Group still opposes waste site...

Borden County sale 'written off'

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

While officials with the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority say an earlier reported land sale in Borden County has "pretty much been written off," a group of Borden County residents are still taking steps to organize a group opposing a sale "just in case."

Borden County Judge Van York characterized the group's formation as "getting organized just in case we need to get organized."

Tuesday morning, Tom Blackburn, director of special projects for the authority, said that currently the authority isn't "negotiating with anyone" in Borden County for a land sale.

A landowner the agency had talked with has apparently been stalled in his sale attempt due to difficulty in obtaining all mineral rights.

Blackburn, speaking by telephone from his Austin office, characterized this land transaction as "pretty much written off.

"We're still interested in the area, but we have no leads in either Borden or Garza County right now," he said.

Officials and landowners in Borden County are still wary of the possibility, however, according to York.

He noted, however, that he did not expect the recently formed group to take action "unless it's needed."

If representatives of the state authority eventually did obtain Borden County land, York said the informal group could be quickly changed to an active organization.

"We haven't raised any money. We've just taken some steps so that if it's needed, we'll have something in place," York said.

As the top elected official officed in Borden County, he said he has helped coordinate the effort. "About all we've really done is to contact members of a group in Hudspeth County which opposed the location of a site there," he said.

State agency officials have since announced that Hudspeth County is no longer being considered. Problems with geology were cited as the reason.

York said Tuesday that one accomplishment of the opposing group in Hudspeth County was to bring in outside geologists who pointed out such problems to state officials.

"That's really the kind of thing we're proposing to do.

Gas tank explodes with fire

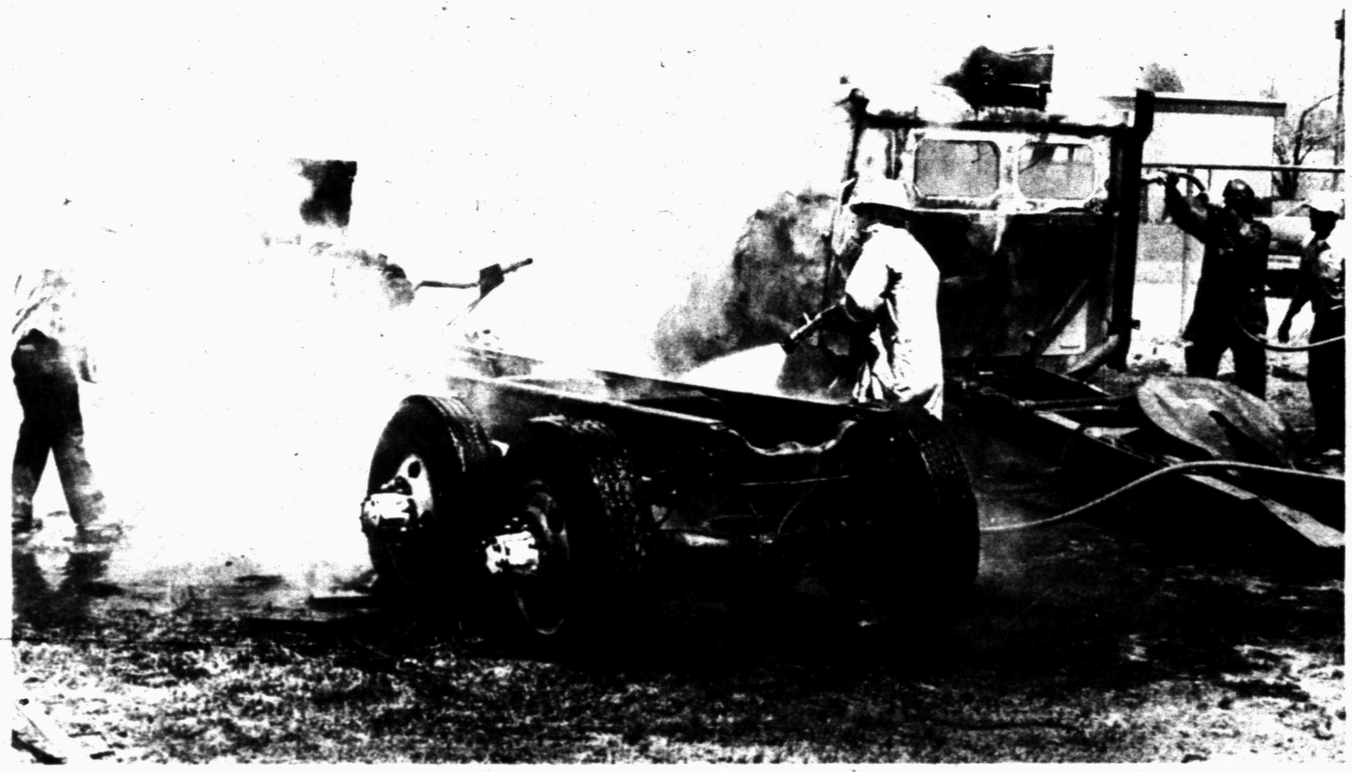

Two truck-tractors, parked inside a fenced yard area at Doyle's Engine Service, were involved in a fire and explosion Monday around 12:30 p.m. Monday.

The yard is located near the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 and Moncrief Ave.

Units of the Snyder fire department brought the blaze under control but not before both trucks had sustained extensive damage.

According to Fire Chief Terry McDowell, the blaze appeared to have been ignited by an employee of the engine service using a cutting torch near the trucks.

No injuries resulted from the blaze although at least one of the four fuel tanks on the two trucks exploded during the fire.

Consumer prices increase slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong food price declines overcame the first gasoline price hike in six months to send consumer prices up just 0.2 percent last month, the government said today.

It was the smallest overall gain in three months.

The lion's share of the credit went to cheaper meat and poultry, eggs and fresh fruit.

In all, food prices were down for the first time since last July and were more than enough to counteract a 1.0 percent jump in gasoline prices.

For the first three months of the year, consumer prices have risen 5.0 percent, calculated annually, and were right on target with many economists' predictions that inflation for all of 1984 will be in the range of 5 percent. Others, however, cite the economy's recent strong rebound and say they fear that the pace of inflation could step up later in the year.

Prices had risen 3.8 percent for all of last year, the smallest gain in more than a decade.

The best news for consumers in today's report was that the devastating effects of last year's severe weather on food prices have dissipated, as has the influence of a deadly chicken influenza.

Price decreases were posted for beef, down 0.5 percent; pork, off 0.4 percent; and poultry, down 1.0 percent. Eggs prices plummeted 12.1 percent while fresh fruit prices fell 2.2 percent. Vegetable prices, however, rose 0.1 percent.

As for energy, the Labor Department said the bad news on gasoline was moderated by a 5.0 percent drop in fuel oil prices, which had soared 10 percent in January and February, and by an accompanying drop in natural gas prices.

Despite the 1.0 percent jump in gasoline prices, those costs are still 12.4 percent below their peak of three years ago.

In all, March's increase in the price measure was half the 0.4 percent seasonally adjusted advance in February and one-third the 0.6 percent of January.

Detailing the March Consumer Price Index, the department gave this breakdown of its calculations:

—Transportation costs overall soared 0.9 percent, boosted by the higher gasoline prices and by higher costs for new and used cars.

Competitors look forward to State UIL

The State UIL Literary Meet begins Wednesday in Austin and Snyder High School qualifiers are preparing this week for respective competitions.

None of Snyder's entries — including the cast of the one-act play — will compete until Friday. The local group is expected to leave for Austin Thursday afternoon.

Dana Parham, Kathy Norris and Wendy Hodge will all be representing SHS in individual competitions Friday.

Parham qualified for State by taking first place in the poetry reading event at the regional contests in Brownwood April 15. Hodge was also a first place qualifier after taking first place in the regional headline writing competition.

Kathy Norris will also be entered as an alternate qualifier in the prose reading event.

The poetry interpretation and prose reading contests are scheduled to begin Friday morning with journalism contests set to begin at 5 p.m. the same day.

Members of the award winning cast of the SHS Drama Department's production of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" will also be in competition Friday.

The Class AAAA One-Act Play contest begins at 4 p.m.

It was not known Tuesday morning when the SHS production would be scheduled. There are eight plays in the finals and they will be spaced at 50 minute intervals beginning at 4 p.m.

The SHS players will be appearing at the finals for the 15th time since the mid-1960's.

State athletic events in Austin slated next week with the Lady Tiger golf team set to tee-off for the first round of their state tournament at 8 a.m. May 3. Local track qualifier Karlene Thompson is scheduled to compete in the triple jump May 4.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "My wife and I have an understanding. If I don't like the way she does things, I can do them myself."

We noticed in yesterday's business news that Purolator Inc. is asking its shareholders to approve a reorganization plan and a name change.

It's probably a good thing, and reminded us of an incident that occurred in Snyder a couple of years ago.

Purolator is a diverse company that includes express delivery service as well as automotive products. Snyder residents regularly see company delivery and armored trucks making stops at Snyder businesses and financial institutions.

Several firms in Snyder also sell the well-known brand of oil filters and related products. Once such firm is McCormick Marketing Inc. who was sent some advertising caps with the Purolator logo.

One day Junior McCormick was wearing one of the caps when he made a trip to one of the local discount department stores. Junior noticed an unusually familar greeting when he entered the front door.

"Just a minute, sir, and I'll get it," said the assistant manager.

Still not realizing what was about to happen, Junior continued on to the rear of the store. About that time, the assistant manager ran up and handed him two large bank-type bags.

"What are these?" McCormick asked.

"Today's run," the manager responded.

"Who do you think I am," Junior inquired.

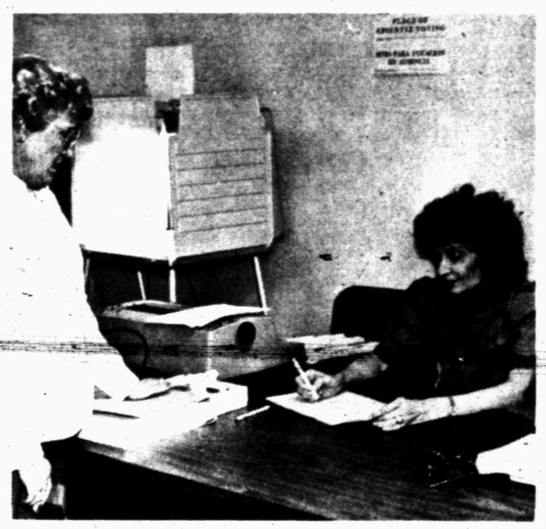

"You are the Purolator Courier man aren't you?"

Speaking of business news, we liked the concise way the president of Cincinnati Microwave reported to stockholders recently.

Fearful that annual meetings were dragging on a bit too long, he picked up the pace by offering a succinct history of the firm which makes a radar detector.

It read: "The earth cooled. The dinosaurs ruled the earth, died and became oil. In 1973, the Arabs cut off that oil. The U.S. created the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, and the Escort came into being. Are there any questions?"

A. — Local courthouse officials say yes. They note, however, that candidates are required to take the signs down after the election or they become liable for a fine.

In Brief

Postal talks are underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of the nation's two largest postal unions declared today that "there will be no givebacks" as negotiations began on a labor contract with the U.S. Postal Service.

Moe Biller, president of the 320,000-member American Postal Workers Union, and Vincent Sombrotto, head of the 200,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers, criticized statements by the Postal Service Board of Governors indicating that the independent government agency would take a tough stand on wage and other economic issues.

Witnesses testify in trial

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Attorneys prosecuting former inmate Eroy Brown have promised "new scientific evidence" will be presented today by either a ballistics expert or pathologist to prove Brown is guilty of murder.

Brown, 33, has admitted killing Texas Department of Corrections farm manager Billy Max Moore and Ellis Unit Warden Wallace Pack in April 1981. But he has said he thought the men planned to torture him and he killed them in self-defense.

Brown was tried twice on capital murder charges in the Pack slaying. The first trial ended in a hung jury and a second jury in Galveston acquitted Brown.

Charges in the Moore case were reduced from capital murder to murder by Walker County District Attorney Frank Blazek. The case is being tried in Edinburg on a change of venue.

Car said stolen Monday

Snyder police were searching Monday for a car reported stolen from the parking lot of a local restaurant Monday evening.

According to reports, a 1978 Chevrolet Monte Carlo owned by Marcus McGlouthlin, an employee of the Shack Restaurant, was stolen shortly before 9 p.m.

Witnesses reported seeing an unidentified man get in the car and drive off. Police did not locate the vehicle inside the city Monday.

Investigation of the case is continuing and descriptions of the missing car have been sent out to area law enforcement agencies.

WTC energy use due look

Results of a recent "energy audit" of facilities on the Western Texas College campus will be discussed at a called meeting of the WTC board of trustees Tuesday.

The meeting will begin at 5:45 p.m. in the college board room.

The audit was contracted by the board to identify areas of high energy use. In response to this, board members are expected to discuss energy-saving methods on campus.

Carriker slated at meeting

Steven Carriker of Roby, state representative for District 78 which includes Scurry County, will be the guest speaker Tuesday at a meeting of the Scurry County Task Force.

The session will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Snyder Savings and Loan.

Carriker is to discuss possible state legislation which would address the problem of alcohol and drug abuse.

School students to return

Snyder school children will report to classes as usual Wednesday as the Easter holiday ends here.

Snyder teachers and administrators returned to work Tuesday for in-service activities.

In addition, Ira school students will return to class Wednesday. Hermleigh schools reopened Tuesday morning.

Jumpathon set Wednesday

A jumpathon to aid the American Heart Association of Snyder is to begin at noon Wednesday in the gymnasium at Western Texas College.

Event sponsors hope to maintain a continuous effort through midnight Sunday — a total of 108 hours.

Defense nixes 'Twilight Zone' ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge's decision that three filmmakers should stand trial in the deaths of three actors on the set of the movie "Twilight Zone" could set a dangerous precedent that would send "thousands of innocent people" to jail, a defense attorney says.

But Municipal Court Judge Brian Crahan's ruling Monday in the deaths of Vic Morrow and two children, killed when a helicopter crashed amid special effects explosions, won praise from a lawyer for the family of one of the victims.

"There are certain limits beyond which none of us have the right to go for reality and authenticity. Just because we are portraying the war doesn't mean we have to kill anybody," said attorney Jerome Berchin, who has sued the moviemakers and Warner Bros. for $200 million in the death of Renee Chen, 6.

Crahan ordered director John Landis, special effects coordinator Paul Stewart and helicopter pilot Dorcey Wingo to stand trial on charges of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of Morrow, 53, Renee Chen, and Myca Dinh Le, 7. However, the judge dismissed charges against two other filmmakers, associate producer George Folsey and unit production chief Dan Allingham.

The deaths occurred July 23, 1982, when the helicopter crashed on the three actors during filming of a Vietnam War scene about 40 miles north of Los Angeles. The scene was being filmed for the first of four segments, each with a different director, that made up "Twilight Zone: The Movie," which was released last summer.

Landis' attorney, Harland Braun, maintained that the accident was caused by misfiring of special effects explosions by a worker who was not charged. He said Crahan's reasoning means that "if someone under you does something wrong .... you are responsible for that."

Such reasoning "would make Ronald Reagan responsible for the 200 people (U.S. servicemen) killed in Beirut," Braun told reporters after the ruling.

"If this principle is established ... our whole system will collapse. Thousands and thousands of innocent people will be in jail," he said.

The attorney said he would ask a Superior Court judge to set aside Crahan's decision, which followed a lengthy preliminary hearing that ended April 9. Any trial would be held in Superior Court.

Crahan said evidence indicated that Landis, Stewart and Wingo were criminally responsible for the circumstances leading to the fatal crash.

At Wit's End

by Erma Bombeck

The trouble with raising kids is there is no instant gratification. Just when you're sailing along and you feel it's all worthwhile you get a plastic ice scraper from your 27-year-old son for Mother's Day that he picked up free at the gas station.

You get plain tired and wonder how much longer you have to hang on.

We all need stories with "happy endings" to sustain us. A mother in California said recently she got a note from her son that said, "I appreciate you. I know I have contributed to your headaches."

Bingo! A year and a half ago, according to his mother, he barely spoke English. (Yeah, man!) He was going to surf as a profession, had been asked to leave three schools, was involved in alcohol and drugs and was neither moral nor immoral, he was amoral (he made his own rules).

Work and patience turned him around and today he's in school and is a caring human being.

The other letter is from a "Carrier" of parental frustration who has seen the light. She wrote, "My mother never turned to drink. No one could save her from chocolate, but I couldn't blame her either. I was the child who anounced at 7:15 on a Monday morning Sister Margaret James wanted 47 pairs of used nylons for an art project.

"I was the adolescent who yelled, 'I hate you!' because I was not allowed to hitchhike 65 miles in December and sleep at a rock concert where the proceeds were going to help hippies in cirsis.

"I was the new driver in the house who honestly felt that a dollar's worth of gas was reimubrsement for the Saturdays spent cruising every shopping center mall in the county.

"I was the young adult leaving home to experience life on my own to follow a boyfriend 1500 miles, and 14 months later return to the bosom of my family, using their car, leaving my wet towels on the floor and monopolizing the telephone.

"The vicious threat of my mother has been partially realized: 'May you have twins just like yourself.' I am now the mother who contemplated breaking my child's legs when my husband announced, 'We'll get a dog as soon as the baby can walk.' I used to be articulate. I call dogs doggies and actually excuse myself to 'potty' in a group of adults.

"I live in fear that the punk look will still be with us when my daughter is old enough to date. I don't know how my mother stood it."

I'm going to keep these two letters handy. I wouldn't be surprised if I reread them twice a week ... just to keep going.

Boss tells of call made by Bower

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — A telephone call to one of the four men slain at an aircraft hangar was made by Lester Leroy Bower Jr., according to testimony from the defendant's employer.

Bower, a chemical salesman for Thompson-Haywood Chemical Co. of Dallas, made the calls from the Dallas office and charged them to a company credit card, Dennis Payne testified Monday.

Bower is being tried in the Oct. 8 slayings of Bob G. Tate, 51, a Denison building contractor; Philip Good, 29, a Grayson County sheriff's deputy; Jerry Brown, 52, a Sherman interior designer; and Ronald Mayes, 39, a former Sherman police officer.

The men were found shot to death with a .22-caliber weapon in a hangar at Tate's B&B Ranch, northeast of Sherman.

Bower killed the men to obtain an ultralight aircraft, which was missing from the hangar, prosecutors allege.

Bower placed the calls on Sept. 30, Oct. 3 and Oct. 7, the day before the four men were killed, according to Payne's testimony. The number called, according to a Sherman telephone book, was that of Good.

Relatives of the four victims were in the crowded courtroom Monday morning as Bower, after hearing the indictment read, pleaded innocent to the charges.

If convicted, he could receive the death penalty.

Bobbie Tate, Tate's widow said she and her son went to the hangar after Tate failed to return.

"I saw his body but didn't know who it was," she said, wiping away tears. "I started crying and hollering."

Lead prosecutor Stephen Davidchik waived his opening argument and called sheriff's deputy Robert Garland as his first witness.

The deputy said he arrived at the ranch at about 9 p.m. and found four men dead in an airplane hangar.

Garland, using a sketch showing the location of the bodies, described where he found nine .22-caliber shell casings, blood stains and cigarette butts.

Bower told investigators he had called Good to discuss the sale of an ultralight, investigators said.

Struggling for a top

The bidding of today's hand is quite simple. No matter what system you use, South will play three no-trump. We have shown how we would get there.

West makes his normal lead of the queen of hearts. Since there is no reason to duck, you win with your ace, and note that you have nine sure tricks, and a possible tenth trick in spades.

Only match point players should worry about that extra trick, but lots of you readers are match point players. Even those of you who aren't might be interested in that extra trick and the best play for it. It is a cinch if East holds the spade ace, but an alert declarer can find ways to get that overtrick even if West holds his nibs.

South starts by running off his four clubs.

By this time East has discarded a heart and a diamond, and West has let a diamond go. Now South runs his three diamonds. West lets his 10 of spades go.

Now comes the sure-thing play for 10 tricks. Dummy's king of hearts is cashed. When East follows, South knows that West is left with two high hearts and two spades, and that East is left with four spades.

Now it is a simple matter to lead dummy's last heart. West is caught in an end play.

Suppose East holds the spade ace. West must lead a spade after taking his second heart winner, and South's king will still be the tenth trick.

Beta Sigma Phi meets at Country Club

Members of Beta Sigma Phi met April 17 at the Snyder Country Club.

Gay Idom presented the program entitled "Body Design." She used pictures to illustrate body type control points and ways of flattering the figure.

She said that figure assets are secrets of successful dressing because one can use them to draw the eye to the area that is the most flattering. The idea will convey an overall positive impression.

Members participated in the program by analysing their own body type control points.

Following the program, president Dena Ellis conducted the business meeting. Special reports on the agenda were heard concerning the Texas Beta Sigma Phi convention in Houston on June 22-24 and the state project. Members voted to support the proposal for the Ronald McDonald House in Houston. The facility is used for families of sick children who are in Houston for medical attention.

Jean Rico gave a report on the recent Cancer Drive in Snyder, one of the chapter's local service projects.

Beverly Mitchell gave a report on the upcoming Founder's Day celebration. The banquet will be Saturday evening, April 28, at 6:30 at the Snyder Country Club.

The traditional celebration will this year honor the 53-year history of the largest women's social, service and cultural organization in the world. Mrs. Mitchell will serve as chairman of the local Founder's Day activities.

Jacalyn Lowrance was hostess for the meeting and Mona Bryan received the hostess gift. The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Ellis with the Closing Ritual and Mizpah.

Dear Abby

Texas Millionaire Admits Only That He's Doing O.K.

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago when my wife and I were divorced, she tried to clean me out. She said I was a "millionaire." What is a millionaire? Does having more than a million dollars in total assets make me a millionaire? Or do I have to have a net worth of more than a million dollars?

I have no one to discuss my finances with. At present I don't have a CPA. And when I did have one, I never disclosed my total situation because I was afraid if he knew how much I had he might charge me more for his services.

Since my divorce I have accumulated quite a lot of property. I'm not bragging, but I haven't done too bad for a country boy who never went to college. I'm still single and plan to stay that way unless I meet a woman who doesn't judge a man by how much money he has. I drive a 10-year-old car and prefer to keep a low profile.

Thanks for any advice you can give me, but most of all I want to know if I'm a millionaire.

DOING OK IN TEXAS

DEAR DOING OK: According to the dictionary, a millionaire is one whose wealth is estimated at a million or more dollars, so you qualify.

My advice: Raise your profile a little, enjoy the fruits of your labor and use everything you have going for you—including your money.

P.S. If you want to withhold information from your CPA, that's your business. But don't try to fool the IRS—that's their business.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think that after being a house-guest for a week, it is proper to make a long-distance telephone call saying "thanks" in lieu of a bread-and-butter letter?

It seems to me that considering the work and expense involved for the hostess, a guest should take the time to write an expression of thanks.

I will bow to your decision, before condemning.

ASKING TOO MUCH?

DEAR ASKING: The written thank-you note is without question the most elegant and mannerly way to express gratitude. But don't condemn any method of conveying thanks—including the telephone call. It gets the job done.

P.S. Whatever happened to that charming custom of saying it with flowers?

DEAR ABBY: Your recent column on prescription drugs was a real service to everyone—except nurses!

I'm so tired of hearing, "Ask your doctor or pharmacist." I'd like you to know that nurses are also highly informed sources who are frequently consulted about drugs. And they should be. The Gallup organization reports that 32 percent of the average nurse's work time is spent on medication-related functions. Besides at work, nurses are constantly asked about drugs by neighbors, friends and relatives. And did you know that nurses can prescribe drugs in 13 states?

Abby, please acknowledge nurses as another important part of the health care team.

TERRY MASON, R.N., NORWALK, CONN.

DEAR MS. MASON: Acknowledged. And thanks for the needling. I needed that.

DEAR ABBY:
You ask where laddies put their nose,
When kissing pretty lasses,
I'll tell you my sad tale of woe,
Right on my nice clean glasses.

Convicted killer in drug-induced state

HOUSTON (AP) — Convicted killer Karla Faye Tucker had been drinking, injecting drugs every two to three hours and hadn't slept in three days when she hacked two people to death with a pickax, a psychiatrist testified.

"I think she was in a state of temporary psychosis due to injection of speed," Dr. Barbara Felkins testified Monday during the punishment phase of Ms. Tucker's trial.

"She was not aware that her actions were doing something that heinous to someone. The manner in which those people were killed goes along with a frenzied state," Ms. Felkins said.

The same jury of eight women and four men that last week convicted Ms. Tucker of capital murder in the June 13 slaying of Jerry Lynn Dean must decide whether she receives life in prison or death by injection.

Ponder use of crop residues

How should crop residues be best used? What should we do with crop residues? This seemingly simple question is probably one of the most difficult to answer that relate to crop production.

According to Terry Hefner of the Soil Conservation Service, some people will answer by saying, "Don't waste crop residues by leaving thom on the soil, feed them to livestock."

Other will say "The soil needs the nutrients and organic matter of the residues in order to remain productive. The residues should be plowed under." Others want to protect the soil from wind and water erosion so they leave as much residue as possible on top of the ground, not plowed under. And still others think of residues in terms of their potential value for supplying energy for agricultural or non-agricultural purposes.

Probably the oldest use of crop residues is to enrich the soil. Long before man tilled the soil dead plants would fall back to the ground, slowly decay and return their nutirents to the soil. Where this has been happening for centuries the soil is rich.

About ½ of small grain, corn or sorghum plants are crop residues, says Mrs. Hefner. These and other crop residues contain the 16 nutrients essential for plant growth. Carbon, hydrogen and oxygen are obtained from the air and water. The other 13 elements are gradually released in plant-available form as the crop residue decomposes. If the residues are removed, these elements must be supplied in some other form.

Recently crop residue has been viewed as a potential off-the-farm resource by energy and industrial groups. Residues can be converted to energy through several routes.

It has been estimated that if all crop residues were used for energy, they could supply as much as two percent of the current U. S. energy demand. Since the agricultural segment uses about three percent of all U. S. energy this would seem to go a long way toward making agriculture nearly energy self-sufficient. But things are not so simple.

First, all residue cannot safely be removed from fields. Second, if the residues were removed, more fertilizers would have to be applied to make up for the lost nutrients. It has been estimated that nitrogen fertilizer rates would have to be increased by 88 percent, phosphorus by 52 percent, and potassium by 160 percent. Obviously, manufacturing this much more fertilizer would require large amounts of fertilizer material and energy, greatly reducing the amount of net energy that could be gained from the use of crop residues.

Let's think about crop residues in terms of value for erosion control. Residues on the surface absorb the impact of raindrops, preventing surface sealing of the soil, increased water runoff, and eventually erosion due to runoff. Residues also curtail or eliminate the danger of wind erosion. Various forms of tillage have been devised to keep as much crop residue on the surface as possible, such as stubble-mulch tillage and conservation tillage.

Farmers who are plagued by wind erosion and do not have enough residue on the soil surface can take steps to lesson the damage such as strip crops, rough tillage, or in special cases by planting wind breaks.

One of the more common uses for crop residues is for livestock feed. Residues are bulky to handle and contain relatively low nutrient value, but the development of new machinery has madi it possible to gather residues into large bales. And, of course, turning livestock into a field to clean up after it has been harvested has been practiced for years.

Some crop residues are being used as raw materials for the chemical industry, and possibly more will be used in the future. Plastics and pharmaceuticals are the major uses now. Corn cobs are being used as mild abrasives and polishes for some purpose, as an absorbant for some oil spills, and as a substrate for certain cosmetic powders.

The answer to the question, "What should be done with crop residues?" is not easy, and will possibly become more difficult in the future. Proper residue management must conserve soil, water and crop yields. Removal of residues may be feasible on some finer textured soils, and for certain specialized practices, such as where the removal of residues is desirable for weed control and the production of seed crops.

The wise use of crop residues means that the economic returns to the land must be sufficient, that there may be some help for our energy needs, and that our current feed and food production must continue to grow, at least as long as the world's population grows.

Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson was born in 1890.

Judge asked to nix execution

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge must decide whether to spare the life of a convicted killer sentenced to death for the 1979 slaying of a San Antonio convenience store clerk during a robbery that netted only a six-pack of beer.

Attorneys for Jesse de la Rosa filed a petition in U.S. District Court on Monday, just hours after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin voted 9-0 against blocking Friday's scheduled execution.

Attorney Ron Guyer said he still is confident his client will not be put to death.

"I'm still hopeful that a stay will be granted," said Guyer. "I expect to hear some word (from the U.S. District Court) ... no later than Wednesday."

He said appeals also are ready for consideration by the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans and by the U.S. Supreme Court in Washington if the lower court denies a stay

Anti-porn law off to court?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An ordinance that would make distributors of violent pornography subject to sex discrimination lawsuits handily won approval from the city council, but even supporters say they doubt it will survive court challenges.

The council voted 24-5 in favor of the ordinance Monday night, and Mayor William H. Hudnut III, who has expressed his support, was expected to sign the legislation quickly.

More than 300 people attended the meeting, most of them supporters of the ordinance from the Indianapolis Baptist Temple, which is led by the Rev. Greg Dixon, a former national officer of the conservative Moral Majority.

By defining violent pornography as a form of sex discrimination, the law would make distributors subject to civil rights lawsuits.

"I'm afraid it won't hold up in court, but at least we have opened a door so the public is aware of the effects," said temple member Marjorie Nackenhorst before the vote.

The District of Columbia was established in 1790 as the permanent capital of the United States.

Diabetes bike-a-thon slated here Sunday

The Scurry County chapter of the American Diabetes Association will sponsor its annual bike-a-thon from 2-5 p.m. April 29 at County Road 2763 and Round Top Road.

Participants will be competing for a host of prizes. On the local level, the Snyder Lions Club will present a 10-speed bicycle to the person raising the most funds.

Several other prizes will also be given locally including a $50 gift certificate.

The top money gatherer in the state will receive a vacation for two to Disneyland.

Entry forms may be picked up only at the following locations: stores around the square, Snyder National Bank and Lotaburger.

Parents must sign the sponsor sheet for participants under 18 years of age or they can not ride in the bike-a-thon.

WTC aerobics to begin soon

By now, everyone has at least heard the word "aerobic" and knows that it is the "in" thing, Patrice McKinney, physical education instructor at Western Texas College, says.

"However, not everyone knows exactly what it means to be aerobically fit or what a truly effective program should entail," she adds. McKinney will be teaching three aerobics classes plus an aquarobics class at WTC in summer classes and will gear the classes to fit the needs of a variety of students.

Aerobic Activities will be an individualized approach based upon the participants' age, health, present fitness level and other considerations," she said. "The Hi-Level Aerobics class is for those already well into aerobics. For those who prefer not to 'travel in the fast lane,' aquarobics offers a relaxing alternative to the more rigorous aerobics classes.

Aerobic fitness classes are designed to promote and improve cardiopulmonary (heart/-lungs) functioning, flexibility and muscoskeletal endurance, the instructor points out. The format follows four phases: warm-up, aerobic segment, cool down, and strengthening and conditioning exercises executed to music.

Mrs. McKinney holds certifications from several reputable organizations including the prestigous Aerobics Institute in Dallas founded by Dr. Kenneth Cooper, the "father of aerobics." She serves as clinician for Aerobic Fitness, Inc., an instructor training organization which holds clinics in practically every state in the United States as well as Canada and the Philippines.

She is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine, International Dance Exercise Association, Aerobic Fitness Association of America, TAPHERD, and the Governor's Commission on Physical Fitness. She is a veteran runner and marathoner currently in training for triathlons.

Persons wishing more information about aerobics and aquarobics are invited to contact McKinney. Summer school registration will be held May 29, with classes starting May 30.

Dogs maul 6-year-old

AUSTIN (AP) — A 6-year-old boy who apparently climbed over a fence to retrieve a ball was mauled to death Monday by the neighbor's dogs, officers said.

The body of Jacob Hoffer, the son of Tony and Linda Hoffer, was found about 8 p.m. in the fenced back yard of a home adjoining the Hoffer home on the rear in south Austin.

Two blood-stained dogs, a Saint Bernard and a pit bull, were fenced in the back yard where the body was found. A small white ball was found next to the dead boy's hand.

"He loved to play ball," said a man who identified himself only as the boy's grandfather. "He was on a soccer team and was always playing. Whenever it would go over a neighbor's fence while he and his friends were playing he would just climb over to get it."

Travis County Sheriff's Deputy Curtis Weeks said the boy suffered massive chest and arm injuries. He said the child had been dead several hours before being found by his family.

Borden group forms 'in case'

To bring in outside experts to look at the situation in Borden County.

"To give us good arguments as to why a dump isn't right for this area."

Regarding this, he said the group has discussed contacting attorneys, engineers and geologists.

"We've got the names of the people that helped the Hudspeth group, and if we need to, we're ready to contact them," York said.

But he added, "Right now this is only in the grass roots stages."

Blackburn said the search for a prospective site still included land in far South Texas, when the agency has a signed agreement to purchase land near Asherton in Dimmitt County.

"We'd like to find a potential site in North-Central Texas and in West Texas. We're still looking but as of today we have no good prospects," he said.

Mrs. Sleeper selected outstanding

ALPINE--Kathy Sleeper of Snyder was named the Outstanding Elementary Education Major during Sul Ross State University's annual awards night activities April 16.

Mrs. Sleeper, the daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sleeper of Snyder, is in the process of completing her elementary school certification this spring.

She holds her bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University and completed her master of education degree at Sul Ross last summer. She has maintained a 4.0 grade point average in her graduate work at SRSU.

Church incident said cleared up

Snyder police report clearing a recent misdemeanor criminal mischief incident involving the local Episcopal Church building and began investigating two other misdemeanor complaints Monday.

Detectives reported identifing two juvenile suspects Monday in the vandalism of St. John's Episcopal Church reported April 19.

According to investigators, the parents of the suspects have agreed to restitution for the broken windows and no charges are expected.

Vickie Clinkenbeard of 2704 Ave. U. filed a misdemeanor theft complaint with city police at 10:44 a.m. Monday.

She told investigators that her purse, containing personal papers and a small amount of cash, had been stolen from her car while it was parked at the post office earlier in the morning.

In other action, city officers jailed two subjects for public intoxication Monday evening.

DPS vehicle glass broken

Snyder-based Department of Public Safety state highway patrolman Kirby McCravey filed a misdemeanor vandalism report with city authorities at 7:35 p.m. Monday.

He reported that the driver's side window of his patrol unit, owned by the State of Texas, had been broken out while the car was parked at his residence sometime earlier in the day.

Value of damage to the vehicle was listed at $100.

Tigers needing strength at bats against Eagles

PECOS -- The score may not be 12-11 as it was the first game, but Coach Albert Lewis does expect some scoring when his Snyder Tigers engage in battle with Pecos here tonight.

Game time is 7:30 this evening. Snyder is 14-5 and 6-0 in conference play. Pecos is 13-9 and 5-1.

"I don't anticipate 10 or 11 runs for each team. But I don't think either pitcher will shut the other out. We don't expect Paul (pitcher Paul Tate) to keep them from hitting but we hope we can keep them down a little bit," said Lewis.

Snyder defeated the Eagles 12-11 earlier this season after Pecos blew an 11-4 lead.

Lewis didn't say so, but it is apparent he believes that if Snyder's pitching and defense can do a good job, the Tigers will win tonight's game as well. He's still elated over his team's hitting this season.

"Out of nine guys, seven have driven in 10 or more runs this season, led by Charlie Bollinger's 24. That's being consistant, top to bottom," noted the coach. "You know, even with the exceptional (state championship) team we had last year, we weren't hitting the ball as well."

Snyder is rapping at a .352 pace for the season, jumping up to .464 in District 2-4A play. Chris Sanders leads with a .615 district average.

Several players have hitting streaks going. Bollinger, for instance, has hit in 10 straight games, and Bobby Velasquez in nine.

On the hill for Snyder tonight will be Tate, a senior right-hander who has a 1.05 district ERA (1.40 for the season). Tate has a 6-1 record this year; 4-0 in loop competition.

In other games today, Fort Stockton (6-10, 1-5) is at Lamesa (9-12, 2-4) and Andrews (18-4, 3-3) is at Monahans (7-9, 1-5).

Sutcliffe holds down Texas' Rangers, 3-1

CLEVELAND (AP) - Cleveland Indians' right-hander Rick Sutcliffe figures he and his manager, Pat Corrales, both earned their money during a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"I don't like coming out of ballgames," said Sutcliffe, who was pulled from Monday's game with a 2-0 lead, two outs in the eighth inning and Texas runners at first and third. "But I get paid to pitch. Pat gets paid to manage. We both did our jobs today."

Reliever Ernie Camacho came on to surrender a run-scoring single to Mickey Rivers before notching his third save.

"Shutouts don't mean anything to me," Sutcliffe said. "I don't have that kind of ability. I just want to win.

"I don't care if you have Sandy Koufax or Bob Feller coming out of the bullpen. I still don't want to come out of a game."

Corrales, however, did not hesitate in calling on Camacho after Sutcliffe gave up a fielder's choice grounder to Ned Yost and a pinch single to Bobby Jones in the eighth, even though Yost was the first Texas runner to get past first base.

"I know he (Sutcliffe) had a shutout going," Corrales said. "But if Rivers gets on base against him, I've got to bring Ernie into a real mess. I wanted to give Ernie some breathing room."

Sutcliffe, 3-1, gave up six hits in 7 2-3 innings, striking out four while not walking a batter.

"I'm trying to become a little more consistent. By cutting down on walks, I can do that."

Charlie Hough, 1-2, went the distance, giving up eight hits as Texas lost for only the second time in its last seven outings.

The Indians loaded the bases with one out but failed to score in the third inning, but then scored twice in the fifth.

Otis Nixon walked, was sacrificed to second by Brett Butler and scored on Tony Bernazard's triple to right center. Julio Franco followed with a double down the left field line, scoring Bernazard.

"He (Hough) got two pitches up - the one to Bernazard for the triple and the one on the ball Franco hit down the line," said Yost, the Rangers' catcher. "He changed speeds on the knuckleball and threw the ball well. He got his fastball over for strikes when he had to."

In the eighth, Franco singled, stole second and scored an insurance run on Andre Thornton's bloop single to center.

"We just didn't get going after Sutcliffe," said Texas Manager Doug Rader. "He pitched a good ballgame."

Dodgers edge Houston, 2-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Veteran Dodgers' right-hander Bob Welch says that when he gets his rhythm and his curveball working right, the combination can be tough on other teams.

After losing to Houston, 3-0, last week with his curve working erratically, Welch sharpened up the breaking ball Monday and came away with a 2-1 victory over the Astros to give the Dodgers their 10th win in their last 13 games.

Welch scattered eight hits and struck out five in going the distance.

"I thought Bobby pitched well both games, but he was consistently strong tonight," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda.

"He was throwing his curveball for strikes and he was keeping his fastball down. When Welch does that, he's going to be effective, very effective," Lasorda said.

The game was rematch of last week's contest that matched Welch, 2-2, and Astros left-hander Bob Knepper 2-2.

The Astros scored their only run in the first inning as Kevin Bass rapped a single, stole second and scored on Jose Cruz' double. After Jerry Mumphrey singled, the Dodgers got out of the inning by turning Ray Knight's grounder into a double play.

"I thought they might have had me in the some trouble right there," Welch said. "But I was able to get my rhythm going, and just got stronger and stronger."

"The time to get Welch was early and we didn't do it," said Houston Manager Bob Lillis, who saw his club's two-game winning streak snapped. "He was able to get out of trouble in the first inning, and he got tougher and tougher.

With the first inning out of the way, Mike Marshall tied the score in the second with his fifth home run of the season and his second in three games.

"I was just happy to hit it," said Marshall, "especially off Knepper because he's such an outstanding pitcher. Knepper's tough. I'll tell you that. Maybe his record hasn't shown it the last couple years, but he's one outstanding pitcher.

"Bob Welch just pitched a great game or we wouldn't have beaten him."

Hermleigh plans Pee Wee relays

HERMLEIGH -- The Hermleigh School Parent's Club will sponsor a pee wee track meet beginning 9:30 Monday morning at the track behind Hermleigh School.

There will be no admission charge, and concessions will include hamburgers, nachos and homemade ice cream. Proceeds from the concession stand will used towards airconditioning the Hermleigh school.

Youngsters from kindergarten through fifth grade will compete. Schools involved are Hermleigh, Hobbs and Highland. Over 140 kids are expected to compete. Ribbons will be awarded.

Wiman successful at Waco tourney

WACO -- Snyder's Shanda Wiman won the championship in Girls 16 and under singles at the Waco Sunkist Invitational Junior Open here recently.

In winning the event, she now qualifies for championship tournament play.

She defeated Caroline Manassian of Corpus Christi by default; Jamie Blevins of Lufkin, 6-2, 6-4; Julie Markwardt of Richardson, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-3; Cindy Bonilla of Corpus Christi, 6-0, 6-4; Becky Gordon of Hughes Springs, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-3; and Kelly Scallon of Beaumont in the finals, 6-2, 6-2.

Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler fought four times for the featherweight title. Pep won once by a decision, but Saddler knocked him out in the other three fights.

Steinkuhler hopes to play for Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) - Nebraska guard Dean Steinkuhler doesn't hesitate to tell anyone that he'd like to start his professional football career with the Houston Oilers.

"I really like it here," Steinkuhler said. "Houston would be a good place to live. I hope I can come down here."

Steinkuhler, winner of Outland Trophy and the Lombardi Award as college football's best lineman in 1983, and Florida linebacker Wilber Marshall were examined by the Oilers' team doctors Monday, the last day National Football League teams could bring in players for physicals.

"It was something that had to be done for the Oilers, a final check over. They want to make sure the player they get is in good physical condition. Hopefully, after this they'll want me more," Steinkuhler said.

Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzeg said no decision has been made about who will be the first player selected in the May 1 college draft.

"There's nothing new to report," Herzeg said, adding that he will talk with agents for Steinkuhler, Marshall and Michigan State linebacker Carl Banks.

The Oilers have the second pick in the draft behind New England, which already has signed Nebraska receiver Irving Fryar.

"I don't mind all the speculation," Steinkuhler said. "Actually, I'm enjoying it. It's a new experience for me. It's nice to be wanted."

And Steinkuhler didn't mind telling everyone what he wants.

"I think it was important that I show the Oilers that I'm interested in them because I am definitely interested," he said. "I think the Oilers are an up-and-coming team. I think they're going to be a very good team. They've got a new coach and a new staff, and things look very good for the future. I've been impressed with everyone I've met in the organization."

If the Oilers decide on Steinkuhler, he will be the third offensive lineman in a row they will have selected in the first round. They took guards Mike Munchak and Bruce Matthews the last two years.

"I think I'm still in the hunt as far as what players the Oilers are considering. If things don't work out, then it's been fun, anyway," he said.

Cougars pace all-SWC team

DALLAS (AP) - Three Houston golfers were unanimous choices for the 12-player All-Southwest Conference team.

They were Steve Elkington, John Slaughter and Billy Ray Brown. The only other unanimous selection to the team, chosen by the league's nine coahces, was Brandel Chamblee of Texas, last year's individual champion.

The other players voted to the team were Mike Swartz, Mike Grob and Sean Pappas of Arkansas, Phillip Parkins and Jorge Coghland of Texas A&M, Ronnie McDougal and Gary Webb of Texas, and Robert Myers of Baylor.

Arkansas' first-year coach Steve Loy was voted conference coach of the year after guiding the Razorbacks to a second-place finish.

NBA playoffs reach crucial time tonight

by The Associated Press

Boston, Milwaukee and New Jersey, which each lost the third game of its best-of-five National Basketball Association playoff series after winning the first two, get another chance to advance to the second round tonight.

The Celtics will be at Washington, which won Game 3 111-108 in overtime Saturday, while the Bucks are at Atlanta and the Nets host the defending champion Philadelphia 76ers. The Hawks stayed alive Saturday with a 103-94 triumph and the 76ers staved off elimination Sunday with a 108-100 decision.

In tonight's other games Utah is at Denver, Dallas at Seattle and Portland at Phoenix. The Nuggets, SuperSonics and Suns each won Game 3 at home for a 2-1 lead after splitting the first two games on the road.

Pacific Division champion Los Angeles swept Kansas City in three games, while the New York Knicks, leading Detroit 2-1, host the Pistons Wednesday night.

The upstart Nets, who won handily in the first two games of the series at Philadelphia, shrugged off suggestions by the 76ers that Sunday's loss would plant seeds of doubt and fear in underdog New Jersey.

"It was kind of unrealistic to think we'd sweep Philly three-to-zip," Nets forward Buck Williams. "No question the pressure is still on the 76ers. We're still up 2-1 and they're the defending champs. Coming into the series we had nothing to lose. Win, lose or draw, people were saying the 76ers are the ones who should win."

Washington, with the worst regular-season record among the 16 NBA playoff qualifiers, is living up to its reputation as one of the most physical teams in the league.

Celtics forward Cedric Maxwell predicted more rough stuff in Game 4.

But Boston star Larry Bird said the Celtics should advance if they stick to basketball instead of toughness.

Atlanta, 31-10 at home and 9-32 on the road during the regular season, is concentrating on beating the Bucks again at the Omni before worrying about how to beat them at Milwaukee.

"This gives us some momentum," Atlanta Coach Mike Fratello said. "We didn't have any before."

Utah, the Midwest Division champion, is in danger of being eliminated by the Nuggets, which finished 38-44 in the regular season. But the Jazz are now 0-4 in Denver this season, including Sunday's 121-117 defeat.

"Sure our backs are against the wall," Utah Coach Frank Layden said. "But we're not out of it yet."

Like Denver and New Jersey, Seattle and Phoenix both lead their series 2-1 against teams with better regular-season records.

But Suns Coach John MacLeod said it's no fluke that his team leads the Trail Blazers. Phoenix won its last six regular-season games to finish 41-41, while Portland was 47-31.

WTC athletes are recognized

Only a handful of awards were presented at the 1984 Western Texas College Sports Banquet held Monday evening.

Most coaches expressed the sentiments of women's basketball mentor Joe Cushing, who stated, "I don't have any MVP awards or anything because the things we accomplished we accomplished because we had a good team."

Team members from judo, rodeo, golf and basketball were introduced to the fans, as were the cheerleaders.

Several awards were given. Golf coach Dave Foster honored Mike Standly as Player of the Year and Clark Dennis as Freshman of the Year. Standly has signed with the University of Houston, this year's SWC champions. Dennis will not return to WTC for a second season. He has signed with Arkansas.

Melroy Butler was named Most Improved Player in men's basketball.

Special awards were presented to Gail Cushing by the WTC Booster Club and to Booster president and mayor Rod Waller by Dave Foster.

Larry Banks and Richie Fells were given special awards as co-captains of the men's basketball team and Banks received a framed letter stating he was selected as honorable mention All-American.

SJS Inc. to sponsor seminar on Host dry carpet cleaning

You are cordially invited to attend an informative seminar on carpet maintenance and The Host Dry Extraction Carpet Cleaning System in cooperation with SJS, Inc. Thursday, Apr. 26th, at the Scurry County Coliseum Room-A. The 2 ½ hour seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m., and last until 11:30 a.m.

SJS, Inc. strives to offer the best in supplies and equipment for the individual to perform professional quality workmanship. That is why Tommy Davis, owner of SJS, is sold on the Host System, and is offering this seminar. You can professionally clean your own carpets with Host.

During the seminar, a demonstration of the Host System on soiled carpet will be given with an explanation of carpet fibers used today, and why Host is more effective than wet cleaning methods. Plus, you will be shown how to maintain your carpet so it won't "ugly out" before it wears out. This seminar is advantageous for facility managers, professional contract cleaners, executive housekeepers, apartment or building owners/managers, and anyone who wants the investment they have placed in their carpet to last as long as possible.

Dry carpet cleaning is a new method of deep cleaning that is easy-to-use, economical and safe. The dry cleaner is a moist, biodegradable compound made of thousands of tiny sponges impregnated with a blend of water detergents and grease-cutting solvents.

The compound has the precise amount of moisture built in to remove the dirt. There is no danger of shrinking the carpet, no mildew problem and no waiting for it to dry.

Come learn the professional way to clean your own carpets with Host at the Host seminar SJS, Inc. is offering. Limited space is available in the seminar, so call by Wednesday noon to make your reservation at 573-3576, or come by 2210 25th St. for more information.

Is electricity running out?

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — By the 21st century, there may be scarcely enough electric power to satisfy peak demands, according to representatives of the nation's utilities.

A possible solution to the problem may be the zinc-chloride "flow" battery, says Jacob Jorne, a professor of chemical engineering at the University of Rochester.

Flow batteries store and supply energy. In load-leveling applications, giant flow battery plants could store energy produced by utilities during off-peak hours when rates are low, then supply the reserve power to meet surges in demand.

Initial testing has been successful, says Jorne, and when final testing is completed, large-scale production is expected to follow.

REMISSIONS

ATLANTA (AP) — Remissions can lead people with arthritis to develop a false sense of security, cautions the Arthritis Foundation.

People with arthritis often experience remissions, during which some or all of their symptoms may disappear, but usually temporarily and often without treatment. When this happens, many people think they are cured.

The symptoms may go away but the arthritis doesn't, says the foundation. It still may be present in the body or the joints, lying in a dormant or inactive state. Arthritis sufferers should continue to see the doctor and follow their prescribed treatment program during a remission.
