Pools ready to open; rule change told

Youths under 10 must be with adult

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

Children 10 years and under for the first time in Pampa will not be permitted into either of the city pools this summer without an adult under a new stipulation proposed by the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board.

Both pools will be open free to the public tomorrow, May 30, for Splash Day. Gates will open at 1 p.m. Normal pool hours begin Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and again from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The new regulation, which was passed by the Pampa City Commission earlier this year, has been set in place for the safety of children, according to Parks and Recreation Advisory Board Chairman Judy Elliott.

"We were very concerned with 8 and 9-year-olds being left alone — this was the real reason for the change," said Elliott.

In related matters, Recreation Director Shane Stokes led a tour of the Marcus Sanders and M.K. Brown swimming pools last night for city commissioners and advisory board members. City Mayor Bob Neslage and City Manager Bob Eskridge were among those in attendance.

Redwood decks and covered arbor shelters were built this year as part of the renovations to both swimming areas. New chaise lounge chairs were purchased for M.K. Brown Swimming Pool and a new heating system is being installed to Marcus Sanders.

Admission fees for the M.K. Brown have gone up to $1.50 per person 6 years and up. Five years and under are free. The Marcus Sanders admission fee is still 50 cents per person 6 years and up.

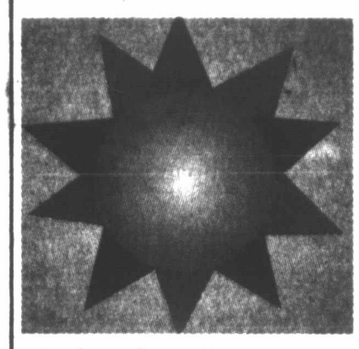

Season pool passes have not gone up in price this season making them a real value at $35 for an individual pass and $75 for a family, said Judy Elliott. A "12-visit pass" is also available for interested swimmers, she said.

"I think you've done a great job getting prepared for this summer," Elliott told Stokes.

Juvenile board favors Hobart site for facility

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

The county Juvenile Probation Board voted to take another step toward the creation of a juvenile drug rehabilitation unit on county property in the 1200 block of North Hobart.

The board voted Thursday to notify the city of its intent to go ahead with the project, although members believe the law does not require notification for this type of facility.

Previously, the city commission had cited the Local Government Code, Section 244.005, which says entities must pass a resolution in order to receive notification from another government of plans for such a facility.

Gray County Judge Richard Peet said he didn't mind notifying the city or the city holding a public forum but he cited another part of the Government Code, Section 244.006 part 6. It says notification is not necessary if the rehabilitation facility is a "pre-adjudication or post-adjudication juvenile detention facility operated by a ...county juvenile board." The facility being proposed will be a post-adjudication (judged) facility.

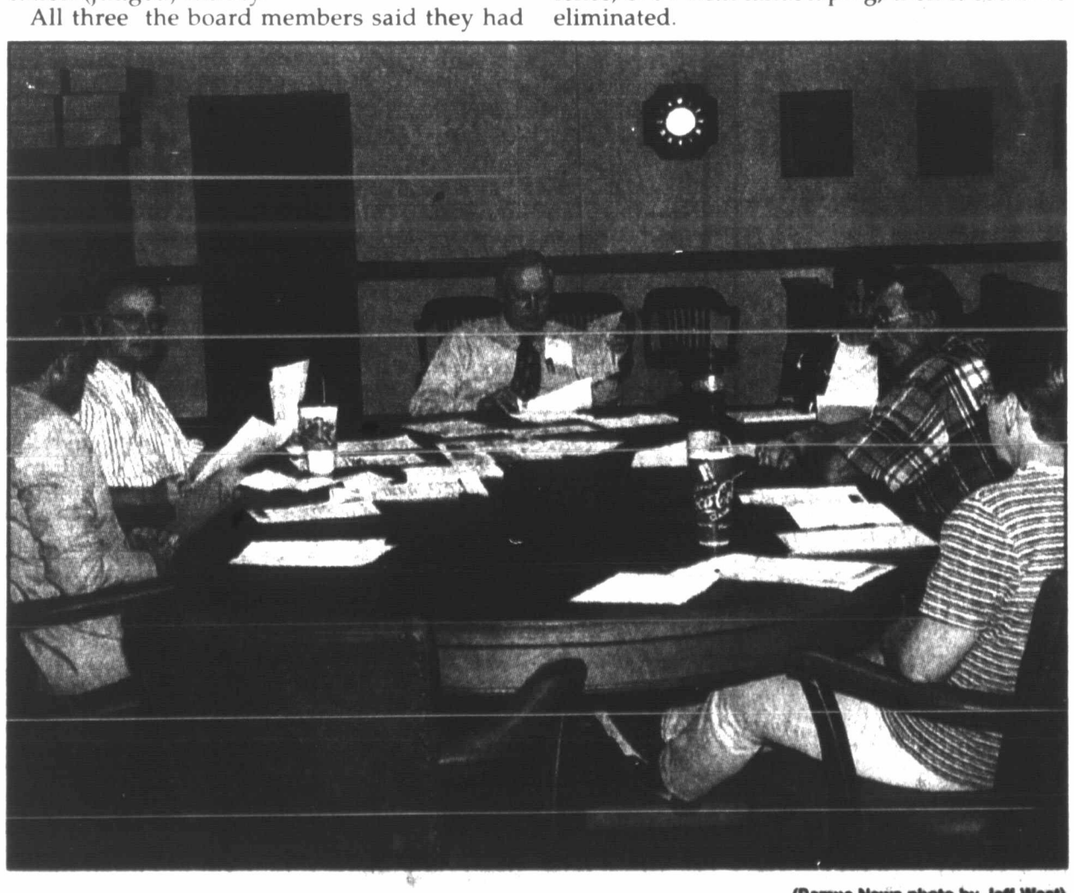

All three the board members said they had encountered misconceptions as to the kind of facility it will be and what it will look like.

Complaints as to the appropriateness of the location, not far from the planned superplayground and in a major retail area, have been voiced recently.

"I wish that people would call or come to our public hearings rather than go to the donut shops and say what they think it will be," said Peet.

Lee Waters, judge for the 223rd District, said he had run into misconceptions as to the nature of the facility. He made a suggestion that, if the chain-link fence that is proposed around part of the facility is what bothers people, the facility could exclude any juvenile guilty, in addition to drug use, of certain violent crimes. These could include homicide, arson, aggravated assault, kidnapping, robbery, and sexual assault. He said that would eliminate the need for a security fence.

Peet said putting too many restrictions on the type of juveniles served will hurt area children in need. He said since the building will be a lock-down facility. if public don't want a fence, even with landscaping, then it could be eliminated.

Discussing plans for the proposed juvenile rehabilitation facility are Juvenile Probation Board members Judge Richard Peet (left), Judge Lee Waters, and Judge M. Kent Sims. Also at the table are County Auditor Elaine Morris, Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Albert Nichols, and Assistant Juvenile Probation Officer Sharon Greene.

Drug case evidence really Granny's ashes

Arrested man files lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A drug charge was dismissed after tests confirmed the defendant's claim: the evidence was the cremated remains of his grandmother.

On Thursday, Michael Anthony Horne sued the city for unspecified damages.

The city simply handles arrests, and is not responsible for decisions to prosecute, or when someone is released from jail, said Assistant City Attorney Amy Eubanks.

Horne was arrested in July 1997 by police who found him sleeping in his truck on the side of the road.

A powdery substance found in a plastic bag tested positive for methamphetamine, police said. Horne was jailed for a month.

Unable to make bail, he lost his job, his pickup, his apartment and his military reserve status.

In the meantime, subsequent tests confirmed that the substance was human remains, as Horne had claimed all along.

"It's in the police report that he told them that," said his attorney, Luis Vera. However, the testing destroyed most of the evidence.

"The sad thing is, most of his grandmother's remains are gone now," Vera said. "He can't get that back."

Parole revoked for convicted killer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A two-member panel of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles has voted to revoke the parole of convicted killer Wesley Wayne Miller, called the most watched parolee in Texas.

Miller was returned to the state prison Thursday after the board members made the decision.

Authorities said Miller violated terms of his parole by refusing to undergo sex-offender counseling at the Tarrant County Jail, where he was to stay for the first six months of his parole.

Miller, 35, was hooked up to three high-tech monitoring systems, including satellite tracking, a conventional electronic system and a voice-recognition pager. He was released from prison May 15 under a 1980s law designed to ease prison overcrowding. Under that law, since revoked, inmates who earned enough "good time" had to be released.

He refused to attend the required counseling, saying he was never convicted of a sex crime.

Board members Juanita Gonzalez and Alvin Shaw took the vote following a day of testimony.

Miller was sent to the state prison diagnostic unit in Huntsville, said Larry Todd, spokesman for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Survivor's Lap Relay feature

The first lap of the June 6 American Cancer Society's Relay for Life will be set aside the Survivor's Lap for those who have had cancer and are considered a survivor.

The lap will be on the volleyball and basketball court at Recreation Park when the walk gets started at 10 a.m. Registration starts at 9:30 a.m. at the park's covered shelter.

Once the walk is over, it will be followed by an inspirational message from Dr. Jerry Lane, owner of Hi-Plains Hypnosis Institute.

Refreshments will be provided by the Circle of Friends and Columbia Medical Center.

There's still time to get you or your group included in the Relay for Life. Call Kathy Gist at 665-4742 to sign up for the Survivor's Lap or the relay.

Police: Girl, 3, drowned while party guests got high

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — A 3-year-old girl drowned in a pool while her father got high on PCP and partied at the home of a woman and man known as a dominatrix and dungeon master, police said.

Sources close to the investigation said Samantha Wann was sexually assaulted before she drowned Sunday in a 4-foot deep, above-ground pool.

Investigators were awaiting results of toxicology tests on Samantha.

Michael Wann, 34, of Camden was charged with child endangerment for leaving his daughter unsupervised while he smoked the hallucinogen PCP, Camden County Prosecutor Lee Solomon said.

The host couple — who police said had a dungeon in the house filled with whips, chains, leather masks, costumes, a coffin and pornographic videos — also face charges of child endangerment and witness tampering.

Prosecutors acknowledged that autopsy findings prompted them to launch a wider investigation into the drowning, but declined to be more specific about whether the girl had been sexually assaulted.

"We're not saying anything on that," said Greg Reinert, a prosecutor's spokesman.

Samantha had been playing with a 7-year-old girl at the party, investigators said. It wasn't known how long she had been left unsupervised. She was found fully clothed at the bottom of the pool. Neighbors tried to resuscitate her, but she was pronounced dead at a hospital.

At least eight adults attended the party at the home of Martin Hunsinger, 51, who also was charged with child endangerment.

Hunsinger's girlfriend, Dorina D. Pizio, 47, was charged with witness tampering for allegedly trying to persuade the 7-year-old not to cooperate with police.

Prosecutors declined to say whether the older child was related to any of the partygoers. The girl was placed in protective custody by the state.

The couple were known in the neighborhood for their penchant for sadomasochism and an adult business run by Pizio, who has identified herself as a dominatrix and calls herself "Mistress Christianna."

Hunsinger listed his occupation on police records as "dungeon master."

Investigators removed a truckload of furniture from the house and sex paraphernalia typically used in sadomasochism. Solomon said the items were being analyzed.

Pizio was released on $7,500 bond Thursday. Wann and Hunsinger remained in the jail this morning unable to post bail.

Woman seeking palimony cites impotence drug Viagra in partner's alleged infidelity

NEW YORK (AP) — Viagra cured a 70-year-old construction executive's impotence — too well, his former companion says in a lawsuit.

Roberta Bernardo, also identified in published reports as Bobbi Burke, is suing Francis Bernardo for $2 million, claiming the impotence drug led him to infidelity.

The 61-year-old woman said their 10-year relationship fell apart when Bernardo left their luxury condominium May 5 with a bottle of Viagra he'd had for two days.

Her palimony complaint, filed May 15, said he left a note boasting of his renewed vigor and saying their relationship was over.

"He's rejuvenated and can get back out there," she told the New York Post. "At 70, I guess he figures he's going to party until he goes."

She said she and Bernardo had sex for the first time in four years with the help of Viagra, the impotence drug that went on the market last month.

Her attorney, Dominic Barbara, said the couple had been living together for a decade but never tied the knot. There is no common-law marriage in New York state.

"He's rejuvenated and can get back out there," she said. "At 70, I guess he figures he's going to party until he goes."

Barbara said his client might file a negligence suit against Pfizer, which makes Viagra.

"The makers of Viagra should be liable for something like this," Barbara said. "It's like giving a loaded gun to someone who has not been trained to shoot."

He said the company should warn that the drug could be hazardous to marriages and offer emotional counseling along with the little blue pills.

Bernardo could not be reached for comment by The Associated Press because his phone number is unlisted.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brynn Hartman and a girlfriend walked into an Italian restaurant in Encino about 8:30 p.m., sat at the bar and had a couple of drinks. They left 90 minutes later.

"She was fine, like a normal person. She seemed fine to me," said Fred Slater, the manager on duty at the Buca di Beppo restaurant Wednesday night.

Sometime that evening the wife of comic actor Phil Hartman talked by telephone with her brother, Greg Omdahl, in Fargo, N.D. He would describe his sister in about the same terms.

Talk to anybody — friends, neighbors, relatives — and the word keeps popping up: "Fine." So how to explain the carnage just hours later that left two children without parents and shocked the entertainment industry?

Hartman, who won fame with his impersonations of President Clinton, Frank Sinatra and other celebrities on "Saturday Night Live" and played a radio anchor on NBC's "NewsRadio," was shot to death in the master bedroom of his $1.4 million home in an exclusive section of Encino.

Police believe Mrs. Hartman, 40, shot her 49-year-old husband and killed herself later Thursday morning as officers arrived to investigate.

As police rushed their children, ages 6 and 9, out of the house, they heard a single gunshot and found Mrs. Hartman's body near that of her husband.

"We are investigating this as a possible murder-suicide," police Lt. Anthony Alba said. "We know for sure that the female inflicted her own gunshot wound."

What they don't know for sure is a motive.

Police were investigating the most obvious possibility — marital strife — amid newspaper reports today that Hartman's wife had problems with her temper and may have flown into a jealous rage because the marriage was ending.

"The marriage had gone sour and he told her he was leaving," an unidentified NBC publicist who knew the actor told the New York Post. "He had a new romance in his life. That apparently was too much for her and she snapped."

Steve Small, an attorney who handled Hartman's two previous divorces, said Mrs. Hartman had trouble controlling her anger. He said the couple had separated more than once; she reportedly had been married once before and divorced.

"She got attention by losing her temper," Small said in today's Los Angeles Times. "Phil said he had to ... restrain her at times."

Other friends and relatives said they never saw any problems and certainly nothing that would lead to murder.

"They were always a very happy couple," said actor Steve Guttenberg, a friend of Hartman's for 20 years, since they were members of the Groundlings comedy troupe. "They always had the appearance of being well-balanced."

One friend, Andrea Diamond, sensed problems. "It was building, but I didn't expect it." She refused to elaborate.

Hollywood expressed shock and sadness, saying Hartman's specialty in playing annoying, acerbic, morally challenged characters ran counter to his real-life personality as an upbeat, devoted family man.

"He was one of those guys who was a dream to work with. I don't know anybody who didn't like him," said Joe Dante, who was directing Hartman in the movie "Small Soldiers." He said Hartman would often ask about the shooting schedule so he could work in trips to the zoo with his children.

Mrs. Hartman, whose given name was Vicki Omdahl, grew up in the small northwestern Minnesota town of Thief River Falls, moved to Hollywood with dreams of a modeling career, changed her name and married Hartman in 1987.

"We're still in shock," her mother, Constance Omdahl of Thief River Falls told the Grand Forks (N.D.) Herald. Mrs. Omdahl declined to comment when reached by The Associated Press.

Hartman's sister, Nancy Hartman-McCoy, said their mother recently stayed with Hartman after their father died April 30 and everything seemed — again — fine.

"My mother was up there visiting with them, as a matter of fact last week, as a little reprieve from funerals and she had a wonderful visit with them both," Ms. Hartman-McCoy said.

Born Philip Edward Hartmann in Ontario, Canada, Hartman — who later dropped the second 'n' — was one in a line of Canadian-born comedians to find success in the United States, including the late John Candy and "SNL" veteran Dan Aykroyd.

Unlike them, Hartman grew up in the United States, first in Connecticut, then in Southern California. At Westchester High School on Los Angeles' West Side, he was the class clown, already doing impersonations of John Wayne, Jack Benny and Lyndon Johnson.

After high school, he studied art and wound up in graphic design, doing album covers for various rock bands.

Drawn to stand-up comedy, Hartman in 1975 joined the Groundlings in Los Angeles. He collaborated with fellow Groundling Paul "Pee-wee Herman" Reubens on the script of the movie "Pee-wee's Big Adventure."

In 1986, he joined the "Saturday Night Live" cast that then included Jon Lovitz, Dennis Miller and Dana Carvey. In his eight seasons, he did impersonations of more than 70 famous people, including Ed McMahon, Jimmy Swaggart, Phil Donahue, Sinatra and Clinton.

"NewsRadio" came along in 1995, with Hartman playing the vain anchor Bill McNeal. The show was a critical favorite but bounced around NBC's schedule as executives tried to find its audience.

"NewsRadio" had several brushes with cancellation, and it was somewhat surprising when NBC announced last week it would be back for a fourth season.

Hartman also did voices for "The Simpsons," including washed-up actor Troy McClure and inept lawyer Lionel Hutz.

As his TV career moved along, Hartman turned to the big screen in supporting, comic roles in such movies as "Jingle All the Way" and "Coneheads." He was seen as a rising star.

In a 1995 interview, he said: "I've succeeded beyond my wildest dreams — financially and the amount of fun I have in my life."

Arizona's Barry Goldwater dies today at age 89

PHOENIX (AP) — Barry Goldwater, the sharp-tongued, uncompromising defender of conservatism whose fierce but futile campaign for the presidency in 1964 began the philosophical reshaping of the Republican Party, died today at age 89.

His family released a statement saying Goldwater died at his home in suburban Paradise Valley of natural causes.

"He was in his own bed, in his own room, as he wished, overlooking the valley he loved with family at his side," the statement said. "He died as he lived: with dignity, courage and humility."

"He is soaring," KTAR Radio quoted Goldwater's wife, Susan, as saying.

Goldwater suffered a stroke in 1996 that damaged the frontal lobe of his brain, which controls memory and personality. In September 1997, his family said Goldwater was in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease.

In recent months, he made no public appearances.

"He was truly an American original. I never knew anyone quite like him," President Clinton said shortly after the death was announced. He called Goldwater "a great patriot and a truly fine human being."

Parents of baby in Woodward case have another child

BOSTON (AP) — The couple whose baby boy was fatally injured while under the care of a British au pair have a new son.

Deborah Eappen gave birth Monday to a 7-pound, 8-ounce baby she and her husband, Sunil, named Kevin.

The Eappens' son Matthew died last year at 8 months old. Prosecutors said he was fatally shaken by au pair Louise Woodward.

A judge tossed out a jury's second-degree murder verdict, reducing Ms. Woodward's conviction to manslaughter and sentencing her to the 279 days she had served since her arrest.

The case has been appealed by both prosecutors and the defense.

Experts say trend toward fat leading to overweight USA

WASHINGTON (AP) – An epidemic of obesity is lumbering across America, with 54 percent of all adults fatter than is healthy, experts say. They warn that within a few generations, every U.S. adult could be overweight.

The percentage of overweight Americans has increased by about a third in the last 20 years, and more hefty adults are on the way because more than 25 percent of today's children are overweight or obese, says obesity researcher James O. Hill, co-author of a study published today in the journal Science.

"The trend will continue. There is no indication that it will turn around. Actually, it seems to be getting worse," said Hill, the director of the Colorado Clinical Nutrition Research Unit at the University of Colorado. "The predictions are that it is increasing at such a rate that we'll all be overweight at some point."

People stay at the proper weight if they eat only the amount of food needed to fuel their physical activity. Americans now generally eat far more than they need and exercise far less than they should, he said.

Hill blames the environment: Americans have too much food available, social situations encourage overeating, restaurants compete by offering bigger and bigger servings and technology has made it possible to avoid exercise.

The body, he said, has mechanisms to prompt people to eat when they are undernourished. But there are no such mechanisms "to stop us from eating if there is a lot food around," Hill said.

Being overweight or obese is not just a personal problem but a public health threat, said Hill. Obesity increases the risk of diabetes, cancer, heart disease and other chronic disorders. Some studies have shown an increase of up to 60 percent in the risk of death from all causes for obese people.

A study by the Institute of Medicine, a private organization that advises the federal government, estimates that obesity costs the United States about $70 billion annually in direct health care expenses or in lost productivity.

"We can't become complacent about this epidemic of obesity, which seems to be worsening over time," Dr. JoAnn Manson, a specialist at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, said in Science.

Another researcher, Steven Blair, of the Cooper Institute in Dallas, said Americans are spending $40 billion a year on weight-loss treatments. "This approach is clearly not working," he said.

Scientists have yet to find a magic pill that cuts weight gain without unhealthy side effects, and in any case many researchers believe that any such drug will have to be combined with diet and exercise. Scientists are still searching for all the genes that may be linked to weight gain. Genes, some say, may contribute to 40 percent to 70 percent of obesity cases.

Hill believes public policy changes are needed to control what he calls "the fat epidemic." He said it took government action to reduce the health threat from cigarette smoking, and government policies may be appropriate to control obesity.

Among his proposals:

—Increase the sense of urgency about controlling obesity among both the public and health care workers. Despite clear evidence that obesity poses a major health threat, Hill said, "It remains low on the list of important public health problems."

—Require school children to have at least 30 minutes of vigorous physical activity daily.

—Encourage physical exercise, perhaps even awarding people with reduced insurance premiums or additional vacation time.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

SOME MODERN METHODS ARE AS OLD AS THE HILLS!

AMONG THE ANCIENT BIBLICAL PEOPLE, THE DANGERS OF SUNSTROKE WERE ALWAYS PRESENT BECAUSE OF THE VERY HOT CLIMATE IN THE SUMMERS AND THE FACT THAT THE PEOPLE WERE AN AGRICULTURAL PEOPLE, USED TO WORKING ALL DAY IN THE HOT SUN. SO THE STORY ABOUT THE YOUNG LAD WHO SUFFERED A SUNSTROKE (II KINGS 4:19,20) WAS NOT AN UNUSUAL ONE--WHAT IS UNUSUAL ABOUT IT IS THE PROPHET ELISHA'S WAY OF HANDLING THIS PREDICAMENT! NOT UNTIL THE 20TH CENTURY DID MEDICAL MEN START TO RESUSCITATE THE VICTIMS OF HEART ARREST BY USING MOUTH-TO-MOUTH BREATHING TO START THE VICTIM'S HEARTBEAT AGAIN, YET THIS IS WHAT ELISHA DID (II KINGS 4:34) MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND YEARS AGO! WHICH LEADS ONE TO SURMISE THAT THERE IS A LOT OF TRUTH IN THE OLD SAYING, "THERE IS NOTHING NEW UNDER THE SUN!" ALSO, IT SHOULD BE NOTED, THAT THE FIRST THING ELISHA DID WHEN HE STEPPED INTO THE ROOM WITH THE DEAD CHILD, HE "PRAYED UNTO THE LORD"--NOT A BAD THING FOR ALL OF US TO REMEMBER, RIGHT?!

Minister's musings...

By Rev. R. Scott Barton
Pastor, Calvary Assembly of God

Waves rocked the ship on that moonless night. Darkness lay like a cloak upon the water. Loneliness gripped my soul. A storm awaited me upon the horizon. I should have known this night would come. But pride had insisted it would never happen to me. In everyone's life comes a turning point - a time to choose whom to serve, God or self. This night I would make my choice.

Though I had accepted Christ at the age of 8, I had never fully acknowledged my insufficiency apart from Him. My faulty philosophy allowed me to choose my own path as long as it wasn't evil. This philosophy was far from the selfless servanthood God desired. The United States Navy became a tool to teach me this lesson.

One year after high school I journeyed away from family and friends to hellish boot camp full of temptation, misery, and abuse. In this place the urge to be swept away by intense emotional anguish was almost irresistible, but in selfish pride I determined to prove my ability to cope. Four months later I returned home an extremely weak Christian, but an absurdly prideful human.

After reporting aboard a Korean War amphibious ship, I assisted in getting the ship under way for the Mediterranean Sea. Separation from church and family left me lonelier than I could ever remember being. Everything I trusted in was being stripped away. I could not see the living hand that was doing the stripping; I only felt naked pain and fearful isolation.

Days rolled by. I could not withstand the slanderous accusations hurled at me. When I went on watch at 8 p.m. I had not spent time in prayer for days and my Bible lay at the bottom of my locker. As my supervisor read a pornographic magazine, he told me to watch the horizon for any light that might appear.

Through the darkness gripping my soul, my heart cried out for the True Light to appear. The watch ended at midnight, my search continued into the early morning hours.

Standing upon the rising and falling bow of the ship, heedless of the drenching sea spray, I searched the darkness for hope that I could endure this pain and loneliness. The longer I searched, the greater my despair. Hope that I could live life in my own strength was crushed beneath the might hand of God. I cursed God for ever allowing me to call upon His name, yet causing me so much suffering. Why serve a God who didn't care enough to make me self-sufficient?

"Leave me alone!" I screamed with tears streaming down my face. The darkened night and my blinding tears obscured the rail to which I clung, yet I heard - almost audibly - the words, "My grace is sufficient for you" (2 Cor. 12:9). Like the waves beating the ship, the words struck my mind with force, piercing to the depths of my selfish heart.

God had spoken these same words to Paul when hew was enduring great pain. He prayed for God to stop his suffering, yet received only these simple words as a comfort. Paul had discovered that God's grace gave him the sufficiency to endure hardship. Just as Paul's weakness caused him to call our for God's grace, so my inadequacy left a painful void which cried for God's strength. At that moment I submitted my will and began to rely solely upon Him.

As the glow of the sun's rays lit the horizon with golden grandeur, I could now trust in the strength of my Savior. Sweet peace flooded my soul, and the weight of self-sufficiency was lifted. Somehow persecution no longer mattered, and I found comfort for my loneliness through prayer and Bible study. I could now endure all things through Him who strengthens me.

From the Back Pew...

By Cheryl Berzanskis

"I may be a little stupid, but I'm not so stupid as to get kicked out of heaven." - The Rev. Nancy James on Lucifer's fall from heaven, 1997.

"It must take talent to be that dumb," I thought to myself, "To get kicked out of heaven where the toughest job you'll do all day is worship God. The guy must be a little slow."

But instead we learn from Ezekiel, Lucifer was not a little slow, but a little presumptive. He wanted to elevate himself above the God who created him. Ezekiel says he fell in love with himself because of his beauty.

Because God could not let the pride of one of his angels go unpunished, Lucifer in all his beauty and subtlety was cast out of heaven and judged a sinner.

The irony, of course, is that Satan, who Ezekiel tells us was once adorned with precious stones signifying his stature, still has access to God without enjoying His company in the intimacy of the redeemed.

You've probably known the guy so in love with his own beauty (perhaps he calls it competence or reason) that he becomes tiresome for the rest of us.

At first, he's a relief to have on the scene, because he always seems to know what to do - he gives the rest of us a break from thinking - but after a while his attitude becomes more than just a little wearing.

You discover he's the guy who can tell you how to run your life, your business and your country starting with the two little words, "I think."

They quickly become "Don't you think...?" and he's asking you to subscribe to his way or thinking which, of course, is the best. Can there be another way?

In real life, I've discovered that the fellow who starts his sentences with "Don't you think?" is about to try to convert you to his way of thinking because in his own mind there's no other way. He's enamored with his own beauty.

These men and women are the ones with whom I could never connect emotionally. There is no intimacy, no connection of even the most superficial variety. Their sense of "I think" is too strong.

Maybe they pay a price that we on the outside don't see. After all they spend a great deal of time frustrated with a world that doesn't meet their expectations and sometimes the sense of "I think" alienates even those who would care for them.

To say that one who is supremely confident in himself is less than spiritual is, of course wrong. But this fellow and the devil do share on common situation - they are both lonely. Their self love has separated them from the best deal they ever had - intimacy with those they love and who love them.

Joint service for Pentecost Sunday

The Assemblies of God of Pampa; Calvary Assembly of God, First Assembly of God, and New Life Assembly of God will be hosting a joint service to celebrate Pentecost Sunday.

The service will include music and messages concerning the person and work of the Holy Spirit in the Church and in the individual lives of Christian believers, both in the past and in the present. All those desiring to know about and experience Biblical Pentecost are encouraged to attend.

Rev. Mark Stribling, Rev. Mike Moss, and Rev. R. Scott Barton, pastors at New Life Assembly of God, First Assembly of God, and Calvary Assembly of God respectively, unite in inviting their congregations and the community to participate in this life-changing event.

The service will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday, May 31 at First Assembly of God Church, located at the corner of South and Highway 60.

The Glory and The Fire

Admission is free at 7 p.m. Sunday,-Wednesday June 14-17 for First Assembly of God's dramatic presentation of The Glory and The Fire. The repeat of last year's presentation promises to be just as dynamic and powerful.

There'll be earthshaking sound effects, brilliant lighting, creative costumes and explosive pyrotechnics. they provide the background for various contemporary scenes of everyday life that bring viewers face to face with the glory of heaven and the reality of hell.

The church is at 500 S. Cuyler and Highway 60. Due to the intensity, parents are cautioned with children under 12. There will be a nursery for children through age 3.

Outreach director helps candidates address faith issues

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — David Ferguson is a minister, and his job is to spread the election-year gospel of the Alabama Democratic Party.

A lot of Democrats are Christians, he says in a quiet, measured voice. It's just that they don't make their faith a public issue as much as some Republicans do, he says.

That's a big reason Ferguson was hired: to help Democratic candidates talk about God. It's especially important in a year when two recognized evangelical Christians — Gov. Fob James and former Gov. Guy Hunt — are on the Republican ballot.

Ferguson, the party's first director of faith outreach, would never suggest that a candidate become active in church just to win votes. "That would be fake," he says. "If you're not living it, don't talk about it in a stump speech."

Now 28, Ferguson learned his lessons early, attending Oral Roberts University in Oklahoma and Regents University in Virginia, run by TV preacher and one-time GOP presidential candidate Pat Robertson.

Democrats, Ferguson says, are tired of being treated like "second-class Christians" by Republicans who portray the GOP as God's Own Party.

"They have used that to say that we are a party without faith and without values," says Ferguson. "I see my role as working with the candidates, addressing religious issues as they come up, and helping foster dialogue about these issues without demagoguery."

Bill Harris, executive director of the Alabama Republican Party, says the GOP doesn't need a faith outreach director. "We've got all the issues on our side," he says, "and our candidates stand behind it."

Bob Russell, head of the Christian Coalition in Alabama, welcomes God anywhere — in church or on the campaign trail. But, he says, hiring Ferguson, a Southern Baptist, isn't enough to bring members of his conservative organization into the Democratic Party overnight.

"It's not which party, it's how they vote. If a Democrat wants the evangelical Christian vote," he says, "the way to get it is to support their positions."

Alabama Republicans seem to do that more than Democrats, he says. The governor, for example, has been a flag bearer for Christian conservatives, opposing abortion and supporting school prayer. He has also championed public displays of religion by supporting a judge's right to hang the Ten Commandments in his courtroom.

Hunt, one of four Republican candidates opposing James, is a Primitive Baptist minister who also promotes conservative causes. It was his preaching trips aboard state-owned aircraft that led to an investigation, a 1993 ethics conviction, and his removal from office.

The conviction was upheld on appeal but the state parole board, chaired by a Hunt appointee and supporter, pardoned him.

Polls have shown Hunt running third behind James and Winton Blount III, a Montgomery businessman who has split endorsements of Christian-aligned groups with James.

Crisis Cares continues

As we began our series this past Sunday, we shared about crisis and loss in our lives. It is important that we understand the difference between these two in our lives. A loss is a part of a crisis which impacts and hurts. While the crisis overwhelms and immobilizes a person. Part of overcoming a crisis is knowing exactly what it is.

Have you ever said, "I wish I had known that was going to happen, I would have been more prepared"? Most of us, at one time or another, have made a statement similar to this one. Some crisises can be recognized, yet not all of them. Don't despair, Psalm 46:1 says, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." God is on your side and His desire is for you.

As we share this Sunday, May 31, at 5 p.m., we will find there are "Bridges Over Troubled Water". Sometimes we have trouble finding these bridges while we look through the muddy waters of a crisis, so we need to find them now in order to recognize them later. If you missed the first session, jump in now. We have barely broken camp on this new adventure, so plan to join us this Sunday at Highland Baptist Church, 1301 N. Banks for session two of Crisis Care. Please call 669-6509 if you have any questions.

Two Weddings Are Too Close For Worried Groom's Comfort

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: My fiancee and I are getting married in early September. We are both in our early 30s and this is the first marriage for both of us. We have been planning our wedding since last fall, and everyone, including a number of out-of-state family members and guests, is looking forward to sharing this special day with us.

Last month, my stepbrother decided to get married three weeks after our wedding. This is his third marriage in 10 years. My fiancee and I are upset that he is not taking into account the conflict this presents to our family and friends — especially those who must make more than one set of travel arrangements. We are taking our wedding day and marriage very seriously and feel my stepbrother's impulsiveness is distracting everyone.

To top it off, we are planning a long honeymoon and weren't even supposed to be in town on the day of my stepbrother's wedding. I'm afraid we'll look like the "bad guys" for not showing up at his wedding. Should I tell our guests they do not have to travel twice in one month? Should we cut our honeymoon short?

WORRIED GROOM, NASHVILLE, TENN.

DEAR GROOM: You need not cut short your long-planned honeymoon to accommodate your stepbrother's more recent arrangements. It is up to the prospective guests to decide if they can attend two weddings in the same month. Continue with your plans and change nothing.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding the letter from the patient who objected to the questions she was asked by her doctor's receptionist. Patients should know that doctors, nurses and medical receptionists have heard everything. Nothing shocks us.

A receptionist frequently needs to know a patient's problem(s) in order to know which physician in the group should see him or her. Some problems are not seen by her physician and are referred elsewhere. But you were 100 percent right when you told the woman to discuss her feelings with her doctor during her next appointment.

In the middle of my solo G.P. practice (before I retired), I noticed that my patient load had dropped more than 50 percent in a very short period. When I investigated, I found my receptionist had informed patients calling for an appointment that I was fully booked for weeks, or I no longer saw new patients for various reasons. None of this was true.

When I confronted my receptionist, she told me she thought I was working too hard and should see fewer patients! I had never turned patients away, and I enjoyed seeing and diagnosing new patients and treating them.

From then on, I gave all patients a questionnaire inquiring how courteously and thoroughly my staff and I had treated them — had they been given an appointment promptly, etc. No signature was required.

My philosophy has always been: Every doctor makes mistakes, but the better and more thorough the physician, the fewer mistakes are made.

MARK H. HOPP, M.D. (RET.), GARDEN GROVE, CALIF.

DEAR DR. HOPP: Regardless of how talented the health care provider, I suspect that the practice of medicine is like every other business in that the importance of good customer relations cannot be underestimated. However, in medicine it's called a good bedside manner — even if the patient is vertical.

SUNDAY, MAY 31, 1998

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Misunderstandings loom about. You want to pretend you don't know what has happened, but being the Ram that you are, you should seek solutions. Be even with a difficult child or loved one. Believe it or not, he needs your understanding. Tonight: Be naughty and nice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★ Tempers flare at home and outside. What should you do? You still might be happier avoiding the masses. Confusion surrounds decisions. Your intuition about a family member comes through for you. Laughter spices up your thoughts. Tonight: Be grateful for what is.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Get on the phone, and untangle some crossed wires. Note that you are overreacting. Take a walk, find a friend and discuss what is happening. Another perspective grounds you. Let a special person know how you feel. Romance is high. Tonight: Chat up a storm.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★ Hold on to your wallet; you are sorely tempted to overspend. A misunderstanding is likely, so double-check agreements and figures. Someone could inadvertently make an error. A partner indulges you. You can make daydreams real. Share a special wish. Tonight: Your treat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You are at your best, even when others throw you a curve ball. Think through a situation before reacting. Confirm the details of a gathering, before running over there. Romance abounds; you receive special news. Love might cloud your vision. Tonight: Could be dreamy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★ Knowing when to play ostrich is important. Opt for that alternative — perhaps invite a special partner along — as chaos marks plans and communications. You need some time to luxuriate and be good to yourself. Ask for that rub or massage. Tonight: Early to bed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You can no longer hide your feelings. Someone touches you on a deep level. Listen carefully to a partner regarding a money matter. He could be way off with his figures and ideas. Establish your own monetary dominance. Bonding adds euphoria. Tonight: Happy, happy you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Be realistic about your limits, as well as a partner's. You are liking to take on a project that is way out of your league. Stress realism, to reduce disappointment. Confusion surrounds plans and a special friendship. Handle details, and run errands. Tonight: Visit a parent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ A friend creates an uproar and confuses talks; you'll toss your hands in the air. Your sense of humor makes a big difference; you are unlikely to worry about this matter for long. Loving, yet mixed, messages add to your heartthrobs and stomach flutters. Tonight: Go for it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Remain anchored, as the rest of the world flips its wig. It is wise to pull back and think through a response. Confirm plans, and be direct with a child or loved one. You see no limits now. Still, take care of yourself financially. Tonight: Ask for that hug.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You create a haze around yourself. Others cannot get a clear reading. You feel romantic and caring. Friends seek you out, but you are happiest at home. If you don't listen carefully to someone, a misunderstanding could occur. Tonight: Enjoy the social atmosphere.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ You will be happiest if you don't take anything for granted. Others seem mired in confusion; you might not be sure about what they are telling you. Get involved in a favorite pastime or hobby. A loved one has a big secret to share. Be all ears. Tonight: Get a head start on tomorrow.

GENERAL

AUSTIN (AP) — Concordia University at Austin has been invited to join the American Southwest Conference beginning with the 1999-2000 academic year.

Concordia President David Zersen said Friday the school sought membership in the conference when it became apparent that the Heart of Texas Conference was dissolving.

Zersen said he received the official invitation this week.

Next year, Concordia will play the remaining HOT conference members. It can begin scheduling games with American Southwest schools in 1999-2000.

The move coincides with Concordia's request to be reclassified by the NCAA from a Division II school to Division III, meaning the university will no longer offer athletic scholarships.

Concordia has men's and women's teams in basketball, soccer, golf and tennis; men's baseball; and women's softball and volleyball.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — The second session of the Robert Hale Boys' Basketball Camp will be held June 22-25 at McNeely Fieldhouse.

The camp is for boys who will be in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades the coming school year.

Players can sign up by calling 669-4832 or 669-6447 as soon as possible. Registration can also be made by mail by writing Robert Hale, 2508 Christine, Pampa, Tex. 79065.

HOCKEY

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Peter Bondra scored his second goal 9:37 into overtime to lift the Washington Capitals to a 4-3 victory over the Buffalo Sabres on Thursday night in Game 3 of the Eastern Conference finals.

Bondra grabbed the puck near center ice and beat Dominik Hasek with a hard slap shot from the top of the left circle as the Capitals took a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series. The shot bounced off Hasek's glove and into the net.

Richard Zednik scored two goals and had one assist for the Capitals, who have never been in the Stanley Cup in their 24-year history. Bondra opened the scoring in the first period, and he also added an assist.

Donald Audette had one goal and an assist for the Sabres. Matthew Barnaby and Brian Holzinger had the other Buffalo goals. It marked the first time in the playoffs this season that the Sabres have trailed in a series.

The Sabres have been to the Cup finals once, losing to the Philadelphia Flyers in 1975.

The only other time they were this close was 1980, when they lost to the New York Islanders in the conference finals.

Game 4 will be played Saturday night in Buffalo.

Teams deadlocked for Major Bambino lead

PAMPA — Glo-Valve Service downed Duncan, Fraser & Bridges Insurance Agency, 8-5, Thursday to pull into a first-place tie in the Optimist Major Bambino League. Both teams are 6-3 for the season.

Nick Story was the story for Glo-Valve. He had three hits, including at triple, and had three RBI. He entered the game as a pitcher with the score tied and was credited with the win. He allowed one earned run, two hits and struck out two while walking five. Chris Driscoll also pitched for Glo-Valve and gave up one earned run. He walked three, but gave up no hits. Eddie Palma earned a save. He permitted one run and one hit. He struck out seven and did not walk a batter.

Ryan Barnes started on the mound for DFB. He was touched for three earned runs and nine hits. He walked two and struck out two. Clayton Young finished up for DFB. He surrendered one run and one hit while striking out three.

With one out in the bottom of the first inning, Dennis Shuck drew a base on balls and moved to second for Glo-Valve on a passed ball. An error allowed Derek Lewis to get on base, but Shuck was thrown out at third. Lewis took second on the play and scored the first run of the game on a Texas League single by Story. In the second inning, Glo-Valve took a 2-0 lead. Keaton Hutto hit the first pitch into right field for a single. He went to second on a passed ball, to third on an infield out and ran home on a wild pitch.

DFB tied the score in the third inning. Garrett Johnston, Shane Willett and Jerrod Wingeart walked. Johnston and Willett scored on a Glo-Valve error and wild pitches. DFB edged into the lead in the fourth inning. Cody Jenkins, Dak Fallon and Colin Howard walked. Jenkins scored on an error on a ball hit by Wingeart.

Glo-Valve put the game out of reach in the bottom of the fourth.

Mateo Campos opened the inning with a single and went to second on an error. Driscoll hammered a too-hot-to-handle scorcher past the third baseman to score Campos and went to second on an error. After two were out, a single by Palma chased Driscoll home. Erik Willingham got the second of his two hits to keep the rally alive and plated Palma. Lewis was safe on an error and Story slammed a triple to bring in both runners and make the score 7-3.

A walk to Dusty Lenderman and singles by Jenkins and Kolby Gilleland produced a run for DFB in the fifth inning. Glo-Valve countered with a double by Campos, who took third on a ball hit by Driscoll and scored on a wild pitch. DFB added one more run in the sixth on a triple by Barnes, who scored after a wild pitch.

Lenderman and Hutto caught up with fly balls in center field to produce the outstanding defensive plays for each team.

Glo-Valve is back in action in the 7:45 p.m. game against Cabot Corporation, a 12-5 victor over Rotary Club.

The 5:45 p.m. game will feature Celanese Corporation and Rotary.

There is no admission for Bambino games. The public is invited to attend.

O's defeat Rangers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roberto Alomar treats controversy in much the same fashion he deals with dirt on his uniform — he simply whisks it away and turns his attention to playing baseball.

Ever since he spit at umpire John Hirschbeck in September 1996, Alomar has been forced to cope with the wrath of booing fans on the road. This week he's faced a different kind of distraction — trade rumors.

The Baltimore Orioles disclosed last weekend that they have discussed trading their second baseman to the New York Mets. Instead of stewing about it, Alomar elevated his game.

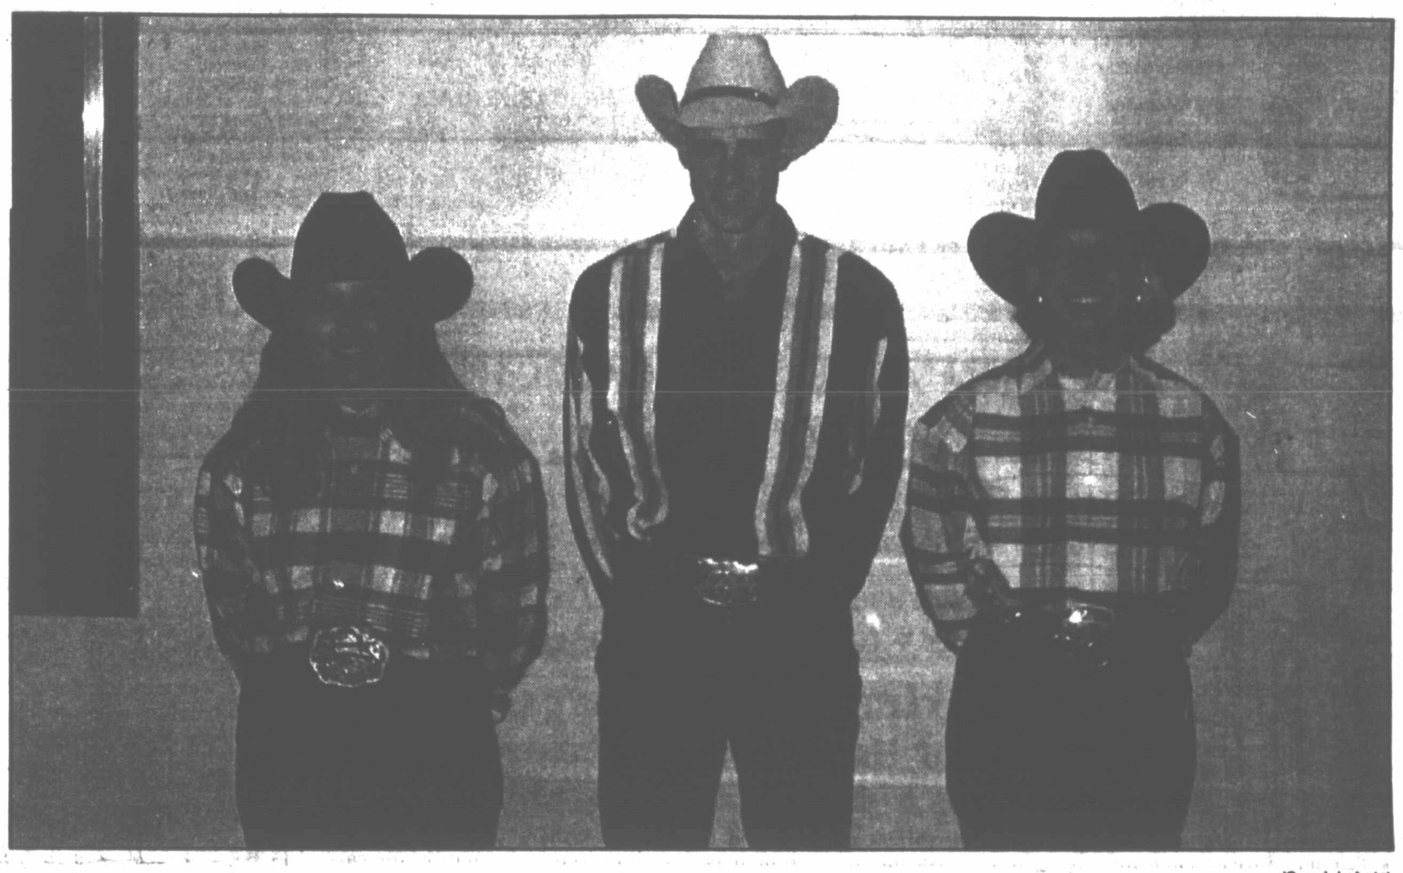

Alomar went 3-for-3 and scored three runs Thursday night as the Orioles handed Texas its fourth straight defeat, 5-2. In the process, Alomar gave Baltimore officials reason to believe that they might be wise to hold onto him after all.

"I'm real happy here, the fans have treated me real well and I would love to be a Baltimore Oriole," Alomar said. "Right now I am, and I'm not going to worry about what happens tomorrow."

Orioles third baseman Cal Ripken, no stranger to playing through distractions, is impressed with the way Alomar has handled himself since the trade rumors surfaced.

"I think you just want to concentrate on what's happening on the field. It can be very unsettling to think of coming to the ballpark one day and finding out you won't be here anymore," Ripken noted.

Rodeo qualifiers

Four Pampa High School Rodeo Club members have qualified for the Tri-State High School Finals this weekend in Childress. Left to right are Casey Andreen (pole bending), Grayson Lewis (calf roping) and Lindsay Tidwell (barrel racing, pole bending and goat tying). Not pictured is Cal Ferguson (bull riding). Starting times are 6 p.m. tonight; 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. The finals will also be televised July 5, starting at 1 p.m. on Channel 7.

Pacers face do-or-die situation in Game Six

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — There's no tomorrow for the Indiana Pacers if they don't come through tonight.

A humbling 106-87 loss to two-time defending champion Chicago has the Pacers in a do-or-die situation in Game 6 of the Eastern Conference finals.

The Bulls can wrap up the series and head to Utah with a chance for their sixth league championship in eight years with a victory at Market Square Arena. If the Pacers survive, Game 7 will be Sunday night in Chicago.

"There's a sense of urgency, but by no means do we look at this like it's our last practice," Indiana point guard Mark Jackson said Thursday. "We fully expect to go back to Chicago."

Jackson, along with his teammates and coaches, reviewed videotape of their futile effort in the first half of Wednesday's game. Indiana trailed 57-32 at halftime after going scoreless for more than five minutes and failing to make a single basket in more than 14 minutes,

"They did what they wanted to do at both ends of the court. When you allow them to do that, they're tough to beat." Jackson said.

"There's no time to think about last night. We have a job at hand, and we have to respond. There's no time to think about that."

The Pacers are undefeated at home in the playoffs this year and beat the Bulls here by two points in Games 3 and 4.

"We looked at the videotape, the first half. They were clearly the more aggressive team," Indiana center Rik Smits said. "I don't know what caused us to come out like that. It (Game 6) could very well be our last game of the season, and we've got to play that way."

Coach Larry Bird has no doubts his team can extend its season.

"My concern is to get these guys to play as hard as they can, just lay it all on the line. If they come out and give me a great effort, and get beat, I can take that," he said.

Bird put the Pacers though a lengthy, physical practice that he described as "harder than normal."

"After the game we had, really they had two days in a row off. It's time to get back with it," Bird said. "We'll play better, we'll play hard. If we set the picks and do the things we're capable of doing, we can win.

"If we come in happy that we beat the Chicago Bulls twice, we're done for the season."

Reggie Miller said the Pacers need to be more aggressive "taking the ball to the hole, starting from the inside out, establishing a post game."

In Chicago, coach Phil Jackson gave his team the day off Thursday, hoping they can maintain their momentum from Game 5.

"We just tried to raise our level of play," said Scottie Pippen, whose hard drive to the basket following the opening tip set the tone for Chicago's best performance in this year's playoff.

"We came out a little more hungry, came out more aggressive, more determined, and it showed on the scoreboard," said Pippen, who had 20 points in 23 minutes.

Despite its age, Possum Kingdom Lake still one of best fishing sites

FORT WORTH, Texas — It got its name from the opossums which still roam the mesquite and juniper hills nearby. It has survived floods, a fracture in the base structure of its dam, and old age.

Now, going into its 57th year, Possum Kingdom Lake, even under a haze delivered last week by the fires in Mexico, is more than just one of Texas' most scenic lakes. It is, as one local resident exclaimed last week, "a darned good place to catch fish, any time, any day."

That might surprise some anglers, especially since the fishing on most lakes peaks out at about age seven, and that after about 20 years, good habitat and nutrients become so low that they never rebound.

Bob Murphy, who lives near PK Lodge on the upper reaches of the winding, 19,800-acre reservoir on the Brazos River, is one of many anglers who has discovered one of the main reasons the lake ranks as one of Texas' best overall fisheries despite its age — the introduction and subsequent growth of striped bass.

The striped bass, originally a saltwater species which fisheries biologists discovered can live in freshwater impoundments, was first introduced in Possum Kingdom in 1976. That stocking was followed by others in 1978, 1983, 1986-91, 1993-95 and again last year.

Because striped bass rarely spawn in freshwater lakes, it is the repeated stockings of fingerlings that keeps the fishery alive.

In the early years of striper history at PK, very few were caught, mainly because no one really concentrated on learning how to catch them. In recent years, however, the striper has become one of PK's most sought-after species.

Possum Kingdom's tremendously large population of striped bass, in fact, convinced Murphy to move his fishing guide business from Lake Granbury to its sister lake to the north, but he will be the first to tell you that PK is blessed with something besides stripers — variety.

Some lakes become known as good places to catch only one species - largemouth bass at Lake Fork, and hybrid stripers at Lake Proctor, for example — but Possum Kingdom covers just about all of the bases.

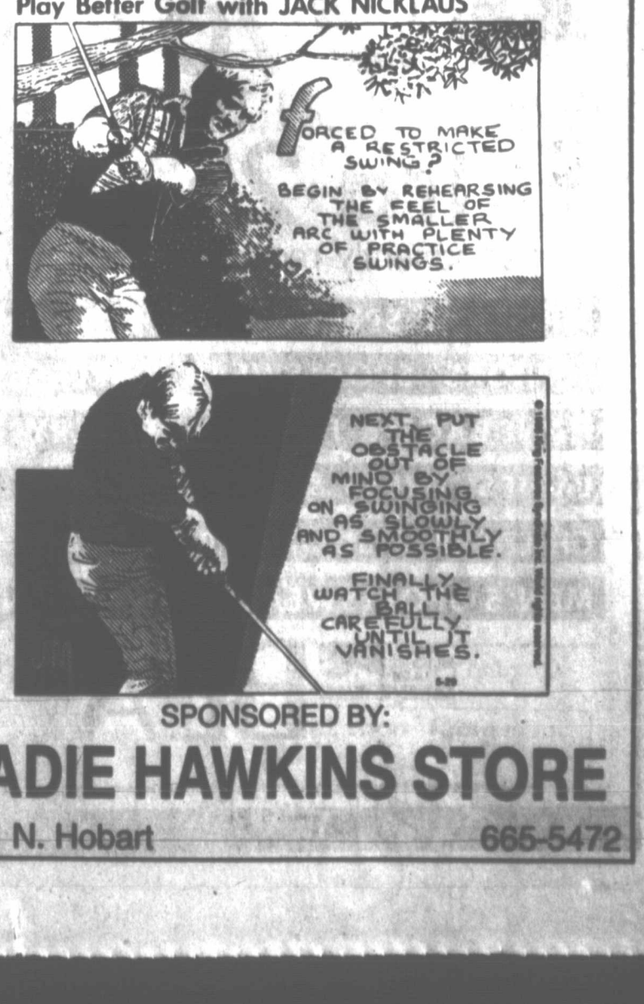

The largemouth bass fishing generally is excellent (soft plastic grubs and Sassy Shads fished off rocky ledges presently are working best), sand bass are abundant (they are schooling in shallow coves early and late), and channel cats provide great summertime action (trotlines and rods and reels are catching them at five to 10 feet).

But it is the striped bass which is providing the best year-round action, and it couldn't be better at present, according to Murphy.

"We have been catching easy limits every morning for several weeks now," Murphy said. "Most of them are weighing around six to eight pounds, but we are catching some occasionally that weigh 10 to 12 pounds."

One of Murphy's best fishing spots is about a five-minute boat ride from a public boat ramp.

The haze from the Mexico fires gave PK's waters a foggy appearance one day last week when Murphy demonstrated just how quickly an angler can catch a five-fish limit of stripers here.

Injuries strike French Tennis Open

PARIS (AP) — Marcelo Rios and Michael Chang both advanced at the French Open today when their opponents retired in the middle of matches because of injury.

The third-seeded Rios, who could overtake Pete Sampras as the No. 1 player in the world if he makes the semifinals, became the first man to reach the fourth round. He was leading 6-1, 3-3 when Wayne Ferreira twisted his right ankle and was unable to continue.

Ferreira was running for a shot along the baseline when his right foot appeared to get stuck on the clay. He twisted his ankle, grimacing as he fell on his back.

The South African originally hurt the ankle while practicing between rounds at last year's French Open and had surgery on it to remove fluid in October. He was taken to a hospital after the match for X-rays, and the extent of today's injury was not immediately clear.

Chang, the only American man left from the dozen that began the French Open, reached the third round when John Van Lottum of the Netherlands retired in the third set.

Chang, winner of this tournament in 1989 and seeded 11th, was leading 7-5, 6-2, 3-0 when Van Lottum was unable to continue because of a strained buttock muscle that he originally hurt in the first round.

Jan-Michael Gambill, the only other American to make it to the fifth day of the tournament, was eliminated in a second-round match that began Thursday night but was halted by darkness.

Among the other U.S. losers have been top-seeded Pete Sampras, two-time champion Jim Courier and two-time finalist Andre Agassi.

"I think the French Open has been a tournament that's been a little bit frustrating for American players, particularly on the men's side, because the depth is so great here and so many players are in such great shape and they know the surface so well," Chang said.

'Saints' Roost Celebration' slated in July

CLARENDON – Clarendon will host its 120th "Saints' Roost Celebration" July 2-4. The theme of this year's parade is "Old West."

All riding clubs, floats and civic and commercial organizations in the Tri-State Area are invited to participate in the parade and celebration activities. Parade line up is at 11:30 a.m. at 7th and Jefferson on July 4. The parade begins promptly at 2 p.m. Entries should include: entry name, contact person, full address, phone number and a brief description of the entry to be read by the parade announcer. Entries may also be made by contacting Linda Williams at the Clarendon Donley County Chamber of Commerce office (806) 874-2421 or 1-800-579-4023.

The rodeo will kicks off the celebration at 7:45 p.m. July 2, 3, and 4 behind Clarendon Motors.

The annual Kids Parade will be at 10 a.m. July 3 followed by the Women's Club, Depression Lunch with the annual turtle race, at downtown Clarendon.

The County Craft Fair is slated at 9 a.m. July 4. Serving time for barbecue with all the trimmings will be at 11 a.m. with proceeds going to the Shrine Children's Hospital.

Play Firecracker Jackpot with five chances to win $1,000. Proceeds will go to the Chamber of Commerce. Tickets are on sale in the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce office.

The Saints' Roost Museum will have an Open House at 5 p.m. July 4 with entertainment and free sloppy joes.

Lovett Library announces summer reading program

Lovett Memorial Library would like to announce the 1998 Summer Reading Program. This program is put together by the Texas State Library and the local public libraries. This year's program is entitled, "Furry Tails, Funny Tales."

In Pampa, this program will consist of a Pre-School Story Hour every Tuesday at 10 a.m. until the end of July at Baker School, 300 E. Tuke. There will be reading logs at the library for all ages of children. Just come to the library and pick them up starting in June.

In July, every Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. there will be a program at the M.K. Brown Auditorium. At the end of July, there will be an end of the summer party with prizes and certificates handed out to the children who were involved. The top 10 readers this year will receive a $10 gift certificate to Hastings.

Also this summer, there will be a Teen Read for any teens who are interested in joining. This is mainly for the fifth through middle school students though high school students are welcome to join. There will be picnics and prizes planned throughout the summer for the teens and they are welcome to come at any time.

The library asks that anyone who wants to be involved in the 1998 Summer Reading Program come to the library to sign up for the program and receive their reading logs.

Summer Reading Program schedule:

July 8 – Pets and grooming will show how to take care of your pets and how to groom them.

15 – The Gray County Veterinary Clinic will speak about the importance of pet health care.

22 – The Pampa Animal Control and Animal Shelter will speak the importance of animal tags and shots.

29 – The last day of Summer Reading Program with awards and a party; Pre-School Story Hour Schedule-10 a.m.

May 5, 12, 19, 26 regular story hours

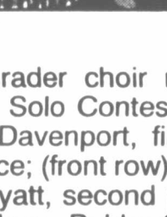

June 2, 9, 16, 23, 30 regular story hours

July 7, 14, 21 regular story hours

July 28 – Last story hour of the summer party.

LET'S TALK REAL ESTATE

COMES WITH THE TERRITORY

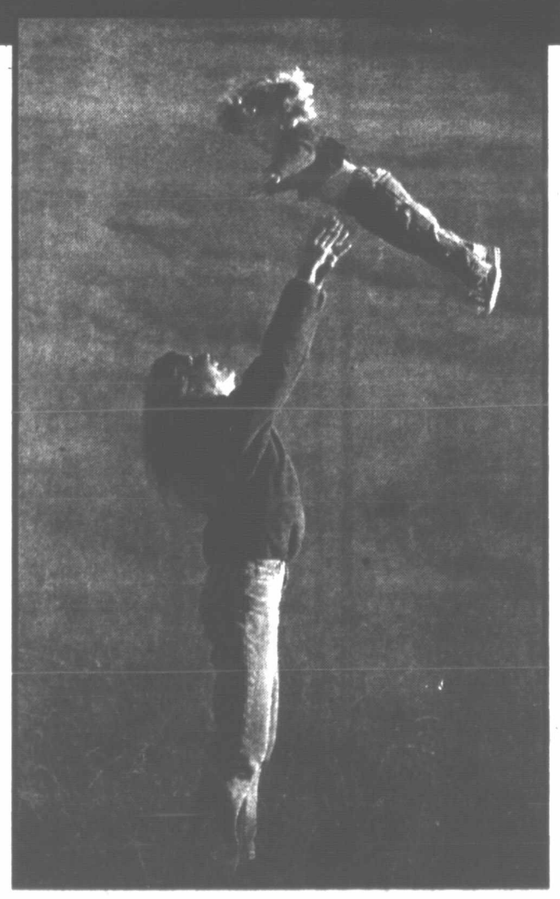

Generally speaking, consumers like to deal with salespeople who are very knowledgeable about the products they are selling The same can be said of real estate agents. Most cultivate their interest in a particular area to the point where they can rattle off information about specific houses, streets, neighborhoods, local government, taxes, the school system, and the history of the local real estate market. It behooves sellers to become assoicated with agents with such knowledge because they can set the asking price and market the property with pinpoint accuracy. As for prospective buyers, they can take advantage of the knowledgeable agent to get a precise feel for the community in which they are interested.
