very effective job of absolving himself." The court affirmed the lower court decision.

Shockley and his wife contended the burden of proof that there was no negligence was on Payne and that he did not furnish enough proof. But the Supreme Court agreed with the Court of Civil Appeals that Payne had absolved himself of any negligence.

Crippled Children Stir Up Grid Stars

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The All-America stars comprising the East and West Shrine football teams visited the Crippled Children's Hospital this morning—and found out why they must give up their Christmas to compete in the charity classic Dec. 30.

There were very few quips tossed off at this heart-tugging visit and the players and coaches left grim-faced—ready for heavy duty when they start their two a-day practice grind Friday.

But in other appearances around the bay the past couple of days, the coaches have been convulsing the audiences with these stories:

East coach Bill Murray of Duke —"To give you an example of the prowess of our quarterback, Roman Gabriel, he threw a pass against us that was intercepted. We measured it in the fotos later and from the spot he threw to the spot our boy intercepted it was exactly 77 yards."

East coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue — "We have some fine backs on this East team — such as Bob Ferguson of Ohio State and Angelo Daberio of Notre Dame. We don't get that kind of backs at Purdue. Our idea of an offense is to recover an opposition fumble and maybe stumble over the goal line for a touchdown."

West coach Dan Devine of Missouri — "After spending the past two years in the Orange Bowl in Miami, it's nice to be here in the fog and rain and out of all that sunshine."

West coach Bill Meek of Southern Methodist (who has just been fired by the Mustangs)—"I have very little to say. Nobody listens to me recently and I'm learning to keep my mouth shut. I've gotten pretty dumb the last two years."

Devine again — "At an alumni meeting, I told them if they went out and got me boys like John Hadl and Curt McClinton of Kansas, I would produce a winner. Now I'm helping coach a team with Hadl and McClinton on it, so I guess I'll have to produce."

William Coffman, managing director of the Shrine game — "We still have about 5,000 tickets for sale. But we do have many satisfied customers. The first 25,000 tickets each year go to the same people who bought them 35 years ago. In fact, they are sitting in the same seats."

Scots Win Two PGA'S

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Although the Scots are credited with inventing golf, only two natives of Scotland have ever won the PGA championship. Jock Hutchison Sr., born in St. Andrews, took the title in 1920. Tommy Armour, born in Edinburgh, won in 1930.

Finally Avenged

RYE, N.Y. (UPI) — Three Turnesa brothers lost in the finals of the PGA championship. Joe bowed to Walter Hagen in 1927, Jim to Sam Snead in 1942 and Mike to Ben Hogan in 1948. Jim broke the family's losing streak by beating Chick Harbert in the 1952 final.

Richardson Top Man At Doubling

BOSTON (UPI)—Second baseman Bobby Richardson of the New York Yankees won the official stamp today as the best double play man in the American League.

Richardson started or took part in 136 double plays last season, more than any other infielder in the league, excluding first basemen, official 1961 fielding averages released by American League headquarters revealed today.

Despite his brilliance at making the double play, however, Richardson finished fourth in fielding among the league's second basemen with a .978 average. Chuck Schilling of the Boston Red Sox was the defensive leader at second base with .991.

Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox led all the shortstops in fielding for the third straight year with .962. Third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and first baseman Pete Runnels of the Red Sox rounded out the infield leaders. Robinson had a .972 average and Runnels fielded .995.

Sure-handed Jimmy Piersall, recently traded to Washington by Cleveland, paced the outfielders with .991, while veteran Sherm Lollar of the White Sox was high man among the catchers with .998.

In team fielding, the Yankees barely nosed out the Orioles, .9801 to .9797. The Yankees, in addition to making the most double plays, 180, also committed the least errors, 124.

Providence, Arizona State Lose Upsets Featured In College Tilts

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Christmas spirit, bah!

That's exactly how some of the nation's top-ranked college basketball teams feel about it and the reason is rather obvious.

For some, like fourth-ranked Arizona State University this has been a week of nightmares.

And it hasn't been joyous either for second-ranked Cincinnati or sixth-ranked West Virginia, both of whom suffered their first losses on Monday.

Providence and Arizona State also took their initial tumbles on Monday and as if things weren't bad enough, each performed an encore Wednesday night.

Underdog Xavier of Ohio handed Providence its second straight setback, 67-53, at Cincinnati, and Minnesota bowled over Arizona State, 70-68, at Minneapolis.

Providence, the defending NIT champions, looked more like sleep walkers Wednesday night, falling behind, 22-8, in the first five minutes. Xavier had a comfortable 36-19 lead at intermission and although the Friars from Rhode Island tried a pressing man-for-man defense in the second half, it didn't make much difference. Frank Pinchback led Xavier with 19 points.

Arizona State's loss to Minnesota came in one of those games where the losers wish they had it to play over again and the winners are happy they don't have to. The Gophers saw a 10-point lead shaved to one point at 69-68 with 45 seconds remaining.

The over-eager Arizonans then blew two fine scoring chances and Al Druskin's free throw after the final gun gave Minnesota its two-point margin. Eric Magdanz topped the winners with 23 points, while Ollie Payne and Larry Armstrong scored 16 apiece for the losers.

Up-and-coming St. John's warmed up for next week's Holiday Festival tournament with a 92-64 win over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in New York. Leroy Ellis tossed in 29 points for the Redmen, who spurted to a 30-6 lead in the first seven minutes and held a 46-33 margin at halftime.

Marquette coach Eddie Hickey celebrated his birthday Wednesday night and his team provided the perfect present for the man who has everything by walloping Wisconsin, 92-75, at Milwaukee.

Dave Erickson, particularly sharp with his shots from outside, paced Marquette with 24 points although Wisconsin's slick sophomore, Ron Jackson, took game honors with 29.

Warriors Rap Pistons For Victory

By United Press International

Although Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is averaging more than a point a minute, the Philadelphia Warriors aren't picking up much ground on the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race.

Chamberlain tossed in 55 points in leading the Warriors to a 117-102 victory over the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night in the feature game of an NBA twinbill at Detroit. The Los Angeles Lakers downed the Chicago Packers, 102-98, in the opener.

The Warriors' victory was their fourth straight and their seventh in their last nine games. However, they still rest 5½ games back of the Celtics, who have lost only four of their first 27 outings.

Chamberlain's latest burst gave him 1,553 points for the season. The Warriors have now played 32 games or a total of 1,536 minutes, so nobody can say Chamberlain isn't earning his paycheck.

Elgin Baylor tossed in 35 points and Jerry West added 30 in leading the Lakers to their victory over the Packers. Walt Bellamy of the Packers, though, wound up as the game's high scorer with 36.

There were no other games scheduled in the NBA Wednesday night.

Grambling Tops Small Colleges For Third Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—Grambling College of Louisiana, picked to win the national title this season, held the No. 1 spot in the United Press International small college basketball ratings for the third straight week today.

The Tigers, beaten only once in seven games this season through last Saturday's action, topped the nation's small giants with 20 first-place votes and 287 points. While that represented somewhat of a drop from a week ago when 23 of the 35 coaches who comprise the UPI rating board picked them No. 1, the Tigers still held a 50-point lead over the second-place team, which this week is unbeaten Evansville.

Evansville, which has won all four of its starts this season, polled three first-place votes but picked up enough second and third-place support to move past Tennessee State A&I into second place. The Tennessee Tigers, who have won both of their games thus far in a slow start, slipped a notch to third place in a shuffling among the teams from second through seventh place.

Prairie View A&M (5-0) moved up a notch to fourth place; Wittenberg, third a week ago, dropped to fifth; Southeast Missouri (4-1) moved up past Southern Illinois (4-2) into sixth, while Hofstra (4-1) held onto eighth, Westminster (Pa.) (4-0) remained ninth and Mt. St. Mary's (Md.) (6-1) stayed in 10th.

Bears, Tech Fall In Southwest Cage Play

By United Press International

Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Rice and Texas swing into action tonight in an attempt to bolster the Southwest Conference basketball record against outside foes.

In games Wednesday night, Georgia Tech blitzed Baylor 57-44, and Oklahoma City drubbed Texas Christian 73 to 62. The conference now has won 28 games and lost 21 against outside competition.

Tonight, Arkansas meets Louisiana State at Shreveport; SMU takes on Vanderbilt at Dallas; Rice plays Creighton at Omaha; and Texas tackles East Texas at Austin.

Tech led 27-24 at the half and battered Baylor in the final half with tap-ins and foul shots. Alan Nass dunked in 13 points to lead the Yellow Jacket assault.

John Hogard and Ronnie Phelps of Baylor each had 15 points. Baylor now stands 3-5 for the season.

Oklahoma City grabbed an early lead, then held off TCU in the final minutes. It was the first loss for the Horned Frogs in their new $1.5 million field house.

TCU, led by 6-9 center Alton Adams who sank 21 points, closed the gap to 64-60 with less than three minutes to play. The Chiefs went into a stall and TCU was unable to hit another field goal.

The Chiefs hit a torrid 52 per cent of their shots in the first half to bring TCU out of a zone into a man-to-man. TCU now has a 1-5 record.

Blanda Named Player Of Year In AFL Loop

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Blanda of the Houston Oilers, who has experienced his share of frustration and discouragement during a 12-year pro football career, today was chosen the 1961 American Football League "Player of the Year" by United Press International.

The 33-year-old placekicking quarterback star won the honor by a wide margin, attracting 17 of the 24 votes cast in the annual UPI poll of three regular AFL writers from each league city.

Blanda, once called a "major league misfit," recovered from a shaky start this season, regained all his passing and kicking finesse, and guided the Oilers to the Eastern Division championship of the AFL. Houston closed out the season with nine straight victories and qualified to meet the San Diego Chargers for the league championship next Sunday.

This was Blanda's outstanding season in a pro career that began back in 1949 with the Chicago Bears. He set AFL records by passing for 36 touchdowns and a total of 3,340 yards. He also kicked 16 field goals and a record 64 extra points. In all, he completed 187 of 362 passes for a 51.7 percentage.

He was voted all-league quarterback by a wide margin earlier this week.

In the balloting for Player of the Year, halfback Paul Lowe of the Chargers received two votes, while halfback Billy Cannon and flanker Charlie Hennigan of the Oilers, linebacker Sherrill Headrick of the Dallas Texans and quarterback Jack Kemp of the Chargers each had one vote.

Wheeler Named Head Coach At Abilene Christian College

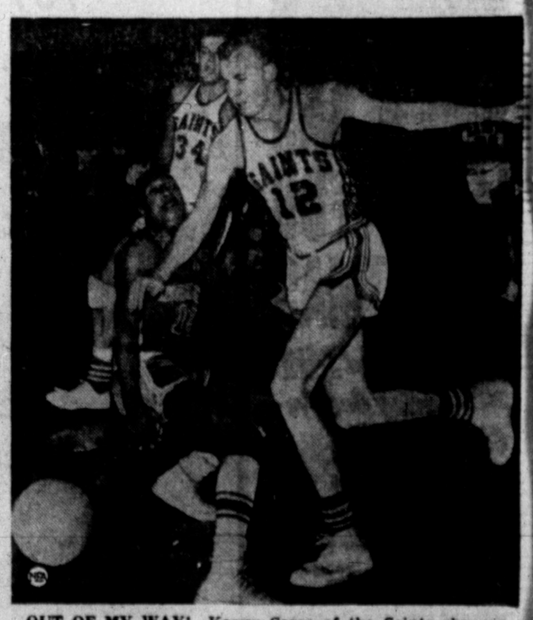

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—Lester Wheeler, assistant football coach at Abilene Christian College, has been named head coach at the school.

Wheeler, 30, succeeds N. L. (Nick) Nicholson, who announced his resignation on Dec. 11. Nicholson had served as head coach for six years. ACC had a 4-6 record this year.

Wheeler was a star tackle on the 1950 and 1951 ACC teams. The 1950 team won 11 games, posting the school's only undefeated season in its history.

He joined the Abilene Christian football staff in 1956 as a line coach, coming from Lamesa, Tex. high school, where he served as line coach and track coach. Wheeler was promoted to first assistant in 1959.

The selection of Wheeler was made by a committee of the ACC board of trustees and officials of the college. Terms were not announced.

O'Boyle Elevated To Head Gridiron Coach At Tulane

Succeeds Pilney In Major Move

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tommy O'Boyle, newly elevated to head football coach at Tulane, said today his major objective lay in recruiting — no easy assignment with Tulane's academic standards.

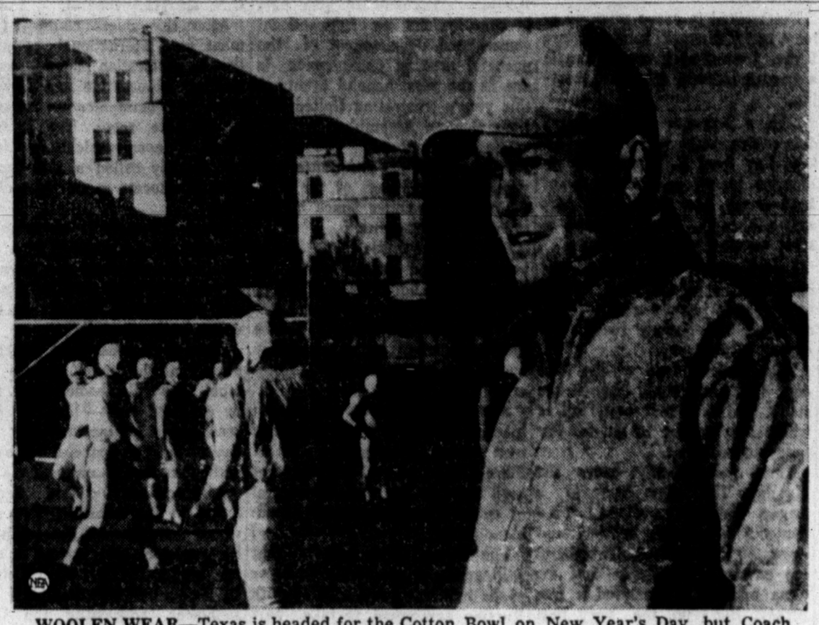

He was named unanimously Wednesday by a five-man Tulane committee to replace Andy Pilney, who resigned Nov. 22 just after finishing his fifth consecutive losing season. Tulane gave him a five-year contract.

O'Boyle, 44, was All-America while playing guard for Tulane in 1940 and 1941, his junior and senior years. He returned to Tulane last spring as line coach and Pilney's chief assistant, and has been acting head coach since Pilney's resignation.

Pilney resigned with an alumni group calling for his scalp. He had been on the staff for 16 years. In eight years as head coach, he had only two winning seasons. This year's 2-8 record ended with a 62-0 rout by traditional rival Louisiana State.

The alumni group also called for overhauling athletic policy at Tulane. But university president Herbert Longenecker said there would be little change in it. Several of the Green Wave's best players have flunked out because of unrelenting adherence to academic standards.

O'Boyle previously served as line coach at Duke, Miami and Kansas State. He also was athletic director and head coach at Southwest Missouri State.

Cougars Ease By Rebels In Two Overtime Sessions, Win 63-62

By United Press International

Basketball fans of the University of Houston may still be in a slight case of shock today.

The Cougars had to go into two overtimes Wednesday night to nip Mississippi 63-62 in a spine-tingling non-conference encounter at Houston.

Forward Donald Schverak was the hero. He sank a frantic jump shot with three seconds left in the second overtime to leave the fans limp. Schverak scored all six Houston points in the second extra period.

The teams went into the first overtime period tied at 55-55. At the end of the first overtime period the score was 57-57.

Sophomore guard Donnie Kessinger led Mississippi with 22 points. Lyle Harger, Houston center, had 16.

North Texas State snapped a five-game losing streak, crushing cold - shooting Hardin - Simmons 89-56.

The Eagles hit 52 per cent of their field shots, and John Savage pumped in 29 points for the winners. Barry Oxford was high for the losers with 12 points.

At Beaver Falls, Pa., Texas Southern rallied in the second half to trim Geneva College 87-67. The visitors trailed 49-43 at halftime. Andrew Cole and Charles Redmond led Texas Southern with 23 and 22 points. Pete Croud had 24 for Geneva.

Singles Tourney Plans Expansion

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 1962 national singles tennis championships will be expanded from 10 days to a full two weeks, according to an announcement by Edward A. Turville, incoming president of the USLTA.

The West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, N.Y., as usual, will be the site of the national singles, but the new dates are from Monday, Aug. 27, through Sunday, Sept. 9.

Turville, who made the announcement Wednesday, added that the expansion of the tourney falls in line with other plans which will make the national singles one of the most attractive events of its type.

A chartered plane will be engaged to fly 80 men and women players from Europe to compete in the tourney; foreign and U.S. players will parade with their national flags in an Olympic-type opening ceremony, and each day of the tourney will be designated in honor of a particular country participating, with United Nations ambassadors and other officials taking part.

Friend Still Uses Two-Handed Shots

By United Press International

When they invented the three-point shot in the American Basketball League, they must have had Larry Friend of Los Angeles in mind.

The former California ace is one of the few players around who still uses the two-handed set. He's deadly from the 30-40 foot range with his graceful dead-ball shots that just seem to fall through the basket.

Wednesday night he hit three more to lead the tough Jets past Washington, 93-89. It ran Friend's league-leading total to 44 of the long bombs and moved the Jets to within three games of idle Kansas City.

San Francisco bounced Hawaii, 103-95, and Chicago edged Cleveland, 98-94, in other action.

While Friend was cannonading from outside, Danny Swartz took care of the middle range and Bill Spivey the in-close stuff. They ended up with 16, 25 and 23 points, respectively.

Sy Bly had 21 for the Tapers.

Chicago's win over Cleveland moved the Majors past Washington into third spot in the American Basketball League.

It was 94-94 when Leroy Gibson hit a jumper and Tony Wilcox added two free throws to decide it. Herschel Turner collected 21 to lead the winners while Jack Adams had 20 for Cleveland.

Adams fouled out with five minutes to go, which made things a little easier for Chicago.

San Francisco is staying in the ABL race largely at the expense of the Chiefs. They grabbed a 14-3 lead early in the going and were never headed.

Mike Farmer hit 8 of the first 14 points and ended up with 22 tallies. Dead-eye Frank Burgess paced the Chiefs with 31 tallies.

Hefferle Named Line Coach At Pittsburgh

NEWTON, Mass. (UPI) — Former Boston College football coach Ernie Hefferle packed his bags today to return to Pittsburgh—the city where he first made a name for himself on the gridiron.

In a move that was not entirely unexpected, Hefferle resigned his head coaching post at Boston College Wednesday to accept a job as offensive line and end coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

The balding, craggy-nosed former Duquesne University football star (1933-1936) thus returns to the job he held for eight years before coming to Boston College. Hefferle was at Pitt from 1950 to 1958. Shortly before coming to BC he served one year as line coach for the Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

Hefferle's failure to beat arch-rival Holy Cross and his overall 7-12-1 record at Boston College during his two-season tenure had led to rumors he might be replaced. But his resignation apparently caught BC officials unaware.

A 46-year-old native of Herminie, Pa., Hefferle was the first non-alumnus to coach BC since Frank Leahy in 1941. During his high school coaching career from 1937-1950 in Pennsylvania, his teams compiled an astonishing 53-15-2 record.

Texans Sign Two Miami Linemen

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Texans of the American Football League Wednesday signed two giant University of Miami linemen, Bill Watts and Bill Diamond, who weigh a combined total of 475 pounds.

Both were free agents in the AFL.

Watts, 6-2, 240, is a tackle. Diamond, 6-1, 235, is a guard and a brother of Dallas Texan offensive tackle Charlie Diamond.

Another Miami lineman, end Bill Miller, signed a Texan contract earlier.

Miss. State Hires New Assistant

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi State University head football coach Paul Davis has named Frank Jones, head coach at Presbyterian College, his chief assistant.

Athletic director Wade Walker announced that Jones was hired on recommendation of Davis.

Jones, 39, will serve as offensive backfield coach in charge of overall offense, the same post Davis held before being elevated to the head coaching job earlier this month. Davis succeeded Walker.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilites in harmony with the above moral principles.

How To Destroy Character

The press reports Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., special assistant to the President, as saying that "the best security" against communism is for the welfare state to provide food, clothing, shelter, education and "opportunity" for the people. But that is communism! So Dr. Schlesinger would have us avoid communism by adopting it.

No state could make a serious attempt to provide for all its people the goods and services involved in that program without controlling their education, activities, incomes, and the content of their minds.

Most people would make little effort of their own if the state were trying to provide these things for them. Even the Soviet Union has not adopted so complete a program for the destruction of individual effort, initiative and human personality.

Already, we've made loafers and moral derelicts out of a huge segment of the population by coddling them with our welfare programs.

Into The Fire

Let's get it straight. To oppose Russia or Khrushchev, is not necessarily to oppose communism. Unless we are careful, thru excessive dependence on government, we will adopt communism in order to defeat Russia, under the supposition that when we defeat Russia we will be defeating communism.

Slipshoddery Growing

Bill Mauldin first skyrocketed himself to fame by drawing cartoons for the Army's daily newspaper, "The Stars and Stripes." His sketches of the World War II "dog - face" properly brought him great attention and much favorable acclaim.

Now Mauldin has branched into the field of writing and he has an excellent treatment of a current malady in a late issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Mauldin's theme is one arising from the "do - it - yourself" craze which hit the nation some years ago and resulted in a widespread invasion of the amateur into a thousand and one useful arts in the maintenance and repair fields.

To begin with, as Mauldin puts it, he scorned this craze and snobbishly insisted that if he wanted a plumber to plumb or a carpenter to carp, he would hire one. But after a few years of insisting on this procedure he has been lured into the do - it yourself field himself.

He discovered as so many of us have, that if you have any problems relating to the operation of the hundreds of gadgets about the house; if you want a paint job or a cabinet installation; if the pipes are clogged or the TV antenna is loose; your best bet is to get the proper tools, read up on the skill and then undertake the chore yourself.

It may seem like the long way around to get anything done, but in the end it turns out to be about the one sure way to get quality work done with a minimum of cost. Of course, it cuts into a man's free time. Setting one's self up as a general all-round handy man can cut in on the fishing, the golfing or the reading. But there is nothing quite so frustrating as to pay high hourly rates to some incompetent union bungler only to end up having to do the job over AFTER you have paid extortionately for the service you didn't really get.

This malady is something that has been noticed from coast to coast. So prevalent is it that even in some factories, top management is turning grey over the refusal of certain workers to work, and the way their hands, are tied by government red tape and union contract to prevent the abrupt firing the worthless wage collector deserves.

Only recently, George Romney of the Rambler line of motor cars descended on his 9,000 employees in his Milwaukee plant and screamed and roared at them because they simply were not working in a way that would make it possible for him to fill the orders.

In this one instance, the report is that Romney got thru. But in thousands of instances there is no one to roar, or even if the roaring occurs, no results ensue.

Worst of all are the repair and maintenance fields. There seems to be such a yearning on the part of workers for the "easy life" that even when they are supposed to be toiling, or at least competently seeking to improve their skills, they are "horsing" around and turning out such a shoddy performance that their contribution is worse than nothing at all.

We submit that Mr. Mauldin has both wrathfully and rightfully pointed his finger in the general direction of the moral breakdown so often noted and commented upon in this country. There was a time when a workman really thought that for him to deserve his pay he had to do something to earn it. Now, it is enough it seems, for him to put in his time.

The enormus slipshoddery has been encouraged manfully by legislation which pays workers for not working, which guarantees them a minimum wage, which makes them the pampered pets of the labor department and which has brought into existence a hundred and more union racketeers who "protect" the shiftless and the incompetent.

Today, it is literally true that many an employer will keep on the payroll someone who is totally unfit because the chore of displacing him is more costly and burdensome than giving him the heave - ho.

Where is the old - fashioned pride of workmanship, the love of excellence, the moral concept of something for something? Alas, like freedom, tho it was dearly won, it is easily lost.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, Dec. 21, the 355th day of the year with 10 to follow in 1961.

The moon is full.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1620, the Pilgrims set foot for the first time on American soil at Plymouth, Mass.

In 1942, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the validity of six week divorces being granted throughout the state of Nevada.

In 1953, ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran was convicted by a military court of having attempted to foment and lead a revolt against the shah.

In 1957, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko urged that a disarmament agreement be sought through a special United Nations General Assembly session or world conference.

A thought for the day: It is written in the New Testament according to St. John: "In my father's house there are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Q — In the event of a blood disturbance due to indiscriminate use of drugs, must the condition be regarded as permanent or can corrective measures be taken?

A — First let me comment on your use of the word "indiscriminate." In most instances of harm from drugs of whatever type, the disturbance is not due to misuse of the medication but to an unpredictable and unavoidable hypersensitivity reaction. Such a reaction, for example, may follow the ingestion or injection of the tiniest dose.

However, to answer your question, a blood disturbance due to a hypersensitivity reaction or even the result of overdosage is not permanent. With discontinuance of the drug, the blood will recover completely if the patient survives. And the rate of survival is exceedingly high, particularly if the condition is recognized early and vigorously treated.

Q — Can you tell me what causes bleeding under the skin? My husband has been in the hospital for 10 days and he still gets fresh spots.

A — Bleeding under the skin (purpura), not the result of injury, may be a manifestation of serious disease that is often difficult of detection. I would not presume to offer a diagnosis when a 10 - day period of hospitalization has failed to come up with an explanation of the condition.

I suggest that you consider the possibility of a hypersensitivity to, or poisoning with, some outside substance such as a drug as simple as a painkiller, a headache remedy or a chemical to which a worker might be exposed on the job.

Q — I am 96 years old and have trouble swallowing food. As a consequence, I live in dread of choking. Have you any suggestions?

A — Perhaps I should be the one to ask advice. If, at age 96, you can write the bold and beautiful script that marks your letter, maybe you'll tell us some of the secrets of growing old gracefully.

As to your swallowing problems I can ony suggest that you moisten your mouth and gullet before you eat by perhaps taking a tablespoonful of olive oil, choosing soft foods, taking abundant time between swallowing, sipping your favorite beverage throughout your meal and, after meals, washing your food down with milk or a milk product (ice cream).

Q — Our neighbor's girl of 11 just returned from the hospital following an attack of hepatitis. Yesterday I saw her kiss my 2-year - old son on the lips. Now I'm wondering whether the germs can be transmitted that way?

The virus of infectious hepatitis (Catarrhal jaundice) is not transmitted by way of the mouth. It is transmitted by way of the bowel and, through contact with the lower bowel or the bowel movement, by way of soiled fingers.

Nevertheless, the general practice of kissing children, and especially of kissing them on the mouth, is a dangerous way of showing affection and a selfish one since most children derive no enjoyment whatsoever from the practice. In point of fact, many resent being bussed, and twist and turn to avoid a kiss.

If the kissers would only give thought to the menagerie of organisms that may be transmitted to the helpless object of their affection, I'm sure they'd content themselves with a pat on the head or a bit of a squeeze.

"After reading your column on wives not being to blame for alcoholic husbands, I'd like to shake your hand. Yes, I've got one. He hates his job and is afraid to try another. He used to get drunk only over weekends and on special occasions. Then the weekends got longer until now they are longer than the weeks.

"I am sick up to here of TV and magazines blaming everything and everybody but the person himself for his vices. I wish some of the so - called experts had to live with an alcoholic for a while." — Mrs. A.

"Writing this to say 'thank you' on behalf of all the unselfish women who have the will power to give of themselves to be helpful and understanding to weak-willed alcoholics. These women deserve gratitude for what they suffer in trying to help some one who needs their help.

"Criticism and punishment are the last things they need. Chances are they never dreamed what they were in for when they got married.

"I am not overlooking the fact that there are women who actually drive a man to drink by their demands and their lack of understanding. Most of us get to the point, however, where the only peace we get is when the man is dead drunk, because, when he sobers up, he is in an unbearable mood." — M. D. L.

"We have just discussed your article on the wives of alcoholics in our Al-Anon Family Group which consists of those of us who are wives of alcoholic husbands and also the husbands of alcoholic wives.

"Many of us felt very guilty and responsible for our spouse's condition until we came to Al-Anon and discovered that alcoholism was a disease against which the victim was powerless.

"Thank you for all of us for letting people know more about this insidious condition." — Mrs. B.

Q — Is it true that pulling on a hair in the ear can stop an attack of hiccoughs? Every once in a while I get an attack but that's one thing I've never tried.

A — It's quite true as evidenced by a recent report published in the respected New England Journal of Medicine. The explanation for the relief has to do with the nerve pathways that get a bit mixed up in the regions of the nose, throat and ear. It long has been noted by doctors that patients cough when a speculum or an applicator is inserted into the ear canal. The same reflex that causes the ear - cough is probably responsible for the relief of the attack of hiccoughs. Anyway it's worth a try.

Castro, on Kremlin Orders, Accelerating Action To Undermine Latin-American Governments

WASHINGTON — On the direct orders from the Kremlin, Fidel Castro is stepping up the export of Cuba's Communist revolution to other Latin American countries.

The first Red Dictator of the Americas has sent instructions to all Castro-Communist groups in South America to intensify the cold war with a series of violent "action" programs against the present governments.

These secret instructions, intercepted by a U.S. intelligence agency in Argentina, call for:

—Establishment of Communist guerrilla bases in the Andes mountain range running from Colombia to Chile;

—Expulsion of the U.S. from all military and missile tracking bases throughout South and Central America, including the naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba;

—Staging of organized demonstrations in Argentina, Brazil, and Venezuela for reduction of military forces and defense expenditures;

—Organizing campaigns opposing President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program and supporting programs expanding trade with the Sino-Soviet bloc including Cuba.

These instructions are based on a master Communist plan for taking over South America that two Soviet diplomats delivered to Castro on November 25, a copy of which has fallen into the hands of the U.S. government.

According to testimony given the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee by an anti - Castro undercover agent just back from Cuba, these Soviet diplomats carried the instructions from the Kremlin for Castro to make his Communist declaration. This Castro unmasking took place on December 2, or just a week after the diplomats arrived in Havana.

CASTRO'S CHALLENGE — These documents, which the State Department will turn over to the Organization of American States in January, reveal clearly that Castro feels he has Soviet backing to openly take the offensive in stirring up Communist revolts in the hemisphere.

For example, one set of instructions signed by Ramon Aja, head of the Cuban Department of Latin American Affairs, and sent to Communist groups in Argentina, Brazil, and Colombia, reveals that transport planes will begin air dropping Cuban trained guerrilla fighters and arms in specially designated areas in the mountain ranges of Colombia and Ecuador early next year."

The transports and supplies needed for this covert operation are now enroute to Cuba from the Soviet Union and its Eastern European Communist satellites. Also, Ernesto "Che" Guevara, the Communist's number one guerrilla warfare expert in the hemisphere, is in charge of this operation.

Other Communist operations are spelled out in a document signed by Dr. Carlos Olivares Sanchez, Castro's political undersecretary. It instructs Argentine Castro-Communist groups, "to win over the populace by an active and vigorous campaign of publicity and public acts along the lines that the future society depends upon the economic principles of Marx and Lenin."

This document calls for the use of "petitions, riots, and demonstrations for the expulsion of military bases and missile tracking stations of the U.S. from Argentina." The Argentina military services are to be discredited by "organized demonstrations calling for their reduction with the money savings being diverted for the construction of more housing and the improvement of the education of the people." Similar instructions were sent from Havana to Communist groups in Brazil and Venezuela.

Other secret instructions by Castro to Communist groups in these three nations ordered "organized protests in all schools against military training" and for full support of "politics of expanding world markets without ideological discrimination."

INSIDE NEWS NOTES — According to information gathered by the Defense Intelligence Agency, one of the two Yugoslav freighters that picked up U.S. jet airplanes on the West Coast in November spent five days docked in Havana enroute to Yugoslavia. However, U.S. intelligency agents operating in Cuba were unable to determine whether any of the planes on the freighter TRBOVJLE were unloaded, because Cuban authorities completely sealed off an area of three square blocks near the docks. The State Department has cabled the U.S. Embassy in Belgrade to have its Army military attache inspect the ship's cargo when it docks in Yugoslavia. The freighter GUNDULEC after clearing the Panama Canal sailed directly to a Yugoslavia port according to U.S. Naval intelligence . . . Secretary of State Dean Rusk is urging President Kennedy to replace Ambassador James Gavin because of his failure to get President Charles deGaulle, of France, is to go along with a U.S. proposal for East-West negotiations over West Berlin. One of General Cavin's close friends in the Army reports that the U.S. Ambassador to France is so upset by some of Secretary Rusk's policies that he may resign with a blast. Should Gavin leave his Paris post, Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, is a good bet to replace him. Lodge has already assured the President that his services are available if he should need them.

Hankerings

By HENRY McLEMORE

Determined to carve properly at least one Christmas turkey before I die, I enrolled a month ago in a correspondence school of carving.

Like a beginner in any art, I didn't start right off with a turkey. Far from it. After an introductory lesson on knives (what kind to use, how to sharpen, care and use, etc.), I was allowed to start carving on a meat loaf.

I gave myself an A-plus on the meat loaf. It is an ideal "bird" to carve. It has no wings, legs, or neck, and doesn't resist the carver in any way.

The same is true of the hot dog, the pork chop, the sirloin steak, and the meat ball, all of which I advanced to as the lessons moved along.

Then, just recently, came the big day. The lesson came in a larger, heavier envelope. The contents felt much bulkier, and were. At first, from the weight of the envelope, I thought that my alma mater had enclosed a free turkey. But no, the very first thing on the instruction sheet was information as to the size of the turkey I should buy for practice.

So I bought a nine-pound turkey (frozen), had my wife cook it, and I stood by sort of like a surgeon's nurse in a operating room. I even scrubbed up before I started, and slipped on an apron voluminous enough to pass for a gown.

"The sharpest knife we have," I said to Mary.

It was in my hand before I knew it.

With a quick glance at the diagram of a turkey's body on my instruction sheet, I made the first incision — a deep gash roughly where the thigh joins the rest of the turkey.

"Hold his head, nurse," I barked to Mary as the turkey, as if flinching, slid sideways on the platter.

Grasping the drumstick I sawed away, only to run into a part of the turkey that my book had never mentioned. It was, as far as I could determine, a thin layer of concrete reinforced with steel ribs.

"The hatchet, nurse," I commanded.

Mary went to the back porch and returned with the hatchet.

A few sharp, decisive blows broke through the turkey's concealed armor plate and one leg was on the platter. Six chops of the hatchet and the other leg was off. The book then said to carve the meat off the legs and thigh, but that was not necessary. The meat was already off, shredded by the hatchet's whacks.

Afraid that the operation was taking too long, I gave up the use of the knife on the wings and used my hands. For those interested, a counter-clockwise motion is best for wrenching off the wings of a turkey.

"Splendid job, sir," I heard Nurse Mary mutter.

"Thank you," I said, and attacked the breast with its white meat. This time I used the knife, and managed to cut away huge chunks, roughly the size of hens' eggs.

At last the job was finished. The turkey was not only carved, but blasted. Stuffing was everywhere. The bird looked as if a hand grenade had exploded in its middle.

"Ready to eat," I said, stepping back.

"Ready to collect," the nurse said.

We ate the turkey and threw the books out the window.

Carvers are born, not made.

Bid For A Smile

An examining physician of a psychiatric hospital was testing the mental capacity of an incoming patient:

Doctor — Now, my good man, what would happen to you if I cut off one of your ears?

Patient (sanely) — I couldn't hear so well.

Doctor — And what if I cut off both your ears?

Patient — I couldn't see.

Doctor (indulgently) — And why, my good man, would you not be able to see?

Patient — Well, you see Doc, if you cut off both my ears my hat would fall down over my eyes.

Far Out On Earth, Reds In Orbit On Space Talk

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Soviet Russia's agreement to take part in consultations on international control and development of the peaceful uses of outer space is one of the most hopeful events in this year's frustrating United Nations General Assembly.

The important point is that the Russians have for two years prevented any meetings of the U.N. Committee on Outer Space by demanding veto rights.

But this committee has now been expanded from 24 to 28 members by addition of Chad, Morocco, Mongolia and Sierra Leone. They obviously know little and have small futures in outer space, but so do most of the others.

Anyway they have now unanimously agreed to begin meetings next March, recognizing that there can be no real disarmament until there is international control of outer space as well as of nuclear testing.

The hopeful sign here is that willingness to co-operate in outer space has now been coupled with Russian agreement to take part in furthering talks before a new, 18-nation disarmament commission. It will replace the 10-nation Geneva conference the Russians walked out on in June 1960.

The Russians may have a selfish security interest in this new attitude. The development of observation satellites orbiting the earth every 90 minutes to spy and report on what goes on below may in time make preparations more difficult for any country planning surprise aggressive attack.

Still more important than this, the development of orbiting satellites loaded with nuclear weapons that could be released on radio command and guided from the earth to attack any designated target threatens every country's security.

The only way this can be prevented is international agreement not to militarize outer space. But the problems of inspection and control are obviously more difficult than on the earth's surface, underground or in submarines.

So far, neither the United States nor Soviet Russia has made any charges that its sovereignty has been invaded by the overhead passage of satellites in orbit.

There are now 31 American satellites in orbit. Ten are transmitting information back to earth. Russia has only one satellite in earth orbit and it is silent.

Some of the U.S. satellites have been used for weather observation and forecasting. The science is not far enough advanced to spot missile launching sites, but that's coming. And from the Russian point of view, a spy is a spy, no matter how high he flies.

An interesting case is being argued experimentally by space lawyers that Gary Powers in the U-2 was no more potentially dangerous as a spy than Russian Major Yuri Gagrin, making the first space flight around the earth in the Vostok.

The question to be determined is where free outer space begins, if national sovereignty doesn't extend to infinity.

What is proposed for United Nations consideration is recognition that international law, including the U.N. charter, extend to outer space. The first step toward control would be agreement to report all space vehicle launchings for their registration by the U.N. secretary-general.

After this might come agreement for international co-operation in exploration of outer space, weather observation and development of communication systems by satellite relay. The International Telecommunications Union has already called a 1963 conference to allocate space radio channels.

Other problems to come up later include the creation of a mutual insurance fund for payment of damages from satellite crashes and safeguards against outer space contamination.

Also, there must be a determination that the moon, planets and other heavenly bodies that may be explored are — like the high seas under international law today — open to peaceful use by all without regard to national claims.

A precedent for this already exists in the Antarctic Treaty which demilitarizes the south polar continent and makes it open for exploraton by all countries. In September 1960 President Eisenhower, addressing the U.N., suggested that the Antarctic principle be extended to outer space.

The Nation's Press

THE BIGGEST COMPETITOR.
(The Wall Street Journal)

If you were manufacturing, say, automobiles and your biggest competition was tying up for himself raw material producers by means of rigged price deals so attractive that your old suppliers just weren't interested in selling to you any more, you'd be pretty mad. You might even go to the Justice Department to complain.

But suppose your competitor were the Federal Government? What would you do then? You'd probably do just what the canning companies that have been buying sweet corn and peas from independent farmers are going to do.

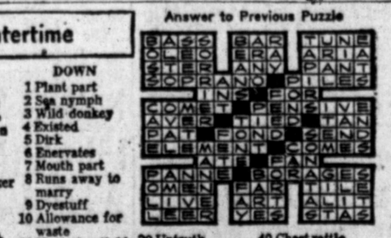

The plight of these canners illustrates all too clearly how Government manipulation of farm crop prices can have wholly unforseen, and unhappy, results. When Agriculture Secretary Freeman last spring raised the support price on feed corn from $1.06 to $1.20 a bushel, and on soybeans from $1.85 to $2.30, immediately it became more profitable for farmers to grow feed corn and soybeans for the Federal surplus than sweetcorn and peas for sale.

As a farmer succinctly commented to our Mr. Gannon: "The Government offers such a good deal on feed corn, it just doesn't pay to grow vegetables for canners." Being thus forced to pay more for the corn and peas they need canners are planning to pass on their increased costs to consumers. And they'll have to lease or buy land on which to start growing more of their own corn and peas.

What must be mightly discouraging to the canning folks is that the Government's rigging of farm prices leads inevitably and directly to the creation of unfair— and, in this instance, unbeatable—competition. And this is just the sort of finagling a vigilant Government is constantly going into court to try to prohibit, when it assumes the role of protector of the poor consumer. But when the Government plays the part of the biggest competitor, armed with broad price-fixing powers — well, that's quite another matter.

Virginia Still Retains Belief In Santa Claus

NORTH CHATHAM, N. Y. (UPI)—Yes, Virginia still believes in Santa Claus.

"My first doubt about Santa Claus 64 years ago was my last one," Mrs. Laura Virginia Douglas said.

She was recalling a letter she wrote to a newspaper back in 1897 when she was 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon. Her letter evoked the classic Christmas editorial, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

Mrs. Douglas, 72, a widow, lives with her daughter and seven grandchildren in this village 25 miles from Albany.

"The spirit of Christmas still lives and I was fortunate enough through the years to have been with children every Christmas," she said. She taught and supervised schools in New York's Lower East Side for 43 years before retiring in 1959.

"I think the answer to my letter was a wonderful thing and I think it achieved immortality for its writer," Mrs. Douglas said of the editorial written by Frank P. Church in the old New York Sun.

Snakes, Insects, Fish Help Solve Engineering Jobs

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — What's new in space today; Bugs, rattlesnakes, whales, mice and monkeys.

Rattlesnakes are teaching man how to detect danger. Mosquitoes how to communicate. Goldfish how to live with weightlessness.

The animal kingdom now is now of the most intense areas of investigation in American industry.

More than 20,000 biologists work in corporate research laboratories in this country, according to the authoritative National Science Foundation.

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation reports each of its major divisions now houses a life - sciences section seeking new light on ocean, space and air systems.

Presently starring at a laboratory partially supported by the Lockheed-California Company in Tubingen, Germany, is the common mosquito. Why? Because, it seems, one mosquito can talk to another mosquito can talk to another mosquito as much as 150 feet away with complete indifference to all interfering noises that nature, and the scientists, can devise.

And interference is a prime problem in man's ever - lengthening communications — under the sea, in the air, in outer space.

How does the mosquito manage this? Nobody knows. Neither wind nor thunder nor raucous sirens can cut through the hum a mosquito generates by vibrating its wings. If and when the specialists figure it out, Lockheed may be able to apply it ot communications systems in today's missiles, satellites, airplanes and submarines.

Rattlesnakes taught biologists lessons in infra - red perception that antedated what is probably the most sophisticated satellite ever lofted. This is Midas, one of Lockheed's educated satellite family.

Ripping around the globe in circular polar orbit, hundreds of miles up, Midas is designed to "feel" and report instantly, through infra - red sensing, the launching of a rocket or missile anywhere on earth.

So sensitive it its scanning equipment that it reportedly can distinguish the fiery tail of an ICBM leaving its launch pad from all other hot spots on earth.

The old city of Boston once was located on three hills: Beacon, Fort and Copp's.
