GERMAN OFFER OF REPARATIONS IS TURNED DOWN

French and Belgians Will Not Consider Thirty Billion Proposal

GOVERNMENT FLAYED

Offer Declared To Be Far From Adequate To Meet Needs

Associated Press Dispatch

PARIS, May 6.—France and Belgium have categorically refused to consider Germany's recent offer of thirty billion marks as reparations. The refusal is contained in a joint note sent the allies yesterday and delivered to the German embassies in Paris and Brussels this evening.

The note criticises point by point the German offer, and in doing so announces the determination of France and Belgium to be paid in full and not to consider any proposal until German resistance in the Ruhr ceases.

Germans Cause Surprise

Surprise is expressed at the German pretensions, which, the note says, would mean tearing up the Versailles treaty. In the final paragraph it remarks: "The German government, if it will only look into its own heart, will not be astonished that such a bargain should be refused."

Vague Terms Condemned

The note lay strong emphasis not only on the inadequacy of the money offer, but condemns the vague terms, and rejects the idea of an international commission replacing the reparations commission and the allies as a final tribunal. It also emphasizes German failure to offer security that her obligations as enunciated in the new note would be met, remarking that under the German plan with all its short comings it would amount "once again only to some words on paper."

The notes denies the truth of the German assertion that France and Belgium violated the treaty by entering the Ruhr, but on the contrary, asserts that German offer in several essentials is incompatible with the treaty.

France and Belgium, it is pointed out, hoped for a pacific co-operation in the Ruhr by the industrialists but Berlin prevented this, for "it was not the population, but the German government that willed and organized resistance."

Paddock Breaks Record In French Athletic Meet

Associated Press Dispatch

PARIS, May 6.—France today was declared the winner of the international students' athletic meet, held at the new Porte Doree stadium, in which athletes representing colleges and universities of 13 other nations competed. The French students rolled up a total of 107 points, as against 80 for Italy and 70 for Czecho-Slovakia.

Charles Paddock, the California sprinter, was the only merican competitor. By all odds, he was the individual star of the meet. During the four days of his participation he broke one world's sprinting record and equaled four other records, three of them his own. In addition to records broken or equalled during the last week, Paddock today equaled his own record in the 100 and 200-metre dashes, negotiating the distances respectively in 10 2-5 and 20 1-5 seconds.

WERDEN, Germany, May 6.—The first day of the trial before a French court martial of Dr. Gustave Krupp von Bohlen und Helbach, president of the Krupp company, five Krupp directors and four workmen was spent largely by the prosecution in pressing questions designed to place responsibility for the blowing of the Essen plant's sirens on March 31.

The sounding of the sirens, bringing out thousands of Krupp workers on the arrival of a detachment of French soldiers, is held to have been the determining factor in the clash with French troops that ensued.

Winning Pupils Give All Credit to Coaches; Many Medals Won.

Caeser returning triumphant from the fields of battle was never more welcomed more royally than a small crowd of Wichita Falls high school students when they stepped off a train from Austin Sunday afternoon, bearing trophies and honors acquired at the state interscholastic meet Friday and Saturday.

A throng that packed the station platform was on hand long before the train rolled in. Parents, teachers, friends and merely curious spectators were there to congratulate the ones who had plucked a full measure of glory for themselves, the school and the city.

Loaded Down

The champions were loaded down with gold and silver cups and medals, while expansive grins spread over their faces as they hit the home town once more.

Probably the ones who wore the broadest smiles were Coach Jim Jones and Miss Junita Kinsey who have had charge of the representatives the entire year and who made it possible for Wichita Falls to score the greatest number of points that has ever been scored by an individual team at the state meet.

Baldwin's Three

Leo Baldwin wore three gold medals by virtue of taking first places in the 220 yard high hurdles, 120 yard dash, and the high jump. Baldwin also won distinction of scoring the largest number of points of any man at the meet. In so doing he was recognized as the best all around high school man in Texas.

Steve West greeted the crowd with his habitual smile and displayed the ribbon that gave him the distinction of taking a fourth place at the meet in the discus throw.

William Powers was wearing a gold medal by reason of winning the state title to the tennis singles for boys. He had also constructed a cup out of tin bucket and was carrying this in front of him as he stepped off the train. Jewell Williams and Marjorie Bright were wearing silver medals for taking second place in girls' doubles. Had the two young ladies so chosen they could have been wearing gold medals, as in the final match their opponents did not make their appearance and Wichita Falls could have claimed the match by forfeiture. But displaying the same sportsmanship they had shown during the entire meet they met their opponents in the afternoon instead of cool part of the morning and the Georga West girls, being used to a low altitude, took the match in the warmest part of the day.

Girls Have Medals

Stella Winters and Marjorie Woolsey also were wearing gold medals and brought the cup that has been in Wichita Falls once before in 1921, Etta Madrey and Gwendolin Walters having won it in that year. The cup has been in existence only for three years and with Wichita Falls capturing two of the three times brings much recognition to this city. In the course of the debate in which the girls were contestants they met five teams and won the decision of 19 out of 21 judges, getting the unanimous decision in the finals when they defeated Kenedy.

Louise Scott, who did not arrive with the delegation, won a gold medal for taking first place in senior girls' declamation. She also won a large loving cup.

Ray Bland, representing this district in the senior boys' declamation, won in the preliminaries and went into the semi-finals where he narrowly missed going into the finals. Don Ruth Coffey, of the Alamo school, also won in the preliminaries in the music memory contest but was defeated in the semi-finals.

Medals Awarded

The warding of the various medals and cups took place Saturday night in the Law building of Texas university, at Austin, and according to Miss Kinsey, practically every second name called by the judges was that of a Wichita Falls delegate. This occurred so much that in the latter part of the awarding the large crowd began call-

GROSS OIL TAX BILL UP THIS WEEK IN SENATE

Production Measure Now Faces Critical Period In Legislature

BOTH HOUSES BUSY

Third Special Session Is Hinted At Around Capitol

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, May 6.—The opening of the fourth week of the special legislative session finds calendars in both houses crowded with many important measures. The house tomorrow will consider the eleemosynary appropriation bill and during the week will have all four major appropriation measures before it.

Oil Bill in Senate

The senate has before it tomorrow as special order the Coffee gross oil production tax bill. This measure has been the center of much opposition during the session and also attracted considerable attention during the regular session where it failed of final passage.

Tuesday the Ridgeway primary election bill is set as special order in the senate and Wednesday the Hull liquor bill. The senate also has for disposition early this week the Smith inheritance tax bill which was considered Saturday but not passed.

Measures Undisposed Of

Comparatively few of the important measures have been disposed of in either house. The lower branch has dealt principally with revenue and law enforcement measures while the senate has given attention to appropriation bills. The Dinkle income tax bill will be up again in the house although it failed of engrossment Saturday. An attemot to reconsider it will be made.

The text book committee's report recommending that the contracts let last December be declared void will be taken up this week. The Pope bill seeking to extend old contracts is on the senate calendar.

The progress of the present week probably will determine whether or not a third special session will be necessary. Leaders declare every effort will be made to dispose of important measures.

New York Legislature Increases Task Of Enforcement Officers

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 5. — Although Prohibition Commissioner Haynes today declared there would be no let down in prohibition enforcement in New York state, the general view here was that the action of the New York legislature in repealing the state enforcement code would make far more difficult the task of federal forces.

Mr. Haynes' view was that the action of the legislature would mean only that the federal government would have to provide in the largest measure possible agencies to make up the loss of "whatever co-operation may have been provided by the state."

A chief concern of enforcement officers was with the state border patrol withdrawn "the rum fleet" which has been active off the New York and New Jersey coasts, might transfer their operations to Canadian waters in the hope of finding easy access for their cargoes into New York across the international border.

Meanwhile another phase of the prohibition question—the supreme court bringing liquor into American waters—is regarded as likely to become a subject of diplomatic exchanges. The embassies of all the foreign governments still were without instructions today regarding the supreme court's decision.

New Notes Complete Returning Of Victory Bond Obligations.

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Bringing to an end the first phase of refinancing the government's great war time debt, the treasury tonight announced a new offering of $400,000,000 in treasury notes to complete the refunding and raising of the Victory notes which, when issued, aggregated more than four billion dollars. The new issue will bear 4¼ per cent interest and will mature March 15, 1927.

Situation Good

Secretary Mellon, at the same time made a statement on the government's fiscal situation in which he declared the treasury's refunding operations had worked out so successfully that all of the short dated debt might be retired gradually from surplus revenues of the government prior to 1928 and without embarassment to the heavy refinancing necessary in connection with maturity that year of the third liberty loan.

Debt Is Reduced

Mr. Mellon predicted that the gross public debt of the nation would be reducmed to about $22,400,000,000 at the end of the current fiscal year on June 30, a retirement of about $1,000,000,000 of federal securities since April 30, 1921. In this connection the secretary declared there would be a surplus in the treasury June 30 of $125,000,000, or $95,000,000 more than estimated by Director Lord of the budget who yesterday forecast that government receipts for the fiscal year would exceed expenditures by $30,000,000.

Matures in Three Years

The new offer of notes maturing in three years and 10 months was announced to tal $400,000,000, but provision has been made by the treasury to accept such additional amounts above that figure as may be represented by exchanges of the old for the new securities. The statement explained that interest to maturity would be allowed on the Victory notes which have not been called and which do not mature until May 20. Five days interest therefore is accorded holders of Victories who covert them into the new treasury notes which will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000 with interest coupons attached.

PROBE ASKED OF STATE RANGERS

Corpus Man Incensed At Being Searched By Officers

Associated Press Dispatch

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 6.—In protest against the action of state rangers in halting him while he was driving his automobile through the streets of Corpus Christi and subjecting him and his brother, Owen Dunne, to a thorough search, covering them meanwhile with guns, Kevin Dunne, local business man, has written to Adjutant General Barton, asking that "a thorough" investigation be made and proper redress be furnished.

Covered With Gun

Dunne said that he and his brother were driving through the streets on Saturday afternoon when they noticed that an automobile loaded with rangers was following them. He halted his car, he said, and the rangers came alongside, and one of them leaped out, covered him with a Winchester, and said that he was going to search the men and the car. During the search, Dunne alleges, he was kept covered with the gun, "as though arresting a dangerous criminal."

A force of rangers has been kept in Corpus Christi for several weeks, and were sent here at the beginning of the Johnston-Peters sheriff election contest hearing, at the instance of Governor Neff.

Long Distance Dancing Champion Takes Things Easy Sunday and Announces That She's Ready to Start in National Marathon Trials At Chicago Soon

Jennie May McLeRoy woke up Sunday, and after hopping around stiffly for a while decided it wasn't such a bad world after all.

She wore the laurels of world's champion long-distance dancer lightly, and wasn't half as impressed with what she had done as a flock of admirers who fired all kinds of questions at her when she appeared in public.

The girl's official record was announced Sunday morning by the timekeepers as being 132 hours and 38 minutes, she having set this between the time she started dancing at the American Legion hall at noon Monday, April 30, and the stopping time at 12:07 Sunday morning. She had nothing much to say about falling asleep in an automobile that was carrying her to Lake Wichita, where she was to continue dancing after having left the hall. "I was sleepy," was about all she knew of it.

Jennie May woke up late Sunday morning and walked for the first time to the third floor of her hotel, where a more comfortable room had been reserved. She went to bed again immediately, however, and slept until late in the afternoon. Last night she appeared again in public, and had dinner with friends at 7 o'clock, retiring shortly after.

Physically, she apeared to be in splendid condition, and made no complaint, aside from the fact that the arches of her feet pained. These, it was explained, had given trouble before, and being on them for a solid week without rest naturally caused a little trouble.

The blisters on her toes, caused in Dallas recently when she danced 80 hours without stopping, had almost entirely healed, and were giving no more trouble.

The rewards of the long grind began to come in rapidly Sunday. To begin with, a check for $60 on the Atlanta National bank of Atlanta, Ga., was presented Mis McLeRoy by Louis B. Race, her manager and dancing partner. It came, it was declared, merely as a gift of appreciation to the girl from Mr. Race for the work she had done. Congratulatory calls were flooding Miss McLeRoy's hotel room throughout the day.

Last night it was announced that Mr. Race, through Charles Astoria, business manager of the Race orchestra, that Miss McLeRoy was to be taken to Chicago soon, where she would enter a national dancing marathon being arranged there. Leading contestants from all over the United States are scheduled for competition in this event, and the little champion here is anxious to try her mettle with the acknowledged exponents of the long-distance dancing art from other sections. She had little to say concerning this coming feature, however.

Mr. Race stated last night that the orchestra would be in Wichita Falls for several days more, possibly a week, and that it might go from here direct to the Chicago trials.

Fort Worth Captures Deciding Game, 8 to 4

IT'S A TIGHT BALL GAME FOR SIX INNINGS AND THEN ROPE SNAPS AND AWAY SHE SCOOTS

Cats Change Aspect of Situation in Seventh—Tanner Has Big Day All Around While Whiteman pulls Sensational Catch in Fifth.

By "DINK" ADDINGTON

Everything was lovely at Athletic park yesterday afternoon—that is for about six innings. The Cats and the Spudders were performing for the populace and the Cats had a one-run advantage, 3 to 2, just enough to make it interesting. Then the seventh had to come along and five visitors spilled across the pan. The afternoon was blasted and the Cats won the final, 8 to 4.

Fincher started it and Dumovich ended it, with Darrough and Hodges working in between, Darrough being charged with the defeat. He had relieved Fincher in the first when the Cats got two runs and the Spudders had tied the count up for him. As said above, matters were progressing nicely until the seventh. Then it was nice enough—for the visitors.

Score in First

Calvo was the first man to face Fincher and walked. Berger went back of third and took Sears' pop and then came a break. Stellbauer rapped one to Berger which took a bad hop just as it reached Joe and bounced over his shoulder for a hit, Calvo taking third. Kraft doubled to center, scoring Calvo and Darrough was sent into the fray. Phelan also doubled to the board in center, Stellbauer scoring and Kraft going to third.

A very peculiar double play then unwrapped itself with Buddie Tanner in the stellar role. Haley hit to Tanner and after some hesitation, Kraft lit out for the plate and was trapped. Tanner ran him back to third where the Cat first sacker found Phelan all set to occupy the bag. Kraft slid into the cushion and Phelan hopped on. Tanner tagged Phelan and Kraft again started on a homeward cruise. Phelan was safe but Kraft was tagged out by Tanner and a moment later Phelan stepped off third for some reason and was also tagged out.

Spudders Also Count

Bescher and White were both tossed out by Pate in the first of the Spudders when Tanner singled through the box. Elliott drove a hop single off Tavener's chest and Tanner registered on Whiteman's harsh crack to center for a base. Grigsby singled off Haley's hoof, filling the bases and Tavener made a sweet play of Berger's wallop and forced Grigsby at second.

Tanner Hits Homer

The Spudders remained in the background until the third when Tanner again jumped into the calcium and tied the game up all by himself. Buddie larruped one in excess of the speed limit over the left fence and it was horse apiece for the old ball game.

Pate grew a trifle wild in the fifth and walked two men but he whiffed the next two and stayed out of trouble. The Cats weren't bothering Darrough to any extent and things were as smooth and slick as a new shoe shine.

A Side Show Catch

Phelan strolled in the fifth and took second on Haley's single. Tavener likewise singled and Phelan scored. George Whiteman then came through with one of the big features of the day and saved a peck of trouble with a sensational catch of Haworth's line drive. The ball was close in and George took it at his shoe tops on the dead run, flipping a couple of turns over but hanging on to the horsehide.

Something or other happened in the seventh. The details may be disheartening and it reads like the fall of Troy but the Cat batting order took a complete twirl around which accounted for five runs and a ball game.

Calvo doubled and took third on Sears' out. He scored on Stellbauer's double and Kraft walked. Phelan whistled a triple around center field, cleaning the bags and came in when Berger threw wide to first on Haley's grounder. Hodges relieved Darrough on the rubber. Tavener popped a single over Berger, scoring Haley and the next two hitters were retired.

The Spudders put on a rally in the eighth and it netted a pair of runs but they were lost in the gap which the Cats controlled. Whiteman fouled out and Grigsby was called out on strikes. Berger walked and took third on Bischoff's double down the left line. Ruth went in to hit for Hodges and for the second time on such an occasion he delivered with a single to center which scored Berger and Bischoff. Bescher crashed a double to left, Ruth pulling up at third but Tavener threw out White and the fun was snapped short.

Tanner had a large day both in the field and at bat with a homer and two singles and several nifty plays. Bischoff hit three out of four and Whiteman's catch came in on the afternoon's money. Five double plays were reeled off during the game, the Spudders getting three and the Cats two.

Sergeant McMann, a war veteran, who lost his eyesight in the World war, gave two vocal selections before the stands, prior to the opening of the game.

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

By "DINK" ADDINGTON

Seven out of 10 on the home lot. Pretty good record, eh?

Babe Ruth has been called in twice in the pinches on the local soil and has come across both times.

* * *

Five double plays in one game isn't seen every day. At least two of 'em were out of the ordinary class. Tanner's coupe in the first was a funny bone tickler, and the one Haley pulled in the seventh was a rather odd piece of business.

* * *

TROT 'EM OUT

Fincher couldn't hold 'em,
So Darrough took the hill;
For almost seven innings,
He neatly filled the bill.
But he crumbled in the seventh,
And Hodges got the call;
But out he stepped next inning,
To let Babe hit the ball.
Next came Cupie Dumovich,
Who lasted just one frame;
He might have lasted longer.
But one more closed the game.

* * *

There seemed to be a lot of disagreement with the umpires yesterday. Those gents can't always be right, but they got the might, and what they say goes. If you're out you're out; and if you don't shut up, you're clear out.

* * *

Rooters' club meeting this afternoon.

* * *

The biggest crowd of the year turned out for the game. There were 4,685 fans who paid admission, which is quite a bit better than opening day.

* * *

IT STAYS IN THERE

Roly-poly Whiteman,
Slid upon his chin;
The ball lit in his fielder's mit,
And there it stuck therein.

* * *

You can do all the slidin' you like, kid, so long as the ball sticks.

* * *

Buddie Tanner did about everything that could be asked of a third-sacker and kicked in a spoofy double play to boot.

* * *

HEADED SOUTH

Headed sunny southward,
To meet the clubs below;
The best of luck we wish you,
Go knock 'em for a row

Many Regulars Hitting Over .300 Mark In Texas League; Santone Regulars Leading All Sluggers

Among the 49 Texas leaguers hitting .300 or better through games of Thursday were an astonishing number of regulars. While two catchers top the circuit with figures better than .500, the day-to-day performers are led by two San Antonio players, Simon, the third sacker from the Michigan-Ontario league, and Ike Boone, always a redoubtable hitter. Simmons of Shreveport had poled 5 home runs by Thursday, Bescher of Wichita Falls had scored 19 runs, and Edington of Beaumont had pilfered 5 sacks.

Spring Stunts

Thirteen games in the league through Thursday had been won by 1 run, Galveston taking the only 1 to 0 game. There were only two shutouts. In 25 games, one team used only nine men, but only 10 were played in which both required only nine men. Three errorless games had been played but in 27 games, at least one team failed to make a bobble. In 15 games, over 10 runs were made, 19 being the high mark. In 28 games, 12 or more hits were made, 20 being the high mark. Three times already pitchers for one club have given 11 bases on balls. In one game, there were 11 strikeouts. Thirty-five games had been won by home clubs, 23 by road teams.

Bill Fincher Sold to Bloomington; Rabbit Darrough Not to Make Trip

Bill Fincher, husky right hander who was recalled to the Spudders this year, has been sold to the Bloomington club of the Three-I league, according to an announcement made last night by Manager Walter Salm. The purchase price was not made public.

Fincher started off well this spring but did not finish his lat two appearances on the mound. As the Texas league requires that all clubs be cut down to the player limit of 16 by Tuesday, Manager Salm had to begin to saw off and Bill was the first to go. One more must be cut off the squad to get within the limit.

Manager Salm also said that Rabbit Darrough, another righthander, would not be taken on the present road trip but added that he had not been released from the Spudder squad.

Fincher was with San Antonio and Beaumont in 1921 and was here part of last season, being sent to Omaha from whence he returned.

These two developments leave Salm with three lefthanders, Hodges, Dumovich and Feigert and two righthanders, Wheeler and Flaherty to take the invasion of South Texas.

12-Year-Old Girl Beats Boys In Pool

Frances Morris was the first to plunge into the waters of the Lake Wichita swimming pool, which opened yesterday. Little Miss Morris, 12-year-old swimmer, took the dive from the side, while several boys stood on the ground waiting for someone else to test the temperature of the water. With the first one in, the crowds soon became large and many swimmers were in the pool during the day.

The swimming pool, with other concessions at the lake, opened to the public yesterday. Crowds were at the pavilion throughout the day, promising popularity for the resort.

NILLES PUT TO SLEEP BY CARP

Georges Gets Knockout In Eighth For French Title

PARIS, May 6.—Georges Carpentier knocked out Marcel Nilles in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round bout for the French heavyweight title this afternoon.

Although he won, Carpentier, according to his ring side observers, added nothing to his reputation. It was noticeable that the old Carpentier spirit was lacking.

Georges was in difficulty as early as the second round, and weathered the third only through the inexperience and lack of combativity of his opponent. The experts were of the opinion that Carpentier's attempt to stage a comeback, although it ended in a victory for him, failed to demonstrate any of the fighting qualities required of a champion, and that had the former French champion been facing a real battler the fight would have ended in the second round, with Georges the loser.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

What is the proper way to "wind up?" Answered by

Grover Cleveland Alexander, pitcher, Chicago Cubs, who has pitched 80 shut-outs during his 11 years of big league baseball, and won two-thirds of all his games.

* * *

Wind up speedily. When your arm is brought high above your head, be sure the ball is concealed by your glove. If you do not do this, base runners get a chance to steal and batters can tell by the way you hold the ball what you are going to pitch to them. Use a wind-up, yes, but don't use it as a flag to tell what you are going to pitch, or make it an invitation to steal bases.

ALL FANS URGED TO ATTEND MASS MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

Rooters Club Will Be Organized At Palace Theatre

This afternoon, a few minutes before 3:30 o'clock, every fan who can make any possible excuse to get away from any other influence should begin to wend his way toward the Palace theater, where the supporters of the game will be handed into a loyal organization to be styled the Rooters club.

The purpose of the organization is to get behind the Spudders, lend them every needed support, and to perfect an association which will stand for the betterment of the game in every way, thereby making it all the more enjoyable to the fan himself.

Ground-floor plans were laid at a Spudder supper last Friday night, but definite arrangements were held up pending the will of the majority who are to gather at the theater this afternoon.

Everybody Welcome

The field is open, not only to every fan in Wichita Falls, but to everyone in the surrounding territory who wishes to become allied with this live organization. This includes the feminine fans, as well as the masculine, and all are urged to turn out to the meeting this afternoon.

Judge Weldon and Walter Cline have been asked to preside over the business this afternoon until the organization gets under way. The idea of the club will be more definitely explained and many matters which are bound to come up will be given due consideration.

It is likely that the club will plan at least one trip to Fort Worth some Sunday when the Spudders are playing there.

D. L. Tipton has made arrangements for the meeting at the theater.

Rain-making is a futile undertaking, according to the United States department of agriculture. It is true that in the laboratory a small amount of moisture can be precipitated by the use of special equipment. However, to produce one inch of rain over one acre, approximately 113 tons of moisture would have to be drawn up into the air and then precipitated. The cloud that spreads over the house-tops represents billions of horse-power; and even if some artificial means were found to cause rain, only a small amount of precipitation could result. The various schemes to make rain and control atmospheric conditions are useless, according to the weather bureau.

ing out "Wichita Falls" every time a medal was presented.

Stella Winters, Louise Scott and Marjorie Woolsey won scholarships to the University of Texas by taking first places. Marjorie Woolsey and Stella Winters also won a set of "World Books."

Different ones of the delegation upon being interviewed gave different statements.

Leo Baldwin, who was high point man at the entire meet, and who took three first places said, "I won by not giving up when some one was leading me and because it was my wish to bring back all the honors possible to Wichita Falls high school. Coach Jones was entirely responsible for what I did and to him belongs all the credit."

Credit For Coaches

Marjorie Bright opined that, "We took second place because we fought all the time and never yielded an inch. I have two more years in high school and I am going to practice tennis every day of those two years and try and bring more honors to Wichita Falls high school.

Steve West declared he "won a place at the meet by putting every thing he had in it and through the coaching of Coach Jones.

Stella Winters and Marjorie Woolsey made the same statement, "We deserve no credit at all for bringing the cup a second time to Wichita Falls but the credit should go to Miss Kinsey who has labored with us and coached us the entire year."

Miss Junita Kinsey, head of the high school public speaking department said, "We let the people of Texas know that Wichita Falls was at the meet and I am proud of my boys and girls."

Coach Jim Jones said, Wichita Falls won 38 points at the state meet, which was more than enough to win the entire meet, and we won those points by the high school representatives' hard fighting. I am proud of the Wichita Falls showing at the meet because they conducted themselves like sportsmen."

On the train that the Wichita Falls delegation arrived on were the Electra representatives, which won first place in the track events at the meet. Superintendent Dinsmore had a mammoth loving cup in his hands that was presented to the Electra team for their record. Thoms, of Electra, who took first and one second places, and who broke a state record in the 440 yard dash was a member of the Electra crew. Thomas scored 13 points and was next to Baldwin in individual scoring.

Wichita Falls entered in 14 events, went into the semi-finals in 13, and place in the finals 10 times.

Katy Earnings For 1922 Drop, Report Of Receiver Shows

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas lines in 1922 earned a return of 4.24 per cent on property investment, as against 5.1 per cent in 1921, according to the annua report of Receiver C. E. Schaff, made public today. M., K. & T. investment in road and equipment increased $5,113,495 during to the annual report of Receiver were $53,035,701, or 13 per cent less than in the preceding year. Decreased revenues were offset, however, by a reduction of $10,372,038, or 21 per cent, in operating expense. Taxes for the year increased $313,913, or 12 per cent. The 1922 income available for interest was $10,986,588, a decrease of $1,752,653 over the preceding year. Net income for 1922 was $4,117,477.

In view of the adverse effect of the shop strike on operating expenses, it is interesting to note that, despite the Katy's decreased gross revenue, the ratio of operating expenses to operating revenues was 72.11 per cent in 1922, as against 70.43 per cent in 1921. The ratio of transportation expenses to operating revenues was also decreased, it being 33.61 per cent for 1922, as against 36.4 per cent the preceding year.

The M., K. & T. report for 1922 covers the last calendar year of operation by the receiver, and therefore affords opportunity for comparison with 1015, the last fiscal year preceding the receivership, which indicates something of the progress of the M., K. & T. during the receivership. From 1915 to 1922 there was an increase of $22,136,943, or 68 per cent, in the road's gross operating revenues, and an increase of $16,816,110, or 73 per cent, in its operating expenses.

COST OF A KAISER

Germany has paid the European allies in cash, ships and lands, and materials of various kinds total of 100,000,000 marks, equivalent to about 20,000,000 American dollars. These were the figures prepared by the German treasury department and submitted to Washington. Included in this total is an allowance for the relinquishment of Alsace-Lorraine.

Kingly rule comes high. The former kaiser builded a great war machine and defied the world and it required a combination of the most of the nations of the earth to destroy his military machine and drive him from the throne.

Before the coming of the world war, Germany had a merchant marine that of the foreign commerce of the world. Germany has a merchant marine that covered the seven seas, second only to that of Great Britain.

Germany had a magnificent military machine. Germany had cables around the world. Germany had a monopoly of dyes and other products or articles of commerce. Germany had foreign colonies in the Occident and the Orient.

Germany paid the price for the kaiser's war. Germany lost its foreign commerce, its navy, its merchant marine, its colonies, its cable lines that belted the earth, its two provinces taken from the French in 1872.

This was not all it lost. Millions of its sons died in battle and millions were maimed or disabled for life. This is part of the price that a magnificent fighting machine cost Germany and the wealth producers of that country are those who paid.

"War is criminal; war should be outlawed." This sounds all right but man has been a fighting animal from the beginning and unless it is possible for man to change his nature, he will be a fighting animal until the end of time.

There have been 12 wars since the world war. Nations and tribes are warring today. Even in the more civilized lands they continue to fly at each others throats over minor matters or musty issues or happenings of dead ages.

A young clubman of Atlanta ran down and killed two unfortunate workmen in the streets. He was found guilty and a merciless judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $250 or six months in jail. This young clubman has a father. His father has money. He made a settlement out side of the court with the widows of the victims of the accident whereby each would receive $11,500. Money talks.

John Bull has offered Henry Ford a free hold on a site including half a mile of river frontage for a new automobile works. Henry's grandfather came from Cork. Henry established a plant in Cork years ago.

TEXAS A WINNER

Texas is the spinach state. More than 600 car loads had been shipped out of Laredo up to April 14 to all parts of the country and it is estimated that more than 800 car loads will be shipped before the close of the season. Whether it be spinach, onions or oil, Texas is a winner.

BACKWARD GEORGIA

West Branch, Iowa, is on the map. It is the birthplace of Herbert Hoover and its inhabitants have nominated him for the presidency in 1924. Hope, Michigan, nominated Henry Ford a week earlier. Hardcrabble, Alabama, has proposed Oscar W. Underwood for the pace. Giant oaks from little acorns grows. What is Georgia going to do for McAdoo?

A DIRT FARMER'S PLAN

John Bull has decided to empower the ministry of health to contribute an annual sum not to exceed six pounds sterling per house, for dwellings provided by local authorities, the payment to extend over a period of 20 years.

Furthermore the government is to assist in private building enterprises where the value of the house does not exceed 1,500 pounds and also to acquire and for building purposes. John Bull must have stolen the idea from the dirt farmer, George B. Terrell of Texas.

Florida has a sheriff who is said to have received "$20 a head" for every prisoner he delivered to a convict camp controlled by a lumber company. And the civilized world is damming the Russian Reds for their barbarous acts.

Fanny Randon, attractive in an old-fashioned kind of way, caring more for her home and husband and two children, than for society and inclined to be narrow-minded and jealous.

Helena and Gregory, their two children.

Peyton Morris, 30, Princeton man, good looking and the husband of Claire Morris, a stunning young woman, broad minded and intelligent.

Anette Sherwin, unmarried at 30, a bit daring, rather attracted by Lee, a friend of Mina Raff, successful moving picture actress, much sought after.

Cytherea, a beautiful French doll from Paris, with alluring eyes, black hair and a bewitching mouth. Bought by Lee in a shop. Unable to resist her charm, he has taken her home and placed her on the mantle of the dining room. Gowned in plumb colored silk, with hoop skirt and tight bodice, she has a strange appeal to him. He had named her after the Cytherian name for the goddess of love. At the country club Lee runs into Anette and Peyton. Peyton is obviously pleased at the prospect of Mina Raff's visiting in Eastlake.

A group on their way to a dinner dance at the country club stop at the Randons' for cocktails and Lee Meets Mina Raff. He finds her interesting, especially as she is one who seems to understand the attraction the doll Cytherea has for him. At the club he cuts in on Peyton and sits out a dance with Mina.

He joins Anette and three others in the Lucians' car where they drink cocktails.

While in the car, Lee kisses Anette, but she picks a quarrel with him and they return to the club. Fanny reproves him for going out to the car and expresses surprise at his interest in Mina Raff. Peyton Morris has made himself conspicuous by his attentions to Mina and Fanny suggests that Lee speak to him about it. Lee declines.

Lee ascertains that through a certain reorganization of his company he stands to make $34,000. Claire announces that Peyton is to leave her for Mina Raff and Fanny is horrified at her acquiescence. Lee tells Peyton that Mina is too engrossed in her art to remain with him.

Peyton Morris disappeared as Lee found Fanny at his shoulder.

"What did he say?" she demanded. "I have avoided him all morning."

"An uncommon lot for Peyton," Lee acknowledged. "I almost think he has been jarred out of his self-complacency."

"The little beast!" she exclaimed viciously. "Claire asked me to tell you that she had something for you to see."

"I'll go over tonight, after dinner," said Lee.

A month ago he would have commanded and developed an enticing situation; but now, for Lee Randon, it was without possibilities, hardly more than perfunctory.

"Lee," said Claire some hours later, "you will never guess what I want to tell you. "Mrs. Grove, Mina's cousin by marriage in New York wrote me a letter. It's a scream."

He took the sheet of note paper; it was grey with an address on East Sixty-sixth street, embossed in pale vermillion, and had an indefinable scent. The writing was decisive:

"My Dear Mrs. Morris,

"It is so difficult for me to express my disturbance at what Mina Raff has just told me, that I am asking to see you here, at my house in New York. Engagements make it difficult for me to leave at present. I hope you will not find this impertinent from an older woman, threatened very much as you in her affections by an impossible calamity—"

The signature, "Savina Grove," and crispness of a name often attached to opinions and papers of authority.

"That's rather cool," he agreed.

"Cool! The woman's demented! No, I suppose she thinks I am an honest wronged woman or something objectionable of the sort. I was going to throw it away when I kept it to amuse you."

"It does, Claire; and I'm glad to see it; impertinent as she admits it may be, you must consider. As Mrs. Grove writes, you are both caught."

"If you think I'll go see her you are crazier still."

"I realize you won't; but I'm your uncle and perhaps I had better go to New York and try what can be done there, I got along well enough with Mina herself; and perhaps though it's not likely, Mrs. Grove has some influence."

"Of course, I can't stop you," Claire said; her hand strayed over his, on the piano. "I'm simple enraged at myself, Lee. Why, I should let him go with cheers—except where I was sorry for him—but I can't. He is such a sweet child; and, you see, he was all mine."

Fanny was utterly opposed to the proposed visit to Mrs. Grove which, Lee gathered, Claire had half supported.

"It's really too foolish," his wife told him next day; "what can Mrs. Grove and you have to say to each other? And you won't get anywhere with Mina Raff. Indeed, Lee, I think it isn't quite dignified of you."

"That won't bother me," he replied indulgently. "I was wondering if you'd come with me. You could buy clothes and see some shows."

"You don't realize how much there is to do here, getting the servants and the children satisfactorily arranged," said Fanny. "You might telephone me after you're there; and, if you didn't come back at once, perhaps I could manage it."

It was past four and the appropriate hour for afternoon tea when Lee reached the Grove's house.

The house, non-committal on the outside, was, Lee saw, within a rich undisturbed accumulation of the decorative traditions of the eighteenth-eighties.

In the close incongruity of its preserved Victorianism Mrs. William Loyd Grove startled Lee Randon by her complete expression of a severely modern air.

She was dressed for the street in a very light brown suit, rigidly simple, with a small black three-cornered hat, a sable skin about her neck, and highly polished English brogues with gaiters.

Mrs. Grove was thin—no, he corrected that impression, she was slight—her face, broad at the temples, narrowed gracefully to her chin; her eyes were a darker blue than the velvet; and her skin at once was evenly pale and had a suggestion of transparent warmth.

The slender firm hand she extended, her bearing and the glimpse of a round throat, had lost none of the slender flexibility of youth.

She was, he silently continued his conclusion, past forty, but by not more than a year, or a year and a half. All that her signature suggested was true; she was more forcible, decisive, than he had expected.

Money and place, with an individual authentic strength of personality, gave her voice its accent of finality, her words their abruptness, her manner an unending ease.

"Mrs. Morris regretted she couldn't come," Lee told her inanely; and his hostess replied:

"I can't at all say that I believe you—I was so upset I couldn't resist the attempt."

He nodded, a shade annoyed by the briskness of her attack.

"We are immensely concerned about Minia," Mrs. Grove went on. "You see, with our son killed in the war, practically she has been our only child. She is a daughter of a cousin of William's. Mina, I must admit, has become very difficult; I suppose because of her genius. She is perfectly amenable about everything in the world, until her mind gets set, like concrete, and then she is out of reach. Tell me a little about Mr. and Mrs. Morris."

Lee Randon spoke sharply for a minute or two, and a frown gathered on his hearer's brow. "Why," she observed, "it is worse than I had hoped. But I should have guessed from the name—Peyton Morris. I am very sorry; you are fond of her, of Claire, that is evident."

"I should not have come here for any other reason," he admitted. "I am not much of a meddler; it is so dangerous for everyone concerned. Then it might be that this was the best for all three of them."

"What a curious, contradictory thing for you to say," she commented, sturying him. "You mustn't let William hear that; he's far worse than I am!"

"I don't mean we can proceed from that attitude," Lee explained, "it was a sort of digression. I want to do whatever is possible to break it up; yes, purely for Claire."

"I hope we may succeed." Her voice showed doubt. "What a pity the Morrises have turned out thoroughly nice. It is so much easier to deal with vulgar people. I can see now what it was in the young man that captured Mina; she'd like that type—the masculine with an air of fine linen. What is there we can do?"

"I rather trusted you to find that."

"How can I? What hold have we on her? Mina is getting this nonsensical weekly sum; her contract runs for two years yet; and then it will be worse. Outrageous! I tell her she isn't worth it. Have you talked to her about Mrs. Morris? Mina is strangely sensitive, and if you can find it, has a very tender heart."

"I might do that," he suggested. "You've discouraged me, though; I suppose I had the idea that you could lock her up on bread and water."

She laughed. "An army of her admirers would break into the house; millions of people have voted Mina their favorite." Lee rose, and his expression showed his increasing sense of the uselessness of their efforts.

"You mustn't give up," she said quickly; "you never can tell about Mina. You will come here for dinner, certainly; I'll send the car to your hotel at 7:30, and you will bring your bag. We can't argue over that, can we? William will enjoy having you very much. Do you mind my saying he'll be relieved? He is such a Knickerbocker! I needn't add, Mr. Randon, that you shall be entirely free; whenever you want to go down town Adamson will take you."

The exact moulding of her body was insolent. "Well, then, for the moment—"

She gave him no chance at refusal.

* * *

Lee didn't want to go to the Grove house; it would complicate things with Fanny; and, if William did enjoy him, Lee Randon, would he enjoy William? It was questionable in the present state of his mind. Dinner, a servant informed him, would be at 8. His room in the Grave house, richly draped and oppressive, had a bed with a high curved one, headboard from which a heavy canopy, again of velvet and again crimson, reached to the floor at its foot; and by the side of the bed ran a long cushion over which he repeatedly stumbled.

His immediate necessity was to telephone Fanny; she was delighted at the sound of his voice; but when he told her what had happened, where he was, an increasing irritation crept into her voice.

"I can't understand it at all," he heard her say, so clearly that it reconstructed her, expression and probable dress and setting, completely.

"You asked me to come vore and shop, and go to the theater with you; and now that I have everything arranged, you go to the Groves'. It seems to me most perculiar!"

He couldn't help it, he replied, with a slight responsive sharpening of his own speech. Tomorrow or early the next day, Lee thought, Fanny could meet him and do as they planned. But Fanny refused to agree; it would now, be a needless expense.

"Have a good time," Fanny said; "you will, anyhow, with the Raff woman. I suppose Mrs. Grove, who seems to get everything she wants, is fascinating as well."

"Indeed, I don't know, Fanny!" he exclaimed, his patience almost exhausted. "It hasn't occurred to me to think about her. I'm sorry you won't do what I suggest; it's not different from what we first thought of."

"Goodbye," she answered, reluctantly; "the children are here and send their love."

The receiver in his home was abruptly, unmistakably replaced.

PROMINENT WOMAN IN MUNICIPALTIES LEAGUE

Associated Press Dispatch

DALLAS, Texas, May 6.—Mrs. Marie Ley Hemple, 54, prominent in fraternal and musical circles, and in the activities of American pen women and the Dallas pen women's organizations, died Saturday night, following a brief illness. She was a native of Illinois.

Lasker Booms Trade For Leviathan By Featuring Orchestra in Vaudeville

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the shipping board, and advertising manager of the administration, has turned to vaudeville for the purpose of advertising the Leviathan, pride of the United States-owned fleet of passenger vessels. The shipping board is trying to place the Leviathan before the American public as a real competitor of the best foreign-owned passenger vessels.

Mr. Lasker's promotion is the Leviathan orchestra, which has just opened in New York for a two months' swing around the Keith vaudeville circuit. The act opens with a representation of the Leviathan orchestra sitting on deck as the big liner pulls out of New York harbor. Lower Broadway, the Jersey shore, the Statue of Liberty, thence the ocean and thence the docks at Southampton, are all impressively shown in the background as the musical stars delight the audience. The musicians were recruited from Paul Whiteman's New York jam orchestra, so that between them and the impressive scenic effects, the act is enthusiastically described as a "knock-out."

Shipping board officials say that reservations for space on the initial voyage of the Leviathan on July 4 have been so heavy that the idea of carrying over a large guest party of Washington officials and distinguished residents has been abandoned. Instead, the Leviathan will make a five-day trial cruise to Cuban waters early in June, on which the shipping board will invite a party of officials. The junket originally planned was abandoned because of conflict between shipyard managers and Mr. Lasker over the question of making up the guest list.

Hundred Million New Members For Church in Year

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 6.—Final plans for a drive to gain 100,000,000 new members in a year, preliminary discussion for organization and operation of a centrally located school to teach the Bible fundamentals, and the putting of the new Sunday school text into hundreds of schools in the world, were the outstanding features of the session of the World's Fundamental conference here. Minneapolis was chosen as meeting place for next conference in 1924.

At the morning session officers, directors and committees were named. In the afternoon, Dr. John Thomas of London and J. Frank Norris delivered strong sermons, while in the evening Dr. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis Baptist church in Toronto, Canada, closed the actual meetings of the conference with a stirring sermon on "The Atonement."

Deviating from the subject of the conference, which was to tear the veil from evolution and send it staggering to defeat, Dr. Shields preached a scholarly sermon on the diety, and refrained from any sensational charges or condemnation whatever.

Peace Moves With Mexico To Be Started

Chas. B. Warren and John Barton Payne, selected to represent the United States, will be accompanied upon their departure tonight for the Mexican capital, by way of New Orleans and Laredo, by Matthew Hannah, chief of the Mexican affairs bureau of the state department. They are to arrive in Mexico City May 11.

OLD STUFF

Although we've heard there's nothing new
In human recreations,
That everything we think and do
Was done by ancient nations,
That golf and tennis and baseball
Are games, but slightly varied,
The young Egyptians played the fall
Tut-ankh-amen was buried,
We said: "There's one thing that will prove
That peoples are advancing
And that the world is on the move—
And that's this non-stop dancing!"

"Though people danced in times gone by
With feet both flat and clever,
We'll wager that they didn't try
To keep it up forever.
No doubt the caveman used to flit
And caper with his dearie,
But he would drop the Jane and quit
When reasonably weary.
No archaeologist can trace
The form of grim saltation,
That in the present years of grace
Entrances all the nation."

Yet vain our boasts, for we have found
That in the days departed
Our earliest forebears danced around
Until they sank, faint hearted.
In fact, the neolithic man,
Bull-thewed and tatoo-checkered,
In history's morning first began
Fox-trotting for a record.
We thought—we men of modern mind—
That we were the creators
Of this great game, but now we find
We're only imitators.

SUSPICIOUS

Nobody ever dreamed that Uncle Andrew Mellon had presidential ambitions till he proposed a reduction of the income tax.

POSITIVELIY TRAGIC

A bucketshop proprietor was overheard complaining recently that it is always the biggest suckers that get away.

DANGEROUS

By raising the price of sugar the speculators are poaching on the housewives' preserves.

HARDLY PATRIOTIC

The only 100 per cent Americans we have in this country are kept on reservations and not permitted to follow their tribal customs.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

WHEN TO QUIT

"I can't get anywhere here," says the unsuccessful office worker. "I'd quit if I could get another job."

It is likely that this young man will quit before he gets another job.

But it isn't so likely that he can't get anywhere in the position he occupies.

That, more probably, is because he isn't trying to get anywhere.

It is perfectly true that circumstances sometimes force men into places where there is no opportunity.

Humanity being far from perfect, it is quite likely that a man will find himself working for an employer who is wholly selfish, and whose only purpose is to get the last ounce out of the men in his establishment.

But men have risen, and risen high, while working for just such employers as these.

For the very fact that they are selfish makes them desirous of keeping the men who can show them how to save and make money. And it would be poor economy to discharge a man who was making a thousand dollars a week for the firm merely because he wanted an occasional advance of $20 a week in salary.

Perhaps three-quarters of the men who quit jobs because "they can't get anywhere" in them could get somewhere if they tried.

What they forget is that one can never get anywhere in any job without unusual exertion, without bein gproof against discouragement, and willingness to adapt oneself to his particular employment.

A good many railroad presidents have risen from work on the section. But they stayed on the section long enough to learn the railroad business from the bottom. And it was the way they did their work with pick and shovel that first attracted the attention of the powerful men higher up.

Few indeed are the places which completely hide superior ability.

The man who can do more and better work than his fellows—and is willing to do it—will always attract attention.

He may think that he is not getting anywhere in his job, but sooner or later he is getting just as far ahead as he would in any other job.

The young man who after careful thought makes up his mind that progress is impossible in his present place will do well to quit.

Paderewski would not have been successful as a bricklayer. He needed the piano to express his genius.

But be perfectly sure that you are not running away from opportunity before you quit.

If other men are advancing in the same employment, you can provided you are anything like their equal in brains and energy.

Quit if you must. But don't quit till you know that you are stagnating.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

The aspects are best during the early part of the day, being good for business and mechanical pursuits, or matters connected with property, repairs and improvements. The rest of the day is not so very good, yet it is not really a bad period, but not one to choose for important affairs.

A child born today will have a good mind, but will need constant encouragement in order to succeed.

Great things are promised you if today is your birthday. You are subtle and steadfast of purpose. There is a combination, too, of mental assimilation and clear reasoning that will go far in making a worthwhile career for you.

There will be many advantages supplied you in early life and still greater ones will be annexed through marriage. Make the most of your many opportunities and choose your friends very wisely, for there is danger of some misunderstanding, where any false sense of security will be fatal.

Your brain is one of great rarity in these times, as it is both sure and consistent in material throught and never falsely brilliant. It is methodical to the point of wasting time unnecessarily in details, but it is always reliable and you should trust its process more than you do.

You are sensitive to all the finer shades of feeling in the arts of music and your taste for literature is extremely acute and critical. You should have throughout your lifetime an occasional creative impulse and you should certainly write them when you are in this mood, as you will have a quality of description which should bring you some recognition.

You are one of quick attractions and likewise quick repulsions but usually too kind hearted to show your aversions. In fact you seldom reveal your innermost thoughts, but live and feel in silence.

You will find your most congenial companions under the signs of Scorpio, October 23rd to November 21st, and Capricorn December 20th to January 21st. A marriage contracted with anyone born under either of these will be a great success materially, mentally and spiritually

HOW TO BUILD, FINANCE BETTER HOMES HAPPINESS AND FURNISH A HOME

Women Should Strive to Get Beauty In Home

By GERTRUDE FISHER

Every woman or girl who reads the "Better Homes Page" in The Record News on homemaking does so because she knows that some day, from the bricks or stone or wood that go to make a house, she must create a Home.

The house may shelter the family, but is home merely a structure of a building, or is it that something which makes life better for each member of the family—that something that gives health to the tired body and nerves and refreshens the mind.

Home is wherever harmony exists and harmony exists wherever there is order.

There is nothing more pathetic in life than a household in which no organization exists. No systematic direction of activities exist—no appreciation of Heaven's first law of order. The haphazard, aimless living in such homes leaves an unmistakable stamp upon the occupants.

Without knowing it, the housewife in such a household suffers infinitely more friction, loss of time, strength and money than it would cost her to keep her housekeeping in good hand.

Honesty and simplicity in the smaller and more unpretentious homes, perfectly equipped for labor saving and convenience is the only feasible means of bringing home organization about. An elaborately decorated or furnished home, poorly equipped makes for pretense and sham. Make your home a place to live in—not an ornament for the neighbors.

There are so many labor saving devices now on the market—kitchen cabinets, heat regulators and electrical servants for almost every problem—equipment for saving a thousand steps for each and every room—even the kitchen, with a little careful planning, can be made a place one "loves to get into" rather than "a place one loves to get out of."

This ideal is to create a page of helpful suggestions and practical information to the home builder and the housewife.

Shade For Any Hour of The Day

The square house has so many advantages that it will no doubt always continue to be popular. It affords a compact and convenient arrangement of the interior, and because of its simple lines, builds most economically. Much of the effect of such a house, however, depends on the treatment of the wall surfaces. In this house, the face brick solves the problem admirably. The architect has embellished the walls with panels of simple but beautiful brick work, and given additional interest to the composition by his attractive treatment of the front porch and entrance doorway.

SAVE FOR YOUR HOME

Last year Herbert Hoover started off the Better Homes week campaign by saying that no man ever fought for a boarding house. The inference is, of course, that a man would go through all sorts of dangers for his home. The home instinct has proved in many a man even greater than the instinct of self-preservation because home represents the abiding place of those he cares more for than for himself.

Fifty-three per cent of the people living in homes are renters. Theirs the supreme task of making other people's properties express their own individuality. The tenant may make a good home; he is bound to do so by trying in the same way that the person does who lives in his own home. The owner, however, has the pleasure of possession in living in a house on which he makes improvements to express his standards of beauty and comfort. Undoubtedly ownership gives a person a more established place in a community than is usually given the tenant so far as business is concerned.

The "Own your home idea" is a great incentive to saving, is a great incentive to the possession of a home. Small savings persistently made are foundations for the final investment in a home which will become the mainstay of the family in later years. A weekly deposit of one to five dollars may not be greatly missed, yet it soon amounts up to surprising sums, as the table shows:

Years	$1.00 Weekly Deposit	$2.00 Weekly Deposit	$3.00 Weekly Deposit	$4.00 Weekly Deposit	$5.00 Weekly Deposit
1	52.79	105.57	158.35	211.13	263.90
2	107.70	215.41	323.00	430.80	538.50
3	164.85	329.72	494.56	659.42	824.26
5	286.24	572.57	858.83	1,145.14	1,431.40
10	636.62	1,273.03	1,910.10	2,564.66	3,183.50
15	1,067.24	2,134.53	3,201.69	4,268.86	5,336.22
20	1,597.79	3,195.86	4,793.58	6,391.42	7,989.42

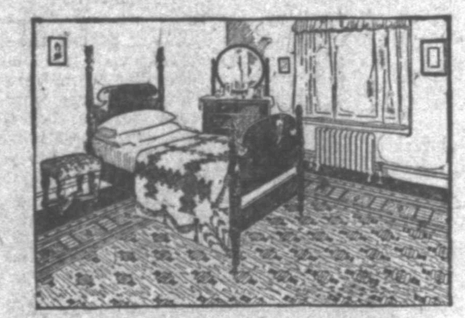

Home owning has a stabilising effect upon community life, since families who own their own homes are more interested contributors of time and money to civic welfare.

HOME DECORATIONS

A house can only be considered properly furnished when it meets the real needs of the occupants. Comfortable chairs, sofas, and beds, good tables and soft carpets, make up the most important objects, and these should be the best that the family can afford. No definite rule can be applied to the arrangement of the furniture, but balance and wall space should be considered first. Where a single opening is placed in the center of the wall, or like openings at equal distances, the wall spaces will be in balance; in the case of unequal openings, the wall spaces will be out of balance.

At balanced wall spaces, place pieces of furniture of relative size and contour. These may be tables, chairs, sofas and pictures. Leave the more intimate and personal furniture, such as favorite chairs, sewing tables and footstool, for grouping at one side or in the center of the room. Lay all carpets and rugs parallel with the longest side of the room.

In a room with balanced wall spaces, place against the longest spaces the largest pieces of furniture—the piano, the bookcase, the davenport — grouping perhaps a table, mirror and chair against a smaller and opposite wall space. This permits the comfortable chairs, tables, lamps, and pottery to relieve the stiffness, allowing them to be grouped in the center of the room.

"BETTER FURNISHED HOMES"

Does not mean extravagantly furnished homes—pretentious homes—nor costly furnishings. A home to be proud of is fitted with furniture of good quality—and in good taste.

When you consider the comfort and enjoyment that is derived from good furniture, it becomes an investment necessary to round out and complete the happiness and good cheer of the family circle. No matter what the taste; regardless of the expenditure to be made, you will find it a pleasure to make your selections here.

We will take in your old furniture as part payment on new and have real bargains in slightly used Furniture.

COTTON LOSES DURING WEEK

Trade Slows Down After Reports From Trade Centers

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW ORLEANS, May 6.—Prices were depressed in the cotton market throughout last week. At the highest levels the trading months were still six to one points under the close of the preceding week, while at the lowest they were 75 to 172 points. The close was at net losses on the week of 49 to 144 points. July traded as low as 25.02 and closed at 25.30; October traded as low as 22.96 and closed at 23.20. These were new low levels for the movement which has been under way for some time. In spots department there was a loss of 150 on middling, which closed at 26.50 against 18.12 on the close of this week last year.

Trade Slows Down

Much of the selling of the week was caused by private reports of slowing down of trade, both textile and general, which led to almost constant talk of curtailment of production by the mills of the country. At the end of the week some market circulars expressed the opinion that the amount of comment in this direction was not justified by the short time it has actually been under way, but few mills appeared to be running on reduced time while some southern millis reported that they still were working overtime.

Production Holds At High Levels

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 6.—With production still holding at high levels, interest in financial and business circles centered during the past week in the rather pronounced weakness shown by the chief speculative markets.

The average of industrial snares listed on the New York stock exchange declined four points, cotton lost nearly 2 cents and wheat reacted approximately 4 cents. Among other commodities which show a tendency to decline were copper, lead, rubber and sugar. Meanwhile publications of the price indices compiled by Dun and Bradstreet brought out the point that the movement was a continuation of the heavier tendency in prices which became evident during April.

Beauty Revue At Galveston May 13

Special Dispatch to Record News

GALVESTON, Texas, May 6.—Everything is in readiness for Galveston's nationally known classic, the fourth annual Bathing Girl Revue, which will be held Sunday, May 13.

With every railroad and interurban line offering special rates, the largest crowd that ever attended the event is expected. Last year more than 100,000 persons lined the boulevard as the prade of pulchritude passed in review.

This year's revue promises to be more pretentious than any that has preceded it. The number of entries is far greater, and from all indications the costumes worn by the entrants this year will surpass those of the past in both beauty and design. More states will be represented in the fourth annual revue than were in the three preceding ones. California has an entrant, a former Mack Sennett bathing beauty, while Louisiana is entering its nationally-known belle, the "Miss New Orleans" of the Atlantic City revue last summer.

Viscount Lascelles, the husband of Princess Mary, is an enthusiastic collector of old glass.

BUILDING CODE HEARING TODAY

Council To Consider New Set Of Rules For City

Discussion of a proposed building code for this city promises to be the chief item of importance at tonight's city council meeting. The matter has been brought up numerous times in the past and action is now being taken by city officials looking to the drafting of such a code for Wichita Falls.

May Name Committee

If the council passes favorably on the matter tonight and is of the opinion that a code is needed, a committee will probably be appointed to make the ruling. It seems to be the sentiment of the various commissioners and Mayor Collier that a code would be a good thing for the city and in all likelihood work will soon be started.

Fire Chief J. L. McClure has advocated such a code for years.

Other matters scheduled for the attention of the commissioners tonight include paving and those of a routine nature.

Four Leave Here For Penitentiary

Four men who have been sentenced to terms of various length in the state penitentiary, were taken in charge Sunday by Bud Russell, a representative of the Huntsville prison, and started on their way to the pen. All have been convicted and sentenced within the past two weeks.

Those leaving Sunday were E. B. Clark, sentenced to two years after having plead guilty to embezzlement, A. A. Patterson, convicted and sentenced for four years on charges of pipe theft, E. Rigsby and John Crosby, one year each for violating the prohibition laws.

Car Wrecked In Eihth Street Crash

Following a crash of cars at the corner of Eighth and Bluff streets at 7 o'clock Sunday night, a man, the driver of a Ford, which was practically demolished, was arrested by Joe Blocker, county traffic officer, and lodged in the county jail on charges of drunkenness. According to the officer who made the arrest, the man was under the influence of liquor.

The other car in the crash, driven by a woman, was injured only slightly. Bystanders stated that the crash was due to an attempt made by the man to pass in front of the other car on the left side of the street.

Sheriff's Office Nearly Wrecked When High-Powered Hootch Bottles Explode

Pop—bang—crash.

No, it wasn't a fight, but it created about as much havoc around the sheriff's office Saturday night as a free-for-all would have.

The entire trouble lay with half a dozen bottles of choc beer, confiscated by officers in a raid and which had been locked up in the office. There were ten bottles in all, but six of these, holding more patent contents than the others, started a bombardment that showered glass and spirits fermenti all over the room.

Too much kick was responsible, and when the excited deputies investigated the office was scene of desolation. Pools of booze lay all over the floor and it took half an hour to collect all the glass from off the tops of tables, filling cabinets, desks and counters.

Those containers that had not been broken were speedily smashed to avoid any more casualties.

Hancock Speaks On "Power Of Thought"

The power and influence of thought upon the whole life of man is recognized today as never before. There has been a tremendous swing to that study in the past few years, and we are admitting the truth of facts today that if admitted a few years ago one would have marked us as a radical, a peculiar fellow, as being slightly off center.

The power of thought on one's health is admitted by all today. To think disease means eventually to be diseased. To think health, means much in keeping health. The metaphysics people tell us that thoughts of health build up cells of health in the body.

Effect of Mind

We all know the effect of an angry mind on the body. To become violently angry causes indigestion to some, heart-failure often. We know that an angry mother nursing a baby can poison her baby with her milk. We are admitting the truth of a positive, determined thought making a man well. Doctors, in serious cases, hold far less hope for a patient when that patient "gives up."

The same is true of the acts of life. Thought has and is the power here. We often say "if he had had sense enough to have stopped and thought before he did the thing, he would not have done it." The truth of the matter is that he did think before he did it, but that he thought the wrong way. No one acts without thought. All acts come from thought. Professor James tells us that a man never commits an act that he does not or has not at some time thought.

Are What We Think

I shall not attempt to analyze the departments of a man's thinking faculty and discuss here the conscious and subconscious mind, and so on. Suffice to say here tonight that we are literally what we think, and to get one to think rightly is the whole purpose of Christ in a man's life, and the whole problem of Christianity today.

Special Judge For 89th Court

A special judge is to be elected by the local bar today to serve on the bench of the Eighty-ninth district court in the absence of Judge P. A. Martin.

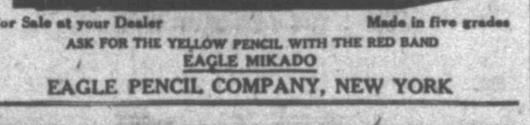

Judge Martin is in Memphis, Tenn., to serve on the commission of appeals of the First Methodist church, south, the court of last resort for all matters relating to the church.

Non-jury civil cases have been set for trial by Judge Martin during the coming week.

Gloomy Outlook for Taxpayers

Representative Madden says this country will see another billion-dollar congress. A few years ago that would have been interpreted to mean that the figure would never go that high again. Now it means that the figure will never go that low.—Detroit Free Press.

MANY ATTEND LAKE OPENING

Swimming Pool And Other Concessions Improved For Summer

Lake Wichita was the bathing spot of hundreds of Wichitans Sunday when the swimming pool and various other concessions were opened for the season. Visitors straggled in as early as noon, and in the evening a fair sized crowd was on the grounds at all times.

New Features

The amusement resort has a number of new and attractive features this year that are expected to appeal to the public. Everything has, of course, been thoroughly cleaned and renovated, while new stocks of supplies have been laid in at all the concession stands.

Pool Repaired

The Swimming pool has been repaired and repainted and was alluring enough Sunday to attract a few of the more hardy, even though the water was somewhat cool and the air breezy. A pleasing rearrangement of the bath house, the installation of new lockers and a larger supply of bathing suits has added materially to the pool's attractiveness.

Dancing proved popular Sunday night and will be continued on throughout the summer months. This feature, always one of the most popular of the lake, is to be given special atttention this year.

BURK LIONS ENJOY FROLIC

Picnic Held At Magnolia Park With Whelps And Lionesses

BURKBURNETT, May 6.—The first great outing party of the season was given Friday evening at the beautiful park grounds of the Magnolia pumping station, a few miles northeast of the city.

The Burkburnett Lions club was host, with the Lions Whelp club and Lionesses as guests of honor. About 165 people composed the company, including 60 odd Whelps, who rode on two large trucks.

The first hours were given to games and exploring the many hidden springs and picturesque plots of the park, which was brilliantly lighted with strings of electric lights, lanterns and a big campfire. Around the latter Lions roared and roasted weiners which, with pickles and lemonade, furnished a fine picnic treat, to which was added an eskimo pie.

A spanish newspaper, published some years ago, was printed with phosphorus in the ink so that it could be read in the dark.

SEES STOCK DEMAND

Associated Press Dispatch

COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—A large future market for American and particularly Texas stock in Mexico is predicted by C. M. Evans, livestock specialist of the A. and M. college here. Evans has just returned from Mexico City, where he assisted representatives of different American breed associations in staging a live stock exposition.

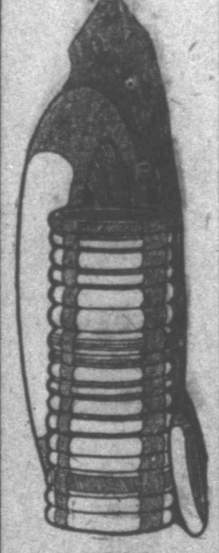

In order to preserve the flavors better than by present methods, experiments are being conducted in France to freeze fish faster.
