TWO MEN JAILED FOR ATTACK ON COUPLE

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The senate coalition of Democrats and Progressives which has held out against the high tariff rates voted in the house has at last broken and there is now a frantic scramble for the high tariff trough.

The break came when members of the coalition group voted for the higher sugar rates. This was followed by desertions all down the line, and again the Republican regulars are in control and can pass a tariff measure to their own liking.

As long as there is going to be a tariff on everything else and on some things rates that are plenty high, it does seem like congress would take pity on the oil industry and give it a shot of tariff rum.

Maybe President Hoover will veto the tariff bill because it does not conform to his recommendations. Such action on his part would electrify the country and would arouse hope that there is courage and leadership in the White House. But nobody is expecting such a shock.

Oil producers, while hoping for a tariff, are not depending upon it to solve the problem of flooded markets. Oil production dropped 80,090 barrels last week and 66,000 barrels the week before. The reduction has come through shutdowns, proration and less wildcatting. If that kind of reduction could be continued some weeks longer oil consumption would begin to catch up with production and the industry would get on a sound basis once more.

The city council has received the report of the city plan commission and has discharged that body, as it requested. We trust this does not mean that hope for zoning and a city plan for Wichita Falls has been abandoned. The appointment of a new committee and provision to cooperate with it ought to be one of the first acts of the new administration.

Someone has said that the power to tax is the power to destroy. Taxation can destroy quickly or it can slowly stifle a business. Doubtless both houses of the state legislature were motivated more by the desire to impose a penalty upon certain classes of chain stores than to raise revenue when they voted for a bill levying a tax of one per cent upon their gross sales. Hardly any business could continue operating under such a tax in competition with a store next door who paid no gross sales tax.

The situation is somewhat different in the case of public utilities against which there is a proposal of a tax of one-half of one percent of gross revenues. The utilities have no competitor next door who could undersell them because of having no tax to pay. And whatever tax a public utility pays would enter into its production costs and be an added argument for a raise in rates.

Talker has received a letter from Donovan Weldon, publisher of "The Bexar Facts," about whose arrest at San Antonio with his newsboys for appearing on the street wearing placards, we commented last week. The placards bore the words "Save San Antonio—Beat the Bond Issue." Mr. Weldon was acquitted by a jury in the corporation court, the verdict of the jury being: "We find the defendant not guilty, because the ordinance under which he was charged is unreasonable and unconstitutional."

"Last Friday, after I had been acquitted," Mr. Weldon writes Talker, "my boys were again arrested. We now have the case in district court on a writ of habeas corpus, and will carry it to the highest court if necessary. I can truly say that practically the entire city is with us in our stand, and that we have every hope of winning our fight."

It does seem like the acquittal of Mr. Weldon ought to have ended the arrests of his newsboys and that their re-arrest does somewhat sustain Mr. Weldon's charge that it is political persecution. But if the people of San Antonio are behind the former Wichitan the sooner the officials give up their opposition the easier it will be for them.

It was Bill McDonald who said, "No man who is in the wrong can stand up against a man who is right and who keeps on a comin'" and it was Davy Crockett who said "Be sure you are right and then go ahead." Just as a matter of home town pride in the boy we want him to be right and to keep on a comin'.

Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the community chest, estimates that not less than 2,000 heads of families—that is the wage earners for families—in Wichita Falls are out of employment. It is true that work now starting or soon to be started will give employment to a number of these, but there is not work enough in sight to give employment to all, and there is certain to be heavy demands upon our relief organizations for some time to come. It will profit us nothing to avoid facing the facts.

REALTORS TOLD OF WEALTH PRODUCED HERE

Mytinger Gives Statistics On Raw Materials Of Area

INVESTMENTS SOUND

Cotton, Oil, Cattle, Milk And Poultry Valued At Huge Sum

Creation of $158,625,000 worth of new wealth in the form of oil and varied agricultural products in the Wichita Falls trade territory during the past 12 months was pointed to by J. C. Mytinger in a talk before members of the Real Estate board Tuesday noon as concrete evidence of the stability of business conditions in this section.

Supporting his expressed belief that Wichita Falls is in sound financial condition and has an outlook for increased prosperity during the current year, Mr. Mytinger produced statistics which he compiled for the purpose of reflecting the industrial output of this area during 1929. The district which includes, approximately, Wichita, Clay, Montague, Archer, Young, Baylor and Wilbarger counties, and a small part of Oklahoma, produced in 1929 new wealth as follows:

Cotton and its by-products	$ 85,000,000
Crude oil	53,125,000
Cattle	10,500,000
Miscellaneous produce, milk, poultry, feed, hogs, wheat, etc., estimated	10,000,000
Total	$158,625,000

Mr. Mytinger's figures were based upon certified ginning reports, authentic reports of daily oil runs, and livestock market reports for the first three named compilations of production.

Heavy Deposits

Reflecting the influence of this production of raw commodities upon the financial condition of Wichita Falls, Mr. Mytinger cited

Fort Worth Girl Wins Beauty Title In Miami Contest

MIAMI, Fla., March 11. (UP)—Janet Eastman, "Miss Texas," won the title of "America's Sweetheart" here tonight in the Miami beauty pageant in competition with representatives of 42 other states.

The winner, one of the few blonds in the contest, is a native of Fort Worth.

Alberta McKellop, Los Angeles, "Miss California," was second; Margaret Ekdahl, Tampa, "Miss Florida," was third; Miss Dolly Arney, Kansas City, "Miss Missouri," fourth.

Selection of "Miss Latin-America" from 11 representatives of Latin-American countries was postponed until Thursday night by officials in charge of the pageant.

Butterfield Highway Project Discussed

SHERMAN, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Plans for procuring federal designation of the old stagecoach route which John Butterfield made famous just before the civil war were discussed at a meeting of the Butterfield Trail association here today.

The discussion disclosed that the contemplated federal highway from St. Louis to San Francisco and traversing Texas from near Denison to El Paso was paved for a major portion of the distance. The Jacksboro-Gainesville and the Abilene-Rankin strips were cited as the principal gaps and R. M. Wagstaff said that the Abilene-Rankin route was to be paved.

Champion Bulldogger Plays In 'Tough Luck' at Fort Worth Show

FORT WORTH, March 11. (AP)—Rube Roberts, Fort Worth, world champion bulldogger, was practically eliminated as a contender in defense of his own title at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show rodeo Tuesday when he drew an unusually cunning and elusive steer and was forced to take "no time."

He registered the best time for the show Saturday night when he downed a steer in 8 2-5 seconds.

Wild broncs and steers had riders grabbing saddle horns and everything else in reach in an effort to stay on. Three were thrown by saddled broncs, four by bareback mounts and 10 steer riders took ungraceful dives.

Judging of the Hereford, Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus breeding classes started Tuesday. While Texas breeders failed to annex either of the grand champion honors, they won a number of first places in the class competition. The grand champion Hereford bull was the well known show bull, Matador, owned by R. P. Lamont Jr., of Larkspur, Colo.

Evacus of Page, shown by the Oklahoma A. & M. college, was the grand champion Hereford bull and the grand champion female was Eliza II, owned by James B. Hollinger of Chapman, Kan.

A Missouri breeder, Frank C. Baker farms, Hickman Mills, Mo., showed the junior champion Shorthorn bull in First of All.

The senior and grand champion Shorthorn bull was Dreadnaught Salute, from the herd of Mathers brothers, Mason City, Ia.

Mother Claims 'Loaned' Baby

Miss Lovella Rush, 20, Baberton, Ohio, claims that she "loaned" her baby (right) to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Long of Baberton after the baby's birth two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Long were killed a year ago in the Cleveland clinic fire. Miss Rush wants the baby, although he is heir to $40,000 as Carl Long Jr.

Court Unofficially Recognizes C'aim of Young Woman Who Tells of Trade With Couple

AKRON, Ohio, March 11. (AP)—A smiling little boy who was supposed to have been born two years ago to Mrs. Carl H. Long, of Baberton, Ohio, was unofficially recognized in court here today as the son of Miss Lovella Rush, 20, also of Baberton, who said she "loaned" him at birth to the other woman.

If the recognition is made official, as attorneys expect it will be, the child will lose all claim to the $40,000 estate left by Mr. and Mrs. Long when they were killed in the Cleveland Clinic disaster nearly a year ago.

M'DONALD LOSES COMMONS VOTE

Labor Government to Stay Until Showdown

LONDON, March 11. (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald's second labor government met its first defeat in the house of commons tonight by a margin of 8 votes. It had been evident for a week that the Liberals were lining up their strength in preparation for an attack against labor's controversial coal mines bill and unemployment program.

Today they joined the conservatives and succesfully pushed through an amendment to the coal bill by 282 votes to 274.

MacDonald Stays

Immediately after the vote MacDonald made it plain that he had no intention of resigning until he was beaten on a major issue or a censure motion. He said he intended to go on with the coal bill because the amendment carried by the opposition made no essential change in the main structure of the measure. Former Prime Minister Baldwin, leader of the conservatives provoked MacDonald's comment.

The prime minister showed no signs of discomfiture after the defeat and asked the house to continue with its work. Debate upon another amendment then proceeded.

Tables Turned

In fact, by challenging Mr. Baldwin to make his vote of censure general on Thursday, he neatly turned the tables on the opposition, and tonight it was said to be un-

Ontario Youth Dies On Gallows for Murder

REGINA, Sask., March 11. (AP)—Herman Revinsky, young clothing salesman of Hamilton, Ont., was hanged in the yard of the Regina jail today for the murder of David Katz, Toronto clothier.

Katz' body was found in February, 1929, near Carmichael. He had been beaten to death. Revinsky, to the end, denied he killed Katz, asserting the murder had been committed by a "Jimmy Brown."

Prisoners Confess To Kidnaping and Robbery

SHREVEPORT, La., March 11 (AP)—B. L. Sapp and Emory Majors, wanted in connection with the kidnaping and robbery of L. W. Quattlebaum of Pine Bluff, Ark., Wednesday, were arrested here today. In charge of a deputy sheriff and deputies, they left Shreveport for Pine Bluff.

Both men were identified by Quattlebaum, who came here with the Arkansas officials. Sapp made a complete confession of his part in the kidnaping and robbery, involving Majors.

All Manila Schools Ordered to Suspend

MANILA, March 11. (INS)—All high schools in Manila were closed today upon orders of Luther B. Bewley, director of education. Normally, the schools do not close until March 21. Closing of the schools earlier than usual was a step taken by Bewley to break the backbone of the strike instituted by students two weeks ago.

The strike was called when school authorities refused to take back four students who were expelled.

Greenville Democrats To Recount Ballots

GREENVILLE, Texas, March 11. (AP)—The city Democratic committee of Greenville will open three ballot boxes tomorrow and recount ballots as a result of a decision reached by the committee today after a contest hearing for C. P. Nevill, defeated by a one-vote margin Feb. 22 in a city election for mayor. He contested the nomination of his opponent, Joseph S. Nichols.

State Song Writers Presented With $1,000

AUSTIN, March 11. (AP)—Miss Gladys Yoakum Wright and William J. Marsh, Fort Worth, authors of "Texas, Our Texas" accepted as the official state song, were presented tonight with $1,000 offered as a prize for a composition to be so designated. The presentation was made in the house of representatives by former Gov. Pat M. Neff.

'Cockroach' Funds Urged by Committee

WASHINGTON, March 11. (US)—To banish "cockroaches" and help keep the building clean, the senate appropriations committee today recommended an additional $62,000 to run the senate office building.

Senator Keys, of New Hampshire, protested that the cockroaches had eaten the bindings of his books.

Dallas Man Allowed $15,000 Bond in Slaying

DALLAS, March 11. (AP)—Sam Correnti, charged with murder in the fatal shooting of Jack Daugherty Feb. 27, was granted liberty under $15,000 bond at a habeas corpus hearing today. Testimony was given that Correnti and Daugherty shot at each other.

Hooper Tells How Hoobler Confessed to Slaying His Employer

Mrs. Pearl Pendergraft, widow of Arthur Pendergraft, called to the stand Tuesday afternoon as the first state witness in the second trial of D. J. Hoobler on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, described to a jury in the 89th district court her husband's departure from their home in Cotton county, Okla., early last year and of her search for him which ended almost two weeks later when his body was found in a pasture near here.

The twelfth juror for the trial was selected about 2:25 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The special venire of 150 called for the case was exhausted Tuesday morning and attorneys began questioning members of the petit jury for the week. Only one of this list was accepted and Judge P. A. Martin directed Sheriff W. G. Bralley to bring in the 25 additional talesmen summoned by order of court. Eighteen of this number were challenged before the last juror was accepted.

Many Objections

Defense attorneys entered a plea of not guilty after Sam Spence, district attorney, had read the indictment against Hoobler. Mrs. Pendergraft was called to the stand following a 10-minute recess.

During the entire time state attorneys questioned Mrs. Pendergraft concerning the relationships of Hoobler to the family during his 12 years of residence at their home, defense attorneys maintained an intermittent flow of objections, interrupting every few minutes and claiming the questions were prejudicial or "too remote." The court sustained but few of the objections.

The witness said Hoobler had lived at the Pendergraft home for several years and was living there at the time of the homicide. He had never had a room of his own, she said, but had slept on a cot and had begun work as a laborer

Actor Suffers Burns In Fall From Blazing Roof

DUNCAN, Okla., March 11. (UP)—J. S. Hollingsworth, a vaudeville trouper, broke his leg and was burned about the hands and face today when he fell from a porch while fleeing from a burning house.

Hollingsworth was boiling paraffine to waterproof a tent when the mixture exploded, setting fire to the house. Five other persons in the house escaped. Half of the $2,000 damage done was to the Kennedy Sisters' show property.

Accused Broker At Laredo Surrenders

LAREDO, Texas, March 11. (UP)—Joseph Rosenblum, produce broker who disappeared from Laredo last May after he had been charged with defrauding the national bank here of more than $100,000, returned today and made bond for his appearance in court.

Rosenblum, one of the largest produce and onion buyers in South Texas, was indicted by the last grand jury. He maintained offices here and in New York.

Lonely, Peaceful Glade In Arlington Cemetery Resting Place For Body Of W. H. Taft

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Under the rain-sodden soil of a wooded glade, lonely in its peace and isolation, William Howard Taft lay tonight, the long, eventful story of his mortal journey ended.

At his feet, a dozen yards away down the gently sloping hillside, towers an ancient and mighty oak. Through its leafless limbs, thrilling now with the stir of coming spring, the far lights of Washington gleam dimly toward that restful nook in Arlington National cemetery where he sleeps in eternal fellowship with other great dead.

Potomac in View

There is an old highway just below, where the busy traffic of the world passes. Beyond comes the wide, quiet sweep of the Potomac, and then the city where most of his life time of public service was spent.

Honors greater than have come to any American since the first president, who perhaps saw that sturdy old oak in its youth, fell to the lot of the man whose last sleep it now shelters. His countrymen made him president, almost against his will. Then again they called him to high service as chief justice.

Yet above and beyond all that was the love men bore him for those personal, homely virtues upon which friendships are founded that transcend political differences—loyalty, kindliness and the saving grace of humor.

In these qualities Taft of Ohio was richly endowed, and through all the splendor of tribute by the nation and the world as he was carried to his grave today, ran the thread of that wealth of friendships he left among men of all parties and creeds, that he never lost in victory or adversity.

Over two decades ago, William Taft entered the White House on a March day of bitter winds, cold and snow. Today another March day played the gamut of its vagaries as he passed on his last parade.

Cold Rain Falls

Cold, drenching rain beat upon the soldiery escort. The lowering sodden clouds turned back thousands who otherwise would have crowded every point of vantage for that last scene.

Yet, just at the end, as the triple rifle blast blazed its last salute and the clear tones of an army bugle sounded "taps," the blue showed through above and a shaft of yellow sunshine poured a benediction upon the dripping canvas tent above that hillside grave.

It bathed in beauty the great mound of dripping blossoms there beside the grave. It peered in beneath the canvas and cast a benef-

Cavern Party Leaves Mystery Room After Battling With Rockslides

Nicholson Describes Important Data Uncovered in New Venture; Group to Enter 'Bottomless Pit'

By FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON
Leader Carlsbad Cavern Expedition

(Copyright, 1930, by the New York Times Company. All Rights Reserved.)

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 11.—We have just returned from a most perilous and adventuresome trip into our mystery chamber, an excursion however, that has indeed been productive of data important to the solving of some of the mysteries of Carlsbad Caverns and information that no doubt will be of material value toward further improvements which the government is carrying on under the direction of Superintendent Boles.

We found the opening to the mystery chamber which appeared to be some 70 feet above our heads but which actually proved to be over 100 feet leading into an immense hallway that continued upward farther than the rays of our lights could reach. The ascent was a slow, nerve-racking climb up a 90 degree grade covered with loose crumbling formations where a mis-step meant falling into a yawning black pit filled with jagged stone. For hours we made slow progress testing and retesting hand and foot holds, shifting and re-tieing our ropes.

Earth Crumbles

Now and again loose stone would start a landslide, our bodies were peppered with debris making it difficult for us to cling to unstable hand holds. We progressed slowly inch by inch until we had climbed up more than 400 feet from the hole we had entered and were near the upper rim. Here we were baffled by an overhanging ledge until Cameraman Hawthorne secured a rope about a large stone. Chief Ranger Freeland, Ranger Scout Douglas Oliver and myself pulled our way up by the aid of the rope when suddenly the stone dislodged and sent what seemed to be a ton of rocks sliding down beside us and cutting off descent until more rope could be secured to rocks above.

But we had gained access to our mystery chamber and we soon forgot the cuts and bruises our bodies received during the difficult climb. The room is unquestionably the oldest recess in Carlsbad Caverns and has a floor level higher than that of any other room. The walls, ceil-

Leaders Will Confer On Sanford's Successor

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—The president plans to confer with Chief Justice Hughes and Attorney General Mitchell before appointing a successor to Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford. Along with this word from the White House today it was said that Sanford's successor probably would be named within a month.

SCHOOL SHOP BURNS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 11. (AP)—The repair shop of the University of Arkansas burned tonight, the loss being estimated at $5,600 by President John C. Futrall. Origin of the fire was not determined.

DEATH PENALTY GIVEN GOODWIN

East Texas Slayer Found Guilty by Jury

BOSTON, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Dave Goodwin, 40, tonight was sentenced to death in the electric chair by a jury which convicted him of the murder of Lloyd Elliott, 23. The jury reported at 7:45 p. m., after deliberating for an hour 25 minutes.

The jury reached the verdict on its third ballot.

Goodwin's only comment when the jury's verdict was read was, "Well, that's a tough break."

Elliott, a young farmer, was shot to death as he sat on his horse in a hog pasture near the Sulphur river, on Feb. 27.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 or more persons that had crowded about the courtroom and yard throughout the day was present when the case went to the jury at 6:05 p. m. Feeling had been high throughout this section and before his trial Goodwin was spirited from one jail to another, never spending two nights in the same one.

Request that state rangers be sent to guard the trial was made but they failed to arrive and officers of four other counties were sent here.

When the jury announced it was ready to report, the judge ordered that no one in the courtroom leave his seat. He had a number of chairs placed between the spectators and the bench. The courtroom remained quiet after the verdict was read.

Officers announced that Goodwin would be kept in the jail here tonight but did not divulge future plans.

Bud Goodwin, 21, his brother, is scheduled to go to trial tomorrow, charged with being an accessory to murder in connection with Elliott's death.

ATTACKER SENTENCED

EASTLAND, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Raymond Mathers, Flint, Mich., youth, tonight was convicted of attempted assault upon a 12-year-old girl and sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by a jury which returned a verdict within an hour after receiving the case. He was alleged to have committed the offense near Ranger.

Second Recent Waterfront Fire At New Orleans Causes $1,250,000 Loss

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (UP)—The second million dollar waterfront fire here within two weeks completely destroyed the Mandeville street wharf and its contents, gutted the Munson line steamer Munaires, and slightly damaged the Elk line steamer Pacific at a total loss of $1,250,0000 this afternoon.

Two steamships were discharging and taking on cargo when the fire broke out beneath the wharf. The Munson ship, an oil fuel burner with a cargo of lumber, quickly caught fire from the Munaires, the fire tug Deluge and towed across the river, where the flames were reported under control late tonight. In midstream, the Deluge caught fire from the Maunaires, but the crew quickly quenched the flames.

The Pacific was towed out of danger by the fire tug Sampson, with but slight damage.

Within 30 feet of the wharf was a small metal building with 500 gallons of gasoline stored in a buried tank. When firefighters saw it was impossible to save the wharf they fought to prevent the fire from spreading to the gasoline, checking it just before it reached the building.

Dock board officials estimated the loss of the building, a concrete and steel structure, and it contents of lumber, oil, hardware, sugar and other stores, at $1,000,000. They could not determine the cause of the fire.

Officials of the Munson line estimated their loss at $250,000. Each loss is covered by insurance.

Chad Thurman Said to Have Identified Prisoners; Girl Taken Home

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., March 11.—Two brothers suspected of assaulting and shooting Leona Bosley, Loco school teacher, on a lonely highway near Loco Sunday night were arrested late today at their homes, 14 miles northeast of Marlow by county officers and placed in jail here.

One of the men owns a roadster which fits the description of one driven by two men who kidnaped Miss Bosley and her companion, Chad Thurman, officers said.

Officers searched the homes of the two men late today.

Both men are married and the older has two children. No charges have been filed.

Miss Bosley was taken to her home at Gainesville, Texas, in an ambulance late today against the advice of local surgeons. She was showing slight improvement, but her condition is still considered critical.

Thurman is said to have identified the two men.

Mr. Thurman and Miss Bosley were returning to the young woman's home from Walters when they were stopped by the drunken pair, it was reported. Both the attackers were intoxicated and boisterous. They forced their prisoners into a shack near the road where the attack was made. Thurman was beaten over the head and robbed of $14. He said the bullet which struck Miss Bosley was intended for him, fired when he attempted to protect the girl.

Bride for Week-Only Returns to Milwaukee

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (UP)—One week after she married R. A. Davis, Arizona newspaperman, only to discover that he had forgotten wife and children, Miss Alice Gutnecht left today for Milwaukee, her home.

The marriage was annulled in court Monday after Davis testified he was subject to amnesia and had married the University of Wisconsin student in Mexico City during a mental relapse.

Reichstag Approves Second Young Plan

BERLIN, March 11. (US)—Germany took one more step toward the "final liquidation of the war" today when the reichstag, in an energetic session, approved on second reading of the Young plan the various treaties and laws connected with it and the German-American separate debt agreement.

Insanity Claimed In Trial of Michigan Boy

EASTLAND, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Attorneys for Raymond Mathers, Flint, Mich., youth, entered a plea of not guilty and a plea of insanity when his trial on a statutory charge was called here today. The charge against Mathers grew out of an attack on a 12-year-old girl near Ranger on March 3.

Beaumont Man Shot In Novelty Store

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 11. (AP)—E. D. Clem was shot and seriously wounded in a novelty store where he was employed here today. A man who gave his home as Fort Worth was arrested shortly after the shooting. The novelty store was disarranged, indicating there had been a struggle.

Hambone's Meditations

certain whether the conservative leader would push the censure motion he announced several days ago he would propose.

The motion, threatened by Mr Baldwin and Winston Churchill on March 5, condemned what it described as the "evasive and drifting policy" of the Labor government. It deplored the current trade depression and the increase in the number of unemployed workers.

This will furnish the Liberals and the Conservatives if they bring it to a vote, an opportunity of attacking Labor at one of its weakest points. The handling of the unemployment situation by J. H. Thomas lord privy seal has been vehemently criticized not only by Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Churchill, but by Labor's own left wing as well.

House Excited

There was great excitement in the house over the government's defeat, which came after a victory on an earlier amendment.

A storm of cheering from the Conservatives and Liberals for several minutes drowned out the voices of the tellers, who could not announce the figures. When the government's defeat was finally established, cries of "resign" rang from all over the house.

Though the debate continued, little attention was paid to it, every one being occupied in discussing Labor's first reverse in the house. The view was freely expressed that the government ultimately might withdraw the entire coal mines bill, which during weeks of debate has been virtually pulled to pieces by the opposition and once caused a government defeat in the house of lords.

TREMORS IN MAINE

FREEPORT, Maine, March 11. (UP)—Several distinct earth tremors were reported in this town early tonight.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 8 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

'Modify' or 'Repeal' Lead in Early Returns to Digest's Dry Law Poll

Ten States Appear to Favor Change in Prohibition but Final Count May Look Quite Different

The vote "for repeal of the prohibition amendment" outnumbers that for either modification or "strict enforcement" in the first scattering returns from 10 states in the Literary Digest's current nation-wide "straw" poll on prohibition.

Twenty million ballots are being distributed throughout the country to obtain a referendum on the three questions:

1.—Do you favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and Volstead law?

2.—Do you favor a modification of the Volstead law to permit light wines and beers?

3.—Do you favor a repeal of the prohibition amendment?

Of the total of 291,588 votes received for this first tabulation, 80,739 expressed their favor for enforcement; 91,915 voted for modification; and 118,934 were for repeal.

The 10 states represented in the first returns of the poll include Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York and Ohio.

In this first tabulation Kansas seems to indicate a pronounced stand on the dry side, while New York and New Jersey show a distinctly opposite opinion on the question. Returns from all other seven states imply a less decisive stand.

The Literary Digest, however, issues a warning of caution that these first returns are so small in comparison to the final vote anticipated that all now apparent tendencies may be completely overturned.

FIRST REPORT "DIGEST'S" POLL

State—	For Enforcement	For Modification	For Repeal	Total
Illinois	11,701	14,680	21,175	47,656
Ind.	6,124	4,236	3,839	14,199
Iowa	10,150	7,364	6,607	24,121

Result Uncertain

"These early figures," the magazine states, editorially, "interesting as they may be, are by no means to be regarded as a sure fire indication of the poll's final results, even in the 10 states involved in the tabulation.

"No one should be elated or discouraged by them. Many fluctuations, perhaps startling ones, may be expected to occur in the voting before the last gun is fired.

"Every incoming mail brings a greater flock of votes to be sorted out by our army of tally clerks, while the outgoing waves of blank ballots are still running high.

"Extraordinary public interest meanwhile is being focused on the poll and everything connected with it. This is largely due, of course, to the dominance of prohibition as a burning question."

A previous national prohibition poll of considerably smaller magnitude was taken by the Literary Digest in 1922. The first tabulated return of that poll showed 94,657 votes counted. Of these 32,445 favored strict enforcement; 39,685 favored modification; and 22,547 voted for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

bank deposits here as totaling $28,56,870 in 1929; building and loan deposits, $10,000,000, and mortgage, finance and life insurance companies, $3,000,000.

"Investments here are safe," the speaker declared, "and real estate investments are as sure to return a comfortable profit as day is to follow night. The comparative depression of 1928 was due to a tendency on the part of citizens who had prospered during the oil boom to complain rather than to cooperate wholeheartedly toward making prosperity a lasting condition here."

Progress made in this city during the past 20 years should form a sound basis for an outlook of prosperity, Mr. Mytinger said. He commended the slow but steady development of the deep oil drilling project, which he said has been benefitted by market conditions which have imposed conservative methods upon the local company.

Approves Campaign

Mr. Mytinger expressed confidence in a campaign now being sponsored by the chambers of commerce to "resell Wichita Falls to its own citizens." Radio and newspaper campaigns should effect material improvement in the general attitude of persons in this section toward local business conditions, he said.

Baptist Services Draw Many Visitors Here

Delegations from Olney, Henrietta and Vernon swelled the attendance at the First Baptist church administration conference Tuesday evening to approximately 400 persons, church officials reported. The conference is in charge of Dr. Clay Hudson and Dr. Prince Burroughs, both of Nashville, Tenn., and will last through Thursday evening. The meeting opened Sunday.

The Rev. W. H. Townsend, former pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church here, headed the Olney delegation at the meeting Tuesday night. Rev. Mr. Townsend is now pastor of the Olney church.

$1,925 Damages Asked In Compensation Suit

Compensation aggregating $1,925 was sought by A. F. Welsh in a suit filed Tuesday afternoon against the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. The plaintiff claims to have been injured in lifting a four-inch "sucker rod" while he was at work near Walters, Okla., in May, 1929. The suit is an appeal from an award from the state industrial board.

NICHOLSON TO EXPLORE PIT

Important Discoveries in Mystery Chamber

ing and floor are in a prolonged state of disintegration, huge formations that began forming millions of years ago lie in crumbled heaps. The floor splinters to bits like brittle candy under one's foot and drops him into pits of guano deposited there thousands upon thousands of years ago.

Fine Stalagmites

A large shaftway in the center of the room looks down upon a hitherto unknown room below in which stands a maze of titanic formations. Around the edge of the shaftway are the best specimens of stalagmites in the form of totem-poles I have ever seen. Obviously the water, the tool nature used with which to carve the colossus of caverns, entered this room first, eventually cutting out the shaftway in the center from whence the water continued.

A careful study of the mystery chamber and water course convinces me that my early theories were wrong and that in the beginning the whole of Carlsbad Caverns which now lay below this chamber was nothing more than a mammoth deposit of soluable limestone within an encrustion of solid rock or conglomorate ocean-bed formation exceptionally strong and solid. Water entered cracks and fractures and solution begun. Gradually the water continued eating its way downward leaving countless miles of rooms and tunnels.

When the water level had sunk, stalagmites and stalactites began forming by the slow dripping of water seeping in from above and the decayed stalagmites in our mystery chamber leads one to believe that they had formed and had begun deteriorating even before the giant domes in the big room which science believes to have started forming over 60 millions of years ago had begun growing. Throughout the mystery chamber we found tons of stalactites that had fallen from the ceiling ages ago, either broken off by earthquake tremors in the dim past or eaten loose by an air that was made acid by the presence of bats.

New Entrance

Plans have been made by the government to begin construction of a passenger elevator from the earth's surface to the floor of the big room. We have made a preliminary check of the geological location of our mystery chamber and it appears to be directly under the spot chosen by Superintendent Boles as location for the elevator shaft. Depending correctness of these calculations engineers will have only to dig through the ceiling of our mystery room then the floor of the room we see below allowing the elevator to pass through the natural shaftway making it possible for the car to stop at three distinct floor levels, instead of cutting through 750 feet of solid rock.

After studying traces of early water flow from our lofty mystery chamber down to the lowest of known depths I am thoroughly convinced that somewhere below all of these gigantic rooms and tunnels water is still at work, that a huge subterranean stream which is probably fed by so-called bottomless lakes a few miles from the mouth of the cavern, exists there and we are making plans for the biggest thing we have yet undertaken, a descent into what is known as the bottomless pit of Carlsbad Cavern, a large well-like crater some 50 feet in diameter.

No one has yet dared venture a trip down its sheer walls which appears to be the one plausible route to the lost river. Equipment is being put into readiness and in the meantime we are to explore tunnels leading from our mystery chamber.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.—Adv.

Kiwanians to Have Opportunity To Carve Names on Trees in New Park

Conversion of the 12-acre tract on Holliday creek, south of the city water plant into a public park and playground for the city will be inaugurated by the Kiwanis club, donors, with a barbecue lunch for members and their families and guests March 24.

At this time an option on trees in the park will be held. The buyer will be given the right to carve his name or the name of his firm on the tree he purchases.

Very little improvements will be necessary to make the park one of the most beautiful in the city, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent. A bridge across the creek at Terral street and Virginia avenue will be erected and several types of play apparatus will be installed, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Later in the year, tennis courts will probably be added as will picnic tables and benches. The natural swimming pool with a mud slider will need some improvements, but they will be slight, Mr. Bunnenberg pointed out.

HOOBLER'S LIFE ON FARM TOLD

Slain Man's Widow is First State Witness

by the month, later renting small amounts of land and farming with "a couple of mules and horses." She told the jury her husband and Hoobler were at the home on the morning of Sunday, Jan. 27, when she left to come to Wichita Falls and that they were "in a hurry to go to Mt. Pleasant to see about an estate Hoobler was claiming there."

Knowledge of the estate came in a letter Hoobler said he had received some time before, the witness said, his sister having written him she had come of age and the estate was to be divided up.

"When you left that day, did you ever see your husband alive again?" asked District Attorney Spence.

"No I saw him dead when they brought his body in Monday a week later."

She said she returned from Wichita Falls in the evening, and that she saw Hoobler about noon the next day and asked him where her husband was. The defendant told her, she said, her husband had gone off with "an Archer county cattleman to look over a fifty-fifty proposition" concerning land near Wichita Falls, and that the cattleman would bring him home. The witness said Hoobler made several short trips that day and prepared to fix fences on the farm the following day. She became uneasy about her husband's absence on Thursday of that week, when he had been gone since Sunday, she said, and began looking for Pendergraft.

Search Described

The witness told of coming finally to Wichita Falls, where she said Hoobler pointed out the spot near the St. James hotel where Pendergraft "talked with the cattleman." Sheriff C. O. Hooper of Cotton county was with them at that time, she said, and the party went to the police station here and later to the district attorney's office. She denied she knew Hoobler had been "taken in charge" at that time.

To a question from District Attorney Spence, Mrs. Pendergraft stated her husband had owned about 100 head of cattle. At that point the prosecution indicated the defense might take the witness.

"Did you say 100 head of cattle?" asked Joe Carrigan, defense attorney.

When the witness replied in the affirmative, she was reminded she formerly had made an appraisal of her husband's stock in which she had not mentioned cattle. She replied the cattle were in her name and when asked if her husband owned any cattle, said she did not know how to answer that. She repeated several times: "Whatever was mine was his."

The state objected and was sustained by the court when Mr. Carrigan of the defense alluded to Pendergraft's having been "pictured and played up as a rich man" during the first trial. The defense turned its attack to another angle and Mr. Carrigan told the witness he would ask her "a rather personal question."

"At any time during the 12 to 14 years the defendant was at your house, was there any close relation between you and him?"

"No."

"There was nothing, then, in his relationships on the farm to indicate your husband's death would be to Hoobler's advantage?"

"Nothing."

Mrs. Pendergraft said Hoobler had been a "hard worker" until the last two years of his residence at the farm.

Sheriff C. O. Hooper, of Cotton county was the next witness called to the stand.

The witness told of starting his search for Pendergraft on Feb. 6 and of coming to Wichita Falls at the same time Hoobler and Mrs. Pendergraft came here. He said he talked with Chief of Police Frank Burns here and was advised to take the matter up with the district attorney. He and Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, took a statement from Hoobler at that time, he said. The statement was presented as evidence by the prosecution and defense attorneys were allowed to question the witness.

The sheriff denied he had asked Hoobler to come to the district attorney's office for the statement and said he had not questioned the defendant before that time.

"He said things, though, that would have caused you not to let him leave if he had wanted to go. You would not have allowed him to leave, would you?" Mr. Carrigan asked.

"I don't think so," the sheriff said.

Confession Described

Judge Martin interrupted at that point to ask the witness if Hoobler was in his custody at that time. The sheriff said he was not. The witness was turned over to the state again and Mr. Spence read to the jury the statement made by Hoobler to Mr. Anglin, in which the defendant told of leaving Pendergraft with the "cattleman" and of paying certain debts he owed. The witness then told of leaving Hoobler in the city jail here while he returned to Oklahoma to make investigations about the money the defendant said be had paid. On Feb. 8, the sheriff said, the defendant was taken to the jail at Walters, Okla. Hoobler was not questioned until the next morning, he stated.

"When you questioned him then, did you find out anything about where Pendergraft was?"

"Yes, we found out where he was and discovered his body in a pasture out from Wichita Falls."

Hoobler was with the party which found the body and helped them to locate the place, the witness said.

"What was the nature of your conversation with Hoobler on the morning of Feb. 9," Mr. Spence asked.

"He was sitting there when we walked into the jail. We asked him about Pendergraft. After a while he threw up his hands, pointed out his index finger and said: 'If this finger is in your way— —.' Then I interrupted him as he took hold of the index finger as though to knock it away and told him to leave out that sort of stuff. Then he said: 'I killed him.'"

Before the witness could continue with his testimony, Judge Martin adjourned the court until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

State attorneys stated they would probably be through with their last witness about noon Wednesday unless the defense held the witnesses longer than expected. The last defense witness will probably not complete his testimony until Thursday evening, counsel for the defendant said, and it is expected the case will go to the jury Thursday night or early Friday morning.

The state is represented by District Attorney Sam B. Spence, and Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants. Defense attorneys are Joe Carrigan, Temple Shell and John Davenport.

The court room Tuesday was almost completely filled, with about a dozen spectators seated in the balcony. Hoobler sat quite still throughout the trial, with no change of expression except on one or two occasions when Mrs. Pendergraft glanced in his direction when attempting to recall some facts concerning affairs on the farm.

CHARGE DISMISSED

FORT WORTH, March 11. (AP)—A murder complaint charging Marvin Taylor, 25, with smothering to death of his month old son, was dismissed by the district attorney's department this morning. The physician who attended the infant before his death told Assistant District Attorney Manning he would be unable to testify the baby died of smothering. The complaint was filed by Taylor's wife.

You are paying for a PACKARD

Why not own one?

It really costs no more to own a distinguished Packard Standard Eight than a lower priced vehicle of like size. Operating costs are no greater. And the higher first cost is completely offset by the longer period the Packard owner gladly keeps his car.

THERE in a nutshell is the reason so many of your friends and acquaintances are driving Packard cars.

Why not enjoy the distinction and satisfaction of Packard ownership yourself?

Let us give you a Packard demonstration—the new kind of demonstration with facts and figures set down on paper in black and white!

We can quickly show you that gasoline, oil and tire costs are just as great for your present car as for a Packard—if your car compares with a Packard in size. This is true even if your present car cost but half the Packard price.

And we can show you that license, insurance, garaging and repairs for your present car cost just as much in the aggregate as they would cost for a Packard.

This leaves only depreciation to consider. And depreciation on half-price cars traded in every two years or so is just as great as depreciation on a Packard kept twice that long.

That is why we say, "You are paying for a Packard."

And that is why we invite you to own one.

We know you will want to keep your long-lived, always-modern Packard far longer—in months and miles—than you ever kept a lesser car. And that its beauty and luxury will be a source of satisfaction long after the purchase price has been forgotten.

The price of the most popular model of the Packard Standard Eight—the five-passenger Sedan—is but $2485 at the factory. Ten other body styles are available on the 127½ and 134½-inch wheelbases at from $2425 to $2885.

Why not let us appraise your present car—and tell you about the convenient Packard monthly payment plan?

BYRD SPEAKS TO HOMELAND

Explorer's Voice Carried By Radio

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—From more than 10,000 miles away Admiral Richard E. Byrd greeted America by radio today as a nation listened. He spoke from Dunedin, New Zealand, his first stop on his homeward journey from the south polar regions.

The explorer's hello to America was in response to a welcome back to civilization by Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. His replies were barely distinguishable in a barrage of static and other forms of interference.

It was Wednesday morning in Dunedin, shortly after 12:30 when Byrd responded to Mr. Ochs' greeting. At the receiving end in the United States, it was 7:30 Tuesday morning.

The voice of Admiral Byrd was brought to the United States over the most elaborate hookup of radio circuits ever attempted for re-broadcasting purposes. Short wave channels, wire and broadcast links made possible this epochal two-way conversation, which was re-transmitted over the National Broadcasting chain extending to the Pacific coast.

It's Time YOU tried one!

For that INDIGESTION

For 36 years, men and women by the million have settled stomach disturbances with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. A reliable remedy; a real relief. And you have never tried them! In 1894 a druggist sold his first package of Stuart's. Today they are a drug-store staple. The first thing that comes to mind when the stomach needs a sweetener. No burning soda! Just a happy combination of Calcium Carbonate (2½ times more effective than soda) Magnesia and other valuable ingredients. In ten minutes—or less—acidity is overcome; all that sourness dispelled.

Many parents have come to realize these tablets are ideally suited to children's digestive disorders. The tremendous sale of the family size boxes is proof of that. Next time a young stomach is complaining, think of Stuart's.

MAKE THIS TEST!

Purchase a 25c, handy pocket tin of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from your druggist, use after meals and be convinced it is not necessary to suffer the distresses of indigestion.

Negro Deserts Shoes—Cops Fit His Feet

TULSA, Okla., March 11. (AP)—Robert Smith, of African descent, had not heard of the Cinderella method of identification. He did not hesitate, therefore, to put distance between himself and his shoes this morning when Hal C. Moore, oil man, awoke and demanded an explanation of the negro's presence in his bedroom.

A half hour later Smith asked two cruising officers for a ride.

"Where are your shoes, boy?" the officers asked.

"They were stolen," the negro explained.

"Climb in," said the officers, and a coach drawn by 50 or more horsepower took them to the police station, where what did they find but a pair of accusing shoes!

Without amputation of toes, the shoes were fitted to Smith. He confessed, officers said, and may live happily after his term expires.

Vernon Cotton Growers Will Hear C. O. Moser in Two Addresses Today

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, March 11.—C. O. Moser, vice president and secretary of the American Cotton Cooperative association of Dallas, will speak at a luncheon of Wilbarger county farmers and business men of Vernon at noon Wednesday at a local cafe. Grady Shipp, secretary of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, announced Monday. Mr. Moser will confer with all who are interested in cotton acreage reduction and an increase in feed acreage.

Mr. Moser will speak at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the courthouse on the cotton acreage situation, and all interested farmers and business men of neighboring Texas and Oklahoma counties have been invited to attend the address. The address here will be the only appearance of Mr. Moser in this section of Texas.

G. O. P. Warned Of Threatened Split

WASHINGTON, March 11. (UP)—A warning that the Republican party faces another split similar to that of 1912 if the senate approves the higher duties on sugar, lumber and oil was sounded today by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee here.

While Nye and other western Republicans have joined with Democrats in the tariff cloalition, his statement was the first issued by a Republican through the publicity organization maintained here by the Democratic national committee and was regarded as designed to bolster up the coalition.

Nye declared that both Democrats and Republicans recently have developed "a sugar-oil-cement craving" under the leadership of Senator Grundy, Republican, of Pennsylvania. Nye voted for the increased sugar duty, he explained, but when he saw that a combination had been formed on this and oil and lumber he asked for reconsideration of the sugar vote, and announced he will vote against the increase next time.

Suicide Blamed On Shakespeare

DETROIT, March 11. (INS)—Shakespearean tragedies, particularly passages dealing with suicide, were given today as the reason for 17-year-old Lena Aelling, a high school student, to take her own life.

William Hesse, a brother-in-law who made his home with Lena and her mother, said Lena had been reading some of Shakespeare's works lately and was interested in the passages on suicides.

"I wonder if one can be happier after death?" Hesse quoted her as saying.

The girl was found with her head in the oven of the gas stove.

ENGINE BLAST FATAL TO TWO

Eastland Railroad Men Die In Explosion

EASTLAND, Texas, March 11. Scalding water from the exploded boiler of a Wichita Falls and Gulf railroad engine burned two men to death, injured a third and set fire to train shops here.

L. C. Roper, engineer, and S. B. Jones, shop foreman, both of Eastland, died in the hospital shortly after the explosion. H. E. Fox, a fireman, was injured severely. He will recover, physicians said.

The three men were firing the locomotive when it blew up, showering them with scalding water. They staggered away from the smoke and flames but were burned severely by the water before the fire that ignited their clothes could be extinguished.

The explosion damaged the car sheds and started a fire that was put out by volunteers from the shops. The loss had not been determined.

Wheat Growers To Seek New Members

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, March 11.—A drive for membership in the Texas Wheat Growers association will be started immediately on the South Plains under the direction of J. Frank Triplett, of this city, who has recently been named assistant manager of the association. Mr Triplett has been associated with the cotton association of the Texas Farm Bureau federation for a number of years and is well trained for his new position. He will maintain headquarters in Plainview and will direct the drive from this city.

Eight wheat counties of the South Plains are included in the territory over which Mr. Triplett will have supervision. He has appointed the following field men to conduct the drive: C. B. Thomas, Castro and Lamb counties; H. H. Draper, Swisher county; R. W. McDaniel, Hale and Lubbock counties; J. C. Ward, Briscoe and the north part of Floyd counties; H. I. GANGDOM PAYS OBERTA HONOR

Huge and Brilliant Funeral Held for Racketeer

CHICAGO, March 11. (UP)—John ("Dingbat") Oberta, gangster and politician, was buried today amid the luxurious trappings that the underworld reserves for its most colorful chieftains.

Fifteen thousand persons passed around the small home of the "back-o-the-yards" leader, who was "taken for a ride" last week presumably in retaliation for hi-jacking beer runners.

Streets were black with people for blocks around, as at the last minute two priests appeared and bestowed the benefits of the Catholic church over the tuxedo-clad body that lay in a silvered bronze casket in the center of a room banked to the ceiling with flowers.

The procession that had filed by the body for two days was halted temporarily while the priests, who said they had been sent by George Cardinal Mundelein, elbowed through the crowds and entered the flower-banked parlor where Mrs. Oberta and the gangster's mother mourned. Today's funeral spectacle was the second in which the widow Oberta had played a prominent part. Her first husband, Tim Murphy, also was assassinated. His funeral, however, was dwarfed by the spendor of the Oberta rites.

Not since Dion O'Banion was buried with maudlin sympathy and truck loads of flowers had gang money been spent so lavishly as on the Oberta funeral. Four open automobiles were loaded to overflowing with blossoms, many of them bought from the florist shop that Oberta operated before he was killed.

The crowds included many friends Oberta won in political campaigns in the 13th ward where he reigned as boss. Polish societies turned out great numbers mourners, all wearing badges. Those who didn't have lodge badges wore political ribbons bearing this line:

"In memory of Johnny Oberta, 13th ward."

WHEAT GLUT TO LAST 60 DAYS

Legge Says Congestion Is Getting Worse

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Chairman Legge of the federal farm board, replying to a telegram of Gov. George F. Shafer of North Dakota, said today that there was no possibility for relief from congestion at the wheat terminals within 60 days.

The telegram to which Legge replied inquired what would be the basis upon which the board would put wheat after the congestion at the terminals was relieved.

"This refers to a situation that is not in the picture at the present time, as there is no possible hope for relief in this matter during the next 60 days at least," Legge's letter said. "The tendency seems for the congestion to become worse instead of better."

He urged that farmers arrange to curtail their acreage.

"The present operations of the stabilization corporation will undoubtedly result in their having upward of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand at the close of this present season," he said, "and if farmers are going ahead trying to produce an additional surplus on the basis that some way will be found to take care of it on a fair price level another year they are going to be mistaken."

'PRINCESS' AND BROTHER HELD

Pair Accused of Robbing Artist's Studio

TAOS, N. M., March 11. (UP)—Terecita Ferguson, known as the "Princess Terecita" and her brother, George Ferguson, were charged today with robbing the studio of John Young Hunter, nationally known artist, here on Feb. 26.

The brother was accused of robbery and arson and the sister of robbery. Authorities said an arson charge is also to be filed against her.

Hunter's studio was set on fire after valuable paintings and other articles were removed from it.

A trail of artist's paint brushes found between the studio and the home of Miss Ferguson led to the arrests, authorities said. They announced that many articles taken from the studio were found in her home. Three valuable paintings and some valuable Indian bead work and jewelry have not yet been recovered.

Miss Ferguson gained the name of the "Princess Terecita" through reference to her in the diary and papers of A. R. Manby, 80-year-old English recluse whose decapitated body was found in his home here last July.

The murder of Manby has never been solved, and a week ago the British embassy asked the United States department of justice to investigate the crime.

One Killed, Two Wounded During Drinking Party

YAZOO CITY, Miss., March 11. (AP)—One woman was killed, another was shot in the stomach and seriously wounded and a youth was hit in the back by promiscuous shots fired last night into a crowd on the John Harbin plantation near here where a drinking party was being staged.

Officers were holding Arthur Burroughs, farmer, about 40 years of age, as the man who did the shooting. His motive was a mystery.

Mrs. Benoit Harbin, 19, daughter of W. M. Roof, was killed instantly. Mrs. Beasie Pippin received the wound in the abdomen. A boy named Horton was shot in the back. Two or three others were wounded slightly.

Proposed Steel Merger Declared Impossible

CLEVELAND, March 11. (AP)—Merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation is impossible at the present time, leading figures in the merger negotiations said today.

Leading stockholders of the Youngstown concern said the votes of more than 500,000 shares of stock are opposed to the proposed Bethlehem deal, which has been under consideration at least several days. There are 1,200,000 shares in the company, and the consent of three-fourths of them would be necessary to approve a consolidation.

HOBRECHT TO APPEAL

Cumberland Falls to Be Made Public Park

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 11. (AP)—A five-year fight to keep Cumberland Falls free from hydro-electric exploitation is ended with enactment of a bill by the Kentucky legislature accepting an offer of former United States Senator T. Coleman Du Pont of Delaware, to donate $230,000 to buy the falls and 2,200 acres for a state park. Mr. Du Pont is a native Kentuckian. Cumberland falls is the largest cataract east of the Mississippi except Niagara.

So Invigorating to Tired Eyes

When you come home in the evening with eyes that are tired and heavy, apply a few drops of refreshing Murine. It instantly relieves the tired feeling—gives your eyes new life and lustre. A month's supply of this long-trusted lotion costs but 60c. Contains no harmful ingredients. Try it!

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Finds Youth's Fountain!

One Happy Woman Tells Where She Discovered It

"JUST one thing has contributed more than anything else in my life toward making me the radiantly happy woman I am today," writes Mrs Walter Ruehl, of Glenbrook, Conn. "If this was selling at ten dollars a bottle instead of the few cents it costs, I know one person who would scrape the money together, if she had to go without shoes, and I don't mean maybe!"

"I guess a good many others feel the same way, judging by the number of people I know who swear by this 'Fountain of Youth.'"

That's the way Mrs. Ruehl feels about Nujol, the simple, normal natural way to keep healthy—and therefore happy.

Millions of people all over the world have discovered this simple secret, which is nothing but giving our bodies the internal lubrication that they need, as much as any machine. After you have taken Nujol for a few days, and have proved to yourself how it brightens your whole life, you will wonder how so simple a treatment can make such a great change in your health and your happiness. The reason is this:

Regularly as clock work, Nujol clears out of our bodies those poisons (we all have them) which slow us up, make us headachy, low in our minds.

Colorless and tasteless as pure water, Nujol cannot hurt you, no matter how long you take it. It is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It forms no habit. It is non-fattening.

Why don't you find out if Nujol will make you feel better and brighter and happier? It works that way with millions of other people. Very likely it will with you! Get a bottle in its sealed package at any drug store and be sure it's trademarked "Nujol." It costs but a few cents—and it makes you feel like a million dollars! Start taking Nujol this very night!

Lovely Program Honors Study Club Guests

A program unique in the annals of Wichita Falls club life and beautiful in the setting of Mrs. R. A. Lincoln's handsome new home was given Tuesday afternoon when members of the Nineteen Twenty-Two Study club entertained individual guests and members of the Standard and New Century clubs with their Texas day programs.

The home was lovely with fragrant spring flowers and the Lone Star flag was also a feature of the decorations.

Mesdames N. W. Gaut, Phil Lesh, Clyde Gibson, W. H. Newell, T. A. Bradley, George Patterson and R. A. Lincoln, officers of the club, were in a pretty receiving line and the program opened with a few gracious words of welcome from Mrs. E. E. Fischer.

The program featured was a playlet, "Texas Under Six Flags," written by Mrs. C. R. Yauger. Mrs. Yauger's friends, who have loved her for the poetry in which she expresses a beautiful self, found another field in which her genius moves, when a talented cast presented her play.

The story was built around a child reading of the glorious and unique history of Texas under six flags, who falls asleep and dreams of seeing characters that had played a part in each phase of history.

Helen McCormick played the little girl; the Marchioness Bonheur, the French woman in the play, was splendidly given by Mrs. Yauger; Evelyn van Emden, a talented pupil of the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, took the part of the Spanish girl and in that part, did a wonderful Spanish dance honoring the pirate Jean Lafitte which was played by Hazel Hobbs. Roberta Lincoln, in a real Mexican dress, demonstrated Texas under the Mexican flag and gave several lovely violin numbers. Mrs. Bill Miller was the girl of the republic, and played the part of the girl remembering the martyred soldiers with appropriate sadness. Anna Fay Williams, who represented the girl of the civil war time, was a lovely representative of the Cato School of Dancing in the pretty dance she gave. Angie Noe, the girl of today, a pupil of Mrs. Lois Parker, sang the sweetest of melodies in "Have You Ever Been to Texas in the Spring," by Mary Daggett Lake. Mrs. Lincoln was accompanist in all the musical numbers. The costuming in the play added to its beauty and another costume that attracted attention was that of little Louise Lincoln, who passed the attractive programs with their striking flags to the assembled guests.

The refreshment plate emphasized the motif of the day, particularly in the sandwiches which were made in the shape and colors of the Lone Star flag.

Honor guests were Mesdames A. K. Presson, L. A. DeLee, W. W. McCarty, Frank Ramsey, of Ponca City, Okla.; L. N. Cason, B. L. Walker, J. E. Dale, Arch Dawson, Sam Kruger, Ross, Frances Ploeger of Dallas, H. B. van Emden, H. C. Huper, R. D. Ford, H. B. Patterson and Miss Ouida Mae Spoonts; the Standard club members including Mesdames Houston Rogers, S. L. Conn, J. H. Davis, C. V. Derden, J. W. Hodges, J. M. Isbell, T. P. Kelm, W. R. Little, O. P. Maricle, T. L. McGee, A. C. Price, C. W. Staley, Harry ten Brink, W. T. Westmoreland, J. E. Wolfe, J. N. Catter, R. R. Clark, Frank B. Creighton and R. D. Ford; members of the New Century club, including Mesdames S. H. Burnside, W. P. Bolding, Fred T. Couper, W. D. Cline, T. P. Duncan, C. B. Felder, J. A. Fisher, R. W. Gutzler, C. W. Gilliland, W. J. Grisham, J. C. A. Guest, C. R. Hartsook, Luke McCrory, T. T. T. Reese, M. D. Rowe, R. E. Shepherd, C. W. Snider, Mack Thomas and M. L. Reid. The Hostess club included Mesdames T. A. Bradley, Jack Dale, E. E. Fischer, N. W. Gaut, Clyde Gibson, Phil Lesh, R. A. Lincoln, W. H. Newell, George A. Patterson, S. H. Rider, J. M. Spoonts, Russell Chamberlin and C. R. Yauger.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

In a magazine issued Saturday, David Herbert Lawrence is said to be living near Taos, N. M., while in another part of the magazine, he is reported to be dead at Nice. Even in death, Mr. Lawrence is treated differently from other writers.

David Herbert Lawrence was a consumptive, but he did not have the serenely optimistic disposition so often marked in persons afflicted with that disease.

In the history of literature disease has afflicted men of genius in many different ways. Robert Louis Stevenson, driven about the face of the earth to find a place where he might live, was a tubercular, though he did not die from that complaint. But Robert Louis Stevenson was a man who made friends of all the world about him and who was of an almost consistently sunny disposition.

Poor old Thomas Carlyle was a victim of dyspepsia. And he sometimes treats his readers with mental dyspepsia. But who can blame a man suffering with indgestion for growing rather bitter and sarcastic?

Charles Lamb, the most lovable man in the literary world of his day, had a failing recognized by friends and enemies drink. Coleridge once wrote "Poor Charles" and Lamb fell upon him, asking to be called "Drunken—villainous"— anything but be pitiled. Lamb loved to drink with his friends. Many a morning he woke uncertain of what he had done the night before.

"I will stop drinking," he said, "when I find the equivalent vice." But with the nobility of the man—with the tenderness he showed his sister throughout her life—so much may be forgiven him.

Lamb's letters give his life to people of this generation almost as clearly as those of his own day saw it. He was no drunkard. But he could not drink as other men because of an unfortunate stomach and a rotten nervous system. So he laughed at himself, and many did not understand.

We laugh with him often. He writes a friend in some distant city and scratches out part of the letter and then writes a postscript. "The part I scratched out was the best part of the letter." His was a simplicity that sprung straight from the heart.

We may feel sympathy for one, love for another, but the writers who wrote under greatest affliction are those who did great work while they were blind.

No more thrilling history was ever written than that told of the conquests of Peru and the glories of old Mexico by a man who could in his later life, hardly see at all, Prescott, the American historian.

And no man ever showed grander spirit than Milton when with a cloud of debt hanging over him, he spent years working, dictating, over and over in the same round, robbed of vision, but compelled by an inner vision that left a treasure to posterity.

Mr. and Mrs. Coker Honored With Shower

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coker, whose wedding took place Saturday, March 10, were honored with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cooper on York street, where they were presented with many lovely gifts.

Mrs. Coker, before her marriage, was Miss Aubrey Jane Warren.

After a pleasant evening, refreshments were served to Messrs. and Mesdames Coker, O. H. Gideon, Omer Shipp, H. B. Morton, J. P. Grounds, Clarence Norris, John Kelly and J. W. Cooper; Mesdames George Moss, A. J. Holder, H. M. Hines, J. J. Warren; Ray Dolland and Misses Melba Burnett, Ruth Ellis, Mollie Riney, Dorothy Janeway, Allene Muller, Opal Skelton, Jessie Warren, Fannie Lea, Gussie Lea and Fetna Bivens.

French Prisoner Sticks To Her Hunger Strike

PARIS, March 11. (US)—Deaf and nearly blind, Madame Hanau, accused of mulcting hundreds of Frenchmen in a "Ponzi scheme," entered the 12th day of her hunger strike today. She is protesting against the way in which the examining magistrates handled her case. Forceful feeding is prohibited by law unless the prisoner becomes unconscious.

NEW WAY TO PREPARE LAMB CHOPS

Addition of Novel Seasoning Improves Their Flavor

This new method really begins before the chops are put on the broiler or in the pan.

First make a mixture of ¾ teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 teaspoonful vinegar or lemon juice and 5 tablespoonfuls of salad oil. Pour this over the chops and let stand for a few minutes, then fry or broil them and you will be delighted with the way this seasoning heightens the flavor of the lamb. If you wish you can use the mixture to baste the chops as they cook.

The sugar is a most important ingredient of the mixture just described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, piquant goodness.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow in many other kinds of cookery. In cooking vegetables this combination noticeably and pleasantly emphasizes the flavor of carrots, spinach, string beans, cabbage and peas. Doctors approve the use of sugar as a flavor on these essential foods because it arouses the appetite to eat more of them. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Marriage Success Depends on Who Holds Pocketbook

Why Has a Wife's Money Such a Pernicious Effect Upon Her Husband That She Must Marry a Man Poorer Than Herself or Stay Single and Starve Rather Than Help Support Her Children.

Must the poor little rich girl marry only a millionaire or else undermine her husband's character and turn him into a despicable male parasite? Must the business or professional woman refrain from paying any part of the family expenses or else wreck her husband's morale and destroy his energy and ambition?

These are two vital problems that the modern woman—God help her—has to face—for it appears that husbands and money no more assimilate than oil and water and that the success of a marriage depends largely upon whether the masculine or the feminine hand holds the pocketbook.

At least this is the theme of a very entertaining and thought-inspiring new novel, called "Partners." In the story there is a splendid young girl who, alas, has the misfortune of being a great heiress and whose sweetheart refuses to marry her although he himself is a successful man, because the girl wants to buy the palaces and yacht s and Rolls Royces with some of her superfluous dividends. So they let money come between them and they go their broken-hearted ways alone.

And there is another couple in the book, a poor young husband and wife who dearly love each other, but the husband is only a small salaried man and the babies come tumbling over each other and hospital and nurses' and doctors' bills pile up and the roof leaks and the grocer and the butcher are dunning for their bills and the husband is working himself into nervous prostration trying to keep their heads above water when the wife, who has been a struggling writer, suddenly achieves success and begins to be a good money-earner.

For a while the husband refuses to let her spend a cent of what she makes on the upkeep of the home. He says that's a man's business, but finally in a desperate crisis when the wife and babies are sick and the furnace breaks down and they need not only comforts but necessities, he permits his wife to spend some of her money on easing the situation.

After that his descent is swift. He slacks down in his work. He joins country clubs and golfs and lets Mary do the worrying over the bills. He even ceases to regard Mary as a lady love and looks upon her as a cash register until she finally wakes up to the fact that in trying to help him she has ruined him. Whereupon she smashes her typewriter and goes back to being the dependent wife once more, with what results the novelist wisely forbears to say. Because little boys nearly always howl and kick when you take their stick of candy away from them.

Of course, we have always known, in spite of the ravings of the poets that in real life love's young dream had to be adequately financed, like any other proposition, to keep it a going concern. For not even the most romantic can stay their stomachs on sentiment and a restricted diet of bread and cheese, and kisses palls on the appetites of those who are accustomed to beefsteak and lobster Newburgh. Nor does any one feel like billing and cooing when they are sick with worry over where the rent money is to come from.

Heretofore, however, we have thought that the main thing was to have enough money out of which to make a club to keep the wolf away from the door, but now we have become wise to the fact that the club may turn into a boomerang that will annihilate the wielder if it is the wife instead of the husband who handles it.

This adds another hardship to the lot of woman and complicates the always difficult task of being a good wife. For no woman wants to injure the man she loves. No wife wants to be a brake instead of an accellerator to her husband. No woman wants to emasculate her husband and turn him into a dependent, and yet if she has a fortune she naturally doesn't want to chuck it into the ash barrel to save her husband's vanity, nor if she is a better business man than her husband does she want to starve to keep him hustling at his job.

What must a wife do, then, to solve this curious triangle of the wife, the husband and money? Must the rich girl who falls in love with a poor man refrain from marrying him for fear of ruining him and making him miserable because of her money? Must the wife who has a fine earning capacity endure grinding poverty and bring up her children in squalid surroundings because her husband will lie down on his job if she keeps on with hers? Why does a wife's money seem to have such a pernicious effect upon her husband, anyway?

These are questions no woman can answer. It seems to a woman that when she gives herself up to a man, body and soul, she has given him something so infinitely more valuable than a few dollars that the money doesn't count. It seems to a wife that the husband who expects her to work 12 hours a day in the kitchen and nursery is straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel when he claims it kills his self-respect to use a few dollars that she has made in an easier way than cooking and babytending. And it seems to a woman that when a man and woman love each other enough to get married, everything they have should go into the common pot and be for the common good.

And it seems to a woman that in this enlightened day and age it is time for men to abandon this silly pose as heads of the house and bestowers of blessings and come down to earth and be partners with their wives and let their wives help them in whatever way they can.

Right Idea!

This four-year-old athlete is the son of Mrs. Sam Jones, 1702 W Laurel St., San Antonio. She says: "Jimmie's wonderful conditon shows my idea is right.

"Whenever he's the least cross or upset, or has a cold, I give him a little California Fig Syrup. It always brightens him up; regulates his stomach and bowels; gives him a hearty appetite. I have used it with all my children and it has never failed to help them promptly."

All children love the rich, fruity flavor of California Fig Syrup. A pure vegetable product, it doesn't gripe or sicken. It always acts gently but thoroughly to cleanse the system of bilious, headachy, constipated children. Doctors say it tones and strengthens weak bowels. Try it with your child. See how bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness disappear!

The name California marks the genuine, famous for 50 years. So look for it when buying.—Adv.

Favorite Books of Wichita Women

MRS. G. L. SHAPARD

The short story is the type of fiction liked best by Mrs. G. L. Shapard, who is so truly American that she chooses this type because she thinks that the short story is America's contribution to literature. And then, the American woman, she says, has so many interests and so much to do that she can get, in the short story, a finished and polished piece of literature in a short time.

Possibly because he is a shared interest when she reads him aloud at home, she chooses O. Henry as an outstanding short story writer. She names "The Gantle Grafter" as his best group and "The Furnished Room," as the author's most finished work.

The gentle humor and polished wisdom of Oliver Wendell Holmes makes "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" another of her favorites. People of deep sympathies are almost always admirers of the "Autocrat."

Mrs. Shapard likes to read of places and people foreign to her, so Lafcadio Hearn's sympathetic interpretations of Japanese life are of deep interest to her and Mukerji's stories of India appeal to her for the same reason. "People who travel through a country so often get just the surface vision," she said. Lafcadio Hearn has gone to the heart of Japan and Mukerji to the heart of India.

Executive Board Hears Interesting Reports

Interesting reports were made at the meeting of the executive board of the Federated Missionary societies, at the day nursery Friday morning when Mrs. G. R. Ellis presided. Among others, was one showing that services have been held at the county farm every Sunday in the past month. The First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Catholic and Episcopalian churches had charge of the meetings.

The Grace Methodist church will hold services at the farm March 16; First Christian, March 23; Highland Heights Christian, March 30 and Temple Israel, April 1.

The quarterly meeting of the society will be held at Floral Heights Methodist church at 2 o'clock Thursday, March 27.

Mrs. Datson reported 1,496 children cared for in the day nursery in the past month with an average of 62 per day. New children enrolled totaled 107, the largest number enrolled in one month.

Members present were Mesdames G. R. Ellis, Ray Belcher, Patrick Henry, Horrace Robbins, J. W. McReynolds, H. P. Ledford, W. H. Downing, Carrie Wilcox, O. T. Alles, Bailey, L. E. Cowling, B. P. So quick—so easy
—this new way to wash dishes!

BE GOOD to yourself—change to Rinso. Millions of women can tell you what a remarkable worker it is. Why, on washday it actually soaks clothes whiter, brighter than they can be scrubbed. Safely!

And in the dishpan, its rich, active suds work like magic. Grease swishes right off. A hot rinse, and the dishes dry clear without wiping.

So economical, too. Cup for cup, Rinso goes twice as far as lightweight, puffed-up soaps because it is granulated and compact. Get the BIG package. Use it for laundering, for basing tubs, woodwork and all cleaning.

Camp Fire Girls To Hold Anniversary Program

Members of the local Camp Fire girls organization will begin Sunday with a week's celebration of their 18th national birthday anniversary. The first number on the week's program will be the attendance of church in a body at the Floral Heights Methodist church for the morning service. During the evening service the group will present a specially prepared program of Indian music.

Beginning Monday and continuing through Saturday, each evening from 5 to 5:10 o'clock, one group will present a short program over KGKO, exemplifying one unit of the law of Camp Fire. Monday the Bowie school group will have as their topic, "Seek Beauty;" Tuesday, Crockatt will portray, "Give Service;" Wednesday, Zundelowitz will give a program on "Pursue Knowledge;" Thursday, Reagan will have the law of "Be Trustworthy," and Friday the Adi-Iwah group, which is composed of seniors, will have a program on "Hold On to Health." Saturday, between the hours of 7 and 7:30 o'clock, the out-of-town groups will give a program on the last two laws, "Glorifying Work" and "Be Happy."

The week will be climaxed Sunday with a birthday council fire to be held at the Episcopal parish house at 3 o'clock. At this time the honors will be presented to those who have fulfilled the requirements for earning them. All parents and interested friends have been invited to attend.

LITTLE THEATER

Membership to Attend One-Act Play Tonight

Members of the Wichita Falls Little Theater will be afforded the monthly free entertainment Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the organization's playhouse at Avenue H and Polk street, when "The Suicide," a one-act play, will be presented with Mrs. Thomas Holcombe in the leading role.

Mrs. Holcombe will be assisted by one other character, all of whose preformance is off-stage, contributing a secondary but effective part to the one-act tragedy.

Plans for entering the Little theater's cast with "The Enemy" Channing Pollock's war-play, in the state contest at Fort Worth on April 21, will be discussed Wednesday night by Emil Hermann, president. All members of the organization and their friends are invited to Wednesday night's meeting, it was announced.

Splendid Reports Given at Meeting Of Fidelis Class

Mesdames F. Doege, T. W. Goen and M. M. Mathis were hostesses at the meeting of the Fidelis class of the First Evangelical church at the home of Mrs. Doege on Broad street Tuesday afternoon.

In the business session, 118 sick calls, 139 social calls, 110 telephone calls, 33 trays and 11 flowers were reported.

Plans were made for an all-day quilting Thursday, March 13 and for a doughtnut sale Friday, March 21.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames W. Bowden, B. H. Lambert, Fred Spargar, Rena Seipel, F. G. Becker, L. C. Patton, W. E. Roberts, Ben Long, W. M. Schafer, D. J. Fisher, C. Y. Printed crepe spring outfits feature the cape ensemble as new and diverting. The cape is jacket length and the frock sleeveless.

Do Women Suffer More Than Men?

Physicians tell us that the nervous system of woman is more highly organized, more delicately poised, and therefore, more sensitive to disturbances and susceptible to pain than that of men.

Women especially appreciate and profit by the use of Capudine, because it quickly relieves high nerve tension and pain by soothing the nerves—not by deadening them. For nervous headache, periodic pains, pains in the back and sides, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, nothing is so quickly effective and satisfactory as Capudine. Being liquid it acts much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore, is the ideal remedy.

Every home should be supplied with Capudine. It brings grateful relief from nerve strain and pain, and affords peaceful relaxation in just a few minutes. At drug stores in 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

You will like Kotex because of its rounded tapered corners

KOTEX is shaped to fit. That means you have inconspicuous protection. You can feel immaculate and dainty, for Kotex deodorizes most effectively.

Then, too, Kotex is hygienically safe. Over 85% of our leading hospitals have chosen the very same material of which Kotex is made, because of its remarkable efficiency and surgical purity.

Kotex, you know, is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding . . . a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function as the finest cotton, but with five times the absorbency.

Kotex is disposable. Just think what that fact alone means.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Disposable, instantly, completely.

MANY ENTRIES IN DAIRY SHOW

Panhandle-Plains Section Plans Exhibit

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, March 11.—Twenty entries in the Guernsey department in the third annual Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show, which will be held here on April 7-10, have been made by Carson county. A list of the entries were sent to the manager by George P. Grout, who is superintendent of the Guernsey department of the show and vocational agricultural instructor at the Panhandle High school.

The entries from Carson county were made by R. C. O'Keefe, Panhandle; W. R. Riggers of Groom, Edwin B. Carroll, Panhandle; W. D. Riggers, Groom; Harry Garretson, Panhandle, and George P. Grout, Panhandle. According to Mr. Grout there will be 30 entries from Carson county before the show opens. Entry was made also by the breeders of Carson county in the county herd department.

Representatives of 60 different farm magazines published in 20 different states of the nation are being invited to attend the show. The rapid growth has attracted the attention of many of the leading periodicals of the South and some attention from national publications. Last year a number of the editors of these publications indicated a desire to attend the show and a few were present. This year many of them are expected to attend.

Accompanied by a 30-piece band, 200 people from Littlefield, Texas, will visit the exhibition. The delegation will arrive in Plainview in 50 automobiles and will probably make the trip on Tuesday, the second day of the show. The Littlefield Municipal band, under the direction of Monte Bowron, will give two concerts during its visit in Plainview.

Pilots Leap to Safety As Plane Plunges

BALTIMORE, March 11. (INS)—Two army pilots, Lieut. Edward Hopkins and Private E. Cook, flying from Mitchel Field, N. Y., to Bolling field, Washington, leaped to safety in parachutes over the Middle river section this afternoon when their airplane became unmanageable in a heavy fog. They said they jumped from a height of 1,500 feet. The plane was demolished.

What Made This Doctor Famous?

One's health is the most important thing in life. When you suffer from any annoying symptom, feel rundown and discouraged, why don't you write for free medical advice, no matter what your ailment may be, to Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y.? Dr. R. V. Pierce organized the Dr. Pierce Clinic in the 70's, and built the Invalids Hotel and Surgical Institute. This clinic is known all over the United States.

One tonic which Dr. Pierce used over and over, was a prescription which he found was so successful in rebuilding and strengthening women that he later put it up in ready-to-use form. This, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, has brought health and strength to hundreds of women right here in this city and all over the United States. It can be had in tablet or liquid form at all good drug stores. If you desire an acquaintance package of the tablets, send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

McLean Arranges For C. of C. Meet

Special to The Record News.

M'LEAN, Texas, March 11.—Everything will be in readiness for the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce Secretaries association which will convene here March 25. A full day's program has been made and many prominent speakers will appear for the day's meeting.

D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, of Stamford, will address the body during the morning session. His address will be followed by one from Maury Hopkins, manager of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Mr. Hopkins will discuss the Hale county dairy industry.

Joseph Leopold, manager of the south-central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, of Dallas, will be the afternoon speaker.

Fair dates and annual banquet dates will be discussed and so arranged that no two will be conflicting.

Plainview Cotton Growers to Meet

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, March 11.—Ways and means of bettering the quality of cotton grown in this particular section of the Panhandle will be discussed at a meeting in Plainview Tuesday, March 18, to be attended by bankers, ginners, farmers, cotton men and business men from every town as far south of Plainview as Floydada and as far west as Olton. This announcement was made by R. Q. Silverthorne, president of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce following a meeting of a committee named to study the situation.

J. D. Steakley, vice president of the Plainview National bank, is the chairman of the committee. Other members are John Hardaway, Jack Wilson, J. C. Anderson Jr., Carl G. Goodman, and Winfield Holbrook.

Electra Men Seek Election to Posts

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, March 11.—Charlie Horton Tuesday announced his candidacy for public weigher. Mr. Horton, who has been a resident of Electra for a number of years, stated that he was fully qualified for the position.

W. H. Coffman has also announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the office of justice of the peace. He was elected to that position in 1928 and states that his record is before the people and he is willing to let his fitness for the position be judged by his record and his ability to enforce the law.

GRAND JURY TO AIR EXTORTION

Reporter and Young Woman Face Charges

LOS ANGELES, March 11 (AP)—District Attorney Buron Fitts today went before the county grand jury with a suitcase full of "evidence" and seven witnesses to present the case of Morris Lavine, newspaper reporter, and Miss Leontine Johnson, who were arrested yesterday on suspicion of conspiring to extort $300,000 from persons allegedly involved in the Julian Petroleum corporation stock overissue swindle.

The suitcase was seized by Fitts' detectives when they arrested Lavine as he left the office of Charles Crawford, broker, assertedly with $75,000 in marked bills allegedly paid to him by Crawford. The detectives said the suitcase full of "evidence" had been turned over to the broker by Lavine, and that it contained documents dealing with a "Julian pool."

Lavine is accused of attempted extortion from Crawford and other brokers through threatened publication of a series of articles dealing with the Julian swindle of 1927, which information he had obtained from Miss Johnson, former secretary to S. C. Lewis, president of the defunct oil concern.

Deficiency Measure Includes Farm Fund

WASHINGTON, March 11. (INS)—The $100,000,000 additional appropriation recommended by President Hoover for the federal farm board's relief activities was included today in a deficiency appropriation bill approved by the senate appropriations committee.

The bill will be the first measure passed by the senate after it completes action on the tariff bill. This will insure appropriation of the fund for the farm board within the next few weeks.

Smuggled Goods Sized by Officers

MEXICO CITY, March 11. (AP)—A dispatch today from Nuevo Laredo to El Universal said the customs house guard there Saturday night had stopped a bus containing a large quantity of dutiable merchandise, including 200 pistols, much silk and 100 pairs of shoes.

When none of the passengers admitted ownership the chauffeur and the owner of the bus were arrested.

ALTUS PLANS P.-T. A. MEET

Many Members Will Gather On March 20

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., March 11.—Plans are being rapidly completed, and the program outlined for the southwestern Oklahoma district convention of the Parent-Teacher association in Altus March 20. Between 300 and 400 persons are expected to be in attendance for this conference.

The school of instructions is outlined definitely. This work was done by Mrs. J. Gilmer Capps, district association president, from Frederick, who met with the local committee. Meetings will be held in the Baptist church here.

Invitations are being issued to all schools in the 14 counties in this district and to the president of the Parent-Teacher association which includes an invitation to all teachers and patrons of the entire district.

Mrs. Charles E. Roe of Washington, D. C., national field secretary, will be the principal speaker, and her appearance in Altus is expected to assist much in securing a large attendance.

Music by the Altus High school orchestra will open the program at 10 a. m. Mrs. Dunaway of Lawton will lead the devotional exercises, and the welcome address will be given by J. C. Barnett, principal of the Altus Senior High school. Mrs. Capps of Frederick will respond to this address.

Music projects in Oklahoma will be discussed by Mrs. J. B. Parrish, who is state director in this department of the Parent-Teacher associational work. The Mothers chorus will entertain with vocal numbers.

"Child in the Home" will be the topic of an address by Mrs. Eileen Harrison of Oklahoma City. Mrs. Capps will preside at the business session later in the afternoon.

"Responsibilities and Opportunities in Parent-Teacher Association Work" is the subject of the main address of the day by Mrs. Charles E. Roe.

The Schubert Choral club will entertain at 7:30 p. m. and will be followed by an address by L. C. Clifton, superintendent of schools at Tipton, on the subject, "Developing Personality in High School Students."

"New World Children and Old World Parents" will be discussed by Mrs. Eileen Harrison.

"A Little Child Shall Lead" will be a vocal solo by Mrs. L. A. Pelly, and Mrs. Pearson will give an inspirational address for the closing number.

Herbert Kaufman's
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT
Daily Editorial

HIS entire career was consecrated to public service. For exactly half a century he invested his genius to community, not personal profit.

His legal acumen was always above private hire. He never accepted a corporation retainer nor arrayed his talents against the people.

Like Herbert Hoover, he was a capture, rather than a product of politics.

The supreme bench appealed to him far more than the presidency. The haircloth shirts of the White House peculiarly itched his sensitive and deliberate temperament And the turbulent and chaotic conditions which disturbed his incumbency, supplied more than his administration's due share of them. He inherited a congress torn with revolt, rife with intrigue and irreconcilably split with dissension. The whip had fallen from the hand of Aldrich, and the gavel had been snatched from the fingers of Cannon.

New leaders were rising from the wreckage of old guard management. Strange shibboleths were sounding through the continent; states were clamoring for initiative and referendum, for election of senators by primary, for stronger curbs upon public utilities, for sequestration of the public domain, for parcels post and for ship subsidy.

Succeeding a spectacular jack-of-all-performances—over-shadowed by the terrific personality of the voluble, picturesque, vehement, dramatic, self-advertising Roosevelt—forced upon the Chicago convention by the will of an irresistible machine, and encumbered with a compromise cabinet, William Howard Taft was not quite the man for that particular hour.

Cautious, with the conservatism of the born jurist, he was forever delaying pressing decisions for a further examination of facts.

Acutely thin-skinned, the strategic assaults of the opposition constantly betrayed his susceptibility to criticism and invited the gadflies to sting all the harder.

A MAN of violent likes and distastes, he could not be brought to realize that goat-getting is an inalienable and traditional prerogative of the partisan press.

Time and again, he further embittered his taunters by untempered invectives against their professional diatribes. His plan to increase the postal rate on periodicals was consequently viewed as a gesture of reprisal and an attempt to bastinado free speech.

His early alliance with the unpopular Cannon and the Aldrich clique, added to his unequivocal support of Ballinger (the most venomously assailed of all cabinet officers, until Fall), tended to brand him as a stand-patter. His greatest handicap was the lack of a spokesman in the image of a Lemont, a Cortelyou or a Loeb, to emphasize his relenting prosecution of monopoly and his resistance to political pressure in supreme court appointments, as exemplified by the selection of Lurton and his elevation of White to the chief justiceship—both lifelong Democrats. His magnificent endeavors for reciprocity and tariff reform, his scathing stand against Lorimerism, are other tapelines with which history will more justly measure his executive stature than contemporary bias was inclined to estimate it. If he came into his own late, he none-the-less arrived with a flourish of trumpets, among which the New York Times, not the least of his quondam hecklers, proclaimed, toward the end of his administration, "he was broken with the stupid, sordid, greedy past, and turned the country on the path of sensible advance. The American people turn to him, not with merely negative approbation, but with positive admiration and high confidence in his leadership." And let that unprejudiced tribute lie today among the other wreaths on his catafalque.

Recent estimates of the U. S. department of agriculture indicate that a total of 126,000,000 pounds of plant food is washed out of the soil every year.

America is truly air-minded. Those who aren't up in planes are down on earth, listening to the radio.

Most people are worrying about the income tax, but the real fret still is how the outgo taxes us.

The Price of the Past

IT IS characteristic of Americans to look ahead. Sometimes the past seems too uneventful and dull to look back on, and sometimes it seems too harsh and brutal; either way, what lies ahead is generally more attractive.

But the past can hardly be ignored. It hangs over us, with its phantoms and its shadows. To turn back and look at it is to understand ourselves better. It is our heritage. It deserves, not monuments, but much study.

The March Journal of the National Education Association quotes an extract from the diary of a woman who made the fabulous old trip to Oregon by covered wagon, away back in 1847. It is worth looking at. Read the following paragraphs, taken from the woman's entry of Nov. 18, 1847, and see what you think:

"My husband is sick. It rains and snows. We start this morning around the falls with our wagon. We have five miles to go. I carry my babe and lead, or rather carry, another through the snow, mud and water almost to my knees.

"It is the worst road that a team could possibly travel. I went ahead with my children and I was afraid to look behind me for fear of seeing the wagons turn over into the mud and water with everything in them. My children gave out with cold and fatigue and could not travel and the boys had to unhitch the oxen and bring them and carry the children on to camp.

"I was so cold and numb that I could not tell by the feeling that I had any feet at all. We started this morning at sunrise and did not get to camp until after dark, and there was not one dry thread on one of us—not even my babe.

"I had carried my babe and I was so fatigued I could hardly speak or step. When I got here I found my husband lying in Welch's wagon, very sick. He had brought Mrs. Polk down the day before and was taken sick here. We had to stay up all night tonight for our wagons are left half way back. I have not told half we suffered. I am not adequate to the task.

"Here were some hundreds camped, waiting for the boats to come and take them down the Columbia to Vancouver or Portland or Oregon City."

There, if you please, is the past—the American past. The hardship, the soul-sickness, the utter weariness, discouragement and misery that shine through the paragraphs of that pioneer woman's diary; what were they but part of the price that was paid for all that we have today? We are not our own—not entirely. We were bought by the past; bought by the unsung heroes and heroines who suffered and endured more than we shall ever be called on to suffer and endure in order that we might have what we have.

You cannot understand your nation unless you comprehend that fact. Back of everything that is thought and done today there stand those shadowy figures of the pioneers, straining forward through incredible hardships in the dim hope that somehow the future could be made better than the past. They have gone, now, and the responsibility is ours. Who can read that Oregon woman's diary without vowing to do what he can, be it little or great, to bring that old dream a bit nearer to realization?

The Old Roll-Top Desk

IT HAD never been a very big business, but it had been moderately prosperous, and it had lasted for 50 years and now it was closing its doors.

Its main office was on a side street a little way removed from the main business district. The glass show windows displayed the stock in trade—leather goods, harness of various kinds, queer looking appliances to puzzle the casual onlooker, brief cases and straps and so on.

The fittings were not remarkable. Rather old-fashioned, they were, especially the roll-top desk at the rear, where the owner, and his father before him, had sat to direct the business. The desk probably had been installed when the place was first opened, half a century ago. Now the business was being closed out. Bidders for the desk probably would be few. Roll-top desks of that type aren't in much demand now.

Indeed, speculating on the melancholy downfall of an honorable old film, one is tempted to wonder whether that roll-top desk, preserved unchanged through all the years of change, might not be rather symbolic.

To hang on to a roll-top desk through 50 years indicates a sort of conservatism, a clinging to old customs and old ways. But the last couple of decades, in the business world, have not been good years for the conservative. They have put the business man under the iron necessity of keeping abreast of the times mentally. Those who failed to do so have gone under.

This is not the same sort of world it was a generation ago. Developments of a startling nature have come fast. New inventions and new practices have risen to pronounce disaster on any business executive who could not divorce himself from the old ways.

The old pace was leisurely and dignified. But now? Speed is the great word. The airplane, the radio, the telephoto system, the long-distance telephone network, the telegraphic night letter—these are the insignia of a new order. They are the emblems of a multitude of changes.

As a result of all of this, incalculable changes are taking place in the business world. Old firms are vanishing, their holdings gathered up by the long arms of big corporations. Business of a small scale has to step fast and keep all of its wits about it if it is to survive.

And here we come back to the roll-top desk. Isn't it possible that this old desk was a symbol of an inability to change, an inability to adapt an old-fashioned business organization and old-fashioned business practices to a new era?

The old ways may have been more pleasant, more gracious, more human—but they are gone, and weeping won't bring them back. The rule that the fittest shall survive was never as inexorable as it is in American business today. And the roll-top desk, with all that it symbolizes, belongs to a by-gone era.

Testimony

I have been wrong and I will take the blame,
You made a proper move in leaving me;
I was a novice in a skillful game,
I was a tyrant loath to set you free.

I wanted each fleet minute of your day,
And all the love you had or none at all;
Freedom was dear and you would not obey,
Soon then, there stood a high dividing wall.

So, let it stand—and thus on either side
Are two who for a brief ecstatic spell,
Placed love and beauty far ahead of pride,
Until the fever died—and one grew well.

If it was wrong to chain you—keep you near,
Then being wrong is very sweet, my dear!
—ROMEO.

Funny Enough

A new member at the Friars club was being shown around the monastery the other afternoon. They had never seen anything like him before and were just as amazed as he probably was. He had on the trickiest suit, with a belt in the back, a noisy tie with a million colors, blue socks, tan shoes and a purple kerchief sticking out of his top coat pocket.

"Who the deuce is that bird?" queried Bugs Baer.

"He does a comedy act with a partner," said someone.

"Gosh!" gasped Bugs. "Does he need a partner?"

He's a Baer!

The same afternoon Bugs was stopped by Rube Bernstein, who kept burlesque breathing for many years. "I am going to write a play," said Rube.

"That so," replied Bugs. "Whose gonna correct your English?"

Capsule Criticism

Add to our Crisp Cracks From Critical Cusses Dept. is the unnamed reviewer's report on a New York magician who was touring the hinterland for three-night engagements, giving the whole show himself. The drama-defender in one of the villages briefly chronicled: "New York sent us one of its alleged magicians again last night. He was so good he made this critic disappear within 15 minutes."

In Fewer Words

Harder to find than a woman who is true is a towel when the soap is in your eyes.

I've lost some great and stylish friends,
I'm glad as I can be;
The strain of living up to them—
Was nearly killing me.

Newspaper Stuff

The "re-write men" on the newspapers are the lads who really write the news reported over the telephone by reporters who were "on the scene," and by the wire services. One of them paused on a story yesterday and chirped:

"Gee! When I think of my salary I get sick. The vice president of the country gets $15,000 a year for doing nothing!"

"Oh, I dunno," piped a copy reader. "You never heard of a rewrite man getting that much!"

"No?" was the vicious rejoinder. "How about the Broadway columnists on this sheet?"

Sounds Like Him

When "The Music Box" was young, the stars of one of the early revues were Willie Collier and the late Sam Bernard. Mr. Bernard got sick or tired or something and resigned. He was replaced by Solly Ward, who up to this time had taken no part in anything much but burlesque.

Came the yuletide and Mr. Ward was filled with a desire to present Mrs. Ward with a gift that befitted his new position in the theater. "Mr. Collier," he said one night, "my wife has worked hard. She looks after our apartment, goes to the market every day and does all the cooking in a tiny little kitchen. I'd like to get her a nice Christmas present and I thought you might suggest something."

"Why not get her a bigger kitchen," suggested Collier.

Hehehah

Up at the Casino in Central park the other night they were playing that delightful tune called "What Is This Thing Called Love, That Phony Thing Called Love?" when one wag observed: "Yeh, yeh. It's love that makes the world go round—with that pained expression."

The Retort Sweigant

You might have come across that part of Peggy Joyce's book, "Men, Marriage and Me," where Peg pays great tribute to George Jean Nathan, the critic. Peggy says that he is a great dramatic critic and a charming person and all that sort of thing, but he hasn't any sex appeal!

Well, the "inside" on that poke follows. Pretty Peggy was pulling Nathan's leg, as the saying goes, and evening things with him, for in his report of her last starring show he said that Peggy was a good actress, but she had no sex appeal which was strictly a burn-up.

Incidentally, after his review was published, Peggy telegraphed him: "Oh, haven't I? Well come up some time and find out."

To which George stiffly replied: "No thanks. I've given up sex for dramatic criticism."

Overheard

"Tell me what cusswords you've heard and I'll tell you what shows you have seen."

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who associates with evil is called evil."

Small minds are quick to jump to conclusions and as this type of mind is in the majority, we must be very careful of the impressions we make. By being too tolerant of the doings of others we give them the impression that we are partakers of the same things.

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty Gay Terris has agreed to marry her employer, Frank Patterson, in return for a loan to send her sick mother to Arizona. She knows she can never love him but is determined to make this sacrifice. She shares a room with Nita Rollins, an office companion, but when she accepts an invitation from Andy Grant, whom Nita loves, is forced to leave. One evening at dinner with Mr. Patterson she is attracted to a woman who looks a great deal like herself and wonders who she can be. While at Coney Island with Andy Grant, Nita finds them and makes a horrible scene. Gay is about to make a getaway when someone taps her on the shoulder.

CHAPTER VI

The good looking man who had been sitting at the next table was standing beside her, saying something. Gay couldn't hear at first what it was. Nita was going on so—and with the music . . .

"I didn't recognize you at first," she managed to understand, when he repeated it, "will you dance?"

Gladly she got up. Anything to get away from Nita, from the horrible things she was saying.

Now she was moving away from Andy, from Nita, the stranger's hand guiding her through the maze of tables to the dance floor. At the dance floor the man paused and she slipped into his arms. She was trembling and his strong grasp steadied her.

He danced well. Too well. She was better already. What had he said at first? "I didn't recognize you—will you dance?"

She didn't know him. She was sure she didn't. She had never seen him before tonight.

When they had taken perhaps a dozen steps and were close to the door, she leaned away from him. "I want to get away—" and she moved out on the sidewalk, he after her.

"I'm sorry I came up like that," he was saying when they were out in the night air, "but I heard some of the things that were—being said, and I thought you might want to get away. It seemed the easiest way to me to ask you to dance—"

"Thanks," she murmured, and her eyelashes brushed her pale cheeks. So he had heard, too?

"I didn't mean to listen, but I couldn't help it," he was smiling. There were little wrinkles under his eyes, and at the corners of his mouth when he smiled. His features were strong, well defined, and his chin firm.

She was conscious that he seemed more mature, a little older than Andy.

"I'm going now, and thanks again—" her hand went out, and he took it, a small dainty hand. As she looked down, she saw his closed over hers, his right hand, a white scar running across the knuckles. She let her fingers linger in his for a moment, then drew them away.

"You're not angry with me, then?" he asked, thinking how lovely she was under the glare of the bright yellow electric light, how fresh her skin, how deep her eyes.

"No—"

"You'll let me take you home?"

"No—" Gay didn't know why she refused. For she liked him. When she had run pell mell down the sidewalk away from him, her yellow linen dress clinging to her slim body, her red hair flying, she was furious with herself. She might have stopped a little longer, talked to him—he had been kind to her, more than kind. She would never forget him.

Her cheeks were burning—the shame of it all. Nita to do this! Follow her and Andy. Well, she shouldn't have gone with him. She might have known—she ought to have been warned by Nita's lecture the other night.

People in her way—she didn't see them, didn't hear their exclamation of rebuke when she brushed past them.

After what had happened tonight she couldn't stay any longer with Nita. That was certain.

Only one thought in her mind now—to get home before Nita did.

He danced well. Too well. She felt better already.

While she was waiting for the subway, she was looking up and down the platform for her, wondering what she would do if she saw her, where she would go.

Nita had called her a flirt . . . she wasn't a flirt. She and Andy were only having a good time. And it had been Andy who insisted they go, but. Tears of mortification flooded her eyes. Nita had humiliated her so. . . .

Couples were streaming up the stairs, tired, happy girls and men, laughing, talking.

The train was so slow. Why couldn't it hurry? To wait here, to be here if Nita came . . . The train whizzed up and she slid on, huddling finally in a corner, feeling lonely, friendless. She tried to smooth down her hair, but didn't succeed. The salt spray had curled it tightly all over her head.

That man must have thought she was crazy—and he had been so nice. If she ever saw him again—but she never would. . . . As it was he had heard what Nita had said.

Queer how it all had happened—so quickly. Asking her to dance, and she dancing with him. She didn't even know his name. Well, he didn't know her either. She wished she could have danced with him a little longer. A white scar on his knuckles. The cut must have been a bad one, for the scar was prominent. Alone he had been, too, she was thankful for that.

You met people and then you lost them. Like that. People you wanted to know.

Dark hair, dark eyes. . . . How did it happen he didn't have a girl with him? A man alone at Coney Island . . .

The train sped on, screaming hideously when it stopped, throwing Gay crazily back into her corner, then the next moment pushing her against the girl beside her, as it raced on again. The girl was sleepy. She had her head on the shoulder of a sallow looking youth who was her escort.

Some one breathed the time. Twelve thirty. Half an hour before, Gay thought, she had been sitting beside Andy in the restaurant, talking to him.

How could she face Nita Monday morning at work? Face the hate in her eyes?

As she stood on the platform waiting to change cars, feeling more alone than ever, she wondered whether she would ever love anyone as much as Nita loved Andy. Love him so much, she would do as Nita had done. She touched her smooth, satiny skin and sighed. She didn't know.

Love was very strange when it was like Nita's. Love like that was dangerous.

At any rate—and her shoulders went back with a jerk as she stepped into another train—she wouldn't have to worry about love. Unless she finally came to love Mr. Patterson. If she didn't, well—she wouldn't ever know it. The less she thought about love the better. She was going to marry Mr. Patterson, and that was that. Marry him in New York probably, her mother far away. Three months from now. Three months of freedom.

But loving Mr. Patterson passionately. Being jealous of him, as Nita was of Andy . . .

Hurrying through the streets to her apartment hourse, she hoped Nita wouldn't be home. She did not realize how nervous she was until she put the key in the lock, listening awhile before she turned it. The place seemed empty. There was not a sound from within.

With shaking hands she turned on the light, expected every moment to hear Nita's sharp, shrill voice. Nita, angry, vindictive. A search through the place proved that Nita had not yet returned.

One o'clock. The fat squat face of the alarm clock on the table seemed to yawn at her sleepily, as she dragged out her two suitcases, and started throwing her clothes into them. Five minutes it took her to pack. Five terrible, long drawn out minutes. A noise in the hall startled her once and she crept to the door, and drew the bolt. Nita couldn't get in now if she came.

Lucky she didn't have much to take . . . .

When she was through, she snapped out the light, and struggling with her bags, stepped into the hall. There was a hotel near, where she could stay for the night. Tomorrow, she would find a room by herself . . .

Fifteen minutes later she was in the hotel, locking the door of her small cheap room, and crying a little because she couldn't control herself.

She had been so happy when she had gone to live with Nita. The companionship of another girl, a girl near her own age. It had been such fun—for a few days.

But when she crawled into bed, she couldn't sleep. That man—how nice he had been. She touched the fingers he had held, and brushed her hot cheek with them. Silly—but she would never see him again, so she could dream on.

What was his name?

Tomorrow—A caller.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

Elmer Twitchell Voices a Picture Peeve

Dear Editor:

I am writing in to inquire if you or any of your readers can remember when there was action in moving pictures? It has been a long time since anything of that nature was seen in the movies, but there must be some people who can remember that far.

PHILLIPS

I mean away back before the talkies when the hero, dashing up the mountainside on horseback to rescue the beautiful heroine who was battling with a gang of desperadoes, never had time to stop and go into a theme song, and when the said heroine, before plunging into the raging cataracts to escape the local Lon Chaney, never cleared her throat and took 10 minutes out for a song plug.

There was a time, unless my memory betrays me, when a movie fan went into a movie house for a little excitement. The movie moguls used to assume that he went to a picture show for some stirring drama and not for a demonstration of how Hollywood performers have come along vocally. It was the average man's retreat from the everyday things of life, and this included all forms of yodeling, voice-throwing and major examples of acute laryngitis.

He went to the movies to be thrilled, not to be sung to sleep. He wanted action and nothing would have ruined his visit more than a remote suspicion that the plot would be dropped for a half-hour or so while the director tried out a couple of promising song-writers.

Even the suspicion that the red-blooded hero could sing would have been a terrible blow. The audience liked to believe that he would have preferred death to a tenor solor at any stage of the story.

Can you imagine Bill Hart, for instance, pulling his galloping horse up in front of the Bar-X ranch just in time to keep the Eastern school mistress from a fate worse than death, and then coming down into the spotlight for a touching number entitled, "Harvest Moon, I Want You"?

I have been trying to keep up my enthusiasm for the movies since the talky craze came in, but I am having a tough battle. Not that I don't like the talkies. Kept within bounds, they are a great improvement over the old silent films, but some of the directors are proceeding under the idea that all the world loves a conversationalist and that the test of a great dramatic work is whether it can be acted over the telephone.

The picture magnates put me into a particularly heavy sleep with their attempts to put over musical comedies by pressure. Nothing is so impersonal as a beauty chorus on the screen and my idea of the height of boredom is sitting through one of those cinema spectacles where droves of dancing-girls perform amid elaborate settings that you wouldn't like even if they were good. It is no more possible to feel any interest in a beautiful show-girl on a screen than it is to get hysterical over an oil painting of a bottle of champagne.

And a snappy dance arranged by Max Copadoop, the boy wonder of musical comedy ensembles, isn't my idea of moving picture action and suspense.

Still, I may be wrong.

Yours peevishly,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

TAFT RESTS IN QUIET GLADE

Final Services Held for Former President

icent spell upon the weeping widow. It caught the trim lines of troops, marines and sailors that ringed that woodland half acre about as a frame, to touch saber blade and polished button with glinting lights, to wake the rain sodden coloring of flag and guidon to new and glowing life.

And it was thus they left their dead, those weeping women of his household, those many, old, old friends of the most distinguished men in national life today who gathered with him for the last time. They left him sleeping under the glow of a sinking sun, which was flaming gloriously among the old trees from which the shadows of night were stealing down the hill even as they went down it and back to the busy city beyond the river.

At noon the impressive military procession to the church where he worshipped each Sunday began.

After services at the All Souls Unitarian church at 2 p. m. the flag-draped coffin was transferred from the army caisson to a hearse and the procession moved across the historic Potomac to the cemetery.

The president and Mrs. Hoover stood silently on the east portico of the White House as the procession from the capitol to the church slowly passed.

Hoovers at Church

Later President and Mrs. Hoover attended the church services, heading the ranks of cabinet officers, justices of the supreme court, senators and representatives, officials and close friends who gathered there and journeyed to the cemetery.

The services at the church, conducted by Rev. U. G. Pierce were simple.

At the cemetery crowds stood with heads uncovered in the rain as the casket was committed to the earth. At a sharp command a squad fired three salvos over the grave and a bugler sounded taps. Almost as if signaled the rain ceased and the sun broke from behind the overcast clouds.

Troops at reveille today stood at attention while 13 guns were fired. It was a tribute to the former president, secretary of war, chief justice of the supreme court and governor of the Philippine islands, and throughout the interval until the body was finally lowered to its last resting place, the radio broadcast over both great systems gave the nation the description of the ceremonies. It marked the first broadcast of the funeral of a former president.

Up Pennsylvania avenue, where Mr. Taft had once travelled joyfully on the blizzardy day of his inauguration as president in 1909, the cortege, moving with slow cadenced tread, marched past the White House, and then into Sixteenth street.

Rain Drenches Horses

Rain dripped from the streaming flanks of the horses. The hands of the soldiers and sailors were blue with cold. Their uniforms and habiliments were streaked with rain.

The mournful notes of funeral dirges, played by the U. S. army band, the U. S. engineers band and the marine band, marked the slow time for the marchers.

Within two blocks of the church the procession, with the caisson at the rear, halted for several minutes to allow President and Mrs. Hoover, members of the bereaved family, high dignitaries and officials of the government to enter the church before the flag-draped casket was carried in. The president and Mrs. Hoover entered by a side door. All others used the front entrance, over which a canvas runway had been strung to shelter them from the rain.

At a command from Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, marshal of the procession, the cortege moved again. First was the army band, then battalions of artillery, with flags draped in black, the engineers' band, a detachment of infantry, and then the marine band, at the head of a unit of marines and sailors.

Prominent in the assemblage was Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, his patriarchal face lined with deep sorrow. Justice Holmes was 89 last Saturday. On that day Associate Justice Edward T. Sanford died suddenly. Five hours later Mr. Taft's death occurred.

Beautiful Simplicity

There was no eulogy at the service. But Dr. Pierce, Mr. Taft's pastor for over 20 years, conducted the service with an inspiration born of personal sorrow. It was beautiful in its sheer simplicity, impressive as befitted the man who had worshipped there.

As the casket left the church the cannon at Fort Myer and other government reservations began to boom minute guns. This continued during the long interval as the automobiles with the funeral party made their way to Arlington by way of the Francis Scott Key bridge. As the cortege entered the military reservation there were 21 guns, the salute for a president.

At the grave, which lies on a oak grove slope of the famed Valhalla, overlooking Washington and near where the new Arlington Memorial bridge will make a new approach, the ceremony was simple. Dr. Pierce committed the body to the ground. A firing squad fired a volley and a bugler sounded taps. Through the grove of oaks came a golden light of sunshine, as the rain clouds parted, casting soft shadows.

Three Wichitans to Attend Trial Of Contest of Zundelowitz Will

Lester Jones, J. L. Jackson Jr., and H. J. Bruce left Tuesday afternoon for Los Angeles to be present at the trial of the contest over the will of the late Albert Zundelowitz, pioneer former citizen of Wichita Falls who died in California last June.

In his will Mr. Zundelowitz made many generous bequests to charitable organizations, among them being the day nursey of Wichita Falls, the Masonic Orphans home near Fort Worth, the Crippled Children's hospital at Dallas and others. The will was contested by a number of the relatives not remembered in the instrument.

Mr. Jones is one of the executors of the estate, Mr. Jackson is manager of the real estate properties and Mr. Bruce, local attorney, will be associated with the legal firm of Verge & Collins of Los Angeles in the defense. The case has been set for trial March 14.

NEGRO SILENT ON SLAYING

Norford Refuses to Explain Shooting of Two

Jim Norford, 61-year-old negro, was under two charges of murder Tuesday afternoon following the death of his wife, Ada, and Andrew Byrd, aged negro man, shot through the head as he stood in the doorway of his shop at 103 Park street early Monday morning. The woman was found dead in the Norford home at 207 Brick street when city officers crashed through the door to arrest Norford. Arresting officers said that the second shot, which fatally wounded the woman, was fired shortly after they arrived at the scene of the first shooting.

Investigators Tuesday afternoon were seeking a motive for the double killing, Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney in charge of the inquiry, announced. Norford declined to make a statement. A note found in the Norford home and addressed to a daughter of the defendant, left instructions for Norford's own funeral and the disposition of the property, the attorney said.

Norford, who has lived in Wichita Falls for many years, is the owner of a confectionery on Humphries street, owns his own home and other property. Friends of the negroes reported that there has been disputes over the division of the property.

No application for a preliminary hearing has yet been made on behalf of the defendant and court officials were of the opinion that the matter would be laid before the 30th district grand jury when it convenes on April 6.

Changes in Jones Law Recommended

WASHINGTON, March 11. (UP)—Amendment of the Jones law to make its terms more definite, and creation of a new category of federal crimes to be known as "petty offenses" were recommended by a house judiciary subcommittee today to relieve court congestion. Two bills to accomplish these changes in the criminal code were reported favorably to the full committee. A third measure, which would empower United States commissioners to try persons charged with petty offenses, was referred to the full committee without recommendation.

The full judiciary committee, which is hopelessly divided in its attitude toward the three measures, is expected to consider them after completing its hearings on resolution to modify or repeal the 18th amendment.

PARK PLANTS

City Uses 12,000 Shrubs In Beautifying Public Grounds

A total of 12,000 plants, including shrubs, evergreens and trees, at a cost of several hundred dollars have been planted in the various city parks, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city superintendent.

The replacements were made necessary as a result of the extremely cold weather experienced in December and January. A large number of the plants used were taken from the city's own nursery in Weeks park.

Frederick Trial Reaches Final Stage

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., March 11.—The fate of Bill Chance, charged with the murder of L. C. Adkinson, aged filling station attendant, rested with the jury late Tuesday after the trial had closed with the defendant's own testimony. Arguments were completed and the case placed in the hands of the jury about 5:30 Tuesday afternoon.

In his testimony on the stand Tuesday morning Chance repudiated an alleged earlier confession, asserting that it had been forced from him after threats of the electric chair and a promise of a four-year sentence in the penitentiary if he confessed to a part in the robbery of the filling station which ended in the death of Adkinson.

The defendant said he had been taken to the state prison at McAlester, locked in the death chamber and left in a dungeon over night.

Before the state closed its case Tuesday the prosecuting attorneys attempted to prove that an alleged stain found on Chance's neck was a trace of a black-face mask he had assumed to hide his identity at the time of the robbery and killing.

JUNIOR C.-C. TO JOIN U. S. BODY

National Officers Guests at Banquet Here

The Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening accepted an invitation to affiliate with the United States Junior chamber, formally presented by the heads of the national body in a banquet at the Kemp hotel. The application for membership in the national order was signed in a meeting of the board of directors called by Jerry Vinson, local president, after the banquet.

The invitation for affiliation was personally extended by Herbert F. McCulla, national president; John Briggs, vice president, and Harry J. Kruss, secretary, who visited the local organization in company with a delegation from the Dallas group, already granted national affiliation.

Invitation Issued

In his address of invitation, Mr. McCulla declared that the national group needed the Wichita Falls organization and that the local chamber, in turn, needed the affiliation. He praised the work of the membership here and expressed his confidence in their effective work. The president discussed the value of the exchange of ideas in the groups all over the nation and spoke of the value of widened contacts resulting from affiliation. The national organization is stressing the cooperation between the senior and junior chambers, Mr. McCulla added, and has adopted the policy of granting no charters where such cooperation does not exist.

The meeting Tuesday evening opened with an invocation from Gerald Coffey, followed by songs from George Klingman, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker. The group was later entertained with selections from Strickland's negro quartet.

Mr. Vinson, who acted as toastmaster, welcomed the visitors and introduced Howard Hayden, president of the Dallas organization. Mr. Hayden discussed the values of affiliation as reflected in the success of the Dallas junior chamber.

The value of the national organization to the individual members over the country were outlined by Harry J. Krusz, national secretary. Mr. Krusz sketched the history of the Junior chamber since its organization in St. Louis in 1915. There are now 100 affiliated organizations in the United States, he announced, nine in England and 12 in Canada.

Dallas Delegation

C. C. McDonald, a member of the senior group here, was a guest speaker. Mr. McDonald paid a tribute to the work and power of the younger men, and pointed to their significance in the development of the nation.

John Briggs, national vice president, told of the other affiliated organizations in Texas and in Oklahoma, and urged the importance of cooperation.

John Boswell, general manager of the Wichita Falls senior body, recommended the younger order to the national heads and expressed his confidence in the ultimate affiliation. Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager here, was among the guests of honor at the speaker's table.

The delegation from Dallas included Walter Peck, C. O. Girard, Kay Bertucci, Edward Penman, Lyman Thompson, Homer A. Williams, T. M. Beverly, and Joe Taylor.

The Truly Amazing Low Price of Pierce-Arrow Fineness!

IT would take less than ten minutes to show the world's most unobserving person why Pierce-Arrow is regarded as America's finest motor car—and why, as such, it is amazingly low priced.

A brief glimpse of any Pierce-Arrow interior is fairly convincing. A closer examination reveals appointments of such fineness, coachcraft of such artistry, as to carry utmost conviction. Only custom creations are comparable.

The new Pierce-Arrow groups are of the distinguished, low-swung, slender design which so brilliantly captured the fine car field. And to the many fresh charms of these new cars have been added elements of performance which bring a new magic to motoring. The new Pierce-Arrow transmission, for example:

This recent Pierce-Arrow feature makes possible a speed of 60 miles an hour in intermediate—and without the usual hum or vibration common to that gear. And the gear-shift is unclashable at any speed.

All of which is relatively unimportant beside the fact that these new cars are Pierce-Arrow at its finest—and are priced, considering this fineness, amazingly low.

HOW TO SLEEP

Many motorists notice a tendency to fall asleep while driving at night. This seems to be caused by the monotonous rhythm of the motor and the general rocking of the automobile. Some bright scientist ought to devise a mechanical bed with a monotonous rhythm and a gentle rocking motion for the benefit of those suffering from insomnia. This would probably be more beneficial than counting sheep.

For the best sleep, the bed should be soft and comfortable, but not too warm. The effect of the position during sleep often has an important effect upon the heart of the individual. Children often develop round shoulders or curved spines from continually sleeping in a cramped up position.

Many people make the mistake of habitually sleeping either on the stomach or back so that they cannot sleep in any other way. It is a much better policy to learn to sleep sometimes on the stomach, sometimes on the back, or on either side, as in this way the internal organs do not tend to fall in any one position, and the circulation has a chance to function normally. When sleeping on the back it is better to dispense with the pillow, but when sleeping on the side it is better to have a pillow under the head to make up for the difference of the height of shoulders.

The best way to go to sleep is not to worry about not going to sleep. Try to forget about everything. Forget about counting sheep or getting up to take a warm bath, or going to the refrigerator for a bite to eat, or about business or financial worries. Say to yourself, "Here I am, snug in bed, stretched out with every muscle resting, and my energy is constantly being increased by this pleasing rest I am getting and I am going to spend the rest of the night in obtaining plenty of rest." The worry over loss of sleep causes more harm than the actual wakefulness.

Many of those who work indoors do not obtain sufficient activity during the day to tire the muscles enough to cause fatigue. The cure for this is simple. It consists in obtaining more exercise.

People who are troubled with flatulence usually suffer from insomnia. In these cases, a correction of the diet to avoid gas-forming foods or bad combinations will produce marvelous effects. It is also a good plan for these individuals to take a warm enema to clean out the bowels before retiring.

It is better for one who wishes to obtain a sound sleep to sleep alone, as the nervous movements of a bedfellow tend to keep one awake. It is also a good plan not to use stimulants of any sort in the evening before retiring. This seems simple enough, yet many people make the mistake of doing exactly this and then wonder why they do not sleep.

Sleep may often be induced by making yourself believe that your arms and legs feel heavy, and that your joints are so loose as to be almost falling apart. Try to go to sleep thinking of pleasant thoughts, and never permit yourself to try to sleep while brooding over difficulties or failure or other troubles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Paget's Disease

Question:— E. S. asks: "Will you kindly tell me, please, the cause, effect and possibility of curing Paget's disease? Just what is it, anyway?"

Answer: Paget's disease means osteitis deformans which is caused through the development of the rheumatic toxemia, but the name Paget's disease is also given to a certain inflammatory infection of the areola and nipples. If you will write me more about your particular trouble I will be glad to send you special information. Give me your full name and address the next time you write.

To Freshen Butter

Question:—K. H. asks: "What causes the rancidity of butter? And is there any method of making it fresh again?"

Answer: The bitter taste of rancid butter is caused by butyric acid which has formed. This acid can be removed to a large extent by thoroughly washing the butter with fresh milk which absorbs the butyric acid. After this, the butter should be washed with water to remove the milk.

Enlarged Vein

Question:—E. J. R. writes: "The vein in the left side of my neck puffs out to about the size of an ordinary lead pencil and is very painful. It does not stay permanently that way, but comes and goes during the day. Have been using ice compacts on it but it seems to be getting worse."

Answer: I would advise you to consult a good osteopath and have a diagnosis made. You may find that the lump in your neck is caused by some pressure of the collar bone or neighboring ligaments. Of course this condition could not be determined without your having a personal examination.

Shots Fail to Halt Bandits in Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, March 11.—Burglars completed a series of attempted robberies over the past week-end by successfully entering Levine's store Sunday night. Approximately $30 was taken from the store cash register, and Policeman Williford detected the thieves leaving the store. He fired a number of shots at the fleeing men, but failed to stop them.

The Wm. Cameron & Co. lumber yard office was also entered Sunday night, but no loss was reported. Officers found the doors of the Pictorium theater open early Sunday morning, but nothing was missing from the building.

Oklahoma Fire Loss In 1929 Shows Decline

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11 (UP)—Property loss from fire last year in Oklahoma totaled $5,014,254 as compared to a loss of $5,915,819 in 1928, State Fire Marshal C. R. O'Neal said today.

Fire insurance companies paid $4,000,000,552 on fire loss in Oklahoma last year, he said. The year before they paid $4,805,137 on state property.

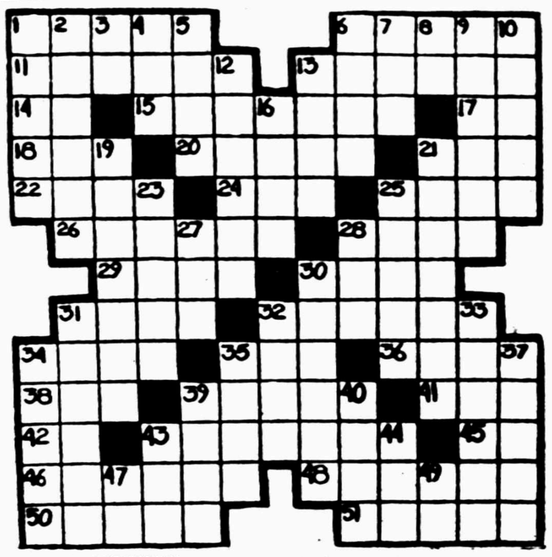

O'Neal's figures were based on the report compiled by the national board of fire underwriters.

DEFATE'S NINE WINS FIRST SPUDDER PRACTICE GAME

NAVASOTA ACE PROVES CLAIM

'The Brazos Kid' Displays Wares on Diamond

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

Despite the earnest efforts of "the Brazos Kid," otherwise Austin Thomas, the pride of Navasota, Texas, Tony Defate's hard hitting nine defeated Howard Fitzgerald's aggregation, 5 to 3, in the first practice game of the season down at Athletic park Tuesday afternoon. The game lasted six innings.

Drives in Pair

"Kid" Thomas who arrived simultaneously with the great breeze of last week, startled his superiors by driving in two runs with a clean cut hit, and by actually performing some of the fielding his Navasota teammates wrote of last week in a letter to local sports editors. But the Kid fell down sadly on base stealing in his only attempt in the fourth inning.

The practice game was an unheralded affair, Skipper Carl Williams having decided early in the afternoon that he could "wait no longer" to see his squad in action. Accordingly the two teams were selected, Fitzgerald leading one, and Tony Defate, Augusta, Ga., player who is training here, captaining the second.

Ferry, Butler, Levey and Allday chalked up runs for Defate's winning side, while Bell, Burns and Nevinsky scored for Fitzgerald's team.

Shows 'Em How

"The Brazos Kid" hit a weak one to third in the second inning, and was thrown out to the tune of gentle razzberry from his mates, but on his next trip to the plate in the fourth inning things began to happen. Burns was hit and went to first. Nevinsky strode to the plate and knocked a two-bagger into left field, advancing Burns to third. Then came the pride of the Brazos bottoms. The Kid socked a good one to center field, scoring Burns and Nevinsky, and he was acclaimed with shouts.

"The Kid" made another good hit in the last inning, knocking the ball past the pitcher's box for a base hit, but his mates didn't do so well and he was left on the sack as the inning closed.

His might as a hitter having been established, Thomas decided to branch off into a fielding exhibition, and in the last frame he did exhibit his prowess, catching a nice one to right field.

Skipper Is Pleased

Skipper Carl Williams was pleased at the showing his charges made in the first practice game. A second game has been scheduled for Thursday, but in all likelihood Carl will have the boys out for a few innings this afternoon. The first exhibition game of the season will be played at Nocona Sunday.

There were no pink slips handed out after the training session Tuesday, but Skipper Williams said he probably would resume the weeding out process Wednesday.

Three veterans of last year, Milt Steengrafe, right-handed pitcher, and Chick Galeria, southpaw, and Lary Bettencourt, crack infielder, were welcomed to the lot Tuesday. The trio arrived late in the afternoon from California. Two rookies also made their appearance. They were L. L. Marburger, right-handed pitcher, and M. G. Etsel, first sacker, both of Coupland, Texas.

The box score for Tuesdays game follows:

Eight games will be played here and seven in Greenville. Athens, Cisco, Celeste and Seagoville were predicted as likely to reach the semi-finals.

The first round schedule follows:

At Greenville: Breckenridge vs. Cleveland; Seagoville vs. Selden; Throckmorton vs. Ellisville; Emory vs. Cooper; Dalhart vs. Caddo Mills; Athens vs. Hickory Creek; Vickery vs. Cisco.

At Celeste: Sherman vs. South Bosque; Cross Roads vs. Pike; Mesquite vs. Tehuacana; Frankell vs. Blue Ridge; Dublin vs. Rankin; Mingus vs. Plano; Leesburg vs. Bailey; Celeste vs. Floyd.

The Rambler's Corner

By IGNATIUS P. PIFFLEBAUM
Leader, The Pifflebaum Expedition To the Realms of Fame

QUASI HADES, Middle of The Earth, March 11.—I write admidst the shimmering grandeurs of another world. I have out-Cooked Dr. Cook, and birdied Mr. Byrd, as we say in golf, at least 20 holes. I have made Amundsen and Lindy look like commuters. I am in the depths of a cave dreamed of for countless eras, but never seen. In fact, I'm pretty darned good.

Of course there are a few others down here with me, but what they do is nothing compared to my daring exploits.

Today I charted a vast realm of the unknown. Let me tell you how I did it. As I told you in yesterday's dispatch, brought to you through the courtesy of Umpah Radio company and the New York Bilge, my expedition is now 4,576,987 feet below the surface of the earth. This morn I woke up fresh and eager for more adventures, and left the camp before my comrades awakened. I walked about alone, and finally discovered a stalactite (see dictionary) throwing its protuberance over the edge of a cliff. I looked down, and down, and could see nothing.

I ran to awaken my companions. I tied a rope about my waist, and, looping the stalactite with one end of it, commanded my companions to let me down into the bottomless pit.

Down, down I went. Suddenly I jerked the rope three times, the signal for a halt. I had seen a marvel. I had seen what apparently was a prehistoric drawing on the wall of the cave. I hastily extracted my trusty Neverfail flashlight, furnished me by that noble firm, the Neverfail Company, Inc., and what did I see. It was a cover of the July 6, 1664 issue of the Saturday Evening Post which some ancient hell-bent creature had apparently glued to the cliff-side.

Whether you realize it or not, that was a sign I was reaching my objective. Cheered beyond control, I let out a shout, and signaled to be lowered further. Down, down I went, until my feet touched a stone ledge. An entrance to a huge room confronted me there. I entered. Behold! For in the recess of the chamber I saw a faint light. I discerned several men, their clothing aflame. I started! What manner of men were they? They were at least 400 yards off, and the way was guarded by a swirling sea of a whitish sediment, which I must wade through.

With a prayer gurgling in my thorax, I jumped into the swirling mass. It proved to be guano. This I deducted from the millions of inky-black bats that beat their wings in my ears. Into the sea of accumulations I went up to my neck. Miserable though I was, I knew I had reached regions heretofore unpenetrated by living man. This, indeed, was hell!

Signaling for more rope, I pushed on, to establish the identity of those strange men. Like a fool, I stumbled over a stone. The men, some of them sitting silently, others running around, looked up, as if startled. I stopped in my tracks, my breath coming in terrific jerks. At long last, the men went about their pastimes.

By approaching in the shadows, squeezing my body against the darkened walls of the room, I at last was able to see what the men were doing. To my great astonishment, two of them were pitching baseball! A third was quietly reading to a fourth man, who seemed to be bored by the discourse. I had seen the advance guard of the great region we hear of in Sunday school! I could identify the guards! Hal Wiltse, rosy with fire, was demonstrating the slow ball to Thomas Paine, while George Bernard Shaw, his whiskers leaping with coals, was reading one of his own plays to none other than the manager of our Spudders, Carl Williams!

I could control myself no longer. I tittered. Alas, for my lack of control! That one little titter aroused the heated inmates, and I was discovered! "Fetch him here, grab him!" they cried. "He shall be one of us!" I screamed, and ran. . . . .

(Don't fail to read the next installment of this thrilling narrative, telling how our hero escaped from the clutches of those awful men, and how he was later to meet even more palpitating adventures!)

Andy Anderson, sports editor of the Houston Press, was down at the baseball lot Tuesday afternoon looking the Spudders over in the course of a tour of all Texas league training camps.

Here's how he thinks the Spudders look: As good as the Houston Buffs; as good as the Dallas Steers; but weaker than the Fort Worth Cats. He has not yet visited the other camps. Anderson thinks a lot of the Cats, and he believes they have the best ball team in Texas. He is also impressed with Beaumont's nine, which, however, he has not yet seen in action.

BUFFS TO PLAY OWLS TODAY

Cubs Work Lightly; Steers Play Again

HOUSTON, March 11. (AP)—Floyd Rose, right-hand pitcher, will start for the Houston Buffs tomorrow against the Rice Owls, Manager Joe Schultz said today. Bob Morrow, veteran catcher, arrived today and was out this afternoon. With Morrow and Hal Funk in good shape, the Buffs should have an able receiving staff. Schultz announced the following batting order for the Rice tilt: Eddie Hock, third base; Vernon Deck, right field; Gus Felix or Tony Kaufman, center field; Howard Williamson, left field; Carey Selph, second base; Sol Mishkin, first base; George Binder or Blaine Kunes, shortstop; Funk, catcher; Rose and Brown, pitchers.

Cubs Take It Easy

WACO, Texas, March 11. (AP)—With the Cub squad cut to 30 men, there was only a light session for the Waco candidates today. The morning practice had to be called off because of a banquet tendered the Baltimore Orioles and the Cubs at the Raleigh hotel at noon. Last night Pratt had deprived seven of his candidates of a meal ticket. The boys released had had little or no professional experience and were hardly expected to make the grade.

Steers Play Again

DALLAS, March 11. (AP)—Jakie Atz again split the Dallas Steers for an intra-club practice joust today and the "regulars" scored their second straight victory over the yannigans, 10 to 7.

Made-to-order weather favored the game, but in spite of this Manager Atz allowed them to let down a bit as most of the players were sore after the full nine-inning tussle of Monday.

Hughie Willingham, young third sacker brought from Little Rock, was the bright spot of today's game. It was his first workout here during the training season.

Lapan Still Absent

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 11 (AP)—Two pitchers arrived here Tuesday to join the Indians in spring training at Fort Sam Houston.

They are Leo "Boots" Alter, purchased from the Augusta, Ga., Sally league club and Hugo Klaerner, Fredericksburg, Texas. This brings the number in camp now up to 20 with Catcher Lapan and pitchers Jim Chaplin and Herman Sparks yet to arrive.

Mullen Works Out

ORANGE, Texas, March 11. (AP)—Billy Mullen reported in time this afternoon to take a good workout with the Exporters. His trick knee gave every indication of being as good as ever and if the third baseman is at all below par he manages to conceal it very well. Tom Holley, rookie second baseman, also took his first workout today.

Gallagher Again Stars

SHREVEPORT, La., March 11. (AP)—The Whites today made their third victory in a row over the Greys when Gallagher produced a single in the eighth inning to drive in two runs and put his team in front by a score of 8 to 7. The White team is composed mostly of new members to the Sports' squad. Gallagher, young outfielder farmed to Alexandria last season has a .666 hitting record for the there games and his bat won the contest Saturday in the final inning.

Yanks Want Big Ed

ED MORRIS

BOSTON, March 11 (AP)—The next move is up to the Yankees in their proposed deal for Ed Morris, king of Boston's major league pitchers.

Big Ed, who won 33 games for the tailend Red Sox the last two seasons, can be had, the local management declared, if the Yankees turn over Mark Koenig and two other Yankees.

Morris is the greatest Boston star since the days of Babe Ruth and is the pitcher the New York team needs to qualify as a pennant contender in the pre-season dope.

Jackson County Cagers Advance to State Meet

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., March 11.—Two Jackson county schools won places in the state high school basket ball championship tournament in Oklahoma City the last three days of this week by capturing titles in the regional meet just completed at Mangum. Humphreys girls and Martha boys will represent the southwestern part of Oklahoma in this meet. Only eight teams of boys and an equal number of girls compete for state honors at Oklahoma City. Here the state winners to enter the national tournament will be selected.

Shotton on Field

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Practice sessions of the Phillies went forward today under favorable weather and were marked by hard hitting, mid-season pitching and snappy fielding. Manager Shotton appeared in baseball flannels for the first time and was all over the field advising and encouraging the players.

Berney Friberg doesn't permit any other player to get near second base when fielding practice is on. The Phils' "Handy Andy" prefers the keystone to any position on the diamond and Berney says that even when Captain Thompson arrives and accepts terms, he will fight to land the assignment for the opening game of the 1930 campaign.

COCA-COLA PIN TOPPLERS WIN

Texas Electric and Painters Also Beat Rivals

The Coca Cola bowling five Tuesday night downed the Montgomery company team three straight games in matches at the Spudder bowling alley. The Texas Electric Service company team won a like number from the P. B. M. bowlers, and the Sherwin-Williams aggregation, not to be outdone, beat their rivals, the Boone-Kemp team, three times.

FLAG AT HALF MAST

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, March 11.—Iowa Park public schools have lowered their flag to half mast for the week in tribute to the departed ex-President William Howard Taft. The city of Iowa Park and several of the business houses have also joined in this token of respect.

Giants and Chicago White Sox Play 11 Innings Without Decision

Yankees Defeat Braves, 8 to 5, and Brooklyn Dodgers Trounce Tigers, 11 to 3

SAN ANTONIO, March 11. (AP)—The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox battled 11 innings today without a decision, the score being 5 to 5. The game was called on account of darkness, and players of both teams were worn out.

The Giants appeared to have the game well in hand going into the ninth but the White Sox broke through for two runs to knot the score. Judd, Hubbell and Lucas alternated in the box for the Giants while Donie Buah selected McKain to start for the Sox and then followed with Caraway and Frasier.

The score by innings:

Yanks Defeat Braves

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Sixteen well timed hits gave the New York Yankees an 8 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves in the third meeting of the spring exhibition series today.

Three Boston pitchers, Brown, Cantwell and Alonzo Smith, felt the fury of the Yankee war clubs, the longest hit being Ruth's triple in the ninth. Manager Bob Shawkey used Johnson, Edwards and Rhodes on the mound, the latter holding the Braves hitless for the last three rounds.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Dodgers Down Tigers

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Pounding four Detroit hurlers for 17 hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers today defeated the Tigers 11 to 3. Clark, Morrison, Luque and Elliott held the American leaguers to 10 hits while the Robins were finding easy marks of the offerings of Whitehill, Sorrell, Nelson and Page. Bressler and Thurston hit home runs for Brooklyn while Dale Alexander connected with a circuit clout for the Tigers.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Wagner Satisfied

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 11. (UP)—Well satisfied with the conditioning of the Boston Red Sox, Manager Henie Wagner and Coach Jack McAllister have started smoothing off the work of the young players on the squad.

No new players appear likely to displace any of last year's regulars. The pitching of Horace Lisenbee and Ben Shields has been the biggest surprise of the camp.

A's Defeat Cards

BRADENTON, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Connie Mack's champions turned the fourth game of their series with the Cardinals, into a batting practice this afternoon, bombarding Bill Hallahan and Bill Sherdel for a 14 to 3 victory. Rain halted the game after the sixth inning. Carmen Hill was ready to take the mound for the Cards when the umpires called off the game.

Roy Mahaffey and Alred Mahon did the pitching for the Athletics. Philidelphia Athletics 14 15 2
St. Louis Nationals 3 6 2

Mahaffey, Mahon and Cochrane, Perkins; Hallahan, Sherdel, Hill and Mancuso.

Reds Meet Yanks

ORLANDO, Fla., March 11. (UP)—Bob Meusel, former New York Yankee outfielder, today asked Dan Howly, Cincinnati manager, to let him start Monday's game against the Yankees at St. Petersburg and was promised a place at left field. Howley held his first meeting of the Reds today.

Bartell Still Holdout

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 11. (UP)—Dic Bartell, Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop, was expected to confer with club officials on his arrival here probably tonight on the terms of his 1930 contract. Bartel, who hit above .300 last season, has been a holdout along with Burleigh Grimes.

Cubs Reduce

AVALON, Catalina Island, March 11. (UP)—Rubber shirts were not needed in the warm weather that greeted the Chicago Cubs today, but Hack Wilson and Pat Malone wore them anyhow. Pounds of excess weight leaked out of their sleeves. Two long practice sessions were held by the Cubs today.

Manush Starts Thinking

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Business Manager Bill Friel and Heinie Manush, the Brown's slugging outfielder who is holding out, had a 20 minute chat today and after it was over both said "there was nothing to report." Manush, however, promised Friel to "think over" the club's latest offer.

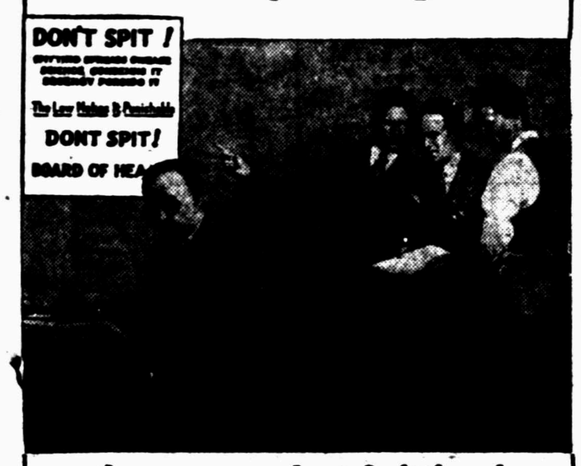

At today's practice session, "General" Al Crowder cut loose for the first time and made the efforts of the batters appear rather feeble. Manager Killefer said he was pleased with the pitcher's condition.

'WEALTH BACKS LEGGERS'—FORD

Auto King Says Newspapers Are 'Controlled'

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—The New York World today quotes Henry Ford as saying that the big money interests of New York are back of the bootlegging in this country and that liquor interests are concentrating near his factories in Dearborn, Mich., because they know he is dry.

The World sent a staff representative to Dearborn to establish, it explains, how much comfort and prosperity the 18th amendment has brought to Dearborn. The mission was inspired by Ford's telegram last week to the house judiciary committee describing the amendment as the greatest force for comfort and prosperity of the United States.

"Do you think I don't know who is back of the bootlegging in this country?" Ford is quoted.

"It is the big money interests in New York. You don't think that the bootleggers could finance these big liquor deals themselves, do you?"

"Why are the New York newspapers so interested in prohibition? I'll tell you why. It is because they are controlled and they do what they are told. Everybody wants to show up Henry Ford's town."

Shotguns Recovered With Negro's Arrest

A shotgun stolen from R. E. Ryle, 1703 Britian street, more than two months ago, was returned to its owner Tuesday afternoon by Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, after the arrest of Arthur Osborne, negro, charged with theft. Mr. Belcher and Charlie Gant found the gun in a servant house on Buchanan street, the officers reported. A scabbard for a larger gun was also seized by the investigators and efforts are being made to trace its ownership and to find the gun it fits.

The ownership of a second shotgun, a Browning automatic 12 gauge, numbered 68013, is being sought by the sheriff's department following its discovery in a local pawn shop Tuesday. Osborne is charged with the theft of both guns.

DEATHS

MRS. L. H. SLAUGHTER

Funeral services for Mrs. L. H. Slaughter, 47, who died at the family home, 3107 Avenue R, late Sunday night were held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Nazarene church at Fifth and Burnett streets with Rev. W. B. Walker, officiating. Interment was in Rosemont under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Slaughter is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Beulah Tucker, and Mrs. Fern Covington, both of Wichita Falls; her mother, Mrs. Fannie McVeigh of Denison, and a brother, D. C. Pansell of Muskogee, Okla.

Daughter of Restaurant Owner to Wed Carnera

LONDON, March 11. (INS)—Miss Emilia Tersini, 19-year-old daughter of the owner of an Italian restaurant here, caused a sensation today by her announcement that she was engaged to marry Primo Carnera, Italy's mountainous contribution to the boxing world.

When Carnera first arrived here he stated his preferences in girls ran to the dark-eyed, dark-haired type of his native Italy, but that his mother was the only woman he loved.

But that was before he met her, according to Miss Tersini. She explained it was just a case of love at first sight when she was introduced to the towering Italian.

Fred Weeks to Speak At Optimist Luncheon

EGG RECEIPTS TAKE SLUMP

But Week's Sales Expected To Reach 300,000

Despite the marked diversion of fresh eggs from the market to incubators and "settings" during the past week, approximately 300,000 eggs will leave the local plant of Armour creameries for northern markets this week, according to deliveries here Tuesday.

Receipts of eggs have decreased rapidly during the past several days, it was said, owing to reservation of large stores of brooding purposes. Deliveries to the local Armour plant now average about 150 cases daily, however, representing about 4,500 dozen. One car load of eggs, totaling 12,000 dozen, left this city Tuesday, and at least one more carload will be shipped by Friday, it was said.

Movement of poultry has been slight during the past week. One carload of dressed chickens was loaded out at the Armour plant Monday, and a car of live poultry will be shipped Wednesday morning, together with a second carlot shipment from Memphis.

Prices on eggs remained the same Tuesday, $5.85 and $5.60 respectively in new and old cases.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 11. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Light to moderate cattle receipts around the 11-market circuit had a stimulating influence on killing classes. Fed steers and yearlings were steady to strong.

Chicago had a top of $15 on yearlings and best heavies sold at $14.15. Big weight steers in Kansas City reached $14.10. Stocker and feeder classes moved slowly at generally steady rates. Total offerings were around 33,800, about the same as a week ago but 2,000 short of the corresponding day last year.

The sheep supply, 67,000 was 5,500 more than last Tuesday and 11,000 heavier than a year ago. Killing classes found a fairly active outlet at prices unevenly steady to 25c higher. Choice 80 to 84-pound lambs in Chicago realized $11.50@11.65, while at Kansas City and St. Joseph choice light weights made $10.55.

Hog trade was uneven on the lighter offerings scaling 240 pounds down. Shippers at most centers filling their orders at values barely steady with Monday's average market. Strong weight butchers were more active at strong to 15c higher prices. The day's extreme top of $11.15 was paid at Chicago. Aggregate receipts approximated 78,600 against 88,387 a week ago and 59,597 a year ago.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—The cotton market was generally firmer today. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular, but the market showed increasing firmness in the late trading with May selling up to 14.41 and closing at 14.39. The general market was finally firm.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 to 22 points in response to the relatively firm Liverpool cables. March advanced to 14.19 and the old October contracts to 14.66. These prices presented net advances of about 24 to 31 points on the old contracts and the close was within a point or two of the best. New contracts were relatively easy but sold about 20 points net higher.

Private cable advices from Manchester said that report of the International Cotton Manufacturers organization showed world consumption of American cotton for the first half of this season amounting to 7,083,000 bales compared with 7,463,000 for the six months ending July 31, 1929. World consumption of all kinds according to this report, however, amounted to 13,302,000 for the first six months of this season compared with 13,014,000 for the preceding six months and there were rather conflicting comments on the showing. Some were inclined to consider it bearish on American cotton, while others emphasized the heavy consumption of all growths as an indication of world requirements.

Liverpool cables reported covering, continental and Bombay buying in that market. Exports today 19,148 making 5,595,868 so far this season. Port receipts 13,343. U. S. port stocks 2,039,140.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 11. (AP)—The cotton market was active today and prices advanced substantially due mainly to an improved technical position and a feeling that a rally was past due. May, after advancing to 14.08 eased off to 13.98 but later advanced to 14.18 up 20 points and closed at 14.17 or 28 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 20 to 28 points. The market closed at 11:30 a. m. instead of 2 p. m. out of respect to the memory of William Howard Taft.

Liverpool came in 8 to 9 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 14 to 20 points. Prices advanced a little further after the start to 14.08 for May, 1432 for July and 14.47 for October or 19 to 21 points above the previous close.

After easing off 10 to 13 points on realizing near the end of the first hour prices again rallied and made new highs right at the end of the short session with May at 14.18; July at 14.39 and October at 14.48 or 14 to 20 points up from the lows. The close was practically at the top showing net gains on the active months of 20 to 28 points.

Some offerings are being held at a higher figure. New Arizona wool in moderate quantity is selling at around 73c scoured basis for average wool, consisting of bulk French combing staple.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Cotton goods market was steadier with a moderate increase in inquiry reported. Raw silk has become firmer under the influence of Japanese government support. Silk goods are in moderate demand. News of strikes in Calcutta burlap mills has stiffened local and foreign burlap markets. Wool goods are steadier and business for fall is beginning to broaden.

Industrial Stocks Show Highest Average Registered This Year

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 11. (US)—The industrial average registered a new high in the short session on the stock exchange today. It was only a slight gain but it put the level of the representative stocks to a new level for the year. Prices for the main part fluctuated in narrow range with some heavier selling influenced by the approach of tax payment day. Selling was well taken, however, the individual influences brought sufficient advance in special stocks to put the list net higher on the average.

Steel remained unchanged for the day while General Motors gained 1⅛ more, Columbia Graphaphone advanced 1⅜, American Can 2⅞, American Telephone 1, Coca-Cola 2, Electric Power 5⅛, and Timken Roller Bearing 2¼. Sears-Roebuck lost 1¼, American Foreign Power 1⅝, American Power & Light 1⅜ while the Oils and Rails remained quietly irregular throughout. Call money held at 4 per cent throughout.

Trading was the most active of any session of the year to date. Total for the two and a half hours was 2,628,000 shares. With the exchange closed for the afternoon out of respect to the late President Taft, this was at the rate of a 5,200,000 share full session, the first five million day in three months. This is further evidence that the public is "coming in" and influences more active pool work. As a result of the increasing public interest there is general expectation that another increase in loans will be shown in the reserve statements Thursday. The street has quit guessing as to the amount of changes in the loan reports. Inquiry of the larger houses reveals that their loans have shown almost as much gain this week as they did last.

As forecast here the Columbia Graphaphone pool resumed its ballyhoo. The report persists, however, that important interests are passing along the stock that they took from British interests. They also have stock they had to take during the bad break of October-November. Fairly good buying and group activity in the Steels continued to be experienced under the stimulus of the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger. Michigan Steel was reported to have been taken in hand by a new group. Activity in Newton Steel was accompanied by merger talk. Thompson products accumulation recently is explained by special analysis of a leading stock exchange firm emphasizing the continued increase in business particularly of replacement sales.

Westinghouse directors meet Thursday. There is further talk of the common stock being split up. Before this can be done, the preferred stock has to be retired. Talk of merger of Loose Wiles and National Biscuit continues also, although the biscuit interests maintain there has been no definite conversations looking to such combine. Acquisition of New York Steam stock by Consolidated Gas company was accomplished almost a year ago as was reported at that time. The purchase is now before the local public service commission for approval and hearing will be held in a few weeks. Even if the gas company has to sell the steam stock the shareholders benefit inasmuch as New York Steam is worth more than at the time Consolidated Gas bought stock control.

With the first payment on income taxes due Saturday as well as payment for the new treasury certificates the old bugaboo of tighter money is being raised in some quarters. Of course, there is no telling what the money powers will do. That was proved last fall. But there is no reason for the money rate to be jacked up before next week. A few banks out of town may have to withdraw funds in preparation but such amounts would be small and insignificant. On occasions it has been a full week after tax payment debt before checks have been put through by the government. When these payments are actually being made there may be a momentary tightening of money but it should last no longer than 48 hours at the most.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 11. (AP)—Fizzling out of crop scare reports today did much to tumble wheat down to new bottom prices for the current season. July and September contracts were much more depressed than March and May. Dust storms today in Nebraska and persistent dry weather in Kansas aroused more or less anxiety among traders, but no actual serious crop damage to wheat was reported.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy ⅝@2¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1c off to 1c up, with oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅛@¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Lowest prices in the wheat market for the season so far, came just before the close. To some extent setbacks were due to increased weakness of values at Winnipeg and Liverpool.

Meanwhile, Canada was reported competing sharply with Argentine and Australia in efforts to capture the small amount of European business available. In addition, there were advices here that German farmers are in a desperate plight, and that further government measures restricting grain shipments into Germany are impending.

Contributing to selling pressure was the fact that official figures on farm reserve stocks of domestic wheat were larger than had been expected. On the other hand, more or less unfavorable crop conditions in Nebraska and Kansas, as well as some other states, acted at times as a rallying influence. Notice also was taken of statements from farm board officials that there is no intention of sending United States wheat abroad at prices lower than those which American millers are paying. Nevertheless buying power dwindled toward the last, and the finish was near to the bottommost level reached.

Rye collapsed with wheat, and sold at prices not touched before since July, 1914. Corn broke the current season's low price record. A bearish factor was that farm stocks of corn in eight leading states were shown to be larger than at this time last year. Oats sympathized with weakness of other grain.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Oklahoman to Speak On Oil Foreign Trade

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11 (UP)—Oklahoma has been asked to furnish a speaker to explain relationship of the Southwest's petroleum industry with foreign trade at the second annual Southwest foreign trade conference to be held at Houston, April 14 and 15. The state chamber of commerce will announce the speaker in a few days, Secretary W. B. Estes said today.

Fire Consumes Gas In New Oklahoma Well

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11. (AP)—Fire, believed to have been started by friction, today consumed gas estimated to be blowing at a rate of 100,000,000 cubic feet daily at the Amerada Petroleum No. 5 Kinter, in the South Oklahoma City field.

The Gas became ignited shortly after the well blew in. There was no oil showing when the well was permitted to blow into the air to clean the production of rotary mud. The derrick melted down a few minutes after the flames started.

Ector County Pool Has First Failure

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, March 11.—The Penn oil pool in Ector county, with five producers, one gasser and 27 drilling tests and locations although less than three months old, registered its first failure Sunday when Llano Oil company's No. 1 Hogan struck sulphur water at 3832 feet. The water rose 200 feet the first hour and could not be lowered by bailing. Drilling stopped at 3843 feet for orders and it was thought likely the test will be abandoned.

Prairie Favors Sunday Lay-Off

The Prairie Oil and Gas company Tuesday made the following announcement in connection with the Sunday shut-down movement, again brought to the front by the recent suggestion of the federal oil conservation board:

"The Prairie does not own or operate any refineries or natural gasoline plants except the limited activities of its subdiary, the Producers and Refiners corporation, which company immediately adopted the suggestion of the federal oil board to reduce its operations one-seventh.

"In February, 1929, The Prairie Oil and Gas company was one of the first of a number of companies to initiate the Sunday shut-down movement in the Seminole pool, Oklahoma, which was followed by 15 or 16 companies. At the same time the Prairie shut down all of its Sunday operations in the Burbank field, has since continued that plan in Burbank, and has gradually extended the Sunday shut-down to its properties in Glen pool and practically throughout Oklahoma where it has had any production of importance.

"For some time the Prairie has believed and still believes that the Sunday shut-down is feasible and practical and its experience has shown that its producing properties will not be injured by this program, and it is heartily in favor of seeing this plan universally and continuously adopted throughout the industry, which will certainly further the cause of conservation and also materially improve the happiness and well-being of the employes

"The company has given orders to extend the Sunday shut-down movement as far as practicable to all of its activities."

Joe Art's Well Is Big Gasser

With an estimated flow of between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas that sprayed oil to the top of the derrick, Joe L. Art late Monday afternoon drilled out the plug from the sand in his No. 1 Morgan Jones well two miles southwest of Petrolia in north Clay county.

The well, which is paying off from a new sand topped at 1797 feet is located in wildcat territory. The sand was drilled approximately four feet into the sand and after swab was run a short time the force of the gas blew it from the hole, sending oil to the sheive wheel.

A gauge made by the Lone Star Gas company, which has contracted for the gas, showed a rock pressure of 295 pounds. No further effort will be made to make an oil producer. The well is being finished as a gasser.

Refiners Name Two Wichitans

SHREVEPORT, La., March 11. (AP)—Election of officers featured the opening day of the convention here of the Western Petroleum Refiners association.

L. R. Crawford, president of the Producers and Refiners corporation of Independence, Kan., was elected president for a two-year term, to succeed Roy B. Jones, of Wichita Falls, who becomes an ex-officio member of the board of directors. E. H. Eddleman of the American Refining properties, Wichita Falls, Texas, was named a vice president.

40 WICHITANS TO ATTEND HIGHWAY MEET AT OKLAHOMA CITY

C.-C. GROUP TO GIVE PROGRAM

McDonald, Hamilton and Hines to Speak

Approximately 40 men already have indicated their intention of going to Oklahoma City Friday for the conference between chambers of commerce of that city and Wichita Falls with reference to highway construction during the current year, according to members of the committee in charge of the trip.

Leave Early Friday

Nine members of the local organization have registered with the committee their plans to drive to Oklahoma City and it was indicated that each car will be occupied by about four men. Those whose cars are already promised are J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce, John F. O'Donohoe, N. M. Clifford, W. B. Hamilton, A. E. Kelly, Harry Hines, J. W. Chatham, L. H. Estes, and R. E. Shepherd. It was stated that other cars are available in case other members of the chamber of commerce decide before Thursday evening to make the trip.

Plans announced by the committee ask those going to Oklahoma City to leave the chamber of commerce at 7 o'clock Friday morning. No effort will be made to form a united caravan to the neighboring city, and no formal stops will be made at intermediate points. Those who wish to make the trip, and who have not already notified the committee, are asked to communicate with the chamber of commerce offices by noon Thursday so that arrangements may be completed for accommodating the entire delegation.

50-Minute Program

According to Stanley Draper, manager of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, the Wichita Falls delegation will be given the entire 50 minutes allotted for the program. The conference is being held in connection with the regular bi-weekly membership luncheon of the Oklahoma City unit. The program planned for the affair will include an opening singsong to be led by R. E. Shepherd. Harry Hines will discuss the organization recently launched here for the development of deep oil. W. B. Hamilton will talk on the proposed highway building between Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls, while C. C. McDonald will close the speaking program with an address on inter-city relations.

All members of the Wichita Falls party who choose to remain in Oklahoma City for the afternoon will be given an automobile tour of the city and the deep oil fields in that vicinity, according to Mr. Draper. It was said that several of the Wichitans are planning to remain over Friday, and some are planning to leave here Thursday night for Oklahoma City.

L. H. Estes, chairman of the jobbers and manufacturers division of the chamber of commerce, J. W. Chatham, former manager, and Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager will go to Oklahoma City Thursday afternoon in order to be present for a conference on Friday morning with the Oklahoma Corporation commission on various transportation matters concerning the two cities.

Well Known Dairyman Is Relieved by It

Sister Gives Statement on Brother's Experience With Orgatone

Mr. James R. Burdett, whose address is box 106, Austin, Texas, and who is a well known dairyman in this city, has received wonderful results from Orgatone, according to the statement given on him by his sister, Miss Mary A. Burdett, also of this city. In relating the facts, Miss Burdett said:

"My brother had suffered from a terrible bad run-down condition for the past three years. His stomach was in a very bad shape," continued Miss Burdett, "and nothing he would take seemed to help him any at all. No food at all seemed to agree with him, and he suffered from indigestion most of the time. He also had a bad case of kidney trouble from which he suffered considerably. He was weak and felt tired and worn-out nearly all the time. He was very restless and nervous at times, and did not seem to have the least bit of energy.

"We read so many testimonials in the papers here, and heard so many people talking about Orgatone being such a wonderful medicine for such troubles as my brother had, that he decided to try it himself. He has just finished his first bottle, but he says he won't stop until he completes the treatment. He has certainly been helped wonderfully by it already. His stomach seems to be all straightened out for he can eat now without any ill feelings, such as indigestion, or gas, afterwards. All that tired, worn out feeling has left him, and he has plenty of energy now. I will say that he is a hundred per cent better in every way and we are certainly glad to recommend it to anyone."

25 TO VISIT STOCK SHOW

Local Delegation to Study Decatur Dairies

Twenty-five farmers and land owners of the Wichita Falls territory are expected to join the motorcade which will leave the courthouse Friday morning about 8:30 o'clock for the fat stock show at Fort Worth, according to those in charge of arrangements for the trip.

Under the direction of the county farm demonstration office, the county dairy supervisor, and the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce, the trip is being staged in the interest of dairying. Those who are not planning to drive their own cars should get in touch with the county agent's office in the courthouse before Friday, so that arrangements for their transportation in other cars may be made in advance, it was said.

The party plans to arrive in Fort Worth about noon. At 1:30 p. m. Friday they will be present at the Jersey auction, when many of the finest Jerseys in the state will be sold. The remainder of the afternoon will be spent in visiting dairy sections of the show. The delegation will return to Decatur Friday night, spending the night there, and on Saturday morning will visit several dairy farms near that city. The Decatur community is one of the most advanced in general dairying of all those in Northwest Texas, it was said. The party will return to this city Saturday afternoon.

Necessary expense, outside of transportation, will amount to about $3.50 for each person, it was said. About 12 persons made the trip last year, but more than twice that number are expected to be in the party next Friday. About 10 men from the Electra community have indicated their intention of making the tour.

School And College Notes

Junior college music students presented a one-act play, "The Last Rehearsal," at the regular assembly period Tuesday morning under the direction of Mrs. Hermione Stewart Vaughan and Miss Juanita Kinsey. The play was a typical production of the last rehearsal of any amateur play.

Characters in the program were: Pearle Smyth, Mildred Anderson, Margaret Bone, Katherine Douglas, Orville Medford, Jack Pitman, Paul Packard, Ed Napier, and Fritz McDonald.

Miss Laurette Erwin accompanied all the musical numbers and a mixed chorus was taken from the high school glee clubs.

Leaders Club

Members of the Leaders club will have a skating party and picnic Friday evening at Weeks park, according to Miss Davida Olinger, faculty sponsor. The girls are to meet at the Junior college at 5:30 o'clock, and skate from there out to the park.

College Banquet

Junior college students are to have their all-college banquet Friday evening at the Junior college cafeteria at 7 o'clock, according to an announcement of Miss Elizabeth Beumler. Reservations are $1.

French Club

The Junior college French club will have its regular meeting Wednesday morning at the activity period, according to Mrs. Z. Adam, faculty sponsor. New officers are to be installed at this meeting.

Wichitans to Attend Scout Regional Meet

Plans were made for a delegation of at least 10 men to attend the Boy Scout regional meeting to be held in Fort Worth March 28-29 at the executive board meeting of the local scout organization Tuesday at 12 o'clock.

Frank Creighton gave the executive report and R. E. Shepherd presided at the meeting.

RAIL RATES ON LUMBER CUT

Shipments to Wichita Given Cheaper Basis

Reduction of freight rates on lumber from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana to Wichita Falls, Abilene, and Waurika, Okla., amounting to 7½ cents per hundred pounds has been approved by the Interstate Commerce commission, according to information received by the local chamber of commerce.

Similar shipments to Fort Worth, Dallas and nearby points enjoy a reduction of 15½ cents per hundred pounds from the old rate, according to the reported decision.

The case was listed as investigation and suspension docket No. 3283. More than one year ago, the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Spokane, Portland and Seattle, C. B. & Q., Colorado and Southern, Fort Worth and Denver City, and the Wichita Valley railroads published a rate schedule showing a rate of 62½ cents per hundred pounds on lumber from the Northwest to this section of the country, it was said. That rate soon was suspended on the application of various Texas railroads and lumber interests in South Texas, according to the information given.

Hearing of this case was held at Waco last April. Decision of the Interstate Commerce commission which was recently announced approves the reduced rate, and it will become effective at once, it was said. From $30 to $50 per car of lumber will be saved on shipments to this city, it was said.

Manufacturing and Industrial Census to Start Here This Week

Taking of a manufacturing and industrial census in Wichita Falls and all other Texas cities of 10,000 or more population will get under way within the next day or two, according to Dwight R. Hammack, chief special agent for the census bureau, who was in Wichita Falls Tuesday to complete preparations for that work.

George V. Harpin and W. B. Bowdle of this city were appointed Tuesday by Mr. Hammack as enumerators for the Wichita Falls census. Their instruction and training will be completed Wednesday, it was said, and their work of enumeration will begin at once.

Under the direction of T. L. Ball, supervisor for this district, taking of the manufacturing and distribution census in Wichita and surrounding counties, outside of this city, has been in progress for about three weeks, and is nearing completion.

While a manufacturing census is taken every two years, Mr. Hammack said, this is the first time in history that a census of the country's merchandise distribution system has been attempted. In order to make the work of the enumerators easier, he said that all information given will be confidential, and will not be used for income tax purposes.

"The purpose of the distribution census is to find out the basic facts about the system of distributing merchandise and to make the system more efficient," Mr. Hammack said. "Such an improvement that is bound to result from the compilation of information, will aid merchants, manufacturers and farmers, and in the end will be beneficial to the consuming public.

"Among the establishments to be visited are retail stores, filling stations, automobile repair companies, butchers and abattoirs, custom and merchant tailors and milliners, cooperative buying and selling organizations, wholesalers and jobbers, chain store warehouses, commission merchants, grain elevators, auction companies, brokers, selling agents, manufacturers' agents and sales branches, supply houses and equipment dealers, importers, export merchants, export commission houses, milk dealers, restaurants, hotels and construction contractors.

"The demand for better statistics in the field of distribution has been growing every year," Mr. Hammack continued. "Such a census will trace the channels through which all merchandise is sold."

Enumerators will supply the various forms required for giving the required information for this census. Offices are being maintained in the Perkins-Snider building.

City Receives Bids For Painting Water Tower

Five bids already have been received in answer to specifications for bids sent out by the city for painting the water tower at the end of Ninth street, according to W. B. Ward, city purchasing agent.

The tank, the capacity of which is 500,000 gallons, will be painted a battleship grey. One coat will be applied to the outside and two will be given the inside.

The award is expected to be let Wednesday or Thursday.

Greyhounds are perhaps the oldest known type of dog. Stone carvings dating back to about 4000 B. C. show figures of these graceful animals.

WHEN WILL YOU BEGIN USING THIS NEW OIL?

It is being rumored (and truthfully) that no other American motor oil has been so speedily accepted by motorists. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has smashed all precedents by its amazing reception . . . And this oil is as unusual as its introduction. Its superiorities are so apparent, that even before its announcement was well under way, literally thousands of new users were appearing at Red Triangle stations.

CONOCO

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Its name seems to intrigue motorists and much conversation has dwelt on the Germ Process, and the whys and wherefores . . . the story is this: Under exclusive Conoco-owned patent rights, a precious oily essence is added to a superbly fine paraffin base oil. This essence is lacking in all other oils, including the one you are now using. The Germ Process makes possible the metal-penetrating safety factor that we call "penetrative lubricity." And this oil, of all on the market, provides a safer, more positive motor protection, from the time you start the motor until you turn off the ignition.

So . . . when will you begin using this new oil? . . . at the sign of the Red Triangle.
