Question of The Week

What Was Your Reaction To The Switch In Russia?

By T. D. ELLIS
Quizzing Camerman

"What was your reaction to the recent change in leadership of Russia?"

Georgi Malenkov resigned as premier of Russia Tuesday and Marshal Nikolai Bulganin was elected unanimously to succeed him. The election of Bulganin was almost as great a surprise as Malenkov's resignation according to United Press.

The replies:

Paul West, 2122 Mary Ellen, Mgr. Video Theaters: "It was a surprise to me. I didn't think a person in such a position resigned. I thought they stayed in power. I have thought about it since Tuesday and I think there is a possibility that he didn't have the ability to lead the Russian people. I hope his successor will be more diplomatic in his dealings with the United States. Only time will tell."

Mrs. Don Bissell, 1341 Starkweather, advertising saleslady: "I have been wondering what their idea is behind their actions. People in such a high position don't usually resign; they are generally purgde. The Communists have some plan behind the governmental shake-up."

Bill Elliott, Amarillo, salesman: "I think it is going to mean a stiffer policy toward the US. Actually it will put us closer to war although I don't think we will have another world war soon but a continuation of the cold war getting hotter."

Mrs. Montie Ritter, 724 N. Wells, cosmetician: "I think it's going to be too bad. I am afraid it will mean another war. I think Malenkov was too easy for the Kremlin so they got him out and put a rough military man in power."

Bob Maddrell, Los Angeles, Calif., North American Aviation field representative: "I think Bulganin is a tool with which the Communist party will do its work. The Russians seem to be dividing authority into several parts. I think it will be better for us. Any time they split the authority it means better policy as far as other countries are concerned."

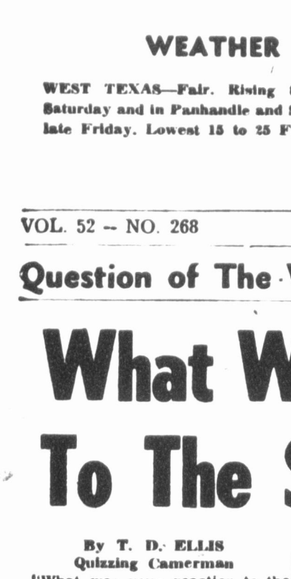

Mrs. Georgia Adkism, 416 Elm, maid: "I think it is one more step toward war. That seems to be the indication with everything they do."

R. R. McCartor, 505 Doucette, insurance salesman: "I think it is good in that it indicates some dissension among the leaders. It indicates that the totalitarian government is not as strong as it sometimes sesms."

Mrs. Fern Vosper, 220 N. Faulkner, housewife: "It came as a shock to me as it did to everyone. I immediately began to wonder what is going to happen next. The new ruler is a military man and I would think he would be more aggressive than Malenkov, his predecessor."

Randall Newton, Wichita, Kans., Boeing Aircraft plant supervisor: "Well I can't see that it means peace but I think it might be better for United States. It couldn't be worse. It does seem to show they are dissatisfied with the way things were going."

Mrs. H. H. Butler, west of Pampa, housewife: "I think there is some kind of dissatisfaction and turmoil in the Kremlin."

PAUL WEST

MRS. GLORIA ADKISM
"Another step toward war."

MRS. MONTIE RITTER
"Too Bad."

RANDALL NEWTON
"Better for the US."

British OK Truce Try Delay

World Conference May Be Attempted

LONDON, Feb. 11—UP—Britain has agreed with the United States and New Zealand to wind up for the time being the present United Nations attempts to win a cease-fire in the Formosa Straits, authoritative sources said Friday.

Later, an international conference may be arranged for wider talks if the private soundings prove successful, the sources said. That means the powers involved will pursue a cease-fire chiefly through private and secret diplomacy at first.

Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru scheduled meetings here Friday with Winthrop Aldrich, U.S. ambassador to London, and with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. Indian officials said Aldrich requested the meeting.

The decision to end the Security Council's cease-fire initiative for the present was prompted by the conclusion that Red China's refusal to participate in the talks would make the effort futile.

The conclusion was strengthened by a further message from Premier Chou En-Lai to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold which was understood to have rejected again participation in the Security Council's Formosa discussions.

The Security Council will meet next week to wind up formally its Formosa efforts, the sources said.

Talk Held On Water District

Hearing Feb. 25 Set In Panhandle

Representatives from six area counties, including Gray County, met at Panhandle Thursday with engineers from the state board of water engineers to discuss plans for a hearing Feb. 25th to decide whether it is feasible to form an underground water district. The hearing will be held at Panhandle.

Among those attending from Gray County were County Agent Ralph Thomas, John Harnly, Irvin Cole, City Manager Fred Brook, and City Secretary Ed Vicars. If the district is approved by the state board at Austin it will affect parts of the following nine counties: Potter, Gray, Armstrong, Carson, Donley, Roberts, Hemphill, Randall and Hutchinson, according to Thomas.

Two meetings have been called for Gray County to familiarize all interested in the formation of an underground water district. The first meeting will be held at McLean, Feb. 18, at a time and place as yet undecided. The meeting in Pampa is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Feb. 21 in the courtroom of the County Courthouse. County Attorney Don Cain will explain the laws affecting the setting up of an underground water district.

If the state board approves the petition, landowners in the areas affected will be called upon to vote on the issue. A date for such an election will not be set, until the issue is decided by the governing body. At the present time regulations covering underground drilling here are set at Austin. If the plan is approved with the landowners also consenting at a later election, a five-man governing board will be set up for autonomous regulation of underground drilling within the area.

The original petition for the formation of a district ws made by citizens in Carson County. State engineers recently completed a six-month survey of underground water resources in Carson County. They were found to extend over the nine counties.

Well drillers, interested farmers, city and county officials, as well as anyone acquainted with the problem are asked to attend the Feb. 25 hearing, according to Thomas.

The new members succeed Robert B. Price, El Paso; Raymond Pfluger, Eden, and C. T. McLaughlin, Snyder.

Nationalists Set To Bomb Tachens

10,000 Miles Of Death

Scientist Tells Of Bomb Power

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 UP A single hydrogen bomb would spread radio-active death over an area the size of Maryland 10,000 square miles, atomic scientist Ralph E. Lapp said Friday.

And a "small-scale" attack with 28 bombs would "atomize" an area from Indiana to New York containing 50 million Americans and two-thirds of the nation's industrial potential, Lapp said.

New calculations, Lapp said, forced him to raise his estimate of a single bomb's "fall-out area" from 4,000 square miles, the same danger zone estimated by California civil defense authorities.

Lapp gave his frightening estimate in an extensive study of hydrogen bomb effects written for the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

Non Secret Data

He based his calculations on non-secret data and predicted that official facts which he thinks will be released soon by the Atomic Energy Commission will show his estimates are "conservative."

Neutralization of America's industrial potential actually could be accomplished with fewer than 28 bombs, he said, but "Soviet military planners probably would be reluctant to abandon the traditional use of an explosive as a blast agent."

Therefore, he said, they probably would drop bombs on Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, Akron, Buffalo and Syracuse.

To Maximize Fall-Out

"Then to maximize fall-out and strike at a myriad of smaller targets, bombs would be dropped... west of Chicago, over South Bend, over Grand Rapids, over Ft Wayne, near Elmira, west of Washington, west of New York, over Springfield (Mass.), near Albany and over Allentown," Lapp said.

These drops would take advantage of prevailing winds to spread an "unseen mist of radio-activity" over an L-shaped pattern bracketing much of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania.

Lapp warned that the entire concept of civil defense must be revised.

For example, he said, elaborate fire-fighting defenses are useless since no one could enter into an H-bombed area safely for two days.

Valley Gets Warning For Freeze Due

By UNITED PRESS

Forecasters warned Friday the temperature may drop to 25 degrees Friday night in the lower Rio Grande Valley as the coldest spell of winter held all Texas in its bitter grip.

In the midst of the vicious cold, 18 residents of a home for the aged in Brownwood were driven out of the home by fire in 20-degree weather. Three died of their burns and a fourth was severely hurt. All survivors suffered from cold and exposure.

A temperature as low as even 28 degrees, continued for several hours, would damage Valley citrus crops severely, farm experts said. The Valley citrus industry has not yet recovered from disastrous freezes in 1949 and 1951.

Expect Valley Lows of 25

John Hagan, chief forecaster at the Brownsville Weather Bureau, predicted the temperature Friday night or before daylight Saturday will drop to 25 to 30 degrees in a triangle from Harlingen north to Raymondville and west to Rio Grande City. Lows closer to the coast will be 30 to 35.

Farm experts said even if the temperature should not drop low enough to bring disaster to the citrus industry, the chill might damage tomatoes, corn, cabbage, lettuce and cotton.

The semi-tropical Valley was still the warmest part of Texas. The temperature fell only to 39 degrees at Harlingen. By contrast at Dalhart, in the northwestern tip of the Panhandle, the low was three degrees.

Eight Degrees at Lubbock

Other lows included Lubbock 8, Amarillo 12, Texarkana, Wink and Childress 15, Wichita Falls and Midland 16, Fort Worth and Dallas 17, Mineral Wells 18, Abilene 19, San Angelo 20, Lufkin 21, Waco and College Station 22, Del Rio 24, Austin and El Paso 25, Houston 27, Beaumont 28, Galveston and Victoria 30, Alice 32, Corpus Christi and Laredo 33, Raymondville and Weslaco 34 and Edinburg 38.

Tito Avows No Pact For Force

RIJEKA, Yugoslavia, Feb 11—UP—President Tito returned Friday from a visit to India and Burma and declared Yugoslavia "will never join" a bloc that tries to solve problems by force.

Tito told the Yugoslav people "we will never join with any of those who believe that international problems can be solved only through the use of armaments."

Evacuation Ends Today, Navy Says

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 11—UP—The U. S. Navy announced Friday the Tachen islands would be abandoned by 3 a.m. Saturday (1 p.m. est Friday) and the Nationalist air force was alerted to begin bombing the area as soon as it can.

Rear Adm. Alonzo Sabin Jr., amphibious group commander in the island group 210 miles north of Formosa, said the last Nationalist Chinese troops would be out plus all equipment and that demolitions would be completed by then.

Sabin made the announcement despite a fierce gale that lashed the area and slowed the last minute details of abandoning Chiang Kai-Shek's northernmost island outpost.

20-Foot Waves

Gales which brought 20-foot waves tossed the great American carriers about but pilots managed to fly their usual air cover. They reported extremely heavy seas near the Tachens but said the last phases of the operation were being carried out on the leeward side.

Sabin said the Red Chinese had wisely chosen not to interfere.

"Whatever you think of the Communists, and I hate them," he said, "they are not stupid. It would have been a stupid thing to pay with blood and lives for something they are getting for nothing."

Winds of more than 65 miles an hour hit the U.S. Seventh Fleet off Tachen and only a few larger landing ships could approach the island which demolition work has turned into an inferno of fire and explosions.

To Blast Area

A Chinese Nationalist official said "we will blast the Tachen-Yikiangshan area pretty hard just as soon as we can work over that region without fear of hitting U.S. or Republic of China forces."

Navy sources said only the large sturdy LSTs (landing ships, tanks) and LCMs (landing craft, medium) could approach the windswept, freezing beaches where exhausted American and Chinese teams were loading the last of Tachen's guns and ammunition aboard.

American carriers still operated in the gale winds from a distance some 70 miles off Tachen and the Navy fliers kept a protective cover overhead despite the weather and the low clouds streaked with black smoke from flaming buildings on Tachen.

Biggest Cold Wave Freezes Midwest

By UNITED PRESS

The biggest cold wave of the season froze the nation's midlands from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico Friday and turned its numbing blasts on the East and Southland.

Temperatures averaged 20 below zero over a wide area in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas and a 50-degree fall from a summery 60 degrees to a mere 10 above was expected at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gas was turned off to schools and industrial users in 200 communities in four Southwest states, a freeze threatened to kill vegetable and fruit crops in the semi-tropical Lower Rio Grande Valley, and Chicago spent $35,000 on salt alone digging out of a five-inch snowfall.

The deep freeze spread from the Rockies, where the temperature hit 27 below zero, through the Great Plains and entire Midwest.

It was crawling towards the balmy Atlantic Coast early Friday and cold wave warnings were posted for New York, southern New Jersey, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia.

In the South, meanwhile, snow swept as far south as northern Georgia and dumped an inch on Nashville, Tenn., to the accompaniment of 13-degree temperature. Three inches of snow hit Lexington, Ky.

Zero temperatures were expected in Tennessee Friday night and Louisiana was warned to brace for the "coldest weather of the season" with 18-degree lows. In New Orleans residents were warned to protect exposed water pipes and car radiators.

The temperature went below zero as far south as northern Kansas, northeast Missouri and central Illinois early Friday. Meanwhile, a band of rain, sleet and snow stretched from the Central Gulf region to the lower Great Lakes.

The new cold wave was yet to reach the intensity of an Arctic front which sent temperatures diving as low as 50 degrees below zero last month. But the big freeze covered a much wider territory.

To make matters worse, reinforcements of icy Canadian air swept into the Midwest, promising to keep temperatures around zero through the weekend.

Matusow Recalled To Court

Red Claims Cohn Promised Money

NEW YORK, Feb 11—UP—Former Communist Harry Matusow, a self-styled "coward," returns to federal court Friday for more testimony about his "false" accusations against 13 convicted Red leaders.

Matusow, 29, told federal Judge Edward J. Dimock Thursday that he had only been a puppet in the hands of Roy Cohn, one of the prosecutors of the convicted Communists and later aide to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

He said Cohn promised him $25 daily in addition to the regular $4 fee paid to other government witnesses and took him on a free-loading trip to swank New York night clubs while helping him to prepare "false testimony."

Cohn refused Thursday night to comment on Matusow's testimony but previously the black-haired young attorney had said he would not "dignify any statements by this individual."

But McCarthy, reached at Green Bay, Wis. where he made an address on foreign relations Thursday night, quickly came to Cohn's defense.

"I believe Roy any time, any place, on any subject," McCarthy said. "I have never found Cohn to distort the truth."

Matusow said Cohn, a "star" of the recent Army versus McCarthy televised hearings, coached him on what to say just before the Red leaders went on trial on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the U.S. government by force.

He said he met Cohn March 21, 1952 at the Stork Club. Cohn was accompanied by a girl named "Rusty." Howard Rushmore, a former newspaperman, and his wife. They later went to Gogi's LaRue, then to El Morocco night club before finishing their evening at Lindy's restaurant.

Matusow said he gave false testimony during the trial but Cohn failed to give him the $25 bonus as promised.

A lot of the dull people are the ones who have a habit of being too blunt with their friends.

Gas Chamber To End Crime Life Of Man Who Killed At 14

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Feb. 11—UP—The crime career of a baby-faced killer who was an ex-convict at 13 and a murderer at 14 ends Friday in San Quentin's gas chamber.

A desperate, last-minute plea for mercy in his own handwriting by Richard John (Red) Jensen, now 29, failed to win him a reprieve from execution in the apple green cubicle at 12 noon cst.

Ironically, Jensen managed to live 13 years after slaying a young playmate, only to be doomed under a California law which makes the death sentence mandatory for kidnaping.

Jensen was sentenced to die for the Oct. 3, 1953, kidnap-assault of Marine Sgt. Marion L. Piper, whom he picked up as a hitch-hiker near Los Angeles. Piper was shot twice and viciously beaten with an iron bar but survived to testify against Jensen.

The marine said Jensen first shot him in the back with a .22-caliber rifle he had rigged up in the rear of his car, and shot him again from the front with a .12-gauge shotgun.

Piper, who never lost consciousness throughout the whole ordeal, said Jensen also attempted to assault him sexually, threw him in a ditch and covered him with dirt after taking $5 from his billfold. After Jensen drove off, Piper staggered more than a mile to a farm house for help.

Jensen was convicted in Los Angeles of three counts of armed robbery, assault with intent to kill and kidnaping with bodily harm. It was the latter count for which Jensen was doomed under California's "Little Lindbergh" law.

Lifetime of Crime

The kidnap-assault climaxed a lifetime of crime for the baby-faced, curly haired Jensen who had a record of petty thefts and had been committed to reform schools several times before he was 14.

In 1939 at Los Angeles, Jensen strangled, stabbed and bludgeoned to death a 13-year-old playmate, Billy Williams, because he "kept asking me how it felt to be an ex-con."

Jensen was committed to the California state mental hospital. He spent from 1939 until 1951 there and in Mendocino state hospital. He escaped several times during that period, once getting as far as Ohio where he was arrested and charged with grand theft.

Jensen was released from the mental institutions in 1951 and was working as a garage mechanic at Glendale, Calif., when he kidnaped Piper.

Fatal Mishap Brings Suit For Damages

J. C. Daniels and the J. C. Daniels Motor Co. are being charged in a $26,200 suit with four counts of repair negligence, as a result of a Dec. 6 auto accident on the Amarillo highway which proved fatal to Minerva Mitchell, 17, of Panhandle.

The suit, titled L. L. Mitchell vs. J. C. Daniels et al, was filed Thursday afternoon in 31st District Court, Pampa.

Willard Moore, 24, of Pampa, was driving the car in which Miss Mitchell was a passenger, the suit says, adding that shortly before the mishap Moore had delivered the car to Daniels' place of business for repairs, caused by a previous accident.

The suit charges that, when Moore was driving the car the fatal night, the front end of the vehicle came loose and threw the car from the highway and it overturned. Miss Mitchell, the suit continues, suffered injuries which later resulted in her death.

Daniels and his associates, the suit goes on, "knew that said car was out of line, knew that same was in an unsafe condition, but regardless of this knowledge did so represent to said Willard Moore that said car was in a safe condition."

Mitchell and associates are asking $1,200 damages for funeral, medical and hospital expenses and $25,000 damages in addition for the contributions that Miss Mitchell could have made to her family, had she lived. The suit says the Mitchell family is in "dire need." Attorneys for Mitchell are Merchant and Fitzjarrald, Amarillo.

Ike To Get Quail Limit

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 11—UP—President Eisenhower looked like a cinch Friday to bag the 12-bird limit quickly on his quail-hunting vacation in southwestern Georgia.

The President and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, his host, got two apiece in less than an hour in the waning daylight Thursday afternoon.

The success of their first swing into the fields on Humphrey's 600-acre Milestone plantation practically guaranteed a better score with a little more time.

Mr. Eisenhower, who hadn't been quail shooting for years until he visited Humphrey's estate a year ago, was obviously eager to get in as much shooting as possible.

Within 15 minutes after their arrival at the estate late Thursday he had changed into hunting clothes and was ready to go. He had to wait an additional five minutes on his host.

Weather Halts Bridge Work

It will be six weeks after the last of 100 concrete slabs are laid on the Canadian River Bridge before traffic will be able to cross.

G. K. Reading, senior resident highway engineer, today said there were four slabs yet to go on the bridge, between Pampa and Perryton. Winter weather has held up work this week—the last slab had been scheduled to be laid by the end of this week.

Once all the slabs are "in," there will be plenty to do, Reading said. And, for that reason, a piece of construction will be placed at each end of the bridge to keep vehicular traffic off.

Before the dedication and official opening of the bridge to traffic, Reading said, the floor slab joints will have to be sealed, the painting rig erected, the air-walls and rip-rap protection completed and two approach slabs built. And the metal will have to be cleaned and painted. Final surfacing work is part of the entire project, too.

Plans for the official dedication are now underway. The steering committee for the dedication will meet at noon Monday in Jim's Cafe, Miami, for further study. The bridge is expected to be completed in April.

Formal Hangar Opening Set

The formal opening for the new hangar at Perry LeFors Field has been postponed until April, because of winter weather.

D. E. Holt, Jr., head of the airport board which met Thursday, today said a "fly-in" affair would be held some Sunday afternoon at the field as part of the hangar-opening ceremonies. The hangar will be used in the meantime, however.

It will be leased to M. W. Alford, airport manager, for $2,000 a year, Holt said. Over a 20-year period, the $40,000 hangar will be paid for.

Holt said the new hangar should be completed today, except for running concrete in the doorways and running ramping. The whole thing should be finished by the first of March.

Ike Gets Rebuff On Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — UP—Republican foes of President Eisenhower's tariff-cutting bill conceded Thursday that the measure's Democratic friends have enough votes to push it through the House Ways and Means committee.

As it drove toward final approval the committee gave the President a minor rebuff. It rejected his request to cut tariffs on some products, imported in negligible quantities, without first getting trade concessions from the countries involved.

The President's authority to make such cuts on a reciprocal basis was, however, retained in the measure.

The bill would give the President general authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff-cutting agreements over the next three years. It contains two main grants of power: To make tariff cuts totaling 15 per cent over the three-year period, and to cut tariffs which now are over 50 per cent of the product's value to a rate equal to that value.

Texas Lawmakers Step Up Activity

AUSTIN, Feb. 11—UP—Texas lawmakers were beginning to dispose of a few more bills this week, before they went into weekend adjournment.

The House approved and sent on their way numerous bills Thursday. But the lower chamber also killed one measure.

A bill proposing abolition of common-law marriages in Texas was passed by voice vote and routed to the upper chamber for consideration.

Rep. Stanley Banks Jr., of San Antonio, sponsor of the measure, said more than 30 states have such a law. He called common-law marriages "an obsolete device in our modern society."

The bill provides that "any attempted marriage within this state without a good-faith attempt to obtain such marriage license shall be null and void." Banks said persons entering into common-law marriages are evading such laws as those requiring blood tests before being wed.

Meanwhile, the House approved overwhelmingly a bill cutting annual license fees for buses, but defeated a measure calling for sanitary wrapping of drinking straws.

The latter was defeated 78-80 after some lawmakers charged it would create a monopoly for a manufacturer of such wrappers in Texas. It would have made it mandatory to have straws individually wrapped.

The bus license fee reduction, sponsored by Rep. Jack Bryan of Buffalo, would cost the state about $260,000 annually in revenue. The bill, which drew fire from some members Wednesday, was approved 116-17 Thursday.

It revised fees downward from 67.5 cents per 100-pounds for buses weighing 1,000 to 6,000 pounds, to $2 per 100-pounds for weights of 31,000 pounds and over.

Also approved Thursday and sent to the governor for his signature was a measure validating bonds issued for an international bridge on the Rio Grande at Laredo, to replace one swept away by floods last summer.

Other bills approved included one for appointment of probation and parole officers in Dallas and Tarrant counties, one setting out procedures for discharge of non-resident patients and students in the state hospital system, and another prohibiting swimming, wading or boating in Rollover Pass in Galveston county.

Jury May Reopen Greenlease Hunt

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11 —UP— A federal grand jury here may reopen the inquiry into the missing Greenlease kidnap ransom money, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported Friday.

The newspaper said it learned that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents have been interviewing former St. Louis Police Lt. Louis Shoulders at the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

However, the newspaper said it could not learn whether Shoulders had provided the "new information" on which the new grand jury investigation might be based.

Murderer Given 14-Day Reprieve

AUSTIN, Feb. 11—UP—Gordon Roland Morris, sentenced to death for murder from Harris county and scheduled to be executed sometime after midnight, Thursday was granted a 14-day reprieve by Gov. Allan Shivers.

The action, taken on recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, extends the execution date to Feb. 25.

An announcement from the governor said the stay was issued to allow members of the board "time to obtain additional information on the case."

HERCULES TAKES TO AIR

This is the first in-flight photo of the U. S. Air Force YC-130 Hercules, a new turbo-prop cargo carrier built by Lockheed Aircraft in Burbank, Calif. It can take off from short runways with personnel or vital supplies; fly faster and higher than any other military transport; drop paratroops and air-drop cargo to ground troops; land on rough or makeshift air strips to deliver troops and weapons to the front lines; evacuate wounded to rear-area hospitals and serve as a cargo carrier for long-range movements. The airplane measures 132 feet from wing tip to wing tip, 95 feet from nose to tail, and 38 feet in height.

House Okays Outlawing Common Law Marriages

By O. B. LLOYD JR.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11—UP— The House gave final approval Thursday to a bill abolishing common-law marriages in Texas.

It would be effective next Jan. 1.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Stanley Banks Jr., of San Antonio, cleared the House by voice vote and now goes to the Senate.

Banks' bill provides that "any attempted marriage within this state without a good faith attempt to obtain such marriage license shall be null and void."

The San Antonio legislator called common-law marriage "an obsolete device in our modern society."

He also pointed out that there is "more formality" involved in transferring a horse than for marriage and said there is no more important license a person may obtain than for marriage.

'Crying Need' for Appeal

Rep. Tom Cheatham of Cuero asked "what crying need" there is to repeal a law which has been effective in Texas "since the beginning of time."

Banks cited requirements of blood tests for marriage, which he said are evaded by persons entering into common-law marriages.

He also pointed to requirements for legal recognition of common-law marriages. Parties to such marriages, he said, must live together for six months and must represent themselves as husband and wife.

"It would probably be necessary for them to take a lawyer along on the honeymoon" to meet full requirements of common-law marriages, Banks said.

Banks, a bachelor, said more than 30 states have outlawed common-law marriages. In most of these states, he added, subsequent laws have been enacted to legitimatize children born of all unions.

Bus License Law Advances

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill cutting license fees on motor buses. The measure received overwhelming 116-17 final passage.

Members of the upper chamber met, quickly transacted routine business and adjourned for the weekend.

However, in debate Wednesday on the motor bus bill, an appropriations leader warned that such revenue-reducing measures were going in the wrong direction in solving an already-short state bank account.

5 Killed, 58 Hurt During January

Five persons were killed and 58 injured in rural accidents investigated during January by the Highway Department in the 26 counties of the Amarillo District.

During the same month in 1954 three fatalities were reported along with 48 injuries, as compared to nine deaths and 62 injured in December of 1954, according to Capt. J. W. Blackwell, of the Texas Highway Patrol.

Property damage during Jan. was estimated at $67,922, about $5,000 under the same month in 1954.

In carrying out their duties in January the 29 patrolmen of the Amarillo district investigated 106 traffic accidents, made 589 traffic arrests, 252 of which were for speeding and 27 were for driving while intoxicated. There were 1,756 warnings given for hazardous violations.

2,670 Rigs Are Active

DALLAS, Feb. 11 —UP— The American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors reported Thursday that a total of 2,670 rigs were active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week ending Feb. 7.

This compared with 2,630 reported the previous week, and 2,652 for the same week of last year.

The Ark-La-Tex area reported an increase from 162 to 170; West Texas-New Mexico from 482 to 495; Gulf Coast from 525 to 529, and North Texas from 310 to 322.

Canada 3rd Largest Oil Producer

DALLAS, Feb. 11—UP—Canada has become the western hemisphere's third largest oil producer because it has been receptive to exploration by U.S. and foreign companies, the trade magazine Petroleum Engineer said Thursday.

Since 1946, Canada's proven oil reserves have increased from 72,000 barrels to 3 billion, the magazine said. Refinery capacity has grown from 40,000 barrels to 560,000 barrels per day. Natural gas reserves have doubled since 1952 to 14 trillion cubic feet.

The magazine said oil companies plan to spend $400 million for Canadian development in 1955. It adds:

"Refinery and transportation activity will be slightly lower but drilling and exploration continues at an active pace."

Canada now has more than 6,000 producing wells, and only one well as been drilled for each 178 square miles of productive oil areas, compared with one to every 12 square miles in the United States.

"This, in itself, gives some idea of the future development in Canada," N. E. Tanner, president of Trans Canada Pipe Line Co., told the magazine.

In 1954, the magazine said, 2,262 wells were completed and almost 9.5 million feet of hole was drilled. Production averaged 260,000 barrels a day, a 15 per cent increase over 222,000 barrels the previous year, and the potential was almost double the production.

For 1955, the magazine predicted: 2,750 wells, 11 million feet of hole and 330,000 barrels a day.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO

by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Behind the Screen: Marilyn Monroe's rebellion against wiggling and demand for a chance to act and Hollywood's new underwater movie cycle arrived at the same time.

Maybe it's an explanation for her fussin'.

With that wiggle, she'd be typed as a barracuda. And she'd have to shelve the parted-lips routine or drown.

There are other mad possibilities now that "It sinks" has become a badge of celluloid distinction—six more underwater movies have been announced to follow "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and Jane Rusell's "Underwater."

If this watery cycle gets out of hand, there will be swim tests instead of film tests and squid will replace people as extras. An aqua lung could win an Oscar for the best supporting performance of the year. A fish might be a star one day, make a poor film and be in a chowder bowl the next.

"She rose to stardom" will have to become "She sank to stardom." The familiar cry of "Make-up" on film sets will become "Oxygen!"

But underwater emoting is a break, at least, for the no-talent kids. Behind those masks, absolutely no facial expressions are necessary.

I'll keep my ear to the bottom for you on this.

Arkansas Kills Anti-Nude Bill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 11—UP—The effort of a crusading radio preacher to outlaw nudism in Arkansas died in the state Senate without debate.

Two bills introduced on behalf of the minister, the Rev. Braxton Sawyer of Fort Smith, Ark., gained approval in the Arkansas House of Representatives by sizeable majorities, but were tabled in the Senate Thursday.

The measures would have outlawed nudism and sale or distribution of nudist literature.

Reds Have Atom Car In Works

BERLIN, Feb. 11—UP—An East German newspaper said Thursday the Soviet Union is developing an atomic automobile that can drive for weeks without refilling.

The only hitch, the newspaper said, is that they haven't found a way yet to protect the persons riding in the car from the deadly gamma rays and neutrons constantly emitted by its uranium reactor.

The East German Madgeburg newspaper Volksstimme said a Soviet scientist named Romadin is working on this. He is developing a metal alloy that is not only light but also absorbs the deadly rays, excluding all dangers, it said.

It said the steam is condensed back into water and that it is not necessary to refill the radiator.

HOW TO COMPLIMENT what your "one-and-only" is wearing is revealed in the first half of today's column. Although suggested for college students, who knows . . . maybe some of us older ones would like to try it. I'm tempted myself. The second half is on the wearing of perfume. Addressed to the teenagers, the article may be helpful to all of us. We're so used to putting a dab of scent behind our ears and letting it go at that. But that's not the place to put it, the article points out.

AS NICE A COMPLIMENT to pay the man in your life as wearing his frat pin, says Max Factor, Jr., is to make up to his pink shirt. Especially, says the Hollywood expert, if yours is pink, too.

Explaining that he came across this fad on the campus of the University of California, Berkeley, Factor says he liked the idea of a pretty co-ed paying this tribute to the man in the pink shirt.

But this expert's keen color eye noticed that the pinks of lipstick and shirt didn't jibe: Miss Co-ed's lipstick was a coral pink (with a tawny undertone, like a talisman rose); that Joe College's shirt was as pink as peppermint candy.

The nicety of your compliment, if you're going to pay this tribute to your beau, is the exactness of the match or the sweetness of the harmony between lipstick and shirt. According to Factor, there's a pink shade of lipstick to harmonize with every pink shirt that's made, whether he, she or both are wearing it.

Some more tips for making up to that shirt:

1. The lighter the shade of your make-up (Factor suggests a new light 'n gay shade in a combination cream-powder cake that simply puffs on), the prettier your pink lipstick will look.

2. A whisper of pink cheek rouge will heighten the pink glow, a pink shirt (this time, your own) casts upon your skin.

READY TO INITIATE the teenager, who's having her first fling at come-hither, into the art of using perfume, Factor suggests taking a lesson from the ancient Greeks:

"As these wise men knew, in perfuming their feet, sandals, and the hemlines of their togas, fragrance r-i-s-e-s," say Factor. "If applied low, as the Greeks did, fragrance wings upward, like a delicious cloud, and envelops the entire body as it ascends."

If most of your perfume is applied around the head area, he explains that it stands to reason that the ascending fragrance is more quickly lost.

Spray it on your insteps, legs, in the lining of shoes, on petticoats' can-can ruffles, he advises the girl who wants to learn to get the most out of her perfume.

Because the pulse spots of the body will quickly explode and diffuse fragrance, the make-up expert suggests applying more comehither to the back of knees, inside wrists, at the base of the throat and at the temples.

"Give perfume the role of the prima donna," he says, "and make your bath accessories of matching fragrance to her ever-present satellites. Then perfume or parfum cologne will strike the high note, and bath oil, bath powder and soap will hit the minor keys. What you'll get for your investment is a heavenly symphony of fragrance."

Spray the interiors of lingerie and sweater drawers with parfum cologne, and when fragrance bottles are empty, put these still sweet-smelling containers in with your clothes to seep up the last lovely whiff.

Shoe trees that become dreary-looking can be renovated. Sandpaper lightly and follow with a coat of thinned shellac. Dry, then put on another coat. They'll slide into shoes more easily.

Most frozen meats needn't be thawed before cooking. You need to allow longer cooking time for unthawed meats, of course.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last week I attended the annual meeting of the Association for Research In Nervous and Mental Disease. Its members said many things about children.

I thought that Dr. Frederick H. Allen of Philadelphia's Child Guidance Center said the best thing: "The basic essential in a child's emotional health is in the interflow of spontaneous warmth between him and his mother."

At the meeting's end, I buttonholed him. I asked, "Would you say nursing an infant represents the first interflow of spontaneous warmth between him and his mother?"

He looked at me with interest. "Yes," he said. "I would say that. But if you quote me as saying it, please add that there is no reason for a woman who cannot breast-feed a baby to develop a phobia about it."

So, now that this noted child psychiatrist has reassured mothers who can't nurse babies, let me address the prospective ones who don't know whether they can or not.

Your obstetrician will not make your decision to nurse or not to nurse for you. He will probably face you with it at a time when your pregnancy is becoming heavily burdensome. It will be hard for you to see your baby in the weight you carry. Mostly, you will see only that you wish you had your body to yourself again.

And when you ask your young mother friends to help you with your decision, they will say, "Oh, my dear, don't. If you nurse your baby, your life won't be your own again for months. Pediatricians have wonderful formulas today. Forget the breast-feeding. Anyone can give the baby his bottle if you are tired or Jim wants to take you away from the drudgery for an evening."

So let me put this to you:

Upon his birth, your baby will be a primitive creature. His eyes, so long used to the unfocused darkness, will not see you. His ears, so long insulated against noise will not register the words you speak to him. His infancy will maroon him in remoteness from which you will be unable to penetrate by any communication familiar to you.

Cook's Nook

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Eggs are one of our best protein foods. They are an essential part of any balanced diet. So it's big family news today that high-quality eggs will be in big supply during February. That means prices should be correspondingly low.

Big turkeys, 18 pounds and over, will also be plentiful. So will dairy products because this is the season when cows begin to produce more milk. Milk, of course, is an essential food. So let's use more of it — especially now that it is so plentiful.

If you like to bake with lard, it's good news for you that lard is abundant, too.

Citrus fruit, fresh and processed oranges and grapefruit will be abundant and so will raisins.

California and Arizona will send huge supplies of crisp head or iceburg-type lettuce to market. Florida and Texas have large crops, also.

If you like carrots, and understand what a rich source of essential vitamin A they are, February will be a good month in your nutritional calendar. Texas, Arizona and California are producing great crops of carrots and sending most of them to market in transparent film bags minus their green tops. This keeps them fresh longer.

Scrambled Eggs With Banana and Bacon
(Serves 6)

Six bananas, 6 tablespoons table fat, melted; salt to taste, 12 strips grilled bacon.

Peel bananas and cut lengthwise into halves. Brush or coat completely with table fat and sprinkle lightly with salt. Place halves, cut sides down, in well-greased pan. Broil about 4 inches from heat 2 to 3 minutes. Turn. Broil 3 to 4 minutes until browned and tender, easily pierced with fork. For each serving, arrange 2 banana halves, cut sides up, side by side on plate. Place grilled bacon strip on top of each half. Serve with scrambled eggs.

Twentieth Century Forum Club To Give Scholarship To Pampa High School Girl

Members of the Twentieth Century Forum decided to offer a scholarship of $250, to which any girl in Pampa High School is eligible, at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Aubrey Steele.

The recipient of the scholarship will be chosen on the basis of scholastic average, character, leadership, citizenship and seriousness of purpose. The scholarship will be for academic education, preferably in a senior college in Texas.

The program, "Gastronomical Genealogies," was presented by Mrs. Bruce Pratt.

"There is much history, romance and even legal battles in the genealogies of our fruits and vegetables," she told the women. "The tomato was declared to be a vegetable by the Supreme Court of the United States in 1893."

Very few vegetables and fruits are native to the Americas, she pointed out. Most of them originated in the warm lands around the Mediterranean.

"Potatoes, though, discovered by Equador and Chili, turned out to be a much more valuable find to the world than the loot found there," Central America announced 'succatash' — their diet consisting of native beans and maize, or sweet corn as Americans call it."

Mrs. Eben Warner, president led the business session.

Attending were Mmes. Joe Daniel, E. J. Dunigan, H. C. Federer, Dick Hughes, Calvin Jones, Frank Kelley, Bruce Pratt, Henry Rose, Aubrey Steele, Arthur Teed, Eben Warner and C. V. Wilkinson.

Italy's Fascists Casting About For New Strong Man

By ALDO FORTE

ROME, Feb. 11—UP—Italy's restless, latter-day Fascists are casting about for a strong man. What they want, specifically, is someone with the color and showy personality of a new Mussolini.

Ever since the death of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, the last hero of the sword-rattling Mussolini era, the MSI—the Neo-Fascist Italian Party has been in serious need of a new and dramatic figurehead.

o The specifications are fairly clear. The man for the job must be able to rally the restless diehards of pre-war Fascism, the boisterous youths and the numerous disgruntled Italians who have no stomach for the present predominantly Catholic Democracy which has been running the country since the end of World War II.

Party Going Concern

The party itself is a going concern. In the most recent elections it elected 29 deputies and nine senators.

Trouble is, they're by and large a colorless lot. None has the spark necessary to ignite real enthusiasm. The only man within their ranks who had what it takes was Graziani, and he was so thoughtless of the party as to die last January.

The men that remain are not all newcomers. Many were forced into political retirement after the war and returned only in 1952 when the so-called "Nazi law," which banned Fascists from government posts, expired. That brought a number of them scurrying home from "diplomatic" vacations abroad and others emerged from the underground.

Included in their number were such men as Filippo Anfuso, Italy's last Fascist ambassador to Berlin, Lando Ferretti, a general of the Fascist militia and a member of Mussolini's Grand Council, and Araldo Crollalanza, Mussolini's Minister of Public Works.

But all lack popularity in Italy and their names had almost been forgotten even by the old-time Fascists. They meant nothing to the younger hotheads.

There were others whose names were written in Fascist history who have refused to join the MSI. They included such one-time powerful men as Francesco Giunta, former Italian governor of Fascist-occupied Dalmatia. He fled to Brazil when Mussolini was overthrown. Then there was Luigi Federzoni, former commander of the Nationalist Blueshirts who facilitated Mussolini's march on Rome by merging with the Blackshirts in 1922. Federzoni, a staunch Monarchist, fled to Portugal where he taught arts and letters in the University.

Many of Fascism's best known and most feared names vanished in prisons, before firing squads or came to similar ends soon after the war ended.

Carlo Scorza, last secretary of the Fascist Party, was sentenced to death by an Italian tribunal and was wanted for atrocities in Yugoslavia. He managed to escape to Argentina where he is directing a number of "cultural" publications.

Even the name Mussolini still is around—Vittorio Mussolini the 38-year-old son of the late dictator. But he never was popular and now is a successful import-export manager in Buenos Aires.

The plain fact of the matter would seem to be that Fascism has neither the leaders nor the program to attract any large or enthusiastic following in Italy today. And there are few who grieve over that fact.

Jet Bomber Has 'Bugs,' Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—UP—The B-52 jet bomber, United States' H-bomber of the future, has developed "bugs" that have slowed its placement in the Air Force, Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services committee disclosed Thursday.

The Georgia Democrat said, however, that military leaders feel the "bugs" are now being "ironed out" and that the future of the huge, eight-jet bomber is encouraging.

Russell gave no indication of what troubles have developed in the jet bomber, except to say they are typical of the problems that crop up with any new plane. He noide, for instance, that the B-57 light bomber virtually had to be remodeled before it could be placed in operation.

The readiness of the B-52 was brought up at an all-day secret briefing of the Senate Armed Services committee Wednesday by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff.

The B-52, being built at a cost of about $8 million per plane, is designed to replace the B-36, presently the backbone of the Air Force's intercontinental striking power. The B-52, which will fly at near sonic speeds, is the first bomber specifically designed to carry the H-bomb.

The B-52 has been in production for nearly a year at Boeing's plant in Seattle, Wash. Production is due to start shortly at another plant in Wichita, Kan. Former Assistant Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton said Wednesday the bomber is being received by the Air Force "in increasing numbers."

The Air Force's program calls for production of about 350 B-52 bombers, to be assigned to 11 heavy bombers wings.

Indictment Expected In Kidnap Case

DALLAS, Feb. 11—UP—A kidnaping indictment was expected Friday from a federal grand jury investigating charges against Dianne Cartwright, accused of taking an Amarillo baby on a tour of bars and ending up in Denver.

Mrs. Cartwright told police she was caring for the baby while the mother, Mrs. Winona Caskey, 23, of Amarillo worked. She said she took the tot with her on a tour of Amarillo bars, before finally taking him on to Denver.

She was arrested Jan. 26 in a Denver bar, and had little Randy Eugene Caskey with her.

The grand jury met in Dallas Thursday, but failed to take any immediate action.

U.S. District Attorney Heard L. Floore said he hopes to get trial set in Amarillo for the March term of federal court.

Mrs. Cartwright also used the names of Dianne Varner and Dianne Pappas at times.

House Okays Bill For Bridge Bonds

AUSTIN, Feb. 11—UP—A bill validating bonds issued for an international bridge on the Rio Grande at Laredo to replace one swept away by floods last summer gained final approval of the House Thursday and was sent to Gov. Allan Shivers.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr., of Laredo and handled in the House by Rep. William Allen of Laredo, received 139-0 final passage by the House.

Upriver Areas Oppose Authority

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 11—UP—The president of the Laredo Area Farmers Association, Norman H. Clark, said Friday farmers in the Laredo area and some upstream from the border city were opposed to the creation of a Lower Rio Grande Water Commission.

Clark said that although many growers seemed to be in agreement with plans for legislation setting up the commission at a meeting here a week ago, his group was against bills introduced Tuesday in the House of Representatives and Senate at Austin.

Clark also said he heard that upriver leaders at Eagle Pass and Del Rio were also opposed to the bill.

He succeeds Everett Fulgham, who retired to return to private life as vice president of the First National Bank of Lubbock.

Big Controversy: Potomac Bridge

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—UP—A century ago this week, your government was fussing about the matter of keeping Indians from ambushing white fathers.

The congress got exercised over the problem but did little more than to introduce a bunch of bills, most of which wound up in pigeon holes.

A paid announcement in one of the Washington papers said a shipment of salt had arrived from Liverpool aboard the barge Bessie and the schooner Ann D. There were 3,500 sacks of salt for sale at auction.

There was a big controversy over a proposed appropriation to "patch up the (so-called) long bridge over the Potomac." There was no quarrel about need for fixing the holes in the bridge, but there were some hot words about what it was about to cost. Around $12,000.

A bill was introduced and passed in the Senate to "secure wages for seamen in case of wrecks."

One local newspaper waxed editorially on a resolution passed by the House on Feb. 12. The resolution called for the remainder of the session to hold all discussions in committee of the whole "and confined to the subject under consideration, except during evening sessions." The paper said it thought that was right noble and that the mover of the resolution, a Mr. Stratton, was entitled "to the thanks of the country for this timely and proper restriction."

An advertisement in one paper was trying to sell a book on "duels and dueling" for $1.25. Everything, the ad said, "from that one between David and Goliath to the present."

A bill was being considered in the House of Representatives to provide more efficient discipline for the Navy. It will be recalled, said the sponsor of the measure, "that in 1850, flogging of seamen was abolished and no substitute was adopted. The efficiency of the service was somewhat impaired, thereby."

The Senate passed a bill to increase the salary of justices of the Supreme Court, but there was no mention of the new pay scale. And there was a bill up to give Commodore Matthew C. Perry $25,000 for his diplomatic services in "opening a communication with Japan."

The 33rd Congress also was concerned about a bill to authorize a railroad to the Pacific. Some thought it was a fine thing. Others said it was to cost too much money and one representative said that would be too long to ride on a train, anyhow.

There was a hot issue in the House over a small appropriation for transportation of mail by ocean steamers. Tempers rose and one congressman rose in wrath and allowed that he was dead against it, for personal reasons.

He said he didn't know anybody on the other side of the world and even if he did, he didn't see why the American taxpayers should have to pay money to "fix it up for me so that I would write to him."

Women In The Church

Mrs. Edgar A. Bark of Wauwatosa, Wis., has been elected president of the National Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Christian Churches, succeeding Mrs. W. Bayard Buckham of Oakland, Calif. Wife of a practicing lawyer and mother of two teen-age children, Mrs. Bark will serve a two-year term as the nominal head of nearly half a million Congregational Christian women.

Pointing to the successful work of the Deaconess Order for women in the Methodist churches of Europe, especially in Germany and in Scandinavia, and to the Order of Sisters in the Church of South India, Mrs. S. K. Mondol and other women leaders of the Methodist Church in India are advocating the establishment of an Order of Deaconesses for church women of India who give full-time service to Christian ministry. These deaconesses, if organized, would serve in local parishes as assistant pastors, as leaders of religious education, as social workers or as nurses in the Church's hospitals and clinics.

When the World Day of Prayer (for missions) was organized 69 years ago, some $70 were collected for the ministry to non-Christians. In 1954 the offerings had grown to $434,000 and that sum was equally divided between missions in the U.S.A. and missions overseas. United Church Women—an arm of the National Council of Churches—which now sponsors the Day expects that the 1955 observance on Feb. 25 will be held by church women in some 20,000 American communities. Their offerings will again be equally divided between home and foreign causes. Chief among the causes to be aided in America will be the training of leaders among the American Indians (including students in fourteen government schools on the reservations); service to migrant children and families in the farming areas; and training for rural pastors in the less-favored agricultural sections. Service to overseas groups will include a ministry to some 30,000 foreign students now in American colleges; and a Christian home and family life program among people of Asia and Africa.

Baptists Plan Training School

The Baptist Churches of Pampa and the near-by areas will engage in a Central Training School Monday through Friday in the First Baptist Church of Pampa. Meetings will be held at 7:30 each evening and will continue until 9:15. There will be a 15-minute intermission each evening at which time a film strip will be shown to the workers on "The Improvement of Teaching."

The school will be sponsored by the Sunday School, and there will be a total of 25 courses taught. Every department will have a course offered, as well as classes in Soul-winning. Bible study and other phases of Baptist work. Classes will be offered for the nursery children through the adults.

Rev. Ennis Hill, the associational Sunday school superintendent, will have charge of these meetings. All Baptist churches are urged to have as many representatives as possible.

Christian-Jew Conference Hears Truman

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 11 —UP—Former President Harry S. Truman told the National Conference of Christians and Jews human rights and freedom are being deliberately violated and supressed in the world and even Americans must admit they have discrimination and injustices.

Truman said he asked the federal government when he was president to take an active part in the effort to achieve greater justice.

Americans must acknowledge that in the United States there are instances of discrimination and injustice because of difference in color, religion or national origin, he said Thursday night.

"But we are working diligently to overcome these violations of the fundamental faith which holds us together," he added.

"I called for legislation to protect the rights of all citizens, to assure their equal participation in national life and to reduce discrimination based upon prejudice ... in view of the fundamental faith in their country and the clear language of the constitution, I do not see how we can do otherwise than adopt such legislation."

Mr. Truman said in various areas of the world "campaigns are being waged to turn religion into a tool of the state. It is only the people of religious faith throughout the world who have the power to overcome the force of tyranny."

The former President said "men and women who have this faith will refuse to bow to force... and will refuse to worship the power of the state."

He said people in various parts of the world "are being deliberately violated and supressed. Men and women are being systematically persecuted for their religious beliefs."

Mr. Truman praised the conference for its effective work during 1954. He said it was "another year of widespread and effective work in the cause of human brotherhood at home and abroad."

Hymn Sing At Methodist Church Sunday

An old-fashioned hymn sing, with new words to familiar music, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church Sunday.

Seven Pampa Churches will cooperate in the Bible Hymn Festival, sponsored by the Pampa Council of Churches and Pampa Council of Church Women.

The Festival is designed to encourage Bible-reading, and particularly reading of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, as the hymns to be sung were written in honor of its publication in 1952.

Under the direction of Roy Johnson, minister of music, First Methodist Church, a mass choir of over 100 voices will be featured.

Rev. Ronald E. Hubbard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will present a 15-minute meditation.

Others on the program will be Mrs. Roy Johnson, who will play an organ prelude; Rev. Edwin Hall of St. Paul Methodist Church, the call to worship; Rev. Woodrow Adcock, opening sentence and pastoral prayer; Rev. Porter Brooks of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, the words of assurance; Rev. Dick Crews of First Christian Church the scripture lesson; and Rev. Raymond Dyess of Harrah Methodist Church, the benediction.

Hymns to be sung include "Eternal God, Whose Mandate" to the music of the familiar "The Church's One Foundations"; "Go Forth, Strong Word of God" to the music of "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord"; "Let There Be Light" to the tune of "God of Grace and God of Glory"; "Break Forth, O Living Light of God" to the familiar music of "In Christ There Is No East or West"; "Word of God, Across the Ages" to the tune of "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken"; God Hath Spoken—by His Prophets," to the music of "Not Alone For Mighty Empire"; and "The Witness of the Truth" to the familiar tune of "Angles From the Realms of Glory."

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—UP—The Committee of 10 Million Americans, created last November to protest the Senate censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) announced Thursday night it is disbanding. Air Force Lt. Gen. George E. JESUS, THE GREAT TEACHER

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, was the greatest teacher the world has ever known. His teachings were new and living, and are the basis of all truth. These words of truth are revealed in the New Testament.

As Jesus taught the people of His own day, when He walked the earth as a man, we are told "And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at His doctrine. For He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes." (Mt. 7:28, 29). His words came from God and are living. Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews, came to Jesus and said "Rabbi, we know that Thou art a Teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that Thou doest, except God be with him." (Jn. 3:2). For this reason Jesus could say "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My word shall not pass away." (Mt. 24:35).

As the Master Teacher taught these words to men He always adapted the lessons to the ones to whom He spoke. Much of His teaching was done in parables. As He taught farmers concerning the kingdom of heaven He compared it to the sower who sowed his seed in different soils. (Lk. 8). While speaking to women He drew a lesson concerning leaven (Mt. 13:33), and to fishermen He taught concerning the dragnet (Mt. 13:47,48). These lessons were made so plain that the pupils could not misunderstand.

As people learned these truths, believed them and thus obeyed them, the world was revolutionized for good. Every good and worthwhile work in the world today is traceable to Christ and His teachings, and the influence of Christianity. This Great Teacher of Galilee has done more for humanity than all the philosophers of the ages, or the combined forces of men. Let us learn of His ways and live as He directs.

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with the moral guides.

Two Methods

As examples of natural governments there are: 1. the family, 2. the church, 3. the school (non-government or independent), 4. virtually any business, 5. any club or association where membership is voluntary. Each of these units has a set of rules. Each of these rules must be obeyed. But the penalty for disobedience is, in most cases, expulsion from the group.

If we do not obey the tenets and teachings of the church we will be asked to leave.

If we do not listen to our teachers and the other authorities in school we will be expelled.

If we refuse to listen to the boss in the business, or the president of the club, we may find ourselves on the outside looking in. But in each of these cases, the very WORST that can happen is BANISHMENT.

This is even true, though less apparent, in the family unit.

There is usually greater force exercised by the head of the family than in any other voluntary unit of society.

But the force is normally exercised against the young, and therefore non-self-responsible members of the unit.

Further, the extent of the force lessens as time passes. This is the case with all natural governments. They tend to shrink as time passes. They require less and less authority and force with the passing of the years. Custom takes the place of even nominal compulsion. Habit breeds obedience and ultimate willing, even understanding cooperation.

We are in favor of all good NATURAL governments. We recognize that order must be maintained. We believe that man is fundamentally good. That by far and away the great majority of men do not need to be compelled. They will willingly do what they should do if they understand.

ARTIFICIAL governments have a single usefulness. Their's is the task of apprehending those few individuals who do not willingly want to cooperate. Whenever an artificial government goes beyond this single function, it becomes excessive.

We favor the use of defensive force, as practiced against those few individuals who, unless restrained would refuse to cooperate. Aside from this, we favor the natural government.

One of the principal characteristics of artificial government is that death is the penalty for disobedience. And banishment, which might sincerely be sought by the individual who, let us say, resented unjust decision on the part of his ruler, is impossible.

No one can voluntarily quit the artificial type of government.

You are compelled to remain subject to it, and to abide by the decisions of rulers whether you agree or not.

Your only recourse would be to exchange one type of artificial government for some other type, which conceivably might be worse.

Yet, in the case of natural governments, you can get out of the club, the church, the school, or what you will, and there is no compulsion forcing you to join something else.

Artificial governments were instituted because of man's fear of the criminal and savage. There is no evidence that a natural government could not have handled this problem better than an artificial government. But for better or for worse we have delegated to the artificial government the right to wear the gun and to use force on our behalf.

We might sum it up this way:

Artificial government (the use of compulsion to secure cooperation) is required for children, savages and criminals.

Natural government (the use of persuasion to secure willing cooperation) will suffice in all other cases! This is why we cannot be classed as anarchical in our views. We favor willing cooperation, and constantly seek to further it.

We are opposed to and will continue to speak up against excessive artificial government wherever it appears.

ATTENTION LEGISLATORS
(California Farmer)

As the legislators take their seats for the 1955 session let them keep one thing in mind: this State is suffering a drouth and the further south you go the worse it becomes.

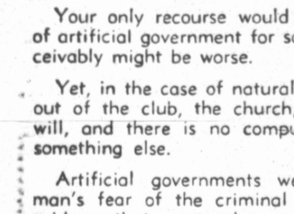

We hope the legislators are aware that New York banks are ready, willing and able to finance a plan to build a toll road from San Francisco to Los Angeles down the crest of the Coast Range of mountains.

They are also willing to build a barrier across the Bay, to pick up fresh water and pump it through huge pipes down the crest of the Coast Range. Water will be piped down either side of the Coast Range to supply either the Central Valley or the coastal towns and valleys. Los Angeles would of course receive a large share of the water.

The beauty of the plan is that it does not cost the taxpayer 1 cent and that at the end of 30 or 40 years the entire project is presented to the State of California as a gift.

While this does not solve all of California's water problems it would seem good business to let private capital build any part of the water plan that they wished to undertake as California and the Federal Government will be sorely taxed to dig up the money for the completion of the full development of our water distribution plans.

It will be interesting to see what excuse politicians can diz up for opposing this plan which takes a big chunk of the tax burden off the backs of their constituents.

I'm havin' a little trouble with the income tax people. They don't want me to list Eisenhower as a dependent.

Our Present "Money" Will Wreck Us If Continued

I never had as clear a view as to how our government interpreted the money clause in our Constitution until I read a book by Paul Bakewell, Jr. The book is called "What Are We Using for Money." The clause that he points out the Supreme Court misinterpreted in several decisions was Section 8 on the Powers of Congress that says: "Congress shall have the power to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coins and fix the standard of weights and measures." When this Section is quoted, invariably part of it is omitted. "And of foreign coin" is usually omitted when referring to regulating the value of money.

Mr. Bakewell points out that it would be impossible for Congress to regulate the value of foreign coins. It is also impossible for Congress to regulate the value of money. It can make it worthless, of course, but it cannot give it value. It is given value by the nature of the material of which the coin is made. The value comes from its scarcity and man's desire for the commodity used to make the coin or money.

Under the chapter "Dollars and Lawful Money" Mr. Bakewell starts his book by writing:

"Today when we speak of 'dollars' and 'money' we are merely using words and overlooking substance. We have no real dollars, no real money and no real monetary system in the United States. We have no Unit coin, such as our former gold dollar. We lack entirely the coined money with the Constitution contemplated and which was 'lawful money.'

Then Mr. Bakewell goes on to explain the first coinage Act of 1792 established a silver coin containing 371.25 grains of pure silver as the Dollar unit and as the basis of our monetary system. Then he observes:

"The first Coinage Act of 1792 is exquisitely clear. Not only did it fix the coin containing 371.25 grains of pure silver as the 'Dollar or Unit,' but it made that coin, and that coin alone, the basic Unit of our monetary system.

"By measuring the value of all other coins by that Silver Unit, the Act made the silver dollar the standard of value.

"The Act specifically measured the value of all the other coins, which it authorized, by that Silver Unit or Dollar.*

"The first Coinage Act authorized only three gold coins, the Eagle, the Half Eagle and the Quarter Eagle, and specified that the Eagle was to be 'of the value of ten (silver) dollars or units';

"It thus fixed the silver Dollar or Unit, and based the monetary system on that Unit. Nothing could establish that fact more clearly than the requirement that the gold coins authorized should be 'of the value' of specific multiples of that silver Unit. The consequence was that the Eagle, for instance, had to contain the precise amount of pure gold which was 'of the value' of ten silver dollars or Units and the Half Eagle and the Quarter Eagle had to contain respectively one-half and one-quarter of that amount of gold. Thus the Act measured the value of those gold coins by the silver unit, which was the basic coin and was necessarily the standard of value.

"When the basic unit was silver that Unit became the measure of all other values. The first Coinage Act emphasized that fact by providing that all acts in the public offices and all proceedings in the Courts should be kept and had in conformity with that regulation.

"The silver dollar, which became the Unit of Value and continued as such until 1873, was never debased."

In 1873 Congress established a gold dollar containing 23.22 grains of pure gold as the unit of value.

Then the author goes on to show that in 1834 the amount of gold used in the Eagle was worth on the open market not 10 silver dollars, but $10.60. Then Congress passed an Act on June 28, 1834 relating to coinage, as follows:

"That the gold coins of the United States shall contain the following quantities of metal, that is to say, each Eagle shall contain two hundred and thirty-two grains of pure gold; . . . . every such Eagle shall be of the value of ten dollars; . . . . and the said gold coins shall be receivable in all payments, when of full weight according to their respective values and when of less than full weight at less values, proportioned to their respective actual weights."

The above, as the author says, merely regulated the value of gold coins by the then silver Unit or standard, and at that time there was no gold dollar of the United States. Every coin collector knows that our first gold dollar was authorized in 1849. This was a year after gold was discovered in California. Then Mr. Bakewell says.

"Thus the fact is that the Act of 1834 did not reduce or affect in any way the Unit. That Act did not affect any gold dollar because there was no such coin at that time.

"But, beyond that it was the uniform opinion of all the authorities that there was no power in Congress to debase the Unit or standard of value."

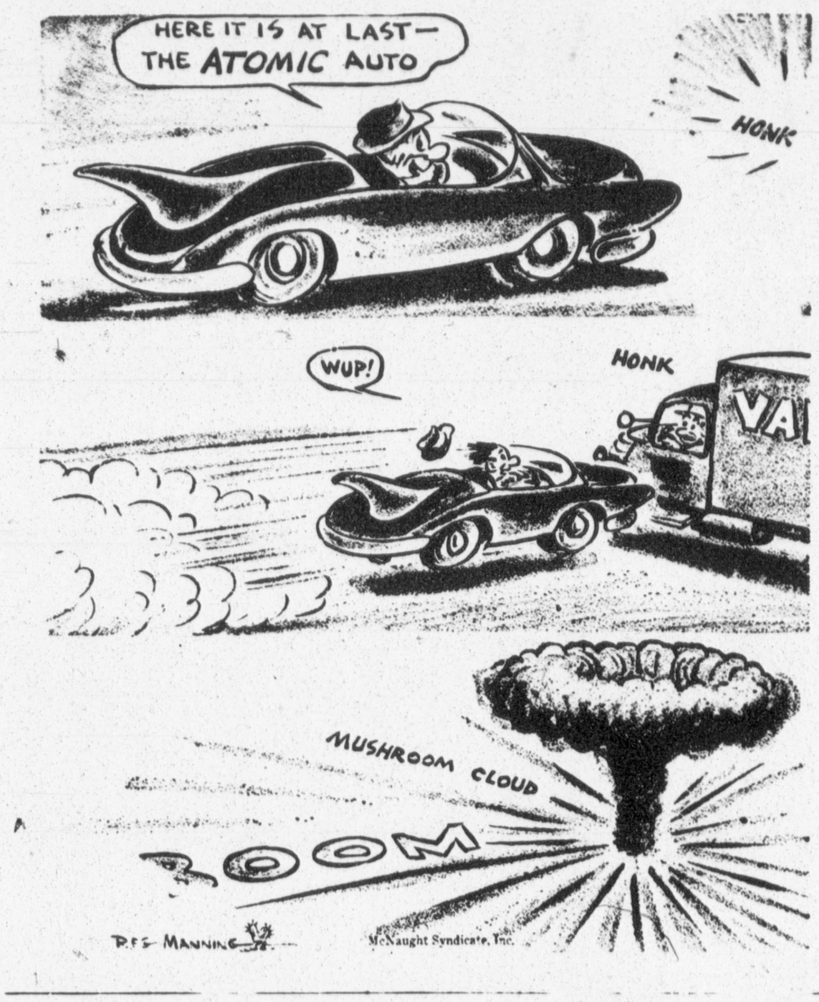

Then the author quotes Justice Washington of the Supreme Court in 1857 as writing:

"And why establish a standard at all for the government of the various contracts which might be entered into if those contracts might afterwards be discharged by a different standard. . . ."

In 1830 the Supreme Court unanimously said in an opinion that the very purpose of the constitutional power to coin money and regulate its value was ". . . to create and preserve the uniformity and purity of such a standard of value."

Ike Critics Vocal As Atom Enters Politics, Economics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has been assailed by a few political and scientific spokesmen for having plunged the atomic energy problem into politics, or vice versa. His critics include such contrasting figures as Albert Einstein, who first proposed the atomic experiment to F.D.R., and Albert Gore, the New Dealish Senator from Tennessee.

The basis for the accusation is White House support of the Dixon-Yates-TVA-AEC contract, which has involved the Atomic Energy Commission in partisan controversy on Capitol Hill. The opposition also charges that, in appointing new AEC personnel and in approving contracts for experimentation in peacetime application of nuclear power, Ike tends to favor private rather than public interests.

In short, the atom, including the bomb itself, has at last exploded into politics and economics — and into everyday reality. What amuses the more knowledgeable experts is that this evolution should evoke any surprise or criticism. They point out that Eisenhower cannot be held responsible for this nonmilitary explosion.

It was an inevitable relationship, just as the invention of electricity, the automobile, radio and television produced new and difficult politico-economic problems.

In short, the atom can no more be kept out of or above politics than the tariff or pork-barrel rivers and harbors projects? That is, not unless these radioactive particles, taken medicinally, can do what no other human discovery has ever done — create an entirely new breed of nonpolitical politicians.

The people surprised and shocked by this development, according to the more realistic viewpoint, resemble J. Robert Oppenheimer. He admitted that he lived in such a remote and dreamlike world that he never read a newspaper until long after World War I had engulfed the universe.

These politico - scientific critics need only to attend current conferences at the White House, the State Department or the Pentagon to appreciate that the broken atom, whether used for destructive or constructive purposes, dominates almost every discussion of grave foreign and domestic issues.

It is only our possession of superior atomic power, for instance, that is credited by Prime Minister Churchill with restraining Russia from precipitating global war. It is that same advantage which has forced us into the responsibility of heading the western coalition, NATO, the proposed Western European Union, and SEATO.

Currently, were it not for the fact that the Seventh Fleet off Formosa is equipped with atomic bombs, Mao Tse-tung might launch an immediate invasion of islands which we have pledged ourselves to defend. For good or for bad, our atomic power influences both military and foreign policy more violently and radically than any other force in world history.

The atomic presence likewise determines the size and nature of our national defense establishment. It underlies the White House decision to reduce ground forces while building up air, naval and atomic weapons.

It is Eisenhower's belief that this trend will provide "more bang with a buck," thus permitting a reduction in the overall cost of national defense. Naturally, this prospect will affect such political and partisan questions as taxes, deficits, the budget, inflation and the cost of bread and butter.

Finally, when industrial use of atomic energy becomes feasible five or so years hence, there will be staged a resounding debate between liberals and conservatives. As previously with water power, the New Dealers already insist on government ownership of generating plants, or at least the so-called "yardstick competition."

The Eisenhowerites or their successors will demand that, like other forms of energy, the atomic force be incorporated within the going, private enterprise system.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

A series of excellent questions submitted by E. B. deal with angina pectoris. These questions do not cover the subject entirely but a discussion of them paragraph by paragraph may be of interest to others besides the inquirer.

What are the symptoms of angina pectoris? The most important are those which come following physical exertion or sometimes emotional stress. Not all are present in every instance but pain over the heart, perhaps extending down the left arm or up towards the chin, is frequent.

WHAT ARE SOME OF the causes? Lessening of the flow of blood through the arteries which supply the heart muscle is the immediate cause of angina. This lessened flow of blood may be the result of deposits of fatty substances or calcium in the walls of the arteries or of spasms of these blood vessels. What causes such changes in some people and not in others and in some earlier in life than in others remains obscure.

Is medication required? It is wise for someone who has angina to have available certain types of medication which they can take if needed. In other words the answer to this question depends on the individual situation.

WHAT ABOUT SURGERY? This is a complex question. Various surgical procedures directly on the heart have been tried. Years ago some patients with angina had their thyroid glands removed with the aim of improving the angina. About all which can be said at the moment is that surgery aimed directly at treatment of angina pectoris is still experimental and is not suitable for all victims of that disorder.

What precautions are necessary? There is little which can be recommended to the person who is well and wishes to avoid ever getting angina. We simply do not know enough about the causes to recommend any specific precautions.

Pegler Strikes Back At 'Anti-Intellectual' Critic

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My old sparring partner, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the salesman who married the boss' daughter and became the publisher of the New York Times, has got the darnedest knack of leading with his maxillary. That is an intellectual word meaning the jawbone. I would not use it ordinarily because I am a misogrammarian, which is another intellectual word meaning a dummy who does not know nothing, does not want to know anything and does not like intellectual people.

Several times, Mr. Sulzberger's N. Y. Times has taken picks on me as "anti-intellectual," a rough-hewn, homemade word which they resort to because apparently their intellectual development stopped a little short of the right word for such cases made and provided. In the latest of these exploits they played up a little dance of the doubledomes at a hall in New York at which a character named Dr. Theodore Brameld of New York University said "anti-intellectualism" was "a serious force, likely to become more serious" and held up Westbrook Pegler as the most ominous operator in this evil ism.

The Times said also, by the way, that Eleanor Roosevelt was among the "attentive audience" and I thought to myself that it was a good thing they did not require at least a kindergarten diploma because otherwise the girl of my not always happy dreams might have got the raus at the gate. Because, according to my reading in her own stuff, Dreamie was parked with an old French atheist tomato at a sort of checkroom school for unwanted children, and got kicked out for telling a lie to promote a little flutter of sympathy because nobody loved her. Considering her childhood and the character of her family, as described in her own work, the wonder is that she turned out as well as she did.

Well, in practically the next mail, I got a letter from the Rev. Rix Pierce Butler, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Rosedale, L. I.

"I recalled," he wrote, "that in my student days at Union Theological seminary I was given an introduction to him (Brameld) by no less a personage than Prof. Harry F. Ward as the 'outstanding Marxist thinker of our generation'. At the time he was in the philosophy department of L.I.U. under the name of Theodore B. H. Brameld, Ph.D., he had published 'a philosophic approcah to Communism', University of Chicago Press, 1933. Since the article gave the impression that you had not checked up on this character, I pass this on to you for what it is worth. Keep up the good work and God bless you."

I asked Doctor Butler at once for further information on the savant who perceived in me a formidable menace to intellect, not failing, at the same time, to make inquiries of the great brain himself. No acknowledgement has yet arrived from Brameld, but Doctor Butler wrote further. You may sympathize with my utter confusion when you have dipped your bill into Brameld's gumbo, Doctor Butler reports:

" 'A philosophic approach to Comunism' is definitely dated stuff. There are only two reference to Stalin in it. While he writes with an affected air of academic detachment, he is most anxious to prove that Marxist thinkers are quite respectable intellectually and have their basic roots in the philosophical wisdom of the sages. Most of the book is balderdash that would only appeal to a mentality ten times removed from reality, as:

" 'An observer removed to a wider perspective than the doctrine internally allows, sees that the Communist is interactive in an absolute, yet acquiescent in an interactive world.' "

No fooling, my fellow misogrammarians, I am following copy. Maybe we ought to do it on a concertina. Anyway, forward, men:

" 'He sees, therefore, that the dialectical spiral of matter-ego blends from this perspective, after all, with the operating functions of the environment-man. But he sees that this is so as much in spite of as because of system and methods, as such.'

"Most of the book," said Doctor Butler, "moves in this limbo of feigned cerebration. There is this gem on page 221: 'If instrumentalism, for example, has such truth, then so has Communism; but then Communism has truth, too, if it has for a spokesman on behalf of one of all time's great philosophies of life: Work out your own salvation, cries St. Paul for it is God that worketh in you' ".

Doctor Butler remarks: "I find this an interesting quote from St. Paul, for it combines the last half of one sentence with the first half of another in Philippians without Mr. Brameld indicating it, and to the considerable impoverishment of St. Paul's thought. But the concluding peroration on page 222 is somewhat easier for any pedestrain brain to understand:

" 'As Communism thus appropriates simultaneously both the positive and negative features of our principal concept — and this is the fourth alternative — the dualism produced by the evidence of part two and part three, accordingly dissolves. Such dualism dissolves, moreover, by what may be for the acquiescent-attitude, a psychological and logical necessity. And the devotee of Communism, to whom such an attitude can be ascribed, becomes at once creator and worshiper of a magnificent human order.' "

Hank Has A Way To Solve Problem Of Reading Books

By HENRY McLEMORE

As a steady reader of the Saturday Review I am steadily bombarded by the lamen of publishers that more books aren't sold in this country.

As an author I am in complete lament with them, and have been devoting much thought to a scheme which would result in more books being sold. And I think I have hit on something.

People take too long to read a book; not because they are slow readers, but because they read nonessentials just as thoroughly as they do essentials.

Let us consider mystery or "whodunit" books. An estimated 20,000,000 Americans read at least one a year. If they read a mystery book twice as fast, it stands to reason that they would have time to read two, thus doubling the sales.

As a man who started reading mystery books when Anna Katharine Green was in her prime, I have worked out a way to get through them at a whirlwind pace, and I believe the publishers should include my advice on the dust jacket.

1. As soon as the detective summons the members of the household staff of the murdered man to give testimony, flip six pages. There is no use in reading that the housekeeper was asleep on the third floor with her ear trumpet disconnected, and would be lucky to hear a Sabre Jet crash in her closet.

Equally useless is the testimony of the giggly maid. She'll only give the name of her delivery boy friend, what time they got in from the cinema, and a tiresome recitation of every step she took after kissing him goodnight. The butler, the cook, and the gardner are equal nonentities.

2. Pay no attention to the map that shows the floor plan of the house where the foul deed was done.

In the first place, the maps are all alike. The study has French windows which open on the lawn. They are locked inside, outside, and crossways. Door A leads to the master bedroom, and there is no way to get to the master bedroom without coming down the chimney. Off the master bedroom is Door B, which leads to Clara Henshaw's room, which is used as a combination billiard room and sewing room when Clara isn't down for the week-end.

3. Ignore the position of the body when the Inspector saw it. Just remember that it was sprawled, that there were signs of a violent struggle, the clock had stopped at exactly two minutes past two, and that the murdered man was left-handed and so couldn't have broken his own neck with the shattered Ming vase.

4. Skip all paragraphs or pages of description. Even the greatest of mystery writers are not recognized as masters of prose, so when the author goes on about the wind against the willows, the street light's feeble glow, the view of the moor from the towers, just leave that to him and move on to where there is blood, footprints, blunt instruments, and a dog that didn't make a sound during the killing.

5. Brush past all elaboration on poisons and how they work. This is offered only to show that the author has a public library card, and has used it.

6. Don't try to solve mysteries. By that is meant don't put down the book and try to remember back to what happened. The most efficient way is to read the last five pages — when the detective has gathered everyone in the living room to explain what happened.

Follow these steps and mystery books can be read in almost nothing flat.

Oh, yes, one more thing: jump every page that tells what the detective eats, how his own apartment, looks, and his gay banter. If you don't, it'll make you unhappy. You'll find that the detective lives much nicer than you do, eats much better, and has a much gayer repartee.

APPLICATIONS CONTINUE TO POUR in for the head coaching job at the Pampa High School grid camp.

But who will land the job is, of course, the $64 question at the moment.

Although it isn't likely to happen, the coach may be known Monday when the school board holds its regular meeting.

We have given this plenty of serious thought and have talked to several fellows close to the Harvester football program.

Much to our delight, most of these fellows go along with our thinking on the matter, that of moving Dwaine Lyon up to the head post.

We have always been a firm believer in elevating a coach already in the system if the coach's work previously has been satisfactory.

And Lyon's work certainly has been satisfactory during his five or six years in the Pampa High School coaching ranks.

We'll always remember the statement Aubra Nooncaster made last fall at one of the Quarterback Club meetings concerning Lyon. Nooncaster's statement went like this:

"Dwaine is the best line coach in the state of Texas, bar none." And Noon said it in such a manner that you knew he was saying it in all sincerity.

We aren't basing our opinion on Lyon on this statement alone. The statement just confirmed the opinion we already had on Dwaine.

It's true that Lyon has never been a head coach with exception of the Reapers and Shockers but we believe he deserves a shot at the Harvester post that is now open.

Some of the fans we've talked to are holding it against Lyon for the last two Harvester games last fall. You'll recall that Lyon took over when Nooncaster was forced to the sidelines because of ill health.

That wouldn't be giving a fellow much of a chance. The Harvesters were plagued with injuries those last two games and bad breaks certainly went against the Green and Golders in both tilts.

From all indications, though, the board seems to be searching elsewhere for a new head coach.

If this be the case, we certainly believe rest of the staff should remain intact.

We have several coaches in mind who could fill the bill. And one of these, whom we know is interested in the job, would like to step in without reshuffling the coaching ranks here as it now stands.

Maybe we'll at least know by Monday whether the school board will have their list pared down to two or three fellows and that the names of these applicants would be released.

In the meantime we'll just stand by and wait for something to happen.

SEE ALL YOU SPORTS fans in Amarillo tonight. The Harvesters need all the support they can get from the fans here.

Heated Battle On At Tucson

TUSCON, Feb. 11 —UP—Bob Rosburg, of San Francisco, and Tony Holguin, of Midlothian, Ill., led going into the second round of the $10,000 Tucson Open Friday but with a mob at their heels.

The two carded five-under par 65s Thursday, one stroke better than George Bayer, Los Angeles, and Bud Holscher, Santa Monica, Calif., who tied at 66, and two strokes better than the next five top scorers for the day over the El Rio course.

Holguin shot a five-under par 30 on the out nine Thursday then came in with 35. Rosburg was more consistent, busting par on both nines, 33-32.

Nearly 30 carded below par first rounds and 19 shot par. Gene Littler, who had been rated the favorite off his Phoenix and Los Angeles titles, was among those failing to break par, along with Ed Furgol, PGA champion from St. Louis; Dr. Cary Middlecoff and many other winter circuit stars.

The five tied with 67s after the opening round were Ed Oliver, Lemont, Ill.; Charles Sifford, Philadelphia; Bo Wininger, Oklahoma City; George Buzzini, Diablo, Cal., and amateur Stan Mosel, San Antonio, Tex.

Following at 68 were Mike Fetchick, Mahopac, N.Y.; Jerry Barber, Los Angeles; Earl Wilde, Bettendorf, Iowa, and Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., the national amateur champion last year.

Such well-knowns as Tommy Bolt, Fred Hawkings, Walt Burkemo and Julius Boros were in the 69 bracket.

BONUS BENEFIT—Jim Scott of West Texas State has hit a phenomenal 90 per cent of his free throws this season to pace the nation from the foul line, thanks to the bonus rule which gives him an extra shot for making the first one. (NEA)

Hutchinson In Favorites Role

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11—UP—Fred Hutchinson, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, defended his championship Friday in the annual Baseball Players Golf tournament against a field of 77 that included some of the biggest stars of the diamond.

Shortstop Al Dark of the New York Giants, winner of this tourney in 1951, and pitcher Lou Kretlow of the Baltimore Orioles, who wallops a golf ball farther than most of his slugging rivals, were regarded as Hutchinson's chief foes.

All told the field included 24 present major-league players, with at least one from each of the 16 big league clubs. The others are 12 former major league players, 14 minor leaguers, eight executives, and 18 newsmen.

Friday's competition consisted of medal play. Two daily rounds of match play will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Pitcher Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers was among those players scheduled to compete, marking the first time that a Negro has competed in this annual affair.

The New York Yankees were represented by a six-man delegation including Ed Lopat, Phil Rizzuto, Jerry Coleman, Yogi Berra, Charlie Silvera, and Joe Collins.

Red Sox Fans Still Hopeful Of Ted Playing

By UNITED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox adopted a hopeful "no news could be good news" attitude Friday about Ted Williams' possible return to baseball.

The famed slugger has not signed the contract the Sox mailed to him last month—but, on the other hand, he hasn't emphasized his retirement by sending the contract back unsigned. And as a result, Sox General Manager Joe Cronin spoke in a hopeful tone.

"When an announcement comes from Williams about playing ball for the Sox this year, everyone will be told about it," said Cronin at his home in Newton, Mass. "As yet, I haven't heard anything from him."

Williams, now believed off fishing in the Florida Keys, announced his retirement at the end of the 1954 season. The Sox, who have been openly hopeful that he didn't mean "positively," mailed him a contract last month at the same time contracts were sent to all other members of the Boston squad.

While the Sox continued to fish hopefully for the "big one," four other major league teams signed lesser lights.

The Baltimore Orioles signed flashy fielding shortstop Willie Miranda for a salary estimated at $10,000. Miranda, now playing in the Caribbean World Series in Venezuela, was one of the players obtained from the New York Yankees in the big winter deal.

The Philadelphia Phillies signed handy man Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey, 36-year-old infielder-outfielder-pinchhitter released by the St. Louis Cards.

The Pittsburgh Pirates signed infielder Dale Long, up for a third trial after hitting 28 homers and batting .280 last season for Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League.

And the Cincinnati Redlegs reached agreements with third baseman Bobby Adams, a .269 hitter last season, and rookie pitcher Don Gross, who ohad a 12-9 record at Columbia, S.C. Among the four Redlegs still unsigned are pitchers Gerry Staley and Bud Podbielan.

Harvesters Seek Title Clincher Tonite

To Battle Sandies In Crucial Game

Pampa's Hustlin' Harvesters will be out to nail down the District 1-AAAA Northern Zone championship tonight when they go against the Amarillo Golden Sandies at Amarillo in the regularly scheduled season finale.

The game, to be played in the spacious Fair Park Coliseum, will start at 8. A crowd of 5,000 is expected to be on hand for thebattle between the two arch rivals.

The Harvesters can nail down the undisputed Northern 1-4A title by outpointing the Sandies tonight. A Sandie win, however, would make it at least a two-way tie for the crown and possibly a three-way deadlock.

If the Sandies down the Harvesters and Borger downs Lubbock at Lubbock, the Harvesters, Sandies and Borger would wind up in a three-way title deadlock.

In this case the playoffs would be held Saturday in the West Texas State College Fieldhouse in Canyon. The teams would draw for a first round bye with the other two meeting Saturday afternoon. Then the winner of the afternoon game would meet the team drawing the bye Saturday night for the 1-4A Northern title.

Should the Sandies down the Harvesters tonight and Lubbock upsets Borger, Amarillo and Pampa would then share the crown. A one-game "sudden death" playoff would be held Saturday at a site to be determined by a coin flip.

Winner of the Northern 1-4A title will meet San Angelo, the Southern Zone champion, in a three - game series next week for the overall District 1-AAAA championship.

San Angelo was upset by Midland last night, 35-33, but the Bobcats had already clinched the Southern crown. Last night's loss was the first in six conference starts for the Bobcats.

Date and site of the playoff between the Northern and Southern Divisions will be set as soon as the Northern champ is known. A coin toss will determine the site. The dates unofficially have been set for Tuesday and Friday, and if a third game is necessary, Saturday.

Coach Clifton McNeely is warning his charges against taking the Sandies lightly. The Harvesters defeated the Sandstorm convincingly when the two teams met here, 63-52.

But the Harvesters are fully aware that the Sandies had an "off night" in the game here and with the home court advantage tonight the Green and Golders know the Sandies will be tough.

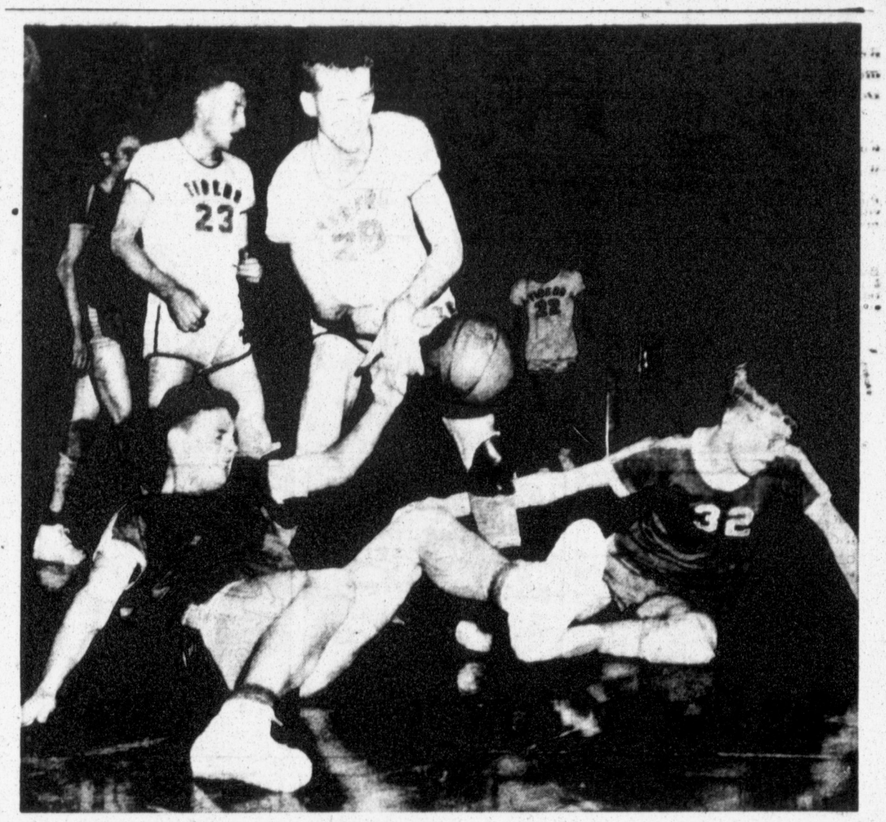

The Harvesters are also aware of the fact that the Sandies would like to break the 12 game winning streak the Green and Golders have over the Amarilloans.

Except for Gary Griffin's slight back injury, the Harvesters will go into tonight's game in top physical shape. Griffin hasn't been in top physical condition since the conference opener with Lubbock three weeks ago when he suffered a muscle strain in his back.

The largest basketball crowd in history of the Panhandle may watch tonight's contest. Amarillo officials have predicted that the 5,000 available tickets to the game tonight will be gobbled up by tip-off time.

Reapers End Season With 51-29 Victory

By RAUL (Rabbit) RAMIREZ

The Pampa Junior High Reapers came through with a 51-29 victory over the Amarillo Sam Houston Rangers yesterday afternoon at Reaper Gym.

It was the season finale for the Reapers as they finished with a record of eight wins and six defeats in conference play and a 9-7 record for the season.

In yesterday's game the Reapers were cold in the first quarter. The Reapers were behind at the first quarter 14-10. They then started to hit and with just five seconds left in the first half Ray Stephenson drove in for a shot to give the Reapers a 21-19 lead at halftime.

In the second half the game was all for the Reapers. The Reapers hit for 20 points in the third quarter while they held the Rangers just to three points.

In the final period Coach Scoggins cleared out the bench as the Reapers won going away.

Larry Cruise, 6-1 center for the Reapers, was high point man for the game with 17. Ray Stephenson, 6-2, was second high with 12.

Cease Expansion Talk—Ford Frick

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 —UP— Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick cracked down on expansion talk Thursday by ordering all 16 major league owners to stop it immediately or risk possible action for conduct "detrimental to baseball."

In a memo sent to the owners, Frick ordered them to cease all "speculation and publicly expressed opinion" on the expansion of the major leagues "until the time has come when definite and specific action is to be taken."

Frick emphasized that minor league cities were being "definitely harmed" by the current expansion talk of major league officials.

McLean, Panhandle Quints Advance To 1-A Finals

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

WHITE DEER, Feb. 11 — The McLean boys and Panhandle girls breezed into the District 1-A tournament finals here Thursday night with convincing wins in the first night of the tournament.

McLean, after a slow start, romped past Panhandle in the boys game, 79-59, while the Panhandle gals had no trouble in disposing of the Memphis lassies, 71-49.

The two winners here Thursday qualified for the finals to be held Saturday night. They'll meet the two winners of tonight's games for the 1-A crowns.

Tonight's card sends McLean and Canadian together in the girls game at 7, which will be followed by the boys game between Clarendon and Gruver at 8:30.

Rodney Gunn and Jim Farren led the McLean boys to their lopsided win over Panhandle here Thursday. Gunn, making most of his points on long one-handers, pumped in 25 points. Farren, the two-time all-regional choice and the Tigers' leading scorer this season, bucketed 20 points.

High point honors of the game, however, went to Greg Sherwood of the losing Panhandle team who chalked up 28 points.

Panhandle jumped off to a quick 7-2 lead before the Tigers began to find their range. The Tigers finally passed the Panthers at the 4:30 minute mark, 9-7, when James Smith hit two free throws to snap a 7-7 tie.

After Sherwood knotted the score again at 9-9, James Jolly fired one in from the floor to give the Tigers an 11-9 lead and Coach Hap Rogers' charges were never headed thereafter.

It was 17-14 after the first quarter, 37-26 at halftime and 55-42 at the three-quarter mark.

Farren, Jolly and Gunn led the second quarter Tiger spree that sent the McLean quint into a safe lead that was never dangered. This trip got six points apiece to account for 18 of the 20 Tiger points scored in the second period.

McLean hit 24 of 36 free throw attempts while the Panthers made only 17 of 31.

Farren fouled out of the game with 3:05 minutes left. He was followed by James Jolly two minutes later via the personal foul route. Jolly was the third leading Tiger scorer with 13 points.

Kay Williams was the big gun in Panhandle's win over Memphis in the girl's game. Miss Williams poured 43 points through the hoops despite seeing action only three quarters.

Once the Pantherettes grabbed a safe lead, Miss Williams was pulled to safe-guard against a bad ankle.

Miss Williams hit a phenomenal 19 of 20 free throw attempts.

Andrews, Johnson Meet In TV Bout

Andrews of New York, second-ranking contender, is favored at 7 1-2 to 5 to turn the tables on Johnson of Philadelphia, number three, because of his improvement under Joe Louis' instructions.

Johnson, a counter-punching specialist, won a majority decision over Andrews in their previous bout at Chicago Stadium last March 17. But Harold was on the floor in the first round. Two Chicago officials voted for Johnson, and the other called the bout a draw.

Andrews, 25, promised to be much more aggressive in Friday night's nationally televised and broadcast (NBC) ten-rounder at 9 p.m. cst.

Friday night's winner will have an excellent chance of getting a title fight with Champion Archie Moore. Only former Champion Joey Maxim is rated above Paul and Harold. And Maxim lost three title bouts to Moore.

St. Louis, LaSalle Cagemen 'Clinch' Tournament Berths

By UNITED PRESS

Flashy victories in the big town provided LaSalle and St. Louis Friday with some "tournament insurance."

Just in case they should miss out on NCAA tournament berths LaSalle trounced Manhattan, 76-62, and St. Louis razzle-dazzled New York University, 87-66, Thursday night to virtually assure themselves a bid to the National Invitation tournament.

But coaches of both teams emphasized after the double-header at Madison Square Garden that their teams would go first to the NCAA tourney, if possible.

"We are committed to play in the NCAA, if we are selected to represent the Middle Atlantic Conference," said LaSalle Coach Ken Loeffler, whose team has the added prestige of being the defending NCAA champion.

"Our first obligation is in the Missouri Valley Conference," said St. Louis Coach Ed Hickey. "If we should miss out there, well, then our University officials would be free to consider another tournament."

LaSalle, the nation's third-ranking team with an overall record of 17 wins and four losses, seems almost certain to be picked by the Middle Atlantic Conference. But St. Louis, with a 3-1 league record, still trails Tulsa (5-1) in the Missouri Valley.

Meanwhile, it is believed that Manhattan, with a fine 14-3 record despite Thursday night's loss, is in line for a bid to the NIT. Already in the NIT field are Duquesne and Dayton. No teams have yet qualified or been selected for the NCAA.

Coach Hickey said St. Louis "looked awful" but the Billikens still had too many guns for NYU although ace Dick Bouschka netted only eight points, he dominated the rebounding and Jim McLaughlin took up the scoring slack with 21 points.

In other leading games Thursday night: Lebanon Valley upset Temple, 82-76, in overtime; Notre Dame led all the way to trounce Bradley, 87-63; Holy Cross, last year's NIT champion, crushed St. Michael's (Vt.), 101-72; Fordham nipped Iona, 52-45; Furman trounced Davidson, 96-67; Mississippi defeated Mississippi State, 66-58; Washington and Lee downed Virginia Tech, 82-67; Wichita whipped Drake, 96-78; Oklahoma downed Oklahoma A&M, 59-50; and Oklahoma City handcuffed Texas A&M, 55-34.

First place in the Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, and Skyline Conferences are the prizes in Friday night's top games.

HOW IT WORKS — Here's how hypothetical man and wife reported income from dividends and took new tax break on their joint return.

Income Tax Primer No. 5

You Get Break On Dividends

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

The tax break which stirred up the biggest controversy in the new tax law is the one given to taxpayers who receive dividend income.

It is not easy to understand just how this change in the new law works, but it will pay anyone with dividend income in 1954 to follow carefully the explanation given below. This article also tells how to report income from interest.

Suppose you own stock in a corporation organized in the United States. During 1954, you probably received a distribution from the corporation.

Most distributions by a corporation to its stockholders are taxable dividends. Occasionally, however, corporations make distributions which are non-taxable and do not have to be reported as dividends. Generally speaking, a corporation advises you whenever it makes a non-taxable distribution.

Under the new law, the first $50 of taxable dividends received by each individual taxpayer is excluded from income. That means it is not taxed.

On a joint return, each spouse is entitled to the $50 exclusion on dividends received by him or her.

Where married persons living in community property states are entitled to divide dividends between themselves, even though all the stock is owned by one of them, each spouse can exclude $50 or a total of $100 of the dividends received by them in 1954.

In non-community property states, the $50 exclusion applies separately to the individual income of husband and wife whether a joint or separate return s filed.

This exclusion can be claimed on either Form 1040A or 1040. If you file on 1010A, you only show in item 10 the dividends which exceed the exclusion of $50. On Form 1040, however, you report all taxable dividends and then subtract the exclusion on line 3 of Schedule J. See sample schedule.

Let's suppose that after subtracting the exclusion, you still have some dividends left over. The new law permits you to subtract from the tax you would otherwise owe, a credit equal to 4 per cent of any dividend in excess of the exclusion received after July 31, 1954. The credit cannot be claimed on Form 1040A. Do not use this return if you have dividends in excess of the $50 exclusion.

The easiest way to compute the credit is to follow Schedule J of Form 1040. There is one filled out with this article to show you how it's done.

Note that the credit cannot exceed the lesser of the tax that would otherwise be due from you, or two per cent of your taxable income. And remember, the dividend break does not apply to dividends from foreign corporations, including Canadian companies, or from any mutual savings banks or building and loan associations. These dividends are reported in Schedule A on Page 2 of Form 1040.

The new law taxes interest in much the same way as the previous law. All taxable interest must be reported in Schedule B on Page 2 of Form 1040, or in Item 10 of Form 1040A. Most interest you receive is taxable.

However, if you own any bonds or securities issued by a city or state, the interest on these is not taxed by the Federal Government. The interest on many United States bonds issued prior to March 1, 1941, is wholly or partially tax-exempt. If you hav enay such bonds read the section under "Interest" on page 7 of the official instructions.

You must report interest on savings and deposit accounts when it is credited to your account even though it has not been entered in your bank book. Interest represened by a bond coupon should be reported in the year when the coupon is due and payable even though you don't clip and cash it.

You can report the interest on Defense, War and Savings bonds in either of two ways.

First Way: Ignore the interest until you cash them, and then report as interest the entire difference between what you get and what you paid. This is the easier way.

Second Way: Report the interest each year as it accrues. The amount of accrued interest can be determined from the table on the back of the bond. It is the difference between what you paid and what you could cash the bond for on Dec. 31, 1954. Subtract from this any interest you reported from these bonds on previous returns, and report the rest this year. Once you start using this method, you cannot change without first getting permission from your District Director.

Tomorrow: Gains from sale or exchange of property.

Missing Man Says Story Was A Hoax

MANSFIELD, Ohio, Feb. 11—UP—Clayton Schindler of Mount Vernon, Ohio, missing since Jan. 31, arrived here Wednesday night and confessed to police his story of abduction by two men was a hoax.

Schindler, employed by a local transfer company, was missing when his abandoned truck and empty wallet were found near Bedford, Pa.

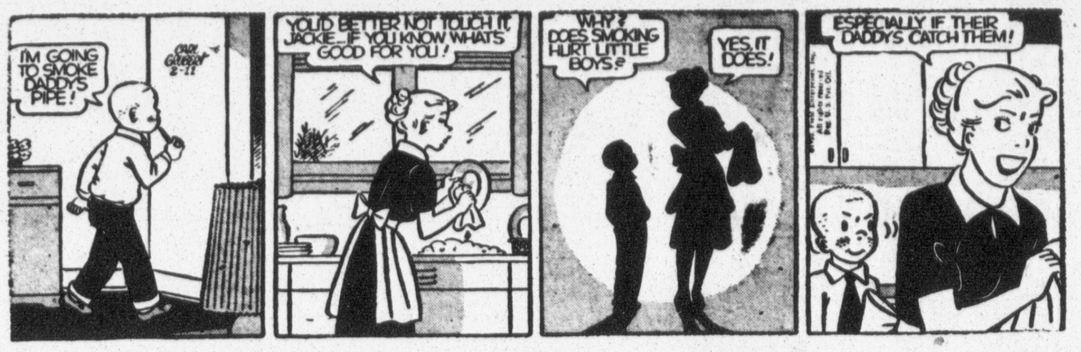

Monday he called Mrs. Elizabeth Etzwiler of Mount Vernon, who was caring for his three children, and said he had been kidnaped, driven to Snyder, Tex., but had escaped and was returning to Ohio.

But Wednesday night Schindler told Mansfield Detective Inspector Bruce Friday the kidnaping was a fabrication designed to cover up the fact that he had simply run away. Schindler said he left the truck, tricked up to show foul play, then hitch-hiked to Canton, Ohio and from there took a bus to Texas.

The trucker said he got a three-day job in Texas as a truck driver, but quit it when he became worried about his children, six, four and three years old.

The National Guard, orginally "militia," took its present name to honor Lafayette, French Garde Nationale chief.

Hagler Plea Set Mar. 23

AUSTIN, Feb. 11—UP—David F. Hagler Jr., charged in Oklahoma with the torch murder of an unidentified man, will appear before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on March 23 to plead for his freedom.

The Court received an appeal by the former asphalt executive Thursday and set the March date for arguments. Hagler made his appeal from Fort Worth, where he was denied a plea for freedom under a writ of habeas corpus. Gov. Allan Shivers has approved Hagler's extradition to Oklahoma.

Hagler has been charged with the murder of an unidentified man whose charred body was found in a smouldering red station wagon on a lonely road near Davis, Okla., on Oct. 10. The station wagon belonged to Hagler's ex-wife.

Account Split Won't Protect City's Money

LEWISVILLE, Tex., Feb. 11—UP—City Secretary Glenn Savage said Thursday a ruling of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. may cost the city more than $23,000.

The city had $33,634.67 in the First National Bank of Lewisville when it closed its doors Jan. 27, two days after the cashier E. R. (Jake) Wolters, 56, killed himself. A $250,000 shortage was found in his accounts.

Savage said the city kept its money in eight separate accounts so as to make sure all the accounts would be insured by the FDIC, which has a $10,000 limit.

But he said the FDIC ruled that all of the city's money would be treated as only one account, and therefore, if that ruling stands, the city will lose $23,634.67.

The city's attorney, Bruce Davis of Denton, Tex., said he has asked the FDIC in Washington to reverse its ruling but the Washington office will not answer him.

Neither Savage nor Davis would comment on what course the city might pursue if the ruling is not changed.

'Agitators' Rounded Up In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11—UP—At least eight suspected "foreign agitators" were rounded up by police who feared demonstrations or sabotage during U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's current good-will visit in Mexico.

A Mexico City newspaper reported that a total of 14 persons were jailed.

The arrests Thursday of the Puerto Rican Nationalists, Cubans and Chileans was "purely precautionary," police said. The eight men will be released Saturday after Nixon leaves for Guatemala.

Mexican authorities said they feared the "agitators" might attempt to set off anti-American demonstrations designed to embarrass Nixon. Some of the eight are suspected Communist agents, police said.

Among those known to be held were Juan Juarbe y Juarbe, identified as a top lieutenant of Puerto Rican Nationalist leader Pedro Albizu Campos; Luis O'Neal, Reynaldo Trilla and Juan Antonio Rodriguez, also Puerto Ricans.

Arrests were made following a raid on the home of Mrs. Albizu Campos, who lives in exile in Mexico City.

The newspaper Ultimas Noticias said a total of 14 persons were jailed, including nine Puerto Ricans, three Cubans, one Peruvian and a Venezuelan, but the newspaper identified none of them. Ultimas Noticias also reported the police seized in the raid "several pistols" and large quantities of Communist propaganda.
