Iranians Attack Police

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Gunmen hurled bombs and fired automatic weapons at a police station in downtown Tehran today, killing one policeman and wounding another, the government said.

Authorities also said "terrorists" fired on police guards at the Egyptian Embassy residence in north Tehran Sunday night, but no one was reported hit.

The attacks were the first serious assaults on security forces in months and came after three nights of clashes in the Iranian capital between troops and thousands of demonstrators against the rule of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

Congressman Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., died in his sleep early today, his office reported. He was 40.

Cause of death was not immediately known, said Steiger aide Jim Dykstra. He added that Steiger was a diabetic.

"He did not have a bad heart that we knew of and he was in good health," Dykstra said.

Steiger was first elected to the House in 1966.

New York Police Sued

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A jury has awarded an 8-year-old boy $100,000 after finding surburban Cheektowaga police negligent for not protecting his mother and father the night they were fatally shot.

In a 5-to-1 verdict last week, a state Supreme Court jury said police failed to protect William and Michelle Deyo adequately after being warned that Andrew Pieszala, a former suitor, was coming to Cheektowaga with the announced intention of slaying Mrs. Deyo. Pieszala was imprisoned for 25-years-to-life for the double slaying.

Miss Rodeo Crowned

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Miss Rodeo Texas, Debbie Kay Johnston, was crowned Miss Rodeo America for 1979 late Sunday night.

The announcement that Miss Johnston, 23, had been chosen for the honor came about 11:15 p.m. CST during ceremonies held in conjunction with the National Finals Rodeo under way here.

Miss Johnston, a graduate of Texas Tech University and a buyer for a Fort Worth western wear manufacturing company, was selected among 49 contestants.

Common Market Meets

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Leaders of the nine Common Market countries open a two-day summit meeting today to put the finishing touches to a new monetary system although Britain is still holding out.

The European Monetary System, scheduled to go into operation Jan. 1, is an attempt to stabilize money markets disrupted by economic crises and the fall of the U.S. dollar. All the Common Market members except Britain are virtually committed to joining the currency system.

Pot Is Big Business

ATLANTA (AP)—Marijuana distribution provides "employment" for 3 milion persons and accounted for $48 billion in business last year, says former White House adviser Dr. Peter Bourne.

He told the Southeastern Conference on Alcohol and Drug Abuse here Saturday that a "new criminal aristocracy" channels profits from marijuana sales into such legitimate business ventures as real estate. "In Florida, marijuana is the biggest business, even bigger than the state's tourism industry," he said.

Bourne was President Carter's chief adviser on health until he resigned in July after it was reported he prescribed the drug Quaalude to a White House employee using a fictitious patient's name.

Swine Flu Law Stands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to disturb a law limiting the way persons may seek damages for injuries allegedly suffered in the ill-fated swine flu vaccination campaign of 1976.

The justices, without comment, turned down a Lafayette, La., couple's appeal challenging the constitutionality of the liability law passed by Congress two years ago.

The appeal by Marie and Donal Ducharme was the first swine flu controversy to reach the nation's highest court. More than 1,000 lawsuits seeking damages totaling more than $1.5 billion have been filed in the past two years.

THE PAIN OF WINNING--Cindy Koonsman struck up a flood of tears on two occassions Saturday, first as Snyder High School won the Regional Volleyball Tournament, and later when she was one of three Tigers named to the all-tournament team. 20-Year Member Of Temple Facing Charges

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP)—Charles E. Beikman, a 20-year veteran of the Peoples Temple, faces a preliminary hearing today on charges of murdering four other cultists on the night more than 900 died in an orgy of suicide and murder at the sect's Jonestown colony.

Beikman, 43, of Indianapolis, Ind., is charged with slashing the throats of Sharon Amos, the cult's public relations officer, and her three children in the sect's Georgetown headquarters Nov. 18.

Beikman has not yet entered a plea to the charges.

Beikman is one of two American cultists facing murder charges in this South American nation. The second is 32-year-old Larry Layton of San Francisco, who is charged with murdering Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., three newsmen and temple defector in an ambush near Jonestown.

In New York, the FBI said it had prepared arrest warrants for a number of persons wanted for the murder of Ryan and his four companions. However, a spokesman gave no details.

Ryan had gone to Jonestown, 150 miles northwest of Georgetown, to investigate reports that Californians were being held against their will and abused in the cult's jungle commune. After the attack on his party, the Peoples Temple members in Jonestown joined in the mass suicide-murder ritual at the orders of their leader, the Rev. Jim Jones, who died with them.

Both Beikman and Layton have been held without bail since their arrest, shortly after the camp deaths were discovered.

The Guyanese police have said they will hold some survivors here as material witnesses. The police have authorized 46 of the 86 known survivors to leave the country, but only 24 have returned to the United States.

Thirty-two survivors - 19 men, 12 women and one child -were to have left on Sunday.

Two women and a man said they wanted to stay in Guyana, and the U.S. Embassy arranged for the other 29, including two adopted sons of the cult leader and Beikman's 17-year-old son Thomas, to be flown to New York aboard a Pan Am flight.

When the group arrived at the airport, the plane's pilot, Capt. Albert Brockob, refused to take the 18 men aboard because he said three of them were carrying knives and the FBI failed to provide two armed agents promised to escort the group.

The men barred from the flight were expected to fly out later in the week.

Grand Jury In Session Today

Cases involving charges ranging from theft and burglary to driving while intoxicated were scheduled for presentation before a Scurry County grand jury this morning.

Three of the theft cases involve alleged pilferage of approximately $4,200. The case was investigated by sheriff's deputies on a complaint filed by a woman who said the money had been lifted piecemeal from her purse over a two-month period. Deputies said they recovered $450.

A fourth person taken into custody and questioned about the incident is a juvenile, deputies said. He will not be tried as an adult.

Another theft charge involves an alleged check writing scheme of Ronnie Dean Stroud. Stroud, investigators alleged, is reported to have defrauded seven persons of goods or services on a series of checks written in July. Aggregate value of the checks was placed in excess of $200.

The burglary charge against Joe Garcia was also scheduled for presentation to the grand jury. Garcia is charged with auto burglary in connection with the break-in of a car on Nov. 15 owned by Nancy Evans. Reportedly taken was a citizens band radio.

Also to be presented this morning were the driving while intoxicated charges filed against Felipe Gutierrez and Rudy Amador.

Voter Turnout Massive...

New President For Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)-Venezuela's Social Christian Party claimed victory early today for its 53-year-old presidential candidate Luis Hererra Campins after a massive and peaceful voter turnout.

Former President Rafael Caldera, who led the Social Christians to victory in the 1958 election, predicted Herrera would defeat Luis Pinerua Ordaz, 54, of President Carlos Andres Perez's Democratic Action Party by 300,000 votes.

The television station Venevision reported Herrera, a lawyer and senator, leading by 189,913 votes in an unofficial tally of 5,233,209 votes, or more than 90 percent of the estimated total vote. Eight other candidates were running far behind, dividing about 15 percent of the vote.

Official returns lagged badly, but Herrera was leading in them also. The Supreme Electoral Council said with 73,520 ballots counted, his margin over Pinerua was 886.

Thousands of Social Christian supporters gathered around Herrera's campaign headquarters. He claimed victory and said he would work with the Democratic Action party for Venezuela.

There was no statement yet from Pinerua.

Election officials estimated the turnout Sunday at 90 percent of the 6.2 million eligible voters. The government extended the closing hour for the polls from 4 to 7 p.m., but long lines of waiting voters kept them open later in many places. Some districts were reported still voting at midnight.

No violence was reported anywhere in the nation, one of the few democracies on a continent where military dictatorships are prevalent. It was Venezuela's fifth national election in the 20 years since an up-rising overthrew dictator Marcos Perez Jiminez.

The voters also were electing 183 members of the Chamber of Deputies, 42 senators and members of 20 state legislatures, all like the president for five-year terms.

The leading candidates used television extensively and hired American political media experts, pushing the estimated cost of the 16-month campaign to $100 million. David Garth styled the Herrera campaign. Joe Napolitan advised Pinerua.

Ask Us

Q--It seems that there are a lot of hit and run accidents here in Snyder. Are these accidents investigated and the offenders prosecuted and/or fined?

A--Yes. Hit and run accidents are investigated and the cases are prosecuted when the violators are caught. There are two types of hit-and-run accidents. One which involves injury or death to a person is a felony and the violator may be sentenced to a prison term up to five years. A hit and run accident which results only in damage to vehicles is a Class C misdemeanor and the maximum penalty is a $200 fine. Fortunately, most of the hit-and-run accidents in Snyder have been the latter type.

Gas Rates, Zone Items On Agenda

An application for a gas rate hike, bids on some equipment and supplies and action on some proposed zoning changes are on the agenda for the regular meeting of the city council tonight.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the city hall.

The council is expected to approve a resolution suspending any change in gas rates for 120 days. Lone Star Gas Co. filed last month for a rate increase which it estimated would increase the average residential gas bill by 82 cents per month during summer months and $2.82 per month during the winter.

Two zoning change ordinances will be presented on second and final reading. One would change the zone on Lot 1-4, Block 4, Boothe-land Addition, from a residential zone to a business zone as requested by E.E. Shifflett. The other would change the zone on a 3.58 acre tract in Sec. 178 from a residential district to a business district as requested by Leon Autry. Both changes were approved by the planning and zoning commission and both were approved on first reading by the council at its November meeting.

The council also will consider appointment of three members to the planning and zoning commission and an ordinance closing and abandoning as a public roadway property across the rear of two lots in Highland Addition and fronting on 43rd St.

FFA Team Wins Title

The Snyder Future Farmers of America Quiz team successfully defended its state title Saturday in state-wide contests held at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

It was the fourth consecutive state title for Snyder FFA in this event.

Also, Snyder High's team had four of the five top individuals in the state contest.

Bryan Limmer was the top individual, while Kelly Tolbert was second, Rick Cox was fourth and Trevlyn Pitner was fifth.

The Snyder FFA team advanced to the state contest by winning area and regional events earlier in the season.

who gets the blame?

The unspeakably shocking tragedy acted out in a jungle compound in the tiny South American nation of Guyana has left people throughout the world in a state of shocked bewilderment. Nearly a thousand lives ended in an orgy of self-destruction as part of a religious rite.

There had been rumors drifting back to this country that hundreds of persons had been duped into becoming residents of a religions community, found themselves terrorized by a fanatic who didn't permit withdrawal once a person had become a member. The first shock came with the gunning down of a California Congressman, a news correspondent and two other members of an investigating team as they prepared to return home.

When what happened later became known, first reports indicated perhaps 200 had died in executing a suicide covenant, but that other members of the community had fled into the jungle and were still alive. It soon became apparent that there were no more than 72 survivors.

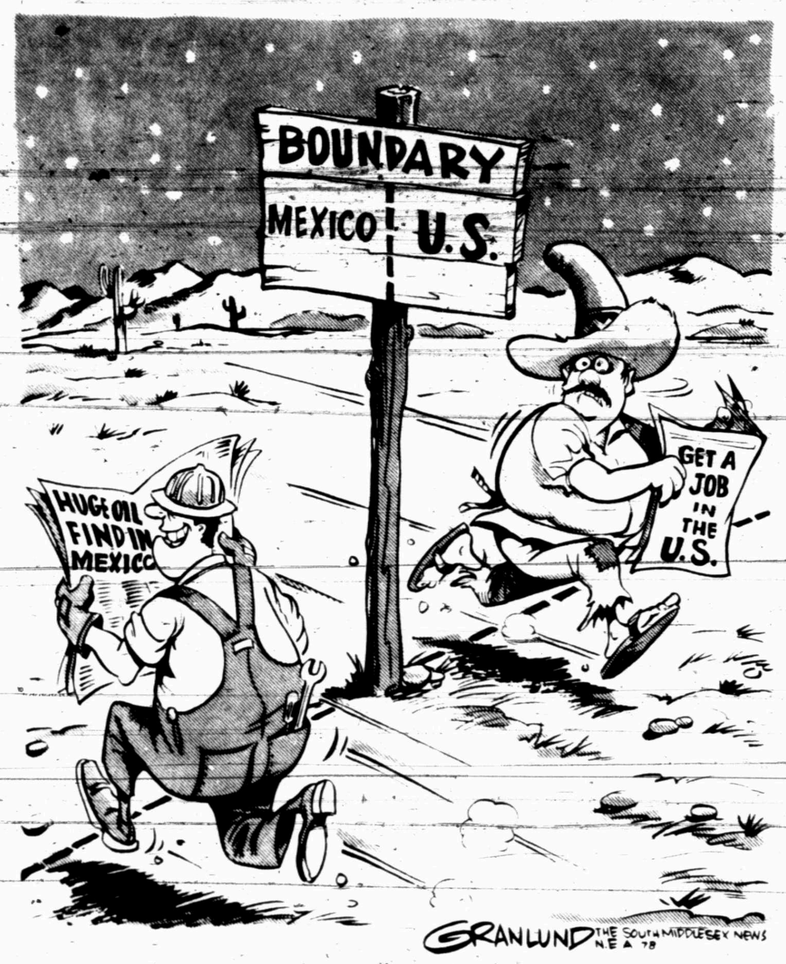
News media and the air waves have been filled with answers to obvious questions. Why did it happen? Is it possible to prevent similar tragedies in the future? What is the role of government in dealing with situations that could end as this one did?

One commentator viewed the incident as proof that religion of traditional pattern has failed. People can't get fulfillment of spiritual needs in churches and synagogues, so they become easy victims of fakirs who claim to have the right answers.

Another point of view was that public authorities should take note of off-beat religious movements and adopt measures necessary to protect people from exploitation.

So one blames the clergy of orthodox religions and another blames the state for the horrors in the Peoples Temple compound in Guyana. Neither point of view was advanced with conviction. They should be more accurately classified as a feeling society should make some response to such conditions but nobody is quite sure about the form.

Of possible explanations for the moral sickness of which the Guyana tragedy was an obvious manifestation the one involving religion is most plausible. But of all suggestions for corrective action the idea of injecting the police power of the state into the realm of religious belief and activity is most unacceptable.



salt losing savor

In 1972, only two U.S. senators voted against the first Soviet-American strategic arms limitation agreements. Today, it is widely believed that nearly half the Senate might oppose the prospective new SALT agreement the Carter administration hopes to conclude with the Soviet Union by year's end.

This remarkable turnabout reflects more than just a lack of confidence in the ability of the president and his chief aides to negotiate effectively with the Soviets. Nor is it merely a symptom of the general disenchantment with "detente" as the Soviets have practiced it over the last six years.

The Senate has begun to grasp what Harvard's Samuel P. Huntington calls "the preeminent feature in (contemporary) international politics," the relative decline in American military power as compared to that of the Soviet Union. And specifically, the Senate has begun to entertain grave doubts about the prospects for negotiating any arms limitation agreements with the Soviet Union that could, in themselves, stabilize the military balance now shifting ominously and unmistakably toward Moscow.

The lessons of nine years of strategic arms negotiations with the Soviets fully justify the Senate's reservations.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (NEA) - Constitutional Amendment No. 4 on New Mexico's ballot in this year's elections was a modest proposal, authorizing payments of a $3,600 annual salary to state legislators for their services.

The plan was endorsed by a "good government" coalition that included such disparate groups as the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, Common Cause, Americans for Indian Opportunity and the National Education Association.

But the voters, by a margin of almost 2 to 1, rejected the proposal. The lawmakers will remain eligible only for per diem payments when the legislature is in session.

In neighboring Arizona, state legislators are paid a yearly salary of $6,000, but they haven't received an increase since 1969 because the voters rejected pay hikes in 1972 and 1974.

Ballot Proposition 300 would have increased the salary to $9,600 annually. But it was turned down by Arizona's voters, although it lost by a narrower 54-46 margin.

At a time when solons in every state are expected by their constituents to resolve increasingly complex contemporary problems, too many voters remain emotionally opposed to paying their elected representatives for their work.

At its most irrational level, that opposition is a product of widespread citizen distrust of elected public officials - a suspicion nourished in this state, for example, by the news media's practice of referring to the annual appropriation act for the state legislature's expenses as the "feed bill."

On a less malicious plane, there remain well-intentioned voters who cherish memories of the unpaid "Founding Fathers" and embrace the romantic notion that only a "citizen legislature" composed exclusively of volunteers can truly serve the needs of the people.

In fact, the failure of many states to provide adequate compensation effectively excludes many people from public service because they cannot afford to take time off from their work to journey to the state capital for several months each year.

In that category are blue-collar workers and other wage-earners paid by the hour, as well as low-income people - the same classes of citizens that traditionally have drawn the short straws in politics precisely because they long have been underrepresented in the process.

At the other end of the scale are the wealthy farmers, ranchers, business executives and lawyers who not only can cope with the financial sacrifice of serving in the legislature for little or no money but welcome the opportunity because it allows them to protect and advance their own interests.

When Legis 50, a Colorado-based group devoted to improving the quality of state legislatures, conducted a national survey 10 years ago, it found that the average annual income solons was only slightly more than $5,000. That figure now has increased to just under $11,000.

More significantly, a handful of states have in recent years recognized the need to pay their lawmakers salaries commensurate with their responsibilities. According to the National Conference of State Legislatures, also headquartered in Colorado, the leaders in the field are:

Wisconsin, paying just under $20,000 a year; Illinois, $20,000; Michigan, $23,250; New York $23,500; and California, $25,555.

But at the other end of the scale are 20 states where lawmakers still receive less than $5,000 a year in salary or per diem compensation. At the very bottom of that list are New Hampshire, which pays $100 annually; North Dakota, $200; and Rhode Island, $300.

Others in that category are Utah, Alabama, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Texas, Kentucky, Nevada, South Dakota, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Louisiana, Vermont, Nebraska, North Carolina and West Virginia.

As in all other areas of human endeavor, there is no free lunch here. The output of state legislatures generally is worth only what the voters are willing to pay for it.

at wits end

You'd have to look a long time before you'd find anyone more supportive than I am of the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech to people, but if someone doesn't impose a "gag" rule--and soon--on grandmothers, I can no longer be resonsible for the kind of children I'm raising.

If I've told my mother, Chatty Kathy, once I've told her a million times, it is not important that my children know that as a child, my bedroom once caught fire from polluted gym clothes.

It is of no consequence to my children that I lost three wristwatches within a three-month period or that I once parked the family car in the garage, neglected to put it in park and it rolled back against the door and we had to climb in through the window to get it out.

Heaven knows it's tough enough for parents to be taken seriously by their children without parents pointing out their two or three imperfections. Kids not only begin to see in you human qualities, they begin to draw parallels between your life and theirs.

Frankly, I never thought Mother would turn on me. We had a great relationship when I was growing up. She regarded me as a punishment from God and I regarded her as a storm trooper with a job to do. Every once in awhile she'd say something intimate like, "You're going to get yours someday...just wait..."

When I was sinking in a sea of diapers, formulas and congenital spitting, I didn't get the support I had hoped for. Mother couldn't wait to pull her grandchildren on her lap and say "Mommy never took naps. You know what she used to do when Grandma would lie down every afternoon? She'd hie off and turn the hose on and make the muddiest mess in the backyard you'd ever see."

Her words would return to me like an echo at the most inopportune times. One day when I had called my son down for using a word that curled your hair, he said, "Grandma said you had a mouth like a drunken sailor in Shanghai. She said she washed your mouth out with soap so many times, she had to starch your tongue."

"Grandma was kidding," I said.

"Grandma never kids," he answered. "She said once you were a little kid just like us." I looked at my son and said, "You're going to get yours someday...just wait."

Your Birthday

December 5, 1978

This coming year you will go through a process of sifting the wheat from the chaff and select truly important objectives. Your success will lie in the ones you single out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll spend so much time today looking for the easy way of doing things that you could sacrifice productivity. Shortcuts aren't best today. Find out more about yourself by sending for your 1979 copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In eagerness to satisfy your aims today you could attempt to employ coy or clever methods. If they're not good for all concerned, the results will be anything but favorable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Wishful thinking is not the same as being visionary. Be as realistic as possible today. Above all don't place your hopes in the hands of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If something is bugging you, bring it out in the open. Face things squarely today. Pretending it will correct itself can only make matters worse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A frustrating situation may arise today when persons you're associated with undermine your productivity and all your grand plans go down the drain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Watch yourself in any commercial dealings today. Be especially alert for tiny loopholes that aren't evident at first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might be a little too concerned as to whether the other guy is pulling his own weight today to do your share. Judge not, lest you be judged.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Large projects you're not too fond of anyway should not be attempted today. You won't complete them and will only make a bigger job for yourself to do later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Though you like nice things, be especially mindful today of spending more than you can afford. Shop for luxury items when the budget permits.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things won't come off as well as you hoped if you're not sincere in representing yourself. Others will see right through you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a danger you could be more talkative than you should be to the wrong people today. The safest thing to do: Don't tell anything important to anyone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is one of those days when you might not have your wits about you concerning your possessions. Don't lend or spend that which you can't afford to lose.

inflation's illusions

NEW YORK (AP)—A suburbanite recently exclaimed triumphantly that he sold for $60,000 the house he had bought eight years ago for just $35,000. The suggestion was that he pocketed the difference.

On review, the figures show he came out the loser. Through minor improvements here and there, he had spent about $3,500 over the years. He paid the real estate agent $3,600, and lawyers another $700.

The $2,830 of income taxes he paid on his "gains" brought his total costs to $10,630.

In effect, those expenses reduced the selling price to $49,730, or just $14,730 more than he had paid for the house in 1970. And still, the biggest cost of all, inflation, hadn't even been considered.

For peace of mind, it's just as well he didn't sit down and figure it out. If he had done so, he would have realized that in terms of dollar buying power, the sale left him with less than he had in 1970.

Because of inflation the equivalent price of that $35,000 house, 1970 syfle, was between $55,000 and $60,000, 1978 style. Atop that, he had those buying and selling expenses, and taxes.

In order to stay even, he should have held out for $70,000.

The sad story of the suburbanite isn't unique. Rather than seeing inflation as the enemy, a good many Americans have embraced it as a friend, learning later that their pockets were picked.

Some have gone into gold, and undoubtedly a good many of them have made money, particularly those who bought at $103.50 an ounce in August 1976 and sold at $240 or better in October 1978.

But gold goes down as well as up. It doesn't always follow the dictum that it rises in periods of general inflation and declining dollar power. It fluctuates, and so do the fortunes of those holding it.

In December 1974, for example, "smart money" was buying up gold at $195 an ounce. Less than two years later they were losers by about $90. The price rose, then dropped again. Now it's back to around $195.

If the holder were capable of buying in 100-ounce or 400-ounce sizes, selling recently at about $20,000 and $80,000 respectively, he might have had to pay freight and storage charges. Maybe an assay fee, too.

If the buyer were of lesser means, and perhaps bought small wafers from the bank, he would find his purchase was at a retail price, a markup, and that his sale of the gold would be at a wholesale discount.

The moral: When you're dealing with inflation there's no free lunch. If you think it's wise to invite the old scoundrel to sit at your table, you'll learn that he eats up everything and pays for nothing.

Three U.S. presidents were of Dutch descent — Martin Van Buren and Theodore and FFranklin D. Roosevelt.

REHEARSAL-"A Dual Look At Christmas," a Colonial Hill Baptist Church dinner theatre, will present two one-act plays by an adult group, The Master's Players. Above, Ernie Armstrong, seated, Don Stacy, left, Terry Rumff, Lanny Covey and D.V. Merritt Jr. are rehearsing a scene from "Simeon, the Faithful Servant." Tickets, $2 for adults and $1.50 for students, may be obtained by calling the church office at 573-8596 before Dec. 11. The plays to be presented Dec. 12-13 at 7 p.m. are directed by Jan McCathern assisted by Elaine Byrd.

Mrs. Miller To Give Program At Garden Club

Snyder Garden Club will have its annual Christmas luncheon for members and guests Thursday, Dec. 7 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Mrs. Zada Miller will give the program, "Madonna," at the luncheon.

Members are asked to turn in reservations before the deadline this afternoon by calling Glenna Jones, 573-9051, Henrietta Dupree, 573-7146 or Frances Sizemore, 573-3740.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "When you tend to overbid you can compensate by learning how to make doubtful contracts."

Alan: "Here is a good example. South might well have stopped at two spades and North didn't have to bid four. Still the contract was reasonable except for the bad start when West opened the queen of clubs and dummy's king became useless. South ruffed the third club, laid down his ace of trumps and noted that West was unkind enough to fail to follow suit."

Oswald: "At this point South stopped to study. Things looked bad indeed, but there was some hope. A drowning man grasps at straws and South found his straw. He led his three of hearts and finessed dummy's ten spot to produce an extra entry to dummy. It held and South was back in business."

Alan: "He led the ten of spades, let it ride, played another spade to his jack, returned to dummy with the queen of hearts, led a diamond and finessed his ten. West took his ace and led a heart. South won in dummy, repeated the diamond finesse, East's last trump, and claimed the balance.

Ask the Experts

Oswald Jacoby keeps getting asked: "How good a bridge player was President Eisenhower?"

He was a very good player. In fact, an exceptionally good player.

Survey Reports

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) Loss of freedom was the most often mentioned disadvantage of having children, while most frequently listed advantages in a University of Michigan survey were "love and affection and the feeling of being a family," "stimulation and fun," "expansion of self" and "having someone to carry on after you have gone."

The findings were reported by Lois Hoffman and Jean Manis, researchers with Survey Research Center, a unit of the U-M Institute for Social Research.

Many Left Homeless By Weekend Tornados

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP)-Mike Liles heard the roar over the sound of his television. Outside, he saw a tornado "wrap a gas station around a pole."

The sound of the tornado wasn't so bad as what came after. You could hear people screaming and shouting wherever you went," he said.

The twister carved a two-mile path of destruction in this northern Louisiana town of 60,000 Sunday. It also left two children dead, 200 people injured and 1,500 persons homeless.

Tornadoes - rare for December - also touched down Sunday in Arkansas, Mississippi and other parts of northern Louisiana, killing two others. They spun out of a band of violent thunderstorms that spread over the Southeast. Damage was estimated at $200 million.

About 250 armed National Guardsmen were activated here after some looting broke out. They remained on patrol today.

"It's unbelievable the kind of damage we have out here," said Mayor Marvin Anding.

"It's just total devastation."

The tornado also knocked out power in parts of the city, forcing local hospitals, already taxed by a persistent stream of injured, to switch to emergency equipment for electricity and water.

By late Sunday night, authorities here had counted 25 businesses, three motels, one apartment building and three churches in Bossier City destroyed or heavily damaged. Anding said 65 homes were unliveable and scores more also were damaged.

The two youngsters killed by the storm were identified as Lisa Currington, 13, and her 8-year-old sister, Jana. They died when the tornado hurled a car through their bedroom wall at about 2 a.m.

One person died when a house trailer was demolished in nearby Haynesville, La. Identification was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

And in El Dorado, Ark., about 75 miles from here, Lurlene Helms, 53, was killed when a large tree fell and crushed her mobile home. Six other persons in that area were injured.

Down the street from the Currington house, Kathy and Joe Brown searched the rubble of what had been their home.

They had escaped without injury, except for cuts Brown got while crawling across the glass-strewn floor to get their 18 month-old son out of the crib.

"I feel that we are lucky," Mrs. Brown said. "How else can you feel when you are alive and some others aren't."

Seven Guyana Victims From Panhandle Family

WHEELER (AP)-Gladys Meadows Smith, 32, didn't talk much, and so no one in this small Panhandle city knew her reasons for joining the People's Temple cult and moving to South America with her husband and their five children.

Not even her father, Melvin Meadows.

"She was a quiet girl," Meadows said. "I don't know how she got involved in that. She came home and didn't tell me about it. Next thing I knew, she was over there."

Now Meadows' daughter, her husband and their five children are believed dead - seven victims of the bizarre murder-suicide pact that took the lives of at least 912 persons in Jonestown, Guyana, two weeks ago.

Meadows has heard nothing definite on the whereabouts of his daughter, her husband David, 49, and their children: Kelin, 13; Krista, 12; Karl, 11; Michael, 9; and Jeffery, 7. None of the badly decomposed bodies flown in from the settlement has been identified as the Smiths.

He received a letter postmarked in Georgetown, Guyana, on Nov. 18 - four days before the tragedy in the jungle colony. That letter, Meadows said, was just like the many Gladys regularly sent from Guyana since the family moved from San Francisco last year.

"She just asked how we were doing and said she was fine," he said.

"It seemed to be just like she always wrote," he said.

The cheerful letter only mentioned Gladys life in South Ameica briefly.

"I am sure enjoying my work now as a nurse's aide," the letter read. "I am doing a little studying on the side to try and get more experience as I go."

"I imagine they might have told her what to write," Meadows said.

"She was always slow in school," said Wheeler school administrator Thomas Helton of the girl he taught for several years. "She gave 100 percent all the time but she was still slow in learning."

One resident who asked that his name not be used said, "Gladys was a victim long before she went to Jonestown. She was not as sharp as the other kids. Not as well-dressed as most. They ridiculed her until she surrounded herself with a wall of protection to shield out the hurt."

Meadows said his daughter has not been home to Wheeler since April of 1977.

"I asked her about it (the People's Temple). She said is was this place that they were staying, it had lawyers, doctors, ranchers, etc."

"When he (David) called he praised this guy Jones to high heaven. He said Jones was one of the greatest men he had ever met. He wished I could meet him."

Meadows has lost two wives to cancer and another daughter in an automobile accident. Now he is adjusting to the probable loss of another daughter and five grandchildren.

"It's getting to look awfully bad. I had hopes...."

Contrary to popular belief, sharks do not have to roll voer on thier back or side to bite their prey, says National Geographic. Studies of feeding sharks show they rarely turn over when they attack, despite their junderslug jaws.

One Cause Of Inflation Is Lower Productivity

EDITOR'S NOTE - The productivity of its workers and plants gave the United States its matchless standard of living. But in recent years, the growth in productivity has slowed, much to the alarm of economists. What's the explanation? And what does it mean to the average American?

By Terry Kirkpatrick
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- One of the first things Bob Strauss did when he was named inflation czar last year was to seek advice from Jack Grayson Nixon's inflation czar.

As one czar to another, Grayson told him, set up a group to deal with productivity, first in the government itself. "I came away from the price commission convinced that productivity is one of the best ways to fight inflation," Grayson says.

One of the last things Strauss did before surrendering his czardom this fall was to announce formation of a cabinet-level council on productivity. Whatever influence this new panel of representatives from 10 agencies will have, it is at least a recognition at the highest level that better productivity would be fresh air for an inflation-stale economy.

Productivity is the word for how well we work. It is usually expressed as the output from an hour of labor. In the past 10 years the growth rate of the national productivity has slowed considerably, and the President's Council of Econimic Advisors has called it "one of the most significant economic problems of recent years."

The slowdown explains in part why pay checks have risen but don't buy any more, why some workers have lost their jobs to foreign labor how the economy grows but most people don't seem any better off, why the debate over national goals seems to have become a clawing cat fight among special interests.

The productivity record is more than dry statistics. It reflects the postwar growing pains of the nation - the end of the migration from the farm, the maturing of the postwar baby boom with new ideas on jobs and authority, the national pursuit of a clean environment and safe workplaces, the dark mood of the seventies that many expectations won't be fulfilled.

In a little more than two decades after World War II, the standard of living in the United States nearly doubled - more goods and services of better quality, more money to buy them, and more leisure time to enjoy them.

The reason: each year American workers did more in less time. Their output for each hour of work rose at an average rate of 3.2 percent a year between 1947 and 1967 - a seemingly small amount that nevertheless multiplies over 20 years to a near doubling of output per hour.

Since their work was more valuable, they were paid more. Since they produced more per hour, the average work week fell about four hours. In addition, the country could afford more services for the poor.

Never before had productivity risen so fast over a long period, and Americans became accustomed to it. But since 1967, the average annual rate of growth in produtivity has been only half what is was in the two prior decades. In 1974, it actually dropped.

"The big debate," says Allan Murray, an economist at Citibank in New York, "is whether something in the nature of the economy changed so that from here on out we're not going to get a continued improvement in the standard of living as before."

By one calculation, we would have had $100 billion more in goods and services to divvy up last year had produtivity continued to rise at its earlier post-war rate.

When the economic pie was getting larger every year, everyone could have a larger piece. When it isn't growing much, a gain by one group often comes at the loss of another.

"You do get this more strident debate," says Solomon Fabricant, an economist at the National Bureau of Economic Research. "This is why productivity is important. It is not merely a larger closet full of fine clothes. It's also a way to take care of many social problems."

The automobile industry is an illustration. The number of auto workers rose by 15 percent between 1957 and 1976, but the number of cars and trucks they built rose by 75 percent. Wages and benefits, adjusted for inflation, more than doubled.

Car buyers benefitted, too. In 1957 a median income family had to work 7½ months to buy a car; In 1977, only 4½ months.

"Productivity is where we get our increase in the standard of living," says Howard Young, a consultant to the president of the United Automobile Workers Union. "It's the real source of wage and benefit increases."

"Productivity is the reason I can afford a color TV set," says Edgar Weinberg, former assistant director of the National Center for Productivity, a now-defunct agency. "When the first came out I couldn't afford one. The average person has a washer, blender, food processor. Industry is very productive in the durable goods area. That's something we take for granted."

The reason for the slowdown is still something of a mystery. The popular belief is that people don't want to work hard any more.

Jerome Rosow, a former Exxon Corp. executive and assistant labor secretary, now president of Work in America Institute, which studies workplace problems, cites several opinion surveys.

In 1969 a majority of young people accepted authority readily; today a majority feels it can disagree with supervisors. Thirty percent of a 1968 survey didn't trust big corporations; in 1970, 70 percent didn't. In 1976, 69 percent of those polled agreed that hard work always pays off; in 1975, 75 percent said it doesn't.

"Young people want money and benefits but they also want an open system," Rosow says.

"They want more chances for promotion and training. They don't want to be treated as a cog in a machine.

Chronic bad breath

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a daughter who has had bad breath since she was a young girl. We have been to an ear, nose and throat doctor and a dentist and our family doctor. We have had her tonsils removed and that didn't help at all. Most of the doctors tend to deny that she has bad breath. I suspect it is because they don't know anything to do about it.

I read one of your columns talking about bad breath. You mentioned it could come from the stomach or even the lungs. I wish you would give me some more information on that. If there is any help anywhere, we would certainly appreciate it. You couldn't possibly understand how much it would mean.

DEAR READER — It is indeed a happy occasion when a person has bad breath and finds a way to cure it. Unfortunately, that is easier said than done in too many cases.

You have done the things I would usually recommend. Bad breath can be caused from a chronic sinus infection. It can be caused from an infection in the back of the throat. It can even be caused by bad tonsils, but that is very rarely the cause.

Frequently, it is associated with the teeth and that's why people with bad breath problems need to see the dentist. Infections around the bases of the teeth and other dental problems are not always things a person can correct on his own.

If bad breath is not caused by the sinuses, throat or teeth, then you have to start looking elsewhere. I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis, The Bad Breath Problem And What To Do About It, in hopes it will give you some information that will be useful. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

People seem to forget that the breath comes from the lungs. Every time you exhale you are breathing air out. Any odors that are produced by variations in the body chemistry may result in breathing out chemicals that contain an odor.

The best example of this is alcohol. It's absorbed into your blood stream and the blood carries it to your lungs. Then when you breathe out, the alcohol goes with your exhaled breath. That's how the breath analysis test for blood alcohol works.

It's also why breath mints and mouthwashes don't cover up the problem very long. The alcohol is still coming out from the lungs every time you exhale. Swishing mouthwash around in your mouth isn't going to solve the basic origin of the odor from the lungs.

Another example you see is in a person who is fasting or on a very low carbohydrate diet. This upsets the body chemistry and causes you to have chemicals released with your breath that have an odor very similar to alcohol.

It's very seldom that the bad odor itself comes from the stomach. After all, you don't breathe out with your stomach, you breathe out with your lungs. There are occasional instances of indigestion that are associated with belching that may release a temporary bad odor, or there are digestive problems where food is lodged in the lower part of the esophagus and the stagnant food trapped there may release unpleasant odors. Those are rather rare medical problems. A lot of people think that bad breath comes from the colon. That's not true either.

Try again with another ear, nose and throat specialist to make certain that your daughter doesn't have a chronic infection of her sinuses that could be benefited by treatment.

Basin's Rig Count Drops

The number of drilling rigs operating in Permian Basin oil fields decreased by seven last week, according to Reed Drilling Equipment's weekly survey.

The count for the week shows 253 rigs running in the Basin, compared to 260 the week before. There were 299 rigs making hole in the Basin this time last year.

Eddy County, N.M., was the leader, with 31 rigs turning, while Pecos County led the Texas side of the Basin with 22.

Scurry County had only one rig running, the same as the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 2 and 2; Dawson 3 and 2; Garza 2 and 2; Howard 10 and 8; Kent 3 and 3; Mitchell 2 and 3.

The good thoroughbred, Jatski, won, among other races, the Omaha Gold Cup, the President's Cup and the Governor's Cup.

Volleyball Team Headed For State Playoffs...

Snyder Wins Regional Tourney!

By BILL McCLELLAN

LUBBOCK--Snyder High School, which had ended its season here twice before in the last two years, found the Regional Volleyball Tournament to be just a stepping stone this time around - but a slippery one.

Coach Joyce Elrod's crew, 30-3 prior to the meet, sacked up a first-round win over Borger, 15-6 and 15-8, then squeezed by Monahans in the finals, 12-15, 11-9 and 12-6, to earn a berth in the Dec. 8-9 state tournament.

The Tigers are scheduled to meet Everman (11-AAA) 3:10 p.m. Friday in a semi-final match at Austin. At 4:20, United Laredo (16-AAA) and Waxahacie (6-AAA) will vie. Winners of the two matches will meet in the state finals at 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

The first game of the final match was one of obvious confusion for Snyder, which served into the net on two occasions and was called four times for defensing the ball too high up on the arms.

Monahans, the 2-3A champion, reeled off four points before Snyder managed one, then dealt out six ,pre fpr a 10-1 advantage. But mid-way through the game, the Tigers began to pick up, as Cindy Koonsman - one of three Snyder players named all-tournament - served for eight stright points, bringing the Cats ahead 12-10. Garnering the serve, the Loboettes then retaliated with four points - Snyder served into the net - and Monahans grabbed the final point to claim a 15-12 victory.

The trend reversed itself in the second game of the match as Snyder jumped to a 9-1 lead. Fifteen serves later, Monahans had cut the margin to 9-8, and with the eight-minute clock expired, it was a matter of which team could go two points ahead.

After another series of rotating serves, the Loboettes tied at 9-9, but Snyder quickly went in front again 10-9. The Tigers lost the serve, but took it back one play later, and grabbed an 11-9 win.

Again in the final game, Snyder went up 6-1 before a stout Monahans defense began to hold up. The Loboettes rallied back to a 6-4 mark, but Snyder ripped two more points and stepped up to a four-point advantage, 8-4.

A spattering of controversy reared when - after Monahans called time out - the Tigers failed to come onto the floor quickly enough, and Monahans was awarded the serve. The Tigers, through a series of six serve changes, overcame the setback however, and pulled their lead to 10-5.

Another controversy crept up when Monahans scored and the clock - with 33 seconds showing - did not run, but referees were at a loss to do anything about the situation.

Snyder still held a commanding lead however, and with only the few seconds left, a partisian delegation - composed of parents, school officials, cheerleaders and members of the varsity football - began to chant out the victory.

With the serve regained, the Cats held on and placed two more points on the board; insuring the 12-6 win.

After a few moments of unbridled congratulations, officials announced the all-tournament team. In addition to Koonsman, Kathy Harrell, spiker, and Dana Elrod, setter, were named to the elite group. Also seeing action for the Tigers were Kim Harlin, Danna Myers and Sherry Neves - all of whom made clutch plays at times during the meet.

Game-by-game scoring for Snyder included, first game, Koonsman 8, Elrod 2 and Harrell and Harlin 1 each; game two, Neves 6, Koonsman 3 and Harrell and Myers 1 each; and game three, Koonsman and Harrell 5 each, and Elrod and Myers 1 each.

Permian Goes At It Again

by The Associated Press

For a team that was a charter member of the University Interscholastic League in 1920, it took the Plainview Bulldogs a while to win their first district championship.

But the West Texas school, after hiring a new coach and getting his quarterback-son as part of the bargain, won 11 of its 12 games this season to break the domination Lubbock Monterey held on the throne the past several years.

JV Team Takes Second At Spur; Midland Wins Here

SPUR--Snyder High School junior varsity team - a split unit - garnered second place in the Spur Tournament over the weekend here.

The Tigers, who lost their first game, fell to Spur varsity 57-37 in the finals. Snyder had held to a 21-21 tie at halftime, but lost the third period 14-8 and the fourth 22-8. Kenny Tate grabbed 17 points and Carlos Martinez had 14 for the Tigers.

In other action, Midland High edged Midland Lee 60-56 in overtime to win the Snyder JV Tournament. San Angelo defeated Lubbock High 74-41 to win third place, and Abilene Cooper won consolation with a 41-40 win over Coronado.

Snyder JV - the other players from the split team - lost to Lubbock High 44-42 in the first round, lost to Coronado 78-52 in the second round, and defeated Monterey 53-50 in the third round.

Kris Seale, who led the Tigers in scoring with 13, 11 and 19 points respectively, was named to the all-tournament team. Trussell Thane scored 12 points against Monterey.

The all-tourney team was composed of: Lanny Dycus-Cooper, Perry Bolger and Mike Feldt-Midland High, Danny Rabb and Brent Sanders-Midland Lee, Jimmy Johnson-Monterey, Charles Bishop-San Angelo, Raul Romero-Lubbock High, Jimmy Johnson-Coronado, and Kris Seale-Snyder.

Cats Host Midland

Snyder varsity boys basketball team, 6-2 on the year, will face a tough Midland High team here at the coliseum tonight. A sophomore game will begin the tri-header at 4:15, followed by the JV and varsity units.

"It should be a very interesting game," commented Coach Jack Stephenson of the varsity match. Stephenson was a former coach at Midland High. "The do many of the things we do. It will come down to how well either team executes, because we both play the same type of game."

Tuesday, Snyder will play host to Levelland. A JV game will open the series at 6:15, followed by the varsity clash. Levelland, which sports a 7-0 record and won the Brownfield tournament last weekend, is the first non-4A team Snyder will face this season.

Schooler 78th In State Meet

AUSTIN--Robert Schooler, Snyder High School sophomore, finished 78th out of 115 entries at the State Cross Country Meet over the weekend here.

Schooler, who had boasted a previous time of 10:18 this year, managed a time of 11:39 in the two-mile run.

Cowboys, Steelers And Los Angeles...

Trio Sew Up Divisional Berths

by The Associated Press

For the Los Angeles Rams, the Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers, winning a division title was nothing new. For Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota's still limber quarterback, even at the age of 38, winning his battle was something different.

Tarkenton fired a team-record 56 passes and completed a club record of 30, for 289 yards and four touchdowns as the Vikings outlasted the Philadelphia Eagles 28-27 Sunday.

Tarkenton's awesome figures increased his totals for the year to 304 completions, a National Football League record, in 500 attempts - only eight short of the NFL mark - for 2,921 yards and 21 TDs.

The Vikings were one touchdown behind when Tarkenton began pitching from his 10-yard line with 7:12 remaining in the game. When he had completed his chores, with 1:49 left, on a 20-yard touchdown strike to Ahmad Rashad, the score was tied 27-27. Rick Danmeier's extra point won the game.

The victory gave the Vikings an 8-5-1 record and left them in a first-place tie with the Green Bay Packers in the National Football Conference Central Division. Green Bay kept pace with a 17-7 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles clinced its sixth straight NFC West championship - their first for Coach Ray Malavasi after five under Chuck Knox - edging the New York Giants 20-17. Dallas won its third consecutive NFC East title and earned a playoff berth for the 12th time in 13 games, with a 17-10 victory over the New England Patriots, the American Football Conference East leaders.

WTC Trys Odessa JC

ODESSA--Western Texas College basketball teams will take on Odessa College tonight at 6 and 8 o'clock here.

The Westerners and Dusters are both 1-0 in conference play this season, while Odessa will open the loop with tonight's games.

Girls Deserve It, Says Elrod

"I don't know of any happier bunch of girls. They've been working for this for two years, and it's kind of a realization of a dream. It's the first time for me, I know that," commented an elated Joyce Elrod after Snyder's win over Monahans which netted the Tigers a berth to the State Volleyball Tournament.

"I don't think anybody deserves it any more than they do. I didn't tell the girls before, because I thought it might worry them too much, but Monahans was ranked No. 1 in the state."

Snyder's 12-15, 11-9, 12-6 finals win in the regional tournament held in Lubbock on Saturday broke a two-time string that the Tiger had advanced to the meet, but come up empty handed. The third time was the charm, but it didn't come easily.

"I wouldn't have given a dime for the regional championship after the Borger game," commented Elrod of the first-round battle which Snyder won. "But the girls came back (against Monahans) and played one of their better games of the season. Our front line defense came in more in the game," she added, attributing front line blocking as the key which "put us back in the match". I don't think we made as many errors as Monahans did, especially in crucial situations. I guess than would be poise."

"I think all the girls played well. I wouldn't want to single out any one of them. I know three girls made all-tournament (Cindy Koonsman, Dana Elrod and Kathy Harrell) and I'm happy for them, but I don't think I could have picked out anyone myself. They all did a great job."

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's time to prepare for the holidays again? Well, it is, so do yourselves a favor and do your Christmas or Hanukkah shopping early.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Bessie or Grandpa, who don't get out much. Let me tell you what NOT to give them:

No dusting powder, after-shave or cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Grandma doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces or bracelets.

With the price of groceries so high, folks who live alone on a fixed income probably would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mix.

Another thoughtful gift is lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

Shut-ins would appreciate a box of greeting cards for all occasions so they too can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (Be a sport! Stamp some envelopes.)

Don't give anyone a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. That goes for the color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some useless little doodad you received for Christmas three years ago, please don't. It's a pretty fair bet the recipient will find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, YOU might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than a frivolous little trinket. Or give someone who's counting his pennies a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you know he'll enjoy.

Don't give a pet to anyone unless you're absolutely sure it's wanted and will be properly cared for. If you want to delight a friend whose dog or cat is considered a member of the family, include a tin of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give gifts of wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting their calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation.

Resist giving toddlers stuffed animals and dolls that are bigger than they are. Parents will thank you for not sending their children horns, drums, sirens or whistles. If you give a child a game or book, be sure it's in the appropriate age range.

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "take it back and exchange it if it's not what you want," why not save yourself (and them) much time and effort by giving them a gift certificate in the first place.

ABBY

P.S.: To be alone at Christmas is sad beyond measure. If you know someone who faces that bleak prospect, give him or her the greatest gift of all: an invitation to spend the holiday with you and your family.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Houston Flame Kills 9 Today

HOUSTON (AP)—An explosion and fire that swept through a small frame Houston residence early today killed nine members of a family, including six children, fire investigators said.

Four others jumped through windows to escape the inferno that Houston fire officials said may be the worst house fire in the city's history.

Houston arson investigator Robert A. Shoquist said burning candles apparently touched off an accumulation of gas in the five-room house in a low-income area on the city's near-northeast side.

Officials said the house was totally engulfed in flames by the time firefighters reached the scene.

Shoquist identified the dead as Carol Fay Boyd, 28; Gloria De Boyd, 29; Carl Erskin Boyd, 22; Charles Arron Boyd, 9; Daniel Lee Boyd, 7; Willie Cathridge Boyd, 2; Paula DeHouse Boyd, 10; Shante L. Boyd, 4; and Kimberly Lavette Boyd, 5.

The arson investigator said the fire evidently started in the kitchen, and probably was caused by excess gas pressure in the dwelling. He said someone apparently had tapped the house into the main gas line with a car radiator hose.

Quake Forecasters Make Progress

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Strange things were happening near a Chinese city called Sung Pan.

Tiny earthquakes came in swarms and larger jolts sometimes shook the earth. The ground tilted. Water tasted funny, springs went dry and natural gas gurgled up through wells. Peach trees bloomed not once but twice and the bamboo withered. Rats climbed telephone poles, pigs tried to break out of their pens and the birds left.

Scientists in Szechwan Province said an earthquake was coming - a big one. Several million people were ordered to evacuate endangered buildings and emergency centers were established.

Then, as promised, the earth moved. A major earthquake hit the area on Aug. 16, 1976. Two more warnings were issued, and the village shook twice more. There were few casualties.

"They were right on the button," Robert Wallace, chief scientist at the U.S. Geological Survey's National Center for Earthquake Research here, said of the Chinese predictions.

Other efforts at quake prediction - including some in the United States - are beginning to show results. A University of Texas team had predicted a quake would shake Mexico City, but not when. Last week it came. The Russians had foretold the quake that hit Central Asia on Nov. 2.

But Wallace, who led a delegation of American researchers to China earlier this year, said his Chinese counterparts have the most successful earthquake prediction program in the world.

The largest portion of the American effort is centered in Southern California, where most experts say a devastating quake is inevitable along the deadly San Andreas Fault which produced the great San Francisco earthquake of 1906. Scientists say a quake that large along the fault's southern leg could kill more than 12,000 people in the densely populated Los Angeles area.

Americans have predicted a few modest quakes in California, New York and South Carolina.

And the University of Texas researchers foresaw not only the location but also the size of last Wednesday's temblor in Mexico City. However Dr. Tosimatu Matumoto said his group's study, published a year ago, suggested no time and thus was not a true prediction.

The American effort, aided by more than $50 million in federal money last fiscal year, is edging closer to routinely accurate predictions.

"There was a period, about five years ago, when many people...thought it was going to be a simple, easy thing to run out and record any changeable geophysicial factors you could dream up and a prediction would drop out," said Jerry Eaton, former chief of the Geological Survey's earthquake center.

"But now it appears that's not going to happen and we're going to have to do it the hard way. We're going to have to really understand the processes and discover which are the critical parameters."

That may be a decade away.

But, most scientists agree, the ability may already exist to foretell the giant that will one day rock Southern California, possibly the most thoroughly monitored area in the world.

Wallace said if a big earthquake started to happen within his center's network of sensors, there's a good chance scientists would see the effects. "And," he said, "if all of our instruments in one area started showing anomalies, we'd probably be on pretty good ground to make a prediction."

SWATTING THE PINATA---The Scurry County Museum was the focal point of several activities Sunday afternoon. One of them was swatting a candy-filled pinata. Bill Jones, a member of the board of trustees of Western Texas College, left, was put in charge of that. He was careful, however, to maintain a respectful distance. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Commissioners Studying Bids

County commissioners this morning were studying bids for the purchase of a pickup truck for the county park department and for three copiers for the courthouse.

Also, the commissioners received the resignation of Mrs. Rosa McDonald as constable in Precinct 2 (Fluvanna). It was reported that she was moving to Snyder and would no longer be a resident of the precinct. Commissioners indicated that the constable's post probably would not be filled by appointment.

Tower Victory Confirmed

AUSTIN (AP)-The latest vote tallies show Republican John Tower defeated Democrat Bob Krueger by 12,262 votes in the Nov. 7 election, Secretary of State Steve Oaks said Friday.

The incumbent Republican had 1,151,352 votes to Krueger's 1,139,090, Oaks said.

Damage Heavy In Mishap

Heavy damage were reported in a one vehicle wreck Saturday evening in North Snyder.

The driver of the vehicle, Jack George, 38, escaped injury, however. According to a report filed by police, George was operating a 1971 GMC pickup that collided with a guard rail belonging to the Santa Fe Railroad. The wreck occurred about 6 p.m. Saturday in the 900 block of College.

The only other mishap of the weekend occurred Sunday at the intersection of 28th St. and Ave. L.

Reports show it involved a 1972 Oldsmobile driven by Morris Curley Harris and a 1966 Mercury driven by Nancy Draper Baker. It took place about 4:15 p.m.

OBITUARIES

Winburne

Graveside rites have been set for 3 p.m. Tuesday in Hillside Memorial Gardens for David L. Winburne, 86, who died early today in Midland.

The Rev. Carl Smith, assistant pastor of First Baptist Church, will officiate, and burial will be under direction of Ellis Funeral Home of Midland.

A native of Erath County, Mr. Winburne moved to Fisher County in 1926 where he was engaged in farming. He moved to Snyder in 1949 and to Midland in 1969.

Surviving are three sons, Alton Winburne of Midland, Joe and Jack Winburne, both of North Ridge, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Boykins and Mrs. Winiford Ferguson, both of Brownwood; a sister, Mrs. Roxie Webster of Amarillo; nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Edgar Bane

Edgar Bane of Louisville, Miss. died Saturday in Baptist Hospital in Nashville. He was 80. Services were set for today at 2

His wife preceeded him in death as did a son, C.C. Bane of Snyder, who died in 1969.

He is survived by a daughter-in-law, Glenna Bane and two grandchildren, Chuck and Delwin Bane, all of Snyder. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Rachel Pugh and three grandchildren all of Louisville.

After Train Derailed...

Cook Pinned Under Stove For 11 Hours

SHIPMAN, Va., (AP)— Ned Haynes, a cook pinned beneath a stove for 11 hours in a derailed Southern Crescent luxury liner, endured the pain of broken bones and burns as workers struggled to free him from the splintered, tangled wreckage where six persons died.

"He was in trememdous pain, but never cried out. Haynes is very brave," said Capt. Kimball Glass of the Lynchburg Rescue Squad.

The Southern Railway train, bound from Atlanta to Washington, jumped its tracks at Elma, an abandoned Nelson County rail stop in mountainous central Virginia, about 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

Seven cars and three locomotives lay scattered like kindling in and around a shallow ravine beside the track. Only the lead locomotive, which broke away, and the last car remained untouched.

National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Bob Buckhorn said an investigating team was sent to the scene to look for the probable cause of the derailment.

Signs Discussed By Motel Group

New highway signs for Snyder were discussed at the Christmas meeting of the Snyder Motel Association. The meeting was held Sunday, at the Travel-Lodge with representatives from five local motels present. Art Feinsod presented a sample of the proposed signs to be erected on highway 84 exits to Snyder. This sign, which features a pump-jack design, was created in response to a request by the Motel Occupancy Tax Committee to develop an "image" for travelers to encourage them to turn off the highway and visit Snyder. These signs will be in addition to the five highway signs previously painted through a joint effort of the Tax Committee and the Motel Association.

Also discussed was the amount of money collected through the motels occupancy tax and the fact that most of the projects to use it to benefit tourists, while the majority of the motel customers (from whom the tax is collected) are business travellers. Members discussed community improvements which would benefit commercial guests, such as taxi service, and development of our airport facilities.

Motel association members expressed concern that Snyder was not being adequately represented in the fight to secure routing through Snyder for the proposed Interstate-27, "Port-to-Plains" highway. All felt it would be a great loss for Snyder as a whole to lose this much sought-after highway.

Members present were: Bill Ziske, American Motor Inn; James Patterson, Beacon Lodge; Priscilla Hammerdahl, Pal-O-Mar Motel; Art and Helen Feinsod, Purple Sage Motel; and Catherine Williams, Travel Lodge. The January meeting will be hosted by the Beacon Motel, Jan. 14th at 2:00 p.m.

CHRISTMAS CHEER --- The singing of Christmas carols was another highlight of what was billed as an old-fashioned Christmas celebration Sunday at the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College. Above, the choir led in the presentation of a medly of Christmas carols. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)
