C-C Endorses Conservatory Of Music And Four-Year College

GRAND OPERA STAR OPENS SCHOOL JAN. 1

Dorothy Greathouse To Head Artists In Conservatory

BOARD OF ADVISORS

Wichitans Hope to Make City Music Center Of Section

Wichita Falls' program of providing every facility and service for residents of its territory in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma moved forward again Thursday morning when the board of directors of the chamber of commerce endorsed a conservatory of music and a four year college for the city, and heard announcements of plans to open the conservatory here Jan. 1.

Four-Year College

The four year college plan was explained by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools, who has appeared before practically every civic body in the city in his program. Chamber of commerce endorsement paves the way for the program which will bring the college about. The conservatory of music proved a surprise to the directors, and their endorsement was followed by the announcement that Miss Dorothy Greathouse, grand opera and concert singer, will open the school here Jan. 1.

Miss Greathouse, with a record with the Chicago Civic opera company and several years of concert work behind her, has been sought by a half dozen other cities in Texas to open her conservatory. The chamber of commerce endorsement was followed by the opening of definite work to have the conservatory in operation by the first of the year.

The question of the conservatory was presented to the directors by W. B. Hamilton and Mrs. G. B. Smedley. Mrs. Smedley told chamber of commerce leaders of Miss Greathouse's record, as an artist, and pointed out that the opening of a conservatory would be another link in this city's program of making Wichita Falls the capital of this section of the state. The conservatory will be operated as a Wichita Falls institution, with a board of advisers of Wichita Falls residents. The complete board will be announced within a few days, it was said.

"This is my favorite Texas city," Dorothy Greathouse told Wichitans when here in November. Thursday she made good on the statement with announcements that she will be the leading artist in the new Wichita Falls Conservatory of Music.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. DILLARD

Texas Pioneer Dies At Home Here Thursday

Mrs. J. E. Dillard, 75, pioneer Texas woman, died at her home, 2207 Talunar lane, Thursday night, following an illness of several weeks.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Hines mortuary, who will forward the remains to Kaufman, Texas, Mrs. Dillard's former home, for burial at that place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

An active member of the First Baptist church of Wichita Falls for many years, Mrs. Dillard was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She was the widow of Judge J. E. Dillard, who was for many years the district judge for Kaufman, Ellis and Rockwall counties, and who died 15 years ago at Kaufman.

Mrs. Dillard is survived by four children, Mrs. C. V. Lemen, Mrs. G. D. Anderson, and Mrs. W. C. Dillard of this city, and J. C. Dillard of Waco. Mrs. Landon H. Cullum of Wichita Falls is her granddaughter.

Deepest Well's Flow Continues to Increase

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 6. (AP)—The flow of both oil and gas from the world's deepest producing well continued to increase today.

Group One Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 1-B University in Reagan county in the last 24 hour test flowed 417 barrels of oil, an increase of 75 barrels, and the volume of gas had risen from 8,004,000 to 8,300,000 cubic feet from an approximate depth of 8,525 feet.

Smyrna Caught In Wake of Big Flood

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 6. (AP)—The city of Smyrna, blighted frequently in its long history by fire and earthquake, now is suffering from a serious flood.

A week's deluge of rain caused nearby rivers to overflow and all lower quarters of the city and neighboring villages were inundated.

Lone Socialist Fosters Bill Against Ku Klux

Police Act on Tip That Garage Was Marked For Hijacking

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Dec. 6—An Electra youth was in a hospital here late tonight with a serious bullet wound on his face, and another man was in jail following the frustration by officers of an attempt to hold up the proprietor and three patrons at the Miller garage on East Cleveland avenue.

Police officers Jim Gordon and Roy Hart said they had been tipped off that an attempt to rob the garage was to be made. They were in hiding near the garage when they saw three persons being held at bay by two armed and masked men. The officers entered the garage, commanding the pair to put up their hands. When the man covered by Officer Gordon made a move to resist, Gordon fired, he said. The other man did not offer resistance.

The officers said Mr. Miller, owner of the garage, and the three patrons, Jack Ogle, L. E. Johnson and Cyril White, had already turned over a considerable sum of money to the masked pair.

Hospital attendants late tonight had not announced the full extent of the youth's injuries, although they said the facial wound was serious.

'Mob' Kills Police Chief, Shoot Wife

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Leroy Gilbert, chief of police of South Chicago Heights, was shot to death as he sat in his home tonight.

Two gunmen, standing outside the house, poured the charges of sawed-off shotguns into the back of the police chief's head as he sat reading.

Mrs. Gilbert was shot through the hand as the fusillade continued after her husband had slumped forward in his chair.

Temperature Sinks Near Freezing Mark

With fair weather, slightly colder in the north part of West Texas predicted for Friday night, the thermometer was on the downgrade early Friday morning.

At 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, the mercury stood at 41 degrees and held close until shortly before 10 o'clock Thursday night. The drop then started, taking the reading steadily down to 34 degrees at 1 o'clock Friday morning.

Railway dispatchers report weather along the lines in the territory surrounding Wichita Falls similar to that here, with no freeze reported up to a late hour Thursday night.

Drink and Debts Are Blamed for Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—"Drink and debts" were the reasons assigned by police today for a triple tragedy here in which Thomas B. Miskimon, 57, shot and killed his wife, Leola S. Miskimon, 43, his six-year-old step-granddaughter, Norma Middkiff, and then blew his brains out. Mrs. Miskimon was a clerk in the war department.

The bodies were discovered last night by Mrs. Midkiff when she returned to the house. She told the police her stepfather had been drinking for several days and was worried by debts.

HERE'S NEWS

Texas Churches Show Big Growth Since 1916 Survey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (US)—There were 2,280,514 church members in Texas in 1926, compared with 1,784,630 in 1916, the U. S. census bureau announced today.

During the 10-year period, the number of denominations increased from 76 to 86, and the number of congregations from 14,295 to 15,880.

The number of church edifices was 12,474, valued at $109,736,370, compared with 10,880 valued at $40,491,839 a decade before. Church debts aggregated $12,684,333, an increase of $7,500,000.

Seventeen denominations enumerated in 1916 failed to appear in 1926, while 27 shown in the latest census were not reported in 1916.

CHARITY FUND GOAL IN DOUBT

Community Chest $15,000 Under Subscribed

"Will Wichita Falls, the City That Faith Built, show its faith in completing the Community chest fund?"

This question was asked Thursday by A. E. Kelly, campaign manager, in announcing the campaign had reached $50,067. This is $15,000 short of the $65,000 goal.

A special committee will comb the city Friday and final efforts will be made to reach the goal.

Saturday night a special radio program will be given over station KGKO from 7 o'clock until unconscious, according to chest headquarters announcements. This program will be in appreciation of the gifts received and in celebration of the drive going over the top, for by that time the chest workers are confident that Wichitans will have done their part to make the drive a success.

A constant stream of givers poured into chest headquarters Thursday with their subscriptions, and many more are expected at the headquarters Friday.

A number of persons who were not solicited came to the chest headquarters with their subscriptions, and Mr. Kelly urged that anyone who has not been contacted do the same, for the need is urgent.

King's Condition Still Unchanged

LONDON, Dec. 6. (US)—In a bulletin issued at 8:20 this evening and signed by the four physicians attending King George, the condition of the king shows no improvement. The bulletin reads:

"The king's general condition is the same as that reported in this morning's bulletin. The localization of the infection at the base of the right side of the chest is rather more defined, which conforms to the progress of the illness."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, E. Farquhar Buzzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson of Penn.

Birth Control Leader Pleased With Sentence

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 6. (INS)—"It seems to me almost like the beginning of a new world to learn that a judge has used such good intelligence in imposing a birth-control 'sentence' instead of granting divorce." This was the comment today by Mrs. Margaret Sanger, pioneer exponent of birth control, on the "common sense" judgment of Judge Harrison W. Ewing of Cleveland, who imposed a three year birth control on Otto Kourim, 27, and his 22-year-old wife, who had applied for divorce.

Oklahoma Boys Held After Bank Is Looted

SAPULPA, Okla., Dec. 6. (UP)—Two boys, John Eldridge and Dennis Williams, were held here tonight on charges of having robbed the Kellyville bank early today. In the meantime, posses still were searching for a third man believed to have aided the boys in the robbery.

The boys were captured and, although they have not confessed, both were identified by H. H. Harvey, cashier of the bank. The money, $1,095, was found near their hiding place.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR GETS SENATE'S FIRE

Strong Opposition Looms To Appointment Of Roy O. West

WALSH HAS QUERIES

Famed Oil Investigator To Determine Just How Lawyer Feels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (UP)—Opposition to confirmation of the appointment of Roy O. West of Illinois as secretary of interior appeared in the senate when the name was forwarded by President Coolidge today.

Termination to hold open hearings termination to hol dopen hearings at which West would be questioned regarding utilities connections which might make him a prejudiced party in passing upon power questions which come before the secretary of interior who is exofficio chairman of the federal power commission.

Meeting Called

The nomination went to the public lands committee of the senate and Chairman Nye called a meeting for Saturday to consider procedure. Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who conducted the Teapot Dome investigation for the committee, said today he desired to ask West whether he took prompt action concerning the Salt Creek lease to Harry F. Sinclair which was recently ordered canceled by the attorney general.

Immediately after this decision was announced West ordered the lease canceled. It was renewed under his predecessor, Hubert Work. The attorney general's opinion is understood to have been prepared some time previously and to have been made public only after its existence became known, almost at the end of the recent presidential campaign. Walsh wishes to know whether West knew of this decision before its publication was forced by Senator Walsh and if so whether he took any steps to cancel the lease immediately.

Insull Associate

Other senators including Pittman of Nevada and Dill of Washington wish to question West about his utilities connections. West was former Republican national committeeman for Illinois and secretary of the Republican national committee. He also was intimately associated with Samuel Insull and was questioned in the senate investigation which resulted in barring Frank L. Smith from his seat in the senate. West in his testimony revealed he had extensive holdings in the Insull utilities group. Insull companies are applicants for water power rights now being considered by the federal power commission.

Senator Pittman said he intended to investigate legal and ethical aspects of the appointment.

Congressional Medal To Fire Room Hero

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (UP)—Because he risked death by descending into the steam filled fire room of a ship and rescued a companion, William Russell Huber, U. S. N. will receive a congressional medal of honor from President Coolidge next Saturday.

The feat for which Huber, a machinist's mate, will be honored was performed last June after a boiler accident on the U. S. S. Bruce, then tied up at Norfolk, Va.

Machinists Mate Huber is 26 years old and has served in the navy for eight years.

Smith Denies He Will Not Protest Election

McALLEN, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—Ernest Smith, defeated by W. R. Montgomery of Edinburg for the Texas legislature, denied here today that he had told Montgomery he would not contest Montgomery's election.

Montgomery, in a dispatch from Austin, was quoted as having declared Smith had told him he knew nothing of letters which had been distributed saying Smith would contest the election.

Eskimos Lose Fear of Strange 'Bird' Flown by Santa Explorers

By CAPTAIN F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent of The Record News and Head of Expedition to Home of Santa Claus

POLAZEROK VILLAGE, Eskimoland, Dec. 6.—(By Wireless)—In yesterday's dispatch I related to you our great flight from Hudson Bay to Victoria Land, north of the Arctic circle, and our reception by the Eskimos. Their fears of the monster birds without feathers are completely allayed and they now regard our machines as merely another marvelous vehicle of the white man.

The more they see of such things as a rifle which kills an animal with a little pebble at a long distance, or a watch or a phonograph, the less they think of it. Everything is possible to the white man.

We have excavated two big holes in a snow bank on the side hill and pulled in our precious planes. We are the honored guests of our Eskimos, and they have turned over to us their Kos-se-ga.

In the winter the Eskimos live in very small houses or igloos such as I described in my last dispatch for they have very little fuel with which to heat their igloos and keep warm. Two families often live together. They have a stone dish full of seal oil and reindeer moss is used as a wick. This lamp heats and lights their igloo. There is no room in these crowded little huts to do any work such as the men have to do.

Rumors of Delivery Worry Jail Protectors

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6. (UP)—Nerves of guards at the county jail were on edge tonight as persistent rumors of a wholesale jail delivery prompted Sheriff John L. Miles today to bar all visitors and increase the number of guards. Among the reports were that small saws were being smuggled into the cells, one end of the jail was to be blown out and that forces of the underworld plan to rush the jail and overpower the guards. The most desperate group of criminals is now lodged in the jail, the sheriff said.

HALL NAMED PRISON SLAYER

Witness Tells of Shooting In Prison Break

RICHMOND, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—The story of a heat-ridden cotton field where convicts labored under armed supervision, of a break for liberty and fatal shooting of a guard, was told today by Jim Jeter in the trial of Raymond Hall, alias R. H. Tucker, charged with murder of Dog Sergeant Henry Ward at Imperial state farm, July 27.

Jeter identified Hall as the man who kneeled in the cotton and from a gun he a moment before had seized from Jeter, hurled a load of buckshot into the face of Sergeant Ward and "shot him off his horse."

Jeter said he witnessed the shooting from a distance of about 50 yards and said he was positive Hall was the man who killed his fellow guard.

Three other guards, Oscar Loggins, L. E. McKinnon and Jack Stiles told about the same story, with the exception that they were not able to identify Hall as the man who fired the fatal shot. In each case they were too far away to see anything except the more apparent actions in the tragedy, they testified.

WOMAN NAMES TWO OFFICERS IN COURT HERE

Sobbing Prisoner Reveals Cost of 'Protection' To Judge Atwell

PROBE IS ORDERED

Jurist Dictates Letter As Woman Awaits Her Sentence

Charges that two federal prohibition agents had been paid an aggregate sum of $875 to keep her case out of court, made by Mrs. Rickey Ketchum as she stood for sentence Thursday afternoon, brought proceedings to an abrupt halt while Judge W. H. Atwell in open court dictated a letter asking for a speedy and careful investigation by the United States district attorney at Fort Worth.

Mrs. Ketchum, called to be sentenced on her third conviction for violation the prohibition laws, brought the charges as she pleaded for the mercy of the court. When she asserted that she had "paid two different prohibition agents to fix it up," Judge Atwell called for the clerk of the court, gravely advised Mrs. Ketchum not to reflect on anyone unless she was sure, and began an immediate detailed questioning.

Logsdon Named

Answering his questions, the woman said she had paid $300 to a Mr. Logsdon and $375 to a Mr. Beek, both prohibition agents operating out of Fort Worth. The payments were made about three months ago, she asserted. She added that she paid $280 of the money to Logsdon in traveler's checks. The other payments were in cash, she told the court.

While the defendant remained standing, Judge Atwell dictated a letter to Norman Albert Dodge, United States district attorney, enclosing a verbatim transcript of his questioning of the prisoner, and suggesting any "appropriate proceedings" justified by an investigation.

Atwell for Probe

He turned then to the prisoner awaiting sentence. "I can't make any statement because it is possible that the case may be tried before me, and I do not want to disqualify myself," he began. "It is how-

Morrow 'Ignorant' Of Cabinet Rumor

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—Asked if the report that he will be appointed secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet were true, Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, with a smile remarked: "I know nothing about it," when he passed through here this afternoon en route to Washington, D. C., where he will spend the Christmas holidays.

His wife, his daughter, Ann, and his secretary, A. R. Springer, were traveling with him in what he said was a vacation trip to the national capital. He expects to return, he said, to Mexico early in January.

When questioned about the rumored engagement of his daughter and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Ambassador Morrow said "that is a personal matter."

Morrow, in a private car, Mare's Pole, on train No. 4 of the Missouri Pacific line, is scheduled to reach Little Rock, Ark., at 8 o'clock Friday morning and St. Louis at 7:45 Friday evening.

Cleveland Cops Hold Corps of Gangsters

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 6. (INS)—Twenty-three alleged gangsters and gunmen, who gathered in Cleveland early this week from other cities, and who were rounded up by police yesterday in a fashionable downtown hotel, were still held in city prison today as detectives sought to find the reason for their coming here.

Champion of All Livestock Brings Iowa Boy $8,000 When Auctioned

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (UP)—A new record price for prize beef was established at the International Livestock exposition today when Dick, the grand champion Hereford yearling, was sold at auction for $8,000, a rate of approximately $7 per pound.

J. C. Penney of New York was the high bidder. The previous record of $3.60 per pound was established at the 1926 exposition. Dick weighed 1,180 pounds.

The champion steer was raised by Clarence Goecke, 13-year-old boy of State Center, Iowa.

A prize winning carload of Angus yearlings exhibited by E. T. Hall, Mechanicsburg, Ill., was sold at $44 a hundredweight to Abrogast Bastion, Allentown, Pa. The price was 50 cents a hundredweight below the world's record price.

Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa, exhibited the grand champion carcass swine today with a Berkshire entry.

The grand champion carcass sheep was a Southdown entry of John D. Larkin, Queenstown, Ont.

The "King Albert cup," the highest honor in the Belgian horse division was won by the Michigan State college of East Lansing with a 2-year-old Belgian stallion, "Preston Wolfe."

Charles Smith, Electra Resident For 22 Years, Dies of Injuries

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Dec. 6—Charles Smith, 43, Electra resident for 22 years, died at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from injuries received last Friday when he fell from a motor truck on which he was riding. Mr. Smith suffered a fractured skull in the accident and did not regain consciousness before his death.

Funeral services have been set for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the First Baptist church with the Rev. W. W. Rivers in charge. Burial will be in the Electra cemetery.

Mr. Smith came to Electra from Farmersville, Texas. He had been in the employ of the Magnolia Petroleum company here for the past 14 years.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Smith of Bells, Texas; three brothers, Opal and W. W. Smith of Electra and Raymond Smith of Bells; four sisters, Misses Jewel and Tinsey Smith of Bells; Mrs. Ruby Nell Halliburton of El Paso and Mrs. Patsy Hansard of Dallas.

Mrs. Halliburton and Mrs. Hansard are expected to arrive here for the funeral. The other relatives have been in Electra since Mr. Smith was injured.

ever, more important than your matter and demands not only searching but speedy investigation."

Prefacing his judgment with an expression of sympathy, the judge then sentenced Mrs. Ketchum to a year and a day in the state reformatory at Frankfort, Ky., and assessed a $500 fine. He denied her plea for a jail sentence here, asserting that he had never given a jail sentence on a third offense and that he could "play no favorites."

"I'm sorry for you," he said. "I've been sorry for you every time I've sentenced you. This law is the law. Those who seek to misguide others by laughing at it and defying bootleggers with a multiplicity of customers only make the road harder. And the road comes inevitably to a bitter and a sorrowful end."

Mrs. Ketchum was brought before Judge Atwell about 5:30 Friday afternoon. Weeping, she first asked the mercy of the court.

"I've had a hard time and spent a lot of money," she said. "I have to take care of my mother and father, and a few weeks ago their little home burned. My father is not expected to live long. I ask for mercy and promise that I'll never be before you again."

She hesitated a moment, then went on in a low tone:

"I've been out a lot of money on this case. I've paid two different prohibition agents money to fix it up. They told me it would never come to trial, and now look at me."

Judge Atwell paused a moment before he said: "Do you know that what you have just said is terrifically serious? I must advise you not to reflect on anyone unless you are very sure."

His personal investigation of her statement began there. Before the adjournment the letter and questions were already transcribed and being prepared for the mail.

The charges and the decisive action of the court came just a few minutes before the adjournment, sine die, of the semi-annual session of the United States district court here. The court convened on Nov. 19, and had almost completed a session remarkable only for its speedy handling of a large number of cases when Mrs. Ketchum was brought for sentence. Her case was first called within three days after the opening of the term, but was twice postponed before its trial Thursday.

Room Half Filled

The prominence of the case and rumors of a statement Mrs. Ketchum might have to make had halffilled the courtroom in spite of the lateness of the hour. Court officials, half a dozen attorneys, and the group of spectators leaned forward to hear every word spoken by the weeping woman, and to observe the action of the court.

The letter to Mr. Dodge and the statement of Mrs. Ketchum are quoted in full below:

Wichita Falls, Texas,
Dec. 6, 1928.

United States Attorney,
Fort Worth, Texas.
Dear Sir:

Attached you will find a stenographic report of a statement made by Mrs. Ketchum, a defendant who stood before me today for sentence.

This statement was made at the time of her sentence and when asked by the court what, if anything, she had to say about her sentence. I advised her to be careful about her statement and not to reflect upon anyone unless she was sure of what she was saying, and she said that she did know what she was saying, and made the statement that is attached.

Of course you appreciate the seriousness of the charge, and I am sure you will see that it is given speedy and careful investigation, with a view to appropriate proceedings if an investigation justifies.

This letter is written to you in open court, and in the presence of Mrs. Ketchum and the public, because it was in this atmosphere she made the statement.

Yours very earnestly,
WILLIAM H. ATWELL,
United States District Judge.
WHA-I.

The statement of Mrs. Rickie Ketchum:

The court—What time did you make payment to someone?

A. Well, I don't remember; I have the traveler's checks that I paid, that will show the date.

Q. To whom did you pay the money?

A. I paid Mr. Logsdon.

Q. What sum?

A. Five hundred dollars.

Q. About how long ago?

A. I should judge it has been at least three months ago, as well as I can remember.

Q. What position does he hold?

A. At the time he was federal prohibition officer, I think.

Q. Stationed here, at Wichita Falls?

A. No, sir, at Fort Worth.

Q. To whom did you pay other moneys?

A. Mr. Beck.

Q. And what position does he hold?

A. He is a federal prohibition officer.

Q. Stationed where?

A. At Fort Worth, I think, I don't know.

Q. What amount did you pay him?

A. $375.00.

Q. In checks?

A. No, sir, in money.

Q. You paid him cash, and Logsdon you paid checks?

A. I gave him $150.00 in money and $350.00 in traveler's checks.

ACCUSED AGENTS OUT OF SERVICE

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6. (AP)—Both prohibition agents accused in federal court in Wichita Falls today by Mrs. Rickey Ketchum with accepting $875 from her as liquor law protection money left the service Oct. 15, according to George A. Hammons, deputy prohibition administrator for this district.

Hammons said he had not heard before anything of the charges made by the woman. He said an investigation would be made. Hammons stated that W. R. Logsdon and J. H. Beck, apparently the two agents accused, could not be reached tonight for statements.

Hammons said Beck lives in San Antonio and Logsdon in Fort Worth.

Norman A. Dodge, United States district attorney, said he learned a few days ago that the woman would offer the charges as a part of her defense. Dodge said he understood Mrs. Ketchum would accuse agents other than the ones who were instrumental in filing the charges against her. In this connection Hammons declared that he was certain Logsdon and Beck were not the agents who filed the complaint because they had never worked as a pair while in the service.

Dodge declined to say how he would proceed in making the investigation as asked for by Judge Atwell.

Poll Tax Payments Here Lag Behind 1928 Record

Only 600 poll tax receipts for 1929 have been issued from the collector's office, Roy Jones, chief deputy in the office of the county tax collector, said Thursday afternoon. The taxes have been payable since Oct. 1 and will be delinquent after Jan. 31, he said. The 600 receipts are notably behind the normal for December, according to the collector's records.

A total of 18,648 receipts were issued last year, but the collector is expecting no more than 14,000 for the coming year. He explained that 1929 is an off year for politics and the voting interest may be expected to be light.

JEWS OBSERVE ANCIENT FEAST

Hanukkah Ceremonies By Two Congregations.

Celebration of Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, will be observed Friday night at Temple Israel and at the House of Jacob, the two local Jewish congregations.

In the Friday evening service at Temple Israel, the ceremonial lighting of the Hanukkah lights will be performed by children chosen from the Sabbath school.

Three services are announced at the House of Jacob in connection with the eight day observation of the historic feast, the first on Friday evening at 7 o'clock, the next at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, and the third on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The Sunday meeting will introduce the children of the congregation, who will present a program of recitations, songs, etc., and will for the most part conduct the service.

The Feast of Lights commemorates the victory of the small Judaistic party in Palestine in the early second century before the Christian era, under the Maccabees, over the Syrian forces which were attempting at that time a military and cultural conquest of the Jews around Jerusalem. Defeat of the invadors, restoration of the temple, and of the ancient Hebrew worship is celebrated in this mid-winter ceremony.

CONSERVATORY OPENS JAN. 1

Grand Opera Singer To Come to Wichita

securing such a capable artist to launch its conservatory of music," Mr. Hamilton said after the meeting.

Wichita Wins Over Others

"Several other Texas cities, including Dallas, Fort Worth and Amarillo, have sought Miss Greathouse for the same program, and her selection of Wichita Falls should be a matter of pride to residents of this city. She is a 'daughter of the west,' an artist with years of training as a singer and as a teacher, and with the support of the people of this section, should make Wichita Falls the center of musical culture in southwest."

While she is already nationally known as a grand opera and concert singer, Miss Greathouse revealed Thursday that the opening of a conservatory of music has been her dream for many years of musical preparation.

"This will be a conservatory for all the people of the Southwest," she declared.

"It has been my ambition for years. I have selected Wichita Falls of my own accord, and after visiting and singing in most of the important cities of Texas, I know of no other city in which I should prefer to begin this work."

Brings Pupils Here

At the opening of the conservatory, Miss Greathouse will bring here a number of pupils from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, who have already asked to be enrolled wherever she opens her conservatory. With her will also come Miss Kathryn Orr, pianist and her accompanist in concert work for the last six years, who will have charge of the piano department of the school. Miss Orr has been trained as a pianist since the age of three, and was accompanist to many noted artists before joining Miss Greathouse. Other artists will be added to the staff of the conservatory as fast as the program of work can be outlined. Leaders in the movement for the school were busy selecting a site for the conservatory Thursday afternoon, and expect to complete the survey within the next few days.

Miss Greathouse has considerable experience as a teacher of voice, in addition to her concert and grand opera work. She was a pupil of Charles Dalmores, one of the most famous of the Chicago teachers, and later became his assistant in teaching. She has a number of pupils who have made records in concert work, and herself has been a student of many of the leaders of voice in America for the last 14 years. Among her teachers were Herman Deveries, Thomas McBurney, Hanna Butler, Joseph Schwickerath, now director of the Philharmonic orchestra, and Madame Gardini, all of whom have grand opera records. She has been in grand opera and concert work for the last several years, and has appeared many times in Texas and New Mexico, and once in Wichita Falls in November. It was during this concert here that she began the serious consideration of opening her conservatory here.

Music Center Here

Wichita Falls residents backing the program hope to make the conservatory the center of musical education in this territory within a few years, it was said. One of the features of such a school will be the provision of stage routine training without the necessity of sending students to other cities. Miss Greathouse has had four years of training in stage and dramatic art and technique, it was revealed.

Miss Greathouse was born in Kentucky, a member of a well-known old Southern family, but moved with her father to New Mexico when about eight years of age. Her father is the owner of a 20,000 acre New Mexico ranch and other properties. She has been trained in music since childhood.

Ruins of vast buildings, statues and other signs of a once prosperous civilization have been found on Easter island, in the middle of the Pacific.

OLNEY SEEKS DAIRY OUTLET

C.-C. Leaders Study Work In Wichita Area

M. Gruver, manager of the chamber of commerce at Olney, and J. G. Bishop, agricultural instructor in the schools and agricultural agent for the chamber of commerce at Olney, spent Wednesday in Wichita Falls in conference with officials of the local organization in the interest of dairy promotion in their city.

According to Mr. Gruver, the Olney chamber of commerce has been engaged for some time in an effort to increase the production of milk in the community. Recently, he said, a number of high grade Jersey cows have been secured by farmers near that city, and are to be followed by constant additions.

Mr. Gruver and Mr. Bishop conferred with Hubert Harrison, general manager, and O. K. Barnes, agricultural agent, of the local chamber of commerce, and visited a number of farms near this city to inspect milk herds. Negotations are under way for adequate freight facilities to permit the marketing of a considerable amount of cream from Olney in this city, it was said.

A COMMON MISUNDERSTANDING

THOSE who have heard the Orthophonic Victrola say it is the greatest musical instrument of all time. They will tell you it is ALL musical instruments in one, including the human voice. They will tell you that nothing takes its place . . . nothing . . . because the music it brings can be had in the home in no other way.

One minute it is the Philadelphia Orchestra, with Leopold Stokowski conducting, and perhaps saying a few words to you. Five minutes later it is Lucrezia Bori or Maria Jeritza singing something you have heard her sing at the opera. Presto! . . . and George Olsen or the Coon-Sanders Night Hawks are playing a dance program that never signs off till you say.

But there is some misunderstanding that is shutting out this incomparable entertainment to thousands of people who want it.

These are the people who think such an instrument is beyond their means. Or that it at least "costs a lot of money." Nothing is farther from the fact. You can buy an Orthophonic Victrola for as little as $95, list. Not only that. If you want to pay a little down and so much a month, it can be arranged.

Now that you know the truth, there is no longer any reason to deny yourself the sheer pleasure of Orthophonic ownership. Christmas is not far away. Dealers' stocks are at their best. For yourself or for a fortunate friend, you could not invest money to better advantage. The cabinets are as beautiful as the melodies that flow from them.

Don't let this Christmas go by without one of these instruments. More than a million happy owners echo: "Don't!"

GIRLS TO SAIL FOR FORTUNES

Pair Adopted by Marchioness Arrive in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (INS)—Your majesties, meet Marjorie and Isabelle, 9 and 10. They used to live in Chicago, but now they are jolly English—we hope.

These two Cinderella maids, en route to a place in British nobility and an inheritance of millions, arrived in New York today from Chicago.

Arthur Campbell Jr., extremely English, shepherded the lucky youngsters. He will take them to the home of his mother, the marchioness of Huntley, at Orton hall, Peterborough, England.

The little girls, daughters of Lloyd G. Meuser, Chicago, advertising man who died last February, looked like any two American children. They were dressed alike, in navy blue coats and blue berets and bare knees showed above their socks.

Believe in Santa

"Do you believe in Santa Claus?" Isabelle and Marjorie were asked.

Visions of the old-time English Christmas with a crackling yule log, plum pudding and a Christmas tree like the tower of London.

"I do," answered bright-eyed Marjorie, the youngest.

"I do," said red-cheeked Isabelle.

"And fairy tales?" was asked.

Both nodded in chorus, emphatically.

Who wouldn't, under the circumstances?

Newspaper photographers asked Campbell if the little girls would pose for pictures.

"Oh, I say," protested Campbell. The sisters looked at their guardian pleadingly.

The youngsters locked arms. The cameramen did not have to ask them to smile. The flashlights sputtered and boomed on the train platform of the Grand Central terminal. Isabelle and Marjorie took it like the little English ladies they were going to be.

Lived With Stepmother

The Meuser children have been living with their stepmother, Mrs. Louise Meuser. Their great aunt, the marchioness, was formerly Mrs. Arthur E. Campbell, of Chicago. Her present husband, the marquis, holds 12 titles. He is 81 years old.

The necessary adoption papers were signed by a Chicago judge. Now the two children are on their way to a new life of luxury, court appearances and all those things.

"Can you girls curtsy?" they were asked.

"Oh, I say," exclaimed Campbell. The youngsters giggled outright, a very American giggle.

Campbell rushed them away to an unknown place of seclusion.

It is reported they sail in a few days on the Majestic for Merrie, England.

Theory of Girl's Suicide Doubted

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 6. (UP)—Mystery surrounding the death of Pearl Potoskey, who was found shot to death in the De Soto, Mo., apartment of Sol Hohenthal, wealthy bachelor, deepened today, when experts declared the shot which killed her could not have been fired from the rusty pistol found beside her body.

After a microscopic examination of the gun police said the "condition of the gun is per se evidence that no cartridge has been fired from it for ages."

The announcement disrupts the suicide theory. Hohenthal is at liberty under $1,000 bond on charges of carrying a concealed weapon, at Miss Potoskey's funeral yesterday.

Rice Men Plan to Advertise Nationally

CROWLEY, La., Dec. 6. (UP)—A plan to advertise rice nationally by using funds supplied by those concerned in the rice industry was submitted to a gathering of 75 rice men here today by Col. James E. Edmonds, of New Orleans.

Among those present were J. E. Broussard and B. A. Steinhagen, Beaumont, Texas, rice millers.

Judge Seeks Method of Enforcing Birth Control Order

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 6. (UP)—Judge Harrison W. Ewing today still is faced with the task of adopting some method by which a birth control order imposed by him on a young Cleveland couple can be carried out.

The jurist stipulated that Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kourim, who had applied to him for a divorce, must practice birth control for a period of three years, "so they may not impose more children on themselves or society."

Furloughs Granted To Texas Convicts

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 6. (UP)—To permit him to visit the sick bed of his 89-year-old father, E. M. (Essie) Hughes was granted a seven-day furlough from the penitentiary today. He is serving a three-year liquor sentence from Grayson county.

Pearl Sedgwick was granted a 30-day furlough to visit his wife and babies who are living with his blind father. He is serving two years for burglary in Williamson county.

Jack Moore, serving 15 years for murder from Milam county, was given 30 days to visit his sick wife.

Tombs Jailbreaker Held for Burglary

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (INS)—Robert Weiner, convict who figured in the sensational Tombs jail break attempt here two years ago, was arrested here early today charged with burglary. Weiner and two companions who were captured after a terrific battle with detectives, are responsible for more than score of burglaries here recently, according to police.

In the Tombs jailbreak attempt three convicts killed a warden and a keeper and then committed suicide when cornered. Weiner was convicted of first degree murder as the man who furnished the guns.

Actors Plead Not Guilty to Charges of Indecency

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 6. (INS)—Four members of the cast of the Schubert New York musical revue, "Gay Paree," featuring the noted comedian, Charles (Chic) Sale, pleaded not guilty in municipal court here today to charges of participating in an indecent production.

Valentine Kennedy, manager of the fashionable Biltmore theater, where the revue is being staged, was a fifth defendant in court and also pleaded not guilty.

All five defendants were arrested in an after-performance raid, conducted by police vice officers, who declared that a bedroom scene of the revue was "too raw for the public."

Performances, however, were allowed to continue, pending the outcome of the trial.

Oklahoma Farmer Gets Life Term for Murder

CLAREMORE, Okla., Dec. 6. (UP)—H. P. Strickland, 62, farmer, was sentenced today to life imprisonment in the Oklahoma state penitentiary for killing his neighbor, S. T. Griffin, 60, in a dispute over hogs.

Strickland based his defense on the allegation he was defending his daughter, Vera. His trial was completed in two days.

The Social Side—Wichita Falls' Woman's Interests—Clubs and Churches

Local Music Lovers to Hear Russian Cossack Chorus Friday

Music lovers of Wichita Falls who remember so pleasantly the delightful evening furnished by the Russian Symphonic choir two years ago are looking forward to a similar pleasure in the Russian Cossack chorus which is to be presented at the Woman's Forum Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Russian people have attained an ensemble of music which few other people can boast, it is said. One of the things which probably tends to produce such perfection is the fact that they usually sing without musical accompaniment, thus depending more on themselves and less on the instrument.

The 18 male voices that make up the Russian Cossack chorus come as one of the most perfect of these groups yet to tour America, Forum leaders declared.

Members of the Woman's Forum will be admitted on their membership cards and nonmembers will be admitted both afternoon and night for $1. Members that have not yet received their blue membership cards will be given an opportunity to pay their dues and get their card.

The program will be given as follows:

Serenade—Moisseff.
Selection from the opera, "Bandura"—Davidovsky.
Sentinel's song—Kunz.
Cossack's Prayer Before the Battle—Kolatilin.
Prisoner's Escape—Turenkoff.
Volga Boatman song—Socoloff.
A Cossack Party—Davidovsky.
Legend of Christ—Tschaikovsky.
Popular Russian songs—Socoloff.
Songs of Russia—Kolatilin.
March—Slavianskaia.
Peasants' chorus from the opera, "Prince Igor"—Borodin.
Stern Ocean—Zaitseff.
Snowstorm—Warslamoff.
March of the Signals—Kolatilin.

O' These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (US)—Hints for men who are being led to the altar:

Don't marry a girl who envies other women.

Don't marry one who will not put herself out to accommodate members of her family, friends, or business associates.

If a girl refuses to have company at her house because it is too much work, but is always anxious to go to the homes of other people, she will be unwilling to entertain your friends after marriage.

Don't take a girl's word about loving children. Take her to visit people who have some and see how she acts.

Girls who spend the major part of their time making up their faces and talking clothes and shopping, are not good matrimonial bets.

If a girl is impatient with sick people, and doesn't want to be around them, think what home would be like if you were ill for any length of time.

A girl who will use some of her spending money to buy presents for others is not going to be too selfish in her home life.

I know one wife who goes through toy departments buying things for the children of her inlaws, and makes curtains for the rooms of her nephews at college, and sent a boy a map of Lindbergh's flight the other day, and who finds out what her husband's relatives and friends like to eat and manages always to have that when they come to dine.

She is happy and her husband is happy and the longer he lives with her the happier they are going to be. She is weaving the tightest kind of web around that man's heart.

A girl who is bored when you talk business is going to get on your nerves frightfully when you come home worried over something that concerns you vitally, and she will not listen to the details.

I know a man who thought a girl was marrying him for his money and he told her he lost it all and she married him anyway. They are happy but she has never quite forgiven him the deceit. He was such a cynic he wanted to be sure but it was a dangerous experiment. There were other ways of finding out.

More men are married for money today than ever before. There are fewer men and there is more money.

One way to find out how they feel about you is to give them a simple little gift when they expect an extravagant one.

If a girl is shamed to tell her friends that you gave her only that simple present, she is a show-off and real deep affection doesn't mean a great deal to her.

From today's news heads read these things:

"Mrs. Lewis' heart balm suit for $250,000 settled."

"Girl sues broker for $100,000 for breach of promise."

"Wife wants $10,000 and $600 a month alimony."

"Married six months wants $50,000. Judge says too much."

Then read these about the men who got the right ones:

"Celebrates golden anniversary."

"Twenty children and grandchildren at golden wedding celebration."

"Wife fights four policemen to go to jail with husband."

It was the woman in that last story who needed advice.

A Glib Wit in Public Usually Proves Sphinx Near His Wife

It's All the Wife's Fault When Her Husband Refuses to Talk to Her, for He Knows That She Will Quarrel With Him, Nag Him, Refuse to Listen to Him or Talk Her Head Off and Say Nothing.

One of the chief grievances of wives is that their husbands won't talk. The man who sets every other dinner table in a roar with his witty stories never opens his mouth at his own dinner table except to put food in it. He who is a spellbinder abroad is a dummy at home. He who is noted for his sparkling repartee in society merely grounts by way of reply when his wife speaks to him.

The women claim that what they married for was to get a fireside companion, and so they feel themselves bitterly ill-used and defrauded when they find themselves united to husbands who are about as chatty as the Sphinx and who spend their evenings dozing over paper and pipe in silence so thick that you could cut it with a knife.

Furthermore, these wives point out that the very husbands who have nothing to say to them now were before marriage human phonographs that never ran down and that papa or mama had to shut off somewhere around midnight. For the life of them, they can't see what has occurred to change Johnny the Babbler into John the Dumb.

To which the husbands make reply:

First—That men would like to talk at home, that a man marries for the same ideal of companionship that a woman does and that he is just as disappointed as she is when he fails to realize it; that a husband would rather talk to his wife than anybody else in the world if he could and that when he doesn't do it it's her own fault. It is because she has failed him for one or another of these reasons:

Sometimes a man doesn't talk at home because he has found out that he can't say a word without starting something. His wife goes about with a conversational chip on her shoulder and any unthinking word brings on a fight. Her prejudices and opinions and sensibilities are spread all over the place and it is impossible to move without stepping on some of them.

Now a man gets plenty of fighting in the outside world. When he comes home of an evening he is wounded, bruised and weary, and yearns for peace; so he learns to hold his tongue as a protective measure.

Other men don't talk at home because their wives are naggers. They have found out that if they tell their wives of any mistake they made or any foolish act they have done they never hear the last of it. They have also ascertained from experience that their wives can take the most innocent little act and twist it around until they make something dark and sinister and criminal out of it.

They would like to tell about the lovable old Peter Pan of a school fellow who is down and out and to whom they have lent a few dollars, but well they know that if they did their wives would harp on it for the next 20 years. They would like to tell their wives about what fine, brave, plucky girls their stenographers are, but if they did they would be accused of having liaisons with them and of leading a double life. So, on the principle of safety first, they take refuge in silence.

Other men do not talk to their wives because an evening's conversation with wife breaks down their morale completely and leaves them feeling that they are poor, miserable, worthless failures who haven't the ability to do a single, worthwhile thing on earth. For wife is just one incarnate bunch of whines and complaints. She doesn't see why her husband can't get along any better nor why he can't make more money nor why they can't have a finer house nor why they can't have an expensive car nor why she can't have a sable coat and a string of pearls and everything else a millionairess has.

The poor husband who is toiling like a dray-horse and doing the very best he can and giving his wife a good, comfortable living, after listening to the saga of her misfortunes in marrying a poor man, feels as if a steamroller had passed over him. So he protects himself from the unpleasant experience by trying not to give her a conversational opening.

Other men are silent at home because they and their wives have ceased to speak the same language. The men have gone on reading and studying and improving their minds. Their wives have been too lazy to make the slightest effort at self-culture. They don't even read the daily papers or the magazines, and so they have nothing interesting and stimulating to talk about to an intelligent man.

They have let their interests dwindle down to the four walls of their home and what the neighbors across the street are saying and doing. Their whole repertoire consists of a daily recital of the price of butchers' meat and the misdeeds of the children and the Smith baby having cut a tooth. Yet they can't understand why in the midst of their domestic monologues their husbands retire behind their papers and fail to ask for more details.

Other men don't tell their wives anything they can help because their wives talk too much. They can't keep a secret. They blab their husband's business affairs to the general public and even when they don't do that, they tell everything to mother and the girls, and mother and the girls do the further broadcasting.

One experience is enough to teach Friend Husband the wisdom of keeping his plans to himself and of hiding in his own breast what he makes and what he has done and is going to do.

Other men never talk at home because their wives never listen to them. When they try to discuss their business and talk shop their wives yawn in their faces and show that they are bored to tears. They frankly tell their husbands that they have heard their old stories a hundred times and they interrupt them in the midst of a disquisition on what the president should do about the League of Nations to ask if they remembered to order the coal or to look how cute the puppy is acting.

These are some of the reasons, according to men, why they are silent at home and they aver that if any woman will be cheerful and amiable and hand out an entertaining line of talk she will find that her husband will be glad enough to chime in with the conversation.

Maricle Urges Support Here For Tubercular Work As Seal Sale Opens

Ten thousand Christmas seal letters weighing 800 pounds have been placed in the mail. These letters contain over 2,100,000 seals. Postmaster O. P. Maricle delivered the first letter himself Thursday. He had this to say at this time:

"Coming in contact as I do with the people of every section of Wichita Falls, living under every condition, I see the tremendous importance to this community of combating tuberculosis wherever it is found and how greatly concerned all of us are in this vital matter, because, wherever it is found it constitutes a menace to the entire community.

"Those who believe themselves to be immune from the danger of tuberculosis because of their prosperity or the sanitary conditions their prosperity enables them to secure, are greatly mistaken for in the majority of cases, infection from someone suffering from it when least suspected.

"It therefore behooves each and every one of us to support this great movement which is interested in the prevention of disease and the guarding of our own health."

Fake Radio Mike Stirs Rotarians To Song and Chatter at Luncheon

Modern application of the principles of psychology was demonstrated Thursday at the weekly meeting of Wichita Falls' Rotary cluub when the presence of a microphone before the club, and the announcement that the program was being broadcast, acted as a strong stimulus to the speakers and an inspiration to the singers, according to statements of those present.

R. E. Shepherd, filling the dual role of announcer and singsong leader, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano, lead the club in the singing of several old favorites, including "Lizz Jane," "In the Good Old Summer Time," Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "Pack Up Your Troubles."

A number of brief addresses completed the program. Miss Ruby Lattimore, associate field secretary for the Camp Fire Girls, discussed the local and national work of her organization. The Rotary motto was the subject of a brief exposition by Dr. S. Stephen McKenney, Walter Campbell announced an intercity Rotary meeting, held at Lawton Thursday night, at which Tom Sutton, president of Rotary International, was the speaker. A short talk on the Community chest drive was given by A. E. Kelly, and Harry Hines presented the Rotary emblem and a framed code of ethics to D. L. Hill in welcoming him as a "baby Rotarian."

J. M. McFall abandoned his intention of delivering an address when he discovered that the wire leading from the "mike" lead only to the chair leg to which it was tied.

Mrs. Lester Jones To Entertain Club

Mrs. Lester Jones will be hostess to members of the Coterie club Friday afternoon at her home, 1901 Lucile street, when roll call will be answered with quotations from "Modern Fiction." Mrs. J. L. Waggoner will have charge of the devotionals, and Mrs. C. P. Burton will discuss "Modern Fiction."

Poultry Show At Breckenridge

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Dec. 6.—The sixth annual poultry show of the Stephens County Poultry association saw a small attendance Thursday, the opening day of the three-day event, on account of sleet and rain which fell throughout the day. The exhibits, however, are considered better than any display ever brought to Breckenridge, about 500 birds having already been entered and with additional entries due Friday. The judge, Roy McDonald of Dallas, who is due here from the Coleman show Friday, will do his work Saturday and the $400 cash awards by the chamber of commerce will then be made. Barred Rocks and Plymouth Rocks are in the majority. Breeders are on hand with their best products from Weatherford, Hasse, Cleburne, Albany, Olney, Lusk, Ranger, Cisco, Ranger, Sagerton, Woodson and Alexander.

FRIENDS BURY MAN ONCE RICH

Former Colorado Miner Dies Penniless

DENVER, Dec. 6. (AP)—Paul A. Primeau, once wealthy Colorado mining man who during his life time found his greatest pleasure in charity to the unfortunate, was buried here today at the expense of his friends. Primeau died penniless last Monday.

For three years Primeau has been living in a dingy rooming house here. His wife some time ago was forced to go to her sister in Rhode Island because her husband was no longer able to support her. When he went to the hospital a week ago, Primeau, who from youth to the prime of life, had made and lost several fortunes, had just $1.06 in his ragged pockets.

It is estimated that Primeau educated 40 youths during his career.

Trio of Florida Yacht Missing

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 6. (AP)—Two men of a crew of five were reported rescued when the yacht Aero burned at sea, last night off Melbourne.

W. C. Constable, of a fishing company at Cape Canaveral, brought word here today that he and two other men put to sea in a small fishing boat and picked up George Sergas, who was floating with a life preserver.

The telegram to the coast guard base at Fort Lauderdale related the rescue by fishermen of Edward Satinover, another member of the crew, but no word of the fate of the other three members had been received.

The yacht, en route to Jacksonville from West Palm Beach, caught fire in the engine room late yesterday.

Business Council To Vote on Bonds Today

The $350,000,000 bond issue proposed by Chairman R. S. Sterling of the state highway commission for the purpose of refunding to counties of the state funds expended by them upon improved state highways since 1917 will be given final consideration and voted upon by the business council of the chamber of commerce in its regular meeting at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

Since being presented by W. B. Hamilton to the council two weeks ago the bond proposal has been endorsed by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce. Luther Hoffman, chairman, stated that a full attendance at Friday's meeting was desired for discussion and action on the matter. Walter D. Cline will discuss the Community chest campaign.

New Headlight Tests Necessary for Autos

Automobile headlights must be tested for focus and lenses before the issuance of 1929 license plates, Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, reminded car owners Thursday afternoon.

A new test must be made for the new license, he explained, and the certificate of the examiner must be presented for the present condition of the car. Last year's examination is no longer sufficient, he explained. Between 25 and 30 official examiners have been appointed for the county in order that the test can be conveniently made.

"I'll Praise it the Longest Day I Live"

Mrs. Henderson of Wichita Falls Restored by Orgatone After Suffering Five Years

"Talking about things that help people," said Mrs. Dick Henderson, of 911 Ninth St., Wichita Falls, Texas, in an interview recently, "Orgatone is doing more good than any medicine I have ever known in my time, and that's saying a good deal.

"I have been trying for the last five or six years to get rid of indigestion and sour stomach," she continued, "and I failed utterly until I got hold of Orgatone. This trouble had about gotten the best of me, too, for I was so weak and run down it was almost impossible for me to do my housework at times. Everything I ate disagreed with me and caused gas to form on my stomach. I also suffered a great deal from nervousness which finally got so bad that it was impossible for me to get a full night's rest. To tell you the honest truth, I got in such a condition and was so run-down that life was beginning to be a burden to me.

"I knew a lot of people who had been benefitted by taking Orgatone, so I thought I would try it myself. I just want to say right here that of all the medicines I have taken in the last six years; Orgatone beats them all. I have taken two bottles so far and I don't know what it is to have indigestion or sour stomach now or to be bothered with gas on my stomach after eating. My nerves are as steady as they ever were, and I sleep eight or nine hours every night and don't wake up once. Why I can go through my housework now and it doesn't tire me one bit. As a matter of fact, Orgatone has made a new woman of me, and I'll praise it the longest day I live."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy, but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana Ave., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily. Out-of-town customers being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25. —Adv.

Dodging Death in Flaming Mail Plane, More Than Mile In Clouds, Told by Major Smith, Veteran Pilot

Editor's Note: This is the second of five stories describing the dangers braved by airmail pilots to "get the mail through at any cost," written particularly around the career of Maj. Wesley L. Smith, superintendent of the New York-Chicago division of the transcontinental route and airmail flyer since 1919. Today Major Smith tells of fighting flames in a mail plane more than a mile high.
(By NEA Service)

Fire is the most treacherous and the most feared foe of the airmail pilots.

Before the days of modern planes, largely of metal, the menace was ever present and many of the airmail pilots have gone blazing to their deaths on aerial pyres.

One of the narrowest escapes which Maj. Wesley L. Smith, one of the original airmail pilots and now superintendent of the New York-Chicago division of the National Air Transport company, airmail contractors, ever had was when he fought a blazing gasoline fire 8,000 feet in the air.

That was when he was piloting one of the famous Junkers metal planes between Chicago and New York. The planes, built in Germany after the war, had been bought by the airmail service, and were hailed by the pilots as the first planes in which they felt safe from fire. But they soon found they had misjudged them. These planes became their flaming coffins.

Smith left Chicago Aug. 31, 1920, and his co-pilot, E. M. Haight, now an inspector with the department of commerce, riding as relief in the cabin.

Afire at 8,000 Feet Up

"We were breezing along, with a good tail wind at 8,000 feet, when suddenly the motor quit," Smith says. "Those motors had caused plenty of trouble. They burned benzol, and as that fuel ate rubber hose connections, metal connections were necessary. These repeatedly had broken under the strain of the motor's vibration.

"When the motor quit, I assumed one of the connections had burst. I shut off the fuel supply.

"As I did so a blinding flash of flame shot up through the floorboards of the cockpit, beneath which the motor was housed. It was the first burst of burning oil and benzol in the chamber about the engine."

When the flames burst through the flooring Smith had to do some quick thinking. Two tanks lay between him and the flames, one of water, the other of oil. He knew if the flames reached the oil supply, it meant the end for him and for Haight, too.

Dives at Terrific Speed

The plane had dual controls, with two pilots' seats in the cockpit. Smith was in the left seat. His salvation lay in throwing the flames away from the fuel tank, and letting them burn out.

"So I threw the plane into a sideslip to the right," he continued. "That forced the flames away from the fuel tank and against the water tank in front of me. They swept over my hands, my face and my body, but I hung to the controls. I had to, or it was 'curtains' for both of us."

The plane shot down like a plummet. The air speed indicator circled higher and higher, passed 150 miles an hour and then broke. The flaming plane must have hit 200 miles an hour in that fierce downward dive.

Then after what seemed an eternity, the flames died down. Smith glanced at the altimeter, saw he had fallen to 4,000 feet and was still diving straight toward earth.

Lands in Corn Field

"I tried the controls to bring the plane out of the dive, but to no avail," he went on. "They flapped helplessly in the vacuum created by the plane's fall. Then I tried the ailerons. They responded and as the plane turned into a spin the other controls took hold. I then straightened the plane into a steep glide.

"Close below me lay corn fields, some standing, some shoked. I chose to land in the standing corn; it was softer."

Shouting back to Haight to pile the mail back in the tail of the ship, Smith swept down for a landing. The plane grounded in the corn and plowed through it to a stop.

The ship and pilots were safe after one of the most thrilling battles with death in the air the airmail had ever seen. A few days in the hospital and Smith's burns were patched up.

He owed his safety to the fact that the fire had broken out high enough in the air to permit fighting it on the way down. A day later, one of Smith's mates was caught in a similar fire in a similar plane and killed. He was flying low at the time and had no chance to fight the blaze.

Dodges Schoolhouse

On another occasion, while squeezing his plane over the Pennsylvania mountain tops, just under the clouds, Smith's motor quit. He had to think fast. A clearing was just below. He circled down and shot for the field.

The Junkers plane he was flying had a flat landing curve. He saw as his wheels touched the ground he would overrun the field. At the other end of the clearing was a schoolhouse surrounded by trees. The schoolhouse would have made the softer "crash" but Smith chose the trees, fearing the school would be full of children.

He sent the plane between two trees. The crash ripped off the wings, but broke its speed and Smith and his mate climbed out unscathed. Quick thinking like that is what brings the airmail through.

Next: Playing "blind man's buff" with death in the clouds.

"A blinding flash of flame shot up through the floorboards. . . I threw the plane into a sideslip to the right, forcing the fire away from the fuel tank. Flames swept over my hands, my face, my body. The plane shot down like a plummet."

TRUCK MEET HERE DEC. 11

Operators Called to C.-C. Conference

The chamber of commerce Thursday issued a call for all truck operators in and out of Wichita Falls to meet at the chamber of commerce Tuesday, Dec. 11, at 10 a. m., at which time D. C. Sanders of the Merchants Fast Motor lines of Dallas will address the gathering and assist in laying plans for the solution of problems now facing freight truck line operators.

Mr. Sanders was chairman of a meeting of truck line operators, shippers and chamber of commerce traffic men in Dallas Wednesday, which was attended by J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager of the local chamber of commerce. The meeting was called for the purpose of working out plans for stabilizing the motor truck industry in the state, and for coordinating the interests of shippers and carriers. A meeting was called for Monday morning, Dec. 17, at Dallas chamber of comerce for the furtherance of plans for a state organization.

"Motor trucks handle 75 per cent of the short haul transportation in America, and 87 per cent of the carriers are one-man truck concerns," said Mr. Chatham, who returned from Dallas Thursday morning.

Two Girls of 11 Face Delinquency Charges

Formal charges of delinquency were entered Thursday morning against two 11-year-old girls who have been locked up in the woman's ward of the Wichita county jail since last Friday night. The complaint, signed by Juvenile Officer J. A. McDonald, was filed through the county attorney's office. The children will be tried before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Saturday morning.

The little girls ran away from their homes in Burkburnett last Thursday afternoon. Householders in the residence section here reported them to the police after they had entered two homes. Mr. McDonald has in safe keeping a miscellaneous group of toys and trinkets, a purse with money, and half a dozen packages of cigarettes found on the small prisoners at the time of their arrest.

Stop Headache In Few Minutes

The next time you have a headache, neuralgic, rheumatic or periodic pain, try the improved method of relief—two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly, much quicker than tablets and powders, and is more effective.

Capudine relieves pain by soothing the nerves—not by deadening them. It does not upset the stomach and contains no habit-forming drugs. At all drug stores—30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

$83,000 Property Sale Is Recorded

An interest in the site of Kemp Kort, at Tenth and Travis, in business property on two opposite corners at Ninth and Travis, and in the building occupied by the Bachelor apartments at Eighth and Travis becomes the property of J. A. Kemp as the result of a sale by Mr. and Mrs. W. Newton Maer, placed on record Thursday in the office of the county clerk.

The sale, which involves several lots in the residence section as well as the business property, called for the exchange of $83,000 cash. It conveys one-half interest in the site of the Knight-Whippet sales rooms and of the Panhandle Refining filling station across the street at Ninth and Travis and in the site of Kemp Kort. A one-third interest in the apartment building at Eighth and Travis is exchanged, all of three lots on Grace street between Eighth and Ninth; one lot on Ninth between Grace and Brook, and of a complete block on McGregor between Marshall and Clark streets, in the Southland addition, are sold by the terms of the deed.

150 County Tax Suits Dismissed by Court

Judge P. A. Martin Thursday morning dismissed 150 delinquent tax suits called in the 30th district court. The suits were dismissed on the motion of Wayne Somerville, county attorney. Settlements had been effected out of court. Judge Martin plans to go to Graham Sunday to preside during the coming week over the 30th district court for Young county. Judge E. G. Thornton will take his place in the 89th.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as 10 times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—They had gone a bit out of their way to find a charming restaurant, part of whose attractiveness was its quiet. No orchestra, radio or other music maker. Waiters were trained to step softly and to manipulate the dishes with a modicum of noise.

But alas! nicely seated in a by-way near the door, they heard a horrific sound. A radio store had moved into the next-door building since they had last been at the restaurant and a very loud speaker was uttering reverberating speeches and nerve-shocking dance tunes.

After a much-disturbed meal they stopped at the radio store and interviewed the proprietor. Perhaps if he really knew how some people felt about it, they thought, he might "lay off" the loud speaker at least during the dinner hour.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," they quoted to him.

"Do you realize how other people suffer when you keep that thing running?"

He looked at them with a jaundiced eye.

"Say, what you got a kick about," he asked, "you only hear it while you're eatin'. I got to listen to it all day long."

Ordinarily one would not look to the street pushcart peddler for the last word in efficiency; nevertheless the fact remains that the venders of oranges, pears or other fruits on which there are wrappers have developed this quality to a high degree. The reason is that the police and street cleaners have made them do so, otherwise there might not be any peddlers.

So in order to survive the peddlers had to solve the riddle of how to dispose of the wrappers from the fruit they happened to be selling. It would not do to throw the loose papers in the street, for then the police and street cleaners would get after them; they don't have sufficient room in the well-filled carts to store them until the end of the day. What then?

Well, one genius solved the matter and saved the situation for the peddlers by stuffing the wrappers between the spokes of the wheels of his cart—down near the hubs. There they fit tight and do not come loose when the cart is in motion and only a West Indian hurricane could tear them free from their reposing place.

There is a freemasonry among those who drive their own cars in the city. A young fellow was cussing the parking problem on Seventh avenue, near the Pennsylvania station. He had been trying for 10 minutes to shoehorn his car into a small space by the curb.

Standing on the sidewalk was a pretty girl, quite fascinated by his struggles. Finally she could contain herself no longer.

"You'll never do it that way," she said. "Why don't you ask that chauffeur ahead to move up a bit? Then you can get in."

"I've been here 10 minutes and he's been watching me, but he hasn't made any effort to move," said the young man with a grin. "Maybe he'll move for you."

"Why don't you move up and let this man in?" said the girl to the chauffeur.

"Yes, miss," said the chauffeur, tipping his cap.

In a few seconds the young man had his coupe against the curb, thanked his pretty champion and went gratefully on his way.

You can buy a very nifty set of false teeth nowadays for from $500 to $1,000 a set—that is, if you crave very fine porcelain toothlets set into a backing of silver and platinum. Of course if you insist upon being very fancy and demand hand-carved teeth a set will set you back probably $2,000.

The ordinary type of plate is made from vulcanised rubber; and of course is far more reasonable in price than the bakelite or silver-platinum thing. There are various expensive varieties, including the all cast gold, platinum, silver and platinum and the bakelite and silver alloy.

Vestris Inquiry Hears Opposite Reports

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (INS)—Opposite reports on the sinking of the ill-fated liner Vestris were presented today at the conclusion of the inquiry before U. S. Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill.

Capt. E. P. Jessop, U. S. N., retired, reported that the Vestris was unseaworthy, when she started her tragic trip.

Capt. Henry McConkey, British officer, and New York superintendent of the Cunard line, reported that the Vestris was seaworthy when she left New York.

"Still Too Much to Do"

EZRA MEEKER, 98-year-old veteran of Oregon's pioneer days, lay sick, almost at the point of death. His doctors told him that he could hardly expect to recover. He had lived far beyond the scriptural limitation, and his illness would have been serious even for a man half a century younger.

But the old veteran protested.

"I'm not ready to die yet," he said. "I've got too much to do."

Thus the white-bearded old man, who first traveled to Oregon behind a team of oxen along the route where bleached bones marked every mile of the way, and who lived to go over the same road in an airplane, summed up the whole philosophy of the men who made America.

"I'm not ready to die yet—I've got too much to do."

Looking back on the country's past, we too often see only the picturesque and colorful parts and forget that the reality was far from romantic to those who took part in it. We read about the long stream of settlers who went westward over the Alleghenies and the Blue Ridge, penetrating the wildernesses in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, coming to the Mississippi, going beyond it and scattering over the vast plains; and the thing has a great epic quality. We feel that it must have been splendid to be alive in those days, uplifting to take part in such a great movement.

But in sober fact it probably seemed neither splendid nor uplifting to the men and women who were in it. To them there was only an infinity of hard work. A log cabin in a wilderness clearing may look pretty from a distance, but to live in it is a different matter.

The pioneers had a proverb that speaks volumes: "The cowards never came, and the weak ones died by the way." Out on the frontier life was reduced to an eternal fight with stubborn nature. There was no time for pleasure, no time for those excursions in quest of truth and beauty and peace that give life its flavor. From birth to death, they were always busy.

We of today reap the benefit. We talk, constantly, about our prosperity, and we are very proud of our teeming cities, our rich countrysides, our great factories, our miles of paved highways, our airports and our tall buildings. But a remark such as that last protest of Ezra Meeker's should remind us that all of these things were bought for us, at a high price, by the pioneers. Those ancestors of ours weren't particularly happy; work and danger were their constant companions.

Every American city should erect a statue to the pioneers. And across the base of such a statue there might well be chiseled that chant of the frontier man:

"I'm not ready to die yet—I've got too much to do."

Prison Conditions at Huntsville

GOVERNOR MOODY has authorized construction of several temporary buildings within the penitentiary walls at Huntsville to relieve the overcrowded living conditions there. There are now 200 more men within the Huntsville walls than prison facilities can accommodate, and the farms of the system cannot care for more than 100 of these. In addition officials report many more prisoners are to be received at an early date, about 100 of these to come within the next month.

These temporary buildings are to be paid for from the contingent fund pending decision on centralization of the prison system and other reformations Governor Moody is advocating and which will be brought before the 41st legislature when it meets early in January.

During the campaigning in the good old summer time candidates for office and politicians ranted about the demands "for swifter justice and fewer technicalities." It was baloney talk for the most part. Texas prisons are crowded with convicts. Texas' farms are over-run with convicts or criminals are housed in the county jails of Texas.

The Christmas Tree

THE season in which ones thoughts turn to Christmas trees is just about upon us. And so much has been written about forest conservation recently that many people feel that cutting down young fir trees for Christmas constitutes a needless drain upon our forests.

Such fears, however, are ungrounded. This comes on the authority of no less a person than Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, and a last-ditch defender of our forests if ever there was one.

The type of tree used for Christmas, says Pack, would not be worth a great deal even if it were allowed to mature in its native setting. In addition, an ever-increasing proportion of Christmas trees comes from private forests that are restocked yearly, so that the supply is maintained constantly.

So go ahead and plan on having an old-fashioned tree—you can do it with a clear conscience.

The New Cavalry

THE cavalry has always been the most colorful branch of the army. The clanking trooper, mounted on a sleek horse, is a picturesque sight.

But—alas!—the horse-carried warrior may not have much longer to exhibit his picturesqueness.

The United States army has just completed a 2000-mile overland trip from Maryland to Texas by a new motorized cavalry unit. The troopers ride in light automobiles, fitted with shields and mounting machine guns and one-poundees. Officers are enthusiastic about their work, and it is predicted in some quarters that such units may eventually entirely replace the cavalry of the older type.

Probably it's all in the interest of efficiency. But the world will be just a shade less colorful if it no longer can see troops of cavalry, with horses stepping high and pennons flapping from lances, come clattering down the street.

Colonel Stewart Acquitted

COLONEL STEWART stands acquitted of perjury, and one more attempt to jail somebody in connection with the oil investigation falls through.

The verdict is not particularly surprising, in view of the fact that the judge instructed the jurors that they must acquit Colonel Stewart if they found that a quorum of the senate committee had not been physically present when he was questioned. Since it was admitted that several senators had been counted present when they were actually some distance away, the jurors could do but one thing—acquit him.

There are a lot of comments that might be made. Here, for instance, is a quip from Edward Hope, columnist for the New York Herald-Tribune.

"We know a lot of people we used to consider liars, but now we shall have to revise our opinion until we can remember whether there was always a quorum present."

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

Somebody saw a snowflake.

The INN of the HAWK and RAVEN

George Barr McCutcheon

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt acting as the escort of the princess, on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth but he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

Used on by his mother and his brothers, who hate Jonifer, Peter contemplates a revolt against his uncle's authority.

Jonifer, who, on learning that Gerane is in love with Starcourt, makes some secret plans that involve the soldier, takes a trip to Moscow. On his way home, near the Asphain border the stage-coach is held up—not by his men however. The arrival of a troop of soldiers results in the capture of the robbers. The incident serves to inform Jonifer that Starcourt, with 500 picked men, is in the Forest of Droon to run down the Davos band, no matter how long the task keeps him there. Jonifer told his companion.

John Crispo and Jonifer Davos quietly disappear that night and make their way home, realizing that the situation is too serious to permit of their running the risk of capture.

Jonifer's return puts an end, for a time at least, to Peter's thoughts of rebellion. The chief's next move is an attempt to capture Starcourt in a surprise attack at night. He is defeated, however.

Later, coming upon Starcourt while he is swimming in a mountain pool, Jonifer captures him. The colonel's men believe him to be drowned.

Meanwhile, he is among the robbers in the valley, free to do as he pleases, but unable to escape.

Jonifer tells Gerane that he has captured Starcourt as a birthday present for her. The bandit chief takes it for granted that the soldier will fall in love with his daughter and that they will marry. He is dismayed when Gerane, in a fit of rage, says she will marry Peter—anybody but the soldier.

When Starcourt at last makes friendly overtures, Gerane repulses him.

Jonifer, acting on a suggestion of one of his lieutenants, who informs him that Gerane has killed a hawk that Starcourt had hoped to train as a carrier-bird, and thereby get into communication with the outside world, tells his daughter that he is going to have Starcourt executed.

Gerane, although she is not fooled by Jonifer's threat, says the soldier is not to be shot—that she has decided to have his life that he may instruct her in English.

While the Graustark authorities are still making frantic efforts to recover Starcourt's body from the pool in which the soldier was supposedly drowned, the minister of police, Baron Dangloss, is informed by one of his men, Peter Corpas, that the Countess Jabasay has in her possession a famous diamond that was taken from a Russian princess in the Forest of Droon by Davos' men. The detective also says that the count and countess are living on a scale that is far beyond their means and asks where the money comes from. He says that he believes the count and countess to be Davos' confederates.

Corpas, disguised as a fruit vender, stops the Countess Katrana on the street, and, taking a long chance, tells her he is a messenger from Jonifer Davos and has been sent to tell her that her connection with the robber band is known to the police. Despite her desperate efforts at self-control, Corpas sees how alarmed she is and decides that his suspicions are correct.

As the result of Corpas's report, Dangloss sends officers to bring the count and countess before him. They, fearing that arrest will result in the discovery of their relations with Jonifer, commit suicide.

Concerning the Action and Characters

Starcourt, now in love with Gerane, although he is unwilling to admit it, even to himself, asks her companion, Matilde, to tell him something of Gerane's mother. The old woman, who against the command of Gerane's mother, tells him how they were captured by the bandits while passing through the Forest of Droon—how Louise, Gerane's mother, fell in love with Jonifer and married him.

Word comes to the robbers of the suicide of the Count and Countess, and the reason for it. Knowing that the authorities have learned of their hiding place, they prepare to resist attack, if necessary.

INSTALMENT XXVIIII

For several moments Starcourt stood where Gerane left him, his brow dark with thought. As he moved off toward the door he shook his head despairingly. He was sick with the thought of the fate that probably lay ahead of her, if the soldiers came and conquered. The Tower! Could he save her from the Tower? They undoubtedly would cast her into prison with the rest. Unless—he shuddered at the mere thought of it—unless she died before they could lay hands on her. Gerane dead—that warm, lovely, adorable body cold and stiff in death, those beautiful eyes dull and staring, the soft, velvety cheeks a sickly, pallid hue—

He groaned as he went out into the chill, unfeeling dusk of the dying day, and, for the first time, he found himself actually hoping that the soldiers would never come—and he had been praying for them night and day, ever since he entered the valley. As he was leaving, Rosa came into the room to light the two huge lanterns on the wall and the lamp on the table; the impression he carried with him as he plodded homeward had to do with the warmth, the hospitable glow, the friendly radiance that filled the now enchanted home of Jonifer Davos.

From their hiding place beneath a floorboard in his cabin, he cautiously withdrew some sheets of paper. On them he had made outline drawings of the peaks, their relative heights and order of position. His purpose was obvious. The day might come when he, a free man, would find them of the greatest value in determining the probable location of the valley. Now he looked at them with frowning eyes. Should he destroy these maps that might lead him and a horde of troops to the hiding place of poor, innocent, unfortunate Gerane Davos? He deliberated for a long time before restoring them to their hiding place. After all, he was soldier. His hand, if not his heart, owed allegiance to the crown.

As the weeks wore away and nothing happened, the inhabitants of the valley settled down to their normal condition of security and contempt for the authorities. The little bowl was, as usual, carpeted deep with snow. Gerane made excellent progress with her English. At the same time, love, as yet unspoken, made such progress that even her sometimes inexplicable whims failed to stem the sure tide that sooner or later was to sweep both of them up from the sea of doubt and leave them in each other's arms. Constant association, the gentle spur of propinquity, the irresistible forces that overcome reason—all these were working toward the natural, inevitable end.

On her side there was pride and that everlastingly feminine reluctance to surrender; on his the doughty resolution to hold back until he was absolutely sure, not only of her, but of himself as well.

There were many things for him to take into consideration, and chief among them was the determination to be honorable. If he declared his love to her, and she confessed, her own, there could be but one solution to the problem that confronted him—marriage. He was not a snob; at the same time, high-minded and lovely as she was, there still remained the fact that she was a robber's daughter. More than that, there was a price upon her head. She was one of those whom the law, which was even greater than he, had sworn to exterminate! His own hand was against her. If the time ever came, could he approach the crown, of which he was a servant, and say: "Here is one of them, but she is my wife and I love her. But she is the daughter of Jonifer Davos and, in all fairness, ought to go to prison with the other men and women we have taken."

He knew now that he loved her; he worshiped and adored this tantalising daughter of Jonifer, but he was very far from certain that she cared a snap of her fingers for him. At times he thought she did—and then he was sure she didn't.

One day she would be sweet and—tractable was the only word he could think of that fitted—the next would find her incomprehensibly cold and distant and captious. One day smiling, generous, full of fun; the next, as if repenting her docility, she would withdraw into her shell, so to speak, deliberately ignore him, absent herself on protracted visits to the homes of neighbors, or shut herself up in her own room, and always at such times, it seemed to him, she had smiles only for Matilde, or Elsie or Rosa—or even the dogs—while for him she had nothing but polite indifference.

He was beginning to come to Jonifer's way of thinking—women were not made to be understood. Two or three times, moved by an almost ungovernable impulse, he had been on the verge of clasping her in his arms and—but, just when he felt reasonably, but perhaps not genuinely, sure of her, she would do or say something to cause him to think better of it. He recalled the old nursery rhme and dolefully applied it to her: "When she was nice, she was very, very nice, and, when she was bad, she was horrid." Only, he lamented, no matter how hard she tried, she couldn't possibly be horrid.

Christmas came. A great bonfire was built on the knoll below Jonifer's house and on Christmas eve these amazing rogues, with their wives and children, gathering in the snow, chanted hymns and carols until long past midnight. Gerane stood beside her father in the front line of the circle, while Starcourt, being an outsider and a captive, took his position as directed on the outskirts of the throng, some distance away. He could see her quite plainly, however.

Indeed, he seldom took his eyes from her rapt, eager face, framed by the heavy fur cap that covered her head from crown to chin. The great blaze cast a glow over her lovely face already warmed, paradoxically, by the cold wind that came out of the north to kiss it in passing. He listened for her voice, but it was lost in the ringing chorus.

Suddenly he was aroused from his enchanted dream by the voice of a woman at his elbow. He turned his head and met the bright, antagonistic eyes of Ranya Brutz.

"Dogs in the manger looking on while others sing praises to the child that was born in one," she sneered, her voice harsh and bitter. "Even thieves turn their backs upon us. You and I have no place among them. We sit over against the walls of Nineveh and watch from afar off. Bah! And Christ was crusified but once!"

"You wrong them," said he. "Go among them. They will not cast you out."

"Little you know about it," she scoffed. "Every year I come and take any stand outside the circle. My place is chosen for me and I must abide by the decree. Christ held out his hand to Mary Magdalen, but these sanctimonious, thieves turn the'r backs on me."

"Sanctimonious," chuckled he. "I like that, Mrs. Davos."

"Call me Ranya Brutz," said she, lifting her chin. "That is who I am. Nothing more. And behold my sons standing alone over yonder, far outside the circle. Ha!"

He looked and saw the three figures in the field. "But surely, Ranya Brutz, your sons are valued, respected members of—"

"My sons have no right to their father's name," said she, without shame. "But that girl you feed your eyes upon is no more Davos than those sons of mine. She has no more of the blood of a noble duke of the House of Ganlook in her veins than flows in those of my boys. The only difference is that Jonifer Davos married her mother. But even a marriage ceremony does not alter the quality of blood that runs through the veins. The blood is the same. Look now! See my boys. They dare not go a step nearer that circle than they are now. It is forbidden. And yet, in the very front row, stands their blood cousin, who, if it were not for the whim of Jonifer Davos, might have been—"

"Oh, I say, you have no right to discuss—"

"Right? Who are you to say what is right or wrong for me to discuss? I know what you are counting on, curse you. You are after that girl of Jonifer's. You realize that you are here to stay, so you are going to make the best of it. I know what is in your mind. You will marry her, if you can, so that, when Jonifer dies, you may step into his place as chieftain."

Starcourt drew back in sheer astonishment. "So that I can be chieftain of this— What utter nonsense! Are you crazy?"

"You may think so, if you like," she fairly snarled. "But I am not the only one who is saying that very thing. I've heard a dozen men say that they believe you have made up your mind to—"

"Good heavens, woman, I would no more think of—"

"And that is precisely what is in Jonifer's mind, too. He picked you as the man to take his place. We know it now. And let me tell you one thing, my pretty peacock, whenever a Davos sets out to do a thing, he does it."

"But, I— You are talking the rankest nonsense. I am an honest man. The Davos does not live who can make a thief of me."

She turned on her heel and left him standing there, dumbfounded, and strode across the snow field to join her sons.

"The vixen," muttered Starcourt, following her with angry, and, at the same time, pitying eyes.

The next morning he asked Julius Broadaxe if it was true that men were talking about him as Ranya Brutz claimed they were.

Julius scratched his head. "Well," said he, pondering, "I have heard it said, but always in jest. Ranya Brutz is a malevolent woman. She has only two notions in her head. One of them is that some day her son, Peter, may be leader here. The other is that he will marry Gerane. If I were a gambling man—and I am not, for the simplest reason that I profess to be an honest one—but, if I were a gambling man, I would bet my head and my wife's head that he will never be leader here. As for Gerane marrying him—well, the world is not coming to an end in her time or mine, either. Now, don't worry about it any more. This is Christmas day. Have you given Gerane a present yet?"

"A present? What have I to give?"

"Nothing much, I'll admit. But your name is Starcourt, isn't it?"

"Certainly."

"Well, suppose you step over to her house and offer it to her for Christmas. Of course, it's something you can't very well put into her stocking, but—"

"Don't be a fool, Julius," interjected Starcourt, coloring.

MAYOR HORST GILLIS MAY STRUT IN MOVIE

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 6. (UP)—Mayor "Bossy" Gillis may become a movie star.

"Bossy" had little to say regarding his forthcoming appearance on the screen, but he did remark that "money talks."

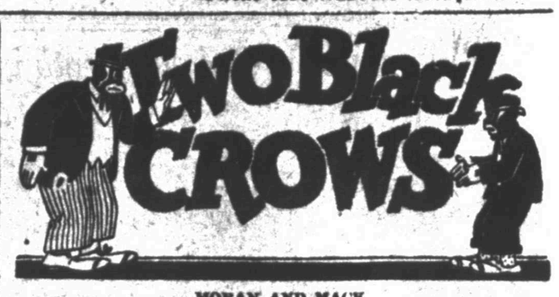

It was reported that a New York motion picture concern was planning to star his honor in a movie to be called, "Jail House Jalopple."

$25 FOR EACH SHIRT

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 6. (UP)—Shirts were expensive in municipal court here today. Charles McDonald, 52, was charged with stealing two of them. He was fined $25 for each shirt and sentenced to two terms of 10 days in jail.

TRACTOR ROUTS BULL

MARION, Ohio, Dec. 6. (UP)—A new use for tractors was developed here today. An enraged bull was pursuing Clarence Perry, a farmer, about his pasture when a neighbor, who was plowing, unhooked his tractor and pursued the bull. The animal became frightened and fled.

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN—How's our fox farm gettin' along, Big Boy?
MACK—Fine, Donald, th' fox asks about you every day.
MORAN—You mean to say th' fox axes about me?
MACK—He sure do.
MORAN—What kind langwidge do that fox speak?
MACK—He talks fox langwidge.
MORAN—Does you talk with him?
MACK—We certainly holds long converseashuns in th' mother tongue.
MORAN—Did he say anything about my five dollars?
MACK—We is way past that now. We is up in th' millions.
MORAN—Can I depend on that fox?
MACK—Lissen, Oscar, that fox is th' most reliable member of th' firm.
MORAN—That don't sound like no recommendashun. I'd like to get my five dollars back.
MACK—I'm willin'. Wilbur, but that's an awful stubborn fox.

Ever' time th' gover'ment saves some money by cuttin' down on postage stamp mucilage, or loppin' off a light bulb here an' there, th' navy asks for three more cruisers. New York M. E. Bishop Heads Church Council

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 6. (INS)—Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the New York Methodist areas, today had been elected president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. He will head the organization for the next four years. He was elected at the sixth quadrennial meeting of the council here.

ACTION ON RESOLUTIONS VESTRIS QUIZ DEFERRED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (UP)—Senate commerce committee today deferred action on the two resolutions now before it calling for investigation of the Vestris disaster. Chairman Jones said members of the committee would examine testimony taken in New York before considering the advisability of a congressional inquiry. He asked for transcripts of the New York hearings.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsilitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either. One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Little Green Capsules Bring Freedom From Rheumatic Pains and Agony

Allison's Drug Store Offers 5 Day Trial on Money Back Basis

Men and women who were bent nearly double — whose joints were swollen and inflamed—whose very existence was just one continuous torturing trial have watched with wonder their return to physical fitness and felt the glorious relief of a body free from aches and pains simply by putting their faith in a "little green capsule" known from coast to coast as Allenrhu Number 2.

These little green capsules go after the swelling and the pain in the right way—the knock-out way. One tiny capsule each hour for the first 10 hours; then continue as directed until every little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone.

Just ask for Allenrhu Number 2—Substitutes and imitations may be offered you but remember, it's "the little green capsule" that is turning the trick and bringing joy to thousands of Rheumatic sufferers, so insist on Allenrhu No. 2.—Adv.

Defunct Georgia Concern Linked Texas Project

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 6. (AP)—Over objections of the defense, the trial of four former officials of the bankrupt Adair Realty and Trust company of Atlanta, charged with using the mails to defraud, was widened today when the government delved into a $1,500,000 project at San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Frances Jeifers of that city testified that in 1924 and 1925, she and her husband entered into an underwriting agreement with the now defunct concern to finance the construction of an apartment building and hotel on two San Antonio lots. The Adair company went into bankruptcy in 1927.

Some of the bonds of this property were sold and "the property foreclosed and sold and the bondholders left suspended in midair," United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager told Federal District Judge Samuel H. Sibley, who is presiding.

Financial Editor Held in Contempt

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (INS)—Joseph Morris is held in contempt of court today for violating an injunction restraining the Trend of the Market and the Stock Market Reporter, of which he is the editor, from continuing fraudulent practices in the sale of securities. The order resulted from testimony obtained from Gilbert Alexander, a gassed and shell-shocked war veteran of Chicago, that he had put $10,000, all his and his wife's savings, in stocks promoted by the publication.

An order for the arrest of Charles Beadon, who controls the two papers, on the same charge was also issued by Justice Humphrey of the supreme court, but he has not been located by the police. Deputy Attorney General Milholland, who is in charge of the case, charges the two publications were merely "tipster sheets."

Increased Personnel Asked by Coast Guard

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (UP)—Increases are needed in personnel and vessels of the United States coast guard to guard the American coast line against rum runners, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant, advised congress today in his annual report.

The law enforcement work of the coast guard to prevent smuggling of liquor into the United States has been prosecuted vigorously during the past year with "very gratifying" results, Billard said

State Budgets Given Approval in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 6. (UP)—All state institutions have had their budgets tentatively approved with the exception of the state hospital at Fort Supply, Ben F. Harrison, state budget officer, said today.

Harrison late yesterday approved budget requests totaling $1,000,000 for new buildings at the University of Oklahoma.

THREE DESPERATE MEN ESCAPE BORDER PRISON

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Dec. 6. (UP)—Three prisoners, one of them believed to be wanted in the East for murder, escaped from the United States immigration station jail here today after beating a guard unconscious with an iron bar.

The prisoners were Pat Cronshield, said to have a criminal record, Charles Guyette and H. McFarland. All were held here for investigation of their entry to this country.

Dwarf Lonesome for Sawdust Ring Drowns in Bathtub

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6. (INS)—"I've lost my courage—" It was too lonesome, away from the acclaim of circus crowds and the companionship of old troopers of the sawdust ring.

So a circus dwarf, about to spend his declining years in peaceful retirement, took the easiest way out today—he huddled himself in a bathtub of water and drowned.

He was a dwarf of impressive name—Noble George Washington Winner, 59, exactly three feet in height. Virtually reared in the sawdust rings of early days, Noble, as he was known, trooped all over the world as a youth and man, playing his dwarf act in all of the large traveling shows.

A few months ago failing health compelled the diminutive trooper to retire, so he came to live with his nephew, F. D. Carroll, in San Francisco. Today, when his nephew returned home, he was found huddled in a bathtub of water, dead.

"I've lost my courage; I'm too lonesome; I miss the old gang—this is the easiest way out," was the dwarf's last message, pinned near the bathtub.

EYE SPECIALIST FACING DOOM

Optometry Some Day to Be Worthless

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (UP)—All men were born equal in this land of liberty, it has been said—and that the day will arrive it was added today, when all will see alike, optically speaking, shunting spectacles to curio shops and exhibit halls.

These words coming from an optometrist attending the American academy of optometry, caused much interest in view of the fact he predicted that in 300 or 400 years there will be little or no need for men of his profession.

Dr. C. C. Koch of Minneapolis, newly-elected chairman of the academy, said the day of universal normal vision will arrive when the eye, as the body already has done, will catch up with developments of the age in which we live.

"Living conditions become more and more artificial all the time," Dr. Koch said. "Our eyes haven't caught up with developments like other parts of the body. The human body adapts itself to changing environments and conditions. Sometimes the process of adaptation may take a long time."

He pointed out that it was only 300 or 400 years ago that our ancestors lived largely an outdoor life but our bodies today have become adapted to a change to indoor existence.

"In generations to come, the eyes too will be so modified," Dr. Koch said, "that they will be in perfect harmony with the need of the time.

"The eyes may be less fitted for distance-vision than they are now, but we must remember that life then will have become so complex that the need for clear seeking things at a distance will have been reduced to a minimum. The general health of the human being will not necessarily be lowered in the change."

He predicted a day when most people's vision would be regarded normal and the need of spectacles would be negligible.

"All changes in human conditions," he explained, "have been or are being solved by ability of humanity to adapt itself. For instance, there is no longer any real use for tonsils. So when the eye is able to adapt itself to the changes of time, there will be normal vision universally."

Dr. Koch is experimenting on a new treatment for senile cataract, which, he said, has not been perfected.

How to Strengthen Any Stomach

POSSIBLY that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of the gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't pleasant; and it isn't easy to escape, when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapepsin"; after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapepsin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

So, just be sure you provide yourself with "Pape's Diapepsin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

LOSER'S PEANUT SENT TO SMITH

Harlingen Man Sends Nut Wrapped in Gold

HARLINGEN, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—Bill Williams' peanut—the very same goober he started rolling 10 miles with his nose because Gov. Alfred E. Smith lost in the presidential race—was sent to the New York governor yesterday.

Wound with gold wire and encased in a silver box, the peanut, an inscription on the box said, was "from one good loser to another."

Williams rolled peanuts—plural because several of them were out—from Rio Hondo to Harlingen to pay an election bet on the New York governor.

His nose, strawberry-hued at the end of the trek, has resumed its normal appearance.

Raskob and DuPont Announcement Soon

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (INS)—Officials of the General Motors corporation today declared they would have an announcement to make in the future regarding the return to the company of John J. Raskob, resigned, and Pierre S. DuPont, who obtained an extended leave of absence, during the presidential campaign.

The officials of the corporation denied, however, that their return was imminent, rumors of which were strengthened by the appearance of DuPont at the last meeting of the board of directors.

Dozen Bandits Killed Since Stege Went Into Office

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (UP)—The toll of bandits killed by police here since John Stege became deputy commissioner of police was brought to a dozen last night. Thomas Stevens, 30, was killed by Detective Simon Kennedy when the bandit returned to the home of his former landlord to get revenge for his tipping off the police.

Stevens was one of the three men who held up the manager and auditor of a hotel and escaped with $4,900 Tuesday. Another of the bandits, Charles Ward, 28, was captured and the third is known.

Minnesota Woman Wins Alienation Suit

ALBANY, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—Because they decided her husband's parents had alienated Bruce Nicholson's affections, a jury here late yesterday awarded $10,000 to Mrs. Marguerite Johnson Nicholson, St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Nicholson sued for $25,000, charging malicious alienation, and she also asked annulment of a divorce decree granted to her husband last September. The latter case was continued until next March.

The Nicholsons were married late April in Seattle, Wash., while young Nicholson was obtaining a discharge from the navy and his wife was visiting a sister.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Again?

Men don't understand; and some women are so helpless. Each month they suffer untold pain, though those times could be entirely painless. Midol makes the natural process of menstruation an incident; yes, even for those who have always experienced acute and prolonged suffering! Try Midol; anticipate your time and avoid all misery or even discomfort. Or take it when the pain is at its height, and feel at ease in five to seven minutes. Midol is not a narcotic; acts directly on organs affected. Fifty cents, aluminum case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

"I DREAMED .... I WAS DEAD .... AND MY LIFE... INSURANCE... HAD LAPSED!"

"I saw them coming down a busy street; a woman and a boy of ten. Their steps were weary, yet goaded by the stinging cold. Their coats were thin; their shoes worn; their hands bare. Great sad eyes stared from gaunt, grey, hungry, faces. Something held my curious gaze.

Then, as they came quite close, I recognized them .... my own beloved wife and boy; penniless, hopeless and alone; victims of a fool who had gone and left them with his Life Insurance LAPSED.

I groaned, staggered, cursed my selfish carelessness and prayed God to let me return to life and duty .... and then suddenly I awoke .... it was only a dream. And yet I swear to you it was as vivid as life.... or should I say death."

GARDNER BUYS 2 PLAYERS AND SELLS 5 AT TORONTO SESSION

CLUBS ACTIVE IN PLAY MART

Other Texas Moguls Dispose of and Acquire Men

Purchase of two infielders from major league clubs, their identity to be revealed next spring, and the sale of five players to minor league teams was announced yesterday by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Spudders at the baseball meeting at Toronto.

None of the five athletes disposed of have been Spudder regulars, though all have been here for spring trials or late in the season. Sam Jones, an outfielder who had had two trials with the Spudders, was sold to New Haven of the Eastern league. The four others, Big Ed Kallina, a pitcher-first baseman; Ash Hillin, pitcher; Joe Luciana, infielder and Hank Guera, catcher, were sold to Frank Kitchin's Tampa club of the Southeastern league.

The two infielders purchased must be waived out of the major leagues before their names can be announced, Gardner said. Both are experienced ball players, the boss added, and will fit in well with the Spudder rebuilding plans.

DALLAS BUYS TWO AND SELLS A PAIR

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Announcement of the acquistion by the Dallas, Texas league Steers of Third-baseman Bill Huber from Chattanooga and Outfielder Moore from Kansas City was made in a dispatch to the Dallas News tonight from Robert Tarleton, business manager of the Steers, attending the annual baseball meeting at Toronto.

The message also announced the sale of Glenn Darrough, lefthanded pitcher, and Jodie Tate, thirdbaseman, by the Dallas club. Darrough goes to Little Rock in the Southern Association and Tate to the San Antonio Bears of the Texas league.

EXPORTERS PURCHASE BURNS AND RIVIERE

BEAUMONT, Dec. 6. (AP)—Purchase by the Exporters of Pitchers Benny Burns from Fort Worth and Pink Riviere from San Antonio, was announced tonight in a telegram received here from Manager Claude Robertson attending the Toronto meeting. Purchase prices were not disclosed.

DRAFT QUESTION IS TABLED BY MOGULS

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 6. (UP)—The draft question was tabled by the national association late this afternoon.

The suave diplomacy of John Conway Toole, president of the International league, prevented all friction over the much-discussed "right of selection," when a resolution he introduced was adopted unanimously by the annual meeting.

Discussion of the various amendments to the major-minor agreement concerning the draft question was postponed by the National association upon Toole's promise that committees from the various larger minor leagues would meet within 40 days to take up the problem.

Special Meeting Planned

A special meeting of the National association, or at least of representatives of the various classifications, will be necessary next year if the draft is to be discussed before the 1929 meeting at Chattanooga in December.

Two big major league deals were on the fire tonight, possibly completed, but still unconfirmed.

Walter Johnson, the new manager of the Washington Senators, negotiated with the Boston Red Sox for Buddy Myer, the young infielder who formerly was with the Senators. Johnson, at latest reports, was to give five players, Lisenbee, Gaston, Reeves, Cronin and Gillis, in exchange for the Boston third baseman. Myer will play third for the Senators, Johnson said, and Goslee shortstop. Myer was not highly thought of when last with Washington and was traded to Boston for Rigney.

Another deal, consummated but not announced, concerned the transfer of a veteran pitcher from Cincinnati to the New York Giants. None could name the pitcher with certainty except Jack Hendricks and John J. McGraw, and they were mute, promising an announcement on Monday. Adolfo Luque or Pete Donohue may be the pitchers.

Yanks Seek San Antonio

The St. Paul club was trying all afternoon to get Bubbles Hargrave, Cincinnati catcher, as manager, but Jack Hendricks was balky.

The New York Yanks are going in for "chain store" system of baseball farms now employed by the St. Louis Cardinals and other major league clubs.

The Yanks may take over control of the Syracuse and Chambersburg, Va., clubs, and probably of the Nashville and San Antonio clubs, which will give them a nice start towards a series of "development" spots across the country, to which young players may be sent for further training without the Yanks losing control of them.

Donohue, Cincinnati pitcher, shot a hole-in-one at the Katy Lake course today. Last winter Pete registered a hole-in-one—on the same course and same hole.

BIG LEAGUERS AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—The New York Yankees and the New York Giants will play the University of Texas Longhorns here during the baseball training season next spring.

Resolution For Probe Of Sea Mishap Delayed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Resolutions proposing investigations into the sinking of the Vestris were passed over today by the senate commerce committee at its first meeting pending receipt of testimony taken in the New York inquiries.

SCHOOL TAKES ACTION AGAINST SOUSED STUDES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 6. (AP)—All formal social events for the balance of the school year with the exception of the junior prom, have been canceled at Colorado college here by the student administrative body, because of the "outrageous conduct of certain members of the student body" in participating in alleged drinking parties at the recent annual homecoming celebration.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE DISMANTLING of the Spudders continues apace. As this was written, late yesterday afternoon, five members of the Wichita Falls club have been sent on their way to join the several athletes who have been lopped off the Spudder reserve list since the 1928 campaign closed. While none of the five disposed of yesterday was a regular, four of them had been familiar figures in spring training for a season or two. But none could quite make the grade.

◇ ◇ ◇

Only eight of the regulars who were with the club throughout the 1928 season have been retained, in the sale of athletes to big league and other minor loop clubs. The disposal of Pitcher Joe Kiefer to Atlanta and Catcher Doc Smith to Tulsa, announced Wednesday by Prexy Gardner from Toronto, leaves only Pitchers Doc Payne and Milt Steengrafe, Catcher Pete Lapan, Infielders Pete Turgeon, Wally Swenson and Rabbitt Benton and Outfielders Howard Fitzgerald and Brick Elred as the holdovers.

◇ ◇ ◇

OF THE PLAYERS who have gone to other scenes for 1929, Pitchers Mike Cvengros and Herb Cobb have been acquired by big league clubs, the former by the Chicago Cubs via the draft and the latter by the St. Louis Browns on a purchase. Pitcher Bill Shores has been recalled by the Philadelphia Athletics and the other members of the slab corps, Keifer and Tom Estill, sold to class A nines, the latter to Beaumont.

◇ ◇ ◇

DOC SMITH'S departure indicates that Jack Crouch, the highly touted young man from Joplin of the Western association, will share backstop duties with Lapan. D George Stanton, first baseman and Ed Roetz, an infielder of uncertain position, have gone to the St. Louis Browns, as has Tom Jenkins, an outfielder. Lyman Lamb, another gardener, will be a teammate of Estill at Beaumont.

◇ ◇ ◇

A FLOCK OF OTHER deals were made, of more or less interest. The Detroit Tigers acquired a pair of eagerly sought stars from Toronto, in Dale Alexander, first baseman, and Johnny Prudhomme, a right hand pitcher. Alexander is a husky gentleman, bigger than Lou Gehrig, a terrific hitter and good fielder. Prudhomme had a sensational year and several clubs, including the Yankees, were after him.

◇ ◇ ◇

Heinie Groh, who was released in midseason by Charlotte of the Sally league, will manage Hartford in the Eastern league. Lena Styles, who pastimed several years with Toronto, goes to Reading.

◇ ◇ ◇

ART JAHN, traded last season by the Giants to the Phillies, and who previously had played with the Cubs, goes to Portland. The Louisville American association club named Allan Sothoron, former pitcher and coach, as its manager to succeed Bruno Betzel. The Cincinnati Reds brought Bernie Neis, formerly with Brooklyn, back to the big time from Seattle.

GRID FANS EYE 2 TILTS TODAY

Olney and Hereford Fields Scenes of Title Games

Two high school football games will hold the interest of grid enthusiasts of this section today. Both are between class B teams and involve championships and each is expected to draw crowds of from 2,000 to 3,000.

Over at Olney, that superb though somewhat crippled team of Cubs will meet Mineral Wells in a bi-district affair. Olney, district 3, and Mineral Wells, district 4 champions are unbeaten and this promises to be a great game between splendid elevens.

DAILEY AT OLNEY

Because of the great importance and interest in this section over the Olney and Mineral Wells bi-district football game today at Olney, Larry Dailey, sports editor of The Record News, will "cover" that contest for this newspaper.

Play to Settle Tie

At Hereford, the "White Faces" of that city will meet Memphis for the class B title of their district. These teams fought to a 6 to 6 tie last week, necessitating today's game. The winner of this contest today plays Post in bi-district competition, and that survivor then meets the victor of the Olney-Mineral Wells affair.

Thus both games are viewed as of great import and as they are the only games in this section will attract many fans from cities throughout the district.

Olney held a great pep meeting at its high school last night, with all students and many townspeople present. The Mineral Wells team was in Olney on the eve of the game.

Memphis Fans Attend

Memphis will send several hundred fans to Hereford today.

The big game of the day in this area tomorrow is the meeting of Amarillo and Abilene on the latter's field, in a bi-district affair.

Lockney and Silverton will play an interesting game today at Silverton, and while no title is involved, it will be a clash of mighty good teams.

FLORIDA RIVAL FOR GEORGIANS

Alligators Share Honors In South With Tech

By ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Georgia Tech's Tornado, sweeping along through the south but also in the general direction of Pasadena, Calif., will not be able to claim more than a half interest in the Dixie championship if the Florida Hurricane does as much destruction to Tennessee as it has to other teams in its path thus far.

So far it's a dead heat in the south. Tech doesn't figure to have much difficulty overcoming its old rival, Georgia, Saturday, especially since the Bulldogs have had an epidemic of influenza to top off a rather disastrous campaign.

Florida's hope-for clean sweep at the expense of Tennessee may be something else. The volunteers have been checked only by Kentucky. They upset Alabama early in the season, at a time when the crimson tide was looked upon as potential conference champion. They have a fast, young array that will be making its last home stand of the year against a hard-hitting array that has scored more points than any other big team in the country.

Florida Has Power

Florida has been clamoring for national recognition all season. There will be no disposition to deny it if the Alligators beat the Volunteers decisively this Saturday at Knoxville.

So far as actual performances go no football machine in the country, including Stanford and Georgia Tech, has exhibited a harder charging or fleeter set of backs than Florida, directed by "Cannon Ball Clyde" Crabtree, 154-pound quarterback, who kicks with either foot and passes with either hand on the run, a La Cagle.

Georgia Tech's invasion of the far west for the New Year's day classic will mark the third time in four years that the south's banner has been carried against the representatives of the Pacific coast.

Trail Is Blazed

They have a high standard of performance to follow, for Alabama, with Pooley Hubert tossing long passes, beat Washington in 1926, 20 to 19, and went back the next year to tie Stanford, 7 to 7.

While the southern delegation has met defeat in this annual fixture, the same thing is true of the University of California, which will furnish the opposition for the Georgians.

The Golden Bears trounced Ohio State at Pasadena in 1921 but were tied by Washington and Jefferson in 1922.

CORSICANA PLAYS RANGER

CORSICANA, Texas, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Corsicana high school Tigers runners up in district 4 for the Interscholastic league football honors, will meet the Ranger high school eleven at Ranger on Dec. 11 in a post-season game, John Pierce, Corsicana coach, announced today.

MISSOURI NAMES LEADER

COLUMBUS, Mo., Dec. 6 (UP)—John Waldorf of Kansas City, center and fullback, has been elected captain of the University of Missouri eleven for next season.

Bears Dominate All-Coast Eleven

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Three University of California players won places on the 1928 Associated Press all-Pacific coast football eleven. It is the consensus of 16 outstanding critics from all sections of the coast. Southern California and Stanford each placed two men. The team:

Ends—Phillips, California; Frankian, St. Mary's.

Tackles—Dressel, Washington State; Bancroft, California.

Guards—Post, Stanford; Robesky, Stanford.

Center—Barrager, Southern California.

Quarterback—Maple, Oregon State.

Halfbacks—Lom, California; Carroll, Washington.

Fullbacks—Thomas, Southern California.

Easterners Comprise Backfield and Western and Southern Stars Make Up Line of First Eleven

By JOHN W. HEISMAN
Noted Football Tactician and Coach

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Of the 33 players selected for the three all-American teams, it will be noticed that 11 hail from eastern teams, nine from the South, eight from the midwest section and five from the Pacific coast. Also that four of the linemen of the first eleven are drawn from midwest teams, while all four of the backs are from eastern institutions. Not a single lineman from the East has been placed on the first team.

Quite a large proportion of these men I have been so fortunate as to have seen in action myself this fall; and I am hopeful that some of my readers will concede that I probably ought to know a great football player when I see one. That's how it happens I named the four men I have for our first backfield. No doubt, Carroll of Washington university and Mizell of Georgia Tech crowd this quartet hard with their talents; but I can vouch for the abilities of the men I have named, while what I know of Carroll and Mizell has been learned from hearsay. At any rate, they each have another year and we'll watch them more closely.

Backs Finished Players

The backfield four I selected are all finished players. Cagle is, perhaps, the greatest and will poll the largest number of votes from the pickers at large—I rather fancy he won't get one dissenting vote. But the other three are truly great players—not one of them has a single football weakness that I have been able to spot. They all run, buck, pass, receive passes, tackle, block and play generally like a house a-fire.

What's the reason our linemen don't compare so well here in the East with those turned out by the West? In the first place, lack of good eastern ends is explained by the fact that all the veteran ends graduated last June, and here at the season's close mighty few eastern ends have yet learned how the position should be played. Lawler of Princeton is quite the best of the eastern crop.

In the next place, in the far West they grow tall corn, big trees, huge cattle and Gargantuan linemen—naturally. More limestone water out that way, I guess, makes men grow large.

But, seemingly, linemen East or West don't always repeat. What have we heard this year of the play of Hibbs of Southern California, Crane of Illinois, Raskowski of Ohio State or Sprague of Army? They all registered as jewels of the first water last year, but for some reason the play of all of them has fallen off this season.

Few Outstanding Centers

Not so many good centers, either, for 1928. All concede that Pund and Howe are almost out of the class of the rest. The former is bigger, stronger, faster and more aggressive than Howe. Both are team captains, Howe is a fine leader, but Pund is even more inspirational in his game and manner. And he's a lofty sportsman.

Post, we all can agree upon. He and Robesky are the pair who help Hoffman and Fleishacker out when the latter hit center on the Stanford team. Stanford has four halves that can keep the defence scared stiff concerning end runs, while the two guards and middle backs worry the opposition to death regarding the center of the line.

McMullen is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 237 pounds and sometimes plays offensive end for his team. That will tell you something of the ability of this second "Pete" Henry (W. & J., 1919).

No argument about Nowack for one tackle. Some will differ about Pommerening, but Michigan was able to defeat Illinois and Iowa. Who did it? They had to have a player or two somewhere to do that—eh?

Ends Are Mediocre

Haycraft and Fesler are not the greatest ends ever seen—neither is at all great—they're just good, earnest, fast, dependable men. Some day they may show sparks of genius, but not yet.

Those who read their local paper and who merely go out and watch the local team through its schedule of games are apt to have limited views regarding the best players of the entire country. It really involves a close study of the way men are developing all over the country from the very beginning of the season in each section till its close. But of course no one critic can see more than a dozen or so of teams in action in one season, nor more than a tenth of the good players. For his information concerning the best in distant sections he must rely on the word of those qualified to express an opinion and familiar with the work of the men of that section.

This brings me to saying that while I have relied mainly upon my own observation and judgment of eastern players in making the above selections, I have been so fortunate as to have had the benefit of the best advice from a number of the leading coaches and highest authorities of each other section regarding the merits of players in those districts.

CHESS WIZARD WINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Playing 46 exhibition matches simultaneously at the Brooklyn Institute Chess club, Jose Capablanca, of Cuba, former world chess champion, achieved 43 victories and three draws last night.

ORPHAN'S HOME WINS

CORSICANA, Dec. 6 (AP)—The state orphan's home team of Corsicana clinched the class B district 14 championship of the Interscholastic football league today when they downed the Itasca high school team 26 to 14.

Gordy Brown Is Elected 1929 Steer Grid Leader

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Gordy Brown of Dallas was chosen unanimously today as captain of the 1929 Texas university football squad at a meeting of the lettermen.

Brown, a star tackle, was the first choice for all-conference honors at that position, and was mentioned on some half dozen other American selections. Next year will be his last season at Texas university, which won the Southwest conference title in the season just ended.

Improved Defenses Limit Grid Scoring

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Greater skill in defense and a decided reduction in the number of set-up teams have kept the total points accumulated by this season's college football elevens down to considerably below the bumper crop of 1927.

The country's average team, as determined by the Associated Press from the records of 159 aggregations representing every section scored a total of 127.3 points in the course of the season and 14.96 points per game. With the forward pass at its peak and means of defense against aerial attack not yet perfected, the figures for the year before were 130.5 and 15.3.

YOU expect a quick start from Conoco Ethyl Gasoline and you get it. But you get a lot more, too.

Since Conoco Ethyl is composed of Conoco, the triple-test gasoline, and Ethyl Fluid developed by General Motors, it combines quick starting with all the other qualities of an ideal motor fuel—rapid acceleration, extra power, smooth, quiet running under practically all motoring conditions.

Conoco Ethyl costs a few cents more per week than ordinary gasoline, but it more than pays for itself in freedom from the expense of carbon removal, elimination of the engine wear and tear that "knocking" causes and more power from every gallon.

Drive to the Conoco Ethyl pump and convince yourself.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright, 1928, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Dec. 9:

Sunday—Breakfast: Coddled egg, three or four slices of crisp bacon, Melba toast, stewed peaches. Lunch: Baked potato, spinach, celery and ripe olives. Dinner: Roast chicken or rabbit, asparagus, string beans, salad or lettuce and tomatoes, *cup custard.

Monday—Breakfast: Whole wheat muffins with peanut butter, pear sauce. Lunch: Noodle soup (made with noodles, spinach, parsley and celery), baked eggplant, lettuce. Dinner: Roast beef, cooked beet tops, turnips, salad of chopped raw cabbage and ground beets, jello or jell-well with whipped cream.

Tuesday—Breakfast: French omelet, waffle (browned through), stewed prunes. Lunch: Corn bread, cooked turnip tops, mashed pumpkin. Dinner: Celery soup, broiled lamb chops, cooked squash, molded vegetable salad (string beans, cucumbers and tomatoes), pineapple whip.

Wednesday—Breakfast: Whole wheat mush with milk or cream (no sugar). Lunch: Cooked beet tops, cooked oyster plant, cucumbers. Dinner: Roast pork, baked ground beets, string beans, celery, apple sauce.

Thursday—Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Baked potato, combination salad (diced cooked beets, string beans and celery). Dinner: Vegetable soup, salisbury steak, stewed tomatoes, cooked celery, salad of raw spinach with peanut butter dressing, stewed apricots.

Friday—Breakfast: Baked stuffed apple. Lunch: Steamed rice, baked parsnips, celery. Dinner: Tomato bouillon, baked sea bass, cooked spinach, cooked cucumbers, salad or sliced tomatoes on lettuce, no dessert.

Saturday—Breakfast: Baked egg, retoasted shredded wheat biscuit, stewed figs. Lunch: Corn meal muffins, cooked string beans head lettuce with olive oil. Dinner: Roast veal, Melba toast dressing, mushrooms en casserole buttered vegetables (carrots, beets and turnips), jello or jell-well.

*Cup custard—Beat three whole eggs, and add a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups, being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place the cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until custards are slightly brown on top.

You will find that the raisins make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey.

Sufficient for six portions, and may be served with a little whipped cream if desired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mucus From the Throat

Question—A. G. asks: "What makes a person clear his throat so often? I do not breathe through my mouth, but I have to clear my throat about every five minutes."

Answer—Your trouble is either caused from catarrh or it may have developed into a habit.

Nervous Indigestion

Question—Mrs. M. V. asks: "What is nervous indigestion?"

Answer—there is doubtless such a condition which can be called "nervous indigestion," and this is caused by enervation from too much mental or emotional excitement. In most cases, that which is called "nervous indigestion" is really caused by dietetic and hygienic mistakes which make the person nervous. Nervousness thus induced has an additional bad effect in disturbing digestion. Send large, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for my article, "A Curative Diet." It will be sent without charge.

Sleeping Out of Doors

Question—A. M. writes: "Please advise what you think about sleeping out of doors, that is, in an ordinary tent at the beach during the winter months. I know of children who have slept out during the summer months and their health was greatly improved, but was a little doubtful about the winter months, as they are subject to pulmonary tuberculosis."

Answer—There is a decided advantage in sleeping in a place where one can receive plenty of fresh air, but this does not necessarily have to be cold air. The body should be kept warm, and often when one sleeps out of doors in a cold climate it is necessary to use so much covering that the body becomes tired from the weight of it. It is just as well to sleep indoors and use lighter bed covering, keeping the windows open, allowing a steady flow of fresh air through the room.

CEDRIC M. DURST

Durst told me that he got a big wallop out of a conversation he overheard one night in a hectic New York night club.

"An old-timer was sitting at a table adjoining ours," Durst said. "He was sitting there looking over the amazing gathering when a well known newspaper columnist joined him.

"'Not much like your youth, is it?' the newspaper man observed. 'The younger generation certainly step on the gas these nights!'

"'Younger generation?' echoed the old-timer.

"'Yes, younger generation.'

"'You mean younger degeneration,' snorted the veteran who should have been in bed."

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

HOW TO SOLVE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several crossings to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

MAUD DISTRICT MAKES 6,810

Seminole Production Goes Down Sharply

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6.—Ten wells in the Maud pool are making 9,317 barrels a day. Three wells producing from the Misener sand made a total production of 6,810 barrels. They are the Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Hallum, in the northeast of the southeast of the southeast of 1-8-4, making 3,205 barrels; the Independent Oil and Gas company No. 1 Harding, in the southeast of the northwest of 18-8-5, made 1,345 barrels, and the Pure Oil company No. 1 Lindly, in the southeast of the southwest of the southeast of 18-8-5, flowed 2,260 barrels open.

Sinclair Oil and Gas company No. 1 Bellaire, in the northeast of the northwest of the northeast of 19-8-5, flowed 355 barrels in 13 hours from the Misener sand encountered from 4108 to 4116 feet.

The production of the greater Seminole field, continues to decline. It made 278,160 barrels from 1,278 wells. A revision was made of the producing wells in the pools which accounts of the loss of four wells.

Vacancy Strip Laws Considered

The "vacancy strip" problem is to be thoroughly thrashed out by West Texas oil men.

Members of the oil and gas bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will meet in Midland on Monday, Dec. 17, and the outstanding subject slated to come before the meeting is a statute relating to vacancy strips in oil fields, according to W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the bureau, who issued a call for the meeting Thursday.

The vacancy or unsurveyed strips of land in oil fields have long been a bone of contention and at the present time the state of Texas, through the attorney general, is taking legal steps to reclaim lands on which oil wells have been drilled in the Panhandle.

Such lands should belong to the men who have paid taxes on them over a period of years, the oil and gas bureau believes, and legislation to solve the problem may be suggested at the Midland meeting, it was learned.

Besides Mr. Hamilton the bureau is composed of J. E. Thompson, Breckenridge; W. R. Keeble, Abilene; Leon Shield, Coleman; F. E. Yonker, Ranger; Herbert O'Bannon, San Angelo; S. J. Arnett, Lubbock; W. F. Scarborough, Midland; Will M. Massie, Fort Worth; Will O'Brien, Amarillo; Tom Bryant, Cross Plains, and J. M. Baldridge, Amarillo.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—The cotton market prices were easier today in under a renewal of liquidation, influenced by weakness in the stock market, relatively easy Liverpool cables and the absence of any aggressive trade demand or support otherwise.

January contracts sold off to 20.13 or 21 points net lower and within 3 points of the low price touched on the decline of last Tuesday. They closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 17 to 21 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 3 points in response to easier cables, and prices gradually sagged off during the day. The selling was not active or aggressive, but there was rather steady liquidation in small lots which became a little more active during the afternoon when sentiment seemed to be influenced by the call money rate advanced and reports of a lower stock market.

Wall street selling was not particularly active but there was some local selling and considerable selling through wire or commission houses on the decline which carried prices off to 20.17 for December and 20.10 for May or about 18 to 22 points below yesterday's closing quotations. Three or four more private crop reports were issued with figures on the yield ranging from 13,729,000 up to 14,367,000 bales and figures on indicated ginnings from 12,423,000 up to 12,495,000 bales. Up to the close of business today 11 of these private estimates had been published, pointing at the average to a crop of 14,083,000 bales. These figures appeared to be without any particular influence on the day's market. According to a canvass made during the day the average of estimates by 99 members of the New York cotton exchange indicates a crop expectation of 14,100,000 bales, the highest individual figure being 14,360,000 and the lowest 13,800,000 bales.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to liquidation for London and Alexandria account but said that Bombay had been a buyer of May in that market and that there was a fair inquiry for cotton cloths chiefly from India. Exports today 20,212, making 3,298,802 so far this season. Port receipts 40,491. U. S. port stocks, 2,330,534.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6. (AP)—The cotton market was dull again today although prices fluctuated in a range of about 20 points. Sporadic liquidation by longs in advance of the final government report due Saturday, kept the market on the downgrade for practically the entire session. January contracts sold off to 19.49 and closed at 19.50, or 20 points under the previous close. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 16 to 20 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due and the local market opened easy in sympathy. First trades showed losses of 3 to 5 points but a period of steadiness right after the start carried prices back to about parallel with the previous close. Offerings were promptly absorbed, however, by a renewal of liquidation and some selling on fears of a reduced crop estimate by the government.

At the lowest reached in final trading, January sold at 19.49, March 19.59 and May 19.52, or 19 to 21 points below yesterday's close. Final prices were a point or two above the lowest.

Five private estimates were issued during the day with probable yields ranging from 13,729,000 to 14,367,000 bales. Two ginnings estimates appeared one at 12,423,000 and the other at 12,495,000 bales.

Long Expected Flop in Stock Market Occurs With High Money

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (US)—Long threatened break of consequence was exprienced in the stock market, this afternoon.

The call money rate of 12 per cent, the highest in eight and a half years, and fear that the rediscount rate would be raised, caused widespread liquidation and short selling that led to losses of from 4 to more than 22 points in recent favorites.

No group was immune, and the rails suffered comparatively as much as industrials.

Montgomery Ward lost 22½ points net. Radio dropped 15, General Motors 7⅝, General Electric 11, Smelting 8¼, Cerro de Pasco 7, Steel 6¼, Wright Aero 10, Chile 8, while Columbia Graphaphone closed 8¼ lower.

Erie was hardest hit in the railroad group, losing 7 points, while Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific dropped more than 6 and several others lost from 3 to 5 points.

The average decline in the industrials of over 10 points was one of the biggest in history for any session and was made more pertinent in that it took place in the final two hours of trading.

False Rumors Afloat

Unsettlement was added to because of the erroneous rumors given wide circulation early in the day.

Although practically all bankers forecast tight money, certain sources gave wide circulation to report that the rate would drop during the day.

At the same time the word was passed that the most powerful bankers were satisfied that sufficient correction had been recorded and that "the market is all right until after Christmas." When the call rate first advanced around noon traders became nervous and the subsequent 12 per cent rate brought the deluge.

That the "state of mind" is the most powerful influence in the market now was fully demonstrated. In fact, actual liquidation proved heavier than any one expected and professionals did not miss the chance to hammer at over-exploited issues. As a result there was a larger short interest outstanding at the close than at any time in six months.

Chrysler Favorite

Chrysler was one of the outstanding bull favorites early in the day for the automobile world and the stock market community believe its outlook for 1929 is better than any other motor stock.

Mack Truck was another topic of bull talk during the morning optimism, it being reported that with all bank loans out of the way the stockholders would soon be benefited by increasing net earnings.

Kennecott stood out in the copper group—also momentarily—but mostly to the fact that practically all the stock available to the street is controlled by one group.

However, individual stock news plays little part when the public gets in a selling mood. It is at that time, however, that scale accumulation is of importance. Such support was evident in Gold Dust as the dominant interests therein have further expansion plans in the form of acquiring additional properties by the exchange of stock method.

Fox was bought, also by those who are willing to wait. Fox Theatres, it is expected, will issue $20,000,000 new bonds soon and with the proceeds acquire an important chain of theaters.

Steady slipping of Armour shares was explained by advices from Chicago that net this year would be equal to $2 a share for the "A" stock.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Hog prices around the midwestern and southwestern markets were on a steady to 15-cent higher basis as compared with Wednesday's average market. Shipping orders were relatively light and at several points the close to packers was more active than the early market. The day's extreme top of $8.75 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 121,800 as compared with 85,720 the same day a year ago. A week ago was a holiday and all markets were closed.

Although cattle receipts were light to moderate, a decidedly weak undertone prevailed on fed steers. Firm prices were maintained on desirable grades of yearlings but fed steers ruled unevenly steady to 25c lower with the better grades showing the full decline at Chicago. Demand at eastern dressed beef markets continued slow with some losses at Boston, the key market on heavy steers beeves. Other killing classes of cattle were little changed while stocker and feeders trade at most centers was the usual week-end cleanup. Best fed steers in Chicago stopped at $14.50. The supply estimated at 30,000 was 2,000 heavier than a year ago.

Fat lambs found a slow outlet at values steady to slightly lower than yesterday's dull close; aged stock was generally unchanged but Chicago with a limited showing of this contingent reported a moderate advance. Choice fat lambs in Chicago scored $14.10 and a few fat ewes reached $7.25. Aggregate receipts were around 40,500 against 39,335 the same day a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 9,000; strong to 15c higher; top $8.50 on 240 to 270 pounds; butchers, medium to choice 250 to 350 pounds $8.15@8.50; 200 to 250 pounds $8.10@8.50; 160 to 200 pounds $8.00@8.45.

Cattle—Receipts 1,800; calves—receipts 400; steady to weak; slaughter steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $11.75@16.00; 1,100 to 1,300 pounds $11.35@16.25; 950 to 1,100 pounds $12.00@16.75; fed yearlings, good choice 750 to 950 pounds $12.25@16.50; heifers, good and choice 850 pounds down $11.50@15.00; cows, good and choice $8.00@10.50; vealers (milk-fed) medium to choice $9.00@14.00.

Sheep—Receipts 3,500; lambs steady to weak; lambs, good and choice (92 pounds down) $12.50@13.40; ewes, medium to choice (150 pounds down) $4.75@7.50.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 48,000; strong; top $8.75; packing sows $7.60@8.25; pigs, medium to choice 90 to 130 pounds $7.00@8.15.

Cattle—Receipts 9,000; calves—receipts 3,000; steady; slaughter steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $12.75@17.50; 1,100 to 1,300 pounds $12.50@17.50; 950 to 1,100 pounds $12.25@17.50; fed yearlings, good and choice 750 to 950 pounds $13.25@16.50; heifers, good and choice 850 pounds down $12.50@15.25; cows, good and choice $8.50@11.00; bulls, good and choice (beef) $9.50@11.50; vealers (milk-fed) good and choice $13.00@16.00.

Sheep—Receipts 14,000; fat lambs weak to 15c lower; sheep steady; fat ewes $6.25@7.00; lambs, good and choice 92 pounds down $13.25@14.25.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6. (UP)—Hogs—Receipts 1,000; market steady to 10c higher; top $8.40; top truck $8.40; bulk desirable 175 to 250 pound rail hogs, $8.30@8.40; bulk 175 to 240-pound truck hogs $8.20@8.40; packing sows and pigs steady, bulk packing sows $7.25@7.75; fat pigs $7@7.75.

Cattle—Receipts 5,000; market slaughter steers scarce, some very plain grassers around $9, about steady; she stock and cutters rather slow, mostly 10 to 15c lower; good fat cows in car lots up to $8; small lots up to $8.75; butcher grades around and under $7; bulk low cutter $4.75@5.15; other classes cattle generally unchanged.

Sheep—Receipts 100; nothing of consequence to offer; trade nominal.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (AP)—With the best shipping demand here for corn today that has been witnessed in some time, the corn market took on new strength. Fresh export business in corn here and at the Gulf of Mexico was indicated and other grain derived firmness from corn.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, ⅛@⅜c net higher. Wheat finished ⅛@⅛c@¼c up, oats ⅛@¼c advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10c down.

Helping to lift the corn market today was the fact that other cities were reported outbidding Chicago for corn at various points in Illinois. Besides, today's arrivals of corn here, 294 cars, were of less volume than had generally been looked for, and country offerings were likewise relatively small despite excellent weather for curing and moving the new crop.

Sharp upturns in corn quotations at Argentine markets were also a subject of comment. On the other hand, assertions were made by some trade experts that United States corn is already much higher in price than the level at which farmers can afford to feed the corn to hogs or cattle, and that if such conditions persist a decidedly larger movement of corn to market would ensue than would otherwise be the case. Absence of selling pressure was notable in the oats market, and oats receipts continued small.

Heavy rains in the Argentine wheat harvest region were of some effect toward giving a firmer tone to the wheat market.

MAY DRUG STORES CORP.

Five-Year Record

The purchase and operation of wholesale and retail drug stores comprise the activities of the May Drug Stores corporation which was formed in 1927. It succeeded to a business which was established originally in 1894. The company owns the entire capital stock of the May Drug company of Pennsylvania and all the outstanding certificates of beneficial interest in Mays Trade Rights Trusteeship. The latter organization is a trust and owns the May trade marks and trade names, the use of which is granted to the May Drug company of Pennsylvania for $180,000 annually. The May Drug Stores corporation operates, under leases all extending to 1944, or beyond, 17 retail drug stores all located in the Pittsburgh district and a warehouse conveniently located.

Net income for the year ending Jan. 31, 1928, was $356,434 or $1.38 a share. This compared with $364,820 in the previous year and $330,278 in the year ending Jan. 31, 1926.

Capital stock outstanding consists of 200,000 shares of stock of no par value. There is no funded debt. Dividends have been paid at the rate of 37½ cents quarterly since July 1, 1927.

As of Jan. 31, 1928, total current assets amounted to $479,797, total current liabilities were $162,447, and net working capital $317,350. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $806,664 or $4.03 a share.

Sane Development Of Field Urged

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 6. (UP)—A plea for conservative and sane development of the oil area southeast of Oklahoma City was sounded by lease owners today as the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company's gusher was shut in.

The well that blew in Tuesday ran away from tankage with its 200 barrels an hour flow and had to be shut in when nine tanks were filled.

One well in the center of each 40-acre tract will be drilled in the first "crop" of tests, representatives of 11 large oil companies and lease owners agreed.

Coline Oil company announced the second location to be staked since the gusher blew in Tuesday afternoon. It will be in C SE NW 24-11n-3w, about half a mile northwest of the I. T. I. O. well in C SE SE 24-11n-3w.

The Coline well will be an offset to that of the Ramsay Petroleum corporation, which announced a location Wednesday on the Fortson farm in C SW NE 24-11n-3w.

Timbers for the rig were being moved onto the location today.

The second test of the I. T. I. O. company is drilling below 2888 feet.

MILK RECEIPTS GAINING HERE

Strong Market Reflects Production Shortage

A steady increase in deliveries of milk to establishments in Wichita Falls from the territory surrounding the city was reported Thursday by six concerns whose total daily receipts now average almost 36,000 pounds of whole milk.

Only one of the six reported a large increase, but with the other five each day of the last two weeks has shown an improvement. The Producers creamery is the leader in daily receipts, with a mark slightly above 13,000 pounds with Lehrack Ice Cream company running second with more than 8,000 pounds.

It was estimated by local dairymen that not more than 60 per cent of the milk cows in the territory are producing now but the increase resulting each year at this time with many more going on the milking list has begun. However, with the coming of spring, more than twice the amount of whole milk now being used in the manufacture of ice cream will be demanded by that branch of the industry, thus absorbing a large portion of the increased milk supply. Constantly increasing numbers of milk cows in the community, however, and the improvement of grade, promises a supply of milk by next summer which, it was said, will take care of all retail distribution, ice cream and butter manufacturing industries, and still show a surplus for other uses.

Along with the increased production, recent deliveries were said to show a uniformly improved percentage of butter fat.

Other Markets

Buyers of cotton, grains and produce from this locality all reported very little movement in these commodities during the last week. Cotton fell off ten points, however, on Thursday's market, closing at 18.30 with D. W. Wiley and at 18.25 with the R. O. Harvey company. Both the J. C. Hunt Grain company and Wichita Mill and Elevator company quoted 95 cents on No. 1 hard wheat, with the latter firm offering 60 cents for any good oats available.

15 PRODUCERS IN WEST TEXAS

Five Permian Counties Get New Oil Wells

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Dec. 6.—Fifteen producing oil wells were completed last week in five counties in the Permian basin of West Texas for total daily initial production of 28,023 barrels. This was four wells less than the number finished during the preceding week but a gain in potential of 2,297 barrels daily.

One well in Winkler county, Pure No. 10-C Hendrick, accounted for 20,000 barrels of the total. The potential of eight completions in Winkler was 27,146 barrels. Howard county completed three producers for 217 barrels daily, Crane county two for 540 barrels, Upton county one for 80 barrels and Loving county one for 40 barrels.

Eleven tests were abandoned dry, an unusually large number; two in Crockett county and one each in Glasscock, Fisher, Irion, Jones, Kent, Loving, Pecos, Sutton and Winkler counties. An Edwards county wildcat was abandoned at a shallow depth and the rig skidded to a new location. Borden and Howard counties each abandoned one location.

Completed producers during the week, listed alphabetically by counties and by companies, follow:

CRANE

Simms & Atlantic's No. 2-B University, section 34, top of pay 2928 feet, total depth 3008 feet, shot with 300 quarts from 2928-3008 feet, initial production 200 barrels the first 24 hours.

Gulf Production Co. No. 38 McElroy, section 201, top of pay 2802 feet, total depth 2911 feet, shot with 180 quarts from 2901-2800 feet, initial production 340 barrels a day, flowing.

HOWARD

Marland Production Co. No. 11-A Clay, section 139, top of pay 1775-88 feet, total depth 1793 feet, shot with 50 quarts from 1755-88 feet, initial production 45 barrels daily.

Dunnigan & Hyer No. 2 Clay, section 126, top of pay 1767-88 feet, total depth 1795 feet, shot with 40 quarts from 1767-88 feet, initial production 112 barrels daily, flowing.

LOVING

Lockhart & Co. No. 1 Wheat & Ramsey, section 83, top of pay 4187-90 feet, total depth 4303 feet, plugged back to 4206 feet, shot with 150 quarts from 4187-4200 feet, initial production 40 barrels a day, flowing through tubing.

UPTON

Gulf Production Co. No. 7 Lane, section 3, top of pay 1983 feet, total depth 2041 feet, initial production 80 barrels daily.

WINKLER

May Production Co. No. 1 Hendrick, section 34, top of pay 2780 feet, total depth 2920 feet, initial production 20 barrels daily.

Refinery Marts Dull During Convention

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6.—The eyes of both buyers and sellers of refinery gasoline are turned upon the American Petroleum institute convention at Chicago, thereby causing a dull and easy market.

The quotations throughout the Mid-Continent districts range from 8 to 9 cents and a few still at 9¼ cents.

Kerosene continued its dullness and is offered by refiners at a low price.

SPECIAL U. S. COURT DEC. 14

Atwell to Dispose Of Refinery Case

Applications for a final order of distribution and for a discharge of the receivers of the American Refining company will be heard in a special term of the United States district court in Dallas Dec. 14 and 15, according to a setting made by Judge W. H. Atwell before the adjournment of the federal court here Thursday afternoon.

Judge Atwell said he would open the special term on Dec. 14, hold it over until Dec. 15 or later. The first application asks for a final distribution of the proceeds from the sale of the assets of the American Refining company, and of the estates of R. M. Waggoner, W. W. Silk, P. P. Langford, N. B. Chesnult, M. J. Bashara, W. M. Priddy and W. T. Willis.

Leslie Humphrey, attorney for the receivers, told the court that he hoped the last obstacles to the dismissal of the receivers would be met at a meeting of the creditors' committee to be held Monday morning, Dec. 10. He said the Carson county appeal and the question of how much income tax was due the government from funds accruing since the receivership might both be settled at the meeting. He indicated that the receivers would be asked to assume responsibility for any disbursements necessary in settlements of those final problems.

Judge Atwell Thursday afternoon refused to give permission for the filing of an intervention petition against the estate of W. W. Silk, in the name of Parfet and Martlow, income tax experts. He explained that he considered it too late in the operations of the receivership for the filing of such a petition, but that he was willing to give the matter further hearing at a latter date.

Gilbreath Rites Set For Today

Funeral services will be held from Hines funeral chapel at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon for Mrs. J. E. Gilbreath, 34, who died at her home, 2401 Jasper, Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. T. J. Furniss of the South Side Baptist church and Rev. Ben Bell of the Sibley Taylor Methodist church will have charge of the services and burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

The survivors include her husband, a son, Joy; five daughters, Lucille, Jewell, Dorris May, Lois Fay and Edna Alice; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Bailey of Lexington, Texas, and Mrs. Rosalie Eskew, Waco; four brothers, Truman, John and Buck of Perry and Howard of Goose Creek, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wooley of Perry, Texas.

Four Fires Cause $1,500 Damage Here

Four minor fires here Thursday evening caused damage totaling about $1,500, according to members of the fire department.

The Taxman refinery suffered slight damage when the first fire of the evening broke out, and the refinery fire fighters had the blaze out before the fire department arrived.

A vacant house at 3200 Garfield belonging to the Wichita Motors company was destroyed. Frank McClure, fire chief, estimated the loss at $1,000. The place was vacant.

Another vacant house at North Broadway and Tenth street was slightly damaged by a fire of undetermined origin. The owner of the property was not known.

A trash fire at Tenth and Fillmore streets was put out by the firemen before any damage was done.

$38,600 in Building Added to Records

Building permits and licenses in Wichita Falls totaled $38,600 Thursday, thus continuing the heavy issuance of building, repair and remodeling permits of the past two weeks.

The city clerk's office reported a repair permit for $3,600 for Slipperland at 718 Indiana avenue. The contract is to be handled by Taylor Brothers.

F. A. Smith, city building inspector, reported a $35,000 permit for the construction of a home in the Weeks addition, adjacent to the city for immediate building. The place is to be the home of Fred Powell, formerly of Electra. McAbee and Rosser have the contract.

FEDERAL AID FOR SQUATTERS

Oklahoma Homesteaders May Lose Land Titles

By CHARLES S. HAYDEN
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Unless the federal government will come to their rescue, the 1,000 homsteaders on the 42,400 acres of land comprising the strip along the east and west line of the Texas-Oklahoma boundary and which, under a supreme court decision, becomes part of the Texas Panhandle, will lose all the rights they have heretofore possessed and become squatters, subject to removal at will by the constituted authorities of the Lone Star state. These people hold title to their lands under patent from the federal government on the assumption that this land was in Oklahoma.

Part of Texas

The supreme court, in a decision handed down last year, however, holds the land never was part of Oklahoma but of Texas. As public land in Texas, however, it never was subject to entry under the federal homestead laws since Texas, on entering the union, reserved all its unallotted and unpatented land for the benefit of its own public purposes. Thus a federal patent on any of the land covered by this decision is valueless.

The situation has been brought to the attention of Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and he expects to call on Senator Morris Sheppard at an early date for a conference to see what can be done under the decision of the supreme court. The boundary line on that section of the Panhandle was moved eastward a distance of 3,700 feet at its southern extremity and 1,700 feet at its northern end. This strip is 132½ miles long and is now being surveyed under orders of the supreme court by Samuel S. Gannett to fix the exact location of the one hundredth meridian, which the court declared formed the boundary line at that point between the two states.

Texas Unwilling

"I am informed," said Senator Thomas, "that the state government of Texas was approached to see if it would not simply confirm the titles to these lands, where patents had been issued by the federal government, but the governor has indicated he was unwilling to do this In that, of course, he is within his rights but it seems to me something should be done for these people. They homesteaded on the land, acquiring titles from the federal government and have made their improvements. If the state of Texas will not accept those titles I think the federal government should be called on to aid these people. The extent of such aid I would not presume to suggest at this time but it is one of the matters which I wish to discuss with Senator Sheppard as they are his constituents now."

It is understood that one proposal to be made will be that Texas accept payment from the federal government of the amount which the land was worth at the time patents were issued. This, it is suggested Texas might not be willing to do and particularly so since, with the announcement of the supreme court decision, Texans have made applications with the state land office which might serve as prior liens. In the event Texas insists on its right to take the lands, together with the improvements there-on Senator Thomas will sponsor a bill to reimburse those dispossessed to the extent of their losses.

This is the second Texas-Oklahoma boundary case. In the first one Texas lost its contention and possesion of much valuable oil lands in the south one-half of the bed of the Red river. That was held to be government land, and the Texans claiming it under Texas titles lost. This time the shoe is on the other foot, and it is the citizens of Oklahoma who will lose, unless the federal government will reimburse them.

Animal Act at Majestic Proves Headliner

By The Record News Critic

Last week it was a strong man act and this week it is animals that stand out and catch the eye where the eye is not usually caught in a vaudeville show, for the Interstate vaudeville show has something rather amazing at the Majestic.

High school dogs and a pony served up to jazz tune time, and embellished with a society atmosphere put Clemens Belling, his two human assistants and half dozen animal stars in the position of adding an extra headline act to a vaudeville show.

Brems-Fritz and Murphy Brothers, self styled executive board of the Laughlanders union in extraordinary session, deal out mirth and some comedy in song.

Danny Dugan ocps the honors of the show with his company. Roy Walts with his xylophone in one of the stars of the act and the whole show. The Miller Sisters also do good work for Danny, who personally is a dancer.

Jean Southern, songbird, is there in an act, as is a bozo who bills himself as "Mr." Torcom Bezazian, the eminent tenor

"Annapolis," with Jeanette Loff and John Brown, is the feature film.

Rites at Vernon Friday For W. R. Martin, 79

Funeral services for W. R. Martin, 79, who died at the home of his son, W. C. Martin, Wichita irrigation tax collector of 1815 Woodrow street, at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, will be held in Vernon Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The body will be forwarded to Vernon early Friday morning by the Merkle Undertaking company. Burial will be in the Fargo cemetery.

Mr. Martin is survived by four sons, W. C. Martin of Wichita Falls; M. I. and S. A. Martin of Oklahoma, and W. J. Martin of Los Angeles, and one daughter, Mrs. M. S. Swinburn of Clarendon.

Services Friday For Mrs. Mattie Wadley

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Wadley, 79, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Wright, 2000 Kemp boulevard, at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, will be conducted from the residence Friday morning at 10 o'clock, with Rev. Pat Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be held in Riverside cemetery.

The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary.

DABNEY TALKS TO OPTIMISTS

Oklahoma Official Speaker At Annual Banquet

"I am an Optimist because I believe in the ability of the human soul to progress, of the consciences of men and women to accomplish great things, and of a high purpose to carry associated groups to superb heights," declared Edwin Dabney, attorney-general of Oklahoma, in concluding his address Thursday night before 250 men and women present at the annual fall banquet and frolic of the Wichita Falls Optimist club in the Wichita club.

Mr. Dabney, a native of Texas, and a resident of Oklahoma since 1907, devoted his speech to a eulogy of the latter state, now in its 22nd year of statehood, emphasizing the importance of each state lending every possible assistance to the development of its neighbor. The more serious portions of his address were interspersed with many anecdotes. Mr. Dabney was introduced by Bert King, district governor.

C. Ed Hall, also of Oklahoma City Optimist club, and past president of Optimist International, followed Mr. Dabney with a brief greeting to local Optimists.

James V. Allred presided as toastmaster, and during the dinner introduced Miss Lucille Snyder, who offered two piano numbers. R. D. Ford led a singsong. J. W. Pyland was in charge of special numbers, presenting Baby Letitia Keith 4, in "Sonny Boy," and "I'm In Love," with Mrs. Keith accompanying and Miss Elizabeth Gaffield in two solo dances. Mrs. J. Will Gray and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough sang the "Carmena" waltz song by Arditi, with Mrs. O. E. Maer at the piano. Following Mr. Hall's talk, Joel MacGregor entertained with Scotch songs a la Harry Lauder.

Table decorations, ornamental festive "top knots" and noisesome souvenirs contributed to the atmosphere of an hilarious soiree. Dancing until a late hour followed the banquet and program. Solon R. Featherston was general chairman of the Fall Frolic committee.

S.S.S. and Rheumatism
Simply don't get along together

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."—R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous, had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."—William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Michigan.

—purely vegetable

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Pistol and Three Pints Taken From Driver After Crash

A man with three pints of whisky and a loaded pistol in his possession was arrested by police here Thursday night in connection with an automobile wreck three miles out on the Burkburnett road.

The man is alleged to have crashed his automobile into the rear of a car occupied by W. H. Peeler, 1909 Monroe, and Charlie Atkins, 1600 Burnett street, about 7 o'clock Thursday night. Both cars were en route to Wichita Falls.

The car occupied by Peeler and Atkins was badly damaged, while the other automobile was completely wrecked. The whisky and gun were found in a suitcase after the man had been brought to town by Peeler and Atkins. He was given over to Fred Fountain and Elmer Thornton, city officers.

Lamesa Man Given Three-Year Term

LAMESA, Texas, Dec. 6. (AP)—A jury which had deliberated almost 24 hours late today found Will Luman, 40, guilty in the fatal shooting of Marvin Breeding, 23, in a theater at Post, Texas, in 1927 and fixed the penalty at three years.

The verdict was returned after it appeared the jury was hopelessly deadlocked.

Breeding died three days after being shot as he stood in the aisle of the theater. Luman, who had called Breeding from his seat, declared he fired after Breeding had made a "hip-pocket motion." The defendant accused Breeding of having made improper advances to Mrs. Luman.
