Houston Millionaire Cited In Contempt Charges By Wichita Falls Court

Iowa Park Bank Petitions District Judge to Call Texas Capitalist

REFUSES TO ANSWER

$7,000 Debt Suit Leads To Action Involving Noted Financier

O. R. Seagraves, millionaire Houston capitalist, president of the United Gas company and the Mission Drilling company, Monday morning was cited to appear in the 89th district court here on July 15 to answer contempt charges growing out of his alleged refusal to answer questions put to him in the course of depositions authorized by the court.

The order was signed by Judge P. A. Martin upon a petition presented for the First State bank at Iowa Park, plaintiff in garnishment proceedings brought against George E. Smith.

Answers Declined

According to the petition read to Judge Martin, Mr. Seagraves declined to answer questions in connection with the business relations between Smith and the oil and drilling companies of which Seagraves is the head. The depositions had been authorized in connection with an effort of the bank to collect a $7,000 judgment against Smith awarded in 1921, according to A. C. Golden, president of the bank.

The petition asking that the capitalist be cited for contempt was signed by Conrad J. Landrum, Houston attorney representing the Iowa Park bank. It asserted that Mr. Seagraves had declined "point blank" to reply to questions designed to show what interest Smith might have in the extensive Moody-Seagraves holdings.

Papers Mailed

The papers involved in the case were sent through the mail and were read to Judge Martin by Mrs. A. W. Eichelberger, deputy district clerk, Monday morning. The order was signed and sent out at once, calling for a hearing on Monday of next week.

Fliers Land Safely Without 'Prop' After Changing Landing Gear In Air

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8. (UP)—Four Atlanta fliers told a story today of a hair breadth escape 1,000 feet above the ground.

Somebody remarked to Pilot Beeler Blevins and parachute artist, Bonnie Rowe, that there was one thing you couldn't change in the air, and that was a landing gear.

So Blevins and Rowe went aloft yesterday in an old Curtiss "Jenny" to show that the trick merely had not yet been done.

Above them as assistants, flew Mackay Solenberger and W. C. Striplin in another biplane.

A thousand feet up, Rowe climbed out of the cockpit of the Jenny and hanging by his feet from a wing, pulled off a wheel and tossed it back into the cockpit. He then signalled Striplin in the plane above to lower another wheel.

Striplin lifted the wheel over the side of the plane on a rope and began to lower it. A gust of wind caught the rope and flung it into the propeller of the plane beneath smashing the blades and dragging the planes together. Striplin, hanging head down, cut the rope with his pocket knife.

The planes veered apart again, leaving Blevins at the stick of a propellerless plane, on the wing of which hung Rowe. Blevins headed for a cotton field and glided slowly Rowe climbed up, pulled the wheel out of the cockpit and worked desperately to replace it.

A hundred feet above the ground he finished fastening the wheel and slid back on the wing as Blevins glided to a perfect landing.

Visiting Elks Derive Great Thrill From Earthquake at Los Angeles

Tremor Does Little Damage and Takes No Lives; City's 'Soft Jointed' Tower Withstands Shakeup

LOS ANGELES, July 8. (US)—Although providing thrills for Elks attending the national convention here, the earth tremors which shook Los Angeles and neighboring towns this morning caused no material damage and no casualties.

Reports stated that with the exception of a few chimneys toppled over in Whittier, where the shocks appear to have been strongest, and several plate glass windows cracked in that town and nearby Santa Ana, the damage was virtually nil in other communities.

Four Shocks Recorded

Seismographs at the California institute of technology at Pasadena, and at Point Loma, San Diego, recorded four shocks. The first tremor was at 8:44 a. m. It was an east and west movement. Ten seconds later it was followed by a movement in the same direction. The third shake came at 8:46 a. m. and was a slight north and south movement. Another east and west quiver was recorded at 8:47 a. m.

Plaster was shaken from the ceiling of the Security Trust and Savings bank at Long Beach.

Local radio broadcasting stations experienced some difficulty from water-jacket tubes being broken. Electric clocks were stopped in several Southern California cities.

Tower Stands Strain

Los Angeles' new city hall tower, the first in the United States to be constructed with movable joints, satisfactorily passed the test of the tremblors reported A. C. Martin, one of the architects designing the building.

"Although the vibration in the top of the tower was quite pronounced, we failed to find a single crack in the exterior walls of the building," said Martin, who made an inspection of the building immediately following the tremors.

The fact that nearly all tile buildings of more than 15 stories are cracked by wind strain and earth movements led to the use of "soft joints" throughout the masonry of the tower, Martin explained. These joints permit movement without placing undue strain on the tile.

Although the shock was almost as pronounced as far south as Santa Ana as in the Los Angeles district, it was not noticeable in San Diego.

Santa Barbara and Ventura reported that the tremors were unnoticed there. No tidal disturbance accompanied the shake, beach communities reported.

City Council Drops Program For Traffic Lights at Schools Here

Proposed traffic signal lights at street intersections near school buildings will be eliminated in the city's safety program, it was decided at the city council meeting Monday night at the Memorial auditorium. The proposal for installing the signals was made recently by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, who had plans for 21 additional traffic lights at various busy intersections, including nine at various grade school crossings.

This decision was made following the hearing of a report from the school board which indicated its preference of having police officers personally direct the children at the crossings, as has been the custom in the past. It was pointed out that motorists in an attempt to "beat the red light" might speed up near the intersection and strike children who were crossing. Other objections of the board were that children might not understand fully the working of the lights and might attempt to cross against the stop signal.

Action on the installation of the remainder of the proposed signals will be taken in the near future, members of the council stated. These additional lights would be placed at several intersections in the downtown district and at important crossings on Brook avenue, according to Mr. Fairtrace's proposal.

It was also proposed at the meeting that the city purchase a plat of ground at the east end of Fourth street, belonging to the Baer estate, for the purpose of opening a new passage for traffic going out the Byers road to the Turkey Bend farming country.

An ordinance providing for an appropriation of $700 to be used in payment for the services of the members of the city board of equalization which met recently was passed on the third reading.

Selection of the street marker signs for Wichita Falls streets was deferred.

ALL N'ORLEANS BACKS CARMEN

Violence Subsides as Conferences Are Held

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. (AP)—Activities in the street car strike were transferred today from street fighting to feverish maneuvering around conference boards as efforts were made to bring a truce between the company and the strikers.

Virtually every civic organization in the city behind it, the city commission council dispatched a statement from the Carmen's Union to the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., with the demand that the union's proposal be accepted.

The union agreed to send its men back to work if the company immediately would recognize the union and arrange for negotiations for a new working contract.

In the proposal, the union abandoned its demand for arbitration of all discipline and dismissals of the men and agreed to allow the company full protection of its rights in the operation of street cars.

Public service officials agreed to submit the propsition to its board of directors.

The strikers rested today, not one case of violence being reported. The last disorder was the throwing of a bomb into the Poland street barn last night. The explosion did little damage.

Acting on orders of the commission council, the public service has not attempted to operate any street cars since Friday, when two strikers were shot to death and hundreds injured in street rioting.

If the city council fails to effect a compromise, the case will be turned over to federal conciliators, expected to reach New Orleans durjng the night.

PATHFINDER ON LONG FLIGHT TO ETERNAL CITY

Long Awaited Southern Atlantic Air Voyage Gets Started

'BLIND SPOT' PASSED

Williams and Yancey Apparently Nearing Halfway Mark to Rome

By JOHN C. INGRAM

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, July 8. (US)—With naught but the shimmering stars above them and the restless Atlantic's depths below, two gallant Americans tonight were believed winging their way well out to sea—Rome bound!

After days of disheartening mishaps, Roger Q. Williams and Lewis Yancey easily got their airplane, Pathfinder, off the beach here at 8:47 o'clock this morning and before midnight were thought to have reeled off the first 1,000-mile leg of their hazardous sky trail.

Wind Helps Speed

They were probably being helped along by a spanking 20-mile breeze at their backs, Forecaster James H. Kimball, godfather of all the Atlantic fliers, revealed.

In such case, it was estimated Williams and Yancey might well have passed the "blind spot" in the ocean for which they were headed. This mariner's pin point was 41 degrees nosth latitude, and 47 degrees west longitude. Having checked their instruments there, the fliers were prepared to speed due east rigidly along the 41st parallel. That would carry them about 100 miles north of the Azores.

Second 'Blind Spot'

The second 1,000-mile leg of their over-water flight would carry them to another "blind spot" 41 north latitude and 25 west longitude. Arriving there some time tomorrow, if all goes well, they would turn northeast and clear the northern coast of Spain, Cape Finsterre or Cape Ortegal. They would then be within striking distance of Rome.

Once over Europe, with their gasoline load lightened, they intend to cross Spain, skim the northern circle of the Mediterranean and swoop down upon the Eternal City—either at Ciampino or Littorio fields.

Reach Rome Wednesday

The fliers estimated they would reach Rome between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. Wednesday. All Rome is ready to yield them the highest honors and warmest welcome, for such a long flight never has been made by anyone, the distance being roughly 4,700 miles.

Williams' grim determination to take advantage of the almost perfect flying weather offered by nature was seen today when he dumped 50 gallons of gasoline, announcing he would rely on his specially designed propeller to make up speed at the end of the journey. The Pathfinder, a Bellanca, originally built for Mrs. James A. Stillman, is capable with a lightened load of a top speed of 135 miles an hour.

If Williams and Yancey encounter no mechanical difficulties they may astonish the world by the speed with which they negotiate the trackless ocean wastes.

'Putsch' Nipped in Time, and Effort To Restore Ex-Prince Carol Fails

Plot to Subdue Bulgarian Government and Establish Military Dictatorship Bared; 200 Officers Arrested

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

BERLIN, July 8. (US)—A putsch to establish a military dictatorship in Rumania, believed to have been intended to bring about the return of former Crown Prince Carol, has been discovered and quashed, according to Vienna reports from Bucharest.

More than 200 officers of the army, among them Generals Broajeanu and Angelescu, the latter a partisan of Prince Carol, have been arrested following the uncovering of the military plot which was to overthrow the government of Prime Minister Dr. Julius Maniu on Sunday.

Strict censorship of newspapers and telegrams has been re-established by Prime Minister Maniu, who has clamped down an iron lid suppressing news of the putsch, but that government is reported to have known of the plot for some days.

The reports state that a great number of high officers were arrested in Bucharest and the provinces and taken to the military prison in Jilana. The Bucharest garrison is prepared for any revolutionary move on the part of the plotters, but the entire country is reported quiet.

There have been rumors recently that opposition to Dr. Maniu was assuming a serious character. A prominent diplomat returning from Bucharest several days ago said Queen Marie is worried about the situation in Rumania; first, because of economic difficulties which, the diplomat said, were characterized by French financial agents as "serious," and second, because of the intrigues against Maniu.

3,000 TINS OF DRUGS VALUED AT $1,000,000

San Francisco Customs Officials Make Huge 'Dope' Haul

LONG INVESTIGATION

Vice Consul and His Wife Witness Smashing Of Her Baggage

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8. (AP)—Opium valued at approximately $1,000,000 was found late today by United States custom officials who smashed open trunks and suit cases belonging to Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice consul in San Francisco.

Three thousand tins of opium were found in seven large wardrobe trunks and four suit cases, brought to this city from China by the vice consul's wife.

Ying Kao, vice consul, and his wife were present as the customs men opened the trunks and discovered the contraband.

Fine Goods Seized

In addition to the opium, officers said they discovered hundreds of pieces of expensive silks and fine laces on which no duty had been paid.

The search, officials said, culminated a two-year investigation and was said to have some connection with the conviction of William Ross, former clerk in the Hawaiian United States court, and two wealthy Honolulu Chinese, of shipping and passing several hundred tins of opium.

The search was conducted by permission of the state department and word was awaited here by the collector of customs as to the disposal of Mrs. Kao and her husband, who arrived on the scene as officials were opening the trunks.

Mrs. Kao professed ignorance of the contents, which she told the officers were the property of friends in China, who influenced her to use her diplomatic privileges to bring baggage into this country. "Presents for Friends"

At their insistence, she said, she procured the certificates of exemption from search, and had them attached to 11 pieces of baggage. She understood at the time, she declared, the baggage contained "presents for friends" of her friends in this country.

Asked to reveal the names of the people here to receive the "presents" she refused, saying that as she now knew they contained opium, those who requested her to have the baggage brought here "would surely kill her or have friends in San Francisco do away with her at their orders."

Endurance Effort Bodes Success

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 8. (AP)—A bit more than a day and a night separated the biplane Angeleno from a new endurance refueling record as it roared past the 151st hour of consecutive flight here at 2:29:30 p. m. today.

Again, as the seventh day of the flight began, it was, "everything going fine," the ground crew reported.

The optimistic phrase almost failed of repetition earlier in the day however, when a faulty gauging of a fuel supply endangered the flight. A quick refueling kept the ship aloft and the motor continued its smooth firing with the new gasoline supply.

Trip to Include Historic Texas Points

STAMFORD, July 8.—The privilege of visiting a mile high fort, playing golf on a course 9,000 feet high, and exploring caves 900 feet below the surface of the earth will be granted to the 60 or more persons who will make the fourth annual motorcade sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce starting July 10, disbanding July 20.

The story of Fort Davis, saved from destruction at one time by the love of an Indian girl for one of its officers will be recalled, as will the battle with the Indians who swarmed out of the natural pallsade of rock like ants, bent on destroying the pale faces with their primitive weapons of warfare. The rare atmosphere of Cloudcroft, the city above the clouds, 9,000 feet altitude, will be enjoyed and the highest golf course in the world will be open to the motorcaders. And then, as a climax, the most recently opened compartments of the unequaled wonder of the Carlsbad caverns.

The renowned white sands, in reality a stretch of pure gypsum 25 miles wide and from 50 to 75 miles long and from 5 to 25 feet deep, 14 miles west of Alamogardo, will be one of the interesting points of the trip, and the town of Fort Stockton, built on an underground river from which flows millions of gallons of pure water every hour, will be a drawing card.

Representatives from Fort Worth, Abilene, Dallas, Vernon, Breckenridge, Quanah, Haskell, Stamford and Ballinger have signed up with B. M. Whiteker, who is in charge, to make the trip. Texas Tech will send a representative, and several state newspapers will do likewise. Representatives from Sul Ross State Teachers college at Alpine and West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon complete the more than 30 persons who have already asked to be listed as going on the trip.

The party will leave Ballinger on the morning of July 10 and disband in Vernon on July 20, visiting San Angelo, Fort Stockton, Alpine, Fort Davis, Marfa, Van Horn, the caverns, Cloudcroft, Roswell, Clovis, Amarillo and intermediate points on the itinerary.

Whiteker expects a last minute rush in the few remaining days open for making reservations, but will be able to take care of 60, or twice as many as have already signed, he says.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

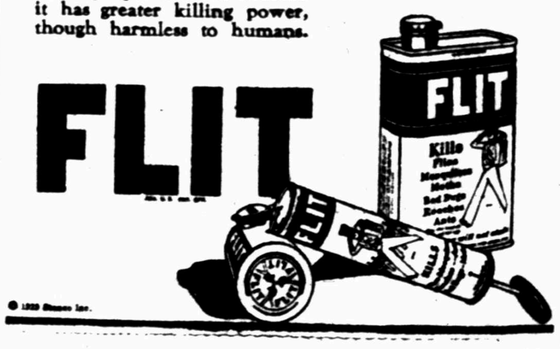

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constipation and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.—Adv.

High Death Rate and Starvation Pictured

MADISON, Wis., July 8. The committee is composed of Senator Lynn J. Frazier, north Dakota; Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin and Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana.

400 Attend Red Fork Baptist Association Meeting at Quanah

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, July 8.—The workers conference of the Red Fork Baptist association held the regular monthly meeting at the First Baptist church in Quanah Monday with Dr. T. L. Holcomb, Dallas, secretary of the executive board of the Baptist general convention of Texas and Dr. L. R. Scarborough, president of Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary of Fort Worth as principal speakers. About 400 workers attended from the counties of Hardeman, Cottle, Childress and King, which compose the Red Fork association, and many visitors came from Crowell and Vernon of the Foard-Wilbarger association.

The inspirational address was delivered by Rev. J. H. Hankins, who recently accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Childress.

Dr. Holcomb's address centered around the cooperative work of the state Baptists and he reported that all phases of the work under supervision of the executive board are enjoying decided prosperity. He made a plea for the wholehearted and continued cooperation of the Red Fork association in all general work which Southern Baptists are fostering.

Dr. Scarborough spoke more generally on the cooperative program of Southern Baptists and emphasized the importance of the organizations maintaining the various institutions and causes.

Lunch was served at the church by the Quanah Baptist ladies. Rev. McKinley Norman is pastor of the Quanah Baptist church.

A business meeting of the association executive board and the Women's Missionary union of the association were held during the noon hour. The next regular monthly meeting will be held Aug. 1 at the Marshall church, eight miles northwest of Quanah. Rev. A. B. Nelson is pastor.

GASOLINE BLAST

$175 Damage As Explosion Wrecks Show Case in Tire Shop

Damage estimated at $175 was caused by an explosion in a show case at the Leslie Brothers tire shop, Eighth and Travis streets, at exactly 11:37 o'clock Monday morning. The blast stopped the clock above the case, tore out flooring, broke plate glass windows and mirrors, and wrecked a large amount of chinaware on display in the show case.

The only plausible explanation for the sudden blast, according to officials of the company, is that gasoline vapor had accumulated in the tightly sealed case and resulted in the explosion. The detonation was heard within a radius of several blocks, and loose articles inside of the office were thrown in confusion, it was said. No injuries were reported.

"Like the crack of a whip I heard my husband's voice"

YOUNG, beautiful, lonely—was it her fault that her heart-hunger yielded at last to Tom's persistent plea? And was she to blame if his honest, blundering caresses left her cold almost before their wedding bells had ceased to echo? . . . Loveless the dreary days dragged on—dragged into years of yearning—endless years empty save for the awful agony of her cheated womanhood.

And then he came — brilliant, gay, handsome as a young god—what dread destiny brought Jack Thompson out of nowhere to live in the cottage next door?

Every minute of the day, her soul seemed to cry out for him; she yearned to feel his arms crushing her, to hear his tender message of affection.

Bravely she battled with Desire that seemed to sear her very soul—fiercely she struggled against the resistless lure of Nature—woman-Nature—mate for a mate! Then — the inevitable — a night of glamorous gayety—a night of light laughter—of breathless jazz—of wine that sang in her veins like hot, impassioned blood—and through it all loomed Jack—ever near, ever masterful—ever her man!

Before she knew what had happened, she felt herself swept into his embrace, felt his lips seek hers. Then, like the crack of a whip, her husband's voice—

But you must read in her own words of the amazing events that followed, of the price she was to pay for her madness, of the mad twist her life was to take. What could she do? What would you have done? "GUARD AGAINST UNSANITARY CIGARS"

"Smoke Cremo, it's certified germ-free . . . safe for your mouth!"

Says

Alfred W. McCann

D. Litt., A.B., LL.D.,
famous pure food expert, long active in crusades for pure foods and sanitary factories.

"Germs don't carry red flags. For safety's sake demand cigars that are certified.

"I heartily endorse Cremo. Every tobacco leaf entering the Cremo factory is scientifically sterilized by U. S. Government approved methods . . . and kept clean along every step of the way!

"Cremo is made in air-flooded, sun-bathed, scientifically clean factories! Not by antiquated methods . . . but by modern inventions that fold, wrap and tip the cigars.

"This Cremo purity is quickly sealed . . . in separate sanitary foil wrappers . . . giving you the scientific health protection that comes with certified milk!"

Cremo's superiority starts with the choicest and tenderest leaves, ripe and mellow, and continues in goodness through a slow, expensive maturing and mellowing process . . . topped off with the finest imported Sumatra wrapper! Cremo contains no scrap—no floor sweepings—all long filler—all fresh, tender leaves. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture that insures uniformly fine, sanitary cigars. Foil-wrapped . . . germ-free . . . crush-proof . . . the kind of cigar that the late Vice-President Marshall must have had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5 cent cigar."

Do you remember the old, filthy shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers . . . and spit on the ends? What a far cry this is from the modern, certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture!

ALL IN ALL, it was a comparatively safe, and decidedly dull Fourth of July.

And the Reverend Clarence True Wilson beats the nakers, sounds the trumpets and summons the faithful to descend upon Washington and urge the enactment of a statute which will confer equal punitions upon the purchaser, imbiber and seller of rum, rickeys and rhubarb wine.

Each selects Independence day for his declaration, thus happily reminding the nation of the personal liberties guaranteed to America a hundred and fifty-three years ago, by forefathers in rebellion against intolerance, restriction and the assorted straightjackets within which your ancestors and theirs had immemorably writhed and suffocated.

Wilson's Idea and the Ultimate Victory

WHEN a really new idea is let loose into the world the results are apt to be far-reaching and surprising. It is just about 10 years now since an ex-college president named Woodrow Wilson gave to a tired and confused race an idea of that kind.

He suggested that since the traditional method of handling international disputes had always led to war and disaster, something new be tried; that some sort of international authority be established through which the nations could work together for peace.

Suggested, perhaps, is not quite the word. Wilson demanded it; and because his idea got entangled with other matters that were not so worthy, his own country rejected him and crushed his idea under an avalanche of adverse votes, declaring that it would go back to something or other called "normalcy" and let his idea die forever.

That was a matter of 10 years ago. How does the idea stand today?

At the present moment President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald are preparing for a conference on the reduction of navies.

There are many obstacles in their way. One of the chief ones is the sharp conflict between the traditional sea policies of America and Britain. Freedom of the seas is one of our watch words; with England, on the other hand, the right to use the British navy to clamp an air tight blockade on an enemy country has been, for centuries, a cardinal point of foreign policy.

Now it is obvious that this clash must be settled before America and Britain can agree on naval reduction. And it is interesting to see the form that this settlement is going to take.

MacDonald is said to be ready to offer this solution: Great Britain will accept the American principle of freedom of the seas and will agree not to put on a blockade under any circumstance, except in a case where a nation would be declared an aggressor under the Kellogg pact and an international blockade would be ordered by some such body as the League of Nations.

It is hardly to be doubted that ultimate agreement will come along some such line as that. And—please notice—in such an agreement you have nothing on earth but the logical development of Woodrow Wilson's idea of international cooperation and authority.

Wilson was very badly beaten. He died disappointed. Seemingly his own country had rejected forever everything that he stood for.

But he had let a new idea into the world; and that idea is still working. Slowly, year by year, it is taking hold of the minds of men. And in the years to come it may be that Wilson's final defeat may come to look very much like victory.

The Return of the Bison

THE AMERICAN BUFFALO, or bison, nearly exterminated a few years ago by the uncontrolled activities of hunters and so-called "sportsmen," is coming back.

To be sure, the great plains of the West are not getting back the big herds they once had. But in Alaska and Canada colonies of bison, established in the open range lands a few years ago by nature lovers, are multiplying and thriving. Northeast of Fairbanks, Alaska, a large herd is said to be in existence, while northwest Canada counts its bison by the thousand.

There, it must be understood, are buffalo living in the wild state, as distinct from those maintained on ranches and in parks.

Probably it will never be possible for the western United States to swarm again with bison as it once did; neither possible, nor altogether desirable. But no American who likes his country's colorful past can fail to be glad that in some places, at least, the animal is coming back.

Why Flying Is Safer

THE FOLLOWING PARAGRAPH, lifted from the story of a reporter who recently traveled from Los Angeles to New York by the air-rail hookup of Transcontinental Air Transport and the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania railroads, tells as well as anything can the way in which airways are being made safe for passengers.

"Weather reports," writes the reporter, "told us there were storms between Winslow, Ariz., and Albuquerque. We took off anyway, but our two pilots talked with ground stations ahead and behind us by radio, and knew just where all the storms were. So we simply flew around them. . . . The Albuquerque weather report told of three storms converging to the eastward, so we had to detour again, but we sped around them quickly in the midst of lightning and rain and reached Clovis, N. M., before dark, which the pilot had not expected to do."

In a few words that paragraph tells how flying has passed the hit-or-miss stage and has made safety certain.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon
(Copyright by Public Ledger)

Police Captain Summers is meditating on the escapades of the Picaroon, whom he is convinced is really his friend, Martin Dale. Mr. Alexander Ferryman calls to relate a tale of strange happenings at 262 Bank street and requests police investigation. Axelson, a watchman employed by Ferryman, has heard footsteps and seen an eerie green light. Ferryman is showing the captain a picture when the telephone rings. A voice tells of finding a woman's body at the above address—the dead woman is Ferryman's wife. Summers finds only one clue, a bit of green lens.

Meantime, the Picaroon has written a note to Adele Castle requesting a meeting in Central Park. Adele has had a terrifying experience. Taken by a mysterious Miss Conway to a strange flat through which she could glimpse only the faint outline of a man, calling himself Dr. Moffett, she is told that her father has been connected with a crooked financial deal. Dr. Moffett demands $100,000 for his silence and certain papers.

Adele and Dale meet. He tells her he was present during her strange interview with Dr. Moffett and promises to help her. Dale also meets Adele's friend, Paul Ainsworth. They become suspicious of one another, Dale "on his own" enters the house where the murder occurred and is trapped within by Summers, Ferryman and Axelson, who discover Dale taking a rope of pearls from behind a sliding panel. Dale darkens the room, throws Axelson through a window, and in the resultant confusion escapes.

Summers at luncheon next day receives a note and package from the Picaroon. In the package he finds the missing pearls.

Meantime, Dr. Moffett is getting anxious and telephones, giving Miss Castle just 24 hours in which to make payment to save her father from disgrace and prosecution. Dale draws cash from his bank and makes an appointment with Adele. He then visits the Ferryman home, agreeing to capture the murderer within a week.

Adele Castle is instructed by Dale how to handle Dr. Moffett when he telephones. Wambley, a servant, is revealed as a spy.

All is set for the Mummers' Frolic, where Adele is to make a $50,000 payment to Dr. Moffett's agent. Dale is also present, disguised as the Picaroon.

Miss Castle reviews certain papers presented to her by Dr. Moffett's agent on a balcony just off the ballroom. A streak of fire shot into the sky brings the exchange of papers for $50,000 to a climax. Temporarily, at least, the deal is off.

An Unwelcome Surprise

After leaving the garage, Dale hurried homeward to inquire of Bilkins whether any important letters or telephone messages had arrived during his absence. He hummed a little tune, and he looked as if he expected an exhilarating evening. If all went well, and if he struck no unexpected snags in the execution of his carefully prepared plan, Dr. Moffett would eat tomorrow morning's breakfast behind bars of steel.

The thought was at once gratifying and depressing. How would Adele Castle take the crash of her illusions? But she must know some time, and the sooner the better. She was young, and even the cruelest wounds heal quickly in youth. Besides, it was best that she should discover the fatal truth for herself. Only the testimony of her own eyes and ears would convince her that Paul Ainsworth was a blackguard. Indirect evidence, no matter how impressive, she would thrust aside with a toss of her proud head.

Dale dismissed the taxi outside his residence and in a few moments he was interviewing the faithful but villainous-looking Bilkins. The telephone had been ringing all afternoon, Bilkins announced, but no one had left a message.

Dale skimmed over a few letters, but there was nothing of importance. He was not disappointed. In this situation, no news was good news.

He dismissed Bilkins and went to the telephone. It was more than likely that, some time during the night, he would want Summers in a hurry, and he wanted to be sure where he could be found. His lips twitched humorously as he called the number. For the Picaroon to deliver a dangerous criminal into Summers' hands was indeed an amusing thought, and it was precisely what Dale expected to happen.

But Summers could not be reached either at his office or his residence, and Dale hung up, intending to make another attempt later. From a drawer in his desk he took several quaint articles and distributed them among his pockets. Then he glanced at his watch and hurried out. A taxi with flag raised came cruising along, and he hailed it and jumped in, failing to perceive that an inconspicuous individual across the street was watching with marked interest.

"Flagler's restaurant on Rector street," he told the driver.

His mind was busy while the taxi carried him to his destination. He reviewed each step in the program he had mapped out. About 10:30 the Waynefleet sight would draw up in front of the Castle residence. The street he knew, would be dimly lighted at that point. The driver would disappear, and no one was likely to notice what became of him.

About a quarter of 11 Miss Castle would step out, take her place at the wheel, and drive toward Herald Square. Somewhere between that point and Fiftieth street she would receive a note or an oral message telling her where to go. All the while she would be under the closest kind of surveillance by Doctor Moffett's agents. If any one should attempt to follow her at a discreet distance, or communicate with her along the route, Doctor Moffet's spies would know it. It was even possible that, at one of the traffic stops, some one would glance into the tonneau to make sure that the car carried no concealed passenger.

Dale chuckled amusedly. The spies might look in all the obvious hiding places. In the human mass that would swirl up and down Broadway at that hour they could easily do so without attracting attention to themselves. But they would never think of inspecting the top. Whoever heard of a passenger being concealed in such a place? Not even Miss Castle would have an inkling of such a thing. That might have made her self-conscious and distrait, and the spies would have been quick to notice her state of mind.

As for her destination, he could make a fairly accurate surmise as to that. In his mind was a picture of a house just across the Connecticut border, sheltered by a tall picket fence and dense clumps of trees, giving the eye an impression of an abandoned and dilapidated estate. A gloomy place it was, looking a little sinister at night in its chill and dreary aloofness.

This was the house to which he had trailed the car on the night of the Mummer's Frolic. He had spent the next day reconnoitering the immediate environs, but without approaching very close to the house itself.

If seemed almost certain that this was the house to which Miss Castle was to be directed, but he could not be quite positive. Having dispatched her on a hazardous adventure, he could not gamble with her safety. And so he had conceived the idea of remaining with her, almost within arm's reach, from start to finish.

It promised to be an eventful night in the Picaroon's career. He tingled with suppressed excitement as he stepped from the taxi, too preoccupied to notice that another vehicle had drawn up just a few paces to the rear and that its sole occupant gave him a sustained glance as he alighted.

Flagger's was an old establishment of quiet dignity and unobtrusive elegance. He knew that Mr. Castle sometimes went there; in fact, he had seen him there on several occasions. The head waiter, a man with a long and highly remunerative memory for faces, bowed profoundly and inquired concerning Dale's preference with regard to a table. Dale let his eyes wander over the crowd of diners. Out of the multitude he picked out a pale, aristocratic face with a nervous strain in it, but also something commanding and aggressive. Then, his gaze wavering, he saw another face that was equally familiar.

"I see a friend," he told the head waiter. "You needn't trouble."

He walked briskly toward a table in the rear where Virgil Ellsworth Castle was dining in solitude, but when halfway there he made a slight detour and stopped before another table.

"Good evening, Mr. Ferryman," he murmured.

Mr. Ferryman drew up his head with a nervous start that caused the glasses to slip from his nose. They dangled at the end of the long ribbon, swung precariously, and would have been shattered against the table if Dale had not caught them in time. With his habitual curiosity, which extended even to trifles, he glanced at the lenses.

His glance narrowed and lengthened. He started a little. And then, with the most casual of smiles, he handed the glasses to Mr. Ferryman.

"Oh, thanks," the older man mumbled. He seemed slightly embarrassed. "Oh, it's you, Mr. Dale." A little chill crept into his eyes.

"Miss Castle told me that you have offered to help her," said Dale pleasantly. "It's very good of you. I thought I would thank you on her behalf."

He bowed slightly and moved away. "Good heavens!" he exclaimed under his breath. And then, as he was approaching the table at which Mr. Castle sat, he almost stopped in his tracks. His eyes had wandered to the far side of the room, where a lonely diner sat. They paused on an unfamiliar face—the ugliest face he had ever seen in his life—and for a moment he stared in stupefication. The face was not only ugly, but repulsive as well.

He pulled himself together, and moved on. But his mind was whirling with a recollection of something Miss Castle had said. Dr. Moffett had told her that one of his reasons for not wishing to be seen was that he had the ugliest face in creation. Dale, now moving toward Mr. Castle's table, wondered whether there could be another face in all the world as ugly as the one he had just seen.

His brain reeled a little. The vast room seemed to resolve itself into a triangle, with Mr. Castle at one point, Mr. Ferryman at another, and the man with the unsightly face at the third. It struck him as an odd conjunction of personalities. Was it just by chance that they were all here?

His face bore no sign of his mental agitation when he stopped at Mr. Castle's table.

"How is the mysterious Mr. Graves this evening?" he asked in an undertone as he slipped into the vacant seat.

The older man started violently and stared in a terrified way at his unbidden companion.

"Don't alarm yourself, Mr. Castle," said Dale quickly. "I am here as a friend."

Virgil Ellsworth Castle sat back and continued to stare. His face was ashen. His jaw had become a quivering lump. Slowly he recovered a little composure. Despite the startling greeting, there was something about the other man that inspired confidence.

Dale consulted his card and gave his order. Then his glance wandered over the restaurant for a moment. Mr. Ferryman was gone, but the man with the ugly face was still at his table. He seemed to send a covert glance in Dale's direction.

"Mr. Castle," he murmured in a discreetly lowered tone, "my name is Martin Dale. I know you are the mysterious Mr. Graves. I also know that Dr. Moffett is threatening you. Please don't trouble to deny the facts. It would be only a waste of time. I am in Miss Castle's confidence. She trusts me. Will you do likewise?"

The astounding statements seemed to come a little too fast for Mr. Castle. His eyes alternately bulged and narrowed. A medley of expressions crossed his face.

"What have you to say to me?" he asked thickly.

"Are you returning to your office after dinner?"

"Yes," came the answer in a staggered voice. "I expect to remain there till midnight."

"Good! This is all I have to ask you. If your telephone should ring any time tonight, don't answer it. Will you agree to that?"

Mr. Castle regarded him with astonishment and suspicion, but the latter expression vanished rapidly.

"It's most extraordinary," he began. "I don't understand—"

"Please don't try to understand. Just do as I say, and I'll promise that in a day or two you need have no fear of Dr. Moffett."

Mr. Castle smiled—a smile of vague, uncertain hope. "What you ask is simple," he remarked, "but your promise is astounding. Very well, I'll do as you suggest."

"Splendid!" Dale fell into an easy conversational tone. "Now tell me something. You notice the man away over in the rear. No, a little farther to the left. The one with the scarecrow face. Ever see him before?"

"Yes, I think I've seen him here a few times, but I can't tell you who he is. Why do you ask?"

"Just out of curiosity."

Mr. Castle drained his coffee cup. "Now if you will excuse me, I have a great many things to attend to at the office."

"Don't forget," said Dale.

Left alone, Dale smiled agreeably. He had driven another spike into Dr. Moffett's big gun. In doing so, he had anticipated an emergency that might not develop, but he wished to be prepared against every possible chance. Even if Dr. Moffett's plan should succeed up to a certain point, he would be thrown into confusion by his inability to communicate with his victim.

Dale lingered a long time over coffee and cigaret. He had seen a number of strange things since he entered the restaurant, and he was turning several new ideas over in his mind, but these developments would not affect his plans for the night.

Afterward, in a telephone booth across the street, he called up Miss Castle and gave her a few final instructions. Out on the street again, he stood at the curb and lighted a cigaret and as he did so he looked about him with a faintly bewildered air. Something seemed to flash a warning to his brain, but he could not trace it to its source. The bystanders and pedestrians looked harmless.

Yet, just to play safe, he started a series of maneuvers designed to throw a shadow off his trail. The sharp twists, convulutions and detours occupied the better part of an hour. He stopped and looked about him again, and now the nagging and elusive impression of stealthy espionage was gone. He looked at his watch. It would soon be time to go back to the garage and claim the car.

The car was waiting for him when he arrived. He inspected the new top carefully, and cheerfully paid an extortionate charge for the work. Half an hour later he drew up in front of the Castle house.

Most of the windows were dark. The sidewalks on either side were deserted. He glanced at his watch. Miss Castle was not likely to appear for 10 or 15 minutes yet, and he did not care to spend more time than necessary lying in the cramped position between the two folds of the top. He decided to remain seated at the wheel and enjoy a cigaret before he climbed into his uncomfortable hiding place.

The Day Book of a New Yorker
Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, July 8.—New York, of course, still makes the boast that it is the greatest of all summer resorts. And, indeed Broadway is turned over to school teachers, hardware merchants, buyers and other species of the visiting firemen. While the theaters are overrun with outlanders, there remains one pastime that is still that of a true New Yorker. It is riding a Fifth Avenue bus from Washington square to the end of the line, some 200 blocks north. The fare is a dime. On a sultry evening there is always a line of 150 or 200 persons at the Washington square terminal of the route, waiting patiently for more empty buses. It is a simple matter to walk a few blocks north, board a southbound bus and remain aboard for the northward trip. But it costs an extra fare, and few take advantage of it. Yet these same persons who stand thriftily and patiently in line would think nothing of paying a speculator $5 or $10 extra for choice theater tickets.

The Mayor Again

The town's youthful mayor, James J. Walker, who thinks nothing of attending four banquets in an evening, went to a circus the other day for the first time in 20 years. It wasn't a real circus, at that, but a special one organized for the benefit of orphanges. The event is notable for having shown that there is at least one thing that has escaped the attention of the city's one compleat New Yorker.

Big Girls Wanted

Girls are simply out of luck here if they are not tall. Show girls, Florenz Ziegfeld informs me, are going to be bigger and taller than ever. Only he puts it this way: American girls are growing bigger and taller, so there is nothing else to do but see them in the show business. But even in business stature is a deciding factor. A restaurant chain advertises for "hostesses, age 20-30, tall, attractive young women. Permanent, worthwhile positions for those who qualify." Nothing is said about mental requirements. Be tall, and let those who will be intelligent. Clothes models get their jobs by their stature, rather than by beauty of face or experience, and even in secretarial work stature is a decided asset.

Gown Shops

Speaking of clothes models brings to mind the stories that are told about the snootier couturiers, where the price of a gown, like the size of a doctor's fee, depends entirely upon the wealth of the person seeking the gown. There is, say, a minimum price of $125 for the customers who are barely tolerated. Conscience alone sets the minimum, I am told. Each shop has it wealthy customers who buy in wholesale quantities, and to these a bill of $6,000 is nothing. The saleswoman who fills the first order of a new customer regards this patron as her own thenceforward, and is credited for all subsequent sales, even these made by others of the staff. Many are the eccentricities of the regular purchasers. There is, for example, an actress who visits one shop, and who strips down to her underwear as soon as she arrives. Then she lights a cigaret, lies on the floor, and watches the models parade above her. Many of the exclusive shops—again I am taking the word of a woman who knows, and who got her job because she was tall—treat occasional customers with scant courtesy. They do not want new patrons unless they are introduced by regular clients.

An Old Spanish Custom

"The Leviathan," one may read in the news dispatches from time to time, "was forced to remain at quarantine until daylight before proceeding to its pier." Few persons, apparently, know the reason why a big ship, that forges steadily across the Atlantic at night as well as by day, must wait for dawn to go to its dock at the end of the run here. The reason has nothing to do with navigation. Ships are handled at night as easily as by day. Many vessels leave port at midnight. But the quarantine doctors, who must pass upon the health of passengers and crew, do not work after dark, except in rare instances. One hundred and 30 years ago quarantine was established, and in those days sailing ships could not possibly be handled in port after dark. And so was established the custom of stopping examinations at sunset. No one has ever campaigned for a change in the custom.

Looking Ahead

Each month brings a report that the Holland vehicular tunnels between New York and New Jersey have sung up a new record for revenue. The present rate of income is $5,500,000 a year—but it was known long before the first spadeful of dirt was dug in building the tunnels. If the income hadn't been known, there would never have been a tunnel, for no banks would finance a wild guess. As in the case with bridges and tunnels yet in the planning stage, an exhaustive traffic survey was made. The experts reported that during the first year of operation the tubes would bring so much, during the second year so much more, and so on to the year 1965. The estimates were purposely conservative, and were accepted with amazing faith by the banks that financed the construction. Other tunnels and bridges are to be built, and if the traffic experts say a $75,000,000 structure is a good investment, the money will be forthcoming without question.

"Oughta be sumpin done about that shack. It's an eyesore."

"Yes' a blot on th' landscape."

"What's it used for anyhow?"

"Feller named Edison calls it his workshop."

"Edison? What Edison?"

"Fust name's Tom, I think. He's an odd duck."

"What way?"

"Oh, he's got his head full of fool notions. Allus tinkerin' and workin' on funny contraptions of one kind or another."

"I know who y' mean now. I've heerd tell o' him. He's the young feller that's got all them crazy ideas about electricity, ain't he?"

"That's him. You'll die laffin' to know what he's monkeying with in that there shed right now."

"What is it?"

"Working on device to bottle electricity. Sez he hopes to read by it just as easy as by kerosene lamp."

"He's a little touched in the head, I reckon."

"I heerd he claims his light when he perfects a few details will do away with kerosene for lighting homes."

"Somebody oughta take him to a doctor and have him examined."

"Why, they tell me he's in that shebang 12 hours a day fiddlin' around with batteries an' wires an' jars that'll give light by jes' pressin' a button or turnin' a switch."

"No matches or anything, eh?"

"Nary a match. He thinks he's capturin' electricity and storing it in a bottle so it can be used whenever it's wanted for illuminatin' purposes."

"Even if he's right what's the use of it? Kerosene's answerin' all ordinary purposes, ain't it? An' the swell folks have gas. He's just one of them fellers what's allus tryin' to revolutionize things."

"If there was any sense to it all it might be excusable, but it ain't right for a young feller to be allowed to go on that way. He oughta be made to stop for his own sake. Supposin' he does find a way to make an electric light without gettin' hurt himself, how'll anybody else know how to do it without gettin' maimed?"

"I can't make out why his parents don't interfere."

"They certainly oughta step in before it's too late. Think of standin' by and lettin' a lad fool away his best days to no good end. Why he oughta be doin' sumpin useful!"

"Sumpin of benefit to mankind, eh?"

"Eggsactly!"

Children Whom Father Neglects Become Strangers

Breaking Down Barrier Between Father and Children—Love or Friendship?—Will Rich Widow Be Happy Married to a Man Eleven Years Her Junior?

Dear Miss Dix—Six years ago our mother died, leaving us with a stranger, our father, for he was a stranger to us. He was just some one that we were terribly afraid of. He didn't understand us and we didn't understand him. He does so many times hurt us so badly and I suppose we hurt him, because he tells everybody what terrible children we are, that we have no love for him and that we don't care what happens to him. We long for the love of our father. Perhaps he longs for our love, but we are growing further apart every day. I wonder if you can understand how this hurts, and if it is really our fault. —VERY UNHAPPY CHILDREN.

Answer—I do understand it, for it is a tragedy that I have seen happen in many families. Children who are starving for love and tenderness, who are lonely and afraid and longing for parents to whom they can cling for protection, to whom they can go with their little confidences and their troubles and have them straightened out, but who are so afraid of their parents that they dare not approach them, and who are so little acquainted with their own fathers and mothers that they could show their hearts to any chance acquaintance sooner than to them.

And I know plenty of fathers and mothers who spend their lives toiling for their children and who yearn for their children's affection and confidence more than for anything else on earth and yet who have built a barrier between themselves and their children that they cannot break down, and who treat their own sons and daughters with less affection and less consideration than they do their very servants and office boys.

Women, from the very nature of the relationship between mother and child, seldom make the mistake of not getting close to their children, but fathers often do, especially men who are very busy and who are engaged in big commercial enterprises.

I have one such man in my mind as I write. A splendid man, fine and honorable, generous and sympathetic, and really affectionate at heart, but a man who believed in discipline and who made a god of efficiency and who thought that you could raise a family as you ran a factory.

He had a fine family of girls and boys and in order to give them every advantage and every comfort and luxury he toiled incessantly. It was the desire to give them everything that drove him on and he had not the wisdom to know that the most important thing he could give them was to give them himself.

He never played with his children. He never got acquainted with them. He never spoke to them except to reprimand them. They never broached a plan to him that he did not veto it, and the result was that they grew up afraid of him, keeping out of his presence as much as possible, feeling him not only as a stranger, but an inimicable stranger and one with whom it was impossible even to hold an ordinary conversation.

It has actually never entered these children's minds that their father is even a friend. Still less that he loves them and that he passionately yearns for their love in return, and that he would give anything he possesses for them to show him some affection and pal with him.

That is the case with your father, you poor, unhappy children. When he accuses you of being ungrateful children and not loving him, it is his jealousy crying out. It is because he craves so for some sign of tenderness from you. It is because he so longs for your confidences. So why don't you go to him and tell him of your love, tell him that you are starving for affection, too, and how you long for a father to cling to and to advise you. Believe me, if you do this, he will take you to his heart and you will all be happy together.

Of course, the estrangement between you is his fault. Children instinctively love their parents and cling to them and it is always the parents who build the wall between them when they are separated, but don't make your father bear all the suffering for his mistake. You are young, you have the whole world before you, but he has nothing but you, and if he has not your love to repay him for all his sacrifices he has made for you, then he is poor, indeed.—DOROTHY DIX.

Attorneys to Appeal Judgment For $50,000 Given Mrs. Daniel in Suit

Attorneys for Mrs. Sarah Daniel, awarded between $80,000 and $90,000 in her suit against S. H. Daniel for division of community property and divorce, Monday afternoon announced that the plaintiff would appeal from the judgment of the court. Mrs. Daniel was seeking a cash settlement of $150,000.

Judge W. W. Cook Monday morning announced his ruling after hearings in the case which continued all last week. He held that Mrs. Daniel was entitled to a share in all the property except a 900-acre tract inherited by the defendant. The property and cash awards together were estimated at a value approaching $80,000. T. R. Boond, attorney for Mr. Daniel, indicated that he would accept the judgment, but Fred Weeks, representing the plaintiff, gave notice of appeal.

Judge Cook also set aside a divorce formerly granted to Mr. Daniel and gave the judgment to Mrs. Daniel instead. The divorce issue was not contested.

Another admirer lost for Janet ...all because of "B.O." (Body Odor)

WHAT a bitter disappointment the evening had been!

Allen had been politeness itself. But somehow, Janet knew she hadn't made a good impression on this new admirer.

Whose fault? Janet didn't know then. But there's no "B.O."—no body odor robbing her of popularity now. Let her tell you what she learned about this treacherous fault and the easy way to end it by keeping perspiration odorless.

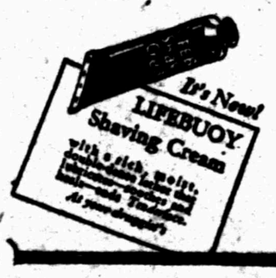

Hotter weather—yet no "B.O."

STEERS TROUNCE SPUDDERS, 11 TO 3; DOUBLE-HEADER TODAY

'CHAMPS' BAT 18 SAFE HITS

Benton Leads Attack; Wichita Defense Loose

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The crippled "champion" Dallas Steers profited from a Spudder off-day yesterday, and Milt Stock's hustling Bovines trounced our men in the opener of their two-day stand, which includes a bargain bill today. Or, perhaps they REALLY are champions. Anyhow, the Steers did everything right while the Spudders did lots of things wrong and there could be only one result. It was 11 to 3.

Dallas pounded Harold Wiltse for 17 hits in eight innings and Jim Moore whaled a home run off Chick Galeria in the ninth for his club's 18th blow of the pastime. The Steers fielded sharply, in contrast to five Spudder errors. And as a clinching argument, Homer Blankenship was having much greater success than that of his brother Ted against the Yankees.

The Spudders clouted 11 hits but they could not make them count with customary Spudder success, and a flock of homelings were left stranded around the base lines for want of timely knocks.

Benton Has Big Day

Rabbit Benton followed up his hard hitting the previous day with three hits, including a home run in the first inning, and two bases on balls. Duke Hermann slashed two hits and with Rabbit was the only home athlete to clout safely more than once.

Jim Moore and Country Davis also had three hits each and Morse, Mealey, Randy Moore and Jeffries crashed a brace of blows apiece. Blankenship aided his own cause with a homer.

Skipper Milt Stock, fighting leader of the hostiles, strained a tendon in his left leg while running bases and was forced to retire from the pastime. Stock was playing due to the enforced absence of Flash Flaskamper, the speedy shortstop who is out of the game with a split finger. Bischoff doffed the catcher's mask and went to second base and displayed some surprising agility in ground-covering and fielding skill.

Stapleton, Hermann, Bennett, Randy Moore, Jeffries and Morse enlivened the pastime with some fast fielding.

Benton Hits Homer

Stock and R. Moore singled in the first inning but they were left, and Benton smashed the first ball pitched by Blankenship over the left field wall.

A pair of errors paved the way for the Steer run in the second. Hermann dropped Jeffries' foul after one was out. Jeffries singled to left and continued to second on Bennett's fumble. Bischoff walked. Stapleton took Blankenship's foul. Morse hit to center, scoring Jeffries and advancing Bischoff to third. Stock grounded to Hermann and twisted an ankle on the base. After several minutes he resumed play.

Stapleton hit to left with two out and he was stranded.

Davis beat out a tap to Wiltse but two were gone and he was left.

The Spudders filled the bases in the third but to no avail. Benton and Turgeon strolled after one was out. Fitzgerald lifted to Randy Moore. Bennett was given his base by Umpire Kane on Mealey's interference. Sullivan drove to J. Moore.

Wiltse retired the hostiles in order in the fourth, aided by Hermann's snatch of Blankenship's liner.

Spudders Take Lead

Wichita Falls took the lead in the fourth. Stapleton walked after one was out and went to third on Lapan's sharp single to right. Wiltse's lift to Jim Moore tallied Stapleton.

The Steers scored two in the fifth. Morse hit down the left field line for two bases and went to third on Mealey's single to left, Mealey going to second on the throw-in. J. Moore blasted a hit to left, scoring Morse and J. Moore. Wiltse tossed out R. Moore. Hermann booted Davis' bounder. Rosenthal fouled to Lapan. Jeffries' grounder to Hermann took a bad hop for a hit, filling the bases. Bennett came in for Bischoff's hoist and made the catch by plunging over Benton, who had fallen to the ground to avoid a collision.

Blankenship sent back the Spudders one-two-three.

Steers Score Three

Errors and hits let the Bovines tally three in the sixth. Morse was safe on Stapleton's fumble on his bounder after one was out, and went to second on Mealey's single to center. J. Moore singled to left, scoring Morse, and Mealey tallied and Moore went to third on Bennett's error. Lapan took R. Moore's foul. Davis hit to left, scoring J. Moore.

Hermann started the home half with a single to left but was stranded on second.

Blankenship whaled his homer over the right field palisade in the seventh, in which Hermann and Stapleton featured with some sparkling fielding.

The Spudders scored one in their seventh. Bischoff made a fast play on Benton's third hit and then threw wild to first, Rabbit going to second. Turgeon's sharply-hit ball bounced over Morse, Benton going to third. Fitzgerald's lift to J. Moore scored Benton. Bennett singled to left, Turgeon stopping at second. Morse took Sullivan's foul. Hermann singled past third, filling the bases. Randy Moore went far back for a sensational snatch of Stapleton's solid sock.

Herd Tallies Three More

Dallas counted three in the eighth. R. Moore hit after one was out and scored on Davis' double to center. Turgeon made a fast and accurate relay to the plate and Moore was safe on a close decision. Rosenthal doubled to right, scoring Davis. Rosenthal went to third on a wild pitch and home on Jeffries' hoist to Bennett.

Eldred batted for Wiltse with one out and singled to center but was forced by Benton, the first time Rabbit failed to get on the lines.

Jim Moore bashed his home run over the right field fence in the ninth.

Sullivan singled after two were gone but was left.

NATS AND TIGERS SPLIT

DETROIT, July 8. (AP)—Washington and Detroit split a double-header featured by heavy hitting in both games today, the Senators taking the first, 5 to 4, in ten innings and the Tigers the second, 16 to 6.

George Uhle and Sam Jones divided pitching honors in the first contest but Uhle was charged with a defeat because an error by Boy Johnson in the tenth permitted the Senators to score.

In the nightcap the Senators never had a chance. Scores:

Braddock, Nearing Ring Form, Rests

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 8. (UP)—Fearing he is rounding into fighting trim too quickly James J. Braddock, who meets Johnny Loughran for the light-heavyweight title at Yankee stadium July 18, decided after today's workout to dispense with boxing Tuesday. Braddock weighed less than 177 today and expects to scale 178 on the afternoon of the fight.

The Mile and Other Records

Dear Sir: Several times recently you have mentioned the possibility of a "natural miler" running a mile in 4 minutes flat. A study of the record books proves that such a performance is beyond the real of reason. Back in 1886 W. G. George, the English professional, hung up a record of 4:12¾, and since then just two men in the world, Norman Tabor and Paavo Nurmi, have bettered that figure in outdoor competition. Through a span of 43 years, with all the thousands of mile races that have been run, just two runners have been able to cut under 4:13 under conditions that the International Federation would recognize on the record book. Add to these the five or six indoor performances between 4:12 and 4:13, and you have the sum total of the efforts of all the great milers of all time. In view of these figures, Nurmi's world's record of 4:10 3-5 is an almost superhuman feat. To suggest that any one will cut 10 full seconds, or even five, off this figure is taxing the imagination.

Only six modern runners have ever bettered 4:13 either indoors or out. Imagine these six—Joie Ray, Tabow, Nurmi, Ray Conger, Lloyd Hahn and Edwin Wide—lined up for a mile race on a day when each is at his peak. Your mythical four-minute miler would have to beat this sextette by nearly 100 yards!

The constant smashing of records in the field events is purely a matter of improved technique. Give the modern pole vaulter the old-style heavy pole, cut out the "jack-knife," make him keep both hands still and 12 feet will be the "ceiling," as it was in 1900. Where would the hammer throwers be with the old solid wood handle, instead of the present flexible wire contraption? Mike Sweeney in 1896 high jumped 6 feet 5⅝ inches to a record that would probably be standing today if the Californians had not invented the "roll" that is so close to a dive that it just gets by the rules. In the broad jump some genius found that he could add a foot or so to the distance by "walking in the air." And so on.

But the runners have no such tricks to turn to, and so their records improve but little and they are slowly but certainly approaching an irreducible minimum. Wendell Baker of Harvard and the incomparable Lon Meyers, both in their prime around 1885, ran the "quarter" under 48 seconds, without the use of the crouching start or modern scientifically built tracks. How many quarter-milers in the world today could beat them? "Maxey" Long's straight-away quarter in 47 flat has stood untouched since 1899. The half-mile mark has come down by successive fractions of a second for a total of two seconds in 34 years. Obviously another cut of two seconds during the next generation is less likely. The "hundred," even accepting Simpson's recent 9 3-5, has been clipped only two-fifths of a second since the invention of the crouching start—less than two full strides in 40 years.

To return to the four-minute mile, the only chance will be through the introduction of some stunt such as feeding the runner oxygen during the performance.

GEORGE P. MEADE.

Hubby Ties With Three For Low Score at 18 Holes

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—Four players not among the favorites shared low medal 71s for the first 18 holes of qualifying play today in the 30th annual Western amateur golf tournament here.

Chick Evans, eight times Western amateur champion and choice of the galleries in the first qualifying round faces the possibility of not gaining the select 32 who will begin match play Wednesday for the title.

Eighty-one strokes were required by the veteran Chicagoan in his first 18-hole test.

Close behind the leaders came Don Moe of Portland, Ore., and Keefe Carter, of Oklahoma City, each had 72s, even par.

Cincy Protests Wilson Attack

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The feud apparently on between the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, as a result of incidents on and off the playing field, may cause President Heydler of the National league to "hold court" on the situation. The league's executive is prepared to take whatever action is needed to avoid further outbreaks of the sort that led up to the fine and suspension of Jack Wilson, Chicago outfielder.

Developments today involved a conference between President Heydler and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds, who called voluntarily in company with Pete Donohue, Cincinnati pitcher attacked by Wilson in a railroad station at Chicago last week after episodes of violence earlier in the day on the ball field.

BARGAIN BILL AT OUR YARD

Righthanders to Hurl; Opener at 3 o'Clock

The Spudders and the Steers will play a scheduled double-header today at the lot. The first game will start at 3 o'clock. Umpires Kane and Donohue have promised to hurry play along.

Both games will be pitched by righthanders if the rival managers do not change their minds from the announcements of last night. Jim Galloway has indicated that Milt Steengrafe and George Payne will be his chuckers, while Milt Stock probably will start Walt Tauscher and Charley Glazner.

Yesterday's attendance was only 750. With the Spudders in the league race and the "champion" Steers, winners of the first half, as the adversaries, such a turnout is not so good. Indeed, that sort of attendance won't pay expenses. Waco and Beaumont are drawing larger crowds than Wichita Falls.

Cy Smith, big righthanded hurler, is lost to the Spudders for 10 days or two weeks. Cy underwent a minor operation yesterday at a local hospital that will require him to remain inactive for several days.

How to Use Poultices

Poultices are valuable home remedies to be used whenever one desires to bring about a more rapid discharge of pus from an inflammatory infection. They are valuable in bringing boils and carbuncles to a head, and in bringing about a discharge of small splinters or thorns, and in serving to prevent blood poisoning from puncture wounds by rusty septic objects.

Through the use of the poultice, one has an easily applied method of securing continued heat and moisture to a part. The heat causes a dilation of the capillaries and a greater supply of blood and in this way strengthens the defenses of the body. The moisture softens the skin structures and helps to dilute toxins. The discharge tends to work outward through the action of the heat.

Many different substances may be used for the preparation of poultices, the most commonly used poultices being made from cornmeal, flaxseed, potatoes, bread and hops, but practically any substance of a mushy nature may be used if these are not available. Leaves may be boiled and applied hot. Mud may be boiled and used, rice, etc., the efficacy being not so much in any substance contained in the poultice material as in the effect of the heat and moisture. The consistency should be quite soft but not enough to run.

The usual way of making a poultice is to spread out a piece of old muslin or cheese cloth. The area of the muslin should be nine times as big as the finished poultice, and the hot mush should be poured in the center of the muslin, which is then folded over from each side so that the two overlapping edges are on top. The poultice may then be tied upon the part with the free ends or with another piece of muslin, allowing the mushy substance to come as close to the affected area as possible.

Poultices should be applied just as hot as can be borne. If the poultice becomes cold, it may be removed and dipped into boiling water for a minute or two and then re-applied. To keep the poultice warm, it should be covered with oiled silk or waxed paper, and over this a heavy folded towel or piece of woolen material.

Poultices may be left on all night and, if the patient falls asleep until morning, the moisture continues to be valuable even after they have become cold.

A properly prepared poultice will not stick to the skin when it is removed. After removal, the skin should be washed with warm water and the pus or splinter can be squeezed out. If the pus has not come to a head the poultice should be renewed. Applied in time, poultices will often prevent serious complications.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cereals With Fruit

Question—Mrs. H. G. K. asks: "Are cereals with sliced fresh fruit a good combination?"

Answer—Cereals should, never be combined with acid fruits. However a glass of orange juice taken about an hour before a cereal breakfast is all right, as this fruit juice leaves the stomach almost entirely within that time.

Always Clearing Throat

Question—Mrs. K. B. writes: "I have to clear my throat real often, although I don't bring up any phlegm. It doesn't seem to be a habit. Could you tell me what causes this?"

Answer — Such symptoms are often forerunners of tuberculosis or bronchitis. Any irritation in the lungs may create the desire to cough, even when there is nothing to cough up. If the cause of the irritation is not removed, there may finally develop enough degeneration so that phlegm and pus will gather in quantities large enough to be coughed up. Every tickling cough, without phlegm, should be carefully considered and the cause removed.

The "Bland Diet"

Question—A. E. R. writes: "I get much from your articles in the paper, but I seem to be troubled with constipation, and someone has suggested I try "bland diet," as roughage seems to irritate. I want to know what you think of this diet."

Answer—I know what you mean by a "bland diet," but I do not recommend it. Rather, I advise you to take plenty of exercise, eat a large amount of cooked and raw greens, and take an enema daily, if necessary, until your bowels move naturally. Drink only a moderate amount of water, and that between meals, and not at mealtime.

Diabetes

Question—J. R. asks: "What remedy do you recommend as being correct for the treatment of diabetes?"

Answer—I do not recommend any "remedy" for diabetes outside of living on a carefully planned diet. Stop using starches and sugars, and write me a personal letter, giving me your name and address so I can send you more information on this subject.

RAINS LEAVE RANGES GOOD

Lambs Doing Best in 35 Years; Fight Diseases

By SAM ASHBURN
Written for the Associated Press

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 8. (AP)—July finds sheepmen of the Southwest buying bucks for the incoming season, fighting worm cases, accepting low prices for wool and good prices for lambs. Rains at the end of June improved the range situation and ended a feeling of suspense that creeps over the ranch industry when the skies are blue too long.

Lambs, the greater number of which are contracted, are doing fairly well, and some of the lambs dropped in February are weighing now 60 to 65 pounds. It was the greatest spring the sheep country ever witnessed and the lamp crops are the best in 35 years. There was little demand at the first of the month, but it will take what is left of the uncontracted lambs to care for contracts.

There has been a good deal of sore mouth, but the dry weather helped that situation. Big head, too, has been bothersome. The worms have been very bad and ranches all over the Southwest have been trapping for flies to reduce the losses.

Shearing is over and the shearers have gone to New Mexico, where there are half as many sheep as in this state.

Leases for sheep lands are high, commanding up to $1 an acre, and these prices obtain not only in the old sheep country, but farther east in the new territory devoted to them. Sheepmen have marched clear up to the banks of the Rio Grande, turned around and started back. Counties that 50 years ago had plenty of sheep, only to go out of the business in the Cleveland administration, are again boasting of 150,000 head of sheep and miles of wolf proof fencing.

Prices of sheep have dropped with the price of wool, and that has helped some to get into the game.

Cattle, on the other hand, are as high as they were last year.

The wool warehouses are being planned in several parts of the state. Up in the Panhandle they are buying lambs to feed on the maize crop and many think the Panhandle of Texas alone will feed 50,000 lambs this fall if not more.

Fatal Airplane Crash Is Under Investigation

WATERBURY, Conn., July 8. (INS)—Investigation was being made today into the airplane crash near here that cost the lives of Martin Brown, 34, air mail pilot of New Brunswick, N. J., and Gordon Spencer, Whittley, 19, of Arlington, N. J.

The men, with young Whittley at the controls, were flying to join an outing with friends at Lake Waramaug when their plane went into a tail spin.

Brown was a wartime flier and wounded three times by shrapnel. After the war he entered commercial aviation. Whittley greatly interested in aviation had only recently obtained his pilot's licenses.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The feature in cotton today was the government report estimating the area under cultivation in cotton as of July 1 at 48,457,000 acres or an increase of 3.2 per cent. After selling up from 18.13 to 18.50, October reacted to 18.40 but recovered, closing at 18.47. The general market closed steady at net advances of 19 to 25 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points under liquidation, combined with some commission house and local selling inspired by relatively easy cables.

July eased off to 17.94 and December to 18.40 during the morning, making net declines of about 6 to 14 points. There seemed to be trade buying of December at this figure and there was enough covering to steady prices up a few points before trading was suspended for the 20-minute interval to receive the government report.

When trading was resumed, prices were about 24 to 28 points higher than the last sales preceding the report, but the advance met considerable realizing and was followed by some irregularity during the early afternoon. July sold up to 18.25 in the late trading and December advanced to 18.73. Active months generally showed net gains of 20 to 25 points at the best, and close was within a point or two of the top.

In comment accompanying the figures on acreage, the crop reporting board said the production forecast as of Aug. 1 would be based on the acreage reported in cultivation on July 1 less the 10-year average abandonment in each state after that date.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. (AP)—After losing about 10 points soon after the start cotton rallied rather sharply later today on a bullishly construed government acreage report. October rallied from 18.06 to 18.34 and closed at 18.33 for a net gain of 17 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 17 points on all active months.

Liverpool cables were disappointing and the market here opened 4 to 8 points down. Although prices rallied a few points right after the start on the scattered showers in the belt over the week end, the market weakened again under some final liquidation in advance of the official report. October traded down to 18.05 and December 18.25, or 10 points under Saturday's close.

The report made the total acreage under cultivation July 1, 48,457,000 bales, an increase of 3.2 per cent compared with the same date last year. The figures were somewhat smaller than traders looked for as was evident by the wave of buying that followed publication.

Some realizing developed on the advance but was absorbed at setbacks of 5 to 6 points and in late trading October sold at 18.34, or 28 points above the low, while December gained 27 points trading to 18.52. The close was at or near the top.

Steel Takes Stock Market Lead As Money Rate Hike Checks Trade

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 8. (US)—Steel took the lead of the market again today in an advance to new high record average price territory. Steady demand put Steel common above 200 for gain of four points while other Standard Industrials were held back by an apparently unnecessary advance in the call money rate from seven to nine per cent.

Chain Store and Railroad stocks featured as groups with Montgomery Ward gaining 2⅜ and Sears Roebuck closing 3⅜ higher. New York Central advanced five points, Union Pacific 2¾, Pere Marquette 15, and Alleghany Corporation gained close to a point. Certain Specialties benefited from individual influences with Allied Chemical and Dye gaining 7½. Underwood Elliott Fisher 2½ and Business Machaines 11⅞. Oils and Coppers remained quiet and somewhat irregular. Turnover dropped under the 4,000,000 share level.

Money powers demonstrated they are not ready for a runaway stock market as yet. Inquiry of bankers, brokers and corporation heads revealed no good reason for the advance in the call rate to nine per cent while time money was easing. The alibi of the bankers was "Preparation for the mid-week settlement with the reserve as of Tuesday afternoon." There is no reason why the banks should not be in a good position to make such settlements without calling loans.

The most logical reaction to the higher rate was that it was due to the desire of the money powers to keep the stock market quiet. Last week the market gave all signs of increasing public participation that threatened record-breaking turnover again. The bankers want such development in the fall but just now their main idea is to improve the investment market.

Whenever the normal easing in money that should be experienced now threatens to influence too great a public participation in stock dealings rather than improvement in the bond market, it is to be expected that disciplinary action will be taken.

The group interested in Ludlum Steel were helped by a report that the company will make announcement soon of a profitable contract with a leading building organization. Underwood's new high was a further reflection of the improving earning power told of here on several occasions in the last few months. Split up of the stock before the end of the year is to be expected. Continental Baking "A" continued to display good accumulation as in addition to improvement in income, the stock enjoys a strong technical position by reason of the amount of shares taken out of the street in recent months. Nash enjoyed a little better demand from report that earnings for the first half year equalled $4.25 a share. Hudson directors, it was rumored, were planning a stock dividend.

Oil stocks continued to disappoint although important folks in the industry regard the trip abroad of officials of leading companies as a bullish development. The delegation will confer with leading oil men in Europe and try to reach agreement governing export business. It is doubtful that European oil men will make any definite agreement until they are shown that producers in this country are working in harmony but the meetings in England are expected to open the way for another conference here that will bring definite stabilization measures by next spring.

In the meantime most of the leading oil companies are earning more than they did in 1928 and while crude production shows a big increase, the consumption of gasoline shows an even bigger percentage of gain.

Improved sentiment toward the Mail Order and Chain Stores stocks reflected expectation of improved buying power in the agricultural districts that would add to the increasing earnings of leading companies. Several companies issued reports of sales that showed big gains over last year. The outstanding was the report of Safeway stores which showed increase of 96 per cent in sales of June.

The recent buying of the stock reflected knowledge of the gain in business which is expected to bring special developments for stockholders in the near furture. Montgomery Ward in addition to enjoying larger business is in strong technical position due to short selling influenced by brokerage advice recently.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—Quick right-about-face action of many traders turned the wheat market upward today, with substantial gains all around taking the place of early declines. Contrary to first indications, rains which had been received by the drought region northwest were later looked upon as of doubtful benefit, some experts contending that a large part of the spring wheat crop both in Canada and the United States had been damaged beyond help.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅝c to 1⅝c above Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅛c to ⅞c up, oats ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—(USDA)—Moderate activity prevailed around the 11-market circuit of hogs, with prices firm to 25c higher. The chief strengthening influence was further upturns in values on fresh pork. The day's extreme top of $12.15 was paid in Chicago for the lighter weights of butchers. Total offerings were around 124,700, a decrease of 4,000 from a week ago but about the same as the corresponding day last year.

Killing classes of sheep were unevenly steady to 25c higher. Fat lambs generally showed the most gain. Choice native lambs in Chicago scored $15.40, while Oregon lambs made $15.25. Omaha secured $12.75 for fed yearlings. The supply approximated 56,500 against 45,168 last Monday and 57,744 a year ago.

Cattle receipts at most points fell short of the number predicted late last week by many in the trade. Total arrivals around the loop were estimated at 59,700, an increase of 5,000 over a week ago, but 14,000 short of a year ago. Beef steers were with weight and well finished yearlings found a moderately active outlet at steady to slightly higher prices, but packers at some points inforced a moderate decline on the less desirable grades lacking in weight. Choice light and medium weight steers in Chicago realized $16.40, and several loads of heavy beeves brought $16.35. Numerous loads of fed Texas steers at Kansas City cashed from $13.25 to $14.50 and two consignments of winter Kansas grassers cleared to feeder buyers at $14.00 to $14.20. Common light weight South Texas grassers were very difficult to move.

FRUIT PRICES HOLD STEADY

Record Crop Marketed In Home Area

Hundreds of bushels of peaches and plums have been added during the past month to the great quantity of produce grown and marketed in the vicinity of Wichita Falls during the current year, local agricultural leaders stated Monday.

Practically all of the plum crop has been converted into jelly and butter in the homes of Wichita county residents, while larger quantities of peaches have been marketed at other points, many as far west as Amarillo and Plainview.

The second crop of peaches, which is now being gathered, is showing a much better quality of fruit than that in the first yield about a month ago, it was stated. Prices range from $1.25 to $3 per bushel, varying with the different species and in accordance with amounts purchased. Home grown fruit is paying the grower a higher comparative price than vegetables, it was said.

ACREAGE OF COTTON DROPS

Slight Decrease Shown In Government Report

WASHINGTON, July 8. (INS)—This year's cotton acreage is six-tenths of one per cent less than the record acreage of 48,730,000 acres planted in 1926, the crop reporting board said today in announcing that American cotton growers had 48,457,000 acres under cultivation on July 1. The present acreage is 3.2 per cent above that on July 1 a year ago.

In making this year's estimate allowance was made for any acreage which was abandoned prior to July 1 and for any acreage replanted and in cultivation on that date.

The increase in acreage has taken place mainly in the states from Alabama west, the eastern part of the belt showing only slight changes from last year.

The board will issue a production forecast on Aug. 1, based on the acreage in cultivation on July 1, less the 10-year average abandonment in each state after July 1. This will be the first production report of the year.

AXTON FISHER TOBACCO CO INC

The Axton-Fisher Tobacco company, Inc., was formed in March, 1928, in Kentucky, to acquire the business and assets of the Axton-Fisher Tobacco company chartered in 1905. The company manufactures smoking and chewing tobaccos and "Clown" and "Spud" cigarets. It maintains branch sales offices in 23 cities throughout the country. In May, 1928, the company purchased all the assets except real estate of Smith & Scott Tobacco company of Paducah, Kentucky.

As a result of keen competition in the tobacco industry net income in 1928 showed a sharp decline totaling $180,613. This compared with $574,984 in 1927.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding includes $1,000,000 in 6 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par and 50,000 shares of class "A" common and 100,000 shares of class "B" common. The class "A" common has second preference as to assets and cumulative dividends of $3.20 per share per annum. After class "B" common receives $1.60 per share or 7 per cent in stock in any year, class "A" and class "B" stock share equally in further distribution. The class "A" is convertible into class "B" at any time on a share per share basis. Initial dividends were started on the preferred at the required rate on July 1, 1928, and an initial dividend of 80c a quarter was started at that time and continued since on class "A." No dividends have been reported on class "B."

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $2,327,902, current liabilities amounted to $423,130 and net working capital $1,904,772. Book value of the class "B" stock amounted to $7.22 a share.

CANYON WHEAT MARK BROKEN

445 Cars Already Shipped From Area

Special to The Record News

CANYON, Texas, July 8.—A total of 445 cars of wheat already have been shipped from the Canyon-trade territory, according to grain buyers here. An additional 85 cars was estimated to be in storage either in elevators or on the ground.

More than 750,000 bushels of grain from the 1929 crop have been received by elevators in Canyon, Happy, Dawn and Umbarger, grain buyers advised. Fully 50 per cent of the crop yet is to be harvested, elevator managers estimated. Less than 60 per cent of the grain out already has been harvested, they believe.

On the basis of 85 cents per bushel, an exceedingly conservative price, grain sold up to Tuesday night represents a valuation of more than $560,000. Grain prices this week stood at 91 and 92 cents throughout the Canyon district.

All cars are being loaded about 10 per cent above their rated capacity, the grain buyers said. Railroad companies are encouraging overloading to this extent in order to facilitate moving of the crop, according to the elevator managers.

The 1929 crop seems without doubt to have set a record for all time both as to quality of wheat and total production.

Figures for the four towns in this territory are as follows: Canyon, 111 cars, with an undetermined amount in storage; Dawn, 25 cars; Umbarger, 68 cars; Happy, 325 cars. These figures, with the exception of Canyon, include grain in storage and already shipped to other markets.

Truck Operators To Meet Tuesday

Regulations outlined by the state railroad commission of Texas for the operation of truck lines under its supervision will be discussed Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the chamber of commerce by local truck operators, officials announced Monday.

Points in the new law, which took effect June 13, which were discussed at Galveston last Friday by the Texas and Southwestern Industrial Traffic leagues, will be explained Tuesday morning by James W. Chatham, manager of the chamber of commerce industrial and traffic department, who attended the Galveston meeting.

Printed copies of a digest made of the truck regulations made by local chamber of commerce officials will be distributed to the operators present Tuesday morning.

Application for operation of new truck lines must be filed with the state railroad commission, under the new law.

S. B. Boykin Wins Spur Trade Prize

SPUR, Texas, July 8. (Spl.)—S. B. Boykin, a farmer of four miles north of Spur, won the capital prize at Trades day here recently, when he took home a fine Jersey cow which is expected to become the nucleus of a fine dairy herd. The second prize, a fine brood sow, went to H. N. Springer of the Kalgary community, southwest of town. W. L. Hyatt, Jim Cross, W. M. Randall and Will Young each won roosters of selected strains to head preferred flocks. Hyatt won two of them.

The Spur Merchants' association is sponsoring these Trades' days in an effort to build up buying in Spur on the part of the farmers and hundreds attended each time to win prizes. The cow-sow-and-hen is featuring the prizes given in an effort to spur up diversified farming.

Dr. Thayer Attacks 'Over-Regulation'

PORTLAND, Ore., July 8. (INS)—Dr. William S. Thayer, president of the American Medical association, opened the 80th annual convention here today before the association's house of delegates with a slashing attack on governmental "over-regulation."

His keynote was "intolerance is the most fatal enemy of liberty."

"When in a country like ours," said Dr. Thayer, "the national government attempts to legislate for the whole country as to what we may or may not eat or drink, as to how we may dress, as to our religious beliefs or as to what we may or may not read, this is to interfere with those rights sacred to every English-speaking man; this is no longer a republican country, it is tyranny."

Enid Police Arrest Texas Slaying Suspect

ENID, Okla., July 8. (AP)—Enid police today were holding a man who gave his name as David E. Smith and who they believed was connected with the death at El Paso, Texas, last April 18 of Henry Clinger Jr., said to be the son of a wealthy Milton, Pa., couple.

Clinger, officers said they learned, disappeared from his Pennsylvania home several weeks before his body was found in a rooming house in El Paso.

Edison will submit to the 40 boys from 48 states, who are competing in his search for a successor, it was announced today.

The boys are scheduled to arrive here on July 30.

Crazed Drinker Opens Fire on Neighborhood

CHICAGO, July 8. (INS)—Evidently crazed by moonshine, Andrew Kelly, 55, terrorized neighbors today by shooting from windows of his bungalow and held scores of policemen at bay for half an hour until he was driven out by tear bombs and killed when he emerged firing. Kelly, a structural iron worker, had been brooding and drinking heavily since the death of his wife, friends said.

GRANITE WHEAT HARVEST ENDS

16 Cars Shipped and More Ready to Go

GRANITE, Okla., July 8. (Spl.)—Sixteen cars of wheat had been shipped out of Granite up to the middle of last week, according to John F. Cox, manager of the Farmers' Feed & Grain company. Four of these cars went to the association and the others sold outright.

Twenty-one cars will hold all the wheat produced in this section this year, although 30 cars were required to contain it last year. Harvesting ended in this territory last week.

The price for wheat opened at marketing time in this section at 80 cents though it advanced eight cents before marketing had been concluded. It was quoted at 88 cents the most of last week.

Shipments of wheat from this section are estimated to bring in around $25,000, which will put considerable money into local circulation.

20 ACRES OF WHEAT LOST IN BLAZE

GRANITE, Okla., July 8. (Spl.)—About 20 acres of wheat on the Mrs. Lily Brown farm, northwest of town, was destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. The tenant, W. A. Dillmanty, says he cannot explain how the wheat caught fire. With the wheat on the balance of the farm to guide in estimating, it is figured that between 400 and 500 bushels of wheat was lost.

A. & M. DISTRICT FARM AGENT TO AID DAIRY PROGRAM HERE

COUNTY SEEKS STATE HELP

Special Meeting of Leaders Called Wednesday

A special meeting of the county commissioners' court was called Monday for 10 o'clock Wednesday morning when members of the court will confer with John R. Edmonds, district agent from A. & M. college in connection with the proposed employment of a dairy expert for Wichita county. Members of the business men and farmers' committee which has been backing the movement will also attend the meeting.

Mr. Edmonds is making a special visit to Wichita Falls in an effort to further plans for obtaining state aid in the employment of the expert for the development of the dairying industry within the county. The selection of the man for the position has been temporarily delayed while the possibilities of obtaining financial help from the state are being investigated.

During the regular meeting of the court Monday afternoon the commissioners accepted the bid of the North Texas Furniture company for a dozen beds at $15.15 each, to be used in the hospital of the county farm. They also accepted the second quarterly report of Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, showing the collection of fees amounting to $3,073.44, and disbursements totaling $1209.20, leaving $864.24 on hand.

Mefford Acquitted In Auto Accident Trial

A jury in the county court at law Monday afternoon acquitted Roy Mefford of aggravated assault charges growing out of an automobile accident here several weeks ago. The state charged that Mefford had been guilty of negligence in injuring four persons, one an infant, in an accident on the Iowa Park road. The defense contended that the accident resulted when Mefford was blinded by the bright lights of a car approaching from the opposite direction.

Trial of Suit For $15,000 Damages Opens

Testimony for the plaintiff in Mrs. Elizabeth Tracy's $15,000 damage suit against the Wichita Ice company got under way in a special division of the 89th district court Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Tracy is asking damages in connection with the death of her husband, C. H. Tracy, in a fire box explosion at the ice company plant in June, 1928.

Employe of Continental Oil Gives Out Facts

"I Really Enjoy Living Now Since Taking Orgatone, and I Suffered for 10 Years," Says Wichita Man.

"It has been a mighty long time since I felt as well as I do since I have been taking Orgatone," said Marvin Cummins, of 1205 N. Seventh street, Wichita Falls, Texas. Mr. Cummins is a refinery operator for the Continental Oil Co., and is well known here in this vicinity and has many friends.

"I had been suffering with my stomach and indigestion for about the past 10 years," continued Mr. Cummins, "but it has been in a worse shape lately than ever before and guess I suffered with every kind of a pain and misery that a disordered stomach could cause. My food soured and I had to be very careful what I ate. Gas formed on my stomach, and the suffering it caused was terrible. My back and side ached all the time and I had sharp shooting pains. I had frequent headaches and was just tired and worn out all the time, and just dragged around, until I had just about reached the paint where I wanted to give up my work. I was very nervous and restless and didn't get but a few hours' sleep at night.

"My sisters had tried Orgatone and were greatly benefited and finally persuaded me to give it a trial. I really enjoy living now, since taking Orgatone and I have more vim and energy and feel simply fine. I eat anything I want, without the slightest indigestion. The severe pains have disappeared from my back and side, and my kidneys are back to normal. The gas doesn't form on my stomach, and I can work all day, without feeling at all tired. When I get to bed at night I do not have to get up, and sleep all night long, and get up in the morning feeling refreshed and ready for my day's work. I know from my own experience what Orgatone will do, I have gotten such wonderful results. I hope others will benefit from my experience."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, who are direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

Decatur Lions Treated To Real Old Country Meal At Meeting

DECATUR, Texas, July 8. (Spl)—Every item on the bill of fare, with the exception of coffee and bread, at a Lions club meeting held recently, was produced on the Oswald Scott farm. And what a meal! Chicken, gravy, snap beans, fried roasting ear corn, young beets, tomatoes, fresh cucumbers and luscious peach cobbler with cream. Mrs. J. M. Scott was captain of the group of Methodist ladies that prepared and served the delicious repast.

The members of the club responded to roll call by giving their opinions of the work of the legislature as to action taken on various bills.

COURT SETS IRELAND TRIAL

State's Witness to Face Jury For Holdup

Trial of Joe Ireland, charged with the robbery of the Spoonts drug store last Christmas night, has been tentatively set for next week, according to a list of criminal settings announced Monday afternoon by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. Ireland was indicted with R. B. Nichols and Fred Hostler, both of whom have accepted five-year sentences. Ireland has figured as one of the state's principal witnesses in the previous trials.

The settings in the 30th district court for next week include the trials of Hub Stanley and Hugh Butler on charges of theft and burglary in connection with the loss of $700 from the Silver store here on June 23. The cases against Stanley will be called first, Mr. Anglin announced.

The first case on the docket is against Walter Gorman, under two indictments for forgery. Other trials set for the week include: Frank Houston, negro, charged with burglary; Rachard Warren, child desertion; Mitchell Dooley, driving while intoxicated; Douglas Harvell, theft; Eddie Boone, negro, burglary, and John D. Reeves, child desertion.

Stringed Instruments To Feature Vaudeville

A feature of the weekly free vaudeville program at Bellevue park Wednesday night will be a stringed instrument quartet, composed of Mrs. Velma Lewis, Mrs. Clarice Clark, Claude Gold and Mrs. A. W. Ayres, it was stated Monday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The first three on the quartet are students of Mrs. Ayres.

Other numbers on the bill will include a reading by Mrs. Dorothy Gothard, a dance by Alta Knight, and a piano duet by Mrs. Wanda Highsmith and Miss Hera Hill. The Municipal band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will give several selections.

As a novelty presentation, the park department also is sponsoring an old fiddlers' contest.
