It's showtime! The 2001 football season is here and the defending Class 3-2A champion Colorado City Wolves are set to kick this season off by hosting popular foe Stamford Bulldogs in a 7:30 p.m. Friday battle at Wolf Stadium.

The Wolves are pumped up and anticipating another run for the title but would love to carry the season on a little further than the first round of the playoffs the team made it to last year.

The Wolves went undefeated in district play in their inaugural season in Class 2-A ball in a district that was said by many to one of the toughest in the state.

Second place finisher Stanton made it all the way to the state quarter finals before bowing out to eventual state champion Celina.

But for Colorado City, unfinished business is at hand.

Head Coach Gerald James believes this year's squad is very capable of extending its season.

"Our kids felt like the season finished too soon last year," said James. "This year they feel like they have something to prove, not only to themselves but to the fans who supported them all last season."

The red and black return 11 lettermen from last season, including all-district and all-Big Country wide receiver Marquise Lenard.

Hospital project getting back on track

On a 4-2 vote, County Hospital Board members Tuesday night approved a change order to remove the old sand softened hospital building pad and replace it with dirt that will be acceptable to the general contractor.

Austin architect Robert Cox and Project Manager Bob Wallace of Lockhart discussed the situation at length with Cox finally saying, "I don't think there are any other options."

The order's price tag is $378,000, but Wallace said it will be paid under protest.

It also adds 126 days to Cooper Construction Co.'s original 450 day contract.

Work has been stopped since late July, when Cox told Cooper not to proceed with any concrete work because the sand could make the foundation unstable.

Dirt to build the four foot tall pad was taken by county road and bridge crews from the Colorado Riverside west of the construction site at Rogers Road and South Interstate 20.

Pct. 1 Commissioner Ed Roach and his foreman, Cecil Crow, said they and other commissioners and crews are ready to resume work when a new interlocal governmental agreement is signed between the county and hospital district.

The plumbing Cooper has installed in the pad will also have to be taken out.

Cox and commissioners were scheduled to meet Wednesday about a new agreement specifying that the county's new work has a value of

Shirley Clifton and Larry Johnson voted "nay" when the motion was made by Rogers, seconded by Geiger and backed by Martinez and Larry DeBusk.

Ms. Clifton and Johnson said they wanted the change order's language to be more specific.

The board indicated the revised interlocal agreement could be voted on when the panel convenes in a special See HOSPITAL, page 5

Rains help wheat prospects, arrive too late for cotton

Recent rainfall might have come too late to be of a great benefit to Mitchell County cotton, but it will get the about to be planted wheat crop off to a good start.

About three inches have fallen in parts of the county in the past two weeks, including a half inch Sunday and as much as 1 1/2 inches south of town Tuesday along Hwy. 163 in the vicinity of Morgan Creek Plant.

Keith Hiser, county Farm Service Agency executive director, said late planted cotton whose bolls are still developing benefitted most from the rains, along with about 20,000 acres of wheat to be planted in the next two weeks.

He will have a more precise production estimate from the county's approximately 50,000 cotton acres for the annual Mitchell County Farm Tour on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

But for now he is projecting no more than the 1999 crop -- 17,000 to 18,000 bales.

"I think most of the cotton See CROPS, page 4

Bluegrass "pickers" coming with cookoff, other events

The closure of the most popular bluegrass music weekend in Texas is expected to help the Second Annual Colorado City Bluegrass Festival Sept. 21-23 in Ruddick Park.

More than 150 people were listening last year on the south side of the park when a 5 p.m. Saturday rain made everyone run for cover.

The music resumed a half hour later, but without amplification because the sound system was knocked out.

"We were getting a good drive in crowd when it rained," said Chairman Edith Womack. "If it hadn't been for that, we would have gone way over the break-even point."

"We still came pretty close to breaking even. It was a success, and I feel like we're going to have a bigger success this year."

She explained that the Tres Rios Bluegrass Festival at Glen Rose, east of Stephenville, was ended after last September because nearby water wells went dry.

It was held the week after the event here.

The festival is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and 20 local and area businesses.

Tickets are $8 for Friday, Sept. 21, $10 for Saturday and $16 for the weekend with children under 13 admitted free and a free 9 a.m. to noon Sunday Gospel show.

Call the Chamber at 728-3403 or the Womacks at 5835 for tickets.

THE JAWS OF LIFE had to be used early Saturday here on I-20 to free a Mesquite man and a young California woman from this 1999 Ford Explorer Sport, which had rolled at least four times. The man was flown to Lubbock by helicopter. (See related story on page 2.)

Mitchell Co. may not need to be redistricted

Mitchell County commissioners learned Tuesday that their four precincts' populations have not shifted much in the past 10 years and they might not have to be redistricted.

County Judge Ray Mayo said that was his initial report from Bickerstaff, Heath et al, the Dallas law firm the county has hired to redraw the lines, if necessary.

"It's real close right now," he said. "Hopefully, we might not have to redistrict."

The federal Justice Department requires political lines to be redrawn if there is more than a five percent change.

Other business in the 9 a.m. called meeting included approval of the county's calendar 2002 budget and property tax rate, which is dropping from 66.341 to 57.975 cents per $100 in valuation to adjust for increased oil property values.

County Auditor Susan Buckalew, who presented a $4,119,002 budget, said the lower rate will still generate $74,359 more in revenues.

The current budget is for $3,630,478.

This year's document projects a $696,445 surplus, and next year's should be $351,373 "in the black," Ms. Buckalew reported.

Sheriff Patrick Toombs was authorized in prior budget workshops to hire a fourth deputy, and his Tuesday request was okayed to use his drug forfeiture fund to employ See C-COURT, page 4

POLICE INSTRUCTOR Tony Aaron of Brownwood reviewed procedures and laws pertaining to handling mentally ill people at a law enforcement seminar here last week. About 20 officers from 10 agencies attended.

Man critically injured

A 24 year old Mesquite man almost bled to death after a violent 3 a.m. Saturday traffic accident on Interstate 20.

Mitchell County EMS personnel combined with Colorado City volunteer firemen and county and state law enforcement officers in the effort to save Charley Wiederhold.

"We saved his life, to tell you the truth," said EMS Supervisor Jason Cooper. "He broke his left leg, and the femur (thigh bone) was sticking through the skin."

"He was losing a lot of blood. We resuscitated him with fluid, got his blood pressure back up and stabilized him so he could be flown to Lubbock."

Working with the Jaws of Life, firemen needed about 40 minutes to free Wiederhold and the driver, 16 year old McKenna Davis of San Diego, Calif., from the heavily damaged 1999 two door Ford Explorer Sport.

Wiederhold was listed in satisfactory condition Monday in the orthopedic unit of Covenant Medical Center in Lubbock.

He also had a broken forearm.

Suffering numerous scratches, Miss Davis was held for 23 hours' observation and released.

They were wearing seatbelts. Chief Deputy Sheriff Mike Redwine said the westbound vehicle went out of control, "rolled at least four times" and came to rest right side up on the north service road west of the B&B One Stop store.

He said Miss Davis might have gone to sleep at the wheel.

"It was mashed up pretty good, which kept the doors from opening," said Cooper.

"We got in there and started treating him while they were cutting him out."

Other EMS technicians at the scene were Jason Tyler, Cindy Brown, Rick Goodney, Gary Hale and Ava Ramirez.

The accident was reported at 3:03 a.m.

School board adopts budget, plans trip

Colorado City school trustees met briefly Monday night to approve the district's 2001-02 budget and property tax rate.

Business Manager Geneva Ratliff said a number of factors were involved in the plan's increase from $10,544,599 this year to $11,366,788 for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

Those include more money for salaries, contracted services, insurance premiums, utilities and a $100,000 contribution toward building the new $880,000 county sports complex northwest of town.

The tax rate of $1.50 per $100 in valuation is unchanged.

"We have a budget here that meets our needs," Ms. Ratliff said.

Board members informally planned to attend the Texas Association of School Boards' annual convention Sept. 21-24 in Dallas after the two item 7 p.m. special meeting agenda was completed.

Six members said they will take part to obtain the lion's share of continuing education hours they are required to complete each year.

Jesse Muñoz Jr. said his job with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. will not permit him to go.

Board President Larry Blasingame said all but first year members must attend 10 hours of classes annually.

New member Mike Ratliff is required to have 16 hours this year.

Mental cases present difficulties for law enforcement officers

One of the biggest gray areas in law enforcement is dealing with the mentally ill, a law enforcement instructor said here last Thursday.

It's time consuming, it can be dangerous and it involves sections of state law many officers are unsure about.

"Even today in Brown County, there are officers who can't stand MH-MR," said Tony Aaron of Brownwood, a Brown County deputy sheriff.

He referred to the Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation, which often cites confidentiality strictures in declining to release information about unstable people.

"The officers say, 'I'm here to kick down doors and arrest drug dealers and people who are beating their wives,'" Deputy Aaron said. "I don't have time to deal with somebody who is a little wacky in the head."

Knowing how to handle them expeditiously and "get back on the street to deal with the crooks like we need to" is important in today's society, he said.

Here in a three day continuing education seminar sponsored by the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene, Deputy Aaron reviewed voluntary and involuntary commitments, emergency detentions and evaluating people in the field Wednesday and Thursday.

Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and first aid were taught Friday by a different instructor.

Officers sometimes err by saying, "Sign this or you'll spend three or four days in jail!" Aaron said, referring to voluntary commitments to state hospitals.

"We can't do that, although we might like to it at times."

He said obtaining an involuntary commitment with a magistrate's emergency detention order must be based on proving an imminent danger to the person in question or other people whom he or she might harm.

Psychologist Donna Davidson-Merrick and Care Coordinator Russell Golden of the MH-MR affiliated Betty Hardwick Center in Abilene encouraged the officers to form relationships with local and area MH-MR officials.

Then when a situation develops, the agencies will be better able to work together, they said.

Twenty officers were here at the Thompson Room downtown from the Jones, Howard, Runnels, Brown and Mitchell County Sheriff's Offices, a Taylor County constable's office in Abilene, the Rule and Sweetwater Police Departments, Hardin-Simmons University Campus Security and Loraine Police Department.

Deputy Aaron said involuntary commitments are preferable to voluntary ones.

A state hospital like the one in Big Spring will accept an involuntary commitment more readily, and the unstable person will not be able to sign himself out and immediately be back in the officer's hair.

Aaron said an emergency or warrantless detention may be obtained from a justice of the peace or county judge without going to a state district court.

An officer may file for one based on his observations or the testimony of a credible witness like a friend or relative or, most effectively, a state case worker.

His interview is the primary tool to determine what to do with a person who is behaving erratically.

Appearing to hear voices is a reliable sign of mental illness, as is the person's admission he or she has been diagnosed with a mental illness.

But the officer needs to ascertain they are not suffering from a head injury, Alzheimer's Disease or a diabetic's insulin shock.

"A lot of the mentally disturbed people today are anti-government, so the arrival of a uniformed officer can be intimidating," Aaron said.

He should therefore speak softly and try to be reassuring.

It's tricky -- and understandably not an officer's favorite assignment -- because he or she must also be on guard.

A 40 year old local man has been indicted for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the alleged assault of a woman.

Ruben Martinez Garcia of 1041 West Point Ave. was truebilled with 11 other defendants by a county grand jury.

He remained in the county jail on the first degree felony charge Friday in lieu of a $15,000 bond.

Arrested by Deputy Sheriff Darrell Campbell Aug. 11, Garcia is accused of threatening the woman with a screwdriver and beating her.

She did not require hospitalization.

Six drug defendants were indicted Aug. 16, including four apprehended on Interstate 20 by Abilene based West Central Texas Interlocal Crime Task Force Agent Ron Stiltner.

Agent Stiltner arrested Rene Alejandro Rodriguez, 23, of Victorville, Calif., and Joseph del carmen Robledo, 24, of Adelanto, Calif., Aug. 2 on third degree felony charges of more than five pounds of marijuana in their possession.

He took Robert and Lucy Crawford, 52 and 57, of Knoxville, Tenn., into custody on the same charge July 27.

Rodriguez and Robledo were released on $7,500 bonds and the Crawford on $15,000 bonds.

Deputy Campbell arrested Michael Keith Whitley, 29, of Sandy Brook, Ky., on a state jail felony cocaine possession charge May 6 on a $2,500 bond.

Whitley was freed on a $2,500 bond.

Task Force Agent Marc Fletcher took Andrew Alan Christ, 23, of Arvada, Colo., into custody June 28 on a second degree felony charge of having more than 50 pounds of marijuana.

Christ was released on a $3,000 bond.

Jennifer Leigh Ann Lawson, 23, of 2710 County Road 307 was truebilled on a forgery charge, turning herself in at the sheriff's office Aug. 1 after a Colorado City police investigation and being released on a $7,000 bond.

Two men and two women were indicted on third degree felony charges of driving while intoxicated -- Murray Clark Jones, 40, of C-City, Jack Simmons, 33, of 824 E. 13th St., Vicky Lynn Robertson, 45, of C-City and Tracy Ruth Carnline, 26, of 501 Concho St.

Jones was arrested by City Policeman Tommy Dill Aug. 11, Simmons by Deputy

Other fall events are the Mitchell County Reunion Sept. 22 at the Civic Center with Indian historian Doc Gray of Loraine, the Boer Goat Cookoff Oct. 5-6 in the eastern C-City park and the County Fair Oct. 25-27.

Also, the Hunters Appreciation Dinner Nov. 3 at the Railroad Trade Days Building, Railroad Trade Days Nov. 17-18 and the Dec. 2 Festival of Trees in the Trade Days Building -- an event that will probably be carried over into the evenings of the next week.

One of Ms. Womack's and her husband Fred's ambitions was to book a "draw band" this year to attract bigger audiences.

She said that has been accomplished with the popular Saltgrass Band of Brazoria, near Angleton on the Gulf Coast.

Other acts will be the returning Third Generation of Norman, Okla., featuring mandolinist Glenn Bonham, Concho Grass of San Angelo, Sandhills of Odessa, Penasco of Mayhill, N. M., east of Cloudford, and the Dyson Family of Sayre, Okla.

Bonham appeared for many years on the "Walker, Texas Ranger" TV series, doing Native American dances in costume in the show's "dream sequences."

The Womacks just returned from traveling with Third Generation to Marquette, Mich., where the guitar playing Ms. Womack and the band performed for 10,000 people.

The Gore Brothers from Big Lake, Gary and Ron, will make their first appearance here and supply the sound equipment.

"It's good, clean family entertainment," said Ms. Womack Monday.

"A lot of people -- that's their thing, going around to these festivals. We have all kinds of people from all walks of life, and we get together for this common thing called music."

They're trying to get C-City established on the national bluegrass festivals' circuit, which is followed by a huge caravan of people in recreational vehicles, mostly in the South and Southeast.

The chairman said Ruddick Park has spaces for more than 100 RV's, and she has other, unspecified areas in mind in case of an overflow.

A full hookup is $10 a day and rough camping $5 a day.

Drawings will be held for as yet undetermined prizes, using receipts from local businesses to encourage visitors to shop and eat in restaurants here.

"Some come in a week early to visit and sit around and jam," Ms. Womack said, referring to the informal gatherings where musicians sing and play mandolins, fiddles, bass fiddles, guitars and banjos.

"We need to give these bluegrass people some encouragement so they will know the town wants them here," she said.

Lions turn on lights

When a light bulb goes out, you don't want to have to go to the store for a replacement. You want to go to the cabinet, get a fresh one and replace it on the spot.

Members of the Noon Lions Club will address the quandary when they go door to door Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 4-5, in their annual light bulb sale project.

Proceeds send local youngsters to the Lions' Crippled Children's Camp and Children's Diabetes Camp in Kerrville and finance an eyeglasses donation program based at the Lions Club Eyebank in Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico.

Five teams will fan out at 5:30 p.m. both days, covering most of Colorado City.

With the Lions' annual chili supper on Saturday, Dec. 1, at the Civic Center, it's one of the club's two major fundraisers of the year.

Hulslander trial delay explained

MIDLAND -- A Greenwood oil well driller will probably not go to trial this year in the alleged April 27, 1998, murder of his wife, Daytina Hulslander, whose burned remains were discovered by quail hunters last Feb. 25 in western Glasscock County.

First Assistant Teresa Clingman of the Midland County District Attorney's Office said Monday the delay stems from scheduling problems in the 238th District Court office of 59 year old Judge John Hyde.

It is not related to the defendant's hiring of well known San Antonio criminal defense lawyer Gerald "Gerry" Goldstein, whose initial fee in a case like this runs in the range of $100,000, she said.

"We'll be lucky to get into court by the end of the year," Ms. Clingman said. "There are a lot of other cases ahead of it."

"We're going to pursue this case like we do any other case. I think the juries' verdicts depend on the facts of the case."

Asked what obstacles Goldstein may be expected to present, she said the attorney is known to be "tricky" in the courtroom "but honorable."

Hulslander, 42, was indicted for first degree murder April 25 by a Midland County grand jury.

He denied having anything to do with his wife's disappearance, and he has been free on a $150,000 bond since June 1.

If found guilty, he could be sentenced to five to 99 years or life in prison.

Partially covered by debris that had been piled over her and burned by a large amount of drip gasoline from an oil well, Ms. Hulslander's remains were autopsied by the Department of Public Safety in Lubbock and a forensic anthropologist at the University of North Texas in Denton.

Her teeth had been burned off to the roots, but her Midland dentist was able to identify her by X rays of the roots.

Ms. Hulslander's mother, Elsie Ratliff of Colorado City, revealed April 26 that Daytina was burned by drip gas after she was killed.

But Ms. Clingman and other investigators have been close-mouthed about the case since then, declining to give information about the cause of death, if it's known, or other details.

Ms. Clingman said the investigation is a combined effort of the Texas Rangers, the Midland County Sheriff's Office and District Attorney's Investigator J. D. Luckie, a distant cousin of Ms. Hulslander's.

The sparsely populated Glasscock County, whose county seat is Garden City, is east of Midland County.

Letter to the Editor:

Though I know that a lot of Mitchell County residents don't agree that we are in need of a new hospital, I disagree. We are very fortunate to have the caliber of doctors and nursing staff that we do have here. They could easily go to work elsewhere at a lot more money but they opt to stay here.

I am living proof of the great care that is being given here as I have been a patient five different times in the past year at this facility. In fact, had it not been for Dr. Bill Everett and Dr. Dee Roach I would not be here today writing this letter to the editor. I am a licensed vocational nurse myself and have worked in larger hospitals such as Midland Memorial and Seismic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring but NEVER have seen a better staff, and that includes Abilene Regional Hospital as well where I have also been a patient several times during the past year.

Instead of complaining, we need to count ourselves as blessed that we have a good staff and look forward to the day that will be working in an up-to-date facility.

Thanks for everything you have done for us Dr. Bill. You have been a life saver in more ways than one.

"At this point, if it does anything at all, it will put on actual vegetative growth instead of fruit. A lot of the new varieties will start shedding and resetting bolls, but by this time of year, with a normal frost, those bolls will not mature into quality cotton."

The official said most pastureland had already gone into a state of dormancy and there is not enough time before fall - about 10 weeks - for them to have a significant grass regrowth.

Tuesday meeting to ratify the new property tax rate of 39.57 cents per $100 in valuation.

Cox said commissioners will remove the old pad and stockpile the river clay and sand at the site.

They will bring in 30,000 cubic yards of new dirt, about 1,500 truckloads, possibly roadbase from a rock quarry north of Loraine.

The dirt sub-contractor, Bill Price Construction of Snyder, will build the new one, subject to intensive, periodic testing by one of three firms Cox is considering for prices ranging from $12,000 to $21,000.

Some of the old dirt could be blended with the new.

There was no comment on the proposed new tax rate at a public hearing at the outset of the 6 p.m. regular meeting.

The district's new balanced budget for $11,465,739, a decrease under the past year's $11,701,068, was approved.

The fiscal 2000-01 document carried a $241,479 surplus.

"When we approve this budget, none of the medical staff are going to lose their jobs, right?" Martinez asked.

"That was the agreement," said administrator Rick Rickard.

Rickard had said in preliminary discussions last summer that he would recommend some nursing staff reductions.

Other business included authorizing him to sign a new contract for TDCJ inmate care with Texas Tech University in Lubbock, which will increase its support by two percent, or about five cents per inmate.

He said the hospital medical staff plans to recommend privileges for a Lubbock cardiologist, or heart doctor, Dr. Roberto Solis, to practice here two days a month.

A resolution was passed to ask Congress and President Bush to support the American Hospital Preservation Act.

SMOOTHING COLLEGE AVENUE in southeastern Colorado City Tuesday afternoon, Larry Towery was one of the city street department employees to be preparing nearly eight miles of streets for an Odessa company to finish paving in mid-September.

The CCR Column

Ms. Levy tragically misguided

By Bob Campbell

Congressman Condit is being gnawed and tossed into the air like a hungry dog's slobber bone.

Up and down, up and down till you feel sorry for the pitiful husk or at least for his lost usefulness.

The California rep from the ironically named, City of Modesto has been caught, like that other Gary from Troublesome Gulch, former Colorado senator and presidential candidate Gary Hart, in a personal-political fiasco like a coyote in a beartrap.

Unlike Hart's or Clinton's girlfriends, though, Condit's is not around to kiss and tell.

There is a lot of speculation about whether he can be re-elected next year.

As they say in New York, forget about it.

He has, in effect, been caught in bed with a dead girl.

He had been behaving recklessly for years, and it finally blew up in his face like a nuclear bomb.

Condit and his girlfriend, Chandra Levy, are stellar examples of circa-2001 immorality, the attitude there is no such thing as sin or, if there is, it has no serious consequences.

The tragic Ms. Levy, a 24 year old college student, had had affairs with married men before and reportedly aspired to break up Condit's marriage.

The 53 year old congressman thought he was exploiting her naivete, and she was angling to take him away from his wife -- idealism Washington style.

If she had committed suicide or been killed by a sex murderer, she would have been found by now.

Whoever abducted her knew it would bring heat and disposure of her body where it will not be found.

They carried it out with a pre-arranged place to dispose of her because of the perceived necessity to stop her from doing something, like saying the congressman got her pregnant.

She left with someone she knew who said he or she was taking her to Condit and ended up in a back alley, not among friends.

If Condit -- conned her, conned them -- had foreknowledge of her fate, he grossly underestimated the oncoming furor.

Watching Connie Chung's good TV interview last week, he looked truthful when saying he didn't do it himself but questionable when saying he doesn't know who did.

I suspect he had made complaints about her but didn't realize she would be killed -- the ultimate mis-step in a long series of misjudgments.

It's too bad because Ms. Levy had every advantage and didn't need to "sleep her way to the top."

If she had known anything about politics, she would have known he couldn't marry her.

The interview was a public relations disaster for Condit. It, prompting observers' appellations of "sleazoid," "sociopath" and "weasel."

But it was obvious he had been coached by his attorney, not a political consultant, who would have told him to take a chance and try to win sympathy.

His main concern now is not to get re-elected but to avoid prosecution.

The back forty

by Roger Pond

The Back Forty

I guess I'll never be rich, but that's OK. I do enough stupid things as it is. Think of the damage I could do if I had a lot of money.

Besides, I don't think money makes a person happy. This spring's camping trip is a good example.

I was camped in a nice, little park that is accessible only by boat. This is a wonderful place during the week but a disaster on weekends.

It was the Friday before Memorial Day, and the circus was fast arriving. There were boats pulling water skiers, jet skis towing rafts, and inner tubes hauling inner tubes. Some of these people had so much equipment they needed a floating train to get it from one place to another.

"City people," I thought. "They can't have any fun unless there's a horde of humanity and lots of noise."

I was packing-up camp and getting out of there, when two old guys arrived with a boat so big they couldn't get it to the dock. They had to anchor eighty yards out and inflate a raft to get to shore.

These fellows had ropes, buoys, and anchors on all four corners of that behemoth. It looked like the Queen Mary setting up in Boston Harbor.

"I wonder how much cash is tied up in that one?" I thought. "Must have been left over from the divorce."

I rounded the point with my boat and coasted toward the dock to pick up some friends. My smallest friend, Miles, was standing on the dock -- casting away. (Miles is about six, and a heck of a fisherman.)

His grandpa fizzled out in the hot sun and was sitting in the shade on shore. That's where I would have been if I had any sense.

As I approached the dock I could see Miles had something in the bucket we were using for a live well. "I caught a bass! I caught a bass? Wanna see my bass?" he shouted.

Miles tried to pick up the bucket and drag it down the dock, but it was too heavy.

"I'll have to see it when Grandpa gets here," I told him. "I have to hold the boat to the dock right now."

Just then one of the guys from the Queen Mary came stomping down the dock. He looked like he was having about as much fun as a frog at a sea gull convention.

"How ya doin'?" You guys catch anything?" Miles asked.

"We don't fish," the old codger grumbled.

I could see this didn't sit straight with the boy. "What the heck are you doing, if you don't fish?" was the expression on his face.

"Wanna see my bass?" Miles asked. "I caught him right over there."

The old guy peered in the bucket as he walked by. "That's a bass alright," he mumbled.

Miles looked over at me with that big smile he always has. Then he shrugged his shoulders and arms as if to say, "Well, I guess it takes all kinds."

The Folklife Festival is What It Used To Be

By Tumbleweed Smith

I go to the Folklife Festival in San Antonio every couple of years to do interviews and see what's new. I have a bunch of friends in the "Back 40" section of the complex and hang out there.

That area hasn't changed much during the 30 years the festival has been going. Bill Brett is still there making ropes out of horsehair. Rowdy Pate is there working with rawhide. Delbert Brewster does his scrimshaw on cowhorns and antlers. Jim Stevens is decorating black powder rifles. And Cowboy Williams is there talking about his hog dogs.

These people take a week out of their lives every year and go to San Antonio and spend very long days in the hot sun demonstrating their crafts. For them, the friendships developed over the thirty years have become like family and they go for the annual reunion.

They go because they want to. And because they've done it for thirty years and it's become a habit for them. They wouldn't dare miss a chance to go to the festival.

I enjoy visiting with my friends at the festival. But I don't see many new faces. I see some who are children or grandchildren of some of the original exhibitors. But I don't see many who are there on their own, just starting out in the folklife business. And that's a shame.

Young people need to be learning their cultural heritage and pioneer crafts if this type of demonstrating is to continue.

I certainly hand it to the people who have gone down there year after year. I was an ambassador, master of ceremonies and storyteller at the festival for the first ten years, but became tired of the heat and the crowds, got busy doing other things and stopped being a participant.

The festival is held on the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures, which is a part of the University of Texas at San Antonio. The Festival was started in 1972 by Henderson Shuffler and Odessa newspaper man who became director of the Institute. His idea was to bring representatives of every ethnic group in Texas and demonstrate their foods, games, dances and crafts.

Forty countries are represented among the ten thousand participants who come from 100 cities and towns all over the state. The festival draws seventy thousand visitors every year.

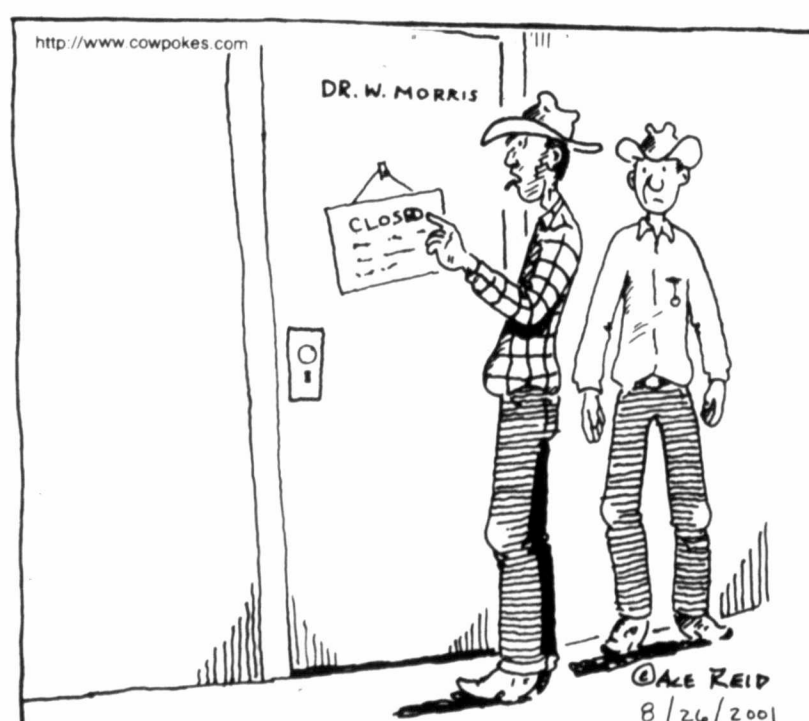

Sausage is the most popular food item. The New Braunfels Wurstfest people annually bring eight thousand pounds of sausage to the festival.

Participants pay their own to San Antonio, but stay free of charge in hotels and motels around the city. They are given a small food allowance. The first festival in 1972 was funded by grants and donations, but since then it has been completely self sustaining. The sale of tickets, food and beverages brings in millions of dollars during the four day event each year. Proceeds support the festival's educational programs.

The first festival was held in September but the date was changed to August because of rain. It was later changed to June because of heat.

4-H'ers elect new officers

The Mitchell County Lone Wolf 4-H Club met on Monday, August 20 in the C.C. Thompson Room with a total of 30 members and parents present.

After role call, the club welcomed new members Kyle and Blaine Lemons to the membership.

After the business portion of the meeting the club turned its attention to the selection of officers for the 2001-02 4-H year.

The membership selected the following slate of officers for the coming year.

President: Robin Morris;
Vice President: Tanner Cox;
Secretary: Kelly Morris;
Treasurer: Jordan Truelove;
Reporter: Sam Schrode; Recreation Chairmen: Carlton

Johnston and Kyle Lemons; District Council Delegates: Robin Morris and Matt Truelove.

This strong group of officers has the responsibility to assist the members of the club as well as recruiting new families into the 4-H program. It will also be their responsibility to plan, implement, organized and evaluate all the major activities conducted by the County 4-H program for the next year.

Because the Texas 4-H year runs from September 1 to August 31, these officers will be installed in their new roles during the County 4-H Achievement Banquet to be held on September 8 in the Thompson Room.

This slate of officers as well as all of the volunteer leaders and parents of the county 4-H Program would like to remind all families in the county that the 4-H program is open to all youth who are at least nine years old or, enrolled in the third grade as of September 1st of this year.

It is important to dispel the myth that youth must have an animal project to be in 4-H.

The county 4-H program is a family-oriented organization that offers over 70 different projects to participate in. While the most popular projects are animal projects, 4-H also offers projects in Family and Consumer Sciences such as Foods and Nutrition and Clothing and Textiles.

Other possible projects range from Dog Care to Computer to Photography and Woodworking to name a few. There are no dues or membership fees to join and the only funds expended by a family are those that are directly related to that members chosen projects.

If you and your family are interested in joining 4-H or would like more information about the program and activities in Mitchell County, feel free to call the Mitchell County Extension Service at 728-3111 or, go by the Extension Office, located in the Courthouse Annex at 355 Oak Street. 4-H offers your family the chance to participate, learn, have fun and grow together!!!

Westbrook schools are "recognized"

For the second year in a row, the Westbrook Independent School District has received a 'recognized' rating by the state. The district game in just below the state's highest rating of 'exemplary'.

Easily meeting state attendance and dropout standards, the school system's rating depended on its student performance on the TAAS (Texas Assessment of Academic Skills) tests.

Because of its size, the system's entire kindergarten through 12th grade program is rated as though Westbrook is one campus, rather than the state rating elementary, junior high and high school campuses as it would with larger districts.

Westbrook Superintendent, Todd Burleson, stated, "We are very proud of what our students, faculty and staff have accomplished, and we are excited about the opportunity to now push on towards the 'exemplary' rating."

The test results were measured for all students and for three major economically-disadvantaged, and they were tested on all three sections of the TAAS test.

Westbrook earned its "recognized" status with the following breakdowns:

For all students, a passing rate of 94.1 percent in reading, 85.3 percent in math, and 100 percent in writing.

For Hispanic students, a passing rate of 90.0 percent in reading, 80.0 percent in math, and 100 percent in writing.

For Anglo students, a passing rate of 94.6 percent in reading, 85.7 percent in math, and 100 percent in writing.

For economically-disadvantaged students, a passing rate of 87.5 percent in reading, 95.5 percent in math, and 100 percent in writing.

Approximately 200 supporters turned out for a great BBQ dinner, followed by introductions to new athletic director, coach Don Jones, new girls athletic coordinator, coach Gary Fox, new assistant girls coach, T.J. Christian, along with returning head football coach Andrew Hannon.

Both Jr. High and High School athletes were introduced in their respective sports. Leading the way in firing up the Wildcat spirit were the Jr. High and High School cheerleaders and mascots who were introduced by their sponsors Nancy Hannon and Teresa Matlock. A big "thank you" to Judy Chitsey and Verla Johnson for coordinating the event and to everyone who cooked food, donated goods or helped in any way.

A special thanks to Baker/Petrolite Chemical for donating the brisket and to Dennis Taylor for cooking it. Thank you to everyone who came out and supported the Wildcats! We look forward to your continued support and a great year.

loraine news

By Bessie Ann Vaughn

Greetings. We hope you had a good week.

We send out condolence to the family and friends of Buster Lewis, as he passed away over the weekend. He and his wife Laura were faithful center attendants for many years and have many friends here.

Clovis and Jean Hale of Austin visited with Irene Kidd over the weekend.

Saturday night, they dined out in Sweetwater with M.L. and Maureen Chandler joining them.

Phyllis and Don Wilson were in Loraine Saturday and Sunday to visit Diane Sanders.

A granddaughter, Sara Wilson, will be getting married in April, so grandmother Diane made her garter and ring pillow during the get-together.

Salty and Debbie Hughes and family of Carlsbad, New Mexico visited with Dan and Pam Butler recently. Also Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hughes as well.

Brian Butler from Alpine has been here recently helping his dad, Danny Butler work on the farm.

Virgie Parnell reported that his son Gary and wife Karen Parnell live in Anacortes, Washington and Gary told his dad that it rained a lot and put out the forest fires in that area. A blessing for everyone.

Ken Andrews will vacate his apartment at Taylor Witta Apartments and move to Colorado City this week. We hope he enjoys his new home.

Hank and Janice Millering have just returned from a long vacation.

They went to Peshtigo, Wisconsin. They visited with Jan's sister and husband, Kathy and Roger Suley. The Millerings enjoyed a cabin on the river with all accommodations and conveniences. They left here on July 4th and had a wonderful time while gone.

Charles and Mary Rose Bowen are leaving for Tres Ritos, New Mexico on a pleasure trip presently. Charles says he is going to scare some trout. Sounds great doesn't it?

We have concerns for Bertha Fay Snyder as she fell and cracked her collar bone. We wish her a speedy recovery.

I spoke with Tommy Green Sunday and he reports that his dad, T.J. (Moose) is doing well and doing a lot of reading and staying busy.

It was good to see Alta Nations doing so well after knee surgery.

Loraine Senior Center The Wilson Snyder band, scheduled to entertain us last Monday did a great job of it as always. They play music and vocalize as well.

For variety, Don Johnson sings along with taped background music, most of which is religious or spiritual in nature. We enjoy it all and appreciate their volunteerism.

Ken Northcutt provided musical entertainment for us last Wednesday. Kudos to him as he sold his musical tapes to individuals then donated the proceeds to the Senior Center. If you would like to do so, the tapes are 10.00 for 1 and 15.00 for 2 tapes. Singing along with Ken, some of the selections were Pat Hudgins and Charles Dunn.

and Charles Dunn.

The Center will be closed on Monday, September 3 to observe Labor Day. We will open again on the 5th of September.

Monday Mary McMullen,

C.E.A., of Mitchell County spoke to seniors about what to do after a car accident. The do's & don't's after property loss, and after an injury.

See you around town.
