Successor To Knauth Not Yet Named

Appointment of a successor to Commissioner F. R. Knauth, Burkburnett, who died last week, was delayed several weeks, it was announced at Tuesday's session of county commissioners court.

Commissioners approved plans for a rural electrification project in the north section of the Electra precinct and heard a report on a conference on WPA sewing room costs at Eastland Monday.

It was revealed that the county judge has the sole authority to name the person to fill any vacancy occurring among his commissioners. J. Walter Friberg, acting county judge, declared he did not intend to make any appointment until he had more time to determine who would best suit residents of the Burkburnett precinct.

Fred Brookman, editor and publisher of the Burkburnett Star, appeared before the court and (Continued On Back Page)

Graham, Texas, July 18—Messages from all over the district are pouring into the office of W. D. McFarlane, candidate for Congress, indicating that sentiment is growing rapidly each day in his behalf.

Mr. McFarlane made the announcement today with a feeling of confidence that if the election were held today, he would have around 4,000 majority over the incumbent, according to the best reports available.

He will be in Baylor county on Friday, speaking at the Seymour Rodeo. On Saturday he will be in Wise county, speaking at Alvord at 1:30; Chico, 3:00; Bridgeport, 5:00, and Decatur at 8:00 o'clock.

Dr. Conner is not coming to the Baptist church, but is coming to help us to better understand the vital and fundamental doctrines of the Christian religion, and any person in Burkburnett of any faith or of no faith can hear Dr. Conner with profit.

If there was ever a time in the nearly twenty centuries of Christianity that people needed to turn back to the Bible and when a re-statement of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity needed to be made it is today, and every person in Burkburnett is cordially invited to hear Dr. Conner.

Last Rites For Commissioner
Knauth Saturday

Residents of North Texas and Southern Oklahoma joined those of Burkburnett in paying final tribute to F. R. Knauth, commissioner of Precinct 2, in funeral services held from the First Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Services were conducted by the Rev. C. W. Thomas, pastor, and the Rev. Miles B. Hays, Baptist minister of Dublin, Texas, former pastor here and close friend of Knauth. Pallbearers were Guy Willis, A. H. Lohofener, R. E. Browning, J. D. Majors, W. R. Hill, and L. L. Kincaid. Burial was in the Burkburnett cemetery under the direction of Owens & Brumley funeral home.

Mr. Knauth died in a Wichita Falls hospital Thursday night at 7 o'clock. He underwent an appendectomy June 28 and was apparently recovering when he suffered a relapse.

The Wichita county court house was closed all day Saturday in tribute to the veteran commissioner. Local business houses closed and a resolution of appreciation was passed by Burkburnett city officials. The resolution said that Knauth had rendered unselfish service to his community for the 33 years he had lived here.

Knauth was serving his 18th year as commissioner from the Burkburnett precinct. He was seeking nomination for his 10th consecutive term at the time of his death.

Civic Leader

Knauth was a pioneer resident of Burkburnett. He was a leader in every civic and community undertaking in the North Wichita county community. Since the oil boom days he had led an active fight to keep the precinct in good shape. An extensive program of road and bridge construction has been sponsored by Knauth to give (Continued on Back Page)

Local Young People
To Conduct Revival

Ray Lawler, student minister, who has held services at the First Methodist church this summer, and who will preach there Sunday evening, has announced that he is to conduct a two weeks' revival at Halsell, Texas, beginning on July 28th.

Miss Louise Kent, prominent locally as a vocalist and president of the Young People's Community Prayer organization, will conduct song services during the revival.

The death of Commissioner Knauth last week removed from our midst a faithful public official and a tireless civic worker. He is gone and we mourn his loss, but that doesn't lessen the necessity for a Commissioner to carry on the work that has so greatly benefitted this precinct and an active program is under way at present. The precinct activities needs an official head.

Mr. Knauth was a candidate for re-election and he had one opponent. The Grim Reaper removed the Commissioner, after a long and useful service. This tragic removal leaves Mr. Holman unopposed for the office, and since no other name can go on the ballot for the primary, July 27, insures the nomination of Mr. Holman.

The law says the County Judge shall name the successor to a deceased Commissioner. Why isn't Mr. Holman, who will certainly receive the nomination in a week from now, given the place in order that authority may be restored to the office and the program of work continued with orderliness?

The present Special County Judge could make the appointment with the advice and consent of the regular County Judge who is in the county, but seeking a higher political office while temporarily removing himself from the payroll. Why, we ask again, in the name of economy and efficiency, isn't someone given the appointment now?

Announcement comes from the Acting Judge that the appointment will not be made until after the primary. It is a brazen affront to the citizens of this precinct that our business is interfered with for purely political reasons. Is the present county judge afraid that the assumption of the duties of the office of Commissioner at this time might result in the change of a few votes in the District Judge's race? We trust the Star readers will be able to see through the scheme. It is very patent to those who are watching the trick being performed.

Local Bank
Buys Hardin
School BondsDistrict Will Save
$1,300 In Interest

The Burkburnett Independent School District recently completed a transaction whereby the $20,000 worth of bonds that were outstanding as a result of the building of Hardin Grade school are now owned by the local Farmers State Bank and the District will be saved approximately $1,300 in interest, according to an announcement issued by Superintendent C. J. Duncan, Tuesday.

The bonds were formerly owned by the State Permanent School Fund and the First National Bank of Wichita Falls and paid 4% interest. The bonds were called in; new bonds, bearing 3%, were issued and sold to the Farmers State Bank.

Twelve years will be required to retire the bonds and the saving realized in interest has been made possible through the enterprise and efforts of the present school board.

Burk Leading County UnitsSixty-Seven Mattresses
Finished Here

Burkburnett's mattress 'shop' is leading all others in the county according to W. R. Hill, manager of the chamber of commerce which, together with the Hardin and Clara Demonstration clubs, is sponsoring the project.

Mr. Hill states that 67 mattresses have been completed to date. More than two hundred applications for the Burkburnett center were approved.

Nearly 200 mattresses for needy families have been made in Wichita county during the past month. Materials are furnished by the Surplus Commodities corporation.

For completion of the program, designed to produce 585 mattresses, each station has adopted a quota of five mattresses per day hereafter, it was announced.

Latest available statistics show that the center in Wichita Falls has completed 39 mattresses; Iowa Park, 60; and Pumpkin Center, 17, according to Miss Ruth Farquhar, county home demonstration agent.

Rock Island,
Announce Same Price

Oil operators of the North Texas district were confronted Wednesday with a loss in income estimated at more than $8,000 daily.

Third company to announce a reduction in crude oil prices was the Sinclair Prairie Oil Marketing company, one of the largest takers in the KMA and Hull-Silk pools. Operators awaited decisions by other large purchasers.

The company announced Tuesday it would pay a flat 75 cents a barrel for the 30,000 barrels daily it purchases in the district. The oil price was 79 cents per barrel for crude of 29 gravity or below, scaling upward to a top of $1.03 for 40 gravity and above.

The new price was effective Tuesday.

The Panhandle Refining company of Wichita Falls and the Rock Island Refining company of Duncan, Okla., announced an identical price Monday, affecting more than 2,000 barrels daily in the area.

Ed Gossett Talks
To Enthusiastic
Crowd Thursday

Edd Gossett, candidate for re-election to Congress from the 13th District, talked before a small but enthusiastic crowd here Thursday at 2:30 in front of the City Hall.

His address was along the lines of the duties of a Congressman. He stated that he would answer some of the charges made against him by opponents when he talks at the Memorial auditorium on Thursday night.

One Week Until Election

The Burkburnett Star will publish a "Pre-Election Edition" next Thursday which will be mailed to practically every voter in this district, including the rural routes leading to the adjoining towns.

All candidates desiring to reach the people of Burkburnett and surrounding towns, with their messages are urged to prepare their copy early and have it in the Star office by Tuesday night. This edition will be interesting and will afford a rare opportunity for candidates to get their platforms into the homes of the voters of this district.

Nation Fails To Realize Seriousness Of Traffic Accidents

There is a plague and a pestilence abroad in America but the public shows no excitement. Last year, 32,100 persons were killed in traffic accidents and 1,210,200 were injured, some incapacitated for life.

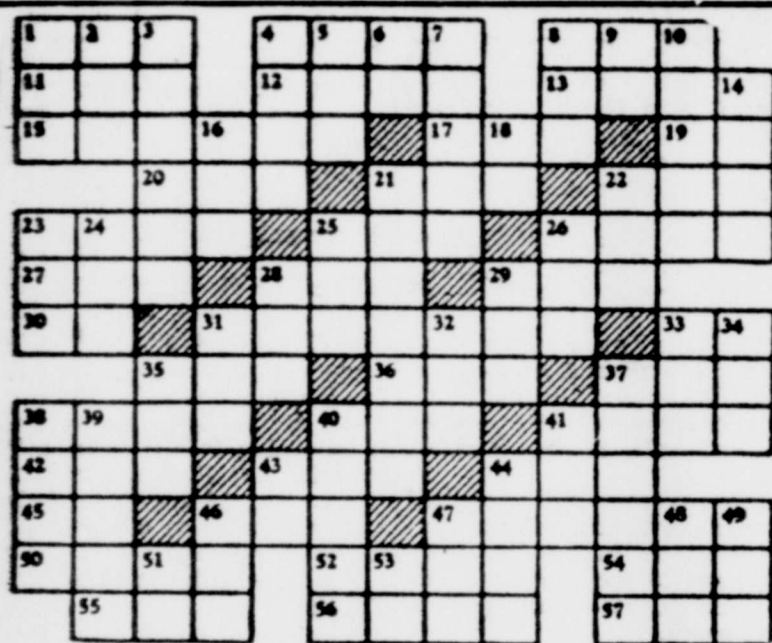

Had this been an epidemic or some form of a public calamity localized to one section, the entire nation would have been aroused, and if anything could have been done to prevent a recurrence it would have been done.

But America, since these accidents are spread over a year and to every section of the nation, fail to realize the seriousness, and the folks don't realize that a child or a beloved grown-up of their town or section may be next.

But there are encouraging signs. Although the toll of 1939 was about the same as 1938, the fact still remains that the number of autos in use is always increasing and thus on a percentage basis we have had some good results.

Time was that no hamlet could get by July 4th without an accident or a death. But now we know it can be done.

Puzzle No. 20 Solved

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star 10 years ago.

Users of Burkburnett's city water are urged by water superintendent Dave McNeil to be as economical as possible for the time being and to refrain from watering their lawns and flowers.

Miss Mildred Van Loh won the prize at the Beach Costume Revue held last Saturday at the Miniature Golf course.

Wichita County's second political rally was held here Monday night when 23 candidates for state, district, county and precinct offices presented their qualifications and platform to a crowd of around 750 people who had gathered on Avenue C between the Corner Drug Store and Collier Bros. Floyd Jackson, local attorney, was chairman of the rally.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Exley and family left Wednesday for Oil City, Penn., to visit relatives and friends.

Mrs. Grace Kinnaird, 36, resident of the Rabbit Creek neighborhood, died at a Wichita Falls hospital Sunday morning following a brief illness.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

Like a figure from the pages of history, he stood at the attorneys' table in federal court in Fort Worth—his snowy hair carefully brushed and his form erect despite his four-score years.

His long black coat and the stiff collar with the black string tie suggested the days "befo' the wah" when Alexander H. Stephens practiced in the courts of Georgia.

As the judge turned to him, he inclined his head with the deference of the Old South and handed up a copy of his petition—no typewritten manuscript, but page after page in pen and ink.

Beginning to state his case, the aged man—in spite of valiant effort—found his voice quavering and occasionally he paused, for words did not come as readily as they had, half a century ago.

In a kindly tone, the judge inquired: "Do you have a license to practice law?"

"Yes, your honor," and he drew from his pocket a faded document, almost worn in two at the creases—his license to appear before the Supreme Court of the United States.

In response to another question he admitted that the defendants had not been cited and the judge explained that they must be given notice before the matter could be heard.

The lawyer stood silent and there was no sound in the old courtroom except the ticking of the clock, unnaturally loud in the stillness.

Then the bailiff, himself a man whose hair was tinged with gray, gently touched the lawyer on the sleeve.

Rousing as if from a dream, the attorney donned his long black overcoat and, after bowing with a courtly grace that included everyone in the room, walked down the corridor and out into the twilight of a winter's day.

Jerry Sadler favors a tax on oil, gas and sulphur to pay the pensions and he make this comment on W. Lee O'Daniel, who favors a transactions tax, "The governor wants to save the poor men's souls and the rich men's money."

More jokes for the contest: When accused of being afraid of work, a darkey denied it: "I ain't scairt of work; just show me the hardest job you can find an' I can lay right down by it and go to sleep."

It was said of another darkey, "He ain't got no stomach for work; he throws up every job he gets."

Two men were in a car and one of them, getting out at a farmhouse to ask about the road, stopped when a barking dog came rushing toward him. The man in the auto said, "Go ahead; you know a barking dog never bites."

His friend answered, "Yes, I know it and you know it but the question is, Does the dog know it?"

Eastland memory: Of all those who sat around in the shade of the trees in the court house yard, Aleck (let's call him) was the best on getting a "sell." He would put in ten minutes of rambling, innocent remarks just to disarm suspicion so that the victim would ask the fatal question, the answer to which sent the group into guffaws.

And he was the champion knife-swapper. His greatest achievement in this line began on a Monday morning when a friend gave him an old knife as being absolutely worthless. Aleck cleaned it up and sharpened it and then began swapping, each time getting a little "to boot."

On Saturday afternoon he sold the knife that he then had for a whole dollar in cash, and to the very man who had given him the one that he had started the week with. Of course, the same amount of effort and ingenuity in the realm of business would have brought a lot more money—but not as much fun.

Aleck ran a little hotel down near the jail. One evening the jailer discovered—in making his rounds—that a cell was empty; the occupant had escaped during the afternoon. A little questioning developed that the hotel-man had seen the prisoner climb out of the second story window of the jail and drop to the ground but had given no alarm. His explanation was: "I was afraid it would hurt my business."

So, you, too, can be a patriot by refusing to become confused in your thinking by the accounts you read in the newspapers and the reports you hear over the radio concerning the European conflict. German Bund Leader Traveled At Public Expense, Says Dies

"Records now in possession of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities reveal that Herman Koetter of Houston, head of the Kyffhauser Bund, has travelled over Texas at state expense, ostensibly in behalf of the State Committee of Apprentice Training, which functions within the state department of education, of which State Superintendent L. A. Woods is the head.

"His duties presumably were in connection with painting and decorating work sponsored by the State Board of Vocational Education.

"The bundsman is a German war veteran, who has lived in America 17 years without becoming a citizen of this nation. His organization, according to evidence presented to the Dies committee, is affiliated with a bund operating from Philadelphia as a national headquarters, and has connections in Germany.

"Why should this alien, the head of a secret organization suspected of fifth column activities, have been given credentials from Mr. Wood's department and permitted to travel at state expense, when thousands of loyal American citizens in Texas are capable of filling such a job?

"When the bundsman was hailed before the Dies committee, one of his first moves was to attempt to prove his good character through state department of education credentials.

"The question naturally arises as to whether other aliens have also been taken under the wing of the state department of education, traveling over Texas in an official status."—From The Austin Tribune, July 14. Paul C. Yates' column, Texas and Texans.

Highway Fine Main Scenery

Who had planned the Swiss Alps this summer, of course, will find the scenery of the highway interesting in knowledge of the fact that they can find equally fine scenery on this highway. Says Charles L. Jacobson, president and general manager of the Chrysler Corporation, "In addition to the many scenic spots in the United States, this highway is an ideal vacation spot for the new automobile owner. It is the finest road ever opened in the Canadian Rockies, connecting Banff and Jasper and the respective national parks bearing these names.

"This road, which was ready for travel on July 1, is one of the great scenic highways of the rugged section for 186 miles, it brings the tourists a magnificent panorama of mountains, rivers and glaciers. Although hewn through a mountainous region, the highway has no severe grades, averaging eight per cent and nowhere reaching 10 per cent. Its extreme elevation is only 6878 feet which means that the tourists can enjoy exhilaration of the mountains without being exposed to a height that might be unpleasant for those not in perfect health. The road has a minimum width of 18 feet and is considerably wider than that on turns, so it does not impose undue test on the driver.

"Eleven of the 21 highest peaks in the Canadian Rockies are near this highway, as is the Columbia ice field, the largest body of ice on this continent south of the Arctic circle. Banff, the southern terminal of the new highway is easily accessible from the United States, with good highways from Montana, Idaho and Washington. Tourists driving from eastern points will find excellent highways leading through Calgary, which is 85 miles east of Banff. "Canada continues to welcome properly accredited American tourists despite the war. The formalities are simple and no expense is involved in them. In view of the regulations recently made effective by the United States government, American tourists entering Canada should provide themselves with proper credentials attesting their right to re-enter this country."

By Pierce Brooks

The old adage is "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good." I had an illustration of that late last week when I had a visit from my good friend, Nick Pierce of the Menard News.

While many sections of Texas are groggy as the result of a devastating flood which left ruined crops and many dead in its wake, Nick said West and Southwest Texas had just received a good season and was facing one of the finest crop and ranch prospects of recent years. And those West Texas people, true to their tradition, will open their purses, when necessary, to their less fortunate neighbors in other sections.

Texas dirt farmers announce they will operate a special train to Washington to secure future flood control. It is estimated Texas monetary loss from floods this year is approximately $30,000,000. The dirt farmers say this would be enough to accomplish the flood prevention work they seek.

Our farmers get little from government because they are a self-reliant class who are always the last to ask for anything. But Texas farmers are entitled to flood relief. We all hope they will secure it promptly.

He was a husky boy and he was a rugged individual. He is working his way through the law school of the University of Texas. His mother, employed in Los Angeles, sent him money for expenses to pay her a visit. But this boy is taking no chances on going to school again next year. He placed the money in a savings bank and hitch-hiked to Los Angeles.

I was reading the other day that when James Stephen Hogg retired after four years as Attorney General and four years as Governor, his worldly assets were ita county. Kouri is making a series of speeches over the radio. He spoke over the air Monday, July 15th, at 8:00 p. m., and will speak Monday, July 22nd, at 8:00 p. m., and Wednesday, July 24th, at 9:30 p. m., and extends an invitation to all to hear his message.

Kouri in his message Monday stressed the need of an active County Attorney, who would try the cases rather than dismiss them. He further called attention to the fact that he had received more experience than his opponents, in that he had tried more cases in the District Court than both of them put together.

He concluded his speech with the appeal that if elected "Phil Kouri will be in there fighting your battles for you."

WHY WE SHOULD RETURN

W. D. McFarlane

—To—

Congress

"HELL GET THE JOB DONE"

We Need McFarlane In Congress:—

Because we need a dependable worker and fighter like him in our National Congress now, in the most critical period of American history.

Because we should not let sentiment or custom or anything else determine selection of men for our National Defense program. The important thing is to have a man on duty who knows how and will get the job done.

Because his long experience and fine record of DILIGENT SERVICE qualify him for that responsible job.

Because this district, this State, and the Nation can use to our best advantage his seniority and place on the powerful Naval Affairs and Appropriations Committees where he was given great responsibility.

Because when he is in Washington he does not forget his promises and does not forget his constituents. A letter, a telegram or request for any assistance or service, regardless of how small, always gets definite, prompt action.

Because as a close friend the President knows he can depend on McFarlane in our present National Defense Program. As a man, who actually served in the last war, he has our defense problems at heart.

Because he will be diligent in consideration to moral and other issues, the same as he has been active at home in church, school, lodge and civic affairs. We know his sincerity and diligence in moral, religious and civic affairs. In office or out, he works with and for the common people and all alike.

Because his record for the improvement of farm, livestock, oil, business, and employment conditions showed diligence and results. He was on the job and knew how to get the job done.

Because he is not too dignified to give attention to the humblest man, woman, boy or girl, whether in Washington or back here in the district. He is a real man and a man's man. We need him back in Congress now.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, an Almighty and All-Just God in His divine ordination called to his eternal reward Lion Fred Knauth, a loved and highly respected officer and member of long standing of our Lions Club; and

WHEREAS, Lion Fred (as he was familiarly called) served not only our club but the interests of the entire community and county in such an effective and unselfish manner as to endear himself with every member of the club, also with all citizens. Confess, now, is your iced tea always as delicious as you'd like it? Isn't it a bit on the weak side sometimes, and at others strong enough to pucker your mouth? Have you wondered why iced tea sometimes gets cloudy, and how you might brew it crystal clear? Well, here are some of the things we've learned about brewing iced tea after making an extensive study in our Institute laboratories.

First of all, you must learn to measure accurately both the amount of tea and water used, and brewing time, as well. Standard measuring teaspoons and half-pint measuring cups should be used. You can vary measurements to suit your taste in strength and flavor, but once you've hit on the right combination, stick to it, and the brew will always be the same.

Iced tea can be made without clouding by using our Cold-Water Method. Measure 3 tsp. of tea to each ½ half-pint measuring cupful of cold water in a covered pitcher or other china or glass container. Let it stand in the refrigerator from 12 to 24 hours, then strain, ice and serve as usual. With this method your day's needs can be prepared the night before. The long time of brewing in cold water does not affect the flavor, and our laboratory analysis showed it to be no more stimulating than tea made by hot-water methods in which a smaller quantity of tea is used.

For iced tea in a jiffy use 6 tsp. of tea to 1 pt. of hot water. The hotter the water the quicker the flavor is extracted. Brew from 2 to 5 minutes, or even 6 minutes, according to your taste in strength and flavor. Then pour the hot tea directly over the ice cubes, straining it, of course. The dilution resulting from the melted ice will compensate nicely for the extra strength of the brew.

A slower method, but still a good one, calls for the use of 1½ tsp. of tea to each ½ half-pint measuring cupful of hot water, brewed for 5 minutes before straining. The resulting brew is then allowed to cool without refrigeration for about three hours, or as long as necessary, before icing and serving. This method helps conserve ice cubes, as fewer cubes will be needed to chill the beverage than when using the jiffy method described above.

Serve your iced tea comfortably! Use a small plate under the glass rather than the usual coaster. A bread-and-butter plate is fine. It will catch condensed moisture and provides a secure resting place for the spoon and squeezed lemon as well. Some people, particularly men, prefer a wedge-shaped piece of lemon, rather than a slice. It's easier to squeeze than a slice.

Lastly, don't worry about the caffeine and tannic acid in your tea. Neither is harmful or habit forming. The amount of caffeine in a glass of iced tea, or a cup of hot tea, is infinitesimal. It's a mild stimulant, yes, but a harmless one and forms no habit and leaves no "hang-over." Tannic acid is found in all fruits and nuts, and in tea is harmless, too. It adds pungency to flavor, but being astringent it may detract from flavor if the tea is overbrewed.

New NYA Ruling Affects Many More Texas Youths

NYA eligibility for approximately 200 more youths in Wichita, Archer, Clay and Montague counties has been established under the new federal fiscal year program which has reduced the minimum age requirement to 17 years from 18 years. Bala Williams, area supervisor for the counties, has been advised by J. C. Kellam, state NYA administrator.

Unemployed boys and girls who are 17 years of age, provided they are out of school and need a job, may be employed on NYA projects as a result of the reduced age restriction. Such youths may be certified immediately by the NYA office in the old post office building.

ing, in Wichita Falls, if no members of their families are employed through the WPA, Williams said, explaining that the county welfare office is not yet authorized to certify youths from families having a member on WPA.

Approximately 113,000 Texas youths are affected by the new age regulation, the state administrator reported.

WORKING HOUSES, SINGING TREES AND MYSTERY DEN THRILL N. Y. WORLD'S FAIR CROWDS

YORK.—The second year of the New York World's Fair is now in full swing with crowds from all parts of the country either seeing the exposition for the first time or to take in the new exhibits which have been added to make the 1940 Fair more interesting and colorful.

ment as well as dramatize the numerous uses of gas fuel and functions of gas appliances in the home, in commerce and in industry. Shown above (lower left) is the entrance pavilion of "Gas Wonderland" with its tall, fin-like structure which can be seen from a distance. Adjoining this building is the "Mystery Garden" (center) where flagstones "talk," trees "sing," statues "disappear," and where visitors are taken off guard by these and many more mirth-provoking novelties. An object of much interest to those passing through this garden is the fountain of fire and water (lower right) which combines in unique fashion these "rival" elements into a spectacle of great beauty.

Leaving the garden, one enters "Tiny Town," a typical American community in miniature (top), where "talking" houses open up and reveal the detailed interiors of domestic and industrial dwellings ranging from farms, workers' cottages and mansions to hospitals, churches, restaurants, theatres and factories. Other features of "Gas Wonderland" not shown include: the "Magic Caves of Ice," which depict the history of refrigeration; the "mini-rooms," consisting of the most up-to-date kitchen and rumpus or all-utility rooms; the open-air "Court of Flame" with its giant kaleidoscopic pool; and the theatre where a series of radio programs are broadcast daily over a leading network.

Political Observers Predict That Sadler Will Be In Run-Off

Austin, July 17—Political observers throughout the state are marvelling at the campaign being waged by Jerry Sadler for governor and are loud in their predictions that Sadler will be in the run-off with Governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

Sadler is making a whirlwind campaign which will carry him into practically every section of the state and so far on his tour he has spoken to more than 15,000 people daily. He is making from five to eight speeches each day.

He is the avowed foe of a sales-tax in any form, and more particularly the "transaction tax form." Instead of taxing poverty which a sales tax would do, Sadler proposes to tax "those most able to pay." He advocates increased taxes on oil and sulphur, and a tax of one cent per one thousand cubic feet of natural gas. He proposes adjustment of the franchise tax laws to raise funds to match Teachers Retirement funds, which now amount to more than $6,000,000, none of which has been paid into the fund by the state.

"We've got the sales-tax gang on the run," Sadler said in a recent speech. "They can dish it out, but they can't take it and already they are laying down a blitzkrieg trying to fool the people again. But big business started too late, and their general—Governor O'Daniel is not even enough to swing the tide of battle. We can make it unanimous and even at the first primary on July 27, we can show Governor O'Daniel and his sales tax gang, which is big business, that Texas does not want a sales tax in any form."

Liberty Hill Community

At last the big day, the day when the cotton comes and is gone in two years. As far as the community is concerned, he is glad to see it go.

Brother Brownlee Graham and wife and Mrs. Nora Graham motored down to Wichita Falls, Wednesday. Brother Brownlee took his wife back home. She has been visiting him and other relatives for the past ten days.

You know, good readers, that this neck of the woods was beginning to need this last rain, as the ground was getting awful hard. Hawkeye has been chopping cotton down on the Cache Creek bottom and believe me, lots of places in the field the ground was so hard that every time Hawkeye would strike a weed to cut it off a little streak of fire would run right up the hoe handle, (that's the truth, honest). Of course this ground was where the water had run over it during the first big rain we got in June.

Hawkeye is giving his many friends warning in plenty of time for the next election that he is going to come out for dog catcher at that time and he is going to expect a landslide of votes.

Threshing in the good old way is just under way good in this community. The rain Thursday has held things up some and now it will be several days before they can get started again. Wheat down here in our neighborhood is making 18 bushels and oats around 45 and barley around 15 bushels per acre, so Hawkeye has been advised but can't vouch for the above statement.

The Hon. L. B. Ketter had his hired men cut his fine field of sudan grass by Hawkeye's place just before the last big rain. The boys just got it all raked up Saturday for the baler to bale out next week.

Nickel-A-Bale War Chest For Cotton On Way

Cotton firms and cotton farmers of Burk Burnett and surrounding area were called on today by President Oscar Johnston of the National Cotton Council for "100 per cent allegiance in cotton's total war for increased consumption."

In a message addressed to local producers throughout the county President Johnston declared that "the raw cotton industry is arming as never before in its history to smash down the blitzkrieg of substitutes, surplus, and foreign competition."

The message came simultaneously with the National Cotton Council's announcement of a "universal service" plan to provide funds with which to carry on the fight during the coming year. The new plan, to go into effect August 1st, calls for a defense fund of five cents on every bale of lint and three cents on every ton of seed, mobilized with the help of each of the five primary raw cotton interests.

Under the new plan, arrangements have been perfected enabling the producer to make his nickel-a-bale contribution at the first point of sale, either to the cotton merchant, large or small, or the ginner or warehouseman acting as merchant. This contribution is carried on from merchant to compressor, who remits the accumulated funds to the Council when the bale is first compressed, or from merchant to textile mill which remits on uncompressed cotton.

Similarly, contributions on seed which are made by the ginner and crusher are assembled and remitted to the war chest by the oil mills.

"For fifty years we cotton farmers have been talking about an organization like the National Cotton Council to defend our market and find new ones through judicious advertising, intelligent research, and organized opposition to restrictive legislation. At last we have it, and in two years, equipped with modern weapons, it has accomplished more than any of us thought possible in so short a period."

"Domestic consumption has been brought back virtually to the all-time high, with every indication that a new record can be set in 1941. Plans are ready for a vigorous attack on the acute problem of foreign trade. Council scientists are on the trail of new uses. A united cotton industry has gone to war."

"Barbara Picks The Neighbor's Flowers"

MARION BROWNFIELD

"Barbara picks the neighbor's flowers," complained Barbara's mother, who lives in the house next to ours. "I just don't know what to do with her! I've punished her, and yet she persists in running about the neighborhood, and sooner or later, her hands are full of flowers!"

I began noticing three-year-old Barbara from the vantage of our front breakfast room. While Barbara's mother was preparing breakfast, one morning, Barbara in her little sleeping garments was discovering a small under her own front shrubs. The trail led her to the sidewalk. Gradually Barbara wandered down to the corner. An early morning bonfire had left some fluffy black debris, and Barbara found it would crumble. She clapped pieces of it to dust and then scattered other pieces along the sidewalk as she loitered homeward, her appetite evidently reminding her to go to breakfast.

By this time her little face and pajamas were as smudged as an orange grove in frosty weather. Then she saw a yellow jonquil blooming, the only one as yet open in its round bed. She hurried toward it and smelled it, temporarily refraining from picking it. She walked around the bed, keeping her gaze on the flower, then, completely charmed, she picked the jonquil and ran home.

Barbara's father, hearing of her escapade, decided to take a hand. "Our back yard is small," he declared, "but Barbara shouldn't play out of bounds." He bought her a teeter-totter for her birthday, and he fixed her a rope swing. For a few days she was contented to remain in her yard.

Then one morning she saw pretty dandelions on the front lawn. Joyously she hurried forward and picked them, meanwhile discovering a gorgeous new tree—just a baby tree—set out in a neighbor's yard. She ran over to see it. A little boy joined her. "I dare to pick those pink flowers!" he boasted, reaching for the neighbor's prized peach blossoms. Barbara, delighted, helped him. But before the little tree was quite denuded, although decidedly devastated, Mrs. Eastman, the owner, appeared.

Shouting loudly, the little boy ran. Barbara merely held her flowers tighter and hung her head. Barbara's mother, hearing the boy's shout, came out.

"Oh, Barbara!" she wailed hurrying forward, "now I must punish you again. Mrs. Eastman, I'm so sorry! Barbara, tell her you're sorry, before I take you home."

Barbara was crying. "Tell her you're sorry!" insisted her mother.

Barbara shook her head as she sobbed.

"You'll be sorry when Daddy comes home," her mother threatened, taking Barbara's hand. "Give the lady her flowers, and tell her you're sorry you spoiled her new tree!"

Barbara choked—"I'm sorry—I spoiled—the tree—but I want to keep the flowers!"

"Well I never!" Barbara's mother gasped. "Of course you can't keep what doesn't belong to you!"

Later Mrs. Eastman remarked to me, "I never saw a child love flowers so much—I really would have liked to have her keep them, even though the tree is wrecked—I wonder it doesn't occur to Barbara's mother to let her plant some flowers herself, then she would learn not to pick them at random. She'd have a grand time with a few pansy plants. And sunflowers, morning-glories, and nasturtiums are quick and easy to grow."

"Making a garden would be a pleasant cure!" I responded. "And I have been thinking that perhaps her love of flowers is, to a great extent, a love of color. I'd try her with colored crayons, some paints, or even bright scraps of cloth."

"Or picking flowers may be the

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 21.

The Golden Text is: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent" (John 17:3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city" (Revelation 22:14).

Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

outcome of Barbara's disposition to explore—plus a love of color.

"A little time spent in studying Barbara, finding the answers to a few simple questions as to why she picks flowers and what she wants to do with them," finished Mrs. Eastman, "certainly would bring better results than mere punishment."

"Undisturbed amid the jarring testimony of the material senses, Science, still enthroned, is unfolding to mortals the immutable, harmonious, divine principle,—is unfolding Life and the universe, ever present and eternal." (page 306).

I wish to thank the voters of Burk Burnett and Wichita County for their splendid encouragement in my campaign.

New WPA Rules Explained At Wichita Meeting

Representatives for four counties sponsoring WPA programs heard discussion of changes in regulations for the fiscal year which started July 1 at the council room of the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night. Maj. Karl E. Wallace, Fort Worth, district administrator, presented the supervisors of the district and described new regulations. Clay, Montague, Wichita and Archer counties were represented.

Changes inaugurated by the new law allow a continuation of the 18 months veterans provision with preference to widows and orphans of WPA veterans.

Clients cases will be reviewed and adjusted only one each year instead of twice each year, it was announced. National defense projects will be exempt from most regulations. Sponsors of sewing room projects will make necessary contributions to supplement WPA funds.

Wallace urged the sponsors to provide a surplus of reservoir projects to provide winter employment as case loads increased.

Other speakers included J. H. Allison, Wichita Falls; J. W. Holtzer, Mrs. Ann Houle, J. C. Douglas and Mrs. Edna Hardwicke, all of Fort Worth.

urged that an immediate appointment should be made. He suggested that W. T. Holman, Knauth's only opponent in the first primary should be named.

Application Received
An application was received from J. R. Sullivan, Burkburnett, geologist, asking that he be named to fill Knauth's unexpired term. It also was learned that the court has been asked to appoint Mrs. Knauth to succeed her husband for the remainder of this year.

Friberg and County Auditor Joe Gowdy reported on a district conference held Monday at Eastland in which sponsors of WPA sewing room projects met to discuss some means of obtaining relief from the increase in sponsor's cost made effective July 1.

A committee was appointed at that conference to call a statewide meeting early in August and resolutions were adopted calling upon the municipal and county organizations of Texas to aid in the move.

About 175 officials attended the Eastland meeting. Lieut. Col. Karl E. Wallace, WPA district manager, told the conference that any reduction in the sponsor's cost on sewing room projects would have to come through congress.

Rural Electrification
Commissioners granted the Southwest Rural Electric association, Inc., of Tipton, Okla., permission to use county roads where necessary in installing 30 miles of electric wiring in the north and west ends of the Electra precinct.

Tom Moran, Tipton, Okla., project superintendent under the federal Rural Electrification administration, said approximately 70 rural homes would receive electric service under this move. The project is to be completed within 60 days.

The association already provides electric current for 900 families in Greer, Kiowa, Jackson, and Tillman counties, Okla., and 400 families in Foard and Montague counties, Texas.

Moran explained that the association is cooperative and non-profit making. When the federal investment is repaid electric lines belong to the association. Current is purchased from municipal or private enterprises.

Commissioners canvassed returns of the Electra precinct local option election and found 767 votes against prohibition and 523 ballots for prohibition. The precinct voted to remain wet by a majority of 244.

To Burkburnett Women!

There is nothing more discouraging than to give the best you have for a cause and then to find that you have failed to impress anyone with the significance of that cause.

Such a situation is facing those women who have given so generously of their time and their efforts to establish the Red Cross Production Unit here.

The first meeting day eighteen women were present and everyone felt that that was a good start.

Today, Thursday, one woman came to work. One woman! It would be a fine thing if, when our country calls men to our defense one lone man would come forward.

You will say that this is an unjust comparison; that this is only a small community and that what happens here cannot be compared to what happens in the nation, to which I answer:

To test a whole well of water you take only a cupful; that if one community is thus negligent of its duty, what of the whole people? If you can't depend upon the women of the nation to answer the call of duty, then we no longer have a nation.

To those of you who think that this work is insignificant and that what small part you might play would have no importance, I refer you to the One who said:

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

a member of the Burkburnett Masonic lodge.

A native of Germany, Knauth came to Burkburnett from Granger, Texas, 33 years ago. His contributions to the community were recognized in 1935 when he was awarded a plaque for rendering outstanding service as the most useful citizen.

It has been said that on probably no other occasion in this community has there been evidenced the sincere regret and deep respect as shown by the enormous crowd which assembled at his funeral.

Survivors include the widow; three sons, H. R. Knauth, Joinerville, Texas; B. B. Knauth, Thompson, Texas; and J. F. Knauth, Genoa, Texas; three daughters, Mrs. A. L. Nutt, Salt Gap, Texas; Mrs. C. J. Jennings, Corpus Christi, Texas; and Mrs. C. E. Baker, Burkburnett; eleven grandchildren, five brothers and one sister.

Red Cross Unit Begins Work Here

Burkburnett's Production Unit of the American Red Cross held its first regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the American Legion hall, which, through the courtesy of the Oscar Frye Post, will be their permanent meeting place.

Eight women entered the knitting division and ten qualified to sew. Mrs. Frank Clement supervises the knitting and Mrs. J. P. Scruggs supervises the sewing. Mrs. Clement stated that knitting instructions will be given from 2 till 4 o'clock every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. She also stated that five more experienced knitters are needed. Those who apply are asked to bring their own needles.

Mrs. Scruggs announced that seamstresses will work every day from one till five o'clock except on Saturdays and that more women who can sew are needed. They are asked to bring tape lines, scissors, thimbles and needles. Two more sewing machines are also needed.

More than two hundred women gathered to hear Mrs. Beulah Pearl, representative of the United Gas Corporation lecture during a two-day cooking school at Boyd's store last week.
