Tension Between France And Insurgent Spain Tightened

Plot Charged To Officer; French Consul Is Held

Scheme To Steal Submarine In Brest Harbor Charged; Guard Placed Around Prisoner

(By The Associated Press)

BAYONNE, France, Sept. 22. — The arrest of a high Spanish insurgent officer for plotting to steal a submarine docked at Brest put a severe strain tonight on relations between France and the insurgents.

In retaliation for the arrest of Major Julian Troncoso at Bayonne, the insurgents detained Pierre Bertrande Desmartis, French consul at Malaga.

Just what Insurgent General Francisco Franco intended doing with Desmartis was not learned. He was warned not to leave the consultate pending further notice.

MAY SEND MORE TROOPS

LONDON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Diplomatic quarters expressed fear tonight Premier Benito Mussolini might send more troops for the Spanish insurgent armies to offset the diplomatic setback he suffered in the anti-piracy patrol of the Mediterranean.

Italy has indicated she will fall in line concerning the Nyon accord of nine powers for erasing mysterious attacks on shipping from the Mediterranean, but informed observers were afraid the Italian leaders would not let matters rest there.

From Italy came circumstantial reports of moves to send more "volunteers" to insure victory for the armies of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

A strong guard watchd over Major Troncoso, governor of three insurgent provinces in Spain, and patrols along the French frontier were strengthened to avert any possible attempt to rescue him.

Charged In Scheme

The major was charged with scheming to steal the Spanish government submarine C-2, which had just finished repairs at Brest and was ready for sea duty again. French authorities claim he admitted the allegations.

Questions Arise On PWA Status

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt's announcement that PWA is at an end raised doubts today whether the government will complete final units of some current projects.

At Hyde Park yesterday, the president said he had made final allotments of money under the 1937 act extending PWA for two years.

Public Works officials here dedined today to amplify the president's statement in any way. They would say nothing about proposed projects omitted from the final allocations, nor would they speculate as to whether Mr. Roosevelt eventually might make further allocations from PWA's remaining funds to complete projects not yet financed in their entirety.

Up To President Or Congress

Some observers said the fate of such projects could be determined only by the president and congress, which might make specific appropriations if it desired.

In Texas, the lower Colorado River authority has received funds sufficient to complete its Marshall Ford dam, but officials said $10,000,000 would be needed to finish the authority's projected power and navigation system.

Since its inception, PWA has released more than $1,126,000,000 for

Increased Employment, More Pay Reported During August

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. (AP) — Texans received more pay, bought more automobiles and organized more business enterprises in August than in the same month last year.

Reports to the University of Texas bureau of business research showed 1,800 representatives establishments employed 91,282 workers, 7.9 more than in the August last year. These workers received $2,333,941 weekly, 23.9 per cent more than in the corresponding month a year ago.

Fifteen counties reported 6,087 new automobiles registered, a gain of 7.1 per cent.

Calvert Says All Roads Lead To State Sales Tax

CORSICANA, Sept. 22. (AP) — Robert W. Calvert, speaker of the house of representatives, told a civic club here today "all roads lead to a sales tax if the state is to continue the services it renders to its citizenship."

He said there were four possible results of the forthcoming special tax-raising legislative session: an omnibus tax bill, gross receipts tax, general sales tax, or "exactly nothing."

Statements by Gov. James V. Allred that the state's finances are in bad shape and additional money needed, have conflicted with statements by members of the legislature that conditions were good, and no new taxes necessary, Calvert said.

Calvert said Allred is right in wanting to levy taxes to reduce the deficit.

Three Convicts Break Jail In Wild Flight

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22. — Three convicts accused of executing a series of bank robberies since they fled last year from Missouri's state penitentiary broke out of Cyuahoga county jail today in an effort to escape a trial in which federal authorities planned to seek their deaths.

Joining in the flight of the trio—Charles Bird, 28; Frank Bird, his brother, 30, and James Widmer, 31—was a 19-year-old youth accused of murder, Theodore Slapik. Slapik was captured an hour and a half later.

Whipped Out Revolvers

Incarcerated in a fourth-floor cell block of the tower-like jail, the men suddenly whipped out three revolvers and a knife; locked two deputies in a cell; wrested keys from them and unlocked a corridor door, and descended in an elevator to the basement.

The fugitives dashed from the front door of the jail in downtown Cleveland. Four blocks from the jail, their commandeered coupe collided with another machine. The men, brandishing guns, leaped to the running board of Municipal Judge Louis Petrash's car. They pulled the judge from his seat and drove toward Public square, a mile

Quezon Raps Court Decision In Case

MANILA, Sept. 22. (AP)—President Manuel Quezon, angrily denouncing the "inhumanity" of a court decision, today ordered government contracts withheld from an employer who won a legal victory over a family seeking compensation for the death of a worker.

The employe drowned while attempting to carry out orders to recover a piece of lumber from the Passig river. The employer won two court decisions making it unnecessary for him to pay $500 to the worker's family.

"If judges are going to decide cases like that," Quezon shouted, "we are going to have a revolution in the Philippines."

"It has been charged," he continued, "that I am a Mussolini. If I were, I would get rid of such judges. A Twentieth century jurist who handles law as one in the Sixteenth century belongs in the cemetery."

Wichita County Fair Opens At Iowa Park; Parade Is Staged

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Led by two United States congressmen, a cross-county parade which turned into a never-ending stream of cars loosed a crowd which burst through the gates of the Wichita County fair at Iowa Park today, launching the greatest exposition ever undertaken by this district.

Things really got under way only after the two congressmen, Senator Tom Connally and Representative W. D. McFarlane had done their speaking. They backed the present administration in fervent talks at the opening of a Resettlement colony near here.

Blue ribbons by the hundreds flowed back over county roads tonight as thousands from all sections returned to their homes to rest up for another gala day Thursday—only after the queen's ball, climaxed by the crowning of Miss Nancy Lou Jamison of Wichita Falls as the fairest of the year's crop of royalty, had ended long after midnight.

Final Fair Trip To Northwest, West Today

Delegation Of 40-50 Men Will Visit 12 Neighboring Towns; Luncheon Slated At Clovis

BY H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

RECEPTIONS to write home about apparently await the Lubbock delegation of 40 to 50 business men who will make the last of three good will trips today to publicize the Panhandle-South Plains fair here which opens Monday.

Among the feature events waiting will be the opportunity to participate in final preparations for the opening of the first annual Lamb county fair at Littlefield. That will be followed by the climax of all the trips at Clovis when business men of that city and the visitors from Lubbock will parade to the accompaniment of music played by uniformed bands of the high schools of the two cities. The parade will be followed by a get-together luncheon at Clovis hotel, for which K. C. Lea, secretary of the chamber of commerce there, is making the arrangements.

Allen, Beasley Lead Trip

Those events, however, will not be the only features on the program of a busy day, according to assurances given by Ed D. Allen, county clerk, and J. H. Beasley, who are co-chairmen of the committee in chair of the trip.

Before the day is over, members of the party will have visited 12 neighboring towns and cities west and northwest of Lubbock, and will have extended invitations to residents of each to attend the approaching fair. Souvenirs for school children, including colored one-foot rulers and nearaly 10,000 free fair tickets, and literature descriptive of the exposition will be distributed

Cotton Payment Need Foreseen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — The opinion that some sort of subsidy or adjustment payment to cotton growers will be necessary for several years to come was expressed today by Secretary Wallace.

The administration, he told reporters, has adopted a "middle course" in establishing acreage limits or "goals" for cotton next year under the soil conservation benefit program.

"Goals" Are Set Up

The 1938 program sets up a cotton "goal" of 29,000,000 to 31,000,000 acres compared with about 34,000,000 this year and an average of 36,858,000 in the 10 years of 1928-37.

"One of the Southern senators thinks the cotton acreage ought to be held down next year to about 25,000,000," Wallace said. "Another group of Southern leaders think it should be about 40,000,000."

He asserted the limits established by the administration were intended to prevent a collapse of prices "as a result of large carryover stocks as in 1932," and at the same time give cotton growers a fair income.

Income Tax Collections Show Huge Gain Compared To 1936

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP) — The treasury announced today income tax collections for the period from Sept. 1 to 21 increased $189,418,303 as compared with the collections from Sept. 1 to 20 last year.

Collections for Sept. 1 to 21 this year were $473,054,987. For the comparable period in 1936 they were $283,636,674.

The collections by states for the 1936 period and for September 1 to 21 this year included: Texas, $6,659,908 and $11,514,112.

Senator Borah Says President Trying To Keep U. S. In Peace

POCATELLO, Idaho, Sept. 22. (AP) William E. Borah, United States senator for 31 consecutive years, brought back to his home state—Idaho—today assurance that President Roosevelt is striving earnestly to keep America out of the Sino-Japanese war, which he predicted will be prolonged.

He made his observation in an interview as his train sped through eastern Idaho.

'Prairie Dog Pie' Is Latest Dish In New Mexico

ESTANCIA, N. M., Sept. 22. (AP) Estancia epicureans today were recommending a bit more of the hair of the dog they bit to appease that hungry feeling.

Demonstrating a rugged pioneering instinct, two dozen culinary explorers sat down at the festive board of the Estancia Lions club and dined upon "prairie dog pie"—a project new in scope and frankly experimental in purpose.

The results were colossal. Thirteen prarie dogs were consumed and no faces were missing this morning from accustomed haunts.

Prairie dog tastes very much like (1) chicken, (2) frog's legs, (3) rabbit, (4) young turkey, and (5) prairie dog — according to a poll of opinion around the board.

"In fact," observed County Farm Agent W. W. Wilson, "I can truthfully assert prairie dog meat is as good as any meat I have ever eaten."

FDR Announces Foundation For Paralysis War

(By The Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 22. — President Roosevelt, concerned over epidemics of infantile paralysis, announced today he was forming a national foundation to "lead, direct, and unify the fight on every phase of their sickness."

"The work of the new organization must start immediately," said the president, himself a sufferer of the crippling disease for 16 years.

Leading Men To Aid

He said he had enlisted the "sincere interest" of several representatives and outstanding individuals who are willing to initiate and carry on the work of the new foundation. Its personnel will be announced as soon as it is completed.

"I have been very much concerned over the epidemics of infantile paralysis which have been prevalent in many cities in different parts of the country," he said in a formal statement made public prior to his departure for the west coast.

Disease Again Spreading

"I have had reports from many areas in which this disease is again spreading its destruction. And once again there is brought forcibly to my mind the constantly increasing accumulation of ruined lives—which must continue unless this disease can be brought under control and

Army Planes Are To Stop At Port Today

Twenty-one army observation planes with 27 students, officers and mechanics from Kelly Field at San Antonio are scheduled to arrive shortly before noon today, according to information received late Wednesday at the Lubbock Municipal airport, despite threatening weather conditions.

Planes will start arriving at 11:45 o'clock this morning and the last ship is scheduled to take off at 1:58 o'clock this afternoon after refueling and persons making the trip have contacted young men here interested in flying and entering the aviation school.

Capt. R. E. Randal is in charge of the flight. The group will come today from San Angelo and will go from here to Roswell, N. M., airpotr authorities said.

A group of army pursuit planes were here Monday and another group of pursuit planes are scheduled to arrive hese for a short stop next Thursday.

Eagle Pass' 'Barking Spider' Still Without Identification

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 22. (AP) The "barking spider" of Eagle Pass will go to New York City for identification purposes.

Dr. S. W. Bilsing, head of the Texas A. & M. college entomology department, today said he was unable to identify the spider, sent by Dr. A. J. Rickles of Eagle Pass. Doctor Bilsing prepared to send it to Alexander Petrunkevitch, specialist on spiders for the American Museum of Natural History, New York City.

Several months ago the first of the species was observed by the Eagle Pasoan. He said the spider, about four inches long, raced across a bureau top and emitted barks. Since then a horde of the same species—all barkers—made their appearance.

FDR Departs On Two-Week Trip Into Northwest

President Is Expected To Seek Sentiment On His Program; To Speak In Eight States

(By The Associated Press)

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN En Route to Seattle, Sept. 22. —President Roosevelt headed tonight toward the Pacific Northwest, intent on sounding public feeling toward his program.

He left his Hyde Park home at 4 p m., Eastern standard time. Before him was a crowded two-week train, boat and motor tour, its westernmost Point Victoria, in British Columbia. There he will make a visit of friendliness to a foreign neighbor.

On the way, going and returning, he will check first-hand the progress of several large government works, including Bonneville, Grand Coulee, Fort Peck and Owyhee dams.

To Talk In Eight States

En route, too, he will talk informally to station crowds in eight states.

From these crowds, and from Democratic party leaders who will board the train en route, Mr. Roosevelt expects to learn how the individual citizens feel toward his broad economic objectives and possibly such controversial matters as his court reorganization.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, warned reporters yesterday they should not draw political inferences from the stops he will make and those he will omit.

To Visit Foes' States

The president will visit Cheyenne, home town of Senator O'Mahonney (D-Wyo), court bill opponent, and the home state of Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), although he misses the latter's home town, Butte.

Cheyenne is the first planned stop of the trip for an informal

Legion To Name Leader Today

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The American Legion, its fifes and drums silent, its marching and its pageantry over, selected Los Angeles today as next year's convention city and fell to a hundred long serious discussions to determine who will be its next national commander.

For this honor—for the job of succeeding Harry Colmery of Kansas—two lawyer-Irishmen were out in front, Daniel Doherty of Boston and Ray Kelly, Detroit's corporation counsel.

Whispers Of "Deals" Heard

The matter progressed just as it does in a political convention; there were whispers of "deals," and Doherty and Kelly adherents advertised their men as widely as any candidate for anything ever was advertised in a convention city.

Doherty men claimed they would elect their man on the first ballot tomorrow; the Kellyists conceded nothing. Most unofficial speculation inclined toward Doherty.

Three others were in the race.

Perkins Not Invited To AFOL Convention

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP) — The American Federation of Labor dropped Secretary Perkins today from the list of those invited to address the federation's Denver convention next month.

This unprecedented action was regarded by labor as the first public manifestation of the A. F. of L. leadership's feeling toward the labor department chief.

Many federation leaders opposed her appointment and have disagreed with many of her major policies through her administration.

The list of invitations to address the convention, made public without comment, included President Roosevelt, J. Warren Madden, chairman of the Labor Relations board; and Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security board.

BIG SPRING, Sept. 22. (AP) — A jury in 70th district court after a few minutes deliberation today found Hiram A. Knox of Dallas guilty on a charge of passing a forged instrument, and fixed punishment at two years in prison.

Eleven similar cases were pending against Knox here.

Strong U. S. Note Is Handed Japan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Long-stifled resentment here over Japanese aerial attacks at Nanking flared into the open today with the dispatch of a vigorous note warning the Tokyo government it would be held to account for any damage suffered by American nationals.

MAY RESURRECT NINE-POWER PACT

GENEVA, Sept. 22. (AP)—A British spokesman indicated tonight Great Britain was weighing resurrection of the Washington nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity in a drastic effort to end the Sino-Japanese conflict.

The British idea, the spokesman said, would be to propose a conference of the signatories of the 1922 pact, all of which have special interests in the Far East. The United States would be invited as one of the signers.

They would formulate if possible a positive and united program bringing to a halt Japan's undeclared war against China.

At almost the very hour that Japanese bombing planes were dropping their missiles on the civilian population of the Chinese capital, American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew was delivering the protest to the Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota.

"Reserve All Rights"

Characterizing as "unwarranted and contrary to principles of law and humanity" any general bombing of an area in which a large civilian population resides, the American note warned Japan this government reserves "all rights on its own behalf and on behalf of American nationals in respect to damages which might result from Japanese military operations in the Nanking area."

The Japanese naval commander's warning that foreign diplomats would be in peril if they stayed in Nanking evoked a strong reply. In effect, Japan was told blunty she has no right to dictate the move-

Fascist States--Japan, Italy And Germany Said Greater Menace Than Soviet Russia

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler tonight called on the free people of the world to face the challenge of the three Fascist states—Japan, Italy and Germany—which he described as more menacing than Communist Russia.

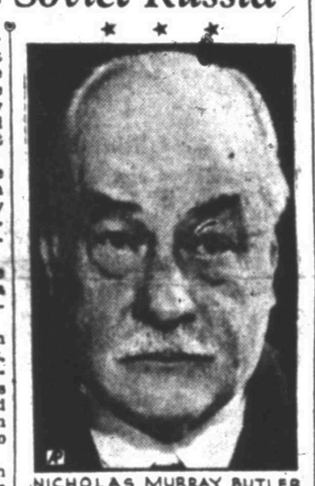

Dr. Butler, long time advocate of United States participation in world affairs, declared "neutrality would be immorality" in any contest between democracy and fascism.

Speaking at the opening of the 148th academic year of Columbia univerasity, of which he is the president, Dr. Butler said:

"The challenge to believers in liberty is imperative and instant. The attempt of the dictator to extend his authority over other lands and other peoples must be met and faced by free people who have been stirred to see, to understand, to think and to act.

"There is no other way in which the paradox of despotism can be brought to an end."

Compared with "the active and carefully thought out" demonstrations of ambition and power by the dictatorships of Japan, Italy and Germany, he said, the dictatorship of Communist Russia "is far less threatening."

Rotarians From 16 Clubs In Area On Hand At Tech Last Night To Hear Mahon Talk

An estimated 250 Rotarians attended what was termed the largest inter-city meeting in the history of Lubbock Rotary club Wednesday night in the livestock pavillion at Texas Technological college.

George Mahon of Colorado, congressman, delivered the main address. J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls, district Rotary governor, was in attendance. James I. Kilpatrick, president of the Lubbock club presided.

From Abilene To Canyon

Club presidents were grouped with Congressman Mahon and Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Tech. Clubs represented were Abilene, Brownfield, Canyon, Floydada, Lamesa, Levelland, Littlefield, Lockney, Plainview, Post, Ralls, Slaton, Sudan, Spur, Tahoka, and Hobbs, N. M.

McLaughlin led group singing and former District Governor James Willson of Floydada, spoke briefly. George W. Dupree, Lubbock attorney, introduced Mahon.

Clubs Help Keep Vigor Up

"It is easy to get in a rut and to keep our nose to the grindstone, so that we miss the finer things of life," Mahon told the attendants. Service clubs, such as the Rotary, "help keep up the enthusiasm and vigor" of men as citizens of a community.

Two Raids Made Over City; 200 Civilians Die

Protests Of Four Nations Are Ignored; U. S. Ambassador To Return To Embassy To Stay

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

NANKING, Sept. 22. — Japan's threat to rain death and destruction on China's capital was carried out today in disregard of American, British, French and German protests against unrestricted bombing of a great city.

More than 50 Japanese planes took part in two raids, killing or wounding more than 200 Chinese civilians, mostly in the poorer quarters of the city. Scores were burned to death as incendiary bombs lighted tinder-like straw huts along the Yangstze river front.

Most of those who died were too feeble or helpless to join the great exodus.

Johnson Returns To Embassy

After the raids United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, accompanied by his entire staff, returned to the embassy from the gunboat Luzon, to which he had withdrawn Monday when the Japanese gave warning of their intention to subject Nanking to devastating air bombardment.

The ambassador indicated he and his staff now intended to remain ashore. He declined to explain his action beyond remarking, "it's just as safe here as on the river."

Strike At Canton Also

In the far south the Japanese airforce also struck with deadly effect at Canton, where it was feared more than 300 persons, nearly all civilians, had perished in four big air raids. Foreign observers told of piles of bodies in the streets and of scenes of panic and disorder at the railway stations as throngs tried to flee.

The Japanese raiders were over Nanking four hours, bombing and fighting spectacular combats with the Chinese who rose to meet them. I watched the raids from the roof of the Italian embassy, from which an unobstructed view of the city was obtainable.

Scores Of Individual Fights

There were scores of individual combats, with thrills exceeding even a motion picture director's idea of what an air battle should be. Loops, breath-taking dives, sensational climbs were seen everywhere as the opposing airfleets battled for position.

Chinese officials said four raiding planes were shot down.

On each raid the Japanese dropped more than 100 bombs, but a sur-

DOES preparing the baby's bottle get on your nerves? Then you'll envy Washington, D. C. mothers who can call Mrs. John McGee and let her take care of the task in scientific fashion. Mrs. McGee's service eliminates everything except giving baby the bottle. She furnishes everything, including sterilized nipples.

Naturally the particular formula your doctor has prescribed for Jane or Junior, prepared under hospital conditions of sanitation and care, goes into the bottles. After sealing, the bottles are packed, a full day's supply at a time and rushed to the waiting infants. The idea was launched in order to give mothers more time to spend with their babies.

WOMEN OF THE P. E. O.

Five thousand delegates, representing 63,000 members of the Women of the P. E. O. Sisterhood, attended the convention at the Jefferson hotel in St. Louis, Mo., last week. Mrs. Ben Ballenger represented the local chapter. This sisterhood, which started as a college sorority in 1869, has grown to 2,000 chapters in the United States and its possessions and Canada. It confines itself to educational activities and now possesses an educational loan fund of more than $800,000.

During the convention, which closed last Friday, an editorial writer for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat penned the following: "Long ago we suspected the specious plea—that women cannot keep a secret. It seemed a male saw dulled by male garrulity. Now we know that we were right. Delegates and visitors to the thirty-third biennial convention of the P. E. O. Sisterhood have been in St. Louis throughout the week and most diligent efforts failed to elicit the meaning of the cabalistic letters which have bound together more than 63,000 women of the United States, its possessions and Canada.

"This band of women, whose aim is a sane humanitarianism, established the Cottey Junior College for Women at Neveda, Mo., and maintains homes for its aged members in various states.

"The society is nonsectarian and dedicated to a philosophy of intelligent relationship. It represents an American womanhood cognizant of verities, impinged upon by changing modes and customs, but which cannot be discarded unless civilization itself is warped."

One of the nicest gestures of the P. E. O. convention was presentation to new officers of leis of fresh pink and white carnations which arrived from Honolulu aboard the China Clipper. The Hawaiian delegation made the presentation.

IN THE MAIL

FROM a Sentimental Mother comes a little poem lamenting the loss of her baby as he grows into boyhood. Thanks for the contribution and comments.

My baby has gone away, my precious baby son.
My little, helpless baby boy, my weak and helpless one.
He's grown so fast, and now, at last
I have to let him go.
He needs much more than I can give.
But oh, it hurts me so.
It makes me choke, my heart is very sore,
To think that he won't need me As he used to, anymore.
The stories that his mother tells,
The songs his mother sings,
Will not be all-important now,
They are
Just little things.
And there will be so much that's new;
His world is quite another
From that he's known in which his
Greatest love and friend was mother.
New work, new play, a whole new life
Built on a different plan.
My clinging baby boy replaced by this
A sturdy man.
But when he trotted off to school
He looked so small, so young
My arms ached to hold him and my
Very heart was wrung.
And I hoped he'd be afraid, and beg
He need not go.
But off he went and then at noon,
His face was all aglow.
Because he loved it all so much,
For him it's just the dawn
Of everything that's good,
But my baby boy is gone.

Mrs. Edwards Complimented

The first of a series of parties honoring Mrs. J. Bryan Edwards, who was Miss Wilding B. Sherrod before her marriage Saturday, was a supper and linen shower given Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Hicks, 2105-A Fifteenth street. Mrs. Hicks was assisted by her sister, Miss Dorothy Abernathy.

The house was decorated with crysanthemums. The supper was served at foursome tables.

Rotan Girl Crushed Fatally By Tractor

ROTAN, Sept. 22. (AP) — Crushed by a tractor, Irene Howard, about 30, died early this afternoon in an ambulance en route to a hospital from the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Howard, three miles east of here.

Joe Howard, brother of the young woman, was attempting to disconnect a hitch when the tractor backed over his sister.

The Howards are pioneers of this area. It was on their farm that the initial oil discovery was made in this area a few years ago.

Aerialist Families To Be Reunited In Fair Next Week

Panhandle-South Plains fair will be the occasion for a reunion of two famous families of trapeze aerialists, officials of the fair association learned Wednesday.

Disclosure that the two families would be here at the same time, each with a different organization, came about this morning when the fair association received a telegram that the "Five Flying Fishers," headed by Charles Fisher, have been substituted for the "Five Flying Lavans," as one of the free attractions to be given nightly in front of the grandstand.

In the chamber of commerce office when the word was received sat J. C. Webb, public relations man for Russell Brothers circus, which will play the fair Monday and Tuesday.

Webb promptly recalled that Charles Fisher is the brother of Bob Fisher, who is head man of the "Five Fearless Flyers," ace aerial act of the circus.

Webb related that Charles and Bob once were members of the same aerial troupe, originating in Bloomington, Ill., where more aerial acts begin and train than any city on earth. But a few years ago, Charles and Bob quarreled and each organized his own troupe. They since have patched up their differences, but each has continued with his own act.

Webb has particular reason to recall the relationship because once in a publicity story, he related, he inadvertently referred to the "Fearless Flyers" as being the "Flying Fishers." The brothers still were at outs, the publicity director related, and both called him sharply to task for the error.

Funeral For I. T. Roberts Held Here On Wednesday Afternoon

Last rites were conducted at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for I. T. Roberts, 83, at the Avenue G Church of Christ with Elder John T. Smith of the Broadway Church of Christ officiating. Burial was in Idalou cemetery with Sanders Funeral home in charge.

Roberts, a resident of Lubbock county 23 years, died late Tuesday afternoon at his home at 1418 Avenue D.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. L. M. Phillips of Idalou, Mrs. H. Hudnall of Lubbock; one son, O. C. Roberts of Lubbock; three brothers, W. G. Roberts of San Diego, Calif., H. H. Roberts of Moffett, and T. B. Roberts of Belton; and 14 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren.

Chicago's Radio School Shows Parents Becoming Interested

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP) — The infantile paralysis cloud unfolded today, some of its silver lining—stimulation of parents' interest in the children's school work.

Chicago's newspaper—radio school, an emergency project set up when an outbreak of the disease delayed school reopenings, is less than two weeks old but thousands of letters and telephone calls reflect its popularity and scope.

"These letters," Assistant School Superintendent Minnie Fallon said, "have been written by parents and reveal one of the most positive values of the radio lessons is that parents have become interested and participate in the lessons given their children.

Tentative Plans Made For Recreational Program For Underprivileged Boys

Club House May Be Constructed

A club house will be constructed and recreational and training facilities provided for boys for whom such advantages are not now available, through a project which will be financed by five luncheon clubs in Lubbock, Herman Fink, committee chairman, announced Wednesday.

Purpose of the project will be to train the boys for better citizenship.

To Employ Director

A full-time director will be employed to work with the boys. Plans have not yet been fully worked out for the project, which will include various phases of supervised play and training.

A committee composed of members from the various clubs is to determine a location and make plans. Members are Fink of the Lions club; Earl McClure, Kiwanis; Bert Pinson, American Business club; Bob McDonald, Rotary; and Morris Levine, Shrine.

No Report Given In Earnest Case

After six hours of deliberating the case of W. E. (Bill) Earnest, former Lubbock county and city officer who was charged in 99th district court with murder when driving when drunk, the jury retired shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday night without reaching a verdict. The case had gone to the jury about 3:15 o'clock that afternoon. Deliberations will be rsumed this morning, court attaches indicated.

Earnest was charged by indictment with the death of Mrs. Henry A. Bollman of Floydada in an automobile accident near Wolfforth Feb. 14.

Arguments Heard Wednesday

Arguments were heard in the case Wednesday morning and in the early afternoon after Judge E. L. Pitts had delivered his charge. Jurors were instructed that a verdict of guilty would carry with it two to five years imprisonment, as determined by the jury. Testimony had been concluded Tuesday afternoon.

Representing Earnest were Attorneys L. A. Howard and Owen McWhorter. Prosecuting attorneys were Burton S. Burks, district attorney; Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney; and L. G. Matthews of Floydada, special prosecutor.

Dishman Gets 4 Years

R. L. Dishman, charged with swindling over $50, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Pitts and received a sentence of four years. He already had been assessed two sentences of two years each on similar charges at Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, officers here said.

On his plea of guilty of a charge of theif over $50, Herbert Purcell was assessed a two-year suspended sentence, according to information from the office of the district attorney. The injured person had asked the sentence be suspended, Lindsey said.

Immediately upon completion of argument in the Earnest trial, Burks went to Morton for a preliminary hearing there in the justice court of J. P. Taylor for B. L. Dooley, Cochran county farmer, charged with statutory rape. Bond was set at $5,000.

New Securities Chairman To Study Market Manipulations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP) — William O. Douglas, new chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, pledged immediate and vigorous action by the commission in the role of "the investor's advocate" when he took office today.

The new chairman, in discussing recent breaks in the stock market, asserted that the commission is "not interested in price levels as such:"

"Prices always will go up and down in response to natural economic forces. We do not want to interfere with that. And we do not want other people to interfere with it, either."

He promised the commission would prosecute speedily all cases of manipulation.

Ruth Roland Of Old Film Thrillers Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22. (AP)—One of Hollywood's earliest heroines, serial queen Ruth Roland, died early today after a five months' illness. Members of her family said she was afflicted with cancer.

Miss Roland, 39, entered pictures in 1912, after some brief experience on the stage in her home town of San Francisco. She soon became a star in the popular chapter-a-week movies of that period, vying with such other lights of that pioneer era as Grace Cunard, Pearl White, Marie Walcamp and Helen Holmes.

In the early 20's, Miss Roland retired from the screen to devote her entire time to her extensive real estate holdings, consisting principally of business lots in the Wilshire-Fairfax district here. She is said to have invested her motion picture earnings in property and at one time she reputedly had property worth three and a half million dollars.

Teachers Are Told Of Retirement Act

Approximately 200 teachers and school officials of Lubbock county and adjoining counties heard K. E. Davis of Austin, chief clerk of the Texas Teacher Retirement system, explain details of the system in an address Wednesday night in the auditorium of the Senior High school.

He answered questions asked by attendants after he had concluded his address.

Invitations had been extended to teachers of this county and neighboring counties by Dan W. Powers, dean of boys at Senior High school, and Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent of instruction.

Davis is making a speaking tour of most of the state explaining details and operation of the teacher retirement plan.

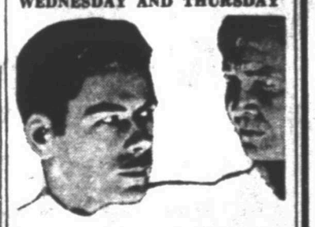

The greatest number of tropical storms in the Gulf of Mexico, the Carribean sea and the Atlantic ocean recorded for any one year was 21 in 1933. The lightest hurricane year was 1890 with only one.

Littlefield Fair To Open Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 22.—Everything was set tonight for a second annual Lamb County fair which is to open here Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Congressman George Mahon of Colorado will cut ribbons to the fairgrounds.

Exhibits were being placed today and will be finished Thursday morning. Agricultural exhibits, vocational agriculture work and women's work will be shown.

Curley Daugherty of Olton will present a rodeo near the fairgrounds. One performance will be given daily Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Congressman Mahon said he wanted to talk to farmers of their problems. He also will attend a dinner to be given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McQuatters, winners of the Progressive Farmer master farmer contest. District agent leader K. J. Edwards is to attend, as well as Miss Lida Cooper, home demonstration agent leader.

J. H. FONVILLE DIES

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 22. (AP)—J. H. Fonville, salesman and a brother of Mayor R. H. Fonville of Houston, died here shortly before noon of a heart attack. He was taken to a local hospital and placed under an oxygen tent, but failed to regain consciousness. Mayor Fonville was reported on his way here from Houston.

Sand Dune Is Creeping Toward Rancher's Home But He's Not Alarmed; It Shifts Constantly

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Sept. 22. (AP)—Shifting sand, an oval dune 100 feet high and one-eighth of a mile across, crept slowly today toward the farm home of Vernon Curtis but the rancher declined to become alarmed.

"That sand dune," Curtis' neighbor, J. C. Arave, explained, "has been moving before the prevailing winds for years, but since 1885, at least, it has been content to travel back and forth on a quarter-mile course, going occasionally 100 yards to the right or left."

"In 40 years,' continued Arave, "that pile of sand has caused the moving of 50 fences and has forced the county commissioners to buy new rights of way for the road six times."

Church Session Is Held Here

Questions which will come up for discussion at the general convention at Cincinnati Oct. 6 to Oct. 30 of the Protestant Episcopal church were treated in an all-day meeting Wednesday here of members of the church's executive committee for this area said Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo who was in charge.

The session opened at 10 o'clock that morning with a devotional under direction of Bishop Seaman and Rev. J. Hodge Alves, pastor of the St. Paul's-on-the-Plains church here. A discussion of the problems to be dealt with at the general convention continued until noon. Questions discussed were: missionary program of the church; election of a presiding bishop; marriage and divorce; and possibility of moving the church's headquarters from New York to another place.

Lunch Served At Hall

Lunch was served at Seaman hall at noon by members of the women's auxiliary of the church here. Wives of the visiting clergymen and Miss Helen Lyles of Canyon, educational secretary for the district, were guests.

Delegates to the general convention other than Bishop Seaman, are Rev. W. P. Earhart of Abilene and Rev. Thomas R. Smith of Colorado.

Opportunities for the church in this district was the theme of the discussion in the afternoon conference. At 4:30 was a meeting of the department of religious education. The group voted to ask the national council to send a missionary here for lectures relative to the missionary program. They voted to ask specifically for Azariah of India, a former Hindu.

Dinner last night was served at the hall by the auxiliary. A business session of the executive committee was held to make plans for the annual convocation in January in Abilene and to prepare a tentative budget for mission work.

Castle Mains, on the outskirts of Glasgow, with its 14th century keep, six-foot walls and dungeon, is being prepared as a holiday camp for the city's Boy Scouts.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. To take those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Entirely vegetable and thrifty also. 25c.

Melton In Fine Fettle To Turn Back Chicago

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Young Cliff Melton, the junior southpaw member of the New York Giants' pitching staff, fashioned a handsome six-hit, 6 to 0 shutout today over the Chicago Cubs to all but smother Chicago National league pennant hopes.

Before the biggest crowd of the Cubs' home season, 41,875, the lanky left-hander checked in a superb performance — a job which outshined everything New York lost yesterday in losing the first game of the critical series.

Slam Cub Hurling

It restored the Giants' 2 1-2 game margin over the desperate Cubs, and spared Col. William Terry's defending champions of finishing the all-important series in possession of the league leadership. The final game of the set will be played today with Hal Schumacher, big left right hander, opposing Curt Davis.

While Melton was moving smoothly to his 18th victory of the campaign, nits raked three Cub hurlers, Tex Carleton, Clay Bryant and Rookie Clyde Shoup Bob Logan, for 13 hits, all singles except a double apiece by Joe Moore and Dick Bartell.

Two Reach Second

Johnny McCarthy led the Giant attack with four singles, three of which played parts in New York scoring innings.

Melton did not permit a Cub to reach first base during the first four innings, and only two got as far as second all afternoon.

Frosh Ready For Wesley Tussle

(Special To The Avalanche)

GREENVILLE, Sept. 22. — Texas Tech's Freshman aerialists, looking more like behemoths than flippers of the pigskin, arrived here tonight to rest preparatory to their engagement with the Wesley college Golden Panthers Thursday night.

The squad, composed of 29 players and two coaches, arrived too late for a workout, but planned to go through their paces briefly Thursday morning. All members of the squad were reported in splendid condition for the fray.

Wesley Fears Frosh

Local grid fans have heard much of the prowess of the Tech freshmen, whom they have been told constitute the best frosh unit in the history of the West Texas institution. The Panthers boast their strongest eleven in years, but they have little hope of emerging victorious from their clash with the pachyderms from Lubbock.

Coach Nick Dobbs has high hopes for his eleven in a conference way this year. In fact, in a recent scrimmage at Commerce, his boys battled the strong East Texas varsity all over the field. But there's quite a lot of difference in the standards of the teachers colleges and Tech, so Wesley draws the under-dog role by a wide margin in Thursday night's setto.

All members of the Tech squad were reported by Coach Berl Huffman to be ready to go. The team was quartered in one of the dormitories at Wesley for the night.

District 4B Lifts Its Conference Curtain

Conference games are on tap for four high schools in District 4, Class B this week. Silverton invades Motley county to battle Matador, and Quitaque is host to Estelline. Games to date have been non-conference affairs.

Four teams from the league romped over inter-district and Class C opposition last week. Coach Blackie Wadzeck's Spur eleven tumbled Rotan, 50 to 0. Paducah beat Chillicothe, 25-0, and Silverton overwhelmed the Class C Roaring Springs team, 39 to 0. Floydada defeated Slaton's B squad, 14 to 6.

Flomot, defending titlists of the loop saw White Deer run over the Longhorns for a 70-0 triumph. Turkey bowed to Tulia, and Matador lost to Tulia, both by topheavy counts.

Spur is home to the Lubbock High Cowhands. Turkey faces Roaring Springs, and Floydada steps into Class A competition against Plainview.

Paducah, Flomot and Lockney have open dates.

Golfers Mangle Par In Rich Tournament

BELMONT, Mass., Sept. 22. (AP) — Jimmy Thomson, the blond bomber of golf, whaled the ball far over Belmont's long, difficult course today and, whipping out its 14-year-old competitive record, gained a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole qualifying play of the $12,000 open match play tournament with a three under par 68.

A bulky field of 221 started, the largest that has competed on a single course this season.

Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., Dick Metz of Chicago, and Slammin' Sam Snead, the last-named one of the favorites, took a stroke off the 6517-yard layout's par 71 to finish in a second place tie.

New York Beats Browns Twice To Cinch Tie

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — By sweeping their double-header with the St. Louis Browns today behind fine pitching performances by Monte Pearson and Kemp Wicker, the Yankees virtually clinched their second successive American league pennant.

Even if the second-place Detroit Tigers should win all of their remaining eleven games while the Yanks were losing all twelve of theirs, the best the Tigers could get would be a tie.

Pearson today held the last-place Browns to seven hits for a 4-1 victory in the opening game, while Wicker, winning his sixth decision of the year, shut them out with a similar number as the Yanks pounded out fifteen safeties for an 11-0 triumph in the nightcap.

Littlefield Opens Crown Defense

Littlefield High school, defending champs of District 5, Class B, starts defense of that title Friday in its first game of the season by engaging the Tahoka Bulldogs on the latter's lot.

Games this week indicate several teams will contest to the last whistle the Wildcats' right to a successive triumph.

Slaton Meets Lubbock

Three other conference battles will be played in this district, with Slaton stepping out against Class A competition. The Tigers face Lubbock Friday night.

Olton's fighting but luckless Steers invade Lamesa to try for their first win after two defeats. The Golden Tornadoes impressed with a 19-0 licking of Anson last week.

Ralls Vs. Brownfield

Post and Levelland battle under the lights in the Loboes' newly dedicated bowl Friday night. Post held the Crosbyton Chiefs to a 6-6 draw at Crosbyton Friday, but saw the game go to the homelings on penetrations. Coach Bill Stevens' Lobo crew took the measure of Olton.

The Jackrabbits of Ralls meet Brownfield in the former's first conference encounter Friday afternoon. The Bostmen scored a 19 to 0 victory over Tahoka last week. Crosbyton is idle this week.

Texas Tech And Westerners Preparing For Hard Games This Week; Raiders Entrain For Austin Late Tonight

The weatherman took a hand in yesterday's local football workouts, interfering with plans for lengthy drills both at Tech Stadium and the high school practice field. Disgruntled coaches took their charges in out of the wet and, for the Red Raiders at least, it became a blackboard and chart drill.

Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith herd the Red Raiders aboard a special railroad car and accompany them eastward and southward to Austin, where they are dated up for a scrimmage with University of Texas Saturday afternoon.

LONGHORN SPECIAL

A special train will be run to Austin for the University of Texas-Texas Tech game. Bo Williams, graduate manager of athletics at Tech, said 319 tickets had been sold at 8:30 last night. Three hundred were required to assure a special.

Those who have not bought tickets have only until 9 o'clock this morning to do so. Townspeople wishing ducats for the game must get them today, Williams said.

Chapman Is Cautious

The Westerners—and they're the friskiest gang of Lubbock High gridders this side of 1931—bolted to the dressing room to shed wet clothes after "taking" the downpour. "We don't want anybody turning up with sore throats, or worse, and blaming it on football workouts," said Coach Chapman, who is a trifle worried about Friday night's game here with the Slaton Tigers. He knows that the Tigers, runners up in District 5-B last year, will be shooting both barrels, and he wonders if his boys will be able to take it. Chapman does not anticipate defeat, but he knows the Westerners are up against one of those things.

Lubbock and Slaton used to be very hot rivals, for Lubbock county championships, and it wouldn't take much to set off the old fire. His warning to the Westerners is: Be careful!

Only Game Here

Last week's 40-0 victory over Cisco, Chapman contends, should not be considered a criterion of the club's real power under fire. Slaton, without a doubt, will give the Westerners much more trouble than did the Loboes of Cisco. The game, Friday night at 8:15 o'clock, will draw most of Slaton's population, and to balance it the plea is out for a good local turnout. It's the only grid game in the city limits this weekend.

Head Coach Cawthon of Tech said yesterday he would take his entire squad to Austin—all of 37 of 'em—for this, the second game on the 1937 card. He also said there might be a change or two in the starting lineup, with Gene Barnett, the passer proficient, either starting or dividing a lot of time with Allan Plummer, plunging and passing halfback. Buzz Barnard, who looked good running and shagging passes last week, or as good as anybody else, will alternate with Elmer Tarbox at fullback. And Raymond Curfman showed enough stuff at quarterback to put him almost on a par with Ed Smith. They'll take it turn about. Charley Calhoun, probably the club's best punter, is practically a cinch for the other job

Tech Line Intact

Coach Smith indicates no change in his line that started last week, but admits that "Mayor" Webb looked good at end, and that Rex Williams, another sophomore, is a nice looking center.

The club leaves tonight on the regular train, at 10:10, and will breakfast in Dallas. It'll continue to Austin in time for a workout in a secluded spot Friday afternoon.

Weber Pins Back Persian's Ears In 2 Straight Falls

Vic Weber, after months of fooling around in the local ring, put his best foot forward and his shoulder to the wheel last night to quell a Persian uprising in two straight, short, definite battles.

The New York Dutchman, capable of giving any middleweight a scrap from gong to gong, wasted little time last night with Sheik Ben Ali Mar Allah. He required less than 20 minutes to win the first fall, less than 15 for the second. And that's as long as it lasted.

Shakes Crab Hold

The Sheik, fancy-stepping, fast and impressive in his brilliant black facial hirsuite, thought he had the second fall won when he snapped on a Japanese crab, but Weber, using his head and getting cheered for it, crawled to the ropes. As he came back in, the Sheik knelt in prayer and petition; he came up from the "oh, Allah" position with Vic's legs in his grasp, flipped him over and again applied the crab hold. But Vic arched his back, sat down heavily on the Sheik's chest, and Referee Train Clements counted three.

Vic had won the first fall with a surfboard, Mar Allah's chin digging the canvas.

They fought fairly clean, wrestled ruggedly, for the first fifteen minutes. Then they started swapping punches, and Weber was most adept in this game. He proved it again in the second fall.

Freeman Misses Tackle

Only a half-houseful saw last night's four-ring show. The preliminary went to Bob Cummings, the California cowboy, who pinned Ace Freeman, New York Hebrew, in 12 minutes with a crotch and body slam and smother. It was a busy 12 minutes for both; they wrestled hard and fast. Freeman's defeat was preceded, and augmented, by a plunge through the ropes and on to the floor beneath when he missed a hard flying tackle. He was slow to re-enter the ring. When he did, Cummings was ready, and it was over.

Buck Lipscomb met his equal, if not his master, last night when he tangled with big Bill Cazzell of Amarillo in the special event. Cazzell tried to wrestle, gave it up, and started swinging rights and lefts, so swiftly and so bunched up that Lipscomb was at a distinct loss. He was blasted from the ring twice, once rolling out after Cazzell had spun him in the longest airplane spin on record here. He was coming back, but Cazzell was spinning, too, and unable to follow through. But for 20 minutes, Cazzell gave Lipscomb a good spanking, lacking only the finishing touch. It was a draw.

First Match Drawn

Don Rainier and John Nemanic battled to a draw in the semi-final, and for the first time here Rainier, the Florida Flash, showed weaknesses. The Denver man tried to be tough, didn't know how, but he fooled Rainier into thinking he was tough. Don showed extreme dumbness in not following up his opportunities while Nemanic stumbled around the ring, and it ended in a draw.

Coal and coke production in the United States dropped about 30 per cent from 1920 to 1935.

Hubbers To Face Coahoma Oilers

After all but stowing their uniforms in moth balls for the winter, the Hubbers went out to Parris field Sunday and won a ball game. What's more they will attempt to repeat this coming Sabbath.

The Sinclair Oilers from down Coahoma way will furnish the opposition, and their pitcher will be no stranger to the local ball hawks since Lefty Beard will chunk. Beard held the Hubbers in check well enough save for one inning last week, to lose a 2-0 heartbreaker.

Others To Return

A few other Forsan helpmates of Beard will also make the return journey. Manager Wallace Pulgar, who once had a fling in Class C baseball somewhere in the canebreaks of Louisiana, will probably come back with the Sinclairs.

Likewise, Tommy Hutto, Newt Baker, Paul Johnson, and Burl Loper are members of the Sinclair team, being "borrowed" by Forsan for its appearance here. Hutto will play second base unless Pulgar does not see fit to come, in which case Hutto will cover first base.

Aubrey Harlow, hot corner custodian, for the Oilers in the prize of the lot, according to advance dope. He is a lusty hitter and covers the third sack like a veteran.

As for the Hubbers, the great Lefty Blanchart, hero of a no-run, no-hitter, homeruns of his own, and "goose eggs" when facing unorthodox twirlers, is slated to take his customary place atop the mound. Manager Jack Thompson has indicated no changes in the line-up that functioned so well last Sunday.

Mrs. Glenn Smith Wins Top Honors At "Ladies Day"

Mrs. Glenn Smith won first prize in the ladies day golf festivities at Lubbock Country club yesterday, defeating nine other players in a special nine-hole medal play, handicap affair.

Matches were started in the "get your goat" tournament a perpetual event similar to the "ladder" tournaments. In first round matches, Mrs. Smith defeated Mrs. W. F. Helwig; Mrs. Cliff Dean won from Mrs. Charles Akey; Mrs. C. E. Dean defeated Mrs. E. A. Henry, and Mrs. J. H. Stiles won from Mrs. Ford Benham.

Bible Drills Team Against Tech Plays For Saturday

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. (AP)—Brisk offensive and defensive scrimmage against Texas Tech plays today featured the University of Texas grid squad's drills.

Coach D. X. Bible also kept a group busy at man-to-man tackling in preparation for the Longhorns' season opener here Saturday.

Bible yould not name his starting lineup and guessers shifted their predictions to a backfield composed of Mittermayer, Atchison, Wolfe and Gray, due to that grouping in division of teams.

Cats Make It 2 Straight Over Sooner Tribe

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22. — The Fort Worth Cats staged a four-run rally in the ninth inning to whip the Oklahoma City Indians 10 to 6 here tonight and move into a two-up lead in the final Shaughnessey playoff series for the Texas League championship.

The Panthers leaped on four Oklahoma City pitchers for 14 hits, but is was Ash Hillin who had to take the blame again.

The right hander who was voted the league's most valuable player this season after he set a modern Texas League pitching record with 31 victories, went into the game in the fifth inning and was the victim of the Cats' vicious last-inning assault.

Hillin also lost the opener last night.

After driving Paul LeBlanc from the mound in the fifth, the Indians held onto a 6 to 4 advantage until the Cats knotted the score with two runs in the eighth.

Budge, German Hard Pressed In Tourney

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22. (AP) — Don Budge of America and Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany overcame powerful opposition today in their drive toward the finals of men's singles of the Pacific Southwest tennis championship.

The California red head defeated Jiro Yamagishi of Japan, 8-6 6-3, to reach the semi-final round.

Von Cramm found a tougher opponent in defeating Francis X. Shields of Hollywood and was pressed to win in three sets, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. Shields played as brilliantly as he did when a member of the United States Davis Cup team.

Budge beat his doubles partner, Gene Mako, in the semi-finals, Mako having won an unexpected victory from John Van Ryn of Austin, Texas, 6-2, 8-10, 6-2.

Purchasing Power Of U. S. Farmer Has Climbed Back To Pre-Depression Levels

Prices Factor In Fixing Standing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — Purchasing power of farmers this year has climbed to the levels held just before the depression, federal economists reported today.

They rated the 1937 farm buying power at 103 per cent, compared with an average of 100 for the 1924-29 period. The 104 per cent for 1929 was the highest farm purchasing power in 14 years.

What Dollars Will Buy

This year's rating, the economists said, is made on the theory that the important factor of income is not how many dollars are taken in, but what those dollars will buy.

Cash farm income for 1937 is estimated at $9,000,000,000 from marketing of cotton, wheat, corn, livestock and other crops plus government payments of about $450,000,000.

This is considerably below the $10,479,000,000 income in 1929 and an average of more than $10,000,000,000 for the 1924-29 era.

Offsetting this, the economists said, is a lower level of prices of things which the farmer buys. They estimated this at 14 per cent below pre-depression levels.

Indictments For Counterfeiting

Nine persons, seven of them charged in connection with an alleged counterfeit ring smashed in June, were named defendants in three indictments returned by a United States district court grand jury at Amarillo, said Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner.

Charges in both counts of the indictment alleging counterfeit ring association were William T. Sessums, Mrs. Grace Sessums, Robert Southard, Thomas Walton Kirk, and Otis Franklin, all of Lubbock, Robert T. Wood of Hereford, and a Mexican who has not been arrested.

Bills Received Wednesday

Bills were received here Wednesday after they had been reported Sept. 16.

The first count charges conspiring and agreeing to bring into the United States and to have in their possession and to "pass, utter, publish and sell falsely made, forged and counterfeited federal reserve notes of denominations of $20." The second count set out the same seven persons "did keep in possession with intent to pass 25 forged and counterfeited $20 federal reserve notes.'

The indictement set out the alleged ring was in operation from June 2 to June 22.

Sessums Out On Bond

Sessums had been released on $5,000 bond and Mrs. Sessums on her own recognizance. Southard last month was freed on $1,500 bond. Wood and Kirk are in Nolan county jail at Sweetwater and Harvey is in jail either at Fort Worth or Dallas, the commissioner said.

Cases against them are subject to trial in the December term of federal court here, attaches of the court said.

Paid $195 For Notes

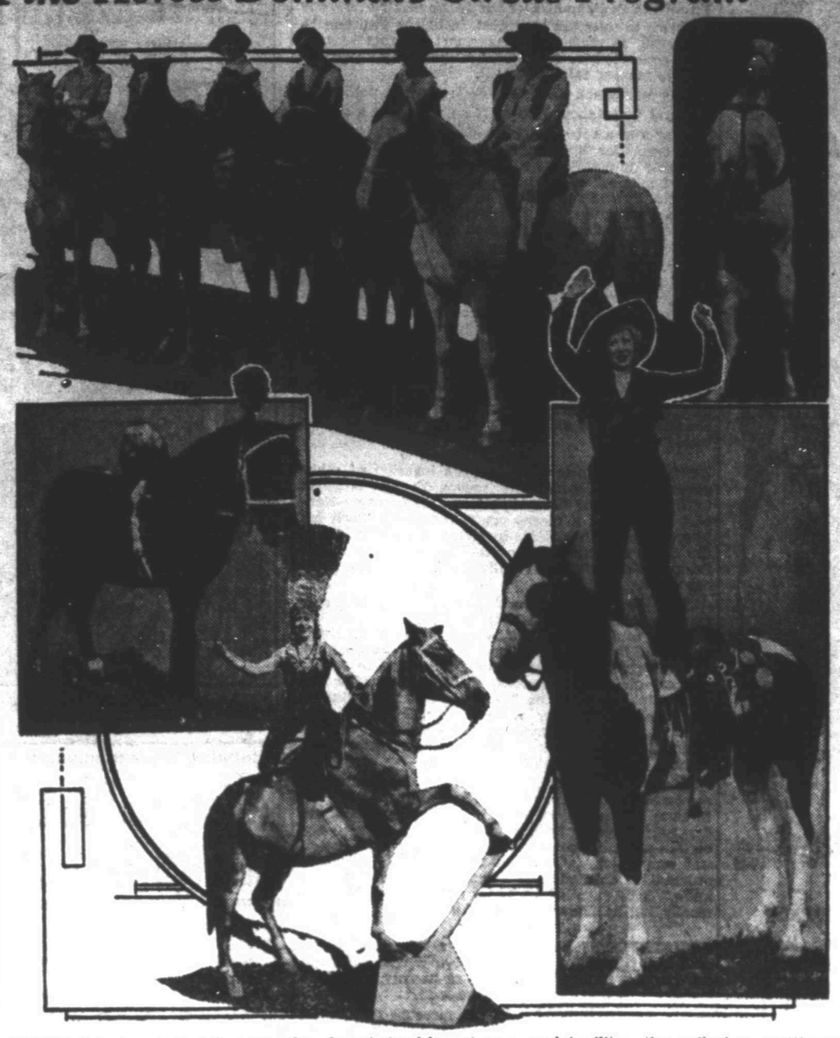

The indictment alleged Mr. and Mrs. Sessums and Wood contacted the Mexican named in the charge at Juarez June 5 and on the same day the Mexican gave to Sessums 25 $20 notes in exchange for $195. It further set out Mr. and Mrs. Sessums and Wood imported the notes to the United States.

The charge set out that on June 8 Sessums agreed with Kirk, Southard and Harvey to have the notes passed and that Kirk, Southard and Harvey passed several in San Angelo that day.

The case was investigated and the alleged ring smashed by Tom Hanson, U. S. secret service agent, members of the Lubbock county sheriff's department, law enforcement officers at El Paso, and other authorities.

An indictment was returned against H. J. Gentry alleging violation of federal liquor laws. He is under $500 bond, officers said. A Crosby county woman who had not been arrested also was named defendant in an indictment charging in four counts violation of U. S. prohibition laws.

Fine Horses Dominate Circus Program

Motorized transportation has replaced horses to such an extent that in many localities the horse has actually become a curiosity. Even on the modern circus, the multiple teams of draft horses once needed to haul the heavy show paraphernalia have given way to quicker, more efficient modes of transit. But in the actual circus performance fine horses are more than ever an indispensible factor. Indeed, the horse's standing as a show animal has been materially enhanced by the horse's banishment as a work animal.

Russell Bros. Circus, coming to the Panhandle-South Plain fair Monday and Tuesday takes great pride in the equestrianism of its program.

Sleek thoroughbred, many-gaited, dancing, prancing "high-school" horses; handsome, intelligent "liberty" horses moving gracefully without riders through intricate paces; the faultlessly groomed, broad-beamed "rosin-backs" upon which acrobatic riders cavort with elfin agility; the galloping, mettlesome "pintos" and "paints" with which roughriders and Indians keep alive the vigorous sports of the old West . . . All these will be seen with the Russell Bros. Circus, not to mention capricious trick mules and cunning little ponies performing their drills with military precision or racing with tiny monkeys as jockeys.

Take away all else from the circus, leave only the horses, and still you will have an exhibition to stir the very soul.

Louisiana, Kentucky Governors Are On Vacation In Mexico

LAREDO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Governors Richard Leche of Louisiana and A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, sporting broad-brimmed Stetsons and light khaki clothes, crossed the border into Mexico today. They said their vacation in Mexico City would be of indefinite duration. With them were Seymour Weiss, New Orleans and Judge J. Dan Talbat, finance commissioner of Kentucky.

The tiny Republic of San Marino in Italy claims to be the oldest state in Europe, tracing its independent existence back to the fourth century, A. D.

Lodge Ceremony To Be Tonight

Yellowhouse lodge number 841 A. F. & A. M. will confer a fellowcraft degree on one or more candidates in a ceremony at 8 o'clock tonight, according to announcement Wednesday by Guy Casey, worshipful master.

All fellowcraft and master Masons are invited, Casey said.

One of the most unique and colorful ceremonies ever to be held by the lodge here will be at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night at the lodge hall, Masons said. It will be the conferring of a musical master's degree on one candidate and will be the first ceremony of that sort ever staged here. An Abilene team will be in charge of the affair.

Master Masons Invited

All master Masons from lodges at Abilene, Amarillo, Abernathy, Anton, Crosbyton, Levelland, Littlefield, Lamesa, Tahoka, Floydada, Morton, O'Donnell, Southland, Brownfield, Slaton, Ralls, Lorenzo, Idalou, Colorado, and other towns have been invited to attend the ceremony.

"We do not want any lodge to stay away from the ceremony simply because it has not received an invitation," the worshipful master said. "We want all master Masons."

Jones To Give Lecture

Casey asked that the lodge here be notified by other lodges the approximate number to expect from their respective organizations.

Earl Jones will deliver the lecture. He is a committee on work from the Grand Lodge and his membership is here. He lives at Amarillo.

Casey asked that he be contacted at 2201 Nineteenth street or at the Masonic hall or by telephone numbers 1271 or 63, he said, by persons expecting to attend.

"We are expecting one of the largest and best meetings ever held by thes Blue Lodge," he said.

TO EXCHANGE POSTS

EAGLE PASS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Mexican consuls at Eagle Pass and Brownsville will exchange posts Oct. 1.

Consul Lauro Isaguirre has been notified he will go to Brownsville. Consul Francisco Polin Tapia of Brownsville will come here.

'Cavalcade' Is To Be Closed Sunday

DALLAS, Sept. 22. (AP)—The Pan American exposition's popular "Cavalcade of the Americas" will be closed Sunday Sept. 26, directors decided today.

They announced that all who so desired had had an opportunity to witness the spectacle and that cooler weather probably would cut attendance. Since July 19 it has operated as a free attraction. Last year the Cavalcade was on the exposition's most popular offerings.

Operating costs of the current show are $1,000 daily, directors revealed.

Judge Joel R. Bond Appointed Chief Justice Of Fifth Court

DALLAS, Sept. 22. (AP) — Judge Joel R. Bond, associate justice of the court of civil appeals here, today accepted an appointment as chief justice of the court to succeed Judge Ben L. Jones, who died Sept. 11.

The appointment was offered by Governor James V. Allred in a telegram this morning, and Judge Bond immediately wired acceptance. He was in his first term as associate justice.

Judge Bond's elevation still left a vacancy on the court.

Don't Overlook The Exhibits!

FROM all indications the big "punkin show" that is due to run on East Broadway all next week will, among other things, present the finest livestock and agricultural exhibits in all the 24 years of the exposition's history.

That's sumpin'!

While the Panhandle-South Plains fair always has—and this year will continue to have—departments where all may have fun and a "big time," it is good to remember that the real reason for the fair is to show each other, as well as our outside visitors, the things that can be raised either directly or indirectly from the soil of a far-flung, fruitful agricultural empire.

We have no crow to pick with fair entertainment. We enjoy it as much as anyone and we realize fully well that a perfectly rounded exposition must have plenty of fun-making facilities.

But let us not forget next week, when we wend our way to the 24th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair, that this country is builded first upon agriculture, stock raising and kindred lines and the fair is the one great opportunity of the year to show off the fruits of our labors.

See all the exhibits at the fair as well as enjoy yourself in the fun-making departments!

Let England Keep Her Actors

THE Digest, the recent incorporation of the defunct Literary Digest and Review of Reviews, recently reprinted from "Current History" an article setting forth the likes and dislikes of English moviegoers. Charlie Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, James Cagney and Ralph Lynn—whoever he is—are the most unpopular American males appearing in British pictures. Greta Garbo, Katherine Hepburn, Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett and Bette Davis are the most unpopular females.

While The Morning Avalanche doesn't give a hoot about the likes and dislikes of English cinema addicts, it occurs to us that practically all the English actors cluttering up American films are disliked by a large majority of American movie fans. Puffed up like stuffed turkeys in the typical British manner, the lads and lassies who insist upon pronouncing "been" as "bean," and who further continue to talk like they have a mouthful of hot mush, give us a big pain.

As far as we are concerned, we'd be glad to have all our American stars come home and stay out of British pictures if, in return, Hollywood will send all her British imports back to Mayfair.

Now They March For Peace!

HIDDEN deep in a particularly well written Associated Press story describing the New York parade of American legionnaires, and appearing in yesterday's Avalanche, was poignant statement which we hope no reader overlooked. It was:

"The memories of the greatest war ever to ravage mankind were stirred again—but these men (the conventioning legionnaires) marched for peace."

Let us hope so.

Let us hope they always will march for peace, even when the bands play "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli" and all those other spine-tingling battle hymns.

With Our Contemporaries

"The interscholastic league rules and regulations have been made after years of experiment," Jimmie Rankin, a district Class B chairman, notes in the Ralls Banner.

"The Lubbock Avalanche hit the nail on the head when they said 'Hurrah' to the president for declaring that the Americans who stay in China will do so at their own risk," A. E. Richards says in the Meadow Star.

"Another thing which would stop all wars would be the confiscation of all property as well as lives," A. E. Richards observes in the Ropes Plainsman.

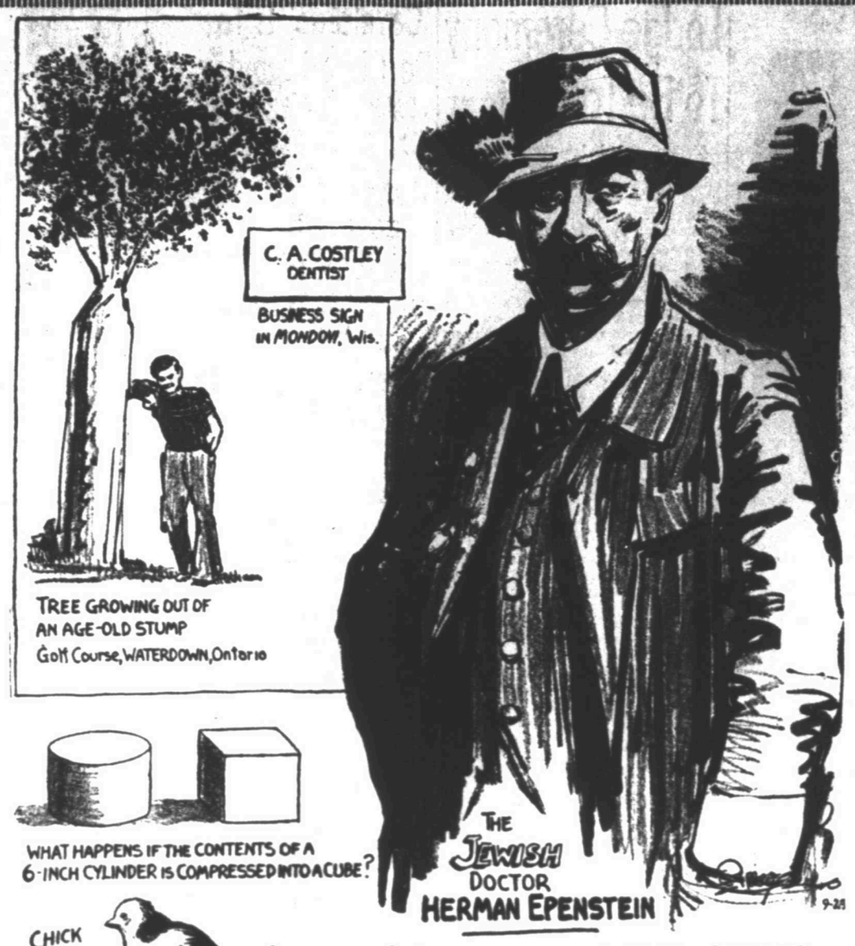

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye shall therefore keep all my statutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, spew you not out.

And ye shall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I cast out before you: for they committed all these things, and therefore I abhorred them.

But I have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the Lord your God, which have separated you from other people.—Leviticus, XXI, 22 through 24.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE STRANGEST CASE OF FILIAL GRATITUDE

Thirty years ago a Jewish physician and philanthropist had pity upon an orphan. He adopted the waif, lavished love and affection upon him, gave him an education and raised him to a position of prominence. The name of the physician was Dr. Herman von Epenstein, resident of Mauterndorf near Innsbruck, Austria. The adopted son of the Jewish physician is now one of the world's bitterest anti-Semites. He is none other than Herman Goering, Prime Minister of Prussia and the right hand man number 2 man of the Nazi Empire. Strangely enough the relations between adopted father and son have continued cordial even after Goering became Hitler's right hand man.

Murder On The Bluff... By Esther Tyler

SYNOPSIS: Jude Blinshop, my old flame, is mysteriously shot to death. That starts our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. A series of strange attacks occurs. Then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, then nearly finished with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears and we search for her frantically. Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, suspect Higgins, the old butler. William tells me why.

Chapter 42

WE LOCK UP HIGGINS

A sound from the stair railing grated on our ears, spinning us all about simultaneously. Higgins, fully dressed, stood on the landing, staring down at us. How long he had been there, we had no way of knowing. It is one thing to confront murderous fiends in tabloid headlines, but it is quite another to stand face to face with one in the form of an old family servant whom you have known for a good part of your life. My lips were dry as I slipped the key case into my pocket.

"Hello, Higgins," I said. "Come on down. We were just talking about you."

The silence got under my skin. I waited for the man to answer, for Cook to explode, for Annie to scream. Nothing happened. For a space of fully 15 seconds we stood there while the old man studied our faces.

"Were you, sir I can't seem to sleep and I though I would make myself a pot of coffee."

He came down the stairs slowly, as deliberately as he had ever descended them in his life. Habit is certainly a powerful factor. If ever I had wanted to collar a man, Higgins was that man. And yet — I couldn't.

I said casually, "Sure. Make enough for the rest of us. I guess we can stand it."

No one spoke. We sat there and watched him measure out coffee, pour in water, and set the pot on th stove. He turned from the operation, smiling.

"I'm glad it's nearly over, Mr. Jimmie. There will be a boat here by morning, see if there isn't."

I could do nothing but murmur, "Yes."

He was guilty. I was sure of it. But sitting there looking at him I couldn't see myself telling him so. I cleared my throat.

"Higgins," I said, "you've lied to me on every single question I've asked you—haven't you?"

For one fraction of a second the eyes turned toward me were the sick, tired eyes of a very old man. In the next instant they were veiled and calculating.

"What gives you that impression, sir?"

I stood up. "You were seen out of your room on the night when Miss Blinshop was killed. You were seen going into your room fully dressed just before Mr. Michael called you and reappearing as if you had been asleep a moment later. You own the only gun in the house. You were seen coming down the stairs immediately before we discovered the injured cat, when you swore that you had been in the next room. You were on hand when Miss Farrington was wounded. You even tried to get my fingerprints on the revolver. William and I are going to lock you in your room. You will be kept there until the police arrive."

Those strange eyes never once left my face, not even after I had completed my distasteful task.

Making A Mistake?

"Mr. Jimmie," he said very quietly, "you've known me for a long time. Do you believe what you are saying?"

"I'm sorry, Higgins, Yes."

A ghost of a smile crossed his face. "I see," he said. "Do you object to my having my coffee before you lock me up?"

"Don't take no chances with him," cautioned William.

And so we sat there waiting for that coffee, waiting to be served by a man whom we intended to deliver into the hands of the law to lose his life. I was too busy with my own feelings to notice particularly what went on in that room. Once or twice the clumsy shuffling of Cook's feet penetrated my consciousness, but that was all. I doubt if any coffee on the face of the earth ever took as long to boil as that did.

At last Higgins moved to the closet and set out five cups and saucers. Cook stood grimly over him while he poured, her mind running. I imagine, to all the varieties of poison that could be dropped into those cups. My own mind was too full of all the other cups Higgins had handed me—of all the decent little favors he had done me. I choked trying to drink the stuff. Higgins drank his calmly and set the cup down.

"I'm quite ready, Mr. Wells," he said.

But I wasn't. Suddenly, strangely, I felt that I was making a great mistake. Where and how, I could not see, but I was sure that I was making one. I had a strong conviction that if Higgins were guilty, he would never have taken the accusation as he had. If Higgins had done all the things we had imagined his doing, Higgins was insane, for he was without a conceivable motive. And an insane man, confronted with captivity, is not usually as placid as he was. At least, I didn't think so. It was a straw, but I grasped at it frantically.

"Higgins," I said, "haven't you anything to say to defend yourself?"

"Not a thing sir."

William and I took him upstairs. It was consistent with my general stupidity that, although I had many qualms about his guilt, I no sooner slipped the key of his locked door into my pocket than I regarded the entire episode as closed. It was all over. And now—what?

William stirred uneasily at my elbow, "I feel like a rat, sir. He's an awful old man."

I wanted to get away from William.

Without replying I made off down the corridor to the main hall. Lights still glared there, and I could hear the intermittent murmur of voices in M. Farrington's room. I knew that I should go in there and tell them what had happened. I knew that they were in all probability working themselves into a fine frenzy waiting for me. But I was in no mood to face M. Farrington—or even Michael.

The Case Against Higgins

I went downstairs into the cold, deserted library, where I made a fire, helped myself to a stiff drink and sat down to think. For the most part I was concerned with the whereabouts of the Skipper. That Higgins in his right mind would in any way injure the Skipper seemed to me out of the question. And I could not convince myself that Higgins was not in his right mind.

I went over and over the question. I took another drink and then another. I threw myself down at the desk and tried to write. The feel of a pen in my hand was comfortingly familiar. More to quiet my nerves than in hopes of proving anything, I set to work.

HIGGINS

Knew of the presence of Norman Farrington. Whereabouts at the time of the death of Jude suspicious. Easy to imagine him in the confidence of every single person molested to date—Jude, Norman Farrington, M. Farrington, and the Skipper. Seen upstairs when the cat was killed and the room torn up. Lied about it afterward.

Only person who might have removed letters from William's room. Witness for his alibi on the shooting of M. Farrington (Skipper) missing. Obtained something from drug store. Poison? Started to tell me something. A confession? Tried to get my fingerprints on the gun used on M. Farrington. Carried keys to every room in the house.

Note: Standing at my own elbow when Cook was attacked. Locked in room with others when William and I were attacked. Has seemed afraid of something from the beginning. Seems relieved to be locked up. Motive inconceivable.

Pausing for a cigarette, I surveyed my results. A pretty disorderly mess. Well, it could be straightened out later. At least my nerves were steadying down.

WILLIAM

Convicted of felony. Served full term in spite of interst of Mr. Blinshop. Seems to indicate that no vindicating evidence has yet been found. Knew the Blinshops. Only person with conceivable motive—revenge. Only person to give evidence against Higgins. Substantiation of all his evidence comes from his wife and Cook, who are clever enough to have fooled the household over a long period of time.

Knew of Higgins' gun and admits to being a good shot. Alibi covering killing of cat and braining of wife and Cook questionable. Proof of whereabouts during death of Jude again rests on those two. Found Jude's body. Might have dealt with me in his room. Might have planted and removed letters to cast—suspicion elsewhere. Suggested the locking of upstairs rooms. May have seen Norman Farrington when Michael saw him. Servant's gossip from the Blinshops' might have told him who Norman was. Might have had Higgins suspecting him.

Strong enough to have overpowered both the Skipper and her brother. Seems well versed in drugs. Admits going to drug store. Note: Was injured when I was. (Might have thrown himself down the stairs.) Did revive M. Farrington. Admits locking us in cellar.

I placed the two lists side by side and considered them with unabashed delight. It seemed to me that the case against William overshadowed the case against Higgins.

Tomorrow, I check the cases against Mike, Gay, Cook, Annie and M. Farrington.

The stings of bees, if sufficiently numerous, often are fatal.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

In all the excitement over the Black affair everybody seems to miss the key point, including Franklin D. Roosevelt. It may block the smart stratagems now being concocted for forcing his resignation and restoring the masses' faith in F.D.R.

The anti-Black claque-editors, reporters, politicos—talk and write about him as if he were still a simple Senator and a vote-snatching officeholder. They show no respect for his ermine. Even the Republicans strangely forget that he is a signed, sealed and delivered member of the honorable tribunal they strove so valiantly and successfully to safeguard against executive domination. Mr. Roosevelt intends to play the part of a "Dutch uncle" when the prodigal steps ashore.

Mr. Black, however, was always one to take seriously the trappings of public office, and he hasn't changed overnight. Mr. Roosevelt has no more right to escort the new associate justice to the White House woodshed than he has to discipline or crossexamine Mr. Hughes. The Senate which confirmed him cannot make him stand and deliver. He can, figuratively, thumb his nose at them. Reporters who molest him too violently may be tossed into the hoosegow for questioning the integrity of a lawgiver. Thus Mr. Black's retort to all this furore may easily be: "So what?"

UBIQUITY: "Uncle Dan" Roper's invasion of other governmental departments provoked only laughter until he emulated his distinguished predecessor—Herbert Hoover—at a recent press conference. Then his interference with matters involving the White House, the State department, the Maritime commission, the Postoffice department and the I.C.C. provoked a cabinet crisis.

In a single, short breath the Secretary of Commerce proclaimed (1) that his department was making a survey to determine whether cotton should be listed under the head of "munitions," and therefore subject to embargo; (2) that he would stir himself to obtain sanitary quarters for seamen on "Joe" Kennedy's unbuilt ships; (3) that he highly approved the idea of vesting authority over airmail contracts in the Interstate Commerce commission. Mr. Roper apparently forgot that P. G. Farley has squabbled for four years to have this power lodged under him.

Mr. Roper's own pals—southern Congressmen—showered the capital with protests against a ban on foreign shipments of cotton. Bewildered reporters dragged Secretary Hull from a formal dinner to ascertain whether he okayed the Roper edict that cotton was war material. "Find out what he said," Mr. Hull ordered his chief aide in a weary voice, "and let me know." Subsequently Mr. Roper cleared himself technically, but he'll be more careful next time.

ASSISTANCE: Secretary Ickes has belatedly discovered that passage of the $500,000,000 Wagner Housing act does not insure construction of heavily subsidized apartment houses throughout the land.

The lobbies which fought the measure on Capitol Hill—real estate, banks, insurance companies—have simply retreated to more favorable territory for a fight. The measure requires that states and cities must enact enabling legislation before a construction contract can be signed and a blade of grass ploughed under. So the lobbyists have transferred their field of operations from Washington to state and municipal legislatures.

In the past they have been more lucky on local battlegrounds than at the capital; it's easier to work behind the scenes. But Mr. Ickes has a few tricks up his sleve, including a federal radio station that will be available to any governor or mayor brave enough to square off against the most powerful interests in his state or city. So far there have been only a few requests for time on the air.

FUNDS: Even the most noble crusades cost money. Like any political committee, the American Bar association is now passing the hat among the nation's lawyers to pay bills incurred in financing the Senate opposition to F.D.R.'s court reform measure. They need almost $200,000.

The request for cash contributions discloses for the first time the key role which the lawyers' union played in wrecking the White House program. It became obvious at the start that the handful of anti-Roosevelt Senators could not afford to dig up the facts required to refute F.D.R.'s charges and insinuations; they could simply furnish the oratory. So more than two score lawyers, researchers, typists and rewrite men were rushed to Washington. With towels around their heads, they labored night and day in libraries, historical research headquarters and hotels to grind out the stuff of which Wheeler-Burke-O'Mahoney speeches were spun. The weekly payroll here and elsewhere was more than $10,000.

The episode explains why lawyers rank fairly low in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, even though he "was one himself once."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE collapse of Tammany as a dominant factor in New York politics has much more than local significance. What was once the mightiest Democratic political machine in the country has sunk so low it would have trouble electing a dog-catcher. Of course the Tiger was on the outs with the New Deal and has been starved for four years as to patronage, but keen political analysts figure the fundamental reason for its rout cuts much deeper than that.

The primary secret of Tammany's success was its marvelously organized system of self-interested philanthropy. Poor voters were taught that, as long as they voted right, they need never fear hunger or cold. With its house built on the rock of material rewards for loyalty, the Tiger could afford to laugh at spasmodic reform waves which temporarily ousted it from power.

But now comes the New Deal and puts Tammany completely in the shade with its immense program of employment and parks and improved living conditions for people of small income. Tammany can no more compete with such largesse than a minnow can outswim a whale. Moreover, the New Deal's beneficence is well advertised where the Tiger's was shushed. Low income allegiance has shifted and Tammany's castle has lost its foundation.

PRACTICAL: Astute New Yorkers comment that if the Republican party nationally had had the foresight when the depression struck to adopt such practical and intelligent methods of helping the people you want to have help you, the Democrats would never have had a chance.

Feeding the hungry and clothing the naked is both humane and good politics. While administration critics cavil at waste, extravagance and favoritism in relief, very few still have the hardihood to deny that it is a legitimate function of government to care for the needy.

FACTOR: While both surviving candidates in the New York mayoralty contest, LaGuardia and Mahoney, are known as New Dealers, LaGuardia will benefit most from administration philanthropy because he was actually in office when the New Deal took hold. Even LaGuardia's enemies, of whom he has many, admit privately that he has been a good mayor. In sober quarters someone more conservative would have been preferred, but bankers and their friends know perfectly well that the mayor is no "Red." Improvement in the city's credit under his regime proves that to their satisfaction.

Unless the present picture is changed by some unexpected development, LaGuardia will sweep to victory in November. If he does, he automatically becomes a factor to be reckoned with in 1940. It is too early to forecast the exact role he is likely to play, but it would not surprise those who have watched his career if he turned up as vice-presidential candidate on a ticket headed by some midwestern liberal, such as for instance Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan.

ON MISSIONARIES

Editor, The Avalanche: If the Christian religion is not worth standing up for and fighting for, then it was one of the meanest and dirtiest tricks in history to send missionaries to China to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, and a still meaner trick to beg the people for money to support them over there.

If the Christian religion is worth standing up for and fighting for, then it is a dirty, mean, cowardly trick to take these missionaries away when they are most needed.

These missionaries have taught the Chinese people pacifism, non-preparedness, disarmament, and non-resistance. They have thus contributed to the ease of the Japanese victory over them. Now, when the Chinese people are suffering from this teaching we tell our missionaries to desert them.

Just what do you think of yourself, anyway.

Dr. W. A. Jackson Is To Speak At Presbyterian Men's Meet

Dr. W. A. (Bill) Jackson, dean of the graduate division of Texas Technological college, will speak tonight before the men's group of the First Presbyterian church at the monthly meeting of that organization, C. A. Bruner, president, said.

V. Z. Rogers, superintendent of schools of Lamesa, had accepted an invitation to speak but was called to Austin.

Dean James M. Gordon, teacher of the men's class, is to preside. Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, will introduce the speaker.

The musical program will include 'cello numbers by Prof. Julien Paul Blitz, with Mrs. Blitz at the piano, and vocal solos by Mrs. Venton L. Doughtie.

Invitations to nearby Presbyterian churches to attend have been accepted by several persons, Dean Gordon said. Reports indicate approximately 30 men from this area will be here. There will be several ministers present.

Women of the church will serve a meal, beginning at 7 o'clock.

TARZAN'S QUEST, No. 64

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Slowly the Wasiri recovered consciousness and found themselves prisoners. "I know these Bukena," Muviro sighed; "they will kill us and eat our hearts. We Wasiri do not fear death, but it is dreadful to die now when the Big Bwana counts on our help" . . .

. . . Meanwhile, swiftly through the jungle night, the Big Bwana bore Nalka, daughter of Gupingu, whom he had saved from the Kavuru. The frightened girl marveled at his ability to travel so surely and so bravely through the darkness. He must be a demon!

"Who are you?" she asked in quavering voice. "I am the man your father saved from Udala." "Then you, too, are a Kavuru." "No, I am Tarzan of the Apes, from the land of the Wasiri. Tell your people I saved you from the Kavuru, and they must be my friends."

Next day, they come to the edge of the clearing that encircled her village. Tarzan sat her down and turned back once more to the forest. If only he had known that in that village ten of his beloved Wasiri were imprisoned, awaiting horrible death! . .

Don't Overlook The Exhibits!

FROM all indications the big "punkin show" that is due to run on East Broadway all next week will, among other things, present the finest livestock and agricultural exhibits in all the 24 years of the exposition's history.

That's sumpin'!

While the Panhandle-South Plains fair always has—and this year will continue to have—departments where all may have fun and a "big time," it is good to remember that the real reason for the fair is to show each other, as well as our outside visitors, the things that can be raised either directly or indirectly from the soil of a far-flung, fruitful agricultural empire.

We have no crow to pick with fair entertainment. We enjoy it as much as anyone and we realize fully well that a perfectly rounded exposition must have plenty of fun-making facilities.

But let us not forget next week, when we wend our way to the 24th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair, that this country is builded first upon agriculture, stock raising and kindred lines and the fair is the one great opportunity of the year to show off the fruits of our labors.

See all the exhibits at the fair as well as enjoy yourself in the fun-making departments!

Let England Keep Her Actors

THE Digest, the recent incorporation of the defunct Literary Digest and Review of Reviews, recently reprinted from "Current History" an article setting forth the likes and dislikes of English moviegoers. Charlie Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, James Cagney and Ralph Lynn—whoever he is—are the most unpopular American males appearing in British pictures. Greta Garbo, Katherine Hepburn, Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett and Bette Davis are the most unpopular females.

While The Morning Avalanche doesn't give a hoot about the likes and dislikes of English cinema addicts, it occurs to us that practically all the English actors cluttering up American films are disliked by a large majority of American movie fans. Puffed up like stuffed turkeys in the typical British manner, the lads and lassies who insist upon pronouncing "been" as "bean," and who further continue to talk like they have a mouthful of hot mush, give us a big pain.

As far as we are concerned, we'd be glad to have all our American stars come home and stay out of British pictures if, in return, Hollywood will send all her British imports back to Mayfair.

Now They March For Peace!

HIDDEN deep in a particularly well written Associated Press story describing the New York parade of American legionnaires, and appearing in yesterday's Avalanche, was poignant statement which we hope no reader overlooked. It was:

"The memories of the greatest war ever to ravage mankind were stirred again—but these men (the conventioning legionnaires) marched for peace."

Let us hope so.

Let us hope they always will march for peace, even when the bands play "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli" and all those other spine-tingling battle hymns.

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye shall therefore keep all my statutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, spew you not out.

And ye shall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I cast out before you: for they committed all these things, and therefore I abhorred them.

But I have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the Lord your God, which have separated you from other people.—Leviticus, XXI, 22 through 24.

THE STRANGEST CASE OF FILIAL GRATITUDE

Thirty years ago a Jewish physician and philanthropist had pity upon an orphan. He adopted the waif, lavished love and affection upon him, gave him an education and raised him to a position of prominence. The name of the physician was Dr. Herman von Epenstein, resident of Mauterndorf near Innsbruck, Austria. The adopted son of the Jewish physician is now one of the world's bitterest anti-Semites. He is none other than Herman Goering, Prime Minister of Prussia and the right hand man number 2 man of the Nazi Empire. Strangely enough the relations between adopted father and son have continued cordial even after Goering became Hitler's right hand man.

Murder On The Bluff... By Esther Tyler

SYNOPSIS: Jude Blinshop, my old flame, is mysteriously shot to death. That starts our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. A series of strange attacks occurs. Then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, then nearly finished with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears and we search for her frantically. Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, suspect Higgins, the old butler. William tells me why.

Chapter 42

WE LOCK UP HIGGINS

A sound from the stair railing grated on our ears, spinning us all about simultaneously. Higgins, fully dressed, stood on the landing, staring down at us. How long he had been there, we had no way of knowing. It is one thing to confront murderous fiends in tabloid headlines, but it is quite another to stand face to face with one in the form of an old family servant whom you have known for a good part of your life. My lips were dry as I slipped the key case into my pocket.

"Hello, Higgins," I said. "Come on down. We were just talking about you."

The silence got under my skin. I waited for the man to answer, for Cook to explode, for Annie to scream. Nothing happened. For a space of fully 15 seconds we stood there while the old man studied our faces.

"Were you, sir I can't seem to sleep and I though I would make myself a pot of coffee."

He came down the stairs slowly, as deliberately as he had ever descended them in his life. Habit is certainly a powerful factor. If ever I had wanted to collar a man, Higgins was that man. And yet — I couldn't.

I said casually, "Sure. Make enough for the rest of us. I guess we can stand it."

No one spoke. We sat there and watched him measure out coffee, pour in water, and set the pot on th stove. He turned from the operation, smiling.

"I'm glad it's nearly over, Mr. Jimmie. There will be a boat here by morning, see if there isn't."

I could do nothing but murmur, "Yes."

He was guilty. I was sure of it. But sitting there looking at him I couldn't see myself telling him so. I cleared my throat.

"Higgins," I said, "you've lied to me on every single question I've asked you—haven't you?"

For one fraction of a second the eyes turned toward me were the sick, tired eyes of a very old man. In the next instant they were veiled and calculating.

"What gives you that impression, sir?"

I stood up. "You were seen out of your room on the night when Miss Blinshop was killed. You were seen going into your room fully dressed just before Mr. Michael called you and reappearing as if you had been asleep a moment later. You own the only gun in the house. You were seen coming down the stairs immediately before we discovered the injured cat, when you swore that you had been in the next room. You were on hand when Miss Farrington was wounded. You even tried to get my fingerprints on the revolver. William and I are going to lock you in your room. You will be kept there until the police arrive."

Those strange eyes never once left my face, not even after I had completed my distasteful task.

Making A Mistake?

"Mr. Jimmie," he said very quietly, "you've known me for a long time. Do you believe what you are saying?"

"I'm sorry, Higgins, Yes."

A ghost of a smile crossed his face. "I see," he said. "Do you object to my having my coffee before you lock me up?"

"Don't take no chances with him," cautioned William.

And so we sat there waiting for that coffee, waiting to be served by a man whom we intended to deliver into the hands of the law to lose his life. I was too busy with my own feelings to notice particularly what went on in that room. Once or twice the clumsy shuffling of Cook's feet penetrated my consciousness, but that was all. I doubt if any coffee on the face of the earth ever took as long to boil as that did.

At last Higgins moved to the closet and set out five cups and saucers. Cook stood grimly over him while he poured, her mind running. I imagine, to all the varieties of poison that could be dropped into those cups. My own mind was too full of all the other cups Higgins had handed me—of all the decent little favors he had done me. I choked trying to drink the stuff. Higgins drank his calmly and set the cup down.

"I'm quite ready, Mr. Wells," he said.

But I wasn't. Suddenly, strangely, I felt that I was making a great mistake. Where and how, I could not see, but I was sure that I was making one. I had a strong conviction that if Higgins were guilty, he would never have taken the accusation as he had. If Higgins had done all the things we had imagined his doing, Higgins was insane, for he was without a conceivable motive. And an insane man, confronted with captivity, is not usually as placid as he was. At least, I didn't think so. It was a straw, but I grasped at it frantically.

"Higgins," I said, "haven't you anything to say to defend yourself?"

"Not a thing sir."

William and I took him upstairs. It was consistent with my general stupidity that, although I had many qualms about his guilt, I no sooner slipped the key of his locked door into my pocket than I regarded the entire episode as closed. It was all over. And now—what?

William stirred uneasily at my elbow. "I feel like a rat, sir. He's an awful old man."

I wanted to get away from William.

Without replying I made off down the corridor to the main hall. Lights still glared there, and I could hear the intermittent murmur of voices in M. Farrington's room. I knew that I should go in there and tell them what had happened. I knew that they were in all probability working themselves into a fine frenzy waiting for me. But I was in no mood to face M. Farrington—or even Michael.

The Case Against Higgins

I went downstairs into the cold, deserted library, where I made a fire, helped myself to a stiff drink and sat down to think. For the most part I was concerned with the whereabouts of the Skipper. That Higgins in his right mind would in any way injure the Skipper seemed to me out of the question. And I could not convince myself that Higgins was not in his right mind.

I went over and over the question. I took another drink and then another. I threw myself down at the desk and tried to write. The feel of a pen in my hand was comfortingly familiar. More to quiet my nerves than in hopes of proving anything, I set to work.

HIGGINS

Knew of the presence of Norman Farrington. Whereabouts at the time of the death of Jude suspicious. Easy to imagine him in the confidence of every single person molested to date—Jude, Norman Farrington, M. Farrington, and the Skipper. Seen upstairs when the cat was killed and the room torn up. Lied about it afterward.

Only person who might have removed letters from William's room. Witness for his alibi on the shooting of M. Farrington (Skipper) missing. Obtained something from drug store. Poison? Started to tell me something. A confession? Tried to get my fingerprints on the gun used on M. Farrington. Carried keys to every room in the house.

Note: Standing at my own elbow when Cook was atacked. Locked in room with others when William and I were attacked. Has seemed afraid of something from the beginning. Seems relieved to be locked up. Motive inconceivable.

Pausing for a cigarette, I surveyed my results. A pretty disorderly mess. Well, it could be straightened out later. At least my nerves were steadying down.

WILLIAM

Convicted of felony. Served full term in spite of interst of Mr. Blinshop. Seems to indicate that no vindicating evidence has yet been found. Knew the Blinshops. Only person with conceivable motive—revenge. Only person to give evidence against Higgins. Substantiation of all his evidence comes from his wife and Cook, who are clever enough to have fooled the household over a long period of time.

Knew of Higgins' gun and admits to being a good shot. Alibi covering killing of cat and braining of wife and Cook questionable. Proof of whereabouts during death of Jude again rests on those two. Found Jude's body. Might have dealt with me in his room. Might have planted and removed letters to cast suspicion elsewhere. Suggested the locking of upstairs rooms. May have seen Norman Farrington when Michael saw him. Servant's gossip from the Blinshops' might have told him who Norman was. Might have had Higgins suspecting him.

Strong enough to have overpowered both the Skipper and her brother. Seems well versed in drugs. Admits going to drug store. Note: Was injured when I was. (Might have thrown himself down the stairs.) Did revive M. Farrington. Admits locking us in cellar.

I placed the two lists side by side and considered them with unabashed delight. It seemed to me that the case against William overshadowed the case against Higgins.

Tomorrow, I check the cases against Mike, Gay, Cook, Annie and M. Farrington.

The stings of bees, if sufficiently numerous, often are fatal.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

In all the excitement over the Black affair everybody seems to miss the key point, including Franklin D. Roosevelt. It may block the smart stratagems now being concocted for forcing his resignation and restoring the masses' faith in F.D.R.

The anti-Black claque-editors, reporters, politicos—talk and write about him as if he were still a simple Senator and a vote-snatching officeholder. They show no respect for his ermine. Even the Republicans strangely forget that he is a signed, sealed and delivered member of the honorable tribunal they strove so valiantly and successfully to safeguard against executive domination. Mr. Roosevelt intends to play the part of a "Dutch uncle" when the prodigal steps ashore.

Mr. Black, however, was always one to take seriously the trappings of public office, and he hasn't changed overnight. Mr. Roosevelt has no more right to escort the new associate justice to the White House woodshed than he has to discipline or crossexamine Mr. Hughes. The Senate which confirmed him cannot make him stand and deliver. He can, figuratively, thumb his nose at them. Reporters who molest him too violently may be tossed into the hoosegow for questioning the integrity of a lawgiver. Thus Mr. Black's retort to all this furore may easily be: "So what?"

UBIQUITY: "Uncle Dan" Roper's invasion of other governmental departments provoked only laughter until he emulated his distinguished predecessor—Herbert Hoover—at a recent press conference. Then his interference with matters involving the White House, the State department, the Maritime commission, the Postoffice department and the I.C.C. provoked a cabinet crisis.

In a single, short breath the Secretary of Commerce proclaimed (1) that his department was making a survey to determine whether cotton should be listed under the head of "munitions," and therefore subject to embargo; (2) that he would stir himself to obtain sanitary quarters for seamen on "Joe" Kennedy's unbuilt ships; (3) that he highly approved the idea of vesting authority over airmail contracts in the Interstate Commerce commission. Mr. Roper apparently forgot that P. G. Farley has squabbled for four years to have this power lodged under him.

Mr. Roper's own pals—southern Congressmen—showered the capital with protests against a ban on foreign shipments of cotton. Bewildered reporters dragged Secretary Hull from a formal dinner to ascertain whether he okayed the Roper edict that cotton was war material. "Find out what he said," Mr. Hull ordered his chief aide in a weary voice, "and let me know." Subsequently Mr. Roper cleared himself technically, but he'll be more careful next time.

ASSISTANCE: Secretary Ickes has belatedly discovered that passage of the $500,000,000 Wagner Housing act does not insure construction of heavily subsidized apartment houses throughout the land.

The lobbies which fought the measure on Capitol Hill—real estate, banks, insurance companies—have simply retreated to more favorable territory for a fight. The measure requires that states and cities must enact enabling legislation before a construction contract can be signed and a blade of grass ploughed under. So the lobbyists have transferred their field of operations from Washington to state and municipal legislatures.

In the past they have been more lucky on local battlegrounds than at the capital; it's easier to work behind the scenes. But Mr. Ickes has a few tricks up his sleve, including a federal radio station that will be available to any governor or mayor brave enough to square off against the most powerful interests in his state or city. So far there have been only a few requests for time on the air.

FUNDS: Even the most noble crusades cost money. Like any political committee, the American Bar association is now passing the hat among the nation's lawyers to pay bills incurred in financing the Senate opposition to F.D.R.'s court reform measure. They need almost $200,000.

The request for cash contributions discloses for the first time the key role which the lawyers' union played in wrecking the White House program. It became obvious at the start that the handful of anti-Roosevelt Senators could not afford to dig up the facts required to refute F.D.R.'s charges and insinuations; they could simply furnish the oratory. So more than two score lawyers, researchers, typists and rewrite men were rushed to Washington. With towels around their heads, they labored night and day in libraries, historical research headquarters and hotels to grind out the stuff of which Wheeler-Burke-O'Mahoney speeches were spun. The weekly payroll here and elsewhere was more than $10,000.

The episode explains why lawyers rank fairly low in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, even though he "was one himself once."

ON MISSIONARIES

Editor, The Avalanche: If the Christian religion is not worth standing up for and fighting for, then it was one of the meanest and dirtiest tricks in history to send missionaries to China to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, and a still meaner trick to beg the people for money to support them over there.

If the Christian religion is worth standing up for and fighting for, then it is a dirty, mean, cowardly trick to take these missionaries away when they are most needed.

These missionaries have taught the Chinese people pacifism, nonpreparedness, disarmament, and non-resistance. They have thus contributed to the ease of the Japanese victory over them. Now, when the Chinese people are suffering from this teaching we tell our missionaries to desert them.

Just what do you think of yourself, anyway.

(No Signature).

(Dear Anonymous: I don't get what you're driving at in the body of your letter, but I can answer the last question. I think I have too much self respect to write letters without signing them or editorials without standing back of them. Very truly yours, The Editor).

Candidates For Senior Officers Are Selected On Wednesday

Sponsors and candidates for president and secretary of the senior class of Lubbock High school were chosen at a meeting of vice-presidents Wednesday morning.

Candidates for president are Roger Kuykendall and Edgar Shelton, and candidates for secretary are Dorothy Kelly and Sycily Roberts.

The election will be conducted Wednesday, by secret ballot.

Sponsors chosen for the class were Dan W. Powers, Floyd Honey, Mrs. Ethel Terrell, M. E. Witt, D. M. Howell, and Miss Grace Padley.

Vice-presidents of the class are Horace Humphries, Roger Kuykendall, Arnette Halsey, Robert Allen, Margery Hill, and Sycily Roberts.

MARLIN WOMAN WOUNDED

MARLIN, Sept. 22. (AP)—Mrs. Bertie Brunson, 26, was wounded critically today by a discharge from a shotgun in the hands of her brother-in-law William Brunson 15. W. T. Brunson, William's father, said the shooting was accidental. The boy asserted he didn't know the gun was loaded.

Dr. W. A. Jackson Is To Speak At Presbyterian Men's Meet

Dr. W. A. (Bill) Jackson, dean of the graduate division of Texas Technological college, will speak tonight before the men's group of the First Presbyterian church at the monthly meeting of that organization, C. A. Bruner, president, said.

V. Z. Rogers, superintendent of schools of Lamesa, had accepted an invitation to speak but was called to Austin.

Dean James M. Gordon, teacher of the men's class, is to preside. Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, will introduce the speaker.

The musical program will include 'cello numbers by Prof. Julien Paul Blitz, with Mrs. Blitz at the piano, and vocal solos by Mrs. Venton L. Doughtie.

Invitations to nearby Presbyterian churches to attend have been accepted by several persons, Dean Gordon said. Reports indicate approximately 30 men from this area will be here. There will be several ministers present.

Women of the church will serve a meal, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Oklahoma Man Is Sentenced To Life In Banker's Death

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 22. (AP) J. C. Fast, jr., 20, pleaded guilty today to a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of L. E. McLean, banker, and was sentenced to life imprisonment by District Judge O. H. P. Brewer.

New York City's burlesque theaters, closed down by an edict against the strip-tease, reopened with a combination of vaudeville and revue.

TARZAN'S QUEST, No. 64 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Slowly the Waziri recovered consciousness and found themselves prisoners. "I know these Bukena," Muviro sighed; "they will kill us and eat our hearts. We Waziri do not fear death, but it is dreadful to die now when the Big Bwana counts on our help" . . .

. . . Meanwhile, swiftly through the jungle night, the Big Bwana bore Naika, daughter of Gupingu, whom he had saved from the Kavuru. The frightened girl marveled at his ability to travel so surely and so bravely through the darkness. He must be a demon!

"Who are you?" she asked in quavering voice. "I am the man your father saved from Udala." "Then you, too, are a Kavuru." "No, I am Tarzan of the Apes, from the land of the Waziri. Tell your people I saved you from the Kavuru, and they must be my friends."

Next day, they came to the edge of the clearing that encircled her village. Tarzan sat her down and turned back once more to the forest. If only he had known that in that village ten of his beloved Waziri were imprisoned, awaiting horrible death! . .

We feel that our duty is to satisfy both buyer and consigner. To do this, we must get cattle in when the market is the hottest.

We expect to have the best sale Friday, we have had. Last Tuesday, due to wet weather, we had only 300 head; but not a hoof was passed out, which shows that our market was good.

An unusual amount of inquiries from out-of-town buyers are coming in concerning our Sale Friday. If you have cattle we can assure you a nice profit on all that you consign for Friday's sale.

We expect best heavy calves to bring from $8 up and good cows $7 up. Bring us your cattle. We can get them sold for as much or more than you expect.

Jobless Census Set For Dec. 1

(By The Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 22.—John D. Biggers, administrator of the unemployment census, announced after a summer White House conference today President Roosevelt had approved final plans for the voluntary enumeration. He added he expected the court to be completed before December 1.

Biggers said the president had given him "adequate authority" and approved an expenditure up to $5,000,000.

He said the post office department would handle the distribution, collection and preliminary check of registration cards which would be sent to 31,000,000 homes in the nation carrying a brief message over the president's signature.

Convicts Break Jail

from the jail.

Disregarding traffic signals, the fugitives' car hurled Mrs. Paul Tober, 48, into a steel safety zone post. Both her legs and arms were broken and she suffered a possible skull fracture.

The men back-tracked to the city's east side where the automobile plunged into a safety zone stanchion. The fugitives seized a sedan and turned into a side street where they jumped from the machine. The driver disappeared into a nearby yard before the officers arrived. The screams of two small girls attracted attention of the police, who surrounded the car. Slapik, who had gone into the children's play tent, surrendered without a struggle as two-score police converged of the tent.

BUYING BREEZES TOO LIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—The stock market had its rallying sails set today but found buying breezes too light for a speedy getaway.

Steels gave intermittent displays of strength with coppers, rails and specialties. Most, though, substantially reduced early advances of fractions to 2 or more points. There was also a wide assortment of losers as profit sellers took a hand in late proceedings.

Foreign markets improved and copper prices abroad stiffened, lending mild aid to speculative sentiment, the domestic business picture was still a bit spotty, with "Iron Age" sounding a somewhat gloomier note on steel production. At the same time electricity consumption was up more than seasonally expected and retail trade appeared to be more than holding its own.

The Associated Press average of stocks managed to retain an advance of .2 of a point at 57.8. Transfers totalled 739,380 shares against 981,550 yesterday.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22. (AP)—Selling of hedges pushed cotton slightly lower today and into new low ground for the season. The close was steady at net declines of 3 to 4 points on active months.

Occasional flurries of trade calling were encountered during the day and although the demand was insufficient to lift prices to any great extent, it served to hold the undertone steady.

At the lowest all options traded below the 9-cent level for the first time since 1933 but the close was a point or two above the bottom.

October closed at 8.66-bid, Dec at 8.67@8.68, Jan. at 8.71, March at 8.80, May at 8.90 and July at 9.00. Spots were steady and middling declined 2 points to 8.68 on sales of 17,912 bales.

Foreign markets were steady.

Private advices on crop progress continued bullish with one county in Texas reporting ginnings at an all-time high. Reports from the Carolinas said the crop is made and that farmers are speeding activities to make up for lost time.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—Cotton again responded to the influence of hedging on the one sideand foreign and trade buying on the other today and prices held within a narrow range.

December eased from 8.66@8.57 and closed at 8.59. Final prices were 1 to 4 points net lower.

Steadier Liverpool cables had a stabilising influence.

The weekly report of the weather bureau indicated the week had been very favorable for cotton in most portions of the belt with abundant sunshine and seasonable temperature very helpful in eastern sections.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.56 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 9.20 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (AP)—Hectic trading conditions in September corn contracts swept prices aloft about 8 cents a bushel today, the extreme immediate permissible limit for any 24-hour period. The day's high quotation, $1.12½, was current just as the final gong sounded.

Leading holders of the limited amount of corn available here for delivery in time to adjust 10,000,000 bushels shortage of supplies needed to fulfill uncompleted September contracts had things practically their own way.

So stranded did the corn market situation become that in an attempt to put a brake on fresh speculaion in September corn, the board of trade clearing house announced greatly increased funds or so-called margins as a pre-requisite for trades were effective at once. Temporarily prices tumbled 4 cents but new outbursts of anxious bidding followed.

At the close, corn futures as a whole were ⅜ of a cent to 8 cents above yesterday's latest quotations, with September $1.12¾@1.12½, Dec. 65⅛, May 65¼@65⅜. Simultaneously, wheat was unchanged to ½ cent lower, Sept. $1.05⅜, Dec. $1.05⅜@1.05¾, May $1.07¼@1.07⅜, oats ⅛ off to ¼ up, Dec. 31, and rye varying from ¾ decline to ⅛ advance, Dec. 79⅜@79¾. Provisions results ranged from 7 cents setback to 22 cents bulge.

Wheat, rye and oats were dominated much of the day by the "squeeze" in corn values.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Sept. 22. (AP)—Fair demand was reported for all offerings on the cash grain market at Fort Worth today. Estimated receipts were: wheat 16 cars, corn 22, and sorghums 2.

Brifisher Takes Up Speed Trials As Jenkins Quits

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 22. (AP)—Capt. George E. T. Eyston, 40-year-old British speedster, thundered his "Speed of the Wind" over shimmering Bonneville Salt Flats today, preparatory to an assault Friday on Ab Jenkins' numerous speed records.

Eyston took to the Flats when Jenkins abruptly halted a record-shattering run early this morning.

Jenkins, orginally scheduled to attempt to break the 48-hour record, quit after passing the 24-hour mark with the explanation, "the course is too broken to continue."

Fistic Extravaganza Ready For Stage Thursday Night

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—What Mike Jacobs likes to call "the greatest show on earth" comes to town tomorrow night when the 20th Century Sporting club presents its first edition of his carnival of champions at the Polo Grounds.

In the most elaborate fistic spectacle ever put together under one top, three world's champions will defend their titles, and as an extra attraction, a European champion has come across the water to test his skill against one of the outstanding American challengers in his division.

Four fifteen round battles and one four-round preliminary will comprise the card.

Moon Mullins Institutes Rockne Style At Loyola

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22. (AP)—The colorful Notre Dame style of football will be played by a major Louisiana team this year for the first time.

Larry (Moon) Mullins, once a great fullback under Knute Rockne at South Bend starting his first year as head coach of Loyola university here, will present the system in Loyola's opening game with Spring Hill Sunday, Sept. 26.

"Notre Dame football is beautiful to watch when it is working perfectly," Mullins said, "but it is the worst football in the world when your players do not know how to carry out your ideas."

COUSIN WRESTS CROWN

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 22. (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt (Sonny) Whitney's Old Westbury quartet today took the honors away from Cousin John Hay (Jock) Whitney's famous Greentree combination in a surprisingly one-sided final round match on the Meadow Brook club's International field. The final score was 11 to 6.

vey after the attacks showed all important public buildings were unharmed.

This correspondent, who considered himself hardened by viewing the results of a dozen previous air raids on Nanking, was sickened by the sight of old men, women and children mangled by bombs, burned to death or beyond aid.

Cowering among the dead were still hundreds of helpless refugees, apparently too scared to join the great rush from the city, which went on all day and far into the night, by motorcar, rikisha, wheelbarrow—any means of travel available.

Tonight thousands were encamped in the countryside around this city, believing it inevitable that the Japanese air armada would strike again.

Nineteen Americans, seven of them women, remained in Nanking during the attacks, in peril from both the bombs and the curtain of anti-aircraft fire sent up by the Chinese batteries about Nanking.

So far as could be learned, no foreigners were harmed.

Incident Is Closed

LONDON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Britain tonight wrote off her diplomatic ledgers the friction with Japan over the wounding of the British ambassador to China, although Tokyo had made only partial settlement of the account as originally presented.

The foreign office informed the Tokyo government it had received "with satisfaction" Japan's final note on the affair and regarded "the incident as closed."

Abel Posts $250 Reward In Case

Aroused at a series of burglaries in the last week, chief among which was an approximately $2,500 breakin of Hanna-Pope & Co. store at 1111 Broadway, Sheriff Tom Abel Wednesday afternoon announced he wounld pay $250 reward for "information leading to arrest and conviction of guilty parties in the Hanna-Pope job."

The sheriff, who had returned the night before from Fort Worth, where he had taken in custody Peggy Weir, juvenile under indictment for swindling, and accepted custody of R. L. Dishman to face a similar indictment here, said if "money talks" he planned to do everything possible to smash the case.

Fifured In Investigations

The sheriff over past months has figured in several investigations that traced to the source of major infractions, resulting in several persons being brought to justice.

The Nineteenth Street Pharmacy was entered on the night of Sept. 14 through a glass door which had been crashed in and 20 to 25 cartons of cigarets, more than $100 in bills, and an undetermined amount of bonded whisky were taken in a daring burglary. No tangible clues have been uncovered, authorities said.

Theft of $18 and men's and women's clothing from 208 Avenue U by a person or persons who entered Tuesday night when residents were sleeping was investigated Wednesday by members of the police department and the sheriff's office.

Other Burglaries Reported

Several other recent burglaries of minor consequence have been investigated by members of the police department and sheriff's office.

Two youths arrested early Tuesday night who gave their ages as 16 and 17 and their address as Shallowater were transferred from custody of police to county jail and charges of attempting to pass forged instruments probably will be filed, said Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff. A chase through downtown alleys ended in arrest by Lewis Kittrell of the police department of one who allegedly had attempted to cash a $11.50 check in a department store.

Three persons were named defendants in charges of swindling with worthless check filed in county court and in the justice court of Walter Davies. None of the defendants late Wednesday night had been reported arrested.

A. H. Maas swore to a complaint charging a woman with swindling with a $10 worthless check on a Lubbock bank. Two men who last night had not been arrested were charged in the justice court with swindling with worthless $1 checks. S. R. Horton swore to both complaints.

its after-effect properly treated."

He said his own personal experience as president of the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, which will be a unit of the new organization, has led him to the conclusion that the best results could not be secured by approaching the problem through any single one of its aspects, whether that be "preventative studies in the laboratory, emergency work during epidemics, or after treatment."

Should Direct Attack

"I firmly believe," he added, "that the time has now arrived when the whole attack on this plague should be led and directed, though not controlled, by one national body."

He said the new organization would see to it:

That every responsible research agency is "adequately financed" to carry on investigations into the cause of the disease and preventative methods, including the recently developed nose-spray.

Diagnosis Important

That every effort is made to eliminate much of the needless aftereffects of the disease—"wreckage caused by the failure to make early and accurate diagnosis of its presence."

That studies are made to "develop every medical possibility of enabling those so afflicted to become economically independent," in their local communities.

The new foundation also will carry on a broad-gauged educational campaign, prepared under expert medical supervision, chiefly for assistance of doctors and hospitals.

One of the raiding party was killed and seven of them including the captain of the C-4, were arrested after fleeing to Bordeaux in a launch.

Insurgent Forces Advance In Northwestern Spain

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Sept. 22. (AP)—Insurgent columns driving on Gijon from the east today advanced to points where they consolidated their lines for assaults on Rivadesella, Cangas, de Onis and Covadonga.

These towns, near the Bay of Biscay coast, are 30 to 40 airline miles east of Gijon, last government-held port in northwestern Spain. Improved weather aided the movements of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's columns.

News Briefs!

City Building Inspector D. J. Schlag issued two building permits Wednesday authorizing construction estimated to cost $1,400, boosting the September total for building permits to $125,645, according to figures released after final tabulations yesterday afternoon. The year's figure climbed to $953,961. Permits were to George E. Benson to build a frame residence at the rear of 1520 Thirty-third street, $450, and G. E. and Charlie Lockhart, owner, and W. E. Webb, contractor, to build a sheet-iron building at 1830 Avenue H, $950.

Improvement was reported late Wednesday night in the condition of Mrs. R. E. Bryant, 39, of Idalou who is receiving treatment at West Texas hospital for injuries suffered when she fell from a trailer attached to an automobile. She was admitted to the hospital Wednesday morning and probably will be released within "a day or two." She suffered a fractured transverse process of two lumbar vertebrae, separation of the spine from the rips, and contusions over the region of the right hip.

Late summer showers with precipitation at most points of this area amounting to no more than a trace Wednesday afternoon and night dotted the South Plains. Showers fell here in the late afternoon and again about 11 o'clock, but at midnight precipitation had ceased. Although measurements at the Lubbock Municipal airport showed only a trace, the fall in downtown Lubbock was estimated at several hundredths of an inch. At midnight dispatchers of railroad companies said they had no reports on rains in other sections of this area.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack M. Lewis of 1310 Avenue N were called to Navasota where Mrs. Lewis' father died Wednesday. Mrs. Lewis had gone Tuesday and Dr. Lewis left Wednesday, according to reports here. Dr. Lewis is pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Funeral arrangements and details of the death of Mrs. Lewis' father were not obtainable here last night.

Mrs. J. Fred Bucy of Tahoka Wednesday was admitted to Lubbock sanitarium where she will undergo major surgery probably today, relatives reported. She is a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bucy of Lubbock.

Mrs. C. E. Monis, about 28, of Seminole was given emergency treatment at Lubbock sanitarium about 9 o'clock Wednesday night for a fractured right wrist suffered when she fell. She was released after receiving emergency treatment.

Legion Convention

Lynn U. Stambaugh of Fargo, N. D.; Milo J. Warner of Toledo, and Stephen F. Chadwick of Seattle.

Most of today's sessions, anticlimactical so far as color and emotion and music were concerned, were given over to speeches.

William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, appeared to urge a closer relationship between his organization and the legion; called on it for continued official neutrality in labor conflicts, and denounced communism and fascism.

Secretary of War Harry Woodring spoke of an international scene that was "clouded," but in this scene, he said, the president and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were "pursuing a direct and logical course and are doing everything humanly possible to prevent the spread of the contagion of war."

Legion Auxiliary Holds Its Annual State's Dinner

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (AP)—The American Legion auxiliary wound up a busy day with its states' dinner tonight, the principal social event of the convention.

The auxiliary held its business session, heard reports from various officers and awarded trophies to winners of the contests sponsored by the organization.

Mrs. Malcolm Douglas of Seattle and Mrs. A. H. Hoffman of Des Moines were nominated for the presidency to succeed Mrs. Oscar Hahn of Wayne, Neb., who is retiring. The election will be held tomorrow.

Twenty-two silver cups were awarded at the conclusion of the session. They included Blackburn trophy (new this year); won by Handson unit 54, Amarillo, Texas, for "the most outstanding Americanism work through a constructive youth betterment program."

Rotan Child Is Victim Of Acute Indigestion While Father Away

ROTAN, Sept. 22. (AP)—While his father, Dr. Chester V. Callan, was attending Irene Howard, fatally crushed by a tractor near here, Walter Martin Callan, 18 months old, was stricken with acute indigestion at the family home.

The child's mother, failing to locate her husband or his partner, rushed the baby to a Sweetwater hospital where he died this evening.

Dr. Callan is mayor of Rotan.

OIL FIRE IN FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 22. (AP)—Eight fuel oil tanks exploded at regular intervals and a huge oil warehouse was destroyed here tonight as fire of undetermined origin roared through the main plant of the Standard Oil company. The fire broke out at 7:30 p. m. and an hour and a half later firemen said the blaze was definitely beyond their control.

100,137 Sheep Were Sold At Denver Last Week

The market closed 75c higher than the open, even though offerings were heavy. Fat lambs sold at DENVER were distributed to 18 different slaughter points; feeder lambs to 7 states. 113 cars of fat lambs were bought for New York, Boston, Cincinnati, Jersey City, etc.; over 60 cars were killed locally.

The cattle market was strong and everything offered sold at higher prices. Heavy feeders sold up to $10.80. Cows and heifers found ready outlet. Iowa packers took over 1,300 head; local slaughter 5,000.

DENVER is the world's largest sheep market—One of the leading cattle markets.

"SHIP 'EM TO DENVER"

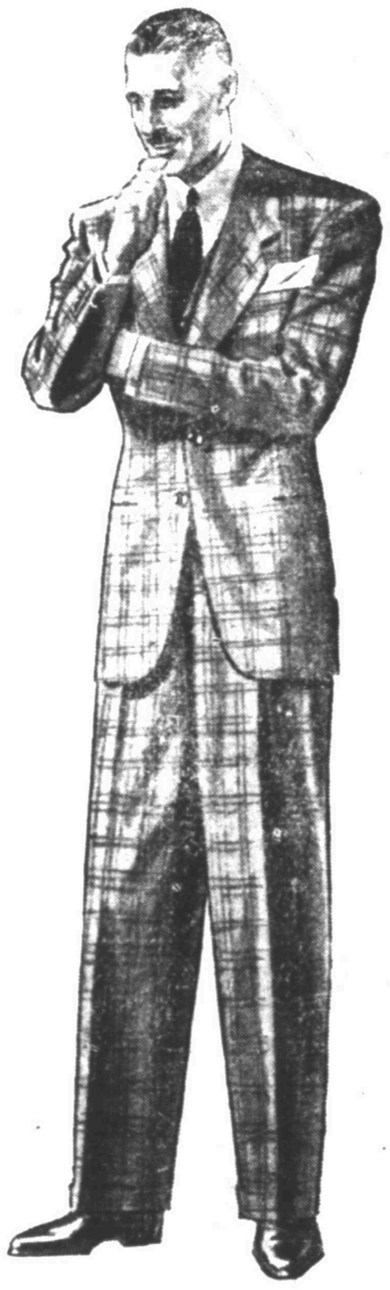

THIS store has been in business a long time.

With the price of raw materials and labor advancing the way they have this season we could have done several things to maintain the low prices we've been talking about the past few years.

One of the things we could have done would have been to use, in our clothing, fabrics that weren't all-wool. We decided against it, though . . . felt it would be wiser to stick to Hart Schaffner & Marx—because their fabrics are guaranteed all-wool.

We think it's smart not to play checkers with quality! Therefore, we can, without fear, challenge the whole town with this great suit—

BENCH-MADE

by HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

This Bench-Made Fifty suit climaxes fifty years of Hart Schaffner & Marx leadership in the clothing industry. The experience of those years has guided the making of this suit at every stage of its career, from the selection of the wools to its purchase in our store. Fine fabrics, masterly craftsmanship, expert styling, make it the full equal of custom-made clothing. But the difference in price is considerable—and you also save the time of try-ons.

Plan To Reduce Deficit Offered

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 22.—Rep. Harry L. McKee of Port Arthur claimed today to have found a "painless" way of cutting the large deficit in the state's general fund.

Asserting the fund to retire local bonds used for construction of state highways had accumulated a surplus of $5,765,000, he proposed that all except $250,000 of this amount be applied to the deficit.

McKee said he would introduce a bill to transfer the money if Governor James V. Allred would open the subject to consideration by the legislature.

Tragedy Stalks Raley Family In Month Of September

September has been a month of tragedy for members of the Raley family.

J. A. Raley, jr., Lubbock real estate man, returned from the funeral of his brother, Guy C. Raley, prominent Wichita Falls oil man who was killed in an automobile accident, to tell today of the tragedy which has pursued the family during mid-September. Raley and others of the family had remained in Wichita Falls after the funeral to assist in completing the brother's business affairs.

Guy Raley was killed instantly Sept. 13 when his automobile overturned after hitting loose dirt on a pavement shoulder south of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Guy C. Raley suffered a heart stroke that night from which she still has not fully recovered.

On Sept. 16, S. G. Raley of Bryson, a brother, was seriously injured when his automobile overturned while he was returning to his home, suffering internal injuries and several fractured ribs. He still is in a hospital at Graham and must remain there several weeks, but reports to the brother here this morning said he will recover.

On Sept. 17, 1927, John Raley, the oldest son of the family, was killed in an accident almost identical with that in which Guy C. Raley lost his life.

Following the funeral of Guy, the 82-year old father and 72-year old mother of the family collapsed under the strain of shock and grief, but latest reports said they are recovering satisfactorily. They are residents of Bryson.

To intensify the whole tragedy, Guy Raley was killed while driving toward Bryson to complete preparations for a barbecue in which several hundred persons were to participate honoring J. A. Raley, sr., on the occasion of his 82nd birthday anniversary—on Sept. 16.

Cheer Leaders For Westerners Named

Three boys and three girls were elected as cheer leaders by students of Senior High school Wednesday morning after they had demonstrated their cheering ability from the stage of the school auditorium.

Boys elected were Jack Giles, Marvin McLarty and Roger Kuykendall, and girls were Betty Jean Jones, Helen Jarrott, and Drucille Merriman.

They will lead students in cheers under a revised system planned by the athletic council for this year. The "Westernettes," former cheering unit, is extinct and the trend toward having the entire student body cheer under direction of the leaders will be followed.

Six boys and 15 girls Wednesday morning led students in cheering after which the student body voted.

The leaders will serve for the first time at the game with Slaton team Friday night.

Plans Wednesday morning were announced for a bus trip to Oklahoma City so that students may attend the Westerner game with Capitol Hill high school Oct. 2. The bus will leave Friday morning, Oct. 1, and will begin the return journey soon after the game. One bus will take 29 students and if sufficient reservations are made another bus will go, said R. W. Matthews, principal. First students to make reservations up to capacity of the one or two buses will be allowed to go.

Possible Construction Of Span At Laredo Is Talked In Austin

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. (AP) — Possible construction of an international bridge over the Rio Grande river at Laredo was the subject of a conference between Mexican and Texas officials here today.

Officials of the southern republic, including Leopoldo Vasquez, director of highways, and the Texas Highway commission also planned to talk over other matters pertaining to the Pan-American highway.

Chairman Robert Lee Bobbitt arranged a dinner for the visitors tonight.

Charles Courtney, master locksmith of New York City, has traveled as far as Bombay and Moscow to open "unopenable" safes and trunks.
