Report Tells Of City Fifty Years Ago

BY DONNA WATSON
Fifty years ago Colorado, Texas was a booming little settlement, 230 miles west of Fort Worth and 382 miles east of El Paso.

Now in 1979, Colorado City, Texas is a thriving, growing town that has seen great strides in progress and development, yet remained surprisingly the same.

In a report made by the Chamber of Commerce dated January 20, 1928 Colorado (City was added later) was listed as ideally located on the banks of the Colorado River, where the main trunk line of the Texas and Pacific Railway crosses the river.

Four passenger trains ran daily either way, and a parlor coach service ran every hour or so operated by West Texas Coaches.

"Also, we are on the Bankhead Highway, the only trans-continental highway open all year round, connecting the East to the West and over which is the greatest tourist travel of any. Also, we are on Highway No. 1 and Highway No. 101, and further, we are on the Broadway of America which is soon to connect Broadway, New York City and Broadway, Los Angeles, California," the Chamber reported.

"We are comparatively undeveloped at the present time, when consideration is given to the potential possibilities of our agricultural, livestock, dairy herds, poultry and minerals—both oil and salt; and also, we have a clay from which high-grade brick can be made. The Colorado River furnishes an abundance of building material (both sand and gravel) for high grade buildings," it states.

"We have a Country Club, beautiful in design, modernly equipped, with a golf course for those who like golf; out-of-town guests admitted. We also have a tennis court, basketball courts, football grounds, swimming pool, and an aerial club."

The Chamber report also notes the city water supply is municipally owned and serves 1,000 consumers. "We have an abundance of good well water at all times."

Electricity is supplied by Texas Electric Service Company from a high-line to 1,000 customers, the Chamber notes.

Southwestern Bell Telephone serves 696 customers. A mechanical department and eleven persons operate a common battery, flashlight telephone system," the report comments.

Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies maintain messenger boy service and Texas Public Utilities Corporation supplies the community with "ice manufactured here in their ice factory."

The report notes, "the Community Gas Company serves us natural gas."

In 1928 the town had a volunteer fire department, according to the report. It was maintained by one paid engineer and a duplicate system of fire fighting equipment, both engine and chemical. "Our fire fighting department is as good as there is in Texas," the report proudly states.

During this era, industry in Colorado included Col-Tex Refinery, Continental Oil Mill, Colorado Compress Co., Colorado Wholesale House, Wholesale Grocery houses, eight gins, six wholesale oil agencies, sand and gravel companies.

The Chamber of Commerce is given credit for completing and maintaining the Colorado Airport, a field 1,200 feet by 1,800 feet with a standard hangar. "The field is in the charge of A. C. Coles, who is instructor for the Colorado Aerial Club and who maintains the only aeronautical school in this part of the country," the report states.

During this period the public school system consisted of four buildings, thirty teachers, "trained in the Universities and Colleges" and if high school teachers, required to hold degrees, the report states.

There was a total enrollment of 950 students with 292 pupils in high school and 62 pupils from foreign countries, according to the Chamber report.

There were seven churches serving a total population of 5,100 persons. A hospital, newly constructed; a bank with total deposits of $3,880,680; school taxes at 84c; 144,000 acres under cultivation in the county producing 43,000 bales of cotton and 24 blocks of pavement, featuring "two and one-half miles of lighted, beautiful white way giving all night service."

Property values for the county were $9,100,000 and property values in Colorado were $3,880,680.

County Has Possibility For Good Cotton Crop

"We have the potential for an outstanding cotton crop but we will need a hot, dry Fall and a later than usual freeze," Mitchell County Extension Agent Bob Benson said Tuesday as he discussed the area cotton prospects for 1979.

He added these conditions were going to be necessary because most of the cotton had been planted later than normal due to the rains in the Spring and Summer.

Benson said if the conditions do come around, this year's crop could approach the record Mitchell County crop of 1977 in which about 68,000 bales were ginned. In that year the county had a hot, dry September which promoted maturity and this in addition to the fact that the cotton had been planted early, combined to produce a bumper yield.

There have been 75,428 acres of cotton certified this year in Mitchell County and Benson stated he expected from 70,000-71,000 acres to be harvested.

The Extension Agent said this year has been unusual because there has been no stress for moisture at any time during this growing season.

He said as far as he knew, the entire county has had ample rainfall and in some areas, particularly in the Buford, China Grove areas, there has been more than necessary and as a result some of the cotton hasn't grown as it should.

Benson added the insect damage, so far, has been light. He said early in the season some of the cotton had been hurt because of grasshoppers and fleahoppers but that of late, this hasn't been a problem.

The main things needed now, Benson said, are just some hot days. Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service Director Don Stewart agreed with Benson that the potential was there for an outstanding cotton crop.

He added it has been a strange year, however, in that at its beginning, the area had only marginal moisture and has had so much rain since that time.

He stated even if the county doesn't receive any more rain for the rest of the growing season, the crop will still be in good shape. This is unusual, he said, because in most years more rain is always needed.

The director also noted in the northeastern part of the county, around China Grove, there has been too much rain, as much as 25 inches in some places, which slowed the growth of some of the cotton.

Stewart said his main concern right now is for any hail damage the crops may receive. He added there had been spots of hail southwest of Colorado City and also south and southwest of Lake Colorado City.

Two brothers who farm north of Loraine echoed Benson and Stewart's optimistic forecast for this year's crop, at least as far as their own prospects are concerned.

Wayne and Dean Oliver farm about three miles north of Loraine. Both brothers farm about 500 acres and they stated if everything falls into place they will make about a bale an acre as compared to slightly less than a bale an acre last year.

They stated they have received from 16-18 inches of rain this year, which is above average.

They both also stated they have seen less insect damage so far this year, than at any other time since they have been in the area.

Farm Tour Aug. 31

The Annual Mitchell County Farm Tour is set for August 31, 1979. The Chamber of Commerce will provide coffee and doughnuts from 8 until 8:45 a.m. at the Civic Center.

The tour will leave the Civic Center at 8:45 a.m. and return by noon for a barbecue lunch. U. S. Representative Charles Stenholm will be the luncheon speaker. Tickets for the lunch will be available the day of the tour at the Civic Center for $4.

Summer Over For Colorado Faculty

School officially opened for Colorado City teachers at 9 a.m. Wednesday with a coffee at the Colorado Middle School Cafeteria sponsored by the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

Roy Byrd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church led off the program at 9:30 a.m. with the invocation. He was followed by the introduction of the faculty by Superintendent Charlie Uselton and then a welcome to the teachers by School Board President T.L. Rees and Chamber of Commerce President Mac McKinnon.

As the main part of the morning's activities, Uselton discussed the School's goals and objectives for the 1979-80 school year.

Uselton stated that one of the most important things he felt the faculty should work on this year was a spirit of communication and co-operation so that all of the teachers would be working toward a common goal.

He stated that all of the teachers in any particular grade level should be working so that all of the youngsters in that grade will have achieved the same level in their studies by the end of the year.

Uselton said that there should also be communication between different grade levels so that the teachers in that grade will know how much the youngsters have achieved in the previous grade.

Uselton stated that two of the main areas in which the school will be seeking improvement this year will be in its math and reading programs.

He also said that the school will also be seeking improvement in the achievement scores of the youngsters at the end of the years.

The Superintendent urged the faculty members to take every advantage to continue their professional education whenever possible and he urged them to think positively about themselves, about their school and about the youngsters they teach.

He added that one of the problems in our schools and in all areas of our lives is that we have adopted a negative attitude about ourselves and the world around us.

Lastly, Uselton clarified some of the school's policies such as the sick leave policy in which the state gives five days sick leave and the school also gives five See FACULTY Page 2

Lake Levels Hold

Lake levels have held steady during this month due to rainfall. August 14, Lake Colorado City was at 20.60 feet above sea level, about 17,976 acre feet of water. August 21, Lake Colorado City was at 20.59.90, about 17,864 acre feet of water.

Lake Champion, on August 14 was at 20.52.90 feet above sea level, about 10,815 acre feet of water. The same lake on August 21 was at 20.52 feet above sea level, about 10,880 acre feet of water.

The two day rains, August 20-21, and run-off increased lake levels one tenth of a foot.

County Fathers Slash Expenses

No one appeared before the County Commissioner's Court during a public hearing Monday in which Commissioners set the 1980 budget.

During the session which lasted all morning, commissioners decided to cut expenses by eliminating salaries of one employee in the library, county clerk's office, sheriff's department and four employees from the different precincts.

"It is not an easy decision. In view of the financial situation, it is one of those decisions we felt we had to make and stick to," Commissioner Paul Hunter commented.

The total budget amounts to $1,145,747 in expenses and $1,154,700 in income from all sources.

During the session Judge Bill Carter noted there will be a carry over in income from the 1979 budget of about $60,000 in the roads and bridges fund.

"This money is to be spent in 1980 to purchase title and right of way for a new farm to market road connecting Lake Champion and Lake Colorado City. Part of the funds will be utilized in defraying the expense of relocating utilities, pipe and fence lines," Carter stated.

Commissioners agreed to purchase the right of ways obtained by the Texas Highway Department and to carry part of the expenses into the 1981 budget if necessary. Carter told Commissioners the department anticipated having the deeds by December 31. Total cost for the projects is estimated at $78,975.

The district attorney's office will have an assistant and secretary added according to next year's budget. This office serves three counties and the expenses are divided equally between the three.

A seven per cent increase in wages was included for all county employees as Commissioners approved the budget.

As a part of the meeting and in trying to determine the anticipated income for the coming years, County Tax Assessor Mike Burt explained the formula See COUNTY Page 8

Beef Referendum Proposal Announced By Agricultural Department, Comments Requested

The Department of Agriculture announced August 16 a proposal to hold a beef referendum, according to Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

Executive Director Don Stewart. Several changes in the rules governing the holding of beef referendums have been proposed by the Department of Agriculture and comments are requested from producers on these proposed changes, Stewart said. Comments must be received no later than October 9, 1979 in order to be assured of consideration, he noted.

Changes in current rulings include a change in time allowed for registration from 12 days to four days.

Another proposed change makes only a majority vote necessary instead of the two-thirds previously required.

Voting procedures are also to be changed, allowing voting to be in person or by mail. A producer wishing to vote by mail may request the county ASCS office to mail the producer a ballot.

Ballots will be issued only to eligible cattle producers who have registered to vote. Ballots will not be provided nor accepted prior to the voting period. Each registered cattle producer voting must obtain and cast a ballot on authorized forms with the ASCS office in which that producer registered, Stewart stated.

The proposed amendment also allows voting without the producers signature in order to provide for more confidentiality in the casting of secret ballots.

The time limit for challenges to be made is also being shortened from the end of the voting period to the beginning of the voting period. There will still be sufficient time for challenges since challenges may be made anytime during the four day registration period as well as during the ten days between the registration and voting periods, Stewart remarked.

The public is invited to submit written comments, suggestions or objections regarding the proposed amendments to the Hearing Clerk, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, he said.

Producers should include their name and address and give reasons for any suggested change in the proposed amendments, Stewart commented.

Anyone having questions may contact Stewart at 728-3101.

THE NEW SCOREBOARD at Wolf Stadium is up and only needs to be wired to be ready to go for the season home opener against Post on Sept. 28. The scoreboard was donated by The City National Bank.

In the course of many years in my work numerous facts and statistics which are relatively unimportant but usually pretty interesting come to notice. I thought perhaps it might be well to share some of them with you.

For instance, one of every five persons on this earth is Chinese. That is food for thought if we ever have a war with China.

A person's hair grows faster in the morning than at any other time.

Some full grown sharks are only five inches long.

Dogs sweat through their foot pads and noses.

There is one doctor in the United States for every 621 people, and one hospital for every 130.

There are books on the law in several states stating that, when two vehicles meet at an intersection neither one shall move until the other has passed.

There are nine animals which give milk for human consumption: the cow, the reindeer, the goat, the zebu, the buffalo, the camel, the llama, the sheep and the yak. The yak, incidentally gives pink milk.

A lake in Massachusetts is called Lake Chagogagoggmanchaubunagungamaugg. It means "fishing place at the boundaries; neutral meeting grounds," or, according to the more popular translation, "You fish on your side, I fish on my side, no one fish in the middle."

Spaghetti was invented by the Chinese.

According to scientists, the zebra is a white animal with black stripes, not the other way around.

One issue of the New York Times was 946 pages long.

Laura Ingalls Wilder, one of the best-known writers for children and author of THE LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE, began writing at the age of 65.

And last but very heartening, the Bible is still the best selling book in the world.

Try Test For Inflation

Learn to live with—and beat—inflation, says Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Try this "inflation test" and see just how much inflation has affected your family:

—Look up your 1967 tax return and write down your income after deducting federal taxes and social security.

—Write down the same after-tax figure from your 1978 tax return.

—If the 1978 figure is not approximately twice as large as the 1967 figure, your income has gone down since 1967.

Get A Specialist To Do A Specialized Job

A recent almanac reported an event that occurred just prior to the turn of the century in which a cowboy was suffering a severe toothache and went to the local blacksmith to have the tooth extracted. The smith carefully placed his iron tongs against the troublesome tooth and yanked. The result being, he extracted the tooth causing the problem along with the tooth on either side of it, and a sizable chunk of jaw bone. The moral of the story is, if you have a specialized job to be performed, get a specialist to perform it.

Diligent homeowners who carefully examine the security of their homes and discover the need for new locks on their exterior doors will oftentimes purchase locking devices that do not fit the existing pre-cut backset or they will purchase deadbolt locks which require a new installation. That in itself is not a problem. And indeed even a minimum hedge against the average burglar will be beneficial in keeping him out of your house. The real problem is two-fold. One; making an adequate determination as to the kind of security needed, and two; getting the lock installed. The police can be a big help in advising you about residential security and should be consulted before spending a lot of money on items that may be unnecessary. However, the installation of the locking devices will likely be a real problem unless a "specialist" is called in to perform the necessary work. Installing locks does not have to be like pulling teeth, but if a competent carpenter is not employed, the end result could be almost as painful.

Protect your family and your property by discussing your security needs with the local police. If together you determine that locks are needed, have them installed by competent technicians. You would not ask a blacksmith to pull your teeth, don't ask anyone but a competent carpenter to install your locks.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN Governor Bill Clements, never one to pull his punches, tilted the political gyroscope again last week with new statements on the promised special session—and left Capitol watchers scrambling to place new bets.

The Governor, speaking to members of the Texas Public Employees Association, said he sympathized with their need for a salary increase to fight inflation and would consider including raises in an upcoming special session.

Many topics have been suggested for that special session, and if Clements added to the list last week, he also discarded the possibility of including the presidential primary bill in his promised call. On his televised "Governor's Report," Clements ruled out the primary, and added he might wait until August or September, 1980 to call the special session.

That timing would move the special session to just before the general election, instead of just before the primary election in the spring, as Clements had earlier indicated he would do. Speculation has it that Clements, in the interest of building a two-party state, will call the special session to distract legislative incumbents from their respective elections, thus creating advantages for their mostly Republican opponents.

Supporters of Clements stressed that he is more interested in passing the initiative and referendum and wire-tapping bills, and the close timing of the special call will pressure lawmakers to vote his way.

Clayton Opposes Unionization

Speaker of the House Bill Clayton, also addressing the TPEA meeting, warned that unionization of state employees would result in disruption of government and dissension among workers.

"Any fight for unionization would pit state employees against state taxpayers. Any such fight would produce only losers."

The 31,800-member TPEA is Texas' largest state employee organization and officially opposes unionization of state workers.

Clayton now joins Clements and Hobby as topranking state officials who oppose the unionization concept proposed by State Comptroller Bob Bullock at a recent Texas AFL-CIO meeting.

Bullock defended his concept again last week, saying that private firms were hiring away top state workers because state pay is too low.

"Thousands of our state workers are eligible for food stamps, but are too proud to apply for them," Bullock told reporters on a television program.

Bullock called on Clements to include "a living wage" in the special session.

Border Oil Commission?

Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner has raised the idea of a border oil commission between the United States and Mexico to

The present oil spill in the Gulf, which is sending large patches of oil and "tar balls" up onto Texas beaches may be opening energy doors between Texas and Mexico.

Governor Clements thinks he is opening up "a whole new exchange" with Mexican leaders, and criticized the press for "overstating" the ill effects of the largest oil spill in history. "It's like squealing before you're hurt, and we're not hurt yet."

Clements also mixed the idea of Texas suing Mexico for damages to Texas beaches, and predicted the oil well will be capped soon. He also warned Texans to prepare themselves for $1.50-per-gallon gasoline in the future.

Lawmaker Eyes Switch

Dallas State Rep. Clay Smothers, an ultra-conservative black Democrat, said he will switch parties and challenge Democratic U. S. Rep. Martin Frost next year. Smothers is the first to publicly announce he will change political parties next year, and he is not expected to be alone.

Governor Clements predicts maybe 30 Democratic office-holders will switch parties before 1980 elections.

Another touted cross-over possibility is Rep. Douglas McCleod of Galveston, who may leave the Democrats to run against Sen. A. R. Schwartz as a Republican.

Meanwhile, State Rep. Wayne Paveto intends to remain a Democrat if he runs for State Comptroller Bullock's seat. Paveto, a "lawyer-farmer" from Orange, authored the new state property tax code and may make the race if Bullock retires from politics—or runs for Governor of Texas.

Neighborhood Watch Workshop Is Available

The National Crime Prevention Institute headquartered at the University of Louisville, Kentucky has been a forerunner of all such efforts in the United States and has trained several thousand men and women from local law enforcement agencies to help the community workshop concept. Although it is known by several different names: Neighborhood Watch, Watch Alert, "etc.," the neighborhood workshop idea has been proven beneficial in reducing burglary and theft in the communities that organize workshops.

Perhaps the most amazing thing about the whole matter is its simplicity. All that is needed is for a family to invite their neighbors (living within one or two blocks of them) to their home for snacks and coffee.

All that remains is to have a law enforcement officer meet with the group to discuss home and community security needs, and demonstrate to the participants how all of them either as individuals or as a group effort, can improve personal safety and residential security.

If you would like to hold a crime prevention neighborhood workshop in your home, get your neighbors together and have a law enforcement officer conduct the security workshop.

You and your neighbors will be better off for your efforts.

Agape And Rose Circles Hear Reports From Ratliff, Fox and And Garrett

The United Methodist Women of the First United Methodist Church held its annual meeting on August 13 at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Church. This was a joint meeting of the Agape and Rose Circles to hear reports from the Christian Schools of Missions held at SMU, Dallas, and Texas Tech, Lubbock. A salad supper was served with Rev. Ron Hamby giving the invocation and opening prayer.

The meeting was called to order by UMW President, Della Fox. The devotion was given by Sandy Schaffer, chairman of the Rose Circle, entitled "Prayer", taken from the book "The Edge of Adventure" by Keith Miller and Bruce Larson. The main theme was

"With Whom Should I Pray?", "When Should I Pray?", "Listen When You Pray", "Respond Immediately to Guidance", "Be Positive When You Pray" and "Pray Believing". Sandy also said that one should believe that Christ loves you, even more than you love yourself (John 15:13), believing that all power is His, physically as well as spiritually (Matt. 28:18). Believe that He is there with you when you pray (Matt. 28:20) and then the Lord will say to you "Whatsoever you ask in my name I will do it".

The Schools of Mission were attended by Peggy Ratliff, Della Fox and Nelda Garrett. Nelda reported on a course taken at the Regional School, SMU, on the book "Paradox & Promise in Human Rights" by Peggy Billings and "Of Life and Hope, Toward Effective Witness in Human Rights" by Mia Adjali. All areas of Human Rights were studied including U. S. and Canadian Policies; U. S. International Relations; Migrant Labor; Torture; Aliens; Economic Health of the Community; To secure a correction of Abuses; To Democratize the System of Education; Systems Dealing with Conflicts and Crimes; Health Care; Availability of Food; Freedom of Movement and particularly the Rights of the Child.

The second course, taken by Nelda at Lubbock, was "Sojourn in Mosaic" by Robert A. Elfers and "Conflict or Community" by David H. Bowman. This was a study taught by Dr. Vernon Henderson, Lubbock, on the Middle East Countries, their peoples, religions, political views, backgrounds and histories, desires for peace as individuals, their need for rights as individuals, races, communities, their problems and their search for a greater understanding of themselves, their faith and heritage.

Della Fox, told about the study "The Parables" taught by Mrs. Treva Hall and Mrs. Mary May. Her main topics were:

Suddenness of the Coming of the New Age as shown by the parables of the Doorkeeper, the Faithful and Wise Servant, The Burglar, the Fig Tree and the Ten Maidens;

Joy of the New Age, portrayed by the parables of the "Lost Sheep", Lost Coin, Prodigal Son, Hidden Treasure and of the Pearl of Great Price;

Assurance of the New Age illustrated by the parables of the Sower, Seeds Growing Secretly, Mustard Seed, the Leaven, Closed door, Last Judgement, Talents and Wicked Tenants;

Living in New Age, The Search for a New Messiah, the Shock of the unexpected and the Church as the Parable of the New Age.

This was a very informative outline of some of the Parables given in the Bible from Matthew, Mark and Luke. Officer responsibility sessions were also attended during the schools.

The UMW president presided over a short business meeting and Debbie Carlock, treasurer, gave a report. Nominating committees of the Circles and the UMW were reminded that officers for the new year should be elected in November, term of office to begin January 1, 1980.

The meeting adjourned, urging that more members should attend the Northwest Texas Conference Meetings and the Schools of Missions. They are informative and help carry on work for interesting programs in the local work of the United Methodist Women.

Family Reunion Enjoyed

The Tarter-Garrett family reunion was held July 29 in the Lone Wolf electric Co-op with 57 family members and friends attending.

Others attending included Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tarter of Irving; Kenneth Tarter of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Allsup of Kerrville; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Smith and son of Stephenville and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hines and son of Snyder.

Do You Like Your Self Image?

...Change It!

Do you like your self-image? Your life may depend on it.

If you don't like it, change it, says Jenny Reinhardt, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Others Teach 'Self-View'

Others teach us self-worth or self-image from our earliest years on.

By the teen years, individuals have the mental maturity to decide how they will view themselves, however, Ms. Reinhardt says.

"At this point, individuals can take a serious look at the 'messages' others have given."

"Each individual then can choose which 'messages' to continue believing and which ones to discard."

Discard Harmful Messages

This sorting process is important, because we all receive some messages from others that do not contribute to a strong and healthy self-image.

"Messages that hurt our self-image are the one to discard, because a strong self-image is the foundation of sound mental health—and it may be the key ingredient in a successful and happy life," Ms. Reinhardt stresses.

A Strong Self-Image

Building a good self-image is the most important task an individual has in his mental and emotional development—and it's among the greatest challenges of parenthood, she explains.

Individuals with high self-esteem are more likely to achieve the goals they have for themselves—and those others have for them.

Because every person's mental health and life's successes depend on a strong self-image, it's vital that we understand what our self-image is and how it grows—so we can change it ourselves when it needs strengthening, the specialist says.

Office To Be Closed Aug. 27

Texas Department of Public Safety Driver's License Division located in the County Court House will be closed August 27.

Department officials stated the office will be open for its regular schedule the remainder of the week.

Oil Report

Wainco, Inc., Midland, will drill the No. 1 Ethel Thompson, an 8,500-foot wildcat in northwest Mitchell County, 1½ miles east of an 8,338-foot failure, three miles west and slightly south of the Coleman Ranch (Clearfork) field, approximately 3½ miles east of the depleted Vincent, East (lower Canyon) field and the same distance east-southeast of the one-well Coronet (Canyon) field Howard County, and 16 miles southwest of Snyder.

Location is 2,173 feet from the north and 900 feet from the east lines of 7-26-H&CT.

The failure, Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Wornack, et al, was abandoned Oct. 17, 1950.

The Vincent, East field produced at 7,640 feet and the Canyon production in the Coronet field is at 7,497 feet.

THE COLORADO CITY GARDEN CLUB honored Mrs. Naomi Elliott during their meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of Lorraine. Mrs. Elliott will be moving to San Angelo in the near future.

Are Your Windows Burglar Proof?

We sometimes feel secure in that our doors and windows are locked and all our property or at least most of it is marked for identification and therefore, is more readily identifiable and more likely to be returned to us if it is stolen. However, all the potential problems are not totally eliminated by having good locks and adequately marked property. The creative thief has discovered how to enter your storehouse or business, or any other structure with out-swinging doors, and to do so with little or no effort.

Because most back doors to businesses and the doors on most store-houses swing to the outside, the hinge pins are on the outside. To enter, the thief merely lifts out the hinge pins and removes the door.

However, you can and should be just as creative in removing the opportunity for the thief to enter your premises. All you have to do is drill a hole into the sleeve of the hinge with the door open and insert a set screw in the hole, forcing against the hinge pins. The door is now burglar resistant as the hinge pins cannot be removed while the door is closed.

Tid-Bits For Thought

As a major drawback for single-parent fathers or mothers is the decrease in the amount of time spent alone with adults, points out Jenny Reinhardt, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Textile imports continue to concern domestic industry, says Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Imports of textile and apparel products rose 24 per cent in the first six months of 1978 over the volume shipped during the same period in 1977, Miss Rhoades reports.

The most important resource available to each individual is himself, says family resource management specialist.

Recognize that money is not the only resource, advises Lillian Chenoweth, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

used to arrive at productivity under the new tax laws.

Burt explained that a productivity figure would be obtained for each farm. He noted in Mitchell County 82 per cent of all crop land is planted in cotton, 10 per cent is grain and sorghum and eight per cent is wheat.

Burt, working with Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service figured a five year average yield on farms listed as number one farm land, number two farm land, number one grassland and number two grassland.

An overall average income per acre for cotton, grain sorghum and wheat were computed.

These averages included income derived from seed, lint and dis-aster payments as well as the crop.

An average expense was computed in a similar manner. The expense was then subtracted from the income and the resulting figure divided by the percentage of farm or grassland within the county devoted to that particular crop.

This resulting figure was then divided by the 11 per cent capitalization figure currently effective, Burt said.

The resulting value of productivity per acre on number one farm land is $210 as compared to the county valuation at $60; on number two farm land it is $100 as compared to the county valuation at $45.

Productivity value per acre on number one grassland is $36 as compared to county valuation at $20.

These figures will be

Reunion Sept. 8

Mitchell County Old-Timers Reunion will hold its annual celebration September 8, 1979, according to chairman Margaret Oyler.

"We need interested persons to please make reservations not later than September 1," Mrs. Oyler commented.

Reservations may be made by contacting Margaret Oyler at 728-2240 or 728-2090.

Registration will be held at the Civic Center located at 157 West Second, from 8:30 a.m.-9:30 a.m.

A social hour will be held from 9:30-10:30 a.m. and a special program will be given at 10:30 a.m., Mrs. Oyler noted.

A noon luncheon at the Civic Center will be served with tickets available for $4 at registration.

The group will tour the playhouse, library and museum at 1:30 p.m. and then go to local historical marker and medallion sites at 3:30 p.m., Mrs. Oyler stated.

teachers. School taxes are currently at $1.71.

Missouri Pacific Railroad (formerly Texas and Pacific) still runs daily and the airport has expanded to 3,000 feet of runway, plus the recently acquired 9,000 feet at the Auxiliary Airfield.

Volunteer firemen are still in the picture but have increased to an eight unit system.

Root Memorial Hospital has grown to a 39 patient room facility and two rest homes serve Colorado City at present.

With the anticipated construction of a $2,000,000 shopping center and an active Chamber of Commerce on the verge of bringing large industry into the city, the next fifty years in the history of Colorado City are waiting to be written.

Cotton Meeting Today

A meeting to discuss the 1979 cotton scouting program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today (Thursday) at the Lone Wolf Medallion Room.

According to County Entomologist Bill Jany, all area producers are invited to attend and offer their comments about this year's program or how next year's program may be improved.

The current insect situation in Mitchell County will also be a topic of discussion.

Loraine Gridders Making Progress

"The guys are head and shoulders above where I thought they would be at this point," Loraine Head Coach Roddy Clack stated Friday in looking over his Bulldog team's progress after a week of workouts.

Clack noted several players have been especially outstanding, including Casey Merket at tailback and quarterback, Junior Martinez at wingback, David Finley at right guard and linebacker and Frank Sanchez at safety.

The head coach said he has been able to install about one-half of his offensive plays and also about one-half of his defensive stunts.

The only injury has been Eddie Lujan, who has had problems with his neck.

The Bulldogs now have 25 players out, having started with 26.

They will scrimmage New Home here at 6:30 p.m. Friday and the coach said he uses the scrimmages simply as a chance to look at different people and experience.

Loraine's second scrimmage will be against Merton, there, at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 31.

The varsity will open their season against Dawson, here, on Sept. 7.

used, according to Burt for the assessment this year. He said the Commissioners will choose whether or not to go to 100 per cent valuation in 1980 and the new tax law requires the 100 per cent to be effective in 1981.

"To me this is a realistic productivity value," Burt told Commissioners. Burt also noted this year 97.8 per cent of all taxes have been collected.

In other business Commissioners accepted the bid from Lydick Hooks Roofing Company of Abilene for $3,500 to replace the roof on the Community Care Building.

Approval to purchase three new calculators at a cost of about $300 each to replace worn out old ones was also made during the session.

Wolves To Scrimmage Frenship Tigers Friday

Colorado City's Wolves will see their first taste of action against another team Friday when they face Frenship in a controlled scrimmage at Wolf Stadium.

The junior varsity scrimmage will start at 6:30 p.m. followed by the varsity scrimmage about 8 p.m. The new sound system and scoreboard are expected to be in operation in time for the scrimmage.

New-Head Coach Tom Ramsey also noted that the public will also have a chance to meet all the football teams, junior high through varsity, as well as the coaching staff at a Pigskin Preview set for 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 30. Bands, cheerleaders and pep squads also will be present at the Pigskin Preview, Ramsey noted.

During the upcoming scrimmage with Frenship, Ramsey pointed out that the Wolves will use only about one-third of their offense and defense and a lot of time will be devoted to looking at players and seeing what they can do at different positions. There will be no stunting on defense for the scrimmage, he added.

On offense, the Wolves will run out of the Houston Veer while on defense, Colorado City will be in a split-six formation, somewhat similar to the split four used in previous years. This is geared to stop the run.

The Wolves started workouts Aug. 13 and went into pads Friday for two-a-day workouts. Saturday morning, an intra-squad scrimmage was held and during that session, one senior was lost for the year. Clay Hammond, punter, defensive back and offensive quarterback candidate, suffered an ankle injury and had to undergo surgery Tuesday.

Hammond and Mark Carter were vying for the quarterback job and with the loss of Hammond, Chuck Claxton has moved from end to reserve quarterback, Russell Noel will take care of the punting chores and someone else will have to fill in on defense, Ramsey said.

Kick-offs, extra points and field goals will be booted by Sophomore Lynn Williams.

About the intra-squad scrimmage Saturday, Ramsey said he was satisfied although timing was off and the players' legs were dead from hard practice. The biggest disappointment was in the passing game, the Coach said.

Two touchdowns were scored on the varsity level and several on the junior varsity contest. Only the basic offense was used in the scrimmage, Ramsey noted, adding that more offense is being added this week.

He noted that during the scrimmage this week against Frenship and again next week against Crane, the coaches will be experimenting. Twenty-seven players are now being carried on the varsity, Ramsey said.

Insects Are A Threat

Insects are not the only pests that threaten home gardens. Birds may peck ripening fruit or young seedlings. Moles or gophers may burrow through the garden destroying plant roots. Ground squirrels, mice and rabbits may destroy plants. Deer may be a problem in some areas.

Birds are one of the most common pests besides insects. They can't be fenced out because they can fly in from the top. You wouldn't mind sharing with them if they would eat one or two peaches but instead they tend to peck every peach on the tree.

Keep fruit trees small by pruning, so the tree will be small enough to cover with a bird net. If your fruit tree is too large you'll have to find other methods. Try keeping a bird feeder full of grain during ripening time.

For small gardens use one-inch lumber to make a frame. Cover this with screen wire or hardware cloth then place it on the ground and over the young plants to be protected.

What about mice, rabbits, and deer? Recent University of Maryland research shows that hot sauce made from chili peppers may be used to repel these pests from plants. Mix one tablespoon of either Tabasco sauce or Louisiana Hot Sauce with one gallon of water for a spray. To make the spray stick to the bark of trees all winter add two tablespoons per gallon of an anti-desiccant such as "wiltpruf". Apply the spray when temperatures are above 40 degrees F.

When using the hot sauce spray on plant leaves during summer, add one tablespoon per gallon of anti-desiccant but spray rapidly growing plants every 10 to 14 days. Tests show that deer check the plants frequently and will discover the new growth is free of repellent. Christmas tree growers are trying this hot sauce spray.

BILL MACK

Someone once told me: "Within every human being there is a song."

When I first heard that statement it sounded as incidental as "frogs cause wars" or "there is no cure for the common cold." However, after having spent the better part of my life as a country music disc jockey, songwriter and performer, I recall that sentence by someone in my distant past as a statement that should be placed in the same category as "Remember the Alamo!" and "Buy War Bonds."

Although I am not so sure there is a song in every human being, I do know there are countless people who have written what they personally consider to be a good song or a poem that could be put to music.

I have been approached by good folks with a song scribbled on paper in various geographical locations: from my barber's chair to the fathers' waiting room at the hospital with the identical question on their lips: "I've written a song. What do I do with it?"

Should I reply with "Forget it," as some music publishers and advisers reacted to my same question during my beginning as a song writer of some note? That would be wrong. There are no two words more chilling and discouraging than "forget it" to someone who has given or is in the process of giving birth to a potential masterpiece.

After all is considered, there might have never been such a creation as "Cold Cold Heart." Your "Cheating Heart" and dozens more melodic moments had Hank Williams accepted the words "forget it" after seeking advice. And can you imagine the universe without "White Christmas," "God Bless America" and "Easter Parade"? It's fortunate for all of us that Irving Berlin never accepted those two words.

If you have written a song that you feel is something special, seek out avenues. First of all, you should copyright the song. This is a simple yet very valuable procedure that will take only a few minutes of your time and a couple of dollars or so to protect your creation. Send a letter to Department of Copyright, Washington, D.C. for a self explanatory form. If you know an honest music publisher (and most of them are honest) who is interested in your song, he will copyright your musical invention after the signing of a contract. (It might be wise to have your attorney check the contract before signing.)

How do you know you have placed your potential hit in the hands of an honest music publisher? Check some of the tunes he claims to have published. If possible, check with some of the other songwriters he has represented.

You might be wise in contacting the Country Music Association in Nashville to see if he is a member and attempt to gather some information on his standing when it comes to reputation within the industry. If he is no longer a member, it might arouse doubt to his capability and give you incentive to check deeper (although being a member of the CMA is not a cure-all).

Never pay anyone to publish your composition. If the publisher has honest faith in your works he will pay you, although not necessarily at the signing of a contract. He will compensate you after he has received money due from the various recording companies that have placed your tune on records, tapes or TV and motion picture performances.

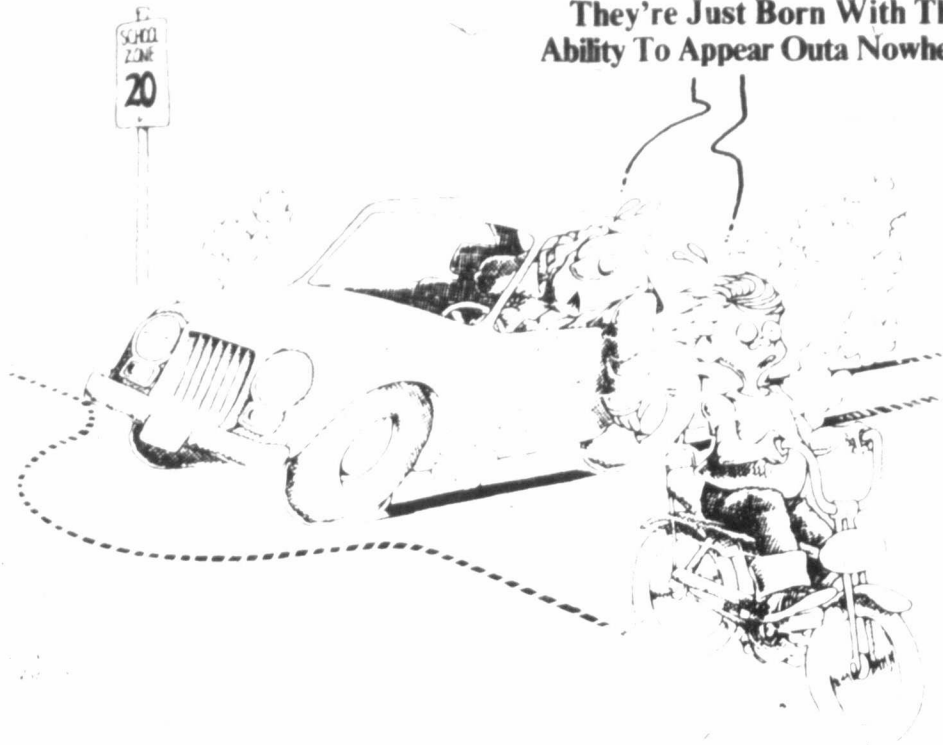

Make certain that your composition has been licensed through BMI, ASCAP or SESAC and that you have been indexed as a composer through one of the above mentioned licensing organizations. There is more loot for you via this important act. Your publisher, if honest, will explain and aid you in this department.

Finally, never sing or recite your work of art to another songwriter without the benefit of copyright.

I know of a songwriter who has had a few hits and made a job of money although he has never written a word to a lyric or a note of music. He accumulated a small fortune by taking the ideas of hungry songwriters, usually beginners, who had casually performed their songs to him while desperately attempting to get a foot in the door of musical entertainment.

Still want to put your melody in the competitive mill? Well, do it... but with caution. The world is always waiting for a new song.

Help Your Child Cope

...School Is Here

Summer leisure-time will soon be giving way to preparation for the next school term. For many boys and girls, it will mean their first real venture away from the constant and watchful eye of their parents. In many cases such a traumatic experience results in a serious fear or excessive apprehension on the part of the youngsters. After all, it is only natural for a child who is placed into a strange environment to experience a sense of anxiety. You can help your child cope with the problems he faces during his first few days of school by showing the youngster that you are truly pleased with the progress the child has made.

It is also very important that your youngsters be thoroughly instructed as to what to expect of them while away from the family home. Many of the children will be riding a bus for the first time. They should be taught how to board and exit the bus safely as well as told how to conduct themselves while traveling to and from school.

The youngsters who will be walking or riding their bicycle from their home to the school and back must be told what route to take and should not be allowed to take alternate routes without their parents' consent; while at school, children must never leave the playground during the school hours without permission; your youngster must never accept rides to or from school without your consent.

If you take the time to sit down with your children and show them that you care enough about their happiness to teach them responsibility, proper conduct, and respect for others, you will surely share in the joys of your children and your children's children.

Stenholm announces that Mitchell County has become eligible for $6,408.28 additional Title I funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act as amended by Public Law 95-561, Financial Assistance to Meet Special Educational Needs of Children. The school district within the County will be receiving additional information from the Texas Education Agency as to their eligibility for these funds.

Congressional Comment

By Charles Stenholm

According to traditional economic thinking, inflation is caused by excess demand in relation to supply and a recession is the result of a decrease in the economic growth rate. Ten years ago most economists would have told you that it was impossible to experience both of these problems at the same time. The Recession of 1975 overturned this concept as we faced double digit inflation and large scale unemployment. Outdated proposals were used to combat "stagflation." The emphasis was placed on stimulating the demand for goods, we printed more money in order to spend more and found ourselves with a much larger Federal debt, and a greater number of Federal programs. The issue of inflation was not adequately addressed and it is still with us today.

As we now appear headed for another economic downturn, it is time to start planning how we will face the next recession. The Joint Economic Committee (JEC), under the leadership of our own Senator Benton, has proposed that more emphasis be placed on the supply side of the economy. With increased production we can promote employment and decrease inflation at the same time. By encouraging businesses to modernize their plant and equipment, more goods will be produced and more workers will be hired.

Clearly, we can do better than we have done in the past. The Joint Economic Committee has advocated a responsible plan which I believe should be adopted. These policies include moderation in fiscal and monetary policy to fight inflation. A reduction of tax barriers is needed to improve competitiveness and increase productivity, growth and employment. Accelerated depreciation rates would allow business to invest in new plant equipment. A liberalized unemployment tax credit would help employers hire more workers. The JEC also called for a concerted effort to reduce redtape and regulation and speed economic development. It is my belief that my proposed sunset bill would reduce unnecessary government spending and regulation. This legislation would require government programs to be reauthorized by Congress every ten years or they would go out of existence. Also we should adopt a two-tier regulation system that would relieve some of the compliance costs for small businesses. Traditionally, government regulation has been applied equally to all firms across the board, without regard to the company size or impact on the economy. It is time that the Congress and regulatory agencies provide flexibility in all regulations that would reduce paperwork and compliance costs for small businesses.

A commitment to these goals would do a great deal to improve economic stability at home and improve our leadership position around the world.

Basic Suggestions For Managing Resources

If your buying power has been cut, like most average U. S. families, there are three basic suggestions for managing family resources:

Evaluate Living Level

Evaluate your level of living.

You may want to change your lifestyle and live with fewer bought goods and services. Changes in attitudes and values accompany a change in lifestyle.

To simplify and live with fewer material goods does not necessarily mean lowering the quality of life. Sometimes, less is more.

Expand, Extend Material Resources

Expand and extend material resources by increasing your consumer skills in maintaining, using, repairing, storing, conserving and recycling.

Become more knowledgeable about quality characteristics of products.

Consider life expectancies as well as price.

Increase Resources

Try to increase resources.

Ways to increase income might include getting additional training to qualify for a higher-paying job or increasing the number of wage earners in the household.

Creative human production, such as sewing or gardening, allows you to use income formerly spent for clothing or food. This human production increases the goods and services a family enjoys—and it's non-taxable.

Some families increase their resources by bartering or exchanging time, skills and energy with others. For example, you might paint a neighbor's garage in exchange for lawn mowing or babysitting services.

Skin Cancer News

Skin cancer occurs most often in light-skinned people, and on the exposed surfaces of the body. The American Cancer Society says to watch for any unusual lump, bump, pimple, ulcer or hard spot of skin that doesn't go away in two weeks. After that—see your doctor!

"Cancer of the skin is responsible for 5,000 deaths each year in the United States. And most of these deaths are needless," says the American Cancer Society. It is up to the patient to protect himself by going to a doctor if any sore, blister, patch, or newly developed skin blemish doesn't go away in two weeks.
