THE DUBLIN PROGRESS.

VOLUME XIV | DUBLIN, ERATH COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1902. | NUMBER 45.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

POINT LOOKOUT.

Regular Correspondence.

March 25th.—We are now enjoying spring like weather.

There is much complaint of a bad stand of corn.

W. G. Stephen has returned from a week's visit near Pigeon.

Misses Bessie and Lorin Maloney of Dublin visited their grand parents J. M. R. Stephen and wife Saturday and Sunday.

Carbin Pennington and his boys replanted his corn Monday. Mr. Pennington had the misfortune to lose a fine hog Sunday and the indications were that it died from cholera.

The fruit prospects are good.

We will soon have plenty of garden truck.

Hollen Leatherwood and lady from near Kiker's Gin visited M. L. Stephen and family Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. John Johnson was able to return to her home Monday. Mrs. Fountain Johnson is improving from an attack of la grippe. Mrs. Sam Davis continues sick in bed.

HARBIN.

Regular Correspondence.

March 24th—It has been asked by every one, and of every one, what is going to be done with our late prohibition election, and in fact even the children seem to be interested. I could answer this question, but I will not, only I'll say that the will of the people is going to be defeated to some extent, I mean the majority of the people. Our laws are of, for and by the people, therefore if a law is not for the benefit of the majority it should be repealed. The Progress must agree with me here.

We are well pleased with the change in schedule of the "Frisco." The morning train comes through at 7:35, just in time to begin a days work. One can go to Stephenville and remain all day, or can go to Fort Worth and attend to business and come back the same day, arriving here at about sunset. The whistle and the sound of the bell these pleasant spring mornings make the echoes ring like the "horn of Gray's 'Elegy.'" They announce to us the morning bustle of a busy world.

Well! Well! Two spells of smallpox, a chronic "cupid" fever and the mumps, with la grippe thrown in, all in a little over a year. Marvin you ought to shun your associates until they quit having fever and then may be you would not take the mumps. For pity's sake don't expose our school teachers.

J. H. Spratt is hauling lumber to make a new yard fence, having recently repaired and painted his house and it now has the appearance of an ideal cottage. Mr. Spratt is a business farmer and will not suffer things to be half done, either in "church or state."

We learn that Miss Adelia Bishop is quite sick. Her schoolmates will be sorry to hear this. Adelia went to school here until her father moved to his farm south of here.

Some fifty or more Mexicans passed through last week on their way to clear a plot of land southeast of Kiker's gin. Recently the land has been purchased, so we hear, by Judge Young of Stephenville and he will have a large field put into cultivation. The land is not under fence and has been the "common" of that community in the way of pasturage.

Harney Estes, formerly with Waples-Platter Co. of Dublin, but now with the same firm at Ft. Worth, and a classmate at college with ye scribe, passed through this morning on the train, only having opportunity to wave his handkerchief. We trust his friends of old Randolph college will not have to ask why he went west.

Our school will last nearly two months longer.

ST. GEORGE.

Regular Correspondence.

March 25th.—We are glad to see sweet spring come again, the orchards clothed in pink and the gardens look like our appetites may be satisfied at an early date.

Jim King and sister Mrs. Magee have moved to their home lately bought of Mr. Crowson.

Mrs. Thabitha King of Proctor has bought the Marshall place, now occupied by Mr. Calhoun, consideration $1500 cash. Mr. Calhoun will remain on the place this year.

J. Smith of X-Ray passed through en route to Proctor to see his brother, Bill Smith.

Mrs. Brummett is very ill. Her brother from Abilene is attending her bedside.

TOLAR.

Regular Correspondence.

March 25th.—A good shower with considersble hail fell here Sunday.

Miss Lillie Brady of Granbury was visiting at the home of Jas. McCarty and wife Sunday.

Prof. and Mrs. R. D. Mugg visited in Stephenville Saturday.

The infant baby of Wm. Weeks of the colony neighborhood died yesterday of pneumonia and will be buried this evening.

A lady on Squaw creek a few miles below here gave birth to triplets one day last week. The wife was sixteen and the husband eighteen years of age. We were unable to obtain names.

HIGHLAND.

Regular Correspondence.

March 24th.—We are sorry to note that "Uncle" Bill Goodson is sick with pneumonia and not expected to live.

P. K. Cooper's baby is improving rapidly after a four weeks spell of catarrhal fever.

H. E. Thieband made a trip to Dublin today.

Ira Self has put up a paint shop at this place.

I guess the well drills will have to go out of business in this part of the country as Barnie Reeves and James Beecher are said to be better in the well business than a drill, it taking them only about three and a half days to dig a well from thirty-five to fifty feet deep.

W. A. Bradley will soon have his residence complete.

J. W. Wilcoxson and family and France Christian and family visited Mr. McMahan of Lingleville Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Murray will return home from school about the middle of May. He is attending the Kansas City school of medicine. We will all be glad when he returns.

E. J. Young's mother came in last week from Oklahoma. The first time in eleven years that Mr. Young has seen his mother. She is eighty-six years old.

CHALK MOUNTAIN.

Regular Correspondence.

March 24th.—We received a shower of rain here Tuesday but the high winds soon dried the ground out.

Corn is coming up nicely and I think we will get a good stand.

Dr. Hickey left yesterday for Hill county to visit his father who is very sick.

Mr. Roden's family who has been sick for some time are improving.

Mr. Mullen has opened up a photograph gallery at this place.

Several of the old ex-confederates from here are contemplating attending the reunion at Dallas. They are L. B. Howard, W. L. Shoffner, T. J. Hamic, A. Walker and perhaps this scribe.

Our school will close on next Thursday and will perhaps have a picnic. Mr. Thompson of Stephenville has promised to lecture for us on education and it is hoped he will not disappoint us.

Some prospects of rain here this morning.

John Lackey and wife are visiting Mrs. Lackey's sister Mrs. Johnson, who lives on Duffau creek.

Your scribe and Joe Dalton were in Stephenville last Monday. We met several of the defeated candidates and their hand-shake was not near so hard as it was the last time we met them.

DUFFAU.

Regular Correspondence.

March 25th.—Farming is progressing fine in this part of the country. Corn is about all up and oats are looking fine but we have had but little rain.

Ye scribe and family have been on the sick list for some time.

A baby boy was born a few days ago to Charley Shipman and wife. The mother is in a dangerous condition.

Mrs. Simmons and daughter, who have been on a visit here for the winter with Mrs. Kesler, have returned to their home in the Territory.

We notice that the cotton is not all sold yet as there were several bales went down the Hico road this morning.

F. M. Holland was able to ride out to his field this morning. He is improving fast.

Garden truck is coming up fast and prospects are fine for good gardens.

STEPHENVILLE.

From the Empire.

March 20th.—Miss Effie Franks went to Ft. Worth today and will remain for several weeks studying music.

E. E. Perry purchased the house and lot opposite the residence of Mrs. W. A. Dawson, known as the Mrs. Boston place, last week.

Miss Ella Ray of Dublin was returning Tuesday from a visit with her friend, Miss Lota Gordon at Bluff Dale, and stopped to spend a day or so with relatives and friends here.

Stephenville's new ice factory is now an actual reality—an existing, living, ice making reality. The first run was made this week and on Monday the first lot of ice ever made in Stephenvile was taken from the large tanks in blocks weighing three hundred pounds each.

A knight serious affair took place at Lipan last Saturday afternoon. Some trouble had come up a day or two prior between Will Bradford and Sam Rogers. They were in Lipan Saturday and the matter came up again, resulting in Rogers knocking Bradford in the head with a heavy piece of timber. Bradford was unconscious for several hours and his condition was regarded as critical at last accounts. Rogers was arrested.

From the Tribune.

March 21st.—The following suits for divorce have been docketed with the district clerk recently: Dollie Hawkins vs. Will Hawkins; Debby Van vs. Tom Van; Geo. Henley vs. Emma Henley; Jennie Young vs. Frank Young.

One case was tried in the justice court this week, viz: R. B. Spencer & Co. vs. San Antonio Brewing Association and J. A. Latta. This is a case in which R. B. Spencer & Co. sued the Brewing Association and Mr. Latta for $53.50 for lumber used in an ice house at Dublin. Jugment was rendered in favor of plaintiff.

HICO.

From The Vedette.

March 22nd.—Jim McKinney of Dublin was visiting a friend here Sunday.

Henry Wieser of Dublin was in the city Tuesday.

Babe and Miss May Morrison attended the St. Patrick ball at Dublin Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fontain went to Dublin Monday night to be present at the St. Patrick ball.

Mrs. S. H. Greenhill and son Fred, came in Thursday from Dublin on a visit to friends.

Our little city was thrown into great excitement early Sunday morning by the alarm of fire. It transpired that the residence of Mr. C. S. Doubleday was on fire. Fire broke out between the ceiling and the roof around a flue. The people gathered from all parts of town and the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. We understand that $50 will cover the loss.

From the Democrat.

March 21st.—S. H. Greenhill has been appointed assistant ticket agent at the Grand Central depot at Houston.

C. D. Davis, late of Dublin, arrived Wednesday and will have charge of the Sheehan-Davis Tailoring house here.

A BLIND WANDERER.

Didn't Know that Food Could Restore Her.

A well known writer uses Grape-Nuts as a tonic when feeling the effects of extra heavy work. She writes, "Grape-Nuts should be taken regularly as one would a tonic. I eat mine cold in the morning with hot milk or cream poured over it, and it is delicious, nourishing and strengthening.

"Some time ago I said to a lady friend who was a great sufferer from dyspepsia and has been an invalid for five years, and who was a mere skeleton, 'If I had only known sooner you need not have suffered all these years.' She looked at me in surprise and asked me what I would have done. 'I should have put you on Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food,' I replied quite confidentially. 'Did you ever hear of it?' Oh yes she had heard of it but never tried it as she had never had her attention called to it especially and had not thought it applied to her needs.

"Now, I said, 'If you will just set about it and try Grape-Nuts for a week, three times a day, I will guarantee you will rise up and call me blessed.'

"She took my advice and followed it faithfully. When I saw her about a week later she looked like a different person although she had only gained two pounds in weight, but said she felt so much better and stronger and has greatly improved in health and strength since using the food.

"She is getting well and you can imagine her delight is unbounded. My own experience and that of others is sufficient evidence of the scientific value of a food that supplies nourishment to the system and builds up the brain and nerve centers." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A little child of Mr. Howard and lady died Saturday night and was buried the following day at the cemetery here.

Mr. Campbell of Glen Rose, who was visiting his wife's people here, is improving from a severe spell of sickness.

We have here a good location for some good gin man to put in a plant. Such an enterprise would get about all the cotton they could handle during the fall season.

The literary society here will meet next Friday night and a fine meeting is expected.

CLAIRETTE.

Regular Correspondence.

March 27th.—We are having some nice weather but no rain yet.

"Uncle" Frank Cook of Desdemonia has been here for several days but returned home today accompanied by A. W. Weeks and family and Mr. Amzy and Miss Fanny Weeks. Miss Hettie Cook returned home with her father.

Joe M. Baxley, a Dublin photographer, is here doing considerable work. He has photographed nearly every thing in town.

Eld. W. T. Green of Comanche was here Sunday night en route home from Honey creek in Hamilton county, where he preached Saturday and Sunday.

There is an attempt being made to organize a stock company here for the purpose of building and operating a gin at this place. We have about one half of the desired amount raised. We believe this to be a good thing and a step in the right direction for the people of Clairette and surrounding community and we believe the attempt will be a success.

W. J. Stephens and family visited relatives in Hamilton county Saturday and Sunday.

W. H. Fewell visited his daughters, Mesdames Stephen and McCarty, the first of the week.

ISSUE IS EVIDENT.

So Says Hon. Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky.

ROOSEVELT SHARPLY CRITICIZED

The Editor Says We Have the Man on Horseback in the White House and the Ambitions of Diaz.

Washington, March 25.—About 150 guests were present Monday night at the biennial banquet of the Virginia Democratic association, held in the banquet room of the Metropolitan hotel. They included Democrats of national prominence and most of the political leaders and Democrats of congress from the Old Dominion.

Col. Watterson urged on the Democrats a general union of forces in opposition to imperialism in all forms. He said in part:

"There is no drop of blood in my veins which is not Virginia blood. Although, for purposes of my own, having deep design beneath them, I chose this capital of the nation for my birthplace, my earliest vision of paradise—the very dawn of all my conceptions of honor and duty and glory—nestled among yonder hills across the Potomac; and when I go hence my ashes shall repose upon the bosom of Kentucky, Virginia's first born and fairest daughter.

"We are Democrats. We love our country. We would rescue the government from the hands of those who are converting it into a government of the trusts, for the trusts and by the trusts, and restore it to the hands of those who will have some regard for the rights of the people. The Republican party is a syndicated party. Arbitrary power is its motor, the almighty dollar its trademark. If it be not checked in the gait it is going it will in the end surely Mexicanize the republic.

"Once more, in the white house we have the man on horsebtck. Affecting the simplicity of cowboy, he conceals beneath the self-confidence and queer manners of the broncho buster the sentiments and ambitions, if not the talents, of a Diaz. To him, a little thing like treating an admiral of the navy, wearing the laurel leaves of imperishable renown, as if he were a baby in arms, now to be dandled and now to be spanked, as merely an undress affair, begun and ended during off moments between breakfast and luncheon. To him, the reprimanding of the lieutenant gentral of the army, grown gray in the fighting of the battles of his country, becomes an amusing horse play, meant to relax his muscles and illustrate his high mightiness, whilst warning lesser officers of the army to obey orders and say nothing.

"But turn from the white house to the capitol and look at the Republicans in congress. The trail of the trademark is over them all. Old High Tariff dances the cancan in the house, while old Ship Subsidy does the regular cakewalk in the senate. Everything for the syndicates. Nothing for the people."

He closed with a plea for Democratic harmony.

Approved.

Austin, Tex., March 25.—Judge T. S. Johnson, assistant in the attorney general's department, approved an issue of $40,000 Angelina county courthouse bonds.

No Alarm.

Manilla, March 25.—The outbreak of cholera here does not cause alarm in this city. No white persons have been stricken. According to the report of the medical authorities made up to noon Monday there have been all told 26 cases and 21 deaths. Experts have gone to investigate the five cases at Malolos, just north of Manila, and the two cases at Aparri, in Luzon, lately reported.

Congregation Rejoiced.

Lexington, Ky., March 25.—Dean Baker P. Lee of Christ church cathedral announced his declination of the call to Grace church, Chicago. He had the call under advisement for two weeks, and the cathedral was crowded to hear his decision. When the announcement was made the congregation sang "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow." The difference in salary in favor of the Chicago church was $6500.

No Result.

Washington, March 25.—A conference was held between president and seven Republican members of house opposing the plan of Cuban reciprocity which is urged by the ways and means committee and is understood to have the support of the administration. These members were Tawney and Morris of Minnesota, Dick of Ohio, William A. Smith of Michigan, Minor of Wisconsin, Metcalf of California and Dayton of West Virginia.

MAYOR HORSEWHIPPED.

The Executive of Topeka Cowhided by an Irate Woman.

Topeka, Kan., March 25.—Miss Blanche Boise, a protege of Mrs. Nation, horsewhipped Mayor Parker in his office at the city building Monday. Three times she slashed the mayor, and then he sprang at her, griped her throat, choked her, tore the rawhide out of her hand and pushed her into the hall. As Miss Boise was thrust out of the office by Mayor Parker she exclaimed:

"Thank God, I've done it. I've horsewhipped you and and now I'm going to horsewhip the governor."

Before beginning her horsewhipping Miss Boise gave the mayor a severe scolding, accused him of being responsible of the fact that the "joints" are running openly in Topeka and for a recent murder which was committed in a saloon. She then pulled the horsewhip from the folds of her dress and struck the mayor three times across the head and shoulders. Miss Boise is a nurse by profession. She is about 35 years of age.

When seen by the reporters after the affair, Mayor Parker refused to discuss it. The woman who whipped him talked freely. She said:

"I was in sympathy with Mrs. Nation, but did not take part in her raids. I have come to the conclusion that the only way to make public officers enforce the temperance laws is to horsewhip them. I have an organization behnd me, and we have whips for Gov. Stanley and Judge Stanley. I will wait and see how this dose acts before I act. I think this is a good plan."

Bishop for Commander.

Memphis, Tenn., March 25—A strong movement has been set on foot in this city to secure the election of Bishop Thomas F. Gailor as the next commander-in-chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The N. B. Forrest camp of Memphis has unanimously indorsed him for the position, and a committee, consisting of some of the most prominent and influential Sons of Veterans, called on the bishop and prevailed upon him to allow the use of his name at Dallas next month under the following conditions: That his election be unanimous and the military feature of the organization be eliminated. Promises of support have come from all parts of the country.

Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, the Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, is a Memphian of national reputation. He is noted as a gifted orator and is very popular among the young men. His father was killed in the battle of Perryville.

Coaches Turned Over.

Sherman, Tex., March 25.—Frisco train No. 905, due at 11:40 a. m., Monday, came in improvised of extra coaches made up at Sapulpa at 7 p. m. It took a good part of the night for the wrecking crew, sent out of Sherman, to right and get on the track the two chair cars, one sleeper and one observation car of the regular 509, Meteor, derailed and turned over near Sealey, eleven miles south of Holdenville, I. T., that morning. No one was seriously hurt.

W. H. Hunt is president of the combined concern, which has now $1,000,000 gold capital paid in and an authorized capital of $5,000,000.

TWO BILLS PASS.

Measure for Protection of President One of Them.

WAR REVENUE TAX REDUCTION

Was the Other One that the Upper House of Congress Disposed of, Both Being Thoroughly Discussed.

Washington, March 22.—Two important measures were passed Friday by the senate—the bill for the repeal of the war revenue taxes, and that for the protection of the president of the United States. The revenue bill was passed without division and after only one short speech.

Mr. Tillman embeased the opportunity afforded by the bill's consideration to protest against the repeal of the duty of 10c a pound upon tea.

The bill for the protection of the president was under discussion the greater part of the session. Mr. Patterson of Colorado made an extended speech in opposition to the bill and Mr. Fairbanks supported it. All amendments to the measure were rejected, and it was passed by a vote of 52 to 15.

The bill provides that any person within the United States who shall wilfully and maliciously kill the president, or any sovereign of a foreign country, or shall attempt to kill any of the persons named, shall suffer death; that any person who shall aid, abet, or counsel the killing of any of the persons named, or shall conspire to accomplish their death, shall be imprisoned not exceeding twenty years; that any person who shall threaten to kill, or advise or counsel another to kill, the president or any official on whom the duties of president may devolve, shall be imprisoned not exceeding ten years; that any person who shall wilfully aid in the escape of any person guilty of any of the offenses mentioned shall be deemd an accomplice and shall be punished as the principal. The secretary of war is directed to detail from the regular army a guard of officers and men to protect the pesident, "without any unnecessary display," and the secretary is authorized to make regulations as to the dress, arms and equipments of such guard.

After some further discussion the pending bill, the war revenue bill, was laid before the senate, and Mr. Tillman of South Carolina made an argument in favor of retaining the duty of 10c a pound on tea. The owners of teas now in this country in bond, he said, would get the benefit of the removal to the amount of $9,000,000. Since the duty had been levied upon the tea the United States had been receiving a better quality of tea, which had been supplied to the people at no increased price. He said, too, that the experiment of tea culture was being made in South Carolina, and he believed it would be successful. This was "baby industry," and really needed the protection. The tea culture industry gave occupation to many colored children, and might do much other good. Bill passed.

MILES MAY RESIGN

The General Intimates that He May Take This Step.

OPPOSES THE HAWLEY BILL.

Asserted that If the Pending Measure Does Become a Law His Authority Would Amount to Little.

Washington, March 21.—Gen. Nelson A. Miles Thursday told the senate committee on military affairs that if the bill introduced by Senator Hawley at the instance of the war department for the organization of a general staff for the army should become a law he would decline longer to hold his commission. The reason he gave for the statement is that the bill is utterly subversive of the interests of the military establishment, and he said he would not be a party to such a proceeding, even to the extent of continuing to hold his place.

The statement was made in the course of a prolonged hearing by the committee, which was conducted behind closed doors, and in which Gen. Miles touched upon a variety of subjects connected with the army. The portion of the bill to which he directed his especial criticism is that contained in section 7, reading as follows:

"That from and after the passage of this act the senior general officer of the army shall be assigned to command such portion of the army as the president may direct, or be detailed to duty in the general staff corps. All duties prescribed by law for the commandant general of the army shall be performed by the chief of the general staff or other general officer designated by the secretary of war; provided, that so long as the present lieutenant general of the army continues on the active list he shall be the chief of the general staff, and upon the separation of active service said lieutenant general of the army said office, except as therein provided, shall cease and determine."

Gen. Miles said that if this provision should become a law it would have the effect of destroying the unity of the army, and he read numerous authorities, including Napoleon, Wellington, Washington, Cass and Grant, to show the necessity of having one head to the army and of controlling authority. His own experience and observation, he said, had the effect of confirming these views, and he gave an illustration of its beneficial effect in time of emergency, instancing the beginning of the war with Spain.

Warming up somewhat, he asserted that the bill was calculated to accomplish no purpose except to allow the secretary of war and the adjutant general to promote the interests of their personal favorites.

In the course of his remarks, Gen. Miles told the committee in confidence that with the bill a law, he could now name the men who would hold the places of honor provided under it, but the committee did not ask for the names.

CAUSED OVER CHICKENS.

Two Negroes Killed and Three Others Are Horribly Beaten.

Paducah, Ky., March 21.—Great excitement prevails at Madrid Bend, Ky., forty miles below Hickman, on the Tennessee line. Two negroes were killed by white men and three horribly and probably fatally beaten.

Elijah Drake, colored, it is claimed, was caught stealing chickens and was attacked by enraged whites, being driven into the Mississippi river and shot dead. The body floated to shore and the white men made another negro tie a rope around the neck and pull him out of the water.

The white men then attacked four other negroes living near, who, it was claimed, were implicated. The negroes showed fight, and in the melee that followed Jim Stewart, colored, was shot and instantly killed. The other three negroes, whose names are not known, were then almost beaten to death.

Renamed Alice Roosevelt.

Y., March 21.—The Texas Cotton Products company was incorporated at this city with a capital of $1,000,000 to gin and clean cotton and cottonseed and to press and bale lint cotton; to manufacture and refine cottonseed oil and other oils and products, and to manufacture soap, fertilizers, celluloise, pulp and paper from the cotton plant and cotton and linen threads. The principal offices will be in New York city.

DILLON SUSPENDED.

An Irish Nationalist Member Causes Quite a Scene in House of Commons.

London, March 21.—One of the liveliest scenes witnessed in the house of commons since the palmiest days of the Irish Nationalists ended Thursday afternoon with suspension of John Dillon.

During the discussion of the South African affairs, the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, vigorously protested against the government's conduct in uttering "malignant slanders" in calling the Liberals "pro-Boers." These slanders, Sir Henry said, were used for party purposes. The government, which had been going from blunder to blunder, claimed immunity from criticism, and if this continued it would "follow the precedent of the evil days of the American war."

The colonial secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, in the course of an equally incisive reply, said that he desired to deliberately accuse Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman of losing no opportunity for slandering his countrymen, the soldiers and the government. Consequently the "malignant slanders" had come from the opposition side.

The speaker, Sir William Court Gully, declared that the term "malignant slander" was unparliamentary. The words were withdrawn.

Mr. Chamberlain, proceeding, referred to the Boers who are fighting on the British side, when John Dillon (Irish Nationalist) interjected: "They are traitors," on which Mr. Chamberlain retorted:

"The honorable gentleman is a good judge of traitors."

A scene of great confusion ensued. When order was partially restored Mr. Dillon demanded a ruling on Mr. Chamberlain's words.

The speaker said: "An honorable member spoke of soldiers serving under the British flag as traitors. I deprecated the interruption, and I deprecated the retort of the other member."

Mr. Dillon then said: "I will tell the right honorable member that he is a d—n liar."

A dead silence followed this remark. Such unparliamentary language seemed to stun the house. The speaker invited Mr. Dillon to withdraw the expression, but the latter said: "I will not withdraw."

"Then I must name you," said the speaker.

The government leader, A. J. Balfour, then said:

"I beg to move that Mr. Dillon be suspended from service in the house."

Motion carried by 248 to 48 votes.

Mr. Dillon immediately, by direction of the speaker, left the house, amid wild Nationalist cheers, and Mr. Chamberlain resumed his speech.

Temptation Too Great.

Paris, Tex., March 21.—Three colored men living near Doakville, I. T., were arrested on the charge of hog theft, and on preliminary examination before Commissioner Latham at Antlers were held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $400 each. One of the defendants is a preacher. It is claimed that while he was on the way to church Sunday to preach he came across a couple of hogs ont he road and penned them, and that the next day he got the other two defendants to return with him and help him kill and dress them.

Condition of Banks.

Washington, March 21.—The astract of the condition of the national banks of Texas, exclusive of Houston, at the close of business on Feb. 25, shows the average reserve held at 31.66 per cent, against 24.95 per cent on Dec. 10. Loans and discounts increased from $66,664,723 to $67,291,843, gold coin from $2,210,893 to $2,510,943, total specie from $5,057,158 to $5,130,221, lawful reserve from $8,378,422 to $8,494,015, individual deposits from $72,70,398 to $74,561,246.

Huntington Estate.

New York, March 21.—The Collis P. Huntington estate, now being appraised by the state transfer tax appraisers, will amount to about $29,000,000. The transfer tax will be about $800,000. This appraisement of the Huntington estate is less than the popular estimate of the amount of the estate at the time of Mr. Huntington's sudden death in August, 1900. It was rumored then that the estate was worth $70,000,000. Report of appraisers will not be filed for several months.

SUIT DISMISSED.

That Portion Relating to Kirby Lumber Company Dropped.

Austin, Tex., March 25.—District Judge Morris Monday evening dismissed that part of the suit of the state of Texas against the Kirby Lumber company for penalties aggregating $900,000 for alleged violation of the anti-trust law. The dismissal is a result of the motion filed Saturday by District Attorney Moore requesting the court to rule as to whether the district attorney or the attorney general is the proper person to maintain suits against corporations for violations of the anti-trust statutes.

Judge Morris held that the attorney general is the proper officer to control such suits, and that inasmuch as he did not appear in this case and would not do so, it was ordered dismissed. The suit was instituted by District Attorney Moore and Hon. D. A. McFall, and included two counts, one against the individuals forming the corporation. This last feature of the suit is still pending, but some action thereon is expected shortly.

Result of Decision.

Austin, Tex., March 25.—The railroad commission, having decided that on shipments to the North Texas insane asylum billed to Eula only a switching charge can be collected on freight coming into Terrell over the Texas and Pacific, the board of managers of the lunatic asylums in this city and at San Antonio are going to attempt to secure a similar arrangement.

Freight for the lunatic asylum in this city is billed to Camp Mabry, and for the San Antonio institution to Florine, and both are within the corporate limits of Austin and San Antonio, respectively. Two line or joint rates are charged on freight destined to those places, and the state will ask for single line rates and a switching service, as provided at Terrell and Eula. This would be quite a saving, but the arrangement is not yet a certainty.

Purely an Accident.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 25.—Elihu Foster, who was placed in jail here charged with killing Tede Gregory at Grapevine last week by cutting him, had an examining trial at Grapevine, Justice Terrell going down for that purpose. Justice Terrell reports that the evidence showed that the cutting was accidental; that young Foster was seated under a tree on the school campus and that some one from behind the tree jerked his hat off and that he jokingly threw his hand with the knife in it around behind the tree and struck young Gregory in the groin. The wound proved fatal, young Gregory expiring within 30 minutes. A nominal bond of $100 was fixed for young Foster which was promptly given and he was released.

L. R. Bryant, Bureau Co., Ill.:—One of the good old sorts that is not grown much now.

J. Burton, Lawrence Co., Ind.:—It was good formerly but seems to be out of date.

L. F. Dintelman, St. Clair Co., Ill.:—Going out of date, but is a fine apple for butter making.

J. Y. Demaru, Johnson Co., Ind.:—Of course I think well of the Rambo apple, but I don't like the tree.

J. H. Karnes, Buchanan Co., Mo.:—An old time variety and one of my favorite fall apples; profitable with me.

C. G. Winn, Pike Co., Ill.:—One or two trees for family use are all right, but it is a poor variety commercially.

J. Troop, Tippecanoe Co., Ind.:—This is not planted so largely as it was, other varieties having superseded it.

T. J. Burrill, Champaign Co., Ill.:—Still an excellent fall variety. Here it is rather tender. The fruit needs thinning.

F. L. Williams, Perry Co., Ill.:—There is nothing like the Rambo for flavor, but it rots too badly to be profitable.

Alpha Nursery Co., Henry Co., Ill.:—A fine apple but no one wants them any more. We do not think them hardy enough for this latitude.

Geo. M. De Land, Lee Co., Ill.:—I have fruited this but have dropped it from my young orchard as it is too tender for our climate.

W. H. Ragan, Putnam Co., Ind.:—An old amateur variety, quality of the best, tree tender but well worthy of a place in any family orchard.

L. Redden, Pulaski Co., Ill.:—An old friend almost obsolete now. I have never grown them here. The quality is quite good, season early winter.

J. Friend, Henry Co., Ill.:—Good.

Daniel Sharp, Clayton Co., Ill.:—Good in its season. The trees need low heading to prevent sun scalding and should lean well to the southwest.

Chas. Hirschinger, Sauk Co., Wis.:—I have lost all my trees of this variety. I first planted Rambo in 1849, but they were all dead long ago. It is a grand apple.

Benjamin Buckman, Sangamon Co., Ill.:—I have several old trees, root-grafted. They are tall, upright, have long branches, and bear heavily—occasionally. The fruit is a nice little apple of good quality, and generally well appreciated for dessert, apple butter and the like. But it is too small for market. There are better varieties for fall.

Fruit on the Farm.

From Farmers' Review. Farmers' families should be provided with an ample supply of home-grown fruit every day in the year; and this will add to the health, happiness and comfort of farm life. With a little thoughtful care in planting, cultivating and by canning the surplus, this could easily be accomplished without interfering with other farm duties. A good orchard on a farm not only provides fruit for home use, but adds materially to the market value of the property. We are not now laboring under the disadvantages that confronted the early settlers; for now varieties of fruit that do succeed in our locality are known. Of these we should plant largely, and when a farmer does not know what varieties are best to plant on his farm he should get advice from a friend who has had experience, as much depends on planting the right kinds of fruit. Few farmers can afford to convert their farms into horticultural experiment stations. We should buy trees of reliable men, and not patronize strangers just because they are good talkers and hypnotists, for they know they will never see us again and frequently sell worthless stock. Never plant young trees near old ones, as the old trees have a preemption claim on the subsoil. Give them thorough cultivation and they will succeed.

A renter need not go without fruit, even if his landlord is too penurious to buy trees, for he can plant grapes and berries that will bear the next season. Raspberry and blackberry bushes should be replanted every three or four years. Put the pulverizer on the old bushes and then plow them under. A small patch of strawberries should be planted every spring, and it can be depended on for two crops of fruit. Melons should be grown with them the first year. Few farmers' families have a full supply of home-grown fruit; but there are no reasons why they should be deprived of these delicious comforts of life.—Geo. B. Smith, Will County, Illinois.

Valuable for Hay.

Here are three important propositions having an agricultural bearing:

1. Grass is the most valuable crop in Vermont and in many parts of New England and New York.

2. No species of grass commonly cultivated does well on low, wet ground. Such ground usually produces a mixture of weeds and sedges known as "swale hay."

3. It has now been shown that a native species, fowl meadow grass, can be established in these low meadows, where it will thrive and produce hay equal in quantity and quality to the best timothy or red top.

This announcement rests on the results of seven years' experiments conducted by Prof. L. R. Jones, botanist of the Vermont Experiment Station.

Seed of fowl meadow grass is almost unknown in the seed market, but it is not difficult to gather from the wild plants. It can be secured in this way at a cost of about $5 a bushel. Prof. Jones advises sowing in mixture on wet soils, the following being merely a sample prescription for an acre:

Timothy, 10 pounds.
Alsike clover, 5 pounds.
Red top (recleaned), 4 pounds.
Fowl meadow (in chaff), 10 pounds.

These should be sown in mid-summer without a nurse crop. The timothy and red top are apt to take the ground at first, and may predominate for the first two or three years even. But as they succumb to the wetness of the soil the fowl meadow grass takes their places, and presently will be found to have occupied nearly the whole territory. Farmers who have low, wet meadow land, where red top and timothy do not succeed, should look carefully into the merits of fowl meadow grass. It is native and hardy, and not controlled by any trust.

Timothy and Clover Mixed.

In Kansas timothy is usually sown with clover since the former helps to hold the latter in an upright position. The presence of the timothy also lessens the danger from bloating when cattle are pastured upon the mixture, which makes a more evenly balanced ration than either alone. The usual practice is to sow the timothy in the fall, often with wheat, by a special attachment to the drill, and the following spring sow the clover broadcast. Others sow the timothy early in the spring, and afterwards, about the 1st of April, the clover. Still others advocate sowing the clover in the spring and the timothy in the following fall. The amount of seed of the mixture per acre should be six to eight quarts of timothy and eight to ten pounds of clover. One correspondent recommends about a gallon of the mixture per acre, of which one-third is timothy. If sown alone, there should be used about eight to sixteen quarts per acre. It is best to cut for hay when the flowers are falling. It does not seem to be used alone or with other grasses for permanent pastures to any extent in Kansas. Our correspondents having timothy and clover mixed do not mention any injury to the timothy from grazing. Mr. Shinn of Jewell county, states that he has a field of timothy four years old which is in good condition. This shows the possibility of utilizing this grass farther west than is generally supposed.—Bulletin 102 Kansas Experiment Station.

Quiet Milkers.

A dairyman says: Quiet, steady cows are what all dairymen want. There is considerable common sense in the following from J. L. Horsey of New Hampshire: "It is very easy," he says, "to train a heifer to stand quietly to be milked. But it is easier to train them to jump, kick and run. The way to teach them to stand still is to make them always do so. The way to teach them the contrary is to give them a good opportunity for doing so. If there is nothing to hinder a wild heifer from running and she gets started, she will go. The best way to make gentle cows is to yoke up the heifers when one year old and break them the same as you would steers. Work them a little; it will not injure them, if handled carefully. And they will make gentle cows.

Vegetables are doing well throughout the southern district of Florida, and shipments of beans, tomatoes and other succulent products are being made. Large shipments of oranges are going forward, together with small lots of pineapples. Lettuce, cabbages, celery, cucumbers and beans are available in local markets. Strawberries have been retarded somewhat by the cold of the middle of the month, but shipments continue. The fruit is excellent.

Recent investigations tend to show that the nitrates in the earth of caverns are not derived from the excrement of bats, as popularly supposed, but have their origin in the nitrification of organic matter in the surface soil through the agency of bacteria, and the subsequent leaching of the nitrates so formed downward into caverns, where they slowly accumulate with other salts as the water escapes by evaporation.

Americans Prominent in England.

John H. Davis, father of the new marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, started in business at Philadelphia as a banker and broker under the firm name of Glendenning, Davis & Armory. Later the two latter members of the firm went to New York, where they have been in business ever since. Mr. Davis is well known in New York and English society.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference.

Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow. Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

The Dublin District Missionary Institute held it's session at the Methodist church the first part of the week. Dr. H. Bishop, missionary secretary for the conference, was present and preached frequently to the delight of the people. Some of the pastors of the district were detained at home on account of sickness, but the following is a list we have secured of those present; viz: Revs. K. S. Van Zandt of Greens Creek, Jerome Haroldson, D. D., of De Leon, Marcus Leveridge of Morgan Mill, J. W. Carter of Proctor, John Thomas Owen of Cow Creek, Sam J. Rucker of Granbury, G. W. Ellis of Huckabay, U. J. Morton and Charlie Kiker of Greens Creek, Henry M. Long of Hico, J. M. Baker of Bluff Dale, Dr. Bishop and H. Bishop and J. K. Nelson of Waco. The latter gentleman preached Tuesday night at the church.

Having a Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Between the hours of eleven o'clock a. m. and closing time at night on Jan. 25th, 1901, A. F. Clark, druggist, Glade Springs, Va., sold twelve bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says, "I never handled a medicine that sold better or gave better satisfaction to my customers." This remedy has been in general use in Virginia for many years, and the people there are well acquainted with its excellent qualities. Many of them have testified to the remarkable cures which it has effected. When you need a good, reliable medicine for a cough or cold, or attack of the grip, use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you are certain to be more than pleased with the quick cure which it affords. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

At the recent show and sale of registered short horn cattle at Fort Worth during the cattlemen's convention, our enterprising fellow-townsman A. M. Maloney, made the purchase of two of the highest priced specimens that were offered, and he is justly proud of his holdings in this respect. One of his purchases was a year old heifer registered as "Scottish Bride 3rd," with a pedigree running directly to Scotland, where she was bred on the noted short horn farm of Amos Crnickshank. The price paid for the heifer was $200 cash and from all appearances it was not an exorbitant sum. The other was a two year old pure blood registered male for which he paid $190 cash. Each of them are full blood registered short horn Durham, a stock which Mr. Maloney expects to raise exclusively from this on at his ranch near Alexander.

A large number of deaths are reported from the country this week from one affliction and another. Among the deaths we have heard of are "Bill" Goodson of near Lingleville, aged about fifty-five years, which occurred Tuesday, S. B. Green in the Mexico settlement the first of the week; he was buried near Stephenville, Mrs. Henry Fulcher of the Lone Star community on Tuesday, two twin children of Lon Cox and lady in the Barbee settlement and a little child of Jim Hughes and lady near Hazel Dell. The latter death was due to diptheria. The families of the deceased parties have our sympathy in their bereavements.

In the announcement column this week appears the name of B. F. Hood as a candidate for recorder of Dublin at the election to occur next Tuesday. Mr. Hood asks us to say to the people that the time is so short between this date and the election that he shall not have sufficient time to see the voters, but that he will appreciate their support in this matter, in which he has been solicited to enter by a considerable number of his friends, though late in finally deciding to enter the race. Mr. Hood is amply qualified to fill the office and is a deserving man.

Headen-Friend.

Mr. C. P. Headen and Miss Julia Friend were married Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Davies in this city, Rev. H. A. Boaz officiating. Mr. Headen is night operator at the Rio Grande depot and has held responsible positions in railroad circles for a number of years with entire satisfaction to his companies. Miss Julia has been one of Dublin's most popular and deserving young ladies and the Progress joins the many friends of each in wishing them bon voyage in their marriage relations.

The commissioners court met last Wednesday and counted the vote and declared the result of the recent prohibition election. A contest has been entered against the law going into effect and the case was to have been argued yesterday before District Judge Smith at Ft. Worth, Martin & George representing the anti side of the question and Daniel & Keith that of prohibition.

Heavy rains are reported in nearly every part of the country during the first of the week, in many cases doing considerable damage as well as good. A heavy and destructive hail accompanied the rain that fell on the head of Armstrong and it is reported that the latter amounted almost to a cloud burst and did quite a lot of damage in the destruction of fences and crops.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Made Over by Quitting Coffee.

Coffee probably wrecks a greater percentage of Southerners than Northern people, for Southerners use it more freely.

The work it does is distressing enough in some instances; as an illustration, Miss Sue W. Fairall, 517 N. 4th St., Richmond, Va., writes, "I was a coffee drinker for years and for about six years my health was completely shattered. I suffered fearfully with headaches and nervousness, also palpitation of the heart and loss of appetite.

"My sight gradually began to fail and finally I lost the sight of one eye altogether. The eye was operated upon and the sight partially restored, then I became totally blind in the other eye.

"My doctor used to urge me to give up coffee but I was wilful and continued to drink it until finally in a last case of severe illness the doctor insisted that I must give up the coffee, so I began using the Postum Food Coffee, and in a month I felt like a new creature.

"I steadily gained in health and strength. About a month ago I began using Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food and the effect has been wonderful. I really feel like a new woman and have gained about twenty-five pounds.

"I am quite an elderly lady and before using Postum and Grape-Nuts I could not walk a square without exceeding fatigue, now I walk ten or twelve without feeling it. Formerly I remembered but little but now my memory holds fast what I read.

"Several friends who have seen the remarkable effects of Postum and Grape-Nuts on me have urged that I give the facts to the public for the sake of suffering humanity, so although I dislike publicity, you can publish this letter and my name if you like."

Mistrot's Millinery Opening.

The millinery opening at Mistrot Bros. & Co.'s last Tuesday was a decided advance over anything of the kind ever before held in Dublin. The display was elegant beyond description and in extent would have done credit to a city many times larger than Dublin. Mrs. Over presides over this department of the store and the manner in which she did her part at the opening, as well as her continuous effort to please the customers of this most enterprising firm, is calculated to greatly increase the already large trade they enjoy. The new manager, B. Wright, formerly of Brownwood, is making a record for the force under him of uniform courtesy and promptness only equalled by similar large stores in the cities, and the popularity that is rapidly becoming a part of the Mistrot business here is largely due to his ability as a manager of such a stock and to his particular care to see that all patrons of the store are fairly treated. At the opening excellent music was furnished by a colored string band from Brownwood and every lady who attended have nothing but praise for the elegant manner in which the opening was conducted and the exceeding fine stock of new millinery that was shown.

Would Smash the Club.

If members of the "Hay Fever Association" would use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the club would go to pieces, for it always cures this malady, and asthma, the kind that baffles the doctors, it wholly drives from the system. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers from consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis, owe their lives and health to it. It conquers grip, saves little ones from croup and whooping cough and is positively guaranteed for all throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Overton Drug Co.

Miss Helen Crews left last Friday for Hico on her way to St. Louis, where she will meet her sister, Miss Simmie, who is returning from Washington City. They will visit friends in Missouri a short while before returning to Hamilton.—Hamilton Herald, March 19th.

The city election to occur next Tuesday is at present occupying considerable attention of candidates in particular and the people in general. As may be seen from the announcement column there are duel candidates for nearly every position and as all cannot be elected it is to be hoped that those most competent may be, and thus the best interests of the tax payer be served. The Progress will print tickets the evening before the election occurs, beginning about 4 o'clock, and a charge for names on the tickets of 25c will be made to those who have announced in the Progress and $1 to those who have not. All names must be paid for before being placed on the ticket, including announcement fees of those who have announced.

Several reports have come to the Progress during the past week of the wanton destruction of property and shameful desecration of the graves at both of the cemeteries in Dublin. In some of the cases shrubbery had been cut down even with the ground, in others blooming flowers had been plucked of every flower and bud and in one instance the likeness of a little girl was torn from the tombstone over her grave and carried away. Reasonably fair evidence has been secured of the identity of the unscrupulous and debased youngsters who have committed this outrage and it is to be hoped that the good people of Dublin who have opportunities to secure evidence against them will at once co-operate with the officers in a vigilant search that will result in the proper punishment of the guilty parties, if indeed there may be proper punishment for such an offense against not only the living but the dead. The children of parents who have no more moral or physical influence with them than that they should even think of desecrating the silent city of the dead should be taken in the hands of the law and placed where their moral wits may be sharpened.

Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DISEASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes. The purest and best people are sometimes infected with this awful malady through handling the clothing, drinking from the same vessels, using the same toilet articles, or otherwise coming in contact with persons who have contracted it.

It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, sores and ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes ulcerated, the hair, eye brows and lashes fall out; the blood becoming more contaminated, copper colored splotches and pustular eruptions and sores appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even destroys the bones.

Ten years ago I contracted a bad case of Blood Poison. I was under treatment of a physician until I found that he could do me no good. Then began taking S. S. S. I commenced to improve at once and in a very short time all evidence of the disease disappeared. I took six bottles and today am sound and well.
R. M. Wall, Morristown, Tenn.

S. S. S. is a Specific for this loathsome disease, and cures it even in the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that poliutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system. Unless you get this poison out of your blood it will ruin you, and bring disgrace and disease upon your children, for it can be transmitted from parent to child. S. S. S. contains no mercury or potash, but is guaranteed a strictly vegetable compound.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF ERATH.

I, J. F. Robinson, tax assessor and collector of the City of Dublin, Erath County, Texas, do hereby certify that the foregoing list of property returned as delinquent to the City of Dublin for the years as therein stated is a true and correct list, as shown by the records now on file in my office. Witness my hand this 6th day of March, 1902.

The millinery openings of the various stores in Dublin last Tuesday developed a considerable contest for supremacy in beauty of design of their respective stocks and of harmony in arrangement. Refreshments were served to the visitors at most of the openings and enchanting vocal and instrumental music was rendered. For elaborate display the millinery openings of this year in Dublin surpass all those of previous seasons and the latest perfections of the millinery art shown were superb and extravagant. The managers of the stores involved in the displays and their respective heads of the millinery departments deserve credit for the elegant show of new and tasteful goods in a becoming manner.

Messrs. Jessie Bird and M. C. Tarver of Theny were pleasant callers on the Progress last Saturday. The latter gentleman has only in the past week or more came to this state from Georgia. He is a young man and has come to the west to build his fortune and is looking for respectable employment until fall, at which time he expects to secure a position in some of the schools of the county. Mr. Tarver has been raised near Dalton, Ga., at which place the Crown Cotton Mills, recently spoken of by the Progress is located and he says that every word the Progress has had to say in regard to the dividends paid by that institution is correct.

C. B. Bassel, who has been employed for some time with the Appeal at Stephenville, passed through Dublin Wednesday en route to De Leon to spend a few days with relatives before leaving for El Paso with the expectation of accepting a position as local reporter on the Evening Herald at that place. Mr. Bassel is well and favorably know in Dublin and Erath county and wherever he may cast his lot he has the well wishes of numberless friends here in his home county.

The new schedule on the Frisco-Rio Grande went into effect last Sunday and a much larger "reception committee" than usually meets the train was on hand to see it come in. New engines and a new crew all round were on the two passenger trains and the hustling manner in which the trains came in and got away justifies the belief that the new combination will be a strictly business one.

Claude Patton Arrested.

The following item from the Comanche Exponent of yesterday will be of interest to many people in Dublin who will remember the gentleman spoken of as at one time being a citizen of this place:

"Claude Patton, a piano tuner, who married in Brownwood a few years ago, was arrested at Crowley, La., last week on a charge of bigamy. He left his wife and child in Texas and was recently married to a pretty young lady of Morgan City, La. The girl's mother was suspicious of Patton and had him arrested."

John Jordan has during the past year sold the enormous amount of 2734 pounds of the celebrated Chase & Sanborn coffee, as against 1487 pounds of the same goods the year before. It is the best coffee on the market. Try it and see if it isn't.44

The announcement of C. C. Goodner for city attorney of Dublin, mentioned last week as appearing in the proper column, was inadvertently left out, but it appears this week and special attention is hereby directed to the fact that he is a candidate.

Dr. J. M. Williamson of Stephenville was here Wednesday en route to Breckenridge in answer to a message desiring his professional service on account of the serious illness of Dr. Ritchie, who resides there but formerly lived in Stephenville.

The splendid work of Dr. King's New Life Pills is daily coming to light. No such grand remedy for liver and bowel troubles was ever known before. Thousands bless them for curing constipation, sick headache, biliousness, jaundice and indigestion. Try them, 25c at Overton Drug Co.

The Stephenville Empire last week contained a statement to the effect that the privilege of that paper to the second-class rate of postage had been cancelled by the post-office department, but the Empire failed to give the alleged reason of the department for this action, though denouncing the privilege withdrawal as unjust. The Progress sincerely hopes that the Empire may make matters right with the department, whose action is likely based upon some violation of the law by that paper in connection with its editor attempting to boom himself for senator through the abuse of the second-class privilege instead of paying the regular postage on his campaign circulars. Newspaper publishers, like everyone else, must be careful not to make any efforts to get the best of Uncle Sam.

Some two years ago, at a time when the water and light plant of this city could have been gotten at an insignificant price, the Progress advocated the purchase of the plants by the city and the Progress editor advocated it before the council. The wisdom of the suggestion is now apparent from the fact that every leading city or town in Texas is rapidly acquiring this most of all necessary of public utilities. It was then rejected because it was to some extent an untried matter in Texas, but now it will cost more in Dublin to attempt it.

When you wake up with a bad taste in your mouth you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse your stomach, improve your appetite and make you feel like a new man. They are easy to take, being sugar coated and pleasant in effect. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

Passing of a Good Citizen.

Dr. C. F. Ulmer, who has for many years been a highly respected citizen and practicing physician of Dublin, died at the family home in this city last Sunday morning and was buried with Masonic honors at the New Dublin cemetery at noon on the following day. He leaves a devoted wife and three children, the oldest of whom is Mrs. Geo. Raney of Dublin by his first marriage and Masters Marvin and Charles by his second union.

Dr. Charles Fillmore Ulmer was born in Saline county, Arkansas, near Benton, March 24th, 1857. His parents died at Pline Bluff, Arkansas March 11th and 12th, 1863, and immediately after he removed to Bell county, Texas; the next year to Lone Oak, Hunt county, remaining there until early in 1877 when he came to Dublin and has resided here or near here ever since, at various times teaching school at different points in the county and finally entering the practice of dentistry and later that of materia medica, in each of which he was successful in spite of his own physicial weakness. He was married May 29th, 1879 to Miss Josie Hickey, whose death occurred March 5th, 1884 and on March 12th, 1885 he was united in marriage to Miss Maggie Richards, who now survives him. Since July 1874 he has been a consistent member of the M. E. Church South and an ardent worker in all that pertained to the upbuilding of christianity and the material and moral welfare of the people among whom his lot was cast. Well may it be said of him that his life was one of purity and good work.

J. P. Roberson has recently repaired, remodelled and added to the old Moore wagon yard and placed it in the best condition it has ever been for the trade in that line. Mr. Roberson requests the patronage of the people and promises that those who stop at his yard will be properly treated in every respect and the best of attention accorded to their wants. 1t.

A Lizard's Remarkable Intelligence

Pet Tried to Save Its Master from Deadly Snake.

Stories of pet animals which have rendered some important service to their masters are not common. One is apt, however, to associate such services wieth creatures of a higher order of intelligence, and would hardly expect a lizard to play the part of monitor; but the Leisure Hour describes an interesting incident of that kind which happened in Australia.

A gold-digger had tamed a bright-eyed Australian lizard, which made his headquarters in the miners' tent, and was an object of interest and attention on the part of all the men in camp.

On the march he made his home in his master's serge blouse, running up the arm of the loose garment, or round the full front above the tight waistband, as fancy took him. When the camp was pitched for the night, he employed himself by making the most careful inspection of the immediate surroundings within and without the tent. He made himself acquainted with every stone, turf, stump or hole within what he considered his domain, eventually retiring with the sun, to the blanket on his master's bed, where he invariably slept.

On one occasion he became restless during the night, and began to run rapidly backward and forward over his master's face, making at the same time a low, spitting noise, like that of an angry cat. By this means he at length aroused the sleeper, who gently pushed him away several times, speaking soothingly in the hope of quieting the excited creature.

But the lizard would not be soothed; on the contrary, having attracted attention, he continued his rapid movements, until at length his master, convinced that something was wrong, got up, struck a light, and looked around the tent. The sharp eyes of the lizard followed every movement with intense interest.

Nothing unusual could be seen, and the miner lay down again. He was scarcely asleep, however, before the lizard waked him again, and losing patience, he seized the creature and in the darkness tossed him from the bed across the tent.

In his involuntary flight the little animal struck the tent-pole with considerable force, and half of his tail was broken off—a matter of no very great importance to a lizard, perhaps, but still a discouraging reward for a well-meant warning. Nevertheless, the maimed little reptile returned to the bed, kept close to his master, and continued restless and excited all the rest of the night.

At daybreak, when the tents were struck, and the bedding rolled up, ready to be placed on the cart, the mystery was explained. In the scrub and fern thrown underneath the bedding, to keep it from the bare ground, a huge tiger snake with several young ones was discovered.

The tiger snake is of a kind much feared by the colonists, and, like most snakes, has a pronounced odor, which, no doubt, had made the lizard aware of its presence. It had probably crept into the tent after the lizard had made its evening inspection of the premises.

OCEAN LOSING REPUTATION

Mariners Beginning to Dread the Pacific as Much as Atlantic.

The Pacific ocean is fast losing the reputation implied in the name given to it by Magellan, and which it owes to the placid appearance of its surface when he first saw it. The change is one of the inevitable results of the growth of commerce. Prior to the discovery of gold in California comparatively few vessels sailed over its waters. There were, therefore, few casualties to report. In late years, however, commerce has extended in all directions. The ocean is filling with ships, and the disasters of the sea are multiplying proportionately.

Along the California coast the ocean is placid enough to retain its reputation as pacific. Storms are rare. It is not often that its waters are lashed into fury like those of the Atlantic in these latitudes. But along the Oregon, Washington and British Columbian and Alaskan coasts there is little if any difference between the conditions prevailing in the Pacific from those existing in the Atlantic ocean. Mariners now dread Cape Flattery, at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca, almost if not quite as much as they do Cape Hatteras, on the eastern coast. Wrecks are lining the northwestern coast of the continent as they do the northeastern shores of it.

As the Pacific ocean is gradually filling with the white-winged and steam-propelled agents of commerce the ratio of shipwrecks is correspondingly rising. Perhaps there have been more wrecks on the Pacific coast than should have been experienced if the same precautions against disaster had been adopted in the navigation of Pacific waters as are taken in the Atlantic ocean. The Pacific has undoubtedly been made the graveyard of many steam and sail vessels which were transferred to it from the Atlantic ocean because they were not considered safe to keep in commission in the latter, under the mistaken belief that milder weather and smoother water were to be found here. Others have been lost through the vicious practice of overloading, the risk being taken on account of the same error of opinion regarding the placidity of these waters. Shipowners are, however, fast learning, says the San Francisco Chronicle, that rotten hulks and over-loaded craft are not any more immune from disaster here than they are anywhere else. The growth of commerce and the increasing perils of navigation resulting from it demand the abandonment of both.

The Forbidden Land

Travelers Learn Little of the Wonderful Country of Tibet.

"Adventures in Tibet," written by William Carey and published by the United States Society of Christian Endeavor, is the latest work dealing with the most mysterious of all lands. It is very interesting and instructive and well illustrated with many photographs.

Mr. Carey himself spent many months in Tibet gathering information. He also describes the astonishing journey through the country made by Miss Annie R. Taylor with nothing but native servants. She passed within three days of Lhasa, the forbidden city, and narrowly escaped with her life.

The lamas or monks rule Tibet, says Mr. Carey. A hundred, or a thousand, or even five thousand of them, may be herded together, if not exactly under one roof, yet in one great building, whose ramifications root themselves like a fortress in the rocks, and whose walls and windows frown upon the surrounding fields.

The rest of the timid Tibetans huddle in huts at the monastery gates, or till the soil and tend their flocks that the lamas may live at ease. Deeper than the roots of the lamaseries sink into the rocks has the power of the lamas lodged in the hearts of the people. Every family has at least one representative in the cloisters. Often there are two, and not seldom three. It has been reckoned that every sixth person of the entire population is either a lama or a lama novitiate.

The only education is monkish; the only architecture that of the temples and monasteries, which seem to grow out of the craggy heights on which they are perched; the one universal and unceasing religious rite is the twirling of a "prayer wheel" and the mumbling of a meaningless sentence. The lama holds the people in the hollow of his hand, and many forces meet in that magnetic and masterful grip.

If you think you are a martyr, don't inscribe it on your door plate.

A Disagreement.

Not many years ago when he was a young lawyer, Congressman Watson of Indiana, was one of the attorneys in a suit over a pig. Judge Goodrich, subsequently chairman of the Republican state committee, was on the other side, and the case was before a portly magistrate of the name of Reverdy Puckett, who was running as a candidate for mayor of Winchester. "Puckett," said Mr. Watson to him one afternoon, before the case came up for trial, "I must win this suit. If I don't I will fight you for mayor; I'll fight you to a finish."

Goodrich also got the magistrate's ear with a similar appeal and threat, he and Watson having arranged the matter between them to get some fun out of the situation.

"The day before the primary," says Mr. Watson, in concluding the story, "Goodrich and I thought we would go around to Puckett's office and ascertain how we stood. He was absent when we called, but his docket lay wide open on the desk. We couldn't help looking at it. There in the boldest characters we could write were the words:

" 'Disagreed, by thunder.'

"There was no jury in the case, but that little matter hadn't bothered Puckett."

Evil Effects of Wood Alcohol.

Wood alcohol is gaining an ill repute all its own. Dr. H. Moulton has pointed out to the American Medical association that no other known substance when swallowed so uniformly selects for attack the optic nerve and retina, and in thirty cases of poisoning from it reported in two or three years, fifteen have resulted in total blindness.

How Successful Farmers Operate This Department of the Farm—A Few Hints as to the Care of Live Stock and Poultry.

Fertility of Eggs.

From Farmers' Review: Hatching season is either now with, or soon will be with, poultry raisers, the time depending upon surroundings; and the fertility of eggs is the needful thing; the way to secure fertile eggs is a way all wish to know. Some say a good per cent of fertile eggs is not to be had if the fowls are confined to a limited range, but we have had and have known others to have a 95 per cent of fertile eggs from yarded fowls. Last year ours had a limited (very) range, the yard in which six pullets, two hens and one cockerel were confined being about two rods square, and in this enclosure the roosting room and scratch shed were placed.

You may say, the per cent of fertile eggs was good, but perhaps the whole number of eggs was small. No, the average from the eight hens from the 15th of February to the last of May was 6½ eggs per day; a higher average than we were able to get from the outside hens. The average would doubtless have been higher if we could have secured fresh meat at all times for them. We fed a mash of wheat bran, mixed stiff with kitchen scraps and salty dishwater of a morning; about a quart of mash; at noon wheat or oats was scattered among leaves in the scratch shed; at night a quart of shelled corn was thrown among the leaves.

Nothing pleases hens better than to dig up fresh moist earth for them, and I think there is nothing healthier. Green food, cut grass, rye and wheat was fed them every day—all they would eat; but the way confined hens enjoy their green meal the best is to place a slab of sod in their pen, or even pull up large tufts of grass.

No need to fear infertile eggs from yarded fowls if you will pen only healthy fowls. Give a variety of food; induce exercise, and keep quarters clean. I prefer a yearling cockerel to an older male. Whatever age the head of the pen must be in the very pink of perfection as regards health and vigor. One should have not more than eight hens to one male of the larger breeds; several more hens may be mated to a male if of the small breeds. Our chicks were B. P. Rocks.

Gather the eggs every day. Keep in an even temperature, several degrees above freezing; turn every day and you may keep them three weeks; then set and receive good hatches as far as the age of the eggs is concerned. It will probably take from 15 to 24 hours longer to hatch them. The above care applies equally as well to setting eggs from range fowls, or any other poultry. If you would once try the plan of selecting eight or a dozen of your best hens, mating with a No. 1 cockerel, yarding and using these eggs to hatch from, you would never try other ways. —Emma Clearwaters.

Water in Butter.

Prof. G. L. McKay of Iowa, after a visit to Europe, had this to say about water in butter:

No subject interests me more than water. I tested a lot of butter in England for moisture, and the driest butter I found was from New Zealand, some of it running down to about eight per cent. Danish butter averages about fifteen per cent. Russia was very irregular, some very fine, but a good deal of it had a rank flavor. It will get over that after awhile, however, and I believe that Russia will come to the front rapidly. Some of the highest selling butter was the French two pound unsalted rolls. My experience with the Irish butter is that it lacks body, which results largely from the fact that it is churned at a high temperature. It contains lots of water, some samples testing twenty to twenty-five per cent moisture. This question is now before the English parliament, and it seems probable that it will be settled on the basis of about fifteen to sixteen per cent water.

It has been a great problem to me that the Danish butter has a higher percentage of water than ours has, yet at the same time it has a mealy, dry appearance. Investigation showed that their method of churning and working was peculiar. The churning is done at a moderately high temperature and the butter comes soft. It is dropped at once into cold water and then put on the table and worked three-quarters of a minute, after which it is again put in cold water for a moment, then brought back and worked from one to one and a quarter minutes. This makes only two minutes of working. When finished it is packed into kegs for the market. It is said that this method is used to get the buttermilk out and have it clear, but it is probably intended to work the water into the butter as well. Danish butter will average five per cent more water than ours and yet does not show it.

Poultry Briefs.

Eggs for hatching should be comparatively fresh. That is, they should not be over ten days old, though some hatchable eggs are over three weeks old when they go under the hen or into the incubator. At this time of year it is easier to keep eggs in a condition for setting than it will be later in the season when the heat is greater. Eggs should be kept at between 40 and 50 degrees if they are to be kept for some weeks before being used. This is a difficult thing to do unless the arrangement be very perfect. The natural temperature of the earth is about 55 degrees, and this is probably as near an ideal temperature as we can get for our eggs. We can give them to a considerable extent the temperature of the earth.

* * *

Now that the spring is coming and with it all kinds of germs, the drinking vessels of the fowls should be looked after. Wooden vessels are not ideal for many reasons. If they are made of staves they shrink and swell with the supply of moisture and often drop to pieces when they are neglected. Then, too, they gather slime, which may or may not be a detriment. Iron vessels of all kinds tend to corrode and perhaps the rust is not the best thing that can be given fowls. Drinking vessels of stone are ideal. They never shrink with the dry weather and they never rust. Moreover, they are easily cleaned. Well-glazed drinking vessels are therefore preferable to all others.

* * *

It is a poor economy that leads to the purchase of musty and even moldy feed for the fowls. When grain is spoiled too much for any other use it is the practice to try to save it by feeding it to the poultry. It is charged by fanciers that musty grain is a fruitful source of sickness. We cannot prove the point, but we are ready to accept it on its face. It is now well established that some of the smuts and moulds are poisonous in their character. Especially is this the case with oat smut. Other smuts have been little examined with this point in view. Until they are proved to be innocuous let us feed our fowls only healthful grain.

Pure Breds Most Profitable.

We continually meet people who tell us that the crosses are far superior to the purebred cattle for dairy purposes. Against that we have the fact that all the great records ever made have been from purebred cattle, carefully bred for many generations. Thus we have three purebred cows belonging to the Duke of Westminster, that gave 1,10[illegible] gallons, 1,110 gallons and 1,448 gallons respectively, in twelve months; this last one being at the rate of almost sixteen quarts a day the whole year through. All dairymen will know as a fact, as well as all breeders of any kind of stock that if you breed from crossbreds you can never tell what the result will be. It may take after its sire, dam, great-grandsire or even further.

We are not by any means advising dairymen to go to the expense of purchasing a purebred herd right off, but what we would strive to impress upon each and all is to use only purebred bulls in their herds. See that the bull is from a good milking strain, even if you have to give a seemingly big price for him. His cost will be nothing compared to the herd when the heifers begin to come in. The only sure way to get together a really good herd is to breed it. You will have to buy the best you can to start with; then pick out your cows according to how they turn out, and have the heifer calves from the best, making sure that the bull is from a milking strain and purebred. By doing this, in a few years you can get together a really good herd, and, by judicious culling every year it will be improving and the average yield gradually rising. The best investment that can be made for a dairy farm is a good bull. Even with poor cows to start with, no man need despair of getting a fair herd together if he can only obtain a milking strain on the sire's side. It is then only a matter of time and careful selection.—West Australian Settlers' Handbook.

Feeding Corn Stalks.

From Farmers' Review: I feed my stalks whole for the reason there are not enough huskers and shredders in this vicinity. I always cut my corn before the frost and before they dry up standing. I would always husk and shred if I could get a machine to do the work at the right time. I feed about three bundles of fodder per day. The bundles are about four to a shock eight hills square—sometimes five. I never thought there was much nourishment in the butts, of course. When they are not cut or shredded they are left. I raise 30 or 40 acres yearly. I winter from one to two hundred sheep on them yearly—Howard Lobdell, Van Buren County, Michigan.

Beets for Dairy Cows.

From Farmers' Review: My three years' experience in raising beets at the state public school has been very satisfactory in results. They are an excellent conditioner, and fed judiciously with grain, chopped feed and bran I consider good—one-half beets, one-fourth bran, one-fourth chopped feed results in a greater flow of milk of superior quality. I am not prepared to answer in regard to the money profit of beets fed alone, as we have never fed them without grain. We consider the Golden Tankard the most desirable kind to raise.—B. F. Clisby, Branch County, Michigan.

Kruger's Abode in Holland.

Mr. Kruger's new abode is called Oranjelust. It is separated from the high road by an iron trellis and it stands in a small garden planted with bushes and with a piece of rockwork in the center. All around tulips have been planted in such a way that their blooms will produce the "Vierkleur," or Transvaal flag, just under Oom Paul's window.

If people could be induced to bring their lungs to the level of their living the world would be a good deal quieter.

THE WIDOW BARTLE[TT]

By EDGAR WELTON COOLEY

"Perhaps the most baffling job I ever undertook," said the old secret service man, "was running to earth what was known as 'the Hamilton gang.'

"For several months the states of the middle west had been flooded with counterfeit five, ten and twenty dollar bills of a most ingenious make. So nearly perfect were they that they were considered exceedingly dangerous, and to myself and three assistants was assigned the task of capturing the gang.

"Well, we finally succeeded in tracing the counterfeits to the village of Hamilton, in one of the states bordering on the Mississippi river. We also learned that the gang consisted of at least three men, and obtained a very accurate description of one, a partial description of another, and an exceeding vague and unsatisfactory description of the third. However, we felt confident of their capture, having once traced them to Hamilton, but we soon found we had congratulated ourselves too soon.

"We had been in Hamilton but a few hours when we became convinced that the place was what we termed 'a pious town'—that is, that the citizens were law-abiding and honest and that if a 'mint' was operated in their midst it was probably without their knowledge, certainly without their assistance.

"When this fact became clear to us, I called upon the village constable, the only officer of which the town boasted, and questioned him closely relative to any men answering the descriptions in my possession. He was certain he had never seen any such individuals in the town, although he had heard of the counterfeits which I mentioned—in fact, he had seen several of them. But he felt positive they were not manufactured in or near Hamilton.

"I was, of course, positive they were, and with the constable's assistance, began a most careful and systematic search for the men wanted or any clew that might enable us to locate their 'den.'

"Three months passed without result, although I was notified that a new batch of the counterfeits had been 'floated.' I began to fear I had made a mistake and that the 'bogus' did not eminate from Hamilton after all. So I went carefully over my work, only to reach the same conclusion: the counterfeiters must have their headquarters in Hamilton. But who were they?

"The town was literally flooded with bad money. In fact, it seemed to be the only currency of those denominations in circulation in the village. I was puzzled. Either the entire population of the town was in league with the gang, or else——

"Then an inspiration struck me. I called upon the several storekeepers in the village.

" 'Who is your best cash customer?' I asked.

"One and all made the same reply, without hesitation:

" 'Widow Bartlett.'

" 'Who is the Widow Bartlett?'

" 'She is the wealthiest woman in the county,' they said. 'Her husband has been dead twenty years. He left her a big estate. She keeps here money in the bank, and resides in that big brick house on the hill. She is a recluse; no one ever visits her.'

"Does she make her purchases in person or through a servant?' I asked. 'In person,' they said.

" 'Pay with currency or checks?'

" 'In currency, always.'

"I went to the bank.

" 'How much money has the Widow Bartlett on deposit here?' I asked.

" 'About ten thousand dollars,' was the answer.

" 'Does she draw out much?'

" 'Hasn't drawn out any for several months—nearly a year.'

"I called upon the village constable."

"I called in my assistants and summoned the constable.

" 'I have a clew,' I said. 'The party who floats this bad money is the Widow Bartlett.'

"The constable was astonished. 'Impossible,' he said.

" 'Nevertheless,' said I, 'we will raid her house to-night.'

"About 10 o'clock we surrounded the two-story residence of the widow. The house was dark; there was no sound within. I rang the bell vigorously several times, but there was no response.

" 'She must be away from home,' I remarked to the constable."

THE TRUTH AT LAST

REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER TALKS TOO OPENLY ON THE TARIFF.

High Protective Tax Should Be of Benefit to the Whole American People—Why There Is Opposition to the Isthmian Canal.

The New York Press, Republican, enters vigorous protest against the proposition that the tariff duties on Cuban sugar be reduced. The Press says:

"If the American people on sentimental grounds think they ought to give Cuba $40,000,000 this year or every year, let them go down into the pockets of all the American people for the gift, and not into the pockets of a few interests selected for proscription and spoliation. If Gov. Wood or President Roosevelt or anybody else wants Santa Claus to stuff forty millions into Cuba's Christmas stocking, why in the name of American industries and American decency should the forty millions be filched from two or three stockings in the fireplaces of American homes? Why not from all?"

Republican papers have all along told us that the foreigner pays the tax and that a high protective tariff is to the interest of the American people, rather than of special benefit to any one concern. This being true, then the abolition of all tariff on Cuban sugar would be equivalent to "going down into the pockets of all the American people for the gift."

If, however, the Press is justified in saying that by the abolition or reduction of the tariff on Cuban sugar $40,000,000 would be filched from "two or three stockings in the fireplaces of American homes," then the question naturally arises, how does it happen that the Republican party has persistently advocated a tariff policy that would place $40,000,000 in "two or three of the stockings in the fireplaces of American homes?"

And if a tariff on sugar would mean $40,000,000 for "two or three stockings in the fireplaces of American homes," does not this fact raise the suspicion that, after all, the American people, rather than the foreigner, have been paying the tax?

Whence comes this $40,000,000 that will be filched from "two or three stockings in the fireplaces of American homes?"

Is it paid by the foreign producers of sugar to the American manufacturer or does it represent the amount "filched" by the proprietors of the "two or three stockings in the fireplaces of American homes—"filched" from the great mass of American sugar consumers, and "filched" by reason of the Republican tariff laws?—The Commoner.

The Isthmian Canal.

It is evident that the transportation lines are opposed to the construction of any isthmian canal, and it is fair to assume that they are behind the Panama route, not because they prefer that route, but for the reason that agitation in its behalf gives the best promise for the most delay. It is significant that the offer of the Panama canal stockholders was not made until it seemed certain that the Nicaraguan route would be adopted by the lower house of congress. Having considered the points in favor of the Panama route, the canal commission, that recently made its report, approved the Nicaraguan route. It seems that those who have been most earnest in advocating the construction of a canal are practically unanimous in favor of the Nicaraguan route, while the present advocates of the Panama canal are largely made up of those who have been opposed to any canal at all. It is to be hoped that the Nicaraguan bill will be pushed through the senate at an early day. The American people are very generally in favor of an isthmian canal and the Nicaraguan plan offers the best method of a prompt realization of a very popular plan.

Poor Use for Public Money.

A few visionaries are still pleading for a national endowed theater in this country, to be established within a few years. No institution of this kind is in the least likely to be founded in the United States in this generation. The Yankee is in the main a hard-headed, shrewd, practical man. What dramatic art he considers worth supporting he will support individually, but he will surely not consent to be taxed for the maintenance of any playhouse as an appanage of the entire body politic, not at least until he suffers a race change into something new and strange. He is too self-centered and independent for that.

Something for Farmers to Ponder.

Prince Henry is coming, but the reichstag goes on with its plans to pay us off in our own tariff coin. Its tariff committee accepted the clause of the new bill providing that, in the absence of treaty stipulations, the same rates of duty shall be applied to foreign goods as are enforced in the country of their origin against "similar German goods." Do our western farmers know what this means? It means Dingley rates clapped upon American wheat and bacon and pork seeking a market in Germany.

Not the Party of Lincoln.

Nothing is plainer than that the Republican party has gradually forsaken all the ancient landmarks held sacred by its founders. No one can conceive of a doubt being entertained by Abraham Lincoln as to the fundamental truth that all men were created with equal rights, nor as to the possibility of one man's governing another without his consent. But those who now proclaim these truths are sneered at by representative Republicans as "small Americans."

Capt. Green's Original Notion.

If Congress would only open up the Philippines to syndicate exploitation, says Capt. Frank Green of the Manila chamber of commerce, American capital would flow in "in large quantities, as well as many American miners and homestead seekers." About the flow of capital there is little question, but it is a queer stroke of fancy which sees a rush of homestead seekers from this climate into a country already more densely populated than most of our states.

Rogues Awake, Honest Men Asleep.

The trouble is that the majority of the citizens are not practical in their politics. The so-called practical politician is one that never forgets his selfish interests. If all citizens were similarly attentive to their own interests, which depend on the welfare of the city, they would be scrupulous in all the duties of citizenship and on election day would bear in mind that they are voting for men who will conduct the business of the voters.

Trusts Laugh at Law.

Much has been said and written about regulating trusts by law, and there are said to be laws sufficient to control the trusts provided the laws are enforced. However this may be trusts seem to thrive on law and it begins to appear that they are more likely to control laws than laws are to control trusts. Take the tariff protection for instance; that kind of law is as good for a trust as corn is for a lean hog.

The Autocrat of Congress.

The speaker of the House of Representatives is the worst autocrat in the federal government, and those over whom he exercises autocratic power are the men who are to blame. The House has surrendered its rights. The leaders of the majority have been trained to obedience. The speaker not only appoints the committees, but he practically makes the rules.

Entitled to Some Relief.

The American people feel that they are being heavily taxed, through the tariff, for the benefit of the steel trust and similar combinations, and in their opinion they are not only entitled to be exempt from any increase in prices, but should reap the benefit of any and all reductions which may be made for the foreign trade.

Cost of Imperialism.

The cost of the national government has gradually increased until now it amounts to $12 per capita. Republicanism and imperialism come high, but if the people will have them they must pay the bill. When hard times come and each family has to put up $60, they will wish "that they hadn't gone and done it."

Iowa Strong for Reform.

The most remarkable thing about the discussion of the tariff question in its new phase in Iowa is that the rural Republican press is almost unanimously in favor of revision. A few post-office organs oppose, but nearly every untrammeled editor has spoken out in meeting.

Have Assimilated Our System.

Reports that the Havana election returns show some eight times as many votes as the number of people who really voted are evidently designed to demonstrate that the Havana people have assimilated our system clear up to the machine methods of Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

Mystery to the Taxpayer.

It is hard for the American taxpayer to understand why salaries paid by the government should be increased in order to maintain the extravagance incident to social life in Washington. Why should a judge or Congressman or a cabinet officer be a heavy swell and do swell things all the time?

What Did They Get?

The dispatches report that "a Filipino leader and a large number of followers gave up their arms unconditionally." They will now rate as among our "best citizens" in the orient. The amount of bonus they received for giving up their guns is not stated.

An Egregious Error.

The mistake that certain Republican statesmen make and which they have always been disposed to make is in taking it for granted that their party and the country is synonymous. They are not so by a good deal.

A Pointer for Cuba.

If Cuba is wise she will cease her clamor for tariff concessions, enact a prohibitive tariff law and tax herself onto the top wave of prosperity, as we are told the United States has done.

Up to the People.

It is certainly quite plain that if the people want the predatory combines checked or regulated they will have to look to some other source than the Republican party, under its present control.

How About This?

Have you of late noticed any Republican editors remarking that "trade follows the flag?" They are perhaps absent-mindedly thinking over 1901 trade reports from the Philippines.

Improvement in Ohio.

With the increase of Mr. Foraker's influence in Ohio, as opposed to Mr. Hanna's, the word "boodle" has given place to "commercialism," which is, at least, more euphonious.

TEXAS BANKERS.

The Eighteenth Annual Session Held at the Island City.

Galveston, Tex., March 21.—From every point of view the opening session of the eighteenth annual convention of the Texas Bankers' association, which was called to order Thursday morning, marked the beginning of the most notable meeting ever held in the history of the association. There was a larger number of delegates present than at any of the seventeen previous meetings, and the scope and significance of the work outlined were greater. Although only half finished, the assemblange is certain to be regarded in the commercial circles of the state as a distinct event.

There were seated in the hall 330 delegates, besides members of their families, representative citizens of Galveston, visiting Texas bankers and banking men from the west, north and the east and from southern cities outside of Texas.

It was at first intended that there should be two sessions, on in the morning and one in the afternoon. However, it was decided to dispense with the afternoon session and to continue the morning meeting until the dinner hour.

The opening prayer was by Rev. William H. Harris.

Hon. William T. Austin, president of the board of city commissioners, welcomed the convention on behalf of the city and T. J. Groce, president of the Galveston Clearinghouse association, on behalf of the local bankers. The response to the address of welcome was made by Hon. Jonathan Lane of Houston. In the annual address of the president, H. P. Hilliard, of Austin, the work of the past year was reviewed at length and plans for the future given in detail.

DESPERATE DEED.

Salut d the Fireman, Turned His Back and Dropped to Death.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—News reaches El Paso of the terrible means employed by a Deming, N. M., man in committing self-destruction. Lying before a northbound Santa Fe passenger train, his life was crushed out in a moment and his body ground into an almost unrecognizable pulp.

The suicide's name was R. J. Hendra, aged 30 years, a carpenter. Hiding himself in the underbrush, near the south end of the railroad yards, Hendra remained in seclusion until the train had approached to within fifty yards of his place of concealment. Then he stepped out on the track, looked at the fireman and raising his hand as if in careless salutation, turned his back to the oncoming train, dropped to the track, and the engine and cars did the rest.

Did Not Succeed.

Longview, Tex. March 21.—While the sheriff at Carthage was busy directing his officers in the chase after the negro who assaulted the white woman several miles from Carthage, an effort was made to get Lewis Solomon, a negro, out of the Panola county jail. The effort was unsuccessful, though the doors to jail were badly battered. Solomon escaped from the Longview jail first of the year, at which time he was on his way to penitentiary to serve twenty years.

Judge Reagan Improves.

Austin, Tex., March 21.—Good news was received from Palestine in regard to Judge John H. Reagan's condition, especially that he had banished the idea that he could not recover, which has so militated against him. The news came in a note from Mrs. Reagan to Commissioner Storey, which reads as follows:

"Judge Reagan has improved much in the last two or three days."

It is now believed the judge will recover rapidly and be strong enough to attend the reunion at Dallas.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Lake Charles, La., March 21.—A. E. Batson was arraigned in the district court, and in response to the indictment charging him with the murder of the Earl family he entered a plea of not guilty. He was remanded to jail to await trial, which will probably take place during the week beginning April 14, and a special petit jury has been ordered drawn.

Batson was cool and betrayed no nervousness when arraigned in crowded courtroom.

Bond Proposition Carried.

Galveston, Tex., March 21.—Official returns from all of the fifteen voting precincts in the city give a total of 2650 votes in favor of the bond tax for the sea wall and only three votes against it. The required two-thirds of all taxpaying voters is 2146.

Unofficial reports from twelve out of fourteen precincts in the county give 435 votes for and 18 against, making total heard from 3085 for and 21 against.

A Printer Greatly Surprised.

"I never was so much surprised in my life, as I was with the result of using Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says Henry T. Crook, pressman of the Ashville (N. C.) Gazette. "I contracted a severe case of rheumatism early last winter by getting my feet wet. I tried several things for it without benefit. One day while looking over the Gazette, I noticed that Pain Balm was positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, so bought a bottle of it and before using two thirds of it my rheumatism has taken its flight and I have not had a rheumatic pain since." The question of municipal ownership of the water and light plant of the town of Denton, where the Industrial school was located, will control the city election there next Tuesday. The people are demanding that those who want to be city officials shall show some practical good for their pay and honors and think this question of municipal ownership ahead of all other matters of interest to the citizens. It is reasonably safe to say that city ownership candidates will be elected by good majorities and that the people will be pleased with the outcome if these elected carry out their pledges.

MISTROT BROS. & COMPANY

ALWAYS HAVE IT FOR LESS MONEY!

Remember, no matter at what price you find goods at other places, Mistrot has it for less money. We always want the chance to show our goods.

OUR BIG OPENING SALE

Is causing a great consternation among economical buyers. The people who want to save money always trade at Mistrot's. The big crowds daily taking advantage of this sale rejoice at the low prices now offered in Seasonable Merchandise. Remember, at Mistrot's you will always find goods strictly as advertised and that we are never "just out."

We Save You the Middleman's Profit.

Our Business Proposition: Wholesale Prices Direct to the Consumer.

We are better prepared this season than ever before to save you money on your purchases with the largest and most complete stock ever shown in this section, all new, desirable goods of this season's manufacture.

Why do Mistrot Bros. & Co. Always Undersell?

Because They Always Underbuy.

Mistrot Bros. & Co.'s big advantage over the smaller concerns explains the situation and why they are in a position always to undersell.

Actual Facts that Defy Contradiction

Mistrot Bros. & Co.'s big advantages over the smaller concerns with a capital of over Two Million Dollars with the natural advantages of having the Spot Cash to pay for goods (when other concerns are in a pinch and vainly trying to stretch their credit) was in a position to dictate prices to manufacturers at a time when they needed the actual cash in exchange for their output. Unlike the smaller concerns this season, not only in Dublin but all over the state who are in a pinch, all trying to strain their credit to buy a few goods from St. Louis jobbers at Long Prices.

The Prices, Goods and Quality Talk. These are our Most Convincing Arguments.

An inspection of our immense stock of New Merchandise and Low Prices will convince the most skeptical of these actual facts of our assertion and the reason why Mistrot always undersells.

OVER $40,000 STOCK DRY GOODS, CLOTHING, SHOES

on han to supply your wants. Unlike the smaller concerns we don't limit you to the time or the quantity you should buy. Everything goes. Read our price list and brin it with you to the store.
