O.J. acquitted!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson was acquitted today of murdering his ex-wife and her friend, a suspense-filled climax to the courtroom saga that obsessed the nation. With two words, "not guilty," the jury freed the fallen sports legend to try to rebuild a life thrown into disgrace.

Sobs could be heard in the courtroom as the verdicts, acquitting Simpson of both first- and second-degree murder, were read. Simpson hugged his attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr.

Simpson's ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and her friend Ronald Goldman, 25, were slain June 12, 1994.

The curious throngs and an army of media began arriving at the courthouse early today, while police went on tactical alert to brace for possible trouble in the streets.

News helicopters roared outside. Barricades blocked the street. In the courthouse lobby, hundreds of people vied for the few precious public seats in the courtroom. As their lottery numbers were pulled, the lucky few cheered.

They came to take their place in history, to experience the verdict of the century.

It came Monday without warning. As the judge brought in the jury, two-thirds of the hottest seats in town were empty, two of the leading attorneys in the case weren't even present, and most of the media were upstairs in the press room.

"Is that correct?" Ito asked the forewoman, a black woman in her early 50s who was chosen by her colleagues last week after just three minutes.

"Yes," she said.

Jaws dropped. There were gasps in the courtroom. Simpson appeared stunned, as did his attorney, Carl Douglas, a second-stringer on the legal team assigned the mundane task of sitting next to Simpson during testimony readbacks.

"Surprise doesn't begin to describe my feelings," Douglas said afterward.

Prosecutor Christopher Darden was there, but Marcia Clark wasn't.

Darden, asked if he could believe the rapid end to deliberations, said, "I think I have to believe it. It's happening. Nothing shocks me anymore."

The trial spanned more than a year from jury selection to closing arguments. Jurors were locked down in a hotel to protect them from media contamination, corruption and compromise.

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

"The feller on Deep Creek says, "A pessimist often gets that way by financing an optimist."

If anybody thought Sen. Bob Dole was off base concerning his criticism of Hollywood, one might consider the time line concerning what we allow into our living rooms.

To reach the young audiences, TV producers have increasingly turned to sex and violence. The Hollywood standard is "What you can get away with."

Network programming began in 1939, but it wasn't until 1950 that Arthur Godfrey shocked America by uttering "damn" and "hell" during a life broadcast. The same year, the first bare breasts appeared, unintentionally, when talk-show host Faye Emerson accidentially fell out of her low-cut dress.

In 1951, TV's first pregnant character appeared in prime time. The following year, Ozzie and Harriet became the first TV couple shown sleeping in the same bed.

Also in 1952, Lucille Ball's pregnancy is featured in seven episodes of her show without the "P" word ever being uttered.

Before the 1950s ended, Leave It To Beaver producers edited out a bathroom scene of Beaver brushing his teeth because there was an offensive toilet in the background.

In 1961, an actress wore a scanty bikini in Dr. Kildare. It was 10 years before another bare navel was shown. Barbara Eden hid her's under waist-high harem pants. Cher ended the no-navel taboo in the 1970s.

In 1962, on The Defenders, a doctor spoke out in favor of abortion. Some TV stations refused to air the show and some regular sponsors cancelled. Today, abortion is legal in all 50 states.

Star Trek, in 1968, featured the first interracial kiss. In 1970, The Odd Couple featured the first lead divorced charactets. Mary Tyler Moore was originally have been about a divorced woman, but producers deemed the subject too controversial,

The first homosexual character in prime time was shown in All in the Family. It was okay since Archie Bunker scolded him appropriately.

Rape came to TV in the same show, when daughter Gloria was the victim. That was 1973.

In 1980, a man was beheaded in the miniseries Shogun. In 1982, The Bay City Blues showed a minor-league baseball team nude in the dressing room.

In 1991, L.A. Law showed the first scene of two women kissing. Today, there isn't much that hasn't and isn't been shown.

Erma Bombeck may have said it best: "Don't confuse fame with success. Madonna is one; Helen Keller is the other."

City approves expanding landfill into regional facility

"We're in the trash business now," said Snyder Mayor David Holt, summing up action Monday night by the city council to expand the landfill into a regional facility.

Snyder City Council unanimously agreed to submit an application to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission to amend the landfill's current permitted area from 43 acres to 83 acres.

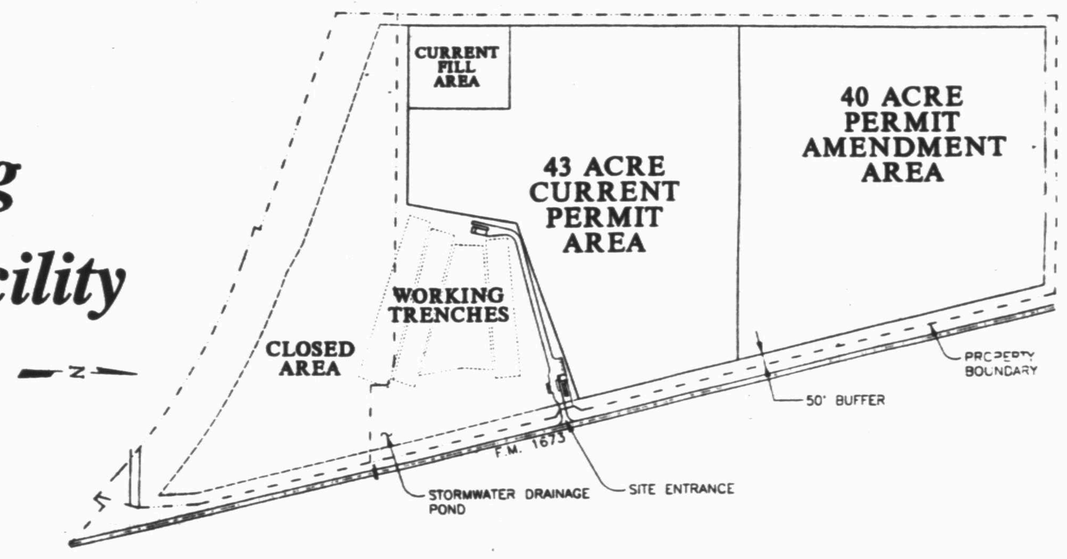
That action will allow the city to accept solid waste from other communities as well as from private waste collection businesses. The permit for expansion includes application for aerial fill which will increase the life of the landfill from 11 years to an estimated 41 years.

The council agreed to a contract with the engineering firm of Freese & Nichols to submit an application to the TNRCC for the amendment. Expansion approval is expected in less than a year.

In the meantime, the council could be receiving solid waste from the City of Sweetwater as early as next Wednesday.

City Manager John Gayle stated that the Sweetwater city council will meet Tuesday, Oct. 10, to act on a contract with the City of Snyder.

If approved, the contract will generate $108,000 annually for Snyder for a period of five years.



Gayle also said the private firm which serves San Angelo has also contacted the city in reference to using the local landfill.

Engineering associated with the landfill's expansion and submitting the landfill amendment to the TNRCC are expected to total $202,000.

Leonard Ripley, an engineer with Freese & Nichols, told the council that there are no guarantees that the permit will be granted but conditions are favorable for it to be.

"The TNRCC is familiar with the site and you have a landfill that is currently operating," said Ripley. "It's not like you are trying to open up a new landfill."

Council member Kenny Gambrell questioned spending more than $200,000 "before we even know if we can expand the landfill or not."

Ripley replied that he felt the risk is very low for the TNRCC turning down the application.

Council approves SnTx Park I-related items

Snyder City Council approved several items pertaining to the development of the industrial park, and Snyder drew praise from the chief operating officer of Lorber Industries which has announced plans to locate a textile spinning mill there.

The action items were related to the development of SnTx Park I and came during Monday night's city council meeting which was attended by Michael Gruener, representing Lorber Industries of California.

Gruener told the council that his firm is committed to getting the best possible configuration of facilities at the industrial park.

"We first talked about a spinning mill and now we are discussing a weaving facility beside it," said Gruener.

"We are asking for flexibility in our plans," stated Gruener but said his company will keep the city informed on the plant configuration.

In discussing the incentive agreement with Lorber, Development Corporation of Snyder executive director Doug Hutchinson noted that the original agreement was for Lorber to invest a minimum of $22 million in the industrial park but that figure has been reduced to $15 million.

Hutchinson repeated what the Lorber executive said, in that the figure allows the firm more flexibility and the possibility of a second plant built more quickly.

Prior to approving the DCOS incentive agreement with Lorber, city attorney Mike Hartman told the council that he saw no reason why the city should not approve it.

In discussing the tax abatement program for Lorber, Hutchinson said only new improvements will be abated while current taxes will continue to be paid.

Hutchinson said the tax abatements will be granted, like the incentives — "only after Lorber takes action and performs what they say they will do.

"They are all performance based," said Hutchinson.

Grand jury hands down 15 indictments

A Scurry County grand jury handed down 15 indictments Monday, including several for escape and two against carnival employees for theft and burglary of a lounge.

The grand jury indicated 22-year-old Manuel Medrano Jr. and 21-year-old Steven Ismeil Carrera for escape. The two men escaped from the county jail recreation area on the afternoon of Sept. 5 by crawling under a chain link fence. Carrera, of 2701 Ave. E, was arrested four days later by police in the Plaza Truck Stop parking lot. He is being held in the county jail. Medrano, of 1006 28th St., is still at large. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

The grand jury also indicted 20-year-old Ricardo Medrano of 609 25th St., a brother of Manuel Medrano Jr. Ricardo Medrano, who was an inmate at the time of the escape, is charged with intent to hinder the arrest, prosecution, conviction and punishment of Steven Carrera by holding the chain link fence open when Carrera escaped. Ricardo Medrano was later released from jail but was arrested again Monday on the indictment. Bond was set at $10,000.

John Howard Roberts, 29, of Houston and Craig O'Neal Smith, 23, of Odessa were each indicted for theft and burglary of a building. The two carnival employees are charged with stealing a 1995 Ford pickup from Wilson Motors and burglarizing the Great Western Lounge for liquor and cash on Sept. 20. Bond was set at $5,000 per indictment, for a total of $10,000 for each of the men, who are in custody.

Robert (Bobby) Estrada, 17, of 604 19th St. was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Estrada is charged with taking a vehicle without the consent of Herlinda Gutierrez on Sept. 29. Estrada is being held on $5,000 bond.

Two other men were also indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Joe Lee Hammit, 18, of 404 20th St. and Todd Wayne Pulis, 18, of 9563 FM 1609 were indicted for a Sept. 8 offense of stealing a vehicle owned by Knipe Construction of Big Spring. Bond was set at $5,000 for both men.

Four people were indicted for felony driving while intoxicated. They were:

—Karen Lynn Lawson, 41, of 106 34th St. for a Sept. 16 offense.

—Martha Sue McKinley, 45, of 2808 Ave. T. for a Sept. 29 offense.

—Larry Joe Martinez, 28, of 1000 13th St. for a Sept. 17 offense.

—And Milton Lee Comer, 50, of 2491 N. Business 84 for a Sept. 16 offense.

Bond for each was set at $2,000.

The grand jury indicted one other person who has yet to be arrested.

Writer sues star's father, family studio, publisher

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An upcoming book and movie about Selena's life has prompted a lawsuit by a newspaper reporter who contends he has a contract for the authorship.

Ramiro Burr, a San Antonio Express-News entertainment writer, filed suit Monday against the slain Tejano singer's father and manager, the family's recording studio, a book publisher and a Los Angeles production company.

Abraham Quintanilla Jr. earlier this month picked a California-based author, Victor Villasenor, to write his story about his daughter's life to be published by Bantam Doubleday Dell Publishing Group Inc.

"But we believe that the damages are going to be in the millions (of dollars) because this was Ramiro's opportunity to hit a home run, to write a best seller, especially one for this area, the Tejano music area," attorney Larry Macon said.

Macon said a one-page agreement Quintanilla signed on Aug. 21 granted Burr the book deal, for a $25,000 fee, that was to be the basis of a movie about the life of Selena Quintanilla Perez.

Quintanilla's production company in Corpus Christi called the legal action "frivolous" and based on incorrect information.

"Abraham Quintanilla has not breached any agreement," the prepared statement from Q Productions read. "The breach that has occurred is on Mr. Burr's part. The book project that Victor Villasenor is working on, to be published by Bantam Doubleday Dell, is a separate and unique project."

The singer was fatally shot March 31 at a Corpus Christi motel. The woman accused of gunning her down faces a murder trial next Monday in Houston.

Quintanilla, in addition to choosing a new author, decided that his Q Productions Inc. and Esparza/Katz Productions Inc. of Los Angeles would produce the movie, according to court documents.

"The evidence is clear that these publishing companies knew that the contract existed," said Macon. "Even though they knew Ramiro had the contract and knew it was important, and that he would be given credit, none of these people approached him about a change. They just announced it."

Tracking the course of liver disease

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have biliary liver disease, or cirrhosis, which I'm told is terminal. What are the four stages of the disease and their symptoms, and how long might I live with this condition?

DEAR READER: Primary biliary cirrhosis, a liver disorder of unknown cause, has four distinct phases.

First, the bile ducts become inflamed. This causes no symptoms but blood tests can detect it.

Second, scar tissue forms around the bile ducts. Called "periportal fibrosis," this signifies advancing disease and leads to jaundice and worsening liver function.

Next, the scarring becomes denser. At the same time, inflammation recedes, and patients experience fatigue and itching, along with the jaundice. Liver function is severely compromised.

The fourth and final stage is cirrhosis. The liver shrinks and hardens. Vital metabolic reactions are disrupted or halted. The patient becomes progressively sicker and eventually will die unless he or she receives a liver transplant.

Primary biliary cirrhosis is diagnosed by special X-rays and/or biopsy, performed by a hepatologist (a liver specialist). There is no satisfactory cure except liver transplant, for which such patients are excellent candidates.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Several weeks ago our local newspaper indicated that if you can't sleep, take a tablespoon of honey before going to bed. I tried it and it seems to work. Is there any scientific evidence to this?

DEAR READER: No, there isn't. However, if the remedy works for you, it won't harm you, unless you are a diabetic, in which case a glass of warm milk might suffice.

To give you more information on sleeplessness, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Sleep/Wake Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Be sure to mention the title.

Your Birthday

Wednesday, Oct. 4, 1995

A relationship that has been meaningful to you in the past could grow into something even more significant in the year ahead. It is a lovely flower worth nurturing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Circumstances are currently moving in a direction today that could enable you to firm up your financial position. Although rather sparse, they can be expanded upon later. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It looks like you'll come out ahead today in a development where Lady Luck might frown upon others. Your winning edge, however, may not be too great.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Family matters of an extremely confidential nature should be kept within the confines of your home today. Do not discuss these issues with in-laws or outsiders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Old, tested and proven methods are applicable to something new in which you're presently involved. Determine how to adapt them, instead of toying with experimentation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A payoff could be in the offing for you today relating to something you've earned the hard way. Your reward will be proportionate to the efforts you've expended.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Peers with whom you'll be involved today could sense that when you speak, what you say should be taken seriously and not challenged for ego purposes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to worry needlessly today about things that may never happen. Should a crisis arise, you'll be able to manage it and deal with it effectively and swiftly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have to negotiate a matter today with someone who has been kind to you in the past, you'll have an opportunity to reciprocate with a few thoughtful concessions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions are propitious today for the fulfillment of a personal ambition. The only elements needed are singleness of purpose and consistency.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If possible today, try to participate in some type of pleasurable activity that challenges you mentally and physically. It could do wonders for your attitude and outlook.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An annoying situation looks like it will be concluded favorably today. There might be some benefits attached, but they will be rather slim.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take to heart advice given to you by a concerned friend today. Your pal might have some simplistic suggestions that could work.

Dear Abby

Part-Time Job Is Only Stress Relief for Full-Time Mother

DEAR ABBY: I am a stay-at-home mother who is about ready to explode!

I love my children with all my heart. At one time, our first child was very sick, and we went through a lot to adopt our second child. Both experiences made me realize how deeply I love my little ones.

Lately, I have completely lost my "thrill" with motherhood and homemaking. If I have to watch "Barney" on TV one more time, wipe one more chin, change one more diaper or dust one more table, I will go berserk! What's wrong with me?

Two other stay-at-home moms in our neighborhood have left their homes and families. Both are now divorced, living in apartments, and the kids are with their fathers. What scares me is that I completely identify with these women.

I have a part-time job three mornings a week while our daughter is in preschool. I find myself looking forward to those mornings. At home I have frequent headaches, but at work I feel great.

I used to have a wide range of interests and a quick wit, but I feel my personality shriveling up and dying while I sweep, do laundry and clean up after the dog. My family needs me. I have a responsibility to them, which I fully intend to keep. I'm afraid when I'm through there won't be any "me" left. What can I do?

NOT OK KAYE

DEAR KAYE: Your feelings of being suffocated by motherhood are not uncommon. However, your first responsibility is to be a loving and caring parent. If you must spend a little more time away from your children in order to accomplish that, it doesn't mean there is anything wrong with you.

Consider increasing the time you spend at your part-time job as well as hiring someone to help with the housework. Finding a balance that works better for you will make your time with your family more enjoyable — for everyone.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For the past seven years, Jack, my live-in boyfriend, and I have parked in my garage, and my son "Al" has parked on the street. Al is a straight-A college student and has worked to pay for all of his college education. I pay the insurance on his eight-year-old car with the child support I receive.

Jack has not worked steadily in the last five years and contributes about 10 percent toward the monthly bills. I use part of it to pay the insurance on his eight-year-old truck. (He keeps his tools in a locked toolbox in the back of it.)

Al gets up every day and goes either to school or to work, returning home between 6 and 9 p.m. Jack (when he's not working) usually leaves his truck in the driveway all day and puts it in the garage at night.

Who should get to park in the garage? There are three drivers and three vehicles, but I have only a two-car garage. Please help me resolve this. I desperately need an unbiased opinion.

IN A DILEMMA

DEAR IN: Since you are the principal wage earner and pay the lion's share of household expenses, you are entitled to use the garage on a regular basis. Jack and Al should alternate on a monthly rotation.

Smith ordered to pay her maid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anna Nicole Smith must pay $830,000 to her former nanny after a nasty legal fight that saw dueling accusations of sexual harassment and slander.

Maria Antonia Cerrato, who worked for the buxom Playboy and Guess? jeans model from 1992 to 1994, sued last year, alleging she was the victim of an unwanted sexual advance from Smith.

Smith, 27, countersued, alleging Cerrato slandered her to ruin her modeling career and personal relationships, and tried to kidnap her son.

Superior Court Judge Aviva K. Bobb dismissed the countersuit in August because Smith didn't comply with rules for submitting evidence.

Cerrato then filed a cross-complaint seeking damages for time and money spent on her defense.

In the decision Friday, Bobb ruled solely on the cross-complaint, not Cerrato's claims of sexual abuse, said Smith's lawyer, Kelly Moore.

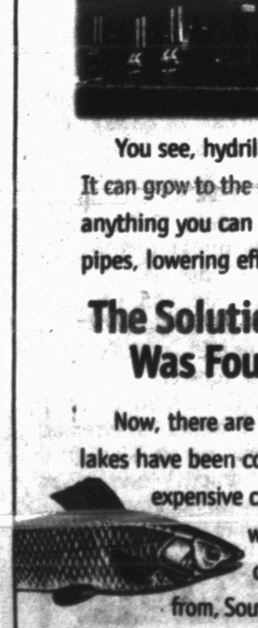
Look in back of our North Lake power plant, and you'll find, you guessed it, a lake. Two years ago, a small patch of a Southeast Asian aquatic plant called hydrilla was discovered there, causing us some concern.

You see, hydrilla grows two inches a day. That's pretty fast, if you think about it. It can grow to the surface and get in the way of skiing, fishing, swimming, virtually anything you can do in a lake. Hydrilla can also clog the power plant's intake pipes, lowering efficiency. So, as you can see, it's a real problem for everyone.

The Solution To The Problem In Our Back Yard Was Found Twelve Thousand Miles Away.

Now, there are several ways that have been used to control hydrilla. Some lakes have been completely drained while others have been bombarded with expensive chemicals. But, none of these treatments was right for us. So, we continued looking. And we found a solution that had been discovered at the source of our problem, where hydrilla came from, Southeast Asia. It's a grass-eating fish that prefers to eat hydrilla and will help to keep it in check, naturally.



Finding creative solutions like this one from halfway around the world is just one more way we're working to build a better electric company.

Watch the split

By Phillip Alder

What, according to Leon Trotsky, is the most unexpected of all the things that happen to a man?

In bridge, the expected happens most of the time. But you must be ready for the unexpected. On today's deal, Alan Truscott, bridge columnist for The New York Times, overcame the unexpected 5-0 trump split.

South's one-club opening bid was strong and artificial, showing any hand with at least 16 points. West's two hearts was a weak jump overcall. North's jump to four spades was ambitious, but he was lured by the vulnerable game bonus.

After winning the first trick with dummy's heart ace, Truscott played a diamond to his queen, cashed the diamond ace and ruffed the diamond nine in the dummy. Now came the spade 10, covered by the jack and queen. The good news was that West didn't win with the king; the bad news was that he discarded a heart.

Truscott continued with a low club. (Here, playing the ace and another club also works, but leading the low club immediately "feels" right.) West had no riposte. He went in with the king and continued with the heart queen. Declarer ruffed, played a club to dummy's queen, ruffed another heart and led the club ace. Truscott had 10 tricks: five spades in hand, the heart ace, two diamonds, one diamond ruff in the dummy and the club queen.

Trotsky claimed that old age is the most unexpected of all the things that happen to man. Maybe that's true for some people (and what about women?), but surely for everyone, the older you get, the quicker time passes.

Author revisits elementary school

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was enough to give children's author R.L. Stine goose bumps.

He stopped by all three elementary schools in Bexley, the Columbus suburb where he grew up, on Friday. At his own Montrose Elementary School, his kindergarten teacher, Barbara Drugan, met him at the door, greeted him as "Bobby" and hugged him.

"I wasn't scary in kindergarten," said Stine, the creator of the "Goosebumps" and "Fear Street" series of horror books for children and young adults.

Stine has written more than 100 books, which have sold more than 90 million copies. He received a $1 million advance for his first adult novel, the recently released "Superstitious."

Non-hormone drug approved in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Osteoporosis, the brittle bone disorder that affects about 20 million American women, now can be treated for the first time with a non-hormone drug.

The Food and Drug Administration announced Monday that it was approving the marketing of alendronate, a hormone-free drug that can be used by women unable to tolerate estrogen. The drug also can be used to treat Paget's disease, another type of bone disorder.

Studies of alendronate show it can stop the loss of bone density and allow the body to grow healthy bone.

"This approval is very important," said Sandra Raymond, a founding director of the National Osteoporosis Foundation. "This means that physicians and patients enter a new era with a broader array of treatment options for osteoporosis."

Osteoporosis is a thinning and weakening of bones that strikes about a third of all women after menopause. The disorder hits about 25 million Americans, but 80 percent of the patients are women past the age of menopause, Raymond said.

Some 7 million to 8 million women with a severe form of the disease experience spontaneous fractures, usually of bones in the back. Broken hips, legs and arms also are common. About $10 billion is spent annually on the disease, mostly for treatment of fractures.

The most common treatment for women with the disorder has been estrogen hormone replacement therapy, but thousands of women have been unable to take the hormone because of various side effects.

Alendronate is the first in a class of drugs known as bisphosphonates that work directly on bone without hormones.

Dr. Ethel Siris, director of osteoporosis programs at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, said alendronate blocks the action of excess osteoclasts, cells whose job is to dissolve worn-out bone.

Normally, the bone removed by osteoclasts is quickly replaced by other cells, the osteoblasts. But in post-menopausal women, said Siris, "the osteoclasts go wild and resorb bone too rapidly." The result is brittle bone.

Siris said alendronate works by coating the surplus osteoclasts and suppressing their action.

A series of studies involving more than 1,800 women aged 41 to 85 showed that bone strength in the spine and hip was increased by about 8 percent in those taking alendronate. Patients in a comparison group taking a placebo had a decline in bone density of about 0.65 percent.

The number of patients on alendronate suffering spinal fractures was about half the number taking a placebo who suffered them, the studies showed.

Alendronate is administered in pill form. The FDA said the drug should be taken each morning 30 to 60 minutes before eating. The agency also said patients should combine the drug with exercise and a good diet that includes adequate vitamin D and calcium intake.

Side effects from the drug were generally mild, but included nausea, heartburn, gas and abdominal pain.

Alendronate also has been approved for the treatment of Paget's disease, a disorder that strikes about 1.3 million Americans and causes enlarged and deformed bones. Siris said studies in her clinic showed that alendronate controls an abnormal form of osteoclasts and "dramatically reduces the disease," although the drug is not a cure.

Alendronate is to be marketed by Merck & Co. of West Point, Pa., under the name brand Fosamax. The company estimated the retail cost of the drug at $50 to $55 a month.

FDA OKs computer system to examine Pap smears again

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new computer system is expected to improve the reliability of Pap smears by checking for signs of cervical cancer that technicians may have missed.

Officials say the AutoPap QC system by NeoPath Inc. of Redmond, Wash., was designed to replace the random, manual rescreening of Pap smears now performed by laboratories.

The AutoPap system is the first of its kind approved by the Food and Drug Administration. An agency decision on a second system called Papnet, by NeuroMedical Systems of Suffern, N.Y., is pending.

In a Pap smear, the standard test for detecting cervical cancer, doctors scrape cells off of the cervix and examine them for abnormalities. Cervical cancer is easily treated if caught in the early stages.

But laboratories miss the abnormal cells 5 percent to 25 percent of the time, depending on the lab.

The AutoPap, approved last Friday, will automatically rescreen all normal Pap smears and then select 10 percent of the most suspicious samples for a second, manual screening.

Lab technicians currently view thousands of samples under microscopes daily. The labs are required by law to randomly select 10 percent of all samples for a second review.

"Our technology can provide an important safety net for the women whose lives may depend on accurate results," said Dr. Alan Nelson, president and chief executive officer of NeoPath Inc.

Some 50 million Pap smears are done annually in the United States.

During clinical trials of the product, NeoPath rescreened 11,751 Pap smears judged to normal by seven labs across the country and found 297, or 2.5 percent, of them to be abnormal, or positive for cancer.

But the FDA cautioned that the system is not error-proof.

Class A Thorndale on a roll for state title

DALLAS (AP) — Thorndale coach Don Cowan has some bad news for any team that thinks it has a chance of winning the Class 1A title this season.

"We're a little ahead of last year offensively. Our execution is crisper compared to this time last year," Cowan says.

Uh-oh. Last year's team scored 801 points, an average of 50 per game. How do you improve on that?

Well, so far the Bulldogs are averaging 48 points a game and just beginning to hit a stride.

This year's defense also has been stingier after four games than last year's. They've allowed only 17 points, compared to 35 for last year's team, which then had five midseason shutouts en route to allowing only 98 points in 16 games.

"Last year, we ended up giving up around 130 or 140 yards per game," Cowan said. "We started this year around 200 and now we're down to 151. Our inside linebackers are really coming along. We lost both of them, but the new kids are really coming up and making plays."

No wonder Thorndale is riding a 20-game winning streak and, for the second time this season, is the unanimous No. 1 team in Class 1A in The Associated Press high school football poll.

The Bulldogs also were a unanimous No. 1 in The Associated Press high school football poll after the first game, then were the top-ranked on all but one ballot the last two weeks.

A loss by previous No. 2 Bartlett, a tie by then-No. 3 Robert Lee and a forfeit victory by last week's No. 4 Iola helped Thorndale seal the top spot among all 30 sportswriters and broadcasters in this week's poll.

All that activity shook up the 1A rankings pretty well. Iola leaped to No. 2, Robert Lee fell to No. 7, Bartlett dropped to No. 8 and Calvert (4-0) moved in at No. 10 as Runge fell out of the poll.

A rare regular-season loss by Schulenburg helped shake up the 2A list. The Shorthorns fell from second to fifth and several other teams moved. Grand Saline's loss sent it into the ranks of "others receiving votes" and two-time defending 2A champion Goldthwaite (3-1) moved back into the poll at No. 10.

The 4A rankings also were changed slightly, most notably with Borger going out and Cedar Hill (4-0) coming in at No. 10.

Classes 5A and 3A remained virtually the same with only some minor shuffling.

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press high school football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses. Total points are based on 10 points for a first-place vote through one point for a 10th-place vote, and previous week's ranking. Voting is by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Loper wins SDN football contest

Geoffrey Loper of 3101 Ave. V was first place winner of the Snyder Daily News football contest. Loper missed five games to claim the $50 prize.

Second and third place were determined with the tie-breaker. Twenty people missed six games, but Mark McCormick of 2805 32nd was declared the second place winner. McCormick will pick up $25.

There was a tie in the tie breaking system for third between Gary Osuna of 2806 Ave. X, Apt. #C and Vanette Evarett of 4100 Brick Plant Rd. #43. Both Osuna and Evarett were five points off on the total points scored in the Snyder-Big Spring game. As a result, both will receive $7.50.

The winners will be sent a check for their effort. A new contest begins today.

Bart Starr was the Green Bay Packer quarterback for six NFL championships and two Super Bowl victories.

Breast implant firms offering another deal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge has agreed to let women decide for themselves whether to accept a new plan to salvage something from a $4.25 billion deal to settle injury claims.

The new offer, proposed by implant makers during a series of intense negotiations over the weekend, covers far fewer women than the old deal and promises each of them less.

It failed to gain unanimous support among the team of plaintiffs' lawyers, but U.S. District Judge Sam Pointer said Monday the 440,000 women who registered to participate in the original settlement of implant claims soon would begin receiving information on the latest proposal.

The women will have the options of accepting the plan or rejecting it and suing on their own.

The new proposal would offer fewer women substantially less money than they were originally promised. Sources speaking on condition of anonymity said the maximum payment would be about $600,000, down from $1.4 million.

Although the new offer has smaller individual payments, it guarantees each claimant will get their maximum allowable payment regardless of how many women file claims. Because of that provision, it is impossible to calculate the total value of the offer.

In the original deal, each participating company agreed to pay only a certain total amount. If claims exceeded estimates, the companies had the option to withdraw from the deal, or the payments could have been reduced to make sure everyone got something.

WIN UP TO $1,000!!

(All 20 Games Correct Plus Exact Score On Tie-Breaker)

$250..... For Perfect Score (All 20 Games Correct)
$50..... 1st Place
$25..... 2nd Place
$15..... 3rd Place

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, Snyder, TX 79550, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for the $250 cash prize. To win the $1,000 cash prize, all twenty games must be picked correctly, plus the exact score must be predicted on the tie-breaker.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.

City approves industrial park requests

The abatement program will be for an eight-year period with 100 percent of city ad valorem taxes abated for five years.

In the year 2004, the percentage will decrease to 75 percent and drop to 50 percent in 2005. Twenty-five percent of the taxes will be abated during the year 2006.

Hutchinson said all future projects of Lorber and other industries wishing to locate in the industrial park will be dealt with on an individual basis.

Besides approving the incentive package to Lorber, the council also agreed to waive all permit fees for buildings being constructed in the park. The city also approved a change in the interlocal cooperation agreement with the county which allows Scurry County to do site work at the park. The city also approved on first reading zoning changes to allow the construction of industrial buildings.

The council also passed a resolution committing city forces for the construction of industrial park infrastructure. The city is committed to the completion of 2,450 feet of sewer line, 3,500 feet of 10-inch sewer line, 3,800 liner feet of 12-inch sewer line, 11 sewer manholes and 8,650 eet of 12-inch water line, including valves and hydrants.

The value of the work is $431,080.

Also approved was the subdivision of the industsrial park and the approval of the DCOS grant application to the Economic Development Agency.

The council voted unanimously to approve all items relating to Lorber Industries and the industrial park.

The council also gave its unanimous approval to an agreement with Freese & Nichols for engineering design services associated with replacing of the water lines on 30th Street and in an area encompassed by U.S. Highway 180, Apple Street and Avenue A. in the amount of $239,100.

This will involve the replacement of 1,200 feet of 4-inch water lines in a residential area west of Scurry County Coliseum and the replacement of 5,280 feet of 12-inch water lines associated with the widening of 30th Street.

Ripley said the 30th Street project has been necessary for several years in order to replace "bottlenecks" in the water distribution system in that area.

In discussing the 30th Street project, Ripley also presented the council figures on a study of the city's water distribution system based on a 10 and 20 percent growth in population.

The council took no action on the recommendations last night.

In responding to a request from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice concerning the possibility of the construction of a unit consisting of 660 cells adjacent to the Price Daniel Unit, Roy McQueen told the council he believes that the questionnaire submitted pertains primarily with the availability of water and sewer facilities for the unit.

"If that is the case, then we are ahead of the curve in that respect," said McQueen.

He noted that when the Price Daniel Unit was constructed, the water and sewer lines were engineered to handle up to 2,000 inmates.

"A lot of the work has already been done in meeting their proposal," he said, noting that the TDCJ had asked for a response to the inquiry by Oct. 10.

McQueen added that a Freese & Nichols study indicated the only addition to the present system would be a ground level storage tank near a booster pump located west of the prison unit if the new unit is expanded to 1,320 beds.

Ripley told the council if the unit stays at 660 beds, the city will not have to make any improvements to the system.

In that light, the council voted unanimously to construct a 250,000 gallon ground storage unit at the Highway 84 pump station, if necessary, and offer the TDCJ a 10 percent discount on water costs, plus provide the meters and tie-ins at the proposed new unit.

In other matters Monday night, the council heard a financial report from Donna Fowler, executive director of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, on the chamber's second and third financial periods, nominated Ross Carroll to the board of directors of the Scurry County Appraisal District, appointed Travis Hatter and reappointed Herman Milton to the airport zoning board and tabled action on a request for funds from the Ritz Theatre.

Also, the council voted to increase the city's hotel/motel tax from six to seven percent and approved on second reading an ordinance with Midwest Electric Coop.

The council also reappointed John Fagin and Bill Seale to the DCOS board of directors.

Mayor David Holt presided and council members in attendance were Dayton Robertson, Jerry Webb, Kenny Gambrell, I.E. Martin and Ron Shaw. Vernest Tippens was absent.

Train strikes truck at crossing

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — A commuter train smashed into a flatbed truck stalled at a crossing today, derailing both of the train's passenger cars and injuring 22 people, some seriously.

The train was en route from Waterbury to Bridgeport, with a connection to New York City, when it hit the truck carrying a construction crane, said Dan Brucker, a spokesman for the Metro-North commuter railroad.

At the time, around 7:15 a.m., the train was carrying 65 to 70 passengers in two cars being pushed by a diesel locomotive, Brucker said. Both cars and the locomotive derailed but did not overturn.

O.J. acquitted!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson was acquitted today of murdering his ex-wife and her friend, a suspense-filled climax to the courtroom saga that obsessed the nation. With two words, "not guilty," the jury freed the fallen sports legend to try to rebuild a life thrown into disgrace.

Sobs could be heard in the courtroom as the verdicts, acquitting Simpson of both first- and second-degree murder, were read. Simpson hugged his attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr.

Simpson's ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and her friend Ronald Goldman, 25, were slain June 12, 1994.

The curious throngs and an army of media began arriving at the courthouse early today, while police went on tactical alert to brace for possible trouble in the streets.

News helicopters roared outside. Barricades blocked the street. In the courthouse lobby, hundreds of people vied for the few precious public seats in the courtroom. As their lottery numbers were pulled, the lucky few cheered.

They came to take their place in history, to experience the verdict of the century.

It came Monday without warning. As the judge brought in the jury, two-thirds of the hottest seats in town were empty, two of the leading attorneys in the case weren't even present, and most of the media were upstairs in the press room.

"Is that correct?" Ito asked the forewoman, a black woman in her early 50s who was chosen by her colleagues last week after just three minutes.

"Yes," she said.

Jaws dropped. There were gasps in the courtroom. Simpson appeared stunned, as did his attorney, Carl Douglas, a second-stringer on the legal team assigned the mundane task of sitting next to Simpson during testimony readbacks.

"Surprise doesn't begin to describe my feelings," Douglas said afterward.

Prosecutor Christopher Darden was there, but Marcia Clark wasn't.

Darden, asked if he could believe the rapid end to deliberations, said, "I think I have to believe it. It's happening. Nothing shocks me anymore."

The trial spanned more than a year from jury selection to closing arguments. Jurors were locked down in a hotel to protect them from media contamination, corruption and compromise.

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A pessimist often gets that way by financing an optimist."

If anybody thought Sen. Bob Dole was off base concerning his criticism of Hollywood, one might consider the time line concerning what we allow into our living rooms.

To reach the young audiences, TV producers have increasingly turned to sex and violence. The Hollywood standard is "What you can get away with."

Network programming began in 1939, but it wasn't until 1950 that Arthur Godfrey shocked America by uttering "damn" and "hell" during a life broadcast. The same year, the first bare breasts appeared, unintentionally, when talk-show host Faye Emerson accidentially fell out of her low-cut dress.

In 1951, TV's first pregnant character appeared in prime time. The following year, Ozzie and Harriet became the first TV couple shown sleeping in the same bed.

Also in 1952, Lucille Ball's pregnancy is featured in seven episodes of her show without the "P" word ever being uttered.

Before the 1950s ended, Leave It To Beaver producers edited out a bathroom scene of Beaver brushing his teeth because there was an offensive toilet in the background.

In 1961, an actress wore a scanty bikini in Dr. Kildare. It was 10 years before another bare navel was shown. Barbara Eden hid her's under waist-high harem pants. Cher ended the no-navel taboo in the 1970s.

In 1962, on The Defenders, a doctor spoke out in favor of abortion. Some TV stations refused to air the show and some regular sponsors cancelled. Today, abortion is legal in all 50 states.

Star Trek, in 1968, featured the first interracial kiss. In 1970, The Odd Couple featured the first lead divorced characters. Mary Tyler Moore was originally have been about a divorced woman, but producers deemed the subject too controversial.

The first homosexual character in prime time was shown in All in the Family. It was okay since Archie Bunker scolded him appropriately.

Rape came to TV in the same show, when daughter Gloria was the victim. That was 1973.

In 1980, a man was beheaded in the miniseries Shogun. In 1982, The Bay City Blues showed a minor-league baseball team nude in the dressing room.

In 1991, L.A. Law showed the first scene of two women kissing. Today, there isn't much that hasn't and isn't been shown.

Erma Bombeck may have said it best: "Don't confuse fame with success. Madonna is one; Helen Keller is the other."

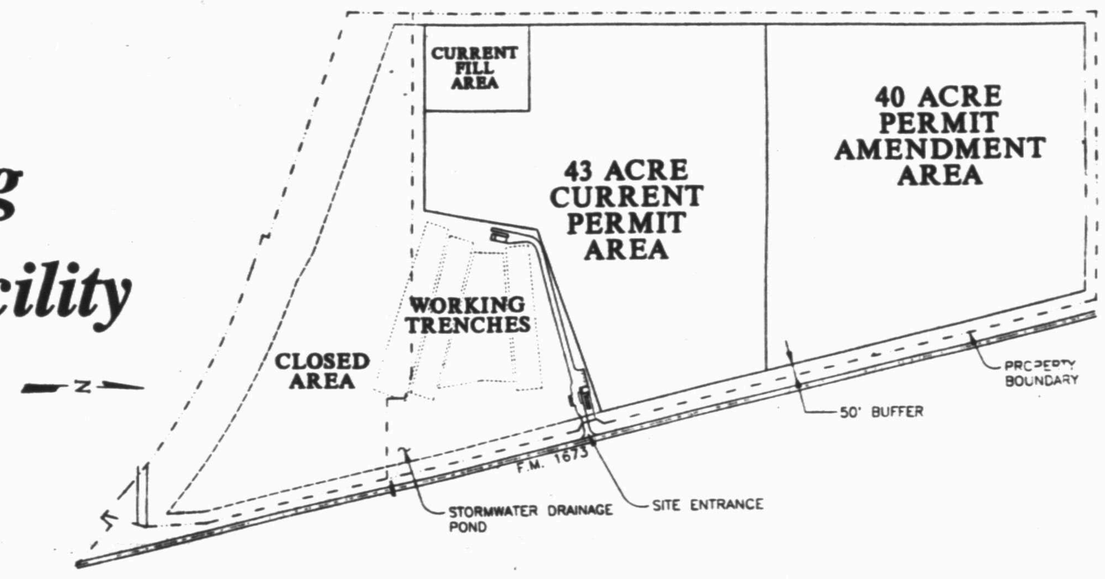
City approves expanding landfill into regional facility



"We're in the trash business now," said Snyder Mayor David Holt, summing up action Monday night by the city council to expand the landfill into a regional facility.

Snyder City Council unanimously agreed to submit an application to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission to amend the landfill's current permitted area from 43 acres to 83 acres.

That action will allow the city to accept solid waste from other communities as well as from private waste collection businesses. The permit for expansion includes application for aerial fill which will increase the life of the landfill from 11 years to an estimated 41 years.

The council agreed to a contract with the engineering firm of Freese & Nichols to submit an application to the TNRCC for the amendment. Expansion approval is expected in less than a year.

In the meantime, the council could be receiving solid waste from the City of Sweetwater as early as next Wednesday.

City Manager John Gayle stated that the Sweetwater city council will meet Tuesday, Oct. 10, to act on a contract with the City of Snyder.

If approved, the contract will generate $108,000 annually for Snyder for a period of five years.

Gayle also said the private firm which serves San Angelo has also contacted the city in reference to using the local landfill.

Engineering associated with the landfill's expansion and submitting the landfill amendment to the TNRCC are expected to total $202,000.

Leonard Ripley, an engineer with Freese & Nichols, told the council that there are no guarantees that the permit will be granted but conditions are favorable for it to be.

"The TNRCC is familiar with the site and you have a landfill that is currently operating," said Ripley. "It's not like you are trying to open up a new landfill."

Council member Kenny Gambrell questioned spending more than $200,000 "before we even know if we can expand the landfill or not."

Ripley replied that he felt the risk is very low for the TNRCC turning down the application.

Council approves SnTx Park I-related items

Snyder City Council approved several items pertaining to the development of the industrial park, and Snyder drew praise from the chief operating officer of Lorber Industries which has announced plans to locate a textile spinning mill there.

The action items were related to the development of SnTx Park I and came during Monday night's city council meeting which was attended by Michael Gruener, representing Lorber Industries of California.

Gruener told the council that his firm is committed to getting the best possible configuration of facilities at the industrial park.

"We first talked about a spinning mill and now we are discussing a weaving facility beside it," said Gruener.

"We are asking for flexibility in our plans," stated Gruener but said his company will keep the city informed on the plant configuration.

In discussing the incentive agreement with Lorber, Development Corporation of Snyder executive director Doug Hutchinson noted that the original agreement was for Lorber to invest a minimum of $22 million in the industrial park but that figure has been reduced to $15 million.

Hutchinson repeated what the Lorber executive said, in that the figure allows the firm more flexibility and the possibility of a second plant built more quickly.

Prior to approving the DCOS incentive agreement with Lorber, city attorney Mike Hartman told the council that he saw no reason why the city should not approve it.

In discussing the tax abatement program for Lorber, Hutchinson said only new improvements will be abated while current taxes will continue to be paid.

Hutchinson said the tax abatements will be granted, like the incentives — "only after Lorber takes action and performs what they say they will do.

"They are all performance based," said Hutchinson.

Grand jury hands down 15 indictments

A Scurry County grand jury handed down 15 indictments Monday, including several for escape and two against carnival employees for theft and burglary of a lounge.

The grand jury indicated 22-year-old Manuel Medrano Jr. and 21-year-old Steven Ismeil Carrera for escape. The two men escaped from the county jail recreation area on the afternoon of Sept. 5 by crawling under a chain link fence. Carrera, of 2701 Ave. E, was arrested four days later by police in the Plaza Truck Stop parking lot. He is being held in the county jail. Medrano, of 1006 28th St., is still at large. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

The grand jury also indicted 20-year-old Ricardo Medrano of 609 25th St., a brother of Manuel Medrano Jr. Ricardo Medrano, who was an inmate at the time of the escape, is charged with intent to hinder the arrest, prosecution, conviction and punishment of Steven Carrera by holding the chain link fence open when Carrera escaped. Ricardo Medrano was later released from jail but was arrested again Monday on the indictment. Bond was set at $10,000.

John Howard Roberts, 29, of Houston and Craig O'Neal Smith, 23, of Odessa were each indicted for theft and burglary of a building. The two carnival employees are charged with stealing a 1995 Ford pickup from Wilson Motors and burglarizing the Great Western Lounge for liquor and cash on Sept. 20. Bond was set at $5,000 per indictment, for a total of $10,000 for each of the men, who are in custody.

Robert (Bobby) Estrada, 17, of 604 19th St. was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Estrada is charged with taking a vehicle without the consent of Herlinda Gutierrez on Sept. 29. Estrada is being held on $5,000 bond.

Two other men were also indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Joe Lee Hammit, 18, of 404 20th St. and Todd Wayne Pulis, 18, of 9563 FM 1609 were indicted for a Sept. 8 offense of stealing a vehicle owned by Knipe Construction of Big Spring. Bond was set at $5,000 for both men.

Four people were indicted for felony driving while intoxicated. They were:

—Karen Lynn Lawson, 41, of 106 34th St. for a Sept. 16 offense.

—Martha Sue McKinley, 45, of 2808 Ave. T. for a Sept. 29 offense.

—Larry Joe Martinez, 28, of 1000 13th St. for a Sept. 17 offense.

—And Milton Lee Comer, 50, of 2491 N. Business 84 for a Sept. 16 offense.

Bond for each was set at $2,000.

The grand jury indicted one other person who has yet to be arrested.

Writer sues star's father, family studio, publisher

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An upcoming book and movie about Selena's life has prompted a lawsuit by a newspaper reporter who contends he has a contract for the authorship.

[illegible] San Antonio Express-News entertainment writer, filed suit Monday against the slain Tejano singer's father and manager, the family's recording studio, a book publisher and a Los Angeles production company.

Abraham Quintanilla Jr. earlier this month picked a California-based author, Victor Villasenor, to write his story about his daughter's life to be published by Bantam Doubleday Dell Publishing Group Inc.

"But we believe that the damages are going to be in the millions (of dollars) because this was Ramiro's opportunity to hit a home run, to write a best seller, especially one for this area, the Tejano music area," attorney Larry Macon said.

Macon said a one-page agreement Quintanilla signed on Aug. 21 granted Burr the book deal, for a $25,000 fee, that was to be the basis of a movie about the life of Selena Quintanilla Perez.

Quintanilla's production company in Corpus Christi called the legal action "frivolous" and based on incorrect information.

"Abraham Quintanilla has not breached any agreement," the prepared statement from Q Productions read. "The breach that has occurred is on Mr. Burr's part. The book project that Victor Villasenor is working on, to be published by Bantam Doubleday Dell, is a separate and unique project."

The singer was fatally shot March 31 at a Corpus Christi motel. The woman accused of gunning her down faces a murder trial next Monday in Houston.

Quintanilla, in addition to choosing a new author, decided that his Q Productions Inc. and Esparza/Katz Productions Inc. of Los Angeles would produce the movie, according to court documents.

"The evidence is clear that these publishing companies knew that the contract existed," said Macon. "Even though they knew Ramiro had the contract and knew it was important, and that he would be given credit, none of these people approached him about a change. They just announced it."

Tracking the course of liver disease

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have biliary liver disease, or cirrhosis, which I'm told is terminal. What are the four stages of the disease and their symptoms, and how long might I live with this condition?

DEAR READER: Primary biliary cirrhosis, a liver disorder of unknown cause, has four distinct phases.

First, the bile ducts become inflamed. This causes no symptoms but blood tests can detect it.

Second, scar tissue forms around the bile ducts. Called "periportal fibrosis," this signifies advancing disease and leads to jaundice and worsening liver function.

Next, the scarring becomes denser. At the same time, inflammation recedes, and patients experience fatigue and itching, along with the jaundice. Liver function is severely compromised.

The fourth and final stage is cirrhosis. The liver shrinks and hardens. Vital metabolic reactions are disrupted or halted. The patient becomes progressively sicker and eventually will die unless he or she receives a liver transplant.

Primary biliary cirrhosis is diagnosed by special X-rays and/or biopsy, performed by a hepatologist (a liver specialist). There is no satisfactory cure except liver transplant, for which such patients are excellent candidates.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Several weeks ago our local newspaper indicated that if you can't sleep, take a tablespoon of honey before going to bed. I tried it and it seems to work. Is there any scientific evidence to this?

DEAR READER: No, there isn't. However, if the remedy works for you, it won't harm you, unless you are a diabetic in which case a glass of warm milk might suffice.

To give you more information on sleeplessness, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Sleep/Wake Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Be sure to mention the title.

A relationship that has been meaningful to you in the past could grow into something even more significant in the year ahead. It is a lovely flower worth nurturing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Circumstances are currently moving in a direction today that could enable you to firm up your financial position. Although rather sparse, they can be expanded upon later. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It looks like you'll come out ahead today in a development where Lady Luck might frown upon others. Your winning edge, however, may not be too great.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Family matters of an extremely confidential nature should be kept within the confines of your home today. Do not discuss these issues with in-laws or outsiders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Old, tested and proven methods are applicable to something new in which you're presently involved. Determine how to adapt them, instead of toying with experimentation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A payoff could be in the offing for you today relating to something you've earned the hard way. Your reward will be proportionate to the efforts you've expended.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Peers with whom you'll be involved today could sense that when you speak, what you say should be taken seriously and not challenged for ego purposes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to worry needlessly today about things that may never happen. Should a crisis arise, you'll be able to manage it and deal with it effectively and swiftly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have to negotiate a matter today with someone who has been kind to you in the past, you'll have an opportunity to reciprocate with a few thoughtful concessions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions are propitious today for the fulfillment of a personal ambition. The only elements needed are singleness of purpose and consistency.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If possible today, try to participate in some type of pleasurable activity that challenges you mentally and physically. It could do wonders for your attitude and outlook.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An annoying situation looks like it will be concluded favorably today. There might be some benefits attached, but they will be rather slim.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take to heart advice given to you by a concerned friend today. Your pal might have some simplistic suggestions that could work.

Part-Time Job Is Only Stress Relief for Full-Time Mother

DEAR ABBY: I am a stay-at-home mother who is about ready to explode!

I love my children with all my heart. At one time, our first child was very sick, and we went through a lot to adopt our second child. Both experiences made me realize how deeply I love my little ones.

Lately, I have completely lost my "thrill" with motherhood and homemaking. If I have to watch "Barney" on TV one more time, wipe one more chin, change one more diaper or dust one more table, I will go berserk! What's wrong with me?

Two other stay-at-home moms in our neighborhood have left their homes and families. Both are now divorced, living in apartments, and the kids are with their fathers. What scares me is that I completely identify with these women.

I have a part-time job three mornings a week while our daughter is in preschool. I find myself looking forward to those mornings. At home I have frequent headaches, but at work I feel great.

I used to have a wide range of interests and a quick wit, but I feel my personality shriveling up and dying while I sweep, do laundry and clean up after the dog. My family needs me, I have a responsibility to them, which I fully intend to keep. I'm afraid when I'm through there won't be any "me" left. What can I do?

NOT OK KAYE

DEAR KAYE: Your feelings of being suffocated by motherhood are not uncommon. However, your first responsibility is to be a loving and caring parent. If you must spend a little more time away from your children in order to accomplish that, it doesn't mean there is anything wrong with you.

Consider increasing the time you spend at your part-time job as well as hiring someone to help with the housework. Finding a balance that works better for you will make your time with your family more enjoyable — for everyone.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For the past seven years, Jack, my live-in boyfriend, and I have parked in my garage, and my son "Al" has parked on the street. Al is a straight-A college student and has worked to pay for all of his college education. I pay the insurance on his eight-year-old car with the child support I receive.

Jack has not worked steadily in the last five years and contributes about 10 percent toward the monthly bills. I use part of it to pay the insurance on his eight-year-old truck. (He keeps his tools in a locked toolbox in the back of it.)

Al gets up every day and goes either to school or to work, returning home between 6 and 9 p.m. Jack (when he's not working) usually leaves his truck in the driveway all day and puts it in the garage at night.

Who should get to park in the garage? There are three drivers and three vehicles, but I have only a two-car garage. Please help me resolve this. I desperately need an unbiased opinion.

IN A DILEMMA

DEAR IN: Since you are the principal wage earner and pay the lion's share of household expenses, you are entitled to use the garage on a regular basis. Jack and Al should alternate on a monthly rotation.

Smith ordered to pay her maid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anna Nicole Smith must pay $830,000 to her former nanny after a nasty legal fight that saw dueling accusations of sexual harassment and slander.

Maria Antonia Cerrato, who worked for the buxom Playboy and Guess? jeans model from 1992 to 1994, sued last year, alleging she was the victim of an unwanted sexual advance from Smith.

Smith, 27, countersued, alleging Cerrato slandered her to ruin her modeling career and personal relationships, and tried to kidnap her son.

Superior Court Judge Aviva K. Bobb dismissed the countersuit in August because Smith didn't comply with rules for submitting evidence.

Cerrato then filed a cross-complaint seeking damages for time and money spent on her defense.

In the decision Friday, Bobb ruled solely on the cross-complaint, not Cerrato's claims of sexual abuse, said Smith's lawyer, Kelly Moore.

Look in back of our North Lake power plant, and you'll find, you guessed it, a lake. Two years ago, a small patch of a Southeast Asian aquatic plant called hydrilla was discovered there, causing us some concern.

You see, hydrilla grows two inches a day. That's pretty fast, if you think about it. It can grow to the surface and get in the way of skiing, fishing, swimming, virtually anything you can do in a lake. Hydrilla can also clog the power plant's intake pipes, lowering efficiency. So, as you can see, it's a real problem for everyone.

The Solution To The Problem In Our Back Yard Was Found Twelve Thousand Miles Away.

Now, there are several ways that have been used to control hydrilla. Some lakes have been completely drained while others have been bombarded with expensive chemicals. But, none of these treatments was right for us. So, we continued looking. And we found a solution that had been discovered at the source of our problem, where hydrilla came from, Southeast Asia. It's a grass-eating fish that prefers to eat hydrilla and will help to keep it in check, naturally.

Finding creative solutions like this one from halfway around the world is just one more way we're working to build a better electric company.

Watch the split

By Phillip Alder

What, according to Leon Trotsky, is the most unexpected of all the things that happen to a man?

In bridge, the expected happens most of the time. But you must be ready for the unexpected. On today's deal, Alan Truscott, bridge columnist for The New York Times, overcame the unexpected 5-0 trump split.

South's one-club opening bid was strong and artificial, showing any hand with at least 16 points. West's two hearts was a weak jump overcall. North's jump to four spades was ambitious, but he was lured by the vulnerable game bonus.

After winning the first trick with dummy's heart ace, Truscott played a diamond to his queen, cashed the diamond ace and ruffed the diamond nine in the dummy. Now came the spade 10, covered by the jack and queen. The good news was that West didn't win with the king; the bad news was that he discarded a heart.

Truscott continued with a low club. (Here, playing the ace and another club also works, but leading the low club immediately "feels" right.) West had no riposte. He went in with the king and continued with the heart queen. Declarer ruffed, played a club to dummy's queen, ruffed another heart and led the club ace. Truscott had 10 tricks: five spades in hand, the heart ace, two diamonds, one diamond ruff in the dummy and the club queen.

Trotsky claimed that old age is the most unexpected of all the things that happen to man. Maybe that's true for some people (and what about women?), but surely for everyone, the older you get, the quicker time passes.

Phillip Alder's book, "Get Smarter at Bridge," is available, autographed upon request, for $14.95 from P.O. Box 169, Roslyn Hts., NY 11577-0169.

Author revisits elementary school

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was enough to give children's author R.L. Stine goose bumps.

He stopped by all three elementary schools in Bexley, the Columbus suburb where he grew up, on Friday. At his own Montrose Elementary School, his kindergarten teacher, Barbara Drugan, met him at the door, greeted him as "Bobby" and hugged him.

"I wasn't scary in kindergarten," said Stine, the creator of the "Goosebumps" and "Fear Street" series of horror books for children and young adults.

Stine has written more than 100 books, which have sold more than 90 million copies. He received a $1 million advance for his first adult novel, the recently released "Superstitious."

Non-hormone drug approved in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Osteoporosis, the brittle bone disorder that affects about 20 million American women, now can be treated for the first time with a non-hormone drug.

The Food and Drug Administration announced Monday that it was approving the marketing of alendronate, a hormone-free drug that can be used by women unable to tolerate estrogen. The drug also can be used to treat Paget's disease, another type of bone disorder.

Studies of alendronate show it can stop the loss of bone density and allow the body to grow healthy bone.

"This approval is very important," said Sandra Raymond, a founding director of the National Osteoporosis Foundation. "This means that physicians and patients enter a new era with a broader array of treatment options for osteoporosis."

Osteoporosis is a thinning and weakening of bones that strikes about a third of all women after menopause. The disorder hits about 25 million Americans, but 80 percent of the patients are women past the age of menopause, Raymond said.

Some 7 million to 8 million women with a severe form of the disease experience spontaneous fractures, usually of bones in the back. Broken hips, legs and arms also are common. About $10 billion is spent annually on the disease, mostly for treatment of fractures.

The most common treatment for women with the disorder has been estrogen hormone replacement therapy, but thousands of women have been unable to take the hormone because of various side effects.

Alendronate is the first in a class of drugs known as bisphosphonates that work directly on bone without hormones.

Dr. Ethel Siris, director of osteoporosis programs at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, said alendronate blocks the action of excess osteoclasts, cells whose job is to dissolve worn-out bone.

Normally, the bone removed by osteoclasts is quickly replaced by other cells, the osteoblasts. But in post-menopausal women, said Siris, "the osteoclasts go wild and resorb bone too rapidly." The result is brittle bone.

Siris said alendronate works by coating the surplus osteoclasts and suppressing their action.

A series of studies involving more than 1,800 women aged 41 to 85 showed that bone strength in the spine and hip was increased by about 8 percent in those taking alendronate. Patients in a comparison group taking a placebo had a decline in bone density of about 0.65 percent.

The number of patients on alendronate suffering spinal fractures was about half the number taking a placebo who suffered them, the studies showed.

Alendronate is administered in pill form. The FDA said the drug should be taken each morning 30 to 60 minutes before eating. The agency also said patients should combine the drug with exercise and a good diet that includes adequate vitamin D and calcium intake.

Side effects from the drug were generally mild, but included nausea, heartburn, gas and abdominal pain.

Alendronate also has been approved for the treatment of Paget's disease, a disorder that strikes about 1.3 million Americans and causes enlarged and deformed bones. Siris said studies in her clinic showed that alendronate controls an abnormal form of osteoclasts and "dramatically reduces the disease," although the drug is not a cure.

Alendronate is to be marketed by Merck & Co. of West Point, Pa., under the name brand Fosamax. The company estimated the retail cost of the drug at $50 to $55 a month.

FDA OKs computer system to examine Pap smears again

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new computer system is expected to improve the reliability of Pap smears by checking for signs of cervical cancer that technicians may have missed.

Officials say the AutoPap QC system by NeoPath Inc. of Redmond, Wash., was designed to replace the random, manual rescreening of Pap smears now performed by laboratories.

The AutoPap system is the first of its kind approved by the Food and Drug Administration. An agency decision on a second system called Papnet, by NeuroMedical Systems of Suffern, N.Y., is pending.

In a Pap smear, the standard test for detecting cervical cancer, doctors scrape cells off of the cervix and examine them for abnormalities. Cervical cancer is easily treated if caught in the early stages.

But laboratories miss the abnormal cells 5 percent to 25 percent of the time, depending on the lab.

The AutoPap, approved last Friday, will automatically rescreen all normal Pap smears and then select 10 percent of the most suspicious samples for a second, manual screening.

Lab technicians currently view thousands of samples under microscopes daily. The labs are required by law to randomly select 10 percent of all samples for a second review.

"Our technology can provide an important safety net for the women whose lives may depend on accurate results," said Dr. Alan Nelson, president and chief executive officer of NeoPath Inc.

Some 50 million Pap smears are done annually in the United States.

During clinical trials of the product, NeoPath rescreened 11,751 Pap smears judged to normal by seven labs across the country and found 297, or 2.5 percent, of them to be abnormal, or positive for cancer.

But the FDA cautioned that the system is not error-proof.

Class A Thorndale on a roll for state title

DALLAS (AP) — Thorndale coach Don Cowan has some bad news for any team that thinks it has a chance of winning the Class 1A title this season.

"We're a little ahead of last year offensively. Our execution is crisper compared to this time last year," Cowan says.

Uh-oh. Last year's team scored 801 points, an average of 50 per game. How do you improve on that?

Well, so far the Bulldogs are averaging 48 points a game and just beginning to hit a stride.

This year's defense also has been stingier after four games than last year's. They've allowed only 17 points, compared to 35 for last year's team, which then had five midseason shutouts en route to allowing only 98 points in 16 games.

"Last year, we ended up giving up around 130 or 140 yards per game," Cowan said. "We started this year around 200 and now we're down to 151. Our inside linebackers are really coming along. We lost both of them, but the new kids are really coming up and making plays."

No wonder Thorndale is riding a 20-game winning streak and, for the second time this season, is the unanimous No. 1 team in Class 1A in The Associated Press high school football poll.

The Bulldogs also were a unanimous No. 1 in The Associated Press high school football poll after the first game, then were the top-ranked on all but one ballot the last two weeks.

A loss by previous No. 2 Bartlett, a tie by then-No. 3 Robert Lee and a forfeit victory by last week's No. 4 Iola helped Thorndale seal the top spot among all 30 sportswriters and broadcasters in this week's poll.

All that activity shook up the 1A rankings pretty well. Iola leaped to No. 2, Robert Lee fell to No. 7, Bartlett dropped to No. 8 and Calvert (4-0) moved in at No. 10 as Runge fell out of the poll.

A rare regular-season loss by Schulenburg helped shake up the 2A list. The Shorthorns fell from second to fifth and several other teams moved. Grand Saline's loss sent it into the ranks of "others receiving votes" and two-time defending 2A champion Goldthwaite (3-1) moved back into the poll at No. 10.

The 4A rankings also were changed slightly, most notably with Borger going out and Cedar Hill (4-0) coming in at No. 10.

Classes 5A and 3A remained virtually the same with only some minor shuffling.

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press high school football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses. Total points are based on 10 points for a first-place vote through one point for a 10th-place vote, and previous week's ranking. Voting is by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Loper wins SDN football contest

Geoffrey Loper of 3101 Ave. V was first place winner of the Snyder Daily News football contest. Loper missed five games to claim the $50 prize.

Second and third place were determined with the tie-breaker. Twenty people missed six games, but Mark McCormick of 2805 32nd was declared the second place winner. McCormick will pick up $25.

There was a tie in the tie breaking system for third between Gary Osuna of 2806 Ave. X, Apt. #C and Vanette Evarett of 4100 Brick Plant Rd. #43. Both Osuna and Evarett were five points off on the total points scored in the Snyder-Big Spring game. As a result, both will receive $7.50.

The winners will be sent a check for their effort. A new contest begins today.

Bart Starr was the Green Bay Packer quarterback for six NFL championships and two Super Bowl victories.

Breast implant firms offering another deal

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge has agreed to let women decide for themselves whether to accept a new plan to salvage something from a $4.25 billion deal to settle injury claims.

The new offer, proposed by implant makers during a series of intense negotiations over the weekend, covers far fewer women than the old deal and promises each of them less.

It failed to gain unanimous support among the team of plaintiffs' lawyers, but U.S. District Judge Sam Pointer said Monday the 440,000 women who registered to participate in the original settlement of implant claims soon would begin receiving information on the latest proposal.

The women will have the options of accepting the plan or rejecting it and suing on their own.

The new proposal would offer fewer women substantially less money than they were originally promised. Sources speaking on condition of anonymity said the maximum payment would be about $600,000, down from $1.4 million.

Although the new offer has guarantees each claimant will get their maximum allowable payment regardless of how many women file claims. Because of that provision, it is impossible to calculate the total value of the offer.

In the original deal, each participating company agreed to pay only a certain total amount. If claims exceeded estimates, the companies had the option to withdraw from the deal, or the payments could have been reduced to make sure everyone got something.

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, Snyder, TX 79550, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for the $250 cash prize. To win the $1,000 cash prize, all twenty games must be picked correctly, plus the exact score must be predicted on the tie-breaker.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.

City approves industrial park requests

The abatement program will be for an eight-year period with 100 percent of city ad valorem taxes abated for five years.

In the year 2004, the percentage will decrease to 75 percent and drop to 50 percent in 2005. Twenty-five percent of the taxes will be abated during the year 2006.

Hutchinson said all future projects of Lorber and other industries wishing to locate in the industrial park will be dealt with on an individual basis.

Besides approving the incentive package to Lorber, the council also agreed to waive all permit fees for buildings being constructed in the park. The city also approved a change in the interlocal cooperation agreement with the county which allows Scurry County to do site work at the park. The city also approved on first reading zoning changes to allow the construction of industrial buildings.

The council also passed a resolution committing city forces for the construction of industrial park infrastructure. The city is committed to the completion of 2,450 feet of sewer line, 3,500 feet of 10-inch sewer line, 3,800 liner feet of 12-inch sewer line, 11 sewer manholes and 8,650 eet of 12-inch water line, including valves and hydrants.

The value of the work is $431,080.

Also approved was the subdivision of the industsrial park and the approval of the DCOS grant application to the Economic Development Agency.

The council voted unanimously to approve all items relating to Lorber Industries and the industrial park.

The council also gave its unanimous approval to an agreement with Freese & Nichols for engineering design services associated with replacing of the water lines on 30th Street and in an area encompassed by U.S. Highway 180, Apple Street and Avenue A. in the amount of $239,100.

This will involve the replacement of 1,200 feet of 4-inch water lines in a residential area west of Scurry County Coliseum and the replacement of 5,280 feet of 12-inch water lines associated with the widening of 30th Street.

Ripley said the 30th Street project has been necessary for several years in order to replace "bottlenecks" in the water distribution system in that area.

In discussing the 30th Street project, Ripley also presented the council figures on a study of the city's water distribution system based on a 10 and 20 percent growth in population.

The council took no action on the recommendations last night.

In responding to a request from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice concerning the possibility of the construction of a unit consisting of 660 cells adjacent to the Price Daniel Unit, Roy McQueen told the council he believes that the questionnaire submitted pertains primarily with the availability of water and sewer facilities for the unit.

"If that is the case, then we are ahead of the curve in that respect," said McQueen.

He noted that when the Price Daniel Unit was constructed, the water and sewer lines were engineered to handle up to 2,000 inmates.

"A lot of the work has already been done in meeting their proposal," he said, noting that the TDCJ had asked for a response to the inquiry by Oct. 10.

McQueen added that a Freese & Nichols study indicated the only addition to the present system would be a ground level storage tank near a booster pump located west of the prison unit if the new unit is expanded to 1,320 beds.

Ripley told the council if the unit stays at 660 beds, the city will not have to make any improvements to the system.

In that light, the council voted unanimously to construct a 250,000 gallon ground storage unit at the Highway 84 pump station, if necessary, and offer the TDCJ a 10 percent discount on water costs, plus provide the meters and tie-ins at the proposed new unit.

In other matters Monday night, the council heard a financial report from Donna Fowler, executive director of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, on the chamber's second and third financial periods, nominated Ross Carroll to the board of directors of the Scurry County Appraisal District, appointed Travis Hatter and reappointed Herman Milton to the airport zoning board and tabled action on a request for funds from the Ritz Theatre.

Also, the council voted to increase the city's hotel/motel tax from six to seven percent and approved on second reading an ordinance with Midwest Electric Coop.

The council also reappointed John Fagin and Bill Seale to the DCOS board of directors.

Mayor David Holt presided and council members in attendance were Dayton Robertson, Jerry Webb, Kenny Gambrell, I.E. Martin and Ron Shaw. Vernest Tippens was absent.

Train strikes truck at crossing

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — A commuter train smashed into a flatbed truck stalled at a crossing today, derailing both of the train's passenger cars and injuring 22 people, some seriously.

The train was en route from Waterbury to Bridgeport, with a connection to New York City, when it hit the truck carrying a construction crane, said Dan Brucker, a spokesman for the Metro-North commuter railroad.

At the time, around 7:15 a.m., the train was carrying 65 to 70 passengers in two cars being pushed by a diesel locomotive, Brucker said. Both cars and the locomotive derailed but did not overturn.

No charges in shooting

A 34-year-old Snyder woman who shot her husband during an argument that turned violent will not be charged, police said today.

Mary Phipps of 3411 Ave. A had admitted to officers that she shot her husband once in the chest with a .25-caliber semi-automatic pistol during an argument on Sunday, Sept. 24.

Her husband, 35-year-old Ricky Phipps, made the 9-1-1 call which dispatched an ambulance after the early-morning shooting.

Phipps was taken to Cogdell Hospital emergency room and transferred to St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock. He was later released.

Police said Mr. Phipps has asked that no charges be filed against his wife.

Police Lt. Steve Warren said at the time of the shooting that it was a domestic dispute that began earlier in the day and escalated.
