Japs Lose Six Of 10 Divisions On Luzon

Others Bottled Up And Total Losses Now Over 215,000

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, March 6.—Six Japanese divisions — perhaps 90,000 troops — of the ten divisions defending Luzon have been destroyed together with considerable war materials, and the remaining forces bottled up in the mountains are under continuous attack by ground and air.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's forces still on this largest island of the Philippines were "split into a number of divergent groups," and "their position is critical."

Guerrillas Active

Only yesterday MacArthur announced that thousands of Japanese had been cleaned out of Ilocos Norte province, on Luzon's northwest corner, by guerrillas operating under an American Army officer, Col. R. W. Volckman.

On bloody Leyte island, south of Luzon, more than 125,000 Japanese have been killed. This makes a total for these two islands alone of more than 215,000 Japanese troops killed, including some of the empire's best.

Slow enveloping movements against Japanese mountain positions north and east of Manila and progress of other Yanks moving toward the Cagayan valley were reported today.

North, East Of Manila

North of Manila, the 38th and 43rd division closed on Nipponese in the Zambales mountains.

East of Manila, troops of the 14th corps enveloped enemy positions along the Antipolo-Wawa line. This line, in the Marakina watershed, has been well-prepared defensively by the enemy and considerable resistance has been encountered.

Other Yanks advanced along the Villa Verde trail and the Ambiayabang river in the eastern extremity of Pangasinan province toward the Cagayan valley. This is at the northeast end of the central Luzon plain and due east of the Lingayen bay sector where the Luzon invasion opened.

Further detailing accomplishments against Yamashita's Army General MacArthur said the supply depots destroyed held "great quantities of ordnance, munitions, trucks, food, clothing and miscellaneous items."

MacArthur's report followed an

THE COLOGNE PLAIN BATTLEGROUND—Here is a closeup of the Rhine battle area, including the vital Cologne plain, where a yet unknown number of German troops have been virtually bottled up after Nazis, despairing of stopping the Allied plunge from the west, have blown up Rhine river bridges. Yanks were fighting inside Cologne Monday night, and fall of the west-Rhine metropolis appeared imminent.

2,050 Marines Die In Battle For Iwo

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Navy Secretary Forrestal said today 2,050 Marines had been killed on Iwo Jima but that the loss was not out of proportion to the importance of taking the island.

Just back from a Pacific tour which included a visit to Iwo, Forrestal told a news conference that the Japanese defense of the island was the "most thorough and skillful" the Marines had yet encountered in the Pacific.

Stronger Than Expected

Forrestall said that although the joint chiefs of staff and the Navy had no illusions on the difficulty of taking Iwo, the Japanese were stronger than had been expected. In addition he said they made very good use of their weapons.

He termed the Marine fighting "highly successful," pointing out that more than 12,500 Japanese dead had been counted and that more bodies probably had been removed from the battle fields by the enemy.

Described as Vital Spot

The secretary described Iwo as a vital sea and air gate to the inner defenses of Japan. Its capture, he added, would afford a base from which fighter planes could protect B29's in raids against Japan. Moreover, he said, the base will put the B-24's (Liberators) within range of the Japanese empire.

Despite the American progress in the Pacific, Forrestall declared "we have got to face the fact that the Japanese still have an army" which he estimated at 70 combat divisions. These divisions added to service troops and similar forces, he said, give the enemy upwards of 5,000,000 fighting men. To defeat Japan, he added, the United States and its Allies will have to defeat that force.

Steam Roller Principle

In the assault on Iwo, he said, the Navy had used the "steam roller principle" of overwhelming sea power, air power and to some extent land power.

Forrestal's three-week, 21,000-mile trip took him to the Philippines where he met General Douglas MacArthur. The Navy, he said, shares with the people the admiration of MacArthur's campaign in the Philippines.

The Navy secretary also expressed "profound regret" over the loss of Lt. Gen. Millard Harmon, chief of Army Air forces in the Pacific, who is missing on a flight in the Pacific area.

CROP FUNDS ASKED

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—The President sent to the House today a request that $7,984,900 be appropriated for administrative and operating expenses of the federal crop insurance program in the 1946 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Vinson Chosen U. S. Loan Chief

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Fred M. Vinson, now economic stabilization director, to take over the federal loan administration job which the Senate wouldn't let Henry Wallace have.

The appointment, which the Senate seemed ready to confirm quickly, completed the division of the jobs from which Mr. Roosevelt ousted Jesse Jones, Houston, Tex., banker and publisher, inauguration day to make room for Wallace.

Heads Giant Agency

The loan administrator is head of the multi-billion dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation and its giant subsidiaries.

Vinson has been economic stabilization director since James F. Byrnes left the post to become war mobilization director.

The stabilization job, in essence, is that of appeals court from decisions of the federal war agencies dealing with civilian economic affairs, such as the Office of Price administration and the War Labor board, and referee between such agencies when they come in conflict.

Vinson has clung tightly to the Little Steel formula in passing on general wage increases approved by the WLB, and in cases of other WLB pay rulings has sought to give OPA a veto if they would require compensating price increases.

The White House in announcing Vinson's nomination for the loan post said the President had a successor for the stabilization hot spot in mind, but gave no inkling of his identity.

Vinson, 54 years old and a native of Kentucky, came to the stabilization office from the District of Columbia Court of Appeals bench. Before he went on the court he had served seven terms as a member of the House of Representatives from Kentucky. He was an early advocate of pay-as-you-go taxation, and was active in the House Ways and Means taxation subcommittee.

Nurse Deeply Impressed By Service On Hospital Ship

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Bonnie Wiley, the first woman war correspondent in the Pacific, worked her way to the fighting zone as a nurses' aid aboard a hospital ship which appeared off Iwo Jima with the invasion fleet and carried away a load of wounded soon after the battle was joined. In dateline: Pacific she relates a moving incident on the battle-bound hospital ship — religious services on deck.)

By BONNIE WILEY
(For The Associated Press)

ABOARD A U. S. HOSPITAL SHIP.—I went to church today beneath an oil-spotted canvas that billowed over the deck as this hospital ship on which I was traveling as a nurses' aide rolled its way through walls of waves toward the Iwo Jima battle.

It was a simple service, over in 35 minutes, but it was the most impressive of my church-going career.

The battle-gray organ was a portable one, standing three feet high.

The minister was Rev. C. F. Crouser, protestant chaplain, of Sacramento, Calif.

The common service of the Lutheran church was used. Rev. Mr. Crouser being a Lutheran pastor. Senior Chaplain Father Joseph S. McCauley, Patterson, N. J., holds mass regularly for the Catholics. Special services are held, too, for the Jewish.

The minister prayed for the wounded soon to be aboard and for the safety of the crew.

They sang a couple of hymns "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name" and the Navy-favorite, "Eternal Father! Strong To Save." The choir, directed by Allen C. Eastland, pharmacist 2/c,

Frenzied Jap Blows Beaten Off On Iwo

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Tuesday, March 6.—U. S. Marines grimly pressing Iwo Jima's strongly-entrenched Japanese toward the northern and northeastern cliffs made no major attack Monday but broke up a number of enemy attempts to infiltrate American positions.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said in his communique today the battle lines remained substantially unchanged as the three divisions of Marines, who hold two-thirds or more of Iwo, consolidated their holdings elsewhere on the small but vital island where fighting is now in its 16th day.

No mention was made of the positions of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions last reported pressing the Japanese toward cliffs on the north and northeast edge of Iwo.

Navy Secretary Forrestad said in Washington that 2,050 Marines already had been killed on Iwo but the loss was not out of proportion to the importance of the island. He had just returned from Iwo where he said the enemy was putting up the "most thorough and skillful" defense.

Nimitz reported yesterday that 12,864 Japanese dead had been counted up to 6 p.m. Saturday and 81 prisoners taken.

Weather Improves

Improved weather conditions facilitated unloading operations in Iwo's beaches.

Chichi Jima in the Bonin islands immediately to the north was bombed Sunday by Liberators of the 7th Army Air force, while torpedo planes hit the Palau islands with the loss of two aircraft. Navy fighters swept Ponape in the Carolines.

Desperate Japanese infiltrating the American lines even swore American uniforms.

Five Japanese, wearing full American Marine battle dress, were killed by 24th Regiment patrols, AP war correspondent James Lindsley reported.

He was told by Lt. Col. G. L. McCormick of Huntington Valley, Pa., assistant chief of staff at Iwo headquarters, that the Nipponese apparently were disguising themselves in an effort to sneak within the American lines.

The embattled Marines saw a Tokyo-raiding B-29 Superfortress use the southern Iwo airfield yesterday, demonstrating that their blood was not being shed in vain.

Invitations For Parley Go Out

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 5. — Invitations to the world security conference went out today amid signs that smaller nations will strive to limit the authority of the big powers.

All the United Nations, except Poland, were invited to the conference beginning April 25 in San Francisco. The meeting has been called to form a world organization and to set up international machinery to enforce peace.

Yalta Formula

The State department announced the long-awaited Yalta formula on how the great powers should vote in the proposed world council. It would allow a great power to be formally accused and tried before world public opinion on a charge of threatening aggression but any one of the powers, including the accused, could veto the use of force against it.

France passed up the opportunity to serve as a sponsor of the San Francisco conference, although her attendance is assured. She wants to have a free hand in trying to alter the basic Dumbarton Oaks plan for world organization.

A number of other, smaller nations have already proposed changes, seeking either to limit the powers of the greater nations or to gain the same end by increas-

Fall Of Cologne Imminent; Reds Surge Toward Stettin

Probable 200,000 Germans Trapped In Two Pockets

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Tuesday, March 6 — Russian troops, anchoring their Pomeranian flank securely on the Baltic coast, yesterday wheeled toward Stettin and captured that port's outer bastions of Stargard and Naugard, while other Soviet forces to the northeast cut deeper into two pockets where possibly 200,000 Germans were trapped.

Overwhelming Stargard in a vicious street battle that cost the Germans 4,000 killed, the Russians pushed on toward Altdamn, east bank Oder river crossing town just opposite Stettin and 15 miles west of Stargard. Altdamn and other localities ringing Stettin, Pomeranian capital and Berlin's main port, were reported under Soviet artillery fire.

Nazi Lines Folded Back

Naugard, 22 miles north of Stargard, also fell as the Russians folded back the Germans into an 1,800 square-mile pocket in which the enemy was battling with his back to a 45-mile waterline formed by the lower Oder, Stettin bay, and the Dievenow river.

Kolberg, on the Baltic 65 miles northeast of Stettin, also was being stormed by Soviet troops "under cover of a blizzard," Berlin said. The enemy broadcast claimed that the Russians had been held in the fringes of the town, site of a large American prisoner of war camp.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army and the adjoining Second White Russian group under Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky captured a total of 230 towns and villages yesterday in 10-mile gains, Moscow announced. A third major stronghold toppled by Zhukov's men was Polzin, 52 miles northeast of Stargard. It had been by-passed earlier in the race to the Baltic coast.

Site of Prisoner Camp

Rokossovsky's troops seized Gross-Tychow, site of a large American prisoner of war camp 18 miles south of captured Koeslin on the Baltic, but the fate of the Americans was not immediately determined. It was possible they had been moved westward before the twin Russian breakthroughs to the Baltic, although the American military mission in Moscow believed some of them would be rescued.

East of Pomerania in the Polish "corridor" below Danzig the eastern wing of Rokossovsky's Army seized eight localities on a 50-mile front, smashing into the southern rim of the pocket created by the Pomeranian advance to the Baltic. These troops were within 30 miles of Danzig.

Farther east the Russians also gained up to two miles on an 18-mile front southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia, capturing five localities in one of the fiercest struggles of the war. The Third White Russian Army group in this area was striving to annihilate

Field Reports Hint Nazi Disintegration

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The thunder of Nazi demolition charges blowing Rhine bridges all the way from Cologne to Wesel spells the end of the battle of the Cologne plain.

SIMPSON

It may well spell the end of Allied hopes of seizing any river crossing intact to expedite establishment of east Rhine bridgeheads; but it also probably doomed many thousands of Nazi troops still on the west bank to death or capture.

How long the grim Nazi business of abandoning large groups of troops to their fate, as Allied and Russian forces press on into the heart of Germany, can go on without producing a complete collapse in German Army morale is open to conjecture. There are increasing signs of impending enemy disintegration detectable in field reports from both fronts. These signs are backed by evidence that the Nazi effort to mobilize all German citizenry into a last ditch people's Army is proving largely a futile gesture.

Citizen Soldiers Fluke

The citizen soldiers show little disposition to sacrifice themselves in battle-to-the-death rearguard actions, the function apparently reserved for them by the Nazi commanders, once the fear of wehrmacht guns at their backs is ended.

This implies that a cracking strain is developing within Germany that will certainly limit sharply the extent and seriousness of guerrilla operations after organized resistance ends if it does not lead to something like the internal revolt against continuation of the useless slaughter that terminated the last war.

Final Act Not Far Off

With Allied troops on the lower Rhine from Bonn to Arnhem in Holland, and Russian forces now manning the Neisse-Oder line virtually from the southern Sudeten mountains to the Oder estuary the final two-front breakthroughs cannot be far away. With all Rhine bridges destroyed by the Germans as seems probable if not already accomplished, it may take time for General Eisenhower's armies to bring up all the equipment they will need to force that last Nazi western defense moat. Eastward, however, there seems every reason to expect immediate Russian renewal of the direct drive at Berlin.

Assuming that Allied and Russian operations are now intimately related in timing, scope and direction by day to day staff interchanges, it seems logical to expect the next major phase of action in the east.

New Plea Made By Eisenhower

(By The Associated Press)

An appeal from General Eisenhower's headquarters, addressed to German Army officers Monday via the American broadcasting station in Europe, urged that they "reconsider the situation of Germany, the situation of their men and their personal situation" and surrender to the Allies.

"Germany has lost the Westwall, her most powerful defense in the west. The Allies have reached the Rhine and the Rhur," said the broadcast as reported by the OWI. "In the east the Red Army is standing before Berlin. The industrial areas of upper Silesia, East Prussia, Posen (Poznan) and parts of Saxony, Brandenburg and Pomerania are in Russian hands. The end is merely a question of time.

Responsible For Men

"The responsibility for the outcome of the war no longer rests with the German officer. But the responsibility for his men remains—and this responsibility will indubitably be taken into account by postwar Germany. Germany's future will be hard, but there will be a possibility for reconstruction. The Allies do not intend to destroy Germany — only the politicians know that their number is up.

"We cannot expect the German officer to do anything that would be contrary to his honor or to his country's interest. It is in Germany's interest to put an end to this useless bloodshed. The decision is up to the German officer."

CLARE FLIES TO LONDON

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn) has flown to London on invitation of the British embassy to report on the part British women have played in the war.

Yank Troops Still Advancing In Italy

ROME, March 5 (AP) — U. S. Fifth Army troops, still advancing in the Mt. Belvedere area southwest of Bologna, have pushed the Germans off several new hills and occupied a number of villages despite the enemy's hurried reinforcement of that sector.

The Allied high command chose not to describe the action with much detail or to identify the ground gained, but the new push was known to have been in the general area north of Mt. Della Torraccia, which was captured by the U. S. 10th mountain division; and Mt. Castello, seized by Brazilian troops.

Front dispatches reported unusually heavy artillery actions and Allied air attacks in that area. One dispatch said the Germans had rushed elements of two divisions to help defend the extremely rugged country.

Red Cross Fund Campaign To Be Opened Here Today

AT 8:30 this morning the starting gun on the Red Cross War Fund $74,500 drive will be fired when downtown workers meet at the Lubbock hotel for breakfast and the women's division volunteers start out in the residential section to solicit $12,000 of that total.

George P. Kuykendall, chairman of the campaign, said that all workers will "be an the job beginning at the breakfast and will stay on it until the fund goes over the top." B. Sherrod is general chairman and is in charge of the downtown soliciting.

Volunteer women workers will solicit the residential section and small neighborhood businesses today under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hub Jones, and Wednesday houses at which no one was home will be canvassed by members of the Junior Welfare League.

Give To The Red Cross

Mrs. Jones issued a plea for housewives to remain at home today, if possible, in order to make their donations.

Arrangements were made at a meeting last week to provide a representative in all business firms employing ten or more persons to solicit contributions from employees. Teams from the general committee will contact employees of smaller firms.

Today has been designated as Red Cross day at Lubbock High school where students will be given an opportunity during the

Only Few Nazis Stay; Bridges On Rhine Blown Up

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, March 5—The U. S. First Army sent tanks plunging more than a mile into Cologne today, seized more than one-fifth of the city in assaults from the north, south and west, and the fall of the largest German metropolis ever stormed by the Allies seemed near at hand.

The Germans apparently wrote off the fourth largest city in the Reich, for they blew the big Hohenzollern bridge and began shelling it from the east bank.

Cross Rhine In Boats

Field dispatches said the Germans were fleeing across the Rhine by boats, and one staff officer estimated that only 1,000 enemy soldiers remained to garrison the city.

Prisoners said these forces were falling back into the old part of the city, which represents only one-fourth of Cologne's area of 25 square miles.

The Third Armored division, now within two miles or less of the heart of the city, was the first to enter at 7:10 and the 104th Infantry division came in from the west at 9:23 a. m.

The Eighth Infantry division, hard on the 104th's right flank, pushed into the city from the south. Cologne was shrouded in a pall of smoke from the fire of massed artillery laying down a terrific drum fire.

Half-Hearted Fight

All three divisions were meeting half-hearted resistance, indicating the German Army had no intention of obeying Hitler's orders to make a Stalingrad-like stand inside Cologne.

Cologne is the largest city in Rhenish Prussia with a normal population of 768,000 and is loaded with factories which once turned out weapons for the German war machine. Now the civilians cowered in cellars while the battle swirled about them, or they streamed back to the American lines carrying their household possessions.

Besides blowing the bridge at Duesseldorf, the Germans destroyed three bridges at Duisberg before the charge of the U. S. Ninth Army, which overran the coal and

Bulk Of Troops Said Withdrawn

LONDON, March 5. (AP) — The Germans declared tonight they had wrecked all the Rhine bridges from Cologne to Wesel 55 miles to the north, and that the bulk of the German Army has withdrawn across the Rhine to fight the decisive battle of the war.

Admitting that Americans had broken into Cologne and reached the Rhine on a wide front north of the city, Berlin broadcast maintained that the Germans had avoided large scale entrapment.

Berlin also reported that the U. S. Seventh Army on the lower end of the front had been heavily reinforced and was increasing its attacks toward Saarbruecken.

Collapse On Baltic

In the east, the German people were told of the virtual collapse of their Baltic-Pomeranian front, and of a Russian four-Army push on Stettin.

The Goebbels-paid Dr. Rudolf Semmler declared that "never in our history have we been in such a grave situation. Never have so many enemies assailed us at once. Never have we stood so totally alone."

Semmler asserted the Allied bag of prisoners in the battle west of the Rhine was low, which "shows that the German command is preserving the highest possible number of troops for the decisive battle of this war which will and must come . . ."

The Nazis decreed a drastic slaughtering of poultry to conserve grains for human consumption.

Draft Of Argentina Stand Holds Spotlight At American Parley

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MEXICO CITY, March 5. — Drafting of a statement on Argentina today remained the top job for the Inter-American conference here.

It was ascertained that representatives of 20 republics here will definitely make a formal declaration on Argentina, but they still are trying to agree on what to say.

Only other major topic still being debated is the economic charter for the Americas. Officials expressed hope a compromise decision could be reached.

Approval Of Charter

Some Latin Americans have been holding back approval on the charter, which establishes a policy of free trade in this hemisphere. They are attempting to include specific commodity provisions, especially on cotton and copper.

The two important difficulties in writing an Argentine declaration are:

1. Deciding how specific the statement can be on Argentina without endangering a solid front against Argentina's present stand.

2. Deciding what measures to take towards getting Argentina back into the American system after this conference is over.

Opinion among a selected group of delegates working on Argentina is about evenly divded.

Two Views Offered

Some hold that a commission should be set up by the Inter-American conference to study the problem here, after the meeting closes. The other view favors turning the hot Argentine potato back to the Pan-American union for dicussion by all the republics at a more liesurely pace.

There appears almost complete agreement among the delegates that a firm position should be taken towards Argentina until that country gives concrete proof of its intention to cooperate for hemisphere defense.

At the moment, the only possibility of opposition to a strong statement seems to come from Chile, but it is in such a nebulous stage that smooth and unanimous acceptance may be reached.

Worried Over Future

However, many statesmen are worried that when delegates go back home, the enthusiasm of Mexico may give way to other pressures. Therefore, they are anxious to work out a declaration which will receive continued support from the 20 republics represented here.

It was definitely ascertained that although the Act of Chapultepec goes into effect immediately, there is no plan to base an Argentine statement on its provision for hemisphere action when the threat of aggression occurs.

It seems unlikely, however, that any concrete steps will be taken on Argentina until the conference has agreed on the rest of its business.

Look To Adjournment

The final meting is now expected Thursday, although if a hitch develops in the Argentina case, the conference may have to drag a little longer. Delegates are tired and anxious to get home, and will probably cause an international traffic jam as soon as the gavel is pounded for the last time.

It seems likely that some special measures will be taken to continue detailed economic discussions once the principles are laid down in the econmic charter.

Lt. Leete Jackson Survives Crash Of Plane In Pacific

SOMEWHERE IN THE WESTERN CAROLINES. (Delayed). — "It could have been worse," said Marine First Lieutenant Leete Jackson, Jr., pilot of an Avenger which crashed into the ocean 10 miles off this Marine base, as he was picked up by a destroyer.

With the lieutenant in the crash and subsequent rescue were his two gunners, Marine Staff Sergeant Richard L. Smith, 22, turret gunner, and Marine PFC Leo Arecco, 21, radio gunner.

The trio, attached to the Red Davil Torpedo Bomber Squadron of the Fourth Marine Air Wing, told officers of the destroyer that they had taken off from the Marine air strip here shortly before their engine sputtered and failed. Their plane was carrying depth charges and full wing tanks when it crashed, and all three feared an explosion. The explosion came, but not until after the fliers were in their life raft, several hundred yards from the wrecked plane.

Jackson is the husband of Mrs. Janey Jackson of 3901 Twenty-first, Lubbock, Texas. He has flown almost 50 mission from this base. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine M. Smith of 2833 North Chambers Street, Sioux City, Iowa. Arecco is the son of Annibale Arecco of 18 William Street, Stamford, Con..

Katy's Income Reaches All-Time High In 1944

HOUSTON, March 5. (U.P.) — Gross revenues of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines reached an all-time high of $84,022,042 in 1944, Matthew S. Sloan, chairman of the board and president of the railroad, disclosed in his annual report today.

The figure represents a 6.3 per cent increase over 1943.

New records also were set in freight and passenger traffic, Sloan's report said.

PLAYS HERE TONIGHT—Benno Rabinof, above, one of America's outstanding concert violinists, is to appear tonight at 8 o'clock at Senior High school auditorium under sponsorship of the Lubbock Kiwanis club. The club's share of proceeds of the concert go to the underprivileged children's fund. Tickets for the concert, $1.20 general admission and $1.80 reserved seats, are on sale at John Halsey Drug store, Adair Music company and South Plains Music company. Miss Sylvia Smith, a concert pianist widely known in her own right, will be Rabinof's accompanist and play several solos in the concert.

Death Penalty For Robinson Upheld

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)— The Supreme court upheld today the death sentence imposed on Thomas H. Robinson, jr., for the 1934 kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville society matron.

Justice Black delivered the court's 7-2 opinion. Justice Rutledge wrote a dissent in which Justice Murphy agreed.

Robinson was sentenced under the Lindbergh kidnap act, which allows for the death sentence in a ransom kidnaping.

Rat Eradication By Construction Urged

Members of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce were told at their luncheon Monday in Hilton hotel by H. L. Draper, representative of the typhus control division of the State Health department in Austin, that the only way to free buildings of rats is to build the rat out of the building.

He urged the support of Lubbock Jaycees in a program completely to free the city of Lubbock of rats, thus cutting down on the possibility of typhus fever spreading here. Draper was introduced by Joe Stanley, program chairman.

The club went on record as favoring the bill introduced in the Texas House of Representatives by Preston E. Smith of Lubbock which would provide that a fund be established so that each state supported college would receive its share of certain University of Texas funds. A telegram, signed by the club president, was sent this afternoon to each member of the committee, now studying the bill in Austin, urging their support of the measure.

Virgil Rowland, vice president, presided in the absence of President Cliff Cummings.

LONELY? You'll never know...

IT'S the waiting that gets you down. It's the long days, and the longer nights, when you lie there thinking . . . will you ever get home again? . . . why don't they write more often . . . did Dad ever get over that heart trouble . . . is your best girl still waiting . . . will you ever get a job again . . .

Sometimes, when the mail is slow, you get to imagining things. Black, terrible things that begin to seem real. And then, something saves you.

Like the day the Red Cross field man got a rush cable report from home, telling you your Dad was getting well.

And the time some Red Cross girls came up in a jeep, handing out doughnuts and coffee and million-dollar American smiles. And you all started to laugh and kid, the way you used to at home.

There was the time you wanted to forget it was Christmas. And the Red Cross girl at the club made you trim a palm leaf Christmas tree, and you all had presents and sang the old carols, out there in the hot tropic night.

Maybe it doesn't sound like much. The Red Cross does a lot of bigger things . . . such as collecting blood plasma for the wounded . . . sending food packages to prisoners of war . . . clothes for bombed-out kids.

But to us, home seems just a little nearer, because your Red Cross is with us.

Americans: To keep at the side of your fighting men, your Red Cross must have funds. Contributions from you are the only source of income. Millions of our men are still far from home. They need your Red Cross . . . they must have it.

Manufacturers And Growers File Protests On WPB Clothing Order

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Garment manufacturers and wool growers' representatives today protested a War Production board directive intended to provide a larger supply of lower and medium priced clothing.

Describing the order as "arbitrary and capricious," the witnesses told members of the Smith committee to investigate executive agencies that the directive is "completely unworkable."

The witnesses also protested a forthcoming directive to be issued by the Office of rPice administration which would implement the WPB directive and roll back clothing prices to the 1942-1943 level.

Use of Rated Goods

Under the order, witnesses said, no apparel manufacturer may use rated goods for items selling above permitted prices. That means, they continued, that 20 per cent of the women's, misses coat and suit industry must go out of business because there is not enough free goods left after rated orders are filling to keep them going.

They added that 10 per cent of the women's dress business cannot operate for the same reason and in woolens it will amount to seven per cent in volume.

Textile mills supplying the upper price garment manufacturers say they cannot manufacture the types of fabrics required for lower cost garments, the witnesses declared.

Regimentation Feared

Rep. Barrett (R-Wyo), speaking for the wool growers of his state, testified that the WPB and OPA orders would "regiment" the wool growing and wool textile manufacturing industries under the control of the two bureaus."

Other witnesses who protested included Rep. Sumners (D-Texas), Rep. Russell (D-Tex), Rep. White (D-Idaho), and Howard Elliott, general counsel and representative of the apparel institute, and other garment manufacturers associations in the mid and southwest, and Los Angeles.

Spirit Of Surrounded Soldiers Is Revealed

SALT LAKE CITY, March 5. (AP)—"They've got us surrounded, the poor so-and-sos."

An American paratrooper said that at the siege of Bastogne in the Belgian bulge in December and his remark was typical of the spirit of the U. S. Soliers caught in what the Germans must have thought was an inescapable trap.

The unnamed soldier's remark was recalled here today by Corp. Newman L. Tuttle, 24, of Albert Lea, Minn., a member of the 101st Airborne division cut off at Bastogne for a week without food or ammunition.

With Tuttle was Sgt. Paul W. Inman, Waco, of the 90th division, which broke through to Bastogne.

They came here for a tour of war plants in the Ninth Service command after arriving in Washington a week ago. Asked how close were the German and American forces at Bastogne, Rasmussen commented: "Sometimes they were behind us."

Both Major Parties Agree On Two Vandenberg Ideas

Gallup Surveys Opinion On Japan, Germany

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Final returns in a nation-wide Institute survey show the majority of both Republicans and Democrats agreeing with the famed Vandenberg proposal that the Allies make a definite agreement now to keep Germany and Japan permanently disarmed.

GALLUP

Nearly nine in every 10 Republicans and Democrats in the present survey approved the idea of keeping the enemy nations demilitarized for good; while a majority in both parties approve the idea of this country's committing itself to this policy now, in writing, along with England, Russia, and China.

On a third feature of Senator Vandenberg's proposal, Democrats and Republicans split—a majority of Democrats approving, a majority of Republicans disapproving.

This is the suggestion that if Germany and Japan try to rearm in the future, the President should have the power to use force immediately to stop such a move, without first having to obtain approval of Congress.

Here Are The Questions

Here are the questions asked of a representative group of both Republicans and Democrats in all parts of the country, and a tabulation of the replies, on the basis of whether persons said they voted for Roosevelt or Dewey in the 1944 election:

1. "After the war, should Germany and Japan be kept permanently disarmed?"

The replies:

	F.D.R. Voters	Dewey Voters
Yes	89%	89%
No	6	6
Don't Know	5	5

2. "Should the United States, England, Russia, and China make a written agreement now to keep Germany and Japan disarmed, or should we wait until the war is over to make such an agreement."

	F.D.R. Voters	Dewey Voters
Make Agreement Now	54%	53%
Wait Until War Is Over	27	31
Should Not Make Agreement at all	7	8
Undecided	10	8

3. "If it becomes necessary to use force to keep Germany and Japan from arming again, should the President have the right to order the use of American force immediately, or should the approval of Congress be obtained first?"

	F.D.R. Voters	Dewey Voters
President Should Have Right	54%	38%
Should First Obtain Approval	37	49
Undecided	9	8

The country as a whole, including voters and non-voters, is more in favor of requiring Congressional approval before ordering the use of American forces.

Feeding War's Hungriest Mouth

WHOOOO! And a mighty trainload of ore rolls across the hi-line to the war-hungry Fairfield Alabama Works of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company. You'd be dizzy counting the 4380 carloads of coal, ore and limestone that must arrive at United States Steel plants every single day.

266,000 tons of raw materials a day brought in to keep ahead of Germany and Japan.

THE FIGHTING WEAPONS for your boy aren't made in steel mills alone.

Steel starts in coal mines. 30 million tons of coal from U. S. Steel mines go into steel making each year—82,000 tons a day.

Steel starts in ore mines. 49 million tons of ore from the mines of U. S. Steel are swallowed each year by war-busy steel furnaces.

Steel starts in limestone quarries. 17 million tons of limestone are quarried yearly by U. S. Steel to keep war steels flowing.

Steel is team play. Men, mines, mills, ships, trains are working day and night to keep our tonnage of war steel bigger than that of any Axis country.

With the fighting help of this team, we can again meet requirements in 1945.

IN THE MAIL

I HAVE just read your column and I certainly agree with Mrs. Keltz. She is very right.

You say you have never seen the "spit and whittle" corner; well if you ever go to the post office you see a lot of filth. I have been in cities and small towns but the lobby of this post office is the worst I have ever seen. I've heard a lot of people say it is very unsanitary.

Most any corner could be called the spit and whistle corner in Lubbock. On the whole it's a very dirty town. The cafes could stand some cleaning up too. The town just needs to be cleaned and the tobacco juice wiped from off the side walks. You never see a sign up here, "Do Not Spit On Side Walk" as you see in a lot of places. But the people here just don't seem to care what their town looks like or what happens.

Why isn't something done about the driving here; it's terrible. They must thing it is still wide open spaces here. On Saturdays instead of policmen being on duty and seeing that the cars do not double park, you see them off talking to some people in a little bunch. There are too few stop signs in Lubbock. It looks like a town the size of Lubbock wouldn't be so country. It certainly needs some boasters.

I am not a newcomer to Lubbock and was here before the war. So I am speaking as a long time resident here and the condition of Lubbock I mentioned was the same before the war. I'm glad I can see Lubbock's faults.

Mrs. J. F.

DEAR Mrs. J. F.: Well, if you are glad you can see Lubbock's faults, that seems to be about the only thing of which you are glad. It's true we are not out in town a great deal, except to walk to work and home again and we think one item you mentioned, spitting on the sidewalks, is certainly a true and deplorable state here.

As for Lubbock being such a dirty town; if you have lived here for any length of time you know that it has won 11 cups for being judged the cleanest town in Texas. We disagree that the people don't seem to care what their town looks like; we think there is as much civic pride here as anywhere in Texas. We know people are proud of their homes and their yards. The people who deface the sidewalks and public buildings are certainly not civic minded and we wish something could be done to punish them.

Dear Miss Turner:

AS a constant reader, I enjoy your column. First time I've ever felt I had to comment on a letter. Referring to Mrs. Kletz's statement of "Why should service men's wives work? They pay such low wages. Couldn't make any money anyway; why should we pay for the war when our husbands are paying for it, etc." I'd like for her to answer why are our men fighting? Please NOT just the married ones. I believe that statistics prove there are more single ones in the armed forces than married ones.

As a true American I'll answer "To preserve our land of the free and home of the brave." Yes, brave and I mean those who aren't afraid to work, though the wages be low. How many single girls are working for those same wages and whose tax rate is much higher than service wives?

If our men on all battle fronts said, "O, we can't make any money anyway, who could be invading our own American soil before long? What are service wives paying that mothers and sweethearts aren't? If they have good old red American blood in their veins to go forth and help every way possible to win and end this war they would not be paying with allotments, but saving by buying bonds to speed the return and safety of their loved ones.

Any fellow, married or single, who returns to find the girl of his dreams doing her patriotic duty by helping with Red Cross work, a regular blood donor, keeping children to free essential workers, or by filling that job herself, will be honored and long remembered by one and all in the future of our America.

Sincerely,
A Patriotic Reader.

DEAR Reader: In fairness to Mrs. Keltz, we'll remind you that she wrote mainly her opinion that girls have not married soldiers for their allotments. She also said the wages in general are so low that soldiers' wives do not feel they are justified in working when they do not have to do so. We are sure her patriotism should not be questioned and if war work was concerned she would be in there with the rest of them. But there you are again; if we had defense work out here the salaries would be handsome; at least much more than those paid for civilian jobs.

Thanks for your letter.

TEXAS VIGILANTES

AUSTIN, March 5 (U.P.)—A service ribbon was proposed today for the voluntary military units formed in Texas to act between the period when the Texas National guard was called into war and formation of the Texas State guard. The resolution by Sen. Fred Mauritz, Ganado, authorizes the adjutant general to design the decoration.

Salt was very expensive in ancient Roman times and, having a certain fixed value, was often used for money. Sometimes the upper servants and clerks were paid in salt. It was called a "salary"—salt money.

TRY THIS AMAZING BARCEL RECIPE TO TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Right in Your Own Home, You Can Lose Pounds of Excess Weight Without Starvation Diet or Strenuous Exercise

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcel Concentrate. Pour this into a bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Perhaps you are overweight due to over indulgence in food or the wrong kind of food. With the Barcel home recipe method, you do not have to starve yourself or go hungry. Just follow the simple instructions given on the label and you should get satisfactory results quickly. The very first pint you make up should show results.

LOSE UGLY FAT WITH BARCEL

Why not slim down your figure without a lot of fuss and bother? Try the Barcel way. Wear your streamlined frocks and slacks gracefully. Remember, if the very first bottle of Barcel doesn't show you the sensible way to lose weight, your money will be refunded.

Cologne Proves Yank Ability To Take Punishment And Smash Back

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF COLOGNE, March 5 — The surge of First Army infantry and tanks into battered Cologne today proved the American soldiers' ability to take a lot of punishment and come back slugging.

And the triumphal American march to the Rhine likewise underlined the fact that Field Marshal von Rundstedt's great counter offensive failed completely to wreck Gen. Eisenhower's plans for a winter offensive. The amazing recuperative power of the American armies is one of the highlights of the invasion.

They Smashed Forward

Sixty days ago the First Army was locked in a bitter struggle with powerful enemy forces trying to smash their way to Liege and north to Brussels and Antwerp. Today American doughboys are on the Rhine.

After driving von Rundstedt's offensive back, the Americans went on the offensive themselves. Their push was the greatest drive yet mounted by Eisenhower.

Once they were set, the Ninth and First armies made their moves and the Germans did not have enough men and guns to halt the advance. In just 10 days the First Army reached the Rhine and wiped out the Germans' defenses before Cologne. Today is the 11th day of the offensive.

Allen's "Timberwolf" Boys

The First Army's drive to the Rhine was spearheaded by Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th "Timberwolf" Infantry division and Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose's Third Armored division, which was the first into Belgium and the first into Germany.

Men of the 104th crossed the flooded Roer river and beat back the Germans until the engineers could get bridges over the stream. Behind them came Rose's armored columns. The two divisions then pushed to the Erft river. There Rose's columns accomplished an unusual feat for armor—they grabbed bridgeheads across the Erft before the infantry.

Rose saw a chance while the enemy was disorganized and spurred his tank leaders with the offer of a case of Scotch for the first task force commander to establish a bridgehead. It was a race between Lt. Col. Samuel Hogan of Pharr, Tex., and Lt. Col. Walter Richardson of Beaumont. Hogan won.

Once they had bridges across the Erft and a canal, these two divisions gathered their strength and began the dash for Cologne.

Two antitank guns were giving the troops trouble at Bockle-muend when they called for artillery.

"The shells landed squarely on the German position and the crews ran away," said Maj. Stanley Hidalgo of Port Arthur. "We had no more trouble from those guns."

Man Given 40 Years For Raping Girl, 9

BEAUMONT, March 5 (U.P.) — Servan Ellis Landry, ex-convict, was sentenced to 40 years imprisonment today for the confessed raping of a nine-year-old girl in a revival tent here last November.

As Landry was led from the courtroom, the little girl's mother lunged angrily at him but was restrained by her husband and the court baliff.

Landry, whose police record shows other alleged sex crimes, pleaded guilty to charges of waylaying and assaulting the young girl in the revival tent last Nov. 4 when she returned after a meeting to get a sweater she had left behind.

HOLLYWOOD, March 5. (U.P.)—Pretty Georgianna Young, 20-year-old sister of Screen Star Loretta Young, today revealed her secret marriage to Mexican Actor Ricardo Montalban.

The ceremony took place in October in Mexico. Friends said the former New York model was to become a mother.

Montalban, the "Tyrone Power of Mexico," is in Hollywood with his bride, whose only screen appearance was in a Deanna Durbin picture in 1938.

ODT Announces Deferment Plan

Nettles F. Nelson, district manager of the Office of Defense Transportation, announced Monday new occupational deferment procedures for employes of transportation and related industries.

In the recently approved plan of the Office of War Mobilization for the retention of key workers in essential industries, the ODT was named as claimant agency and certifying authority for deferment of indispensable workers in the transportation and related industries.

As claimant agency for transportation deferments, the ODT is requesting transportation employers to submit lists of key workers in the order of their indispensability, placing those whose loss would be most serious first on the list.

Nelson explained that no man may be certified for deferment if he is not doing work classified as indispensable, if he can be replaced by someone doing less essential work, if another recruit or transferree can be trained to do his work in three months, or if he is doing any work connected with postwar production.

In order to have employes certified by the ODT for deferment, employers in the transportation industry must submit, in addition to lists of their employes under 30 years of age, two sets of Selective Service forms 42-A Special (revised) and a certificate that the lists and forms are being submitted to only one certifying agency. A fixed percentage of those on the list may then be certified by the ODT to selective service local boards for deferment. Final decision as to whether a man will be deferred will rest with the local board.

The lists (in quadruplicate) should include the names of all men under 30 years of age on Jan. 1, 1945, who were classified at that time as 2-A or 2-B and should not include any part time workers.

Other information to be submitted with the lists includes the total number of employes as of Jan. 1, 1945, exclusive of part time employes.

Procedures in filing the lists vary slightly for the different branches of the industry. Employers in the railroad, airline, tank car leasing, inland waterways, and warehousing industries are asked to submit the required lists to various regional and national offices not later than March 10, 1945. The addresses may be obtained from ODT district offices.

Application for deferments of essential employes of automotive maintenance, and highway and local transport companies, however, will be handled locally by district offices of the ODT highway transport department. Included in the list of essential activities for which the ODT district offices may make deferment certifications in these industries are the operation and maintenance of over-the-road tank-trucking, pickup and delivery local trucking to and from line haul carriers, local transit, rapid transit, and interurban electric railway services, and repair and maintenance of all automobiles, buses, trucks, tractors, farm equipment and tires. Lists should be submitted to ODT district offices as soon as possible.

Sample copies of the lists and further information on the procedures to be followed may be obtained from ODT district offices. Copies of Form 42-A Special (revised) will shortly be available at selective service boards, Nelson said.

Danish Underground Striking Effectively

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, March 5 (AP)—A special communique today said the Danish underground was attacking German troop movements so effectively that not a single train is able to reach Germany without having been delayed.

"This action by Danish saboteurs is an effective contribution to current military operations on both the western and eastern fronts," the communique said.

The troop movements presumably were related to the withdrawal of German divisions from Norway for defense of the Reich.

CAB Examiners Recommend Four Permanent Latin American Lines

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—Two Civil Aeronautics board examiners recommended today that CAB grant permanent air routes to Latin America to four additional American airlines.

The four are Eastern Air Lines, Braniff Airways, Western Air Lines, and American Airlines.

The recommendations, subject to CAB review, also contemplate extensions of Latin American routes held by Pan American airways, Inc., and its affiliate, Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways, Inc.)

Only One At Present

Pan American at present is the only American flag airline holding a permanent certificate authorizing service between the United States and Latin America. Others operate routes under temporary certificates.

These are the recommendations of Examiners Francis W. Brown and H. Heinrich Spang:

Braniff — New service between Houston, Tex., and Balboa, Canal Zone, via Merida.

Panagra—New service between Balboa and Buenos Aires via Guayaquil, Lima and Antofagasta.

Pan American—New service between Port of Spain, Trinidad, and Buenos Aires, via Manaos and Asuncion; new service between New York and San Juan, Puerto Rico; inclusion of Sao Paulo, Brazil, as an immediate point on route between Rio De Janero and Porto Alegre; new service between New Orleans and Havana; permanent rights to the present temporary route between New Orleans and Guatemala City via Merida.

Eastern And American

Eastern—Extension of facilities from Miami to Balboa via Havana and Kingston.

American—Permanent rights to the present temporary route between Fort Worth-Dallas and Mexico City via San Antonio and Monterrey, with service to San Antonio limited to flights originating or terminating in Mexico City.

Western—New service between Los Angeles and Mexico City.

In addition, it was recommended that Pan American be allowed to include Curacao and Santiago, Cuba, as intermediate points between Post-Au-Prince and Kingston.

Nazis Choose Wrong Time For Skirmish

WITH THE 66TH INFANTRY DIVISION, In France — "Those damn Heinies—they would pick chow time to come around!" — That was the principal beef of Sgt. Floyd A. Turner of Lubbock, after an exciting skirmish with the enemy in the St. Nazaire pocket in France.

Mess gear in hand, Sgt. Turner and his buddy were half way to mess when they heard a Nazi 42 machine gun open up in their immediate rear. The boys dropped their mess gear and hastened back to their position to gather ammunition. The sergeant and three of his men took positions along a hedge row.

A machine gun and a BAR position along the line joined in a heavy barrage on a reinforced enemy combat patrol which had sought to ambush a GI patrol. The Nazis were effectively pinned down and were pounded with artillery fire. Fourteen prisoners were taken and several were wounded as the big patrol was thoroughly routed.

"What has been your biggest thrill since you've been in the BTO?" a correspondent asked Sgt. Turner.

"Meeting my brother, Woodrow, in England," responded the blond Texan with a smile. "I located him through the Red Cross and spent a 48-hour pass with him. I was sure tickled to see him. I hadn't seen him in 22 months since he had been overseas for 19 months." His brother is a staff sergeant, serving with the ground crew of the Eighth Air force.

Sgt. Turner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Turner, of 1511 Tenth street, Lubbock.

LAAF Gets First Nazi War Prisoners

Approximately 90 German prisoners of war, first of a group of 250 who are being transferred from the McLean POW camp at McLean, Texas, to the Branch camp at Lubbock Army Air field, arrived Sunday, it was learned Monday.

In command of the Branch Camp at LAAF is Capt. Harry H. Hill of Eagle Pass, who for the past several months has been connected with the main camp at McLean. Second in command at the Branch Camp at LAAF is 1st. Lt. Carl Engstrom.

A contingent of guards and other personnel connected with the camp also have arrived and are on duty.

Under 8th Service Command

The German prisoners of war stationed at LAAF will be used to alleviate the labor shortage in this area in work which is not directly connected with the war effort. The Branch camp is operated under the jurisdiction of the Eighth Service command through the main POW Camp at McLean and policies and personnel at the Branch Camp at LAAF are directed from Eighth Service command headquarters.

LAAF's mission as an AAF installation is in no way changed by the establishment of the camp at the field, it was explained by officials, and AAF officials nor the post has any jurisdiction over the operation of the Branch camp at the field.

Further information concerning the contracts for work in this area and what employers would use the prisoner of war labor in this area is unavailable at the present time, it was said.

Under Geneva Convention Rules

Details of the make-up of the POW camp at LAAF and its detailed operation were "hush-hush" today. However, the Branch Camp at the west base is being operated as all other such prisoner of war camps in this country—under the strict rules of the Geneva convention which sets out how all nations at war will treat prisoners of war.

The German prisoners of war at the Branch Camp at LAAF are being housed in what was an unoccupied area in barracks like those which are used for military personnel at the field. The POWs will be fed the same rations as those fed the military personnel at the installation at which they are located. These rules are pertinent provisions of the Geneva convention and are being observed by this government.

The treatment of all POWs in this nation is set up under the rules of the Geneva convention and observed at all camps.

RAIL SERVICE RESTORED

MEXICO CITY, March 5. (AP)—The city of Oaxaca can again be reached by rail after having been cut from the outside world by floods last September, the National Railway management reported yesterday.

Schwab Funeral Set Here Today

Funeral services will be read at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist church for Mrs. Mark (Christine) Schwab, about 40, who died early Sunday at her 2601 Thirty-seventh residence. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

A verdict of death of "gunshot wounds self-inflicted" was returned Monday afternoon by C. E. Lynn, coroner.

Her husband, a Lubbock gasoline, oil and tire dealer, informed Lynn and other investigating officials his wife had "worked hard all day Saturday" in their newly purchased residence, preparing for a several-weeks visit of an El Paso friend.

Discussed El Paso Trip

He said he went to their home about 7 o'clock Saturday night and found her extremely nervous. He said they discussed going to El Paso, to meet the friend, but that she decided she did not want to go that night.

He was listening to the radio at 1 o'clock Sunday morning when she came into the living room, clad in slacks and a black housecoat. She turned off the radio, Lynn was informed, and went back to her bedroom.

Schwab said he heard the noise of the gun, a .22 automatic rifle that was kept in a closet there, and heard her say:

"Honey, I'm gone."

Ran To Bedroom

He ran to the bedroom and found his wife lying on the bed, face down. The gun was beside her, he informed officials. He explained that he turned his wife over on her back and that she gasped momentarily and died.

He placed the rifle against the wall of the bedroom and called the sheriff's department.

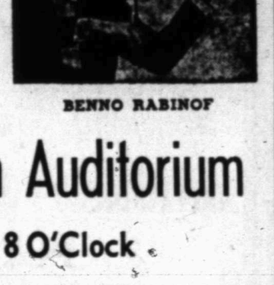

Other survivors are five sisters, Mrs. J. A. Kennedy of Bangs, Mrs. F. L. Taylor of Brownwood, Mrs. Clifton M. Cobb of Dallas, Mrs. Jacqueline Steel of Fort Worth, Mrs. Frank Kemp of Denver, Colo.; three brothers, Charles S. Matthews of Dallas, Guy Matthews of Morton and Lynn Matthews of Jacksonville.

STEWART HEADS BOARD

AUSTIN, March 5. (U.P.)—Maco Stewart, Galveston, was elected head of the State Board of Education at the board's monthly meeting here today. Dr. A. M. Long, Valley Mills, was elected vice-president. Stewart succeeds Royall Watkins, Dallas, whose board membership has expired.

Major Bills Gain Attention As Legislature Nears Midway Point

AUSTIN, March 5. (AP)—Legislation of major import is gaining more House and Senate attention as the 49th general session nears the half-way point in the constitutionally suggested 120-day meet.

Both branches debated important bills today, the Senate passing to the House a measure exempting service men and women and those honorably discharged from payment of the poll tax as a voting prerequisite in 1945 and 1946 and the House sending to the Senate two bills designed to increase the state's financial aid to all public school districts.

Deadline On New Bills

March 9 is the 60th day of the session after which no new bills may be introduced without a suspension of rules. The number of House bills has exceeded 500 and Senate measures exceed 200, leaving tremendous backlogs of work for both branches.

The soldier vote bill, by Sen. Jesse Martin of Fort Worth, is similar to one passed in 1919. Its approval was unanimous and senators debated it only long enough to attach amendments by Kyle Vick of Waco and Penrose Metcalfe of San Antonio relieving permanently disabled veterans of all poll tax payments.

Another amendment by Sen. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio exempted from poll tax payment members of the Red Cross, Society of Friends, Women's auxiliary Service Pilots and United Service organizations actually attached to and serving with the armed forces.

School Financial Aid

Near unanimous approval sent to the Senate the House legislation on school financial aid. By Rep. Joe Humphrey of Abilene and others, the bills fix the state property tax rate for support of the available school fund at the constitutional maximum of 35 cents per $100 valuation and authorize full distribution each year of all revenue received by the available school fund.

Humphrey estimated the effect of the legislation would be to provide a $31 per capita scholastic apportionment. Last year with a tax rate of 17 cents per $100 the per capita apportionment was set at $25. A surplus of $4 accrued by the end of the year and this was later distributed, making a total per capita distribution of $29.

Many other proposals of wide application were on House and Senate floor and committee calendars awaiting public hearings or debate.

The state Democratic party's inner council, its executive committee, indicated it will seek to stay progress of a so-called white primary bill until it could be given a public hearing.

William H. Kittress, jr., of Dallas, executive committee secretary, said Sen. Spears would introduce soon a motion recommitting the bill to committee for a hearing.

By Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston, the bill repeals all statutes dealing with party membership and conduct of primaries, as result of a decision by the Supreme court of the United States that negroes may vote in Texas primaries.

Other legislative developments: The Senate passed to the House bills permitting private corporations to act as trustees; setting wage scales and duty hours for firemen in cities of 40,000 to 60,000 population; clarifying the statutes on the trust act, and giving the Houston Independent School district board authority to determine the method of selecting regents for the University of Houston.

The House adopted a resolution by Rep. W. R. Cousins of Beaumont petitioning Congress to allow members of the armed forces representation at the final peace determination. It balked at another congressional petition, postponing indefinitely a resolution by Rep. Mainor Westbrook of Magnolia Springs asking Congress to amend the federal social security act to include agricultural workers in the old age insurance benefits feature.

Trouble Proves As Nothing When Red Cross Is Involved

When someone gives to the Red Cross, that's wonderful! But when one goes to an awful lot of trouble to make a pretty big donation, that's news!

Mrs. L. Robbins, 89, who lives at 2307 Thirteenth, came to Red Cross headquarters at Kuykendall Chevrolet company Saturday afternoon to make a Red Cross donation. She arrived at headquarters after asking a number of people where she should go to give her contribution and after walking several blocks out of her way to get there.

Mrs. C. A. Bestwick, who is chairman of the volunteer checkers for the fund, took her contribution of $30 and in the conversation that followed, Mrs. Robbins asked Mrs. Bestwick if she was a paid worker. Mrs. Bestwick assured her that she and all other volunteer Red Cross workers gave their time to Red Cross work.

"How long will you work on this War Fund campaign?" Mrs. Robbins asked. Mrs. Bestwick told her the work would last from two to three weeks.

"Well," Mrs. Robbins said, "if you can give that much of your time, I can at least give more money." So she added another five dollars which brought her total contribution to $35.

Store Classification Deadline Extended

Howard R. Gholson, district director of the Office of Price administration, announced Monday that the deadline for determining, by all food retailers, the group in which their store belongs has been extended to March 29. Yesterdya was originally set as the deadline.

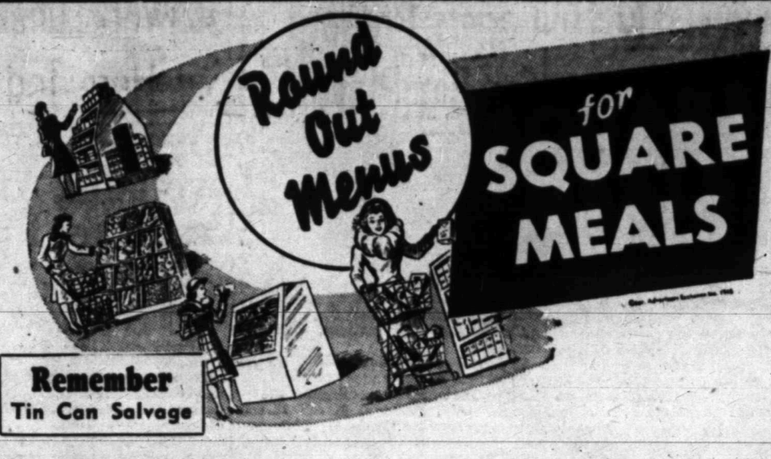

The annual gross sales of retail food establishments determine in which of four groups the store is classed and this in turn determines the markups the store is permitted to use, Gholson explained. To the consumer this means the rstail price they will pay.

BITTEN BY HOT DOG

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 5. (U.P.)—"Uncle" Leo Blondin, former circus clown and veteran city zoo keeper who has spent most of his lifetime with lions, tigers, polar bears and other dangerous animals, is recovering today—from the "bite" of a hot dog.

The hot dog, which he ruefully branded as "the most vicious of domestic animals," gave him ptomaine poisoning.

DENTON, March 5. (AP)—With a March meet at the Fort Worth Stock Show scheduled and several others on the tentative list, North Texas State tracksters buckled down to hard workouts this week.

Entered in the Fort Worth Stock Show meet March 16 and 17, the Eagle cindermen return to track and field events after a two-year layoff in which collegiate athletics were abandoned in favor of intramurals.

Border Olympics Set For Friday

LAREDO, Tex., March 5. (AP)—Down here on the banks of the Rio Grande where some of the world's greatest trackmen have shown their wares, Laredo is preparing for the nation's first outdoor meet of the season—the thirteenth annual Border Olympics.

College stars from two states will compete against former college standouts coming from Army camps and flying fields throughout this area in a track and field carnival Friday night.

In addition there will be teams from 30 or more high schools.

The University of Texas and Texas A. and M., which never have missed entering teams in the Olympics, will have a strong Oklohoma A. and M. team, featuring Bob Fenimore, All-American footballer who is a standout dashman, to contend with.

Also there will be track men from Southwest Texas State in addition to thinly clads from Laredo Army Air field, Randolph Field, Moore Field, Kingsville Naval Air Station, Hondo Air Field, Fort Sam Houston Reception Center and the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center.

The colleges and service teams will compete in one division this year in an effort to produce more records.

No team from outside Texas ever has managed to win the Olympics but the Oklahoma Aggies are given a good chance to change this set-up Friday night although the University of Texas has the nucleus of last year's outfit that rolled up the largest point total in the history of Southwest Conference track and field.

Kilgore Cage Star Killed In Car Wreck

KILGORE, March 5. (UP)—Benjamin G. Botkins, jr., 17-year-old star on the district title winning Kilgore High school basketball team, was killed in a weekend automobile accident, it was announced today.

Famed Golfer Shows Class As Fisherman

MIAMI, Fla., March 5. (AP)—It's Fisherman Joe Kirkwood now.

The veteran Philadelphia golf pro and trick shot artist went fishing in the Gulf stream and hooked and boated a 40-pound dolphin on a 15-thread line.

It was the largest of the specie entered in the tenth annual metropolitan Miami fishing tournament.

Cagers Prepare For Big Playoff

NEW YORK, March 5 (U.P.) — Tournament time drew near today for the country's better basketball teams. That means a baffling time for fans who try to figure out the annual whirligig of eliminations for three national championships beginning next Monday.

Each of the tournaments is run independent of the others, each has a logical process of getting its entrants and each winner has a legitimate claim for national honors.

First Meet March 12

The first to get under way will be the National Intercollegiate at Kansas City, Monday, March 12. Normally it is a 32-team affair, but the field has been reduced to 16 teams because of travel difficulties this year and to date 10 teams from as many different states have been entered. It is a tournament, generally speaking, for teams which play independently or not in the large conferences, but it is not lacking in caliber because it doesn't always attract the so-called "big name" teams.

Teams entered thus far in the intercollegiate are Central of Fayette, Mo., unbeaten in 11 starts; Eastern Washington of Cheney, Wash., which has the nation's second highest scorer in Jack Perreault with 481 points in 29 games; Eastern Kentucky, Wichita, Kan., university; Southern Illinois Normal of Carbondale; Catawba of Salisbury, N. C., George Pepperdine of Los Angeles; West Texas State Teachers of Canyon; Phillips university of Enid, Okla., and Loyola of New Orleans,

NCAA Meet March 23

The National Collegiate Athletic Association meet for which only member teams are eligible, comprises the major conferences and will have its Western playoffs at Kansas City beginning March 23 and its Eastern at New York starting March 2. The N.C.A.A. divided the country into eight districts and the top eligible team from each is selected to represent it, with the four Western teams playing at Kansas City and the Eastern at New York.

Teams which have qualified thus far for the Western meet are Arkansas of the Southwest, Oklahoma A. & M. of the Missouri Valley and Utah's defending N.C.A.A. champions from the Rocky Mountains. The winner of a playoff series between Washington State and Oregon, beginning March 15, will be the Pacific Coast representative.

Eastern Playoff

In the Eastern N.C.A.A. playoffs, DePaul or Ohio State's all-civilian team is expected to represent the Midwest since Iowa, Big Ten champion, has naval trainees, who can't leave the campus for the meet. Kentucky, winner of the Southeastern tournament or North Carolina, which won the Southern meet will represent the South. Brown or Rhode Island State may represent New England with Connecticut a possibility. New York university and Pittsburgh are top candidates in the mid-Atlantic area.

After the Eastern and Western playoffs, the winners meet for the N.C.A.A. title at the Garden March 27.

The third tournament, the National Invitational, is a clubby selective meet, which takes eight hand-picked quality teams for the eliminations which begin at the Garden, March 17.

Three teams, St. John's, the defending champion, Muhlenberg and Tennessee already have accepted invitational bids. Others in the field of eligibles are New York Valparaiso of Indiana, Bowling Green of Ohio, West Virginia, Renssalaer Poly, Temple and Albright.

The winner of the Invitational will play the N.C.A.A. champion for a mythical National title in the Garden for Red Cross benefit March 29. Utah defeated St. John's in that game a year ago.

Levelland, Andrews Enter Westerner Practice Meet

The practice track and field show Friday afternoon at Chapman field received it's first entries Monday, with word from Levelland and Andrews that they would bring track squads here to contest the Lubbock Westerners.

The Levelland Lobos, just closing basketball, will have only a small squad, they indicated, but would bring several boys. The size of the Andrews squad was not named, but they will be remembered as having a large delegation here last year for both the junior and Class A district meets.

The meet will be a practice affair, and open to any school in this area with the hopes of getting a good workout for the track squad, and E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey said Monday night that he expected a number more entries this week, and looked for some teams to show up Friday without sending any advance notice.

Lowrey indicated that he was looking to hear from Denver City, where track has been a major sport for some time.

The Westerner hopes were given a big boost Monday when Cliff Dean, pole vaulter, reported to Coach Hayhurst. He turned in vaults up to 10 feet, 5 inches on his first day out, then called it a day.

Dean broke his leg last fall, and was not expected to be in shape for this track season.

Rice Pays Tribute To Arkansas Cagers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 5. (AP) — Rice Institute athletic representatives and followers took time out from a banquet in honor of the Southwest Conference basketball champion Owls in Houston to pay tribute to the University of Arkansas Razorbacks who will represent the area in the NCAA playoffs at Kansas City.

In a letter to Coach Eugene Lambert of the Razorbacks, who won second place in the conference 1945 race, A. M. Tomforde, graduate member of the Rice athletic council, said "It is a pleasure to be pulling for you in the coming (Kansas City) tournament. The Arkansas teams that we have seen here in Houston have always been made up on fine players and fine sportsmen."

During the party a spontaneous move was made to convey to the Razorbacks and their coach best wishes for success in the tournament. The scroll read:

"The undersigned are gathered this evening in Houston to do honor to the champion Rice basketball squad. We take this opportunity to convey to you our sincerest good wishes for your success in the coming NCAA championships. We believe your fine team to be thoroughly worthy representative of the Southwest Conference and we will be pulling for you at both Kansas City and New York City."

Among the signers were Captain Bill Henry and all of his Owl teammates; Athletic Director Jess C. Neely, Basketball Coach Joe Davis and Dr. H. E. Bray, chairman of the Rice athletic council; and some 40 Rice alumni and fans.

"Just about the nicest tribute any team could receive," was the cheerful comment of Coach Lambert. "That kind of support from our own league is a great inspiration and we will strive harder than ever to advance in the Nationals."

Sam Snead Again Is Winner Over Field

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 5. (AP) — Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., holds a six-to-four edge in winter golf tournaments over his arch rival, Byron Nelson of Toledo, O.

In annexing his sixth championship — the $5,000 Jacksonville Open — he boosted his total winnings for the season to $13,849. He carded a 266, or 22 under par, for the 72 holes.

But Lord Byron is still slightly ahead in cash, having raked in war bond winnings of $14,468.

Since he got out of Navy togs, the Virginia strong boy has been winning championships in slam-bang fashion, taking in a row the Gulfport, Pensacola and Jacksonville Opens.

It was Sam's day from the start. He collected birdies on the first two holes and from there on in rifled out 300-yard drives and holed 10-foot puts with equal ease to finish with a 66.

Second-place money went to Bob Hamilton of Chicago, who carded a 270 after leading during the first two days. Tieing for third position with 274's were Ky Laffoon of Chicago; Sam Byrd of Detroit and Bruce Coltart of Absecon, N. J. Next came Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden with 275's followed by Amateur Fred Haas of New Orleans with 277.

LI'L ABNER — White Lie — By Al Capp

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — With — Major Hoople — OUT OUR WAY — By J. R. Williams

Can't He Go To Work?

Do We Owe Williams A Living?

AUBREY WILLIAMS couldn't possibly be as lily-white as his supporters in Washington claim he is, for no mortal could be. Possibly, he is not all the terrible things his opponents have claimed. Frankly, we doubt anyone could be that, either. So we make no effort to judge either his fitness, or his lack of fitness, for the job of administrator of the Rural Electrification administration for which Mr. Roosevelt nominated him.

What we wonder, however, is why Mr. Roosevelt nominated Williams in the first place; why, in fact, the President continues, time after time, to keep in government posts the same old names and faces, including those for which large segments of the public have disdain, or no confidence.

Aubrey Williams has been riding the "gravy train" for so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. His record shows him to be a professional lapper-upper of tax money; a public payroll hanger-onner of great tenacity.

Why is this?

Can't Mr. Williams get himself a working job of some sort? Or hasn't he got what it takes to buck the competition one finds in private employment but which is often too lacking in public fields?

Certainly, the American taxpayer has never accepted the responsibility of keeping the wolf from the Williams door. The people haven't guaranteed him a public job, even if, as it appears, the President has. To plain John and Jane Doe, Mr. Williams is just another of the 130,000,000 of us who can make his own way, or not, as he sees fit.

Perhaps there are so many bureaus and divisions and agencies and departments in the federal government now that it is impossible to find any new people to put in them. If that is the case, we suppose the New Deal needs Mr. Williams and others like him to fill its millions of comfortable chairs.

But if others are available, why not give them a chance once-in-awhile, instead of coming back with the same, old worn out numbers time-after-time?

A change of scenery, it occurs to us, would do everybody good.

A Shoe For Others To Wear

AMONG the more amusing things we've run across in recent months was a classified advertisement appearing in a recent edition of Editor & Publisher, the "bible" of the newspaper craft.

Like all others in his position these days, the Editor of The Morning Avalanche was perusing E&P's classified columns, seeing if there were any experienced help available, and also reading "help wanted" ads to see what others were offering. In our search we ran across an ad reading:

"Labor Magazine, A-1, requires services of combination managing editor and general manager. Thorough knowledge of and long experience in Trade Union movement essential. Salary good. Hours long. No vacation for the duration."

For heavens sake!

Shades of Bro. Murray, Bro. Green; Comrades Bridges and Curran; Czars Hillman and Petrillo! Long hours—no vacation! Hey-hey!

No 40-hour week. No time-and-a-half for overtime and no double-time for Sundays, holidays and other days when the wind is from the east and the local's secretary wears a pink necktie! What goes on here?

We've often wondered if the union boys, in their inner circles, wear the shoe they try to force onto the foot of everybody else.

The advertisement in Editor & Publisher doesn't look like it.

How To Assure Protection

GEN. H. H. ARNOLD, whose five stars indicate his leadership over the Army's Air Forces, hit the nail on the head the other day when he said the U. S. must never again allow its defenses to drop down to the pre-Pearl Harbor point, then added that in any "next war" we shall be the first country to be attacked—more fiercely and with less warning than on December 7, 1941.

General Arnold, whose first concern naturally is the Army Air Forces, insists that the U. S. must always be well protected in the clouds, and we agree. But we'll go even farther. We think the U. S. always must be protected on the ground, on the sea, and under the sea, as well.

That's why we believe in a system of postwar training which will require every able-bodied young male in the land to serve a year in the armed services of the country.

That's the only way we can think of, or have ever heard proposed, by which we may be protected against aggression.

A Chicago woman sued for divorce, because her husband extinguished cigarettes against her face. She can scarcely be blamed, as such practice is hard on the complexion.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE FIRST RACKETEER

Francois Eugene Vidocq, "first racketeer," (1775-1857) was chief of detectives of Paris while he was at the same time the leader of the criminal underworld. He organized the first "Trade Protective Society," initiating the system of scaring honest tradesmen into paying "protection money." As chief of detectives he created the "stool pigeon," or paid informer, whom police all over the world still consider indispensable to their activities. As "provocateur" Vidock had no equal. It is said that on a dozen occasions he sent out general alarms for his own arrest, and 6 times paid a reward to his pretended captor. He lived to the old age of 82.

FOUR YOUNG MEN IN THE GOLD RUSH

VI

ALL the gold in the early days—in '49 and '50 — came from placer mining, which means mining on the surface or in shallow pits, or sifting gold from the beds of streams. Compared to the great amount of the precious metal underground this surface gold was almost insignificant in quantity, but the gold in the underground lodes could be reached only by sinking deep shafts, driving tunnels into the sides of mountains, and using expensive rock-crushing machinery. There was none of that in California in 1849; the machinery and the mining corporations came later.

In placer mining the gold was found in tiny nuggets of the pure metal, about the size of the grains of sand or even smaller, but an occasional find weighed two or three ounces. The most likely places for finding these morsels of gold were the beds of streams.

A miner, working in a brook or creek, would go into the water barefoot, with his trousers rolled above his knees and his sleeves up to his shoulders. He would carry a wooden bucket or a similar receptacle. He would then scoop up the sand and gravel from the bed of the stream. The gold, if there were any, might be seen as tiny yellow specks or grains in the sand. The problem then was to separate the gold from its sandy environment. There were various ways of accomplishing that. One was a washing process. The sand, being lighter than the gold, could be washed away if the bucket were filled with water and shaken constantly so that the particles of gold would drop to the bottom; then the water and sand might be poured off. Another method involved the use of a cradle made for the purpose. By rocking the sand and gold were separated. There was much waste to gold in this work of separation, for some of the gold dust would always be washed away with the sand.

AFTER they had come down the pass into California the Birdsall outfit made its way to Sacramento, not for any particular reason, but because they did not know where else to go. Sacramento was then a wild and noisy village of the roughest character, filled with adventurers. There the Birdsalis sold their team. To their astonishment the oxen brought $150 apiece, and for the covered wagon, rickety and almost falling apart, they got $100. In Memphis it would not have fetched more than $15.

With all this money in hand they decided to see San Francisco before searching for gold. They stayed in that incredible community only three days. In his diary Andy Gordon says:

September 24th. We got to S. F. yesterday, and have been on the go ever since.

This town was built for 800 people, and now it has 10,000. We stayed last night at the Parker House, which is called a hotel, but I would call it a shanty. It is small, having room for about a dozen people, if all the space is used. Last night four men slept in the small room we occupied on bunks put up one above the other. We paid $10 apiece. That means the proprietor got $40 for the rent of that room for one night. I mentioned it to one of the guests when we were washing our faces this morning, and he said the proprietor rents the hotel building from its owner and pays $15,000 a year for it—about $300 a week. That may not be the exact figures, but God knows even one-tenth of that amount would be high. I think we are all wrong on this gold-mining business. We ought to go into real estate. There's where the money lies. This hotel building could be put up for $5000; it is a wooden shanty. Are we all crazy?

IN San Francisco harbor there were at one time in that year of 1849 no less than 400 ships that had been deserted by their crews who had gone to the gold fields. The whole community was hysterical and half-mad during that period — say from 1848 to 1853, when it began to regain its senses.

The fellow guest whom the Birdsalls had met casually at the hotel wash trough was a companionable person, and they became very friendly with him. He was a storekeeper of Marysville, a gold diggers' shanty town about 50 miles north of Sacramento, and he had come down to San Francisco to buy goods for his store.

Sol Nathan had been a placer miner, which he declared to be a fool's game.

"But we saw a man in Sacramento when we were on our way here," said Tommy Plunkett, "who was a tenderfoot, or rawheel, or whatever you call 'em, who struck a pocket of gold before he had been at work a week. It's no lie, either, for he had the gold with him—worth $12,000—and was going that very day to sell it to the mint. We saw it."

"I can well believe it," Sol Nathan agreed.

"Yet you say we won't find anything," Birdsall argued. "so what—"

"I didn't say that," Sol replied, "I said the chances are about five hundred to one against you making a big strike. It's just a matter of figures—statistics—but I'm sure all of you can make a living at it. Almost anybody who is willing to work hard can pick up enough splinters of gold to pays his living expenses."

It was back-breaking labor—the job of standing in cold water all day and sifting pails of sand — and the Birdsall outfit was sick of it before the first week had run its course. In the first six days they had altogether sifted out 17 ounces of gold dust, worth about $300, or $75 apiece. From talking with other men on the spot they got an idea that this was about the average return.

NEXT: CHICAGO — THE YOUNG GIANT.

OIL MAN DIES

SHREVEPORT, La., March 5. (AP)—Clyde R. Minor, 64, for many years vice president of the Gulf Oil corporation and founder of the nationally-known Cedarcroft plantation two miles south of Greenwood, died of a heart attack at 5:30 yesterday afternoon at his home.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

HERE is the kind of advertisement that you will see in the "Personal" columns of New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and other big city papers every day:

"WHY BE LONESOME? Meet new friends through our personal introductions. Congenial gentlemen and ladies, all faiths all ages. Call daily, Sundays, 12-8."

BRANDEIS

Just for curiosity I went to one of these Introduction bureaus in New York the other day and I saw some of these lonesome people. They certainly were of "all faiths and all ages."

Some of them were very young but most of them were closer to 50 than they would like to be, and when I say closer to 50 I mean the other side of 50 as well.

I had had the suspicion that perhaps these people were looking primarily for adventure. But I was wrong. They were really lonesome and hungry for friends —lonesome in a city of seven million, in a city of lights and amusements, in a city where people live in layers rather than in homes, in cubicles rather than in rooms.

This evening when I looked through my local paper I think I found an answer to that terrible lonesomeness in New York and other big cities.

In the so-called society news of New York you find the spectacular doings of the wealthy or of people whose names are known the country over.

But in my paper I read that "Raymond L. Hall of South Center district, who received a severe knee injury in a fall from the roof of his home several weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to his teaching duties at Warren Harding high school in Bridgeport."

The paper also told me that the members of the Book club met at the home of Mrs. Inez Anderson, at which Miss Gertrude Roe read a selection of poems and Miss Dorothy Somers (our tax collector) presented current events of local interest. Twenty-four people were present.

THIS very morning I received a few copies of the Lubbock, Texas, Avalanche, which its able editor, my good friend Charles A. Guy, had sent me.

In it I saw that Mrs. C. R. Veazy of Waco left for Vernon to visit relatives, after spending 10 days with her sister, Mrs. Pat Muckleroy.

Miss Virginia D. Wilbanks and Miss Valencia Shuttlesworth were visiting Mrs. J. A. Wilbanks of 1908 Dixie Drive.

* * *

Well, Inez and Valencia and Raymond Hall and Pat Muckleroy won't ever have to go to any "Personal Introduction" bureaus for company. Their sisters and brothers and uncles and aunts and neighbors and friends will see to that.

You have no idea how many people I have met in the big cities who left their homes with high expectations and fully resolved to conquer the world. And then—

The other day I was walking up Fifth Avenue with a friend, a native New Yorker.

"Look," I cried excitedly, "there goes Albert Einstein."

"So what?" he said and walked over to a haberdashery window to look at their latest display of neckties.

A Test Of Patriotism

Curfew Order To Tell The Story

By Ray Tucker
WASHINGTON

THE cumbersome provisions for enforcement of the curfew ban furnish a stern test of the willingness of the American people and the vast amusement industry to undergo minor hardships on behalf of more effective prosecution of the war.

The Byrnes-McNutt poo-bahs here concede that the sweeping order depends chiefly on voluntary obedience if it is to have the desired result. It is too big and too troublesome a job for any national agency.

Moreover, the administration does not want to be put in the light of having superseded or cracked down on local authorities. The situation is too packed with political dynamite for that, which helps to explain why the prohibition was not invoked long ago.

TUCKER

The War Mobilizer, resenting suggestions that the drys or other so-called moral factions forced his hand, has given definite instructions that there must be no private or unofficial snooping on prospective offenders.

Complaints of violations will not be accepted from that eager and prolific army of agents. The only reports which will carry any authority at Manpower headquarters must originate with state, county or local police.

Not even the FBI will be assigned to this task. J. Edgar Hoover has always had a horror of his organization becoming an auxiliary of the Anti-Saloon League. During the Volsteadian era he left this kind of work to the Treasury staff.

He fears that this sort of sleuthing would give a bad name to his unit and prevent it from keeping on speak-easy terms with the informers, civilians and business people who give him so much assistance in tracking down professional criminals. And his men used to pick up a great deal of evidence in entertainment circles after midnight.

ENFORCEMENT: Mr. Byrnes knows that his decree may give full play to the brand of political favoritism that marked and corrupted the prohibition era. He realizes that only the wholehearted cooperation of the after-dark public and hot-spot proprietors will prevent a return to those evil days.

Many local officials may urge their gendarmerie to look the other way when good friends or powerful figures are involved. Many will skimp on enforcement for fear of antagonizing important contributors and pleasure-seeking masses of voters. After-hours "bottle clubs" may spring up everywhere under unofficial guardianship.

When such a strong New Dealer as Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York expresses irritation and skepticism over the early closing, it seems clear that many fellow podestas will not bestir themselves to enforce the Birnes regulation. F. H. has warned that he will cooperate only if the prohibition is applied without discrimination.

Washington discerns an ironic phase in the imposition of such a sweeping ban at this time. In his request for a work-or-fight statue, Manpower Commissioner McNutt admitted his inability to make effective existing injunctions against employers and employes, although such policing should be comparatively easy. Now he has been given an enforcement assignment that pains and appalls him.

Note: Since Messrs. Byrnes and McNutt still entertain high political ambitions, they are only too happy to shift the policing job to the local politicos.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

SHOPPERS are about to encounter the greatest shortages in the entire war period as the result of all-out policies adopted by the government within the past few days. Almost all major civilian manufacture will be slowed to a snail's pace.

If you think things are tight now, wait until summer. There will be actual famines in clothing—especially in men's underwear and socks—in tires, drugs, kitchen utensils, hardware, furniture, lighting fixtures, repair parts for autos, tools, certain foods and basic materials such as steel and chemicals.

LEMAN

Many readers may find these statements difficult to believe; they assume that the end of the European war will eliminate bottlenecks. But top industrial executives in New York assert that such people live in a fool's paradise by not heeding forewarnings.

Predictions of this nature are not guesswork. Army-Navy procurement officials have just given factory owners the final schedules for the April-May-June quarter. The complicated economic pattern of orders, production and distribution is now rigidly fixed and readjustments cannot be made for months—even if desired.

CLOTHING: Fact-finding organizations know the size of inventories in hand for producers, wholesalers and stores.

Retail purchasers realize that stocks are already low or nonexistent. In the past, gaps were filled from reserve shelves; these are now practically empty in many categories, especially rayons.

Manhattan experts hold that the windup of the Wehrmacht will not improve matters to any great degree. The generals must plan for guerrilla warfare on a scale previously unknown in mountainous country; it will be hard on equipment and on clothing which will suffer from inadequate laundry facilities. The policing of Europe will necessitate forwarding many supplies.

The Japanese army is larger than the German forces facing our men, so we will probably transfer most of our fighters to the Pacific. Quartermasters must provide for expeditions that may invade China, Manchuria and the Nipponese mainland. Equipment must be collected for these fronts even if directives for attacks are later canceled.

All three regions are extremely cold in winter. As much heavy underwear will be needed as is now worn in Europe, also large quantities of gloves, sweaters, mufflers and blankets. Tropical campaigning in brambles and brushes in humid weather ruins uniforms rapidly. Outfitting Filipino and Chinese auxiliaries will impose additional burdens.

UNDERWEAR: The layman may gauge the extent of the coming pinch by the following statistics: The armed services have already contracted for more athletic top shirts for the first six months of 1945 than our entire industry turned out in the same period last year for all purposes, including military.

Yet in the knit underwear field, manpower is 75 per cent of normal; of this number more than 90 per cent are busy on government contracts. This week the Army asked for more than three million extra OD shirts—stained olive-drab for jungle fighting.

Underclothes are used by GIs to clean the intricate mechanisms of automatic rifles and cannon. This may seem an unwarranted waste to civilians. But high officers explain that the lives of the men often depend on the efficient functioning of their weapons. Hence it is justifiable for them to wipe off dirt, moisture and rust with their shirts, especially as the garments are of a finely knitted fabric ideal for the purpose.

The number in the Navy personnel is often overlooked. More than 3,500,000 gobs and Leathernecks are fighting and will stay in the Pacific until Hirohito has lost his job. Last year the admirals procured 18 million undershirts; they are asking delivery before July 1 of 30 million—three million short of actual needs.

Research specialists have developed a chlorination process to prevent shrinking; it extends the life of woolen hosiery by 60 per cent. Even so, Army-Navy socks are wearing out faster than depots can replace them.

Scarcely greater love hath no man than this, that a man give his last cigarette to a friend.

A friend tells us that there are many "dollar-a-yes" men in Hollywood.

FDR "Just A Fellow Asking For A Break"

President Seeks Congress' Aid

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — President Roosevelt is doing his level best to enlist the co-operation of Congress—the Senate in particular—in his plan for a world security organization.

This was again manifest in his report on the Yalta conference to the joint session of Congress. Anyone who heard him was impressed with the conciliatory spirit which, in itself, was a measure of his earnest desire for the United States to assume its proper place and stature in world affairs in the future.

STOKES

He was informal, almost chatty at times. Though he had a prepared address he departed from it repeatedly to enhance the conversational quality of its delivery. He made it, so far as is possible on such a formal occasion, a sort of family affair. It was obvious from the comments that this was pleasing to Congress.

Bi-Partisanship Stressed

It is true that he added little to previous public knowledge of the Crimea conference, as set forth in the joint Big Three communique and in Winston Churchill's report to the House of Commons. That was the principal criticism—that there was little news in it. Yet he had an engaging manner of frankness, with an assurance that he would keep Congress constantly advised, and with an implied promise that he would tell more when conditions permit.

He not only made conciliatory gestures to Congress as a body, but to Republicans in particular, emphasizing that both the Senate and the House will be represented at the San Francisco United Nations conference and that the American delegation will be truly bi-partisan — equal representation of Republicans and Democrats.

"WORLD peace is not a party question—any more than is military victory," he said, adding that when the threat from Germany and Japan materialized "partisanship and politics were laid aside by nearly every American."

He thus recognized again the contributions that have been made by such Republican leaders as Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and White of Maine, the latter party floor leader, and Commander Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

He recognized also the importance of the Senate which must pass upon the international security organization plan, of which importance no one is more concious than each of the 96 members of that body. He told the senators that he is well aware of the constitutional requirement of two-thirds approval by them, adding pointedly that other members of the United Nations likewise are aware of it.

FDR More Reasonable

In the Franklin D. Roosevelt who is seeking co-operation on foreign policy, there is nothing of the President who throws down the challenge on domestic issues with the sharp and stinging phrase that rankles. There is nothing reminiscent of the biting veto message on the Tax bill last year that so riled Congress and pushed the patient and long-suffering Senator Barkley into a one-man revolt. There is nothing reminiscent of his caustic denunciation of Republicans and Southern Democrats on the Soldier Vote bill with the ugly word "fraud," nothing reminiscent of the impish letter to Jesse Jones which so pricked the conservatives and intensified the bitter fight over Henry Wallace that finally ended in his confirmation as Secretary of Commerce the same day that Mr. Rosevelt was being so considerate of Congress in his report on Yalta.

IN dealing with Congress on foreign affairs, he is the Roosevelt of the early New Deal days of experimentation when he would publicly confess mistakes and ask the tolerance of Congress.

He admitted to mistakes in the conduct of foreign policy. Too long a lapse, he conceded, had occurred between the Teheran conference and Yalta, so that things got out of hand in the liberated countries through the lack of contact between the three Allies. He admitted the seriousness of that by pointing out that the numerous incidents had "disturbed the friends of world-wide collaboration," and by acknowledging the vague beginning of "spheres of influence" politics about which Congress complained a few weeks back.

That is being rectified by closer contact provided by the quarterly meetings of foreign secretaries.

The President impresses the observer as a fellow who's asking for a break.

World War I Vet Says Iwo Jima "Roughest"

IWO JIMA (Delayed) (U.P.) — Marine Gunnery Sergeant Sergeant Neal M. Davis, of Roswell, N. Mex., a veteran of World war I, says the fighting here is the roughest ever "except for a few bad days in Argonne forest."

"I never saw anything as bad as this, for so long." He said. "It was tough when the Germans pushed us back for four days in the Argonne, but nothing like this place.

"Nor was it as bad at Saipan, Tinian or the Marshalls."

Davis, who was with the Fourth Army division in France during World war I, says Germans are smarter fighters, but the Japs have to be ferreted out and killed one by one.

MARKET OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, March 5. (AP) — Demand for higher grade stocks bolstered a generally optimistic market today although a number of recent low-priced sprinters encountered selling in reflection of Saturday's elimination and tightening of margins.

May Department Stores and Safeway Stores, both of which are to be split-up, gained 4⅜ and 3⅞, respectively. Westinghouse was up 3 and Chrysler 2⅝. Plus signs of a point or so were attached to U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois, Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and Northwestern.

Union Pacific dropped 1¾ on a few sales. Lesser casualties included Packard, Radio Corp., American Water Works, North American, Aviation Corp., Glenn Martin and U. S. Rubber.

Fall Of Cologne Now Imminent

synthetic oil city of Homberg and smashed into Rheinberg in gains of as much as six miles.

Most Bridges Blown

By blowing all the serviceable bridges between Bonn and the Dutch border except the road and rail bridges at Wesel and a makeshift structure at Rheinberg, the Germans sealed the fate of many of the more than 50,000 troops still on the Rhine's west bank.

The Canadian First Army captured one ferry crossing at Rees, 11 miles northwest of the western Ruhr city of Wesel, and the Ninth captured another at Orsoy, five miles north of Homberg.

The Canadian First and the U. S. Ninth pressed the Germans back into an area 10 miles long and six miles wide, and with the U. S. First Army held sway over 70 of the 90 miles of the Rhine's west bank between Cologne and the Dutch border.

Nazis Lose 100,000

Supreme headquarters estimated the Germans had lost 100,000 troops in the battle of the Rhine, sapping enemy strength so severely that he will be hard put to repulse Rhine crossings without weakening some other front.

The battle of the Ruhr basin—last important resourse of the once-mighty German war machine—had in effect begun with its biggest munitions cities now within artillery range. Some of them already shook to American shells bursting in their factory districts.

Trouble was brewing for the Germans on the south where two other American armies were on the attack.

Third In Action

The U. S. Third Army was ripping through defenses along the Pruem-Coblenz highway, where it long has been held in check, and now was at least eight miles east of Pruem and within 47 miles of Coblenz on the Rhine.

The third was moving under a partial news blackout—often invoked when an Army is traveling fast and the enemy is bewildered—but it was known that it had breached the Kyll river on a 25-mile front, fought east at least three and a half miles and captured eight towns.

The U. S. Seventh Army was a mile and a half from the Saar basin's capital of Saarbruecken after driving the last German from the French gateway town of Forbach, and was pounding the city with artillery.

Parley Invitations

ing the voice of smaller one.

Several developments sped arrangements for the San Francisco gathering. Here are the day's high spots:

1. The United States formally invited 39 United Nations to attend. This country acted in the name of Russia, China and Britain. These four together with France and 39 others will make at least 44 countries at San Francisco.

2. The failure to invite Poland was attributed to the Big Three's Crimean agreement to organize a new Polish government of national unity. If that regime is set up in time Poland will be represented.

3. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to serve on the eight-man American delegation. He said the President had assured him of his "right of free action," and he served notice that he would seek a stronger mandate than the Dumbarton Oaks plan contains for maintaining justice in the world.

Truman Asked To Serve

4. The White House asked Vice-President Truman to serve as Senate White House go-between on the world security organization charter and other great treaties which will be coming along.

The State department, in explaining the voting formula, sought to show a real compromise between the original Russian view that a great power should be able to veto any accusations against itself and the American view that it should have no control at all over the council once an accusation has been brought against it.

Terrian Is Tough

Lindsley's field dispatch said the northern terrain minimized the use of tanks. He reported the Nipponese were being routed from caves and pillboxes with grenades and flame throwers.

Dogs also were used to hunt down the enemy. The Third Marine War Dog platoon went ashore Sunday and within a short time the sharp-nosed canines had flushed their first victim from a cave.

The main Japanese force now is in the most rugged portion of the island. There are countless gulches and gullies which make good defensive positions. The Japanese are taking full advantage of them.

Predicted Cold Snap Plays Pranks Here

An elusive cold front, which had been expected to drop the mercury in the South Plains area to the low 'teens Monday night, had failed to materialize at midnight.

Cloudiness over the entire region was reported by the Santa Fe dispatcher at Slaton, but no moisture was recorded anywhere. Temperatures of 30 degrees at Canyon and 24 at Pampa were registered about 10 o'clock last night, with a mild 44 at Lubbock.

The forecast for today, apparently undaunted by the playful norther, again stated, "much colder" in the South Plains region.

News Briefs

Fifty or sixty loads of kindling wood, priced at $1 per load, are now on sale at Lubbock Army Air field, officials announced Monday afternoon. Buyers are requested to contact Lt. L. M. Sheppard, salvage officer at the post; and the purchasers must do their own hauling.

There are all kinds of thieves, members of the sheriff's department ruminated Monday night. Someone had reported theft of manure.

Mac's Hobby shop, located at Nineteenth and Ave. U, will sponsor a model airplane club for Lubbock boys, it was reported Monday afternoon. All prospective members are asked to meet at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the shop, at which time the group will be organized. Model airplane contests are planned at regular intervals by the club.

Grocery Store Here Looted On Weekend

Forty-three dollars were taken in the burglary over the week-end of Ray's grocery at 1419 Ave. F, police said.

The cash register was rifled of $20 and an unlocked safe yielded $23. The prowler broke the glass in a window, then worked the latch.

Nothing had been reported taken from a shoe shop at 1512 Ave. H, entered by burglars who sought unsuccessfully to knock a passageway in a wall to gain entry to Good Eats cafe.

Police continued to investigate the story of a negro early Sunday morning. The negro was cut "pretty bad," officers said, but maintained that he was unable to identify his attacker.

A flurry of drinking and gambling preceded the taking of $130 from Billy McGruder, a negro, he related. On his complaint, police held Willie Jones, 56, and Wesley Sneed, 24.

Recoveries of two automobiles stolen in the Lubbock area were announced. A car owned by A. J. Richardson of 201 Temple Ave. was recovered in Hobbs, N. M., and an auto taken at Tahoka was announced found by the Lynn county sheriff's department. Still sought was a vehicle belonging to M. J. Morgan of 1210 Ave. F. A 1941 Mercury abandoned on the Tahoka road in the Cooper community was found to have been stolen at Oklahoma City.

analysis of the campaign by a general, whose identity was not disclosed, which pointed out Yamashita's scattered tactics played right into American hands. The general said Yamashita employed "stupid" tactics, including his use of an armored division in groups as artillery rather than commiting it as a formidable unit.

The communique also added 1,068 more enemy dead on Leyte, the first large Philippines island invaded. Enemy losses there exceed 125,000.

The airforce was active over the whole Philippines, with 122 tons of explosivies dropped on Jolo island.

Formosa Lashed Again

Enemy shipping, railroad yards and air bases on Formosa took another in a daily series of poundings, with the American raiders attacking despite adverse weather.

Three small enemy freighters, one carrying oil, were sunk off the China coast by patrol planes which ranged to the vicinity of Shanghai and Swatow.

In British New Guinea, long since bypassed in leapfrog operations up that coast toward the Philippines, the communique said "our ground forces pushing eastward towards Wewak have advanced to within seven miles of the But airfield."

MacArthur did not identify "our ground forces" but he announced several weeks ago that British New Guinea is one of the bypassed areas where Australians have relieved American troops.

In unison the battle-bound congregation repeated the Twenty-Third psalm, as the unarmed, gleaming white hospital ship sped on its errand of mercy.

In Pomerania the Russians had split the Germans into three different segments and mobile Red Army tank columns and infantrymen were fanning out in many directions as they sliced up the enemy into small fragments. Moscow dispatches said five Nazi divisions had been shattered already, including elite SS formations; thousands of Germans were being rounded up in forest hideouts, many of them physically deficient home army recruits.

Priorities Given For Neches Dam

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—The War Production board has granted priorities for immediate construction of Rockland dam on the Neches river above Beaumont.

The office of Rep. Combs (D-Tex) announced the action today, saying the board had advised him of its approval.

Combs was in Beaumont, where officials of the Sabine-Neches authority scheduled a meeting today with representatives of a Chicago bonding house concerning construction contracts. Work is expected to begin within a week or ten days.

An Emergency Measure

The project was approved as an emergency measure to provide water for the war industrial centers of Beaumont and Port Arthur. The cost of the dam originally was estimated at $10,000,000. This has been revised downward to $2,692,310, present plans calling for only emergency needs.

A reservoir with a 500,000-acre foot capacity will be created. Plans call for its expansion after the war to a capacity of 1,000,000 acre feet.

German prisoners of war are expected to be used in clearing a 500,000-acre basin site, which is expected to yield approximately 150,000,000 feet of lumber and 400,000 cords of pulpwood.

Norris And Box Face Federal Charges Of Assault And Theft

HOUSTON, March 5. (AP)—T. N. "Pete" Norris and Johnny Box, jr., Texas desperadoes who were caught last week in Detroit after escaping from Retrieve prison farm, will be returned to Houston for trial on two federal charges.

Brian S. Oden, U. S. district attorney for the Southern District of Texas, announced today he would ask a federal grand jury to indict them for assaulting a federal officer and theft of government property.

In Detroit today, the two men admitted their identities and were arraigned before a United States commissioner on charges of theft of government property and assault against a federal officer. Pending their removal to Texas they were placed under $50,000 bond each.

Norris and Box escaped from the Texas prison farm last Tuesday and were apprehended in Detroit Saturday night. Two other convicts who escaped with them were caught shortly after the prison break.

Shortly after their escape, the four men robbed and kidnapped a Houston business man, taking his car. They later robbed Frank Clarkson, federal game warden, of his money, three guns and his government car, forcing Clarkson and the Houston man to accompany them in Clarkson's car. Clarkson and the business man were released near Cleveland, Tex.

Odem said he had sent fugitive complaints to the U. S. commissioner in Detroit, who is expected to order return of the two escaped convicts to Texas. Federal charges have been filed locally against the four escaped convicts.

Robert Guerin, head of the Detroit FBI office, said Norris had a total of 300 years in sentences for robbery and murder, and that Box was serving a five year term for passing bad checks. Guerin said they were seized in a Detroit hotel a few hours after they checked in Saturday night under ficticious names.

News Briefs

The 79th reunion and ceremonial session of El Paso bodies of the Scottish Rite of Free Masonry have been cancelled, in keeping with the Office of Defense Transportation's wartime ban on large gatherings of all kinds, it was learned here yesterday. The reunion dates had previously been set for March 18 through March 21. Wayne L. Slaughter, in charge of arrangements for the El Paso reunion, said in a letter to local Scottish Rite Masons that reunions may be held later in the year, should the war picture improve sufficiently to take the ban off large gatherings requiring travel. The understanding here is that the same ODT ban applied to the El Paso Consistory also will apply to all other Consistories in the U. S.

Chas. W. Bryan Dies In Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., March 5. (U.P.)—Former Gov. Charles W. Bryan, brother of the late William Jennings Bryan and Democratic candidate for vice president in 1924, died yesterday at his home. He was 78 years old.

Bryan had been ill for several months. Funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

He first was elected governor in 1923 and the following year was nominated for vice president on the ticket with John W. Davis. The ticket was badly defeated.

As governor, he slashed the number of state employes by half and reduced taxes 33 per cent. He won the nomination again in 1926 and 1928 but lost to a Republican both times. However, he was elected again in 1930 and 1932.
